T&P Claims Trains Inflict Heavy Loss

Representatives of the Texas & Pacific (Missouri-Pacific) today renewed a request to suspend two passenger trains which said cost the company all the way from a quarter to three-quarters of a million dollars a year.

Big Spring citizens, appearing at a Texas Railroad Commission hearing in the 118th District Courtroom, countered with a request that the remaining two trains on the Fort Worth - El Paso not be abandoned, but on the contrary that service be improved.

Most of the morning was consumed by reading statements by company officials into the record. Most of the testimony in opposition to the proposal to suspend the last of the passenger service by T&P was due to be heard starting at 1:30 p.m.

The official hearing began at 8:30 a.m. today in the Howard County courtroom at the courthouse with testimony from E. E. Spencer, passenger traffic manager of the T&P, and Generous friends gave the High School Bible Fund another lift today, pushing the total to $1,549, but more help is needed if the class is to have ample funds this school year. The deadline for the appeal is Sunday, and help is urgently needed for this worthwhile program.

John F. Wilson, cost analyst for T&P-MoPac. Spencer said that the railway made its last profit on passenger operations on all trains in 1946 and had a $4 million deficit for 1965.

PART OF LOSS
Trains 26 and 27 between Fort Worth and El Paso, the trains involved in the application, contributed approximately $250,000 to this deficit, Spencer said. "The net result to the T&P if we are authorized to discontinue trains 26 and 27 between Fort Worth and El Paso, will be an improvement of at least $300,000 annually in our operations," Spencer said. "It may be well in excess of that considering the revenue losses that have occurred subsequent to filing the application, possibly in the neighborhood of a half million dollars."

Wilson pointed out that taking the entire cost of operation of the two trains, including wages, repairs, switching, accounts, and a host of others, the out-of-pocket loss on the two trains is exceeding $731,000 per year.

NO STUDY
Spencer conceded, under cross examination by Gil Jones, attorney representing the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, that T&P has made no concerted study of what sort of changes in equipment and service might do to revive passenger travel.

He also said that he did not think that $200,000 a year for research (which Jones suggested could be spent as matching the loss the line claims it has in the passenger service) would produce beneficial results.

Jones also asked Spencer if any strong effort had been made by the line to persuade the postal service to restore shipment of service might result on the restoration of such business to the railroad.

TRUCK ORIENTED
Spencer said no effort had been made in this field and that he felt no good could come of such a plea. He also added, on suggestion of a railroad commission attorney, that the attitude of the present post office administration nationally is

Gemini Twins Score Handful Of Records

Rocket Soars Higher, Faster; Both Men Take A Cat Nap

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Shouting "We're on top of the world!" the Gemini II astronauts today soared higher and faster than man has ever flown, and then, amazingly, both cat napped as Richard F. Gordon Jr. hung halfway out of the space ship on a star photography assignment.

POKED OUT
Gordon was standing in his seat, his head poking through an open hatch waiting for a nighttime pass so he could see the stars, when command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. reported: "We both took a cat nap—dozed off for a few minutes." Mission control center in Houston, Tex., commented: "That's a space first—sleeping in a vacuum."

The ground also informed Gordon that he had set a record for most time outside or partially outside an orbiting spacecraft. Counting 128 minutes today and 44 minutes during a space walk Tuesday, he logged two hours 52 minutes. That topped Eugene A. Cernan's two hour 10 minute space walk on Gemini 9.

RECORD ALTITUDE
The astronauts had started the day by using the power of an Agena rocket to rise to a record altitude of 550 miles. "I tell you, you can't believe it!" Conrad exclaimed as they first reached the high outpost above eastern Australia. "Utterly fantastic. The world is round."

After zipping twice to the high point, the pilots again fired the Agena, to which Gemini II is attached, to return to their original path, ranging from 180 to 190 miles high.

At 8:49 a.m. EDT, as Gemini II was over the Indian Ocean, Gordon opened his hatch and mounted two cameras for the star photography experiment.

QUIPS
As he whirled around the world for more than two hours, through two night-time and one daylight pass, he was relaxed and in good humor, exchanging quips with ground stations.

Gordon completed his photography task and closed his hatch at 10:57 a.m., after a two-hour and eight-minute stint outside.

A smudge on Conrad's window posed some difficulty, because the command pilot had to sight the spacecraft for the proper camera angle.

"The grease on my window is so bad I can't even see the stars," Conrad said.

SOLUTION
Apparently he and Gordon worked out a solution. Minutes later Conrad reported they were taking star pictures and "we're going along just fine. We're on Orion."

The window smudge has bothered the astronauts since the flight started. It apparently was an exhaust film deposited on the window when the second stage of their Titan 2 rocket ignited as they blasted into space Monday from Cape Kennedy.

Astronauts Report UFO

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Gemini II crew spotted an unidentified object in space Tuesday after astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr. ended his 44-minute space walk.

Gordon and command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. were uncertain whether the object might have been part of the space walk equipment that had been tossed overboard a short time earlier.

"We had a wingman flying wing on us here, off to my left, tumbling about one revolution per second," Conrad reported to mission control.

"I guess it could have been anything from our ELSS (equipment dumped) or something else. We took some pictures of him."

Conrad said the object was in the sky for about 10 minutes, ranging from 180 to 190 miles high.

At 8:49 a.m. EDT, as Gemini II was over the Indian Ocean, Gordon opened his hatch and mounted two cameras for the star photography experiment.

less than that which overtaxed Gordon during his space walk Tuesday. Within minutes Tuesday he was breathing and perspiring heavily. His right eye became blinded with sweat and he had to scurry back to the safety of the cabin.

During the stand-up exercise, Gordon was tethered to the inside of the cabin by four lines—three of them for oxygen, communications and biomedical instrumentation. The fourth was a restraint tether, shorter than the others to prevent the three key lines from breaking.

AIMED AT STARS
Gordon aimed an ultraviolet camera, mounted on the side of the craft, at selected stars.

"We're on top of the world," Conrad reported as they reached the peak of the roller-coaster orbital path.

"Just out of my left window, I can see all the way around to the very end, with the horizon all around," he said.

Upset Winner

Some Primary Races Show Support Of Viet Nam War

By The Associated Press
Minnesota Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, rejected for renomination by his own Democratic-Farmer-Labor party, won the chance on his own Tuesday to seek a second term in the Nov. 8 general election.

In another of Tuesday's 11 primary elections, Edward J. McCormack, a long-time challenger to the Kennedy clan, captured the Democratic nomination for governor of Massachusetts. He defeated Kenneth P. O'Donnell, a top aide to President John F. Kennedy.

JOE MARTIN
Former House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, 81, was upset by a 35-year-old housewife and lawyer, Margaret M. Heckler, in his bid for Republican nomination to a 22nd term in another Massachusetts race. Martin was speaker during the 80th and 81st Congresses and was Republican leader for 16 years before being toppled by Rep. Charles A. Halleck, R-Ind.

Some other races indicated popular support of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies and an apparent white backlash to open housing, the most controversial section in the administration's civil rights bill. But national issues generally were scarce in the campaigns.

In other primaries Tuesday: ARIZONA—Former Phoenix Mayor Jack Williams won the GOP nomination for governor. Gov. Sam Goddard and Rep. George F. Senner Jr., Democrats, narrowly won renomination.

COLORADO—Edgar Chenoweth, a House member for 22 years of the last 26 years, lost to David W. Enoch in a Republican bid for renomination to another term. Rep. Frank E. Evans, who defeated Chenoweth two years ago, won Democratic renomination. Sen. Gordon L. Allott and Gov. John A. Love won Republican renominations.

Sen. Gordon L. Allott and Gov. John A. Love won Republican renominations.

Gov. John A. Love won Republican renominations.

MARYLAND—Baltimore contractor George P. Mahoney defeated Rep. Carlton R. Sickles in a tight race for Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Sickles supported open housing. Mahoney opposed it. The winner faces Spiro T. Agnew, county executive of Baltimore County, who won the GOP nomination.

NEW HAMPSHIRE—Former Gov. Hugh Gregg won GOP nomination to challenge Democratic Gov. John W. King. Retired Brig. Gen. Harrison R. Thyng earned the GOP bid to try unseating Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, a Democrat. Rep. J. Oliva Huot, a freshman Democrat and supporter of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies, won renomination against William F. Horan Jr., who argued that only volunteers should be sent to Viet Nam.

RHODE ISLAND—Lt. Col. Ruth M. Briggs, a retired WAC, defeated conservative Charles H. Eden in the GOP senatorial race and will oppose Democratic incumbent Clairborne Pell in November. Rep. Ferdinand J. St. Germain won a tight Democratic battle for renomination.

ESCAPED
U.S. officials estimated damage at $1 million. They said the Communist guerrillas escaped without losing a man.

In the air, U.S. bombers struck at a North Vietnamese missile complex for the seventh day in a row Tuesday.

On the ground, allied forces launched their biggest helicopter assault of the war in a new offensive in the coastal valleys of central Viet Nam.

One of their first catches was a 13-member Communist entertainment troupe from Hanoi. They also captured three nurses at a Viet Cong hospital.

In another early action, the cavalrymen killed 15 enemy and captured 16 more while sustaining light casualties.

2ND WALK
It was Dengler's second long walk to freedom. As a 7-year-old in Germany he hid for 68 days through the Black Forest to escape Nazis, who had killed his father.

captured 16 more while sustaining light casualties.

U.S. Army officers said the Viet Cong blasted a huge hole in the barbed-wire fence surrounding the motor pool on the outskirts of Saigon and charged through with guns blazing. A platoon of Vietnamese militiamen on guard pulled out during the initial onslaught. Several militiamen were wounded.

NOT IDENTIFIED
The captured U.S. serviceman was not identified.

Officers said the installation's administrative building was destroyed.

The U.S. command also reported that American bombers destroyed one missile when they hit a North Vietnamese missile complex 30 miles northeast of Dong Hoi for the seventh time. That brought to five the number of Soviet-made missiles blown up since Saturday. The site had been a threat to American bombing missions over North Viet Nam.

'WE ATE THINGS THAT CRAWLED . . . CAUGHT SNAKE . . . ATE RATS, TOO'

Escaped Pilot Describes Ordeal With Red Captors

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—It was like this for the first American pilot to escape from North Vietnamese—and Pathet-Lao captors:

"They held a gun at my head and went 'click-click—ha, ha, American.' They beat me and hanged me upside down, putting ants on my face," said Lt. J.G. Dieter Dengler.

"We ate things that crawled through our hut. Once we caught a snake that had eaten two rats. We cut it open and ate the rats, too."

accident at a news conference. He was born in Germany and came to the United States in 1957.

Tanned, smiling and weighing 143 pounds, 45 more than when a helicopter snatched him from the jungle after five months in a Laotian prison camp run by North Vietnamese, he described his ordeal.

"In one village I was tied to a tree and used for target practice—the guards tried to see how close they could come to shooting me. Another time, one pulled a trigger with the rifle next to my left ear. It caused a deafness that lasted for several months.

being dragged by a water buffalo. My hands were tied so tightly the nerves were cut off."

Dengler said he told his captors nothing except his name, rank and serial number, as prescribed by the Geneva convention on prisoners of war.

"Those people don't even know what the Geneva convention is," he said. "They don't even know we exist. All they know is Laos, Cambodia and North Viet Nam."

He saw no prisoners sign professed statements denouncing the United States, he said, though all were harassed.

Dengler hesitatingly told how he escaped with Air Force Lt. Duane Martin of Denver, Colo., then watched a villager hack Martin to death.

Dengler was flying a reconnaissance plane over North Viet Nam last Feb. 1 when ground fire brought it down. He landed across the border in Laos where he was captured a day later. He escaped once, for six days, then for good on June 29.

Dengler said he and six other Americans confined in a thatched-roof hut decided to try to escape when they overheard guards planning to kill them.

"Lt. Martin and I decided it was better to die in the bush—as free men—rather than in the hands of Communists," he said.

STOLEN GUNS
Dengler said he had stolen four guns from the guards' hut. These, and some food, were divided among the group. They killed six guards in the escape. The Navy doesn't know what happened to the other Americans.

together. There was somebody hunting us all the time."

On the 19th day after the escape "we were crawling along a jungle path when this villager jumped out 20 feet in front of us. He yelled 'American, American!' and started hacking Martin with his machete."

Dengler said he escaped into a gully.

"I must have blacked out 20 or 30 times. The last four days were the worst after I lost my friend. But I was angry. I wanted to come home. I wanted to fly again."

Suffering from jaundice, his feet swollen from cuts, he found a parachute and cut an SOS message out of it. On the 23rd day after his escape a rescue helicopter lifted him out.

Space Travelers To Be Quarantined

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP)—The first three Americans who take a roundtrip voyage to the moon will be treated more like they had the plague, than as heroes of the day—at least for a few weeks.

There'll be no tickertape parades, handshakes from the President or even hugs and kisses from their families until the U.S. Public Health Service makes sure the cosmic travelers didn't bring home some strange lunar vermin.

Some scientific circles have long expressed fears that men who explore the universe might unknowingly come in contact with harmful organisms that could thrive on our planet. With this possibility in mind, however remote, National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans take no chances.

The astronauts, their capsule and the 60 pounds of priceless moon rocks they are assigned to collect and bring back will be under strict quarantine for about three weeks. Only a few technicians and doctors will be permitted near them, then only after special precautions.

Designed for this purpose, an $8.1-million Lunar Receiving Laboratory, to include bunks for the spacemen and party, is now under construction at the Manned Spacecraft Center. It is due to be finished by late next year, in time to support optimistic hopes the first lunar voyage might be attempted in 1968.

Here, NASA, the Public Health Service and the Atomic Energy Commission will team to decide when an all-clear can be declared.

GOP Working On A Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are working on a budget aimed at showing that President Johnson can cut federal spending by $4.7 billion instead of the $3 billion he proposed in his anti-inflation program.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen disclosed this Tuesday, forecasting the Republican Policy Coordinating Committee will lay down a detailed budget at an Oct. 3 meeting. At about the same time, the government issued a report indicating housewives are having a tougher time stretching their dollars at the supermarket.

Also on the inflation front, Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee challenged administration claims of a "first slice" $1.5-billion budget cut as part of Johnson's anti-inflation program.

circumstances might seem downright impolite, and begins the minute the spaceship hits the water, home from an eight-day journey.

For instance, when frogmen leap into the ocean to help the astronauts and attach a flotation collar to keep the spacecraft from sinking, they first leave three protective isolation suits in a small raft beside the craft and swim away.

These rescuers normally chat freely with returning spacemen, and often are the first earthlings to touch them. Not this time. The rule of the moment will be: "Assist the flight crew (astronauts) only if needed; otherwise move some distance away until the crew dons the biological isolation suits."

Woman Foils Young Robbers

OLD BATH, Ind. (AP) — "Put all your money in a bag," two youths with guns ordered grocery owner Guss Miller.

The 68-year-old woman, barely 5-foot, grabbed the barrel of one youth's 22-caliber revolver Monday and scuffled with the teenagers. The youths fled and were picked up by police two hours later after Mrs. Miller reported their auto license number.

"They thought they had somebody who was easy," she said. "But I wasn't."

Baptists Vote Change On Federal Loans

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Baptists eased their opposition to government loans Tuesday but re-affirmed their position on separation of church and state.

The action on government loans reversed a 1961 policy of the Baptist General Convention of Texas' executive board. The BGCT adopted yesterday a recommendation of a special Church-state committee.

The recommendation would allow securing of long-term, low interest construction loans from public funds.

Texas Baptist institutions using the loans, however, would voluntarily reimburse the government for the additional amount of interest paid by the government.

The board reiterated its opposition to all direct aid from tax money for any Texas Baptist institution. The decision, according to the committee's report, was based on the desire of Texas Baptists to support their work with voluntary contributions.

Government loans, the report said, would allow institutions to take advantage of longer credit terms while still paying their own way.

Such loans could be justified, however, the report stated, if these four provisions were met:

—If adequate private funds were not available.

—If such financing was limited to the necessary functions of an institution in carrying out its purpose.

—If there were no strings attached to regulate religious activities.

—If the institution were not dependent on such loans for existence.

The committee recommended that government grants and loans to students be considered a transaction between individual and state.

Texas Baptists should reject government grants in the form of surplus property, the committee recommended, but said that such surplus could be purchased at market value.

Baptists should pay at least "the raw land value" of property obtained through urban renewal programs, the report said. Delegates of the 1.3 million member convention will pass on the recommendations at its Nov. 1-3 meeting in Dallas.

In other action, the board adopted a $12.2 million budget for Texas Baptist work in 1967 which will be voted on by the November convention.

Carr, Tower Take Opposing Sides On LBJ's Tax Issue

DALLAS (AP) — Sen. John Tower and Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr stood on opposing sides of the proposed suspension of business investment tax credit issue today.

Carr, a Democrat opposing the Republican senator's bid for a second term, told a Dallas audience he favored President Johnson's move to suspend the seven per cent investment tax credit as a means of cooling off the economy.

Tower then called a news conference to vigorously disagree, saying the suspension would inhibit the arrival of new industry to Texas and the expansion of firms within the state—adversely affecting 350,000 Texas workers and their families.

The senator said the government could best ward off inflation and rising prices by curtailing its own spending in non-defense areas.

Tower said Texas was one of the nation's fastest growing industrial states and would be one of the hardest hit by an investment tax credit suspension.

He called the proposed suspension "a selectively punitive measure that would inhibit expansion of Texas industry which has enjoyed considerable growth over the past few years. It could deny job potentials to Texas wage earners and profits to Texas business."

The senator, the only Republican from Texas in Congress, also said the suspension "could kick off recession and unemployment at a time when other recessionary pressures may be present" when the suspension effect was felt 18 months later.

Tower returned to Washington today to vote on the civil rights closure and the minimum wage issues.

In Carr's address before the Texas Citrus & Vegetable Growers and Shippers Association, he said the investment tax credit "is working against our best interest" at the present time by overstimulating the economy and forcing prices and interest rates up.

He also said he felt the government should not hesitate to raise taxes if necessary to win the fight in Viet Nam.

Cooler Air On The Way

By The Associated Press
Cooler air surged into the Texas Panhandle from the north today as scattered showers fell along the Red River.

More rain was in prospect for northern areas of the state.

The temperature sagged to 57 degrees at Dalhart as the new cool front passed. Overnight lows elsewhere ranged up to 80 at Laredo.

Light to moderate rainfall dotted an area from Wichita Falls to Gainesville, extending into Oklahoma as far as Duncan, Ardmore and Durant.

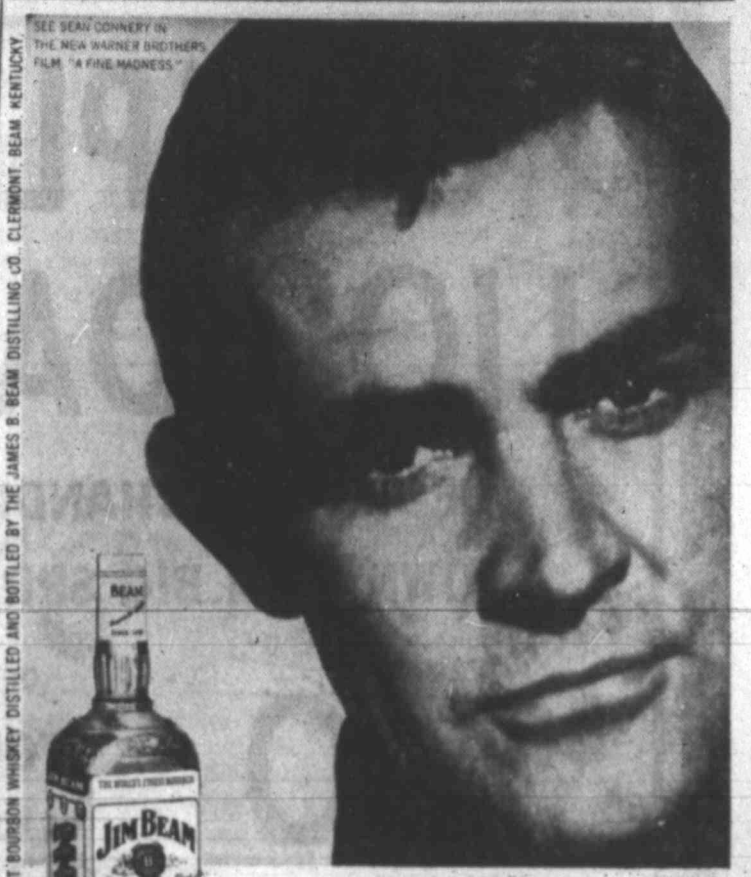

Except for a few low clouds over South Central Texas skies were mostly clear elsewhere across the state.

Weather Bureau observers expected a cool front to move into the Panhandle from the north by tonight.

Coupled with this was a forecast for scattered thunderstorms to start this evening and spread with the cooler air over the northern half of Texas by Thursday.

Southern areas of the state were promised continued warm weather and a few showers, mostly near the coast and in far Southwest Texas.

Passes Out During Hearing

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Dr. Carl Coppolino, scheduled for trial Nov. 7 in the death of his first wife, was in a guarded hospital room today after collapsing in court.

Hospital officials said Coppolino's attorney had instructed that they withhold word on his condition but added he wasn't believed to be in great danger.

The 34-year-old author-doctor was rushed to the hospital after collapsing in Circuit Court Tuesday during a preliminary hearing to determine whether he should stand trial. Gasping and clutching his chest, he was carried to an ambulance. His second wife, Mary, was at his side.

Coppolino has said he has a heart condition. He was hospitalized the night of his arrest July 23 after complaining of chest pains, and again last month for the same reason.

His seizure came about 30 minutes after Marjorie Farber, testifying for the defense, told the court she and the slightly built doctor had been "intimate" and had taken several trips together in 1963, including one to Puerto Rico.

A Devotional For The Day

Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. (II Timothy 2:15)

PRAYER: Father, we thank Thee for our Lord Jesus Christ—for what He means to our lives. Help us to seek Thee and Thy righteousness first. Grant to us a life deep in Christ. In His name we ask, and pray as He taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

(From the "Upper Room")

Patience For A Ticklish Problem

The year 1967 apparently will be one of a major effort to reconcile public safety and individual rights in the field of crime control. The biggest foreseeable problem will be coordinating the anticipated legislative recommendations, especially meshing federal and state approaches in an overlapping, if not conflicting, field.

Many believe that the United States Supreme Court has gone somewhat too far in protecting the constitutionally guaranteed individual rights of criminal suspects or accused. Perhaps it has in some aspects, but there is a distinct probability that the court itself may correct legal interpretations that prove detrimental to the public safety.

In any event, Congress will have reports from two groups. One is the special presidential commission on crime-control and law-enforcement in all phases from detection to parole. Another is the six-member commission—three House members named by the speaker, and three senators named by the Senate president—which Congress is likely to approve before sessions end. This commission would be charged with plugging loopholes in federal law allowing accused persons to escape without being brought to account.

Meanwhile, the Texas Legislature next session will consider amendments to the state's Code of Criminal Procedure—overhauled last session to conform with U.S. Supreme Court decisions—and undertake a long overdue revision of the state's penal code. (On punishment procedures). A Texas House interim committee is studying the problem; so is the State Bar, and so soon will the University of Texas Law School's Second Annual Criminal Law Institute.

The point here is that more harm than good is likely to come of politicians trying to score factional or partisan points on this issue, or for laymen to become emotional on oversimplified solutions to extraordinarily complex problems. The nation's and the state's best legal brains are at work on the difficulty of balancing public safety and individual rights, and public patience is advisable. It would be as dangerous to democratic society to swing the pendulum too far in one direction as in the other.

The Nebulous Line

The dividing line between peaceable assembly and unlawful assembly has been blurred during the civil rights disturbances of recent months. The line needs to be drawn again and scrupulously maintained.

The right to demonstrate peaceably, seeking redress of grievances, is firmly embedded in the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. It is essential to the democratic process for the people to be able to protest by assembly against laws which they feel to be unjust or oppressive, or against social or other conditions which trouble them.

The right of assembly does not carry with it the right to provoke violence, though. But here again the situation is not always clear, as some civil rights demonstrations of recent months demonstrate. A peaceable assembly, for instance, may be turned into riot by violent objects in or to that assembly. Those who have assembled peaceably can hardly be denied the right of self-defense. Without mutual tolerance clashes and violence are almost inescapable.

Recently Gov. John Connally tried to place the problem in its proper perspective. In addressing the National Baptist Convention, the largest Negro religious group in the nation meeting in Dallas, Connally said that those who preach disobedience of law "undermine the very foundation of freedom this nation stands for."

David Lawrence Moment Of Truth Arriving

WASHINGTON—President Johnson has made a start toward restraining the artificial boom of the last three years and the growing inflation which has been threatening a business depression. His hesitancy may have been due to a fear that the cure might prove worse politically than the disease itself. But now he has found himself compelled by circumstances to recommend some restrictive measures even though a very important event—the congressional election—is less than two months away.

Nobody can be sure that the palliatives suggested by the President will prove adequate or that, in the two years ahead, he will be able to further experiments to stabilize the whole situation sufficiently to win voter support for his own re-election.

But today candor requires the statement that the economic experts are far from unanimous in the belief that a depression will be prevented.

with the national economy—as a politically minded administration feels inclined to do from time to time—is risky. The mere suspension of a tax credit for plant improvement or even the creation of more funds for mortgage borrowers can hardly bring the necessary relief from the perils of inflation. For the administration is face to face with the cumulative impact of several years of government spending in excess of tax collections and a refusal to restrain a well-organized and all-powerful political minority which bludgeons the producers of goods and forces them to pay higher and higher wages.

Public confidence in the dollar is, therefore, sagging. Its purchasing power has been steadily going down. The rest of the world wonders whether devaluation of the monetary unit here may be in prospect and this always brings grave problems, as happened in the 1930's.

President Johnson naturally is expected to act as the nation's leader. It is his duty to recommend and press for the kind of action that will achieve and maintain economic stability. But he is afraid today of organized labor and tries indirect remedies, as, for instance, the suspension of a tax credit for certain corporate expenditures. He does so knowing full well that the number of jobs may be diminished somewhat by such a move and that modernization of plants to compete with foreign goods will be delayed.

Meanwhile, the government has been running in the red year after year, and the fallacy is still espoused that "deficit spending" is healthy and stimulates business.

Billy Graham

I have been quite a fan of the Beatles, but the recent report of John Lennon's statement has me disturbed. He is reported to have said, "Christianity will disappear; we will outlive it." Is this what he said, and do you think he really meant it?

—W. S.

The United Press quotation was, "Christianity will go. It will vanish and shrink . . . I'm right and I will be proved right. We're more popular than Jesus now." Then he is reported to have added, "I don't know which will go first: rock 'n' roll or Christianity."

As to whether he meant what he said, only he can answer. It is shocking that a young man from a Christian country, so highly honored, and so highly successful at so young an age, should even make such a remark. The world has given them everything that youth in the affluent society craves: money, fame, and popularity. But these things can have one of two effects upon a person: it can make them more humble, more reverent, more grateful, or it can make them proud, boastful, and irreverent. It is not so much what we have, but what we do with the things we have that counts. These young men could lead the way and set the moral tone for the youth of the world. But unfortunately, they do not seem disposed to make the right kind of capital of their great success and popularity. When people are given money and fame, in my opinion, they owe a great debt to the public which has made them. If they do not face this responsibility there will come a day when they will regret it. Perhaps it is already on the way.

TEMPORARILY Mr. Johnson has given the impression that he "is doing something about it all." But in the next two months no important change in the economic situation will be felt. After the November election, the President will have to decide whether he will ask Congress for more drastic measures—such as wage-and-price controls and a general tax increase—or whether he will gamble with the future. To do so means risking a break and a depression in the election year 1968.

The country is hearing much about the increase in interest rates and the need to "ease" the money market. But these are mere symptoms of the deeper weaknesses in a boom economy which has been adversely affected by unnecessary spending of government funds and an acquiescence in the misuse of the collective bargaining power in America. It will take more courage than has been exhibited heretofore in political Washington to mitigate the consequences of these past mistakes.

(Copyright, 1966, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate)

James Marlow Chinese Dangerously Unpredictable

WASHINGTON (AP)—It is a commonplace now that the Red Chinese are dangerously unpredictable. Among the reasons for it, and one of the best symbols of it, are the Red Guard youth brigades created by the Red leadership.

THESE BRIGADES have been turned loose by Mao Tse-tung and those close to him to frighten and club the Chinese people into a vast conformity: unquestioning acceptance of the leadership and edicts of Mao and his clique.

There's one thing wrong with the idea. It is axiomatic that power is only a temporary possession. Dissent can be hushed but not crushed, even though it lies dormant for a generation. Unless the reasons for the dissent are altered, the dissent remains.

It may be silenced through force for the lifetime of the aging Mao. He will retain the power to hush it so long as he remains No. 1 man with the support of those who share his views or who figure they can benefit by his favors.

We're not sure whether this is a proof of progress or not, but we now make roofing shingles from the same asphalt mixtures which the ancient Egyptians used to preserve mummies.

Those who try to "talk down" to the American public are making a mistake. That public, after all, includes some 16 million college graduates and half of all the people in the world who have gone through high school.

To Your Good Health He Hears Just The First Words

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: My husband and I are in our 60's. He is totally deaf in one ear but has extra good hearing in the other. Our problem is that every time I speak to him he claims he hears the first few words, but not the last few because I lower my voice on purpose, which I do NOT.

Is it possible that his hearing works this way? I've watched myself and am careful to speak as loud as I can, and still he says I do this to torment him.

—MRS. B. R.

First I doubt that the hearing in his better ear is "extra good." It must be impaired considerably. Have an ear specialist test his hearing and put an end to that argument.

I strongly doubt that his hearing "works this way." More likely it is a matter of his straining to hear what you say. With an effort, he can make out the words. But it is difficult for anyone to keep straining to hear, so he relaxes and misses the last part of what you say. Or, since many folks do some lip-reading even without consciously knowing it, that could account for his "hearing" some and not the rest. A suitable hearing aid for that "good ear" could make a world of difference for both of you. It is characteristic of people who are hard of hearing to insist that it's not their ears, but that others don't speak clearly. This is a natural reaction, I suppose, because hearing usually fails so gradually that the deaf person doesn't realize how much sensitivity he has lost, and he honestly thinks it's because everybody has stopped speaking clearly.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have to take two tablets of probenecid a day for gout. I also like to take aspirin for other aches once in a while but have been told never to combine the two drugs since aspirin will offset the benefits of probenecid. Is this true?

—P. H. A.

Yes. No harm is done except that the good effects of the probenecid are offset by aspirin or other types of salicylates. Therefore ask your doctor to suggest substitutes for aspirin.

Dr. Molner: I am allergic to the sun; nevertheless I love to get a good tan. I have a very fair complexion, but I don't burn. I break out and my skin itches and looks terrible. Can I take anything to prevent the problem? —MRS. H. H.

It's too complicated to question to be answered yes or no, but in some cases of sun sensitivity, dermatologists are having success with various medications. I suggest that you consult such a specialist and give him enough time to follow through on more than one approach to the problem if necessary.

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Bishop Williams Speaks His Piece

Bishop Lefred Williams is an unusual fellow. In addition to presiding over the affairs of the Evangelical Church of Christ, Holiness in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California, he also stumps the area periodically in behalf of a scholarship fund.

THIS TRIP, however, is being given over to a different mission, that of telling his fellow Negro citizens that responsible voices must be raised against violence and wanton demonstrations and riots.

"I'm speaking everywhere I can," he said, "and I'm going out on the street and digging up my people to tell them that this is the time for them to let it be known how thankful we are for the progress being made."

"MY HEART is filled with joy when I remember how far we have come in really such a few years. Why, last night I stayed at a good motel, and this morning I ate in one of the best restaurants, and in both instances I was received kindly, and with genuine courtesy. It wasn't so long ago that a Negro couldn't find a place to eat or sleep, no matter how weary or hungry he might be. Honest to goodness, I'm surprised—not mad—when anyone refuses me service now."

"NOW MOST of this has come about because good white people wanted it to. I know that laws may have opened some doors, but lots of times they simply helped people do what their conscience had already told them they wanted to do. Most people are fair and are concerned about other people."

But what deeply disturbs Bishop Williams is that radical voices are being heard by a segment of the Negro population. He says bluntly that most of the civil rights demonstrations are senseless, and he suspects some are prostituted by others with ulterior and sometimes subversive motives.

"I THINK the Montgomery bus demonstration was fruitful, because it focused attention on a real problem, and it was done without violence on our part. Few demonstrations since then have accomplished much, and most of them make no sense and simply stir up ill will. I was in Watts when that riot took place, and the shops and stores burned out and wrecked and looted belonged to Negroes."

The bishop is not one to say that everything is perfect, but he thinks reason and the ballot and understanding and respect are the ways to change situations. "I was in Shreveport a good while ago and went to the courthouse for a drink of water. There was a sign, 'Colored drinking fountain downstairs.' I went way down in the basement and the water was hot. I didn't get mad. I told the editor of the paper that it didn't seem fair to me that colored boys who were called to fight and die in Viet Nam couldn't find a cool drink of water. He said it wasn't right, and pretty soon we had a cool fountain upstairs."

"BUT SOME extremist nuts like that Carmichael, who came into Atlanta and defied the mayor, one of the best friends the Negroes have, and caused riots are taking advantage of the ignorance and emotions of some of our people."

"It's time that the vast body of our colored folk speak up in appreciation for progress being made. I turn on my TV and what do I see? Black and white men on the same football or baseball field, each standing on his ability and worth. And it's spreading elsewhere."

"I TELL MY young friends that more and more business men aren't asking who you are or what color you are, but 'Can you pass this exam?' The door of opportunity is opening, and I'm grateful it's opening for America. Our people ought to listen to men like Mr. (Waggoner) Carr and Gov. Connally when they call for respect of law by everyone. They'll tell the honest truth." —JOE PICKLE

Holmes Alexander The Elite Minority Gets Crowded Out

WASHINGTON — Despite all the razzmatazz that accompanied settlement of the recent airlines strike, it is probable that the worst laborers of the International Association of Machinists (IAM) did not get their fair hire.

Not only was an injustice done to the most highly skilled workmen in an industry that involves public safety, but another inflationary time bomb has been planted for detonation toward the end of September within two large airlines not previously involved — American and Pan American.

rant public notice. Collective bargaining is a much-to-ignored part of our economic system. It is not the only sector where freedom is in a squeeze and fairness is denied. Of the 35,000 IAM members involved in the recent strike, only 19,000 are "mechanical," and only 12,000 are the aristocrats of their trade. The latter are those who hold a so-called A&P (Air-craft and Powerplant) "ticket" from the Federal Aviation Agency. A man invests two or three years at skilled labor to earn the distinction. The rest of the IAM membership are fetch-and-carry personnel, but they have the numbers to vote the contracts up or down.

THE THESIS of unfairness, significantly, does not come from the labor side. IAM spokesmen tell me they take great pride in their complicated contract to catch up with Jet Age prosperity in the airlines industry. The feeling of dissatisfaction issues from aviation-oriented writers, publishers and economists. They say that the two big unions which organize airplane mechanics, the IAM and the Transport Workers' Union (TWU), have padded their membership with so many non-mechanics that the top skilled craftsmen are outtalked and outvoted. I am told by persons who are bound to know that the airlines don't object to paying commensurate wages to the super-skilled, but balk at overpaying the semi-skilled and the unskilled who do the kind of work performed in an automobile service station.

MOST of the top-rated mechanics (the A&P ticket-holders) were attracted to their work by what a labor leader describes to me as "the romance of aviation." But they've become disillusioned at working on $7 million vehicles for less money than unskilled union members get for tinkering with a $14,000 omnibus.

ENOUGH IS wrong here to war-undervalue a majority. We hear a lot about unfair employment—and denied opportunities in the lower ranks—but who speaks for the self-made aristocracy of well-earned distinction? Too often it gets mashed in the crush.

John Cunniff Claims There Is No Other Reason

NEW YORK (AP)—When an executive quits a top job in his mid-50s, his health good and his future plans definite, his action generates rumors that imply the real reason for his departure lies buried.

There's a lot of balls in the air all the time. Yes, I'm more tired now when I go home at night than I used to be. But now the control will be in me."

As president of the exchange, Funston is its voice, and though it has been a loud voice in bringing a bit of democracy into what has been called a private club, he has received criticism from many directions—fair and unfair—a natural hazard of the job.

GEORGE KEITH FUNSTON generated those rumors this week. Funston, 55 years old, 6 feet 3, and in good health despite gray hair, made plans to quit as president of the New York Stock Exchange, giving as his reason: "The demanding nature of the presidency precludes me from pursuing many other interests which I should like to enjoy more fully in the future."

Among these interests are gardening, travel, education and church work, and corporate directorships.

So, in the privacy of his big mint-green office, where the ticking of a small clock made a quiet contrast to the boisterous trading floor below, Funston was asked the real reason.

THIS HE discounted as a motivation. "I've found that those who are against you today will be with you tomorrow," he said. He restated his goal of doing now the things he always wanted to do.

Funston feels he had done a good job. Among other things he put the exchange on a sound financial footing. It had been losing money regularly. His biggest contribution, associates feel, was in broadening shareholders from 6.5 million when he took over to 21 million now.

"THE POSSIBILITY of a new contract not being extended to me was never a consideration in my plans to leave," he replied. "I knew it would be offered to me. I never was more in the saddle than now. The board was 100 per cent behind me."

Funston said he liked the job. "It's a whole of a good job," he said. "It's no burden."

And so why did he announce plans to leave the job on or before expiration of his present contract in September 1967?

"I've got so many other things to do. This is a night and day job, and I tend to get myself wrapped up in everything I do anyway. I think I deserve a rest."

Work Could Help

DALLAS (AP) — The head of the Dallas Crime Commission, John McKee, says the city should build a workshop to help rehabilitate the increasing number of juvenile lawbreakers no matter what it might cost.

He said juveniles account for nearly half the major crimes in Dallas, and that the number of repeat offenders show that "our basic system in handling the problem today is wrong."

McKee said the city and county should go in together to build the prison workshop to teach juvenile offenders a trade.

Schools May Sell $1 Million Bonds

School trustees gave the green light Tuesday evening to the sale of $1,000,000 in school bonds on or about Nov. 1. The school board stipulated in the unanimous decision that it reserves the right to change its mind about the amount of bonds to be sold 20 days prior to the sale.

Carter Johnston, fiscal agent for the district, said that he believed the bond market would be in "better shape" toward the last of October or first of November and made this recommendation to the trustees.

It took a 4-2 decision to approve the amendment of the 1966-67 budget to incorporate funds received from Title I, Public Law, 89-10, with Dr. Carl Marcum and Jerry Currie casting the dissenting votes.

Anderson reported to trustees that the district was now approved for receipts of $109,866 for the funding of the special Advancing Basic Communications program, better known as Project ABC. Under this program, special remedial reading and counseling programs are included.

Anderson said that the amount approved is based upon 85 per cent of the 1965 allocation. He said that action of Congress determining the appropriation will decide whether the district is to receive additional funds.

Dr. Marcum voiced his objections to the amendment of the budget because he felt "the government does not have this money to allot — we're allowing for something that is not here yet." Currie also was thumbs down on the amendment.

"I don't believe in government subsidizing of a program of this type," he said. SWIM PROPOSAL Trustees voted to take the matter of the use of the YMCA swimming pool for competitive swimming with Y officials.

Anderson reported that 14 boys had signed up for the class, but only four girls indicated an interest in joining. According to a previous agreement with the Y, the school district was to pay $1,000 for the first period, making a total expenditure of $1,500.

Anderson told trustees that the architects were investigating possible sites for a school administration building, to be either built or renovated. Trustees voted to increase the pay scale for substitute teachers from $12 per day to $14.

Present at the session were Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, Joe Moss, Jimmy Felts, James Cape, Dr. Carl Marcum, Grant Boardman and Jerry Currie.

City Equipment Works Overtime Following Rain

Ernest Lillard, director of public works, said Wednesday that the city is working overtime in an effort to clean and repair streets, and spray mosquitoes, after the recent rains. He said the city's two mowing machines and sweepers are working two shifts as is the sprayer. Graders and dump trucks are rolling three and four hours extra each day. The latter equipment is busy repairing chugholes gouged out by the rains. "Our operating costs have tripled," said Lillard, "while our revenue—from sales of water—have dropped."

Board Looks To Vocational Plant

Trustees of Howard County Junior College took the first step Tuesday evening toward a new vocational building. The board voted to proceed with drafting preliminary plans for the potential structure. Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president, said that the college must decide whether it wants to move in the direction of greater vocational opportunities for this area. There is a possibility of help under the college facilities act. Meanwhile, rapid progress is being made on the new science and library buildings at the college, he said. The library roof is on, masonry work complete and walls are being plastered, he reported. Second floor slab on the science building has been poured and the masonry will go on up soon. A mid-term completion date still appears probable.

Oil, Utilities Tax Rolls Gains

Oil properties, railroads, utilities and intangibles on the Howard County rolls are valued at $35,641,119 for the current tax year. This is an increase of $1,387,818 over the figures submitted for last year. Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax assessor-collector, said that Pritchard and Abbott, tax engineers employed by the county to fix tax values on oil, railroads, utilities and intangibles have submitted figures to the tax assessors office. She is now engaged in preparing the tax rolls for the county, state and junior college so taxpayers will be able to begin paying their tax bills on Oct. 1. The oil and other properties on the roll turned in Monday will produce $755,362.33 in tax revenue this coming year — assuming, of course, all taxes are paid. This will be $50,000 more than was collected from this source for 1965. Of this total, the state will receive $167,513.29 ($143,809.50); county $381,359.97 ($306,463.64); junior college, $254,489.97 ($205,459.80).

City Extends Ambulance Assistance For A Month

An ordinance assuring that the city will have emergency ambulance service at least through this month was passed Tuesday night by the city commission.

The measure makes refusal to pay an emergency ambulance fee a misdemeanor with violators subject to a fine of up to $200.

The ordinance grew out of an informal meeting recently of Mayor Arnold Marshall and members of the commission after announcement that the Big Spring Ambulance Service was to cease making emergency runs.

Under the new law, the city guarantees payment of 80 percent of all fees the ambulance service cannot collect, through the last day of September. It will apply only to cases happening inside the city.

By the end of the month, the commission said it was hoped Howard County will have worked out some basis for participation in the financial support of emergency ambulance service for the city and the county.

COUNCIL ACTIONS

In a lengthy session, the commission also:

—Approved on first reading an ordinance granting an off-premise license to Ramsey's Package Shop, 1602 Marcy E. Drive, W. E. Ramsey owner, appeared in his own behalf and no one appeared to oppose the action.

—Turned down a request for an on-premise license to sell intoxicating beverages at the Eldorado Cafe, 506 NW 3rd. Police Chief Jay Banks told the commission that the cafe operator, Mrs. Annie Mae Anderson, agreed voluntarily to surrender her state license to the Texas Liquor Control Board. Mrs. Anderson was not present at the meeting.

—Passed on first reading an ordinance re-zoning the site of the Red Barn, a cafe on Birdwell Lane, from residential to commercial. Arnold Gustafson, owner of the Red Barn and a lounge behind the cafe, said he plans to build a trailer court on part of his land but under questioning by the commission answered that he also desires a dance permit for his lounge, which would also require rezoning before it could be granted.

MORE RULINGS

—Approved on second reading the application of the Howard House Coffee Shop, 118 E. 3rd, for an on-premise license to sell beer and wine.

—Agreed that members of the commission would suggest candidates for vacancies coming up Sept. 30 on five boards: Planning and Zoning, Parks and Recreation, Adjustments and Appeals, Traffic Commission and Zoning Board of Adjustment.

—Passed an ordinance setting hours of usage for neighborhood parks at 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. The City Park is locked at midnight and it was on recommendation of Chief Banks that an earlier closing was fixed for the smaller parks.

Banks said the latter, notably on the north side, were "hangouts for juvenile gangs and some adult offenders" that these persons shot out with guns any lights in the parks, destroyed property there and scattered beer cans and bottles.

One neighborhood park—Lakewood—was excluded from the ordinance setting closing hours. It was explained that no problems exist at that park; besides it is school property and not subject to regulation by the city.

not subject to regulation by the city.

THRILL HILL

The commission also discussed but took no action on the problem of speeding on "thrill hill," a one-block section of Phillips Road between Virginia and Birdwell Lane. Commissioner Jimmy Morehead said a citizen complained to him of hot-rodging up and down the hill. At one point he suggested that the city make the street surface so rough vehicles would find it impossible to speed.

However, City Manager Larry Crow continued that accident injuries resulting from intentionally roughing the street would make the city liable to lawsuits.

A suggestion that the street be barricaded in the middle of the block was referred to City Attorney John Burgess, who said he would have to study the legality of such a move.

JUVENILE JURIES

Morehead also brought up the subject of a juvenile jury, saying he thought the commission should at least go on record as favoring the jury.

"It's been talked about for a year and it hasn't got off the ground," Morehead said.

Burgess declined to give an official opinion of juvenile juries, saying he had never seen one in operation. He advised, however, that such juries are unprecedented in the judicial system and locally would throw an undue burden on Big Spring's only corporation court judge, Bill Eysen, who serves part time.

Rains Fall On Midwest

By The Associated Press

Beneficial rains fell across dry areas of the Midwest today and spread into the East in connection with a disturbance moving up the Atlantic Coast.

Much of the Midwest has been without measurable rain for nearly a month, causing damage to crops and increasing the threat of fire danger.

Rain splashed across areas in 33 of the adjacent 48 states Tuesday. There were soaking downpours in parts of Kansas and Nebraska.

In the Southwest, nearly one inch fell at Gila Bend, Ariz., compared to the normal September rainfall of .54. Nearly two inches doused Phoenix, Ariz. Its normal for September is .73.

Rain also hit areas in the East Central states, with fairly heavy amounts in parts of the Carolinas and Virginia.

Torrential rains drenched Pomery, in southwestern Washington, and a flash flood swept tons of silt into town. Firemen evacuated a trailer camp next to Pataha Creek. Mud slides blocked U.S. 410 to the east and west.

Cool air spread into the North Central states. Temperatures dropped to the 30s in parts of North Dakota and Minnesota.

Mitchell Farmers Engage Bus For Center Field Day

COLORADO CITY — Mitchell County farmers and agribusinessmen will have an opportunity to sharpen management skills and learn about expected advances in agricultural technology at the South Plains Research and Extension Center field day set for Thursday, Sept. 20, according to County Agent Bobby Lemons.

A chartered bus will leave the Mitchell County courthouse at 9 a.m. Sept. 20. Farmers interested in going should call the County Extension Office RA 8-3111 and make a reservation. The group will tour the Experiment Research and Extension Center from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and return to Colorado City by 6:30 p.m.

Much of the material to be discussed during the field day can be used by local farmers in making immediate management decisions, Lemons said.

Scientists plan to give special emphasis to results they have obtained with herbicides in cotton, grain sorghum and soybeans. Some of the topics to be covered include application methods, rates, and incorporation, according to the agent.

The precision on-the-bed planter, which was developed at the center is on display, Lemons, who will serve as one of the tour guides said local farmers may be particularly interested in some of the water conservation trials.

Scientists there are testing an array of different planting patterns, land forming systems and irrigation schemes. They have come up with some well-founded data on methods of stretching limited irrigation water, he said. Research projects, machinery, and soybeans, castors, vegetables, underground irrigation, narrow-row cotton, and fertilization projects also will be viewed.

School System May Get Sites

WASHINGTON (AP)—School districts in the areas of Atlas missile silo sites in Oklahoma and Texas will be allowed to apply for the 24 locations through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

General Services Administration made the announcement Tuesday through a spokesman who said it was rejecting all bids it had received.

The bids, for purchase of about two acres of each of 11 sites in Oklahoma and 13 in Texas, were received Sept. 7.

Under the plan to take requests from school districts, the entire acreage of each site may be made available, the spokesman said. The sites usually contain about 11 acres.

After contents of the silos are salvaged for the Defense Supply Agency, the GSA spokesman said the deep holes would be sealed.

Cubs, Scouts Open Their Fall Roundup Of Members

It's fall roundup time for some 61 Boy Scout troops, units and posts in the Lone Star District.

The annual fall campaign to encourage more youngsters to participate in scouting officially kicked off Sept. 1, according to William McRee, district scout executive. A Cub Scout sign-up rally night will be held at all elementary schools Tuesday, Sept. 20, for boys and their parents. Organizers and den leaders will be present to enroll and assign Cubs to a den. Bill Crooker, organizational extension chairman, can be contacted for the starting time of the session and more information, McRee said.

All boys who bring a friend will receive a necktie, McRee said, and those boys who bring two or more friends will be presented a roundup patch for their uniforms.

"The fall campaign ends Dec. 15," McRee said, "and we are hoping to sign up 1,555 boys in our programs for this year, 100 more boys than we had enrolled at the end of the 1965 session."

"Approximately 1,300 boys are involved in the program now." Another highlight of the campaign will be Uniform Day on Friday, Sept. 23, when all Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts are asked to wear their uniforms to school on that day and to participate in any patriotic program provided by the schools.

Teenagers Lack Communication

BEAUMONT (AP)—Lack of communication between teenagers and parents is the chief cause of runaway youths, says the head of the Beaumont Police Department juvenile division.

"When children learn that they'll be bawled out when they take problems to their parents they'll soon stop taking them," says Lt. W. A. Robbins. "They're not always wrong. Sometimes they know they are wrong and just want their parents to help them out of difficult situations."

"Lots of these kids turn for help to other youngsters who may be in even worse positions to deal with the problems."

YOUR Horoscope Forecast for Tomorrow

By Carroll Righter

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You certainly are likely to have poor judgment today and tonight so don't try to cooperate so hard and get along with those who seem to be hesitant in coordinating their efforts with yours, since they can be more aware than you of the intricate negotiations involved in personal or world affairs in order to reach right conclusions.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Although you may understand both your position and that of partners, it is best you wait until tomorrow before making decisions. Stop being so controversial with others. Affability gets better results.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Take a little inventory of what you possess and see where you have to make improvements, additions, etc. Get rid of whatever is obsolete, form. Coworkers can be very cooperative in this.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) This is a good day to plan with good friends who should be done in the way of entertainment in the near future. Do some work on that special hobby that you have. Don't neglect important work, paying bills, etc.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You need much valuable information to carry through successfully in business or personal matters, so keep busy and occupied. Clear up that much-annoying mystery that has somewhat dangerous ramifications. Move faith.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be loyal to that good pal who is getting rather fed up with the castle by which you are a fair and understanding person. Avoid social affairs that could prove to be very disappointing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Doing something that will impress upon others that you are an A-1 citizen can be very helpful in the future. Be sure to meet all obligations. Be very careful to get that important bill paid, or you get in Dutch.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are unable to go on with that plan for advancement if you do not make better plans, use water, more efficient system. Get improved mechanisms, expand thoughts. Clear up some affair that has been bothering you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Think over how you can rid yourself of some foolish entanglement that is a thorn on the side of your loved one. Vision and thoughtfulness can make the future much brighter. Eliminate possibility of future problems, or she will have such a remarkable charm all his, or her, own that could bring riches to your progeny but there is very little desire to use the fine smile that makes the personality pure magic. Spiritual training is necessary early to bring out the very sweet disposition in this unusually fine nature.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Before you can advance as you desire, it is necessary that you do that work that requires almost an artistic precision. You are feeling very dynamic and can go after your desires with success. Be diplomatic, tho.

Steers Face Avenging Plainview 11 Friday

The Plainview Bulldogs are a hard-hitting, ambitious football club, specializing in sprint-out passes and wide plays, who are apt to bare their fangs when they come face to face with Big Spring Steers Friday night.

Big Help In Game

Coach Oscar Becker of Forsan High School is shown here with Tommy Girder, one of the two boys he singled out for distinctive play in the Bulldogs' winning effort against Sterling City last week.

Punt, Pass, Kick Contest Is Scheduled Here Oct. 8

Big Spring area boys from eight through 13 can put their football skills against thousands of other boys throughout the nation in the fifth annual Punt, Pass & Kick competition which will culminate with a trip to Washington, D. C., and an appearance at the annual National Football League Play-Off game for the top 12 winners.

Local boys will be tested for their ability to punt, pass and place-kick a football for distance and accuracy. First-, second- and third-place winners will receive Medal of Achievement awards on velvet ribbons.

Zone winners will meet in 37 Ford District competitions at which 228 district champions will win trophies. The 228 runners-up will receive certificate awards. All 228 district champions will compete for area championships to be held in 15 NFL-city areas.

The 42 NFL-area champions will compete in Baltimore, Md., Saturday, Dec. 10, to determine the six western division champions (one for each age group). The 48 eastern NFL-area champions will compete in Dallas Sunday, Dec. 11, to decide the six eastern division champions (one for each age group).

The six eastern NFL division champions, and the six western division champions, accompanied by their mothers and fathers, will then travel to the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla., site of the annual NFL Play-Off game, for half-time competition to determine the six-National PPK&K champions.

Kaat Denied 24th Victory By Bengals

By The Associated Press
Jim Kaat, who leads the majors in home runs given up by a 23-game winner, has finally had cause to regret it.

Of course, there's only one other pitcher with 23 victories around — fellow name of Koufax — and Kaat, who had won eight games in a row despite opposition homers, was done in by a couple Tuesday and missed a golden opportunity to pass Sandy in most victories.

A three-run homer by Willie Horton and a solo by Bill Freehan gave Detroit just enough runs to post a 6-5 triumph over Minnesota and deny Kaat his 24th victory and ninth in a row.

In his last four outings, the Minnesota southpaw has surrendered six homers, but not till Tuesday did it seem to matter. The Twins always came back with at least enough runs to win, and often a lot more than enough.

They almost did it again Tuesday, too. Minnesota got three unearned runs in the second, and after Detroit had taken a 6-3 lead, Zolo Versalles hit a home run to bring Minnesota within a run.

In all, Kaat has given up 22 home runs this season, as against 17 allowed by Koufax. Jim was nicked for a first-inning run by the Tigers and then retired 16 men in a row before Jake Wood singled in the sixth inning. Al Kaline then walked and Horton hit his 25th homer. Freehan hit his following inning.

In other American League contests, Boston beat Chicago 10-1, Washington edged New York 3-2 and Kansas City outlasted Cleveland 3-1 in 15 innings. Baltimore and California were rained out.

The Detroit victory put the Tigers back in second place, 9 1/2 games behind the Orioles, and dropped the Twins to third, 10 games out.

George Scott was the hero of the Boston rout, driving in four runs with a single and a double. Jim Lonborg gave up just six hits, including two doubles and a single.

Bob Saverine hit a two-run homer, boosting the Senators past the Yanks as Phil Ortega, 11-12, went the distance. Bobby Murcer drove in a run for the Yankees with a triple and scored on a single by Joe Pepitone.

Kansas City and Cleveland were threatening to play just about forever until Roger Repoz' two-run homer in the 15th sent everybody home. Fred Whitfield's 27th homer had tied the game for Cleveland in the eighth.

Lou Johnson Is Big Help In Dodger Win

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
It could be the World Series for the Los Angeles Dodgers and City Hall for Lou Johnson all over again this year.

The two seem to go together, and the Dodgers couldn't be more pleased. They maintained their 1 1/2 game lead in the torrid National League pennant race Tuesday night by crushing the New York Mets 8-3 behind Johnson's slugging.

The left fielder clouted two homers and drove in four runs, surpassing last year's marks that helped direct him to City Hall in Los Angeles where he received a special citation for his unexpected part in the Dodgers' successful fight for the pennant.

Johnson was called up to the Dodgers, his 18th team in professional baseball, in an emergency last season to fill the left field spot suddenly left vacant when Tommy Davis broke his right ankle May 1.

The Dodgers didn't really expect much from Johnson, but he did more than most of their hitters in driving them to the Series.

He batted only 259, but many of his hits were clutch hits and he drove in 58 runs and tied Jim Lefebvre for the team lead in homers with 12.

"If it hadn't been for the job Johnson did, we might not be here today," Sandy Koufax said after Los Angeles won the pennant.

But this year Johnson is doing even better. His performance against the Mets raised his average to .269 and vaulted him ahead of his 1965 slugging totals. He now has socked 13 homers and driven in 61 runs.

He is second in both departments only to Lefebvre, who has belted 23 homers and knocked in 72 runs.

Los Angeles' two competitors also won Tuesday night, Pittsburgh remaining 1 1/2 games back by walloping Houston 9-3 and San Francisco staying 1/2 out with a 7-2 triumph over Philadelphia. In other games, St. Louis edged Cincinnati 3-2 and Atlanta trounced Chicago 10-2.

Johnson's first homer, in the fourth inning, tied the Mets 2-2, and his second, a three-run blast, climaxed a five-run eruption in the fifth. Lefebvre's two-run single snapped the tie earlier in the inning. Claude Osteen, with relief help from Bob Miller, gained his 16th victory against 11 defeats.

The Pirates unloaded a 16-hit attack on Houston, with Willie Stargell driving in four runs with a sacrifice fly and his 30th homer. Gene Alley stroked four hits and Matty Alou three while Roberto Clemente drove in two runs with a single and a double.

San Francisco's Juan Marichal scattered seven hits for his 22nd victory against six defeats. Tito Fuentes lashed a key two-run double in the sixth inning, and Willie McCovey socked his 29th homer, a two-run shot, in the eighth.

Curt Flood's two-run, eighth-inning double boosted St. Louis past Cincinnati. The blow wiped out a 2-1 lead Cincinnati had taken on Deron Johnson's run-scoring double in the fourth and his homer in the seventh.

Hank Aaron drove in three runs with his 38th and 39th homers, leading an Atlanta attack against Chicago that also included homers by Rico Carty and Felipe Alou.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:
STAN WRIGHT, track coach at Texas State University, scoffing at suggestions that Mexico City's elevation would affect Olympic track performances:
"The first year I took a squad down there all they talked about was their difficult breathing. We did poorly, and the next year I told 'em I'd throw 'em off the plane if they mentioned altitude. We broke five national records. The next year we were over our fears and broke 15 national records, proving again that it's not the altitude but the attitude."

NORM CASH, Detroit Tiger first baseman, from Texas:
"If I had it all to do over again, I might go football because of the bonuses. But I just think you have a longer career in baseball. I love the game. I don't think I'd trade."

WILLIE DAVIS, defensive end for the Green Bay Packers, discussing Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears:
"Everytime he gets the ball he puts pressure on every defensive man on the field. Most backs start one way and keep going that way. With Sayers you have to keep worrying that he's going to pop back into your zone. You also have to keep helping each other to get him because you know, too, that if he can ever get going he's practically impossible to tackle in a one-on-one situation."

JIM SHOFNER, former Cleveland Brown:
"Safety Frank Horak of TCU is an excellent pro prospect. Any All-America team he's chosen on, he belongs on, in my estimation."

ABE MARTIN, TCU mentor:
"As I see our football team, we have more experience and speed than in several years. We're closer to our competition than we have been in five or six years. We're pretty well fortified in the backfield, we've got some experience on defense. We've just got more ability this year. I'm real excited about this team. I don't know whether we have any great ones yet. But we have potential."

JIM MACKENZIE, Oklahoma University football coach, after a recent Sooner workout:
"We don't even know how to line up. I think this defensive practice was the worst I have ever been associated with. I don't think we had anybody who knew what they were trying to do or wanted to do it if they did know."

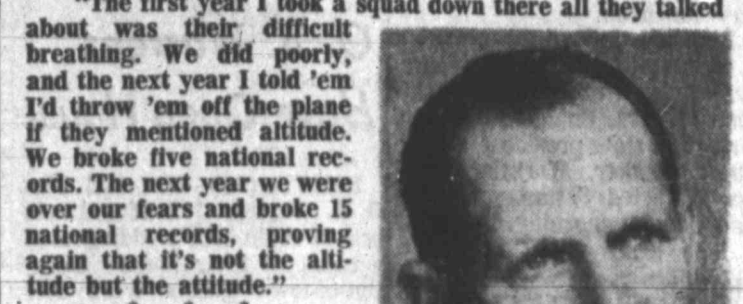

LUM HARRIS, former Houston Astros' manager:
"This Baltimore club is a real good team, but I don't see any DMaggio, the greatest in my book, or Keller or Dickey or Gordon or Rizzuto like they had when I was pitching, or the Mantles, Berras, Mizes and McDougalds they had when I was coaching. Nope, no second base combinations like Rizzuto and Gordon, then Rizzuto and McDougald, then McDougald and Coleman or Kubek and Richardson. I don't mean to downgrade this Baltimore team, but those Yankee clubs caused me too much pain to forget them. Brooks Robinson is a candidate for best player in the game today. He's right there with Mays, Aaron, Torre and the like."

ED PRELL, Chicago scribe, after a recent trip with the Chicago Cubs to Houston:
"Leo Durocher hasn't shown the degree of respect a man of Judge Roy Hofheinz' standing expects."

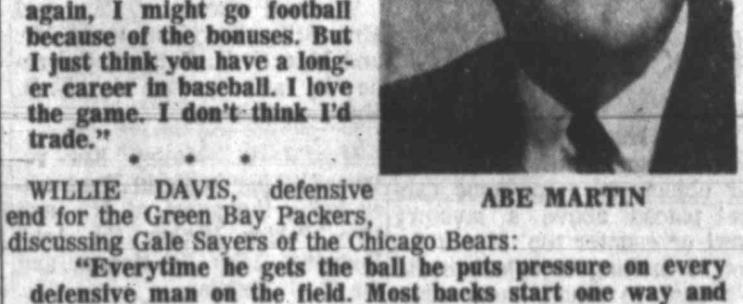

DAVE BRISTOL, after having been named to replace Gerry Priddy as manager of the Cincinnati Reds:
"I would have preferred to be named manager of the Reds instead of interim manager, but I don't know but one manager in the major leagues who isn't an interim manager—Smoky Alton."

Trojans Look Like Winners Over Steers

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The June bugs still are buzzing around the garden, but here it is the start of the football season.

Here are this week's winners: Louisiana State over South Carolina: When this one was scheduled, it was just an ordinary game but now that Paul Dietzel, onetime LSU coach is boss of the Carolinians, it has taken on the hue of a grudge match.

Southern California over Texas: Trojans patched all their holes with junior college transfers, some of whom are potential super stars. Texas defense built around Diron Talbert.

Michigan State over North Carolina State: Two-thirds of the Spartans' Rose Bowl squad returns, including Bob Apisa, the Hawaiian Hummer.

Nebraska over Texas Christian: Once again, Nebraska has everything. Tackle Bob Pickens is a svelte 274-pounder.

UCLA over Pittsburgh: The Panthers from the East have neither teeth nor claws while the Bruins have Gary Beban, who rewrote the book last year as a sophomore quarterback.

Arkansas over Oklahoma State: Oklahoma State will be strong on defense while the Forkers are strong on offense.

Purdue over Ohio University: Bob Griese still directs the Boll-weaver attack.

Georgia over Mississippi State: The Georgians missed the Southeastern Conference title by two plays last year. This year they will be even better.

Illinois over Southern Methodist: The Illini are rated one of the best in the Big Ten. Jerry Levas, a flanker for the Mustangs, rated one of the country's best sophomores.

Navy over Boston College: Both teams have giant lines, but Navy also has solved its quarterback problems in the person of John Cartwright.

Missouri over Minnesota: Graduation losses were less at Missouri.

Washington State over California: A squeaker.

Roland Honored As NFL's Best

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Roland wasn't even a starter last Sunday when the St. Louis Cardinals played the Philadelphia Eagles. He didn't play in the first half, except to run back a punt for 11 yards.

But when Charley Winner, new Cardinal coach, cut him loose in the second half, he helped St. Louis turn a 10-3 deficit into a 16-13 victory. Johnny will start from now on.

Because of his inspired performance under pressure, The Associated Press has selected the Missouri rookie halfback as the Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

Roland ran for first downs three times after he entered the game. He rushed eight times for 53 yards, caught two passes for 40 yards, returned two kickoffs for 50 yards and brought back two punts for 16 yards. For his first day on the job—even if it was a half day—he contributed 159 yards to total offense.

"I thought about starting Roland earlier in the week," Winner said. "But I decided to go with experience. I went to him in the second half because he's an opportunist. He reminds me of Paul Hornung in that he makes the most of what he has."

Roland, who played defense last year at Missouri to plug a need, has become a prime favorite with Card fans. He grabbed a deflected pass for a 37-yard gainer on a third-and-33 situation. The catch, after Joe Scarpatti of Philadelphia and Sonny Randle of the Cards collided and both touched the ball, set up the go-ahead TD for a 13-10 lead, in the final period.

Jim Bakken's 27-yard field goal finally won the game in the last five seconds.

Tech Boasts Big Edge In Series

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech brings a 12-3 edge over Big Eight teams into its game with University of Kansas at Lawrence Saturday afternoon.

Newest member of the Southwest Conference, Tech stands 8-53 with Oklahoma State (counting games when the Cowboys were in the Missouri Valley), 2-0 with Kansas State, 1-0 with Colorado, and 1-0 with Kansas.

Although Texas Tech has never played in Kansas before, its teams have played a total of five games with Kansas college teams. This rivalry began in 1933, when the Matadors, as Tech teams were named, upset A. N. (Bo) McMillin's Big Eight runners-up, 6-0. In 1935 and 1936, Wichita University eleven came to Lubbock losing 13-7 and winning 6-0.

Texas Tech downed Kansas State 51-13 in 1963 and took a 26-7 decision over University of Kansas last year.

Winn, Denton Singled Out For Praise At Coahoma

COAHOMA — Tackle Robert Winn and back Terry Denton have been named Bulldogs of the Week for their play in last Saturday night's game with Colorado City, head coach Bernie Hagins has announced.

Winn plays tackle on offense and guard on defense and his consistency and hustle did much to keep the game as close as it was.

Denton, a back on offense and guard on defense, refused to yield ground on his side on defense and time and again "stung" Colorado City backs with his spirited play.

FRANKS' PACT IS RENEWED
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Herman Franks has signed a third one-year contract to manage the San Francisco Giants fighting now for the National League pennant.
"We all think he has done a splendid job," announced club owner Horace Stoneham Tuesday. "There was no question he would be rehired."
Terms were not announced. But it was believed Franks, 51, will get $50,000 for leading the club in 1967.
He doesn't need the money. He doesn't even need the job. A number of shrewd investments in land, supermarkets and a mobile home business have left him independently wealthy. But, as he has explained, he likes the challenge. His playing career lasted 19 years.
Stoneham also announced that Franks will retain all his present coaches next year—Charlie Fox, Cookie Lavagetto and Larry Jansen. Pitching coach Jansen currently is recovering from a recent heart attack.
Franks is somewhat of a switch as a manager. He asks for one-year pacts only while most managers would prefer the security of a multi-year agreement.

The plane they finally got on landed at Kennedy Airport and they didn't make it to McGuire in time for the flight they had planned on. But they caught one later that took them to Nuremberg and we hope a happy tour of duty.

BSP Unit Gets Policy

The purchase of an insurance policy was discussed Monday at the meeting of Beta Sigma Phi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi which was held in the home of Mrs. Ronnie McCuiston, 2108 Cecilia, with Mrs. Jack Blizard as cohostess. The policy will offer protection to members and guests during any meeting or activity of the chapter.

Mrs. Henry McMillan reported that the chapter is now rated as a three-star chapter and has 310 points to its credit. The first activity for the rush season will be a "Backwards" party Sept. 19 in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Company when 10 buses will be entertained.

Mrs. James Parks, service chairman, suggested that the chapter help with games and send birthday cards or gifts to patients at the Bennett House.

The program, "Introductions and Invitations," was given by Mrs. Parks and Mrs. Bob Turner, after which refreshments were served from a table covered with a beige lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of purple chrysanthemums.

The next meeting will be Sept. 26 with Mrs. Ronald Clanton and Mrs. Billy McDonald as hostesses.

Miss Edith Gay will be the overall chairman. Other committee leaders are Mrs. A. D. Franklin and Miss Ruth Dyer, registration; Mrs. Nell Frazier and Mrs. Garland Morrison, hospitality; Mrs. Willard Sullivan, Saturday evening banquet; and Mrs. J. O. Hagood, Sunday luncheon.

Registration will begin at 4 p.m. Saturday for the representatives of the 12 clubs in this district. Mrs. Bonnie Merriman, Amarillo, state president, will be guest speaker. Workshops will be conducted Saturday evening and Sunday morning.

Use Care To Protect Fixtures

Don't keep heavy cosmetic jars, cologne bottles and similar objects in a medicine cabinet placed above a lavatory bowl or counter top. If you do, you're inviting trouble because it's easy to topple them when you're reaching for something else.

Although modern manufacturing methods have made it easy to mar fixtures, there's a limit to what they can take, so protect them from accidents.

Nurses Named To Delegation

Delegates to attend a Sept. 20 nurse's hearing in Amarillo were selected during the Tuesday evening meeting of the Texas Nurses Association at the Big Spring State Hospital library. Mrs. Charles Condray presided.

To attend the Texas Senate Committee hearing on mandatory licenses are Miss Bessie Love and Miss Fannie Clark.

Miss Shirley Barrack reported on the June convention in San Francisco, Calif. She described the discussions on the economic standards for nurses and the workshops on nursing care.

Guests welcomed were Miss Audrey Ellmore, Mrs. A. L. Tamplin and Mrs. Carl Haley. Refreshments were served to

"Principles of the P-TA" was the program topic during the Monday board meeting of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant.

Mrs. John F. Weinzierl, Riverside, state vice president, was guest speaker. Mrs. Alvie L. Cole, Sterling City, district president, conducted the business session. Two officer vacancies were filled by Mrs. Ben Ondrusek, Sweetwater, vice president for Coke, Nolan, Mitchell and Runnels counties; and Mrs. Marion Byler, Sweetwater, cultural arts chairman.

Mrs. Cole introduced Wendell E. Huddleston, workshop chairman, who presented a program outline for the Forsan workshop on Oct. 20.

A school of instruction was given by Mrs. Weinzierl, and guests were from Forsan, Sterling City, Lamesa, Lenora and Mayneal.

Long Gowns Take Style

The younger they are, the more they like to wear "granny gowns."

Quaint-looking granny gowns, the fashion fad in the six-to-sixteen age group, are quite a change from brief above-the-knee dresses favored by the young set.

The garments are ankle-length cotton shifts, with high Empire waists and old-fashioned trimmings of ruffles, ribbons, and lace.

Teenage surfers on the West Coast started the "granny" fad, wearing the demure cover-up shifts over bikinis after surfing. Now granny gowns are being worn by young girls across the country for lounge wear and party dresses.

Favorite fabrics are the soft feminine cottons, like dotted swiss, dimity, and tiny floral prints.

Boots To Last Through Winter

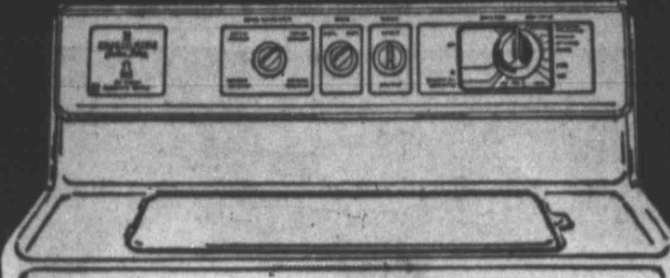

Boots will still be kicking around in feminine footwear for fall and winter 1966. The National Shoe Retailers Association says the trend will be to boots closer to the leg and lower heights.

But for the kookie look, there will be some covering the knee, some with cut-outs. For town and tailored clothes, watch for the bootie-shoe, heeled and closed at the ankle.

Light Reflected By New Shades

A shimmering new shade cloth with blackout talents is now available to add a note of subtle sophistication to your windows. In white, pink, beige or blue, it makes its debut in an unusual texture that reflects light in twinkling, iridescent striations. The total effect is one of rich, self-patterned elegance that will add luster to any room in your home.

DEAR ABBY

Tastes Are Different

DEAR ABBY: I am a plain ordinary guy. I like golf and poker with the boys once in a while, read mystery stories, and my favorite TV shows are the shoot 'em-up westerns. I tell you this just to give you an idea of what kind of person I am. My wife likes the social scene. She doesn't know any more about high class music than I do, but she gets tickets for operas, concerts, and the symphony, and I have to take her so she can show off her clothes.

Last night we went to a concert, and I fell asleep during the second half. I snored once, and she kicked me awake. I heard about it all last night and this morning. I told her to take someone who enjoys that stuff and let me stay home. She says a woman should be escorted by her husband. How can I get her to let me skip it? PLAIN GUY

DEAR PLAIN: Sorry, no help from here. You can't reason with a woman who thinks Chopin is Chinese food but goes to the concert to show off her clothes. Your crime was snoring, not snoozing. So go and stay awake or put a silencer on the snoozer.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 18, was graduated from high school with honors, and is a clean, pretty, church-going girl. She just got a good job with a large company which employs a lot of young people. The company had an outing and she wanted to go, but her father said no.

My husband is very strict, and he doesn't allow her to date. He thinks boys are all out for the worst. Maybe his mind is a little twisted, but Abby, I can not give our daughter permission to go out when her father says no.

I don't want to fight with him as he has a terrible temper. I trust my daughter and feel sorry for her. How can I make my husband understand that he is wrong?

TROUBLED MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Your husband is more than "wrong"—he is sick! Ask your doctor or clergyman to speak to him because if he doesn't change his ways and take on a healthier attitude where his daughter is concerned, she will move out of the house. And I wouldn't blame her.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Here's Strange Way To Remove Stains

Dear Heloise:

Over a cup of coffee, I'd like to pass on a trick I've learned. Did you know that unseasoned meat tenderizer will remove old, set stains from baby clothes?

I made a paste of the tenderizer and water, rubbed it into the spots on the shirts, and let it set. Then I scrubbed the spots with an old toothbrush.

The slight stain that remained came out easily when the shirts were washed with my regular laundry detergent which contains bleach. . . C.M.B.

I think that you are a great one to figure out about the stains on little baby shirts. I sent this hint to our chemist and he says that you are right.

The meat tenderizer DOES break up food particles! He also said that it will remove vomit stains when practically nothing else will.

He did suggest that you rinse the garment in vinegar water after using the meat tenderizer as it acts as a souring agent after the food particles are broken up.

And thanks oodles for this dilly. . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away those little plastic tubs that some margarines come in.

They are great as cereal bowls, specially if you have a lot of little ones.

If they are dropped they will not break.

They are also very good for hot soups, and don't get soft like some plastic bowls. . . Mrs. Bone

Dear Heloise:

Please tell me how to remove car bumper stickers.

Judging from the looks of many automobile bumpers, including mine, I think car owners would appreciate a hint on this subject.

Even the car wash people seem unable to get that gum off. . . Anne D. Krickel

This problem really is a "sticky one"! And I am one of the many people who would appreciate a solution. If you have had any luck in removing those on-to-stay stickers, won't you share the answer with us?

Just write to me in care of this paper. . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

We suggest to our customers that they paint the risers of their basement stairs a bright yellow so they can be seen easily.

It will prevent many stubbed toes and falls. . . Ray Phillips

Dear Heloise:

My baby wears ribbons in her hair all the time.

I haven't the time to iron them, or a place to keep them smooth. So I wash them out in the basin and smooth them out (shiny side down) on the mirror in her room.

They dry there nice and smooth, and stay on the mirror until peeled off.

Now when I go to the closet to get her a dress, the matching ribbons are right there on the full-length mirror on the closet door.

Try it. . . Mrs. Dean Roberts

Dear Heloise:

I thought the girls might want to know my way of washing small items like white shoe laces, nylon watch bands and powder puffs.

Be sure that the powder puff is stitched and not losing its filling, and then pin these small things to some large items such as a towel. . . and put them in the washer with your regular load.

Saves a lot of time and really gets them nice and clean.

I leave my small items pinned to the towel till they are dry. . . Edith South made effective use of the "psychology of fear" to enlist his opponent's cooperation in salvaging his four spade contract.

West opened the ten of hearts and South won the trick with the queen and ace of spades, and then the five of diamonds was led from dummy. East put up the ace and continued with the king of hearts. South played the ace and led the queen of diamonds thru West for a ruffing finesse. West covered with the king and dummy trumped with the eight of spades. The ten of spades was overtaken by the jack, so that declarer might discard North's remaining heart on the jack of diamonds.

South ruffed out the three of hearts and obligingly conceded two club tricks to the opposition, inasmuch as his only other loser on the deal was the ace of diamonds.

East had nothing to gain by putting up the ace of diamonds when dummy's singleton was led. His fear that declarer might have the king was not well founded for, if South did hold that card, then he could subsequently use it for the discard of North's losing heart. In other words, playing the ace of diamonds can, at best, only trade trick for trick.

If East ducks the diamond, South's jack will lose to West's king. A club shift thru North's king at this point develops two tricks for the defense to complete their book. East can then drive out the ace of hearts and sit back patiently waiting to score the setting trick in that suit.

U.N.C.L.E.'s Girl Not Too Smart

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC apparently is operating on the theory that if one show about the men from "U.N.C.L.E." is good for one's Nielsen rating, two will be even better, particularly if the second isn't a man from U.N.C.L.E. but a pretty girl.

As of Tuesday night, we now have TV's first sibling program, "The Girl from U.N.C.L.E.," with Miss Stephanie Powers as an awfully brave kid who gets into horrendous situations from which she is rescued by a resourceful male from U.N.C.L.E.

Miss Powers plays April Dancer, which sounds more like the name of a stripper than of an intrepid agent. She is backstopped by Noel Harrison, Rex's son, who walks into THRUSH traps with the jaunty sangfroid — as well as the hairdo — we have come to associate with David McCallum of the brother show.

If the truth must be told, the girl from U.N.C.L.E. didn't act like a very smart agent. She was assigned to deliver a dog and his vital fleas to a Greek health officer and in the process not only repeatedly lost the dog but got herself and her colleague into mess after mess.

About the best that can be said is that if you enjoy the adventures of the U.N.C.L.E. men, you'll probably find the sister show amusing, too.

"Occasional Wife," a half-hour comedy that followed on the network, was one of those thoroughly artificial situations that undoubtedly will produce some 26 or 30 more predictable situations. It is the tale of an ambitious young executive in a company that advances only its married men. So our bachelor hero makes a deal with a young art student to pose as his wife when business requires it.

In the show's favor are a pair of very attractive young performers. Michael Callan who plays the bachelor, looks like a young Craig Stevens and manages to extract more humor out of the script than it deserves. Patricia Harty as the pseudo wife is cute looking and a good comedienne. But the whole presentation is on the coy side and every comedy punch was telegraphed far in advance.

'I Will Prepare Myself ...'

They tell of the old lamp-lighter who lived in a small village. It was his daily duty to care for and light the lamps on the streets. He came downtown each evening, just before dusk, with his small ladder and his kit of tools and supplies. He always started with the first lamp, down in the lower end of town. He walked up to the lamp-post, positioned his ladder with oil and trimmed the wick. He cleaned the glass windows and then lighted the lamp. Down the ladder and on to the next lamp he would go. And so was his daily routine, lighting one lamp and then the next. One lamp at a time, he kept working up the hill, around the bend and out of sight. And the villagers said they could always tell where he had been by the lamps he had lighted. There is a thought in this story for us. Man cannot be at his best until he has learned to appreciate the thoughts, the feelings and the reactions of other people. Only after we have acquired the ability to walk, mentally, in the other person's shoes can we win his good will, his support and his esteem. Once we have learned to see things, honestly, from the other person's point of view, then we can expect his cooperation.

Each of us has the opportunity every day to light a lamp of kindness for someone. Or, if we choose, we can blow out a light and cause a bit of darkness to take its place.

If we really want to, we can develop the skills that enable us to get along graciously with others.

History reveals that even Benjamin Franklin was quite arrogant and thoughtless of other people when he was a young man. But, through determined effort, he eventually developed a keen appreciation for the feelings of those with whom he came in contact. And, because he did, he became a great diplomat who was admired and respected by thousands. We can prepare ourselves for a richer life if we will follow his examples.

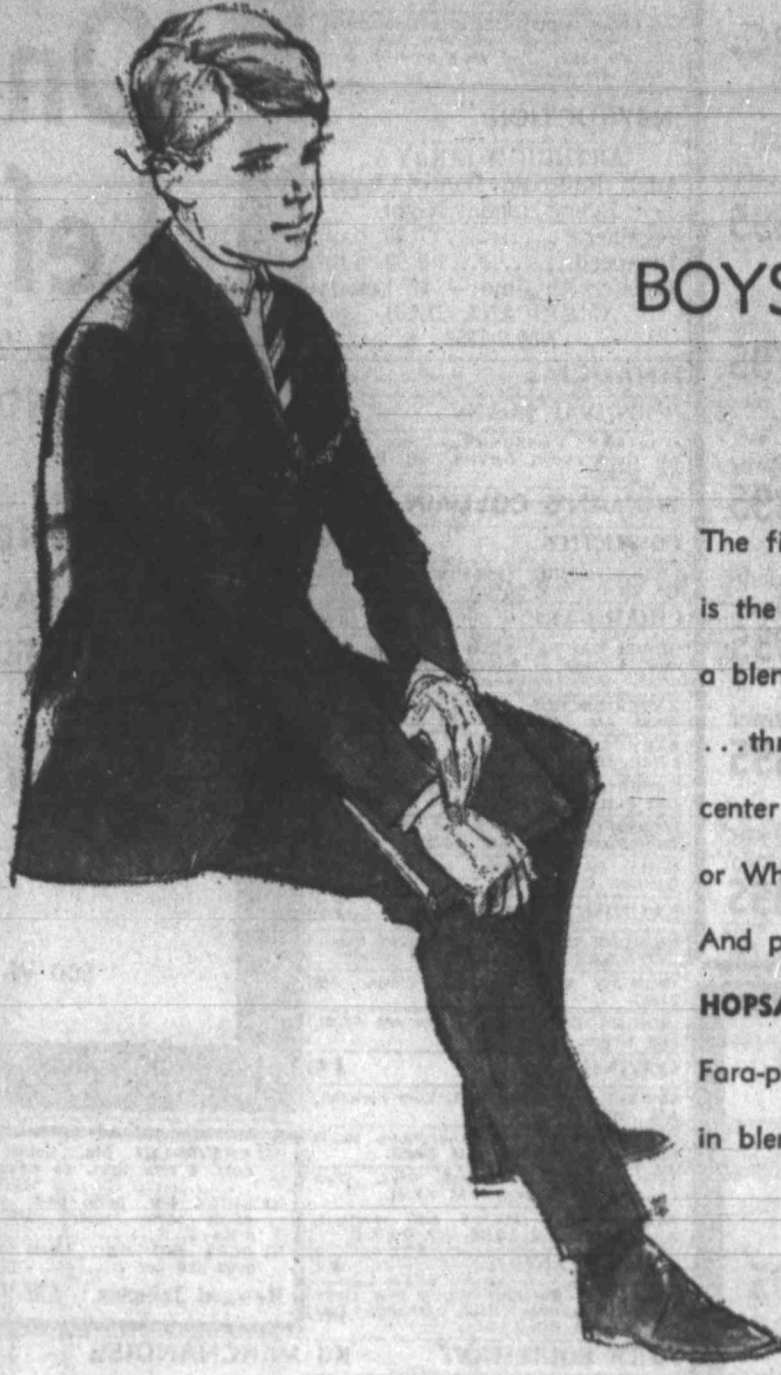

Surely each of us want to live our lives so that people will say of us, too, we can always tell where he has been by the lamps he has lighted in the hearts and lives of other people.

Knott Community To Brighten Mail Boxes

Knott—The rural mail boxes on the route out of Knott post office are to be given a face lifting starting on Thursday.

Mrs. Robert Beall said that 25 members of the Knott Community Improvement League will meet at the Community Center Thursday at 9 a.m. They will be provided with paint, brushes and repair material. The group will set out to repaint and repair all mail boxes in the area. The workers will begin their efforts on the boxes between Knott and US 87.

Work will soon start on reroofing the Community Center building. Material has been ordered. Announcement has been made by the center that the Knott blood bank, another feature of the improvement program, is now in the hands of Cecil and Ruby Allred. They will have the list of types of prospective blood donors and be able to contact those needed without loss of boxes as one step in the list of things set up to make the neighborhood more attractive.
