Roark, Welborn Are Named Pastors Of Local Churches

Two Big Spring Methodist pastors received new appointments Thursday night at the close of the joint annual session of Methodist Churches in Dallas.

Leaving Big Spring are the Rev. Henry Salley, Kentwood Methodist Church, and the Rev. E. B. Thompson, North Birdwell Lane Methodist Church. Rev. Salley will become pastor of the Throckmorton Methodist Church, and Rev. Thompson will go to the Garden City Methodist Church, replacing the Rev. Thomas H. Taylor, who will go to Sundown.

Replacing Rev. Salley at Kentwood is the Rev. Marvin Roark, formerly of Union-Ira. The Rev. John W. Welborn, formerly of the Trinity Church in Wellington, succeeds Rev. Thompson. Several area pastors also received new appointments. At Coahoma, the Rev. Lenward Harrison, formerly of Darrouzett, replaces the Rev. Ray Copeland. Rev. Copeland will go to Lorraine, where he succeeds the Rev. Gene G. Greer, who succeeds Rev. Roark at Union-Ira.

The Rev. Gene B. Louder is the new pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Church in Colorado City. He comes from Rochester and replaces the Rev. Bobby McMillan, who goes to Snyder's Trinity Church. At Stanton, the Rev. Richard Payne, formerly of Roscoe, replaces the Rev. Claude R. LeMond, who will go to Roscoe. The Rev. J. Weldon Butler, is the new pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Church, Midland. He is formerly of First Church in Borger and succeeds the Rev. W. A. Appling, who was named Plainview District superintendent.

Other Big Spring pastors received the same appointments: Superintendent of the district, Hubert H. Bratcher; the Rev. Leo K. Gee, First Church, associate, the Rev. Harold R. Rucker; the Rev. Jarrell H. Sharp, Wesley Memorial Methodist Church.

A complete list of appointments in the district and surrounding communities follows:

- BIG SPRING DISTRICT: Supl. Hubert H. Bratcher; Adm. Raymond W. Wiley, Andrews, Meigs, Mann, C. A. Holcomb Jr.; Wesley, Cecil M. Tims, Big Spring, First, Leo K. Gee, associate, Harold R. Thousands Are Left Homeless

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) - The problems of caring for several thousand persons left homeless by a tornado which took 16 lives faced city officials today.

Most of those whose homes were lost or heavily damaged in the disaster put up temporarily with friends, relatives and strangers. Four Red Cross shelters were open in schools and the municipal auditorium.

70 HURT - About 70 persons were hospitalized with storm injuries, and at least 61 spent a second night in hospitals. Another 200 persons received outpatient treatment at hospitals.

Fifteen deaths occurred in Topeka - hardest hit of several towns struck by tornadoes in a brief span Wednesday night. One man was killed about 20 miles northeast of Topeka.

Many persons made offers of temporary housing for the homeless. The Salvation Army and Red Cross operated field kitchens around the city to feed the homeless, and rescue and repair personnel rushed in from other cities. President Johnson telephoned regrets of the nation and offered aid.

GRANTS - Gov. William Avery and officials of the federal Office of Emergency Planning ordered damage estimates which could lead to federal disaster grants for stricken areas.

Mayor Charles W. Wright Jr. planned to ask nearby cities for equipment and personnel to help clear debris. Some had already sent aid and others offered anything needed.

Heavy tree trunks, chunks of buildings, and battered cars littered many parts of town, even after a full day of cleanup which succeeded in opening all streets to some degree. One city official said the cleanup chore is expected to take at least four weeks.

The tornado was the worst in the city's history. It stripped over a mound at the southwest edge of town shortly before dusk Wednesday and, ranging up to one-half mile wide, it swept a 15-mile path of death and destruction through the city.

2,000 LOST - "The Red Cross said about 2,000 dwelling units were destroyed," said Mayor Wright who figured damage at between $75 million and $100 million.

Wright said the number of Topekans left homeless ranged from 2,000 to nearly 5,000 but probably is somewhere in between the two extremes. A factual count is not expected to be completed for several days.

Sam Sheppard Facing Second Murder Trial

TO LOSE TRAINS Poor Service By T&P Pinpointed

Big Spring partisans Thursday renewed the charge that poor service had contributed to declining passenger patronage on the Texas and Pacific, but E. E. Spencer, Missouri Pacific T&P passenger agent, stoutly contended the carrier's plan to discontinue the last two passenger trains between Fort Worth and El Paso is due to sharp losses in revenues.

Spencer expressed amazement at a report that passengers on T&P trains are being charged higher prices at a coffee shop meal stop in Colorado City than are townspeople. "Why did T&P cut off cars from trains when passengers were already crowded?" asked Gary Simmons, a trainman. T. A. Underhill, conductor, said he tried to get permission to add a car to care for an overload of 17 passengers at Big Spring but was told "to let them stand up or get off."

TENDER CARE? - Spencer said he couldn't understand why passengers would not complain if they were discriminated against, but R. W. Whipkey, Big Spring Herald publisher, said "Maybe you've got the passengers so bulldozed they don't feel like protesting. Would you say passengers are given tender loving care?" The passenger agent said perhaps not, but it would be unrealistic for railroad personnel not to handle them the best way possible because "it's their jobs."

In response to a question by John Currie, banker and Chamber of Commerce president, Spencer said he did not feel the application to discontinue passenger service would have any effect on Mo-Pac's opposition to the proposed Rock Island-Southern Pacific merger. Communities which had joined in opposition might get the idea from passenger service discontinuance that this was a forerunner of all service for the area, Currie rejoined.

C. W. Wozencraft, trainman, who contended that trains had been subjected to over-crowding, also asked if Mo-Pac cut

Leaders Leave March, But Might Return

COMO, Miss. (AP) - The Meredith "march against fear" straggled along a Mississippi highway today, minus Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., whose presence has been a magnet to Negroes.

In contrast to the 300-plus who joined the walk Thursday, the sixth day started with 150 walking in narrow file along the shoulder of US 51.

NIPPY WINDS - An unseasonable drop in temperatures, a result of Hurricane Alma, brought nippy winds. The thermometer was in the low 60s.

King, promising to return immediately if the demonstration lost any impetus, flew to Chicago Thursday night. Several other leaders also dropped out temporarily.

James H. Meredith, who originated the "march against fear" Sunday - and was wounded by birdshot and hospitalized the next day - said in New York he will be on the road again June 16 if his doctor permits. A civil rights group in Baltimore said it would join, too, after a rally Sunday.

RECEPTION - "It is my belief from the warm reception received along the road, both in Tennessee and Mississippi, that my walk may have done something to alleviate the heavy burden of fear which rests upon Mississippi Negroes," Meredith said in a statement read to newsmen by a minister.

GOOD RELATIONS? - "You say you're out here in the interest of good public relations," noted Whipkey, "would you say sir, that it is good relations to herd rail passengers into one side of a coffee shop and charge them $2 for a meal that sells for 75 cents over the counter to other patrons?"

"Are those menus you have?" asked Spencer. "I never heard of this until yesterday. It's unbelievable. It's something I'll certainly have to look into."

Bill Oliver, Settles Hotel manager, said he understood from a reliable source that an operator here had turned down an offer to bid for meal service when he refused to charge a

Claims He Has No Apprehension

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) - Samuel H. Sheppard will be retried on a second-degree murder charge in the 1954 bludgeoning slaying of his first wife, Marilyn, Prosecutor John T. Corrigan said today.

Sheppard already has served nine years in prison on a second-degree murder conviction by a Cuyahoga County Common Pleas jury Dec. 21, 1954. He has been free on $10,000 bond since July 16, 1964, while appealing on grounds he did not receive a fair trial.

DEMANDS REDRESS - "I am of the opinion that society has been the victim of a heinous crime, and it demands redress," Corrigan said.

The prosecutor explained that it would be about July 1 before the State of Ohio would get jurisdiction in the case from the U.S. Supreme Court which had held Monday that Sheppard must be retried or released from custody.

Corrigan said he had no plan to rearrest Sheppard if he agrees to appear voluntarily for an arraignment on the second-degree charge. He explained Sheppard's bail would be refunded by the U.S. District Court in Dayton and then he would be brought here for arraignment.

TO TRY CASE - Corrigan said he would try the case himself. He was not prosecutor at Sheppard's first trial.

"I am a believer in the great principle of American law, and that is when a crime is committed the state is entitled to redress," Corrigan said. He said he thought "this matter must again be submitted to a jury for consideration for the guilt or innocence of the defendant."

The 42-year-old Sheppard listened to Corrigan on a radio newscast and then met newsmen waiting at his home in suburban Rocky River.

"I have no apprehension," Sheppard told them. "I know I can prove my innocence."

TESTIFY - He said it would be up to his attorney, F. Lee Bailey of Boston, whether or not he would testify in his own defense. "I'm eager to attain complete vindication," Sheppard said.

"My only concern is the ordeal for Ariane and other members of my family."

He referred to the former Ariane Tebbenjohanns, 35, blonde German divorcee he married in Chicago immediately after his release from prison in 1964.

From the time of the killing in his suburban Bay Village home July 4, 1954, Sheppard has maintained he was innocent and his first wife was slain by a bushy-haired intruder.

SUPREME COURT - The U.S. Supreme Court ruled 8-1 Monday, with Justice Hugo L. Black dissenting, that Sheppard should be released from custody or given another trial "within a reasonable time."

The high court based its ruling on the grounds that Sheppard did not receive a fair trial in 1954 because of "prejudicial news accounts" before and during the trial and because, the 29-page opinion said, "bedlam reigned at the courthouse during the trial and newsmen took over . . ."

The Supreme Court decision upheld a decision by U.S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman of Dayton on July 15, 1964, that Sheppard's constitutional rights were violated in his trial and that he should be freed on $10,000 bond pending a decision within 60 days by Cuyahoga County on whether to retry him.

Tower Blames Government

ELECTRA, Tex. (AP) - Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said today a lot of people are "blaming the wrong folks" - the housewife, farmer, business - for inflation, but "the guilty party is the federal government's fiscal irresponsibility."

He spoke to a joint civic clubs meeting.

"Somewhere, everybody is being blamed but the federal government which goes merrily on its way spending more and more money it doesn't have," Tower said.

"During last year inflation cost the residents of Texas the equivalent of a 4.6 per cent sales tax on every purchase - that's $235 lost by each average Texas citizen. Our State's average yearly loss to inflation from 1961 to 1965 has been $468 million. During that same time the federal government has run itself $31 billion deeper into debt."

"And the farmer? He's getting 4 cents a pound for lettuce the housewife is paying 25 cents for; he's getting 33 cents for a dozen eggs that cost the consumer 54 cents; he's getting about 2 cents for a pound of potatoes for which the housewife pays 6 cents."

Urges Increases In Salaries For State Employees

AUSTIN (AP) - The Legislative Budget Board was told today that Texas must boost state employee salaries or face serious manpower shortages in several major departments.

Everett Anschutz, state job classification officer, repeated for the board an illustrated presentation made this spring to Gov. John Connally.

Connally and Speaker Ben Barnes, a member of the board, have since endorsed a substantial pay boost for the employees.

"The Highway Department is critically short of engineers. We don't have enough highway patrolmen. The Department of Mental Health can't fill all of its jobs," Anschutz said.

He told the board, which traditionally has been economy-minded, that Texas has fewer employees per capita than all but four states. "The labor market is the tightest in my experience. We have more unfilled vacancies than we have ever had. We are wasting $5 million a year just processing people in and out," Anschutz said.

Now Let's See!

Alma Could Renew Force

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) - Gale warnings were raised along the coasts of Georgia and the Carolinas today as the remnants of hurricane Alma headed for the Atlantic and the possibility of renewed force.

The Weather Bureau in Miami warned of possible flooding, high winds and rains up to five inches as Alma - now being called a tropical storm - moves northeastward from Savannah.

TORNADOES - There was a possibility of tornadoes in southeastern South Carolina.

The Weather Bureau's gale warnings extended from north of Savannah to Cape Fear, N.C. The storm, at 8 a.m. EDT, was centered near Claxton, Ga., west of Savannah and was moving about 15 miles per hour. It no longer resembled the early-season monster that left 47 dead in three nations.

Alma was expected to move offshore today and some intensification was likely. The lights at Charleston, S.C., reported a squall of 55 miles per hour this morning.

Alma roared 6th grad 124 .. ROARED IN - Alma roared into the Florida Panhandle Thursday with winds estimated at 100 miles per hour.

Some houses were damaged and pecan trees uprooted when high winds with characteristics of a tornado lashed a rural section five miles northeast of Albany, Ga.

Another windstorm, also possibly a small tornado, struck west of Augusta, Ga., blowing away a tool shed and nearly unroofing a home.

Eleven soldiers were hospitalized at Fort Gordon near Augusta, Ga., when a bus overturned on wet pavement.

The storm's 47 fatalities represented 35 deaths in Honduras, near where the storm spawned with torrential rains last Monday; seven in Cuba, and five in Florida.

NO ESTIMATE - Officials have not made any estimate of damage to Florida. Damage to crops in food rationed Cuba was believed considerable. Tobacco, once Cuba's second important commodity, next to sugar, was reported a heavy casualty in western Cuba.

Fidel Castro made an inspection tour of stricken areas near Havana and ordered speedy reconstruction.

New York Begins Clean-Up Job

NEW YORK (AP) - Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says almost half a billion dollars is now at work in projects to clean up the waters of New York State.

He said grants to municipalities are providing $224 million in the construction of sewage treatment plants and waste interceptor systems. The state is setting up another $126 million water program.

Striking Seamen May Settle Dispute

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of Britain's striking maritime union announced today they believe they have found a solution to the dispute which has progressively paralyzed Britain's shipping since May 15.

The announcement came an hour after a meeting between seamen's union leaders and the finance and general purposes committee, the so-called inner cabinet, of the Trades Union Congress.

The seamen did not disclose their proposed solution. But they said it would mean bringing together the government, the shipowners, the congress and the union.

The announcement came in the wake of rejection by Britain's top union leaders of pleas for support from the striking seamen. This was seen as forcing the union to the negotiating table soon.

"You can expect no further help from us. You are on your own," leaders of the Trades Union Council told the National Union of Seamen after unsuccessfully trying to persuade the chiefs of the striking union to negotiate a settlement of the four-week-old strike.

William Hogarth, boss of the seamen's union, said that despite the TUC rebuff his union could carry on the strike for "at least another eight weeks."

But the seamen's strike fund of $453,000 is believed to be nearly exhausted. The union sent letters Thursday to all TUC unions asking for contributions. The 23,000 striking seamen are each drawing $8.40 a week in technical pay.

The seamen's union wants the strikers' work week reduced from 56 hours to 40 so they will get overtime pay for the other 16. This in effect would give them a 17 per cent raise in pay, far above the 3.5 per cent guideline which Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government is trying to hold.

A government-appointed tribunal has recommended that the work week be reduced to 48 hours immediately and to 40 hours in a year's time. Shipowners have said they would be willing to reopen negotiations on that basis. The seamen are paid $42 a week.

However, government sources said it was unlikely the navy would be ordered to move strike-bound ships as this might increase support for the strike.

But as the strike continued to depress the pound sterling and to cut into British exports, the Bank of England appealed to the government and the people to curb their spending in the interest of national economic survival.

Food prices have risen steadily since the strike began on May 15. Cabbages, oranges and lemons have gone up three cents a pound, grapes four, butter 5 1/2, new potatoes a cent, stewing beef four cents, roasting beef seven cents and roasting lamb 14 cents.

Such fish as sole and plaice are up 44 cents a pound. There have been scattered temporary shortages of gasoline and oil because companies move these by inland or coastal tankers which are tied up. Both the Gas and Electricity Boards are believed to have barely a month's supply on hand. Their supplies are normally moved by barges from mines in the north.

There has been some panic buying of food and other supplies.

Says President Will Meet 'Em Over Halfway

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says that if Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen wants a congressional leadership conference on Viet Nam, "the President will meet him more than halfway."

Mansfield said today in an interview he couldn't see "any harm" in the kind of bipartisan White House meeting his GOP counterpart urged Thursday in challenging administration credibility.

But he questioned whether any new light would be shed and echoed White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyer's defense of Johnson in saying "I think he has held more joint leadership meetings than any other President."

Implied in Dirksen's and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford's sharp assault on what they saw as a lack of administration candor was the issue of Republican support for Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

Ford, contending that a "consensus of no confidence is coming to pass" on administration domestic policies, said Republicans want to support the President "when he is either right or of the right intent."

But he contended neither Republicans nor Democrats in Congress can know "what is right or of right intent in the President's policies unless they have the facts upon which to base their judgments."

And Dirksen complained that Johnson hadn't called a meeting of Republican and Democratic congressional leaders on Viet Nam since February — before the outbreak of political turbulence — and urged that he convene one immediately to clarify "the shape of things to come."

With such understanding, Dirksen said, the American people "will be better able to provide that unqualified support so necessary to the winning of a swift, secure and honorable peace."

Old Days Not Good Enough For Today's Modern Soldier

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — That steady rat-a-tat-tat you hear ain't no machine gun, buddy. That's an electric typewriter.

Today's fashionable infantryman carries a gas lighter despite the risk that a Viet Cong tracer might hit his refill bottle and set off a serious fire.

It's not unknown to see some of the better-equipped soldiers pull out a pocket tape-recorder to preserve the sound of battle for wife, girl friend or hometown buddies.

The camera has become almost standard equipment. You sometimes can't tell the soldiers from the tourists — everybody is busy taking pictures of everybody else.

One enterprising helicopter gunner mounted a movie camera with an electric attachment atop his machine gun. The vibration ruined all his film, but he's working on the problem.

BURDEN

All of this equipment coming over has placed a great burden on the Post Exchange facilities. They have had to sharply cut imports of hair spray to make room for priority items to keep their rocket-age operation rolling. Fingernail polish is the more popular red color is now limited to one bottle per GI.

They're bringing out tons of stuff. Those electric typewriters grinding out five-play duplicates are just a start.

NOT GOOD

The old ways just aren't good enough for the rock-age GI. Shaving from a dab of cold water in a battered helmet used to tax the courage of strong men.

No more. Just dig the cordless electric razor out of the combat pack and you're ready for inspection. Trapped on a long jungle patrol with no recharger handy? A good sgrouter can usually find an Army generator somewhere.

In the old days soldiers and sailors wasted thousands of manhours in pursuit of what was known as the scuttlebutt or the hot dope.

This once respected craft has been dealt a blow by the transistor radio. Nowadays the guy just runs up his aerial and gets the ball game in Los Angeles. If he wants to know how the war is going he tunes in on Saigon or even Hanoi.

SEEK "WORD"

Of course, guys still chase around seeking "the word." But it's usually company-level stuff. The big word comes over the airwaves.

There was a day when filling a cigarette lighter involved the process of stealing a little gasoline from some handy Jeep.

Today's fashionable infantryman carries a gas lighter despite the risk that a Viet Cong tracer might hit his refill bottle and set off a serious fire.

A simple holdup play would have provided South, the declarer at three no trump, with the means to overcome an alert defender in today's hand.

West opened the seven of spades, a small spade was played from dummy. East put up the nine and South won the trick with the jack. The dummy was entered with the queen of clubs to lead the jack of diamonds. East rose with the ace to return the deuce of spades. South played the queen and, when West covered with the king, he was permitted to hold the trick. A third round of spades cleared the suit as East discarded a club.

South had only eight tricks at this point — two spades, two hearts, one diamond, and three clubs. In order to establish a ninth, he led a diamond to the king in his hand, hoping to drop the queen behind him if West had started with a doubleton. When that card held firm, he continued with another diamond.

West was in and he proceeded to cash two spade tricks, sending his opponent down to defeat. He praised his partner's alertness in putting up the ace of diamonds to clear the spade suit — thereby preserving West's entry in diamonds.

North pointed out that South could have prevented effective cooperation, in establishment of the spade suit, by severing his opponents' line of communications. All he has to do is to duck the first trick permitting East to win the nine of spades. Observe that declarer retains two stoppers in the suit for, when East continues with the deuce, West may cover the jack with his king to dislodge dummy's ace — however, South still has the queen.

Now when the jack of diamonds is led, if East plays the ace, he has no spade left with which to clear the suit. If he ducks permitting West to win the trick with the queen, the latter is left entryless and cannot run the spades once they become established.

In the event that East does have a third spade, declarer is safe for, with the suit dividing four-three, the defenders can take a maximum of two spades and two diamonds on the deal.

Two Are Received By Presbyterians

SEMINOLE — Two ministers were received into the Presbytery during the 18th state meeting of the Presbyterians in the Southwest early this week.

They were the Rev. J. Robert Hawkins, Dallas, and the Rev. David M. Taylor, Georgetown.

Attending from Big Spring were Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor, First Presbyterian Church, and G. T. Guthrie, also the Rev. E. A. J. Seddon Jr., St. Paul Presbyterian Church.

Three candidates for ordination were examined and received. Mrs. Ben T. Horton, San Angelo, reported on the progress of the church's program.

A report was also given on the development of the camp and retreat area near Clondcraft, N. M., a 160-acre development planned for church youth and adult programs.

Sidewalk Sale 'A Fun Day'

Colorful costumes, sidewalk sales barkers and a carnival atmosphere will mark the Summer Sidewalk Sale Wednesday, June 15, sponsored by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce retail committee and joined by merchants city-wide.

Oscar Glickman, chairman of the retail committee, said the appointed day can be a "fun day" for everyone, merchants and patrons alike. Costumes will run the gamut, some stores creating a carnival atmosphere by using employes to hawk their merchandise.

"The success of this special promotion will be measured by the extent of participation of the merchants," said Carroll Davidson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce. "The more merchants participating, the more popular the sidewalk sale will become."

"Merchants may open for business as early as they want and close as late as they like," Davidson reminded merchants that the project is citywide but is restricted to the date specified except where held on private property. He said that there must be room for passageway, at least four feet. The merchants may use up to half the width of the sidewalk, he said.

M. C. Grigsby, Jim Lewis, Leland Pierce and Jim Bladen are working on special interest promotions for the sale. Joe Blum, Leon Farris and Herman Bauer are around town talking up the sidewalk sale and urging merchants to participate. Joe Jabor and Jim Lewis are working in the Northside area.

Burglaries Are Traced To Kids

Three children, 7, 8 and 9 years, admitted two burglaries to Leo Hull, assistant police chief, this morning.

Hull said he talked to the three children and their mother for about five minutes today.

Admitted were the Monday night burglary of Parker Transfer, 3254 US 90 west, in which some soft drinks, candy and three cartons of chewing gum were taken; and the ransacking of the Ed Henderson home at 1300 Mobile, which took place Thursday night.

Mrs. Fred Pickett, who has been "watching" the Henderson home while the Hendersons are on vacation, called officers when she noticed all the lights on in the home. Police said a cedar chest was forced with a claw hammer, and the place generally ransacked, but if anything was taken it is not known.

Mental Health Project Has Good Report At Meeting

An encouraging report on progress being made toward a pilot project for an out-patient clinic to serve in the areas of mental health and mental retardation was given before a group of civic leaders Thursday afternoon.

Some 60 persons were present at the First Federal Savings & Loan Association Community Room to hear about work to date, from Dr. Desmond McCann, psychiatrist at the Big Spring State Hospital, and Walter Wilder, social service worker there.

COURT SUPPORTS
Earlier in the day, the project had received a vote of support from the Howard County Commissioners Court, which will assist to the extent of providing office space and general office expense. And, the day before, agreement was reached on charters for non-profit organizations which will serve as sponsors for the project. Dawson Scurry and Mitchell are with Howard in the undertaking, and each county will have such sponsor.

General aim of the clinic is to provide psychiatric services for those people who are undergoing mental and emotional

Second Will Turned Up

CHICAGO (AP) — A handwritten second will leaving the $10 million-estate of Texas heiress Alice Atwood to a Chicago lawyer came to light Thursday.

Miss Atwood, co-owner of the huge King Ranch, bequeathed her wealth to Michael J. de Bella, 34, a Chicago policeman who once befriended her, in a will found after she died Dec. 11.

The other document, drafted previously, makes Thomas Hart Fisher the beneficiary. He and his wife own a major share of the King Ranch land, cattle and oil interests.

Existence of the Hart will was disclosed at a circuit court hearing on a Chicago law firm's petition for $17,985 in fees. It asked and was granted the money for work on the estate of Edwin K. Atwood, 32, of Evanston, Ill. He had been conservator of his sister's estate.

Ralph F. Davis of the law firm said Fisher received $48,000 a year to manage the ranch holdings and had been asked to give an accounting for oil royalty payments and cattle operations.

"We received no cooperation from Mr. Fisher although he promised on many occasions to disclose exactly what Alice Atwood's assets were," Davis said.

Firemen Go Back To Work

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A late-hour agreement between the city and the union Thursday night ended a three-day strike by more than 500 Atlanta firemen.

A jubilant fire fighter said, "it's a thumbs up situation, all systems go."

The firemen were returning to work immediately today as soon as they were notified of the agreement. The settlement was reached in Mayor Ivan Allen's City Hall office after a frustrating day of messages between the city and the Atlanta Fire Fighters Union Independent.

Relieved city officials no longer had to face a weekend of fire protection provided by 177 regular firemen and about 450 employees from other city departments.

The city agreed to three concessions asked by the union, one of them grudgingly. A joint statement issued by Allen and Cap. J. I. Martin and Capt. Leonard Syron of the Firemen's Union after the agreement was reached listed the points:

1. "Mayor Allen has instructed Harry L. Bowden, city attorney, to dismiss all pending court action arising out of the strike."
2. "The city has further agreed that there will be no reprisals, penalties or punishments for those persons in-

Swim Class Ends As More Sign Up For Recreation

With the program due to start Monday, the citywide recreation program is steadily gaining more young recruits.

Through Thursday, said Jim Gilbert, 381 youngsters had been enrolled in the activities which will continue through July. The Monday - Wednesday group now has 144 registered, the Tuesday - Thursday group 163. At Lakeview, the number rose to 62 while at Northeast Park, the figure was still at 12.

Gilbert urged parents to bring their children to the central YMCA to sign up today or Saturday if at all possible. If this is impractical, then they should bring their boys and girls Monday or Tuesday and enroll them for the classes which will be getting in progress.

Children in the northeast part of town are asked to be at the Northeast Park at 9 a.m. Monday to enroll. Similarly, those planning to take part in the Lakeview program are asked to

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Homer McWilliams, who lived the last 19 years of his life in a hospital because he preferred to, left an estate of $8,633,353.

McWilliams, a bachelor, died at the age of 85 last Dec. 21. He entered Trinity Lutheran Hospital after a traffic accident and stayed as a paying guest. In his will, filed in Probate Court, McWilliams set up a trust fund for charity and left cash bequests to seven cousins, a nurse, friends and a long-time confidant, Corelanus Thorp. McWilliams made his fortune in investments and real estate.

Deadline Nears For HCJC Signup

Enrollment for the first session of summer school at Howard County Junior College must be completed today or before classes start Monday.

At latest count, the college had enrolled 271 and there were several others pending, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, said that there should be a final net figure of 275 or more. This is up almost 20 per cent from a year ago.

A Devotional For The Day

Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus. (Philippians 2:5)

PRAYER: Give us, O God, the mind that was in Christ Jesus so that we may ever forgive those who wrong us. Thus may we receive Thy gracious forgiveness for our own hearts. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.

Another Blow To Privacy

Some governmental agency has a dossier of sorts on just about everybody in the country. Many are necessary for a variety of reasons, but many are not. Most are carefully handled, but some are vulnerable to grave encroachment. Probably the most eroded individual liberty in America today is the right of privacy.

Perhaps the trend has gone so far as to become irreversible, though eventually it may collapse under its own weight of paper. But now and then a particularly inane and insulting assault on the right of privacy cannot help but cause at least a snort of healthy indignation.

Such may be the reaction of homebuyers seeking federally underwritten mortgages (some 4,000 daily) to learn that the Federal Housing Administration investigates and permanently files data on the "marital stability" of such applicants. The FHA has a plausible justification:

"The reputation and marital amicability of an applicant for a mortgage loan... are a vital part of our risk determination. One of the leading causes of foreclosure is divorce."

However, we would like to bet that FHA spends more on such snooping than it loses on foreclosures caused by broken marriages. Furthermore, the relationship between a husband and wife should be sufficiently sacred—and constitutionally protected by the right of privacy—that such official prying into marital relations could hardly be justified even if it did save the taxpayers a lot of money.

To carry the reasoning behind the FHA investigations to its ultimate conclusion is to destroy completely what remains of our once cherished right of privacy. Meanwhile, we can only say that we find it nauseating that the home that was once a man's castle is now considered a fit subject for official spying if it carries an FHA mortgage. Bureaucracy in the bedroom is a bit too much.

Who Votes On Bonds?

Now that the poll tax receipt as a voting requirement has been declared unconstitutional, questions have been raised as to the validity of any other restriction on voting. Chief among them is the rule which limits voting on local "general obligation" bond issues to those who have paid a property tax.

Under Texas law, voting on tax-supported bond issues is limited to "property-owning, tax-paying" citizens who are otherwise qualified. Framers of the law took the position that those who owned property and paid taxes on it should be the exclusive judges of whether or not their taxes should be raised in support new general obligation bonds. This overlooks the fact that even those who rent homes pay property taxes indirectly through their rent which takes property taxes into consideration.

Some bond attorneys have become concerned over the question. Gov. Calvin L. Ransom of Utah has asked for a court test of the question, wherefore, the issue is about to be joined.

A Utah test case may not, unless it goes to the Supreme Court of the United States, provide a rule for Texas. But it may produce significant guidelines. The question cannot be ignored, though. The validity of millions of dollars in future tax bond issues is at stake. A final determination is needed.

Senator Kennedy In Africa

WASHINGTON — Maybe Senator Robert F. Kennedy of New York, Democrat, has established a precedent of far reaching importance in world affairs. He has gone into the Republic of South Africa to give support to a youth movement there which has been critical of its own government and which invited the senator to deliver an address. In his major speech of a six-day tour, he heartily endorsed the objectives of the youth movement and criticized the policies of the South African government.

IT MIGHT develop now that officials of the governments of other countries in Europe or Latin America or Asia which have controversies with the United States may feel justified in addressing the American electorate in the hope of changing the policies of our government.

This is certainly a novelty in international affairs. Throughout history, government officials have not felt free to discuss internal problems inside another country or to be critical of them, unless they were invited to do so by the government. Usually such visits are cleared with the foreign offices in every country.

IN THIS instance, Senator Kennedy did not apprise the South African government of his intention to make speeches there, and the government instructed its cabinet officers not to confer with him, as the visit was construed to be "purely private."

Senator Kennedy was invited to make his address by the National Union of South African Students. The New York Senator devoted much of his speech to generalities, but made reference to religious and racial prejudices inside the United States and then asked:

"WHAT PRICE will we pay before we have assured full opportunity to millions of Negro Americans?"

After a discussion of the courage of youth, Mr. Kennedy said that only a "superior man" still clings to the superstition that "his common humanity is enclosed in the tight circle of those who share his skin." In pointing out various evils in the world, Senator Kennedy listed "apartheid in South Africa." He said:

"THESE ARE differing evils; but they are the common works of man. They reflect the imperfection of human justice, the inadequacy of human comparison, the defectiveness of our sensibility toward the sufferings of our fellows; they mark the limit of our ability to use knowledge for the well-being of others. And therefore they call upon common qualities of conscience and of indignation, a shared determination to wipe away the unnecessary sufferings of our fellow human beings at home and particularly around the world."

DESCRIBING THE "revolutionary world" of today, Mr. Kennedy declared that "it is young people who must take the lead." He said:

"For every ten men who are willing to face the guns of an enemy there is only one willing to brave the disapproval of his fellows, the censure of his colleagues, the wrath of his society."

"I KNOW AT times you must feel very alone with your problems and your difficulties. But I want to say how impressed I am with what you stand for and the effort you are making; and I say this not just for myself, but for men and women everywhere."

The speech delivered by Senator Kennedy, a member of the legislative branch of the United States government, will be pointed to in the future as an example of the right to stump a foreign country and discuss questions of internal policy.

In Waiting

LONDON (AP) — After five years in London as Israel's ambassador here, diplomat Arthur Lourie, 61, revealed that Queen Elizabeth delayed his presentation of credentials in 1960.

The reason, Lourie told the Anglo-Israel Association at a farewell luncheon, was that the Queen was awaiting the birth of a third child. A son, Prince Andrew, was born Feb. 19, 1960.

Lourie said that when he finally presented his credentials, Queen Elizabeth remarked: "I am sorry to have kept you waiting."

Building Bridges Is New Phrase

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's administration has a pet phrase now, being worked for all its worth, on improving relations with the Chinese Communists. It calls for "building bridges" to Red China.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey used it this week in addressing West Point's graduating class. And Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara used it last month. The Red Chinese brushed it off.

THIS LEAVES the relationship between the two countries where it was 16 years ago this month.

In December, 1949, the Red Chinese drove Chiang Kai-shek and his Nationalist Chinese from the mainland to Formosa. The United States, which had pumped billions of aid to Chiang, had given up on him, washed his hands.

On Jan. 5, 1950 President Harry S. Truman said that whatever happened between Chiang and the Reds was their business and the United States would not defend Formosa. June 25 the Korean War began.

And on June 27 Truman to protect the American flank in the Pacific, reversed himself and decided to defend Formosa. The United States has been stuck with that assignment ever since.

AND IN ALL the intervening years, or ever since Red China swept into the Korean War late in 1949, the most powerful nation on earth and the most populated one have been unyielding antagonists, sometimes looking ludicrous.

Although the United States never has recognized the Red regime as the legitimate government of China, ever since 1954, U.S. and Chinese representatives have been meeting in Geneva and Warsaw but hardly hearing each other.

Sen. George D. Aiken, Vermont Republican, put the proper twist on this bit of irony. "How are you going to recognize Red China when Red China won't recognize us?"

THE UNITED STATES won't trade with Red China, has tried to discourage allies from doing so, and down through the years always has blocked any effort to give Red China a seat in the United Nations.

Red China, claiming to be lord of the mainland and Formosa, insists Chiang's Formosa has no right to a U.N. seat, which it has, and the United States, stuck with Formosa, must insist it can't be thrown out.

Lately the Johnson Administration, because of the danger of war with the Chinese over the war in Viet Nam, has been under pressure to be less rigid toward the Chinese Communists who have been just as rigid in return.

This explains the phrase the administration has been spreading about the need to "build bridges." But the Chinese call this a fraud and point to a statement by Secretary of State Dean Rusk last March.

HE LAID DOWN a 10-point policy for dealing with Red

China, including such points as these: The United States will help nations which seek its help against Chinese aggression; will stay loyal to Formosa; will continue to try to keep the United Nations from expelling Formosa.

Humphrey added to the policy by calling for "containment" of Red China "without isolation." The Red Chinese call it a hoax, arguing that "containment" is the real U.S. policy and "without isolation" is false.

The United States made a few ice-breaking gestures of no great importance, like letting Chinese scholars and scientists come here, but China said no.

The Johnson Administration has been rather vague on how to build the bridges, Humphrey in his talk never said how and McNamara suggested maybe balanced trade, diplomatic contacts, and exchange of military observers.

The Real Meaning

NEW YORK (AP) — You need more than a bottle of suntan lotion and a new pair of swimming trunks to get you through the summer successfully.

Above all, you must be sure to lay in a fresh supply of double-talk.

There are hundreds of tested examples of summer double-talk that should carry you coolly through any crisis, no matter how heated the temperature.

Here are a few, followed by their literal translations: "Where did you get that marvelous tan, Jim?" It looks like it had been poured out of a bourbon bottle.

"The room is a bit cozy, sir, but you can see the ocean from it." You just look beyond those three big smokestacks — and there it is.

"Of course, those shorts are all right, Roscoe. You look fine in them." Oh, lordy, I do hope you aren't wearing them if we run into anybody we know.

"Now, just lean back in the water, close your eyes, and stretch out your arms, Mrs.

Jones. Don't worry — you'll float." With all that blubber on you, lady, the Navy couldn't sink you with a five-inch shell.

"I'd like to join you at tennis, Joe, but the doc told me the only exercise I could take was bending my elbow." So take the hint, dummy—how's about pouring your guest a drink?

"You mean you grew those tomatoes all by yourself!" You must have—nature certainly didn't give you much help.

"We're tickled pink you could join us for the weekend." That's why we're feeling so blue.

"We don't want you to think of this as just another resort, but as a real home away from home." So please don't steal the light bulbs when you leave.

"And you, Marge, why don't you bring a bowl of your yummy potato salad to the picnic?" It may make the ants sick, but you care about them?

"It's so relaxing here in your rustic little cabin. I can't think of any place we'd rather be, can you, Bob?" Maybe Alcatraz. Even there they never had wild mice in the walls.

Leg Ulcers Can Be A Stubborn Problem

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I am plagued with leg ulcers at the left ankle, and have been taking antibiotics and priscoline.

The ulcers responded to treatment after a long time. Must I keep taking priscoline indefinitely or could you suggest something else to minimize or prevent attacks? I am 67. — HARRY B.

I have several suggestions. They are more than just a matter of switching medicines.

Leg ulcers can be stubborn. In fact, they are likely to be. The lower extremities of the body are where brisk circulation is hardest to maintain. Those areas are farthest from the heart. Good circulation promotes healing; sluggish circulation retards it.

So we now come to the question: What caused your ulcers? Varicose ulcers are quite common among people with varicose veins because vein circulation is impeded. In such a case, stripping or tying off the weak veins improves circulation, and that is the ultimate solution for varicose ulcers. Often a plastic boot is first applied to hasten treatment.

You will have to consult your doctor as to whether varicose veins are involved in your case, of course.

Meantime the priscoline has been used to stimulate circulation. The substance is a vasodilator, expanding small peripheral blood vessels for that purpose.

There is another possibility. Sometimes contact with chemicals (oil or other materials) irritate the skin and makes healing of ulcers difficult. I have in mind a man who worked in a sugar refinery and had considerable trouble because (it finally turned out) he was sensitive to materials which accumulated on his trouser legs.

In addition, fungus or other skin infections, which can be difficult to get rid of, can keep the skin in a more or less continued state of irritation, so that bacteria can readily invade it and cause ulcers.

Recent new medications have been of great help in certain types of fungus infections although some fungi continue to be resistant and troublesome.

I haven't answered your direct question, sir, but I hope I've given you some insight into some of the questions which undoubtedly are running through your own doctor's mind.

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of my booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

The How's-That-Again Awards

For a number of years now, Esquire Magazine has had an annual issue devoted to "Dishonest Achievements" of people throughout the year past.

It is a sort of annual "That Was The Week That Was," only much better. It is better because Esquire has an entire year of human flubs to pick from, while the now defunct TV version ("TW-3") had only a week's worth — though it seems to us that one day's worth of humanity would produce plenty of material for a 10,000 page book printed in agate type.

SO, A suggestion: Boob Tube People, why not an annual, year-end special copied from Esquire? You might call it the "Annual Envy Awards" — no, that's already taken. Maybe this would do: The Annual "Sorry About That" Awards.

We hope you go through with the idea, boob tubers, for we have some awards in mind already. Like:

The Annual - Non-Rotating - Natalie-Wood Award, to be presented each year to Miss Wood for once again proving she is no doubt the world's worst actress, bare none.

THE ANNUAL P. T. (There's A Sucker Born Every Minute) — Barium Award, to be presented to the designer of Kate Smith's dresses.

The Annual - How - Many - Angels - Can - Dance - On - The - Head - Of - A - Pin Award, to Billy Graham and Atheist Ian Tipton, for engaging June 5 on BBC television in the most useless argument of the year.

THE ANNUAL - Taste-Is-A-Matter-Of-Choice - Award, to go to the people who make Sun-Up after-shave lotion, for their TV commercial which features a sleepy husband who, upon slapping some Sun-Up on his face, turns into a satyr and, kicking open the door and heads for the bedroom.

The Annual - I-Am-Not-Only-Humble, I-Am-Great Award, a permanent prize, to Danny Thomas. Scuse, we mean Mr. Danny Thomas.

"LOOK, MA-IT'S - A - Wurritzer" Prize of the Year Award, to the nation's press for their "gee whiz" questioning of astronaut's families.

The "I - Do - Not - Choose - To - Run" Award, to Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who said he will not ever again seek public office.

The "I - Hear - Their - Gentle - Voices - Calling" Award, to be presented to Gov. Scranton when next he runs for office.

"THE-SUN-Never - Sets - On - The - British - Empire" Award, to The (London) Times, which this year broke a 100-year tradition and began printing news on the front page. This award consists of a pair of dark glasses for the editor, whose eyes must be hurting from the light after being under that rock all these years.

The Dominican Experience

WASHINGTON — "We're on Latin time," remarked a reporter after he had waited nearly an hour for the arrival of Dr. Jose Mora, secretary general of the Organization of American States.

Dr. Mora had called a press conference to tell us about the election in the Dominican Republic — surely a signal event in Hemisphere history. But the arrangements were moving on little snails' feet, not at all like the Yankee pace of Gemini 9 which was whizzing overhead that morning.

FINALLY, Dr. Mora, smallish, stout and with perfect dignity, sauntered in, his hands full of dispatches. He was accompanied by the Ambassador from Nicaragua, Dr. Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa, chairman of the ministerial council, and by several aides. Dr. Mora sat down unhurriedly behind a cluster of microphones, and told us what we already knew. Former President Balaguer had defeated former President Bosch in a special election for the presidency of the Dominican Republic.

DR. MORA read on. He gave some election returns, already known to everybody in the room. He gave some messages from the election observers that had been delivered the night before. He invited Ambassador Sevilla-Sacasa to say a few words.

At last the questions: Was he surprised at the outcome? When would the international peace force be withdrawn? Had not the satisfying results proved a complete justification of Lyndon Johnson's much-criticized intervention in the Dominican Republic some 15 months before?

Would Bosch serve in Balaguer's government? To each query Dr. Mora replied with the utmost gravity and politeness, but without adding a jot of information or supplying the entering wedge of a news angle.

AND YET A message commenced to come through. Not in the sequence of anything that Dr. Mora said or read, but in the individual words that formed a pattern. The election had "honored" the Dominican Republic. The "purity of democracy" had been demonstrated. The election had proved the "maturity" of the people, despite much "sadness" in their recent history. The event had furnished "good example" and "good technique" for other troubled Latin countries. And now the establishment of a government in Santo Domingo would be conducted under the "perfect sovereignty" of the people.

TRULY, it was a great occasion for the Organization of American States; for Dr. Mora, its spokesman, and for the whole Hemisphere. You had to forget the lack of stage management, of slick press releases to be thrust into eager hands, of ringing statements in the accent of accomplished ghost writers and of hot flashes for tomorrow's headlines in order to put yesterday's headlines in the shade.

You had to remember that "Latin time" is slow — sometimes reversible — time, and most of all you had to realize that those key words about the Dominican experience had a poignancy that was worth a thoughtful pause: "Honor... purity... sadness... maturity."

Holding Down War Stockpiles

WASHINGTON — The arithmetic of the Viet Nam war is a constant concern of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. Needed about Viet Nam costs in the new budget—based on a phase-out of the war in mid-1967—he has a quick answer.

The goal is to keep purchases close in line with immediate needs. The Korean war ended with $12 billion of excess material. This was almost a total loss. McNamara is determined to see that that doesn't happen again.

TWO CONSPICUOUS examples of the way stock-piled material is mishandled, with the taxpayer caught in the middle, emphasize the importance of restraining the military from rushing out and buying everything in sight. The case of the bargain-basement iron bombs got pretty well aired.

The Air Force in March of 1963 sold 7,500 conventional bombs to a West German dealer for $1.70 a bomb. The nitrogen in the explosive was to be used for fertilizer and the metal for scrap. In the fall of 1965, as the Air Force began to run short of bombs, 5,500 were bought back for $21 each, which compares with an initial cost of $330 a bomb and today's price of $440.

ALTHOUGH it had a far greater impact on many Americans, another example got less attention. Hundreds of letters began to pour into Congress, most of them from elderly pensioners, complaining that the cost of a drug they were required to take daily for a heart irregularity had doubled and tripled and then gone up again.

The drug was quinidine with a quinine base. Sen. Phillip A. Hart, chairman of the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee, started an investigation. The facts that came to light were, to say the least, startling.

UNDER THE chaperonage of the State Department, a Dutch cartel was given a clear track to buy virtually all of the quinine released from the stock pile. This was close to 9,000,000 ounces at an average price of 20 cents an ounce. Within four to five years the price had gone to $2 an ounce. While ostensibly the whole amount went to the Dutch cartel, part of it ended up in the hands of West German purchasers.

ONE OF THE witnesses was Robert Price, who later managed John Lindsay's campaign for mayor of New York and is now deputy mayor. Price, counsel in 1960 for a small New York drug manufacturer, testified to the methods used by the General Services Administration to bar American firms with limited resources from acquiring any of the stock pile. Onerous requirements, including an advance five-year guarantee of payment underwritten by a letter of credit, made it difficult for Price's company and others to participate despite appeals to the Small Business Administration.

ONE THING THAT sent the quinine market booming was the panicky action of the Pentagon in ordering an investigation in Europe of the possibility of reacquiring part of the stock pile. As more and more Americans were committed to Viet Nam, the threat arose of a new and more virulent form of malaria and the havoc it could create. While the number of Americans hospitalized with this form of malaria is classified, it appears to be much smaller than anticipated.

For several hundred thousand persons dependent on quinidine this was no small matter. And, as an example of the kind of manipulation that can grow out of stock-piling excess material, they make McNamara's point for proceeding with caution.

A LOVELIER YOU

Girls 'Get In Swim' To Develop Curves

By MARY SUE MILLER

A lovely writes: I've put off trimming my figure and it shows, how that I'm wearing a bikini to get a tan. I'm not really fat, but my legs, waist and arms are not as trim or firm as they should be. What exercise works the fastest?

The Answer: To get your figure in swim-suit shape in a hurry, there's no better form of exercise than swimming. So take your bikini swimming as often as you can!

But if you don't happen to have a swimmin' hole handy, you can get the same results by swimming on land. Simply lie, face down, on a broad, sturdy stool and do this land version of the crawl:

1. Stretch out with arms extended forward, palms of hands facing floor and legs together.

2. Pull right arm straight down and back until it lies against body; bend and raise elbow as far out and up as possible; immediately reach forward to starting position. Similarly move left arm, beginning as right elbow bends.

3. Accompany arm motions with flutter - kicks of legs; quickly pump them up and down from hip joints, keeping knees relaxed.

4. Work for maximum stretch in waist and arms, and pull in thigh muscles. All motions should be purposeful (not hectic), continuous and rhythmic.

After ten minutes every muscle in your body will feel the good of the exercise. Your figure will show it with trimmer, firmer line after just a few weeks of workouts.

FIGURE SECRETS

What's your figure problem? To achieve total attractiveness send for my booklet, "Secrets of a Lovely Figure." It contains easy ways to reduce weight and proportions; to overcome grooming problems, such as fuz, freckles and blemishes; to move with grace and poise. For your copy write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin.

New Slate Installed By ABWA

New officers were installed during the Tuesday evening meeting of the Seaside Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. The 20 members attending met at the Sands Restaurant with Mrs. Herman Taylor conducting the candle-light installation ceremony.

The new slate will include Mrs. Tony Barron, president; Mrs. Edward Cruz, vice president; Mrs. Kyle Cauble, recording secretary; Mrs. Geraldine Dietz, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. J. D. Kendrick, treasurer.

Guest speaker was Mrs. R. B. Baker with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Midland. Her topic was "Distant Direct Dialing," and she showed a film on telephone courtesy.

Mrs. Cruz, a psychiatric aide at the state hospital, gave a vocational talk.

Mrs. Jeff Painter was welcomed as a new member.

Miss Shirley White presented Mrs. Taylor with a past president's pin. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white linen cloth and centered with silver candle holders with gold candles.

Popular Pattern

This red and black woolen suit with black collar and cuffs was designed by Pierre Cardin. The suit has three buttons. Enhancing the ensemble are black stockings, dark crepe shoes and a small red straw square hat. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Win High At Bridge

Winners have been announced for two duplicate bridge games held this week at Big Spring Country Club.

On Tuesday, winners were Mrs. E. O. Ellington and Mrs. J. C. Greenhaw, first; and Mrs. Glenn Riley and Mrs. Glen Cox tied for second and third places with Mrs. Travis Reed and Mrs. Carl Blomshield.

Winners of the Wednesday games were Mrs. R. H. Weaver and Mrs. James Duncan, first; Mrs. Charles Tompkins and Mrs. Jack Irons, second; Mrs. B. B. Badger and Mrs. Ayra McGann, third; and Mrs. D. A. Brazel and Mrs. Dan Greenwood, fourth.

Planters Club Advised On Proper Lawn Care

How to have a beautiful lawn was explained by Mrs. P. W. Guy and Mrs. D. W. Rankin when they presented the program Wednesday for the Planters Garden Club. The group met with Mrs. S. P. Jones, 1206 Sycamore.

The speakers stressed that work for a good lawn must be done in the winter months when the grass is dormant. At that time a three-way fertilizing method should be used which will not only fertilize the soil but will kill grass seeds and insects that are hibernating. In this manner, the grass is "winterized." A different type fertilizer should be applied to strengthen the root system of the grass.

In the spring and summer it is important to water once a week to a depth of about four inches. It was noted that this should take about four or five hours if the water is running at a normal rate of speed.

SCOUTS MUST REGISTER NOW

The deadline is near for registering for the Girl Scout Summer Camp which will be held June 29-24 at the Boy Scout Camp Grounds. The summer program is for all girls in the Scouting program, and hours will be from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Those wishing to participate must register by June 15 with Mrs. Rube McNew, AM 4-5082.

Mrs. J. W. Trantham presided for the business session as Mrs. R. L. Collins gave the council report.

Refreshments were served to 10 members.

Mrs. W. H. Muegge, 802 Birdwell Lane, will be hostess for the July 13 meeting. At that time, there will be a pot luck luncheon and exchange of iris plants.

Graduation Exercises Set For Westbrook

WESTBROOK (SC) — The school commencement exercises will be this evening at 8 p.m. The public is invited and school work by the pupils will be displayed.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church met Monday afternoon at the church. Mrs. C. W. Newton was hostess and conducted the business session.

Mrs. John Hawkins visited her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Murphy, in Big Spring Monday.

The Charles Ranne family are vacationing in Houston this week.

Seventy-nine pupils have been enrolled in the Vacation Bible School of the Baptist Church. The announcement was made by the Rev. L. B. Edwards, pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Price Hendrix visited in Corpus Christi with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hendrix.

The Rev. S. M. Bean, pastor of the Methodist Church, is attending the Methodist conference in Dallas this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gressett of Venice, La., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Gressett. They are also visiting relatives in Colorado City and Big Spring.

REV. V. WARD JACKSON

Rev. Jackson At National Meet

The Rev. V. Ward Jackson, pastor of the First Church of God, Big Spring, left Monday for Anderson, Ind., where he will attend the six-day session of the 77th International Convention of the Church of God.

Rev. Jackson will meet with several local congregation members when he reaches the convention. The session is set up for those who want to be better informed and more qualified Christian workers, Rev. Jackson said.

There will be 26 mass meetings in Warner Auditorium on the campus of Anderson College, in addition to plans for special groups, including youth, children, ministers, teachers, mission workers, men's and women's work, youth leaders and children's leaders.

Filling the pulpit for Rev. Jackson during his trip to the convention and a business and pleasure trip through the Midwest and East will be the Rev. David E. Hurst, associate pastor, Truett Thomas, Keith W. Burns, Wesley E. Hutchings, and Raymond E. Stevenson.

Christian Science Unit Picks Canham

Erwin D. Canham became the new president of the Christian Science Church Monday, as members from around the world convened in Boston for their Centennial - Year annual meeting.

Canham, who is a well-known journalist and editor-in-chief of The Christian-Science Monitor, will serve as president for one year.

The biggest attendance in the church's history, 15,000, heard Canham's address on "The Spiritual Revolution," which was initiated this year in connection with the Centennial.

"Civilization stands at one of its great crises, perhaps the greatest and most dangerous yet encountered, he said. The world can press forward into the light, or it can drop back into the darkness."

"The battles to be fought and won are in the hearts and minds of humanity, as individuals strive to understand and apply God's laws . . . the truth of being."

Other events in connection with the Centennial this year have included the recent publication of a 100-year report on the church's spiritual healing ex-

MANASSEH MUFFS CHANCE AND BECOMES EVIL KING

Manasseh, king of Israel, had a great chance and lost it, refusing to mix religion and politics and choosing a watered-down religion instead of a true religion with God.

The attitude of Manasseh toward God was one of indifference. For years he ignored God, and his people, instead of opposing him, followed him wholeheartedly. They were tired of a religion which cut into their personal habits, demanded an austere morality affected their ways of doing business and altered the whole aspect of their lives.

They accepted a return to the worship of Baal and astral worship and, in doing so, neglected the rigid religious demands of the prophets, and the true religion of God.

14th-Main Church Has Special Theme For VBS

The theme for Vacation Bible School at the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ this year is "Christ's Church." The session opens Monday and will continue through Friday from 9-11 a.m., with classes for two-year olds through the sixth grade featured.

Awards will be presented to the children with perfect attendance throughout the week and those who bring the most visitors on Monday. An open house will be held Wednesday evening following services so the parents may view their children's work.

Director of the Bible School is Walter Stroup. Assisting him with the session are Perry B. Cotham, minister; Doug Tucker, youth director; and Walter Kreidel, missionary from Sao Paulo, Brazil, who will assist in the daily devotionals.

Teachers are Mrs. Cecil Peurifoy, Mrs. Daryle Hohertz, Mrs. Clyde Eager, Juanita Hamlin, Mrs. Bobby Goodwin, Barbara Manley, Mrs. Owen Ivie, Nancy Ivie, Mrs. Kenny Thompson, Mrs. Jim Maddin, Mrs. Curtis Mullins, Mrs. David Haight, Mrs. Harry McKinney, Regina McKinney, Mrs. Ray Vess, Mrs. Kenneth Stephens, Mrs. Jimmy Morehead, Mrs. D. W. Pierce, Mrs. Jim McWhorter.

Also, Mrs. David Elrod, Mrs. Gerald Wooten, Mrs. Perry Cotham, Mrs. Carlton Black, Pat Thomas, Mrs. Violet Reed, Mrs. W. R. Boss, Mrs. Charlie Shanks, LaShara Shanks, Mrs. T. B. McGinnis, Mrs. Cecil McMullin, Mrs. Tommy Hubbard and Mrs. Travis Carlton.

Coordinators are Mrs. VOLLIE Sorrels, pre-school; Mrs. Walter Stroup, primary; Mrs. Dan Conley, junior. In charge of refreshments is Mrs. Carlos Humphrey.

NEW PERSPECTIVE

She went up and up. "Again, Daddy, again," until from her great height she looked down on a strangely distorted scene. Daddy was different from the top. Mommy was little and far away. Even the familiar old tree had hidden its friendly trunk and she caught her breath with a thrill of the unknown. I saw her expression change and suddenly there was a cry tinged with fear, "Don't Daddy!"

I dropped back while the swing slowed down. She tumbled out of the swing into my arms and I realized that there was a vast and unfamiliar world ahead for my child, with many distorted themes. I looked across the house tops to a church spire and thanked God for a foundation of faith . . . to guide her through the uncertainties ahead.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Paratroopers Root Out Tough Force

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers battled a stubborn, dug-in North Vietnamese force for the fourth day in the central highlands today, while Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government sent 400 Vietnamese riot policemen into the northern Buddhist stronghold of Hue.

Helicopters lifted at least two battalions of American and Vietnamese troops into the fierce action 280 miles north of Saigon. Battlefield reports indicated the Americans may be fighting as many as two regiments — some 1,900 men — of North Vietnamese regulars, although the enemy force earlier was estimated at 900 men.

Heavy fighting was reported continuing late into the day.

An American military spokesman said 239 North Vietnamese had been killed in the fighting, which began before dawn Tuesday with a Communist attack on a small U.S. encampment. But the spokesman added: "The count undoubtedly will go much higher. Those people up there are more interested in killing North Vietnamese than in counting bodies."

U.S. losses were reported light over-all, but one platoon was badly mauled.

U.S. planes had flown 167 sorties so far in the battle, which erupted anew Thursday night in the dense jungles of Kontum province 290 miles north of Saigon. Pitted against units of the U.S. 191st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade, as it prowled Communist infiltration routes near the Laotian border, were an estimated 900 North Vietnamese.

Fighting was reported heavy throughout the day and was still going on late this afternoon, the spokesman reported.

The size and determination of the enemy indicated the Communists might be moving to the offensive again after waiting futilely for the Buddhists to depose Ky.

As the premier sent riot police into Hue, the failure of the Buddhist campaign was underlined by an announcement that Ky would fly to South Korea Monday to attend a conference of nine non-Communist nations.

Ky's announcement coincided with a declaration by the junta that it had conferred broad powers on the premier to deal with South Viet Nam's chronic economic and financial problems.

Both announcements buttressed the general impression that the ruling generals considered themselves firmly entrenched despite weeks of agitation by the country's militant Buddhist minority to oust them.

Ky's office said the premier would address the three-day foreign ministers' meeting in Seoul, which opens Tuesday. Known as the Asia-Pacific ministerial conference, it will discuss ways in which the participants can develop closer economic and cultural ties.

With politics once more taking a back seat, the official Vietnamese press agency published a communique announcing that Ky had been authorized "to sign and promulgate decrees on all measures relating to taxes, economic problems, foreign exchange and finance" in the next three months.

The implication was that the government intended to take drastic measures to cope with the country's galloping inflation in an effort to win popular confidence before the election Sept. 11 of a constitutional convention.

Under the impact of the war against the Viet Cong and the growing, free-spending U.S. military establishment, the cost of living has risen 55 per cent for working class Vietnamese in the past year. The figure is based on the cost of everyday products required by most of the country, particularly rice. Wages have lagged far behind.

higher fare for passenger business. Spencer asked for names, and Oliver said he would oblige.

Whipkey asked what all went into T&P's accounting on passenger losses, and Spencer said it was largely the out-of-pocket charges.

GOOD AFTER BAD

"When did the T&P discontinue its advertising for passenger service," asked Winston Wrinkle, operator of KBST, R. A. Malone, public relations director, said this came on in the spring of 1957, and Spencer volunteered that it resulted from a decision "not to throw good money after bad" because passenger runs in this area were incurring increasing operating losses.

"T&P was a pretty good road until MOP got hold of it," said Ray Nichols, former railroader and now county commissioner. Spencer said he wouldn't comment, but added "I'm a T&P man myself. Since time immemorial MOP has owned 87 per cent of T&P. I don't think this has anything to do with it."

PAINFUL JOB

"This is a distasteful assignment for me," said Spencer in his preliminary statement, "as it is for management to make the decision. I'm not here to try the case or dissuade you from attending the hearings (which will come after T&P files its discontinuance application probably late in June.)" He said he anticipated that communities would protest as a civic duty.

He added wryly that "if we had as much interest in use of the train as we have in protesting their discontinuance, we wouldn't have to be here."

He recounted numerous innovations T&P had made in an effort to boost passenger business — the first passenger credit card; first ride-now-pay-later plan; 50 per cent reductions for bargain fares for parties; bargain fares for families; sleeper service for coach fare.

PUBLIC WOULDN'T RESPOND

"We didn't deteriorate service to get rid of passengers," he said. "People wouldn't get on and ride in a bed for less than they could ride on a bus."

Don Womack, Texas Electric Service, wanted to know what results these innovations had, and Spencer said he would have to get the figures and mail them back.

Spencer bitterly complained that the post office plan of sectional centers had led to cutting off the RPO use, and pulling off the last of the RPO cars really was what killed off the remaining trains.

He said that he did not feel that express service would suffer — that Railway Express Agency already ran trucks from Fort Worth to Abilene and from Odessa to El Paso. He ventured a REA van would be piggy-backed to Abilene and then continued to Big Spring and Odessa. He hoped that T&P would continue to handle the long haul mail (from Fort Worth to El Paso).

DRAINING PROFITS

Passenger losses, he contended, are draining off nearly half (41 per cent) of T&P's profits.

Mayor Arnold Marshall, who presided, read a letter from P. D. Ausmus, representing the Order of Railway Conductors, charging rail profits were rising, that carriers had an obligation of service in return for land grants to get them started, and that the public should write the ICC, the congressmen and senators.

He added wryly that "if we had as much interest in use of the train as we have in protesting their discontinuance, we wouldn't have to be here."

He said that he did not feel that express service would suffer — that Railway Express Agency already ran trucks from Fort Worth to Abilene and from Odessa to El Paso. He ventured a REA van would be piggy-backed to Abilene and then continued to Big Spring and Odessa. He hoped that T&P would continue to handle the long haul mail (from Fort Worth to El Paso).

DRAINING PROFITS

Passenger losses, he contended, are draining off nearly half (41 per cent) of T&P's profits.

Mayor Arnold Marshall, who presided, read a letter from P. D. Ausmus, representing the Order of Railway Conductors, charging rail profits were rising, that carriers had an obligation of service in return for land grants to get them started, and that the public should write the ICC, the congressmen and senators.

He added wryly that "if we had as much interest in use of the train as we have in protesting their discontinuance, we wouldn't have to be here."

He recounted numerous innovations T&P had made in an effort to boost passenger business — the first passenger credit card; first ride-now-pay-later plan; 50 per cent reductions for bargain fares for parties; bargain fares for families; sleeper service for coach fare.

PUBLIC WOULDN'T RESPOND

"We didn't deteriorate service to get rid of passengers," he said. "People wouldn't get on and ride in a bed for less than they could ride on a bus."

Don Womack, Texas Electric Service, wanted to know what results these innovations had, and Spencer said he would have to get the figures and mail them back.

Spencer bitterly complained that the post office plan of sectional centers had led to cutting off the RPO use, and pulling off the last of the RPO cars really was what killed off the remaining trains.

Says Ashley Wanted To Go Back To The Bright Lights

GATESVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A prosecutor argued in the second murder trial of Leslie Douglas Ashley today that the female impersonator robbed and killed Fred Tones in order "to go back to the bright lights of Broadway."

Neal McKay, assistant Harris County district attorney, opened the state's arguments.

He referred to testimony in Ashley's first trial in 1961 by Richard Ramirez, who said he asked Ashley how he would get to New York without money.

Ramirez testified Ashley replied: "I will get it some way."

McKay claimed in his argument that Ashley killed Tones, drove his body to a field near the Houston ship channel, "dumped him face down in a muddy ditch, poured gasoline all over him and lit him up." The state is asking the death penalty.

He said Ashley's arrest in New York in women's clothes proved he was in disguise to flee police.

He bore down on testimony that a watch and a television set found in Ashley's apartment in New York were identified as belonging to Tones.

Arguments began after Judge Truman Roberts read a charge to the jury.

The state rested Thursday after defense lawyer Lloyd Lunsford made a 16-minute plea for acquittal. He put no witnesses on the stand for his client.

Lunsford said the state had failed to prove that Tones was dead, had not constructed a motive for the crime, and had presented a case based on what he called "purely circumstantial evidence."

Judge Roberts overruled the defense motion.

Convicted with Ashley in his 1961 trial was Carolyn Ann Lima, with whom he was arrested in New York. Police said the pair had Tones's automobile with them.

Miss Lima was sentenced to five years in prison in her second trial and is now free.

Mrs. McDaniel Dies Suddenly

Mrs. C. E. (Letha) McDaniel, 60, 3322 US 80 west, died suddenly early this morning at her residence.

Services will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. at the River-Welch Chapel, with burial in Trinity Memorial Park.

She was born in Hodges March 28, 1906, and moved from Jones County to Howard County in 1909 with her parents. She married C. E. McDaniel Nov. 24, 1934, in Stanton.

Mr. McDaniel has been a member of the Methodist Church since 1923, and was a member of the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church.

The family will be at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sam Lewis, 1501 W. Cherokee. Survivors include her husband, C. E. McDaniel, Big Spring; one daughter, Mrs. Sam Lewis, Big Spring; one step-son, G. E. McDaniel, San Antonio; five sisters, Mrs. Fred McGowan, Mrs. Bill McIlvain, Mrs. Roy Osborne, Mrs. Willie McDaniel and Mrs. Grady Hodnett, all of Big Spring; three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Turney Services Slated Saturday

Funeral services for the funeral of Claude Turney, 79, who died Thursday, will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Trinity Baptist Church, with the Rev. Claude Craven, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the City Cemetery, under the direction of the Nalley - Pickle Funeral Home.

They Tried To Tell Her

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Sinforina Rivera smoked five cigars a day. She drank whisky by the water glass, too, but cut that down to "weekend parties only."

Mrs. Rivera died Thursday at St. Elizabeth's hospital at the age of 118.

Curley A. Johnson, 1108 Nolan, told police Thursday that the lock on the west door of his studio at 206 Eleventh Place was forced off in the past few days. Evidently, nothing was taken.

Rites Are Said For Lee Burns

Services for Lee Burns, 66, who died Wednesday, were held today at 2 p.m. in the River-Welch Chapel. Burial was to take place in the Ackerly Cemetery.

Union Settles Main Issue In Newspaper Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The Newspaper Guild settled Thursday the main issue in its strike against the World Journal Tribune Inc.

Thomas Murphy of the Guild said "We have settled the key issue of selectivity in the editorial department."

The corporation and the Guild had concentrated in the last few days on selecting personnel for the news departments of the three papers the new corporation plans.

The Guild, on strike for 47 days, is seeking to save as many jobs as possible for its members who were employed on the three newspapers that merged into the World Journal Tribune.

In addition to the Guild, three of the nine craft unions in the industry have not yet reached contract agreements with the new corporation.

Murphy and a management representative agreed that "about 515" editorial personnel will be retained by the World Journal Tribune, and that the names of these had been settled on.

The Guild—which represents mostly editorial, business office and maintenance employees—and the corporation resume negotiations today with selection

Mass Transit Can Solve Traffic Crush

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twice daily, five days a week, some 42 to 45 million otherwise friendly Americans question each other's sanity and, on occasion, profanely invoke the wrath of God upon their fellow man.

These are the Americans who commute by auto between home and office during those two-hour periods known as the morning and evening rush hours.

At peak traffic periods, they proceed at speeds averaging 6 to 11 miles per hour — depending upon the city. This is about the same commuting speeds attained by their fathers and grandfathers in 1911.

GET WORSE

It is going to get worse. There are now 90 million motor vehicles in the United States. By 1975, the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads estimates, there will be 120 million.

One result of the rapid proliferation in automobiles has been to force city planners from Boston to Los Angeles, San Francisco to Atlanta, to take another look at the relationship between the need for more highways to accommodate more cars and what this will do to cities.

Glenn E. Bennett, secretary of the Atlanta Metropolitan Planning Commission, summed up the situation in six words: "We can't stand many more freeways."

Another result is that 10 of the nation's major cities are now spending, or are planning to spend, nearly $3 billion improving or developing mass transit systems. Another 14 cities, at least, are in the preliminary stages of developing such systems.

MORE FREEWAYS

The alternative to such systems is to build more and more freeways or face automobile saturation, something Boston experienced one day in 1965.

New York's Manhattan is already close to saturation. Every working day, for example, 600,000 vehicles move into and out of the area bounded by 5th street and The Battery, competing for 76,000 parking spaces.

During the rush hours, north-south traffic in New York moves at an average speed of 11 miles per hour; east-west traffic at 8 miles per hour. A man's normal walking pace is 4 miles per hour.

Nearly every major city in the United States with a population of 500,000 or more is confronted twice daily with traffic problems akin to New York's.

SIMPLE

What is happening is quite simple. Over the past 50 years, the federal government has spent nearly $200 billion developing highways, airways and waterways. About half this amount has been spent in the last 10 years, chiefly on highways.

Under the present highway programs, the federal government contributes 50 to 90 percent of the cost of construction. In brief, the federal government has been encouraging the automobile. At present Detroit is turning out automobiles at 1 1/2 times the human birth rate. This proliferation of automobiles has prompted a number of cities to study highways in terms of cost and their efficiency in moving people.

In Chicago, for example, on any working day 283,469 persons accumulate in the central business district. Of the total, 15 percent arrived by automobile, most of them entering via 45 miles of expressways with a total of 38 lanes, each jammed twice a day. Cost per mile of expressway: about $15.6 million.

LOST TAXES

Every time Los Angeles — the motorist's mecca — builds one mile of freeway, 120 acres are removed permanently from the tax rolls. At present Los Angeles is close to completing its 500th mile of freeway and is planning an additional 300.

Thirty-three per cent of Los Angeles County is given over to roads. An almost incredible 74 per cent of Los Angeles' sprawling, foot-ball-shaped central business district is devoted to automobiles.

In Washington, D.C., in 1960 alone, 2,100 acres were removed from the tax rolls for freeways. Some members of the Executive Committee of the National Capital Planning Commission are in revolt against additional freeways.

Philadelphia has a core area measuring four square miles. David Longmaid, executive director of the Delaware Valley Planning Commission, said that every working day 27,000 vehicles enter the core area between 7:30 a.m. and 8:45 a.m. The streets within the area, Longmaid continued, can accommodate 18,000 cars with ease at any given time.

MORE COSTS

Longmaid explained that to handle the automobiles in excess of 18,000, the city will have to build a new, multilane freeway at a cost of $35 million a mile.

Then there is the matter of parking. To build an above-ground parking garage requires a capital investment of $3,500 to $4,000 per car, Longmaid said. An underground garage requires a capital investment of $5,000 to $6,000.

The traffic problems of the cities are directly related to population shifts. There are 196 million people in the nation, 95 million of whom are concentrated along five corridors which are developing into super cities.

The Census Bureau estimated that in another 20 years the population will have grown to 240 million and 80 per cent of the people will be living in these urban areas. These developing super-cities stretch from Washington to Boston, Buffalo to Chicago, San Francisco to Los Angeles, Jacksonville to Miami, and from San Antonio to Dallas-Houston.

NOT UNIFORM

Some measure of the rapidity of the population shifts can be gained from the estimate that the next 20 years will see the population of the New York City area increase from 16 million to 22 million. The shift is not uniform. Atlanta's population is, for example, growing more rapidly than Philadelphia's.

If the number of automobiles increased at the same rate as population, the highway builders might keep pace.

But in Atlanta, Bennett said that while the population was growing at a rate of 40 per cent, the number of automobiles was increasing 75 per cent. In Philadelphia, Longmaid put his available facts in a computer and concluded: "By 1975 there will be 18 per cent more people driving 47 per cent more cars — and they will be using them to make 54 per cent more trips."

SATURATION

What can happen to cities as a result of unrestricted use of automobiles is, perhaps, best illustrated by what happened in Boston on Dec. 30, 1963. It was the first clear and sunny day after Christmas and, apparently, housewives by the thousands elected to go shopping.

About 3:45 p.m., the suburban shoppers started home simultaneously to "avoid the rush hour."

At 4 p.m., the usual rush hour began, rising to a peak between 4:30 and 5 p.m. By 5 p.m., it was clear that Boston had reached and passed the automobile saturation point. For five solid hours thousands of Bostonians fumed, fretted and sat. Nothing moved.

During the New York transit strike in January, 1.6 million vehicles tried to cram into the 59th Street to Battery area. That traffic jam lasted nearly 10 hours.

HAS HAPPENED

What happened in Boston and New York has occurred at one time or another in nearly all major cities. Atlanta had a five-hour traffic jam Sunday, March 27, when 71,000 spectators at a stock car race tried to enter an expressway from the south.

If you consider the mathematics of the mass movement of people by automobile none of this is particularly startling. Los Angeles, for example, has found that during the rush hours any given 65 cars will carry no more than 85 passengers. These 65 cars will be stretched over 1,445 feet of freeway.

By way of comparison, studies based on automobile occupancy of up to 1.7 passengers per car, indicate that the maximum capacity of a multilane highway is 4,800 persons per lane per hour. A double-track rail system can move 40,000 to 50,000 persons per hour, inbound or outbound.

SUBWAY

New York has figured that 100,000 people can be moved in one direction in one hour on two subway tracks. To move this many people by car in an hour would require 20 four-lane highways.

Why don't more people use rapid transit systems where available?

Among the number of subjects certain facts emerge: The American is accustomed to the point-to-point convenience of the car. The average worker involved in a home-to-work journey will walk no more than 1,500 feet before seeking some form of transportation — bus, taxi, subway or trolley.

The problems of mass transportation thus boil down to development of a dependable system whereby people can be moved swiftly and comfortably from a point near home to a point within close walking distance of their offices.

ABILITY EXISTS

Technical ability exists to move people by the thousands swiftly and comfortably. The San Francisco Bay area is already engaged in building a 75-mile rail transit system and a tube under San Francisco Bay. Ultimate cost: $1.2 billion.

Another such system, developed by the Westinghouse Electric Corp., exists on a test track in Pittsburgh and, to date, already has carried over 100,000 passengers on experimental Sunday rides.

The systems in San Francisco and Pittsburgh are fully automated, operating on substantially the same principle as the self-service elevator with pre-programmed stops at every station.

CONCERNED

While, in theory, the problems of moving masses of people to and from work are local matters, the federal government has become concerned.

Dr. William J. Ronan, chairman of New York's Metropolitan Commuter Transportation Authority, put the situation this way: "The most pressing transportation problem here in the United States is not the historical problem of covering vast reaches of the world — of farm to market, mine to smelter.

Rather it is the movement of people and goods within the present urban and metropolitan regions and within the megalopolis now developing."

This thesis is implicit in the Mass Transportation Act of 1964 in which Congress authorized spending $375 million to expand and develop mass rapid transit systems.

The actual appropriations, to date, total $320 million. There is now a measure pending in Congress which would add $98 million to the $55 million remaining under the 1964 authorization. The spending of this money is the province of the Department of Housing and Urban Development which already has had inquiries from 250 cities. The applications in hand for federal funds total $105 million.

The sums involved are only a fraction of the needs. Representatives of city after city have testified before Congress that they simply do not have the financial resources to meet their transport problems. John J. Gilhooley, commissioner of New York's Transit Authority, estimated in an interview that the nation's urban areas need a minimum of $12 billion.

WIVES BEWARE!

If your husband has occasion to visit Fort Worth, don't let him stay at Green Oaks Inn!

Oh, it's nice, all right.

It's done in sort of a storybook Old English.

It has 300 rooms, including 57 suites, and two swimming pools.

The food's all they say it is—the tastiest in Fort Worth.

And the club, patterned after an Old English ale house, is utterly charming.

Green Oaks Inn has a great location—away from downtown congestion, yet less than 10 minutes by freeway from the heart of the city.

The prices are reasonable, too.

Why then, you ask, should you steer him to another hotel?

If he stays at Green Oaks, he'll probably never want to come back home.

Methodists Called On To Include Minority Groups

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Inclusion of minority churches—Negro, Indian and Latin-American, in district and cluster planning was called for here by the North Texas conference of the Methodist Church.

A conference is divided into districts and sub-districts, or clusters.

"We do not mean a token basis of attending preachers' meetings," the report stated. Rather, minority pastors and congregations will be invited to various meetings on leadership training and urged to attend laymen's retreats, pastors' conferences, and other functions.

The report recommends that churches encourage the work of planned parenthood societies and distribution of material giving advice on birth control.

It also supports the federal Greening-Tidings bill on birth control.

Each church was asked "to check on the anti-poverty program in their local area."

"If no action has been taken, we believe it is the responsibility and privilege of the churches to institute such a program, especially in the field of Head Start Education," the report said.

The board also recommended wider use of materials on mental health and mental health services available in the community.

Methodists in the conference were asked to find out where candidates for the legislature stand on liquor by the drink and parimutuel gambling and to oppose legislation that would legalize both actions.

The section of the report dealing with peace and world order put forth "the right of dissent and of freedom of thought and expression" on such controversial areas as Viet Nam and foreign policy.

COMMITTEE GRAVEYARDS

Little Chance Seen For Oil Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—With this session of Congress past the halfway point, all signs indicate little likelihood of action on any major legislation of particular application to the oil and gas industry.

Bills to cut the industry's tax depletion allowance and to curb the Federal Power Commission's controls over gas producers appear destined for burial in committee graveyards. These are the two major pending oil and gas proposals.

But talk of reducing the present 27½ per cent depletion allowance continues. Reps. Seymour Halpern, R-N.Y., and John Schmidhauser, D-Iowa, revived the subject recently.

Schmidhauser noted he has made several proposals for a reform of the federal tax system and added:

"However, I believe the first priority should be a lowering of the 27½ per cent tax giveaway known as the oil depletion allowance."

"When our agriculture producers and our workers are being subjected to economic restraining measures, I firmly believe those many privileged interests—the oil companies being one of the most privileged of many presently benefitting by our outmoded tax laws—should bear their fair share of this burden."

Halpern told the House recent proposals for changing the tax structure have neglected an important area in which he believed reform is needed—percentage depletion allowances on natural resources.

"The high allowance on gross income ranging from an allowance of 5 per cent on brick and sand all the way up to 27½ per cent on oil and gas—has been and continues to be a blatant form of tax favoritism," Halpern said.

IF THEY'RE GOING PLACES IN BUSINESS

Executives Move Around

By SALLY RYAN
 AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The man who is going places in business today is going places geographically, too.

Twenty years of economic expansion have set off an industrial migration, the saga of the corporate gypsy—men like Lamont M. Cruse, 30, assistant to the president of Burlington Hosiery Co. in New York City. Cruse, a native of Harriman, Tenn., has moved eight times in nine years.

OVER HALF

Over half of the nation's population moved between 1955 and 1960, and the rate has been increasing.

Many moves are set off when dad is transferred.

"Lots of companies are expanding along with the economy, so there are more plants located at places where people never considered moving before," Cruse said.

"It's becoming the thing of the future," he said. "Rootless executives. Younger men are much more mobile than ever, and probably will continue that way for a long time to come."

Western Electric Co. Inc., which has 157,000 employees, estimates it will transfer 1,000 of them this year — 500 to 500 more than normal — to man its new regional centers.

"People get in the pattern of transfers," said Clifton C. Field Jr. of Western Electric. "Many people are permanent transients, and there will be more and more. With companies decentralizing, transfers are inevitable."

MORE RESISTANCE

Field said that generally there was more resistance to transfers from older employees who never have moved. Virtually no one wants to move when he has children in high school, Field said.

General Telephone & Electronics Corp., which employs 122,000, transferred 58 key management employees last year.

"As a rule, upward-oriented people are anxious to move, looking for the opportunity rather than resisting it," said Harris

MIGRATORY EXECUTIVES
 They don't like New York, though

Reinhardt, manager of employee and college relations forsylvania Electric Products Inc., a division of General Telephone.

"There's always a little more money, prestige — the incentives we hold out," he said.

Usually the companies say an employee can turn down any proposed move. The unstated alternative in the past, however, often has been the company itself.

ANOTHER CHANGE

But some companies report that, with the growing labor shortage, the man now may have another chance.

"It's not an area where it is very good to force anyone very hard," said Reinhardt.

Besides the lure of a promotion and a bigger salary, the companies usually absorb the cost of the move.

The American Management Association surveyed 800 firms and found they spent about $1,500 to $2,000 on each transfer.

ing and moving, lodging, meals plus other items.

"The easiest place to fill is New England," Reinhardt said. "We have lots of plants in small towns, and there are a multitude who don't want to come to New York."

"People figure going to New York is a fate worse than death — worse than being sentenced to Alcatraz," he said.

EASIER TO FILL

Western Electric says it is easier to fill its posts in San Francisco and Denver than in New York and Chicago.

But Donald E. De Voto, who runs a Chicago company which searches for executives, says men on the move prefer Chicago, New York or Los Angeles. These are the professional executives, switching from company to company.

Fund To Build Private Housing

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has signed a bill to set up a $10-million revolving fund to generate $150 million a year to build private, low-income housing.

Assembly Speaker Anthony Travia, who sponsored the measure, said the law would encourage the use of the money to construct or rehabilitate 11,000 housing units.

Gus May Get A Split Verdict

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is considering handing U.S. Communist Party leader Gus Hall a split verdict on his bid for permission to visit countries normally off-limits to Americans.

Hall wants authorization to go to Communist China, North Viet Nam, North Korea and Cuba—and his application has raised so many questions that Secretary of State Dean Rusk probably will have to pass on it personally after his return from Europe today.

Some in the department are recommending that Hall be allowed to travel to Red China and North Korea and be barred from North Viet Nam and Cuba. Some think he should be kept out of Cuba but might qualify for the Asian points.

The case is recognized as an embarrassing one of the administration.

An okay could set off criticism from that part of the public opposed to letting the top U.S. Communist go to Red lands. A turnout could antagonize advocates of free travel for all Americans.

Hall applied to the State Department March 29 for the special travel authorization in connection with what his spokesman termed an extensive trip by Hall to look for possibilities of peace.

The State Department has a general ban against travel by U.S. citizens to Communist-controlled countries in Asia and to Cuba and Albania, but grants some exceptions including permissions to newsmen.

Low Guarantee Set For Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Thursday it will guarantee only $1.25 a bushel to farmers asked to grow extra wheat next year to supplement dwindling supplies.

The price amounts to slightly less than 50 per cent of the parity price goal of federal farm programs. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

But if market prices are higher than the $1.25 guarantee, the farmers' earnings would increase.

President Johnson announced several weeks ago that the planting allowance for next year's wheat crop will be increased 15 per cent because the surplus has disappeared under the dual impact of expanded foreign demands and a government crop control program.

The 1967 allotment will total 59.3 million acres, the largest since shortly after World War II.

Under the 1957 program, growers who cooperate with the control program by planting within their allotments will get supplementary payments on about 520 million bushels of the crop. These payments are expected to total around $1.32 a bushel.

Gail Pettitt Leads Ropers

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Frontier Days Amateur Rodeo got under way Thursday night at the Western Riding Club Arena on US 90.

In the bull riding event only two riders stayed aboard for the regulation eight seconds—Royce Bearden, Matador, and Freddie Christian.

Martha Josey, Post, led barrel racers with the lowest time of 19.9 seconds. Marie Voss, Snyder, and Debra Whitehead, Martin County, tied for second with 20.5.

Other timed results included steer roping. First was Gail Pettitt, Snyder, with 24.3; second (tie), Tex Garnett, Post, and Ed Luerson, Beecave, 48.9; calf roping, Frank Boyd, Crane, 13.3; Bobby Burrus, Gall, 17.7; R. E. Josey, Post, 20.6.

The rodeo, co-sponsored by the Western Riding Club and the Colorado City Jaycees, will complete its performance Saturday night.

Reception Will Honor Meachams

A farewell reception honoring Chaplain and Mrs. B. F. Meacham will be held from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Webb AFB Chapel Annex. All their many friends in Big Spring as well as those on the base are invited to call and pay their respects to the couple. Chaplain Meacham is leaving the latter part of June for an assignment in South Carolina after having served six years here as wing chaplain.

Smith Is Speaker At Aug. 7 Rite

COLORADO CITY — Lt. Gov. Preston Smith will be the principal speaker at dedication ceremonies for the new Mitchell County Library.

County Commissioners have announced an open house and dedication ceremonies Aug. 7, at 2 p.m.

The $100,000 county library is almost complete with final installation of equipment under way.

The library was built with county funds, public contributions and federal aid.

Mrs. Boyd Dozier, librarian, expects to move to the new facility within the next 30 days. Seven new services will be offered. Among them will be a "listening" library.

Tandems Await Start In Open Tournament

A field of 250 players, give or take a few, go for the gold, the glory and the guerdon in the fourth annual Big Spring Golf Open, scheduled Saturday and Sunday at the Country Club. Included in the list of registrants will be 22 pros from over a wide area, who will be competing for cash totaling $1,000. The amateurs compete for merchandise awards, ranging from sets of woods to $42.50 pairs of golf shoes. Six two-man teams in each of two flights will share in the prizes. In addition, the four pros posting low medal scores over 36 holes will be competing for green backs totaling $250. In the Open division, a pro can pair with an amateur or two simon-pures can form a tandem. Winners are determined without benefit of handicap. In the True Amateur flight, two amateurs team up and make use of handicaps. Winners are determined over 36 holes on a low-ball basis. The pros who will be on hand here include Shirley Robbins, Burnet, former pro at the Country Club; J. B. Wetsel, Big Spring Munny; Jack Bartko, Webb AFB; Gidd Faircloth, Kermit; Bobby Westfall, Floydada; W. O. Maxwell, Webb AFB; Jimmy Dixon, Fort Worth; Bobby Maxwell, Fort Worth; R. L. Montgomery, Sweetwater; Wendy Green, Midland; Herschel (Red) Ramsey, Bowie; Bunky Johnson, Amarillo; Jack Holt, San Antonio; Oscar McCash, Fort Worth; Roland Adams, Lubbock; C. A. DeWees, Arlington; Terry Houston, Dyess AFB, Abilene; Elwyn Stobaugh, San Angelo; Jerry Green, Big Spring; Charles Bruce, Snyder; John N. Wright, Abilene; and Jimmy Wetsel, Big Spring.

PAST CHAMPIONS IN BS OPEN

LOOKING 'EM OVER

In the state of Georgia, a high school football coach can ask his boys out for practice any time during the summer if he feels like it — as long as the players don't don pads before a certain date.

In Texas, if you make a concerted effort to keep players whose families already reside in the community, you're apt to get threatening letters from the august Texas Interscholastic League.

Without football's revenue, most schools couldn't afford to subsidize other sports but it is kept in a strait-jacket of rules that often border on the downright ridiculous.

Shelby Metcalf, the Texas A&M basketball mester, isn't singing the blues. He points with pride to two of the best sophomore cagers ever to attend his school. One is Sonny Benefield, the 6-1 Sweeney ace. The other is 6-8 Ronnie Peret of Plainview, who made life miserable for the Big Spring Steers over a couple of seasons.

Clyde Lovellette, who played in the National Basketball Association for several years, has applied to become a league referee.

Most NBA referees you see look like water boys alongside the basketball giants but Lovellette is tall enough to stare at the athletes — eye ball to eye ball.

Big Springer Danny Birdwell, a regular with the Oakland Raiders, says he has as much or more respect for his league's Cookie Gilchrist (Denver) as he does any player in professional football.

Cookie can hit as hard as Cleveland's Jimmy Brown, for instance, Birdwell says, and is a much better blocker.

Word out of El Paso is that Big Spring's Thurman Randle looked better than any other player in spring football drills at Texas Western College.

At about 278, Randle is big enough now to go into professional ball. He may be a high draft choice in both leagues.

Remember A. Z. Drones, the San Angelo giant who Randle thoroughly whipped in that Bobcat-Steer game their senior year? Drones ran into grade trouble at the University of Missouri but regained his eligibility and will be playing with the Tigers again this fall. He'll probably be at defensive end.

The big league umpires currently start at a salary of $9,500 per annum, which is $2,500 more than the annual minimum wage guaranteed the players.

The players are trying to get something done about it.

The Houston Sports Association (which is mainly Judge Roy Hofheinz) grossed more than $8.5 million in its first year in the Harris County Domes Stadium. Total income from baseball games held there in 1965 was $6.6 million. Visiting teams were paid $225,000 for regular season games and another $65,000 for exhibition contests.

An average of 1,000 persons daily have gone on guided tours through the stadium since they were started in April, 1965.

One-time Big Springer Dubby Malaise apparently can do it all, athletically speaking. He is probably the finest basketball player in the history of Texas Tech, is a champion tennis player and plays golf in the low 70's.

Jay & Davenport Nail Down Wins

By The Associated Press
 Joey Jay flourished in Philadelphia's hot and humid Connie Mack Stadium and Jim Davenport didn't do so badly in the air conditioned comfort of Houston's Astrodome. Operating in completely opposite climates Thursday night, Jay pitched a sharp five-hitter as Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 1-0 while Davenport's 11th inning double drove in two runs and lifted San Francisco to a 3-1 victory over Houston. Jay perspired freely in the steamy atmosphere against the Phillies, but seemed to thrive on the heat. "I guess I lost about 10 pounds," said the strong right-hander who won his sixth game in eight decisions. Leo Cardenas drove home the only run Jay needed with an eighth inning single and then grabbed Dick Groat's hot grounder behind second and turned it into a game-ending double play in the ninth. Davenport, who broke up a 17-inning game against New York with a homer earlier this season, delivered his big double to snap a tie that had existed since the fifth inning and beat Jim Owens, Houston's third pitcher. Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta stretched its winning streak to six games with an 8-4 victory over New York and St. Louis downed Pittsburgh 4-2. Tony Perez started Cincinnati's winning rally with a single after two were out in the eighth. Tommy Helms' fourth hit of the game moved pinch runner Dick Simpson around to third. Then Cardenas' single broke the scoreless tie. Willie McCovey ignited the Giants' winning rally with a single. After Jim Hart sacrificed, Tom Haller was intentionally walked, setting the stage for Davenport's big hit. Rico Carty smacked four hits including a home run and Mack Jones tagged a three-run homer in Atlanta's five-run first inning as the Braves ripped the Mets. Ken Boyer homered for New York. Jerry Buchek and Phil Gagliano accounted for all the Cardinal runs with a pair of two-run homers as Al Jackson scattered eight hits for his fifth victory. Both the homers came against rookie Woody Fryman, who lost his first game after four straight victories. Roberto Clemente, who had three hits, homered for the Pirates.

ABC Grabs 9-3 Victory

The ABC Club exposed the Duncan Drillers to some heavy clutch hitting in parading to a 9-3 Hi-Junior Teen-Age Baseball league victory here Thursday night. The ABC was blanked for four innings by Jerry Ryan but broke loose for four runs in the fifth, added two in the sixth and wound up with a three-run seventh. Ronnie Steen hurled three-hit ball for the ABC gang, all of which were singles. Only player in the game to get as many as two hits was Ricky Thomas of the winners, who drove out a double and a single. Steen and Steve Russell collected two basers for the ABC.

Americans Lose In Links Meet

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — The last two Americans and a Scot now living in Michigan were eliminated today in the fifth round of the British Amateur Golf Championship. Henri de Lamaze, 11-time winner of the French amateur, defeated Richard Anthony of Andalusia, Ala., 1 up. Bobby Cole, an 18-year-old South African protégé of Gary Player, downed Charles McCullum, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., real estate man, 1 up. Gordon Cosh, a Scottish Walker Cup player, beat Hunter McDonald, a 25-year-old Scot living in Southfield, Mich., 1 up.

Two Teams Still Tied For Lead

Big Spring Tire and Morton's first inning home run with D. A. Miller on board to finish a five-run first inning outburst for the Morton's team. Cotton Mize pitched the winning 15 in the seven-inning struggle. In the opener, Herb Sorley and Donnie Gooch smacked home runs for Big Spring Tire, driving in four tallies between them. The round trippers came back to back in the fourth. Truett Newell and David Brewer had the only safeties for the Optimists, which were stopped first by Theibert Camp and then by Joe Blasingame. RUGGED

When you don't know what's ahead, go Mercury...world's most dependable outboard

With a new Mercury on your stern, you've got a lot more ruggedness to depend on. It's designed to be more impact-proof. Mercury's exclusive shearproof propeller, cushioned in rubber, gives slightly on impact, then springs back in place. (No anxious intermissions trying to replace a shear or drive pin.) Hydraulic shock absorbers control motor kick-up. Drive shaft and lower unit housings are one piece to assure alignment and sturdiness. And Mercury's small-bore, short-stroke, in-line design keeps your engine running smoothly and reduces wear. There's even more dependability for '66 with new Lake X-proved crankshaft and connecting rods, plus new reed blocks for stronger main bearing support. This is Mercury's way of keeping you going when you don't know what's ahead. See the world's most dependable, best performing outboards at your Mercury dealer: 3.9, 6, 9.8, 20, 35, 50, 65, 95, 110 hp.

Track Federation Howling Sabotage

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — The U. S. Track and Field Federation howled sabotage and opened its fourth national championship today in defiance of a last minute threat of Amateur Athletic Union reprisal against athletes participating in what the AAU called "an unsanctioned meet."

The AAU threw a bombshell Thursday night into the two-day USTFF meet, which lured more than 300 athletes, including America's top miler Jim Ryun, to Indiana State University's asphalt track.

It was a dictum by AAU President Clifford Buck that unless the NCAA-backed Federation applied for an AAU sanction—all athletes competing here would be ineligible for the National AAU Championships in New York June 25-26.

The AAU meet will determine the selection of the U. S. team to compete against the Russians in Los Angeles July 23-24.

Chick Werner, the Federation's executive director, declared that Buck's action was "an obvious attempt to sabotage the Federation meet by the manner in which it was suddenly initiated."

And Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, said in Kansas City "that the statement attributed to Mr. Buck and the AAU is incredible and the timing makes its motivation most suspect."

Federation leaders contended that the AAU got its facts twisted in interpretation of the guideline set by a government five-

Seminole Woman In Golf Finals

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—Charlotte Schulz of Wichita Falls and Mrs. Bess Curry of Seminole clash over the 36-hole route today for the West Texas women's golf championship.

Miss Schulz, who won the championship 10 years ago, upset Kathy Hutson of Lubbock, the defending champion, 3 and 2 Thursday to reach the finals. Mrs. Curry got there with a 3 and 2 triumph over Vicki Spoon of Abilene.

A 130-yard chip on the fifteenth hole gave Miss Schulz a 2-up advantage over Miss Hutson and she was able to close out the match on the next hole.

Wisconsin Court Delays Verdict

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin Supreme Court justices have poked and prodded at the keystone of the state's antitrust case against baseball and waited for another day to decide whether it should come tumbling down.

The high court is expected to rule in early July on the National League's appeal of a circuit court decision finding the game in violation of Wisconsin antitrust law for stripping Milwaukee of its only major league team. The court heard the appeal Thursday.

The decision, by Circuit Court Judge Elmer W. Roller, directed the return of the Atlanta Braves to Milwaukee this season unless the Wisconsin city is provided with a 1967 expansion team. The order was suspended pending review by the seven-member State Supreme Court.

Willard S. Stafford, special counsel for Wisconsin, began an assault on baseball's contention that Wisconsin has no authority under state laws to challenge the Atlanta transfer of the Boston-born, Milwaukee-bred Braves.

"If there is anything clear," Stafford thundered, "it is that baseball's principal defense is that this court has no jurisdiction . . . because baseball is interstate in its operations."

Yet, Stafford continued, in 1953, baseball attorneys argued before the U.S. Supreme Court that baseball did not come under federal antitrust law because "the game of baseball is inherently local."

Hall Misses Chance To Shatter Record

By The Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins trailed Kansas City 4-3 in the seventh inning when suddenly Rich Rollins homered. Then Zoilo Versalles homered, and Tony Oliva, and Don Mincher, and Harmon Killebrew.

That brought up Jimmie Hall, with a chance to set a major league record for most homers in one inning.

"I knew about the record," said all. "The announcer told everyone that we had tied the record when I was standing in the batter's box. It upset me a little. I know if I was the pitcher, I'd be bearing down that much more."

Hall eventually lashed a pitch that hit high off the fence — and settled for a double.

"I'm going to fine Hall $100 for breaking up a rally," laughed Minnesota Manager Sam Mele, who hasn't had too much opportunity to do that this season.

Despite the homer hammering and the 9-4 victory, Mele's defending American League champions still are in sixth place — three games un-

Bill Craig 25ers Golf Tournery Sets July 1-4

COLORADO CITY — Entries are now being accepted for the annual Bill Craig 25ers Invitational Golf tournament, scheduled July 1-3-4 at the Colorado City Country Club.

Entrants must be 25 years of age or older. Entrance fee, which includes golf and entertainment, is $15. The field will be limited to the first 112 who register.

All scores except those for the championship flight will be accepted by card or phone. Handicap cards are requested.

Tournament players and guests will eat barbecue following the completion of qualifying rounds July 1.

First round matches take place Saturday, July 2, while quarterfinals are booked for Sunday, July 3. Semifinal and final rounds will be completed Monday, July 4. Consolation round play will be limited to nine holes on that day.

Don Benson is the tournament chairman.

Locals Play Abilene A's

Morton's Foods of Big Spring meets Abilene Athletic Supply in first round play in the third annual Jaycee Softball tournament at Abilene tonight.

The two clubs clash at 9:30 p.m. on the West diamond. At 8 o'clock on that field, the Abilene Merchants tangle with the Brownwood Merchants.

Two other games take place tonight on the East diamond, Abilene Conoco opposing Sub Plot One of California, the World Naval champion, at 8 p.m. and Taylor Chevrolet tangling with Bill McDavid Pontiac at 9:30 o'clock.

Sixteen teams are entered into competition, including the Fort Worth Hustlers, who copped the crown a year ago.

The tournament continues through Saturday night.

Ruby Lawyers Will Not Put Up A Defense

DALLAS (AP)—Jack Ruby's lawyers said today they will not present a defense for technical reasons—at his sanity hearing scheduled to begin Monday.

They claimed that Ruby's constitutional rights would be jeopardized should a second murder trial be held after they presented a sanity defense.

The statements came at a pre-trial sanity hearing for Ruby, sentenced to die for killing Lee Harvey Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as the assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

The State Criminal Appeals Court has ordered that a sanity hearing be held before it will consider an appeal of Ruby's conviction and death verdict.

The defense, which said that the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals action was based on Mrs. Eva Grant's affidavit, contended that the application for withdrawal should be certified to the high court and then allow it to make a decision on whether a sanity hearing should be held. She is a sister of Ruby.

ERRORS
In their appeal, Ruby's attorneys contended numerous reversible errors were made during the original trial, and they are seeking to have the conviction set aside. Today's action was apparently an attempt by the defense to secure a new trial without having to present at a sanity hearing witnesses which would be called if the second trial is granted.

Ruby's lawyer Phil Burleson told Judge Louis T. Holland that the defense will not offer witnesses or other evidence as to Ruby's mental condition.

Sol Dann of Detroit, another defense lawyer, said to do so would violate Ruby's constitutional rights and jeopardize his rights should the Criminal Appeals Court order a new trial.

DID NOT APPEAR
Ruby did not appear in court—the first time he has not been present at the many court sessions in Dallas involving his case.

Judge Holland quickly turned down an appeal by Mrs. Grant, that her original motion claiming that Ruby is insane be withdrawn.

She originally filed the insanity claim April 27, 1964. Judge Holland adjourned the hearing until afternoon, when he was to hear arguments.

"Nothing can be lost or gained by a sanity hearing," Dann told the court.

He also said that he and Burleson conferred with Ruby in jail yesterday and Ruby indicated he did not want a sanity hearing.

READY
Dist. Atty. Henry Wade and assistant Bill Alexander said they had not asked for the sanity trial but that the state is ready to proceed and offer evidence that Ruby is sane.

Wade said the state has never asked for a continuance or a delay and that for the case to be disposed of the sanity hearing should be held as directed by the Criminal Appeals Court.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black denied a defense plea for a postponement of the trial last week.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ordered May 18 that Ruby's present mental state be judicially determined "without delay." Dist. Judge Louis Holland of Montague then scheduled it for next week in Dallas.

Ruby, now 35, while away the hours and the days in the Dallas County Jail by reading the Bible, playing dominoes and doing pushups, Deputy Sheriff Allen Sweatt said.

"He's living as usual a life as could be expected," Sweatt said. "Three meals a day, visits by his family, and that sort of thing."

Intruder Held For Officers

A burglar crawled into Miriam's Tavern, 785 W. 3rd, about 12:35 a.m. Friday, slithering through an air conditioner duct, and came out to find the owner was still there, officers said today.

Officers said Mrs. Miriam Mitchell, owner, called them and said a man had just broken into the lounge and was being held at gunpoint by her husband, Bob Mitchell.

On arrival, officers said, they found the alleged burglar lying on the floor under a gun being held by Mitchell. The burglar had a slight head injury, officers said.

Charged with burglary this morning was 22-year-old Jackie Lee Hill, Reed Hotel, who gave his occupation as a "roughneck."

Bond had not been set at noon.

First Lt. Monty J. Trusty received the Air Force Commendation Medal this week in ceremonies at Student Squadron headquarters, Lt. Col. Barry R. Butler, student squadron commander, made the presentation to Lt. Trusty, who is a member of undergraduate pilot training Class 67-E.

The lieutenant came to Webb in February to enter the UPT program. He is a 1961 graduate of East Texas State College in Commerce.

Giant Hail, Heavy Rain Batters Far West Texas

Violent late spring thunderstorms battered parts of far West Texas with up to 4 inches of rain and giant hailstones late Thursday.

Hail covered the ground in places and motorists reported water blocked low spots in some highways briefly until it had time to drain. The storm's fury apparently centered in the arid Davis Mountain country around Alpine, Marfa and Fort Davis, extending southward in the Big Bend almost to Presidio.

Travelers told of seeing hail as big as baseballs in places. It shattered window glass in cars and trucks. One rancher, unidentified, required 10 stitches to close gashes in his head inflicted as hail smashed the windshield of his pickup.

While Alpine measured only 3.1 inch of rain, as much as 4 inches cascaded onto ranch country toward the north. A severe dust storm, in which the wind damaged roof tops and stripped limbs of trees, preceded the downpour in Alpine.

Marfa received 1.73 inches of rain and hailstones from marble to golf ball size covered downtown streets. Electric power and telephone service were disrupted temporarily.

Rainfall measurements at other points included .89 inch at Fort Davis and .68 at Sanderson, about a year ago Saturday by a flash flood.

The thunderstorms developed as a mild cool front moved southward. By this moving it was stalled across the state along a line linking Alpine, San Angelo and Lufkin.

Scattered showers dotted the Texas Panhandle, where the mercury dipped to 53 degrees early today at Dalhart.

Forecasts promised somewhat higher temperatures and scattered showers over the west half of the state tonight and Saturday. Clear to partly cloudy skies were promised East Texas.

Top temperatures Thursday ranged from 108 degrees—the high mark for the nation—at Presidio down to 74 at Dalhart.

Woman Hurt In Mishap

Mrs. Annie L. Hall, 44, 2600 E. 24th, was reported in good condition by Hall—Bennett Memorial Hospital personnel this morning following a traffic accident Thursday morning.

Officers said the car Mrs. Hall was driving west on FM 700 near Gollad was involved in a collision with a car, also traveling west, driven by Lesta S. Ryan, 2719 Cindy Lane, about 8:30 a.m.

No one else was injured. The Ryan car sustained about $300 damage to the front, officers estimated, and was towed off by Cactus Wrecker. Mrs. Hall's car was damaged in the rear an estimated $250 worth, but was removed under its own power.

Three other accidents caused no injuries, police said. Involved were the car of Myra White Adams, 106 Jonesboro, and the parked car of W. A. Burchell, 1515 E. 17th, at 10:03 Gregg; the stopped car of Doris Rhyne Carson, 1500 Robin, and the car of Curtis McCauley, 1401 Austin, in the 300 block of Main; and the cars of Danny Walling, 2712 Lynn Drive, and Mary B. Cook, Stanton, in the 1000 block of West Third, 75 feet east of Galveston Street.

Sight-Seeing Trip Through Wall Street Coming Tuesday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Movie-TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The title of CBS, Tuesday night public affairs special is "Wall Street: Where the Money Is." But viewers looking for a hot tip on a penny stock, or an explanation about the end of the current bear market should not bother to tune in.

The hour show by an independent packager and produced by Mel Stuart will be more of a sight-seeing trip through the strange world of stocks and bonds than a cram course in turning a quick buck.

Stuart, who also produced both "Making of a President" specials, said that "nobody has ever been able to do anything about Wall Street on television—probably because so much of its activity is cerebral, without much apparent glamor."

His own viewpoint, he said, crystallized when he ran across an apt quotation from an unlikely source, Gertrude Stein: "The money is always there; it's only the pockets that change."

Thus he will show money changing in the hectic but orderly confusion of the exchange floor, talk with some of the big brokers and shrewd traders, follow the birth of a $50 million bond issue.

The producer who moves between motion picture and television shows, says that he is often disappointed by reaction to his TV documentary efforts.

"When I made 'The revolution of the Three R's,' the whole focus of the program was on the new teaching equipment—computers and other aides—that are changing the character of education today," he said. "Then I was criticized because I didn't devote the whole program to one fine, talented, dedicated teacher."

A lot of critics, including this one, found his "making of a President, '64" disappointing when compared to the earlier one.

"And I, on the other hand, thought it was far better," Stuart said.

The education television station in New York, Channel 13, Thursday night presented the American premiere of a real-life horror story. It was a report, in film and still pictures of the nightmare that was the Warsaw ghetto, scene of Nazi brutality, wanton murder, disease, starvation and desperate heroism.

The documentary was made for the British Broadcasting Company by a survivor, Alexander Bernheim, the narrator who has spent 20 years collecting the shocking record. It will be broadcast on other stations of the National Educational Television network in the near future, and if you can stand it, it should have some attention.

Recommended week-end viewing color.
Saturday—"Continental Showcase," CBS, 7:30-8:30 p.m. EDT, taped European variety acts with Jim Backus as host, replacing Jackie Gleason's show for the summer.

Sunday—"Politics: The Outer Fringe," NBC, 6:30-7:30 p.m., a study of the radical right and left.

Sabine River Basin Plan Calls For 3 Reservoirs

AUSTIN (AP)—Three reservoirs costing a total of $97.3 million are proposed for the Sabine River basin in East Texas under the giant state plan for development of water resources through the year 2020.

The Texas Water Development Board released Thursday its preliminary plan for the Sabine River basin. Public hearings on the plan will be held in Longview on June 20 and in Orange on June 22.

The three reservoirs would be Lake Fork and Mineola, west of the Longview area, and Kilgore 2, near Longview. They would provide conservation storage. The first two also would include flood-control storage.

The water development board's study says the Mineola Reservoir is needed by 1980 for water supply and by 1990 for flood control. Kilgore 2 would be needed for water supply by 1975, and Lake Fork would be needed by 1990 for both water supply and flood control.

A salt water barrier in Orange County to limit upstream movement of salt water during low-flow periods also is envisioned by the plan.

"The proposed plan will provide for meeting all estimated water needs in the basin, and fulfilling existing and proposed commitments for supply water to users outside the basin," the report says. "In addition, the plan provides for developing substantial supplies, surplus to anticipated needs, that can meet unforeseen future water needs in-basin and elsewhere in Texas."

The Sabine River Authority has the power to export water to Dallas and Terrell. The 2020 export needs for these cities are included in the plan, estimated at 190,000 acre-feet a year.

An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons. Also planned is diversion of 50,500 acre-feet each year from Cypress Creek basin to Marshall by 2020 and export of 9,000 acre-feet to Henderson.

Cost of the Lake Fork Reservoir is estimated at $45.8 million, Mineola Reservoir at $49,470,000, and Kilgore 2 at $2 million. Their total surface area would be 38,460 acres. Drainage area of the Sabine basin is 9,756 miles, including 7,426 in Texas. The river forms part of the border between Texas and Louisiana.

DEAR ABBY

'Sweet Things' Could Change

DEAR ABBY: I am a 51-year-old man who is very much in love with a 22-year-old girl. I know you think I'm crazy, but Abby, this girl really loves me. She even broke up with a young good looking man just for me. She worked for me a short time, but we didn't want any talk around the place, so I had her quit. My problem is my wife. She won't give me a divorce.

Our children are grown, and I offered her a very good settlement, but she refused it. Abby, my girl friend is the sweetest, most unspoiled little thing in the world. She is just the opposite of my wife. She appreciates every little thing I've given her, like a small, inexpensive car, some clothes, and taking care of her mother's hospital bill. I would gladly give up my last dime to be free to marry this girl. But how? IN LOVE
DEAR IN: Make your wife a better offer. She might surprise you. But I don't advise you to "give up your last dime" for your freedom because that "sweet, unspoiled little thing" might also surprise you.

DEAR ABBY: I'll get right to the point. I had several appointments with a reputable physician regarding a physical ailment. During one of these appointments I confided a very closely-guarded secret about my personal life. He assured me it would go no further. This morning a friend told me she had heard something "unbelievable" about me. Then she recounted in the very words I had used to tell my doctor, exactly what I had told him. She refused to tell me where she'd heard it, but she didn't have to. She and my doctor's wife are very close friends.

I am sick inside. If this story gets out, it could wreck my marriage. My doctor told his wife, and of that I am positively certain. What would YOU do?

SICK INSIDE

DEAR SICK: Doctors are human and therefore have their frailties. But most doctors carry all their secrets to their graves. Clip this and send it to your doctor. It is part of the Hippocratic oath a doctor takes when he becomes a physician: "Whatever is my practice, or not in my practice, I shall hear or see, amid the lives of men, which ought not to be noted abroad — as to this I will keep silence, holding such things unfitting to be spoken."

And sign your name! If he's innocent, he won't mind. And if he's guilty he'll be reminded.

Miss Tan America To Be Announced

By PEGGY SIMPSON DALLAS (AP)—The eight girls named finalists in the Miss Tan America Pageant weren't the only ones who couldn't sleep Thursday night.

Nearly all the contestants were keyed up after the talent judging and stayed up for hours hugging each other with excitement, playing the piano—and gabbing, as girls do.

"We're talented — there were some wonderful performances here," said Helen Miller of Columbus, S. C., somewhat in awe. She did not place in the talent division but later was named a finalist.

The winner will be crowned tonight in the finale of the second annual pageant, the only one held nationally for Negro girls.

Harriett Rhett, whose first plane trip left her woozy when she arrived here, took first in talent with a classical piano selection. The Stamford, Conn., 19-year-old has studied music for eight years and says she is interested in musical therapy for the blind.

Valerie Holiday, 18, a sophisticated but impish Boston singer, won second with her sultry version of "Who Can I Turn to?"

"I've never studied music but I've sung in the church choir since I was yea high," she said.

A rock 'n roll-jazz hula in a spangled top and orange fringed hula skirt won Kris Brooks, 19, third place in talent. She is one of the tallest contestants at 5-foot, 8 inches. "And I've studied every kind of dance from jazz to Egyptian for eight years." Her home is Berkeley, Calif., but she represents San Jose.

The three talent winners were among the finalists.

In addition to Miss Miller, 18, the other finalists are Dolores Evans, 19, of Tucson, Ariz.; Cheryl Ann Clark, 19, of Los Angeles; Glenda Locust, 18, of Oklahoma City and Lola Reed, 18, of Sacramento, Calif.
