

'MAJOR CITIES SITTING ON A POWDER KEG'

More Racial Violence Rumbling

CHICAGO (AP) — The crackle of flames and gunfire had subsided on Chicago's heavily Negro West Side but a somber Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was listening to rumblings of racial storms building elsewhere.

"I hate to make this prediction," said King, rubbing his face, haggard from lack of sleep. "But we have to be honest. Every major city is sitting on a powder keg."

NOT ALONE

King was not alone in his assessment that violence might erupt in the hot summer months in any one of a dozen or more cities.

"Because no matter what they tell you, everything is not okay in colored town," said a Negro attorney in another city. The remark was made by Alice Hastings who doesn't live in Chicago or New York or Los Angeles. He lives in Pompano Beach, Fla., where rioting bands of Negroes battled police less than one month ago.

Similar fears were expressed by many Negroes in other areas. Associated Press interviewees found. Giving weight to such fears were recent outbreaks of violence in such widely separated places as Omaha, Neb., Cleveland, Ohio, and Cordele, Ga.

TEENAGERS

Hundreds of Negro teenagers rioted the night of April 11 at a park in Glen Echo, Md., only 10 miles from the White House, and left a trail of property damage and terrified residents on a march home.

Summer arrived officially

June 21. The night of June 22, looting and vandalism broke out in an East Cleveland area where Negro and white neighborhoods meet. Bands of Negro youths stoned cars occupied by whites.

A 10-year-old Negro boy was wounded when a white man opened fire with a pistol from a passing car.

Whites and Negroes staged a gunbattle the night of June 28 in Cordele, Ga. The July 4 weekend brought violent disorders for three nights in Omaha's predominantly Negro near North Side. It ended with National Guardsmen clearing the streets.

HURLED STONES

In Des Moines, Iowa, about 200 young Negroes hurled stones and bottles at policemen answering a call at a park July 4. Three days later, a hundred helmeted policemen in Paterson, N.J., quelled a missile-throwing outbreak that followed a "black power" speech by a Negro leader.

Last Saturday a brief, fiery outburst resulted in San Francisco when an off-duty Negro policeman shot and wounded a Negro suspected of attempting an armed robbery. Negroes set seven fires with gasoline bombs and a white ambulance driver was attacked but not hurt seriously.

from simple things like hot weather, vandalism, resentment of police, idleness and malicious mischief to more sophisticated explanations of frustration, repressed hopes, insecurity, racial discrimination and disillusionment.

But even before Chicago's outbreak, civil rights figures warned of the unrest and tensions.

"We cannot ignore that we have new human tensions. A great deal of bitterness has developed," Dr. J. H. Jackson of Chicago, president of the predominantly Negro National Baptist Association, has said.

A view widely held by civil rights leaders is that the federal government's antipoverty program offered hopes it has failed to deliver.

THREATENS

This "aborted promise" threatens the nation with unrest, said Dr. Robert W. Spike, a University of Chicago theologian, in a speech at St. Louis. James Farmer, former national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, assessed it this way: "Another broken promise to the millions outside the mainstream."

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠ K 5 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ Q J 5 4 ♣ K 7 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1♣	Pass	1♥	1♠
2♥	2♠	3♠	Pass
4♥	Pass	?	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. You have not yet done full justice to the holding in view of the fact that your partner opened the bidding and made a free rebid at the level of two. When you now show club support, after having previously announced first round control in spades, partner may be in position to bid a slam.

Q. 2—You are South, vulnerable, have 60 part score, and hold:

♠ A J 9 5 ♥ Q A Q 10 8 3 ♣ A 10 9

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Pass	1♥	Pass
1♠	Pass	4♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has made an urgent plea for slam. Tho a bid of three hearts would have been over score and thus a slam try, partner has made it more emphatic by bidding four, conveying the suggestion that his heart suit is self-sustaining. You should cooperate by bidding five clubs, denoting possession of the ace, and permit partner to fix the final contract.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ 10 8 6 ♥ K J 7 6 ♦ 5 3 ♣ K J 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1♣	1♥	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You haven't enough for a penalty double, and your hand is not good enough for a free bid of one no trump, which denotes a good hand.

Q. 4—Partner has opened with one club and you hold:

♠ 10 8 5 2 ♥ 8 6 5 3 ♦ Q 7 5 ♣ A 4

What is your response?

A.—One diamond. We try to avoid responses in major suits with such unbidable holdings, particularly when an alternate response is available. The diamond bid affords partner the opportunity to bid one heart or one spade.

Q. 5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♥ K J 9 7 4 ♦ Q J 8 6 3 ♣ K Q 9

The bidding has proceeded:

What action do you take?

A.—Five clubs. You have not yet done full justice to the holding in view of the fact that your partner opened the bidding and made a free rebid at the level of two. When you now show club support, after having previously announced first round control in spades, partner may be in position to bid a slam.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠ K Q 9 8 4 ♥ 9 3 ♦ K J 4 ♣ A J 8

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand is not quite strong enough for a rebid of two no trump. Such a call should be based on a high card holding of at least 15 points.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ K Q 10 9 4 ♥ A Q 6 3 ♣ A K 6

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1♥	1♠	2♠	2♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. True enough, bigger things are in sight and on the surface this might appear to be an underbid, but there should be no hurry. Since you are making a free rebid in the face of partner's free response, there is not the remotest danger that the bidding will drop. More specific information may be forthcoming at a lower level as a result of your mild sounding rebid.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠ 10 9 ♥ K Q 8 4 2 ♦ Q 8 4 ♣ A J 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	2♥	Pass
2♠	Pass	2NT	Pass
3♠	Pass	?	?

What do you bid now?

A.—To persist further with no trump on such a doubtful diamond stopper would not be discreet. There is a great likelihood that partner has a hand containing six spades and only four clubs. The suggested call, therefore, is a return to three spades.

Pickets Protest Over Hamilton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four pickets have protested in front of the White House the Selective Service deferment of actor George Hamilton, a frequent escort of President and Mrs. Johnson's elder daughter, Lynda.

The pickets, two young men and two women, marched Sunday for a half-hour, carrying signs saying "Draft George Hamilton now," and "George is no ham, he's chicken."

Hamilton has had a draft deferment as the support of his mother. The pickets seemed unimpressed when a newsman pointed out that the Hollywood actor received the deferment when he was 18, long before he and Lynda had ever heard of each other.

Tennessee Cop Closes Down 'Liz' Latest Movie

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A police sergeant who once gave tickets to two meter maids for illegal parking has shut down the movie "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" in Nashville.

"I represent the thinking of the good people of this town," said Sgt. Fred Cobb, a soft-spoken Baptist deacon and Sunday school teacher. "I just don't feel like they would approve of this type of film for young people to see."

After sitting through the film Saturday night, Cobb returned Sunday night with a warrant for the arrest of theater manager Lawrence Martin Kerrigan, 55. Kerrigan later was released on $50 bond to appear today in city court.

Cobb confiscated one reel of the film, and then mounted the stage to tell some 700 moviegoers why the picture had been stopped. They got their money back.

Cobb's warrant said the film, which stars Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, violated a city ordinance banning profanity on the screen.

"It's a disgrace," said Cobb. "I couldn't rest easy without doing something about it. It seems to tear down everything that is decent and worthwhile in our society."

"It used God's name in vain several times and tried to belittle modern day evangelists such as Billy Graham and others." Theaters showing the movie are required by the producer to advertise that no one under 18 will be admitted unless accompanied by a parent.

"I don't know why any one man should want to set himself up as a censoring board," E.D. Martin, co-owner of Martin Theaters told the Nashville Tennessean from Columbus, Ga. The movie opened Friday at a Martin theater here.

"It is one of the greatest pictures of the year," he said. "It is an artistic achievement and the true meaning of the picture is not in the language."

The movie, adapted from the Police Sgt. Fred Cobb, shown waiting to testify at a city council hearing four years ago, closed the movie "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" at a Nashville theater last night. He obtained a warrant claiming it violated a city ordinance forbidding use of profanity in a movie, confiscated one reel of the movie and arrested the manager of the theater. Broadway play by Edward Albee, recounts a long, wild party given by a New England professor and his wife for a new faculty member and his wife.

Cobb once ticketed the scooters of two meter maids for parking in a bus zone while they took a lunch break. He has given a ticket to a deputy U.S. marshal for double-parking at the courthouse.

In February, 1960, Cobb arrested city comptroller William F. Burton for disorderly conduct because he said he heard Burton use profanity. Burton was acquitted.

Thieves Chop Down Four Poles

STOCKTON, Mo. (AP)—Copper thieves cut down four telephone poles and cut up about 1,200 feet of copper wire about 10 miles east of Stockton over the weekend, disrupting telephone service.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. repairmen said the thieves apparently had been frightened away before they could load up the wire, which was left lying on the ground.

Miss Universe Will Not Go Home Again

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The new Miss Universe, who will be offered the keys to countless cities around the world during her year's reign, said today she can never return to her hometown of Gothenburg, Sweden.

"The people there will all say how can she be Miss Universe," explained Margareta Arvidsson.

"I'll never go home to that town again so they can see me. It is a small town and they will all think I'm very stuck on myself," added the professional model who was also voted the most photogenic of the 58 contestants.

Miss Sweden, who'll be 19, Aug. 12, is already homesick for her parents, her four sisters, her country and her horse, Drabant.

"He's dark brown and just the sweetest horse in the world," she said.

The 35-24-34 Nordic beauty was crowned by Miss Universe of 1965, Apasra Hongsakula of Thailand, Saturday night on a nationally televised show. Miss Finland, Satu Ostring of Tampere, was first runnerup.

Terrain Proves Fatal To Landing Marines

By HORST FAAS

SONG NGAN VALLEY, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Marine helicopters slanted sharply down into the valley with tracer bullets streaking by from enemy guns on the hills below.

It was just after dawn and the first wave of Leathernecks aboard looked like some mixture of football players and medieval knights in the armored vests that swelled their bodies to giant size. Their faces were dusty and bearded.

It wouldn't be the enemy fire that was to get some of them. It would be the hazards of the terrain and the confusion of battle in the landing zone that would take the initial toll in Operation Hastings — a joint Marine-South Vietnamese action to draw out and destroy a North Vietnamese army force 2,000 yards from the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Viet Nam.

The headquarters unit of the 324th North Vietnamese Division was reported to be near here. It was Friday and the move was on to trap them.

The first helicopters knifed into the clearing and lowered their rear landing ramps.

At once, the Marines saw the difficulty of their position. Steep hills ringed the landing zone. Enemy troops on the slopes kept a constant stream of fire on the clearing. As the helicopters took off, strong gusts of wind ripped across the valley. Trees that had appeared small from high up now towered 100 feet at the edge of the small clearing.

The second wave of helicopters came in and the hills echoed with bursts of machine gun fire.

One helicopter set down in a hole and a man was thrown out. His arm was broken. A second helicopter loaded with troops plowed into a tree.

The wreckage blocked half of the landing zone.

Two more helicopters tried to land in a small field with a high bamboo fence. As they hovered and troops started to jump out, the rotor blades touched. The planes swayed together in an ear-jarring crunch that broke both in two.

As the dust settled, flames started to lick up the side of one of the aircraft. Marines scrambled frantically for safety. They stumbled and crawled over human limbs and bodies cut by the flapping blades that slashed like huge swords.

Other Marines were wounded

Secret Police Arrest Pair

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, the Communist party paper, reported today that secret police had picked up three accused black marketeers after a hunt of nearly two years. It said two others are still at large.

The paper said the men were part of a ring that made $3 million dealing in knitted goods before it was broken up in February 1964. Nine members of the gang were sentenced to death.

Opposing Forces Set To Fight

EDITOR'S NOTE: More than $50 million has been spent on the War on Poverty in Texas, but the poor are still with us. This first of a three-part series gives an overall view of the war.

BY ROBERT HEARD
AUSTIN (AP) — President Johnson's own state is the Gettysburg of the War on Poverty, but after 20 months of maneuvering the opposing armies are just now ready for battle.

"We've had a few brushes, a few skirmishes, but haven't confronted the enemy yet," says Bill Crook, one of the two generals in this theater of operations, where $80 million has been spent.

PROFESSIONAL
The other general, Walter Richter, says: "We've gone through a shakedown period in the last two years. I think you'll see a lot more professionalism in the program from now on."

They face two formidable enemies: Poverty itself and those who argue it doesn't exist or isn't as bad or as extensive or as susceptible to remedy as Crook and Richter say it is.

The detractors must be won over before the largest gun — The Community Action program — can be brought to bear, they say.

And this is being done, they believe.
"Look here," said Richter, holding up a recent newspaper editorial. "They point out that conservatives should be for the Community Action Program because it is controlled locally." Local groups decide where help is most needed.

STATE DIRECTOR
Richter, 49-year-old former state senator, was named state director of the War on Poverty by Gov. John Connally. He is a big-boned, square-jawed man with sandy hair and thick fingers. He puffs steadily on a pipe as he talks about the War on Poverty. He knows how it is to need help.

"I probably would have dropped out of Southwest Texas State Teachers College (President Johnson's alma mater) as a sophomore except for a 30-cent-an-hour job I got under the National Youth Administration in the '30s," Richter said.

Crook, 40, is the Office of Economic Opportunity director for the Southwest: Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. He is a short man with round, bright-blue eyes and thinning hair. Like the Adlai Stevenson, he has a shoe with a hole in it.

BY-PRODUCTS
"Like some manufacturing processes, you see some by-products of the poverty war before you even begin to see the end product," said Crook. "There is the beginning of dialogue where it has not existed ever before."

"We have towns and cities where people are talking where in some cases they didn't even know the other existed. If this can be encouraged and not stifled—as some would like to stifle it—we are well on our way." Who wants to stifle it?

Storms Rake Minnesota
By The Associated Press
Heavy thunderstorms rumbled across north Minnesota early today.

Nearly one inch of rain fell in Duluth in one hour, and 38 mile winds buffeted the area. A vessel on Lake Superior reported winds during a heavy thunderstorm reached a height of 90 m.p.h.

A tornado reportedly touched ground in the Hibbing, Minn., area shortly before midnight, causing damage. Showers fell also in the Rocky Mountain area early today, relieving some warm temperatures.

But there was little relief in the desert Southwest and in sections of the Plains states. At Needles, Calif., the midnight reading was 99 degrees.

Oklahoma City, which has had 17 straight days of 100 degrees and higher would extend this string to 18 today, the Weather Bureau reported. Oklahoma City had 101 Sunday.

At Pueblo, Colo., Sunday's high of 101 set a record for the date by two degrees.

Huk Attackers Wipe Out Six
MANILA (AP) — A mayor and five aides on their way to attend a law and order conference with President Ferdinand E. Marcos were slain by Huk insurgents today, the Philippine constabulary reported.

"Those who have a vested interest in poverty," Crook said. "Loan sharks and landlords and merchants in slum areas."

SUBTLE
The opposition frequently is subtle, taking the form of ridicule, Crook says. "They say it is another give-away hoax to get votes, or they say things like we have bad boys at Camp Gary (the San Marcos Job Corps center)," he said, adding: "We've got bad boys in the Job Corps because we've got bad boys in the United States."

"The real question is, are we willing to see the poor with power," Crook said. "They're beginning to say things and demand things. We shouldn't expect them to be grateful to us. We'll be lucky if they'll forgive us."

"Free enterprise in the best economic system that man has developed, but it isn't perfect.

Defects in the system are responsible for the status of these people."

Crook visualized the society of the poor as a "disengaged tumbler out here (waving his hand in a circle to one side) that isn't connected with anything."

HOW BIG?
Just how big is this tumbler in Texas?
Crook's office estimates there are 688,000 families in the Lone Star state with an annual income of less than $3,000. This compared with 600,000 such families in New York and 563,000 in California, with populations nearly twice as large as Texas.

The purpose of the War on Poverty is to break this vicious, unconnected tumbler by linking the poor to the rest of society.

North Viet Nam Asks For More Chinese Help

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam made an unusual appeal today for more material and moral support from its Communist allies and other nations, describing its war situation as "extremely serious."

The plea came from North Viet Nam's Fatherland Front and was addressed even to the American people in an effort to weaken the Johnson administration's political flank at home. It followed President Ho Chi Minh's decree of partial mobilization of North Vietnamese reserves Sunday.

The mobilization decree touched off speculation that North Viet Nam planned to send more regular troops into the South in reply to the intensified American air war, using the reserves to fill gaps at home.

Military action in South Viet Nam suggested infiltration might be increasing already. Three thousand U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops swept an area just below the 17th Parallel frontier where a North Vietnamese division of 3,000 to 4,000 men had been reported. Fighting tapered off today, but the allied force was reported to have killed 167 Reds since the operation began Friday.

But the senior American officer in South Viet Nam's 2nd Corps area, the central highlands sector, doubted that Ho's mobilization announcement would mean a massive influx of North Vietnamese reinforcements.

"I think he means that the nation is just going on more of a war footing internally," said Maj. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen. "They need more people to man the antiaircraft guns and for other defensive measures."

At Least 40 Texans Die Of Violence

By The Associated Press
At least 40 persons died violently in Texas during the past weekend, with at least 20 of them killed in traffic accidents around the state.

Twelve persons died as a result of homicides, three drowned and five died of other violent causes.

The Associated Press tabulation began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

AUSTIN
David Bryan Bailey, 9, of Austin, died Sunday in a two-car collision on US 69 in Beaumont. His father, Bobby J. Bailey, of the Beaumont area, and 10 other persons were injured. The child's mother, Mrs. Barbara Halbeck, lives in Austin.

Roy Lee Joyce, 35, of Fort Worth, died Sunday night when his pickup collided with a Santa Fe freight train in Fort Worth.

Armando Flores, Corpus Christi justice of the peace, ruled the death of a Corpus Christi couple Sunday as murder and suicide. He said Wess Hortness shot his wife, Marie, with a shotgun before killing himself.

DROWNED
Emilio Valdez Jr., 29, of Seguin, drowned early Sunday when he became entangled in fishing lines in 25 feet of water in the Guadalupe River near San Antonio.

Two Uvalde men, George Raney, 75, and Oliver Welch, 63, were killed Sunday night when their car hit a detour barricade on US 90 east of Uvalde.

George E. Ogden, 59, of Houston, was fatally beaten Sunday. Police said they charged Frank Tee, 46, of Houston with murder.

The body of Homer Trevino, 26, of Houston was found Sunday in a ditch alongside of US 59 east of Ganado. Authorities said it appeared he was struck by a moving vehicle.

Mrs. Elbert Siegler, 55, of Lubbock and her 4-month-old niece, Elaine Nolan of Alamogordo, N.M., were killed Sunday in a two-car collision in the West Texas town of Roscoe. The dead child's mother and three sisters were among the six persons injured.

SHOT TO DEATH
Mrs. Thelma Mays, 36, of Houston was shot to death Sunday. Her husband, D. M. Mays, 39, was charged with murder.

Jose Alfredo Aviles, 7-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Telesforo Aviles of Houston, died Saturday after his mother found him unconscious in a bathtub partially filled with water. Officials said a preliminary autopsy ruled death by drowning.

Deanna Lee Combs, 6-week-old daughter of Mrs. Della Combs of Houston, was found dead in her crib Sunday with her face buried in a plastic mattress cover.

Farm Hands To Vote Again

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (AP)—Rio Grande Valley farm workers, on strike since June 1 in Starr County, vote for the second time tonight on whether to affiliate with the National (NFWA).

The workers, with only one dissenting vote and 233 in favor, voted last month to affiliate with the Delano, Calif., union. Eugene Nelson, who organized the union in Starr County, said NFWA President Cesar Chavez ordered the second vote, when Margil Sanchez, union vice president here, charged the vote was illegal.

The union is seeking $1.25 an hour minimum wage for seasonal field hands.

Growers, contending the strike is illegal, obtained an injunction to prohibit picketing.

Meanwhile, a group of valley farm workers interrupted their 400-mile protest march to the State Capitol at Austin to rest today.

They reached Linn Sunday after being joined by supporters from Houston and a bus load of Corpus Christi residents, including state Rep. Ronald Bridges.

The protest marchers were honored guests at a fund-raising dance in Mission Sunday night. Among those joining the march Sunday were Oscar Reyna, president of the Coastal Bend Labor Council, Enrique Arciniega Campos, who said he was representing the East Harris Episcopal Covenant Parish in Houston, Walter Katz of Houston and Moses Le Roy, Houston Democrat.

The Rev. Antonio Gonzales, coordinator of the march, said the marchers would reach Falfurrias Wednesday, Corpus Christi July 30 and San Antonio Aug. 28.

They plan to be in Austin Labor Day for a rally which labor officials predict will draw 30,000 persons.

Dear Abby

That Jerk Can't Go On

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for six weeks to a wonderful man. I am 57 and he is 69. I have heard that some people are allergic to other people, and I would hate to think that it is true in my case, but every time my husband comes near me I start to jerk all over. It is strange how the muscles of my arms and legs and all over my body start to twitch and jerk.

When I am not around him I do not jerk at all. We went together for nearly three years before we were married and I didn't jerk then. I am satisfied with him as a husband and we get along fine, but all this jerking is making a nervous wreck of me. Can you tell me what is causing this? JERKING

DEAR JERKING: If you "jerk" only when you are near your husband, his presence could be related to your jerking. Discuss it with your doctor. You can't go on jerking indefinitely.

DEAR ABBY: What is a second wife supposed to do when her mother-in-law drags out pictures of the first wife, who is now deceased, and I am told was not liked by the family when she was living? I am the second wife in this case, and after three years of being in this family (or am I?) I am getting a little sick of it.

My husband doesn't enjoy it any more than I do, but he says, "She is my mother and I am not going to fight with her." What should I do?

DEAR SECOND: Too bad you don't have a strong, protective husband, because that would be your only solution. However, you are not compelled to sit there and endure the agony. Either leave the room, or pull a paperback book out of your purse and ignore the goings-on about you. I'll admit, it's rather impolite, but it's an open and shut case of self-defense.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother who would send her child to a birthday party with only ONE present when she knows the party is for a pair of twins? The "gift" is something like a "game" or a box of candy with a card inside saying, "FOR THE TWINS."

I would like to see this answered in the paper. Thank you.

DEAR MOTHER: While it is not an earth-shaking social blunder, I suspect that each twin would prefer an individual gift.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Two Wars Keep House Busy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two widely different wars — the war in Viet Nam and the war on poverty — keep the House busy this week while the Senate tackles the controversial foreign aid program.

The busy congressional week also brings lobbyist Julius Klein before the Senate Ethics Committee Tuesday to tell of his relations with Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

The House is expected to provide funds to finance the Viet Nam war and run the Defense Department with little or no dissent when it takes up the $58.6-billion defense appropriation bill Tuesday.

But sharp fighting could break out Wednesday and last the rest of the week when the House is asked to authorize $1.75 billion to carry the anti-poverty program through its third year.

Dissatisfaction with the way the war on poverty is going is widespread, particularly among Republicans, who have dozens of amendments ready to offer.

Adding to the problems facing the bill is a struggle between Speaker John W. McCormack, who wants it brought up, and Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., who would like it postponed a week.

KEPT QUIET UNTIL ALL THE FACTS WERE IN

Officers Expertly Dogged Speck

CHICAGO (AP) — Rarely has a police investigation been conducted more expertly than the one that led to the arrest of Richard Speck.

Detectives were dogging their prime suspect even as the bodies of the eight murdered student nurses were being removed from the Chicago townhouse — even, indeed, before they knew the man's name.

DIDN'T LET ON But the police were cozy. They didn't let on.

Not until they had Speck's fingerprints, background, name, description and an eyewitness identification of a photograph — enough to justify an arrest warrant — did they broadcast the news.

When they did the whole nation was keyed to receive it, and the very publicity led to his recognition by the hospital doctor treating Speck's slash wounds.

The trackdown began when Corazon Amurao, the only survivor of the massacre, gasped her first hysterical description of the killer to a patrolman at dawn Thursday, moments after he fled the blood-splattered house.

Teams of detectives fanned out through the South Side neighborhood.

PICKED UP One stop was a filling station. A stranger fitting the description had been there, the attendant said. He had left two suitcases here Tuesday morning while he went to look for a room. He came back the next morning and picked them up.

Next stop was the Maritime Union hall across the street from the nurses' townhouse.

Yes, such a man had been there Monday morning looking for a job on a New Orleans-bound ship. The name on the application was Richard Speck, and a small, coin-machine photograph was attached. He also left the phone number of a sister, where he could be reached in case a job should turn up.

Hadn't Miss Amurao said the killer had demanded money so he could get to New Orleans? Yes, she had.

A detective dialed the number. Tell your brother, he instructed, to contact the union hall.

TOLD TO COME At 3:10 p.m. Speck returned the call. Posing as a union official, a detective told him to come to the hall immediately; there was a job waiting for him. Speck said he would be there.

Meanwhile, investigators had Speck's activities well catalogued.

Monday night he had stayed at a rooming house nearby. All the rooms were occupied, so he slept on a couch. Tuesday night he had stayed at another rooming house, adjoining a tavern. During the three days before the murders he had hung around various taverns and loafed in the quiet park behind the townhouse where the nurses stayed.

Speck didn't return to the union hall. Instead he gathered his belongings from the rooming house, caught a cab and headed for the other side of town.

More Detectives located the cab driver. They also located an old drinking buddy of Speck's, William Kirkland.

Thursday afternoon, Kirkland said, he had run into Speck in one of their old haunts and Speck had sold him a 12-inch hunting knife for a dollar. Police took the knife to the crime lab.

Lab technicians were already busy with other evidence.

PRINTS They had dusted the townhouse for fingerprints and by working round the clock quickly managed to isolate 32 prints that didn't match those of the girls who lived there.

FBI and police files in other states also had provided a dossier of information.

Speck had been in and out of jail in Texas, was wanted for questioning about a slaying in Monmouth, Ill. He was a drifter, never kept a job long, had few roots.

An FBI courier rushed from Washington with Speck's fingerprints. They matched the ones found at the townhouse.

Miss Amurao, hysterical after her long night of terror, roused from heavy sedation Friday morning, detectives visited her in her hospital room.

They showed her about 200 photos from police files. She shook her head at each one. Then, casually, a detective handed her three more, including the one of Speck.

THAT'S HIM The 23-year-old Filipino exchange student looked hard at one of the three. She tapped the center one. "That's the man."

Detectives centered their search in the neighborhood where the cabbie had dropped Speck. Showing photographs of Speck to barkeepers and prostitutes, they tracked him tavern by tavern to a skid row hotel near Chicago's Loop.

The hotel clerk told the investigators Speck had checked out about a half hour ago. Detectives staked out the hotel.

The next afternoon, Saturday, Cmdr. Francis Flanagan, chief of the homicide division, announced that a murder warrant had been issued naming Speck, and broadcast his description to the nation.

Until that moment speculation in Chicago was that the police had no suspect and not much chance of getting one because the clues, Flanagan had insisted, were pitifully few.

GONE COLD But now the police were worried; Speck's trail had gone cold.

Unknown to the detectives manning the stakeout, Speck had gone to another hotel — about two miles away — where he had a room under the name B. Brian. His police file showed a string of aliases, but that was a new one.

It was as B. Brian, a skid row drifter, that Speck was admitted to the county hospital at 12:30 a.m. Sunday, his arm spurting blood from a slash wound police said he inflicted himself.

The doctor was astonished when he saw Speck's widely publicized tattoos and looked into the face he had just seen in the newspaper.

"Call the police," he said to his nurse.

'WILD, MISCHIEVOUS'

Neighbor Recalls Speck As Restless

DALLAS (AP) — Richard Franklin Speck, accused of committing what a Chicago official called the "Crime of the Century," is remembered here as "kind of a wild kid, the mischievous type," and "withdrawn."

Mrs. Mary Margaret Speck Lindberg, the accused man's mother, and Mrs. Buddy Wilson, Speck's sister, left Dallas Saturday night to go into seclusion.

The Rev. A. E. O'Connor, a next-door neighbor, talked with them before they left their modest east Dallas frame home. He said they left "to visit friends."

"I went to them in the capacity of minister and neighbor," the Rev. Mr. O'Connor said Sunday.

SHOCK "They were in a state of shock," he said. "The mother hopes it is a case of mistaken identity," he said. "She doesn't think her boy was capable" of the crime, he added.

Speaking of the suspected slayer, the Rev. Mr. O'Connor, pastor of the East Dallas Congregational Methodist Church, said he was "a very restless type."

mitted himself," the minister recalled.

Jerry Henry, who went to grade, and high schools with the accused man, said Speck was known as Lindberg, all through School. "Just Lindberg," he said.

NEVER DATED "He wasn't interested in sports and as far as I knew he never dated any girls," Henry recalled.

"He was kind of a wild kid, went out drinking quite a bit," Henry said.

He recalled that Speck had minor trouble in school. He said it was "detention or skipping school or getting caught smoking."

"I remember him in his school — he was the mischievous type that always sticks in a girl's mind," Mrs. Norma Sue Crawford, recalled Sunday. She lives next door to Speck's sister.

STAYED AWAY "I stayed away from him," she said. "He was the type I don't want to have anything to do with," she said.

The news that Speck was charged with the methodical murder of the eight young women traveled quickly to the block of aging frame and asbestos-shingled houses on Terry Street in East Dallas.

FLUORIDATION BATTLE IN SAN ANTONIO

Vote Indicated No Confidence

EDITOR'S NOTE: A move to fluoridate the city's water supply was defeated by San Antonio voters last Saturday causing the city to remain the largest municipality in the state without one part per million of fluoride in its water. Here is an examination of how it was defeated and the possible effect.

By PAUL RECER
SAN ANTONIO (AP) — San Antonio dentists donate thousands of hours yearly to 14 charity dental clinics in the city, but one of them said this week, they do little to improve the dental health among the poor.

"We're too busy (at the clinics) pulling infected—not just bad, but terribly infected—teeth to do much else," the dentist said. "It's a constant round of infection, swelling and pain."

BENEFIT MOST
The ones who benefit most from fluoridation, dentists say, are the 18 to 20 per cent who cannot afford to receive dental care regularly, who go to free dental clinics only after their teeth have been ruined by neglect and after the vicious cycle of infection has already started.

These people, Dr. Terry Downs, a leader in the fluoridation movement, says are the persons in San Antonio who did most to defeat fluoride—a chemical authorities believe can prevent one out of every three dental cavities.

Dr. Downs and other say the outcome was a result of scare tactics and ignorance on the part of some elements of the voters. Most of the 38,000 who voted were either the elderly and the poorly-educated, observers here believe.

VICTORY
Stephen Harvesty, the leader of the anti-fluoridation group, however, said the vote was a victory by an aroused electorate over a movement to force-feed an undesirable chemical to a trusting people who must use the city's water.

Harvesty, who was head of the Alamo Chapter of the American Foundation for Protection of Health and Life Inc. at the time of the election, says the fluoride is a poison which only incidentally hardens the enamel on teeth.

In news statements Harvesty and his group claimed that fluoride could cause ills ranging from Mongoloidism to cancer to kidney ailments. Harvesty labeled the endorsement of fluoride for dental health by the American Medical Association as "premature" and said the American Dental Association endorsement was forced by pressure from "Commercial Interests" which would profit from the sale of the chemical.

DOESN'T TRUST
"I don't trust the AMA and the ADA in this particular instance," Harvesty, an accountant, said.

Handbills, some showing discolored teeth which were attributed to fluoride, were distributed by the foundation throughout San Antonio, particularly in the poorer areas of the city.

Dr. Downs said that many of the statements in the handbills were distortions or outright untruths. Others, he said, quoted liberally from research which has since been discounted or rejected altogether.

The foundation brought in out-of-town spokesmen connected with the medical field who denounced fluoridation. The dentists countered with experts and presented pro-fluoridation statements made by prominent citizens, including Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson, and Dr. Benjamin Spock, the well-known children's doctor.

DEBATES
Spokesmen for the opposing sides appeared in debates on television and before civic clubs. Both sides advertised in the newspapers.

At the polls, more than 26,000 voted to reject fluoridation, only about 12,000 favored it.

Dr. Downs said the San Antonio Dental Society is through fighting the issue. The group spent $20,000 promoting it and individual dentists gave thousands of hours that could have been productive working on the project.

The society "has gone the extra mile," Downs said, but feels no "sour grapes" about the defeat—just dismay.

"A clerk (Harvesty) . . . has changed the dental health of three-quarters of a million people and for generations to come," he said.

Downs said he feels most people would have favored fluoridation, but that the majority didn't vote.

"The dental health problem is not a dramatic thing," he said, and people didn't become aroused enough to go to the polls.

SCARED
"Those who did go to the polls were motivated by scare tactics and half truths," Downs said.

Harvesty said the outcome was the result of his campaign and because "the people of San Antonio have a particular love for its water. They didn't want to have anyone monkey with it."

Dr. Carlos Lozano, director of the Texas State Department of Health's division of dental health at Austin also voiced a feeling common to San Antonio medical men.

"I cannot understand why the public feared fluoridation so—why they believe Mr. Harvesty and his group instead of established health authorities," Dr. Lozano said.

The balloting, he said, was a "vote of no confidence in health authorities."

Two UT Coeds Killed Year Ago

By LEE JONES
AUSTIN (AP)—A year ago today, two pretty brunettes set out from Dallas in a yellow sport-model sedan loaded with clothing, pots, pans and groceries.

The day began as a happy trip to move one of the girls, Susan Riggsby, into an apartment where she would live while attending University of Texas summer classes.

It ended in death, fear in the streets of Austin and around the campus, and emotional agony for three prominent families.

Susan and her Chi Omega sorority sister, Shirley Ann Stark, were missing for 12 days before a city survey crew wound their decomposed bodies in a weed-grown field in far north Austin.

Their identification from dental records ended tragically an anguished vigil by the families of the two girls, both 21.

College girls rushed to buy tear gas guns and stayed close to their dormitories as city police and Texas Rangers worked from meager clues to find the killer.

The investigation soon came to center on one man: James Cross Jr., 23, sports car driving son of a Fort Worth advertising executive. Cross, blue eyed, black-haired Army veteran and a university student, had dated Shirley, and later told her family not to despair during the hunt for the missing girls.

Detectives visited him several times at his comfortably appointed apartment several blocks east of the campus.

Finally, on Aug. 6, 1965, Cross signed a statement saying he strangled both Susan and Shirley in his bedroom after raping Susan. He said he hid the bodies in a closet, had a date, entertained friends in his apartment and then drove the bodies to the field at 3 a.m.

An Austin jury convicted Cross Feb. 22 of killing Susan and set his punishment at life imprisonment. He was not tried for Shirley's slaying.

Under Texas law, a man as-essed a life term can be released in 7 to 8 years for good behavior and for certain "good time" for performing certain functions, such as blood donations.

Today, students registered for summer classes at the university.

The campus-area hamburger restaurant where Shirley and Susan ate lunch the afternoon they died is still packed every noon-hour with coeds and college boys.

And Cross' apartment is seldom unrented, despite what happened there that hot July afternoon.

Juvenile Jury Discussion Set

A meeting of concerned citizens tonight at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant will attempt to get a juvenile jury system under way for Howard County, according to Dr. Halvard T. Hansen of the Americanism Committee of the American Legion.

The chiropractor, who has called the meeting for 8 p.m., said: "We are going to try to get the ball rolling. We know from research the basic things needed for such a system, but every community has its particular needs and problems, and this is what we are going to try to work out tonight."

Scheduled to be on hand are Jay Banks, police chief; W. H. Eysen Jr., corporation court judge; Bob Wakefield, juvenile officer; Larry Crow, city manager; John Burgess, city attorney; Roger Brown, representing the local bar association; Sam Anderson, school superintendent; and Mayor Arnold Marshall, as well as others.

"We will need volunteer attorneys to work one night a week," Hansen said, "a bailiff, the cooperation of the police and the schools (from which juvenile juries are drawn), and there are other ideas and needs which must be discussed."

A juvenile jury system was endorsed by the city commis-ion and the Chamber of Commerce as one way to cut down on the number of juvenile traffic offenders some time ago, but nothing had been done to implement the endorsement. Such systems are in use in numerous cities and, Hansen said, reportedly are working out well.

Warrants Out On Tickets

Police began issuing warrants today on more than 200 unpaid traffic tickets, and are in the process of refiling more than 100 appealed cases in county court, according to Jay Banks, police chief.

"We have, we think, now got perfected complaint forms," Banks said today. "A large number of cases have been thrown out of county court allegedly because of imperfect complaint forms. A number of our people have been working on new forms and we have now got them ready."

Banks said the department had held up the issuance of traffic warrants for the same reason — allegedly defective complaint forms.

Child Molesting Case Is Under Investigation

Police were investigating the alleged fondling of a six-year-old daughter of Webb Air Force Base airman today. The incident was reported as a rape at 4:15 a.m. today, Jay Banks, police chief, said, but doctors at the air base hospital said this morning that the child had not been raped, and was returned home.

Officers said the girl's father told them he heard the little girl scream from her bedroom in an Ellis Homes apartment where she was sleeping with her seven-year-old sister. Police said they found a five-gallon can of paint outside the bedroom window and footprints leading up to and away from the can.

No suspects had been arrested late this morning, Banks said, but the investigation has been put into the hands of Jack Jones, senior city detective,

Visitors Find City Very Unhospitable

Visitors to Big Spring found over the weekend that it is not safe to leave their things in cars while in motels.

Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Olander of Buffalo, N.Y., who were registered at the Ramada Inn late Saturday, found that more than $800 worth of clothes, including a fur stole worth $300, had been taken from the car early Sunday. Also taken were a portfolio and a transistor radio. A car door lock was forced to get to the items, officers said.

A visitor from Brauder, Fla., Fred Hutton, told officers Sunday that someone broke into his car, which was parked at the Holiday Inn motel, and took a movie camera, a slide camera and a pair of binoculars. He valued the items at $350.

A number of other thefts were reported. J. D. Hyden, 807 Ayford, said his home was entered via the back door Saturday, and $20 worth of coins were taken from collection books in a drawer where he keeps his coin collection.

Edna Lindsay, 707 Highland Drive, reported that her purse containing $42 was stolen from her car while it was parked at Newsom's Grocery Sunday.

A guitar worth $40 and $10 worth of boy's clothing were lifted from her car Saturday while it was parked at Miriam's Tavern, West Third, Mrs. Marie Lansford told officers Sunday.

Mrs. Marvin Wright, 1412 Johnson, said her daughter's bicycle was taken from the yard of their home Saturday. The bike is valued at $50, officers said.

Jerry Stephens, 1111 W. 2nd, told police an electric saw, a battery charger and a hydraulic jack were stolen from his garage Saturday. He said the items are worth $95.

Made from a star-spangled recipe that's 25 years old

The cake above is something we whipped up to help celebrate the 25th birthday of the United States Savings Bond program.

Although there will be no confetti, no horn-blowing—in fact, no party, there are a number of reasons to celebrate this quarter-century observance.

Since that first one was sold on May 1, 1941, Americans have bought more than $150 billion worth of Series E and H Bonds and still buy them at a $4-$5 billion-per-year clip.

About $100 billion have been cashed and spent for homes, college tuition, new cars and furniture, emergencies—and helping dreams come true for millions of American families.

Over half the Bonds bought are purchased on the Payroll Savings Plan—a voluntary automatic plan that has worked wonders for people who might not otherwise save a nickel.

Today there are outstanding almost $50 billion in Bonds—a solid financial rock which millions of Americans stand on.

And today, above all, Savings Bonds are a sure way for all Americans to support our men in Vietnam. While they are there, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines.

NOW— Savings Bonds Pay 4.15%!

Interest on new E and H Bonds you purchase has been raised to 4.15% when held to maturity. E Bonds mature faster—now in just 7 years. Your old Bonds will earn more, too. Savings Bonds are better to buy, and hold, than ever.

Some Areas Given Rains

By The Associated Press
Heavy rain fell across sections of North and Northeast Texas early Sunday, but most of the state was sultry but clear. Canton received 2.43 inches, Kaufman had 2.42, and Farmersville had 2.11 for the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Sunday.
Rain fell for about three hours early Sunday in the Dallas area, but only .54 of an inch was recorded. Fort Worth had .51 of an inch.
Temperatures were quite warm across the state, with Presidio reporting 105, Childress 102, Wink 101 and Lubbock and Waco with 100.
The "coolest" spot in the state Sunday afternoon was Alpine with a high of 91.
Forecasters called for more showers today throughout North Texas. Skies across the rest of the state, they said, were to be mostly clear to partly cloudy.
Temperatures early today ranged from 84 at Waco to 74 at Midland.

Job Corpsman Found Dead

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Larry D. Edwards, 23, Camp Gary Job Corpsman from Marlow, Okla., was found dead Sunday in the backyard of the Antonio Trevino home.
Dr. Robert Hausman, county medical examiner, ruled death by natural causes.
Trevino said Edwards had fallen asleep while sitting in a lounge chair and later could not be awakened.
Edwards came to Camp Gary a year ago last Saturday as a trainee in the licensed vocational nursing program.

Feldman, contends that "Anybody who can train a child can train a dolphin," and I heartily agree. It takes as long for me to teach Flipper a trick as it takes me to get the idea across to him as to what I want him to do. And he never forgets. If he learns a trick, and uses it once, he'll do it again on the proper signal six months later.
All the signals used to tell Flipper what to do are done with the hand, underwater and topside. For example, the signal for him to squirt water is to push water in his face. The signal to shake hands is—as with a human being— simply to hold out your hand.
He will perform as well for strangers as he will for his trainer, and responds readily to the human stars in the television series— Brian Kelly and the youngsters Luke Halpin and Tommy Norden. In fact, there's a genuine affection between Flipper and members of the cast.

In training Flipper the most important initial step is to establish communication. Once this is accomplished, it's a matter of "affection training."
Like people, dolphins possess different personalities and character traits, are intelligent in varying degrees. In many years in this field I have never encountered a dolphin I couldn't train.
The first step in training is to encourage the dolphin to eat while in captivity. This may take several days, and requires patience.
Once the animal knows his source of food, the trainer gets into the tank with him, during and after the three-a-day meals, and establishes physical contact— such as touching, rubbing, petting— so that the dolphin realizes there is no danger.
First, I have the dolphin retrieve various objects thrown into the water. Then I have him retrieve live fish— a rather difficult effort since he naturally is tempted to eat the fish. After each trick, Flipper is rewarded with both food and affection. He receives a daily average of 12 pounds of fish, plus vitamins.

In training Flipper for work with television cameras, it was essential that he become accustomed to construction noises, light reflectors, camera sounds and other potentially distracting influences. But he learned that difficult effort since he naturally

Water Board Expecting Opposition At Abilene

ABILENE (AP)—The Texas Water Development Board was expected to run into more opposition today to its long-range water plan when the Brazos River segment comes up for public hearing.
Prior to this latest in a series of hearings across the state on the Texas Water Plan, the Abilene City Council passed a resolution protesting the projected population growth for this West Central Texas city of approximately 134,000.
The council contends that population figures used by the board in estimating Abilene's future water needs are out of board for its efforts in planning for the state's future water needs.
