Auto Prices Soar Higher

DETROIT (AP) — Car buyers will dig deeper into their pocketbooks when they buy a 1967 model. Ford Motor Co. set the pattern Tuesday when it became the first U.S. auto firm to list new prices. General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors were expected to follow suit. The size of the price increase depended on your viewpoint.

Increases averaged $25 or about one per cent for the entire Ford line. A comparison of price tags on 1966 and 1967 Ford Motor Co. products without regard for any factor but money showed the increase averaged $113 or about four per cent. The Ford announcement, which touched off Detroit's annual numbers game of trying to figure out auto price trends, was a complicated one.

OPTIONAL The company made some items, optional on 1966 cars at extra cost, standard equipment this time. Most of them were in the safety field although a few did include costly items such as automatic transmissions.

Some of the 1966 standard items were made optional this time around. That made it difficult to figure exactly how much more the buyer will pay for a 1967 model, a virtual duplicate of his 1966 model as far as equipment and accessories are concerned.

There was no immediate comment from United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther who had said the industry should be able to absorb the cost of virtually all additional safety items without raising consumer prices.

SAFETY Ford mentioned the word safety frequently in its seven-page statement detailing price increases. The implication was that the federal government, which was the moving force in getting 17 safety items included on all 1967 cars, should share any criticism for price increases by auto makers.

These items ranged from dual brakes to impact absorbing steering columns; from two-speed windshield wipers to seat belt anchorages. Most of them were available at extra cost in 1966 but will be standard on new cars which go on sale Sept. 30.

ACCURACY The accuracy of the launch was confirmed by the brief — 9.8 seconds — burst of power needed to correct its trajectory. Without the correction, scientists said, Surveyor 2 would have missed its target by only three degrees.

Sinus Medii, the programmed landing point, is right in the middle of the side of the moon visible to the earth. It is one of nine possible landing sites selected for the first Apollo astronauts when they head for the moon late in this decade. Surveyor 2's job is to take pictures of the site to determine if it is safe.

Minimum Pay Law Skirted By Democrats

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Democratic Party, apparently stung by recent Republican and labor accusations of backward looking policies, has adopted a new look.

The 11-page state party platform, containing 61 specific and often controversial planks, sets a two-year work program for the state's major party that sooner or later will affect every Texan.

It opened plenty of eyes Tuesday when adopted at the state convention.

SIN IGNORED The new platform compares with a one-page general statement in 1964. Some Capitol wags have said the old platform didn't even mention sin and motherhood because they might be controversial.

"We are living in a time of trial, a time of crises at home and abroad, a time which tests our character, our courage, our strength, our national purpose, our unity as a people. As Americans, as Texans, as Democrats, we believe it is our duty to state clearly our position on these matters," said the first paragraph of the democratic platform.

LBJ HAILED Then it commended President Johnson for his stand in Viet Nam and his fight against inflation. It commended those who preach civil disobedience. It promised a continued fight against federal centralization of government.

One entire section of the platform followed Gov. John Connally's recommendation for constitutional revision. The platform gives him support in asking the 60th Legislature to call a special constitutional convention to rewrite the 1876 Constitution which has been amended 163 times with 16 other proposed changes on the November ballot. The present constitution was written in a special convention called by a Texas Legislature that was unhappy with the Washington-inspired document handed the state during Civil War reconstruction days.

FINAL SAY Texas voters would have a final say on a new constitutional convention being called and a final say on its work. Republicans in San Antonio voted for a study of constitutional revision. The Democratic platform also followed Connally's recommendation for annual legislative sessions to keep a closer eye on state spending.

On the much discussed issue of a state minimum wage law, as spotlighted by the Rio Grande Valley farmers' march, the Democrats stepped neatly around the subject — as did the Republican convention.

WAGE LAW "Recommended consideration of a state minimum wage law," read the entire plank in the Democratic platform. The GOP plank said farm workers wages are too low and should be increased "whenever and as soon as possible."

Both Democrats and Republican platforms said Texas' so-called right to work law should be retained. Both Democrats and Republican platforms said Texas' so-called right to work law should be retained.

U.S. Savings Bonds Bonus Is Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is considering a new higher-interest savings bond as part of a drive to coax Americans into lending more money to fight the Viet Nam war.

President Johnson announced that plans are under way to expand the savings bond program and at another point Tuesday threw in a hint that taxes might be raised also to help pay for the war.

"As soon as I know what our outgo is going to be," said the President during a bill-signing. "We will take steps to see that our income meets it."

BIG YIELDS Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said savings bond proposals include one for a bond which would pay more interest than the 4.15 per cent offered now by standard Series E bonds held to maturity.

Fowler would not say what the higher interest rate might be, but said it would be attractive if not wholly competitive with other savings yields. Such a bond could not be turned in ahead of its maturity date, unlike the always-cashable E bond.

IRONICALLY That sort of plan would parallel a recent development in borrowing by some private banks, which offer higher interest for deposits that cannot be reclaimed for a given period of time.

Ironically, the President is to sign today an interest rate bill whose net effect may be to cut back on some of those higher rates which banks are offering and which some experts partially blame for the tight home mortgage market. Fowler said another proposal is to give the purchaser of each regular bond the opportunity to purchase a higher-interest bond of the same denomination.

He said day-by-day estimates are being made on future estimated costs. "We hope to make the best estimates we can as to what additional monies we will need and so inform the Congress," Johnson said.

Johnson said he would not comment on the House Republican charge that he has not "leveled" with the American people about the war in Viet Nam and its future escalation.

SPECULATION "I don't think we would serve the nation or the world by debating statements of that kind," he said. To a question whether he thought the budget could be balanced for 1967 — the present fiscal year — the President replied that an answer would be "sheer speculation that would have little value."

No Tax Boost Is 'Indicated' By President

Katzenbach Is Appointed To New Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today that "No, I haven't indicated that a tax increase may be coming to help bring government income and outgo into balance."

Yet Johnson repeated more or less what he had said Tuesday that gave rise to speculation that a boost might be in the offing.

He told a news "briefing" in the White House Cabinet room that when all appropriations bills have been passed by Congress, an effort will be made to see how they can be adjusted.

CALCULATE "Then we'll calculate our revenues, then we'll do our best to bring our revenues in line with our expenditures," he said.

Since nobody sees any real chance that revenues and spending can be balanced without a tax increase, this appeared to leave the way open for Johnson to ask for one later on. But any such request before the Nov. 3 election has been considered unlikely.

ESTIMATES He said day-by-day estimates are being made on future estimated costs. "We hope to make the best estimates we can as to what additional monies we will need and so inform the Congress," Johnson said.

Johnson said he would not comment on the House Republican charge that he has not "leveled" with the American people about the war in Viet Nam and its future escalation.

SURE ENOUGH HE DID! An 11-year-old lad left police the best clue possible last night when he hurled a rock through the plate glass window at the C. R. Anthony Co.

He thoughtfully signed a note, complete with his home address, stating, "I did it."

Just like George Washington and the cherry tree — sure enough, he did. Officer Jerry Williams investigated the incident, including a chat with the truthful rock thrower. The lad was frank about the incident, repeating that he had thrown the baseball-sized rock through the window. Officers turned the boy over to the Howard County juvenile officer. One other bit of vandalism was reported last night at the Coca-Cola plant where a window was cracked.

KATZENBACH QUILTS Katzenbach—He said Nicholas Katzenbach will resign as attorney general to fill the vacancy in the State Department of Undersecretary George W. Ball, who resigned Tuesday.

Asked if it is a promotion for Katzenbach, he said, "Mr. Katzenbach is one of the most competent men I know. He's not concerned with titles or promotions or demotions. He's concerned with serving his country."

MIG FIGHTS A flight of four Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs engaged three MIGs 67 miles northwest of Hanoi. In a four-minute dogfight, the opposing planes exchanged cannon fire fruitlessly, a U.S. spokesman reported.

PLANE LOST The U.S. command announced the loss of one plane over North Viet Nam and one in the South. In the North, a Navy F4B Phantom from the carrier Coral Sea, was shot down late Monday and the pilot was missing. It was the 368th plane lost over the north.

In the South, a Marine A4 Skyhawk caught fire and crashed 40 miles southwest of Da Nang Tuesday while flying a combat mission. Its pilot was also listed as missing. U.S. planes flew 99 missions over the North Tuesday and American pilots had their fourth encounter with Communist

Bank Interest Rate Lid Ok'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three federal regulatory agencies acted swiftly today to stem the rise in interest rates.

The Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. clamped a five per cent ceiling on interest that banks under their jurisdiction can pay on deposits of less than $100,000.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board set a sliding scale of ceiling ranging 4.75 per cent to 5.25 per cent on interest that can be paid on deposits at savings and loan associations.

The three agencies acted within hours after President Johnson signed into law a bill broadening their powers to regulate interest rates.

NEW WEAPON Johnson called the legislation "a new weapon to preserve the strength of our economy."

The previous ceiling on time deposits in denominations of less than $100,000 has been 5 1/2 per cent. It was set last December.

TOP RATE The maximum rate on time deposits in denominations of more than $100,000 remains at 5 1/2 per cent and at four per cent for regular savings deposits.

The reduction in the ceilings of time deposits of less than $100,000 should help to moderate upward pressures in the savings market and contribute to orderly conditions in the financial markets and to better economic balance, the F.D.I.C. said.

The reduction in maximum rates on time deposits of less than $100,000 in denominations does not affect interest paid on certificates of deposit and other time deposits already outstanding, but these contracts may not be renewed at rates in excess of the new ceiling.

FIRST TIME The F.D.I.C. also placed a five per cent ceiling on the rates that can be paid by mutual savings banks on any size amount. It is the first time the agency has regulated rates on such institutions.

Also acting with dispatch, the Federal Home Loan Board, which regulates the savings and loan industry, announced a sliding scale of interest rate ceilings ranging from 4.75 to 5.25 per cent.

Terminating the interest spiral one of the most dangerous threats to a sound economy, Johnson said action was needed because, "In our banking community, healthy competition has given way to a fierce race."

RUNAWAY At the same time, the President promised to use monetary and fiscal weapons to avoid runaway inflation.

And he said that, as soon as he has the necessary facts on which to base a judgment of possible further action, he would promptly send recommendations to Congress. This could embrace a plan to raise income taxes, though Johnson did not mention that possibility.

BILL SIGNED The bill signed today gives the Federal Reserve Board authority for one-year to order different interest levels on bank deposits considering such factors as the size of deposits and conditions in different parts of the country.

The Federal Home Loan Board is given similar authority to govern interest paid by savings and loan associations. The board previously could control interest rates only indirectly. The measure also authorizes the Federal Reserve Board to boost from six to 10 per cent the monetary reserves member banks must maintain against time deposits. This provision is designed to restrain lending.

Moon Craft Is Tumbling

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The apparent failure of a small rocket motor aboard America's Surveyor 2 spacecraft caused the three-legged lunar photographer to tumble uncontrolled in space, scientists said today.

The tumbling, at a rate of about one revolution per second, casts doubt on the chances for a successful mission, they said, unless the craft can be stabilized.

Two attempts at correcting the tumbling — by firing all three small vernier rockets for two seconds — failed, they said, when the No. 3 rocket didn't fire again.

FAILURE Al Hibbs, staff scientist at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said the failure of the No. 3 rocket engine was the apparent cause of the tumbling, which began when the rockets were fired for the mid-course maneuver.

"Consequently, engines one and two gave quite a tipping motion," said Hibbs. The mid-course maneuver — a gentle roll in space followed by a short shot of rocket power — was meant to slow the craft enough to put it exactly on target on the moon.

After launch Tuesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., scientists said the craft was on a good course for the moon's Sinus Medii — Central Bay. The course, they said, was "at least as good as Surveyor 1's, well within the capability of a mid-course correction to bring us to the programmed landing point."

ACCURACY The accuracy of the launch was confirmed by the brief — 9.8 seconds — burst of power needed to correct its trajectory. Without the correction, scientists said, Surveyor 2 would have missed its target by only three degrees.

Sinus Medii, the programmed landing point, is right in the middle of the side of the moon visible to the earth. It is one of nine possible landing sites selected for the first Apollo astronauts when they head for the moon late in this decade. Surveyor 2's job is to take pictures of the site to determine if it is safe.

Bible Fund Tops $2,700

The Big Spring High School Bible class fund reached $2,714.30 today on the strength of several contributions.

The appeal closed formally Sunday, but since then a number of individuals, businesses, class groups and organizations have sent in gifts. Two which were received earlier but were overlooked in transmitting names were Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Jones, $15, and Mr. and Mrs. Huey Rogers, $10. Latest donors included G. Wyatt Easton, $25, J. R. Howard, $25, and the IOOF Mullin Lodge No. 37, $5. All of these accounted for $80 more during the day.

TEXANS AT WAR: CARPENTER

Reds Failure To Shoot Most Chilling Memory

By The Associated Press Warrant Officer Billy Carpenter, a Texan at war, was shot at many times in South Viet Nam, but his most chilling memory is of 40 frightening minutes when the Viet Cong did not shoot.

Carpenter, a native of Midland where he was an accountant for Great Western Drilling Co., drew the Army job of piloting Vietnamese infantrymen into combat zones in an unarmed troop carrier of the 17th Aviation Co. during the first major U.S. troop buildup of the conflict.

After unloading footsoldiers near a firefight, a freak technical accident disabled his helicopter in such a way that it wouldn't accelerate beyond 40 miles an hour—less than half its normal cruising speed—without nosing down.

"Going that slow we'd have been an easy target for Viet Cong guns," says Carpenter, now teaching flying at Ft. Wolters, Tex. "So I took a river route back home. There was this huge river bed with just a small trickle of water in it. "We went back all the way two inches above that water. I was at eye level with the top of the river bank. "If they'd seen us, they could have knocked us down by throwing rocks. But we made it without injury except for losing about 20 pounds of sweat."

Marines Nab Fortified Village

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines today captured a fortified village just south of the demilitarized zone from North Vietnamese regulars who for more than four days defied hard ground and air attacks, a U.S. spokesman announced.

Flame-throwing tanks were called in Tuesday to help Leathembeck riflemen, artillery and jets blast the North Vietnamese in Gia Binh, only 300 yards south of the zone.

No other details were immediately available in Saigon of the capture of the village. As the Marines took Gia Binh, U.S. B2 bombers and Phantom jets returned to the demilitarized zone and pounded Red positions inside and below the area. BOMBS FALL The eight-engine bombers from Guam unloaded tons of explosives about a mile below the zone and near the area of fighting between the Marines and North Viet Nam's 324B Division.

The F4C Phantoms hammered at three Communist storage areas inside the six-mile-wide zone. Pilots reported setting two areas ablaze and wrecking buildings in the third.

Navy planes attacked a camouflaged North Vietnamese torpedo boat with 500-pound bombs and rockets off Haiphong Tuesday. Pilots said they split the craft apart and set it afire. The boat sank 53 miles northeast of North Viet Nam's major port. PLANE LOST The U.S. command announced the loss of one plane over North Viet Nam and one in the South.

In the North, a Navy F4B Phantom from the carrier Coral Sea, was shot down late Monday and the pilot was missing. It was the 368th plane lost over the north.

In a second exchange, three Thunderchiefs led by Capt. Ralph A. Hanson, 35, of Miami, Fla., tangled with four MIGs 52 miles northeast of Hanoi. Hanson said his flight had just left its bombing target when he spotted the MIGs coming at him and firing. He evaded the MIGs and turned to attack but the Red planes broke away without either side scoring.

Weather Remains Cool And Damp

Damp weather and cool temperatures still prevail in the area. Last night's low was 56—the coldest night of the fall season. At 11 a.m. today the reading was 76 degrees.

Clouds partially obscured the sun but no rain fell, although at dawn the humidity was high. The sun was able to break out of the clouds only at intervals during the morning.

Many fields continue so saturated water stands in the rows. Grain ready for harvesting cannot be gathered. Alarm is growing for some that prolonged wet weather may menace the crops which a month ago were the most promising in two decades.

Democrats Reach For Pocketbooks

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas Democrats, touching up a scratch in their picture of unity, rolled up their sleeves and reached for their pocketbooks Wednesday to elect candidates in November.

Almost before the cheers of the thousands of state convention delegates had died out Tuesday, Gov. John Connally was urging his new 62-member executive committee to get to work.

"The last thing any of us can do is rest on our laurels," said Connally, talking backstage at the convention hall. "We have the responsibility to elect a U.S. senator, and trying to oust an incumbent is not an easy task."

TIGHT FIST
His fist clenched as he said, "It's your responsibility to help raise money to help sustain this organization," and he added, "We don't want to run anybody out of the party. Above all else we want to make it clear that the Democratic party is a home for everybody."

Apparently a group of Harris County liberals didn't think so Tuesday as they walked out on the convention before it opened, marring the solid Democratic front party leaders were seeking for its nominees, especially Waggoner Carr, who is opposing Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., for the state's junior U.S. Senate seat.

ONCE AGAIN
Carr, smiling at a horn-blowing, sign-waving convention hall parade in his honor, was optimistic. "Once again we're facing a Republican of the radical right. Barry Goldwater's No. 1 spokesman is asking to be returned to the Senate to represent Texas—he will not succeed."

The Harris County delegation, the convention's largest, strolled to the Capitol for an outdoor gathering after the state executive committee halved their convention power with the county's conservatives who lost the May 14 county convention. A few from a contesting Midland delegation went with them.

For over an hour under shade trees, the liberals denounced Connally and proposed a few planks for a platform, nowhere near as extensive as the regular convention's 61 planks. The liberals spoke for a $1.25 state minimum wage and opposed shell dredging near live oyster reefs and annual voter registration.

CONSTITUTION
The convention, whose 624 members represent about one-tenth of the Democrats in Texas, meanwhile, proposed a convention to revise Texas' often amended constitution.

That was a point, too, that Connally emphasized in his keynote address. "Our constitution so rigidly restrains our state government that it cannot respond to the changing needs and requirements of modern life," he said. "We need a constitution for today and tomorrow."

Another Connally recommendation that appeared in the platform, adopted by the convention without discussion, was annual sessions of the legislature to keep a close check on the spending of public funds.

The convention, dwindling in numbers in the afternoon, applauded several proposals by the platform committee, which turned down amendments calling for a $1.25 state minimum wage and an increase in teachers pay.

APPLAUSE
The delegates liked provisions calling for retention of the so-called Texas right to work law, maintaining a "balanced tax program to keep Texas on a pay-as-you-go basis," revising the penal code and code of criminal procedures to "facilitate the apprehension and prosecution of criminals" and driver education for all young drivers.

Also touching off applause were planks to set a minimum age of 16 for a driver's license with completion of driver education, more men and money for the Department of Public Safety and funds for San Antonio's HemisFair.

Enrollment Up Over Last Week

Enrollment in the Big Spring Public Schools this week totaled 7,648, up 29 from one week ago. Enrollment one year ago was 7,653.

Breakdown by schools includes elementary, 4,341; special education, 141; and secondary, 3,266.

Figures are released weekly from the office of S. M. Anderson, superintendent of schools.

New Movie Code Allows More Sex, Violence

NEW YORK (AP)—The motion picture industry has a new set of production guidelines, eliminating many specific taboos, but giving Hollywood's Production Code Administration, for the first time, the power to label certain films "recommended for mature audiences."

The new code, in effect, gives filmmakers more leeway in treating sex, sin and violence, but also gives production code officials more flexibility in deciding what will get its "seal of approval."

NEW TAG
According to Jack Valenti, new head of the Motion Picture Association of America, the use of the "mature audience" tag says, basically: "Look, Mr. Parent, this may not be a picture you want your child to see."

Valenti, former special assistant to President Johnson, announced the adoption of the revised production code at a news conference Tuesday.

The Production Code Administration, now headed by Geoffrey M. Shurlock, provides the rules on film content and treatment for the guidance of the major American film companies. All subscribe to the code, but are not legally bound to abide by it.

MORALS
The original code was adopted in 1930 and, because of changing times and changing morals, has been revised several times.

However, in recent years, the industry has been under increasing criticism as it has produced films more daring in content and treatment. Critics threatened censorship, local and federal. Film producers, at the same time, cried for more leeway to treat more mature material, especially to counter the more daring foreign film fare.

TOP CHORE
Revision of the code became the No. 1 chore of Valenti when he was named head of the MPAA last April. The result was the new code which, Valenti said, has two main objectives: to "encourage artistic expression by expanding creative freedom" and "to assure that the freedom that encourages the artist remains responsible and sensitive to the standards of the larger society."

"This is self-restraint, self-regulation and self-discipline. We want to make clear that expansion of the artist's freedom doesn't mean tolerance of license," Valenti said.

TABOOS
Done away with in the new code are specific taboos on "lustful kissing," "complete nudity in fact or silhouette" and passions that "stimulate baser emotions." It had eight paragraphs specifically banning any treatment of abortion, the use of seduction or rape as material for comedy and "sex perversions or any inference to it."

In the revised code, this section is replaced by a more interpretive standard stating: "Illicit sex relationships shall not be justified" and demanding "restraint and care in presentations dealing with sex aberrations."

"As they come down the chute, we'll label them," Valenti said.

Rites Held For Eubanks Babies

Services were held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Garland for James Ray and Michael Ray, twin sons stillborn to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Eubanks at 5:30 p.m. Monday.

Rites were conducted by the Rev. Roy Collins, pastor of the Lakeview Baptist Church, and burial was in the Restland Memorial cemetery at Garland. Mr. and Mrs. Eubanks are former residents of Big Spring and now reside at 3820 Walnut, Kent Apartment 206, Garland.

Attending the services from here were the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Eubanks and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Tubb, also an aunt and uncle, Mrs. Lavell Hanson and Ricky Tubb.

GOP Senator Claims Social Security Lag

WASHINGTON (AP)—A virtual breakdown in Social Security Administration processing of new claims was charged today by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich.

A tremendous backlog of new claims, he said, is awaiting final action and claimants are being left dangling for as long as nine months after filing for benefits. "I discovered this situation after being flooded with letters from retired people applying for benefits," Griffin said in a statement.

DA Aide Hired

BEAUMONT (AP)—Jacob Bumstead has joined the staff of the U.S. district attorney's office here as an assistant U.S. attorney for the Eastern District of Texas.

He has been in Washington, D.C., since 1960, handling criminal and tax division cases.

Bake Sale Saturday

The Women's Missionary Council of the Faith Assembly of God Church will sponsor a bake sale in the Highland Shopping Center mall Saturday. Proceeds from the sale will be used to buy chairs for the educational building now under construction on Gollad. The sale will begin at 9 a.m.

Senators Set Texas Talks

HOUSTON (AP)—Two U.S. senators will be speakers Oct. 27 at the 44th annual Conference of Texas Industry at Corpus Christi.

They are Senators Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky.

The Oct. 27-28 conference sponsored by the Texas Manufacturers Association is expected to be attended by 400 businessmen, legislators and economists.

Discussions will center on the growing interdependency of government and business.

Today's announcement said McCarthy had been selected as the liberal spokesman and Morton as the conservative spokesman for discussions of the relationship between the private corporation and the federal government.

 West's reluctance to give up a club trick came back to haunt him in defending against South's three no trump contract. His stinginess not only resulted in the loss of a valuable unit of time, but he ultimately suffered the supreme humiliation of having to surrender the game fulfilling trick in the very suit which he had shied away from.

West opened the four of clubs, the five was played from dummy, and when East covered with the seven, declarer's nine won the trick. A spade was led to the king on which East signaled vigorously by following with the ten. A heart was returned and South finessed the ten.

West was in with the jack, and observing that a club return would present his opponent with a trick, he shifted to the seven of spades. South put up dummy's ace and led another heart. When East discarded a spade, declarer ducked the trick around to West's nine.

In desperation, West shifted to the queen of diamonds. South was determined to keep East out of the lead, so he permitted the queen to hold. He won the diamond continuation in his hand with the ten and played the ace and another heart, putting West in once more. The latter had nothing but clubs left and was at last obliged to lead that suit for the second time.

South won the club return with the queen and cashed the ace of diamonds, the ace of clubs, and his long heart. In all, he took two spades, two hearts, two diamonds, and three clubs.

The irony of the deal was that West could have defeated the contract by continuing clubs at his first or second opportunity. Even the South obtains a trick in the process, West is able to establish the suit before his heart stoppers are dislodged, and declarer cannot develop nine tricks in time via his chosen line of play.

NO. 11 IN A SERIES

'I Will Prepare Myself ...'

By MIKE ROTHENBERGER
 Staff Representative
 Date Carriage & Assoc., Inc.
 Copyright 1966 Date Carriage & Assoc., Inc.

The story is told of a group of businessmen who went on a vacation in Switzerland. One evening, a professional mountain climber came to their hotel to deliver a lecture on mountain climbing and to show pictures he had taken during his work.

The men were so intrigued by the event that they asked him to serve as their guide on a climb in the Bavarian Alps.

The day was set and the arrangements were completed. It was agreed that they would start the climb in the early morning. The day came and the men all met at the foot of the great mountain. They were dressed in warm clothing and rugged boots. Each man carried a pack on his back.

The guide gave the signal and the trip was begun. The men followed him up the path, around rocks and brush and through the tall trees. They climbed for several hours. The further they went, the harder the climb became. The path grew steeper, the rocks larger, but they kept climbing through the crisp cold mountain air.

About 9 o'clock in the forenoon they reached a place called the half-way house. This was a small place about half way up the mountain where climbers could stop for rest and refreshments before going on.

The men went into the half-way house where they unloaded their packs. They enjoyed a cup of steaming hot coffee and a sandwich. Some removed their boots. They took advantage of the time to rest and relax.

When it came time to go, the guide walked over to the door and said, "Alright fellows, it is time to continue our climb." One of the group approached the guide, and in a low voice said, "You know sir, I seem to be having trouble with my foot. My boot apparently does not fit well. I am afraid it might cause some trouble, so if it doesn't matter to much to you, I think I will just wait here at the half-way house and join you on the way down." Another fellow stepped up to the guide and said, "You see, my knee seems to be bothering me a bit. It is an old injury that I got when I played football in high school. Now, if it is all right with you, I believe I won't go on today. Maybe I can finish the climb some other time. I would rather just wait here at the half-way house and join you and the others on the way back."

One by one they went to the guide and made one trivial excuse or another until only a very small number were willing to finish the climb. The guide, with his handful of men, began the second half of the climb.

It was mid-afternoon. One of the men who had remained at the half-way house was looking out through a large picture window enjoying the beautiful view of the majestic snowcapped Alpine peaks. He saw something way up the side of the mountain that captured his attention. He called to his companions and pointed out a spot near the top of the peak. He said, "Look fellows, there goes Bill, there goes Tom, there goes Joe. They are going all the way up to the top!"

What a picture of life. We see so many capable men and women who start the climb up the mountain of a successful and happy life; people who have great potential ability and unlimited opportunity; but so few succeed. For one insignificant reason or another, so many choose not to persevere; they choose not to develop and apply their talents and abilities. They take the path of least resistance. They relax and remain at the half-way house of life when, with just a little more effort and determination, with a little more development and preparation, they could easily go all the way up to the top.

Beaumont Seeks Navy Shipyard

BEAUMONT (AP)—The city is actively seeking a $150 million Navy shipyard which will be used to turn out high-speed cargo ships when completed in 1969.

Three firms are bidding for the government contract and Beaumont has been in contact with them to offer prospective sites for the facility. It would employ 5,000 men engaged in turning out the ships at a rate of one per month, nearly 10 times faster than current production.

Draft Standards Lowered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The military is lowering its mental standards in order to draft 20,000 men within nine months for special training and eventual regular service.

 It is the third drop in minimum standards this year, and spokesmen said studies are under way to determine what revisions should be made in order to make another 20,000 men eligible by June 30. The plan is to

Aggie Librarian To Aid Peruvians

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Rupert C. Woodward, associate library director at Texas A&M University, will assist a Peruvian university in strengthening its library.

Via a Ford Foundation consultancy, Woodward will advise National Engineering University Library officials in Lima in identifying promising staff members for library science training abroad.

McNamara sees the special training as an arm in the administration's anti-poverty program.

The change affects men drafted after Sept. 30. Those who score in the bottom rank of the general-knowledge armed forces qualification test no longer will have to pass a general technical aptitude test which measures verbal and arithmetic reasoning.

They still must pass at least two of six other aptitude tests in fields of infantry, general maintenance, electronics, motor maintenance, clerical, and armor-artillery-engineer. The Pentagon asked Selective Service to defer for now the re-screening of men who flunked under previous requirements.

These 2.4 million men are in a pool designated 1Y—disqualified except in case of war or national emergency.

Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father hath sent me, even so I send you. (John 20:21)

Need Of Fresh Pursuit Law

With the courts sharply restricting police action likely to infringe on individual civil rights, it would seem expedient for legislators to grant police advantages wherever such are unlikely to abridge any rights.

Consequently there would appear to be little argument against State Attorney General Waggoner Carr's contention in a Waco speech that Texas should adopt the Interstate Fresh Pursuit Act. Such a law would permit police on a hot chase to cross state lines to nab criminal suspects. As it is now, Texas state or local police who see a crime committed cannot detain the offender once he has so much as stepped a foot across the state line.

Four-fifths of the states, including all of Texas' neighbors, have an interstate, fresh pursuit law. Adopting a similar law — a sensible and simple act of reciprocity — should aid this state's crime control, without in any way that we can conceive of impairing individual civil rights.

The state attorney general's suggestion might have had more immediate attention if formally made during a session of the Legislature rather than during a U.S. senatorial campaign speech. But that hardly detracts from the merits of the proposal itself.

A Major Success

It is getting to be old hat to say that America's space program has made another significant advance toward placing a manned expedition on the moon. Yet that is the thing that must be said about the flight of Gemini 11. The swift rendezvous and docking, achieved in an hour and a half from launch time rather than after the protracted maneuvering of past flights, was a triumph.

It was a triumph of great importance, because success of the coming manned lunar mission will depend heavily on just such a rendezvous. When the two astronauts who have descended to the surface of the moon are ready to return to the mother ship — the Apollo which will have been circling the earth's great satellite — the rendezvous must be swift and precise.

That is exactly how the Gemini 11's rendezvous with an Agena docking vehicle can be described: Swift and precise. Other important things were achieved, but this alone would have made Gemini 11's flight a major success.

David Lawrence Suit Strikes At Press Freedom

WASHINGTON — President Johnson may have been too busy to give personal attention to the civil suit just filed by the department of justice against an afternoon newspaper in New York City, but the net effect of the action taken is to assert for the first time in American history a claim that the government of the United States can abridge at will the freedom of the press. The administration proposes to do this by invoking the "interstate commerce" clause of the constitution, just as it has done in legislation covering "public accommodations" and "open housing."

TO ARGUE that, when one newspaper is merged with another, the writings of particular authors must be made available to all competitors to bid upon constitutes an amazing precedent. For the federal government says, in substance, that a writer cannot any longer protect his own material under the copyright law or sell it to whomever he pleases at whatever price he wishes, but that there has to be some kind of bidding contest among competitive publications. If this concept were upheld by the courts, an author would be required to agree to sell his or her writings to the highest bidder. This could disrupt the relationships also between authors and book publishers whenever two book companies are about to be merged.

EVERY WRITER, whether of books or plays or newspaper articles, has hitherto had a right to select his own sales agent. Syndicates or individual newspapers have been designated by authors to sell their writings. The present controversy arises because the New York Herald Tribune, a morning paper, was killed in a newspaper strike recently, and its assets were sold to a new company issuing an afternoon paper known as the World Journal Tribune.

THE COURTS ruling in this case could have a bearing on the sale of news articles or features to any newspaper in the United States which has a competitor in the same city. Indeed, from a reading of the text of the complaint filed in court, it would appear that for a newspaper to get exclusive stories or "scoops" or to select the writings of one or more authors or correspondents and refuse to make them available to a competing newspaper in the same city allegedly "threatens the existence" of such a competitor.

While the present antitrust laws forbid monopolies of a business nature, no statute supersedes the right of a newspaper to publish what it pleases. This principle has been repeatedly affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States, which has declared that the first amendment to the constitution establishes the freedom of the press and that this cannot be restricted by laws invoking the right to regulate commerce.

INCIDENTALLY, the department of justice says nothing about what the concerted action of several labor unions did to extinguish a morning newspaper in New York and bestow on the surviving publications what it now describes as a virtual monopoly.

Does the new step by the department of justice mean that the government may at any time conclude that, since there are only two newspapers in a city and one of them is achieving a higher profit than the other or because one paper is losing while the other is making money, the special features in the latter must be offered at public auction and a competitor given the opportunity to buy them?

Oddly enough, in one section of the complaint, the justice department says:

"DAILY MORNING and afternoon newspapers of general circulation published in New York City have differing appeals to and serve differing functions for readers and advertisers."

Then why compel them to print the same articles as their competitor does? This and similar questions have never before been a matter for decision by the executive or judicial agencies and will not be unless the American government now is to assume control of what the press publishes, just as is happening in too many countries of the world today. (Copyright, 1966, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate)

Billy Graham

I heard you say on the radio that sex is not sin. If it isn't then why does everyone condemn it? I just don't get it.

E.W.L. I don't believe that everyone is condemning sex. It is the basic life force that makes the world go 'round. Without it, there would be no life on this planet. In fact, one of the first things God said to Adam and Eve was, "Be fruitful and multiply." God not only gave them sex, but He put His blessing upon it, and told them to use it. But this great force was given to mankind to be used within certain limits, under certain conditions, and for certain purposes. Electricity is a great thing. But it must be used wisely; it must be controlled, and properly directed. If it isn't so used, it can destroy and kill. Sex is like that. It is to be used within the bounds of holy matrimony. When it is used irresponsibly, and indiscriminately, it can injure, and destroy. In fact, when it is used in any other manner it is sin. The Bible says, "Thou shalt not commit adultery." To use sex selfishly, outside of the marriage relationship, is to commit fornication, adultery, or immorality, and this is sin. The Bible says so! It is not just a whim of mine. I have found, as have thousands of others, that God's laws and commandments are best. When we go with the grain of God's will and plan for our lives, we miss nothing worth having, and gain everything worthwhile.

LBJ Fails To Get His Message Across

WASHINGTON (AP) — On Friday, Lyndon B. Johnson will have been president as long as John F. Kennedy held the office: 1,037 days. They had a few things in common and some great differences.

At the time of his assassination Nov. 22, 1963, Kennedy's popularity in the public opinion polls was dropping, although that may seem strange in view of the adulation given him now. Johnson's popularity is dropping, too, sharply.

TWO RECENT polls showed that among Democrats, Kennedy's brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, was the choice for president over Johnson in 1968; voters now, by only 51 to 49 per cent, prefer Johnson over Michigan's Republican Gov. George Romney for president in 1968.

President Kennedy's popularity dwindled in 1963, the pollsters said, because he was pushing civil rights too hard. Johnson pushed them harder and more successfully, getting two bills through Congress. He was blocked on a third this week.

HIS PERFORMANCE in this field hurt him in the polls but there were other complaints: his handling of various problems, like the war in Viet Nam, the anti-poverty program, the economy, and so on.

But Johnson's personality is probably a major factor. Kennedy's personality was perhaps his greatest asset. His speeches, with life and light, could be understood by everyone, but they had grace and style, too. Not Johnson's.

They are heavy-footed and carpeted with banalities. Kennedy, realizing his success in public appearances, used television to its maximum. Johnson seems to realize he can't match Kennedy in this field.

HE MAKES scant use of television. Instead, he likes to meet crowds in the flesh, and gets a good response. But even here he is awkward. On his recent political trips he resorted to a bullhorn.

In his public appearances Kennedy always acted like a man who assumed he was heartily accepted. Johnson — by his intonations, facial expressions, and the almost sad look in his eyes — acts like a man who aches to be accepted.

Johnson has had a smoother road than Kennedy in foreign affairs except for the war in Viet Nam, although American involvement there was under way with Kennedy. The latter had a great disaster, a great crisis and a great success.

THE DISASTER—the Cuban invasion of 1961; the crisis—the triumphant missile showdown in Cuba with the Soviet Union in 1962; the great success — the 1963 agreement with the Soviet Union to ban nuclear testing above ground.

THE COUNTRY is more prosperous under Johnson; more people working, incomes higher. But inflation has edged in and this has damaged him some. There is dissatisfaction with what he has done or failed to do for the economy.

It's right here that Johnson's personality may be a big reason for his increasing unpopularity. On both the war and the home front he fails to get his message across to the people.

Film Star Enjoys Living Alone

NEW YORK (AP) — At 23, Lynn Redgrave, Britain's newest film star, is a bachelor girl who still enjoys the freedom of living alone.

"There's no hurry," said Lynn, who is tall, jolly, and has lemon-gold hair, gray-blue eyes and a complexion as fair and delicate as sea foam.

"AFTER ALL, if you get married at 20, you simply have millions of years to spend with the same person."

"Marriage was invented at a time when people didn't live very long. You felt you had a good run if you lived to be 40."

"But I won't feel I'm on the shelf if I'm unmarried at 30. On the other hand, if I want to get married tomorrow, I will."

Lynn is a comparatively late bloomer in the famous Redgrave acting family which includes her father, Sir Michael; her mother, Rachel Kempson; her brother, Corin, and her sister, Vanessa, star of "Morgan."

AT THE RIPE old age of eight she had only played the role of a shepherd in a school Nativity play. Her childhood dream-world was built around pots and pans and horses. She yearned to be an equestrienne.

"I had a pipe dream that fell to pieces," she said. "I wanted to grow up and cook for rich people to earn enough money to finance my riding. But I came to realize that wouldn't work."

At 15 during a visit to Shakespeare's birthplace at Stratford-on-Avon, where her parents were appearing, she was suddenly swept by an idealistic love of the theater. Almost religious in its nature, the vision took over her life.

Since then she has appeared in 25 plays, several television shows and four movies. She recently achieved stardom in "Georgy Girl," a bright comedy in which she plays the tomboy daughter of an English butler, adopts a baby, and totes it along to her marriage to her father's employer, played by James Mason. Sure it's real-life stuff. Things like that happen every day in ye moderne merrie England.

LYNN ISN'T sure whether bearing the Redgrave name is a help or hindrance in her career.

"There are for and againsts," she said. "When I started it was an advantage, but it was also a disadvantage to be put in the spotlight so young. It magnified whatever I did, good or bad."

"But it all sort of cancels itself out in the end."

Around The Rim

Lines That Never Die

There are some lines which will never die. Mentioned in this category are such bits from the Bard of Avon as: "To be or not to be... the quality of mercy is not strained... what's in a name?... Goodnight sweet prince..." Yet these pale beside the never-say-die lines of our contemporary dialogue writers.

THE CLASSIC, I suppose, is: "Now don't get excited!" The response is calculated to be a side-splitter and a two-knee slapper, to wit: "Who's excited? I'm not excited. What makes you think I'll get excited! (Tempo and pitch rising.) I never get excited! There's nothing to get excited about! (The voice is now in a frenzied shriek.) How come you say 'Don't get excited when it's you that gets excited? I'm not excited!' With this, the declaimer explodes like a firecracker. Ah, yes, this immortal line will be repeated so long as actors mis-act.

HERE IS ANOTHER one: "Let's get out of here!" This can be fitted to so many different situations. Perhaps two villains have just planted a keg of dynamite under the railroad bridge trestle and touch it off just as the locomotive approaches the span across the chasm. With the blast, they look at each other, and then as though the idea has just struck them, exclaim: "Let's get out of here." Or again, someone may have just fired an ambush at the marshal, and after a moment of silence snap back to the world of reality with "Let's get out of here." The same effect is created when one of the players flounces around a room like a bull in a china closet, wreaking havoc everywhere. Then comes the sound of approaching footsteps, whereupon this deathless pronouncement: "Let's get out of here."

ANOTHER imperishable phrase is: "Yes, I know." This is used on review day on the soap operas. One of the characters begins filling you in with a synopsis, to wit: "Oh I have had a hard time. My father had a heart attack, and I ran into a poor old lady on my way to his bedside, and she had me picked up for DWI. My brother, who is your uncle, was planning to defend me, but he eloped with Papa's third wife," etc., ad infinitum. The recipient of this cascade of intelligence listens intently, then replies with feeling: "Yes, I know."

TIME AND space precludes a prop catalogue of these eternal pronouncements, but let me recall just one more: "Wonder what's keeping him?" or "Here he comes now." When the former is uttered, the vocal vibrations are hardly stilled when, hark! (a) telephone rings, (b) there is a knock at the door or (c) in stalks He-Who-Has-Been-Kept. ("Here he comes now" calls for the one who has given life to this great line to go toward the wing or backstage and peer out the door or window while He-Comes doth so. It's like calling up the cows—they come nearly every time.)

George Schuyler's Tonic

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Some lucky publisher is going to latch onto an unfinished book by a friend of mine in which he examines the psychological, sociological and historical effects of The Pill. It isn't The Pill that controls population but one that turns black skins into white. At this writing the pellet is fictive but on the frontier of scientific discovery.

In the meantime, there's something much better for the racial malaise, and I call it The Tonic. It is bottled (at $5.95) by Arlington House, publishers, under the label of "Black and Conservative." It is the autobiography of George S. Schuyler, and is a superior medication.

THE PILL, even if it bleached every Negro, would not do away with visible features. The local accents of Stokely Carmichael (West Indian), Martin Luther King (Georgian) and Dick Gregory (vaudeville) would not be altered. The sense of injury and injustice would stay put. The Pill, though potent, would never be almighty.

But The Tonic is darn near the panacea. George Schuyler, Rhode Island born in 1885, has lived longer than many and thought more than most about the problem of being an American Negro. Schuyler has lived as the son of a Victorian-strict, Bible-raised, self-supporting and self-respecting family in upper New York State.

HE DISCOVERED as a schoolboy that he was an object of discrimination and ridicule, but no more so than the immigrant Irish, Germans and Poles. He broke out of his environment by joining the Army, by turning writer through self-education, and by becoming exposed to all the blandishments of socialism, communism and racism. His considered judgment, after slugging his way to a precarious success in journalism, forever threatened with professional extinction by the white Leftists and permanently branded as an Uncle Tom by the black radicals, goes like this:

"A BLACK person learns very early that his color is a disadvantage in a world of white folk. This being an unalterable circumstance, one learns very early to make the best of it. . . . The American Negro is the prime example of the survival of the fittest, and it is enlightening to contrast his position today with that of the Amerindian. He has been the outstanding example of American conservatism: adjustable, resourceful, patient, restrained, and not given to gambling what advantages he has in quixotic adventures. . . . Had he taken the advice of the minority of firebrands in his midst, he would have risked extermination."

GEORGE SCHUYLER had to be a fighter from the first day at public school when a "wop" called him a "nigger." He was segregated into Army colored units, bullied alike by black noncoms and white officers but he noticed that it was Japanese laborers at the Hawaii barracks who cleaned the latrines and carried away the wastes. He kept on reading and writing, job-changing and climbing until as a mature American he found that the discrimination against him had more to do with his being conservative than being black.

His friends and publishers during the climbing days were Henry L. Mencken of the American Mercury and De Witt Wallace of Reader's Digest. His enemies were the Communist leaders whose names were hardly known until publicized by congressional investigators.

JUST AFTER World War II, Schuyler himself became part of an investigating committee which discovered a plan to have all writers and dramatists submit their works to a liberal-dominated council that was planning a Brave New World. "An anti-Communist or non-Communist would have been out of luck even if he had the genius of Shakespeare or Flaubert," Schuyler observes.

The Tonic, as we learn about it from this autobiography of an articulate Negro, is a compound of courage and common sense. It does not cure any of life's ills — but makes them easier to endure.

Performance Mania Hits Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — Some Wall Street people call it madness, others say it is a passing fashion and a good many portfolio managers say it is the height of responsibility — or irresponsibility.

SINCE IT involves billions of dollars, it is one of the biggest arguments among many these days on Wall Street.

The debate is over "performance," a term not easily explained but which means among other things:

Keeping your eye on the movement of the newer growth stocks, trading rather often for gains, trying always to outperform other traders, seeking capital gains rather than dividends.

It often results in trading the high flyers, the glamor stocks, the stocks with wide price movements.

THOSE WHO believe the emphasis on performance is a hazard say it causes traders often to overlook the essentials, to deal in fashions. They point out that it puts the big portfolio managers — the trusts, the mutual funds, the pension funds, the insurance companies — in the position of always having to show bigger gains than their competitor at any given time.

Frank Reinhardt, who supervises more than $2.5 billion of investments for Standard & Poor's Corp., calls it "the performance mania — an unfortunate development."

The mania, if it is that, often is engaged in by mutual funds. Some managers of these funds have become accustomed to pitting their fund against others, measuring the immediat performance — not their portfolio of stocks.

THE EPITOME of the performance syndrome is Gerald Tsai, whose company manages the Manhattan Fund, a mutual fund whose portfolio often is filled with what some market men call glamor stocks.

"It strikes me strange," he told some brokers recently, "that suddenly performance — what every last one of us should pride ourselves on — has become a nasty word."

In today's investment climate, he said, "apparently the norm is to invest in the blue chips and the distortion is to buy growth stocks. We doubt that growth was a dirty name for IBM in its early days."

Reinhardt feels that "everyone is trying to outdo the other. They lose sight of the basic investment considerations. An investor should ask 'Is this suitable for me, will the earnings continue, do I believe the management is good?'"

AND TSAI says, "The basic pattern of stock investment exists as always: buying well-managed companies capable of dependable earnings." But stocks come in and out of fashion, he said. For example, a decade ago it was uranium stocks.

DEAR ABBY She Broke A Trust

Dear Abby: I like this boy who is 17. I am 15. About a month ago we went on a date. We were supposed to go to a dance, but we went to an outdoor movie instead. Mother told me when I started going in cars with boys that if I had a change of plans to call her up and tell her, but before I had a chance to get out of the car to call her, she and dad came into the movie and saw us.

She didn't say anything right then, she let me stay in the car, but the next day she said I couldn't see this boy anymore.

Abby, we like each other and I just HAVE to see him. I tried to explain to mom, but she wouldn't even listen to me.

When are mothers going to understand their daughters and try to see their point of view? We didn't commit any big crime. I just have to see him. Abby, Can you help us? DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Sorry, honey, but this is a lesson you'll have to learn the hard way. You agreed to call your mother to let her know of any change in plans. When you failed to do so, you let her down, and now her confidence in you is badly shaken.

Take your medicine like a big girl and don't grumble. You'll get another chance to demonstrate your trustworthiness. And when you do, don't risk it by thoughtlessness, or trying to get away with something.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young, unmarried woman who has been trying to get a very eligible bachelor in town to marry me. He dates me consistently, but not exclusively. A very clever friend of mine has suggested that I borrow a diamond from someone, and tell him there is "someone else." I am tempted to try it. What do you think?
END OF ROPE

DEAR END: I wouldn't recommend it. Ask your "clever" friend what to do if he says, "I wish you luck," and then

Johnson Gets Ready To Try New Cutbacks?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republicans suspect President Johnson is getting ready to try to kidnap their inflation issue by announcing proposed spending cutbacks before the November elections.

Johnson said in signing a parcel post rate-increase bill Tuesday that when he sees what Congress does with the regular money bills he will ask departments and agencies how much they can save and announce the results.

BEFORE VOTING
While the President gave no indication of the timing involved, Republicans believe that if Congress winds up its work by mid-October Johnson will come up with some figures shortly before the Nov. 8 voting.

Both Democrats and Republicans have voted for more spending than Johnson asked in many categories this year.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen said GOP members of Congress are going to continue what he called their efforts to cut back on spending as the most effective way of combating inflation.

CHIEF TARGET
Chief target at the moment, Dirksen said, is the Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) money bill. Approved at a $10.57-billion level by the House, it is expected to be ballooned considerably when it comes before the Senate for debate.

"We're going to try to cut the HEW bill, the anti-poverty program and everything else that comes along," Dirksen said in an interview.

Dirksen told a news conference Tuesday he could not predict whether Congress will adjourn around Oct. 15 or recess then until after the election. A recess would put off action on a supplemental, catch-all appropriations measure until after the voting is over.

BIG STRUGGLE
"We'll have to struggle a good deal to adjourn by Oct. 15 and it doesn't look promising," he said.

While Dirksen declined to join in a House Republican charge that Johnson plans to accelerate the Viet Nam war after the vote results have been pinned down, he said he is informed that additional war funds will be sought.

PERCY THREAT REVEALED Murder Lead Probed

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — Authorities investigating the slaying of Valerie Percy disclosed today a possible lead volunteered by a Chicago cab driver.

Police said the driver, Leo Yancey, 44, told them a fare in his cab Sunday morning resembled a man in a published picture of a suspect sought for an attack on a young woman in Evanston. The man in the picture also is regarded by authorities as a possible suspect in the Percy case.

BEATEN
Valerie, 21, daughter of Republican leader Charles H. Percy, was found stabbed and beaten to death in the bedroom of the family home in Kenilworth Sunday morning. Evanston, like Kenilworth, is a North Shore suburb of Chicago.

Yancey told police he drove the man to Glenview, also a North Shore suburb. Details of the cab driver's statement, along with his name and address, were sent to Capt. Maurice Higgins, head of the state attorney's corps of investigators.

DRAG LAKE
Kenilworth police, who are coordinating the murder investigation, planned to drag Lake Michigan near the Percy home today to find possible clues.

Chief Robert Daley said his men would use the Kenilworth police boat and would be aided by the state guard.

Meanwhile, a threat to murder Percy and other top Republicans came to light as investigators pressed their hunt for the killer.

The existence of the letter containing the threat to Percy and other politicians was revealed by Illinois State Sen. W. Russell Arrington, of Evanston, Republican leader of the Senate.

"ONE-WAY RIDE"
The letter, mailed in May, threatened Percy and other political figures with a "one-way ride."

Daley said he will question persons who applied for loans in Percy's campaign to unseat Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and who were not accepted. Daley said Percy had rejected reports that he had banned several former campaign aides from the family home.

The Percy family and 300 relatives and friends attended memorial services Tuesday for Valerie. Her body was cremated.

"We don't have anyone we could classify as a suspect," said Daley. He said that the scores of investigators, including the FBI and detectives from the Chicago police department, had developed "no substantial clues or evidence."

PURSUED
Arrington said the letter, addressed to Percy and postmarked in Chicago, threatened not only Percy, but former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Barry Goldwater, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., the House minority leader, and Arrington.

Arrington said the three-page letter warned the GOP leaders to be "careful of what you say," and was signed, "The Boys

Nation's First Lady Greeted By Pickets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pickets and politics loomed large as the nation's First Lady pursued culture and beauty on a two-day California visit.

Some 300 chanting, placard-waving anti-Viet Nam demonstrators awaited Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson at the opening Tuesday night of the San Francisco Opera.

"Hey, hey, LBJ! How many kids did you kill today?" they chanted over and over.

Police held them back at the carriage entrance amid linnosines and formally clad first nighters.

IGNORED
Mrs. Johnson entered via another entrance with a Secret Service escort, where she walked past about 50 pickets in her flowing gold brocade and green chiffon gown, paying no attention and displaying a set smile.

The pickets' placards directed harsh words at the First Lady, who has espoused a cause of beautification across the country.

"Beautify Viet Nam, bring U.S. troops home," said one sign.

"A SHAME"
Some of the first nighters expressed resentment at the intrusion on their big social occasion. Former CIA Director John A. McCone said it was "a shame" and said the demonstrators

Texas City's Cops Resign

BRENNHAM, Tex. (AP) — This small Southeast Texas city's six patrolmen resigned Tuesday after they were refused wage increases of $50 a month.

The action came on the eve of the opening of the Washington County Fair and left the city of about 8,000 with only two night watchmen, two dispatchers, a meter man and Police Chief Arthur Sternberg on duty.

County Sheriff Johnny Schulte offered the assistance of his two deputies in patrolling the city.

Mayor Reese Lockett, who helped direct traffic at one of the Brenham schools Tuesday, said he will employ two Blinn Junior College students to assist with traffic. He said he also will advertise for police officers to fill the jobs at the present salaries.

The officers, who first met with city officials Aug. 11, are objecting to a $315 monthly salary and are asking more help at night and a city judge to handle their cases.

Officials said the city had offered a five per cent increase, or about $15 a month, as a compromise because the city budget

"could not stand" a bigger wage offer. The six officers are Assistant Police Chief Raymond Krause and officers Hank Schroeder, Raymond Thaler, Alfred Becher, Joe Christinek and Elwood Goldberg.

Clear, Cool Weather Stays

By The Associated Press
Mostly clear and rather cool weather lingered across most of Texas today and coast dwellers kept a cautious eye on tropical storm Hallie in the Gulf of Mexico.

There were a few patches of clouds in the Panhandle, and thick fog reduced visibility to zero around Dalhart in early morning.

At 4 a.m. the Weather Bureau reported Hallie, the eighth such storm this season but the first to attract much attention in Texas, stood about 130 miles north-northeast of Veracruz, Mexico.

Packing top winds estimated at no more than 50 miles per hour near the center, Hallie was described as a quite small storm. There was no indication when or if it might grow into a hurricane.

Forecasters figured the storm was drifting south-southwest toward the coast of Mexico at about 6 m.p.h. and said it was expected to stay on that course.

Except for a possibility of a few Panhandle showers by Thursday, no change in the Texas weather pattern was predicted.

MISS PAT WILEY

Unusual Items Fill Kit For Travel In India

By JO ANN PHINIZY
Iodine pills, a soil-testing kit, books on the Teluga dialect, poultry and fertilizers, and a Texas flag—these are among the items found in Miss Pat Wiley's luggage. Where she is going, they will be among the most useful items she has ever owned.

Miss Wiley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wiley, 2400 Robb, is leaving Thursday for Andhra Pradesh, India. She will be a Peace Corps volunteer.

Each of the items in her "kit" will have its own particular use in the two years to come.

The iodine pills will go everywhere with her. They will be used to purify any water she drinks.

As she explained, "It takes a while for the American body to adjust to foreign food and water, and sick time is that much wasted toward getting the project done."

"This is also the reason five of us have been assigned to a house and a cook, who will cook things our way, and am I ever glad of that. While we were in training in Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., we ate Indian food. It's so hot it makes Mexicans look like sissies."

In India, Pat's particular block of interest happens to be in raising chickens. It was a subject she was assigned, although her major and graduate work at North Texas University, Denton, was in history and government.

"Almost all the castes in India will eat chicken," she said. "And I'll admit, I can remember when I didn't know too much about poultry—but I do now. And I also know where to

P-TA Greets Parents

Approximately 175 attended the annual "Parent's Night" at the Monday evening meeting of the Runnels Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association. The affair was held in the school gymnasium with Roscoe Newell, principal, presiding.

Paul Chappell gave the invocation, and Mary Ellen Hedges led the "Pledge to the Flag." Gary Hinds, student council president, introduced council officers, and Mrs. Gerald Bennett introduced P-TA officers.

Guest speaker was Sam Anderson, superintendent of Big Spring schools. He reported on the progress of school remodeling and plans for future construction.

find answers for what I don't know."

Among other things Pat has learned is the intricate governmental process in India. She has been told that the state she is going to is largely Communist. It has been explained that setting a quiet example of democracy is more effective than an abstract argument.

Respect and understanding for the caste system is another area Pat has learned.

"The Indians want to learn," she said, "but they are locked in by their life's station. A person of a different caste cannot teach out of his class, or the teacher loses respect."

"That's one of the main purposes of the Peace Corps. If two people of different castes see an American working at digging ditches or chasing chickens, they begin to think it's all right for them to do the same. And every crack in tradition helps them to build a better life."

The Texas flag? It will be hoisted in Andhra Pradesh, India, on such dates as the San Jacinto Battle, the Fall of the Alamo and Texas Independence.

Pat has also discovered that, if the Indians think they have a caste problem, they should try being a peaceful Texan in the midst of Yankee-type Peace Corpsmen. It just can't be done—so why try?

Gift Party Honors New Bride

Mrs. Bob Griffith was honored with a bridal shower Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. James W. Shaw, 2709 Rebecca. Cohostesses were Mrs. Walker Reed, Mrs. J. L. Farris, Mrs. O. D. Landrum, Mrs. L. S. Bonner, Mrs. W. A. Brown, Mrs. M. A. Long, Mrs. Byron Conway, Mrs. Marshall Box, Mrs. Zula Reeves and Mrs. Adele Smith.

Refreshments were served from a polished table centered with a miniature bird cage holding love birds and surrounded by blue morning-glories and candles.

White carnation corsages were presented to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Lloyd Duncan; and her mother-in-law, Mrs. J. M. Griffith.

Fifty guests registered, and the hostesses' gift was a steam iron.

Matthew Studied By Church Circle

Miss Helen Ewing, 707 E. 15th, was hostess to the Martha Foster Circle of Wesley Methodist Church Tuesday morning in her home. Miss Ewing presided and the opening prayer was by Mrs. Don Crockett.

Mrs. Jesse Barker gave the devotion, and Mrs. Crockett led the study of Matthew. The meeting closed with prayer.

Mrs. Ben Boadle, 111 Jefferson, will be hostess to the circle Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

Lions Auxiliary Plans Barbecue

Plans to assist with the Lions Club annual pre-football barbecue supper were approved during the Tuesday evening meeting of the Evening Lions Club Auxiliary. The members met at the home of Mrs. Lucian Jones, 1202 W. 16th.

The barbecue will be held Friday evening at the Downtown Tea Room.

Mrs. David Yater presided, and the next meeting will be Oct. 18 at the home of Mrs. C. M. Perkins.

REGISTER FOR BRIDGE CLASS

A Beginner bridge class will start Tuesday, Sept. 27, at the YMCA which will be open to both men and women interested in learning or improving their game. George D. Pike, a member of the American Bridge Congress and director of duplicate bridge at Costen Country Club, will be the instructor. Classes will be held for eight weeks, every Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. You may register at the YMCA by calling AM 7-8234.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Here it is the first day of autumn and the grass is greener and thicker than it has been all summer. We've seen many summers when at the height of the growing season the vegetation was not as green as it is now. The fall gardens have grown so fast that the foliage has gone away and left the fruit of the vines.

We have some okra plants that are big and sturdy and beans that have great, big leaves and corn that has shot right straight up, but the little bean blossoms can't keep up with the vines and the okra seems to have all gone to stalk and leaves; and I can't figure out what's happening to the corn... don't think it's going to be for anything but shade for whatever comes along to eat the bean and okra plants.

But the pyracantha berries are thriving on the unusual amount of moisture, and they are out in all their orange and red glory—and thick as they can get. In fact, those berries are about the only things in town that have any appearance that lends one to think of fall unless it's that little cool touch we are feeling each morning and evening. And that, too, is probably because we've had so much rain.

The two eldest sons of DR. and MRS. JOHN H. FISH are in school again. JOHN FISH JR., who graduated from Texas Technological College in June, is now beginning his first year in medical school at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston and has pledged Phi Chi fraternity. GARH FISH is an advanced sophomore and was notified this summer that he was one of 85 in the school of arts and science to make a 4 point average during his freshman year at Texas Tech.

LT. and MRS. KEN SEALE of Reese AFB in Lubbock were here Sunday to visit LT. and MRS. JERRY McMAHON. The lieutenants were roommates when they were stationed in England.

MR. and MRS. DON BRYANT of Lamesa spent the weekend here with their parents, MR. and MRS. ORVILLE BRYANT.

With the OMAR JONES family for the weekend was her sister-in-law, MRS. CONNOR TAYLOR of Rowlett.

MRS. PREACH MARTIN is in Borger visiting her daughter and plans to return here Friday.

Mrs. E. A. Guinn Hosts Circle

Mrs. E. A. Guinn, 3616 Dixon, was hostess for the Lalla Baird Circle of the Wesley Methodist Church Tuesday morning. Prayers were given by Mrs. Jarrel Sharp and Mrs. S. L. Thurman. Mrs. Guinn presented the program, and guests welcomed were Mrs. Lewis Franklin and Mrs. Barry McLean.

Students Depart For Area Schools

KNOTT (SC) — Students leaving for their colleges are Windell Lloyd, Howard County Junior College; Robbie Merle Brown, Texas Tech; and Beverly Shockley to attend college at Denton.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lloyd were Mrs. R. J. Reed and son of Comanche and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robertson, O'Fallon, Mo.

Mrs. Jim Edwards, Lamesa, is a guest of the David Davidsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Shockley of Ralls were weekend guests of Mrs. Ethel Shockley and the Bill Shockleys.

VIET NAM WAR SPLIT

Party Lines Begin To Emerge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Party lines on the issue of the Viet Nam war are beginning to emerge amid heavy political campaigning between House Republicans and Democrats.

"Great Society" legislation such as the present House has approved — frequently by narrow margins.

"We are not going to make Viet Nam a political issue," Rep. Charles E. Goodell of New York told a news conference Tuesday as GOP leaders commented on a white paper they issued Monday night.

Democrats were quick to come to President Johnson's support. The GOP statement, said Rep. Ed Edmondson of Oklahoma, is "a piece of very obvious campaign political propaganda which offers nothing."

Why Is It Equinox When Day And Night Are Unequal?

By SAM BLACKBURN

Well, it seems that it goes this way: In astronomy, equinox refers to the time of the year when the day and night are equal in length—12 hours apiece.

Actually, the official score-sheet shows that sunrise on Sept. 23 is 6:35 a.m. and sunset at 6:42 p.m. (How it happens that the real day, when sunrise and sunset are exactly the same time, is not the equinox nobody explains.)

The vernal equinox is March 21, but it's on March 18 that the sun comes up at 6:55 a.m. and goes down at 6:55 p.m.

Revolt Against Powell Veers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The revolt against Rep. Adam Clayton Powell has taken a new turn, aimed away from a head-on clash between Powell and his chief challenger, Rep. Sam M. Gibbons, D-Fla.

Officially, summer ends and fall begins at 5:43 a.m. Thursday with the advent of the autumnal equinox. It closes out the engagement of the summer solstice and it should start setting things in shape for the entrance of winter 39 days, 23 hours and 26 minutes later.

There are many folk, particularly those advanced in years, who will tell you that the reason for the wretched, coolish weather we have been having is the approach of the equinox.

Snyder Boasts Great Backs, Steers Told

The warning flags are flying around the Big Spring High School football camp. The Steers, preparing for their first home game of 1966, have been told by scout Don McDonald that their next opponents, the Snyder Tigers, are better than any team the locals have faced this season.

That is quite a statement. Big Spring has lost to Lamesa, 15-0, and won over Plainview, 8-0, with final minute touch-down.

Snyder came from behind to topple Andrews, 14-13, and then routed Stamford, 19-0.

McDonald says the Tigers have four excellent backs in Murry Bowden, Curtis Clay, Mario Tavarez and Rick Hall who can "break and go all the way" at any time.

Bowden plays both offense and defense. Keith Miles, the Snyder mentor, uses Bowden as linebacker on defense. Murry also serves as one of the Snyder co-captains.

Clay, a 170-pounder, Tavarez and Hall divide time at the ball carrying chores and all are capable hands, McDonald said. Hall, operating from the left half-back spot, is Bowden's favorite passing target. All are good blockers.

McDonald told the Longhorns that the Snyder linemen are average in size and ability but make the most of their opportunities. They fire quickly both offensively and defensively.

"You had best get ready to hit because they hit you," McDonald told the Steers. "They start when the first whistle blows and never let up."

McDonald said, in order for the Steers to win, they might show an improvement over their game last week.

Although Snyder's first unit is considered strong, the Tigers have a thin bench and cannot afford to get anybody hurt. Big Spring is in much the same shape.

Snyder had a decided edge in team speed and likely will try to use it to good advantage against the Steers. Too, the Tigers have a much better passing game than either one of the teams the Steers have faced, the scouts say.

After this week, the Steers are not scheduled to play again until Oct. 7, at which time they open their conference season against Midland Lee here.

Israel Lang Eagle Star

NEW YORK (AP) — When they talked about Jim Brown's successor they mentioned Jim Taylor, Ken Willard, Bill Brown, Gale Sayers, Tim Brown. Nobody even thought of Israel A. Lang of Tennessee A&I.

Lang, a third-string fullback with the Philadelphia Eagles at training camp, running behind Earl Gros and Tom Woodeshick, leads the National Football League's rushers with 179 yards in two games.

When he opened against St. Louis it was only his second NFL start, but he gained 65 yards in 16 carries. Last Sunday, he rolled up 114 yards on 16 bursts, the only 100-plus game in the league so far.

Lizzy, a 6-foot-1, 232-pounder with a mustache, holds a slim edge over Sayers, the Chicago Bears' wonder boy. He turned up the big play for the Eagles time after time against Atlanta.

Don Meredith's big passing day against New York gave the Dallas quarterback the lead on the basis of the involved rating system used by the NFL. Although Pittsburgh's Bill Nelsen was injured in the first period, he ranked second.

Tommy McDonald of the Los Angeles Rams took over the undisputed lead in the receiving department with a total of 14 catches for 174 yards although Jackie Smith of St. Louis led in yardage with 198 on 12 catches.

Ex-Champ Is Eyeing Clay

LONDON (AP) — Floyd Patterson says he is on his way back to another title fight with Cassius Clay, but first he wants a crack at Karl Mildenberger.

Patterson knocked out British champion Henry Cooper in the fourth round in London's Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

The former champion honored Cooper for a three count in the third round and then dropped him for a count of nine in the fourth before finishing off the Briton with a left-right combination at 2:20.

"Every fight I have now I regard as one step towards another clash with Clay," Patterson said.

"I am now looking forward to a fight with Mildenberger. I think the winner of that one should have another title chance."

"Before Mildenberger fought Clay, I thought he would be just another warm-up for the champion. But I thought the German put up a gallant fight — much better than anyone expected."

"I thought even Clay was surprised. Mildenberger obviously hurt Clay with some punches."

Clay stopped Mildenberger in the 12th round of their world title fight at Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 19.

Mildenberger, who was at the ringside Tuesday night, said: "I would be honored to meet Patterson in what everyone must now consider as an eliminator for another shot at Clay's title."

Patterson said he is anxious to meet Clay again.

O's Hill Ace Won't Be In Big Series

By The Associated Press

As Manager Hank Bauer leads the Baltimore Orioles toward their first American League pennant, it becomes increasingly evident that he won't be able to use his most effective pitcher in the World Series.

That would be rookie Tom Phoebus, the 24-year-old right-hander who pitched his second straight shutout in as many big league starts Tuesday night, blanking Kansas City 4-0.

The victory reduced the Orioles' magic number for clinching the pennant to three. Any combination of three Baltimore victories or losses by second-place Detroit wraps up the flag for the Orioles.

Phoebus tied a major league record with the consecutive shutouts in his first two starts and if the Orioles had listened to some of the youngster's neighbors, he might have been eligible to pitch in the Series.

Baltimore, in a bid for pitching with Steve Barber heading a list of injured hurlers, started looking around for mound help last month. A group of Phoebus' Baltimore neighbors picked the Orioles offices, suggesting that Tom, a local boy, be called up from Rochester of the International League.

Instead Baltimore recalled Frank Bertina and after only one start, Bertina reported he had a bad knee. Phoebus, meanwhile helped Rochester to the IL pennant, striking out 207 batters in 200 innings.

When Rochester was eliminated in the playoffs, Phoebus was finally recalled. It was too late for him to be eligible for the Series but his two shutouts have kept the Orioles driving toward the flag, a goal that could be reached before the week is over.

In the National League, Los Angeles walloped Philadelphia 11-1, Pittsburgh whipped San Francisco 6-0, Cincinnati topped Chicago 6-3 in 13 innings, New York blanked Houston 3-0 and Atlanta defeated St. Louis 5-1.

Phoebus pitched a five-hitter, striking out seven. The Orioles pitching staff has managed only four complete games since Aug. 1 and the youngster has two of them. Dave McNally, ace of the staff, has the other two.

Phoebus was brought up after the rosters went to a 40-man limit on Sept. 1. He is ineligible to pitch in the Series because he was not on the Orioles' 25-man roster Aug. 31.

Frank Robinson gave Phoebus all the support he needed with his 47th home run, a personal as well as club record. Robinson also had a double and took over the lead in the batting race, breaking a tie with Minnesota's Tony Oliva.

Robinson, trying for the Triple Crown, leads Oliva by a single point, 312 to 311. The Orioles' outfielder has a wide lead in the home-run and runs-batted-in races. He has 47 homers to Harmon Killebrew's 36 and has 114 RBI to Boog Powell's 106.

Luis Tiant delivered a bases-loaded single, driving in two runs, and limited Minnesota to six hits as the Indians beat the Twins.

The Indians nicked Jim Perry for two runs without a hit in the first inning and Tiant went the distance for his 10th victory against as many losses.

Dromsky Is Base Champ

Dot Dromsky of Webb won the one-day Women's Invitational golf tournament held Tuesday at Webb, with a net score of 73 over 18 holes.

She beat out Marlene Walker of Midland by a stroke for the crown. Mrs. Dromsky was awarded a golf bag and cart.

The meet attracted 42 players, including 26 from out of town. The participants took lunch in the club house and watched a style show, following the golf play.

Other winners included:
FIRST FLIGHT — Edith Ramsey, Big Spring Country Club, winner; Becky Knite, Snyder, runnerup.
SECOND FLIGHT — Pat Gilmore, Snyder, winner; Fran Warren, Snyder, runnerup.
MEDALIST — Marlene Walker, Midland.
MOST STROKES — Millie Speros, Webb.

Lions Slate Friday Meal

The Evening Lions Club will set a table for football fans who have a taste for chicken barbecue.

The meal will be served at the Downtown Tea Room from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday. People who plan to go to the Big Spring-Snyder game that night will have plenty of time to make it to the stadium, regardless of how late they plan to eat.

Plates cost $1 each. Proceeds from the meal go toward supporting Lions Club charities.

'Combat' Still Remains Best Series Of Its Kind

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

FUNNY 'RED'

NEW YORK (AP) — That weary combat infantryman, Sgt. Saunders, is starting his fifth year of fighting the Germans, apparently without a change of uniform or helmet. But in spite of time and familiarity, ABC's "Combat" still remains the best series of its kind in television.

This season the show has moved into color, which does not really add much of a new dimension, but its change of locale has. "Combat" has moved to a new studio and the location shots are a change from back-lot settings which were getting to be as familiar as "Gunsmoke's" main street.

REALISM

The story Tuesday night was typical of the series — the carrying out of a single assignment. The job was to blow up a bridge, and the episode was filmed with attention to detail and considerable realism, but most of all, with emphasis on the characters and relationships of the men. In this case it was Saunders, well played by Vic Morrow, having his troubles handling four GIs who were on their way behind the lines to face court-martials.

After constant exposure to so many frantic new shows during the past couple of weeks, it was a relief to tune in on an old favorite. CBS' "Red Skelton Show," firmly established in viewers' affections after 13 seasons.

FUNNY 'RED'

Skelton is a funny, engaging man — even when his material is pretty thin as it was Tuesday night during an interminable sketch with Mickey Rooney. One thing that is often overlooked in this hour is the delightful singing and dancing numbers and the handsome, imaginative sets.

Skelton's show probably was taped early in August, since the comedian's monologue was almost entirely devoted to a string of wisecracks about the Johnson-Nugent White House wedding. In spite of everything, it is a variety hour with a talented star that wears amazingly well.

ALARMING

It was "CBS Reports" turn Tuesday night to take up the subject of "The Poisoned Air." It was a well-organized, provocative and alarming summary of the situation.

NBC covered the same subject Sunday, but the CBS hour seemed to probe a bit deeper, explain more clearly and point the finger more directly at the offenders.

Fulbright's Spotlight Dimmed By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright apparently will not be able to throw the limelight of public hearings on the American buildup in Thailand as he had hoped.

He is running into reluctance not only from the administration but from some members of his Senate Foreign Relations Committee, whose Viet Nam and China hearings were the forum for much of the foreign policy debate in the Senate this year.

Two committee members, Sens. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., and John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., said they believed a majority of the committee did not want public hearings on American operations in Thailand, where the United States is building bases and has stationed some 26,000 servicemen.

"I think a majority of the committee feels that in the middle of a war you don't have hearings on a country associated with you in a war," said Mundt.

Mundt and Sparkman gave their views after the committee questioned Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy Tuesday on the Thailand situation.

Members said afterward they learned little from Bundy at the closed session that they hadn't already read in the newspapers.

Fulbright, an Arkansas Democrat, said the administration official's reluctance to discuss the Thai operations in public was due to the Thailand government's desire to keep them an official secret.

Gov. Connally Due To Speak At Museum Meet

AUSTIN — Gov. John Connally will give an address at the Texas Institute for Small Museums on Oct. 1, announced John Ben Shepperd of Odessa, president of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee.

The institute — the first to be sponsored officially by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee — will be Sept. 30 and Oct. 1-2 at Woodville.

Co-sponsor is the Smithsonian Institute of Washington, D.C.

"This is the first time the Smithsonian has cooperated with a state in sponsoring an institute of this type," said Shepperd.

Two men from the Smithsonian's U.S. National Museum will be faculty members: Frank Taylor, director, and John Anglim, director of exhibits.

Garbo Films Are Attracting Huge Turnouts In Reruns

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Garbo revisited: The thing you notice first is the voice, surprisingly unaccented despite the longtime caricatures of "Ay tank ay go home" and "Ay want to be alone." The range is remarkable: she can go from a throaty laugh to a shrill cry in a matter of seconds.

Then there is the face. It has amazing plasticity as well as loveliness; the expressions are ever changing to reveal the darting emotions of a woman in love.

This is Greto Garbo in "Camille," the film that most critics consider her best. She made it in 1936 and was nominated for an Academy Award but lost to another MGM actress, Luise Rainer of "The Great Ziegfeld."

The Garbo art is currently available to Hollywood fans not merely on television sets, but on the theater screen, which is the best way to see her — only in the enormous closeups can you capture her real magic. The Los Feliz Theater here and the Esquire in Pasadena have been offering a Garbo festival.

"The past three weeks have been the best in the history of the theater," reports Bob Laemmle, member of the family that owns the houses. "Not only have the Garbo films been attracting the regular film buffs who come out to our foreign films; we are also getting a smattering of older people who want to see Garbo for nostalgic reasons."

The series is offering "Mata Hari," "Ninotchka," "Anna Karenina," and Garbo's first talkie, "Anna Christie."

"The series has been so successful," says Laemmle, "that we have now asked MGM for 'Queen Christina' and 'Grand Hotel.'" Happily, the film company provides new prints; many a retrospective festival has been ruined by scratchy, patched-up film and fuzzy sound.

How can a star remain box office 25 years after she made her last movie — "Two-Faced Woman"? The answer can be found only by watching her performance on the screen — the big screen.

Her appeal lies not only in her beauty — Mariene Dietrich was also beautiful but never impressed as an actress. Nor was acting alone Garbo's major asset. Rather it was that faintly indefinable quality of which stars are made.

Garbo was trained in the silents, an art form that required actors to interpret emotions with their faces, not by means of the spoken word. As with most silent stars who converted to sound, her face is ever alive. Her eyes express her feelings before she speaks the dialogue.

Viewing Garbo on the screen gives rise to the question: if she were now at the peak of her beauty and dramatic power, could she succeed in today's movie world?

Probably not. She belonged to another, gentler era in films, when producers fashioned romantic vehicles for the top female stars. Today it's a man's world, and movies would probably find no place for the fragile, enduring talent of Greta Garbo.

Housing Units For Aged Slated

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Housing Authority has ordered construction of 1,000 public housing units specifically for the needy elderly.

The tentative plans call for 200 to 250 units in a group at scattered locations to be built over five years.
