

Unlike DeRudder, the Woodville, Wash., resident regained consciousness three hours after surgery. The hospital said the pump was "operating satisfactorily" after Monday's operation and the device, called a left ventricular bypass, "was used following surgery for replacement of the mitral and aortic valves of the heart" of the woman's heart.

Woman's Artificial Heart Working Satisfactorily

HOUSTON (AP)—The first woman to undergo surgery in the Southwest for an artificial heart pump was reported progressing satisfactorily early Tuesday. Methodist Hospital refused to identify the 37-year-old patient, although the Houston Post reported she is Esperanza del Valle Vasquez of Mexico. Her hometown was not known. She has had a long history of heart trouble, as did two men who underwent the historic operation here.

Her predecessors, however, were much older. A medical bulletin said the woman gained consciousness after the 3 1/2 hour operation and was responding well. The plastic pump was described as "working well." Also Monday, there were reports the pump used in this operation is a new model, perhaps one that remains outside the patient's chest rather than being partially implanted as it was in earlier operations.

The hospital's first report said the woman "has been seriously ill for a number of years with progressive heart failure resulting from rheumatic heart disease involving both the aortic and mitral valves." The first woman to undergo such an operation in the nation was Mrs. Louise Ceraso, 63, who later died. The operation was performed in Maimonides Hospital, Brooklyn, N.Y., by Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz. He also performed surgery on a man who died.

To date, all four artificial heart pump patients have not lived. Marcel L. DeRudder, 65, of Westville, Ill., was the first to receive the plastic, dome shaped device at Methodist Hospital. DeRudder, a retired coal miner, died of a ruptured lung April 26, five days after the operation. He was in a coma during the entire post-operation period. A retired Navy man with an extended history of heart attacks, Walter L. McCans, 61, died May 20, three days after the device was partially inserted in his chest. McCans' death was attributed to uncontrollable chest bleeding.

Clinical tests prove you can chew better — make dentures average up to 35% more effective — if you sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. FASTEETH is the alkaline (non-acid) powder that holds false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. No gummy, sticky taste. Doesn't stain. Checks denture odor. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

'Nature's Teakettles'

Tourists got a bonus display on the day of this big "blowout" — a well cleaning operation at The Geysers in Sonoma County, Calif. Five of these wells will carry 550,000 pounds of steam per hour to the new Generating Unit 3 of Pacific Gas and Electric Company's Geysers Power Plant. This plant in north-east Sonoma County is the only electric generating installation in North America using geothermal steam to power turbine-generators on a commercial basis. The steam comes from wells drilled to depths of 500 to 5,000 feet. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Juveniles Deserve Same Guarantees

MONTREAL (AP)—Juveniles accused of crimes should be assured the same constitutional safeguards police must observe in handling adults, a leading juvenile court judge told the American Bar Association today.

"When the criminal law has been violated, police procedures for apprehending the violator and presenting him to the appropriate court should, in my judgment, be uniform," said Orman W. Ketcham, associate judge of the District of Columbia Juvenile Court.

"They should not proceed on the theory that, because there will be no criminal conviction, there is any less need for evidence or fair process."

Giving special significance to Ketcham's prepared remarks to an ABA section on family law is the fact that the Supreme Court has agreed to consider major questions concerning juvenile court procedure during its next term.

Monday the bar association's House of Delegates, its policymaking body, established a new section on "individual rights and responsibilities and thereby waded into the nationwide struggle over civil rights. The new section, established by unanimous vote of the 275-member house, has as one of its objectives channeling racial strife from the streets to the courtroom and conference table.

C. A. Whitman of Lake Worth, Fla., came to Austin to collect personal effects of his 25-year-old son and the elder Whitman's estranged wife, who also met her death a week ago.

"I have respect for you for doing your job," Whitman's father told Patrolman Ramiro Martinez, one of those who attacked Whitman in his sniper's perch high in the University of Texas tower.

After refusing to talk to newsmen and dodging photographers all day, Whitman issued a statement saying:

"I came to Texas to express my sympathies and regrets to all concerned and to cooperate to the fullest with all law enforcement officers, and I have met personally and embraced the man that killed my son and have no animosity, in fact, have respect for him for doing his job."

An officer who was present at the time said he did not see Whitman put his arm around Martinez, adding that, "of course, the word embrace has many meanings. They extended their feelings to each other, and there were no bad feelings."

Wallace May Bid Again For Presidential Race

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George Wallace of Alabama is expected to make another bid for the presidency in 1968—unless the Republicans put up a strong conservative ticket. While Wallace wouldn't say Monday what he might do, a source who often speaks for him put it this way: "If you beat Lyndon Johnson with a Republican liberal who believes in the same things and supports the civil rights act, what good will be accomplished?"

Before pulling out of the race in 1964, he had polled 42.8 per cent of the vote in the Maryland presidential primary, 29.2 per cent in Indiana, and 25 per cent in Wisconsin.

The Wallace spokesman made his comment in response to the expressed fears of some Republicans in Washington that the Alabama governor might take away votes from any GOP nominee.

One Republican spokesman said Wallace could "make it hard for us to carry Ohio, Indiana, and some other Northern states." Wallace's wife, Lurleen, is the Democratic nominee for governor to succeed her husband when his term expires in January. Wallace is forbidden by the state Constitution from succeeding himself.

Teddy Joins King For A Freedom Banquet

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s Southern Christian Leadership Conference continued its three-day convention here with a new plea for unity.

to spare if we are to avoid a racial crisis in this country," Kennedy said. "but the hour is not yet too late. We can do it."

King and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., key speaker at a "freedom banquet" Monday, called for a massive commitment of the nation's resources to upgrade the Negro's life in America.

King met Kennedy at the airport when Kennedy flew in for the talk. Two police cars escorting them to town were disabled by flat tires. Police reported later that about 300 pounds of carpet tacks were found scattered on the highway from the airport.

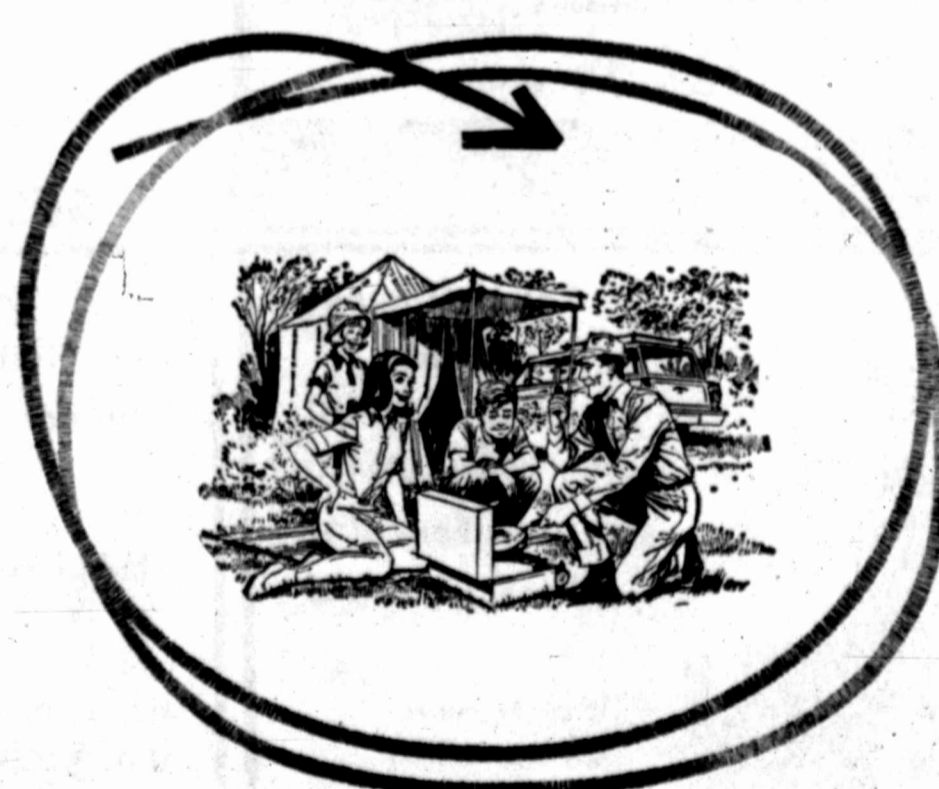

Kennedy urged Negroes to stand by their white supporters. He proposed a massive program to help Negroes, and said it would "cost a lot of money, but we can afford it."

"We have the resources many times over. The only thing we lack is the will. We are spending $2 billion a month to defend the freedom of 14 million people in South Viet Nam. Why shouldn't we make the same kind of effort for the 20 million people of the Negro race right here in America whose freedom and future is also at stake?"

Kennedy said the program should start with short-range projects, including summer work and recreation for Negro youths. This would be followed by long-range projects, he said, including improvements in schools, cities, housing and job opportunities for Negroes.

Steaks, Home Cooking Prepared By '66' Cafe

Afficionados of fine steaks, Mexican food, and good home cooking will be interested in knowing that Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hornbeck have assumed management of the Westside Sixty-six Restaurant.

Conveniently located on US 80 west. The "66" Restaurant is rapidly gaining a reputation for serving the best in culinary delicacies, as well as providing courteous 24 hour service to local and transient patrons.

Clubs and civic groups may take advantage of the restaurant's special reservation service and use the cafe dining room for meeting and dining. Too, the Hornbecks take pleasure in catering to private parties in their newly decorated dining room. Each table has been accented with a centerpiece of candles.

Once you have visited the Westside Cafe (its spacious facilities are designed to accommodate as many as 50 persons), you will become addicted to the personalized service, and most certainly you will want to try some of the homemade pies and homemade bread prepared by Cleveland Gossett Sr., head chef, and his assistants, Alvin Burton and Waldo Steel.

Rupert Hornbeck was band director at Stanton before coming to Big Spring. He was born in Oklahoma, and moved to Big Spring in 1947. In 1956 he married his wife, Dorothy, who graduated from Colorado City High School.

Hornbeck has taught band in several schools, and Dorothy has been connected with the restaurant business for many years. They have two children, Cleone, 9, and Novella, 5.

Cactus Makes Best Paint For Use In West Texas

If your home or other buildings need painting to protect them from rain, winds and steaming summer heat, there is no better time than right now to go ahead and get the job done—with Cactus Paints.

The home with the paint beginning to crack or peel, or looking dingy, is in shape to let the elements do a great deal of damage. The only way to get the bare spots covered is with a good coat of paint made to withstand the severity of West Texas weather.

Cactus Paint Co., local industry located on US 80 east, manufactures high-quality paints for homes, for both interior and exterior uses; for business buildings; and all other uses.

The paint is made expressly to stand up under the prevailing weather conditions of this area, including spring sand storms which can hit at many paint jobs.

Much testing and analyzing go into the work before a paint is put on the market, and it must meet the highest standards before Cactus Paint Co. approves it for use.

In addition to the work in the laboratory, tests are made on lumber and other materials under the punishment of outdoor weather conditions to see whether or not it stands up.

If a customer wants a room painted to match the rest of the house where the finish is still good, a Cactus job will give him what he wants. If a color is not shown on the color cards or charts, or if it is one of the customer's own choosing, Cactus' trained personnel can help produce exactly what is desired.

Delta Makes Instruments For Wells

Delta Electric, a local industry which has invented two new devices unique in the well-protecting field, has now the capacity to produce 1,000 of the devices per week when the need arises.

The assembly room will hold up to 20 assemblers.

The gadgets which Delta makes are examples of automation at the oil well head. Some giants of the industry have already bought and are using the machines, among them Marathon Oil and Union of California, R. L. Tollett, president of Cossden Oil & Refining, and T. R. Lambert, an independent oil operator of wide experience, are both major stockholders in Delta Electric.

The Delta Protector is a gadget which performs many safety functions and replaces all safety devices a pumping well normally uses at a fraction of their combined cost, yet is trouble-free, and will work on any size motor.

It operates electrically—no moving parts to wear out. It will not work on wells pumped by gas engine or on flowing wells. It assists pumpers in looking after wells.

The following functions are performed by the gadget: overload protection for the motor and switch gear, having instant trip on motor overload, but will allow the motor to draw the required starting current; will shut down the well if the rods part, whether near top or bottom; shut down if the pump sticks or if rods hang up. Numerous other functions are attributed to the device—there is not enough space here to begin to list them.

The other Delta device is an electrically-operated fluid level and stops it at another and operates from two probes in the tank or in the standoff pipe. When liquid touches the probes, the Delta Control operates a relay which starts or stops the motor.

Delta Electric, in addition to its new gadgetry, is an oil field and industrial electrification and automation firm which also does trouble-shooting, line connections and motor winding.

No-Roach Wallops Bugs; Safe For Pets, Children

No-Roach is an important name to those who are selective about their choice of insect killers.

Authorities recommend highest selectivity in the choice of insecticides for the home, and for obvious reasons, one should use only thoroughly tested, highly recommended insect killers.

SAFE TO USE
Johnston's No-Roach meets the most exact specifications. No-Roach kills bugs, but is safe to use around children and pets. Further, tests have shown that the colorless coating left by brushing on Johnston's No-Roach is effective for months. No-Roach is better, and more effective because:

1. You can brush No-Roach just where you want it. There's no need to move dishes or food when you apply No-Roach in cabinets, near the sink, and on baseboards.
2. No-Roach coating is colorless and odorless. Neighbors need not know that you are fighting insects in your home.
3. No-Roach lasts for months. The coating kills off the current infestation, and stays effective to kill the strays that wander in from the neighbors to set up a new nest.

Remember, you get what you pay for, and you buy the very highest built-in quality and safety when you buy Johnston's No-Roach.

MULTI-EFFECTIVE
In short, No-Roach is (a) very effective (b) odorless (c) colorless (d) harmless to pets — it's a pleasure to use.

The discriminating housewife who tries it will find her confidence justified by its performance. No-Roach is available at Hull & Phillips, Newsom's, Safeway, Piggly Wiggly, Furr's, and all grocery stores.

The bidding:
 North East South West
 1♠ 1♦ Pass 3♦
 2♥ Pass 2♥ 3♦
 4♥ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♦
A clever bid of sabotage by East induced South, the declarer at four hearts, to dig his own grave.
 South did not have sufficient values to make a free bid of one heart after East's overall of one diamond. Observe that he has only six points in high cards. When North reopened the bidding with a double, announcing a good hand, South properly jumped to two hearts to show that he was close to a free bid. North proceeded directly to game.
 West opened the three of diamonds and East covered North's queen with the king to hold the first trick. Prospects for the defense were not very bright, inasmuch as one diamond trick and the king of spades were all that East could contribute to the total. From South's jump in hearts, it was reasonable to assume that he held a good suit and that West had at most, the king or ace of hearts. North's club and spade holdings precluded the possibility of scoring any further tricks in the black suits.

 East was on the verge of abandoning hope, when he perceived a way to draw a red herring across declarer's trail. At trick two he casually returned the eight of spades directly into the dummy's strength.

North won the trick with the jack and played the jack of hearts. West was in with the ace and he led back another spade. From South's point of view, it appeared that East had started with a singleton spade and was trying to obtain a ruff. If he were permitted to trump away the ace of spades, South would have to lose another trick to the king subsequently.
 Inasmuch as declarer did not mind having his opponent trump a small spade, he played the three from dummy. To his surprise, East produced the king and on the return, West scored the eight of hearts for the setting trick.
 Whether or not South should have seen thru his opponent's ruse, we will leave to the reader's judgment, however, East deserves full credit for salvaging an apparently hopeless cause.

Regional Plan Given Approval

HOUSTON (AP)—The Houston-Galveston area was a step closer to special federal funds today after the Harris County Commissioners Court ratified Monday the articles of agreement and bylaws of a regional planning commission.
 The cities of Houston and Galveston and the counties of Fort Bend, Brazoria and Galveston must approve the articles and bylaws before the area can be eligible for federal funds awarded only to regions that have established such organizations.
 A spokesman said representatives of the cities and counties have given approval "in essence" to the articles and bylaws, which were drafted by a steering committee last week.

They Laugh About Heat

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON Jr.

PRESIDIO, Tex. (AP)—A bulky, red-faced rancher came out of a grocery store, dumped supplies into his pickup and wiped a forefinger under his hand. "Mighty hot," he said.
 "It sure wouldn't surprise me any if it hit 110 again today," said Oliver Harper, hardware merchant and official weather reporter.

NORMAL DAY

It was almost a normal day in Presidio, usually the hottest town in the United States.
 "We're feeling the heat a little more than usual," Harper said, "because it's humid. Clouded up and rained 14 drops last night."

In 1943, the government decided it needed a weather reporting station on the Mexican border halfway between Del Rio and El Paso. Harper and his wife agreed to become weather reporters.
 Day after day, Harper turns in the highest reading in the nation. But he said, that's only because some hotter towns don't have weather reporters.

RECORD

"Some places in California and Arizona could skin us alive every day." No doubt that's true. Presidio's record is 117 degrees, six below the Texas record of 123 in Rio Grande City. California's Death Valley once recorded 134.
 Presidio is an unincorporated village of about 1,070 population in the Big Bend, the huge wedge of mountain, canyon and desert cut out of Mexico by a southward hook of the Rio Grande.

There is one paved street—Texas Highway 170. The few flowerbeds feature ocotillo and other cactus. But cotton, alfalfa and melons grow in irrigated fields near the Rio Grande.
IMPRESSIVE
 Presidio's reputation for heat undoubtedly is more impressive in the East than in the South. A day in Presidio when the temperature is 110, and the humidity about 5 per cent, is considerably more bearable than a day in, say, Indianapolis or New York, when it's 95 degrees with 65 per cent humidity.

 With the temperature climbing toward 110, Lillian Burgess, a pretty, brown-eyed employee of West Texas Utilities Co., still looked cool. She remembered visiting Mazatlan, a Mexican seaside resort, and "the humidity almost killed me."

Not that people don't feel the heat here. Across the border in Ojinaga, residents take a siesta from 1 to 3 p.m. every day.
 Harper thinks that's what people ought to do in Presidio, too. "Why not? We live here and it's an old custom. And some doctors have recommended it."

TAKE SIESTA

But Harper doesn't take a siesta. "I don't have time," he said. "I get to work at 5:30 every morning and I'm here all day."

Harper, a white-haired, 66-year-old man who bubbles with energy, came to Presidio in 1929 from Kenedy, Tex., to go into the hardware business.
 "I still think Presidio has potential," he said. "I've been here 37 years waiting for something to happen, and I'd hate to have it if it was to happen."

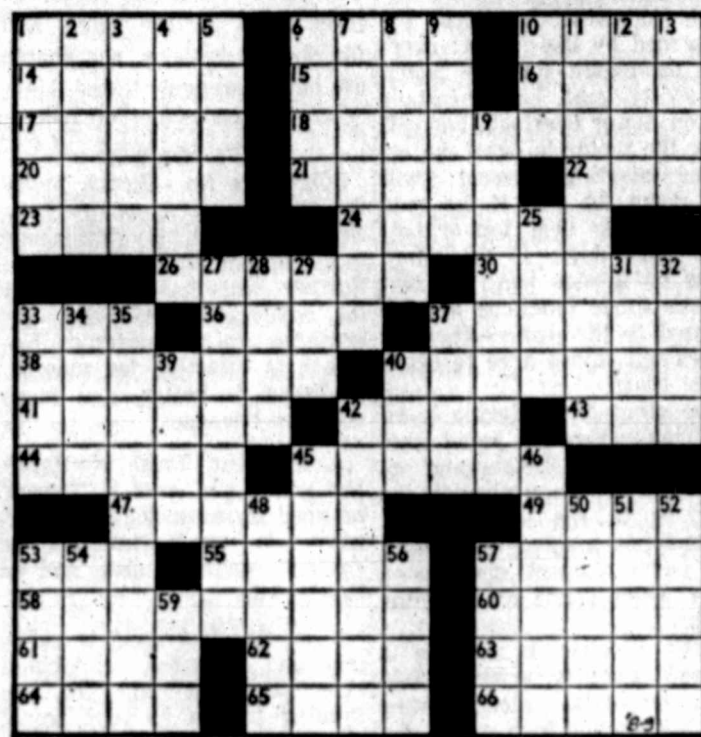

INSULATION

Most buildings in Presidio are built of adobe—sun-dried mud bricks that may be the best insulating material known. Also, residents use evaporative coolers, a convenience known to the arid West long before the humid East had air conditioners.
 So the people of Presidio can laugh about the heat—and for another reason, too.
 Mrs. Dick Cross, who runs the Presidio Motel, thinks the town's reputation helps business.
 "Lots of people come here just to see if it's that hot."

DEAR ABBY: You advised a woman not to worry because her husband was seen riding down the main street with another woman in broad daylight. Your reasoning: "A man who is playing games with another woman is not about to parade her around in broad daylight." Boy, are you ever dumb! People have been getting away with murder on that theory for years.
 When I see a married man with a chick who is not his wife — unless she is his sister, I guess the worst. And 99 per cent of the time I'll be right.
GOOD GUESSER
DEAR GUESSER: Why guess at all! Mind your own business and you'll be right 100 per cent of the time.
DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote a letter to the mother of the boy our 17-year-old daughter had been going with, and in it she said some terrible things about our daughter. She said our daughter and this boy had not been behaving themselves. (I think you know what I mean.)
 The boy's mother didn't mention it to me, but the boy told our daughter. My husband said I should forget it because if we make any accusations without proof we could stir up matters worse.
 I understand the letter looked as though it could have been written by a grown woman. It made me sick to think that anyone could be so cruel and nasty. If you were the mother of that innocent girl, what would you do, Abby?
DEAR MOTHER: I would listen to my husband.
DEAR ABBY: After reading the article about the wife who was all broken up because her husband wanted to fly for a hobby, I had to write.
 My husband has been flying since 1921, and holds one of the oldest commercial licenses in existence. A man is much safer in an airplane than he is on the freeways. My husband flies hunters and fishermen into the High Sierras, which is rugged country.
 But I never worry because he makes sure his ship is in first class condition before he takes off. And he never takes chances in bad weather. MRS. RPZ

STARTLING NEW POSSIBILITIES THROUGH GENETICS

Man Has Power To Change Himself

EDITOR'S NOTE — The day when man will control his own evolution... (text continues)

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

Would you like to be able — To grow a new heart, brain, kidney, arm or leg whenever you need it?

To grow gills and live in the ocean or wings and fly with the birds?

To explore other planets in a strange new body adapted and made impervious to the most hostile environment?

SIMPLE

Or would you settle for something simple, like a doubled or tripled life span in a world cleansed of disease?

Those are some of the more

Postmaster's Office To Have Ceiling Lowered

The office of Frank Hardesty, postmaster, is to get a little modernization.

A contract will be awarded to lower the ceiling to nine feet, repaint and revarnish and to install a new front door.

The present ceiling is about 16 feet high. The small air conditioner which serves the office falls short, due to the tall ceilings, of keeping the place even tolerably cool.

Hardesty said that one of the officials of the post office department was here recently on a particularly hot day, and since it will be two years at least before the post office would be moved to its new quarters, he said he would take steps to remodel the room.

A false ceiling will be installed. The whole job is to take about 20 days.

Bid forms and specifications are available at the office of the postmaster.

exciting possibilities scientists believe have been opened for the human race through recent advances in genetics.

There is a grim side, too. The same advances conceivably could be used to turn men into a race of slaves whose thoughts and emotions are predetermined through genetic tinkering.

Eminent scientists — men such as Dr. Melvin Calvin of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory of the University of California and Dr. Ray Owen, chairman of the Biology Division of the California Institute of Technology — already foresee a need for decisions arising from this new trend in research.

OPPOSITION

Genetic tinkering is almost certain to generate opposition — from environmentalists who believe the way to improve man is to improve his environment, not his heredity; from religious leaders who believe the human form exists today as it was created originally by God and should not be altered.

Genetics is the science of heredity.

It deals with genes — from a Greek word meaning "to give birth" — and how they control growth, using patterns handed down from generation to generation.

Although incredibly tiny — every human body cell has an estimated 150,000 of them in its nucleus — genes are the most powerful living force yet found.

CONTROL GENES

Genes control the manufacture of protein molecules, the building blocks of life. And now science has learned that genes themselves can be controlled.

Thus man eventually may be faced with deciding whether he wants to go on looking and thinking like his ancestors — or whether he wants to be something completely different.

The first big breakthrough in genetics — discovery that heredity and growth are influenced by a chemical substance called DNA — came in the 1940s, almost simultaneously with another great scientific discovery: The unleashing of the forces of the atom.

DESTINED

"Atomic" has become a household word. "Genetic" is destined to become one.

There are many scientists who believe that cracking the genetic code, learning the language of life, is at least as vital to mankind as cracking the atom; perhaps more so — the promised ability to control what we are made of could lead to a race of men invulnerable to radioactive fallout.

When will this brave new "genetic age" come to pass? Authoritative estimates vary from a generation to a century.

Elementary efforts at genetic tinkering, altering the genes of lower life forms, have already succeeded. Heat, X-rays and drugs have changed the offspring of bacteria and even insects so that they are hardly recognizable.

MUTATIONS

In the past 10 years, biologists have begun to understand why they are able to cause these changes or mutations. Ahead lies the task of understanding how to control the changes, to make sure that mutations which occur are desirable.

Tinkering with genes can bring great peril as well as great benefit.

Scientists are confident that not only the shape but the very thoughts of men can be controlled genetically, by predetermining the structure and function of the organs that generate emotions.

What if, in the not too distant future, some nation set out to breed a race of war-loving supermen — while the United States was breeding peaceful intellectuals?

Such a situation probably is several generations distant; and man may have improved himself enough genetically to meet it with wisdom.

OTHER CRISES

But there are other crises closer at hand.

The recently learned skill of transplanting kidneys and implanting artificial hearts has created a small furor over the question? Should ability to pay be the primary factor in determining who gets this chance at extended life?

Geneticists believe they some day will be able to relieve the current shortage of human "spare parts." They would take a bit of healthy tissue from a failing heart, for instance, and direct its genes to grow a whole new heart — easily transplantable back into the patient because the patient's body would not reject its own flesh and blood.

But even if enough spare parts were available for all who needed them, the transplanting would require considerable skill and effort.

ETHICS

Serious questions of ethics arise.

What kinds of people will be worth this trouble? Scientists? Politicians? Clergymen? Physicians? White collar workers? Laborers?

Who shall decide which are worthy?

And who shall pick those who decide?

Loaded with questions like these, the coming genetic explosion could rip society wider apart than a hydrogen bomb.

Or it could create a paradise on earth.

Much depends on man's reaction to new knowledge about his own genes.

Berlin's Hated Wall Marks Fifth Birthday Saturday

BERLIN (AP) — The bristling wall dividing Berlin will be five years old Saturday. Few believed it would last when it was built.

But there can be no doubt that the wall and the adjoining barbed wire fences that encircled West Berlin have achieved their primary purpose. What was once a flood of fleeing refugees has been reduced to a trickle.

OPEN HATCH

Before the wall, West Berlin was an open hatch for refugees already barred by patrols and barbed wire from crossing the West German frontier 110 miles away. Refugees came to East Berlin and simply crossed over, provided they were willing to leave behind everything they could not carry.

They came by the hundreds of thousands.

Even after the wall, they kept coming—through tunnels under the wall and in cars and trucks to smash through the wall. They climbed the wall, crawled inch by inch past guards, dogs, watchtowers, trip wires and patrols, or swam border streams, often in the hail of bullets. At the very beginning, people jumped over from buildings at the border, some to their deaths. As the risks went up, the numbers who came went down.

IN PANIC

The Saturday before that Sunday when the Communists started building their barriers, a refugee was registered in West Berlin every 40 seconds. Over that weekend 6,624 came across, many in panic, as though they sensed it would be their last chance. In 1961 up to Aug. 13, some 155,000 people poured through the open hatch.

That day, workmen protected by tanks and guns began unrolling hundreds of miles of barbed wire along the East-West border in Berlin.

Thousands of angry West Berliners threatened to tear away the wire with their bare hands. Communist armored cars, bayonets and water cannon drove them back.

ANCHORED

On Aug. 15, masons started building the actual wall that was to become an iron and concrete curtain some 15 miles long running through the heart of Berlin, anchored on either end to 35 more miles of barbed wire.

The lack of sharp Western reaction is still a sore point to many a Berliner. A West Berlin attorney said recently that if the U.S., British and French forces responsible for West Berlin "had rolled tanks over the border to stop the wall from going up, nothing would have happened."

Said an East Berlin professional man with close connections to the Communist regime: "Even we here never expected that the Americans would let the wall go up, much less stand. With the wall, I for one gave up hope for (German) reunification."

UGLIEST CRISIS

Perhaps the ugliest crisis stemming directly from the wall came when East German border guards shot a 17-year-old East Berlin refugee, Peter Fechter. He was left to bleed to death at the base of the wall.

West Berliners were incensed, not only at the Communists, but also at the Americans, who, they felt, should have gone to Fechter's aid.

There is now a cross with a black flag at the spot. West Berliners place wreaths there all year long, as they do at other border points where refugees were killed.

The wall death toll is variously estimated up to a total of more than 150. West Berlin police, however, put the confirmed death toll at 58 and give these statistics:

CONFIRMED

Confirmed wounded — 52. Known seized — 2,215. Incidents where Communist guards opened fire — 1,965. Incidents where West Berlin police gave covering fire to refugees — 14. East German soldiers known to be killed, including three trying to

Honeymooners Get Privacy

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Traditional British reserve may be helping Patrick and Luci Johnson Nugent enjoy a honeymoon free of sightseers as they relax at a luxurious waterfront home.

"Bahamians observed a friendly White House request that the couple be allowed privacy," said an Information Ministry official.

Asked to arrange for newsmen to talk to the Nugents, Bahamas officials contacted the U.S. Consulate. The word came back from Washington: "Their privacy is not to be disturbed."

The Nugents are staying at Capricorn, the $250,000 home of Rebekah Harkness-Kean, a socially prominent philanthropist who is in New York. It is secluded by thick tropical foliage on three sides. The fourth opens onto a white sand beach.

Camera crews who hurried to the British island after the Nugents flew in from New York Sunday waited outside for the newlyweds.

The Nugents were reported to have made a boat trip and it was not certain if they had returned.

Sunday night they attended Mass at St. Francis Xavier Cathedral.

A Devotional For The Day

I implore you by God's mercy to offer your very selves to him: a living sacrifice, dedicated and fit for his acceptance, the worship offered by mind and heart.

If Not Punishment, Then Separation

Violent death, much of it deliberate, has dominated the news within the past week. The 42 deaths of passengers and crew members in an airliner near Falls City, Neb., may have resulted from lightning or some other accidental means.

Tragedies of this kind seem to come in cycles, like most everything else, but the rash of wanton and vicious murder raises the question of how to deal with those who set themselves up as privileged executioners.

Juvenile Code Revision?

United States Supreme Court decisions—especially on right to counsel and admissibility in evidence of confessions—figured pervasively in the 1965 rewriting of the Texas code of criminal procedure which had not previously been revised for 40 years.

U.S. Supreme Court decisions on criminal procedure have not appeared applicable to juvenile court procedure. However, in last spring's term, the U.S. Supreme Court, in an opinion by Associate Justice Abe Fortas, reversed an action by a District of Columbia juvenile court because the juvenile had not been accorded the notice, access to records and effective assistance of counsel that any defendant would be given in adult court.

Marquis Childs The Pressing Need For Water

WASHINGTON — As the long, hot summer wears on with temperatures soaring and the temper of a lagging Congress daily more explosive, it is not alone the problem of the Negro ghettos that presses for action. The country is running out of water and a conflict over how resources will be divided and the role of the federal government in furnishing the billions of dollars for a remedy overshadows many noisier issues.

out ahead with agreement on a measure costing the federal government $1.7 billion. It is a response to the fantastic growth of Arizona, Nevada and Southern California where in a semi-desert water resources cannot meet the demand of expanding cities and ever more irrigated land.

Billy Graham

Deciding what is right and what is wrong is very difficult for me. Will you please give me rules for making moral decisions? W.F. This is a big question and can hardly be covered in a single column.

BUT THERE is another challenge that suggests the future of the conflict over water not only in the West but throughout the country. This is the competition between regions for a resource vital to life. The Northwest looks with dark suspicion on what is believed to be the ultimate design of the Southwest to carry "surplus" water from the Columbia River down 2,000 miles or more to the Colorado Basin.

Around The Rim Chiggers Ain't Funny

I claim to be a qualified expert on the ways and bad habits of the chigger — that pestiferous little red bug which inhabits nearly all parts of the country and has, through the ages, done more perhaps to make life miserable for human beings than any insect in creation.

Therefore, as a veteran of many years war with this character, I fail to wax hilarious when someone breaks out in a humorous vein discussing this subject. THIS GREAT newspaper recently printed an article about the chigger which was written in a light manner and obviously was designed to amuse the reader.

I HAVE WALKED once through the bermuda on my back yard and picked up enough red bugs to put me in bed with a high fever. Once, as a boy, I came upon a plum thicket far out in a pasture loaded with ripe red plums. Not having a container to take them home, I took off my shirt, buttoned it from top to tail, tied the sleeves around the collar to make a sack. I picked up the fine plums and elatedly hastened home. I dumped my harvest into a dishpan and redonned my shirt.

Oh, brother! I HAVE HAD lots and lots of chiggers on many occasions but never have I been so laden with the red devils than on that occasion. I still have an urge to walk 'way round any plum bush I may see.

WHY EVEN that Spartan kid in mythology who put the live fox in his shirt front and suffered the beast to eat out all of his innards without uttering a groan couldn't endure the agony of a mess of chiggers and not scratch. There just isn't anyone who has that much fortitude. The chigger, it seems, is a stage in the life of harvest mite. He has the highly descriptive Latin name Trombicula Irritans. He sure does — irritans, that is.

Hal Boyle By Delusion Obsessed

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals today is putting up with papa's cooking. A growing number of American men are obsessed with the delusion that man's place is in the kitchen.

battered and wrapped in bread, it could be digested about as readily as the steaks. But since papa, starting buying exotic cookbooks — "How to Fillet Whale," "Ten Easy Ways to Prepare Sirloin of Wolf" — and took over the kitchen — well, things have rather gotten out of hand.

THE TROUBLE with the amateur male chef is that he is less an artist than he is a ham actor. He has enough props to put on a production at the Metropolitan Opera. He dons a big white cap and a colorful apron bearing some such cute motto as "Don't Kiss the Cook," bids farewell to his loved ones — and marches into the kitchen, book in one hand and an immense fork in the other. Soon steam and the sound of dull explosions pour out into the living room, and uninvited guests turn pale and ask for a third, fourth and fifth martini.

NO ONE, naturally, is allowed into the kitchen while the master is performing his miracles. As the host, his face parboiled red, finally struggles to the table with the bubbling gook, he calls out triumphantly: "Surprise — guess what it is!" You mildly wonder if he really knows. What started out to be a meal has turned into a lottery. It is then that the wise guest, pleading urgent business elsewhere, bids the amateur chef a firm and immediate goodbye.

Holmes Alexander The Romans Had A Way

WASHINGTON—The Romans had a name for it. When luxury and voluptuousness beset the republic, when a too-powerful figure in public life threatened the common liberty, the Romans elected a board known as the Censor with extrajudicial authority to make ruthless adjustments. The system might work in the U.S.A. if the following documents were extant:

delay and the people's folly must be interrupted for the good of society."

TO ASSOCIATE William Douglas, U.S. Supreme Court: "For reasons not necessary to state, you have brought discredit upon the high position of the Court by your recent decision to hold and have poor example of how men of a certain age should comport themselves.

THE OFFICE of censor, this salutary institution of the Roman State, is said to have been a subject of discussion among a number of ex-professors who are now members of the Senate and House. Such well-known former academicians as Paul Douglas (Ill.), William Fulbright (Ark.), Gale McGee (Wyo.) and Mike Mansfield (Mont.) declined to be quoted, but another professor-into-senator explained to this reporter:

TO CONGRESSMAN Adam Clayton Powell: "You have played the artful dodger long enough. You are hereby ordered to pay the debts of your libel suit and to serve a week in jail for every further day of delay. This is not the extent of your punishment. The Censor orders that you be deprived of the privileges of American citizenship for a period of two years, thereby making you ineligible for reelection to Congress for the duration of this ban. Your Harlem constituency will have the opportunity of trying out a different representative and of enjoying a cooling-off period in which to think seriously about its use of the ballot box. The Censor does not apologize for this arbitrary action against you. There are times when the law's

ONE REASON, the senatorial ex-professors believe, was the Roman wisdom as shown in the rude, forthright, supra-Constitutional and heart-of-the-matter intervention of the Censor. Justice Douglas and Congressman Powell are only useful examples of persons against which a modern Censor might take precipitate, punitive, extreme action. The Jet Set, the Peaceniks, the Black Power swingers, the Hollywood Rat Pack, the "progressive" Republicans, the "Vietcong" Democrats and a good many other nuisance groups readily suggest other candidates for reproof and removal.

Art Buchwald A National Emergency

WASHINGTON — President Johnson attended the Washington Redskins-Baltimore Colts exhibition football game Wednesday night. This was the first time an American President ever went to a pro football game and the rumor was that Mr. Johnson's appearance did not have to do as much with his love for the sport as it did with the fact that his future son-in-law Pat Nugent was holding his bachelor party at the stadium.

you understand Washington's face is at stake. "What do you want?" the President asked. "I'm not asking much. A small B-52 bombing raid to knock out their defenses."

IN THE FIRST quarter the Baltimore team under Johnny Unitas scored 14 points before the Redskins knew what happened to them. Mr. Williams said, "Mr. President, we need your help — This is a national emergency.

"I'D RATHER not escalate the game at this time," the President replied. "I won't be pushed into anything rash."

The President said he was watching the game with interest, but he felt he could not call for federal intervention so early in the game. "I think we're going to have to let the teams work out their differences amongst themselves."

AS THEY WERE talking, the Colts scored another touchdown making the score 28 to 0. Baltimore scored another touchdown and Williams looked grim.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

"I GOT BURNED on intervention once this week," the President said. "I see no way of helping you."

To Your Good Health Light Sleepers Usually Dream More

because of efforts to "see" what we are dreaming about. About 50 per cent of dreaming occurs in the last third of a night's sleep, because that is when we more often emerge into the stage of light sleep. Electroencephalograms can show when a person is entering the stage when dreaming is possible, and the eye movement studies confirm it.

Everything dreams, whether you remember the dreams depends in large part on whether you awaken. If you lapse back into deep sleep there is less chance of remembering the dream.

Sleeping drugs and alcohol depress dream potential. I am not suggesting the latter, but your doctor might try giving you a mild sedative to help you stay longer in the deep phase of sleep.

County Youths Will Attend Farm Seminar

Troy Frasier, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Frasier of Coahoma; Eddie Read, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Read, Coahoma; and Larry Callihan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Callihan, Forsan, are the three Howard County Farm Bureau Delegates to the Fourth Annual Texas Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar Aug. 9-13. The seminar will be on the Baylor campus in Waco.

Derwood Blagrave, president of the Howard County Farm Bureau, said the bureau is sponsoring the trip for the three delegates. They left by special bus Tuesday morning for Waco. There were 16 West Texas boys aboard the bus — three each from Gaines, Midland, Howard, Mitchell and Scurry counties and one from Martin County.

Four nationally known educators and lecturers will address the more than 350 high school juniors and seniors from Texas who will attend. They are Dr. C. L. Kay, vice president, public affairs, Lubbock Christian College and winner of many awards including a special citation by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower; Dr. Clifton L. Ganus Jr., president and head of the Department of History and Social Sciences of Harding College at Searcy, Ark.; Herbert A. Philbrick, noted author, lecturer and former copywriter for the FBI, and W. Cleon Skousen, author of "The Naked Communist" and former FBI agent and chief of police of Salt Lake City.

Arrangements, many arriving by mail and others received by long distance phone calls, brought the prospective total competitors in the 21st Annual Howard County Junior Rodeo to a respectable total Monday night.

James Shelton, county agent assistant, said that the prospects were 100 riders would be in the events slated for the three night show opening Thursday at the Rodeo Bowl.

Included are a number of the top hands in the competition for National Junior Rodeo honors.

Entries have been received from Marty Petska, Carlsbad, N. M., who is top man in the 8-12 year, tie down roping and first man in the optional roping; Phillip Berry, Eunice, N. M., third in optional roping; Roy Cooper, Monument, N. M., fourth in optional roping; Robert Crenshaw, Big Spring, second in the 13-15 year tie-down roping; Larry Todd, Odessa, third in optional roping; and first man in all-around bow-boy; Crenshaw is also third in all-around cowboy for his age group. Also entered is Jack Cannon, Abilene, first in optional roping; and Tull Garnett, Matador, third in optional roping.

COMMUNITY HOUSE Campaign Planned To Block Project

Dissident neighbors of the proposed community house, for former Big Spring State Hospital patients, formed up plans to oppose the project in a meeting Monday night at the home of Floyd Young, 1506 Bell, chairman.

Between 35-40 were on hand and heard from a group of 10 who journeyed to Tahoka Monday to discuss their grievances with Calloway Huffaker, attorney. Foremost of the matters discussed, the group was told, concerned an injunction against the construction of the domicile. Jerry Worthy, who is putting up the building, has already started construction. He will lease the facility to the state.

During the Monday evening meeting, Temple Dickson, state legislator from this district, was called and asked to look into the project from the state viewpoint. He said he would.

A petition to Sen. Ralph Yarbrough, asking him to investigate the project, was also started. It had 50 signatures last night, and more were being sought today.

One of the major projects planned is a fund-raising program, to finance the upcoming legal fight. Young, who is accepting contributions, pointed out that the success of the opposition depends largely upon this campaign. He urged residents from throughout the city to contribute, in order to preserve the zoning law.

"It is our opinion," he said, "that this proposed construction is a flagrant violation of the zoning ordinance. We want to take the steps necessary to see that the zoning ordinance is adhered to."

Tonight, a delegation will represent the group at the meeting of the Big Spring City Commission.

Mrs. Mary Cochran and Jack Y. Smith, representing the state hospital, reviewed the projected community house project, pointing out to the group the benefits of the program.

Seven Big Spring youths and one each from Coahoma and Forsan will attend the fourth annual Texas Youth Conference in Austin Aug. 18-21, according to Joe Moss, group sponsor.

The nine area youngsters will be among the more than 1,200 attending the conference on the University of Texas campus to study projects for the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

The delegates are Debbie Douglass, Lynn Green, Jan Campbell, Margaret Zike, David Holmes, Donna Ferguson and Linda Tude, all of Big Spring; Diana Rodman, Forsan; and Larry Don McKinney, Coahoma.

As a result of the first three conferences, many programs have been instituted, including teen juries in over 50 cities, programs for tutoring students to prevent dropouts, and various other community service projects.

Girl Hurt In 3-Car Pileup

A three-car pileup on FM 700 Monday night sent one person to the hospital, officers said. Ellen Devlin, 16, 446-B Westover, Webb Air Force Base, a passenger in a car driven by Melissa Anne Simpson, 1600 Indian Hills, was taken to Webb Air Force Base Hospital about 10 p.m. She was reported in "satisfactory" condition this morning.

Officers said a car being driven east on FM 700 just east of Wesson Road by William Randall Parker, 503 E. 18th, was in collision with a car being driven west on FM 700 by John Charles Gervais, Webb Air Force Base at about 9:50 p.m. The impact of the nearly head-on collision sent the Gervais car off the road, and the Parker car veered into the west traffic lane and was in collision with the Simpson car.

Total damage to the vehicles was estimated at $3,500. Two other accidents were recorded Monday. Involved were the car of Merle Leona Bain, 119 Frazier, and the parked car of Larry William Trandt, Webb Air Force Base, at Wagon Wheel Drive-10 N. 1, Fourth and Birdwell Lane; and the cars of Roger Lynn Terry, 1713 Yale, and Teresa Black, 618 Birdwell Lane, at Birdwell Lane and Yale.

Two Guilty Pleas Entered

COLORADO CITY (SC)—District Judge Austin McCulloch accepted two pleas of guilty in 32nd District Court Monday. Billy Earl Trout, 36, Loraine, pleaded guilty of burglary of a farm house near Loraine and was given a three year probation sentence.

Santiago Lujan, 37, of Colorado City, pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, second offense, and received a one year probation sentence.

Howard County To Have Nine Envoys At Parley

paying close attention to the area of juvenile jury systems, as an effort is being made in Howard County to begin such a youth jury for trial of teenage traffic offenders. They are to report on their findings to a group of interested citizens when the conference ends.

The delegates are Debbie Douglass, Lynn Green, Jan Campbell, Margaret Zike, David Holmes, Donna Ferguson and Linda Tude, all of Big Spring; Diana Rodman, Forsan; and Larry Don McKinney, Coahoma.

Missing Man Charged Here

W. R. (Boots) Harris, 40, missing from Big Spring for eight weeks, Monday was charged with embezzlement in a complaint prepared by Wayne Burns, district attorney. Signing the complaint was Doyle Thomas, Harris' employer. Harris was a driver for T&T Supply Co. at the time he disappeared and was in charge of one of his employer's 20-ton trailers pulled by a big diesel tractor.

Harris has been listed as missing for some weeks and Sheriff A. N. Standard and other law enforcement agencies have been looking for him and the truck. No clue to his whereabouts has developed since he was last heard from in late June at Gary, Ind. Harris had left here en route to Copper Hill, Tenn., for a load of freight.

Burns said the embezzlement charge was filed on the theory that Harris, as an employee of the T&T Company, had the company property in his legal possession at the time he was last heard from and that now the property is presumed to have been illegally diverted.

Harris now is a fugitive from justice and officers are alerted to be on the lookout for him.

Rig Is Lost In Explosion

A rotary rig owned by Forster Drilling Co. Inc. of Odessa was destroyed early Monday when gas and distillate being unloaded by Southwestern Natural Gas Inc. of Midland No. 1 Tennessee - Federal, Eddy County, N. M. exploded, 15 miles south and slightly west of Maljamar, was ignited by the exhaust from the engines.

At noon the well was under control and most of the fire had subsided. Larry Powell, a Forster derrickman was severely burned and now is a patient in St. Francis Hospital at Carlsbad, N. M.

The project, an outpost to the Eddy County sector of the multiphase Lusk field, had taken a drillstem test on the Strawn at 11,280-385 feet.

On that investigation, gas surfaced in four minutes and distillate in 39 minutes. Both the gas and petroleum liquid was showing a heavy volume.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Truck Driver Can Use This

Dear Heloise: My hint is especially for truck drivers. Take a long, heavy sock and a shoe string. Weave the shoe string in and out of the top of the sock and tie both ends of the string. It's a perfect holder to hang your vacuum bottle on a dashboard knob or window latch. The sock cushions the vacuum bottle so there is no more breakage. Of course my truck driver husband is spoiled. I knit his vacuum bottle sock with a plastic bottom (to lessen wear and tear) and add crazy buttons, pins, etc., and it's a conversational piece to boot! Phyllis

Phyllis, your hint is fantastic! Our quart vacuum bottle fits into my husband's stretch sock as snug as a bug in a rug. The idea is marvelous for anyone traveling and also for picnickers. The vacuum bottle won't be rolling around in the car and you know how hard they are to carry when you have a picnic basket in one hand, plus all the paraphernalia needed. A truck load of thanks to you!

Dear Heloise: You know those small plastic pots with little plants in them that one gets in the supermarket?

Also the plastic cartons that tomatoes come in? I lined one plastic tomato carton with a double fold of aluminum foil to make it leakproof, then put in four little bitty pots with the plants.

It makes a cute little (over the sink) window box. Every day I watch the plants grow and am amazed at the wonders of nature. Mrs. Noon.

Dear Heloise: I'd like to suggest another use for your nylon net.

We made a pad of this fabulous stuff, and it is wonderful for scooting crumbs off the cookie sheet when we are ready to bake another batch. June Gooch

You are right, June. No water is needed and no cookie crumbs to burn while baking more cookies. Heloise

Dear Heloise: An old, unrefillable plastic compact is great for carrying bobby pins.

You have the mirror handy to see where you're putting the pins, and it's much handier than fishing in the bottom of your purse for an elusive pin. Lucy Moores

Dear Heloise: If your husband has trouble tying his tie around his neck and getting it even...

Tell him to find a place above his knee the size of his neck and tie the tie facing him. Then he can loosen it and just slip it off his leg and put it over his head and around his neck.

He can have a perfect knot every time this way, and no more getting all twisted up trying to tie it looking in the mirror. Willard Sale

Thank you, Sir, for solving this knotty problem for our male readers. Heloise

Dear Heloise: My clotheslines are close together so I hang bath towels, diapers, etc., from one line to the other side on the next line. This allows me to hang many more garments on the same clothesline.

I even zig-zag to save on line space and in spaces left, small articles, such as socks, etc., can be hung.

True, it uses more pins, but all clothes can get fresh air and sunshine — especially when washing for a large family and time and space are limited. Mrs. Armbruster

Dear Heloise: I would get mad at my portable sewing machine everytime I did any sewing because it would jump and slide all over the place.

I got a small piece of carpet to set the machine on, and now I can sew as fast as I want to, and with less noise. D. R. (Write Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald.)

Bonded Fabrics Take Spotlight

Bonded fabrics are making fashion news this year. There's a practical reason. Stylish A-line and skimmer fashions need underlinings in order to keep their easy-fitting shapes. New bonded fabrics come with underlinings already attached. The fabric is fused to a special knit or woven backing, or it's laminated to a thin layer of foam.

The bonding process makes it possible to extend the uses of such open-weave fabrics as cotton lace. Bonded lace is sturdy enough to be fashioned into flared theatre coats or easy-fitting evening suits.

Waiting For Weight To Come On Down?

By MARY SUE MILLER
A Lovely writes: I am reducing and have lost weight steadily up until two weeks ago. Since then I have not gone off ounce and I have not gone off my diet. What can the matter be? It's bad enough to diet, but when you don't get results it's terrible.

The Answer: After some weeks of dieting, weight losses often taper off. The occurrence is known as the "dieting plateau." You will understand its significance if you think of it as a level place where your body can rest during the steep descent from overweight to normal weight.

Your system needs the rest so that it can adjust — catch its breath, as it were — to the decline in food. The plateau is the provision nature makes for the adjustment period.

If you stick with your diet, your weight will start again on its downward journey. So don't give up, simply wait with as much fortitude as possible.

Regulate yourself meanwhile with the thought that dieting will come much easier when your system finishes adjusting. Then your appetite will want for less. And therein is a big secret of successful reducing.

No diet regimen is worth the effort, unless it teaches your appetite to be happy with the amounts of food that get you slim and keep you slim. Otherwise you are doomed to the reduce-gain-reduce cycle. A really
