Carr Recommends Tougher Parole Laws, Penalties

AUSTIN (AP) — Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr has proposed that murder with malice be punished by either death or life in prison.

Testifying Thursday before an interim House committee on criminal law revision, Carr, Democratic candidate for U.S. senator, also recommended tougher parole laws.

Carr complained of a sore throat and told reporters he has cancelled all of his speaking enagements for next week on

JUST 3 YEARS "The punishment for murder with malice provides a possible minimum of two years," he said. "I recommend a punishment of life imprisonment or death for the commission of murder with malice. This puts Texas with the majority of 34 other states."

Carr recommended the minimum punishment for murder with malice be raised from the present two years to at least

Maria Meets Her Doctor

When Mariaufemia de la Cruz, who was burned critically in a home accident here, arrived in Galveston last week, she was welcomed by her physician, Dr. Paul Rohrer a specialist in burns treatment. Shown in the picture as she was moved from a private plane to an ambulance are Oscar Cardenas, social worker with the local school system, and her mother, Mrs. Maria de la Cruz. Maria was flown to the Shrine burn treatment center by the local Shrine association, which joins other Shriners in maintaining the burn center without charge to all who need it.

Hitting At Despicable Pressure

focusing public attention on the pressuring of Civil Service workers for political campaign contributions. This highly unfair practice recurrently comes to light. It ought to be halted by Congress.

To illustrate the point, Case quoted as follows from a letter which he said a New York congressman addressed to a government typist: "We have enclosed four tickets with a return card. Kindly let us know if you need more." He also quoted from the typist's letter to him complaining about the solicitations, as follows:

"There was a time when one might get a card for solicitations, but now there is a new racket, the tickets are enclosed, then followed by dunning for the money." The letter went on to say that in another instance the typ-ist returned the tickets but "was told that they were never received, and I

Sen. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey have to pay for them: I do not have one hundred dollars . . . I feel that this is an invasion of privacy with overtones of intimidation and mental harassment . . ."

Exactly. When a member of Congress sends a government worker tickets to a fund-raising affair, and follows up with dunning letters, that is an application of pressure that should not be tolerated.

This is all a part of the larger picture, congressional reluctance to do anything much about enacting reforms in the whole broad matter of campaign financing. The Senate Rules Committee has approved a rather mild reform bill submitted by Sen. Howard W. Cannon of Nevada, but there have not even been hearings on a tougher administration proposal and neither bill would outlaw fund-raising efforts among federal employes. Congress and the White House might find it hard to explain this omission.

All Or Nothing

One of the nation's most respected journalistic voices, the New York Herald Tribune, was stilled nearly four months ago by an ill-advised strike. Monday the voice was stilled for ever; the Herald Tribune gave up the ghost while still strikebound. Instead of the 800 employes achieving some extreme demands, they have achieved a jobless status. Whether two other of three newspapers, which together lost ten million dollars last year, can survive is highly problematical if and when they are permitted to reopen as a joint enterprise. One and possibly both of them could go.

This stands as a classic example of what happens when leadership of unons or worker groups fails to recognize that an enterprise cannot go on losing money and survive. Refusal to admit that changes in technology must be embraced to cut costs led union leadership down a blind path. The few archaic jobs they sought to force upon management and other ham-stringing demands not only did not give sanctuary to these jobs, but they destroyed jobs of all workers employed by the paper.

Another factor in the tragic demise of a great paper is that what started out as a professional association was adulterated by non-professionals to the point that the clerical-laborer influence became dominant. If rule or ruin is what they wanted, they got it -but at a terrific price.

WASHINGTON—It's a strange thing but, during all the weeks that the In such cases, contempt of Con-House Committee on Un-American gress charges may be filed, and it Activities was investigating the Ku Klux Klan, little protest came from the champions of "the right of dissent." They became vocal only when the same committee started to look into the activities of those groups which have been accused of giving aid and comfort to the enemy in Viet Nam.

Suddenly the very authority of the House Committee to summon witnesses was questioned in the federal courts, with the argument that freedom of speech is being interfered

WHEN THE House Committee, moreover, began drafting legislation rightly restricting the secret activities of the Ku Klux Klan, the socalled "liberal" exponents began to find fault with the proposals as likely to interfere with all militant blocs which debate their strategy in the

It has been an established principle of constitutional law that a committee of either house of Congress may at any time be authorized by the Senate or the House of Representatives to call witnesses and get information on any issue which may be the subject of proposed legislation.

WHILE INVESTIGATING committees have to respect the constitutional rights of an individual to refuse self-incrimination, anyone subpoenaed has to appear. He may then refuse to testify by claiming, under oath, that the questioning is in violation of

My parents become hysterical if I don't have perfect grades every month. This is a great strain on me and I'm afraid I won't be able to keep up with their demands. I can't see that perfect grades are so important.

Of course we all want you to make good grades, but your intellectual achievements are only a portion of life's true aims. You have an obligation to your nervous system, and to your soul, as well as to your mind. Most of us aspire to be well-rounded, unified personalities. It is quite natural for your parents to want to do well-perhaps, for one reason, that they didn't do too well themselves, and they would like for one of the family to be a distinguished "brain." But "doing well" implies more than good grades. It means the development of the total "you." If they major on the development of your mind only, they may end up, as many have, with an ill-shaped, ill-developed child. The Bible says: "I pray God that your whole spirit, mind and body be re-deemed." Anything less than that is not total development.

The net effect of developments will be to strengthen the position of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. For, despite the occasional charges of unfairness that crop up from time to time in the examination of witnesses, the committee s a useful purpose. Newspapers do not risk exposing persons in this country suspected of consorting with the enemy, as it could lead to libel suits by the accused individuals. Two Press Chairs Will Suffice

As our numerous fans will of course recall, we requested on April 30 in this space that the City Fathers provide us members of the press with cushioned chairs and tables, fundamentally to make us comfortable and able to do our job in a more felicitous frame of mind.

ON AUG. 9, we ascended, as is our habit, to the city commission room and what to our wondering orbs should appear but two old-fashioned school chair-desks, cushioned, with signs reading "Press" attached thereto. You know the kind—straight-backed chairs with room underneath to put books and on the right-hand sides kidney-shaped horizontal boards upon which to scribble. Real nice. They had been heavily laquered and glittered like the articles we author—brilliantly.

No doubt that the significance of the number of chairs was noticed by ON AUG. 9, we ascended, as is

Robert Kennedy On The Move

WASHINGTON - Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's headquarters - "office" is an inadequate word-is in a strategic position in the new Senate Office Building just inside the most frequented entrance, and the stream of visitors moving in and out gives the effect of Grand Central Station at the commuter rush hour.

The senator from New York has succeeded in carving out a position for himself on issue after issue that sets him apart from the Johnson administration. And he has done this without openly breaking with the President. Above all, of course, it is on the issue of war and peace in Viet Nam that he has appealed to the millions of doubters who feel that somehow, if only there were sufficient good will, a way could be found to stop the

SO FAR SO GOOD from the viewpoint of the strategists in the Kennedy camp. But just ahead is a test calling for the most skillful political footwork if Kennedy is to maintain the same subtle equilibrium. This is not so much the perennial struggle among warring Democratic factions in New York over the nomination for governor. Playing it cool, the sena tor can hope to come through unscathed regardless of the outcome.

IN THE CONGRESSIONAL campaign just beyond, the senator is planning to go into at least a dozen states besides his adopted state of New York to work for candidates who have implored him to give them a lift.

So strongly does he feel the inadequacy of many Johnson policies that he can hardly avoid speaking out on the stump. The poverty program in the cities is a conspicuous example. Kennedy is offering an amendment adding $750 million to the war on poverty. While the administration can kill it, he will nevertheless have staked out an advance position anticipating the stepped-up cities program the White House is readying for next year.

THE SENATOR is going into California at the urging of Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, who is in a perilously close contest with the actor and television performer, Ronald Reagan. He has close ties with many of the first-term Democrats swept into the House on the Johnson landslide who fear they are in deep trouble. In at least three Midwest states Kennedy will campaign for first-termers who want to invoke the Kennedy magic.

THIS WILL BE a fascinating exercise in the uses of power, and win, lose or draw, the first-termers will be in the debt of the hard-driving campaigner.

Although technically it is correct to say that there has been no break, the White House and the new Kennedy wave regard each other with deepseated suspicion.

KENNEDY'S far-out admirers have come around to the view that he will contest the nomination with Johnson in 1968. His own shrewd awareness of the political realities would seem to preclude that. He is a young man in a hurry, but not so great a hurry as to jeopardize the prize of the presidency. (Copyright, 1966, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Holmes Alexander Meeting The Pollution Problem

WASHINGTON-"Too valuable to burn." I heard a man say 20 years ago about natural gas. The fuel has become a vital manufacturing material in the booming petrochemical in-

"Too good to throw away," I heard another man say just the other day. He was talking about the filthy, stinking, discolored, noxious water in our much-maligned rivers. Having read a good deal of doomsday calamity-howling about river pollution, I went around to interview the maker of this astonishing statement. DR. LEON WEINBERGER, burly and all-business, looked just right in shirt sleeves with a couple of water jugs on the floor beside his desk. One jug contained fresh water. The other contained sewer water that he had treated. He said that "volunteer" testers in the Interior Department hadn't been able to tell the difference. Dr. Weinberger, an MIT science master in sanitary engineering, had worked as a consultant for 20 different industries before coming to his present job. He is Assistant Commis-Research and Development, Federal Water Pollution Control Ad-

YOU COULD TELL he knew his stuff. Dr. Weinberger struck his interviewer as a good news man in a town where the big payoff is in havoc-crying. The terrible plight of American rivers nearly ranks with Atomic Energy and Poverty as subject mat-ters for despair. Water-shortage and water-pollution are going to finish us off if The Bomb and revolt of the underprivileged don't get us first. But Weinberger takes the clamer view. He had a chart which shows by projections (A.D. 1900-200) that things are just as bad as the gloom-spreaders like to point out.

"THIS RATHER oversimplified projection," he said, "indicates that we have already run out of water. In fact, it indicates that we ran out of water in 1957 . . . The truth is that our nation as a whole is not running out of water and will not within the reasonably foreseeable future."

TRUE, MANY regions have water shortages. The increase of population and industrialization has rendered our rivers a mess. But scientific research and development have almost caught up to the problems. The "almost" is necessary because until very recently our engineers could not see a way to control a malignant bloom called "algae" which feeds on phosphates, chokes the water and kills the fish.

But Interior Secretary Udall announced last month that a breakthrough, largely credited to Weinberger, would soon cut down on the acquatic phosphates and starve the algae to death.

THERE ARE other breakthroughs that bring down the costs of water treatment to feasible levels. Weinberger sees city and industrial reservoirs where the water is used and re-used indefinitely, never returned to the rivers. He writes:

"If 80 per cent of the water used by New York City were recovered and renovated for re-use, the city's water supply . . . would in effect be enlarged five times. The same general principle applies . . . to all indus-

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Substandard wages, in addition to being a hardship on families, are a serious drag on Texas economic development. They keep Texas per capita income far below the national average and restrict markets for the goods and services of the state's businesses and industries.

Normal economic expansion, improved education, the federal antipoverty programs and other forces are gradually improving the situation, but the time has come, we believe, for the Texas Legislature to consider adopting a state minimum wage law at its next regular session. Thirtysveen states already have some sort of minimum wage law, to supplement the federal minimum wage law that is applicable to interstate commerce.

A $1.25-an-hour state minimum, now being widely discussed, would be both unrealistic and undesirable. A soundly formulated state minimum wage act would project a gradual, not an abrupt, upgrading of the lowest economic brackets. Unless the change is gradual, there is the possibility that the law would defeat its own ends, eliminating jobs through mechaniza-tion and automation and creating economic dislocation.

If wage levels in those states which do not have minimum wage laws lag conspicuously behind federal standards, the inevitable result will be an extension of federal standards. This would precipitate the abrupt and dislocating changes which a reasonable state law, passed at this stage of the state's development, might avoid.

Suddenly, Sudden Sam has regained his touch.

It had been seven weeks and as many starts since Sam McDowell slast won a game, but the Cleveland ace looked like himself again with a three-hit 2-dy victory over the Chicago White Sox Thursday, night.

McDowell, who had been troubled by a sore arm since May, struck out eight and retired the last 14 batters in a row. It was his fourth shutout and his first victory since July 1.

NEW DELHI (AP) — Is the sari sinking?

Indian women often have wondered as they clutched frantically at their flowing national garb, just to keep it up.

Today, however, a serious discussion has been launched by designers and practical Indian women on whether the sari is sinking in terms of fashion and utility.

PERSONAL PURITY STARTS WITH PERSONAL ATTITUDE

The vital importance of personal purity is emphasized in the International Sunday School Lesson which continues the series on Christian fulfillment of the law.

2-B Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Friday, Aug. 19, 1966

The basic text is from Exodus 20:14 (Thou shalt not commit adultery), but there are citations from Matt. 5:27-32, 19:3-9; Mark 7:14-23; John 8:3-11; and Phil. 4:8. The latter is the memorable exhortation: "Finally brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good re-port; if there be any virtue, if there be any praise, think on these things."

In embracing religious teachings of personal purity, the Hebrews were a thousand years ahead of their time. Many other religions actually incorporated impurity into their rites. Sexual promiscuity is cited as one of the contributing factors in Rome's fall. However, Christ gave the teaching a positive application and pinned it to the attitude of a man's

ESTAH'S FLOWERS

Mrs. Jessie Lee Townsend

An artist takes a strip of glass with flaws and imperfections (something you and I would carelessly discard), and transforms it into stained glass of unbelievable beauty.

And God makes possible another transformation . . . although our souls are scarred, He can help us develop into creatures of inward beauty and usefulness.

Through Him we can learn to overcome weakness with newfound strength. We can learn to have faith because we know the anguish of despair. We can learn to love-both God and manbecause we know the emptiness of living without love.

Through regular church attendance and prayer, we too, can transform our flaws and weaknesses into beauty of character and fitness of purpose.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The star-spangled street where you live

You can't always see the stars and stripes on the homes and apartments in your neighborhood, but they're there just the same.

A big percentage of American families own U.S. Savings Bonds. Many of these star-spangled families have been buying Bonds since they were first issued 25 years

Altogether, Uncle Sam has sold $150 billion in E and H Bonds. About $100 billion of these have been cashed in for college, retirement, new furniture, emergencies, and down payments for those homes.

Americans still own a nest egg of nearly $50 billion in Bonds for tomorrow's needs. And as the nest egg grows, Uncle Sam uses the dollars to help support our fighting men in Vietnam-and help keep our economy

You can help make Uncle Sam's future, and your own, more secure by joining this star-spangled savings plan. Why not start now? Sign up for Payroll Savings where you work, or buy Bonds regularly at your bank.

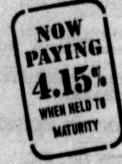

NOW-

Savings Bonds Pay 4.15%!

Interest on new E and H Bonds you purchase has been raised to 4.15% when held to maturity. E Bonds mature faster -now in just 7 years. Your old Bonds will earn more, too. Savings Bonds are better to buy, and hold, than ever.

GOOD HONEST DEALS

Pretend it's a used car.

Many people wouldn't think of buying a new car. Too expensive, they say. Instead they buy a good used car. "Transportation, not status," they explain. And they go on: A used car costs far less. And because someone else has paid for the first year or two, depreciation is a lot less.

They are right as rain. But take this thinking further. Take initial cost: it doesn't take much to buy a new Volkswagen. (Think of it, a new Volkswagen actually costs less than many good used cars.)

Take depreciation: a Volkswagen doesn't depreciate wildly the minute you take it off the showroom floor. ICheck the used car ads in this paper, 5-yearold VWs actually sell for more than 5year-old other cars that cost twice as much to begin with.)

But a used something else won't give you Volkswagen's 29 miles to a gallon. Or 40,000 miles to a set of tires. Or Volkswagen's small maintenance bills.

For people who wouldn't think of buying a new car, we offer this moneysaving do-it-yourself thought: Buy a new Volkswagen.

Johnson announced that the Interior Department today gave a go-ahead to the Rand Development Corp. for construction on the shores of Lake Erie at Buffalo of a new type of filter

This system, he said, will at once prevent raw pollutants from entering the lake and will purify, at economical cost, the water that does go in.

This is the first construction contract awarded under the Water Quality Act of 1965.

Johnson said the key ingredient in this experimental filter is pulverized coal that can be used as fuel after serving as a filter

"If successful," he said, "this method of treatment would not only provide a solution to one of our most difficult water pollution problems. It would also afford a new use for coal that could run to hundreds of thousands of tons every year, as oth-
