More Banks Join In Hiking Interest Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — An increase in the basic interest rate banks charge their most credit-worthy customers spread today.

The First National City Bank and Chase Manhattan, the city's largest banks, joined the increase in the prime interest rate initiated Wednesday by Chemical Bank New York Trust Co.

Several other New York City banks also raised their rates today.

Late Wednesday, the First National Bank of Chicago and the Union Bank in Los Angeles, which specializes in corporate banking, joined the increase.

The new rate raises the cost of business borrowing to 5 1/2 per cent from 5 1/4 per cent. Most other borrowing charges are scaled higher from this basic rate.

This is the third boost in the prime rate since last December by banks across the country.

The earlier increases of Dec. 6 and March 10, each amounting to one-half per cent, were each followed by boosts in lending rates to consumers.

State usury laws set rigid ceilings on what lenders may charge on consumer loans, and bankers said this would be the limiting factor.

FIRST ONES

Chemical Bank New York was the first to announce the prime interest rate hike. Almost immediately, the First National Bank of Chicago announced a similar increase, and so did the Union Bank in Los Angeles, which specializes in corporate banking.

The prime interest rate is that charged by banks on short-term loans to large depositors with the highest credit rating. Other interest rates are scaled upward from it.

The new rate is the highest since the early 1950s.

Goldberg Denies Rumors Of Feud

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — As he nears the end of his first year as U.S. chief delegate to the United Nations, Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg says he is ready to remain in the post "as long as the President wants me to stay."

In a half-hour interview, he brushed aside reports that he is unhappy in his job and that he is feuding with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He expressed hope that after 11 months in office he is doing a useful job.

HINTS

He hinted that he sometimes disagrees with Rusk, but denied that he wants Rusk's job or any other. He declined comment on the U.S. bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong oil facilities.

A U.S. delegation spokesman told correspondents published reports "of Mr. Goldberg's happiness or unhappiness I would characterize as hogwash." The reports said Goldberg is unhappy because Rusk is against scaling down the Vietnamese war and is keeping U.N. Secretary-General U Thant from President Johnson.

Goldberg himself did not reply directly when asked if he regretted he had left the Supreme Court to come here, saying: "Once I make a decision, I make a decision. It's kind of futile to look back. You have to look forward in life.

"I'm a grown man, I've made a decision and I'm busy engaged in what I'm doing now."

He said he still feels as he did last July 26, when he accepted the U.N. post and told White House reporters his Supreme Court service would always be "the most enjoyable experience" of his life.

DUTY

"I took this job not to enjoy myself," he went on. "I took this because I thought it was a duty assignment for our country. I still think it is. I haven't changed my mind. Anything insinuating to the contrary is not well founded."

As to the reports he was displeased with Rusk, Goldberg declared: "I have no feud with the secretary of state. I express myself. He expresses himself. That's normal in the government. But we are very good friends. We have the most amicable and congenial relations."

"I also have no desire or ambition to become secretary of state or hold any other office other than the one I now hold."

"I entered upon it to help the country. Whether I am succeeding in helping the country is not for me but for others to judge. I hope I am."

Congress Takes Holiday, Has Problems Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress will return from its prolonged July 4th holiday with more tough problems ahead of it than behind it.

The House calls it quits after a perfunctory session today. The Senate may hold a brief session Friday.

When the two branches return to work on July 11, their decisions on some knotty issues will be influenced by what the members find out back home during the recess.

The target date for final adjournment — barring unexpected developments — is early October, one month before the general elections in which all 435 House seats and 35 Senate seats will be filled.

Between now and then Congress must decide what to do about the foreign aid program, civil rights, the war on poverty, urban development in a selected group of demonstration cities, automobile safety, minimum wages, unemployment compensation, food for freedom, creation of a department of transportation, pay raises for federal employees and a batch of bills involving more than $100 billion in appropriations.

Ready for House action after the recess are two of the more controversial measures of the year.

One would extend the foreign-aid program for two years with a price tag of about $8.2 billion, subject to appropriations in a later bill.

The other would step up the administration's antipovetry program at a cost of $1.75 billion. Another sizzler being readied for House action is a new civil rights measure with a hotly contested housing provision. It, too, hasn't been considered by the Senate. It has cleared the House Judiciary Committee but needs a go-ahead from the Rules Committee before it reaches the House floor.

Furor Over Bombings Is Echoed In Congress

Fulbright Raps War 'Escalation'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The worldwide dispute over U.S. bombing of oil installations on the outskirts of Hanoi and Haiphong flashed anew on Capitol Hill today with a call from Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., for an explanation why the United States "drastically escalated" the Viet Nam war.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a persistent critic of administration policy in the Orient, addressed his demand to Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, a witness before the committee in what was scheduled as an inquiry into problems of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

DEFENDS LBJ

Ball defended President Johnson's decision on the air strikes as prudent and necessary, and drew backing from Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio.

New voices joined in the Communist chorus of denunciation of the bombing which echoed around the world.

The Vatican joined those who have expressed "regret" and "worries" over the development.

Lausche, who has often defended administration actions in Viet Nam, demanded that Fulbright say what his alternative would be — "What do you propose to do?"

Fulbright said he was only proposing that the undersecretary discuss "the consequences" of the U.S. actions.

"I respectfully say to you that you are proposing nothing," Lausche retorted.

EXPLAINS

Fulbright explained his introduction of the issue by arguing that the war in Southeast Asia has such a worldwide impact it would be "futile" to discuss NATO without considering Viet Nam.

In Japan, Foreign Minister Ekusaburo Shinna termed the action "an inevitable step" but student protest marchers planned demonstrations.

At home, Johnson administration spokesmen emphasized that the United States was "not attempting to escalate the war" with Wednesday's air strikes.

Abroad, the first reaction was mostly critical to the bombings which Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said inflicted heavy damage on the facilities which represented over 60 per cent of North Viet Nam's remaining oil storage capacity. He said one American plane was downed.

PRECAUTION

McNamara told a news conference that every effort was made to prevent harm to civilians and to avoid destruction of nonmilitary facilities.

But a North Vietnamese army communique charged the U.S. planes "indiscriminately bombed and strafed residential and economic areas, causing human and material losses to our people." It made no mention of damage to the vital oil storage complexes.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey countered this claim with a declaration that "no civilian casualties resulted." He told a news conference in Detroit "the bombings were conducted under very careful control and amazing precision."

He said he doubted the bombings would escalate the war and said the decision was to "bomb military targets for military reasons and with military efficiency."

He said American allies, including Britain, were told of the decision in advance of the air strikes.

The vice president said the reaction of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson was not unexpected. Wilson had expressed regret over the bombings and said Britain was unable to support the action.

Wilson's statement drew a sharp retort Wednesday night from Duncan Sandys, a Conservative legislator.

Sandys, a Cabinet minister in the last Tory government and former son-in-law of the late Sir Winston Churchill, said Wilson's criticism was "a stab in the back which will long be resented in the United States."

Initial reaction from the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, India and the United Nations was critical.

DEFENSE DEPT. STUDY

Younger Men Are First For Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long-awaited Defense Department study concluded today that the draft should be redesigned to induct the youngest eligible men first and not men nearest 26 — "those who are the most settled in their careers."

The change would shift the emphasis to the 19-20 age bracket.

Combat commanders prefer the younger age group," the study said, "and about eight of 10 volunteers are in the age group under 20."

The study, presented to the House Armed Services Committee by Asst. Secretary of Defense Thomas D. Morris, made these other principal points:

WILL CONTINUE

—The United States can not look forward to discontinuing the draft in the next decade unless changing world conditions reduce needs substantially below the force levels required since Korea.

—An all-volunteer force cannot be justified because it would cost anywhere between $4 billion and $17 billion to increase military pay enough to attract the volunteers needed even for a pre-Viet Nam force of 2.7 million. More than 3 million are in service now.

"BASICALLY SOUND"

—The present deferment system is "basically sound." Morris, in charge of manpower for the Defense Department, testified as the committee wound up its hearings into the operations of the Selective Service System.

dered by President Johnson two years ago but had not been made public, despite some grumbling from Congress.

Morris told the committee the report indicates that volunteer service should continue to be emphasized and civilians should replace military men wherever possible.

In addition, he said, the nation should "perfect techniques of remedial training and physical rehabilitation so as to make military service available to every man who wishes it and is able to serve."

Two Odessans Die, Four Hurt

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Two persons believed to be from Odessa were killed and four injured critically in a one-automobile accident today five miles west of Abilene.

Details were not immediately available.

Police identified the dead only as Anna McCoy and a "Mrs. Fitch."

Investigators said the auto veered off Interstate 20 into a ditch, traveling 594 feet and soaring 46 feet through the air across a creek before coming to a halt.

Led Hanoi Oil Tank Raid

Lt. Col. James R. Hopkins of the U.S. Air Force checks bombs on his F-105 Thunderchief yesterday before taking off to lead his squadron on the successful raid on an oil tank complex three miles from Hanoi in North Viet Nam. Hopkins, 42, of Norman, Okla., termed the mission a great success. The Air Force, in releasing this picture today in Saigon, did not say where it was made, but the Hanoi radio reported the planes took off from Takhli air base in Thailand. # Revolt In Iraq Claimed On Radio LONDON (AP) — Army officers in Iraq broadcast a proclamation today that they had taken over from President Abdel Rahman Arif and appealed for support from the rest of the military.

Their proclamation was broadcast by several transmitters in Baghdad about 1 p.m., but not by all. Several hours later all transmitters went off the air in Iraq, suggesting the struggle was still under way.

The man who signed the proclamation was named in the broadcasts as Areg Abdul Razzak, a brigadier who tried to stage a coup last September and was exiled to Cairo.

A broadcast from Baghdad heard in Tehran indicated Arif had escaped the stagers of the coup.

A communique carried by the radio called on the president "to get out of hiding" and surrender to officials of the military regime.

Arif became president last April when his brother, Abdel Salam Mohammed Arif, was killed in a helicopter crash.

In its proclamation the council said it has ousted the Arif regime as traitors to socialism.

Argentina Facing Long Regime Under Military

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The Argentines today expected long and possibly lean years of military rule as their new government began trying to get a working arrangement with normally hostile labor unions.

Strongman Juan Carlos Ongania swore himself in as president Wednesday, assuming virtually dictatorial power, after a three-man military junta ousted civilian President Arturo Illia on Tuesday. The military's chief purpose was to prevent the Peronists — followers of ex-Dictator Juan D. Peron — from winning control at the polls of Buenos Aires and other major provinces.

Sources in high places said Ongania plans to hold office for eight to ten years and reshape Argentina's political and economic face with drastic reforms.

had escaped the stagers of the coup.

A communique carried by the radio called on the president "to get out of hiding" and surrender to officials of the military regime.

Afterward, Johnson will wing on to his Texas ranch and is expected to spend next week there.

The White House announced today what had been well known in the Midwest for some time — that Johnson planned to put in appearances in Omaha and Des Moines.

LBJ Flies To Midwest Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is flying to Omaha, Neb., and Des Moines, Iowa, today for a pair of speeches expected to touch on both farm problems and the war in Viet Nam.

Afterward, Johnson will wing on to his Texas ranch and is expected to spend next week there.

The White House announced today what had been well known in the Midwest for some time — that Johnson planned to put in appearances in Omaha and Des Moines.

Hanoi Area Bombed For Second Day

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American bombers attacked Communist fuel depots in the vicinity of Hanoi for the second straight day today, the U. S. command announced.

Both Navy and Air Force planes participated in the raids, which hit fuel dumps around the capital of Communist North Viet Nam.

NEAR HANOI

The closest raid today to Hanoi was seven and a half miles from the capital, a U. S. spokesman said. Wednesday, in their closest penetration to Hanoi, Air Force bombers smashed a big fuel depot only three miles from the heart of the city.

There was no immediate estimate of the damage done by the raiders.

An Air Force spokesman said no Communist MIG jets were sighted and no surface-to-air missiles were fired before the American planes roared away.

The raids continued the American strategy designed to deprive the North Vietnamese army of its vital fuel supplies and thus hamper its movement of men and supplies to the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

Earlier U.S. military officials proclaimed the attacks Wednesday on the fuel depots at Hanoi and Haiphong a spectacular success, and an Air Force general termed them the "most significant, most important strike of the war."

PROOF

"This ought to prove that we can take out any military target we want to, although this is no sign that we will do that," added Maj. Gen. Gilbert L. Meyers, deputy commander of the 7th U.S. Air Force.

Today, the U.S. command announced, Navy planes attacked a key radar site 33 miles north of Hanoi and a fuel dump 25 miles north of the capital in the area of Bac Giang, while Air Force F-105 Thunderchiefs attacked the Nguyen Khe fuel depot seven and a half miles from Hanoi and the Viet Tri fuel dump 28 miles northwest of the Red Capital.

Hard fighting was reported 50 to 60 miles north of Saigon today after an estimated 2,000 of the enemy swooped down on an American armored reconnaissance squadron of about 770 men in tanks and armored personnel carriers on Highway No. 13.

The U.S. 1st Infantry Division rushed up reinforcements by helicopter and truck, and low-flying American planes hit the enemy with bombs, rockets and machine-gun fire.

ESTIMATES

Spotter pilots estimated that between 200 and 400 of the enemy possibly were killed by the air attacks. The enemy units threw up anti-aircraft fire which one Air Force officer said was the heaviest he had encountered over South Viet Nam. This was believed to indicate that the enemy force was made up largely of well-armed North Vietnamese.

In the northern part of the country, 15 miles north of Hue, units of the South Vietnamese army backed by U.S. Marines claimed 202 Viet Cong in fighting off an enemy attack Wednesday.

Air Force B52 bombers struck two targets in South Viet Nam this morning, a troop concentration 28 miles southwest of the coastal city of Quang Ngai and a base camp 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

The U.S. command reported that U.S. casualties increased sharply last week, reflecting the heightened tempo of the ground war. South Vietnamese and Communist battle dead also were higher than the week before.

The U.S. military command reported 131 Americans killed by enemy fire and 755 wounded, compared with 79 killed and 567 wounded during the week that ended June 18.

This brought the total of U.S. servicemen reported killed in battle in Viet Nam to 2,106 since last Jan. 1 and 4,014 since Jan. 1, 1961.

Florida In Wind's Grip

MIAMI (AP) — A tropical depression drenched South Florida today and the Weather Bureau warned of possible twisters and damaging winds over Central Florida.

At 11 a.m. (EST) the center was near latitude 26.5 north and longitude 86.5 west or about 45 miles due west of Florida.

Winds ranging up to 40 miles per hour in squalls were mainly east of the center, spreading heavy rain over much of Florida.

"The heavy rains and squalls over central Florida may spawn one or two twisters and be attended by damaging winds in very small areas this afternoon," said forecaster Arnold Sugg.

A large portion of the depression was over land and conditions were not favorable for intensification, into a tropical storm, Sugg added.

The depression was expected to continue a northerly course at about 10 m.p.h.

Small craft warnings are extended to Apalachicola on the Florida Gulf coast and to Savannah, Ga., on the east coast for strong winds in local squalls.

Detour: Interstate Ends Ahead

The 41,000-mile Interstate system of superhighways, cloverleaves and bridges appears as a patchwork of completed and under construction roads — easy traveling and detours. Over half of the system, 21,500 miles, is open to traffic, and mil-

Interstate System Half Complete With 21,500 Miles Of Roads Open

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you are one of the 100 million American vacationists who will heed the call of the open road this summer, give a thought to one of mankind's greatest peace-time programs of public works. This is the "National System of Interstate and Defense Highways." It is planned to build 41,000 miles of these deluxe roads, and as of now 21,500 miles are open to traffic. It is possible now to travel as much as 1,328 1/2 miles without hitting a traffic light. The only obstructions on such a journey are toll booths. You may drive along faster than on the old roads; skirting big cities or zipping through them. You will be exposed to much scenic splendor. Generally speaking, not too many billboards will get between you and the wonders of nature—though there are large exceptions to this. And traffic experts say that if you don't punish that accelerator too mercilessly you will be three times safer on the new highways than the old-fashioned ones. The roads are "limited access," meaning that cross traffic is carried over and under with gently blending movement at the entrances and exits. Curves are generally long and easy, and in many places traffic going in the opposite direction is widely separated by the terrain, even out of sight. Engineers try to combat "highway hypnosis," the menace posed by long, monotonous stretches. Asked how long a person can travel without encountering a traffic light, the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads figured it out at 1,328 1/2 miles—from West Camp- ton in New Hampshire's White Mountains to Tomah, Wis. There probably are not many people in West Camp- ton, Pop. 5,321, or vice versa. This just happens to be the longest journey sans lights at the present incomplete stage of road construction. On this trip, you will travel some roads which are not officially part of the Interstate system—for example you would take a 37-mile stretch of the Garden State Parkway in New Jersey. The longest stretch without a light on the Interstate, at present, is the 953 miles from Philadelphia to Tomah.

Community Council of Guadalupe County, Inc., will receive $13,977 for conduct and administration of its program. Economic Opportunities Development Corp. of San Antonio will receive $319,008 for a program to alleviate the causes of poverty among habitues and narcotic addicts.

PORT NECHES, Tex. (AP) — Jefferson Chemical Co. Inc. has announced a plant costing several million dollars will go into construction here immediately. Donald L. # Bobby Calls For Further Negotiations With Viet

EDITOR'S NOTE - In the exclusive interview, New York's Democratic Sen. Robert F. Kennedy... views on the situation in Viet Nam... the possibility for high-level U.S.-Viet talks... a major political mistake in Europe.

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said today the fair election of a civilian government offers the best hope of gaining world support for American actions in Viet Nam.

Kennedy, New York Democrat who has contended the Johnson administration has not gone far enough in trying to get peace talks under way, said the escalated bombing of North Viet Nam targets is going to make more difficult any attempts to negotiate an end to the fighting.

DIMS TALKS
Wednesday's bombing of oil storage facilities in the Hanoi and Halphong areas also dims the possibility for major talks he had said the United States ought to have with Red China, Kennedy added. He said any Southeast Asia settlement would involve China.

In a wide-ranging interview with The Associated Press, Kennedy, who is a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in the future, said:

The International Control Commission made up of Canada, India and Poland should be asked to supervise the preparations and actual voting in the projected September South Viet Nam elections.

President Johnson should send more "high-level people" to Africa and boost U.S. economic aid to a continent that now gets an annual amount equal to the cost of five days of fighting in Viet Nam.

It would be "a major political mistake" to reduce the U.S. troop commitment in Europe at this point but he favors exploring the possibility with the Soviet Union of reciprocal withdrawals.

QUESTIONS
Here are some of the questions and answers:

Q. Do you believe that the elections in South Viet Nam will produce in time a viable civilian government?

A. I think that it is difficult to accomplish but I am in favor of taking that step. I think that the United States should actively encourage elections and that we should provide for the supervision of the elections by either the United Nations or by the ICC, asking them to increase their numbers to supervise the elections.

I think the ICC has jurisdiction there already and that is why I suggest them as an alternative to the United Nations. Although I think it might be difficult from a practical point of view I would rather see the United Nations do it. If that is impossible to accomplish, I think the least we should do is to ask the ICC to come in.

Q. Suppose there is no supervision of the election by an international body? Does that mean the results cannot be accepted?

STRONGER
A. No, but I think our position is much, much stronger if we made that request and made that effort. I think international observers should be in there during the period prior to the elections to insure that there is no intimidation so that the people in Viet Nam and around the world would have some confidence in the election. I think it is very important that we make it clear that when we talk about what we want to accomplish in Viet Nam - being the self-determination of the people - that that is understood not only in Viet Nam but that people in the other parts of the globe understand that is our objective and that we are willing to put it to the test.

Q. In your judgment will the escalation of bombing of North Viet Nam foreclose a possibility of the major talks you have said we ought to have with Communist China?

A. Well, I think that result is going to be difficult to accomplish at best, but I think there is no question that it is going to be at least for the immediate future much more difficult.

Q. How would you suggest that we go about trying to arrange these talks?

A. Well, of course we are having the talks in Warsaw that go on continuously. I have suggested that they be invited to Geneva disarmament talks and I have said that we should be prepared to meet with them and talk with them at any level that is possible.

CHINA INVOLVED
Q. What about a Southeast Asia settlement?

A. That will involve China. I have suggested in the past that we be prepared to talk to the Viet Cong and the National Liberation Front. I expect that the step (Wednesday's bombing of oil facilities) is being taken in order to put greater pressure on them and on Hanoi. My feeling is that it is an escalation that is not going to bring about that result. It is a hardening of an attitude.

Q. Should we reduce our troop commitment to Western Europe?

A. No, I think it would be a major political mistake at the present time. But I would explore with the Soviet Union and with the Warsaw Pact members the possibility of their withdrawing troops and our taking simultaneous action.

Let me say that I think that that should be explored more actively. My judgment at the present time is that it has not been.

A. No, I think it would be a major political mistake at the present time. But I would explore with the Soviet Union and with the Warsaw Pact members the possibility of their withdrawing troops and our taking simultaneous action.

Knight Ordered To Hospital

TAHOKA, Tex. (AP) - A district court ordered Gerald David Knight, 33, committed to the state mental hospital at Rusk after he was found insane Wednesday.

Knight was charged with kidnapping a 12-year-old Dallas girl in May, 1965, and leaving her for dead in a pasture near Anson in West Texas. Police said the girl was beaten and raped.

When Knight was arrested he was free on parole after receiving a 10-year prison sentence for rape, officers said.

The trial was transferred to Tahoka from Jones County after defense attorneys asked for a change of venue, claiming Knight could not get a fair trial because of "excess publicity."

Prowlers Reported

Residents reported several prowlers to police late Wednesday and early Thursday, but officers said no trace of the alleged prowlers could be found.

One woman told police about 2:30 a.m. Thursday that she took a shot at a prowler through the front screen door of her home. Officers found no sign that anyone had been struck by the bullet.

Thompson Is Buried Among Noted Texans

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas' great pioneer petroleum conservationist, Ernest O. Thompson, was buried Wednesday on a gentle slope in the state cemetery—the final resting place of many of the state's leaders and Confederate dead.

Three decades ago, Thompson clamped down on those who would have bled Texas soil of its oil at an unregulated rate. He died in Amarillo Tuesday, 18 months after closing out a 32-year career on the Texas Railroad Commission. He was 74.

Approximately 150 friends and state officials crowded under the liveoak trees at the Rev. Charles A. Summers of St. David's Episcopal Church filled his five-minute service almost entirely with quotations from the Bible.

Thompson was buried beside his first wife, May Peterson Thompson, an opera singer who died in 1952. His widow, the former Mrs. Myda Truscott Bivins of Amarillo, and his sister, Mrs. Harold Hastings of Tulsa, Okla., attended the service.

Burleson Hails Oil Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) - An Interior Department decision to slow oil and gas leasing on the Continental Shelf off Louisiana was hailed Wednesday by Rep. Omar Burleson, D-Tex.

The oil industry in Texas and in other states, Burleson said, have been adversely affected by the off-shore petroleum explorations.

Burleson said Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall has informed him that after careful consideration of the over-all situation the department has postponed plans for a major lease sale in the Louisiana off-shore areas originally planned for this year.

Mother Of Four Dies In Flames

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) - A young mother of four died in a hospital Wednesday night after she apparently saturated her body with gasoline and set it afire, authorities said.

Mrs. Carol Fisher, 27, of near-by Tyler Mountain, died in a South Charleston hospital 18 hours after a neighbor went to her aid in the back yard of the Fisher home. No reason was given by officials for the apparent self-immolation.

State Lists Tax Outlook For Colleges

AUSTIN (AP) - The State Comptroller's Office released estimates Wednesday on how much money Texas' 17 four-year public colleges outside the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems will receive under the 10-cent ad valorem tax approved by voters last year.

The estimates represent 85 per cent of each school's share. The remaining 15 per cent will be distributed in 1972. The schools will be able to sell bonds based on the estimates. The estimates, for 1967 and for the first 10 years of the tax are:

Arlington $488,471 and $12,867,090; Texas Tech $485,406

and $13,049,700; North Texas $407,280; and $10,728,401; Lamar State $305,715 and $8,063,015; Texas A&I $218,184 and $3,376,573; Texas Woman's University $91,789 and $2,417,866; Texas Southern $112,790 and $2,971,053; Midwestern $101,997 and $2,669,045.

Also, University of Houston $565,860 and $15,695,910; Pan American College $95,779 and $2,522,962; East Texas $146,626 and $3,862,351; Sam Houston State $162,722 and $4,296,365; Southwest Texas State $153,800 and $4,104,008; West Texas $125,422 and $3,303,808.

Also, Stephen F. Austin $163,502 and $4,359,573; Sul Ross $35,978 and $947,728; and Angelo State $77,341 and $2,037,273.

Suspect Arrested

Wayne Parrish, 30, wanted here on a charge of writing a worthless check, was arrested in Post on Wednesday on a local warrant. Sheriff A. N. Standard said that the man has been returned here, bond set and that he is being held pending posting of bail.

To Study Phase Of State Water Plan

PARIS, Tex. (AP)—Effects of the proposed Texas Water Plan on the Red River will be discussed here Friday by members of the Texas Water Development Board.

Lake development proposed in the plan for the Cypress Creek basin was well received at Mount Pleasant Wednesday, although some protests were made.

More than 200 persons attended the hearing conducted by the board concerning proposals to build three new reservoirs and enlarge another in the East Texas basin.

Franklin Jones Sr. of Marshall, president of the Cypress Valley Navigation District, was critical of the estimated population increases.

Jones protested the actual growth rate was greater than what was projected in the Texas Water Plan as it applied to the Cypress Creek basin.

In the future, this would mean too much water would be moved out of this basin to other parts of the state, he said.

B. A. Clements Jr., Longview rancher, told the hearing that he was opposed to the Texas Water Plan because it would irrigate new acreage in South Texas and allow the people in big cities to drink water at the sacrifice of Northeast Texas farms.

J. M. Slater, an attorney representing two major oil companies and 388 landowners in Franklin County, was critical of the first proposed lake to be built in Cypress Creek in the county.

This could be incorporated into a proposed Titus County lake at a saving of $5 million, he said. The four reservoir projects in the Cypress basin would cost an estimated $48.5 million.

The water plan suggests surplus water from Northeast Texas could be diverted by means of canals and reservoirs to more arid regions of the state, principally South Texas.

Moon Photog Is Still 'Asleep'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Scientists failed a second time Wednesday night to awaken America's lunar photographer, Surveyor 1, after the frigid, two-week lunar night.

A Jet Propulsion Laboratory spokesman said another attempt would be made tonight to reactivate the picture-taking craft.

If those efforts fail, the spokesman said, JPL will discontinue efforts until July 9 - two days after the lunar noon - when the sun will focus directly on Surveyor's solar panels.

The spokesman said, however, that nightly signals would be sent to Surveyor from the Goldstone, Calif., transmitter.

Tanker To Be Scuttled

NEW YORK (AP) - The ruined hulk of the tanker Alva Cape - twice raked by explosion and fire within two weeks - will be towed more than 100 miles from New York Harbor and scuttled.

Federal authorities ordered the unusual move Wednesday after it was decided that the ship is a serious menace to navigation in its present position. Its hold still contains some volatile naphtha.

But the ship's owners said Wednesday night they were having difficulty finding tugs to take the job. One towing company reportedly withdrew when it failed to get assurance that the U. S. Navy would sink the hulk.

The British tanker now lies at anchor in Gravesend Bay, off Brooklyn, where explosions and fire claimed four men Tuesday while crews were pumping out the remains of the dangerous naphtha.

The Alva Cape, collided with an American tanker, the Texaco Massachusetts, in the Kill Van Kull between New Jersey and Staten Island on June 18. In the ensuing explosion and fire 33 men lost their lives.

Man Dies Of Mishap Injury

LAMESA (SC) — Spencer Reese Barron, 63, died at 3 p.m. Wednesday from injuries sustained in a tractor mishap about 1:30 p.m. on his farm south of Lamesa.

Services will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. at the Downtown Church of Christ, with Wesley Micky, minister, officiating, assisted by Cecil Vest, formerly of Lamesa. Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park, under the direction of the Branon-Phillips Funeral Home.

He was born Aug. 18, 1902, in Grimes County and had lived in Dawson County 61 years. Mr. Barron was engaged in farming and had business interests in Lamesa.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Bill Reid, Lamesa, and Mrs. Jimmy Dutton, Abilene; three sons, Carroll Barron and Jimmy Don Barron, both of Lamesa, and Burl Barron, Seminole; one sister, Mrs. Walter Lawrence, Hobbs, N. M.; three brothers, John N. Barron and E. E. Barron, both of Lamesa, and Lee Barron, Hot Springs, Ark.; also 10 grandchildren.

New Firemen Employed

Two new firemen were recently employed, and another has turned in his resignation, A. D. Meador, fire marshal, said today.

Meador said 11 firemen have resigned so far this year, and all of them have been replaced.

Hired June 21 was 22-year-old Freddy A. Altom, 1707 S. Monticello. Altom is married and has four children. Robert Eugene Jones, 27, 1207 Marjio, was hired June 25. Jones and his wife have three boys.

Curtis Winn, who has been with the department since March 21, announced he will quit in two weeks to take a job in California.

Hearings On Reservoirs For Neches River Slated

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Development Board's proposal to develop the Neches River Basin of East Texas includes two new reservoirs, one at Rockland and the other at Ponta, costing an estimated $136.3 million.

The board's plan, part of the $1.7 billion statewide water program, also proposes enlarging Lake Palestine at a cost of $12.3 million, to be shared by the board and the Upper Neches Municipal Water Authority.

HEARINGS

Hearings on the Neches and Neches-Trinity Coastal Basin will be held July 6 in Nacogdoches and July 8 in Beaumont.

The proposed Rockland Reservoir, on the Neches River three miles west of Rockland in Jasper County, would have a conservation capacity of 1.7 million acre-feet, surface area of 88,700 acres and cost an estimated $84.5 million.

The Ponta Reservoir, on the Angelina River 11 miles east of Rock in Cherokee County, would have a conservation capacity of 180,000 acre-feet, surface area of 36,800 acres and cost an estimated $51.8 million.

An acre-foot is 225,551 gallons.

BARRIER

The board said salt water barrier above Beaumont is "one of the most important requirements" in developing the Neches Basin.

"Sea water intrudes up the (Neches) river during low-flow periods, and river flow required to keep the salt water away from the fresh-water intakes of the Lower Neches Valley Authority is about twice the average rate of use for the entire Beaumont-Port Arthur area," the report says. "A salt water barrier, with appropriate consideration for future extensions of navigation, will be needed in the reach of the stream above the head of deep-water navigation."

Lunar Explorer Lofting Delayed

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Heavy rains from a tropical disturbance today forced the space agency to postpone an attempt to launch a Lunar Explorer satellite toward an orbit about the moon to investigate radiation and other potential dangers to astronauts. The launching tentatively was rescheduled for 12:02 p.m. (EDT) Friday.

Wind-driven rains from a tropical disturbance centered in the Gulf of Mexico on Cape Kennedy throughout the night.

The weather was acceptable off and on during the morning, but the range safety officer declared it "no go" just three minutes before the intended 11:06 a.m. liftoff.

WTCC Leaders Hold Confab On National Issues

CLEBURNE — West Texas Chamber of Commerce leaders met informally Wednesday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Kimbro, near Rio Vista, to discuss national issues vital to the further development of West Texas. They emphasized the necessity of all West Texans becoming better informed on national affairs and more active in the political party of their choice.

It was recommended that the WTCC survey the rapidly rising costs of political campaigns in Texas and determine what can be done about it.

The idea and planning session is the eighth in a series of nine meetings called by John Ben Sheppard, WTCC president. The ninth and final session was to be held today at Hunt, Tex.

Oswald Gun Title Argued

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Three-judge federal panel is considering arguments by the federal government and a Colorado gun collector that each has a right to Lee Harvey Oswald's guns.

The panel of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals heard contentions Wednesday over possession of the guns identified as those used to kill President John F. Kennedy and of-ficer J. D. Tippitt of Dallas, Tex.

SPEED ASKED

The government has asked for a speedy ruling to settle the case before November, when a law goes into effect that would allow anyone who claims ownership of evidence seized after the assassination to sue the government for just compensation.

Assistant U.S. Attorney B. H. Timmons of Dallas told the court that the government should be allowed to keep the weapons without paying the collector.

He argued that the guns were forfeited to the government when Oswald bought them under an assumed name and caused the gun dealer's records to contain false entries in violation of the Federal Firearms Act.

PAID WIDOW

Attorney William C. Garrett of Dallas argued that his client, John J. King, has paid Oswald's widow $10,000 for the pistol and rifle. He said the gun fancier could sue in November, but that then the value of the guns would be questionable to the government because Congress has condemned them.

Timmons argued that when King bought the guns he knew he was not getting the property and that the guns were being held by the government.

"In our view, Mr. King is nothing more than a trespasser or a meddler in these circumstances. We feel he just paid $10,000 in cash for the right to litigate," Timmons said.

QUESTION

Garrett argued that King is being punished for Oswald's use of an assumed name. He questioned whether Oswald was actually guilty of a crime, since the broken law involved the gun dealer's records — not the alias.

Presiding Judge Elbert P. Tuttle indicated the case may be settled on this point, and asked if Oswald could have been charged with aiding and abetting a crime by causing a false name to be entered.

Archbishop Backs Strike

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Roman Catholic Archbishop Robert E. Lucey of San Antonio has placed the prestige of his office in direct support of a month-old strike by Lower Rio Grande Valley farm workers.

At the close of ceremonies Wednesday to install the most Rev. Humberto Medeiros of Fall River, Mass., as bishop of the Brownsville Diocese, Archbishop Lucey charged South Texas farmers with paying "starvation wages" to farm workers.

"It is the clear and constant teaching of the church that labor must be organized and strikes are sometimes necessary," he said. "This teaching is dangerous heresy to businessmen who are blind to the necessity of labor organization."

Bishop Medeiros, a 50-year-old immigrant from the Azores, was installed in the 110-year-old Immaculate Conception Cathedral. He was called to Brownsville after the death last fall of Bishop Adolph Marx.

Local Option Ruling Issued

AUSTIN (AP) — Local option liquor elections in cities and justice precincts of dry counties are void if held before 1935, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr held Wednesday.

His opinion went to Cooke County Atty. William B. Sullivant at Gainesville.

Sullivant asked whether local option elections authorizing the sale of beer with a 3.2 per cent alcoholic content that were held in 1934 in Justice Precinct 4, 5 and 8 in 1935 in Precinct 1 were valid.

Cooke County went dry in 1919. There have been no further local option elections bearing on the question since 1939, Sullivant said.

The opinion said that State Supreme Court decisions have held that any local option election held prior to adoption of a 1935 constitutional amendment on the subject were void.

Therefore, the opinion continued, Precincts 1, 4, 5 and 8 are "dry" for the sale of beer.

Prison Murder Charge Filed

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Prison authorities have filed a murder charge against Charles Earl Pilot, 47, for the fatal knife of another inmate.

John N. Calhoun, 51, of Palestine, Tex., died early Wednesday in the prison hospital, about 12 hours after the stabbing. He was serving an eight-year term for assault to murder in Anderson County.

Warden H. L. Sublett of the Wynne prison farm, about two miles north of Huntsville, said Pilot was serving a life term for rape from Shelby County.

Sublett said the stabbing followed an argument about 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Wynne unit kitchen. He said Calhoun was stabbed three times in the abdomen with a butcher knife.

Officials filed the charge against Pilot in Justice of the Peace Mabel Franklow's court.

Huff Elected By Motel Association

AUSTIN (AP) — Chester H. Huff of Hebronville was elected president Wednesday of the Texas Motel Association at the association's annual convention.

The TMA convention is being held jointly with the Texas Restaurant Convention.

Huff in addition to his motel, has cattle, oil and farmin interests in Hebronville.

Engineers Seek Drownings Curb

FORT WORTH (AP) — The U.S. Engineers, alarmed at the increased number of drownings, plan a stepped-up safety education program.

Col. Jack Fickessen, district engineer who operates 15 major reservoirs in Central and Southeast Texas, reports more than 275 people have lost their lives at these reservoirs since 1951. He said only three of the drowning victims wore life jackets.

New Commercials Crop Blooms For Re-Run Time

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This may be rerun time for the entertainment programs, but it is debut time for a clutch of new commercials.

There is always a seasonal change of commercials. They tend to get outdoorsy when the weather warms up. There are more scenes designed to suggest cool refreshment—tinkling ice-frosted glasses, beach scenes, top-down convertibles.

It is a little early to spot a trend, but there are indications that the fantasy-fad has about run its course.

STILL AROUND

Still with us, "how in fresh settings, are the frugging teen parties, the social-success stories before and after changing mouth washes, tooth paste, hair color, coffee brands.

And, praise be, after all these months, some of comedy-style commercials are coming in with some new jokes.

A fine old show business tradition has been reversed in television. Gaye Huston, an actress since she was eight, has a leading role in NBC's soap opera, "Another World." This week her mother, Marcella Martin, made her acting debut in the same show.

BRAT ROLE

Gaye, now 20, had her first part playing a bratty kid in a Sid Caesar-Imogene Coca sketch in "Your Show of Shows." For the past 18 months she has played Lee Randolph, a teenage problem child in the serial.

Her mother, who always encouraged Gaye's acting ambitions, has been a model and done some TV commercials. She auditioned and won the part of a new character named Flo, described as "a floozy type," who is a hat-check girl and cashier in a second-rate nightclub.

William Dozier, producer of "Batman" and the forthcoming "Green Hornet" for ABC, now has his hands on another comic strip character, Dick Tracy, and is talking to NBC about an early-evening weekly show based on the super detective.

Carr Cites State Responsibilities

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr told the State Bar Association today the federal government is strong, but the fault is not always Washington's.

"At times states have either failed to act or state programs have been insufficient, both in terms of manpower and money and our people have turned to Washington, D.C., for help," Carr said.

He spoke at the association's annual convention.

CONVENTION
 Carr, attorney general for 3 1/2 years and the Democratic nominee next November for Republican John Tower's U.S. Senate seat, said state government today does not totally oppose federal programs.

"Our state government is today earnestly seeking what President Johnson has called 'creative federalism.' This term was recently defined by Gov. (John) Connally as 'a partnership of mutual trust and respect... a union of participants... each bringing his talents and resources to bear in an imaginative, productive role,'" Carr said.

To begin "creative federalism," Carr said: "The states must accept their duty to plan for the growing requirements of our population and be willing to take on even greater political and administrative responsibilities."

JOINT PROGRAM
 "The states must be an organizer and expeditor of joint programs, not a mere rubber stamp and surely not a bottleneck... nor should the doctrine and the realization of a true partnership with Washington discourage state officials and legislators from pursuing worthwhile programs and solutions at the state level.

"Local government, meaning the county and municipal authorities, and ultimately, the whole community, need to keep in mind that 'creative federalism' with its helpful concern for local problems does not outlaw or replace the old remedy of self-help.

"On the federal level programs must be more flexible to meet the needs of the individual states. There must be greater coordination to avoid duplicatory programs and to make more effective use of our resources."

LAUDS MARTIN
 Carr departed from his main theme of state-federal cooperation to pat on the back Crawford Martin, "the next attorney general of Texas." Martin, the Democratic nominee, faces Republican Robb Stewart of Richardson in the November general election.

"When I turn the office over to him (Martin)," Carr said, "I shall do so with great confidence, for he is an outstanding attorney and a man with a grasp and knowledge of state government shared by few others."

Eisenhowers Reflect On Golden Years

Former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, while posing for their golden wedding anniversary portrait at their Gettysburg home, look back on 50 years of married life and decide that the last years have been the happiest. Ike, at 75, and Mamie, now 69, are the first presidential couple to celebrate 50 years of marriage since John Quincy Adams and his wife, Louisa, did in 1847. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Ike, Mamie Eisenhower Near Golden Wedding Day

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Ike and Mamie Eisenhower, looking back over 50 years of married life, have decided "these last years" are the happiest.

For former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, it's because he has more time for such things as exploring supermarkets or painting "anything that intrigues me."

HOME
For his wife, the former Mamie Geneva Doud, it's because she has a home of her own for the first time since she married a young Army lieutenant in the parlor of her mother's red brick house in Denver July 1, 1916.

In a rare joint interview, the famous couple reviewed their lives together — the moments of great tragedy, like "the death of our first son," the exciting moments "when we saw our first grandchild," and the great moment "when I was inaugurated as president."

Eisenhower said he didn't want anyone to think he was "a downtrodden slave" in the White House. He considered the eight years — the longest they ever lived in one place — "a very thrilling, very exciting, very humbling experience."

He called the White House "a sort of hotel," roomy and nice but a place the New York tax department didn't even consider his official residence. While there, he said, he had to pay New York taxes on his presidential salary until he finally took up residence in Gettysburg in 1955.

GAIETY
At the interview they had gaiety about them — Ike at 75 and Mamie at 69. They looked younger than their years. As grandparents, they expressed optimism about the youth of America.

Eisenhower said he believed the good, finely educated, understanding youngsters would "take over from the cockeyed kooks," whose exhibitionist antics "make us look terrible."

Sitting in leather arm chairs in his office on the campus of Gettysburg College, the Eisenhowers took note of the milestone in their lives with recollections ranging from Bible reading and Victorian morals to sobering thoughts of their recent illnesses.

"Gen. Eisenhower," as he now is referred to, did most of the talking as he presided jovially in a gray business suit. But Mamie often chimed in. She wore her famous bangs with a bright orange headband matching her orange summer dress.

ADVICE
They had a bit of advice amid the nostalgia.

Discussing moral standards, Ike pointed to the lesson of the affluent Roman civilization which he said had disappeared "when licentiousness became habit."

Asked whether he thought Victorian morals should be revived; the former president said, "I don't think the Victorian was really an ideal age." He said he liked the present "more independent style of thinking" because "we are more frank."

take off and go to Argentina, but now it's matter of fact. I think differences of opinion disappear very quickly."

WALKS OUT
But, Mamie commented, Ike "doesn't argue, he just walks out."

At the home of their son, John, in Phoenixville, Pa., members of the family — as many as can make it — will gather Friday to celebrate the golden anniversary.

The milestone also will be noted throughout the world. Many governors have proclaimed "Eisenhower Golden Wedding Day."

MONUMENT
There is a nationwide drive to mark the Eisenhowers' golden anniversary with donations toward a "living monument" — Eisenhower College. It is a new coed, liberal arts college at Seneca Falls, N.Y., with the first class of 300 freshmen to start in the fall of 1967. One of 54 schools named for Eisenhower, it will provide accelerated college degrees in three instead of four years.

TRAGEDY
The general cited the "great tragedy" when his first son, Doud Dwight Eisenhower, died of scarlet fever when just a little more than 3 years old. Eisenhower recently went to Denver where the child's body was exhumed and reburied in Meditation Chapel on Eisenhower Center grounds at Abilene, Kan., Ike's birthplace and site of his presidential library and museum.

One of the saddest things he said he ever had to do was send troops to Little Rock, Ark., in 1957 "to see that the governor did not violate orders of the federal government."

"One of the toughest moments," he said, "was that of urging and arguing that France and Britain and Israel should not attack Egypt." It was very hard "because Britain and France were historically "our two best friends."

For Mamie, the "most difficult moment in the White House" was the night Eisenhower suffered a stroke in November, 1957, and she carried on a scheduled state dinner for the king of Morocco and 80 guests.

"I didn't know whether he was dead or alive," she said of her husband.

Mamie's recital of her ordeal led Eisenhower to tell of his experiences in suffering the stroke, which he called "a confusion of the mind. I just couldn't pick up a pen. I messed some papers off the desk. I went down to pick them up. I didn't know where to put them." Later, Eisenhower said, "I couldn't use my tongue. You know that it was a terrible blow to me."

He explained: "I knew exactly what I wanted to say, but there was no way possible for me to select out of my mental dictionary the word I wanted."

L. T. King To Lead Lions

Lula T. King, treasurer of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, was installed Tuesday as president of the Big Spring Downtown Lions Club.

Ceremonies presided over by Cecil Bridges, Stanton, past district governor, set the stage for the beginning of the 38th year for the club.

Others installed were Jimmy Ray Smith, first vice president; Clyde McMahon Jr., second vice president; Wayne Clark, third vice president; Morris Rhodes, secretary-treasurer; Winston Wrinkle, Liontamer; R. H. Snyder, George Archer and Jim Parks, taitwisters; F. D. Williams, Dr. W. A. Hunt, Charles Havens and James Lemons, directors.

The officers take over Friday. Frosty Robinson becomes a member of the board as immediate past president.

Bridges, who was introduced by Louis Carothers, another past district governor, reminded the new officials that "your members will follow in your footsteps a lot better than they will take your advice."

They become, he said, part of a young army of new leadership in Lions International. Counting committeemen, he estimated that more than half a million new leaders would give fresh impetus to the more than 20,000 Lions Clubs around the globe.

Terry Fee was inducted as a Bobcat; John Tatum received his gold arrow points on his wolf badge; and Phillip Wayne Johnson was presented a two-year service pin.

B. J. Tatum hosted the 38 Cubs and parents present to a paddle boat ride.

The next meeting will be July 29 from 8-10 p.m. at Birdwell Lane Park, with a pack party, watermelon feast and hobstacle races.

Crash Kills Five Texans In Oklahoma

POTEAU, Okla. (AP)—Five members of a Kluge, Tex., family died Wednesday night in a two-car crash near the South-eastern Oklahoma community of Big Cedar.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol identified the victims as Dr. Robert R. Gwartney, 42, a dentist; Mrs. Sue Kyle Gwartney, 39, his wife; and their three children, Melanie, 18, Coleen, 10, and Robert, 12.

Trooper Roy Leming said the collision occurred at the intersection of US 259 and Oklahoma 63. He said the Gwartney car collided with a car driven by Don Ratliff, 32, Purcell, Okla. He was reported in undetermined condition at a Fort Smith, Ark., hospital.

Leming said the Gwartney children were thrown from the car on impact and were killed at the scene, as was their mother. Dr. Gwartney died in a Poteau hospital.

CRMWD Board Meets July 11

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District may give the greenlight to printing of a bond prospectus at a meeting in Big Spring July 11.

Charles Perry, Odessa, CRMWD president, has called a session of the board to discuss progress being made on the reservoir project at Robert Lee, O. H. Ivie, CRMWD general manager, met with S. W. Freese, consulting engineer, Paul Horton, attorney, and Richard Locke, representing the fiscal agents, Eastman, Dillon and Union Securities, last week in Fort Worth. Details of the prospectus for some $30,000,000 in bonds were firm at the session. Ivie said that the final draft of the document should be ready for the board's consideration at the July 11 meeting.

There is still no indication as to when the sale of the big block of revenue bonds will be set, but the date may be near the time for letting of the construction contract. Previously, early September had been pegged as a time for opening these bids.

In recent weeks, Ivie and other staff members have been busy making contacts with owners to secure land in the basin of the projected lake which will impound 488,000 acre-feet at capacity. A third of the land has been bought or put under sales agreement.

At the meeting, Ivie is due to report on negotiations with oil companies to put wells "in the dry" when the new lake is impounded, the relocation of several miles of the Sterling City-Robert Lee highway, and other general operational matters.

Refinery Men Build Aircraft

BEAUMONT (AP)—Four refinery workers with a sense of adventure built themselves an airplane.

Ralph Williams, Al King, Walter Shell and Jay Ewing started with the shell of a 1946 plane. They restyled the airframe, covered it with canvas, and installed a 65-horsepower engine.

A LOVELIER YOU

Pack Picnic Basket With Few Calories

By MARY SUE MILLER

Picnics would be idyllic, if only those unwanted calories stayed home. But they usually tag along. Mounds of sandwiches and potato salad are an engraved invitation to the calorie crowd.

So weight-watchers, beware, but be not dismayed. Low-calorie picnic foods can be just as satisfying and far more interesting. If you happen to think that a low-cal picnic would be like a birthday party without a cake, you'll have to change your mind after mulling over these menus:

Low-Calorie Basket Picnic: Chilled cherry tomatoes and dilled carrot strips; cold broiled chicken halves; deviled eggs, stuffed with chopped chicken liver; cole slaw and apple salad, dressed with dieter's mayonnaise and served on lettuce leaves; choice of cheese with fingers of protein bread.

Low-Calorie Barbecue: Rolled anchovies and chilled radishes; grilled lamb steaks; eggplant cubes and green pepper slices, skewered and grilled; thin-sliced string beans and red onion rings, vinaigrette, on lettuce leaves; melon.

You can concoct dozens of menus along those lines. Present-day wraps and coolers solve any transportation problems. Actually, when you follow this scheme, the only other thing you need for a completely lovely outing is to get the ants to go on a diet.

Parrish Family Has Reunion

COAHOMA (SC) — A family reunion was held last weekend at the home of the Charlie Parrishes. It was the first time in 12 years that the Parrish family had been together at the same time.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Parrish were hosts for the family Sunday dinner.

Others, and their children, attending were Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Parrish, Amarillo; Mrs. Elrie Hazeblow, Milton, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith Jr., Westbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Gene Parrish, Beeville; and Miss Barbara Parrish, Lawndale, Calif.

Out-of-town guests were Judy Chambers and Tony Crawley, both of Westbrook; and Susan Miller, Crane.

New Foreign Aid Chief Works And Plays Hard

WASHINGTON (AP)—William S. Gaud, nominated by President Johnson to head the nation's massive foreign aid program, works 11-hour days and brings home reading at night. He also skips a 32-foot sailboat named Content.

"I spend all the weekends I can on her," Gaud said in an interview.

SHORTER

Gaud's weekends may start getting shorter after July 31, the day he is scheduled to replace David E. Bell as administrator of the Agency for International Development.

President Johnson announced Bell's resignation Tuesday and coupled it with the nomination of Gaud, who has been deputy administrator of AID since 1964.

Bell is to become vice president of the Ford Foundation in charge of international activities. He said he was resigning for personal reasons and not because of any dispute with the administration. "I am bushed and I am broke, but I am not mad at anyone," he told a newsman. He said he was delighted with the appointment of Gaud as his successor.

Gaud, 38, an affable Yale graduate who joined the agency as assistant administrator in 1961, said he plans no policy changes.

"I'll follow the same policies," he said. "We're on the right track."

PHILOSOPHY

The nominee outlined his philosophy about the $2.5 billion foreign aid program this way: "We live in a world that's changing fast; that's going to continue to change. It's to our advantage to do what we can to see that the world moves in the direction we want to see it move and that we end up in a world of freedom and opportunity and independent nations."

"It's a period of rising expectations on the part of developing countries and a period of increased obligations on the part of developed countries. Both for reasons of self-interest and idealism, we should do what we can to help developing nations improve their lot."

Working with underdeveloped countries will be nothing new for Gaud. His first aid job was handling assistance for the Middle East and South Asia.

While in the Army during World War II, he was responsible for military assistance to China, India and Burma. Gaud emerged from the Army in 1945 as a colonel and with the Legion of Merit and the Order of the British Empire.

COUNSEL

He worked briefly for the War Department after his discharge and in 1946 went into private law practice in New York City. A native of New York, Gaud had joined the corporation counsel's office there after graduating from Yale Law School in 1932.

He has been considered a workhorse in the operating end of the AID program since becoming deputy administrator.

Gaud said he would like to see Congress approve long-range programs, instead of providing aid on a year-to-year basis.

"Besides sailing, the slim, brown-haired Gaud enjoys tennis. He and his wife, Eleanor, have one daughter, Anne, who will be a senior next year at Vassar College.

Gaud will earn $30,000 yearly as administrator of AID.

Police Rights Are Defended By FBI Agent

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—J. Gordon Shanklin, agent in charge of the Dallas FBI office, says police have the same rights as other citizens and any accusations against them should be substantiated.

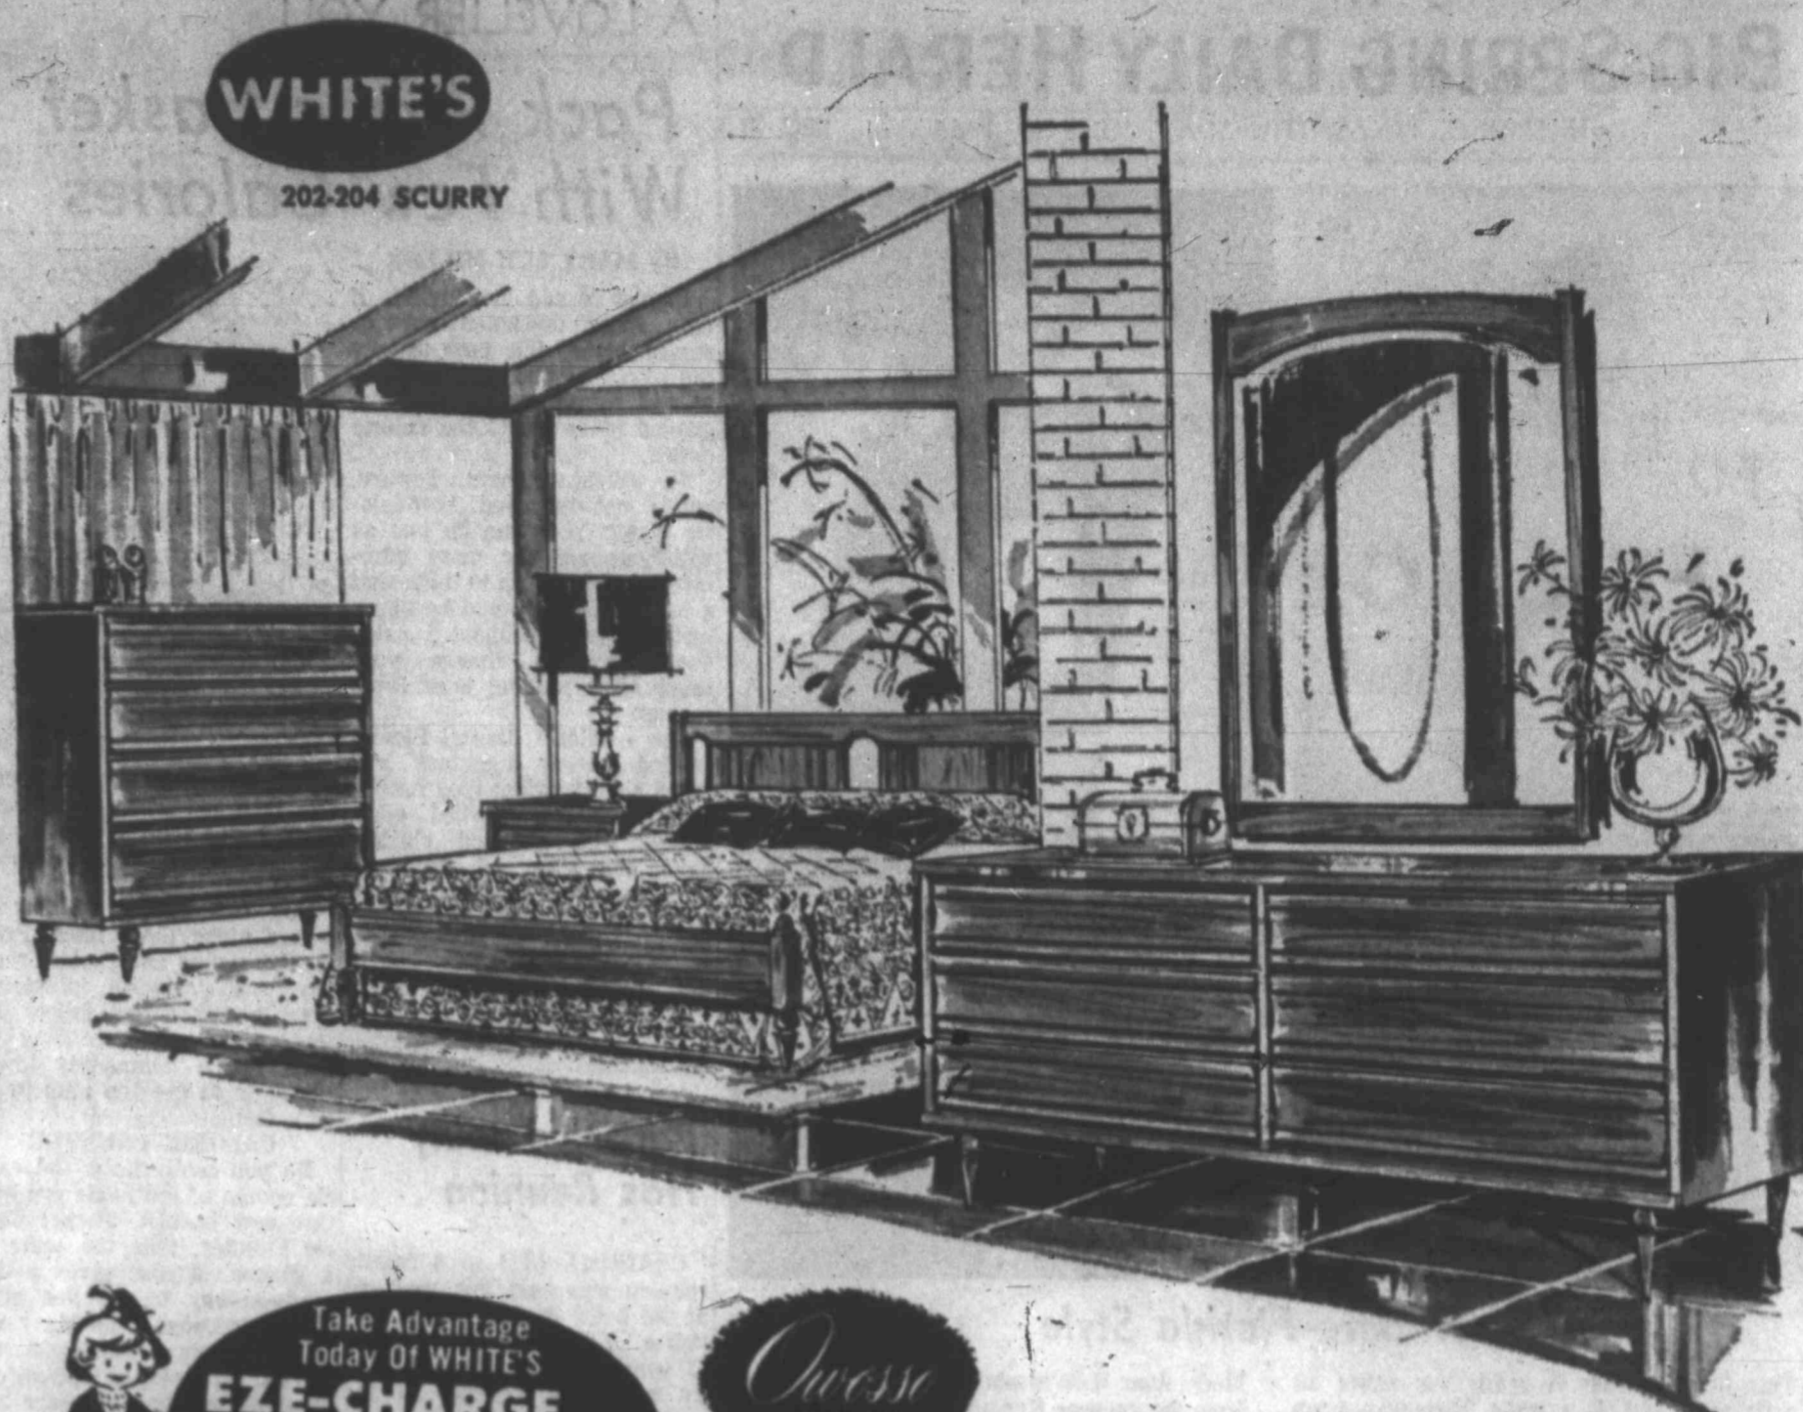

Shanklin criticized exaggerated or false charges against officers in an address here to the annual convention of East Texas Peace Officers' Association.

He also said the public could not choose which law it would or would not obey and if it did not like a law, it should seek to change it through legislative procedures.

Harry Loftis, former Smith County judge and a former district attorney, criticized those who would pamper criminals. The nominating committee offered its slate of new officers to be acted on by the convention.

The nominations include: president, Highway Patrol Captain Glen Warner of Tyler; first vice president, Texas Ranger J. F. Rogers of Houston; second vice president, Sheriff R. C. Powell of Jasper County; legal officer, Dist. Judge Ward Chandler of Carthage; education officer, Constable Smith Parmer of Nacogdoches; parliamentarian, Tyler Police Chief L. B. Odom; and sergeant-at-arms, H. C. Adams chief deputy sheriff, Beaumont.

The Rev. Charles Danheim of Houston, chaplain for the past 12 years, was renominated for the post.

But Who Really Won?

The House judiciary committee Wednesday reached a compromise of sorts on the housing section of the civil rights bill. In effect, this eliminates most of the small private housing from requirements of the bill. Just whom this may be regarded as a victory for is debatable. Opponents may claim that they effected a substantial change, but proponents may argue quite logically that they have enhanced the chances of passage of the bill. Perhaps the bill will get through the House now that it won't require a showdown vote on some of the critical issues. It still has to run the gamut in the Senate where it is due for still rougher sledding. When and if it comes out of committee in the Senate, it may be watered down still more. We hope that other changes will be made to avoid violence to the principle of freedom of choice for private property used for private purposes. Really, the important thing at stake here is a principle, not a degree. To put a property owner on the defensive, with the government arrayed against him, on the complaint of some other individual is fraught with peril. Property owners should not be required to prove innocence in selling to whom they choose. The simplest way to avoid this sort of situation is to strike out these provisions of the bill, not simply to make exceptions.

Leaky Umbrella

As a military alliance, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) is something less than what it says it is. With the exception of Pakistan, it is true, all SEATO's Asian members have made military commitments to the war in Viet Nam. But when you have said that you have not said very much. Actually, the SEATO pact is at least a misnomer. Of its eight members—the United States, Britain, France, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, and the Philippines—only the last two are really Southeast Asian countries. Australia has a task force in Viet Nam of some 4,500 men, with their own base and logistic support units. New Zealand is making a comparable contribution. This kind of demonstration is probably traceable less to SEATO obligations than to enlightened self-interest. France has been an inactive member of SEATO for several years. The French thwarted any SEATO action for the defense of Laos at a meeting in Bangkok in 1961. Laos was removed from the protection of the leaky SEATO umbrella by the 1962 Geneva agreement. Differences over policy among the United States, Britain, and France have kept SEATO from ever being an Asian NATO. As an entity, SEATO has scarcely flexed a muscle in the dozen years of its existence. Now French obstructionism appears threatening to NATO, but at least in the Atlantic Alliance the spirit of cooperation—excluding France—is greater than in SEATO. Cooperation in the Pacific, fortunately, is not limited to SEATO. Earlier this month, at a conference in Seoul, Japan joined with eight other Asian nations to form the Asian and Pacific Council (ASPAC), committed at the moment only to political, economic, and social cooperation. The grouping is not markedly anti-Communist. The door is open to neutrals. Nevertheless, member nations have privately discussed a possible transformation into a defense organization. Aside from Australia and New Zealand—and Japan—other founding ASPAC nations are South Korea, Thailand, the Philippines, Nationalist China, Malaysia, and South Viet Nam. Laos attended the organizational meeting as an observer. Indonesia is considering entrance into ASPAC. Australia and New Zealand, according to T. B. Millar, defense expert with the Australian National University, look to the distant time when "they will need no protecting, because of the stability and friendship of their Asiatic neighborhood." In the meantime, the American umbrella, holes and all, and a good deal of self-help are proving a precarious security in the Pacific.

Demonstrations No Help

WASHINGTON—Dissension among civil-rights leaders has been revealed. This takes on significance because within the groups there has been for some time different schools of thought—those who believe progress for Negroes in America will be made by more and more demonstrations, and those who feel that public opinion will become unfriendly if there is incitement to violence and recurring riots in American cities. THE GENERAL impression conveyed heretofore has been that only the South is at fault and that ill-treatment of the Negro is sectional. Disturbances in Northern cities, however, have increased in intensity. It is evident that many Negroes in the North are as poorly informed about the inevitable currents of public opinion as are the Klansmen in the South. Difficulties are being created that are hurting the efforts of thoughtful and sensible Negroes who have been striving hard to overcome by proper methods the handicaps suffered in the past. What is damaging the Negro cause is the frequency of such news as riots in various segments of northern cities. RIOTS OF THIS KIND are not confined to any one part of the country. They have happened not only in Los Angeles, but in New York and Chicago and other parts of the country. Unquestionably reports of violence and disturbances create an impression on citizens generally. Many are beginning to wonder whether the Negro leaders may not have overreached themselves by preaching, in effect, that almost any kind of action is justified to redress wrongs of the past. More and more the feeling is growing that a mob spirit is arising in this country and that physical violence may erupt at almost any place where there are racial differences of any kind. Instead of waiting for laws to be enforced or action to be taken by the courts, the tendency now is to engage in mob demonstrations which frighten the peaceful citizenry in many a community. IT IS EVIDENT here that members of Congress are watching carefully to see what's happening back home. The undercurrents of dissatisfaction and discontent are rising. Many people will not disclose to other persons their gripes or their grievances but will make their protests known at the polls. They will watch, for instance, to see how Congress handles the "fair housing" legislation. It seems probable that there will be movements to defeat representatives and senators who vote to take away from the private citizen the right to dispose of his property as he pleases. THE QUESTION is not concerned merely with the sale or rental of property but also with the effect upon each neighborhood if anybody, irrespective of whether he is a law-abiding citizen, can force his way into a community. The effect on real-estate values is not readily calculated, but many people throughout the country who own property are beginning to worry about it. IF ALL THE homeowners in the United States expressed their feelings in this matter, it would add up to a very sizable vote of protest. The fact that an election is to be held for members of Congress this November means that the "fair housing" legislation may be put off until a later date. But it is already beginning to be talked about as perhaps one of the biggest influences on the outcome of the congressional election.

Billy Graham

Would you please explain to me what it means to have complete silence as some religious groups teach and to simply meditate. I would appreciate it very much if you would explain just what it means to practice the presence of God. —L.W. There is a vast difference between letting your mind slip into free-wheeling which is what some people do when they talk about silent meditation. It is simply the absence of thought, and psychologists teach us that it is possible for a person to throw his thinking apparatus into neutral and just let the engine idle. But this is not the Christian kind of meditation. The scriptures teach that we must have something concerning which we meditate. For example, in the First Psalm David writes, "And in His law doth he meditate day and night." In other words, there was content to the psalmist's meditation—and there is always something concerning which the Christian meditates. That something is the truth of scripture. Nor does one really practice the presence of God—any more than a man practices the presence of his wife. Either she is there or she is not. There is no make-believe about it. Neither can you practice the presence of God unless He is there. The truth of Scripture is, "I will never leave you or forsake you." This we take by faith. Christ is with us. Meditate on Him! "Thou wilt keep Him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee."

LBJ Makes Tough Bombing Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a lonely decision for a man who likes the broadest public approval. But unless he faced the problem the war would drift. And public approval was dwindling anyway. President Johnson, on the recommendation of his highest advisers, gave the go-ahead for bombing the Communist oil bases around Hanoi and Haiphong in the North. There is only one duty, one safe course, and that is to try to be right and not to fear to do or say what you believe to be right. A president must be concerned about the people's wishes, and try to fulfill them when he is convinced they are in the national interest. But he has more information than anyone else. AND WHEN he is faced with a decision on what he considers a national necessity, even though contrary to public opinion, he has the obligation to make it. Otherwise he is not a leader but a follower. In doing so, he may be undermining his political future. It is nevertheless a president's duty to make it. There's no indication yet that Johnson's decision to hit the oil depots may injure him.

When Middle Age Comes—

NEW YORK (AP)—What is middle age? To many it is the longest, darkest tunnel of life, a barren stretch between first and second childhood. They think of it as a time enjoyable only to those who take a masochistic delight in acquiring an ulcer or watching their hair turn gray or fall out. Actually, of course, it isn't all that dreadful. It's more like swimming in a cold lake—shocking to the system at first, but not too bad after you get used to it. MIDDLE AGE, like smoking, is habit-forming. Once you get the habit, you find it hard to shake. What can you give it up for that is better? An odd thing about being middle-aged is that you notice it in others before you do yourself. But make no mistake about it, man, you're in the silver years if you like Elvis Presley better than the Beatles because he wears a more sensible hair cut. You can remember when Shirley Temple wore curls. IN YOUR wardrobe there is still at least one double-breasted suit with wide lapels. You realize you need new glasses but insist you're not ready for bifocals. On a picnic you'd rather eat watermelon with a fork than pick it up in both hands. You buy executive-length socks now because anklets make you feel sloppy. The waiters at your favorite restaurant never have to ask what you want for lunch. They automatically bring you what they know you're supposed to have. YOU HESITATE to acquire any new disorders because there isn't a link in your medicine cabinet for any more pills. If a strange girl winks at you on the bus, you wonder if she's got a blinker in her eye. "Every time you hear a band play 'September Song' you feel haunted the rest of the evening. Everything teenagers do today seems to you illegal, immoral or unnecessary. WHEN LURED out on a dance floor, you start to put your arm around your partner's waist instead of waving your hands wildly and stomping around like an Indian on the warpath. You brood more about your pension than the possibility of promotion. You can read a column like this with a smile—instead of silently blubbering inside.

What Does Pruritus Mean? Itching!

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a cure for pruritus? — G. W. Pruritus is a funny word. (But the ailment isn't.) All that pruritus means is itching. Any kind of an itch is pruritus. For reasons not hard to guess, it has become customary for many people to use the word when they mean pruritus of the anus, or so-called rectal itching. If your nose itches, you say your nose itches. If you skin itches, you say so. If it is an anal itch, you call it pruritus. (Pronounced proo-RIHT-us.) Severe itching, of course, can be sheer misery, but there are all sorts of causes. Where is the itch? Or is it generalized? Generalized itching can result from too many baths (making the skin dry), or from such systemic conditions as jaundice, leukemia and sometimes diabetes. It can be from irritation from soap, detergents or other chemicals. Sometimes it is a psychological manifestation. In local areas it can be from any number of skin diseases, contact dermatitis, or contact with something irritating, perhaps something solid, or from smoke or fumes. In a word, the first essential is to find out whether a basic cause or a transient one is involved. Sometimes a salve or lotion which merely softens and moistens the skin will solve an itch. Sometimes not. If we are talking specifically about anal itching or pruritus, that same rule holds true. What, if anything, is wrong? Hemorrhoids can itch aggravatingly. Get rid of the hemorrhoids and you get rid of the pruritus. Again, neither of these conditions may be present, but you itch anyway. In such cases, careful washing after each visit to the bathroom, then careful drying, and finally placing a little wad of cotton there, to keep the area dry, often does the trick. (While skin that is too dry will itch, an area that remains moist can be unduly sensitive to very minor irritation, and itch.) Finally, if the pruritus comes and goes, it is wise to pay attention to what you eat or drink. Itching can be a manifestation of allergy. Dear Dr. Molner: I am an effort to keep her weight down—my wife forces herself to vomit after each large meal. Could this be dangerous? She does sit on a rather regular basis. — E. J. S. It is a ridiculous practice, of course. She needs help from her physician (a sensible reducing diet and perhaps some help in the form of appetite-depressing drugs) and perhaps some counsel from a psychiatrist. Evidently this practice has not curtailed her weight. If she is going to eat like a glutton, she will continue to be heavy. Yes, the practice can be harmful as well as wasteful and repugnant. Irritation of gutlet and throat, and loss of essential stomach secretions are the most probable consequences. "Tips On How to Stop Smoking," by Dr. Molner, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Around The Rim

Pets Victims Of The Highways

Some of the most careless, thoughtless drivers on this nation's highways do not maim nor kill other people—they are responsible for the traffic deaths of thousands of unwary pets, kittens and pups who have not learned that highways, cars and animals do not mix. And yet it is sometimes unavoidable and the driver must hit a trotting pup crossing a busy road for the safety of those in his car. But it is a most unforgiving situation, we feel, if the driver of the car does not care enough to stop his vehicle, get out, and if the kitten or pup cannot be helped, at least move it to the side of the road. WE WERE ON our way back to Big Spring after a short visit with relatives near Cincinnati, Ohio, and just outside of St. Louis, Mo., when the driver of the car in the opposite lane hit an unsuspecting pup who had begun to cross the road. We slowed down to a stop, a few yards up the road, but the driver who had hit the pup did not slacken his speed nor stop, but merely looked in his rear view mirror and cruised on down the road. THE CAR BEHIND him veered to the right of the road and came to a stop. An elderly gentleman got out of the car and stooped over the pup, while a younger man in the car directed traffic around him. The old fellow talked softly to the pup, who was still alive, and beckoned for his wife to bring him a blanket from the car. He covered the pup and moved him gently to the side of the road. We could not stay any longer, but we were assured that the kindly old man would take care of the pup, until he could get treatment for him. If the second car had not stopped, a badly-injured animal, though still alive, would doubtless have been hit again and again by motorists who were too much in a hurry to take five minutes to ease a suffering kitten or pup, or to move an already fatally injured animal to the side of the road, where other motorists would not face the necessity of hitting it. TAKE A DRIVE some day right here in Big Spring and notice how many dead animals, each of them somebody's pet, lie strewn across the highways, all because a score or more of thoughtless drivers did not trouble themselves to help them. Those same parents, who cry out in anger against a motorist who has stopped at their home to tell them that a favorite pet has been hit and moved to the side of the road, would not blink an eye at countless other pets they saw on the highways while traveling. They do not stop to realize how much an effort it took for that motorist to come to them, and in many cases, offer to purchase another pet. THE MOTORIST with the attitude, "Oh, well, it's just a cat," will treat his fellow drivers in the same way on the highways, with the same lack of courtesy and respect. The same indifference and "why-bother-ism" that is stalking every aspect of our life today is creeping onto our highways. And the, "Oh, well, it's just a cat" attitude quickly changes if that cat, or dog, belongs to you. —JERRY MONSON

Senate Can't Doctor Itself

WASHINGTON—It is no pleasure to say so, but the old taunt of "Physician, heal thyself!" has risen again to mock the Senate. When it comes to investigating its own membership, the famous Citadel shakes and quakes like a house built upon the sand. The Ethics Committee, hearing the case of Sen. Tom Dodd, is making itself look worse than cynics predicted. The committee is stumbling around like a centipede which can't decide which foot to put foremost. WHEN YOU REFER collectively to a committee, you usually mean its chairman—and that is the story here. Chairman John Stennis (D., Miss.) came into the hearings with the reputation of one who sits handsome in the saddle, but he has been riding like a tenderfoot who has lost both stirrups and has fumbled the reins. You might even say that he is straddling the horns of a dilemma. He can't decide where his duty lies: to conduct the hearings along rigid courtroom lines, or to relax and give his Senate colleague, Tom Dodd, the best of it. THERE IS NOT much to commend strict courtroom procedure, for Dodd is not a prisoner under indictment. But Stennis seems to fear being too lenient, and he has over-compensated by being too tough. All these difficulties are inherent in the task of Senate self-scrutiny. Last year, when Sen. Everett Jordan (D., N.C.) was probing the Bobby Baker case, he had to be careful where he stuck the knife for fear he might draw blood from a fellow senator. A decade ago when Senators Mundt (R., S.D.) and Watkins (R., Utah) were on the McCarthy cases, they always lagged a respectable distance behind public opinion. Investigative senators and their staffs can and have charged upon their victims like lions in a Roman arena, but not when a fraternity brother is in the ring. STENNIS IS SO little in command of his show that he let his own chief counsel lead Marge Carpenter, Dodd's faithless private secretary, into giving testimony which the same counsel right away sought to expunge. Stennis became rattled. He tried to instruct the reporters not to write what they had just heard in an opening hearing. There was a chorus of "Oh, no!" from the scribes (something new in congressional hearings), and Stennis backed down. THE CHAIRMAN had lost out on the point of courtroom dignity, lost out on maintaining impartiality toward Dodd (who twice jumped to his feet with impromptu speeches) and very nearly lost the backup of the rest of his committee. One more bluff, and there might well have been an appeal from his series of eccentric rulings. Cooper of Kentucky, Pearson of Kansas, and Bennett of Utah gave every appearance of being embarrassed at being part of the disjointed performance. A COMMITTEE chairman is so much his own man that the trait he needs to exhibit is not judicial wisdom, or knowledge of the case, or even fairness. The master quality at a congressional hearing is firmness. The best of the presiders, such as McClellan of Arkansas, often lose patience, snap at witnesses, break up the orderly procedure to get at the heart of the matter, and violate canons and precedents at will. The one thing that the man in charge dare not be is indecisive and ambiguous. Stennis may recover from a poor beginning, but thus far he has done nothing to disprove the standing assumption—that the Senate doesn't know how to doctor itself. ### A Letter From Tom

WASHINGTON—I have been following with rapt interest the Senate Ethics Committee's hearings concerning Sen. Thomas Dodd and his relations with Gen. Julius Klein, ret., the lobbyist and public relations expert for West Germany. Last week it was revealed that Gen. Klein urged Sen. Dodd to write glowing letters of commendation for him to several German leaders. To save Sen. Dodd a lot of time, Gen. Klein wrote the letters himself and just told the Senator to sign them. SINCE I AM going to Europe in a few days, I decided the Klein approach wasn't a bad one and I've written several letters of introduction for myself which I hope the Senator will send for me. I am also revealing my correspondence with Sen. Dodd on the off-chance that my secretary might get mad at me and turn all my files over to Drew Pearson. "Dear Tom, I am going to Monaco in a few days and I would appreciate it if you could write a few letters to Prince Rainier and Princess Grace telling them what a great guy I am and how much you hold me in your esteem. Ever since the Fulbright hearings, the people in Monaco think I have no influence in Washington, and I can't tell you how much it hurt me, particularly at the roulette tables in the Casino. I WOULD, of course, prefer that you go over to Monaco yourself and see Princess Grace personally. "You could explain to her that I'm one of the most important columnists in the nation's capital, despite what she's heard, and Sen. Fulbright had it in for me because I refused to testify at his Viet Nam hearings. "I know you're busy now with the ethics hearings, but perhaps you could break away for a few days and say you were going over to Monaco to interview a former Communist who had defected from Luxembourg. "THIS IS VERY important to me, Tom, as I've been losing money left and right in Monaco, and your intervention with Princess Grace could save me. "I feel I have been unjustly treated and only someone of your stature could convince the Monaco people that it would be to their interests to let me win once in a while at the crap tables. "If for some reason you can't make the trip, I am enclosing the drafts of a few letters in praise of myself that you could send out on your stationery over your signature. Here's a sample to Grace and Rainier. It should read: "YOUR HIGHNESSES, "My good and dear friend former Sgt. Art Buchwald, ret., is on his way to Monaco and I would appreciate it if you could do everything to make his trip more pleasant. "I don't believe you'll find a finer, more patriotic gambler than former Sgt. Buchwald, ret., nor one that could do a better job in building up Monaco's name. "I don't need to add that former Sgt. Buchwald is on first-name terms with Vice President Hubert Humphrey, whom he always calls "Mr. Vice President." "Sincerely yours, "JUST SIGN IT Tom and send it out and don't forget, if you want to use my apartment in New York at the Hotel Drake, it's all yours." # Coup Trigger Built-In For Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The armed forces of Argentina, once again in charge of the nation by virtue of their guns, have a built-in revolt trigger.

It's called Peronism after exiled Dictator Juan D. Peron. Any time the followers of Peron get too strong, the trigger clicks and another government falls.

FEARFUL

The fear of renewed power for the forces Peron left behind is rooted in memories of his nine-year dictatorship and the hold his movement still has on Argentina's workers. The Peronists control around three million votes in a voting population of 12 million, including most of the trade unions.

The military would prefer no Peronist candidate ever gets on any ballot. But so long as that ballot is in a remote and lightly populated province — such as Neuquen, Chaco or Jujuy — the military generally rolls with the punch. The Peronists control those three provinces.

But if the Peronists show signs they can take Buenos Aires Province, the trigger begins to move. In provincial elections in 1965, it became evident that unless President Arturo Illia's government acquired more strength from some place, the Peronists were a shoo-in to take over the capital province in the provincial elections next March.

CENTER

Buenos Aires Province not only has one third of Argentina's population. It has a great deal of the industry — and a 25,000-man provincial police force with guns, tear gas and trucks. The military is much like the heart-lung machine in open heart surgery.

As long as the machine isn't turned on, the civilian legislative, executive and judicial heart of Argentina pumps along. Let the military turn on the rebellion machine, and the heart is bypassed. The military takes over. It has been so since 1955 when the military threw Peron out with violence and bloodshed.

As long as the military has the guns, its leaders say privately, Peronists never will have a chance to take power again. Since Peronism's appeal comes from the benefits he gave the "shirtless ones," and since there still are more backs than shirts, the prospects is for more clicks of the revolt trigger.

In Madrid, where Peron has lived since 1960, a close associate said it probably would take "a lot of persuasion to get Peron to go back to Argentina, even if the door was wide open. But that door — or so he thinks today — has been slammed shut by the generals' plot and he seemingly will be happy to continue his life here."

Peron is now 70, and his health declined noticeably after a prostate operation more than two years ago. He drives about the Spanish countryside, writes, reads, exercises, meets with close friends and Argentine politicians who go to Madrid to consult him.

Peron's big push during his dictatorship came from his second wife, the blonde dynamic Evita, and the active politician in the family now is his 34-year-old third wife, Maria Estela "Isabelita" Martinez, also a blonde.

RETURNED

Isabelita returned to Argentina last October, setting off violent demonstrations by anti-Peronists. She said her purpose was to reconcile squabbling leaders of the Peronist movement.

Peronist sources said Tuesday night Isabelita is still in Buenos Aires despite rumors a week ago she had gone to Uruguay en route back to Madrid. Observers in Madrid think she would like to be the new Evita of Peronism.

A&M Directors Name Presidents Of Two Colleges

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M University directors have named new presidents for Tarleton State College and Prairie View A&M.

Dr. W. O. Trogdon of Plainview will succeed E. J. Howell as president of Tarleton State at Stephenville when Howell retires Sept. 1.

Dr. Jesse M. Crew will become president at Prairie View when Dr. E. B. Evans retires Sept. 1.

The board also authorized six new doctor of philosophy programs and two additional master-level degrees, subject to approval by the Texas College and University Coordinating Board.

Funds for an engineering center and contracts for an office building, air conditioning of a dining hall and 12 dormitories and the G. R. White coliseum, all at College Station, also were approved.

James Connally Technical Institute in Waco received authorization to spend $40,000 to remodel buildings at the air base.

Bishop Supports Farm Unionizing

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (AP) — A Roman Catholic social leader says his bishop supports an effort to unionize farm workers and a veteran labor organizer has thrown his support to the striking union in the latest round of labor developments in Starr County.

The Rev. Charles McNaboe is supporting the striking farm workers only from a labor standpoint. He said he would help the union work out nationwide consumer boycotts against growers as a main strike force.

The Rev. Charles McNaboe said CASA seeks money, unperishable food, and clothing for the strikers. The statement issued by McNaboe's group urged valley growers to pay the minimum authorized scale under federal legislation.

The strike, launched against melon growers by a newly organized independent union, began June 1, but has slowed since a court order against picketing was issued June 2. Union leaders have called the strike a Mexican-American civil rights protest, explaining that most of the farmers were of Mexican-American background.

The strike has been conducted by Eugene Nelson, who said his only previous labor union experience was as a picket captain in a grape pickers strike in Delano, Calif.

Meatcutters Local 173 voted last Sunday to aid the striking workers, and Garcia said the union's 1,800 workers will be assessed money to support the Starr County movement. The statement issued by CASA said: "It has been 74 years since Pope Leo VIII spoke out strongly defending the working man's needs and right to form unions."

Landmark Proposed

BEAUMONT (AP) — Famed Spindletop Monument, marking the Lucas Gusher which ushered in Texas' oil boom in 1901, is being considered as a national landmark.

Cancer Control Needs Stressed

BEAUMONT (AP) — "The future of cancer control is in the hands of the volunteer worker," members of the District 10 of the American Cancer Society were told.

Dr. Charles Todd of Beaumont, state director of the Cancer Society, also stressed the need for early and accurate detection of cancer.

Viewers Steeped In Lore Of Hotels

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—At the beginning of a period when a lot of people go on vacations, CBS this week presented an amusing hour about a fascinating, off-beat subject — the places they will stay. "Essay on Hotels" started with a brief history of lodging places. The first real hotel in America was in Washington in 1793. By the 1880s the "luxury palaces" like Boston's Copley Plaza, New York's Plaza and Denver's Brown Palace were going up.

RESORT ERA
Then there was the era of the great resort hotels, and few of them remain today. In fact, on the site of the famed Grand Union of Saratoga there stands now a supermarket with the same name. Going, if not gone, are the smaller hotels and inns that featured front porches with an ocean view — and rocking chairs.

But now, says the producer, writer, Andrew A. Rooney, the big downtown hotels are in trouble and many are coming down to make room for office space. And motels, by that or any other name, are increasing along with the increase of automobile and plane traffic. They are popping up along all the main roads and at the airports and are even invading the cities, called "high rise motels."

Rooney bowed to San Francisco as "maybe the best hotel town in the world," and skipped over the neon-lighted spots of Cape Kennedy and Las Vegas.

FLOPHOUSE
We were also given a glimpse of life in a $1 a night Bowery flophouse. And then there were some enlightening interviews with the help in some of the big city hotels.

For instance, men who smoke pipes and who wear brown shoes are pegged by some veteran New York bellhops as poor tipsters. Some hotel maids would rather clean up for male guests than women, who they said are "messier" — except when the man has had a party in his room.

Yogis Out To Prove Their Magic Power

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The bearded and sometimes naked holy men who wander through India's humid jungles and dusty plains have splashed into a challenging controversy.

These yogis and sadhus, as the holy men are called, have come under considerable pressure to prove they have the mysterious powers often attributed to them.

SPLASH

The biggest splash in the whole affair came in Bombay where one of India's better known yogis, L. S. Rao, advertised he would walk on water before a select crowd that had paid to see the miracle. Rao sank like a rock in his specially made tank and surfaced spluttering, water dripping from his tangled beard and uncut locks.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was asked at a news conference the next day if she believed in water-walking sadhus. She shook her head no. Exponents of yoga — the art of the yogis — were outraged.

"This has thrown a challenge on the yogis," one expert said. "For the good name of yoga we hope some yogi will believe our prime minister."

Newspapers challenged Rao to make good his boast or deliver a public apology. Even among his own colleagues, Rao has come in for criticism.

IN HURRY

"The fault lay not with the system but with Rao," said M. S. Golwalkar, a Hindu politician. "Rao was in a hurry. He was ready for it. The net result was a bad name for hatha yoga."

Roughly translated, hatha yoga means a man who has united the "moon breath and sun breath." It requires renunciation of worldly affairs, long penance and strict control of body and mind through breath-regulation exercises.

Before taking his plunge, Rao exhibited other specialties of his group: A walk through a hot fire from which he emerged unscathed, a lunch of broken glass, followed by what he claimed was a chaser of nitric acid and potassium cyanide.

The common explanation for a yogi's ability to swallow glass is that muscle control enables him to regurgitate it. The usual answer for the potassium cyanide act is that, as any visitor to a county fair knows, the hand is quicker than the eye — and the poison never enters the yogi's mouth.

DON'T LAUGH

But after spending a few years in India, few people, including skeptical foreigners, laugh too loudly at the yogis or their claims.

There are too many documented cases of yogis doing fantastic feats. Laughter died quickly on the lips of former Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev when he watched a yogi lie down before a steamroller and let it run over him. The yogi jumped up again.

New Delhi counts among its leading citizens some who claim to have seen a sadhu float in air, two or three feet above ground, at the climax of a trance. Among the cynics, there is suspicion that the sadhu wasn't the only one in the trance.

Scouts Plan Ranch Camp

A dozen troop from the Lone Star district are scheduled to attend the Boy Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains during the next few weeks.

Two troops—No. 5, sponsored by the First Baptist Church, and No. 13, sponsored by a Garden City citizens group—plan to go July 3.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON
Texas Woman In Charge Of Tours

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Managing the White House tours, both the 20-minute circuit for the general public and the one of 35 minutes given those for whom congressmen intervene, is the concern of a Texas woman on President Johnson's staff.

She is pretty Delores Stacks of Houston. She actively campaigned in Harris County for such Texas Democrats as Gov. John Connally, Sen. Ralph Yarborough and Rep. Jim Wright, in the latter's unsuccessful bid for the Senate.

TOUR POINTS
Here are some points about the White House tours as related by Miss Stacks:
The public is guided through the main rooms of the executive mansion between 10 a.m. and 12 noon daily, except Sundays and Mondays, when it is closed to visitors. As many as 25,000 persons a day make the tours. Many are forced to stand in line for hours—especially at this time of year.

Last year 1.7 million persons made the tour.
The very important persons tours take place between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays. They not only take 15 minutes longer and go into some rooms not on the public tour, but have a commentary delivered by the guide. The general public tour is actually a continuously moving line without benefit of comment from a guide.

Around the Capital:
Recently the single star designating the rank of brigadier general was pinned on the shoulders of Albert R. Brownfield, a 51-year-old native of Brownfield, and a grandson of the founder of that Texas city.
Among those on hand at the Pentagon to witness the ceremony was Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock, who in 1935 had appointed Brownfield to West Point—Mahon's first academy appointee after he became a member of Congress.

Brownfield, now assigned to duty in Viet Nam, saw combat duty in Europe in World War II and participated in the Battle of the Bulge.
His widowed mother, Mrs. Allie D. Brownfield, lives in Brownfield.

CITES EXAMPLE
Before voting for the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act Bill—which passed the Senate 72-9, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., cited examples of packaging which he said either confused or misled the marketing housewife.
"When I was a boy you would go into the store and order one pound of this and a half-pound of that," he told his colleagues, "and all you would have to worry about was that the scales weren't rigged, or a spare thumb wasn't on the backside."

"In 1790, George Washington, our first president, expressed his deep concern for uniformity in the currency, weights, and measures of the United States. The packaging industry now, in effect, sets the weights and measures in food, and therefore is a concern of the federal government."

"In 1790, George Washington, our first president, expressed his deep concern for uniformity in the currency, weights, and measures of the United States. The packaging industry now, in effect, sets the weights and measures in food, and therefore is a concern of the federal government."

Roadside Beautification Is Due Legislative Attention

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
The next Texas Legislature is going to be interested in what you see out the windows of your car.

A joint Senate-House committee, aided by professional staffers of the Texas Legislative Council, is busy drafting proposals that would make state laws compatible with the Federal Highway Beautification Act.

Other groups are just as busy mapping plans to fight the proposals or at least modify them. At stake is about $20 million that Texas will lose if it does not follow federal steps to spruce up the roadside along 17,589 miles of highways built with the help of federal money.

BILLBOARDS
Basically, the beautification act—frequently called "Lady Bird's Bill" because of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson's interest in its passage—prohibits billboards within 660 feet of federal-aid highways and says junk yards and other unsightly business within 1,000 feet must be screened from motorists' eyes. "Permit billboards only in front of junk yards," one wag suggested.

An inventory just completed by the Texas Highway Department revealed there are about 67,000 billboards near federal highways, including 44,000 in areas not controlled by city zoning. There are about 1,600 junk yards near main highways, with 1,400 of them in unzoned areas.

State highway planners are now trying to come up with some sort of estimate of what it would cost to remove and screen these roadside eye-sores.

Some of the federal beauty bounty is now being spent screening unsightly scenes immediately adjoining highways. The legislature will have to decide if the State Constitution must be changed to extend control 600 and 1,000 feet along each side of federal highways. Another question is who will pay for beautification where federal highways run through parts of a city. And there are other questions, including the fact that Washington has not finally decided what its highway beauty specifications will be. In the 1920s there were experiments of planting brambles at the roadside to cushion the crash of careening Model T's. The experiment was abandoned because farmers complained their hogs and chickens hid in the brambles.

Interlocking Cuban, American Cooking Ways Becomes Easy

By JO ANN PHINIZY
The Americanization of a Cuban cook is the motif around the Al Valdes household, 626 Caylor.

Mrs. Valdes, who has lived here since 1954, explained that Cuban cooking is a daily occupation and a family ritual. Whereas, here, the telescoping of time puts meals in a secondary bracket.

"Cooking is easier in the States," she said. "But I never get in such a hurry that I don't take the minutes to add something of Cuba."

Take a can of any kind of beans; I put a little olive oil in a skillet, a little chopped onion and bacon and cook it until it browns, then I pour in the beans and fry for about 10 or 15 minutes.

With chicken or meat, I always rub in lemon juice, a little garlic, salt and pepper, and let it sit awhile before cooking.

Another adaptation Mrs. Valdes uses is fried bananas. She buys firm bananas, slices them lengthwise and fries in about one inch of shortening. The flavor is added by sprinkling sugar on the fruit during frying.

NEW RECIPES

Another holdover from habit is the matter of recipes. Mrs. Valdes says that in her homeland cookbooks are for newlyweds. The more experienced cooks wouldn't consider following pre-set formulas. Instead, they start from memory and end up in originality.

Mrs. Valdes still follows the rule — except in the matter of baking. In Cuba, cakes and bread are purchased hot and fresh from the local baker. In the States, Mrs. Valdes discovered that for real freshness you need home-baking.

"I borrowed recipes from my friends and I learned to cook my own desserts and bread," she said. "These recipes, I follow closely because they don't need changing."

The whole order of the day is turned around in America. Mrs. Valdes' Cuban ancestry calls for a light breakfast, a whopping big lunch and a medium size late, late dinner.

Nowadays, the Valdeses have a breakfast with all the details, sandwiches or "something" for lunch; and a large, early evening meal.

"It fits the things we do better," comments Mrs. Valdes. Time allowing, Mrs. Valdes enjoys preparing a complete Cuban style meal.

BLACK BEANS

She orders a large supply of black beans from Mexico or New York and cooks them slowly to bring out their unique flavor. She cooks Papas Rellenas, which gives the lowly potato a masters degree; or, before broiling, she will marinate a fresh steak in various spices for 24 hours.

Whichever way Mrs. Valdes decides to cook, it's met with full appreciation by her husband, who is a steamfitter in the refinery unit at Cosden Oil Refinery; and their children, Al Jr., and Cathy.

In selecting her recipes, Mrs. Valdes chose those that are reminiscent of her life in Cuba.

PAPAS RELLENAS

(Stuffed Potato)
7 large white potatoes
1 lb. ground beef
1 finely chopped medium onion
2 slices chopped green pepper
6 stuffed olives
1 bay leaf
2 tbsps. olive oil
2 tbsps. bacon drippings
1 cup water
1/2 cup flour
2 eggs
1/2 cup cracker meal
Tomato sauce and seasonings to individual taste
1/2 small box raisins

Boil potatoes until done, drain and mash coarsely with hand potato masher. Add salt, flour and 1/2 cup cracker meal. Place in refrigerator to chill thoroughly. Potatoes may be cooked the day before.

In skillet place olive oil, bacon drippings, meat and spices; add chopped onion, green pepper and olives and brown together for 15 or 20 minutes. Add tomato sauce, water and raisins. Lower heat and cook until mixture thickens. Using large strainer, drain excess fat. Let mixture cool.

Form potatoes into tennis ball sizes, putting 1 tablespoon of meat mixture into each ball. Seal well. Dip balls into well beaten eggs and roll in cracker meal.
Fry in deep fat being extra

Fix Clove Apples For Dessert Dish
Serve these apples with a meat course, or offer them as dessert with a custard sauce. Either way they're delicious.

CLOVE APPLES

2 lbs. medium-sized cooking apples
3 whole cloves
1 cup light corn syrup
Core, pare and quarter apples; slice each quarter into thirds. In a saucepan, bring the apples, cloves and corn syrup to a boil. Simmer, uncovered, until apples lose their opaque look and are tender—15 to 20 minutes. Some of the slices will retain their shape. Remove cloves, if you like, before serving. Makes 4 to 8 servings.

careful when turning or removing to avoid breakage.

FRITAS

(Cuban Hamburger)
2 lbs. ground beef
2 eggs
1 finely chopped medium onion
3 tbsps. catsup
4 slices white bread
Salt, pepper, paprika to taste
1/2 cup milk
1 tsp. mustard

Put milk in large bowl and add crumbled bread. Let bread soak, and then add remaining ingredients and mix well. Form into patties and freeze. These may be taken from freezer and cooked like hamburger patties. Serve in a bun.

CUBAN STYLE CHICKEN AND RICE

1 chicken cut into serving pieces, including giblets
1 chopped onion
3 garlic cloves
1/2 lemon
1 slice chopped green pepper
1 can mild beer
1/2 can tomato sauce
2 cups uncooked rice
2 tbsps. olive oil
2 tbsps. bacon drippings
1 small jar chopped pimento
1 No. 303 can green peas
6 olives
Yellow food coloring
1 bay leaf
Dash salt, pepper, oregano, and cumin

Mash garlic and rub into chicken pieces. Then sprinkle with pepper, oregano, cumin and lemon juice. Pierce chicken for better absorbency. Let chicken marinate in refrigerator for 2 to 3 hours.

Brown chicken in olive oil and bacon drippings in a large heavy pan. Add tomato sauce, water, washed rice, beer and peas. Add yellow food coloring.

Put milk in large bowl and add crumbled bread. Let bread soak, and then add remaining ingredients and mix well. Form into patties and freeze. These may be taken from freezer and cooked like hamburger patties. Serve in a bun.

Split Peas Save Dimes

Have you noticed the large supplies of split peas at markets now?

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says stocks of split peas are unusually huge. Nutritionwise and budgetwise, they make an excellent vegetable selection.

When buying dried split peas, figure that a pound will provide 7 to 9 servings.

They're a hearty food because of their carbohydrates, which the body uses for energy. Like other dried beans and peas, they contain some B vitamins and are nuggets of mineral value for the iron and calcium they contain. And with all this, they provide useful protein, which the body requires to build and repair its organs and tissues.

You'll get the most from split peas if you include in the same meal some grain food, like bread, or some meat, cheese or other protein from an animal source.

The reason? Proteins in foods are made up of different combinations of amino acids. Some of these proteins are more complete and, therefore, more useful than others for the body's needs. There is especially good protein in meat and other foods from animal sources, and even a little combined with bean protein makes a strong protein team, according to USDA home economists.

Game Hens Provide New Menu

How often the fashion in clothes sparks a similar trend in another area of our daily living.

For example, the current British style in fashions for both men and women's clothes is also in vogue with food.

If you wish to serve a "fashionable" meal, center it around a British favorite entree such as Rock Cornish game hen.

These birds have become so popular in recent months that they are becoming more difficult to find at some markets.

How can you be sure the birds you've selected are truly Rock Cornish game hens?

Look for the round U.S. Department of Agriculture inspection mark on the bird. If the bird has been inspected for wholesomeness by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service, you can be sure it is labeled correctly.

Under USDA regulations, poultry must be produced from an English Cornish game hen, or progeny of a Cornish game hen, crossed with another chicken in order to be labeled Rock Cornish (or Cornish) game hen.

CELEBRITY RECIPES

World Famous Opera Star Originates Flaming Dessert

Mary Costa

Mary Costa, one of the loveliest singers ever to grace the world's opera stages, gave up a lucrative career in television to devote herself completely to her first love.

"After an intense period of dedicated study, she blossomed full-blown upon the world of opera in a debut with the San Francisco Opera Company that is still talked of with awe by aficionados of that difficult art. Her rich, warm voice immediately endeared her to a grateful public, including opera-haters who might not know Puccini from Patagonia, but who like what they hear when Mary sings it.

A distinction Miss Costa shares with one of the most famous divas of all time is in freely translated as Mary's Gold, is a spectacular dessert, a perfect ending to any fine candlelight dinner when the music is soft in the background and the mood is mellow.

It isn't at all difficult to make, however, and should be done right at the table where its flaming beauty can be fully appreciated. Preparation can be done well beforehand and all ingredients brought to the table.

The Kirsch and Triple Sec can be measured earlier into brandy glasses so there's no last-minute measuring necessary. The peaches, if sliced earlier, can be kept from discoloring by dipping each slice in lemon juice.

If you are an expert peeler of peaches it is most impressive to impale a perfect fruit upon a silver fork and quickly strip it in one long spiral, then slice the meat directly into the chafing dish. It takes professionals years to learn this trick, though, so it is probably wise to omit it.

To make Costa de Oro, place in a chafing dish one cup each of fresh raspberries and sliced peaches.

Add two ounces of Kirsch and three ounces of Triple Sec.

Heat until the raspberries begin to lose their juice, giving the liquors a light purple color.

Now flame, and serve — a perfect ending to a lovely dinner.

Keep July 4 Sparkling With Festive Clams

With the long Fourth of July weekend in sight, everyone is busy making plans. If you are arranging to have a group of friends over to make the occasion a festive one, you'll want to be prepared with some rather special foods. Each holiday should be a memorable one, and what you serve to eat often makes it so.

Here's a dish that can be made early in the day and passed as the piece de resistance among appetizers whenever you feel ready to serve — be it 4 o'clock in the afternoon, 6 o'clock, or 8.

This recipe calls for clams, combined with a savory herb-seasoned stuffing, the fine-particle kind, which is all ready flavored with a delicious blend of herbs and spices. They take on a holiday air and become the noteworthy prelude to charcoal broiled steaks or whatever you have planned to make it a feast for the fourth.

DEVILED CLAMS

2 dozen hard-shell clams, chopped
1 green pepper, finely chopped
1/2 cup chopped onion
5 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 cup packaged herb-seasoned stuffing

4 slices cooked bacon

Have clams opened at the market and save the liquor. In skillet, saute the green pepper and onion in 3 tablespoons butter. Remove from heat and add stuffing. Mix in clams and blend well. Crumble the bacon and add with enough clam liquor to moisten. Spoon into clam shells or individual baking dishes. (If preparing ahead, cover with clear plastic wrap and refrigerate.) Sprinkle with extra stuffing crumbs and dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Bake in moderate oven, (375 degrees) 15 to 20 minutes until bubbly and light brown. Serve while hot. Makes 6 servings.

Sausage Patties Bake Evenly

When you're preparing pork sausage patties for several people, it will probably be easier to bake these rather than cooking with a frying-pan on top of the range.

To bake them, combine one pound of fresh (bulk) pork sausage with 1 slice of bread, broken in small crumbs, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/2 cup grated apple. Shape into 6 patties about 1/2-inch thick. Place on a rack in an open pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes.

Stretch Budget With Frankfurter Casserole

For a hearty dinner tonight here's a savory casserole that teams the season's new crop Russet Burbank potatoes with spicy frankfurters and tender green beans for mighty good eating. These choice potatoes are grown in the mineral-rich lava soil of Washington State's green mountain valleys.

POTATO-GREEN BEAN CASSEROLE WITH FRANKFURTERS

5 cups cooked Washington Russet potatoes, thinly sliced
2 tsps. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/2 cup salad oil

1/4 cup vinegar
1 to 2 cups cooked or canned green beans
1/2 cup thinly sliced onion
6 frankfurters

Combine potatoes, salt, pepper, oil and vinegar. Grease 1 1/2 qt. casserole and arrange potatoes in a layer. Cover with layer of onion, a layer of green beans and top with layer of sliced frankfurters. Cover and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 30 minutes. If desired, casserole may be arranged and stored in refrigerator a day ahead, then baked before serving. Makes 6-8 servings.

Save The Blues With Bleu Cheese Burgers

Sometimes Monday is just an off day, a let-down day after a busy weekend. To curb the blues of the day why not prepare some quick and easy Blue Monday Burgers?

They're named Blue Monday Burgers for another reason too: there's bleu cheese tucked in the center of each double-decker. Two frozen pure beef burgers form the base and top. Between the two is a nippy filling of bleu cream cheeses, onion, mustard and horse-radish. Then the double-deckers are wrapped around with two pieces of bacon secured with a wooden pick. Pop each side. Serve immediately.

lunch is the results.
BLUE MONDAY BURGERS
1 lb., 4-oz. pkg. frozen beef burgers
3 oz. pkg. cream cheese
1 tsp. crumbled bleu cheese
1 tsp. dry minced onion
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. prepared horse-radish
10 slices bacon

Cream cheeses together. Blend in onion, mustard and horse-radish. Spread filling over 5 frozen beef burgers. Cover each with another beef burger. Wrap edges of each double-decker with 2 slices of bacon, securing with a wooden pick. Place on a broiler pan and broil 6 minutes on each side. Serve immediately.

PANTRY PICK-UPS

When you are making cocoa from scratch, add a dash of salt and a little vanilla.

Corned beef hash will brown well if you dip the slices (from a can) in flour before placing them in the skillet.

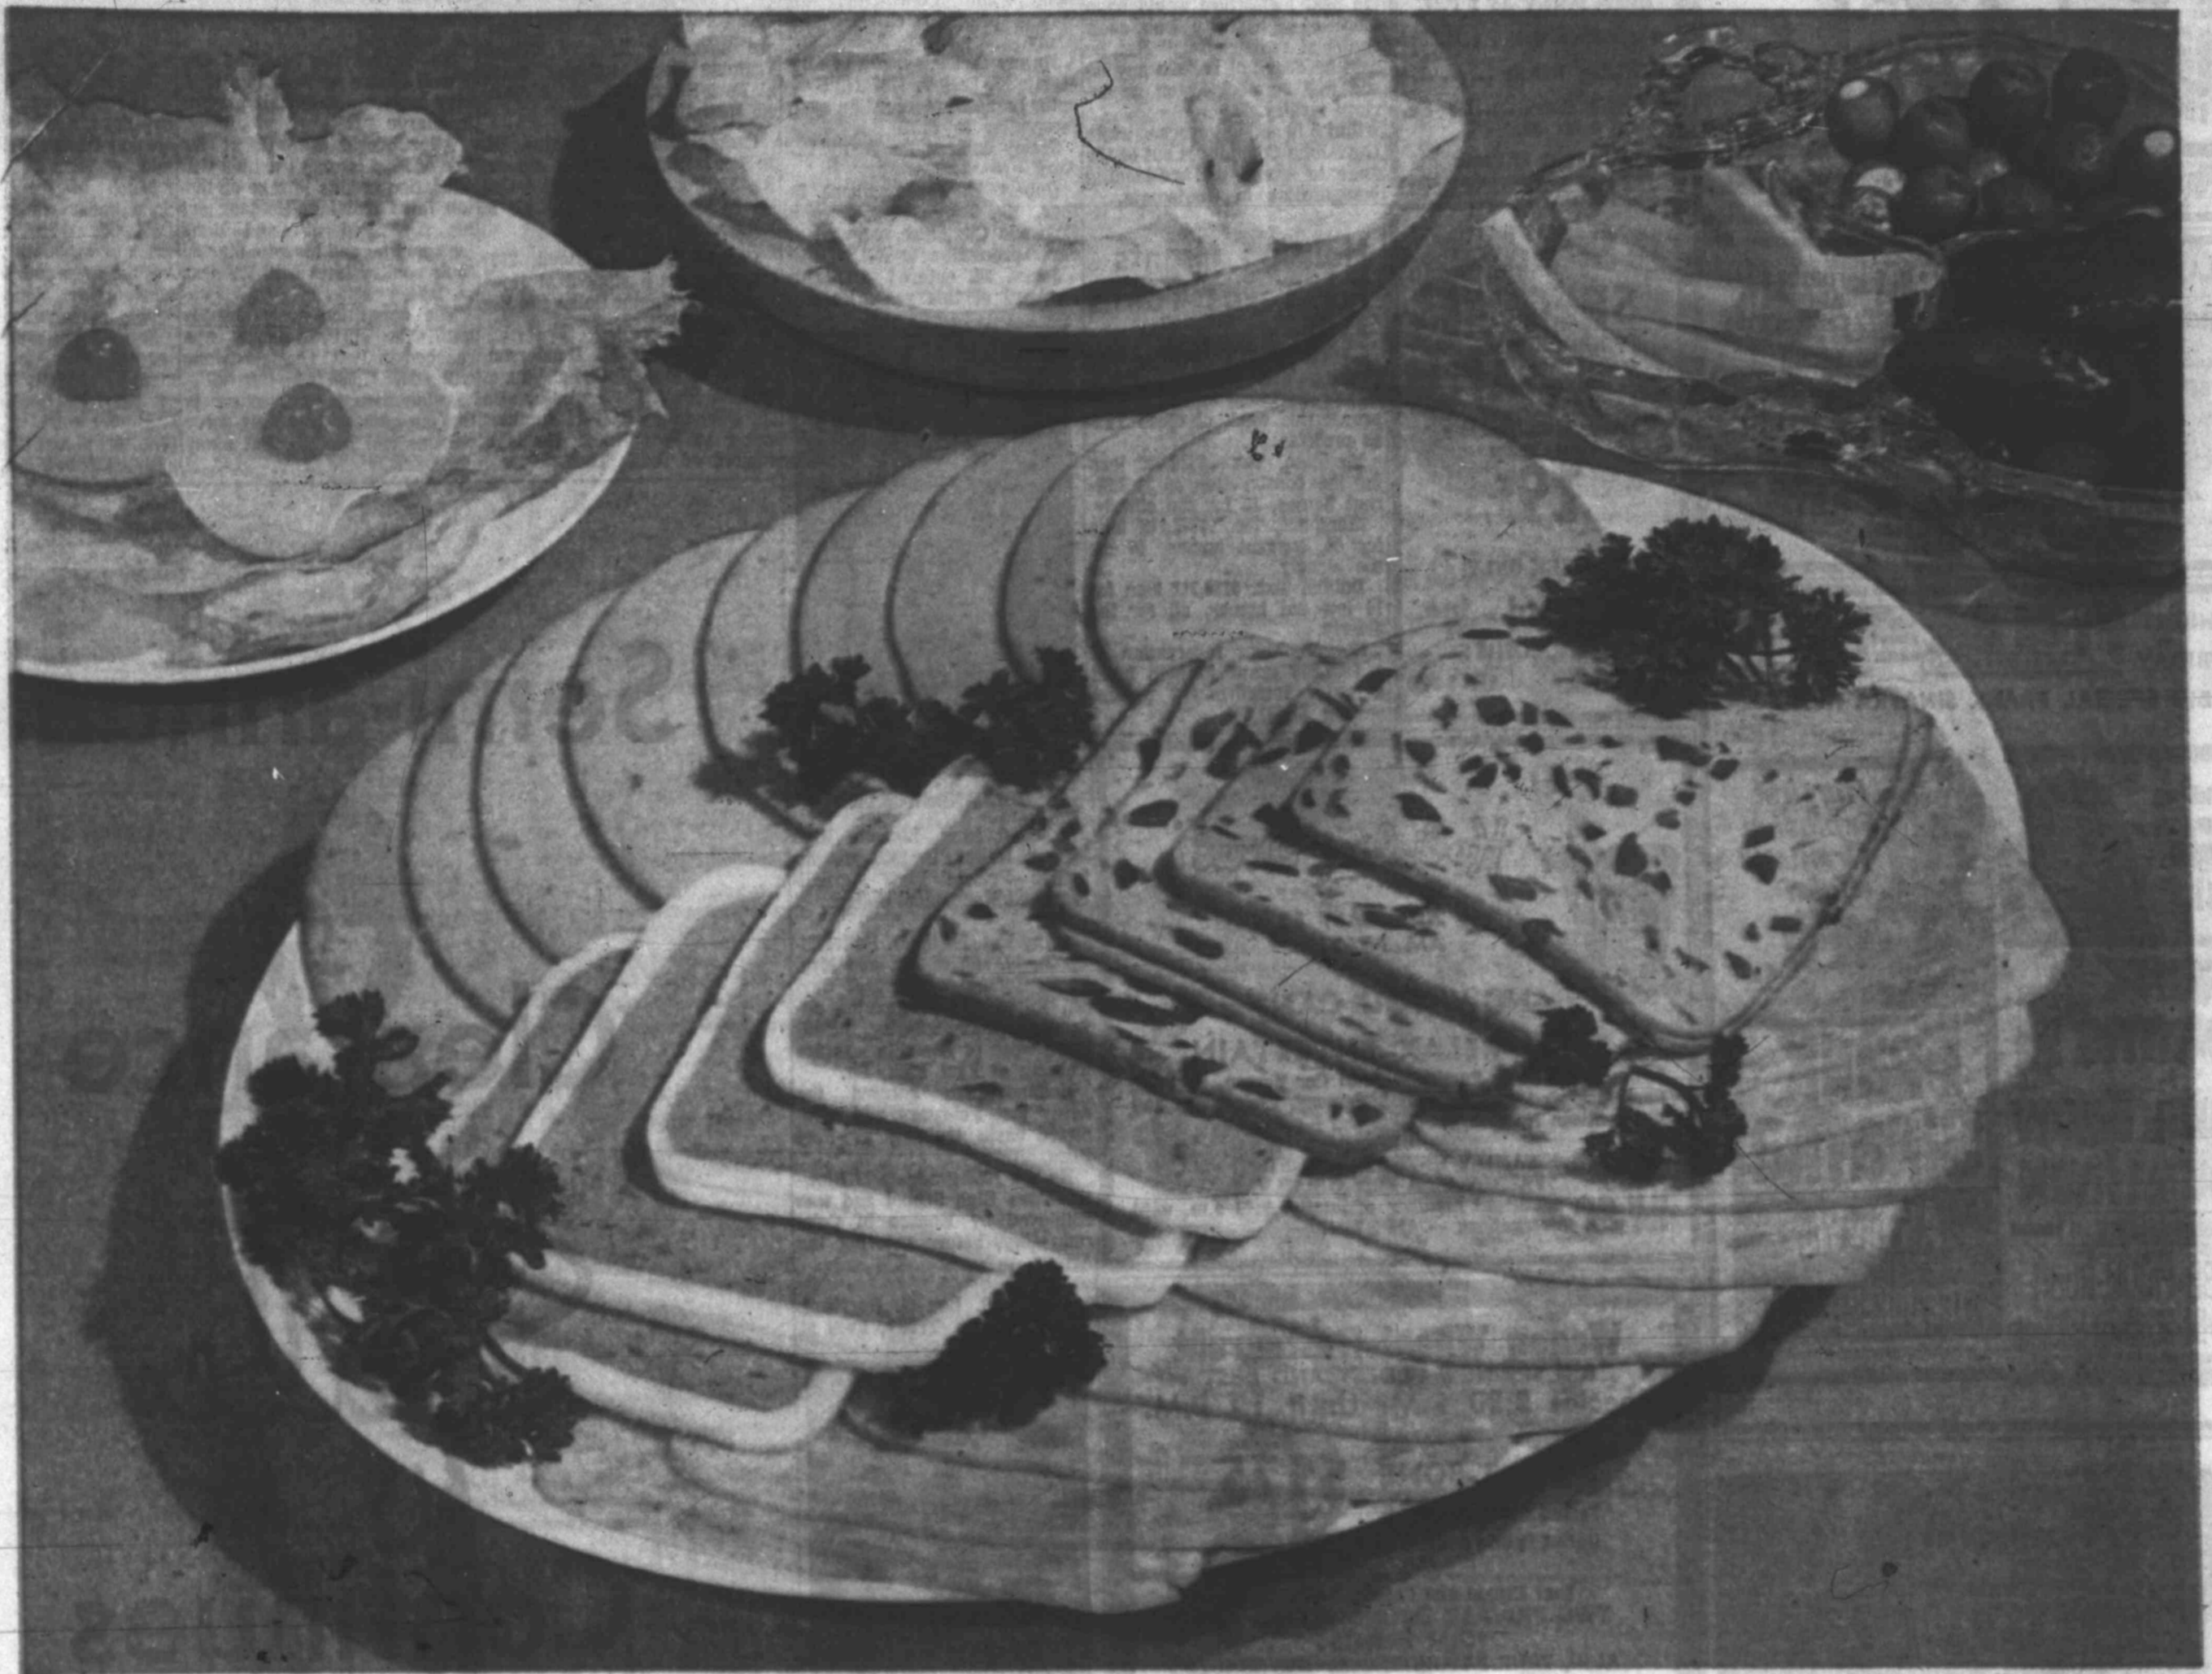

Delicious to serve with chicken curry; bananas skillet-heated in butter and sprinkled with flaked coconut. If you serve this combination, omit the coconut from the tray of other condiments that are usually served as a curry accompaniment.

Fill greased muffin pans about one-third full of muffin batter; add a spoonful of cranberry-orange conserve; now fill pans two-thirds full of batter and bake as usual. Call this hot bread Muffin Surprise!

A rotary beater (hand or electric), a whisk or a spoon may all be used for beating a mixture; choose the tool that is most appropriate for use in a particular recipe.

Note to cooks who like to try foreign recipes: grape leaves, packed in brine, should be rinsed and drained before using. The grape leaves take to interesting rice stuffings.

Expansion Approved For Lunch-Milk Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — An expansion of the nationwide school lunch and milk programs — with special aid to poor and undernourished children — was unanimously approved today by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender,

D-La., said the compromise measure "will continue both the lunch and milk programs as they have operated in the past and permit tests of additional proposals."

Under the bill, which now goes to the Senate, a new school breakfast program would be tested on a pilot basis for two years, with funds limited to $7.5 million the first year and $10 million the second.

Also for the first time, needy school districts which can not afford expenses of preparing, storing and serving the lunches and milk, would get federal assistance in obtaining equipment.

Smith Lists Problems For Legislature

LEVELLAND, Tex. (AP)—Lt. Gov. Preston Smith said in a speech here Tuesday night that money, education and water will be the chief business of the next Texas Legislature.

Addressing a club installation banquet, Smith said the "range and degree" of spending that will be authorized by the next session will depend mainly on five factors:

He listed these as water, education, salaries of state employees, teachers' salaries and taxes.

Smith said he would not predict at this time what legislation toward state-spending increases in any of these fields will be.

"It is true," he said, "that the next legislature would have more of a big city look as a result of redistricting." But he said he does not believe any issue will be decided on urban-rural rivalry.

Smith is acting governor while Gov. John Connally is out of the state to attend the presidential inauguration in Guatemala.

Shows How Small Farm Can Pay Off

CALDWELL, Tex. (AP) — Gerhard Kissman just doesn't believe the experts who say a 120-acre farm can't pay. He is proving it will.

He is doing it through a poultry project and recently secured a Federal Land Bank loan to increase his production 70 per cent.

Kissman, his wife, Viola, and their son, Preston, 17, are all the workers needed to process 6,000 to 7,000 eggs daily for market, if you don't count their hens as workers.

In late fall, when the layers now in the cages are replaced, there will be 17,000 young birds in four poultry buildings where today there are 10,000 in three buildings.

Kissman acquired his property in 1941 when it was only timberland. It is in Central Texas between Old Dime Box and New Dime Box, about 75 miles east of Austin.

He cleared the land and dug a well before he went into military service and left his parents in charge.

After World War II, at the age of 25, Kissman used his G.I. education credits to take on-the-job farm training. He took out his first Federal Land Bank loan and he and his wife started their poultry farm with 500 hens in 1954.

The opposition grew steadily until the 10,000 figure was reached in 1965. The latest loan will allow 17,000 hens this fall.

Automation is the answer to the question of how only three persons can process that many eggs.

The eggs are retrieved three times a day and the hens fed twice. The Kissmans use a flat-bed battery-operated car that can be driven down the aisles of the poultry houses for both chores.

Water runs continuously to the caged hens, mixed with chemicals when that is advisable.

The remainder of the farm is given over to raising grain for 32 head of stocker cows and to pecan trees.

"This is the life I enjoy," said Kissman. "I've always lived in this part of Texas but before I bought this land I just worked for others."

Egg experts say that a dozen eggs cost about the same now that they did 25 years ago, and if handled by methods of a quarter century ago they would cost $2 a dozen.

But with automation the price has been held down. The eggs laid on the Kissman farm are gathered, washed, graded and in the consumer's hands within two days, and are under refrigeration from the time they are laid.

Much of the processing is done under contract in nearby Caldwell, with the Kissman's main responsibility the gathering the eggs and persuading the hens to lay, along with considerable management know-how.

Some farm and financial observers point to the Kissman farm as an example of one way to keep the family farm from becoming part of an industry-type farm—and thus reverse the national trend.

SEATO Chiefs Decry Danger

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The foreign ministers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization said Wednesday the situation in their area "is at present the most dangerous in the world."

"Efforts to meet the Communist challenge there must not fail," seven members of the eight-nation alliance declared in a communique at the end of the annual three-day meeting of their council of ministers.

The communique noted that France, which opposes U.S. policy in Viet Nam, did not consider itself committed to the communique. The French sent only an observer to the meeting.

The other members of SEATO are Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand, Britain and the United States.

The communique said the council reaffirmed its conclusion in 1964-1965 that defeat of the Communists in South Viet Nam "is essential not only to the security of the republic of Viet Nam but to that of Southeast Asia and would provide convincing proof that Communist expansion by such tactics will not be permitted."

Some Depressed Areas In Business

NEW YORK (AP)—Some low-pressure economic areas could affect the business weather in the second half of 1966. But high-pressure areas built up over the last five and a half years are still most likely to set the economic climate for some months to come.

Depressed areas the experts watch are housing, the stock market, auto sales uncertainty, credit squeeze on consumers and business firms, higher interest rates, growing wage demands, worsening balance of payments deficits and, above all, the spreading effect of a costlier Viet Nam War—both in money and manpower—on the civilian economy.

These could moderate the pace of the economy the rest of this year. But the momentum built up in major segments is still so strong that most economists, in government or in business, see the general trend still upward with many new records all but assured by year's end. The strong points are:

STRONG POINTS

—Defense spending upturn which will be increasingly translated into new orders, better production and more jobs and paychecks.

—High and rising employment. This means larger totals of personal incomes and corporate revenues. This all but guarantees more consumer spending by year-end, and further ordering of materials and machinery.

—Business expansion plans. These call for more spending in the last six months of 1966 than in the like period of 1965. Neither the credit squeeze, labor shortages, materials scarcities nor government restraints seem likely to modify the total spending by very much.

Thus all three props of the economy—consumer, business and government spending—should be sturdy.

CAUTION

Caution has come back into style, however, after the speculative exuberance of the early months of the year. Jitters in the stock markets affect the attitude of many citizens who do no trading at all. Consumers also are worried by the chance of a tax increase, by the pinch of a rising cost of living, by the credit pinch when they engage in the great American pastime of buying on the cuff.

How the 1967 model autos will catch on also will have a wide psychological repercussion. Public confidence has close links to auto industry trends.

SQUEEZE ON PROFITS

Some business leaders are fearful that the big climb in profits may be over, or nearly so. Profits may be squeezed, both by the government's frowns on price increases and by growing labor demands that could raise production costs. Other storm centers they watch are the government's attitude toward mergers, its stepped-up antitrust drive, and a possible tax increase.

Whether consumer demand is reaching a saturation point in some fields is debatable. Caution, or shaken confidence, could delay some buying, but most consumers seem bent on raising their living standards still higher—if they can get the necessary credit.

Vegetable Quarantine Is Ordered

AUSTIN (AP)—State Agriculture Commissioner John White placed an emergency quarantine on movement of some fruits and vegetables from Cameron County to prevent spread of the Mediterranean fruit fly.

White made the announcement in Brownsville, where the fruit fly was found recently. The commissioner said insecticides will be sprayed by airplane to eliminate the agricultural pest. He said at least 23 instances of infestation had been found in an 8,000-acre area in Brownsville.

The quarantine regulates movement of bell peppers, cantaloupes, eggplant, okra, squash, pink and red ripe tomatoes, blackberries, dewberries and strawberries, peaches, citrus and all other fruits except lemons or sour limes when picked green and commercially packed, as well as soil whether independent or associated with plants.

Movement from Cameron County of any of these commodities will require prior certification by authorized inspectors of the Texas Department of Agriculture or the U.S. Department of Agriculture. In addition, fumigation of certain commodities will be required.

White said every possible measure would be taken to prevent establishment of the fruit fly in Texas.

SMU Gets Grant

The grant brings to $300,000 the NASA research programs SMU scientists began a year ago.

A slight but crucial alteration in his original plan of campaign was essential to South's success in bringing his five heart contract safely home.

Had West opened the queen of clubs, South's fate would have been quickly sealed for, after two tricks are cashed, East is assured of scoring the setting trick in hearts. West chose to lead a spade however, and declarer had a fighting chance.

One club may be discarded on North's high diamonds. In order to avoid losing two club tricks however, South must develop an end play position, for the ace of clubs is pretty well marked with the opening bidder, and declarer therefore cannot afford to lead toward North's king.
The spade lead was taken by South's ace, and the ace of hearts was cashed. When both opponents followed suit, the king was left outstanding, while declarer began stripping out the hand. The queen of diamonds was played followed by a small diamond to the king, as the ten appeared from East's hand.

It was South's intention to play three rounds of diamonds, then ruff the remaining spade and throw East in with a trump. If the latter had only black cards left, he must surrender a trick on the return. If he plays a spade, it presents declarer with a ruff and discard. If East leads a club, North's king is established. In either case, the defense is limited to one trick each in hearts and clubs.

When the ten of diamonds appeared on the second round of that suit, South changed his mind and abandoned diamonds. The spade was ruffed immediately and a trump was led, putting East in. The latter, having only spades and clubs left, was employed and graciously conceded defeat. Even if he had a diamond left to lead, however, the result would have been the same, inasmuch as North's king-nine assures declarer of two club discards.

Observe that, if South attempts to cash the ace of diamonds before ruffing dummy's spade, East can trump in with the king of hearts and then safely get out with a spade. South must now lead clubs himself and cannot avoid losing two tricks.

DEAR ABBY It's Their Business

DEAR ABBY: Where do you stand on this? An extremely well-to-do gentleman recently presented his bride with a VERY expensive diamond ring, and I mean EXPENSIVE. She is his second wife and he is her second husband, both having "lost" their former mates in the divorce courts. The bride has confided to a few friends (I am one) that she has agreed in her will to leave her diamond to her husband should she die before he does. The idea being that he shall give it either to his next wife, or to his daughter by his first wife. How do you like that?

Camp Cook Touring For 'Real' Rodeo

STAMFORD, Tex. (AP)—Gulf Lafoon, who prefers roll-your-own Bull Durham to fancy filter cigarettes, is riding the circuit these days in behalf of the Texas Cowboy Reunion.

Featuring what it bills as the world's biggest non-professional rodeo, the reunion at Stamford also offers barbecue, a fiddlers' contest and dance, and a lot of yarn swapping Friday through Monday.

Lafoon, now 89, was a camp cook on several West Texas ranches when the cowboy was king in the area.

He has spent his time the past several weeks visiting a town a day to drum up support and attendance for the Stamford get-together. Thousands attend each year.

Lafoon, who calls Jayton home, has known many of the ranchers and punchers who developed the cattle industry in West Texas.

"Not many of us left," he said in a recent interview with the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. He wears a long, white beard, but is careful not to let it interfere with his self-rolled cigarette smoking.

"I used to could roll one and light it riding a horse." Lafoon says rattlesnakes make the "best pet among animals and varmints."

"You can train 'em like dog," he said. And he ought to know.

DEAR CURIOUS: There's nothing strange about it. The gentleman invested in a diamond, and he's letting his bride wear it as long as she lives. But it is HIS diamond and THEIR deal. And it's also THEIR business.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, a high school girl, has been having a lot of boys and girls over to the house lately. Among them are some boys of foreign extraction, and whether it's something they eat, or because they don't bathe or change their clothes regularly I do not know, but they smell to high heaven! I think it would be a kindness for someone to tell them.

My daughter says that she doesn't want to hurt their feelings, and after a while she does not even notice it. Abby, when I open our front door I know whether those boys are here or not! Is there a nice way to solve this problem?

DEAR OFFENDED: Apparently your daughter's odiferous friends are not as offensive to her as they are to you. I know an "nice" way to tell people they "smell to high heaven." One of their best friends will surely pick up the scent some day and rescue them from social suicide.
