Williams Wins Handily In Michigan Senate Primary

By The Associated Press
Former Governor G. Mennen Williams, a strong supporter of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies, stormed to a big victory Tuesday over Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh for Michigan's Democratic U.S. senatorial nomination.

UNION BACKED
Williams, 55, who served six terms as Michigan's governor, was endorsed by most of the state's powerful union leaders. His November opponent will be Sen. Robert Griffin, who was unopposed in the Republican primary.

Williams, who visited all of the state's 83 counties during the bitter campaign, jumped into an early lead over the Detroit mayor and pulled steadily ahead. Sharpest issue of their race, which attracted national attention, was the administration's war policy: Cavanagh opposed escalation and called for greater U.S. nonmilitary efforts in Viet Nam.

After Cavanagh's defeat, Republican Griffin went to his headquarters in an attempt to seek support for the race against Williams. But the senator was unable to see the mayor.

WELCOME
Williams told Cavanagh he and "all his supporters" were welcome "to join with us in the job that has to be done."
Idaho's Samuelson, who piled up steady pluralities in most of the state's 44 counties, was backed by the party's more conservative elements in his race against Smylie.

MAIN ISSUE
Despite the heavy intraparty political overtones, the main issues in the campaign were Smylie's 12-year tenure as governor and a 3 per cent sales tax enacted by the State Legislature at his request.

Republican Sen. Len B. Jordan had no opposition in the Idaho primary and will face former congressman Ralph Harding in the November election.
Pearson, 46, who will now make his first run for a full Senate term, also was endorsed by the party's conservative leaders in his Kansas race against Ellsworth, 40, who won election to the House six years ago.

Byron D. Hill, post commander, announced that parents of the group, Legion Auxiliary, and Junior Auxiliary members, friends and guests are invited to attend the program.

was identified with the moderate wing of the Republican party. He trailed Pearson closely in early returns but soon fell about 20,000 votes behind.

Pearson will face former congressman J. Floyd Breeding, who won an easy victory in the Kansas Democratic senatorial primary.

Gov. Avery, who declared his highest hopes, will face Robert Docking, Arkansas City banker, in the November Kansas gubernatorial election. Avery ran far in front of Dell Crozier of Wichita.

In Missouri, three incumbent congressmen won renomination in contests: Democrats Richard H. Ichord of the 8th District and Paul C. Jones of the 10th District and Republican Durward

G. Hall of the 7th District.
Robert L. Sharp won the nomination in the 1st District Republican primary race and will face veteran Democratic incumbent Rep. Frank Karsten, who had no primary opposition.
State Auditor Haskell Holman easily won Democratic renomination in the only state-wide race in Missouri.

U.S. Prisons Turning Out Goods For Viet War Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — A growing supply line of carefully produced goods is finding its way into the Viet Nam war effort from behind the walls of more than a dozen U.S. prisons.
From torpedo parts to toothbrushes; from mattresses to rebuilt tank treads, thousands of society's outcasts are turning out scores of items essential to the increasing number of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia.

The federal prisoners are supplementing the output of private industry — and, in several instances, producing goods generally unavailable from the Defense Department's usual list of suppliers.
Dog tags and iron bed frames come from the prison at El Reno, Okla. Towels, washcloths and the special lightweight blankets needed in tropical South Viet Nam are turned out at Terre Haute, Ind. Dufflebags come from Tallahassee, Fla., while GI jackets, trousers and shoes are produced at Leavenworth, Kan.

Some of the best tire rebuilding in the country, federal prison officials say, is done at Petersburg, Va. Tank treads and wheels are rebuilt there and at Texarkana, Tex.
El Reno makes gun bore brushes, Atlanta stuffs mattresses, Tallahassee and Terre Haute turn out canvas bottoms for the berths on ships, and ship lockers and shelving come from Lewisburg, Pa.

Of the $50-million worth of goods turned out by Federal Prisons, Inc. in the past fiscal year — netting a $11-million profit — one-half was for the Defense Department. And military requirements resulted in an $8-million increase in prison production over fiscal 1965.

"Of course, our real job isn't to produce goods but to furnish employment and training to these men," T. Wade Markley, associate commissioner of Federal Prison Industries, said in an interview.

"We've got nothing to sell but high quality and dependable production," he said. "We have a pretty sophisticated quality control program. And we try to follow the highest private industry standards so that we can better prepare our men for the outside world."

While private industry and labor sometimes complain when prison industries branch into new areas of production, Markley said, they generally are quick to cooperate.

"We have less problems, in many respects, in producing some of these items than private industry," he said. "We are quality conscious more than cost conscious. And we are able to produce in accordance with the military specifications given us in advance, rather than trying to produce something and hope it will sell."

Judge Refuses Acquittal In Obscene Book Trial

HOUSTON (AP) — Federal Judge Joe Ingraham Tuesday denied a defense motion for acquittal in the trial of seven persons and four firms accused of shipping obscene paperback novels across state lines.
Ingraham made his ruling after hearing almost two days of arguments that the government had failed to prove its case. He said the trial would resume at 9:30 a.m. today.

The jury, which read silently all seven books listed in the indictments against the defendants, had been excused since Monday morning when the government rested its case.

Among Tuesday's defense arguments were claims the prosecution had presented no evidence on national community sex standards.

Without such evidence, the lawyers contended, the jury cannot decide whether the paperbacks are obscene in terms of the standards.

Stanley Fleishman of Los Angeles, Calif., one of the defense lawyers, said 10 of the 12 jurors replied they did not know what the standards are when they were questioned during jury selection.

The seven books involved in the trial are entitled "Passion Carousel," "Shame Hunger," "Temple of Shame," "Virgins, Inc.," "Orgy Club," "Swap Sect" and "Sin Summer."

A LOVELIER YOU Grows Pretty Posies And 'Seedy' Hands

By MARY SUE MILLER
A Lovelier writes: This summer I have grown the most beautiful flowers and the seediest hands you ever saw. From working in the garden, my nails and knuckles are discolored. The skin has coarsened, too. The brown spots I already had are darker and bigger. How can I clear up these unsightly problems?

The Answer: I've said it before and say it again: You must wear work gloves when you do any sort of wet or dirty chores, outdoors or indoors. Once your hands develop work scars, gloves are more than ever necessary. Abuse must cease for corrective treatments to take hold. A very good treatment follows:

1. In a small bowl, mix two tablespoons each of mild soap flakes, lemon juice, hydrogen peroxide and lanolin skin oil; whip to a froth and decant into a clean jar. Apply the mixture daily to the backs of your hands and under the fingernails; massage in well and let set for 15 minutes. Then rinse off with cool water and dry briskly.
2. Before donning work gloves, apply a generous coating of silicone hand lotion. Wash your hands and massage with lotion on removing gloves. And wash your gloves after every wearing.
3. At manicure time, soak your hands in warmed skin oil, right after removing polish and filing.

Combined, those procedures bleach stains and refine the skin. Hands come to look petal-smooth.

HINTS FROM HELOISE Sprinkle Salt In Smoking Ovens

Dear Heloise: What do you do when you are baking fruit pie, or macaroni and cheese, and it boils over causing smoke in your oven, and you can't turn the oven off to clean it right then?

Well, you know what I mean! . . . Olive

Dear Olive: When this happens, grab your box of table salt and open the big spout.

Open your oven door and pour the salt on any spill, covering it with at least a 1/4 inch of salt. This will not only stop the smoke, but any more juice that happens to drop from that side of the pie, will fall on the salt.

Now, here's the best part of it all:

Just leave that salt on those spills for a day or two and keep using your oven — it won't smoke any more.

Then, using your metal pancake turner or a spatula, remove the hardened crust . . . and continue to clean from there.

You will find this will save you lots of time cleaning your oven. No use for us to spend our time cleaning hard, sticky goop off an oven floor when you can lift it up like a pancake.

Besides, I figure that little bit of salt is cheaper than our highly valued elbow grease . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise: You suggested peeling stringy celery with a potato peeler.

I do that, but instead of cutting it into service size pieces, I break the stalks, breaking against the strings that are left after the peeling process.

I can then pull off additional strings that are imbedded in the celery. . . . Mary Saunders

Dear Heloise: Recently a friend ate an evening meal with me.

Afterwards she insisted on helping me with the dishes.

When she asked where my dish cloth was, I told her I used a sponge.

After the dishes were done, I noticed she proceeded to wring the water out of the sponge.

Please tell your readers . . . Don't ever wring a sponge unless you want to ruin it. Squeeze it! . . . Alice

Dear Heloise: A recent discovery of mine was that the syrup from canned fruit makes excellent popicles. . . . Myrna Waddell

Dear Heloise: The points of the collars on my husband's permanently pressed shirts have filled with tiny bits of dirt that won't come out. The shirts are unwearable.

Can you suggest a method of removing these particles? . . . Mrs. A. L. B.

Bless your little heart. The shirt makers couldn't give me an answer either. But hold on, Hon . . . let's both bet one of our friends has the answer.

BORDEN COUNTY PLANS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Borden County will celebrate its 75th birthday, Aug. 14.

Present day and former residents of the county will take part in an all-day celebration. Numerous events are on tap but a highlight will be a big barbecue dinner with all the trimmings. This is slated for the Borden County High School cafeteria.

The celebration is being spearheaded by the Borden County Historical Society. The birthday of the county will be observed in conjunction with a reunion of all graduates and former students of the Borden County schools.

MEMENTOES
A feature of the celebration will be the display of a large number of old photographs, documents and other historical relics. Original plans have been to display these in the old Dorward Drug store. More recently this plan was believed not to be feasible since the old store (which is slated to become the permanent Borden County Museum later) is not air conditioned.

However, the photographs are being assembled by Mrs. V. L. Clark and others and will be properly displayed with adequate identification as a major event of the celebration.

The celebration will actually honor the day the county was organized. Borden County was designated 90 years ago in 1876 but no organization was undertaken until 1891.

In that same year, Gail was selected as the county seat. Gail was already a thriving community. It was the only post office between Big Spring and Lubbock and Snyder and Carlsbad, N.M. The year previous to the organization of the county, the census showed Borden County with a population of 222. Indicative of the importance of this number was the fact that Lubbock County in that same year had only 33 persons. Howard County boasted a population in 1890 of 1,290 and was the metropolitan area of its time.

In those days, according to oldtimers, Gail was teeming with cowtown of 1,500 with hotels, stores, livery stables, lumberyards, saloons and ranch supply stores surrounding the courthouse square. Many of the people who lived in Borden County, in those years, later moved on westward to settle other counties and help to organize these

The reunion will get under way with registration of visitors and residents at 8:30 a.m. Aug. 14. Registration will be in the school. Most of the celebration will be centered around the school.

At 11 a.m. religious services will be conducted by the Rev. Mather Owens, of Gatesville. He was formerly a teacher in the Gail schools. Song service for the religious portion of the day's observation will be led by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. (Rich) Anderson.

The barbecue will follow the services.

The exhibits of photographs and other mementoes is set for 2:30 p.m. An appeal has been sounded by members of Borden County Historical Society for all persons having historic photos they are willing to lend to contact Mrs. Pauline Clark. She is assembling the pictures and other relics.

In 1902, an epidemic of typhoid fever swept the little frontier community. One of the first victims to die of the disease was Gail's only doctor—Dr. J. W. Prince. Dr. Prince's son, Arthur Prince, now a resident of Abilene, will be on hand for the celebration.

Mr. Prince recalls many events in the county but the outstanding occurrence to him was the land rush which occurred in August, 1903. Land was offered for sale by the state at $1 per acre. The courthouse was soon crowded with settlers waiting to file. Prince, as a very small boy, had no part other than as a witness.

LAND BATTLE

He recalls that some of the settlers had stood in line for days—some as long as 10 days waiting their chance to get land. A gang of cowboys moved in, chased away the settlers and set up operations in the courthouse—intending to file on land and avert settlement.

Prince recalls that on the following day, the settlers reorganized their forces, made a counter attack and routed the cowboys.

Jess Smith, another oldtimer, will probably be on hand. He now lives in Vealmoor, but he came to Borden County with his parents in 1889. His father was one of the men who helped to survey the county.

Smith's father was widely known as "Scalper Smith"—a name he acquired from his efforts to collect bounties on jackrabbits. The county at that time paid a small fee for each pair of rabbit ears presented. He also says that his father farmed the courthouse lawn and Jess recalls vividly the tasty watermelons produced.

EARLY TRAGEDY

One of the early day settlers was Lorenzo Dow, a newspaperman. Dow who later on gained renown as a publisher in the West Texas area and was the founder of the Lubbock Avalanche, published a newspaper in Gail. He fell in love and married Miss Leither Smith, 15-year-old sister of Jess Smith. Mrs. Dow lived only three months after her marriage and is buried in the Gail cemetery. Her gravemarker reads:

"Leither J., wife of J. L. Dow, Aug. 12, 1886-Dec. 31, 1901."

Borden County's Historical Society, though only a few years old, has been remarkably diligent and effective in assembling historic information. Mrs. Edna Miller is chairman of the society. Other officers are Mrs. Dorothy Dennis, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Doris Bennett, Mrs. V. L. Clark, Mrs. Ruth Weathers, Van York and Norman Sneed, committeemen.

Rites Pending For Victims

AUSTIN (AP)—The body of University of Texas tower sniper Charles Whitman and that of the first person he killed—his mother—will leave here today for burial in Florida. The two bodies will be flown to Dallas by commercial airliner. From there, another airliner will fly them to Atlanta and then Miami. A hearse from Lake Worth, Fla., Whitman's home town, will take the bodies from Miami to the E. Earl Smith and Son Funeral Home in Lake Worth. Funeral service arrangements are not complete. The body of Whitman's wife, a pretty 23-year-old teacher who

Front Brings In Sprinkles

By The Associated Press
Light to moderate showers and occasional thunderstorms spread southward in Texas today with a weak and nearly stalled cool front. Temperatures generally were a few degrees lower for one of the few times since summer heat enfolded the state last month. In early morning the forward edge of the cool air mass stretched westward from near Lufkin to Austin and Del Rio. There was shower activity along and south of this front, behind it from Central into East Texas and in far West Texas. Light rain fell around College Station. Other showers ranged toward the south through areas embracing Breckenridge, Fort Worth, Dallas, Mount Vernon, Eastland, Cleburne, Kaufman, Brownwood, Waxahachie, Waco and Tyler. The front moved into the state Tuesday, causing showers in the Panhandle - Plains sector and parts of North and Central Texas. As a result, only three points recorded temperatures higher than 99 degrees—Presidio 104, Junction 102 and Laredo 100. Junction also measured 38 inch of rain. Wichita Falls received .32 inch. Forecasts indicated the limited break in the heat wave would disappear by Thursday. A few showers were expected in all but the north central and northeast sections of the state.

His First Shot May Be Orbited

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—May-be Jim Stovall put a watermelon seed in orbit. The wind caught one of his shots at the seed splitting contest of the 10th annual North Carolina Watermelon Festival Tuesday. The seed flew off and couldn't be found. Stovall of Chapel Hill had to settle for another effort of 29 feet for short of the winning 42 feet by the defending champion, John Rietzel, assistant state commissioner of agriculture.

Inland Steel Announces Surprise Price Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Inland Steel Co. of Chicago boosted its prices for strip and sheet metal by $2 to $3 a ton Tuesday and top White House officials immediately huddled to study the situation. Gardner Ackley, chairman of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, summoned other officials for a strategy session shortly after Inland's announcement — which apparently caught the administration by surprise. STUDYING Asked later about the meeting, Ackley said the council is "studying" the situation but did not comment further. Inland Chairman Joseph L. Block announced the price increase — described by company officials as "moderate" — at the end of the business day. It was not immediately clear whether other big steel producers would follow Inland's lead. In Pittsburgh Tuesday night U.S. Steel officials said they had no comment. Block, asked if Inland would roll back its price increase if other firms didn't follow suit, said, "We will have to."

Statewide Forgery Try Snuffed Out By Police

DALLAS (AP)—A bogus $7,680 cashier's check has led Dallas and Galveston authorities to the smashing of an apparent statewide forgery attempt. Dallas forgery bureau detectives arrested four men at a swank Love Field area motel Tuesday night shortly after sheriff's officers in Galveston seized a fifth man driving a truck. Dallas forgery officer Harvey Totten said he had received a call earlier in the day from a Dallas-bank official regarding a $7,680 cashier's check being used for a truck driver in Galveston. The truck driver in Galveston was arrested just before his rented 3-ton refrigerated vehicle was to be loaded with shrimp and stuffed back by the Liberty Fish Co. The 43-year-old driver told officers he had no knowledge of the forged check, and had been hired by the four men in Dallas to drive the truck around the state picking up produce. He was jailed and bond was set at $10,000. Charges of conspiracy and thrift were filed in John Doe warrants in Galveston against the four men arrested in Dallas, aged 23, 30, 34 and 38. Bond was set at $10,000 each, and they were held overnight in the Dallas city jail after arraignment before City Judge Douglas Friedlander. Dallas forgery detectives found check - writing paraphernalia at the motel, although they said no checks were discovered. Galveston authorities said Pasadena police were expected to question the four arrested in Dallas regarding check forgeries in that Houston suburb.

Newspaper To Get Honor

ABILENE — The West Texas Chamber of Commerce will honor a West Texas newspaper on Saturday as it presents its annual Community Services Award at a special breakfast during the West Texas Press Association meeting. The Community Services Award is to honor the weekly newspaper in West Texas that has done the most to provide leadership and encourage community service projects. This year the award will be presented by R. W. Hardy of Abilene, vice president of the WTCC and president of the West Texas Utilities Company. John Ben Sheppard of Odessa, president of the West Texas Chamber, will also be on hand and will speak on the "Potentials for Progress" — the project on which the West Texas Chamber has been working so diligently for the past three months. The chamber has thoroughly investigated the growth potentials in West Texas and is now taking steps to put them into action. Mr. Sheppard is expected to ask the cooperation of West Texas newspapers in helping translate the Potentials for Progress into reality in the West Texas area.

Inmates Given 1,487 Meals

Howard County jail served 1,487 meals to prisoners during July, Sheriff A. N. Standard said today. There were 53 prisoners confined in the prison during the month. Average cost per meal was about 18 cents. Standard said that his offices handled 190 civil cases and investigated 55 criminal matters during the month.

Convicted Negro Still Busy In Legal Field

Courthouse attaches say that Allen Lamar, 27-year-old Negro, under conviction for armed robbery and facing 25 years in prison, is now leading a legal hand to his co-defendant, Carlee Allen. Both are charged in the same hold-up. Lamar, during, before and since his trial, has been tried, the prosecuting attorney and the sheriff with a mass of mail, written in quasi-legal terminology. These communications cover a wide field of endeavor — including an writ of habeas corpus and a writ of mandamus sent to the U. S. District Court in Fort Worth. Tuesday, Lamar filed a handwritten document in district court purporting to be a "motion for a hearing on an application to arrest judgment." In this he argues he has been deprived of his legal rights in that judgment has not been pronounced on him for his conviction in the robbery case and that by permitting the judgment to pass over the 10 days he has been deprived of his rights. At the same time, Carlee Allen, who has not been tried, presented two motions (both in the handwriting of Lamar and in his literary style) described as a "motion for a hearing" and a "motion demanding a speedy trial." Judge Ralph Caton, now on vacation, will have these matters to consider when he returns to his court.

Laborers End Coast Strike

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Union laborers Tuesday night unanimously approved a new contract called "better than any ever awarded to any labor organization below the Mason-Dixon line." This officially ended a strike that had shut down about $300 million in area construction. Results of the vote by about 500 members of Houston Local 18 of the Laborers International Union of North America, made public by J. E. Middleton, the local's secretary-treasurer. A settlement in the 24-day strike against two groups of contractors was reached late last week. Key provisions of the contract, which expires June 30, 1969, include a 55.5-cent-hourly wage increase spread over the next three years and provision for a hiring hall. Middleton praised the contract as the best in the South. He said the hiring hall, a key issue in the dispute, will be "non-discriminatory" — union and non-union men both will be referred for jobs when contractors request a specific number of workers.

DEAR ABBY

Neighbors Are Talking

DEAR ABBY: In 1955 I married Bob (not his real name) in the Catholic church. I was born a Catholic and Bob was a convert. We had two boys. For reasons which I shall not go into, we were divorced in 1961. I then married Bill (also not his real name) at a civil ceremony by a justice of the peace, but we lived together only seven months and were divorced. Bob has started to come around again.

We have a lot to talk about because of the boys, etc. so sometimes he stays all night, or for the weekend. The neighbors' mouths are going a mile a minute. Since our religion does not recognize divorce, we are still married in the eyes of the church. Right? So, are we doing anything wrong?

TALKED ABOUT
DEAR TALKED ABOUT: It's not the "eyes of the church" you are concerned about—it's the mouths of your neighbors. Talk to your priest. He will tell you what's wrong with using your religion to suit your own convenience.

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me how to get rid of a telephone pest? This woman calls me every night when I get home from work because she wants someone to talk to besides her three-year-old son. (She's a divorcee.) She has no hobbies or outside interest. Her only friend moved out of town last year, and she has cultivated no new ones. I am her only "interest" and she bores me to death with her small talk.

I finally had to ask her to please quit calling me at work, so now she catches me at home in the evenings. Once she gets me on the line I can't get away from her. I have run out of excuses. Lately I have quit answering my telephone when I think it's her. Surely there must be a better way. TRAPPED
DEAR TRAPPED: There is. TELL her to quit calling you at home, too.

DEAR ABBY: I also used to be disgusted with the women I'd see on the street with their hair all rolled up in curlers. But after reading that letter in your column from the young wife who said it was more important for her hair to look nice for her husband when he came home in the evening, than for the mailman, grocer, and the man on the street, I changed my mind. Thanks for printing it. NO LONGER DISGUSTED

Parks Report Record Turnout

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas parks report record turnouts for the July 4th holiday period. The State Parks and Wildlife Department says the largest crowd was at Martin Dies Jr. State Park near Jasper, where 65,554 persons were counted. This was 21,517 more than last year. Lake Whitney State Park had 20,777, compared to 14,477 last year. Corpus Christi State Park had 3,914 overnight campers, up from 2,576 in 1965.

Geographically, South Africa is well buffered from any direct black military threat. She is protected on her flanks by the Portuguese possessions of Angola and Mozambique, and in Central Africa by white-ruled Rhodesia, riding out a war of sanctions and threats of armed intervention. By far the most heavily defended territory south of the Sahara, South Africa publicly displayed her military might during the republic's fifth anniversary.

IN TEXAS SCHOOLS

More Religious Activities Now

By GARTH JONES

Associated Press Writer

Some indications are that Texas school children are exposed to more religious activities now than they were before the 1962-63 Supreme Court rulings against mandatory prayers or religious services. "Until I am taken to court and told otherwise, I will continue to have prayers and programs whenever I think it is necessary or wanted," replied a Texas school principal in a survey suggested by the Texas Study of Secondary Education.

The late 1965 survey was made by Mrs. Jane Turman of Austin for a thesis at the University of Texas. She questioned 166 principals as a sampling to determine if the Supreme Court edict caused any changes in opinions and practices.

Of the principals questioned, 62 per cent said they did not agree with the Supreme Court. However, 85 per cent did not think it wise to attempt legislation that would delimit religious holidays, exercises, Bible reading or prayer in public schools. "We are an old stable community and do just as we have always done and will continue to do so," said one.

"I believe religious teaching should be taught in the home and church only," said another.

One principal has his own solution—"As for prayer, my preference is the provision of a brief period of silence. . . . Only eight of the 166 school administrators said Texas should prohibit all religious activities in the public schools at all levels."

Shortly after the Supreme Court decision the Texas attorney general said there was no restriction against prayers or Bible reading unless the state or its agency prescribed or recommended the action. More than two-thirds of the principals said their school boards have no specific policies now on prayers, Bible readings or religious services.

Many Texas schools permit voluntary prayers or Bible readings, almost entirely presented by the pupils themselves. "The students are permitted but not guided to have prayers if they want them, usually at the end of a school program or pep rally," said a principal.

"The teachers do not suggest it or lead it." Eighty-four principals reported in the survey that prayers were said at their school prior to the Supreme Court ruling and 83 said prayers are still being said at their schools. Based on the survey replies, there has been a 3 per cent increase since the court decision in announcement of religious activities, a 3 per cent increase in singing of religious hymns, a 4 per cent increase in assembly programs with religious themes, and a 5 per cent increase in invitations to ministers to participate in school assemblies.

Seventy-four per cent of the school assemblies opened with a Bible reading or prayer prior to the court decisions and 79 per cent when the survey was taken about two years later. And 94 per cent of the schools surveyed had one or more Bibles in their libraries compared to only 87 per cent before the decision.

And only 41 per cent of the principals reported they had ever been criticized for religious activities conducted at their schools.

"If it is permissible and general practice for each session of Congress to open with a prayer. . . as provided by the Constitution," said one principal, "it is just as important that the child in the public schools be given an opportunity to participate or not participate in daily devotions."

Hitler's Home Lures Tourists

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany (AP) — "Beware of snakes" warn the red letters crudely painted on a broken block of concrete.

At a souvenir stand, a guide explains to a group of English high school students: "It was bombed by the Allies in 1945, and seven years later the ruins of Hitler's home were blown up." The youths give him a disappointed look.

The season is in full swing at Obersalzberg, once the fortress-like Alpine residence of the Nazi fuhrer and for the past two decades Germany's largest unadvertised tourist attraction.

In all the official posters and travel folders luring tourists to Germany there is no mention of this Nazi mountain retreat with its deep underground air-raid bunkers branching out for a mile and a half.

Yet, hundreds of thousands flock every year to the Alpine range where Hitler felt at home. "They come from all parts of the world, both West and East," reports Laszlo Balog, who has been showing tourists around for the past 14 years.

"The vast majority of foreign tourists are Americans."

The bunkers, once wood-paneled and laid out with expensive rugs, are one of the two main tourist magnets on the thousand-acre Nazi compound.

The other is the "Eagle's Nest," a onetime Hitler studio, topping the 6,016-foot Kehlstein peak that overlooks the Obersalzberg range. Kehlsteinhaus, as it is called now, can be reached only by an elevator that travels 404 feet up a vertical shaft drilled through solid rock. The bottom of the shaft is connected with the outside by a tunnel 427 feet long.

The "Eagle's Nest" is now a restaurant that can handle up to 1,000 guests at a time during the May-October summer season. Last year, 180,000 people paid $2 each to ride up.

The bidding:

3♣ Pass 3NT Double
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠
West thought his opponents were guilty of loose bidding when they reached three no trump, and he promptly registered his opinion by doubling. His 17 high card points were not sufficient to back up his judgment, however, when he failed to uncover the killing defense.

West opened the queen of spades and South won the trick with the king. The queen of clubs was led and ducked. West won the continuation and cashed the ace and jack of spades. When it developed that South had a second stopper in the suit, the contest was over, for declarer had the rest of the tricks.

While on the surface the result appears to be normal, a closer analysis will reveal that not only could the contract have been defeated, but that West was perhaps remiss in his performance.

West's lead of the queen of spades is technically correct, for it serves not only to dislodge the king but also to leave partner with a spade to return the suit should he get in first. In the present case, however, it should be clear to West from the auction that East was dealt a yarrowborough, and that the play will be conducted solely between West and the declarer.

West might just as well lay down the ace of spades first in order to inspect the terral. This play will prove to be revealing on two counts. First of all, when the ace is led against no trump, it calls conventionally for the play of partner's highest card. When East follows with the six and South with the five, West learns that declarer has the K-10-9 which gives him two stoppers in the suit.

What is even more significant is the appearance of the dummy. West can see that if South has no more than two clubs, the club suit can be retired from the play by knocking out North's entry card at once. Observe the effect of a shift to the king of diamonds at trick two. Dummy plays the ace and after West ducks one club, declarer must look elsewhere for tricks. He will do well to wind up with seven.

The lead of the ace of spades does not preclude the possibility of West's continuing to establish his suit if conditions warrant. It merely provides him with an opportunity to evaluate the defensive campaign after an examination of 26 cards instead of merely 13.

Docket Swells, Purging Is Due

Despite drastic efforts of the court to eliminate deadwood and reduce the docket of the 118th District Court, the total of cases of all kinds on file continues to climb, according to Fern Cox, district clerk.

He pointed to the statistics for July in the court. At the end of June, the total cases on the books stood at 1,035; when the month ended the total was 1,049.

Fifty new suits were received during July. Only 38 were cleared in the same period.

Twenty-three new divorce petitions were filed. The court disposed of 17—trying 10 and dismissing seven. The month saw the divorce case total up from 190 as of June 30 to 196 on July 31. One additional annulment case was filed to bring the total on hand to five.

Tax suits remained unchanged as they have for many months—309 on file.

There were 28 civil suits other than divorces filed. Thirteen were tried by the court and three were dismissed. The month showed 478 on file at July's beginning. It wound up with 490 on the books.

Criminal cases alone showed a drop. There were 54 in the files on July 1; one was tried before a jury, four before the court, and no new cases were filed. This brought the final figure at the end of the month to 49.

Judge Ralph Caton, who is scheduled the summary dismissal this month of about 200 old cases which he has picked out of the total cases on file. These are suits in which no action has been taken since they were filed and are all matters two years old or older. He has warned attorneys and petitioners in the cases he intends to dismiss all of these if some action is not taken by the litigants before the docket date.

There are 126 cases on file now in the court in which jury fees have been paid, Cox said.

Housing Halted; Building Slumps

Only $63,615 in building permits was recorded in June, the second lowest value this year. Last year was the greatest in Big Spring building history.

Biggest permit during July was for a new residence—only one was built during the month, perhaps a reflection of "tight money"—at a cost of $21,000. Jerry Worthy was the builder.

Last July, there were eight new residences built for about $118,000. Second high was for an addition to the Goliad Assembly of God Church, 2205 Goliad, at an estimated $14,400.

Other notable permits issued were one to Clyde Angel, 706 Hillside Drive, $10,000 for an addition to a residence; one to C. H. Rudd, 416 Westover Road, $2,500, for an addition to a residence; one to Lester Morton, 701 Capri Court, $3,000, for the same purpose; one to KWAB-TV, 2500 Kentucky Way, for a sign, $2,250; and one to Calco Lumber Co., 408 W. 3rd, $2,000, for an addition to a business.

Wow!

It's no wonder that Santa Fe engineer Bill Carrier registered happy surprise when the "flagman" at the Salina, Kan., station turned out to be a cool number like Barbara Dragone. Barbara, 16, really has no connection with the railroad, but the material in her swim suit matches the striped denim worn by real flagmen so the photographer thought it would be a good idea to pose her in a railroad setting. Carrier is from Abilene, Kan. Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Dragone of Salina. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Leaves On A Happy Crest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci Baines Johnson came to the White House as a teenager, coping with assassination tragedy. She'll leave as a young bride, riding a happy crest.

GAY SPRITE
At 19, the younger daughter of President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson is probably best described in her mother's words — a combination of gay sprite and intuitive philosopher. Blue-eyed, black-haired, 5 feet 4, Luci no longer wants to be considered a teenager: "I'm going on 20." And she's going to be one of the new breed — a married collegian, keeping house for a graduate student husband and keeping up her own studies.

In the two years and eight months she's lived in the White House, Luci has grown up — and slimmed down. She dieted out of chubby adolescence to a trim, 110-pound size seven. She's danced and dated, pierced her ears, campaigned politically, and pleaded for privacy.

SLIGHT LISP
Luci talks with a slight lisp — and she loves to talk. Her off-the-cuff speeches sometimes unnerve her mother, who says "I never know what's going to come out."
Though she still may drop a curtsy to her elders, Luci can be the height of sophistication. She's a showman and a bit of a showoff. But she takes herself and her role as the President's daughter seriously and she has a deeply religious commitment. In her case, the commitment led her into the Roman Catholic Church.

Luci often recalls the November day she sat in Spanish class at National Cathedral School for Girls and couldn't believe the news that President John F. Kennedy had been assassinated.

ROBBED
"I'm not the president's daughter! I'm not!" she insisted to a girl friend.
Later, she said she felt she had been "robbed of my youth and my private life."

The second daughter of a famous and busy politician, Luci was born and brought up in Washington, with constant commuting home to Texas. She and her older sister, Lynda Bird, now 22, often were left temporarily campaign orphans while their parents were off on election forays.

Mrs. Johnson said Luci has felt a sense of obligation as a president's daughter and has taken seriously the idea that she should be a model for American youth, even though she might have preferred to be a "care-free, independent soul."

CAMPAIGNED
So, Luci campaigned on her own and with her parents. She answered back sharply when hecklers interrupted her mother's whistle-stop train campaign speeches. She helped as official hostess, christened a ship, opened fairs and took a $2-an-hour summer job with the optometrist who helped her overcome an eye imbalance. Luci also felt she had a right to splash out of the fishbowl and have fun with her friends. She donned a blonde wig disguise to do it on one occasion.

"There are very few things that I have ever done in the last few years that I have been able to do privately," she lamented.

Like any typical teenager, Luci spends hours on grooming, has an incredible array of makeup, hairsprays and lipsticks.

She drives a dark green sports car, likes chewing gum, movies, late pizza snacks, listening to records, piano playing and she sometimes writes verse.

NOT STUDIOUS
Luci is frankly not the studious type. She dropped a troublesome chemistry course and worked hard to get through her freshman year at Georgetown University School of Nursing with all B's. "My interest is not held very easily," Luci admits, and "I know I don't read enough."

The White House may have been confining, but under the eye of the Secret Service, Luci managed to have a bevy of boy friends from whom she picked blond, good-looking Patrick J. Nugent, now 23, of Waukegan, Ill. She said "a thousand things," primarily "a common bond" of religion, attracted her to him.

Birth Rate Shows Decline

Fewer babies are being born in Howard County these days and, of those being born, there are fewer girls, proportionately, than there are boys.

It is a rather common factor statistics on birth to find the number of males exceed the females, but this year the variation is remarkably acute in this county.

A check of the records of the Howard County clerk's office, shows a total of 433 birth certificates filed in the period January 1 through June 30. For the same six months last year the total number of babies was 480.

This year's crop breaks down into 237 boys and 196 girls—a margin in favor of the boys of 31.

In 1965 for the same period there were 248 baby boys reported and 232 girls.

Check of the death records in the office show there were 11 babies who died prematurely or who succumbed soon after birth. Seven of these were tomtrist who helped her over-

Ousted Thi Will Be A Candidate

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, ousted commander of South Viet Nam's 1st Corps area who is in the second political exile of his career, says he'll be a candidate for premier when elections are held.

Thi, a Buddhist, would not venture a guess as to his strength at the polls. But he did point out here Tuesday in an interview that 80 per cent of his country is Buddhist. The Buddhists seized on Thi's ouster four months ago as the pretext for their stormy but unsuccessful revolt against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Thi would not say what chances he believes Ky would have in free elections. The premier has said he will not be a candidate and will return to the South Vietnamese air force, which he still commands.

Thi, who departed from South Viet Nam with the permission of Ky's regime, was in Lynchburg to visit two of his children, Nguyen Chanh Loc, 11, and Nguyen Chanh Minh, 10, who attend the Paul Munro School at Presbyterian Home. They were sent by their father to the home last June because he feared for their safety.

Return To Land Of Husband's Death

Mrs. Paul Carlson, left, wife of the medical missionary who was killed by rebel gunfire in the Congo in 1964, talks with her brother-in-law, Dr. Dwight Carlson, in New York as the pair plan her return to the Congo. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Widow Returning To Congo Work

By JOY MILLER
 NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Paul Carlson is on her way back to the Congo today, hoping to bring medical help to the country where her husband was killed less than two years ago.

"I feel we're carrying on what he wanted to do," she said before she left Tuesday night for a two-week visit to the African republic.

Her purpose is to seek a suitable medical project for the Dr. Paul Carlson Foundation. It was established last Nov. 24 on the first anniversary of the medical missionary's death by rebel gunfire even as the U.S. government negotiated for his release and millions around the world prayed for his deliverance.

"I know what some of his hopes and dreams were for the medical work in the Congo," said Carlson's widow, a slim, blonde woman in her mid-30s, who lives in Torrance, Calif., with their two children and near her husband's parents, the Gust Carlsons.

"If through the foundation some of his dreams could be realized, and if through his memory he could continue to bear witness for Christ — always his greatest desire — then his death has not ended his achievements," she said.

Accompanying Lois Carlson to help with the medical survey is her brother-in-law, a big, amiable intern, Dr. Dwight Carlson, 33. On the same flight with them, returning to the Congo for a tour of duty, is Judy LeVahn, who was Carlson's chief mission nurse.

Mrs. Carlson, also a registered nurse, said she didn't know if she would want to stay in the Congo, then added: "But if there was a real job for me there, I'd go back to stay."

As it is, she's busy bringing up Wayne, 11, and Lynette, almost 9, and talking to church groups about her late husband's work.

She's also behind in answering mail from readers of her book about her husband, "Monganga Paul," published last spring. Monganga means doctor in Lingala.

Neither Mrs. Carlson nor her husband's family — all members of the Evangelical Covenant Church of America — has ever been bitter about his death. "We feel this has all been the Lord's will," she said, "and we will be reunited in the hereafter."

Envoy Going To Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman will travel to Cambodia early next month for talks with Prince Norodom Sihanouk, says the State Department.

Robert J. McCloskey, press officer, told newsmen Tuesday that the talks would deal with U.S.-Cambodian relations. He did not rule out the possibility that the American prisoners held by North Viet Nam also would be discussed.

Cambodia broke off relations with the United States in May 1965 after a series of border incidents. In December, the State Department reaffirmed U.S. respect for Cambodia's neutrality and territorial sovereignty in connection with the Viet Nam war but U.S. troops were authorized to fire across the Cambodian border when fired upon from outposts there.

Four Hearings On Cotton Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has scheduled four hearings on establishment of a cotton research and promotion program to be financed by a $1 per bale levy on growers.

Congress recently authorized the program, but it still must be approved at a grower referendum. A date for the referendum will be set later.

The department set these hearings on the program: Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 22; Dallas, Texas, Aug. 25; Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 26; and Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 27.

Members of a board to administer the program would be nominated by cotton producing organizations and selected by the secretary of agriculture.

The board would designate cotton handlers to collect the $1 per bale assessment, beginning with the ginning season for the 1967 crop.

Collections from producers who did not wish to contribute would be refunded on written application.

Air Commandos Strike From Propeller Aircraft

EDITOR'S NOTE: The 1st Air Commando Squadron is the only U.S. Air Force squadron in Viet Nam that flies the old propeller-driven A1E Skyraider fighter, and it is believed to have served in Viet Nam longer than other units — since 1961. AP correspondent Bob Poos flew on a recent attack mission with this elite group.

By BOB POOS
 PLEIKU, South Viet Nam (AP) — "The Viet Cong have an ambush set up down there. They killed some of our people there and I'd like to sanitize that position."

The voice of a U.S. Special Forces soldier on the ground came clearly over the Skyraider's radio.

"Affirm," Maj. Monroe Blaylock, 40, of Sonora, Calif., replied. "I'll make a strafing run. The other A1E will come in with napalm and I'll come back with the rockets."

Blaylock turned to me, grinned and said: "We're going in and strafing them, keep their heads down. Then Roy will come in with the napalm and we'll follow him around with our rockets."

The other Skyraider pilot was Capt. LeRoy Lowe of Los Angeles, Calif.

Both planes circled as the forward air controller in his little L19 winged in and let loose a smoke rocket to mark the target.

Suddenly Blaylock rolled his stubby Skyraider over on its right wing and dived straight down to 100 feet.

Blaylock pressed the trigger on his four 20mm cannon and a tremendous clatter split the roar of engine and propeller.

"Damn," Blaylock snapped over his radio, "only one gun firing."

Just as it seemed we would plover into the side of a hill, he whipped the plane up and around. My stomach felt like it was going to come out of my mouth but that was a reaction of plain fear rather than pressure.

Lowe's plane went in below us. We could see his silver canisters of napalm fall and blossom into flame on the ground.

Then we were back over the target. Our Skyraider shuddered as its rockets left it, two at a time. Mushrooms of smoke floated up as they exploded.

Both Skyraiders climbed far aloft once more. The forward air controller pilot told them they were dead on target with the napalm, rockets and cannons.

Blaylock and Lowe are members of the Air Force's 1st Air Commando Squadron, a unique and proud unit. It is the only U.S. squadron of the old A1E Skyraiders based in Viet Nam and is believed to have been in the country longer than any other American outfit — since 1961.

Based in the Mekong Delta, it supported U.S. and Vietnamese ground units. Its headquarters has moved to Pleiku, in the central highlands, and most of the sorties by its 20 pilots are against targets in North Viet Nam.

"The jet fighters have to roll in from 12,000 to 14,000 feet where we roll in from 5,000 or less," said Maj. Bernard Fisher of Kuma, Idaho. "We can see our targets and we can plaster them."

Sun Oil Denied Guarantee Of Water For Operations

LEVELLAND, Tex. (AP) — Sun Oil Co. failed Tuesday to obtain the court order it sought to make water available for secondary oil recovery operations.

Dist. Judge M. C. Ledbetter refused to grant the injunction asked by Sun Oil to compel Earnest Whitaker to let the company drill a water well on his farm. Sun Oil gave notice of appeal.

The ruling was based on a four-day hearing held last month.

Wording of the original lease agreement signed in 1946 figured strongly in the case. L. D. Gann, then owner of the acreage, gave Sun Oil rights in the lease to use "wood, water and coal" on the land for oil well operations.

Sun Oil lawyers contended the lease gives the right also to use the water for flooding and secondary recovery.

Lawyers for Whitaker, now owner of the land, argued that in 1946 the water clause permitted only the use of water in the original development of oil wells and not the large quantity needed for secondary recovery.

Dwight R. Mann of Levelland, one of Whitaker's lawyers, said the wording of the lease could possibly affect thousands of farmers and oil drillers in the area since the wood, water and coal clause was a standard provision in most leases.

W. B. Browder of Midland, counsel for Sun Oil, said he felt the case would have no bearing on any other leaseholder or oil company.

High Plains Water Conservation Dist. 1 entered the case on Whitaker's side. It expressed concern that farmers could lose water under individual farms without receiving payment and that oil companies in the area would use enough water to deplete farmers' supplies.

Major crops in the High Plains depend heavily on the underground water in the Ogallala formation, they said, because the average annual rainfall seldom exceeds 20 inches.

Ed Reed, geologist and hydrologist for the water district, testified at the hearing that if Sun Oil was permitted to water-flood, the effective life of water use under the Whitaker farm would be reduced about two years.

Television Battlegrounds Shaping Up In Time Periods

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 AP TV - Radio Writer
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood is full of nervous Davids these days, anxiously awaiting the start of September battles with television's Goliaths.

The battle grounds will be time periods.

Thus on Sunday nights, a half-hour NBC comedy called "Hey, Landlord," will try to compete against two powerful opponents — the perennial Ed Sullivan hour on CBS and ABC's "FBI." Last season this combination of shows squeezed Chuck Connors' "Branded" right out of network TV.

Andy Williams has got to be unhappy about his new position in NBC's lineup. His variety hour has been shifted to the 10-11 p.m. spot on Sunday nights, a time period that has proved deadly for his two predecessors — "The Rogues" and "Wackiest Ship In The Army," the former a dandy series and the latter several cuts above TV average. The enemy, obviously, is CBS' long-running "Candid Camera" followed by "What's My Line?"

Opposition networks have been attempting for years to dent the popularity of NBC's front-running "Bonanza" without any success. A mid-evening Sunday hour this past season proved to be the final resting place of CBS' "Perry Mason." Garry Moore and his new variety show have the dubious honor of being CBS' choice to try to crack the Cartwrights' high ratings.

Roger Miller may be king of the road, but Lucille Ball is queen of comedy and the Nielsen ratings. Miller's new half-hour variety show on NBC will be pitted against CBS' "Lucy Show" on Monday nights. ABC has entered a war show called "Rat Patrol." This past season, "The Lucy Show" neatly dispatched both NBC's "Dr. Kildare" and ABC's "Jesse James."

Red Skelton is ratings ruler of the Tuesday night schedules and apparently his position is impregnable. ABC hopes to dent his ratings with a comedy Western followed by another comedy starring Phyllis Diller and Gypsy Rose Lee. NBC has scheduled a situation comedy, "Occasional Wife," for the first half hour of positing Skelton and then swings into a re-run of a feature movie.

"Gomer Pyle," which had everything going for it as a Friday night CBS entry, has been moved into the Wednesday evening lineup — and runs headlong into ABC's "Peyton Place." CBS is putting together a nostalgia special. A program reuniting Sid Caesar, Imogene Cooper, Carl Reiner and Howard Morris, the quartet of brilliant comedy talents who made the old "Your Show of Shows" one of television from 1950 for several seasons. It will probably hit the home screens around the Christmas holidays — a nice gift.
