Bearded Space Travelers

Astronauts Bring Back Seven 'Firsts'

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Flashing broad smiles, the Gemini 10 astronauts flew back to Cape Kennedy today to fill in the details of one of man's most remarkable and significant space flights.

Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and space-walker Michael Collins, an Air Force major, landed in a light drizzle here at 10:33 a.m. after a 91-minute helicopter flight from the carrier Guadalcanal.

IT IS ROUND—Discussing their adventure that set guidelines for the moon and for military man-in-space programs, Young said "we were up over 400 miles — and Columbus was right, the world is round."

Young and Collins thanked the launch crews for two perfect launchings. "No one knows better than Mike and I," Young said, "the importance of the on-time launchings of not only the Gemini and Titan 2 but also the Atlas-Agena (target rocket)."

That was made possible by the hard work of the crews on pads 14 and 19 — the people who put in a lot of work on the nuts and bolts.

BACK TO CAPE—The astronauts returned to Cape Kennedy, where they began their dramatic three-day journey on Monday, in a convoy of three helicopters.

Young and Collins shook hands with many of the greeters and then were whisked off by automobile to begin 10 days of extensive debriefing.

During 70 hours 47 minutes in space they brought back a total of seven space "firsts."

Young and Collins climaxed their brilliant flight late Thursday steering Gemini 10 to a near perfect landing in the western Atlantic Ocean about 350 miles east southeast of Cape Kennedy.

Rites Saturday For Ira Driver

IRA J. DRIVER

A leading figure for decades in ranching, business and civic activities here, Ira J. Driver, died at 3 p.m. Thursday in a local hospital. He had been in failing health for some time and more seriously ill for the past few weeks. He was 82.

Funeral services are to be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the First Methodist Church with the pastor, the Rev. Leo Gee, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under direction of River-Welch Funeral Home.

Mr. Driver had been a resident of Big Spring since 1921. For 17 years he was associated with the State National Bank, resigning to become executive head of the old Big Spring National Farm Loan Association.

He remained in that capacity for another 17 years before retiring to look after ranch interests.

Mr. Driver was one of the organizers of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion, was a familiar figure in each of the shows staged through the years, and was virtually the "perpetual" secretary of the organization until his retirement.

He also was for 30 years a member of the Rotary Club, and was treasurer of that organization through all the years with the exception of the year 1945-46, when he served as president.

He had a 48-year affiliation with the Staked Plains Masonic Lodge No. 598.

Mr. Driver was born January 17, 1884, in Brown County, and moved with his parents, a ranching couple, to Midland County when he was six years old.

He was married in Garden City Oct. 28, 1908, to Sara M. Teale, also a member of a pioneer West Texas ranch family. They operated a ranch in Glasscock for some years before moving to Big Spring. The family home has been at 1206 Johnson.

Mrs. Driver died last April 26. Survivors are a son, E. P. Driver, and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Neel, both of Big Spring; three grandsons, Charles, Skipper and Handley Driver, all of Big Spring; a sister, Mrs. Mayne Stokes, Midland; and two brothers, W. C. Driver, Odessa, and Len F. Driver, Truth Or Consequences, N. M.

Also preceding him in death were a son, Curtis Driver, and a daughter, Alice Louise Driver.

Negro Riots Spread, Brooklyn Boy Killed

Racially Mixed Area Flares Up

Felled In Racial Violence

Sgt. Joseph Heggarty is helped by fellow policemen after he was injured during outbreak of racial violence in the East New York slum area of Brooklyn last night. Ten policemen were injured and an 11-year-old Negro boy was shot dead during the violence. (AP WIREPHOTO)

NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of residents of a tense, racially mixed Brooklyn slum area battled each other and police Thursday night with guns, bottles and rocks. An 11-year-old Negro boy was killed, apparently by sniper fire.

The violence broke out in the East New York section, a recent neighborhood that for months has been the scene of sporadic fighting among Negroes, Puerto Ricans and Italian-Americans.

Ten policemen, four firemen and three residents of the area were reported injured, none seriously.

Earlier in the evening a 2-year-old Negro boy was wounded in the stomach by a rifle bullet 20 blocks away from the scene of the disorders, but police said the incident was unrelated.

Eight Negroes were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to throwing fire bombs. Store windows in the area were smashed, and there was some looting, police reported.

The dead boy, Eric Dean, was hit in the chest, apparently by a sniper's bullet, police said, as Negroes carrying bottles, rocks and sticks roamed neighborhood streets. They said they were armed to ward off possible attacks by whites.

When the boy was shot, police at first calmed the crowd by telling them he had fainted. But when word spread that he was dead, cries of "Let's get 'em!" rang out among the Negroes and the violence spread through the debris-littered streets.

Mayor John V. Lindsay and Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary sped to the area, along with 250 police reinforcements.

Because of previous racial outbreaks in East New York, Lindsay had been in the neighborhood a few hours earlier. He had been hooded and jeered by white teenagers, Negro and Puerto Rican residents complained to messmen that Lindsay had visited only the Italian sections of the neighborhood. They reportedly made an effort to get to the mayor and clashed with the whites.

The police were met with sniper fire and a barrage of rocks and bottles, some gasoline-filled, flung from rooftops and street corners.

A police spokesman said officers did not fire on the crowd. The neighborhood was reported quiet by 1:30 a.m. today, three and a half hours after the Dean boy was killed. Some of the extra police were withdrawn but the area remained under tight guard.

Thursday night's violence was the third incident in the past week and the first to result in death. A Negro woman suffered a minor gunshot wound in fighting Monday night.

Bill Would End Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Emergency legislation proposing government operation of involved airlines to end the current strike was introduced today by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Morse said that the national security and welfare was involved by the strike.

His proposal would require Congress and the President to find that an emergency existed and then would authorize the attorney general to seek an injunction in the U.S. District Court here.

Morse's resolution named the airlines and unions involved in the present strike. He told the Senate their rights on collective bargaining would be maintained even if government operation was required to end the dispute.

Talks aimed at settling the strike droned on today with no signs of encouragement.

P. L. (Roy) Stiemiller, president of the striking AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, said, "It is not going good."

Says All Of 'Em Do It

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. James C. Wright Jr. says probably every member of Congress has knowingly evaded the purpose of a federal law limiting election campaign expenses.

The law, enacted in 1925, says no candidate for the House can spend more than $5,000 in his bid for election, and no candidate for the Senate more than $25,000.

"I dare say there is not a member of Congress, myself included, who has not knowingly evaded its purpose in one way or another," the Texas Democrat told a House subcommittee Thursday.

Testifying in support of an election reform bill, Wright said gave him no formal report but told him of their findings by telephone.

Speck's Attorney To Plead Client Innocent Of Murder

CHICAGO (AP)—Public Defender Gerald Getty says he will enter a plea of innocent for Richard Speck, accused of murdering eight student nurses last week in their townhouse dormitory.

"We can't plead guilty to anything as I project the defense," Getty said Thursday. "We will leave it up to the jury to decide his fate."

INSANITY—Getty, appointed by a Circuit Court judge to defend Speck, said he would plead the ex-convict not guilty by reason of insanity. Dr. William N. Norcross, the City Jail Hospital physician, said Thursday that Speck, 24, continues to recover from wounds in an attempt at suicide and is eating well. He said he is certain Speck suffered a minor heart attack earlier this week, but that two cardiologists would examine him to determine his condition.

Norcross said Speck's life was not in danger but Getty told newsmen Thursday: "In my opinion as a layman there is an outside chance we may lose him when I visited him he appeared very weak."

Asked about Getty's statement, Dr. Norcross said: "Mr. Getty is a lawyer. I am a physician. He has one opinion and I have another. You may choose between them."

Speck had lost 1 1/2 pints of blood by the time he arrived in the Cook County Hospital emergency room early Sunday after slashing his arms in a skid row hotel. Fifteen hours earlier Police Supt. O.W. Wilson had announced that Speck was being sought in the murder of eight student nurses from the South Chicago Community Hospital early July 14.

No Heart Attack Specialists Say

CHICAGO (AP)—A judge said two heart specialists advised him today that Richard Speck, charged with murder in the mass killing of eight nurses, did not suffer a heart attack as had been feared.

Speck's prospects of recovery are excellent, Judge Daniel Ryan of the Felony Division of Circuit Court said he was informed.

The judge said the specialists gave him no formal report but told him of their findings by telephone.

YOUTHS WANT TO CHANGE THEIR IMAGE

Chicago Gangs Pledge Reform

CHICAGO (AP)—The leader of the Blackstone Rangers, a South Side Negro gang, pledged his group to reform Thursday at a news conference sponsored by police officials.

Today, three shootings later, it appeared some gang members had other notions. The Rangers' self-styled leader, Lamar Bell, 21, and a rival gang chief, Ninjo Shead, 18, of the East Side Disciples, told police and reporters after conferring with Police Supt. O. W. Wilson, that they and their members were through with lawlessness.

GANG MEMBERS—A few hours later, Bonnie Rogers, 14, was shot in the back by another youth as he entered a South Side grocery. Rogers told police his assailant was a member of the Rangers. Lionel Henry, 15, was shot in the chest in Marquette Park. Police said that Theodore Gray, 18, admitted shooting Henry because Henry and several other Rangers attacked him. Robert Knox, 18, was shot in the right arm by one of several bullets fired into his cousin's apartment. Knox told police he thought the Rangers shot him because he refused to join their gang. He said gang members had threatened him several times.

PLEGGED—The Rangers and Disciples leaders stood beside Wilson as the police superintendent told newsmen that the two gangs "have pledged themselves to their city, and they don't want it damaged or destroyed." Each gang claims more than 1,000 members.

Bell offered, "We had a bad image. This is our chance to change that image." Wilson said that the two gangs were not involved in last week's riots, and that they had observed a truce for more than a month. Bell said, "Sooner or later someone is going to get killed." The Rangers, he said, want to change their image to avert that. Shead said, "Warfare only hurts our neighborhood. We have to live there. With a truce, we will be able to go to and from school without fighting all the way." HAILED ACTION—Wilson hailed the action saying, "we are delighted to have them in our corner."

When asked if the truce will have any quieting effect on the riot-torn West Side, Wilson replied, "time will only tell."

Shead, a high school junior, expressed a desire to perhaps join the police force cadet training program after finishing school. The police superintendent leaned back and smiled.

Service Officers Gather Here

Service officers from area Veterans Administration hospitals were in Big Spring at the local VA today for a one-day session on hospital problems. Among the 50 delegates present from 53 counties in Texas and two in New Mexico were these five service representatives. From the left, Wayne Jones, registrar, Dallas VA; Jake Gonzales, assistant chief, medical administrative service, Amarillo; Robert W. Waters, assistant chief, medical administrative service, Big Spring; Charles Harris, VA Regional Office, Waco; and seated, C. E. Youth Rescues Girl From Jail

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Officers searched over a widening area today for a 16-year-old juvenile girl parole violator and the boy friend who rescued her Thursday night from the Hale County jail.

Sheriff's deputy Randy Neville identified the pair as Judy Hunt, 16, and Jimmy Don Parker, 25, who he said has served two terms in the state penitentiary for burglary.

Neville and Sheriff Troy Porterfield told this story of the escape.

Parker slipped through a back door of the jail and to the second floor of the jail where Miss Hunt and a sister of the girl were held for transfer to the state school for girls at Gainesville.

Somehow, the officers said, he got the Hunt girl out of her cell and started downstairs with her when he was confronted by an unsuspecting trusty.

Parker held a gun on the trusty and asked the girl, "Are you ready to go?" "Yes," she answered.

Keeping the gun on the trusty, the pair fled out the jail's rear door, took a pickup truck belonging to a city patrolman and fled.

The truck was found abandoned about an hour later on Plainview's eastern outskirts.

Considered dangerous, the escaped pair had not been sighted at a late hour Thursday night.

Bloodhounds were brought here from Lubbock and Tulla to join in the attempts to recapture the fugitives.

Death Claims Mrs. J. E. Deel

Mrs. J. E. Deel, 74, 1313 Settles, died Thursday at 11:35 p.m. in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel, with the Rev. Homer Rich, pastor, First Assembly of God Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Claude Craven, pastor, Trinity Baptist Church. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

She was born July 28, 1891, at Fort Smith, Ark., and married Jim E. Deel June 14, 1908, at Rotan. The family moved from Fisher County to Howard County in 1924, living in the Center Point community, where Mr. Deel was a member of the First Methodist Church. She had made her home with a daughter, Mrs. Harley McLaugh, here in Big Spring for the past 10 months.

She was preceded in death by her husband Feb. 17, 1966. She leaves one other daughter, Mrs. W. L. Robinson, Garden City; three sons, Avery Deel and Lindsey Deel, both of Big Spring, and Ollie Deel, Abilene; also 29 grandchildren and 36 great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers, all grandsons, will be John Robinson, Jim Robinson, Darrell Deel, David Deel, Roy Deel and D. G. Ballard.

Parks Proposed To Save Disappearing 'Big Thicket'

By The Associated Press

The Big Thicket of Texas is a place where a man can hide forever, or get lost and die, or run a moonshine still. But this vast jungle-like section of the state is disappearing at a rapid rate.

A move is under way to preserve parts of what remain with the establishment of several state parks in this Southeast Texas section.

The parks would be chosen to preserve different types of terrain and vegetation found in the Thicket. The plan, sponsored by the Big Thicket Association, has been endorsed by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.

QUICK ACTION
Sponsors say someone must take quick action if the rugged, wild sections are to be preserved.

The Thicket, they contend, is disappearing at the rate of 50 acres a day, falling to the saws of timber companies and the bulldozers of subdivision developers.

The Thicket contains a tremendously varied terrain and a wide variety of dense vegetation.

It also is the home of the state's only Indian tribe.

It begins on the south at a point near US 90, between Liberty and Nome. Liberty is about 50 miles northwest of Port Arthur and Nome is about 30.

The Thicket stretches northward for about 50 miles between Livingston and Woodville.

At the southern limits, the land is low, flat and covered by a dense palmetto and hardwood forest.

Farther north, between the Trinity River and Silsbee, the terrain changes. It becomes higher with more pines. The palmettos of the low area disappear and give way to briars, vines and a multitude of bushes with hardwoods and pines overhead.

The northern reaches of the Thicket form typical Piney Woods country, crossed by many small spring-fed creeks that flow between hardwood and pine-dotted hills.

In the early 1900s, when most of Texas had taken on the semblance of civilization, the Big Thicket still resembled in many ways the rugged and wild appearance that gave it its name.

LEGENDS
It already had become a place of many legends—of men who disappeared behind the curtain of green and never were seen again, of ghosts of these men walking at night in the form of eerie lights, and of draft dodgers who escaped military service by fleeing into the dense Thicket.

At that time, the Thicket remained the home of black bears, mountain lions, herds of deer and many other forms of wildlife.

The bear and the lion have all but disappeared today, although there is an occasional report that one has been seen.

ILLEGAL HUNTING
Deer population has suffered, too, primarily as a result of illegal night hunting.

The Thicket is still home for many squirrels, wood ducks, quail, alligators and other wildlife.

Perhaps the greatest change has come to the very thing that made the Big Thicket — its woods and huge pine trees.

Many of these have been cut by the timber companies which own most of the Thicket. Very few stands of virgin timber remain.

In spite of the inroads of civilization, there are still parts of the Thicket where even experienced woodsmen must take care to avoid becoming lost.

WILD AREA
One of the wildest areas remaining is along Pine Island Bayou, south of Saratoga, about 45 miles northwest of Port Arthur. This is low, flat land where the floor of the forest is covered with immense palmettos as much as six feet high.

The palmettos and the overhead canopy of hardwoods give the area a jungle-like appearance. Wild hogs roam throughout this area.

Farther north, another wild area exists along Menard Creek, between Highway 103 and Segno. This spring-fed creek sends its clear water rippling over a sandy bottom beneath the dense shade of tall oak, pine, cypress, beech and magnolia trees.

Part of both these wild areas would become state parks under proposed plans.

5,000-ACRE PARK
Dempsey Henley, mayor of Liberty and president of the Big Thicket Association, said current plans call for a 5,000-acre park along Menard Creek and a 1,000-acre park along upper Pine Island Bayou.

These areas would make up part of 15,000 acres which Henley's organization believes will be required to create enough parks to preserve important parts of the Thicket.

Other areas would be chosen near the Couchatia-Alabama Indian Reservation west of Woodville, the woods around Votaw and other points.

"We want to pick areas like these which are unique," said Henley. "We want to include different types of terrain, such as baygalls (small swampy areas) and prairies (openings in the forest mysteriously void of trees).

"CHAIN OF PEARLS"
"By doing so, we can create several park areas that would form a 'chain of pearls' across the Thicket, giving visitors the opportunity to see many of the things that have made the area famous."

Henley said much of the land needed to form the parks will be donated by timber companies which own the tracts.

The remaining acreage could be purchased by the state.

"And we've been assured that the purchase price will be as low as possible," he said.

Henley emphasized in an interview the need for prompt action.

"In many ways, we're already too late," said Henley. "So much of the Thicket has disappeared. And they're cutting away at it every day."

The Big Thicket Association has been asked by the Parks and Wildlife Commission to outline the specific area which are needed to form the parks.

Connally Says South Benefits From History

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Gov. John Connally says the South has advantages in developing programs with local control.

Connally addressed the Southern Conference of the Council for State Governments Thursday night.

"First, we in the South now have available to us a proportionate share of national resources for the development of our region greater than ever before enjoyed and hoped for," Connally said.

"Second, and very important, it seems to me, we in the South are the fortunate beneficiary of history in a paradoxical way. The very fact that ours is a less highly developed region of our nation means that we can avoid many of the problems which plague the East and Midwest. We can learn from their mistakes."

Connally said in the view of some only the federal government has the magic answers.

"At the other extreme, some still cling to admirable but outdated philosophic doctrine cloaked in states' rights," he said.

"Who among us would not prefer to meet responsibilities at a local level?" Connally asked. "Yet there often is a great gulf between being willing, and being able."

Earlier, three speakers told the some 200 lawmaker delegates that larger, better paid research staffs would enable state legislators to do a better job.

The speakers, Marion H. Crank, state representative from Arkansas; J. D. McCarty, speaker of the Oklahoma House of Representatives; and George H. Morgan, former Missouri representative, said few legislators have the qualified research assistants they need.

The conference was to conclude today with election of officers and adoption of resolutions.

Top Farmers Get Awards

RENNER, Tex. (AP) — Two top Texas farmers received gold medals, scrolls, and checks for $5,000 apiece for their farmland improvement work at the annual Texas Research Foundation Field Day barbecue Thursday.

Frank Moore, 48, of Plainview, and Harry Jack Garrett, 59, of Harlingen, received the Hoblitzelle Foundation awards from Dr. C. L. Lundell, director of the foundation.

The two were selected from more than 40 nominees all over the state for using the best practical plans for soil and water conservation on their farms.

The Lower Rio Grande Valley farmer has experimented with land leveling and ditching for irrigation on his 1,144 acre Cameron County farm where he grows vegetables and cotton. He is currently leading a drive to gain approval for a master flood control plan to help rid the Valley of a salty soil problem.

Moore, who owns a 2,020-acre cotton, wheat, and sorghum farm in Hale County, has worked with concrete irrigation pipes to cut down water for irrigation requirements on his land 50 per cent.

Starts 'Impossible' Hike

Frenchman Begins Incredible Hike

DEATH VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Only three pairs of socks and sneaker soles separate a French explorer from ground temperatures as high as 190 degrees as he attempts to hike the length of this national monument.

Park officials offer best wishes, but no help if he disappears. Jean Pierre Marquant, 28, who once spent 103 days hiking over 1,000 miles of Algerian desert, is the first person officials know of deliberately attempting a crossing of Death Valley in summer.

He started the 100-mile trek at sundown Wednesday wearing a 10-gallon hat, three T-shirts, gloves, short pants, three pairs of socks and tennis shoes. Marquant also has blue-tinted glasses and a large umbrella.

Death Valley literally is the hottest spot on earth. Officials say average temperatures in July run from 100 to 130 degrees in the shade, with ground surface temperatures as high as 190 degrees. Because of this heat, a ground search party will not be sent to look for Marquant if he should fail to turn up at a checkpoint.

"It would be impossible in this heat," Chief Ranger Homer Leach told the former French paratrooper. "The only help we can offer is to place a call to Edwards or George Air Force Bases and request a helicopter fly the area to try to spot you," he added. A support party traveling by truck is scheduled to meet Marquant daily and provide fresh water, iced soda pop, clothing and other supplies. "We admire Marquant's courage," Dwight T. Warren, park naturalist said. "We have serious doubts he will succeed." Marquant, armed with salt pills, water and a variety of foodstuffs in a back pack, is making the hike "to show Europeans there is still adventure in the States."

"It is a challenge. The sun is so hot it scorches every part of the body. You become dehydrated and your strength is sapped. But because it is a challenge, no one has ever made a long hike in such heat, I relish the opportunity."

No Comment On Prisoner Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials have declined comment on unofficial speculation that 19 recently captured North Vietnamese sailors may figure in any prisoner exchange involving captive American pilots.

Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman disclosed during the weekend that the United States had captured the sailors from torpedo boats involved in a Gulf of Tonkin naval engagement.

Other Communist prisoners have been turned over to South Viet Nam. But when a State Department spokesman was asked Thursday what would be done with the North Vietnamese seamen, he declined to say.

Harriman, who heads U.S. efforts in behalf of American prisoners in Viet Nam, also said in a Voice of America radio interview that efforts had fallen through to exchange a captured Viet Cong terrorist for Gustav Hertz, a U.S. aid official held by Communist guerrillas.

Hanoi has threatened to try captured American pilots as war criminals, contending the 1949 Geneva convention's prisoners of war rules do not apply to captives of the Viet Nam war.

Officials disclosed Thursday that the United States is informing the International Red Cross through diplomatic channels that it will attend either a large or small conference to discuss applying the Geneva conventions on prisoner treatment.

One possibility, the officials said, would be to have the seven powers with troops in Viet Nam participate in the talks. These are the United States, Australia, New Zealand, South Korea, the Philippines and North and South Viet Nam.

They said another possibility might be talks between the United States and North Viet Nam, or a three-country meeting of the United States, South and North Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a Chicago news conference the United States should keep Hanoi guessing about what it might do if the captured pilots are executed.

"But Nixon added that "any punishment must be directed toward the leaders, who are responsible, rather than towards the people." One option, he said, might be to try North Vietnamese leaders as war criminals.

Two other Republicans, Reps. F. Bradford Morse of Massachusetts and Ogden R. Reid of New York, introduced a resolution Thursday to place Congress on record warning Hanoi that any trial of the captured pilots might dash hopes for a peaceful settlement of the war.

A day earlier, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, told the Senate the South Vietnamese are executing many prisoners. He said the United States "in the name of humanity and decency" should stop transferring Viet Cong prisoners to South Vietnamese units.

Texas Carrots Cause Flap

LONDON (AP)—Britain — a traditional grower of carrots that has a foreign exchange crisis on its hands—is importing carrots from Texas.

Appalled at this discovery, the Daily Mirror telephoned Michael Allen, Tex., and spoke to Michael Gower, of Griffin and Brand, who pack and ship carrots to Britain.

"Britain is our biggest customer outside the United States," said the Texan, "and every year the trade gets bigger."

"We can ship carrots so cheaply the British housewife pays only a penny more than the New York housewife for a pound of carrots. You know, we grow more than we can eat over here."

The National Farmers Union took a dim view of the Texas import, a spokesman saying:

"It is absolutely unnecessary to import carrots into this country. It's just one of those damn things."

Texas carrots retail in London for 18 cents a pound packaged. The British carrot, averaging two inches shorter than the Lone Star State's variety, sells for 10½ cents a pound packaged.

One importer of Texas carrots, Anthony Elliott, said:

"We serve the market with what it wants, and the English housewife is undoubtedly attracted by the Texas packet."

Said Francis Darby, director of one of Britain's biggest carrot farms:

"British carrots can be harvested almost all the year round. They can be put in the deep freeze or sent out in special packs. It's quite unnecessary to go to Texas for carrots."

The Daily Mirror's comment on the carrot situation:

"Last year alone Britain imported nearly 250,000 pounds ($700,000) worth of carrots from the United States. How daft can we get?"

DEAR ABBY
Nothing To Hide

DEAR ABBY: I have an exceptionally beautiful 24-year-old niece who has recently been divorced. (No children.) She lived a long way from here and I am sure no one in this town knows that she was ever married. In view of the fact that her marriage lasted only a short time, and the divorce was no fault of hers, do you think it is necessary for me to tell people that she is a divorcee? Why spoil her chances? She wants to forget the past and start life anew. She is coming to visit me soon and I know several very nice young men who could be very much interested in her. HER AUNT: Unless the young lady is completely devoid of integrity, when one of those "nice young men" asks her, "How come a nice girl like you isn't married," she will most certainly reply, "I was."

DEAR ABBY: For my high school graduation I got several of those little clutch purses so I took a very pretty white beaded one back to the store for either a refund or an exchange. They looked at it and said that purse didn't come from their store, which kind of shocked me because it was all nicely gift-wrapped in a box with their name on it. I was sort of embarrassed. Should I call the lady who gave it to me and ask her where she got it? I really have no use for it. "OVER-CLUTCHED": No. That's probably how SHE got it. Don't embarrass her.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 17 and she is going with a very nice young man her age. They are much too young for marriage and they know it, but this boy has started calling me "mom."

He is a dear, sweet, well-mannered Christian lad and I like him very much. I never had a son and I kind of like being called mom by him. My daughter told me he lost his own mother when he was a baby and it makes him happy to call me mom.

Well, a neighbor was visiting me while he was here one day and she heard him calling me mom. Later she said it sounded terrible, and he should call me Mrs.—and nothing but! Is she right? I will abide by your advice. MOM

DEAR MOM: Let the boy call you mom.

Three Drown After Scolding

MEDA, Portugal (AP)—Mrs. Mendes Perdigao, 50, scolded her daughter Georgete, 16, on Thursday for not helping enough on the family farm. Georgete ran off and jumped into a nearby river.

Her mother and sister Emilio, 19, plunged into the torrent to save her. None could swim. All three drowned.

Farm Bureau Queen To Be Named Aug. 20

Howard County Farm Bureau Queen will be crowned at ceremonies set for Aug. 20 in the Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

Seven candidates have already entered the competition. The Farm Bureau invites additional entries. To try for the honor, a girl must be at least 16 and not over 21 years of age, a resident of the county and a member of a Farm Bureau family.

Winner of the county crown gets a check and a trophy plus the chance to compete in the 13-county district contest Aug. 27. This will also be held at HCJC auditorium.

Last year, Donna Duke, Coahoma, won the Howard County title and went on to win the district queenship as well. She will not be eligible to compete this year but will be featured at the coronation ceremonies on Aug. 20.

In addition to selecting the county Farm Bureau queen, the Future Farmer and Future Queen of the county will also be selected. These competitors cannot be younger than three nor older than eight years. The Farm Bureau office asks that mothers of prospective competitors in these events come to the office at once and enter their children.

The seven candidates for Farm Bureau Queen are Diane Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brooks, Coahoma; Iva Jo Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brooks, Coahoma; Linda Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Shaw, Knott; Donna Yater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Yater, Big Spring; Gladys Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Williams, Knott; Darlene Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Wright, Ackerly; Mary Frances Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Newton, Big Spring.

V. C. Wayland Is Dead At 82

V. C. Wayland, 82, 1508 Vines, died at 1:15 a.m. today in a local hospital.

Services will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Grave-side rites and burial will be Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Lowell Cemetery, near Desdemona.

He was born July 10, 1884, in Sharp County, Ark., and married Nellie Mae Varner Sept. 4, 1912, in Comanche. The family moved to Big Spring in June 1956, from Hobbs, N. M. Mr. Wayland was a lifetime member of the Baptist faith and a charter member of the IOOF Lodge 207, Hobbs, N. M.

Survivors include the wife, Mrs. Nellie Mae Wayland, Big Spring; five sons, Burlie O. Wayland, Fort Worth, Elmon Wayland and Grover H. Wayland, both of Big Spring, Orba L. Wayland, Hobbs, N. M., and Herman L. Wayland, Kansas City, Kan.; one daughter, Mrs. Ernie Howell, Elko, Nev.; two sisters, Mrs. R. W. Beckner and Mrs. Blanche Rhyne, both of Cleburne; also 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Is Sentenced On Check Charge

Willard Lynn Peterson today was given 15 days in jail and court costs after being found guilty in county court of passing worthless checks. Peterson was arrested in Colorado City Thursday and brought back to Big Spring for trial.

Deputies left this morning for Jasper, Wyo., to bring Lloyd McGary back to Big Spring to stand trial, said Sheriff A. N. Standard. McGary allegedly forged four checks and violated his parole from the state, Standard said.

Deputies will also be traveling to Lovington, N. M., to extradite David K. Collett, who will be charged with violation of probation, the sheriff stated.

Valley Labor Organizer Goes Back To California

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Labor organizer Eugene Nelson, who launched a farm workers' strike in the lower Rio Grande Valley, has dropped out of sight after leaving a note that he intended to return to California, a labor official said here today.

Nelson failed to appear this morning to address "a large crowd of leading Corpus Christi businessmen" who had gathered to hear him at the Corpus Christi Yacht Club, said Bill Darby, secretary of the Coastal Bend Labor Council.

"He left a note that said he was going back to California, but I've heard that he is still in town," Darby said.

Nelson, 36, a native of California, organized the National Farm Workers Association (NFWA), local No. 2, in Rio Grande City, Tex., in May. The union struck melon growers on June 1, but made little headway after growers obtained a court injunction to prevent picketing.

The union and its supporters are currently making a 400-mile march on the state capitol in Austin for a Labor Day rally where they hope to dramatize their plea for a $1.25 an hour minimum wage for farm workers.

"When I talked to Nelson yesterday, he was upset and seemed to be exhausted," Dar-

Motorcycle Club Elects Christian

Allen Christian will steer the Motorcycle Club as president for the coming year, it was announced Friday by club members. Other officers include John Pannell, vice president; Marion Walker, secretary; Howard Jean Polone, 2005 Morrison, and Clyde Vernon Moulden, Waco, in the 700 block of East Fourth; and a loader driven by Russell Wolf, Odessa, and the car of Herbert Daniel Storen, 1510 Roblin, in the driveway to the Veterinarian's Administration Hospital.

FORMER RESIDENTS

Go To Europe In Pastor Exchange

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hall Jr., former Big Spring residents, are on their way to Europe for a six-weeks visit in five countries as the result of a pastoral exchange program in progress at Wayland Baptist College.

Hall, administrative assistant at Wayland, is participating in the program with the Rev. Herbert E. Ward, pastor of the Kingston Baptist Church near London. Ward will live in Plainview and speak in area churches during his stay in America.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall left Thursday for Dallas and New York, and spent some time with Hall's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Tavaglione, in New Jersey before leaving for England. Mrs. Tavaglione and Hall are the children of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hall Sr., 2600 E. 24th, here in Big Spring.

When the Halls arrive in England they will spend four days touring Ireland and three days in Scotland, returning for a week in London. The itin-

Minor Mishaps

Two minor traffic accidents were reported to police Thursday. No one was injured. Involved were the cars of Soncia Jean Polone, 2005 Morrison, and Clyde Vernon Moulden, Waco, in the 700 block of East Fourth; and a loader driven by Russell Wolf, Odessa, and the car of Herbert Daniel Storen, 1510 Roblin, in the driveway to the Veterinarian's Administration Hospital.

Cub Scouts Have Melon Feast

A watermelon feast was held Tuesday night at the City Park by members of Scout Pack 1. Den 3 presented a skit, "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

Survivors include her husband, William Templeton, Lamesa; two sons, Leon Wolf, Coleman, and George Templeton, both of the home; her mother, Mrs. Bertie Martin, Lamesa; her father, Natlan Minyard, Menard; four sisters, Mrs. Roy Bishop, Miles, Mrs. Marvin Moore, Devine, Mrs. John Banse, San Antonio, and Mrs. Joline Bradford, San Angelo; one brother, N. L. Minyard, San Angelo.

Heat Getting Too Common

Brow mopping weather lingered throughout Texas today. Light showers speckled Northeast Texas in early morning but they appeared too meager to cope with the continuing heat.

There also were a few clouds along the coast, but skies were brass clear everywhere else in the state.

Temperatures from 100 degrees up again were common Thursday as the afternoon highs ranged up to a sizzling 110 at Presidio in the Big Bend country.

Among the top marks elsewhere were 105 at Childress and Wichita Falls, 103 at Waco, 102 at Abilene, Amarillo, Lubbock, Mineral Wells and San Angelo, and 100 at College Station, Laredo and Wink.

Shower activity moved in an area up to 80 miles wide through a sector embracing Sherman, Paris, Mount Vernon, McKinney and rural areas close to Dallas, Waco and Tyler.

Coahoma Cubs In 'Pirate' Session

COAHOMA — Pirates and their stormy careers formed the theme for the meeting of Cub Pack 45 at the First Presbyterian Church Thursday night. There were 23 cub scouts, three visitors and 19 adults in attendance.

A gift certificate was awarded belatedly to Robbie Tindol to reward him for selling 25 tickets for the Scout Exposition held some weeks ago.

Wolf awards were made to Gary Don South, Robbie Tindol and Keith Stone. Bear awards were to David Firenze, and Guy James, Lion awards were to Tim Tindol and Ricky Bearden. Arrow points went to Ricky Patterson, Jimmy Renfro and John Wayne Metcalf.

Family Fun will be the theme of the next pack meeting on Aug. 25.

Shoots Wife, Kills Self

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas police said a Lancaster man shot his wife today in the Braniff Building at Exchange Park, and then killed himself.

Police also said the white man exchanged shots with two persons, including the chief security officer at Exchange Park, retired policeman J. S. Daniels. Officers said that dead on arrival at Parkland Hospital was Jerry Wayne Vinson, 29, of Lancaster.

His wife, Pat, was hospitalized in critical condition with a bullet wound in the neck. Mrs. Vinson is employed in the disbursement department at the Braniff Building.

Planes Aid Marine Drive, Two More Jets Are Lost

RESCUED

One of the pilots was rescued. The other was listed as missing. A U.S. spokesman refused to say whether any of the Soviet-built missiles brought down either of the planes.

A task force of 7,000 U.S. Marines and 3,000 South Vietnamese troops just below the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam was attempting to block any retreat by North Viet Nam's 324-B Division.

Marine Corps planes and artillery battered a jungle-covered hill identified by a captured 15-year-old private as a North Vietnamese regimental command post. One Marine battalion moved in Thursday night as a blocking force after a large North Vietnamese unit tried to move westward toward Laos.

U.S. officials did not dismiss the possibility that Communist withdrawal toward Laos of the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone only a mile or two away could be a possible enemy trap for the Leathernecks.

The 2nd Battalion of the 1st Marine Regiment came under heavy small-arms and mortar

Kennel Club Plans Match

The Big Spring Kennel Club Thursday evening made plans for the proposed Fall Match and set the date for Sept. 11, subject to AKC approval, in Birdwell Park.

Several proposals for increasing interest and recruiting new members were discussed. The club extended an invitation to anyone interested in any of the phases of work with purebred dogs and offers informative programs and activities. Meetings are held on the third Thursday of the month and yearly dues are nominal. Information may be had by calling AM 7-8776 or AM 7-2175.

A new series of obedience classes will begin Sept. 12 and those interested should contact Mrs. Roy Linn, Bruce Wright or Bill Tubb. This will be a series of 10 classes in basic obedience training for novice dogs and inexperienced handlers. A fee of $10 will cover the complete course and a graduation exercise.

Two new members were welcomed into the club, Mrs. Hatlie Boland and Carrol Cannon. Mrs. Boland brought the film program.

Guide Dogs for the Blind offers this film to any club or civic organization interested in seeing how a Guide Dog is trained to help his blind master. Anyone interested in seeing this film should contact Mrs. Boland, AM 3-2118, or Tubb.

The next meeting of the club will be Aug. 18 and a training program on showing in the conformation ring will be given.

Minor Changes In Weather

The nation's weather pattern showed only minor changes today, with more clear skies and pleasant temperatures.

The hottest weather centered Thursday in the Southern Plains and the Southwest desert region where the mercury was often above 100.

Showers tapered off from the Rockies to the adjacent Plains states and along the warm humid Gulf Coast. Fairly heavy rain fell in some areas, including Grand Forks, N.D., near Alexandria, La., Orlando and Gainesville, Fla., and Lamar and La Junta, Colo.

House Approves Webb Project

A new corrosion control facility for Webb AFB cleared another hurdle today, when the House Armed Services Committee included its cost among over a billion dollars in military projects approved in a construction bill. The paint shop project will cost $226,000.

The project cleared the Senate previously, and the work is for the current fiscal year, which began July 1.

Weather Forecast

Friday night's weather will be rainy over parts of the Plains, Plateaus and Gulf Coast. It will be cooler in the Northern Plains. It will be warmer in the Northern Rockies.

Houston Secretary Wins Honor Title

DALLAS (AP) — Houston oilman Ernest Cockrell Jr. may well be the envy of executives all over the nation. His secretary, Mrs. Gene Pendergast, is the new international secretary of the year.

Mrs. Pendergast, a sparkling brunette who is the mother of a 15-year-old girl, Kathi, and the wife of a Houston salesman, won the title Thursday at the annual convention of the National Secretaries Association.

Officers of the organization were to be elected at today's session, and members were expected to return Miss M. Merle Law of London, Ontario, Canada, as president for another year.

The convention, which has drawn more than 1,000 secretaries to Dallas, winds up Saturday with morning and afternoon business sessions.

Mrs. Pendergast was selected over four other finalists who had won competition beginning in the 375 chapters of the organization and advancing through division and district levels.

The new title holder said the secretarial profession is "very rewarding, very satisfying."

She said in an interview after being selected secretary of the year that a secretary "is a member of the management team" along with her boss.

Mrs. Pendergast said that as the duties of executives become more complex, secretaries are being given increasingly more important tasks.

Aside from the basic skills such as typing and knowledge of grammar, she said the most important quality in a good secretary is adaptability.

"A secretary is hired to adapt to her employer, not to try to change him to do things her way," she explained.

Farm Workers Footsore But Determined

FALFURRIAS, Tex. (AP) — Marching farm workers, footsore and weary but still determined, slogged toward their South Texas town today on their 56-day, 400-mile march to Austin.

Two were sidelined Thursday, a 45-year-old woman with swollen feet, and a 63-year-old man was overcome by the heat which reached more than 100 degrees along the march route.

Under the blazing sun, the marchers moved only 12 miles Thursday and planned another 12 today which would bring them into Falfurrias.

Eighteen marchers started the Friday trek. Included were the co-directors, the Rev. Antonio Gonzalez, a Catholic priest, and the Rev. James L. Novarro, a Baptist minister, both from Houston.

The march started July 11 in San Juan and the marchers intend to end it in the capitol grounds in Austin on Labor Day. Purpose of the long union derby is to dramatize a plea for a $1.25 minimum wage for field workers.

The marchers are members of the National Farm Workers Association which went on strike June 1 against Lower Rio Grande Valley melon growers.

The growers claimed the strike was illegal and obtained a court injunction to prevent picketing.

After today's 12-mile march through the sun, the marchers and their leaders—joined by South Texas politicians and others—planned a 5 p.m. rally at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Corpus Christi and San Antonio are the march route's largest cities before reaching Austin, the state capital.

Cluster Bomb Unit Scores One Of Successful Raids

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The target was the Yen Bai military complex 80 miles northwest of Hanoi.

From airbases in Thailand, U.S. jet bombers swept across North Viet Nam to the Red River Valley.

They smothered Yen Bai with thousands of lethal "bomblets." The noise was terrifying.

MOST SUCCESSFUL

The Yen Bai raid was one of the most successful of the war. U.S. officers claimed it wiped out 25 anti-aircraft sites and the crews manning them. It left Yen Bai in flames.

The weapon largely responsible was the CBU or cluster bomb unit.

It is one of a large catalogue of new or improved weapons providing American and allied forces with an awesome amount of firepower.

Matching this weapons arsenal are guerrilla-fighting tactics which, like the weapons, have been devised for or adapted to the jungles and paddies of South Viet Nam. The Viet Cong soldier still retains his main counter "weapon" of elusiveness. He burrows into the ground in tunnels or holes, or "melts into the countryside" as a peasant, or fades across the borders of neighboring Cambodia and Laos.

AGAINST CONG

Except for the Yen Bai raid late last spring, the cluster bomb unit has been used largely against Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

Primarily an antipersonnel weapon, the CBU is a canister containing some 800 bomblets with orange noses and silvery tail fins.

They are blown from the canister by compressed air, shower down to earth in bursts of light and overpowering noise.

The effect has been likened to hurling 800 extra-powerful hand grenades at the enemy.

In recent months napalm has been added to the bomblets and the pellets hit their target with both fire and steel.

Another weapon of fearsome firepower is the "Dragon Ship," sometimes called "Puff, the Magic Dragon." Twin-engine C47 planes, the old reliable of World War II, carry three guns, each with six rotating barrels. They are mounted in the plane, all on one side and protruding through windows and the door.

SPIT OUT

Fired at the same time, the machine guns can spit out 18,000 rounds per minute.

The Dragon Ships also make use of the new "star light" telescopic gunsight. This gathers and amplifies dim light in night operations. In a recent action, a star light scope caught 200 enemy troops moving along the Ho Chi Minh trail and the Dragon Ships nearly wiped them out.

Tactically, B52 bombers can unload tons of explosives on guerrilla concentrations or base camps from such high altitudes that the Viet Cong never hear or see them.

The eight-engine bombers carry 500-750 and 1,000-pound bombs. They fly in above the weather at 40,000 feet and rain explosives on a target by radar control.

Also tactically, jet fighters bombers provide air support for ground operations that is unmatched in any previous conflict.

AVERAGE SORTIES

American pilots average 400 to 500 sorties a day; South Vietnamese pilots fly an additional 100 to 200 sorties.

"Sky spot" radar control guides fliers to their targets from the ground and enables them to bomb targets in darkness, cloudy weather or rain.

Even the infantryman is armed with greater firepower than in other wars.

His basic weapons is the M16 lightweight rifle that fires a 22-caliber, high-velocity bullet. This automatic weapon has little recoil, helping a soldier to fire with accuracy even when his fire is fully automatic. The small, light bullet enables him to carry more ammunition than he could before. For the M16, a soldier can carry 580 rounds in magazines.

Just Checking Him Out First

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An attendant at a Pittsburgh garage told police a man walked up to him Thursday and asked him if he could read.

The attendant, Wallace Webb, 31, replied he could, and the man handed him this note: "All right, man, this is a holdup. Put all the money in the bag and don't try anything."

The bandit escaped with $18.

Greece Is Next Stop

The Rev. James A. Puckett, pastor of Baptist Temple Church, is presently on a three weeks tour of the Holy Lands with a group of Big Spring ministers and laymen. In a recent letter, he described the group's first four days in Rome, where visits included the Coliseum, the Vatican Museum, the Vatican library, St. Peter's Cathedral and the catacombs.

Members of the group have toured the ruins of the ancient public baths, where they viewed the opera "Aida" being performed.

Rev. Puckett said the group left for Greece on the 17th. Big Springers on the tour include Dr. Clyde Campbell, pastor, Hillcrest Baptist Church; his daughter, Mary Campbell; the Rev. D. M. Duke, pastor, Church of the Nazarene; his wife, the Rev. Melvin Montgomery, pastor, Mt. Bethel Baptist Church; Mrs. Sol Bledsoe; Avanel Greenwood; and Dick Snyder.

Biggest Customer Dissatisfied With Petroleum Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the biggest single customer of the U.S. petroleum industry becomes "restless and uncertain it is time for concern," the National Petroleum Council was told this week.

This hint of customer dissatisfaction came from a Defense Department official concerned with procurement of petroleum products for the nation's defense.

The official, Joseph Muir, said the department, in seeking to buy 5.8 million barrels of jet fuel recently, had to reject 1.2 million barrels because of such things as shipment problems and costs.

"In addition to the capability of the domestic industry to meet our returned overseas requirements (products which the department now is trying to purchase in this country instead of from foreign sources), a factor of considerable concern to us in the Department of Defense is price," he told the council.

An increase of just one cent a gallon on JP4 jet fuel, he said, would result in an annual increase in the defense budget of more than $60 million.

But the department is aware, he continued, that price is a "two-way street."

"We recognize that the industry must have time to plan the effective utilization of its capacity," he said, adding that "short fuse" invitations for bid and short term contracts do not provide that time.

For this reason, he explained, the department is considering longer term contracts.

The department also realizes that its take of the industry's total output is relatively small, he said, but it continues to be the biggest single customer.

"I think from all of this," he continued, "it is clear that military demand for domestic products may continue to increase to the extent of industry's present capability."

"I would hope and expect that the domestic petroleum industry would plan to meet these increases as they occur and at reasonable prices."

Wrong Place To Spend The Night

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—The couple from Walla Walla walked up to the desk clerk and asked if the reservations were ready.

"Reservations for what?" asked the clerk.

"Why, our motel reservations," the husband replied.

City Hall desk clerk Billie Sawyer told the couple that while Vancouver's new City Hall may look like a motel, it isn't.

BUSINESSMAN INTERRUPTS TRIP
Stops at a Hindu "bicycle-in" temple to pray

New Delhi Provides A Sidewalk Temple

NEW DELHI (AP) — Some American cities have drive-in church services, but New Delhi has a "bicycle-in" Hindu temple.

Situated curbside on a quiet, tree-lined residential boulevard, the small temple is visited each day by hundreds of Indians who stop for a moment of prayer as they bicycle to work.

One office worker recently said he was praying for the speedy recovery of a relative who was ill. A businessman said he was asking guidance for a major transaction he was to make that day.

A few hundred years ago, when the temple was built, it was an isolated spot in the dusty plains several miles from Old Delhi, on the banks of the Jumna River.

Then Delhi became the capital of India and the temple was caught up in the city's sprawling suburbs. But in India these miniature temples are not disturbed, so this temple blocks a sidewalk and pedestrians must take to the street to get around the structure.

Two Hindu holy men take turns caring for the temple and ministering to the worshippers. They sleep on a cot nearby. Each morning they pour water over the stone gods inside the tiny domed structure, then collect the water in a jug.

New Building In Sight For New Church

Foundation work has been started for a $14,000 educational building for the Goliad Assembly of God Church (formerly Faith Assembly of God), the pastors, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ragan, announced today.

A chapel, classroom, fellowship hall and nursery will be included in the building, Mrs. Ragan said.

Labor is being donated by the men and boys of the church, and the financing is through offerings. The women of the congregation provide cake and ice cream or sandwiches and tea twice a week for the workers. No completion date has been set.

Plans are being made now for the construction of a sanctuary, which will be built directly in front of the educational building on Goliad.

New 'College' Pushed By Sugarland Pastor

AUSTIN—Fed up with churches spending millions of dollars a year on buildings that are used only three hours a week, a Presbyterian minister has come up with a plan he believes will reduce costly construction, avoid denominational duplication and provide wider, and wiser, use of church facilities.

The plan, being advanced by the Rev. Ronald M. Guinn, Sugarland, calls for a central educational building to be financed and shared by several denominations or chapels surrounding it.

Known as the "College of Congregations," the proposal would, as Rev. Guinn sees it, reduce overhead costs of churches approximately 20 per cent. It would also benefit the community, he maintains.

The central education building, the 34-year-old pastor explains in the July issue of "Texas Presbyterian," could be used by various congregations for church-school classes on evenings and weekends.

On weekdays it could be leased to the public school system, with less property being put on a community's tax-free roll.

"The individual sanctuaries or chapels," Rev. Guinn said, "would meet the demands for various forms of worship and preserve a sense of congregational identity."

Separate storage lockers for equipment and care in putting away church symbols would safeguard separation of church and state in the educational building.

"And what," he asks, "is so heretical about having church-school classes on weekday nights?" One doesn't have to be a graduate sociologist, he says, to know more and more people are spending weekends on the lake or beach, and fewer and fewer are interested in a "Sunday" school.

Local Jehovah's Witnesses plan to be included in the more than 30,000 delegates at the Aug. 3-7 "God's Sons of Liberty" district assembly at Market Hall in Dallas.

According to Eliseo Gamboa, the local congregation received advance program information this week. The program feature will be "Building on a Right Foundation with Fire-Resistant Materials."

Gamboa said that the program will deal with dramatizations of Bible accounts.

Highlight of the program will be at 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 7, when the public lecture, "What Has God's Kingdom Been Doing Since 1914?" will be presented.

TARBETS PLAN MOVE TO CONNECTICUT
Anderson Street minister leaves Aug. 7

Tarbets Leave Local Church

The elders of the Anderson Street Church of Christ have announced the move of their minister, David Tarbet, to Danbury, Conn., effective Aug. 7.

Tarbet has been with the local church for five years. He is a graduate of Abilene Christian College and Mrs. Tarbet is a graduate of North Texas State University.

Since Tarbet assumed his ministerial duties with the Anderson Street Church of Christ, the church has constructed a new plant just east of North Birdwell Lane on Anderson Street, conducted a campaign to "Evangelize the World of Our Community," and sponsored an area-wide advertising program through local news media which involved the cooperation of 12 Churches of Christ. During the first year in the new building, the church baptized over 30 people.

The Tarbets make the third family to come from the Anderson Street Church and enter the mission fields this year. The Charles Colwells and Lewis McDougals joined the "Exodus New Jersey" movement in June. Tarbet will become the first full-time minister of the Church of Christ in Danbury, Conn., a city of 100,000, northeast of New York City.

The College Church of Christ, Abilene, has assumed the support and sponsorship of the Tarbet family in Connecticut. Tarbet will apply for admission to Yale University Divinity School and work on his bachelor of divinity and master of arts and religion degrees there.

Phillip Burcham, an elder of the local congregation, said that the church was "very sorry to lose David Tarbet" but wished him well in his new endeavors.

"We will be leaving some of the greatest people in the world behind as we move to the Northeast," Tarbet said, "but the call of Christ to go work in His vineyard is one which has challenged us to take the gospel to those who have not yet heard its simple message.

"We will be leaving many thoughts and affections in Big Spring."

Tarbet said that he and his family plan to move to Sydney, Australia, within a few years.

May Reform Laws

LONDON (AP) — The Church of England's inquiry into measures to reduce the hardship of broken marriages may open the way to a new reform of the divorce laws in the next parliamentary session, church sources think. A committee, under the chairmanship of the Bishop of Exeter (Dr. Robert Morlimer), is expected to make the break-up of a marriage grounds for divorce under suitable safeguards.

Pulpit Just Part Of Job

Where is that guy who says a pastor doesn't have anything to do but talk for a few minutes on Sunday?

Kayserdropping on the Rev. James A. Puckett, pastor of the Baptist Temple Church, as he writes his pastor's column for the Temple Trails, one can come up with something like this:

"This week the pastor has the regular two sermons to preach on Sunday, one of which involves a great deal of historical research; a prayer meeting talk for Wednesday night; the Sunday school lesson to be taught for the teachers; a Bible study to be given at the soulwinner's prayer breakfast; five character stories to the general assembly for vacation Bible school; five hour-long studies through the entire Book of Romans for the intermediate department of VBS; and a message to be brought for the Bennett House Extension Bible class.

"This is a total of 10 hours of public speaking and if I am able to give a minimum of two hours of preparation for every 30 minutes of speaking, this is 50 hours of work in preaching and sermon preparation alone—and this is only one of the many duties that the pastor must perform each week.

"An average of about five new Baptist families moving into our community each week must be visited; the five "pastor's guest families" of the church are promised a visit from the pastor; the Big Spring Herald called and asked if I would prepare an article for this week's church page.

"Under the heading of community activities, there were service club luncheons to attend and some data gathering work to be completed for the new Community Mental Health Center. Under the heading of Baptist affairs, there were two associational meetings to attend, and

SINCERITY BEFORE GOD

The real Christian does not need to take an oath; sincerity, not profanity, is his motto before God. The International Sunday school lesson for this Sunday is taken from Exodus 20:7; Matthew 5:33-37; 6:5-15; Mark 7:5-9; and Titus 1:16.

There are other forms of taking the name of God in vain that are more destructive than profanity. A parent who says to a child, "God will punish you for doing this"; a churchman who insists that no church but his own really knows God; a Sunday school teacher who teaches without preparation and robs his students of a full picture of God; the man who makes promises to God that he never intends to keep—all of these people are using a form of profanity in their lives.

Profanity has many faces.

No Longer Big As A Bull

Americans Getting Fatter, Visiting Teenagers Prove It

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced today what most of us already know: Americans are getting fatter. Fatter than the British, the Canadians and goodness knows who else.

The Public Health Service offered no explanation. But 3,086 beefed-up foreign students offer plenty. They involve American favorites such as fried chicken, pumpkin pie and ice cream.

Living for a year with American families, the teenagers gained an over-all 18 tons. They're taking home their added pounds to 59 countries this weekend.

Almost any one of the American Field Service students from overseas will say he or she gained from 2 or 3 to 30 or 40 pounds. No one said his or her new size would hurt the American image, but few thought it would help it.

Tamara Magalotti of Fortli, Italy, gained 25 pounds on

Electrocuted

HARDESTY, Okla. (AP) — Bobby Grace, 19, of Phillips, Tex., was electrocuted Thursday in an oilfield accident near here in the Oklahoma Panhandle. Witnesses said Grace slipped and grabbed a power line for support.

Kidney Transplant Scheduled Today

DALLAS, Tex., (AP) — The twice-postponed kidney transplant for Joyce Lindsey for her twin, Janet, was set for today at Parkland Hospital.

And up until time for the operation, the two Landrum, S.C., girls have been doing well, thank you.

A "big box" of dolls, doll dresses and accessories arrived this week from California for the 10-year-old girls. A clipping of a story in which Joyce mentioned bringing along her doll—her most prized possession—had been sent to a national toy manufacturing company.

The company asked that its name not be released.

The rash that had broken out on Joyce—to be the recipient of a healthy kidney from her sister—had subsided and was apparently due to a reaction from antibiotics.

When the rash appeared during the weekend, doctors from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School placed an indefinite postponement on the surgery which had been planned last Monday.

The transplant had been postponed from the preceding Thursday after the ill twin had developed a sudden rise in temperature.

Scheduling of the surgery was decided upon after days of testing to determine cellular compatibility between the girls.

Joyce, who weighed 48 pounds when she arrived here, has a condition known as congenital hypoplasia—with underdeveloped kidneys unable to maintain adequate renal function.

This was the same circumstance in the first kidney transplant ever performed in Dallas, in November, 1964, involving Fort Worth twins Nancy and Mary Freeman.

The Freeman girls visited the Landrum twins at Parkland

Studies Dismissal Of Racial Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk says the United States is studying the International Court of Justice dismissal of a complaint against South Africa's system of racial separation "to see what it means for the future."

"I must say I was surprised by the decision," he said of the court's announcement Monday that it had dismissed the complaint against the imposition of apartheid in the mandated territory of South-West Africa.

Rusk, addressing 3,000 American Field Service students Thursday, was the first high American official to comment on the decision.

Chile Proposes LBJ Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chile has formally proposed that President Johnson hold a meeting with all Latin-American presidents in Vina del Mar, Chile.

Johnson endorsed a proposed summit-type meeting of Western Hemisphere presidents at his news conference Wednesday.

Chilean Ambassador Alejandro Magnet asked the Organization of American States Thursday to take formal action to call the proposed meeting and said his nation would be glad to be the host.

Predicts Low Influenza Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General William H. Stewart of the Public Health Service has predicted a relatively low incidence of influenza this winter in the United States.

But Stewart said Thursday certain high-risk groups still should be vaccinated after Sept. 1 and before mid-December. He also recommended vaccination for persons over 45 and particularly those over 65.

His recommendations were based on advice from his advisory committee on immunization practices, which reiterated previous recommendations for vaccination of the chronically ill and persons in higher age groups.

A LOVELIER YOU

What's Your System For Keeping Dainty?

By MARY SUE MILLER
What's your system for keeping cool? It's surprising how many of us cling to outmoded ideas on the subject. As a consequence we suffer a great deal of unnecessary discomfort and disarray.

According to the latest information, these are the cool facts:
● You feel cooler—and actually are—after a warm bath or shower than after a cold one. Medical experts explain that warm water dilates the blood vessels, an action which induces internal heat to escape through the skin.

● However torrid the weather, you need some exercise to stimulate the circulation. A sluggish body is wide open to heat fatigue.

● To further combat heat, you need all the water and liquid you can drink. Hot meals and beverages must not be bypassed, and your protein intake must not lag.

● In regulating the body's own cooling mechanism, light-weight, absorbent clothing acts exactly like a thermostat. It follows that on your daily rounds you will be much hotter wearing scanty attire than wearing a sheer cotton dress with sleeves and an airy, brimmed hat. But you will not be warmer in a dark than in a light dress. It's a matter of preference and practicality.

● You look and feel fresh when you hold make-up to a film and keep your hair in perfect order. Heavy make-ups and straggly hair can get you real hot up.
● Think cool—and no joking! Hurry and flurry knock you out when the temperature's zero. Not to mention 90 in the shade!

YOUR GROOMING

Put aside your grooming doubts and worries! Send today for "Your Grooming—A to Z," a booklet that covers every step in achieving smooth looks. It tells how to manicure and pedicure, use deodorants and depilatories, bathe for beauty, tend feet, hands, teeth and eyes, polish skin and hair, care for clothes, apply perfume, overcome personal posers. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

Announce Marriage

Airman I.C. and Mrs. Richard A. Sidoni are at home at 203 E. 6th, Jess Slaughter, Justice of the Peace, officiated for the single ring ceremony.
Mrs. Sidoni, the former Judy Gail McMullen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McMullen, 3217 Eleventh Place. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony L. Sidoni, Red Lion, Pa.

The bride wore a street-length dress of white peau de soie with an overlay of Chantilly lace. The dress featured an Empire waistline accented with a bow of peau de soie and cap sleeves of Chantilly lace. The skirt was of nylon crepe, and her veil of illusion was a circlet of net attached to a white bow.

For a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M., the bride wore a burgundy two-piece dress with white accessories.
Mrs. Sidoni is a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School where she was a member of the Steer Band and the Future Homemakers of America. She is employed at Hardesty Drug Store.

Sidoni is a graduate of Red Lion High School, Red Lion, Pa. He is stationed at Webb AFB.

Mrs. B. Roper Receives Award

An award was presented to Mrs. Boyde Roper during the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Ladies Home League of the Salvation Army at the Citadel.

The award was given for the winning floral arrangement during the recent inter-league competition.

Mrs. J. R. Kirby presided during the meeting, and Mrs. Jimmy Moore served refreshments and gave the devotion.

It was announced that the July 27 meeting will be a workshop, and that $100, toward a goal of $150, had been reached for the Mexico offering.

Honored In Bay City

Miss Oralee Hurst, bride-elect of Samuel Wayne Waters of Big Spring, was honored Saturday at a luncheon in Bay City. Hostesses were Mrs. D. F. Wington and Mrs. J. W. Ingram, and the affair was held in the Terrace Room of Bay City Country Club.

The honoree is the daughter of Mrs. M. L. Hurst of Bay City, and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. O. M. Waters, 2802 Cactus. The couple plans to be married Aug. 26 at the First Presbyterian Church in Bay City.

The luncheon table was covered with white linen and centered with white asters and gypsophila in a low silver container. Flanking the arrangement were white candles in green holders.

The hostesses' gift to Miss Hurst was an electric mixer.

Charter Draped For Mrs. Hart

Mrs. C. L. Kirkland presided during the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Ladies Society of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

A new password was adopted, and the members met at the IOOF Hall. The charter was undraped in memory of Mrs. Lois Garland and was draped in memory of Mrs. A. C. Hart.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. P. P. Van Pelt and Mrs. Lonnie Griffith.

Mrs. R. A. Michaels To Head Protestants

New officers were elected during the Wednesday morning meeting of the Protestant Women of the Chapel. The 21 attending met at the chapel annex with Mrs. William Hascall presiding.

To take office in September are Mrs. Richard A. Michaels, president; Mrs. Douglas Winge, vice president; and Mrs. W. A. Cottrell, secretary-treasurer.

Committee chairmen are Mrs. Charles O. Edgar, altar; Mrs. Hascall, program; Mrs. Neal McDonald, sunshine; Mrs. David Van Brune, membership; and Mrs. J. H. Kleih, publicity.

Mrs. James Pettit thanked Mrs. Bill Gough, Mrs. Hascall and Mrs. R. O. Hatch for their

End Fishing Trip On Rio Grande

WESTBROOK (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. David Anderson and Mrs. Perry Anderson, Odessa, spent the weekend fishing in the Rio Grande River.

Members of the Ruth Sunday School Class of the Baptist Church met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Harrell Geron. The devotion was presented by Mrs. L. B. Edwards. Mrs. Charles Ranne led prayer and Mrs. N. J. McMahan presided. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Troy Lankford will host the August meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Altis Clemmer spent the weekend in Cisco and Putnam with relatives.

Newton Bacon, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bacon, received his discharge after four years service with the Navy in the South Pacific. He is now employed with Cosden Oil and Chemical Company refinery in Big Spring.

Wanda Whitehead, daughter of Mrs. Sibyl Whitehead, is spending the week in San Antonio with her father, E. C. Whitehead, and the Joe Bakers.

Visiting Mrs. Dora Fowler are Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Allison and Mrs. M. C. McLaughlin of Grandbury and Mrs. John Busby of Escondido, Calif.

WMS Explores Joshua's Reign

WESTBROOK (SC) — "From Joshua's Reign to Judah's Fall" was the study topic at the Tuesday meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church. Program participants were Mrs. Altis Clemmer and Mrs. Charles Ranne. Mrs. L. B. Edwards led prayer, and Mrs. Hoyt Roberts presided. The Royal Service will be held Sept. 6.

Bride Scores In Webb Games

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Riley tied for first and second places with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Steyer during duplicate bridge games held Thursday evening in the Officers Open Mess at Webb Air Force Base. Other winners were Mrs. D. A. Brazel and Mrs. Ray McMahan, third; and Mrs. John Stone and Capt. Ron Kibler, fourth.

Recent participation with the refreshment hour at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

A letter was read from the "adopted" son describing his activities with the Boy Scouts. A thank-you note from Mrs. Johnny Clements, Ward 2-B, Wilford Hall, Lackland, AFB, San Antonio, was also read.

It was announced that trading stamps were still being collected for the items in the chapel kitchen.

Mrs. H. M. Jarratt was guest speaker and pianist. She told the history of hymns and played selections of favorite church songs.

Mrs. Michaels gave the closing prayer, and Mrs. Gough and Mrs. Edgar served refreshments.

The CIA And Politics

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has lost his bid to add three members of his committee to the select committee which oversees operations of the Central Intelligence Agency. It is likely, though, that the issue will arise again in the future.

An argument over semantics has tended to obscure the issue. Sen. Richard B. Russell, who heads the seven-member panel which supervises the CIA, argues rightly that the CIA does not "make" foreign policy. But Fulbright argues just as correctly that the CIA, through its covert operations (Cuba, Guatemala, Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic examples) can exercise great influence on foreign policy.

But senatorial jealousy aside, the CIA must at all costs be protected from politics. As long as the CIA can strongly influence foreign policy, so long will members of the Foreign Relations Committee feel that they are entitled to participate in its oversight. For its part, the CIA would be well advised to keep its overseers well informed on its "dirty tricks" which may create foreign policy crises. The line between intelligence gathering and covert, often subversive, operations should be clearly drawn and scrupulously maintained.

The Mighty Water Squabble

The evidence is stacking up that nobody but the experts who devised it want any part of the highly-publicized Texas Water Plan. This is the one which looks toward meeting many of the state's water problems by the year 2020, more than 50 years hence.

Gov. Connally, when the plan was released publicly, called it "bold and imaginative." He could be right, but what is happening is that every segment of Texas is concerned, and rightly so, with its own sphere of interest.

To begin with, the High Plains of West Texas, as an area, was completely omitted from the plan. Same with the Trans-Pecos country. Understandably, the people in those areas are incensed.

Next has come a series of hearings in the various river basins, and water storage and/or transfer areas. At the hearings, nobody is satisfied.

The Northeast Texas people don't want any of their water diverted to other areas; the Trinity dreamers are holding out for that navigation project; the Brazos River people who long have had a political stranglehold on the use of water in that basin, apparently don't want their own play-house upset.

Over in Abilene, the other day, the Texas Water Development Board said it could get ready to go to the courts, if it tries to carry out the plan as now set up. That likely would mean that it would be 2020 before any decision were handed down.

Next up is a series of hearings on the Colorado River Basin—the one which affects us immediately. First hearing on this will be in Odessa next Monday; and the odds are that another political setup in the state—the Lower Colorado River Authority—is going to buck mightily, because the proposal calls for reservoirs (other than our own under way near Robert Lee) upstream.

We see the merit of having a state water plan—the state is probably doomed without an orderly program—but there will have to be more give-and-take than has as yet been exhibited.

Who's Starting The Riots?

WASHINGTON—The Reverend Doctor Billy Graham, evangelist of world renown, has appealed publicly to President Johnson—his close friend—to identify the groups inside America "who are teaching and advocating violence, training in guerrilla tactics and defying authority."

The famous Baptist minister declares that, "incredible as it may seem, we are on the road to anarchy in some of the large cities of this country, and the symptoms are ominous and dangerous." He said that "our leaders should not ignore this threat any longer."

RECENTLY, Congress has been studying the Ku Klux Klan and is about to consider legislation dealing with "clandestine organizations." But this does not go far enough. For it is becoming known that some of the persons with considerable influence in the terroristic activities being carried on in the name of the "civil rights" movement in America either are Communists themselves, or are sympathetic to communism.

DR. GRAHAM points out that many of the demonstrations have "the pattern of defiance of authority," and he emphasizes that "they are organized and planned by a hard core of extremists who are taking advantage of just grievances by people living in the frustrations of ghettos." He adds that "the FBI and the President know who they (the extremist leaders) are and what they are up to. Now the people need to know. Congress has no more urgent business than to pass laws with teeth in them."

POLICE Superintendent O. W. Wilson in Chicago says the recent riots there were intensified by militant groups which courted violence. So far as is known, not one of the principal leaders of the civil-rights groups is himself accused of being a Communist. But among the different organizations are said to be top advisers with a wide knowledge of Communist tactics who are accomplishing what the Communists want—namely, to produce a state of anarchy by means of violence, as mobs are incited and collisions with the police are stimulated.

IT IS DIFFICULT for the President himself to reveal individual identifications. He can only denounce in general terms the types of organizations which are guilty of what amounts to a process of subversion. Congressional committees, on the other hand, have the power to subpoena witnesses and to expose the inner workings of Communist and other groups. But there has been a tendency in recent months to deal gently with civil-rights organizations for fear of alienating votes.

THE TIME HAS come, however, in the opinion of many observers—particularly those who agree with Dr. Graham—for the administration to initiate hearings in Congress and tell the people what is going on that has caused much of the rioting and mob violence, allegedly in support of the civil-rights movement. Actually the result has been a disturbing of the peace generally and a heating up of friction between the races.

Dr. Graham's appeal expresses the viewpoint of many citizens who have been hopeful that Congress would forget about politics, courageously tackle the problem of mob violence, and make it a crime to impair the safety of citizens anywhere in the United States by incitements to violence.

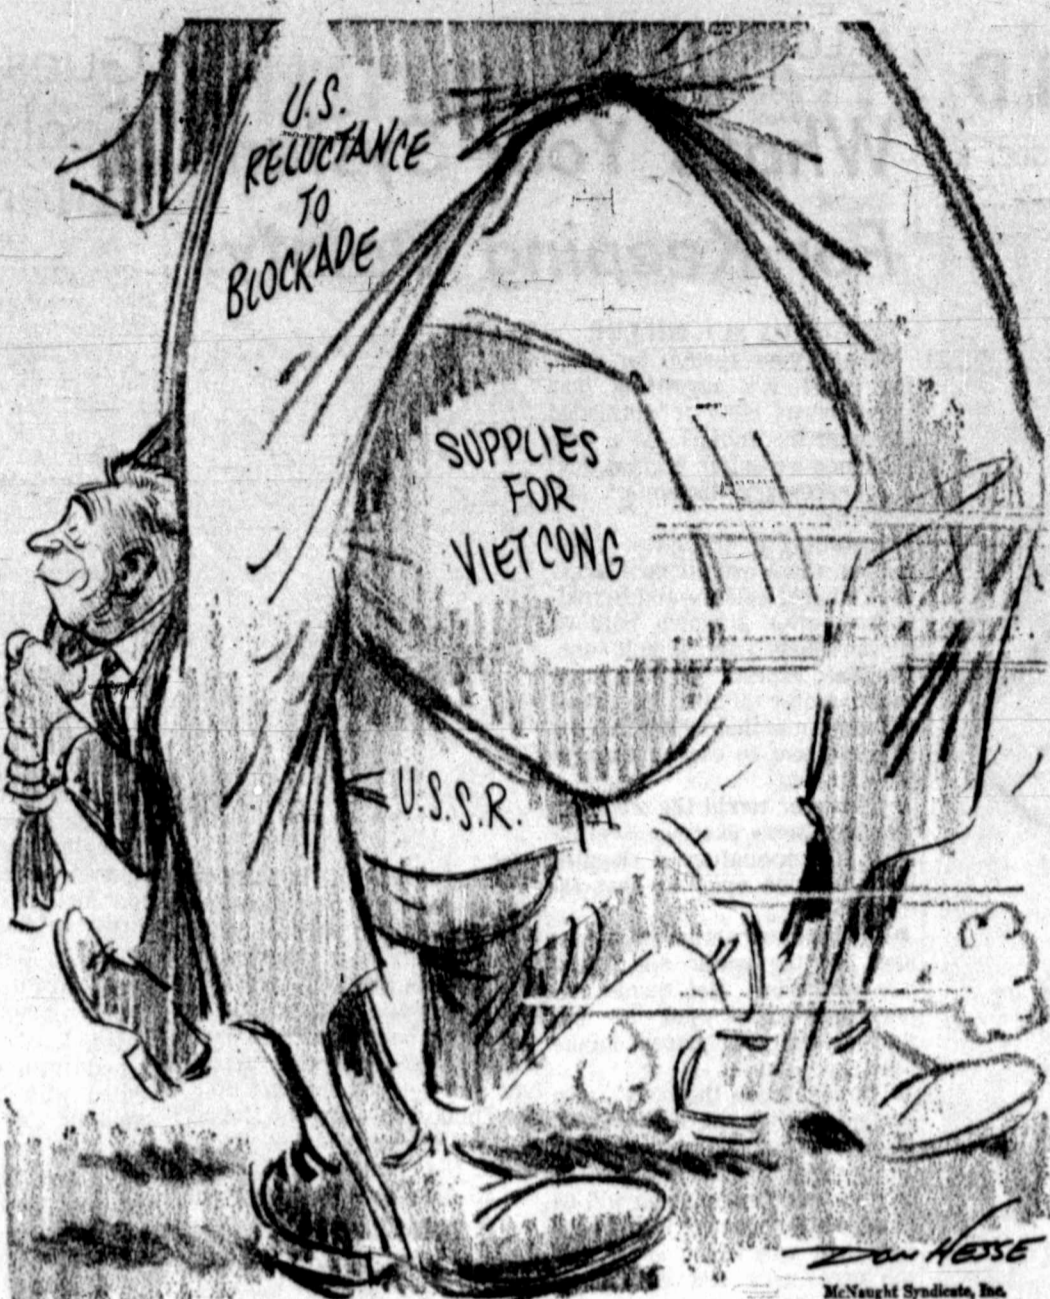

IN THESE DAYS of increased reliance on the federal government there has been a strange indifference here to the use of those powers which could be lawfully exercised to stop the wave of mobocracy that has been developing throughout the country.

Red China Policy Change Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's speech last week to an American Alumni Council meeting and his remarks at a news conference Wednesday indicate U.S. policy toward Communist China is undergoing serious re-examination.

While it is a little early in the game to arrive at hard conclusions, the administration evidently is moving in these directions:

1. It is making a concerted effort to woo China away from its traditional isolation policy.

2. IT IS AFFIRMING that the United States has a greater power role to play in Asia, a role that extends beyond Viet Nam.

3. It is ready to take preliminary steps toward reconciliation with China.

4. It intends to move slowly and is not about to make an abrupt and substantial change in policy immediately.

5. It is awaiting some sign from Peking that a more moderate stance on Washington's part will lead to a response in kind.

Though these developments coincide with the bombing of oil depots in North Viet Nam, the belief here is that they suggest more than just another carrot-and-stick approach to the war.

IN THE PAST, the administration has followed tough military decisions with conciliatory gestures. For instance: Johnson's offer last April to participate in "unconditional discussions" to settle the war followed soon after the bombing of military bases in the North.

There has been no public indication from China to encourage a change in U.S. policy, nor have third-party contacts with the Chinese indicated interest in accommodation.

And yet the administration is proceeding, possibly on the theory that while it may not be able to convince current Chinese leaders of Washington's good intentions the message may seep in to younger, second-level Chinese who some day will take control.

THE EFFORT to break down

China's isolation is evident in several of the President's news conference remarks.

For instance: "We should do everything we can to increase our exchanges, to understand other people better, to have our scientists and our businessmen and our authors and our newspaper people exchange visits and exchange viewpoints."

Along these lines, the State Department on July 11 broadened the categories of permissible travel to China.

The expression of a greater power role for the United States in Asia was voiced by the President in his July 12 telephoned speech to the alumni council meeting at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va.

The first essential for establishing a foundation for peace in Asia, he said, "is the determination of the United States to meet our obligations in Asia as a Pacific power."

Weary Of Hearing

NEW YORK (AP) — He knocks on every door. Every block seems to him a mile long.

His shoulders sag, his feet hurt, the handkerchief he mops his sunburned face which is already wet with sweat. The leather case he switches from one aching arm to another feels like it weighs a ton.

HE MANAGES a cheery smile at every household, but he knows he'll get 10 rebuffs for every welcome. Those are the odds he is fighting. But maybe if he climbs enough steps, rings enough bells, raps his knuckles raw on enough portals, he'll earn a little more than he did the day before.

Ten years from now he may be a captain of industry. Or waiting his turn in a breadline. But right now he's just making a hard living the hard way.

He's just another door-to-door salesman, a guy on the way up or on the way down. And if his potential customers are a bit weary of seeing the likes of him, here are a few typical remarks he is weary of hearing from the likes of them.

"Whatever you're selling, we don't want any."

"I'D OPEN the door, but I don't want to let any flies in."

"You look so hot and tired, young man, that I'd invite you in for a glass of lemonade, but my husband is the jealous type — and anyway I'm fresh-out of lemons."

"Try the lady next door. She'll buy anything. But I warn you — if you take a check from her it'll probably bounce."

"I'll thank you to take your wares elsewhere. You know what you did with all that pounding on my front door? You woke up my baby — and I just spent an hour and a half rocking her to sleep."

"What are you selling? An art encyclopedia? No thank you, we've already got enough things around here just collecting dust."

"I'm not in the market for anything right now, but if you're giving away free samples I'll take a half dozen."

"MY MOTHER is not at home, and she said if anyone came to the door I was to sic the dog on them. Here, Tigger! Sic 'im, boy, sic 'im!"

"You mean you got me to come all the way up here from the basement, where I was doing the laundry, just to try to sell me a book of pictures? You've got a nerve. I ought to call the police."

"For a minute there you had me scared. I thought you were the guy from my draft board."

Around The Rim

Highway (?) Travel In The Deep South

We here and now put hat in hand and give many obsequies to the Texas Highway Department and the forward-thinking government and people of the State of Texas for the brilliant, great, fantastic, wonderful highways we have. This has nothing to do with streets in towns.

As may be surmised, we have just returned from a trip to the Deep South Fried Chicken Belt, a trip made by car.

THE STATES of Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi, we discover, have not yet discovered the concept "road." Florida has some good ones, but they are all toll roads (it costs $3.90 to get from Orlando to Miami on the Sunshine State Freeway).

A perfectly good set of tires on our 1965 car was shredded so badly by the roads in those four states, especially Alabama and Missed-a-Century, that the set had to be replaced at great expense before we could cripple back to God's country.

MOST OF THE roads are decidedly inferior to Texas' farm-to-market trails. All are roughly two-lane, except for occasional two-mile stretches of never-completed Interstate split-lane stuff, and you simply cannot go 30 miles without running into detours which obviously were designed as troop-carrying trails during the Civil War and have been since in continuous use by trucks, Southern cops and assorted rednecks whose top speed even on the "good" stretches is 15 mph.

ALSO, THEIR speed-limit signs are pretty tricky. You never know from one primitive section to another whether it is 45, 60, or, wow, 65, or a combination of the three.

And in order to get money for their local "policemen," the little backwash towns have some cute tricks for unwary tourists. We were aware of these, and didn't get ticketed during the trip, but they need to be known.

GOING ALONG a straight stretch of black-topped cowpath, without a sign of civilization, a small sign will appear announcing "Corp. Limits of Yeech, Pop. 156." Just behind this is another sign saying, "Speed Zone Ahead." Approximately three inches behind that sign is another announcing "35 mph." When you see the sign your speed is 65. The only thing to do is to hit the brakes, hard. Otherwise, the patrol car behind the billboard, or cleverly parked in front of a truck so you can't see it, will get ya. First sign of the township is two miles farther down the pike.

ANOTHER ONE we spotted: In the middle of a jerkwater place called Hush Puppy or something, we spotted a man with some equipment acting like he was repairing a traffic signal overhead. He was holding a line in his hand with thumb hovering over a button. Just behind his unmarked "repair truck" sat a local police car. The light flashed rapidly from green to red, but we were prepared and skidded to a halt. The cop and the "repairman" grinned. There were plenty of unprepared suckers to come through that day, we guess.

One Step Leads To Another—

WASHINGTON—The terrifying logic of an escalating war holds the capitals of both East and West in an unrelenting grip. However much Washington, Moscow, London, Hanoi, New Delhi may want to check the spiral, there is a sense of helplessness as each new move produces a counter-thrust.

No one here believes that the fact has been heard from Hanoi on the American prisoners-of-war issue. The guessing is that they will be put to work in supply depots and factories in the Hanoi-Haiphong area under attack by American bombers. That violates the Geneva Convention on the Geneva Convention on the treatment of prisoners on stage beyond parading captured Americans through the streets of the North Vietnamese capital.

THE 18 SENATORS who signed a "plea for sanity" on the prisoner issue faced up to the violent reaction that trial and execution of these men would bring in this country.

Those close to President Johnson represent him as deeply concerned with the way relations with the Soviet Union are deteriorating. He knows that his predecessor, John F. Kennedy, made an important advance toward a kind of coexistence in which each side would compete in the sphere of peace.

HERE, TOO, the logic of a spreading war appearing beyond any control is at work. Thus far the President has resisted the military—and political—demand to mine or bomb the harbor of Haiphong. His foreign policy advisers say this would result in the sinking of Soviet ships and the death of Soviet seamen. That Moscow could not take, especially with Peking jeering at the Soviets as a "tool of American imperialism," without reacting in a drastic fashion.

But, if American prisoners are tried and executed as war criminals or put to work in areas subjected to bombing, the pressure on the President to carry the strikes farther will be irresistible.

WITH EACH NEW turn of the screw political leaders in both East and West find they have less and less room to maneuver in the hope of preventing a bigger war. Mrs. Indira Gandhi ended her mission to Moscow on a sorrowful note. She was returning to New Delhi empty-handed and with the realization that the continuing escalation of the war makes it difficult, if not impossible, to focus attention on the needs of her country.

FOR PRIME MINISTER Harold Wilson the cause of peace is even more urgent and at this writing seemingly just as hopeless. The Labor party is deeply divided on the Viet Nam War. In the face of this division Britain is fighting for economic survival, with the Prime Minister employing measures likely to alienate the trade unions and the same left-of-center Laborites opposing his support of American war policy.

Premier Alexei Kosygin in talking with both Mrs. Gandhi and with Wilson stressed the need to end American bombing in North Viet Nam. The Communist bloc countries in Europe are reported preparing to rush more missiles and technicians to install missile sites to Hanoi.

THE CHANCES for even a temporary suspension of the bombing — a pause such as that of last winter— seem to be nil. Talking with visitors before he ordered the strikes on the Hanoi-Haiphong complex, the President expressed in his own earthy idiom his determination to punish Ho Chi Minh 10 times harder than ever before. To desist now would seem to be yielding to the threat to the prisoners. This is the implacable logic of escalation.

Still A Sturdy Organization

WASHINGTON — In winning the Virginia Democratic primary election last July 12 by more than 8,000 votes, Senator Harry Byrd Jr., overcame vexatious disadvantages and saved the Organization which bears his family name.

You would not get this impression from the editorials and cartoons of the liberal press which hates the Organization like a heretic hating the church.

HARRY BYRD, the younger, started his campaign under the gravest of handicaps that any clean candidate could bear. Having been appointed as his father's successor by a Governor who owed much to the elder Byrd, Harry, Jr., was a fair target for charges of dynasty and nepotism. Senators who reach Washington by anything resembling self-appointment are traditionally short-lived.

YOUNG HARRY had only six months to build a senatorial record at a time when the Virginia electorate was a mishmash of enigmas. A decision by the Virginia Attorney General ruled that some 75,000 Conservatives (sure voters for Byrd) were ineligible for the primary. New Negro registrants and the abolition of the State poll tax created a huge potential of anti-Byrd voters. He was opposed by a widely-known and impeccable opponent, Armistead Boothe. He was associated in the public mind with the 79-year-old Senator Willis Robertson and the 83-year-old Congressman Howard Smith, symbols of "museum" politicians. His venerable father, a living Virginia monument, lay dying.

DESPITE ALL this, a quarter-million voters balloted for Young Harry, while Robertson and Smith were losing. Robertson was never an Organization man, and Judge Smith was the only casualty. A battle field check-up readily shows that the Organization stands intact.

A roll call of the Organization ranks will find practically everybody answering "Here." Of the 36 Democrats in the Virginia Senate, 20 openly endorsed Byrd, and 4 endorsed him privately to the Byrd campaign leaders. All are still in office.

OF THE Virginia General Assembly, 85 per cent came out for Byrd, and are still in power. The sitting Governor, Mills Godwin, and the immediate-past Governor, Alberts Harrison had spoken for Byrd. So, also, did another former Governor, William Tuck, Lt. Gov. Pollard and Attorney General Button.

Six of the eight Virginia Democrats in the 89th Congress are Byrdmen. Several leaders of the State Farm Bureau and several posts of the American Legion worked for Byrd's election.

THERE IS THE Organization, as well as anybody can define it. Moreover, it seems quite likely that the other winner of a senatorial nomination, William Sprong will find his way into the fold.

As political institutions go, the Byrd Organization at approximately 41 years of age by a fair count, has been around a long while, and served Virginia well. To the dismay of its opponents and the astonishment of actuarians, it remains in sturdy middle-aged condition.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

They say that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery. The format of the first annual Snyder Open scheduled this weekend has been patterned closely after that of the Big Spring Open, even down to the naming of the two divisions of competition—the Open and True Amateur. Entry fees are a little larger in the Snyder than they were here—$30 per team for the Open flight and $20 per tandem for the True Amateur play, as against $25 and $15. They're putting more of a premium on the pro firing the low medal score—first prize is $175, as compared to an even $100 here.

The string of strikeouts tied the American League record held by four other pitchers. And it marked the third time the record has been matched in Washington's D.C. Stadium this season. "The way I've been going," Merritt said later, "I'm just happy for the victory. No, I had no idea I was near any record. I was just trying to get them out. Merritt, who has been having trouble getting past the first few innings this season, pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the first. Then, after Ken McMullen doubled to open the third, he started his strikeout spree. The record, originally set by Ryne Duren and matched last year by Detroit's Denny McLain, had been tied by Phil Ortega and Pete Richert of the Senators, this season. Elsewhere in the American League Thursday, Frank Robinson hammered a pair of home runs as Baltimore downed Detroit 6-4. Boston escaped the cellar with a 7-3 victory over California. New York edged Kansas City 4-3 in 11 innings and Chicago defeated Cleveland 7-2. After McMullen's hit, Merritt retired the last 21 batters he faced for his first complete game in the majors. He was 5-4, mostly in relief, with the Twins last year. Minnesota's only run came in the ninth inning when Don Micher doubled, moved to third on an infield out and came home on Jim Hannan's wild pitch.

Pat Brown, the former Odessa Permian all-around athlete, has been playing semi-pro baseball this summer in Batesville, Ark. The team finished seventh in the National Semi-Pro Tournament at Wichita, Kansas, last year and probably is even stronger this season than it was in 1965. The press brochure for the 34th annual Texas Coaches Association school at Houston lists Coahoma's Tony Butler's weight at 290. Tony is big, but not that big. He tips the scales at 289. Another back on the North squad in the All-Star game, Randy Bell of L. D. Beck, is even larger. He goes 225, although at 6-2 he is an inch shorter than Butler. Butler is one of three North backs committed to attend Texas Tech on scholarships. The others are Ronnie Collier of Weatherford and Jim Bennett of Amarillo Tascosa. Other Class A players on the North squad, in addition to Butler, are James Lockridge, Kress back; James Haywood, Clifton back; and Bob Pinson, Forney center. Allie Sherman, coach of the New York Giants of the NFL, says Tucker Frederickson is the best blocking back he has seen since Pat Harder of Cleveland was in his heyday almost two decades ago. Marciano Rivas, the promising young featherweight under the wing of Martin County's Melton McMorris, is in against highly respected Gene Young in a ten-rounder at San Antonio Tuesday night. Tony Padilla is promoting the show. Young is an undefeated puncher from Stuebenville, Ohio. If memory serves me correctly, that's Dean Martin's home town. Gene has won 15 in a row. Young is a stable-mate to Cowboy Billy Smith, who is fighting the main event against popular Jesus Pimental (who was black-listed in Texas for a while because he didn't fulfill a boxing date). Young was the all-service champion in 1964. Rivas picked up a lot of public support in San Antonio when he beat Luis Brionez there. McMorris is taking him and two other boys to Phoenix Aug. 4 for a series of fights. Incidentally, Scrapiron Johnson earned $6,000 in a losing effort against Jerry Quarry in Los Angeles in a fight after his contract with McMorris ran out. Scrapiron is living in the Los Angeles area.

round lead with two-under-par 68s. One stroke behind were Doug Sanders, Julius Boros, and Don January, while Jack Cupit was the only player in the field of 165 to match the Firestone Country Club course par 35-70 for the 7,180-yard layout. Favorites Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer stumbled around with 75s, and duplicating shabby performances in today's second round might find them failing to make the cut. Defending champion Dave Marr also had a 75. Snead, who the day before the tournament complained of aches and pains and was afraid he wouldn't make the 36-hole cut, laughed and joked about his fantastic round. But there was nothing funny about his game. He bagged five birdies and might have held the undisputed lead had he canned an eight-foot putt on the 18th hole after working his way around a tree and out of a trap. "The putt was so bad," said Snead, "that I was ashamed to pick up the ball. I felt like a monkey with a football who didn't know where to put it." Geiberger, unlike Snead who has three PGA titles in the long list of championships he has captured, never has won a major crown. But the skinny man, who carries sandwiches in his golf bag to restore his energy, clicked at Firestone last year when he won the American Golf Classic while munching peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

After McMullen's hit, Merritt retired the last 21 batters he faced for his first complete game in the majors. He was 5-4, mostly in relief, with the Twins last year. Minnesota's only run came in the ninth inning when Don Micher doubled, moved to third on an infield out and came home on Jim Hannan's wild pitch. Elsewhere in the American League Thursday, Frank Robinson hammered a pair of home runs as Baltimore downed Detroit 6-4. Boston escaped the cellar with a 7-3 victory over California. New York edged Kansas City 4-3 in 11 innings and Chicago defeated Cleveland 7-2. After McMullen's hit, Merritt retired the last 21 batters he faced for his first complete game in the majors. Gun Club Sets July 31 Shoot Mesquite Gun Club plans a special shoot at its range near Vincent for 2 p.m. July 31 and the general public is invited. Two special competitions are planned. One will be a junior shoot for young marksmen who have not reached their 17th year. The second event is a ladies shoot. Any size calibre may be used just so the gun is center fire and the telescope used is not in excess of 6-power. The distance in both matches is 100 yards.

At the shoot held recently by the club, two classes of competition were conducted. The first match was for 25 calibre and larger weapons with a 6-power scope. Nolan Stanley, with a score of 100 with 8 x's was first; Jimmy Felts, 100 with 6 x's, second; and Denver Pettit, 99, with 7 x's, third. Second match was 270 calibre with sights. Denver Pettit, with 99 and 4 x's, was first; Stanley, with 97 and 5 x's; Felts, 95 and 4 x's, third. There were 15 shooters at the match.

Red Sox Defeat Cubs, 8 To 7

The Red Sox won their seventh Sophomore Teen - Age league contest in 13 starts by edging the Cubs, 8-7 here Thursday night. Jimmy Farris, the winning pitcher, helped his own cause with a triple. He drove in three runs. Leonard Basco had a double for the winners. A seven-run uprising in the third put the decision on ice for the Red Sox.

FIGHT RESULTS

International Games Set For Coast This Weekend

LOS ANGELES (AP)—World renowned track and field stars, led by Australia's Ron Clarke and America's Jim Ryun, took their final exercises today on the eve of the two-day International Games. The two-day, 32-event attraction, plus the decathlon, is set for Memorial Coliseum as a replacement for the USA-USSR dual meet from which the Russians abruptly withdrew July 11. Teams and individuals of both sexes from Australia, New Zealand, Great Britain and other nations accepted invitations for the games which now boast, among other items:

Red Hot Mets Eyeing First Division Spot

By The Associated Press

As oratory, it may not rank with the declamations of Winston Churchill, say, or Casey Stengel, but future baseball historians may well regard Westrum's statement as marking a critical turning point in the history of the New York Mets. The Mets' manager was smiling beneficently at his charges Thursday as they celebrated their 14-3 victory over San Francisco and their six-game win streak, longest in the history of the club. "If we continue at this pace," Westrum philosophized, "we'll be up there at the end of this month."

Westrum did not specify exactly where "up there" was, but he made his point. Never in their five-year existence, have the Mets been able to consider any problem more pressing than escaping last place. But now, more than 10 games removed from the cellar, the Mets can begin to think the unthinkable. Eight place perhaps — only a half-game away. Or would you believe seventh? It's just two games ahead. The Mets' win streak began with two doubleheader triumphs over Houston and now has included two in a row over the Giants, who have lost seven of their last nine games and are within a game of first place only because of Los Angeles' deriding victory over the Pirates, 4-3. Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago beat Cincinnati 6-1, St. Louis outslugged Atlanta 7-4 and Houston nudged Philadelphia 3-2 in 10 innings. "I'm proud, very proud," said Westrum of his club's win streak. "I thought about it before the game." And winning pitcher Dennis Ribant summed up the current mood of the club succinctly: "We feel we can win now."

ODESSA FAVORED

Baseball Tourney Resumes Sunday

The NBC District Baseball tournament resumes at Webb AFB Sunday, with a trip to the State tournament awaiting the winner. Three teams are still involved in the tournament and only the Odessa Drillers have an unsullied record. The Drillers defeated the Snyder Redlegs, 16-0, and Webb, 10-3, in that order last weekend. Other teams involved in the skirmishing are the Gage Oilers of Big Spring and Webb. Webb humbled Gage, 15-8, in the tournament opener last week, after which Gage came back to rout Snyder, 14-2, in a losers' bracket contest. The action gets under way at 1 p.m. Sunday. Odessa, managed by Corky Childers and boasting a 13-10 over-all record, would have to lose two games in order to blow the crown. Webb, masterminded by Jim Baum, carries a 12-12 won-lost record into the field against Gage. Webb is 15-15. The base team is bossed by Sgt. Cole Jacobs. Odessa has its mound ace,

Soph Lead Goes Up For Grabs

The Sophomore Teen - Age Baseball crown goes on the line Saturday night, at which time both the first and second place clubs will be in action. The pace-setting Yankees, boasting a 10-3 won-lost record, see action in the 6 p.m. opener against the Rebels. If the Yanks win that one, the race will be all over. Should the Yanks lose, however, the second place Giants (9-4) still have a chance to deadlock for the top spot. A sudden death' playoff would then result. The Giants tangle with the Red Sox along about 8:30 p.m.

COUPLE MEET IS UPCOMING

Play in a Mr. and Mrs. Golf tournament will begin at the Big Spring Country Club Saturday and continue through Sunday. Husband and wife can play 18 holes either day to qualify for the honors. Entry fee will be $6 per couple, payable to pro Jerry Green. A buffet dinner will be served to entries following play, at which time awards will be passed out. The meal will probably be served about 6:30 p.m.

Minnesota Vikings Sign Des Moines Farm Pact

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings have taken the first step toward establishing a farm system, although General Manager Jim Finks isn't ready to predict that professional football may one day have a minor league system like baseball. The Des Moines Warriors of the new Professional Football League of America announced Thursday night — and Finks confirmed — that they have signed a five-year working agreement with the Vikings of the National Football League. Under the agreement, the Des Moines team will receive 10 to 15 players a year from the Vikings, with perhaps some of them being players which in previous years have worked on the Vikings' non-rostered tax squad during the season. In return Minnesota has first option on all Des Moines players. The tax squad has never been officially recognized by the NFL. A team may carry as many players on its tax squad as it wants to pay a monthly salary to. The Viking tax squad the past five years has ranged, unofficially, from a half dozen to a dozen or so. The arrangement with Des Moines is the first for the Vikings since they were organized in 1961. Finks confirmed that the two teams had been talking about the working agreement for some time. Asked if this was a move to establish a farm system, ala baseball, Finks replied: "I don't know whether you can call it that or not. Frankly, it looks to me like all the clubs are going to have to go in this direction. But to what extent it will develop, I don't know."

Morton's Wins Exhibition Go

Morton's Foods easily toppled the Air Base Group team of Webb AFB in a practice softball game at the City Park Thursday night, 8-0. Cotton Mize set the Webb team down with four hits in notching the victory. He fanned 11 in the seven-inning struggle. Morton's drove out eight hits, including two each by Herb Sorley and Roy New. Both of Sorley's blows were home runs. He hit his first one with Mize aboard in the fourth and the second was a solo blast in the sixth. Dan Morgan, the losing flinger, had two of the losers' four safeties. Friendship Kits From Texas Arrive In Da Nang DA NANG, Viet Nam (AP)—Twenty cases of "friendship kits," a gift for the Vietnamese people from the people of Texas, have arrived in Da Nang, the U. S. Marines said today.

The several thousand kits include such items as toothbrushes, toothpaste and soap. They will be distributed by the Marines to Vietnamese villagers.

The idea was originated by Wick Fowler, a staff member of the Denton, Tex., Record-Chronicle, who spent three months in Da Nang last winter covering the Marines.

Fowler, in coordination with Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Bishop, adjutant general of Texas, arranged for transportation of the friendship kits.

Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, commander of the Marines in Viet Nam, sent a message to Bishop thanking him. The cable read:

"On behalf of the 55,000 Marines of the 3rd Marine Amphibious Force, I want to express our deep appreciation for the friendship kits which arrived at Da Nang air base on July 20. These kits will be an important addition to our civic action program to help the Vietnamese people build for tomorrow.

"Photos of the kit distribution will follow. Please extend our heartfelt thanks to Gov. Connally, Wick Fowler and the good people of Texas."

Loan Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Approval of a $23,750 loan for planning 125 low-rent homes at San Marcos, Tex., was announced Thursday by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

New Brewery In East Texas

The Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company formally opened its sprawling new one-million barrel brewery in Longview, Tex., today. Built at a cost in excess of $15 million, the big plant has nearly 10 acres of floor space. This view shows the central portion of the Longview brewery, with the office building in the foreground and the six-story brewhouse and grain elevators to the rear. The plant will employ some 275 persons and will ship to markets in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Alabama and Mississippi. It's the eighth U.S. plant for Schlitz, the nation's second largest brewer.

Schlitz Longview Brewery Newest Industry In Texas

LONGVIEW—The Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company will be another asset to East Texas.

FIREWORKS

An hour-long aerial fireworks spectacle, largest ever seen in Texas, was scheduled for tonight to climax the day's grand opening festivities at the new brewery. Directors of Schlitz held a board meeting at the plant earlier today, marking only the second time in the firm's history that the board had met outside of the company's Milwaukee headquarters.

VIOLATING GENEVA PACT

Troops Moving Through Demilitarized Border

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials said today there is reason to believe North Vietnamese troops have been moving across the demilitarized border into South Viet Nam because monsoon rains are hindering travel over the main infiltration route through Laos.

Until recent months, sources said, provable penetration by the Communists across the demilitarized zone was slight, although a larger infiltration that way was suspected.

The six-mile-wide zone along the 17th Parallel was established by the 1954 Geneva conference that partitioned North and South Viet Nam.

Starting in May, the sources said, evidence began to accumulate that infiltration across and around the end of the zone was becoming considerable.

The current estimate is that three Communist regiments—some 4,500 men—are in the general area below the demilitarized zone. Two of these are said to be North Vietnamese and one Viet Cong.

In addition, there are possibly two more North Vietnamese regiments in that mountainous region. Such a force would total about 3,000 regulars.

The week-long campaign by a mixed force of about 10,000 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops has been aimed at spoiling any major initiative by the Communist forces centered in this area.

Such spoiling operations are now basic U.S. tactics. Officials credit their effectiveness with bringing what Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has called military gains.

The normal enemy strategy is to move stealthily into areas with large numbers of troops and then to strike with surprise against weaker opposing forces.

There were suggestions a year or more ago that the Communists might try to hit the Da Nang Marine Air Force and Navy complex in a bid to inflict a major defeat on the Americans, as the Viet Minh did against the French at Dien Bien Phu in 1954.

But with more than 50,000 Marines in position to defend Da Nang, any such Communist offensive move now is considered remote.

Higher Food Prices Could Ease Pressure

AUSTIN (AP) — Economic pressures on both the striking Rio Grande Valley farm workers and the growers would be relieved by higher prices for Valley produce, says the Texas Council of Churches.

The council issued a statement of sympathy with both sides Thursday. Several large denominations, such as the Southern Baptists, are not represented on the council.

Harold Kilpatrick of San Antonio, council executive secretary, said copies of the statement will go to 800 churches in an area from Austin south to the Mexican border.

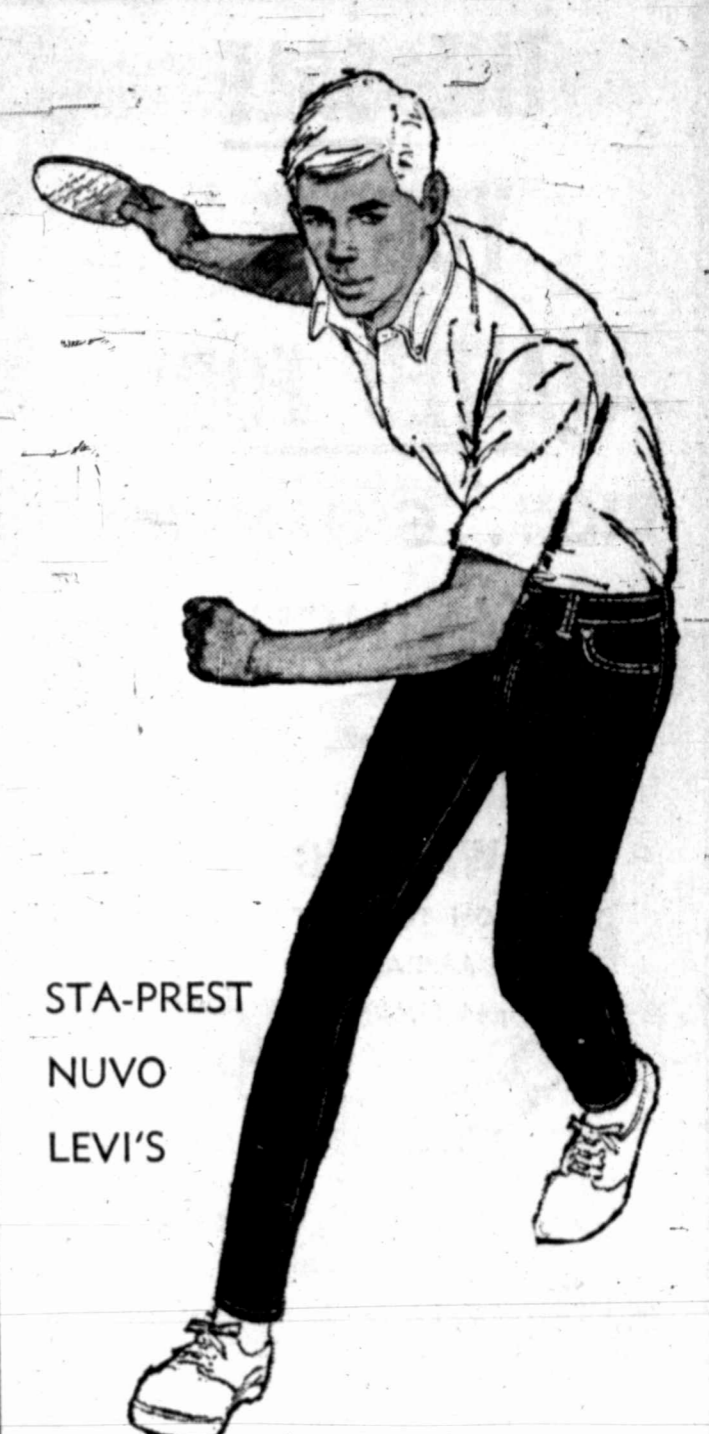

"Most of the people of our society are sufficiently affluent to pay prices for food, particularly fresh and processed fruits and vegetables, that will enable producer, worker, processor, and distributor to realize fair returns for their share in the productive process. . . . Adjustments will need to be made in order to relieve the economic pressures upon both grower and worker," the statement said.

The striking workers' march from the Valley to Austin will pass through a number of communities with churches affiliated with the council, the statement noted.

"One can show concern for those in need or strangers within our gates without any further implications," the statement said. "It is suggested that prior to the appearance of marchers in communities along the route pastors of churches interpret to their congregations the problems which are being given dramatic focus by this march."

"Furthermore, all can demand justice for those through whose hard work and risk of capital the people of the nation are provided the most abundant quantity of nutritious and palatable food ever enjoyed by any people on earth."

The statement said there is a consensus that Valley farm workers' wages "have been too low to provide adequate living standards. . . . on the other hand, the growing and marketing of highly perishable crops is most hazardous and the farmer has no voice whatsoever in establishing market prices for his product."

Opening lead: Six of ♣

The slam contract in diamonds reached by North and South was a sound undertaking. When North responded with two clubs to South's opening bid of one diamond, the latter had visions of big things inasmuch as his holding was worth 20 points. He accordingly jumped to three diamonds.

North's three spade bid is an ace-showing call, and the South felt obliged to sign off at three no trump, North clarified his intentions on the next round by jumping to five diamonds. Having been informed of the trump fit as well as partner's controls, South proceeded to slam.

West chose to open his fourth best club and South captured East's jack with the king. The ace of diamonds was cashed and West discarded a club. This was a bit of bad news for declarer, for if the trumps had divided evenly it was his intention to strip out his heart and club holdings and then—while each hand retained a diamond—lead the jack of spades and pass the trick around to East, who would be forced to make a favorable return.

South proceeded to revise his plan of campaign and, since he no longer needed an extra trump in dummy, he led out six rounds of diamonds in order to apply maximum pressure against his opponents. West was forced to make six discards and he chose to give up two clubs, one heart, and three spades. Dummy discarded two hearts, and with six cards to go this was the situation:

NORTH
♠ A 8 4

WEST EAST
♥ K 10 6 ♥ K Q 7
♠ 10 9 7 ♠ 9 8 4

SOUTH
▲ J 10 9
♥ A Q
♦ A Q

South cashed the queen of clubs, on which East showed out. Now the jack of spades was led. When West discarded a heart, the ace of spades was put up from dummy. North played the ace of clubs and then a small club, putting West in with the ten. The latter was now obliged to lead away from the king of hearts into declarer's ace-queen. In all, South took six diamonds, three clubs, two hearts, and one spade for twelve tricks.

West could have complicated matters for declarer by retaining one spade, for, if he follows suit when South leads the jack of spades, the latter has the option of taking a finesse—playing West to have an honor in the suit, either the king or queen. When West showed out on the spade lead, all guess was eliminated in favor of a sure thing.
