$139,877.51 FOR 15 AGENCIES

Record High UF Budget Asked

Citizens of Howard County will be called upon this Fall to join in filling the biggest United Fund requirement in history.

Trustees of the organization met Thursday afternoon and approved a budget committee's recommendation that the campaign in October be directed toward a figure of $139,877.51.

This is for distribution to 15 agencies. There is also a sum set up for campaign expense, and a reserve for shrinkage in payment of pledges.

The agencies would receive $126,377.51.

FAILED LAST YEAR

The UF goal a year ago was $104,676, and this was not met, resulting in a three per cent cut-back in final disbursements to participating agencies.

However, organization leaders are approaching the undertaking with a new confidence this year.

The report from the UF's screening and budget committee, which held hearings for all participating agencies last month, said:

REDUCED AT START

"It will be recalled that in years past, agency requests were reduced—sometimes drastically—in an effort to keep the total United Fund goal to an arbitrary figure. The result has been that many of the agencies were sorely handicapped in their normal operations—some of them to the extent that they were forced to make supplemental drives during the year.

"This year your committee feels that the agencies have requested what they actually need to carry on activities in a growing community and in the face of constantly increasing costs. It was your committee's decision to recommend the amounts asked and to put the challenge of meeting agency needs squarely up to the people of this county. It is our hope that the people will see this need and respond to it.

"It is our further hope that the leadership in all participating United Fund organizations will throw their full strength into the United Fund campaign this fall, with a determination to make it succeed—and with an acknowledgment that no further supplemental campaigns will be carried on. This, we believe, constitutes the main support of our principle of coordinated giving.

CHALLENGE

"If the community at large wants our welfare and child guidance organizations to do what they are established to do, then the appeal can be met. This goal of $139,877.51 should not, in your committee's opinion, be regarded as a formidable figure but as a challenge to us all to do our fair share for the 'building' of our community."

Marvin M. Miller was chairman of the budget committee, which included John Currie, R. W. Thompson, Champ Rainwater, Lester Morton, Larson Lloyd and Mrs. Helen Hendricks.

M. R. Koger is president of the United Fund this year, and general campaign chairman will be R. J. (Dick) Ream.

Already considerable reorganization work has been done, in the area of updating prospect cards, and arranging them for cross-filing under a data processing machine.

Further, advance efforts to stimulate a broader base of giving have been made, with meetings held for groups of employers urging them to sponsor a payroll deduction plan and encourage their employees to use it. It is estimated that some 65 firms have agreed to this, affecting well over 3,000 salaried and wage-earning people.

Agencies which will share in the United Fund distribution next year are:

YMCA, Lakeview YMCA, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, West Side Youth Center, Summer Recreation Program, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, Boy Scouts, Milk and Ice Fund, American Red Cross, Air Force Aid Society, Texas Rehabilitation Center (Gonzalez), Halfway House, Texas United Fund, USO.

Union Strike Cripples Five Big Airlines

No Trunk Service For 68 Cities

NO TICKETS TODAY Sign goes up at Philadelphia

WASHINGTON (AP)—A machinists union strike crippled operations of five major airlines today.

More than 35,000 members of AEL-CIO International Association of Machinists began walking off their jobs at 6 a. m. local time. A half hour later a spokesman announced the five airlines—Eastern, Northwest, National, Trans World and United—had canceled all originating flights.

CONTINUING

In some cases, the spokesman said, through flights were continuing to their final destinations.

Picket lines formed at New York, Washington and other airports in the populous Eastern section of the nation at 6 a. m. EDT. The strike then spread westward from one time zone to the next.

The five airlines normally carry more than 250,000 passengers daily, according to an airlines survey, on flights blanketing the United States and spanning the globe.

Last-ditch negotiations failed to resolve the labor dispute that began last year.

At his Texas Ranch, President Johnson deplored the failure of the union and airlines to reach agreement on wages and other issues. He ordered the Civil Aeronautics Board to work to minimize inconvenience to the public and told the Defense Department to report immediately on any problems that arise.

The union said, however, that all IAM workers involved in military aircraft contracts would remain on the job.

Johnson also asked Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien to use every means of moving the mails as rapidly as possible. The President was especially concerned that there be no delay in mail to servicemen in Viet Nam.

The five airlines serve 231 cities in the United States and 23 cities abroad. Their 94,000 employees represent about 64 per cent of the industry's total employment. In terms of revenue, passenger miles the five firms account for 61 per cent of domestic trunk airline operations.

The airlines said that if no substitute services were provided, the strike would leave 68 cities without trunk air service.

CALLED IN

The Civil Aeronautics Board, on White House orders, called in separately Thursday night representatives of 13 local service airlines, supplemental airlines that specialize in charter operations and seven trunk airlines not threatened with a strike. CAB transportation specialists worked until late in the night to find possible means of handling the traffic normally served by the five airlines' 5,000 daily flights.

"No decision was reached," a CAB spokesman said, but it was likely that flights would be rerouted and temporary new route authority granted.

Negotiations between the union and the airlines broke off at mid-afternoon Thursday and Assistant Secretary of Labor James Reynolds announced there would be a strike.

"NO JUSTIFICATION"

The chairman, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said in a statement that "this is one case in which there is no possible justification for the union to strike."

No Effect On Local Service

Trans - Texas Airlines will not be affected greatly by the machinists union strike on five major airlines, local T-TA agents said today.

A spokesman for the airlines said that T-TA's only problem would be in connecting passengers with the airlines on strike. He pointed out that T-TA connects with all airlines, and passengers could either postpone their trips a day or two until the strike was over, or else connect with any other airline not on strike.

Cosden Partner In Plant Deal

Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, through its subsidiary affiliation with American Petrofina, Inc., will be co-owner in a huge new styrene plant planned at Baton Rouge, La.

Announcement was made that Borg-Warner Corp. and Petrofina will be jointly in the venture, a $20 million styrene monomer facility with an annual capacity of 500 million pounds of the plastic-making raw material. The plant will be one of the largest of its kind.

The Marbon Chemical Division of Borg-Warner, which has been designated to operate the plant, will be co-owner with Cosden, in a new joint-venture company called Cos-Mar, Inc.

Subject to approval by Borg-Warner and Petrofina directors, construction work will begin early in 1968. The plant will use a process jointly developed by Cosden, Badger Co. and Union Carbide Corp. Badger, of Cambridge, Mass., will handle the detailed engineering of the facility.

The Baton Rouge plant's production will supplement Borg-Warner's output of styrene monomer at its Baytown, Tex., plant, which has an annual capacity of about 100 million pounds. The Marbon division is currently in the midst of a major expansion of its capacity for Cycloac ABS, a plastic used in autos, home appliances, luggage, sports equipment, office machines and other products. Styrene is a key raw material used in making this plastic.

Marbon currently has plants in six states and four foreign since 1957 from a single plant in Gary, Ind. The unit's main plastics facility is at Washington, W. Va., and new plants are under construction near Ottawa, Ill., Cobourg, Ontario and Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

High Curbs Go First

Contractor Dub Caldwell's machinery takes the first big bite out of the high curbs on Main Street, between Second and Third.

Without fanfare, but with considerable onlooker interest, big machines started this morning the rip-up preliminaries to the rebuilding of Main Street between Second and Third.

Work started by Contractor W. D. Caldwell will bring about new sidewalks, a new street-grade level, and beautification of intersection crosswalks. The block is a pilot program for what is envisioned as an eventual overhaul of the entire downtown area.

On hand for the start of the work were city commissioners, Adolph Swartz, president of Downtown Big Spring, Inc., the Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors, and others who have worked for a citywide beautification. Several score people watched as action began.

The work was hailed as another phase of the city's "Operation Sparkle," a West-Texas-wide program of community beautification. The downtown parking lot, brought about by the non-profit corporation, was the first The VA hospital campus project is another.

Mayor Arnold Marshall handled a jack-hammer to theoretically start the demolition of high walks, but it was a big dozer that actually went to work to knock out the old concrete. Caldwell's contract calls for completion of the entire block in 75 days' working time. It involves some $52,000, with the city paying a portion, and property owners, under assessment, paying the remainder.

The project calls for new sidewalks, a raising of the street grade to reduce the curb height in the block, plus planting areas at intersections. It is a downtown renovation that goes hand-in-hand with the provision of more parking and a general face-lifting of the whole area.

Both Sides Silent On Plan Offered By Indira Gandhi

LONDON (AP)—The U. S. States and North Viet Nam, and Communist governments were silent today on Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's proposal for an immediate Geneva conference and the end of American bombing of North Viet Nam.

Mrs. Gandhi proposed Thursday that convening of the conference be followed by a truce and that a settlement include the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Viet Nam and guarantees of neutral independence for Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

There "can be no military solution in Viet Nam" and there is no alternative to a peaceful settlement, she said in a broadcast before leaving for talks with leaders of the United Arab Republic, Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union. She arrived in Cairo today to meet with President Gamal Abdel Nasser. Most foreign governments, including those of the United States and North Viet Nam, were informed of Mrs. Gandhi's proposal in advance. She also sent a personal letter to President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam.

The crux of her proposal was

WASPISH DEBATE PRECEDES DECISION

Governors Back Viet War

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The nearly unanimous verdict of the nation's governors is that there can be no turning back in the prosecution of the war in Viet Nam.

By a 49-1 vote, the governors gave approval at the windup of their 58th annual conference Thursday to a resolution affirming their "resolute support of our global commitments, including our support of the military defense of South Viet Nam against aggression."

The long dissenter, Republican Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, called it a "blank check" for President Johnson's conduct of the war. He said he doesn't support Johnson's policies.

"I do not support escalation of this war," he declared.

Democratic Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada, who sponsored the resolution, said it did not commit the governors to future actions that might be taken.

Democratic Gov. William L. Guy of North Dakota, elected to succeed GOP Gov. John H. Reed of Maine as the conference chairman, took no part in the hot and at times waspish debate which preceded approval of the Viet Nam resolution. The 49 votes included those of the governors of Samoa, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

Gov. J. Miller Tawes of Maryland had left the conference earlier. Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee failed to attend, as did Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the governor of Guam.

There was unanimous approval of a meeting next year in the Virgin Islands, with a plush trip aboard a luxury liner thrown in.

him a grip on his party's nomination for the 1968 prize of top place on the ticket. There was no Democratic competition, of course, against President Johnson.

On the other side, Gov. George Romney of Michigan presented no forceful bid for his party's No. 1 nomination to oppose Johnson's expected bid for an elected second term.

Romney opposed any conference declaration on Viet Nam. He said it wasn't needed, that the governors weren't wasting their time in talking about things they could not control.

Tragedy Draws Focus Of Literary World

BIG MOOSE, N.Y. (AP)—Sixty years ago next Monday on July 11, 1906, Grace Brown, a farm girl then 20 and four months pregnant, met death in Big Moose Lake in the Adirondacks, a hundred miles northwest of Albany.

The finding of her body the following day touched off one of the most celebrated murder cases in American history, forming the basis for Theodore Dreiser's literary classic, "An American Tragedy."

EXECUTED Chester E. Gillette, 23, an ordinary murderer, was later executed and has long since vanished into an unmarked grave in Auburn, near the state prison. But the years only add to the legend and folklore. It now includes two books, two motion pictures, two plays, a television program, magazine articles, student theses, a folk song and uncounted personal memories.

The case is still a popular topic among residents of the area, although most of the voices are those of a generation whose only knowledge of the events was gained second hand.

Among the exceptions are John Denio of Old Forge, now 86, believed to be the only witness to testify at the trial who is still alive, and Roy C. Higby, owner of a resort on Big Moose Lake, who discovered the body, though that fact was not revealed until years later.

NEW YORK Gillette, slender and coldly handsome, met Grace Brown at his uncle's shirt factory in Cortland, in central New York, where both were employed.

He had been a drifter until he moved to Cortland, where he soon became a rising young man in his uncle's business.

He became attracted to Grace. In June, 1906, she returned to her farm home in South Otselic, pregnant and beset by fears and doubts.

Early in July, Gillette, who saw his future threatened by the prospects of a "socially unacceptable" marriage, told Grace to meet him on Sunday in the little town of DeRuyter and they would go away for a few days and be married. Gillette, carrying a straw, monogrammed suitcase, registered at the Tabor House there as "Charles George, N.Y." He apparently had decided on a course of action.

TOOK TRAIN On Tuesday, they took the train to Tupper Lake, north of Big Moose, where he registered as "Charles George and wife." It was Grace Brown's last night alive.

John Denio, then 26 and a wagon driver for the Hotel Glenmore, had gone to the station at Big Moose Wednesday morning to pick up mail and baggage.

"After the train pulled up from Tupper, they got off and stood by the station looking at a little map," said Denio. "Jim McAllister, another driver, asked them if they were going to the hotel and Gillette said he didn't know."

"Then he asked if the Glenmore was close to the lake and if they had boats. Jim said they did.

ANY PLACE "Gillette said 'any damn old place will do,'" Denio related.

"The next noon they found the boat, and her coat and his hat with the lining torn out, on the south bay in Big Moose," he said.

"They arrested him over at the old Arrowhead Inn, not the present one," Denio said. "He was there three nights before they caught him and I had to go over and identify him."

In his office on the shore of Big Moose Lake, Roy Higby applied a match to his pipe one day recently, leaned back and told his story.

Higby was 13 at the time and working at the Glenmore for his uncle, Dwight B. Sperry, who owned the hotel.

"On July 11, 1906, a young man and an attractive young lady came to the Glenmore on the buckboard, arriving about noon, and registered as 'Carl Graham of Albany and Grace Brown of South Otselic,'" he said.

RENTED BOAT "The couple had lunch at the hotel and shortly rented a boat," he said. "Graham, as he was then known to us, took with him his suitcase, tennis racket, top coat and umbrella. The woman left her bag and jacket and purse in the bedroom at the Glenmore. This was the last seen of them together."

The boat was found the next day floating up the south shore of Big South Bay, a straw hat floating nearby.

SAW BLUR Looking over the side of the boat through hands cupped against the sun, Higby said, he saw a light blur on the bottom of the lake.

He said he called it to Crabbe's attention and "Frank took a long pike pole, like loggers use, off the roof of the cabin and started to probe the water with it. For several minutes Frank used this pole, trying to convince himself that the white blur was not the anchor bag, as he thought at first."

"He finally called in the men in the boats and a hooked line was dropped, which caught onto a part of the girl's dress and she was brought to the surface," he said.

He said he noted her forehead was badly cut and that he became sick.

NOT TO TALK Higby said his father told him not to talk about the case to anyone, and "all through the investigation and subsequent trial, my name was kept out of it."

Gillette claimed that Grace had jumped into the lake and drowned after he told her he would not marry her.

NEW LIFE BEGINS FOR RAW RECRUITS AT RECEPTION CENTER

G.I. GUIDE: 3

No Longer A Civilian

By ELTON FAY

Until today you were a civilian, even though you had signed a paper back home as a draftee or volunteer and been handed an order to report for duty. But when you stepped down from a bus just now—dressed like most of the others with you in slacks, a sport shirt or pull-over sweater and loafer shoes—you crossed the threshold. You were in the military.

Induction, processing and basic training centers are essentially the same whether Army, Navy, Marine or Air Force. They look pretty much alike, have the same purposes.

Because the Army's proportion of manpower is the largest, let's use its induction and basic training center at Fort Dix, N.J., as typical.

Here it is, ready to engulf you. You go into a building under a sign which says simply "U.S. Army Reception Station." Beneath is another lettered on a pointing arrow, "Report Here." And tacked below that is one more saying "Quiet."

During the coming weeks you are going to do a lot of "reporting here" and a lot of listening while keeping "quiet."

When you report, whether as a draftee, reservist or volunteer, be sure and have some records with you.

There should be certified copies of your birth certificate as well as those of your family; your marriage certificate, if any, and if either you or your present wife has been married before, records to show death or divorce.

MEET THE SERGEANT A non-commissioned officer, probably a sergeant, meets you in arriving group and leads you in. You are about to become a "private." Or if you are entering the Navy you'll start out as "seaman recruit;" in the Air Force, "airman basic," and in the Marines, "private."

Your first image of the Army will be a sergeant. You'll be seeing and hearing from sergeants for a long time.

Almost simultaneously, four things are done to start you off. You get a first issue of clothing to make you look like a soldier. You get a medical going over which includes a blood test, a tuberculosis test, and an examination of your arms for any tell-tale traces of narcotics needle pricks. You get an Army haircut. They begin "processing" you.

"Processing" is an in word, man! The military uses it for everything from preparing strategy for waging wars down to asking you who you are, then giving you a label and a number.

You begin by filling out forms about yourself, which provide the foundation for the military record while you are in service—the "201 file," the Army calls it. You also get your dog tag and the "ID" identification card, with photograph and fingerprints. Don't think you are singled out because the military sends a copy of your fingerprints to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The FBI also gets them from many other sources.

The primary purpose of the military is to have handy a picture of you and your fingerprints for its own security purposes as well as to help identify you should you be injured, wounded or killed in action. The FBI, which now has more than 170 million records, uses them not only as an aid for itself and other law enforcement agencies, but for the same purpose of identification in event of accident.

The questionnaire includes the usual vital statistics—about names and residences of parents and wife; your residences since your 16th birthday or during the past 15 years (which ever is shorter), plus questions (for yes or no answers).

Are you an alien or a naturalized citizen of the United States? Any foreign connections, interests or employment or military service? Ever employed by a company with contracts of classified nature? Ever been in U.S. military service or employed by the federal government? Any arrest or court record?

Now comes a "briefing," and we'll tell you about that Sunday

MARCHING—AT 120 STEPS PER MINUTE—IS ONE LESSON

Tower Continues Blasts At Government Spending

SAN ANGELO (AP)—Sen. Tower, R-Tex., said today he's "getting a little tired of hearing federal bureaucrats blame our nation's inflation on farmers and ranchers and on prices and wages in the farm economy."

"It is the massive deficit spending of the federal government which primarily causes our cost-of-living increases," he told the Rotary Club. Tower added:

"Payments received by farmers for their produce have remained below parity for many months because of depressing federal farm policies. The return to farmers and ranchers must be increased. Likewise, farm worker wages have been lower than we would like and should be increased wherever and as soon as possible.

"We cannot penalize innocent parties by arbitrarily freezing wages and prices as a claimed anti-inflationary measure. We must continue to seek the betterment of all Texans even though we are handicapped by inflation created by federal fiscal folly.

"Farm unionization sometimes is mentioned in this context. While I personally oppose compulsory unionization anywhere, I believe that Texans must maintain with regard to farm unions the same position we take about our right-to-work law. That is: Texans must retain the individual right to freely decide on their own whether to join or not to join a union.

"I will continue to oppose compulsory federal arbitration of management-worker disputes. Texans have been unusually successful in past years in working out these problems among themselves with local initiative and reasoned good judgment. That's the way it should remain."

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Several residents of Bush street petitioned the city recently to reduce the auto speed limit to 15 miles an hour.

The city agreed and police set up radar speed traps to enforce the new limit. They promptly ticketed four motorists.

The four live on Bush street.

He said a laser garbage disposer was possible within 20 years.

Prisoners Are Sensitive Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanoi's latest parading of captured U.S. fliers has underlined again for Washington policymakers one of the most sensitive issues thus far of the Viet Nam war — the treatment of American prisoners.

A State Department count shows 34 U.S. servicemen are in Red hands and 233 are missing. The outlook is for bigger figures as the fighting continues.

SENSITIVE

The problem is sensitive for U.S. strategists because it directly involves American lives — and because they have found no sure way of safeguarding the prisoners' welfare.

But even with this drawback, U.S. officials cautiously acknowledge that American GIs in North Viet Nam do not appear to be getting the worst possible treatment from their captors.

A number of reports filtering out indicates that the Americans are faring about the same as other prisoners in North Viet Nam — not good food and medical attention by U.S. measurement, but about on a par with that accorded Asians.

North Viet Nam is a signatory to the 1949 Geneva convention providing for humane treatment of prisoners of war. But Hanoi says the captured Americans are war criminals, not subject to the Geneva rules.

HINTS AT TRIALS

Although Hanoi has hinted at war crimes trials for U.S. prisoners, it has not yet conducted any. Nor is it known to have executed any of the Americans.

North Vietnamese have been captured in the South. But Hanoi does not acknowledge its forces are fighting in South Viet Nam, so it has spurned the idea of prisoner exchange or a deal on reciprocal good treatment.

This still falls short of what Washington would like done for the captives, and Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman has been put in charge of U.S. efforts to improve their lot.

U.S. strategy at this point is to push these efforts at low key through various diplomatic channels, rather than hammering publicly at Hanoi and possibly risking something worse for the prisoners.

SET RESPONSE

Thursday, for instance, the State Department gave no more than a set response — when asked — to Hanoi's broadcast account of U.S. airmen being marched in handcuffs through crowded streets.

A spokesman described it as "disregard" of North Viet Nam's obligation under the Geneva convention ban against "intimidation," "insults" and exposure to "public curiosity" against prisoners of war.

But the spokesman declined to say whether Washington was protesting the North Vietnamese action. Nor would he name any of the steps which, he said, are being taken continuously in behalf of the prisoners.

One of these steps has been an effort by Harriman to enlist help from the International Red Cross Committee. Harriman has reported that the Red Cross group has agreed to make further attempts to aid U.S. captives.

REFUSED ACCESS

So far, it was reported, the North Vietnamese have refused access by International Red Cross representatives to the prisoners. They also are said to have failed to turn in lists of captives required under the treaty.

Partly in hope of reciprocal action in the North, the United States has encouraged humane treatment and visits by Red Cross representatives to prisoners in South Viet Nam. And it has sought quietly from time to time to discourage executions by the Saigon regime of captured Communists.

Baptist Says Movement Lacks Depth

WACO, Tex. (AP) — The "Death of God" movement reflects the disturbed state of mind of younger religionists in the United States, a Baptist professor of theology said here Thursday.

Speaking at the Baylor Ministers Conference in Bible and Theology, Dr. James Lee Garrett, professor of theology at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., branded the movement as lacking in biblical and historical depth.

Many have tried to explain the "God is Dead" advocates as men reacting to "neo-orthodoxy," he said.

"It is not just a reaction alone to certain theological movements of the past," Garrett said.

"I don't think any Christian Theology is worth its salt unless it has its rootage in the Bible and the Christian church," Garrett said.

"When pressed for when God died and under what circumstances, Altizer has not been so explicit," he said.

NATO's Continued Use Of Air Space May Be Allowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic sources indicated today that France may agree to the continued use of French air space by Allied military planes, despite its break with the military structure of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The result, sources suggested, could be continued French use of NATO's extensive radar network.

The future use of French air space is regarded as one of the most important issues in the current U.S. negotiations with France. Without French overflights, American and other Allied aircraft would have to resort to longer and more costly indirect routes.

French interest in the continued sharing of Allied air intelligence provided by NATO's radar system is approximately as great as Allied desire to enjoy French overflights in the future, experts on the issue said.

This and other related issues currently are being discussed in Washington with Charles E. Bohlen, the U.S. ambassador to France, and Harlan Cleveland, top American representative at the NATO Council. The two envoys are expected to return to their posts in Paris after talks with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, scheduled to arrive here Saturday from a Far Eastern tour.

Bohlen and Cleveland were recalled to help shape the American approach to questions that will come up at forthcoming bilateral and multilateral political talks with France.

Technical discussions on how to terminate the five bilateral pacts between the United States and France already are going on in Paris between Jacques Beaumarchais, a director at the French Foreign Ministry, and Robert H. McBride, minister-counselor at the American Embassy.

One of the important political topics will be the future of the North Atlantic Council, the alliance's top nonmilitary body, which is not affected by President Charles de Gaulle's eviction order to the military.

NATO foreign ministers decided at their Brussels meeting last month to move the military headquarters to Belgium, but they delayed a ruling on whether the political headquarters also should be moved out of France.

Knott Forms Community Group, Adopts Projects

KNOTT (SC) — Robert Brown was elected president Thursday night of the newly organized Knott Community Center Organization. Other officers are Donald Alred, secretary, Jerry Roman, treasurer, and Mrs. Herschel Smith, reporter. The community center is located in the old Knott school building.

Members voted to enter the Texas Community Improvement Contest, which began March 21, 1966, and will run until March 24, 1967. Cemetery improvement will be one of the first steps. Robert Nichols and Grady Gaskins were appointed to a committee for cemetery improvement, and the fourth Thursday in June each year was set for cemetery clean-up.

Other community improvement plans were converting the old shop building to a skating rink and repairing the asphalt court for tennis. The gym roof in the community center will be repaired later.

For individual improvement, each family was urged to repaint its mailbox and fix the family name on it, and all residents between ages 18-65 were asked to fill out a blood type card so that a community file could be made. Mrs. Lloyd Robinson and Mrs. A. H. Shroyer Jr. will file the cards.

A community grounds clean-up day will be held Saturday. Meetings are held on the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the center.

Witnesses To Attend Confab

The Big Spring congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will attend the district convention slated for Aug. 3-7 in Dallas, according to Mike Davis, presiding minister.

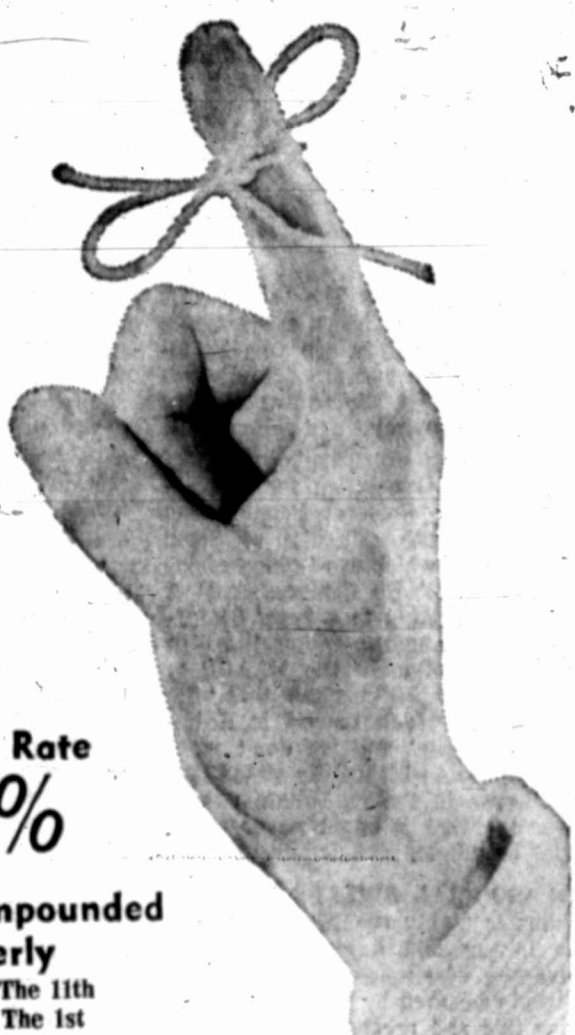

The convention is sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Brooklyn, N. Y., on behalf of Jehovah's Witnesses. Theme of the convention is "God's Sons of Liberty." All sessions will be held in Market Hall.

According to Davis, the Dallas gathering will be one of six to be held in the United States this summer. Other conventions are also scheduled through Canada, Mexico, Central and South America.

A Devotional For The Day

If you are led by the Spirit you are not under the law. (Galatians 5:18, RSV)

PRAYER: We rejoice, O Lord, that Christ has set us free by His redemptive love. We would rise to the mastery over ourselves by the power of His spirit. Help us to love Thee and so experience the abundant life of the Spirit in Christ's name. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

A Philosophy Becomes A Law

President Johnson has signed the freedom-of-information bill and took occasion to observe that "I signed this measure with a deep sense of pride that the United States is an open society in which the people's right to know is cherished and guarded." In his comments, he went beyond the bill itself and sided with the press in keeping its sources of information confidential. He added, however, that personnel records should be protected from disclosure and that officials within government should be able to communicate with one another fully and frankly without publicity.

The bill applies principally to the executive branch of the government but does not apply to Congress, which does some of its work in secrecy through closed hearings. Nevertheless, it does provide court action by which the government must prove that the information withheld is in the national interest. This puts the burden of proof on the government.

The real test is how the law is applied and how well the spirit of the statute is observed by officials and agencies. Entrenched bureaucracy may not be altogether cordial to the idea, especially if information sought may be unfavorable.

Perhaps the most important thing about the new act is, as the Associated Press observed, that it establishes as the law the philosophy that Americans have the right to know what their government is doing. As the President noted, a free society should be an open society.

Deserves Serious Consideration

One of the recommendations of the State Building Commission is that one million dollars be appropriated from the state building fund for a new governor's mansion. Seeing that the legislature last year rejected a proposal for $500,000 for a new mansion, the proposal may be in for rough sledding.

But before it is arbitrarily set aside, some serious consideration should be given the recommendation. It could be that now is the time to face the issue. Although there will be some criticism that it is a new home for the (Gov.) Connallys, this will be a silly diversion. Even if funds were earmarked, the planning and construction would take a couple of years or more. Gov.

Connally will have finished his term by then and in all probability will have retired to private life. If a new mansion is built, it will in no wise be for just the first occupant, but for all future governors and for their comfort, convenience, and for their greater effectiveness.

The present mansion, constructed in 1855, has long since been conceded as incapable of renovation to bring it to modern standards. It could however, be preserved as a historical monument. If and when a new mansion is built, it might include executive offices, which would free the capitol building space now required by the governor. So the idea is not some pipe dream but one which possesses considerable merit.

Race Problem: Moderation, Violence

WASHINGTON — The civil-rights movement has reached a crisis. Some of the Negro leaders are veering toward extremism and are actually advocating violence. Others are sensibly pleading for restraint and self-control.

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has just made some criticism of those Negro groups which are talking about "black power." He deplores such a concept. In talking to a news conference at Los Angeles, where the 57th annual convention of the NAACP is being held, Mr. Wilkins said that "the trouble with 'black power' is it implies 'anti-white' and we don't want anything to do with it." He added that he believes in the legitimate use of power but that it ought never to be racial or ethnic.

IN OFFICIAL CIRCLES here, Mr. Wilkins is highly regarded. He is an able lawyer and a graduate of the University of Minnesota. He has often been consulted by the White House under this and preceding administrations.

The debate that's going on about applying "violence" instead of "non-violence" is attracting widespread attention. The Congress of Racial Equality, usually referred to as "CORE," has just adopted at its national convention resolutions endorsing the mobilization of "black power" and a transfer from "non-violence" to "violence." The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. has invited Negro leaders of civil-rights organizations to meet with him to iron out such differences.

WORDS OF caution appealing for self-restraint are being uttered emphatically by some clergymen. Thus, the Rev. Dr. C. H. Jackson, president of the National Baptist Convention, the largest organized body of Negroes in America, declared in Chicago on Monday that direct action should not be substituted for the Constitution and the laws of the land or for moral pressure and constructive social influence. He said:

"You cannot stampede people into moral reforms or pressure them into a life of purity..."

"ALL THE constructive and forward achievements in our democratic society have been stabilized and preserved by law. We do not need to perform acts of civil disobedience in our attempt to become better citizens and to build a more democratic society..."

"Laws cannot make all men think and do things in the same way. Free men choose to be saints or sinners, to believe or not to believe. They may be segregationists and full of hate, but the law forbids anybody imposing that prejudice on others."

PART OF THE difficulty of the organized groups which have been leading marches or demonstrations and carrying on a publicity battle is that they are dependent on popular appeals to raise funds, and sometimes leaders feel inclined to capitalize on prejudices and arouse passions. Also, lining up Negro votes by themselves may not be sufficient, as the majority power is held by the larger number of white votes in the North as well as the South. Thus, "CORE," for instance, in trying to get more backers, has adopted a resolution demanding the withdrawal of American troops from Viet Nam.

THE PROBLEM of the Negro leaders is how to maintain the support they have had without alienating others who have been sympathizing with the objectives of the civil rights movement but who now are beginning to show disapproval of extreme measures.

If there were more leaders among the Negroes like Roy Wilkins and Dr. Jackson, more progress would be made in the long run to get increasing support that is likely to be achieved by those who are openly advocating "civil disobedience" and the use of violence.

Plants, No Trees

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — A nature group hopes to acquire Chiswaukee Prairie, described as one of the last pieces of virgin prairie east of the Rocky Mountains.

The land, halfway between Chicago and Milwaukee near Lake Michigan, supports 200 varieties of wild plants but remains a biological puzzle why it has never had trees.

The Wisconsin chapter of Nature Conservancy has acquired 40 acres but hopes to purchase about 200 acres and turn the property over to the new southeastern campus of the University of Wisconsin for scientific and educational purposes.

Optimism Shows Through

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nobody has said yet the boys will be home from Viet Nam by Christmas—or even a year from Christmas, but optimism is in the air.

It is guarded, of course, and at the State Department officials privately are counseling caution.

BUT AT NO TIME since the United States jumped into the Vietnam war has Washington seemed so confident. And the confidence starts at the top.

"Our diplomatic reports indicate that the opposing forces no longer really expect a military victory in South Viet Nam," a buoyant President Johnson told the nation Tuesday.

He was quick to add, "I am aware of the dangers of speculation," but it did not detract from what became the dominant theme this week. The tide has turned in favor of the United States.

Johnson has been optimistic before. For instance, he said last January in his State of the Union address: "The enemy is no longer close to victory. Time is no longer on his side."

BUT THIS TIME a chorus of top administration leaders are blending their voices with the President's. And activity in the diplomatic arena appears to give solid substance to their song of cheer.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who has been hinting at a new peace bid for some weeks, will fly to Moscow toward the end of next week.

In Hong Kong, senior American officials were reported predicting another diplomatic approach to persuade Hanoi to negotiate.

IN WASHINGTON Undersecretary of State George Ball told a news conference Wednesday foreign diplomats in North Viet Nam had reported deteriorating Communist morale.

And in Los Angeles to address the annual governors conference, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey spoke Wednesday of "flickering bits of evidence" that indicate North Viet Nam's leaders are seeking "some way out" of the war.

The current round of optimism was touched off last Saturday in Saigon when Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Viet Nam, said "yes" when asked if "we have now begun to win."

Monday, in a July 4th speech at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, Ball said the United States will continue its fight "and we shall prevail."

JOHNSON QUICKENED the tempo at his news conference at the LBJ Ranch in Texas the next day.

On Wednesday, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told Japanese Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina he is convinced North Vietnamese forces "can be defeated, and that the process is under way."

Like the President, Humphrey, Rusk and Ball mixed in full measures of caution.

And yet the optimism is there, on the record, for all to see.

Pity Today's Poor Millionaire

NEW YORK (AP) — Who wants to be a millionaire?

It hardly seems worth the trouble anymore.

There was a time when becoming a millionaire was one of the great American dreams. It was the most popular symbol of success.

WHEN YOU made a million dollars you were a king of the hill, a Horatio Alger hero, a captain of industry. Everybody knew you. As you passed through the streets people stepped out of the way and whispered to each other in awe: "There goes Alonzo Q. Grubb. He's a millionaire."

A million dollars to the average man represented the acme of wealth. That was the biggest figure his mind could grasp.

How could a man hope to become a millionaire? In countless interviews every millionaire gave the same simple stern formula: "Hard work and thrift."

Today it's much easier. You can do it by writing a naughty book. Even racehorses become millionaires.

IN AMERICA'S gilded past a million dollars enabled a man to live a life of splendor. He could dwell in a penthouse, have a place in the country with five servants, ride in a chauffeur-piloted limousine, own a yacht, subsist on champagne and oysters, subsidize a chorus girl, and buy a politician or two when necessary.

How innocent the world must have been in those days. But that palmy past is over.

Today a man with only one million dollars to his name is a rather pitiable figure. He falls in an in-between class — too well-to-do to qualify for the federal poverty program, too poor to hobnob with the really rich.

The ideal now is the multimillionaire, the billionaire, the guy who keeps a money shredder in his basement because it is easier to shred up his old cash at home than face the nuisance of having to cart it to the bank.

BUT CONSIDER the plight of the one-million millionaire who wants to conserve his small pile and live off the income. He can't afford to live like a millionaire at all.

If he invests it cautiously, it can probably only bring him about five per cent over the long haul. That's $50,000, of which $15,000 goes into the government till.

This leaves him a measly $35,000 free and clear. That may keep him out of the breadline, but if he wants a Rolls-Royce he'll have to buy it on the installment till.

It ain't what you got, it's what you owe that wins respect in our present prosperity. A guy with only one million is less respected than one who owes two million.

A Pain That Isn't Where It Seems To Be

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My X-rays reveal a degeneration of the cervical intervertebral discs. Why is it that I can do my housework during the day and have no pain, but when I go to bed within two or three hours the pain in my right shoulder is so great that I have to get up and sleep in a sitting position?" —MRS. M. B.

The X-ray report tells the story. Nerves to the shoulders and arm branch out from the spinal cord in the neck.

These nerves, obviously, have to pass between the spinal bones of your neck. Normally the discs (cartilage) between the bones protect these nerves and prevent pressure on them.

When such discs degenerate—that is, are worn thin, or out of shape, or are damaged in some way—the nerves can be pinched between the bones of the spine.

The pain seems to be in your shoulder. What really happens is that the sensory (pain) nerves leading to your shoulder are being compressed in your neck.

Nothing you do to your shoulder is going to correct the pain. The trouble is in your neck and that is where the treatment will have to be.

Medications sometimes provide relief, but fundamentally a way has to be found to protect those nerves, and a small fraction of an inch can be the difference between comfort and pain.

It is characteristic of this trouble that it tends to be worse when you are lying down than when you are upright, because of the shift in position of the bones of the neck.

A collar which provides neck support and thus relaxes the muscles slightly, can compensate for the worn and narrowed discs. You may find that wearing such a device at night will be sufficient.

In more severe cases, it sometimes is necessary to wear a supportive collar all the time, or to have surgery to fuse together two (or more) of the neck bones. This, of course, cuts down the amount of movement possible in the neck, but the fusing provides a permanent space between the bones to eliminate further painful pressure on the nerves.

Neck traction does much to relieve the condition, and should be tried before surgery is considered.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Molner's helpful booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosed envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

The Man Who Loped Ants

The man lived next door to us, or rather, we lived next door to him, for he was there when we moved in, during the war.

He had a big, old house on the corner, and a barn and horse-lot separated his house from ours.

He was very strange, and so was the lot, for he had no horses there, yet spent his time there.

WE WERE very young, and didn't know what to think when first we saw the old man, hunkered down in the Indian parley-fashion, apparently staring intently at something on the ground. He sat there in the horse-lot for a long time, looking crystally at something. We were curious and more than a little frightened.

Mommy, mommy, what's that crazy old man LOOKING AT? What's he doin'? What, what? Mommy didn't know.

WE WATCHED him on his daily visitation with something, getting more and more frightened of him and it. Finally, one of us noticed that the strange man was looking at ant beds, which made it even stranger, since we now knew what his fascination was—but why? How could anybody, any normal body, just sit there, hour after hour, and look at a bunch of ants?

There were ant beds, we now saw, all over the lot, but nothing connected for the longest time. Finally, we knew.

He was raising ants! We watched the Ant-Man (for that was now his name, to us) with growing fear and curiosity. We watched him feed the ants, and let them crawl over him, at will, and he let them in the awfulest, calmest way, seeming to like the feel of their scurrying up his bare arms, and down into the darkness behind his collar.

HE PROTECTED them, actually. He wouldn't have let us kids go traipsing over his ant farm, but we didn't mind—we wouldn't have climbed the fence for all the gold of Treasure Island.

We got used to him being there, but never would approach him. The ant farm took on a kind of eerie, imagination-shot glow in our mind, and the Ant-Man, well, he was something special, like having your very own troll under your very own bridge, fascinating yet repellent. We would invite friends over "to play" and then would sneak up to the fence and watch the old man watching his tiny friends, imagining him as a sort of creator of little, red Frankenstein's monsters.

STRANGE, HE never paid us any attention at all, just kept looking at the ants, like they and he had a kind of rapport, and the deepest, most secret secret, known only to him and them—and they chuckled together, we thought, because we'd never know.

The Virginia Primary

WASHINGTON—In Virginia where conservatism means never to disturb, save under the gravest necessity, a thing that is at rest, the old Byrd Organization seems likely to stay put at the upcoming July 12 primary.

The silver-haired "Young Harry" Byrd has a solid record of political service and is widely acclaimed for the amount of new business he has brought to the State as chairman of the Advisory Board for Economic Development. He has moved out front in the field of four who are competing for the two Senate seats.

OLD DOMINION voters appear to have un-yoked what was the "incumbent ticket" of the two sitting Senators, Byrd and Willis Robertson. An unofficial canvass in the Ninth Congressional District, the southwest area of the State, definitely shows a trend to separate Byrd from Robertson and to group him with the moderate candidate, State Senator William Spong who comes from the Norfolk area.

THE BYRD-SPONG grouping seems to show a little less clearly, I am told by close observers, in other parts of the State. But if it holds its indicated form, Virginia would be nominating a youngish pair of energetic, experienced right-of-center Democrats to seats that were occupied a year ago by elder statesmen in their upper seventies.

ROBERTSON, though a staunch conservative, has never been an organization man, so that a Byrd-Spong slate for the November election would not change the political balance at all.

Left out in the cold, it would appear, is the fourth runner, Armistead Boothe of Alexandria, long an antagonist of the reigning House of Byrd.

The veteran and hitherto invulnerable organization, which is little more than a moral community that stands for doing good in the tried-and-true way, is admittedly working this year in a strange environment.

"WE USED TO be able to tell in advance how many people would vote and how," said one of the old soldiers. "This year we can't even guess how many Negroes the 'poll tax repeal will turn out, and how many of the Conservative Party will cut us."

The Conservative Party, best described as anti-Negro and anti-Washington, is visiting a particular grievance upon all Virginia Democrats who have so much as a nodding acquaintance with the Johnson Administration. Collective guilt has been pronounced upon the organization because its last gubernatorial candidate, now Governor Mills Godwin, rode on the Lady Bird Special with Mrs. Johnson as it passed through the State in 1960. The Conservatives, who are good for as many as 75,000 votes, are theoretically ineligible to ballot in the Democratic primary, and in any event have vowed to boycott it.

NEGRO BLOC-VOTING, combined with the Conservative party boycott, could upset all calculations. But friendly Negroes seem to turn up at the Byrd rallies, indicating that they're Virginians, too, and slow to change.

Tight Money Comes As Shock

NEW YORK (AP) — John and his wife had made up their minds. They would take the $30,000 house in the neighborhood where they thought their children would have a better chance. The down payment of $3,000 had finally been scraped together. Monthly payments on the mortgage would be pretty high for them; but they thought they could swing it, just barely.

"Sorry," said the real estate agent. "You should have come back a month ago. Now, the only possible source for the money to finance the purchase is asking a down payment of $6,000. And the interest on the mortgage has gone from 5.5 per cent to 8.5 per cent. Money's tight, you know."

JOHN AND his wife and the children are staying in the old neighborhood. On the other side of the country, an aggressive junior executive was being moved to a new post. Joe was happy at the promotion. His family were reconciled to leaving their friends and the home his wife liked so much. A buyer had been lined up for it.

But just before the deed was to be signed, the would-be buyer backed out. He still liked the house. But to swing the deal for him, the lender of the mortgage money was now asking much more in down payment and carrying charges that would put the monthly payments beyond the stretching point of the prospect's income—even if the asking price for the house was shaved. The lender had explained it was hard to find any money, even costlier money, for the deal—and the going interest rates for everything were up, way up.

MUCH THE same thing is reported here and there by professional builders. The financial institutions that carry them while they build and hunt for home-buyers are hard to deal with just now. Banks and savings and loan associations say they're short of funds to lend. They also are fearful that home buyers able to handle the costlier mortgages may prove few and far between.

Tight money is coming as a shock to many folk because the money supply actually is bigger than ever before. But there's a booming demand for credit to run a booming economy. Businessmen are competing for loans. Government agencies and private corporations are selling securities—and competing for any available money.

Homes are still being sold, and still being built. But financial institutions that traditionally lend the money for the purchase of homes are finding it harder to get more deposits, because people with idle money can get higher returns by depositing elsewhere, or buying securities.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

It may seem paradoxical that one of the world's largest deserts rests over one of the world's largest water supplies, but this is coming more and more to be a recognized fact. Huge natural reservoirs of water, enough to supply the metropolitan area of New York for 6,000 years at its present annual rate of consumption, are trapped beneath the arid surfaces of the Sahara.

This resource is now beginning to be studied for exploitation for the people living in and around the largest warm wasteland on the face of the earth. According to Dr. Robert Ambroggi, hydrologist of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 18 countries with 148 million inhabitants share the arid territory of northern Africa.

The fact that oases supplied by artesian wells have been flowing copiously since ancient times, has always testified to the fact of water under the Sahara. But the extent of these reservoirs is only now becoming known. Part of the discovery is due to increased oil prospecting in the Sahara. Indeed, Dr. Ambroggi points out, the Saharan oil supply can be the source of the energy needed to pump the water. Good soils are also available once they can be watered. Extensive tracts of desert land have arable soils overlain only by a comparatively thin cover of sand.

The problems to be resolved are mainly political. The vast underground reservoirs cross national boundaries. But with some sense of cooperation and help in financing, the ground-water resources can be exploited on a total, Sahara-wide basis. If African countries can understand this, vast opportunities are open to them.

Project Advice Given To 4-H Club Group

COAHOMA (SC)—All 17 members of the Coahoma 4-H Club were present at the meeting Wednesday afternoon in the junior high library when Mrs. Delaine Crawford, home demonstration agent, was the guest speaker.

Mrs. Crawford told the group how to prepare their record books and demonstrated the proper way to put in hems.

She also gave pointers on planning a wardrobe for the year and explained the importance of keeping a record of expenses.

She noted that aiding in home and community projects made excellent additions to the record book. The agent suggested that projects other than clothing be pursued.

Ten adults met with the girls and were served refreshments which were part of the club's work. Kay Read and Becky Brady served from a table laid with a white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink and white flowers.

Jerri Ann Mencer prepared the punch and froze the ice in a heart shape. Val Rae Best and Marilyn Martin baked the cookies.

A LOVELIER YOU Meeting Someone? Know How To Act

By MARY SUE MILLER
Teen lovelies often feel unsure about "how to act and what to say" on the social scene, or so they write me.

Doubts seem to be magnified, now that the vacation season is on and a girl meets new people.

For the good of everyone's self-confidence and poise, let's solve the first problem—introductions. Let's do it with a Question-and-Answer run-down:

Q. How do you introduce a new date? A. Present a boy to an older person and to a girl. Examples: "Mother, this is Dan Date." "Father, this is my friend, Kathy Teen."

Q. How do you reply to an introduction? A. "How do you do" is the correct phrase and all that is required. When Teen meets Teen, however, less formal language may be used.

Q. Do you shake hands when being introduced? A. It is a poised gesture, but teens seldom shake each other's hands. You do not offer your hand to adults. But do respond promptly when anyone's hand is offered to you.

Q. Must you rise for introductions? A. Only when you are introduced to adults.

Q. What do you talk about to a boy you've just met? A. Find out what interests him—what sports, TV programs, records. Then he'll start talking and think you are an interesting talker!

Obviously, when you can take introductions in your stride, you get off to a smooth start with people. Boy people!

Tea Opens Mission In Odessa

ODESSA—There was no silver or coffee service, no fine linens or imported china, none of the appointments that usually make an afternoon tea.

It was just an "open house" recently at the "Door of Hope" Mission, 111 North Lee, on Odessa's skid row. But more than 100 of the city's finest citizens called to extend congratulations and good wishes to the superintendent, the Rev. Henry Fisher, Mrs. Fisher and their co-laborers.

The old building had undergone a face lifting and transformation under Rev. Fisher's guidance. For many months, it had been unoccupied, but the renovation was made possible by gifts of money and materials from individuals and business firms.

Interdenominational in its scope, it is supported entirely by free will offerings, with ministers and musicians from Odessa churches assisting in the services, which are held every night.

During its one-month operation, the Door of Hope has furnished beds to scores of homeless, served more than 1,000 meals to the hungry and clothed many who were practically in rags.

Rev. Fisher, a native Texan, was born on a ranch near Menard and has had experience in rescue mission work and a successful revival ministry.

Dr. Lloyd Marks His 35th Year

Thirty-five years in the ministry were climaxed this week by a Big Spring minister who maintains that "it's been a very full, happy time."

Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, celebrated his 35th decade in the church Tuesday, July 5. On that day, in 1931, he was ordained in Calvert by the Presbytery of Brazos.

His ministry began in the winter of 1927, when he first preached. He graduated from Austin College in 1927 with a bachelor of arts and completed his master's at the University of Texas in 1932. Dr. Lloyd received his bachelor of divinity degree at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in 1931, and his doctor of divinity degree from Austin College, Sherman, in 1951.

He has pastored churches in Calvert, Hempstead and Crockett, and will be observing his 20th anniversary with the Big Spring First Presbyterian Church on Sept. 1.

Dr. Lloyd has been active in numerous church organizations, local, regional and state and is listed in "Who's Who in the South and Southwest."

"The climax of my ministry came recently when I was electd moderator of the Synod of Texas," Dr. Lloyd said. "Two other highlights I can remember are the completion of the new sanctuary and church in 1963 and the trip to the Holy Lands with the church members gave my wife and me in 1952.

"I told my wife recently that if I had spent 35 years in the Navy, I could be retiring now on a full pension. But I wouldn't have traded places with any other vocation.

"It's been a very happy ministry."

Pastors Go To Holy Land

Three Big Spring pastors will leave Monday morning for a 22-day tour of the Bible Lands, joining Dr. Clyde Campbell, pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist Church, who is the director of the Holy Land tour.

Attending will be the Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Duke, Church of the Nazarene; the Rev. James A. Puckett, Baptist Temple Church; and the Rev. Melvin Montgomery, Mt. Bethel Baptist Church.

The tour includes France, Switzerland, Rome, Athens, Lebanon, Egypt, the Jordan Kingdom and Israel. The ministers' churches have contributed financial assistance to the tour.

The group is expected to return to Big Spring Aug. 5.

MYF Promotes Special Offering

A special offering in all Northwest Texas Conference Methodist Churches is being promoted this Sunday by the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

The MYF hopes to wipe out the indebtedness of $100,000 on the School of Nursing buildings, Lubbock Methodist Hospital.

MYF district presidents and the district directors of hospitals and homes met at the Lubbock Methodist Hospital June 23 to discuss promotion of the special offering. Attending from Big Spring was Annette Fitzhugh, First Methodist Church.

PASTOR'S FORUM

PERRY B. COTHAM, minister Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ: "He first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messiah . . . And he brought him to Jesus." (John 1:41,42).

Upon learning of Jesus, Andrew was not satisfied until he revealed his discovery to Simon Peter, his brother. He wanted to tell him that the Christ had come. Jesus had brought him such joy and happiness that he wanted his brother to share the good news. His efforts were blessed. This was the word Peter's soul longed for. He wanted to know Jesus. It was a great day in the lives of both of these men.

Andrew set an example of personal evangelism that warms the heart of all Bible students. His example should inspire us to go out in search of those who need to know of Christ. The church needs more Andrews. Andrew is saying to us today, "Go find your brother."

A 1962 graduate of Big Spring High School, he attended Abilene Christian College and Howard County Junior College and is in training at the Sunset School of Preaching, Lubbock, at the present time. He plans to do mission work in Montreal after he finishes school.

The Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ, where he has attended church since childhood, is helping support the campaign in Montreal.

CYO Delegates Going To Meet

Three delegates from the St. Lawrence Catholic Youth Organization have been selected to attend the state meeting of the Catholic State League in New Braunfels later this summer.

Attending from the local organization will be Susan and Roger Lange and Linda Hoelscher.

Laundered Prayer

ST. GALL, Switzerland (AP)—The Roman Catholic bishop here has ordered elimination of derogatory references to Jews in a centuries-old prayer traditionally chanted at sunset by Alpine herdsmen. Deleted were portions of the prayer, dating back to medieval times, which asks protection against "the false Jews . . . cheating our dear Lord God."

MUST THINK IT OVER!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

That's what my parents said when I asked if I could go to Eddie's Sunday School.

You see, there are lots of churches in town. And my parents haven't decided which one we ought to attend. These are important decisions. They take time!

But that doesn't make Sunday mornings much fun. With all my friends at church, there's nobody to play with except that bully up the street. And Dad and Mother say I shouldn't play with him.

That's funny! How come parents can decide what kind of boys we should play with, but they can't decide what church we should attend?

Seems to me that going to church next Sunday might help us all decide.

Three Held In Attendant's Death

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Three suspects arrested here Thursday in the slaying of a Brick-entridge man and questioned about an almost identical San Antonio slaying remained in jail Friday without bond.

The three men, Claude Dean Edwards, 21, Ronald Wilhelm, 21, and Gene McCain, 20, were arrested after the Stephens County sheriff's office issued an arrest order for the trio, describing them as "possibly armed and very dangerous."

The man slain in Breckenridge was Clarence Swaim, 55, a service station attendant whose body was found Monday. The body of a San Antonio service station attendant, Alvin Fay Carnes, 26, was found Thursday morning a few hours after the station where he was the night attendant was found abandoned and its cash drawer empty.

Bexar County Sheriff's Capt. Tony Morin said the three were not charged in the death of Carnes, but were questioned about it. Officers said Carnes, a bridegroom of three weeks, had been shot in the back, apparently after an abduction and robbery.

The service station where Carnes worked was found abandoned by a passerby at about 2 a.m. His body was found about 8:30 a.m. by a highway department employee in a passerbysure in northwest Bexar County.

Officers said about $200 was missing from the station, but no money was found with the body. Wilhelm and McCain were arrested by officers as they rode in a car on San Antonio's southside. Edwards was arrested nearby motel. Morin said none of the men were armed when they were arrested.

Mrs. Carnes said she had been worried about the safety of her husband just hours before he was found dead. She told newsmen she rode a bus to the station at 10 p.m. and tried to convince him to quit his night job. He persuaded her to allow a fellow employe to drive her home and stayed at the station.

Rains Refresh South Area

A few minor showers, varying sharply in intensity, swept across the southern half of Howard County Thursday afternoon.

According to reports, the heaviest deluge was on the Ross Hill farm, near Elbow, where two inches of rain fell. On the Garden City road, a short distance to the south and west of Elbow community, borrow ditches were well filled and paving was inundated in some places.

Lomax, in southwest Howard, had about 4 inch—a "good little cotton rain," as Arthur Staling described it. Elbow had .30. Forsan reported a light shower. No report was available from Chalk but the clouds which dumped the moisture on the west side of US 87 seemed to be drifting in that direction.

No measurable rains were reported to the north. Big Spring had a sprinkle, as it did Friday morning.

The showers broke the temperature which had been hovering above 90. The result was a cooler afternoon than had been forecast by the weather bureau.

The boards were still in session Friday morning with Novis Womack, employed by the three agencies as special tax evaluator.

Tax Boards Finish Work

Some adjustments were made in tax valuations, and agreements were reached on many others after two days of interviews by the equalization boards for the county, school and city at the courthouse. Total valuations were virtually unchanged.

The boards were still in session Friday morning with Novis Womack, employed by the three agencies as special tax evaluator.

No interviews with property owners were on tap for the Friday meeting.

In all, 122 persons showed up during the two days the boards met. This was a larger number than normal for these annual sessions.

Now that the boards have completed their work the tax rolls can be completed and the way cleared for property owners to begin paying their taxes on or after Oct. 1.

A boat fire four miles east of town on Interstate 20 at 12:45 Thursday resulted in the total loss of an inboard valued at about $2,000.

E. M. Hughes told firemen that the boat he was pulling caught fire while he was traveling down the highway. Firemen said that the starboard side of the craft was completely destroyed by the time they arrived.

Riot Breaks Out In Prison

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A riot broke out today at the Maryland penitentiary in Baltimore.

Officials said inmates had set some buildings on fire. At least 150 Baltimore city policemen were ordered to the scene.

Fighting broke out in the north yard of the prison, officials said.

There was no immediate word on how many of the prison's 1,460 inmates were involved.

One prisoner and four guards were slightly injured in a scuffle at the penitentiary Thursday but Warden Roger E. Copinger Jr. had reported the situation outwardly calm this morning.

Vernon L. Peppersack, state commissioner of correction, said a group of prisoners, after Thursday's scuffle, tried to incite about 800 others to riot in a recreation yard by accusing the guards of treating the pris-

Beaumont Objects To Salt Water Barrier On Neches

BEAUMONT (AP)—Opposition to a permanent salt water barrier proposed on the Neches River just above Beaumont was in prospect today at a Texas Development Board public hearing on state and area water plans.

The city of Beaumont was expected to object to the barrier on the ground it would affect water intake from the stream.

A discussion of the Neches River Basin and Neches-Trinity Coastal Basin plan and a hearing on water quality by the Texas Water Pollution Control Board was to be held in conjunction with the hearing on state and area plans.

Beaumont was expected to endorse the plan as a whole. Qualified endorsements were anticipated from the Lower Neches Valley Authority and the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce.

The plan would divert water from Northeast Texas rivers instead of the Neches and Sabine. It has been met with satisfaction from both groups.

The committee for a Balanced Water Plan, which is calling for a more thorough biological and ecological plant life study, was to be represented by Mrs. Cleve Bachman of Beaumont.

Mrs. Bachman said the board "has done a wonderful job from the engineering standpoint, but we do not feel that they have taken adequately into account biological and ecological conditions."

The sale water barrier and drainage of 300,000 acres of coastal lands, Mrs. Bachman said, would be opposed by her committee.

Under provisions of the state-wide plan, all the major cities on the west side of the lower Neches are drained by Trinity-Neches Coastal Basin directly into the Gulf of Mexico.

Water needs in both the Neches River Basin and the Trinity-Neches Coastal Basin are expected to increase sevenfold during the next 50 years.

The plan calls for an $84.5 million reservoir at Rockland, a $51.8 million reservoir at Ponta and the salt water barrier above Beaumont.

Sam Rayburn Dam would be counted on to supply most of the lower basin's needs, including those of the Beaumont area.

U. S. Pilots Sink Four Red Boats

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U. S. fighter-bombers blasted oil, rail and missile sites in North Viet Nam Thursday, dodged Communist MIGs and missiles and knocked out four torpedo boats, the U. S. command reported.

In a day of furious air action, two American planes were shot down. The pilot of one was rescued; the other is missing.

The four torpedo boats were spotted by reconnaissance planes near a coastal island about 30 miles southeast of Haiphong. The Navy said the camouflaged boats opened fire.

Three attack flights were launched from the carriers Constellation and Hancock. They reported sinking two of the torpedo boats trying to flee, heavily damaging another and burning the fourth beached and burning. It was the third attack on North Vietnamese torpedo boats within a week.

Both U. S. and Vietnamese military headquarters reported only minor skirmishes in the ground war in South Viet Nam. A U. S. spokesman said there was no significant contact with the enemy in the past 24 hours.

The Navy reported that its planes which raided the Haiphong fuel depot Thursday had just about finished the destruction of the port facilities for unloading and storing oil—including two vital oil-pumping stations—following the first attack there 10 days ago. The announcement indicated only about six per cent of the installation still remained.

The pilot rescued uninjured from the sea by helicopter was identified as Lt. Cmdr. William J. Isenhour of Lemoore, Calif., whose Navy A4 Skyhawk was part of the attack force against the Haiphong depot.

The other plane, an Air Force F105 Thunderchief, was shot down by anti-aircraft fire 90 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The Strategic Air Command's B52s kept up their two-day raids in South Viet Nam. One wave of the Guam-based bombers struck a Viet Cong camp 120 miles west-southwest of Saigon.

Another formation hit an enemy concentration 60 miles north-northwest of the capital.

Two MIG21s, the best jets in the North Vietnamese air force, jumped a flight of Air Force Thunderchiefs 35 miles north-northwest of Hanoi Thursday. One of the MIGs uncorked two air-to-air missiles but they exploded harmlessly some distance from the American fighter-bombers, a spokesman said.

The encounter broke off without damage to either side, he said.

planes flew a total of 77 missions Thursday. A spokesman said there were about 250 individual plane strikes. The air losses brought the number of American planes shot down since the start of the air war on Feb. 7, 1965, to 282.

They Look Skeptical

The children surrounding Chief Red Fox don't seem much impressed by his rain dance in downtown Columbia, Mo., yesterday. But the 96-year-old Ogalala Sioux Indian says his rain dance is not hokum, and it has never failed to produce rain somewhere in the area. Columbia has had no appreciable rain for three weeks. The rain dance was promoted by a local radio station. (AP WIREPHOTO)

DEAR ABBY Talk With Husband

"We are at the wheel," the triumphant Hoffa told nearly 2,000 convention delegates who ignored his 13-years impending prison sentences and re-elected him and other top union officials without a whisper of opposition.

Lionized as "the world's greatest labor leader," a "champion of champions," and "the greatest tiger of them all," Hoffa went promptly back to work.

"I'll be in my office in the morning," Hoffa, 53, said after ending the four-day convention he dominated with only a few dissenting voices.

He urged the delegates to get behind the Teamster hierarchy and work for the benefit of the union's 1.7-million members and their families.

Among the benefits Hoffa won for himself were a $25,000 wage increase, to $100,000 a year; approval to pay his $1 million-plus in legal expenses, and a union constitution rewritten to guarantee him nearly air-tight job security even if he goes to jail.

And Hoffa gathered into his hands broad new authority to negotiate national industry-wide and area-wide contracts in which all union locals must join if a majority of locals approve.

In a parting shot at his "enemies" — in which he lumped Congress, government, courts, business, the nation's press and broadcasting industries and some other unions — Hoffa said the Teamsters would re-enter the AFL-CIO only on their own terms. He demanded "no loss of jurisdiction" and the right to continue "organizing the unorganized."

DEAR ABBY: Please, please print this in your column. It may save my marriage. I can't mention any names as I don't want to ruin my husband's good name, but he has been seeing another woman.

I hope I can reach that woman's heart and ask her to PLEASE stop seeing my husband as I love him very much. It just about kills me to know that someone else has taken my place with him. I have always been true to my husband and have been a good wife and mother. I would do anything for him, Abby. We have four children who love him, too. I am in hopes that the woman believes in God and will stop seeing my husband.

PRAYING: Your husband's conscience won't take orders from the "other" woman's heart. Try to reach your husband's sense of decency, morality, responsibility — and honor. He is not being held captive, you know.

Don't nag, beg, or drive him out of your home with threats or hysterics. Make every effort to reason calmly with him until he comes to his senses. And keep praying.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl who has read your column for years but I've never seen a problem like mine. I know I am too forward with the boys, but I can't help making a fool of myself.

I am always bumping into them accidentally, on purpose, being loud, and making silly remarks that aren't ladylike. I flirt and try to be real cute, but am always saying the wrong thing at the wrong time. Afterwards I see what I did wrong and I feel just awful. I don't want to be known as a flirt and boy-chaser, Abby. I sure need your help. How can I overcome this?

BOY CHASER: You are intelligent to realize what your problem is and honest to admit it. Now in order to overcome your forwardness, bear this in mind: When you are in the company of boys, THINK before you speak.

Don't talk because you HAVE TO SAY SOMETHING, talk because you HAVE SOMETHING TO SAY. If you sit as a lady, walk as a lady, and talk as a lady you will soon be considered one.

DEAR ABBY: My husband kept nagging me to let HIM do the marketing because he thought I spent too much for what I got. Well, I let him do the shopping one day, and he came home with the biggest eggs I had ever seen. I asked him where he got them, and he said from a farmer out near where he worked. He asked me to boil two for his lunch bucket the next day. I did, and when he came home from work he said, "I never tasted anything so terrible as those eggs in all my life."

"They were DUCK EGGS. I was biting into everything I could get my hands on all day long trying to get that awful taste out of my mouth."

So, Abby, please tell women who have husbands who think they can do their wives' jobs as well as their own to just tune the poor boobs out. From now on, my husband does his job and I do mine.

Villagers Back Home, Spray Danger Passes

ARGYLE, Minn. (AP) — About 100 persons returned to their homes in this northwestern Minnesota community Thursday night after authorities said the danger caused by an accidental spraying of the village with a poisonous chemical had eased. Between 300 and 350 residents fled their homes late Wednesday night when it was learned that parathion — potentially a lethal poison — had been used in an aerial spraying operation instead of a milder insecticide.

Most businesses in this community of 800 were closed Thursday.

Copter Brings Along Breeze

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — When Joseph Supsky Jr. and his 11-year-old son didn't return from their sail on Biscayne Bay, the Coast Guard in Miami was called.

A Coast Guard helicopter piloted by Lt. B. E. Murphy of Springfield, Mo., found the 14-foot sailboat Thursday — becalmed, with both passengers all right.

Murphy maneuvered the helicopter over the sails and the breeze from the rotor got the boat going again.

An airplane made three passes over the town on a mosquito-spraying flight before the mixup in chemicals was discovered, authorities said.

No ill effects from the chemical were reported, other than a few cases of nausea. An emergency supply of atropine — an antidote for parathion — was flown in Thursday.

The Weather Bureau forecast a slight chance of rain today. Chances of rain were greater for tonight and Saturday morning.

"A good rain would wash it all out," said Dr. C. H. Holstrom, Marshall County health officer.

No One Knows Why Dead End Tunnel Built Into Building

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a basement in the $87-million Rayburn House Office Building, a tunnel stretches from a freight elevator 95 feet into a concrete dead end.

Unlike the adjoining pedestrian corridor from the Rayburn building to the neighboring Longworth House Office Building, the tunnel goes nowhere. It isn't used for anything either.

FOR CONVEYER

"It was put in initially at the request of the Post Office Department in case they wanted to put in a conveyer system" from the Longworth Post Office to the Rayburn building, says James H. Banks, second assistant architect of the Capitol.

"But they're not ready to use it," Banks added in an interview. "The volume doesn't justify it."

"This is the first I ever knew what that was there for; I often wondered about it," said House Postmaster H.H. Morris when told the architect's office said the corridor had been intended for a mail conveyer system.

"We wouldn't have been much in favor of it in the first place," Morris added. "They tried it over in the Senate Office Building but it just didn't work. Air currents would blow the letters off the belt. There wasn't any recommendation from us."

A Post Office Department spokesman concluded, "We could have suggested consideration that they might put something like that in." But he added: "It would be entirely up to the Capitol architect."

EQUIPMENT

Any conveyer system using the tunnel would have to pass through a room that houses large heating and air-conditioning equipment in order to reach the Longworth Post Office two stories higher.

Banks said it was correct that the architect's office made the final decision. "We thought it was a good idea," he said. "I still think it's a good idea."

Whatever its original purpose, the tunnel today lies virtually empty. About half the floor is painted, about two-thirds of the walls.

Two doors, numbered G3-15 and G3-15A, are propped open and tourists frequently wander in by mistake. The doors are marked "fire door, keep closed."

"It's a tunnel," said David Foutz, second assistant superintendent of House office buildings when asked what the tunnel is used for now. "What do you want to know about it for," he asked a reporter. "You people will just write stories about it."

FOR STORAGE

Banks, No. 3 man under Capitol architect J. George Stewart and assistant Mario E. Campoli, said he thought the tunnel would be used for storage. "We always needed more storage places," he said.

Told that the only thing in the tunnel at present is a broken whisky bottle, Banks laughed: "Well, somebody used it for something."

Heavy Rains Dash About

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms continued during the early morning in sections of the South and the Great Plains after an outbreak of violent weather Thursday.

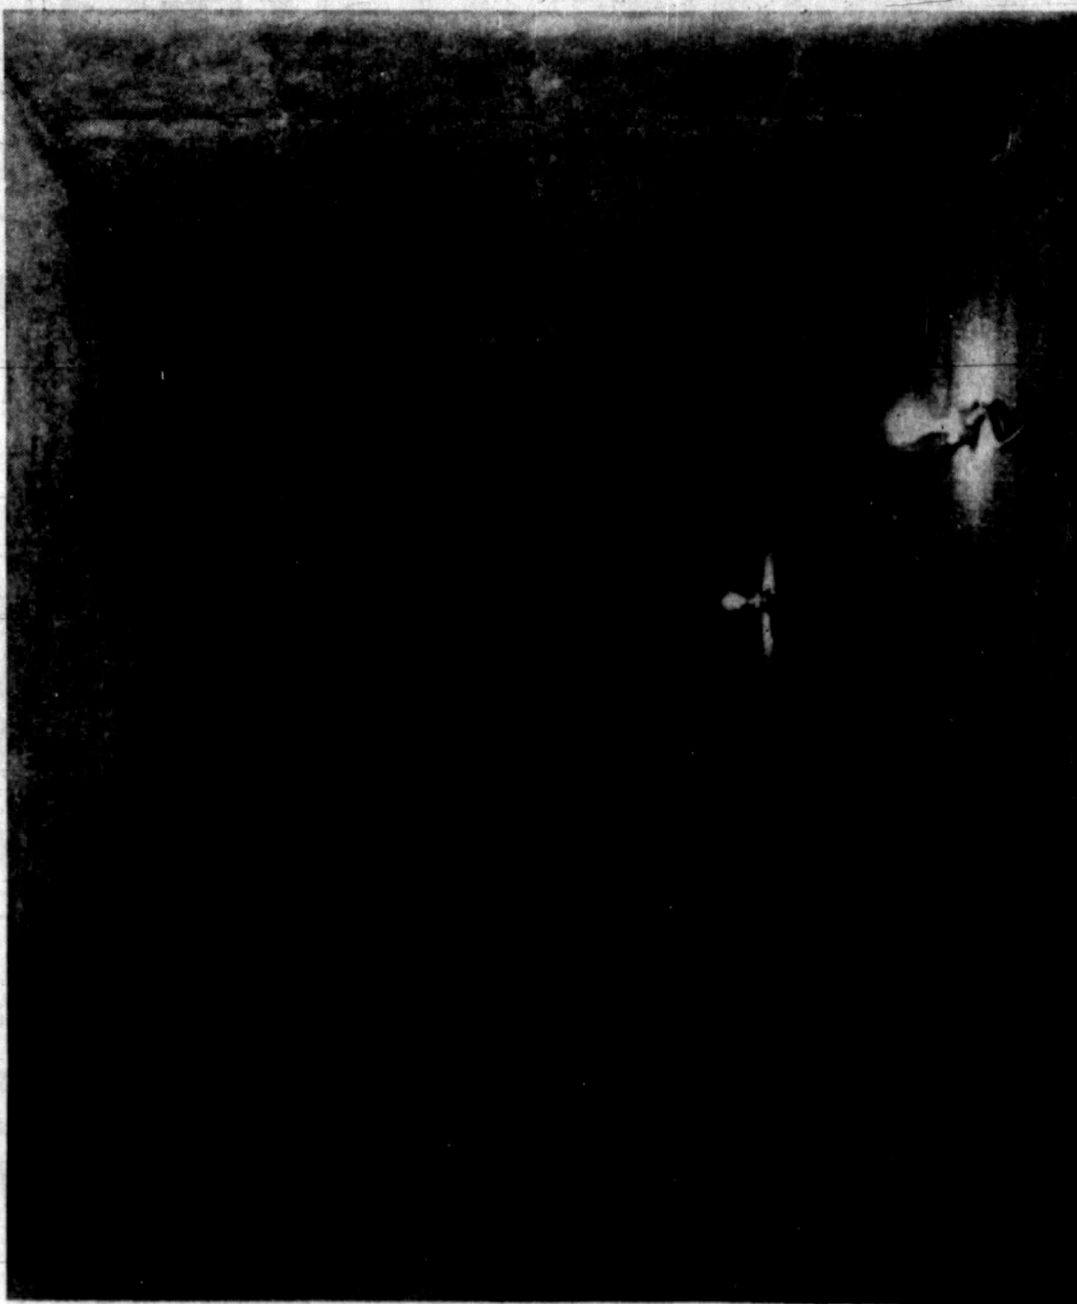

Heavy rain doused areas in Florida, Alabama and South Carolina. Earlier severe winds and rain storms hit central Tennessee, with two dead in Nashville, several injured and extensive property damage.

The storm hit hardest at Nashville and Rutherford County. Power was knocked out in several hundred homes in Nashville and Knoxville. Winds of 90 m.p.h. lashed Murfreesboro, 22 miles southeast of Nashville. Winds were clocked at 69 m.p.h. at Nashville.

The dead included an 11-year-old girl who was electrocuted when a power line toppled by strong winds made contact with her bicycle. A 56-year-old man died, apparently of a heart attack, as he helped clear trees blown across a street.

A tornado struck three miles north of Chacahoula, 43 miles southwest of New Orleans, toppling power lines and trees. No injuries were reported. Funnel clouds were spotted at Rocky Ford in southeastern Florida and at an area about 42 miles southwest of West Palm Beach.

Generally clear weather was reported in most of the Midwest and in interior sections of the West.

Dead End Under Ground

A reporter stands at a concrete dead end of a tunnel stretching 95 feet in the basement of the $87 million Rayburn Office Building. It hasn't been used for anything. There are no definite plans to put it to some use although one official said it could be used for storage. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Airlines Required To Open Plush Clubs To All Fares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enforcement proceedings were initiated Thursday against nine trunk airlines by the Civil Aeronautics Board to force the airlines to open plush clubs and special quarters they maintain for favored customers to all fare-paying passengers.

Robert Burstein, director of the CAB's enforcement bureau, charged the airlines maintain special waiting room lounges with food and drink, special baggage tagging and reservation service, check cashing and grant of credit for certain passengers. Burstein said the airlines deny entry to the lounges, and refuse the special services, to other ticketed passengers who have paid the same fares and charges as have the favored persons.

Burstein's complaint said the airlines, American, Braniff, Continental, National, Northwest, Trans World and United, engage in discriminatory practices and unfair competition, and violate rules requiring that their tariff show all rates, fares, charges and services. He ordered an investigation with the intent of requiring that the special clubs, waiting rooms and services be made available to all persons who have paid the required fares and charges.

Airlines at which the actions were directed included: American Airlines — The Admirals Club, 100,000 members; lounges at 10 airports, including Love Field, Dallas; Los Angeles International Airport; and San Francisco International Airport.

DUE TO MEDICARE

Hospitals Report Load Not Heavy

By The Associated Press

After the first week of Medicare, the nation's hospitals generally report they have much more paperwork but not many more patients.

A survey in 12 major cities indicates that the number of 65-and-over patients entering hospitals has been mostly normal since the program of hospital insurance under Social Security went into effect July 1. Only Atlanta, with a 10 per cent gain, reported a significant increase.

CALM STRAT

"After all it's still the doctor who says when a patient should be admitted to a hospital," said Dr. Robert M. Hazen of Kansas City, advancing one reason for Medicare's calm start.

Others given by hospital administrators included the availability of private medical insurance and other public health care, and the fact that Medicare went into effect in summer, a normally slow time for hospitals.

In New York, said Dr. S. David Pomrinse, assistant director of Mt. Sinai Hospital, the city "has long made it a practice to give medical care to all people. The payoff is that we don't have any greater demand now than before."

The hospital's director of admissions, Nat Lewis, said: "The urgency, the scare has passed. Anything that comes now is simply a matter of procedure and that can be worked out. Our only impact here is paper."

IMPACT

That was the major impact also at Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami, where head clerk Barbara Maton said her dozen helpers are "up to here in forms, perforated tape and problems."

Some hospital people warned that the future course of Medicare may not run as smoothly as the past week.

John Brewer, chairman of the Southern California Council of Hospitals, pointed out that in Los Angeles fall is a more popular time than summer for elective surgery.

"This is going to be a gradual thing, not a sudden one," he predicted, reporting that only cataract operations have increased in his area since July 1.

IN FUTURE

The real impact of Medicare lies in the future, said Sister Mary James, administrator of Hotel Dieu (House of God), a New Orleans hospital.

"I have been told that the people now over 65 are people who always have avoided doctors or hospitals whenever possible and that the real Medicare load will come when younger people reach the age of 65," she said. "I think there is some truth in this."

Those among the nation's 19 million persons 65 and over have taken advantage of Medicare so far had high praise for the program.

"If I didn't have it, I wouldn't be here," said Valentine Kuffel, 79, from his bed in St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Chicago. He was admitted July 4 for surgery.

Tale Of Two Yanks

New York Yankees' Mickey Mantle, left, blasted a game-winning three-run homer in ninth inning of game against Boston Red Sox at New York Thursday night, then relaxed in the dressing room as photographers snapped a 5-2 victory smile. Yanks' veteran pitcher Whitey Ford, right, appears relaxed in the dressing room also, after the dean of the Yankee pitching staff, who has not won a game this season, asked to be assigned to the relief corps. Ford's immediate future will be in the bullpen. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Mick Picks Right Time To Deliver

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Mantle, who has trouble adjusting to Yankee Stadium after returning from a road trip, adjusted just in time to save the Yankees from further embarrassment. "I never like coming back here," Mantle said after New York defeated Boston 5-2 Thursday night.

"It's tough adjusting to this park. You always try to pull the ball." Try or not to pull the ball, that's exactly what Mantle did with two out in the ninth inning, and it sailed into the right-field seats for a three-run homer. The blast, only Mantle's second hit in 18 at bats since returning to New York July 4 after a road trip in which he hit eight homers in six games, kept the last-place Red Sox from sweeping the four-game series. This year, for the first time since 1953 Mantle was not named to the American League All-Star team, but he has no regrets. "I can use the rest," he said. "Those other guys deserve it more. I just had that one hot week."

In the only other AL action, the Chicago White Sox defeated Washington 8-5 and Detroit edged Minnesota 4-3. San Francisco beat Cincinnati 7-5, the Chicago Cubs edged Pittsburgh 4-3, the New York Mets dominated Philadelphia 9-6 and Los Angeles nipped Atlanta 3-2 in the only National League game.

Mantle Omitted From Star Group At Club's Request

BOSTON (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' aging and ailing but still dangerous slugger, was left off the American League All-Star team for the first time in 13 years today as the squad was filled for the annual classic with the National League next Tuesday at St. Louis. Minnesota Manager Sam Mele, who will direct the American All-Stars in St. Louis' Busch Stadium, named Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, Rocky Colavito of the Cleveland Indians and rookie Tommie Agee of the Chicago White Sox as reserve outfielders. The 35-year-old Mantle, who ranks seventh in baseball's all-time home run derby with 488, reportedly was omitted by Mele at the request of the Yankees. Bothered by a shoulder ailment and a chronic knee condition, Mantle got off to a slow start this season and, despite a pulled groin muscle, along with his other physical troubles, set a major league record by hitting eight homers in six games. The spree boosted his season home run total to 15. Mantle appeared in All-Star games from 1953 through 1962, and then again in 1964. He was named to the 1963 and 1965 squads, but withdrew because of injuries. Yastrzemski, struggling to end a prolonged slump which dipped his average to the low .266, was fourth in the balloting which named Frank Robinson of Baltimore, Tony Oliva of Minnesota and Al Kaline of Detroit as the starting outfielders. Yaz appeared in the 1963 All-Star game. He was selected last year, but withdrew because of injury. Colavito, eighth in the voting, was named for the third straight year and the seventh since 1959.

Pirates Shade Giants, 2-1

The Pirates of the American League scored a run in the sixth to edge the Texas League's Giants in a thrilling City Little League playoff game unrecruited in the Texas park Thursday night, 2-1. The Bucs thus earned the right to oppose the International League's T-Birds at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the international park. The winner goes into the finals. Ricky Steen pitched the win, yielding only one hit to the Giants. He fanned 15 in the six-inning struggle.

Going into the bottom of the ninth at Yankee Stadium, the Red Sox had a 2-0 lead, built when Tony Conigliaro scored on a force out in the fourth and singled home a run in the ninth. Then after one out, Rolfe Sheldon walked two Yankees and Don McMahon came in to pitch. Pinch hitter Jake Gibbs singled home a run and moved the other runner to third. Tom Tresh followed with a sacrifice fly to tie it. Then after Bobby Richardson singled, Mantle unloaded his 16th homer of the season.

T-Birds Win Over Cabots

The T-Birds of the International League flogged the American League's Cabots, 11-6, in the second round of the City Little League playoffs on the Webb diamond Thursday night. The victory throws the T-Birds in against the Pirates in the semifinals at 7:30 o'clock this evening on the International diamond. Gatlin Jones pitched the win for the T-Birds, yielding only five hits to the American club. He also collected two of the winners' 14 hits. Thomas Brewer smashed a second inning home run with a mate aboard for the T-Birds and emerged with four hits in all. Richard Pitts banged out a triple and two one-basers for the T-Birds while David Jacobs collected a double and a single. The rampaging T-Birds scored in every inning in which they came to bat.

Indians Decision Lions, 11-6, In City Playoffs

The Texas League Indians exploded for eight runs in the fifth inning on their way to an 11-4 City Little League playoff victory over the National League Lions here Thursday night. The Indians now play the Jets in the semifinals in the American League park at 7:30 p.m., with the winners going to the Saturday night finals. The Lions, first place team in the National League, were very much in contention until the fifth. Tomas Gonzalez fashioned the mound win, limiting the Lions to six hits. The Indians combed the offerings of two Lion hurlers for a dozen blows, three of which boomed off the bat of Gonzalez. Mike Smith, Andy Mendoza and Oscar Robles had two hits each for the winners.

Like Robb was the only Lion to connect safely twice. He had a double and a single. Don Drysdale Finds Range As Slugger

By The Associated Press

Good hit, no throw. That's the story of Don Drysdale's latest effort, but the hitting overcame the throwing and enabled Drysdale and the Los Angeles Dodgers to overcome Atlanta 3-2 Thursday night. Drysdale, who has had numerous pitching problems this season, added some more to his list in the first 4 1/2 innings against the Braves, throwing wild twice and hitting a batter once. In the last four innings, though, the hitting took over as he bopped singles three times. The big right-hander's difficulties started in the third inning with two Braves on base and two out. Drysdale tried to pick Frank Bolling off second, but the throw went wide and the Braves had two runners in scoring position. Drysdale then hit Mack Jones with a pitch, loading the bases, before Hank Aaron cracked a two-run single. The Dodgers' onetime ace uncorked another wild pickoff throw with a man on and two out in the fifth, but this time he pitched out of it. Drysdale the hitter then took over. He led off the bottom of the fifth with a single and reached second, then led off the seventh with a single and reached third. But Los Angeles didn't get a run either time. He persisted, though, and one of his hits finally produced a run. With the game tied 2-2, Wes Parker at third and two out in the eighth inning, Drysdale grounded to short and beat it out for a run-scoring single. In other National League games Thursday, San Francisco outslugged Cincinnati 7-5, Chicago edged Pittsburgh 5-4, and New York topped Philadelphia 9-6. Drysdale, winning his sixth game against 11 losses, left for a pinch runner after his third hit. He allowed five hits in eight innings, and Phil Regan stopped Atlanta in the ninth. Maury Wills had a run-producing single for the Dodgers while Jim Leffevy contributed a sacrifice fly. Cincinnati grabbed a 5-0 lead over San Francisco, but the Giants roared back on two-run homers by Tito Fuentes, Willie Mays and Cap Peterson. Tom Haller added a bases-empty homer for the Giants while Leo Cardenas connected with two on for the Reds. Pittsburgh led Chicago 3-0, but the Cubs came from behind, too.

Yankees Grab League Lead

The Yankees moved to the fore in Sophomore Teen-Age league standings by spilling the Cubs, 10-2, here Thursday night. The Yanks, now 6-3 on the year, made the most of ten hits. Jesse Olague, Felix Martinez and Bobby White each had two blows for the Yanks. The Cubs now have a 6-4 record, which ties them for second place with the Giants.

Phil Rodgers Takes Open Lead With 70

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Phil Rodgers, the ex-Marine from La Jolla, Calif., followed a horrible 40 with an astonishing five-under-par 30 today and took a two-stroke lead over slumping Jack Nicklaus in the third round of the British Open Golf Championship. Rodgers' one-under-par 70 strokes at the 45 hole mark of the British Open Golf Championships.

While Nicklaus was holding Muirfield at bay, the other leaders soared well over par in high winds and bright sunshine which turned the greens into lightning nightmares. The blond bomber, who has won everything except this title started the day at 137, five-under-par, with Peter Butler of England only one shot behind. Butler, playing with Nicklaus, had two sixes in a 39 which put him at one-under-par for the distance while Big Jack was five under. They both started the round eight strokes behind Nicklaus.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

As has been stated in this window before, Big Spring golfers are extremely lucky to have the facilities they have. If they register for a round, chances are they can go to the first tee immediately and start their exercise. Such is not the case in other parts of the country, particularly in the congested areas like Los Angeles, Chicago and New York. A person playing in those places often has to queue up hours beforehand. In Chicago a golfer considers it not an unusual thing to crawl out of bed at 3 a.m. and stagger into the darkness headed for his favorite golf course. He doesn't complain because he knows the links buffs in New York have it far worse. According to Mike Royno of the Chicago Daily News, people in the east actually get up from their dinner tables Saturday, don their golfing raiment, and drive off toward the course for a game Sunday. Wrote Royno: "Until I read a story about New York golf conditions, I did not realize that the game was played in that city. I thought New Yorkers got their exercise by being mugged and suffering other discomforts. "But they have about 50 golf courses in and around that city and apparently everyone is trying to get on them. . . . One man arrives at his course at 8 a.m. every Saturday to assure himself of an early start on Sunday. He has been doing this for three years. . . . Most of them loaf around home for a little longer and start arriving at the course at 11 p.m. By 1 a.m. there are a couple of dozen cars in the parking lots. The order of the cars determines the order of the next morning's play. "Some of the players kill the long night reading by flashlight. Others prepare their bodies for the rigors of athletic activity by twisting up and trying to sleep in the back seat. One man parks his car, then walks to a nearby lake to fish. He says the fish seem to be sleeping so he seldom catches any. "This tells us something about the comparative intelligence of New York golfers and New York fish. There is another man who sits in his car all night. He says he spends the night thinking. "What do you think about?" he was asked. "I think about how I played last Sunday and about what I did wrong. Then I try to figure out how I can do better this week. "His approach to self improvement has not yet turned up in any of the leading golf manuals. "One of the more interesting developments to come out of New York golf is a new use for teen-agers. "Teen-agers are not often thought of as the most useful creatures on earth, as most of them are not edible and they do not bark loud enough to frighten prowlers. "But in New York, parents of teen-agers have found a way to make them worth the cost of food and lodging. They toss them into the night with instructions to find and hold a place in line. Almost all of them do as they are told and those that do not aren't worth keeping anyway. "The person who isn't willing to get out of bed early and doesn't have an obedient child still has a chance to play. If he shows up at 7 a.m., he'll probably tee off at about noon, which would give him a fair chance to finish by suppertime. But if he arrives at 10 a.m., he won't get to play until 7 p.m. And by then, he might as well just get in line for the next day's game. "This probably seems like a lot of trouble to go through for a game of golf — especially to non-golfers. But they must remember that life in New York can be very tense. And golf is a great way to relieve tensions."

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, setting a sizzling pace, matched par for nine holes with a 36 today and stretched his lead to four strokes at the 45 hole mark of the British Open Golf Championships.

LeFebvre Is Replacement

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National League's 25-man All-Star squad was completed today with the selection of 10 more players, including Los Angeles' Jim Lefebvre to replace Houston's injured Joe Morgan as the starting second baseman.

The selections were made by Dodger Manager Walter Alton, who picked Felipe Alou of Atlanta as a reserve first baseman although he received votes as an outfielder in the players' poll. Alton will manage the Nationals in the game Tuesday at St. Louis.

Alton named outfielders Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh, Curt Flood of St. Louis and Richie Allen of Philadelphia to back up the starting outfield of Hank Aaron of Atlanta, Willie Mays of San Francisco and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh.

Additional players selected were shortstop Maury Willis of Los Angeles, second baseman Ron Hunt of New York and third baseman Jim Ray Hart of San Francisco, and catchers Tom Haller of the Giants and Tim McCarver of the Cardinals.

The starting fielders and pitchers were announced earlier.

Lefebvre, Haller, Hart and McCarver will be making their first All-Star appearances.

Morgan was the first choice in the voting for the starting team by players, manager and coaches, but broke his right kneecap and is still out of action.

Lefebvre was the second choice.

Alton passed over Bill White of Philadelphia in naming Alou to back up starting first baseman Willie McCovey of San Francisco. White was second in voting to McCovey. In the players' poll, Alou was sixth in the balloting for outfielders with 34 votes. He also has played first for Atlanta.

Tradition has been that All-Star managers select the substi-

Stanleys Triumph In Sunday Shoot

Deleon Stanley and Nolan Stanley won first places in the shoot held Sunday by the Mesquite Gun Club at its range near Vincent.

Deleon copped the blue ribbon in the light varmint class, firing at 100 yards, with a score of 100, including five bulls-eye.

Delbert Stanley was second in that division, with the same score. Third was W. E. Davidson, with a score of 99 with nine X's.

In the Magnum 200-yard event, Nolan Stanley prevailed with a score of 95 with five bulls-eye. Deleon Stanley was second in that class, with 94 and four X's, followed by Jimmy Felts, who achieved a score of 90 with one X.

Next round of activity planned by the group will be July 17, at which time competition will be held in the Big Bore rifle of 25 caliber and larger, complete with scope; and the Hunting Rifle, 277 caliber and larger, with metallic sites.

Buckpasser Eyes Chicago Event

By The Associated Press

Buckpasser, the colt who set a world record for the mile of 1:32 3-5 in his last outing, the Arlington Classic, hopes to take another giant stride Saturday towards the 3-year-old championship.

This time Ogden Phipps' sensational colt meets Abe's Hope for the first time since their thrilling duel in the Flamingo at Hialeah when Buckpasser won by a nose in the last jump.

Their clash in the $100,000 Chicagoan Stakes at Arlington Park in the second leg of the Mid-America Triple shares the weekend headlines in horse racing with the $100,000 Hollywood Park Derby and the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot, one of harness racing's most glamorous events.

A small field is expected to go against Buckpasser in the 1 1/4 miles of the Chicagoan in which the Phipps color bearer will tote 123 pounds to 116 for Abe's Hope. Better Sea, winner of the Omaha Gold Cup Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben is expected to be a starter under 118.

Buckpasser, the 2-year-old champion in 1965, had been expected to contest the Triple Crown classics of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes with Graustark, but both were injured and missed the Triple Crown events. Graustark was retired for breeding purposes, but Buckpasser returned to the races on June 4 and has been unbeaten in three races since his return to competition.

Abe's Hope, after his narrow defeat in the Flamingo last March, finished first in the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park, but was disqualified. He beat Graustark in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland, a feat that made him the early favorite in the Kentucky Derby.

He finished fifth to Kauai King at Churchill Downs, however, and was given a rest after a third in the Illinois Derby.

Earlie Fires is slated to ride him in the Chicagoan with Braulio Baeza again in the saddle on Buckpasser.

Exhibitionist, an invader from New York, is favored in the Hollywood Derby against a field expected to include Flame Tree, Rehabilitate, Fragmew, Drin, Fleet Host, Hill Clown, Ri Tux and Aqua Vite.

Noble Victory of the United States and Armbr Flight of Canada are expected to dominate the Roosevelt International against a field of six European trotters.

Houston Astros Outlast Texas League All-Stars

By The Associated Press

For two straight years the Texas Leaguers have thrown away their all-star game to the Houston Astros in the last inning.

Last year they waited until the 11th to make their bobbles so Houston might win 5-1.

Thursday night at Arlington it was the ninth inning when an error by Roy Majtyka of Arkansas on a double play ball opened the gates for three unearned Houston runs. The Astros won 7-6.

The winning run actually was balked in by Leo Newton, Arkansas pitcher.

Texas Leaguers entered the ninth leading 6-4. Then came disaster.

Houston pounded three hits in the ninth, Nate Colbert's double driving in two runs.

Bill Heath's homer in the seventh brought in two runs and got Houston back in the game. The Astros then trailed only 3-4. Ron Brand drove in Lee Maye in the eighth to tie the score.

Then the Texas Leaguers got two runs on a triple by Doug Rader of Amarillo, following a double by Tom Hutton of Albuquerque, and a sacrifice fly by Don Wilkinson of El Paso.

That set the stage for the Texas Leaguers' downfall in the ninth. Don Arlich, who worked the last inning in relief of Aurelio Montegudo, was the winning pitcher.

Pat House of Austin started for the Texas Leaguers and pitched a perfect game for three innings. He surrendered a run in the fourth and left with the score tied 1-1.

Wayne Granger of Arkansas, who went on in the eighth, was the losing pitcher. He left the winning run on base.

A crowd of 10,434 saw the game—only about 200 fewer than last year despite rains during the day. The weather kept about 2,000 away, according to League President Hugh Finnelly.

English, Vick Resign Posts

BROWNFIELD — Jerry English, head basketball coach, and Joe Vick, head baseball coach, at Brownfield High School recently resigned to go into private business.

Head football coach and athletic director Doug Cox is now taking applications to fill the vacancies.

Clean-Up Drive Gets Started

Northside United is sponsoring a clean-up drive in the north-east section of town and has requested the help of various civic organizations to contribute to the program.

Police Chief Jay Banks said his department would cooperate, and violators of the city trash ordinance will be prosecuted.

Banks said certain areas in that district, such as alleys and vacant lots, have been frequently used as dumping places for trash. He advised anyone seeing such unlawful deposit of garbage to notify police.

Police filed two charges last week and two Thursday for violating the city trash ordinance. Maximum penalty for dumping trash is $200.

Ames Avoiding Being Typecast

By ED AMES*

For Cynthia Lowry

EDITOR'S NOTE—Ed, the youngest of the singing Ames Brothers, left the family act to solo as an actor five years ago. He made it to Broadway in a year — and into NBC's "Daniel Boone" in three. He plays Don's Oxford-educated half-breed sidekick.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As an actor who has played the same role in a television series for the past two years, I feel qualified to say that avoiding the pitfall of being "typed" by agents, producers and directors is practically a career in itself.

In my role as the Indian "Mingo," on "Daniel Boone," I could possibly be thought of as only being able to play Indians. When I agreed to the role, I thought about the possibility of being slated to play Indians for years to come. And I began taking steps to prevent it.

In reality, I don't think the audiences type an actor. I feel that they accept an actor in the role he's playing. The actor doesn't have to convince the public that he can play various roles. But he does have to make the entertainment industry — and that includes his agent — see that he has a wide range of talents.

To keep from being type-cast, I've managed to keep several careers going at the same time. In addition to playing Mingo, the educated Indian, I have other careers. They include performing as a night club entertainer, recording artist, musical comedy and dramatic actor, and television and motion picture actor—all as Ed Ames.

Last year I was working almost around the clock. By day I was Mingo. At night I starred in a Los Angeles theater-in-the-round production of "Carnival."

I did not "moonlight" for the money. The extra salary I made went to pay for advertisements in show business trade papers reminding the industry of my activities in addition to the series. The physical strain of working day and night was difficult. But this is something an actor must do to help his career.

It seems to me that an actor, worrying about a television series which might prevent him from getting different roles afterwards can solve this problem by taking the required time, effort and expense. It may be a gamble. But any actor afraid to gamble should give up acting. Every role an actor takes is a gamble to advance his career. The thing he has to know are the odds.

If he knows these, it softens his anguish and fear of being typecast.

YMCA Program Brings More Into Activity

YMCAs nationwide have been developing and emphasizing new and different programs and services in the past few years, many of them aimed at entire families, women and girls, with a great deal of concentration in "inner-city" work.

Curtis Mullins, general secretary of the Big Spring Y, said that a report from James F. Bunting, national general secretary, pointed out shifts in emphasis in programming by many local Y's because of changed membership patterns.

The Y's "inner-city" work

Useful Method At Sales Meet

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Leo H. Leary Jr., an investment counselor, closed a lively staff meeting Wednesday by scrawling this sales slogan on the blackboard — "Up with the Irish!"

Opening the office Thursday morning, he was greeted by another blackboard message — "Down with burglars! Lock your doors!" This was signed by Bruce W. Kane, Anaheim police officer.

which deals with school dropouts, juvenile delinquents, the war on poverty, street gangs, underprivileged children and depressed areas within cities, has climbed steadily during the past few years, the report maintains. There were 1.2 million personal problem interviews conducted in YMCAs during that year, and increase of seven per cent.

For the first time in its 113 years, Y membership in the U.S. totals close to five million, representing a 14.7 per cent increase over the previous year. By 1965, Y memberships in all categories had risen by 56 per cent over the 1955 figure of slightly less than two and one-half million.

Most notable in the Y report gains were the increases in family memberships, although the Y remains primarily a youthful organization, with 60 per cent of its total membership under age 25.

Total membership in the Big Spring Y during 1965 was 3,483, Mullins said, with 280 volunteer leaders. Mullins said that the local Y's varied programs were attracting new people all the time.

"We think we've got a good program here," he said, "and we want others to know about it."

Young Horsemen To Stage Second Show Sunday

The second approved Howard County Youth Horsemen's Club show will be held Saturday at 6 p.m. in the club arena south on the Garden City highway, one mile southwest of the takeoff from US 87.

Competition will be in halter and performance divisions with 10 classes for mares, 10 for stallions, four for geldings and three for ponies and Shetlands. These will be for registered and unregistered mounts, halter and age groups will be for those foaled in each year starting with 1966 through 1962 or before.

Performance events include barrel racing, pole bending, flag racing, and ring racing. Age groups are nine years and under, 10-12 inclusive, 13-15, and 16-19. The fee will be 50 cents each time a horse is entered in an event. There is no charge for the show, and spectators are welcomed. A concession stand will be operated for convenience of fans.

Points earned in this show—and a third one yet to be set—will count toward a season's total. The high point boy and girl will receive a trophy after the third show. The high point halter class horse will receive a large rosette.

Farm Workers Nearing Goal

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Farm workers trudged toward San Juan today in the final 10 miles of a Lower Rio Grande Valley march seeking to enlist public support of their demands for higher pay.

They expected Roman Catholic Bishop Humberto Medeiros of Brownsville to say mass at a San Juan church after their arrival.

A spokesman said he also would issue a statement dealing with church policy and the labor situation.

Edinburg Mayor Al Ramirez left a hospital where he is recuperating with a broken hip to meet the marchers at the edge of town. They ate a supper prepared by Edinburg residents.

There were about 120 walking single file as the day's 24-mile journey from Mission was completed. Much of the distance was traversed in 90 plus degree weather.

Those taking part represent a union which struck June 1 in Starr County over demands that melon field workers be paid $1.25 an hour, compared to the $5 cents to $1 they now earn. Growers obtained a court order against picketing and say the strike has not affected their harvest.

Ramirez, who was injured in an automobile accident, rode in an ambulance to welcome the marchers.

"If you do succeed and this area improves in the direction that you want it to improve," the Edinburg mayor told them, "we will all lead better lives."

In reply union organizer Eugene Nelson told Ramirez: "What you've done is an example of why this strike and the farm workers' movement will not falter."

Claims Wages Can Go Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department said today studies indicate wages of farm workers can be increased substantially, at least in some crops and areas, without significantly affecting food costs.

In addition, it said, farm wage increases can be made without undermining the agricultural economy.

These generalizations were included in a study the Labor Department made to analyze claims that termination of the Mexican farm labor program last year would force either high retail prices or heavy losses for farm operators.

The study was made in California, the department said, because it is the nation's leading agricultural state and because imported Mexican laborers—known as braceros—constituted a significant share of the state's agricultural work force prior to 1965.

Opening lead: Six of ♠. South found himself confronted with a hazardous undertaking when he landed in five clubs, and the risk seemed hardly necessary for nine tricks were readily available at no trump.

The fault in our opinion lies with South, for leaping to game in the minor suit without first probing for the best contract. When North raises South's two club response, the latter should now bid three diamonds. There need be no fear that partner will suddenly drop the auction, inasmuch as both players have made forward going calls.

Over three diamonds, North can cue bid three spades to show his controls in that suit, and it now becomes routine for South to try three no trump which partner has no reason to disturb.

West opened the six of spades so.

against the five club contract, and the king was played from the North hand. A club was led to the ace and South drew three rounds of trump ending up in dummy. A small diamond was led and, when East followed with the eight, declarer played the jack which held the trick.

Despite the success of the diamond finesse, South was reluctant to lay down the ace for, if the king did not drop, East was certain to get in with that card and a heart return thru declarer's king would set the contract if West had the ace. If it should prove necessary to concede a diamond trick, it was important to keep East out of the lead, and South bent his efforts in that direction.

A spade to the ace put North in for another diamond play. East followed with the nine; however, this time South played the deuce. West was obliged to win the trick with the ten and he could do no better than cash the ace of hearts. Declarer claimed his contract, having restricted the defense to one diamond and one heart.

It may be observed that West was in position to defeat the contract by dropping the ten of diamonds under declarer's jack on the first lead of that suit. South is thereby prevented from ducking the next trick into the West hand, and East is assured of the opportunity to make the killing heart return when he gets in.

Altho it is possible to make out a case for the "unblocking play" by West, we are not inclined to point the finger of scorn at him for failing to do
