Troops Put Pressure On Communist Units

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen, Korean and Vietnamese troops pressed toward the sea today against survivors of main-line Communist units that have lost 513 killed or captured in three days of battle.

The allied troops, planes and artillery hammered at Hanoi regulars and hard-core Viet Cong units that have been operating in the mountains and lowlands near the coast of central Viet Nam 30 miles north of Qui Nhon.

Helicopter-borne troopers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division announced they have killed 326 of the enemy and captured 131. Of the dead, 35 fell in fighting today after the Communists shot down a U.S. helicopter, the fourth to fall under fire since the drive was launched Sunday. Casualties aboard the helicopter were listed as light.

YANKS STRIKE
The Americans were striking from the north. From the south, units of the Korean Tiger Division pressed northward in the Phu Cat Mountains and reported killing 52 of the enemy since Sunday.

From the west, South Vietnamese infantrymen and paratroopers worked toward the sea. They reported four Viet Cong killed.

U.S. and Vietnamese patrol boats waited offshore to intercept any of the hard-pressed Communists who might try to escape by sampan.

SIZE UNKNOWN
A U.S. spokesman said he did not know the size of the enemy force. In the initial contact Sunday, U.S. cavalrymen were opposed by an estimated 300 troops but the Communist force now is known to be much larger. One report said the North Vietnamese unit was the 610th Division.

U.S. casualties were reported light. Little action was reported elsewhere in South Viet Nam.

The toll of U.S. helicopters went up, however, as a U.S. spokesman reported another chopper shot down during the fighting today on the central coast. It was the fourth loss since the operation, called Irving, started.

ported that an Air Force F100 Supersabre Jet was shot down 26th miles west of Can Tho, in the Mekong Delta southwest of Saigon. The plane was making a napalm run against Viet Cong positions and was the 124th U.S. plane reported lost over South Viet Nam.

No major fighting was reported by U.S. Marines in the jungled mountains just south of the demilitarized zone, but U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese troop concentrations and infiltration routes there and 12 miles northwest of the Marine forward headquarters at Dong Ha.

TRUCK TARGETS
American air attacks on North Viet Nam were heavier than usual Monday, with U.S. pilots flying 161 bombing missions. They aimed most of their attacks at truck and water traffic and claimed destroying or damaging 95 barges, five junks and 41 trucks.

Pilots also reported their napalm and fragmentation bombs set off 54 fires and 10 secondary explosions at a storage area and transshipment point 30 miles southeast of Dong Hoi, in North Viet Nam's southern panhandle.

U.S. pilots flew 427 single-plane sorties over South Viet Nam Monday. They claimed destruction or damage to 396 Viet Cong structures, huts and fortified positions.

South Vietnamese pilots flew 155 combat strikes, a spokesman said.

26-To-35-Year-Olds Face Military Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some young men who got past their 26th birthday on draft deferments may be called to military service after all.

The national recheck could produce about 50,000 potential draftees — about one month's quota in terms of this month's draft call.

DRAFT-ELIGIBLE
A man's draft liability normally ends at his 26th birthday. But if he was deferred for any reason — often to continue his schooling — he is draft-eligible until age 35.

Deferments held past age 26 have in recent years meant draft exemption, because Selective Service has not inducted from the older group.

A spokesman said Monday night, however, that 28,153 men in the previously deferred 26-35 bracket already have been found qualified for service.

UNPUBLICIZED
Local boards were ordered to make an unpublishing move two weeks ago to give physicals to the remaining 41,780 men in this category. Under normal acceptance-rejection patterns, about half would pass the physical.

The spokesman said the completed inventory would indicate how many older men would be available if needed.

They would be placed in what is known as the fifth priority category for induction.

Some men in the fourth category — those married in recent years during a period of automatic deferment for married men — are now being drafted.

Florida Keys' Power Lines Are Snapped

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Wild and blustery Hurricane Inez battered the southeast Florida coast today with howling winds and tides and headed for the Gulf of Mexico, the end of her murderous 11-day rampage still nowhere in sight.

At 10:45 a.m. (EST), the eye of the unpredictable storm rolled just south of Key Largo. North of the center, gales hammered at the metropolitan coast line, home of 2.5 million persons from Palm Beach to Miami.

Power lines snapped and fell in great showers of sparks, traffic lights danced crazily, palm trees whipped wildly and debris flew through the air as Inez fell on Miami.

NEARS GULF
And, as she raged on along the chain of Florida Keys, toward Key West, Inez neared the huge Gulf of Mexico, with its inexhaustible supply of warm moisture to fuel the hurricane's engine and keep her going on and on.

Sea walls crumbled, and crashing surf dashed across streets and highways from Fort Lauderdale down into the lowlying Keys. Ricketty signs blew down and bounced across roads, a peril to motorists who had to brave the storm.

Palm fronds, loose garbage cans and other debris flew through sections exposed to the highest winds.

Cuba, battered for 48 hours by Inez last week, found her coming right back. Evacuation of the island's north coast from Caibarien in Las Villas Province to Vahia Honda in Pinar del Rio Province was begun on an emergency basis.

A high-pressure area building over the Gulf kept Inez going on her west-southwest course, and forecasters said she would pass near Havana on her way into the Gulf.

NOBODY KNOWS
Where she will go then, nobody could know.

Several persons injured by flying glass were treated at Miami hospitals. The excitement of the storm, which always seems to induce the start of labor in pregnant women, brought 24 of them into Jackson Memorial Hospital.

One freighter was disabled in 14-foot seas north of Nassau and another 20 miles southeast of Miami.

Rapidly rising tides pushed three feet of water across US 1 at the entrance to the keys and blocked it to traffic.

The first gust of hurricane strength, 75 miles an hour, slammed into Tavernier at the top of the chain of the Florida Keys at 8 a.m. Gales hitting a 60-mile clip hammered at the coast from Jupiter, north of Palm Beach, south to the Keys.

Remains of homes in Los Cocos, on the Barahona Peninsula of the Dominican Republic, lie in wake of Hurricane Inez as victims await supplies flown in by U.S. Navy helicopters from the carrier USS Boxer Sunday.

The toll in the Dominican Republic was today put at 67 known dead, 25 missing and $1.5 million damage to crops. (AP WIREPHOTO from U.S. Navy)

Dallas Buses Start Rolling

DALLAS (AP) — City buses started rolling on schedule again today after a day of crippled traffic as Dallas Transit System drivers held a "continuous meeting" to back demands for more pay.

The drivers voted 237 to 164 to go back to their jobs about 12:30 a.m., taking the secret ballot at the end of a 90-minute session. Management had said that any failing to return would be considered to have resigned.

WALK OUT
More than 500 attended the meeting of Local 1338 of the Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, but many walked out at word the vote would be taken on whether to resume work or merely to meet once more.

A transit system spokesman reported the first shift started on schedule at 3:42 a.m. Others followed.

Odessa Man Dies When Auto Flips

ANDREWS, Tex. (AP)—Jack Selman, 39, Odessa, was killed today when his car rolled on Texas 115 west of Andrews. Highway patrolman Buff Angel said Selman, on his way home from work at a drilling operation, apparently fell asleep driving.

BACKS BOARDING
In Key Largo, power failed at 8 a.m. Clerks in boarded hotels and bars, who had been through this many times before, trimmed and lit hurricane lamps.

Many of the two million residents of the area had gone to bed believing they were out of danger. They awoke in the early morning darkness to the crashing thunder of wind and rain.

More Moisture Covers County

Rain, not welcome by cotton and grain farmers, came again to Howard County Tuesday morning.

At midmorning, with the show-er still under way, more than half an inch had fallen on Big Spring. Scattered reports indicated the rain was general over the county at large.

The rain was heavier to the north with both Knott and Fairview — where important cotton crops need sunshine and not moisture — reporting half an inch at 9 a.m. The Edwards Ranch also reported half an inch.

Forsan, to the south, had the heaviest rain reported, however—three quarters of an inch. The rain in that area was not unwelcome since most of the land around Forsan is devoted to ranching and more moisture on pastures can do nothing but good.

In Sterling County heavy rains fell early today ranging up to as much as an inch and a half.

The U.S. Experiment Station had gauged 41 inch at 8 a.m. and by 11 a.m. the station reported the total was above half an inch.

Other scattered reports showed 25 inch at Gay Hill; 25 at Vealmoor; 10 at Luther; 25 at Vincent and only a trace at Ackerly. No reports could be obtained from Elbow and Lomax.

UF Divisions Launch Drive

The metropolitan and special gifts divisions of the United Fund kicked off this week, as the UF treasury expanded to $21,565.79.

Most of the money collected so far has come from Clyde McMahon's big gifts campaign. Another $2,590 from that section filled UF coffers Monday.

Handling the Jaycee-operated metropolitan division is Lt. John Slaughter, and working on the special gifts drive is John Taylor.

Webb AFB collections have started to trickle in, according to Lt. Col. Julian Baird, who is directing the Webb drive. Most of Webb's big UF push will begin Oct. 15 and end Oct. 30, the two pay days of this month for Webb personnel.

The UF drive, which is expected to run throughout the month, hopes to collect $139,877.51 as this year's budget. Fourteen agencies are served by the United Fund.

Chrysler Layoffs Starting

DETROIT (AP) — Five days after introducing its new cars, Chrysler Corp. today took action to lay off more than 38,000 workers across the country by Thursday because of a stamping plant strike.

The nation's third-largest auto firm said it may idle virtually all its hourly rated labor force of 110,000 by the end of next week if a United Auto Workers strike is not ended at Chrysler's biggest stamping plant, in Twinsburg, Ohio.

Meanwhile, 4,850 UAW workers struck the main assembly plant of Ford Motor Co. of Canada at Oakville, Ont., Monday and 400 union members walked out of a General Motors Corp. parts depot at Livonia, Mich.

SHUTDOWNS
Chrysler began plant shutdowns Monday by laying off 8,100 workers at its Hamtramck assembly plant in suburban Detroit.

Lynn A. Townsend, Chrysler president, said 14,300 workers would be sent home at the end of their shifts today in two assembly plants at Detroit and one at Newark, Del. Another 15,900 will be laid off at the close of shifts Wednesday in assembly plants at Belvidere, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo., and Windsor, Ont., the firm said. An additional 1,800 are slated for layoffs at the Los Angeles assembly plant at an undetermined time.

BIG CRIMP
The shutdowns put a big crimp in Chrysler's production of 1967 models, and Townsend said the Twinsburg walkout "will benefit General Motors and Ford." The firm reported its sales in the last 10 days of September, including two days with 1967 models, were 16 per cent higher than in the same period of 1965.

The 4,300 UAW members struck the Twinsburg plant last Thursday, the day Chrysler introduced its 1967 models.

Annual FFA And 4-H Club Pig Show Opens Wednesday

The twenty-first Annual Howard County FFA and 4-H Club Pig show gets under way at 8 a.m. Wednesday at the Howard County Fair Grounds barn in west Big Spring.

Paul Gross, county agent, who is superintendent of the show, estimated today 120 pigs will be entered by the 4-H Club and FFA members of the county.

Weighing the animals starts at 8 a.m. All pigs to be entered in the show must be on hand and accepted by noon.

hibitors in getting their pigs in shape for the show. Judging is set for Thursday morning, and Gene Gaston, Springlake, will be the judge.

Approximately $200 will be awarded in premiums to the successful young exhibitors. There will be prize money for first 10 places in each weight and breed division.

A grand champion and reserve champion of the entire show will be selected, and trophies will go to the showmen who own and show the animals.

The show is sponsored by the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce, and it is entirely free to the public.

Gross said that the weather of Tuesday posed some difficulties in connection with the show because there is still some preparations to be completed at the fair barns.

If it should rain on Wednesday the task of staging the show will be materially increased.

CHICAGO TRIP ENDS IN LONDON

Grandma Enjoys Plane Mixup

By JAMES F. KING
LONDON (AP) — An American great-grandmother who boarded an airliner in Chicago for Los Angeles wound up today in London.

"My friends will never believe this," chuckled Josephine Griffin, 60.

She thoroughly enjoyed the mixup. As she boarded another plane for her home in Los Angeles after getting a warm reception here, she said:

Trans World Airlines said that her extra flights — Chicago to London 3,935 miles, London to Los Angeles 5,897 miles — were free.

Mrs. Griffin is a dietitian and works for the Los Angeles Board of Education.

She went to Chicago two weeks ago to spend her vacation with her sister, Lila Long, and Monday night boarded a TWA jet at O'Hare Airport, sat in seat 22C, and settled down for her return home.

"No mention was made of Los Angeles, and I just thought there had been a mistake. A half hour later a steward came around with disembarkation cards. Then the excitement started. The captain came and talked with me and said there was nothing he could do or that I could do, but I would be looked after at London and put on a plane home. Everyone was very kind."

Powell Guilty Of Contempt

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., has been found guilty of civil contempt for a second time in a defamation of character suit against him.

State Supreme Court Justice Harry B. Frank, in his decision Monday, said that if Powell appeared before him Friday, he could avoid a second civil arrest warrant being issued against him.

Early in 1964 the Harlem Negro congressman was found guilty of civil contempt for not paying a $33,000 judgment against him by Esther James, a Negro charwoman whom he called, on a television program, a "bag woman" — a collector of graft for corrupt police.

After failing to collect that sum, Mrs. James filed another suit charging that Powell had transferred ownership of his Puerto Rican home to avoid payment. That judgment stands at about $151,000, including interest.

This week or next Powell is ordered to stand trial on a criminal contempt charge, which essentially parallels the civil charges.

Congressional immunity is not afforded congressmen found guilty of criminal contempt, a crime punishable by a maximum jail sentence of one year.

Sterling County Has Good Rains

STERLING CITY (SC) — This area came in for another good soaking today.

Starting at 5 a.m., rains blanketed the area, ranging from 2.50 inches to two miles south of here, to a quarter of an inch in western Sterling County. Everywhere, however, it was still raining at mid-morning.

At the west edge of Sterling City 1.30 had been measured, while in the northeast part of town there had been 1.50. The northwest tip of Sterling County had half an inch, the eastern part 1.8 inches. Pastures, already in excellent shape, were given another surge, and more stock water was put out.

the incident, which occurred on Aug. 21, then instructed Wayne Burns, district attorney, to inform the court that Dan Saunders, sheriff of Martin County, acted in a proper manner in the incident. He had no alternative than to fire the shot which killed Rodriguez, the grand jurors declared. He acted in accordance with the law and in performance of his duty.

Burns said that Saunders had asked that the evidence be laid before the grand jury.

Saunders had gone to a residence in Stanton to quell a disturbance. He said he was endeavoring to arrest a man and his companion when Rodriguez, one of the prisoners, attacked him. The sheriff shot the man and he died later in the day of his wounds.

The grand jury made no written report, Burns said, but merely asked that he inform Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court of its findings.

The grand jurors voted 10 indictments against nine defendants in their one day session at the Martin County courthouse.

The indictments returned were against Lloyd W. Allen, forgery and passing; James McNew, forgery and passing and felony theft; Margarito Cuellar, DWI second; Wayne

Earl Calhoun, DWI second; Homer D. Van Zandt, DWI second; T. F. Edwards, DWI second; Jesse Jerel Jones, DWI second; Weldon Marion Knudson, DWI second; and Albino Rodriguez, DWI second.

Daily Texan Rips 'Managed News'

AUSTIN (AP) — An editorial in the Daily Texan, student newspaper at the University of Texas, said today that the student newspaper situation at Texas A&M "smacks of 'managed news.'"

The Texan, which in past years has experienced frequent controversies between the editors and the university officials, said it sympathizes with the Battalion in the recent appointment of the Texas A&M director of information to be editor-in-chief of the student newspaper.

"Under this system, there is the danger that the Battalion will be less of a newspaper and organ for free student editorial expression and more of a house organ for A&M," the editorial said. "The Texan believes that this system smacks of 'managed news.' . . . The Battalion should be turned over to student control and student editorial expression with the only supervision coming in the form of a person to check all copy for good journalistic taste and libel. . . . The Battalion should be able to go on its own campaigns and crusades (even if they are against A&M administration policies)."

Vote Qualifying, Tax Paying Reported Light

County taxpayers showed up in general numbers on Monday — first day that county taxes could be paid, according to Zerah LeFevre, county tax assessor-collector. Receipts for the day were $4,445.

The office also registered 150 voters under the new voter registration plan.

Mrs. LeFevre said that the number of voters who qualified was not exceptionally large as voters under the new voter registration plan.

Police were checking two thefts today. Curtis Beard, 207 W. 21st, reported two tires and wheels stolen. L.L. Richard L. Long, Webb AFB, said his motor scooter trailer is missing from the Webb boat compound.

Mrs. Thomas Kessler, 1815 Benton, reported she lost her purse at a Gregg Street grocery store Monday. Someone took one of the locks from the City Park gate during the night, patrolmen reported.

Only one minor traffic accident was reported on rain-slick streets this morning, according to police. The car driven by Charles W. Deats, 702 Tulane, was in collision with the parked car of Russell Wright, in the 1000 block of Goiland Monday. Viola D. Nelson, Rt. 1, and Augustus A. Morgan, 209 Galveston, were drivers in collision in the 300 block of Scurry.

Police are holding 93 persons picked up in raids in western Kingston to curb a wave of violence that has plagued the area for several months.

The government declared a state of emergency in parts of western Kingston and St. Andrews Monday and sent in armed troops to help police check bombings, shootings and lawlessness which have occurred sporadically.

Six persons were reported killed and scores were injured in recent incidents. The violence was described as political, although criminal elements are believed to have exploited the situation.

Madrid, Spain (AP) — A hundred youths paraded through the streets of Madrid Monday protesting a law banning them until they are 18 from public places where liquor is served.

Y Guitar Class

A class in beginner guitar for elementary and junior high age students will be offered by the YMCA beginning Oct. 17 and continuing through Nov. 21. Classes will be held at 8 p.m. Mondays. Instructor for the sessions is Jack Sparks Jr. The fee for Y members is $10.50; for non-members, $14. The enrollment is limited. Anyone interested may register at the Y, AM 7-8234.

compared with other years when poll tax receipts were issued. She also pointed out that while the county and the junior college tax levy is unchanged from last year that the state tax levy is up five cents over the 1965 figure.

The county levy is $1.07 which is the same as last year. The Howard County Junior College levy remains unchanged at 60 cents. The state levy, as approved in a vote a year ago, is up from 42 cents to 47 cents. This makes the total tax bill per hundred dollar valuation at $2.14. It was $2.09 in 1965.

Registration under the new voter qualification system, employed this year for the first time on a full basis, replaces the poll tax requirement for voter qualification. There is no charge for registering to vote. Under the poll tax plan a fee of $1.75 was levied.

Second Lake Lands Suit Heard Today

A jury of view commission Monday awarded Weldon Gordon and others $80,500 for 389.4 acres of land in the new lake basin near Robert Lee.

This award, which exceeded that which the Colorado River Municipal Water District has offered, included mineral damages and remuneration for a gravel pit lease.

The district had offered $53,000 officially, but in subsequent negotiations had offered $65,000. This did not include any figures for gravel under a lease held by W. L. (Buddy) Johnson, San Angelo.

The three-man commission awarded $59,649 to Simpson, $10,465 to pay off the loan, $7,500 for the gravel lease and $2,885.93 for mineral damages.

A second condemnation suit was under way today at Robert Lee. The district has condemned 2,410.51 acres belonging to Martin A. Simpson and others, 294.25 acres belonging to William M. Simpson. The Gordon tract, which is known as the old Russell Place and which lies on the west bank of the river near the dam location, and the Simpson lands are the last needed in the dam site, said O. H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD. While the award was for more than the district had sought to settle, Ivie said he felt that the commission had done what it thought was fair and square.

OIL REPORT

Martin Strike Finals In Dean

Pan American's wildcat, the No. 1-B Elma L. Slaughter, completed from the Dean pool, flowing potential initially 270 barrels of 34.2 gravity oil per day, no water, through a 12-64ths-inch choke. Perforations were in the 8,829-9,450 foot interval, with a gas-oil ratio of 470-1. Tubing pressure was 700 pounds. Operator acidized the zone with 10,000 gallons fluid, then fractured with 70,000 gallons fluid. Total depth is 10,500 feet, plugged back to 9,610 feet, with a 7-inch casing set at 10,500 feet. Drilling is 1,320 feet from the south and east lines of section 80-B, B&C survey, 12 miles north of Lenora, six miles east of Walcott Field. The producer is a mile northwest extension to the Sulphur Draw (8,790 feet).

Another Pan American well, the No. 2 Irvin Snell, flowed 285 barrels of load oil on a 16-64ths-inch choke and is still recovering the load. The wildcat's perforations are in the 8,190-8,363 foot interval. Operator fractured the Dean-Wolfcamp with 40,000 gallons and an unreported amount of sand. Tubing pressure was 800 pounds. Operator ran a temperature survey and the well is now shut-in. It is plugged back to 9,480 feet.

British Gold Drain Halted

LONDON (AP) — A six-month decline in Britain's gold and foreign currency reserves was halted in September, the Treasury announced today. The reserves gained $8.4 million and ended the month at $3,261 billion.

For the first time since May, the bank of England did not have to take more than it put into the swap facilities organized by international bankers to protect the pound sterling.

This was the meaning of the Treasury's terse statement: "There was no net recourse to central bank facilities during the month."

The steadier position of the reserves is the direct result of the austerity program imposed on the British economy by Prime Minister Harold Wilson in July — and the ensuing return of confidence that Britain would not devalue the pound from its present par of $2.50.

From March to August, Britain's gold reserves fell by $495 million, by official Treasury report. Others, however, reckoned the loss to have been much greater, but said it was concealed by borrowing from foreign central banks. The September gain is believed to have been a genuine one, however small.

Under the swap agreements, foreign banks agree to lend the Bank of England money to help tide it over periods of pressure on sterling. Among the leading organizers and contributors to the scheme is the U.S. Federal Reserve Bank.

TEXANS AT WAR: GARCIA Lost Both Legs In Booby Trap

By The Associated Press

Gilberto Garcia, 24, a Texan at war, is in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Houston learning to walk again on artificial legs and says he still has a lot of living to do.

Marine Cpl. Garcia, 24, lost his legs above mid-thigh March 26 while on patrol in South Viet Nam.

Some of his men were green, Garcia said, so he went alone to check a bamboo fence around a nameless village near Da Nang.

OTHERS PAID MORE
He hit a trip wire and a booby trap, an 81-millimeter mortar shell buried in the ground, exploded three feet from him, shearing off his legs.

"Others have paid a higher price than I did," he said, glancing briefly at the stubs of his thighs.

"No use crying about it now. If it had happened in a car accident here in the States . . . if I had lost them for nothing . . . I'd probably feel real bad."

WASN'T NOTHING
"But this wasn't for nothing." Garcia received the Bronze Star for action the day before he lost his legs.

He was leading his squad out on an ambush patrol. About 400 yards outside the company perimeter, Viet Cong mortars started a pre-attack shelling.

Garcia spotted the mortars, radioed for artillery and broke up the attack.

Garcia now thinks mostly of

Best Comes First In 'The Bible'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Bible," on which John Huston labored for two years in Rome, Sardinia, Sicily and North Africa, has been brought forth for public and critics to behold.

It is very good. It is likely the best epic ever filmed from a biblical subject. But it does not sustain the judgment of Huston, who has said that it is the best film he has ever been connected with.

As he himself points out, "The Bible" cannot be compared in content with "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre," "The African Queen," "The Asphalt Jungle" and other memorable Huston films. But, for all its impressive qualities, "The Bible" lacks the singleness of purpose and consistent quality of those earlier films.

POETIC STYLE

Huston obviously set about to crack the cliches of Hollywood films about the Bible. He succeeds admirably in the first half of the film, hewing the line between the over-sacred of "The Greatest Story Ever Told" and the flamboyance of "The Ten Commandments."

The best comes first. The story of Creation is evoked with breath-taking beauty and imagination, and the Garden of Eden sequence comes off in poetic style. American Michael Parks and Scandinavian Ulla Bergryd play Adam and Eve like blond teenagers, beguiling in their early innocence.

LAST RESORT

Huston moves east of Eden to a brief account of Cain and Abel, then stars himself as Noah. The director claims he played the role only as a last resort, when Chaplin and other choices proved unavailable. Huston also assumed the role of narrator and the voice of God after testing other actors.

This produces the absurdity of Huston as God talking to Huston as Noah. But that is minor distraction in what is otherwise a delightful and impressive sequence. The assembly of the animals is handled with Disney-esque humor, and the flood itself is awesome. How much theology is presented can be debated; but Huston, an admitted unbeliever, is not concerned with theology.

ATOMIC BLAST

So much for the first half of "The Bible," which is subtitled "In the Beginning" just in case you're expecting the entire Old and New Testaments. The film covers only the first 22 chapters of Genesis.

Lamentably, the second half does not sustain the promise of the first. Perhaps Huston, script writer Christopher Fry and producer Dino de Laurentis were tiring after their long labors. More likely the problem lies with the material: the story of Abraham.

Despite the tasteful treatment of the subject and sturdy acting by George C. Scott as Abraham and Ava Gardner as Sarah, the saga only seems to evoke echoes of previous biblical films: the desert battles, the visitations of the angels — three, all played by Peter O'Toole, the orgies of Sodom, which disappears in an atomic blast.

Mercy Train Still Stands

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A trainload of supplies for the Tarahumara Indians of northern Mexico still stands in an El Paso rail yard today.

The 10 boxcars of supplies donated by residents of Lafayette, La., have been in the Southern Pacific Railway yards, about two miles from the Mexican border, since Sept. 29.

The Mexican government at first refused to admit the train, saying the Indians were not starving. Later, United States and Mexican officials announced that they had worked out an agreement to admit the train.

But the permit from Mexico City has not been received and Southern Pacific officials say they cannot release the train.

Joseph Rey, an El Paso attorney representing the Lafayette group in negotiations with the Mexican government, said Monday he expected the permit soon.

Mice Menace Defense Unit

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M University's civil defense division had a menace to guard against recently.

Mice.

Secretary Juanita Gusman called the repairman when her electric typewriter jammed.

Miss Gusman screamed when a diagnosis of the trouble was made. A mouse had given birth to five babies in a cleverly concealed nest in the rear casing of the typewriter.

The nest had jammed the machine's works.

Blackboards For Kitchen

Dear Heloise: I painted the inside of two upper cupboard doors in the kitchen with blackboard paint. Actually, it is green paint—the kind you write on with chalk and erase easily. I now have two little blackboards. I write my grocery list on one and the other I use to list odd jobs to do around the house. I keep white chalk and a small felt eraser on the shelf just inside the cupboard. When the cupboard doors are closed the lists are out of sight, but the whole family knows where to look for the grocery list or to see what chores need to be done. It sure is convenient for me and I always know where my lists are. . . . Jeanne Johnson

Dear Heloise: When wooden-clip hangers fail to hold trousers, I glue pieces of felt on the inside of the hanger. This will hold the pants securely—especially the new, slim type without cuffs. . . . Mrs. R. Craig

Dear Heloise: We use empty margarine tubs to hold chalk, crayons, paper clips, etc., and make unbreakable banks for children by cutting a slit across the top. They can also be used to hold soap-filled pads. . . . Young Reader

Dear Heloise: My son is recovering from chicken pox. I have discovered a handy way of applying calamine lotion without touching the already irritated skin. Clean out a plunger-type spray bottle and fill with lotion. Hold bottle under hot, running water to take the chill off the lotion, and spray the affected areas. This is more comfortable for the child, is easier, neater, and covers the skin more evenly. It also dries quicker, bringing more prompt relief. This method can also be used for poison ivy, hives, or any kind of skin ailment that causes itching. . . . Mrs. Douglas Ferrell

Dear Heloise: I have some plastic refrigerator bowls, and am always searching for the right top to go with a certain bowl. The idea hit me to use a felt marker and mark the lid with a color to correspond with the color of the bowl. If both parts are white, you can put the same color on lid and bowl. This has ended trying to put a too-small or too-large lid on my bowls. . . . Mrs. Larry Iler

Dear Heloise: When appliqueing small pieces of cloth to larger ones, such as lunch cloths, etc. . . . Wrapping the appliques out in a small amount of starch, iron them on the larger cloth and they will remain until they can be stitched on. . . . Bianne

Dear Heloise: After my husband passed away, I gave the boys their choice of his cuff links. I took the other links to the jeweler, and he took the backs off and made them into earrings for me. I also took the tiny lapel pins of the different organizations to which he belonged, and had them mounted on silver discs and put on my charm bracelet. Now I can have them with me constantly, and not hidden in a dresser drawer. . . . Reader

A LOVELIER YOU Let Skills, Grooming Open Doors To Jobs

By MARY SUE MILLER One girl streaks to success in business, while another seems to plod along. Sometimes there seems to be no reason for this hare-and-tortoise performance. You cannot get a job to begin with unless you are qualified. If you can do the work, what stands in the way of advancement?

According to personal experts, bettering your job depends upon how well you adhere to the accepted code of business conduct. Its first law demands close attention to duty. The second requirement is increasing your skills. Advanced jobs call for advanced abilities.

The third concerns your appearance. You must maintain the same level of good grooming that helped to secure the position for you. Finally there is a set of regulations dealing with good business manners. Some of it may seem elementary, even trifling. But often it is annoying trifles or conduct that blacklist a girl. Among offenses, these are the nadir:

Not owning up to mistakes and letting someone else take the blame for your errors. . . . Pretending to know all the answers, instead of asking when you don't. . . . Gossiping, flirting, chit-chatting or otherwise cheating on company time. . . . Yielding to irritations or gloomy moods. . . . Speaking in a loud voice at any time. . . . Forgetting the common courtesies, "please" and "thank you." . . . Disregard for older staff members, whatever their status. . . . Bringing personal problems to business, when business problems are trouble enough. So saying, "nough said!"

A Devotional For The Day

Be strong in the Lord and in the strength of his might. (Ephesians 6:10, RSV)
PRAYER: O God, we beseech Thee to blot out our sins and prepare us for growth in Christlikeness. Grant us victories of the spirit. Teach us to pray for others. Strengthen us as we spend ourselves serving Thee. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Hopeful But Still Unstable

Indonesia's return to the United Nations is of course greatly welcome in Washington. The strategic, economic and political importance of a neutral, if not pro-West, Indonesia to the United States' Asian policy of containing Communist China is immense and obvious.

However, it will be necessary to keep a fingers-crossed attitude toward Indonesia so long as President Sukarno retains even figurehead status. The realized danger of a reversion to a pro-Peking dictatorship, hostile to neighboring Malaysia and the Philippines, is evident in student demonstrations in Jakarta demanding Sukarno's exile.

The student-supported military counter-coup that put Lt. Gen. Suharto and Foreign Minister Malik in real power and broke the back of the huge Indonesian Communist Party is far from consolidated. The anti-Communist, if hardly pro-democratic, forces now in limited control of Indonesian affairs face tense and complex tasks. Somehow Sukarno's charismatic hold on the Indonesian people must be finally broken. Communist conspirators must be vigilantly watched. Most vital, potentially rich Indonesia's wrecked economy must be bolstered to give the people hope for non-Communist social progress. And finally, Indonesia must pursue a foreign policy course that will restore the confidence of its abused and skeptical neighbors and of the Western powers whose trade and aid and investment sustain that conglomerate and unstable island nation desperately.

Loss of influence in Indonesia is considered the severest setback that Red China's diplomacy, if it can be called that, has suffered since Peking's split with the Soviet Union over (among other things) international Communist leadership. But Indonesia will have to do much more than merely formally return to the U.N. fold to regain the Western and anti-Communist Asian trust that Sukarno so recklessly and ruthlessly scrapped.

By Whatever Name

Dallas got a taste Monday of what New York went through on its transit strike. Without warning, drivers for the Dallas (city-owned) buses, failed to appear Monday morning, announcing they were in continuous session.

Under Texas law, city employees cannot strike — that is they can't call it a strike. But call it what you wish, the effect of the continuous session is the same as a strike. To contend otherwise is but to strain at semantics and take legal umbrage under terminology.

It is doubtful that this will hasten any settlement; it may even impede one while parties jockey over a court order to send drivers back to their posts. It is doubtful, too, that a work stoppage will have as crippling effect as the New York strike for the simple reason that Dallas is not nearly so large and is far less dependent upon bus transportation.

In the end, this will be settled by negotiators and without continuous sessions.

Marquis Childs The Romney Movement Is On

LANSING, Mich.—You can hear in this capital of the motor state the stirring of great events to come. Preparation for the Presidential campaign of Gov. George Romney has no official sanction from the Governor, himself, who is spending most of his time on the stump aiming to roll up a whopping majority in re-election to a third term.

BUT IN THE swelling files of the names of tried-and-true friends across the country and in the plans to be unveiled shortly after Nov. 3 the launching is being readied. Headquarters will be opened in Washington, New York and Detroit. Under the quiet guidance of Robert John (Jack) McIntosh, a former Michigan Congressman, the nucleus of both a political and a nonpolitical—the independent Romney—for-President clubs—attack is shaping up.

THE PROFESSIONAL politicians in the party around the country say it's too late. Romney has waited too long, and Richard M. Nixon is even now going from one Congressional district to another nailing down the delegates who will pick him as the Republican nominee in 1968. Only by a miracle, say the pros, could Romney capture his party's prize.

Romney is, however, a rugged believer in miracles. And in a sense his own political career, beginning with his first election as Governor in 1962 and his re-election two years ago by a majority of 388,000 while voters rolled up a lead of 1,100,000 for Lyndon Johnson, is proof of the miraculous.

THAT AN industrialist preaching a lofty idealism on the rights of the individual could win in a state with the most aggressive trade union in America, the United Auto Workers, is the miracle. Romney's Democratic opponent this time, Zoltan A. Ferency, a comparative unknown who has never held elective office, has the all-out backing of the unions. But Romney made the claim before a jeering audience of the statewide AFL-CIO political action committee (COPE) that his polls show 52 per cent of unionists approve his handling of the Governor's office.

FOR A PROPER launching Romney must win with a majority of 400,000 or more. Preferably he must pull in with him Robert P. Griffin, who is running for the seat to which he was appointed by Romney on the death of the Democrat, 72-year-old Pat McNamara. In almost every talk he makes the Governor plugs Griffin, who is little known around the state.

How can Romney hope to get the Republican nomination when most of the state and county chairmen and the delegates to the convention are conservatives regarding Romney as a defector for withholding endorsement of Barry Goldwater two years ago? The answer of his backers is, first, that millions of rank-and-file Republicans want to prevent a repetition of 1964 when the right took over and nominated Goldwater. They want a winner and Romney can convince them he is their man.

HE WILL DO this by going into the early primaries in 1968 confident that he can best Nixon. If Nixon decides to stay out that will be proof that he does not believe in his own vote-getting ability. It will revive the two-time loser image.

So much can happen in the 20 months before the delegates meet in what often seems an exercise in national lunacy to pick a candidate.

But if calculations here are correct the will to pick a winner will triumph and the man whom the unionists deride as "Gorgeous George" will step confidently into the Presidential arena. (Copyright, 1966, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Natives Of West Moving South

FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Coyotes are the ones that are raiding Elk Valley melon patches here, but the farmers are the ones who are howling.

Officials estimate that 25 coyotes may be roaming the hills, and no one knows how the natives of the Old West got here. Game and fish officials speculated that some one might have brought them in originally as pets or as prey for dogs.

EXCUSED ABSENCE

James Marlow Fog Moving In On Elections

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fog moving in, things getting mixed up, and elections five weeks away.

Last spring President Johnson talked of touring the country at every chance to seek its support. He made a few trips and speeches for Democratic candidates before Labor Day, and none since.

Then in September he said he would go this month — as the campaign heats up — to Manila for a conference with six friendly Asian and Pacific leaders, starting about Oct. 28. They would discuss the war in Viet Nam.

But fellow Democrat and constant critic Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas belittled the prospect of much result from "such a cozy little group." He called the trip politically motivated.

This might have seemed right up the Republicans' alley, but they quickly endorsed the trip and canceled out the chance hereafter of accusing Johnson of making the trip to avoid testing his popularity with the voters.

FOR ONE, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, leader of the House Republicans, brushed off presidential efforts in campaigns. "Words from a President won't help anybody," he said.

And within the Democratic party, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey goaded a couple of times, once with Johnson, once with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., who has been more popular in the public opinion polls than Johnson or Humphrey.

Humphrey said, "President Johnson is a little more mature, responsible, and more in the public interest" than Kennedy. He tried to make up for this latter by saying he meant Kennedy has "a good deal more freedom of action."

HE GOOFED with Johnson by indicating publicly the President wanted him as his running-mate again in the 1968 elections. But later Johnson wouldn't say yes or no when newsmen asked about it.

The Democrats, not one, big happy family, have other troubles.

In Maryland a two-term liberal member of Congress, Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, withheld his support from George P. Mahoney when the latter beat him for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Mahoney's main talking point was his opposition to open housing.

IN GEORGIA, Rep. Charles L. Weltner, not in the governorship race at all, dropped out of the race for a third term in Congress after Lester G. Maddox won the party's gubernatorial nomination. He refused to support Maddox, an all-out segregationist, in the election race against a Republican. He can't stand what Maddox stands for.

Former Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon has listed war and inflation as this election's two big issues. He's behind Johnson on the war but not the way he is handling it, he says.

BUT REP. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., says, "We are not going to make the war a political issue." And Ford said, "Whether it becomes an issue depends on the mood of the American people."

Republicans, critical of Johnson's handling of the war, want him to step it up.

Hal Boyle Marriage Changes Paycheck Papa

NEW YORK (AP)—Nothing changes a man more than marriage.

As every wife finds out, something happens to a sultor when he becomes a husband. When he settles down to being a paycheck papa, the blithe-spirited Romeo in him disappears.

Now and then she wonders if he really is the same fellow.

For example: He used to bring her armfuls of roses — red, red roses. Now if he totes her home a bunch of radishes from the supermarket he whines, "Was this trip really necessary?"

BEFORE THE wedding he'd climb the highest mountain for her. After the wedding he complains if he has to lift his feet up while she runs the vacuum cleaner past the sofa.

Once he used to like to cradle his head in her lap before the fireplace and read poetry aloud to her. He still reads aloud to her — but all he reads is the Riot Act.

There was a time when he admired her because she was the best-dressed girl in their crowd. Now, if she even treats herself to a cheap new house dress, the tightwad yelps, "How much did that cost me? Anyway, I liked you better in the old one."

Before the wedding, nothing was too good for her. After the wedding, anything becomes just too much trouble.

ON THEIR wedding day he lifted her up lightly and carried her across the threshold of their apartment. Now he yowls like a male banshee if she asks him once a month to ferry one little old bundle of garbage out to the incinerator.

Before they were married he loved to tour the night spots with her. Now she feels she is lucky if she can get him to take her out for an evening even to attend a wake.

It still thrills her to remember how romantic he once was. But, alas, then his romance turned into rheumatism.

Is this the same fellow who used to like to help her with the dishes as he told her of the dream life they'd have together? Now the only time he comes into the kitchen is when he rushes to the refrigerator for a can of beer during television commercials.

being thin, it can be so tough that it has to be cut surgically (a simple procedure, however.)

I suggest that you ask the examining physician to write a letter saying that he has cut the hymen to facilitate examination if it proves to be necessary.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have very delicate skin. Electrolysis treatments have left my upper lip with a scarred look of little white dots. I am just about as self-conscious of this as I was of the hair. Can anything be done to bring back to the natural color of the skin? The treatments did not seem to affect the rest of my face. — MRS. B. T.

As you imply in your letter, these probably are tiny scars, more obvious because of your tender skin. Consult a dermatologist to confirm this. Perhaps he can help, or perhaps he will tell you that skillful make-up will be best. Such small scars usually become less conspicuous with time.

Der. Dr. Molner: How can a rather unsightly, wrinkled neck be corrected? — MRS. A. B. C. Consult a plastic surgeon.

To Your Good Health Tension Can Get To Be A Habit

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes continued tension? I try to relax but before I know it and without any reason I am clenching my teeth so tight that I have a headache.

A year ago I lost my husband and I had been under a terrible strain, working and caring for him. I now try to look at his death as just fate and God's will. So far as I know I am in good health. — MRS. M. M.

Your tenseness is not at all unusual after the difficult time you have lived through — and tension, like anything else, can become a habit which doesn't disappear automatically as soon as its original cause is gone.

You have accepted the loss of your husband as God's will. Why not accept it as God's will that you will gradually lose this tenseness and settle into a happier pattern of living?

A mild tranquilizer for a few weeks might do wonders in relaxing you and helping you break the "tension habit."

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband, 70, has shingles, half around his waist and about five inches wide. He hurts in side and there is much pain. What does it come from? How long does it last? — MRS. A. H. Shingles is a virus infection of a nerve, and it is impossible to predict how long it will take to subside, but it can be quite frustrating in severe cases. For the whole story, I suggest that you read my booklet, "What To Do About Shingles." (For a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald.)

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 27 and a virgin. My problem is this: Friends advise me to have a pelvic examination, including a Pap test. Is it true that in order to have these examinations the hymen must be broken?

My fiancé is very jealous and possessive and would never believe me about my virginity unless he broke the seal himself. — MISS M. K.

The hymen varies greatly in texture, and the fact that it has been broken is absolutely not an indication of lost virginity. It can rupture from many forms of athletics — tennis, bicycling, horseback riding, or the active life of childhood.

In other instances, instead of

Around The Rim The Irony Of Rights

A young woman, becoming provoked at her baby for some infantile misdeed, beat the poor child until it died.

She was arrested and charged with murder.

The woman told police in detail exactly how it was that she hammered the helpless infant to death.

WHEN HER case came up for trial, the defense attorney asked that the case be dismissed. All that the state had, he said, to support the charge of murder was the woman's confession. There was no other evidence. Therefore, the case should be thrown out of court.

The judge had to grant the motion even though he did so with reluctance. When the defendant sought to thank him he stopped her. "Don't thank this court," he said. "Thank the Supreme Court of the United States."

IF THIS had been an isolated instance, there might be no need to consider it as so important. Unfortunately, it is not an isolated case.

Every day, across this broad land of ours, criminals are walking out of courts cleared of crimes for the reason that some technical requirement of law was overlooked or because some officer, not trained in the complexities of legal procedure, failed to do something that the highest tribunal in the land has held violated something called the "civil rights" of the individual.

AN OFFENDER charged with a major felony has a good chance of either beating the rap entirely, or, if things should slip, of getting off with a minor penalty. If he appeals even the lightest sentence, odds are good that the higher courts will reverse the conviction.

When a homicide occurs, someone dies. The family of this someone is damaged and hurt. When the homicide is an out-and-out affront against the peace and dignity of the community—which is to say when it is murder—someone should be punished.

THE WOMAN cited in the case killed her baby. There were no mitigating factors. That the state had additional evidence than her detailed confession has no bearing whatever on the elemental fact that she committed murder. Why should she have been permitted to escape punishment?

Lawyers argue that every right is every privilege should be afforded defendant—that it is better a guilty man go free than that an innocent man be unfairly convicted. Certain this is true—unfortunately, the things have developed, scores upon scores of guilty persons are being permitted to slip out of the hands of the law. And I doubt if the safeguards to protect the innocent against unfair prosecution are actually stronger than they ever were.

THE FIFTH amendment was set up in our constitution to protect a person from unfair prosecution and execution. The way it is now used is to tie the hands of the authorities to permit criminals to defy society's touch them.

They say that things like this go on in cycles. In other words, that for a number of decades, the law will be strict and inflexible and punishment will be sure and certain for the lawbreaker. Then the cycle swings to the other side where the criminal may go scot free regardless of his offenses.

I HOPE we get to the end of this cycle soon. If not, the safety of even man, woman and child may be decided by lawbreakers and outlaws.

—SAM BLACKBURN

Art Buchwald Farewell To Arms

WASHINGTON — One of the subjects brought up for discussion between America, and West German officers during Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's visit to Washington was the purchase of American arms. It seems, in order to bridge the balance of payments gap, the United States wants the West Germans to buy more American arms.

The West Germans don't really want to buy arms as they feel they can't use them. The Americans maintain that if the West Germans don't buy our arms we'll have to cut down the size of our troops in West Germany.

LET US LISTEN in a discussion between an American diplomat and a German diplomat that probably never took place — or then again probably did.

"Mr. Spiegel, my government is very concerned about the cutback in your ammunition and armaments order for 1966."

"Herr Jones, I have explained to you we don't need any more American guns and ammunition. We don't know what to do with the stuff we have already."

"MR. SPIEGAL, it is not for us to tell you what to do with the guns we sell you, but my government is concerned with the flow of gold from this country. It's your duty as a free Western nation to buy as much arms from an ally as you possibly can."

"But Great Britain wants to sell us arms, too."

Holmes Alexander Viet Nam Issue In Montana

HELENA, Montana — The root of much political evil — love of campaign funds—is showing in Montana.

U.S. Sen. Lee Metcalf, who ought to know better, has allowed himself to be bankrolled by the Council For A Livable World, a far-out pacifist group which, for several years, has been financing a peace-mongering, disarmament underground in the Senate.

THE LIVABLE WORLD picks out ambitious or unwary or unconscionable candidates who are willing to take electioneering money in return for the expectation that they will support measures that reduce American military strength. Peace-through-weakness is the pitch.

Lee Metcalf, said to be strong-willed and terrible-tempered, was nothing but politeness when I called on him back in Washington and gave him a rundown on the Livable World, in case he wanted to spurn its embraces. He seemed concerned to hear that the Livable World typically recruits Western candidates in whose sparsely settled states a little money goes a long way and those special interests are in agriculture, minerals and water power rather than foreign relations and military armament.

McGOVERN OF South Dakota, heavily financed in 1962, won a narrow victory, and now he annually introduces an arms reduction bill. Burdick of North Dakota, upon learning what was expected of him, sent back $16,000 and remained his own man. Moss of Utah is under deep obligation to the Livable World, as is Church of Idaho. Add foolish men, like Clark of Pennsylvania and the over-intellectualized worriers, like Fulbright of Arkansas, both takers of Livable World funds, and what we have in the Senate is a peace-with-communism party.

BY PUTTING himself in such company, Metcalf has left his footprints

"Great Britain? Who defeated you in World War II? The Americans."

"But Great Britain held out its hand along with you came into the war. We owe her something."

"WE'VE HAD American troops stationed in Germany for 21 years. The least you can do is buy a few long tanks and airplanes."

"Why couldn't we buy something else, a space rocket or a communications satellite? Why does it always have to be arms?"

"Because we must have a strong Germany if we're to keep peace in Europe."

"That's what got us in trouble in the last time. Maybe we could buy L5 capsules instead?"

"MR. SPIEGAL, I don't like to see the hard sell, but how are you doing in chemical warfare?"

"We can't give it away. Herr Jones, do you realize we have enough rifles and machine guns now to arm every man, woman and child in West Germany?"

"Ah, but have you thought about the population explosion?"

"Couldn't we buy color television sets?"

"MR. SPIEGAL, I warn you that you refuse to buy arms from us will have to pull all our troops out of Europe, and you will be forced to become a military nation."

"How could you do that to us? We wouldn't even know where to start."

in the sands of pacifism. The issue of Viet Nam is strongly drawn in Montana because Metcalf's Republican challenger, Gov. Tim Babcock, has made it so.

"I'm supporting the President," Gov. Babcock told me in his office here. "So long as we're losing lives in Viet Nam, the war should be our number one concern, and I think it is more or less un-American to put anything else first. I believe we should see aside everything else if that is what it takes to win this war."

IN MONTANA, as throughout the Rocky Mountain West, the political contests often seem to shed the nature of a two-party election and to take on the strong appearance of a national referendum on this blazing question.

This is to say that in the several States where war talk is uppermost we may not learn in 1966 whether the Great Society has been tested. There exists in Montana, for example, a certain fatalism toward the power of the federal government. Much as the people would like to recover state sovereignty, they seem to feel a deep futility and a cheerless mood to make the best of it.

BOTH SENATE contestants, Metcalf and Babcock, are forceful personalities. Both served with distinction in World War II. The Democrat is a lawyer of some renown, the Republican is a self-made success in the trucking business.

But how much their personal appeal, their campaign skills and their general abilities will count—who can say? The people's referendum seems likely to relate to a matter that is far, far away.

Lora Ellard, 11, of Dallas was shown a picture of a bee-keeper with a swarm of bees on his neck. Lora asked if she could try it and did. "First they tickled and then they started itching," said Lora. C. J. Howard of Dallas, owner of the bees, said, "I've been stung thousands of times. But the more the better. The poison is good for arthritis." Lora was not stung, nor does she have arthritis. Carr, Tower Seek Votes In Houston

Houston's populous metropolitan area was the target today for vote appeals of Republican Sen. John Tower and his Democratic rival, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr. Each turned out for Monday night's gala opening of the sumptuous Jesse H. Jones Hall for the Performing Arts in Houston. Aides said the two would campaign in the vicinity for the next several days. Before flying back from Washington late in the day, Tower applauded a decision in which he said the Internal Revenue Service "has completely reversed itself" to allow tax deductions by teachers for the costs of continuing their education. Recalling that he had protested earlier when the federal agency ruled that these expenses of teachers could not be

NIGERIANS BATTLE

1,000 Persons Die In Tribal Warfare

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—About 1,000 persons are believed dead following five days of tribal warfare in northern Nigeria, but the nation's military government claims the situation is under control. The fighting between the northern Hausa tribe and the immigrants from the eastern region erupted Wednesday and intensified over the weekend when northern soldiers and civilians massacred about 300 Ibos in the city of Kano, 520 miles north of Lagos. UNDER CONTROL Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, head of the military government, expressed grief over the violence but told a constitutional conference at Lagos that the situation was under control. The conference was adjourned until Oct. 24. Reports from the north said Kano was quite Monday, with the city under a dusk-to-dawn curfew. Lt. Col. Hassan Usman Katsina, military governor of the north, reportedly has ordered army troops patrolling the city to shoot anyone caught molesting others or looting. The northern Hausa tribesmen fear that the eastern Ibos are trying to dominate Nigeria politically and militarily. Many Ibos, generally better educated than the northerners, migrated to the north, where their training enabled them to dominate the skilled jobs. Northern Nigeria has a population of about 29 million. Estimates of the Ibos there range from 300,000 to one million. Since tribal violence broke out several months ago, about 60,000 have fled back to their homeland.

U.S. Transport Plane Crashes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. Army transport plane with 29 persons on board—some of them wounded American servicemen—crashed at An Khe today, the U.S. military command here reported. It said there were no immediate reports of anyone being killed. The CV2 Caribou crashed while making a landing approach at An Khe, about 250 miles northeast of Saigon. A military spokesman said the craft had a crew of four and 25 passengers. The spokesman said the plane was on a medical evacuation mission, but he did not know how many wounded men were aboard. "The initial report indicates there were no fatalities, and it was made two hours after the crash, so they should know," the spokesman said. Cause of the crash was not announced.

Attendance at the Summer Nationals held in Denver in August was somewhat curtailed by the air line strike. Nevertheless, the turnout was near record proportions—even the some tournament enthusiasts had to make the last leg of the journey by bus. Today's hand, taken from a preliminary event, caused considerable discussion among several East-West partnerships when a premature double left them on the short end of the score. After East and South passed, West managed to eke out an opening bid of one spade. North overcalled with two diamonds and East doubled. He expected to take book in his own hand and anything that his partner could contribute would be pure profit. In the event that West was unable to leave the double in, and chose to rebid two

Georgia Demos Seek Congress Candidate

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Democratic leaders in Atlanta and Fulton County, Georgia's most populous area, were seeking another candidate for Congress today after Rep. Charles L. Welter announced he could not remain on the same ticket with segregationist Lester G. Maddox, Democratic nominee for governor.

Welter's announcement Monday that he would not run for a third term stunned the state's Democratic party. And it put the burden of naming a new candidate upon the Fulton County Democratic Executive Committee since the primary is past.

TV's Fantasy Fad Called Big Bore

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Television comedy is demanding a lot from its audiences this season. It is that fantasy fad, started by ABC's "Bewitched," but now spread all over the place.

In the course of 90 minutes of loud laugh tracks Monday night, the post-dinner viewers were asked to accept three outrageous premises in a row, believe in them, then laugh at jokes based on them.

There was "The Monkees" on NBC which had a rollicking rock 'n' roll quartet involved in a fake kidnapping that was a barrel of disconcerting fun. When the frugging slowed down, a chase right out of old silent films followed, speeded up action and all.

SHAPELY WOMAN
After that on the same network came "I Dream of Jeanette" whose 2,000-year-old blonde heroine is in color this season. When not in her bottle, she is a shapely young woman given to giggling and performing magic tricks.

The genie's master is an astronaut whose principal activity seems to be dropping filled coffee cups and looking nervous at the messes she gets him in. Maybe the National Aeronautics and Space Administration should take a look at that image he's a real dope.

After this juvenile nonsense, there was "The Lucy Show" on CBS. Dear, impetuous widow Carmichael usually is in ordinary human binds like being trapped on the roof, in a drain pipe or ordering furniture she cannot afford. But horror upon horrors, she too was on a little trip into TV's twilight comedy zone.

LAUGH TRACK
Lucy, calling upon ventriloquist Paul Winchell, had a long scene in which two of his dummies conversed and threw eggs and spaghetti at each other, totally without help from the ventriloquist.

It was actually pleasant to reach emotion-wracked, suffering "Peyton Place" on ABC. There was no laugh track there, by golly.

With few exceptions, programs up to about 9 p.m. are primarily for the youngest segment of the audience and, more often than not, are a crashing bore to the more mature group.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold Howe II, commissioner of education, is a big, pipe-smoking man who thinks "it's pretty important to keep your patience."

It's fortunate he feels that way. Because after nine months in his job, Howe has become one of the most heavily criticized public figures in America. Congressmen recently have described him variously as the "communist" and "czar of education," as a "foul blot on the escutcheon of decency" and as a man who talks like a Communist.

The criticism was triggered by his department's efforts to carry out mandates on public school desegregation.

SMOKESCREEN
Howe says "a great many political leaders and others have created a very effective propaganda against what's required by the law. . . (It) has been largely a manufactured smokescreen."

He predicts matter-of-factly that it will continue because, "unfortunately, it gets votes."

Far from being crushed by the burdens of his office, the 48-year-old former prep school history teacher says:

"It's extremely interesting . . . (to be) obviously involved with the central issues in society, an exciting place to be."

BLACK OR MIXED
Last week, Howe was called before the House Rules Committee. Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., told him:

"Your field agents are harassing and hammering school officials, telling them to get some Negro children in white schools."

Howe, a 6-foot-3 200-pounder, puffed calmly on his pipe, answered calmly and maintained his reputation for coolness.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower spoke bitterly of deliberate rioting "engendered for no purpose but to hurt the rest of us."

And the committee said Republicans would take steps to deal with "increasing disregard for the rights of others, creeping enthusiasm — "becoming the instrument of the President. In predicting that the war will have to be expanded, Dirksen mentioned no troop buildup figures.

He said that the question of nuclear weapons was discussed by the GOP group but only in the context of their possible use "in an emergency, if your back was to the wall and there was nothing else to do."

"DO ANYTHING"
Eisenhower said "I would do anything that would bring the war to an honorable conclusion as rapidly as I could."

This fell short of satisfying Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. He called in an interview for Eisenhower to "produce specifics" on how he would go about ending the war.

Mansfield said Eisenhower "is the best informed man about Viet Nam outside the government. The President has kept in close contact with him through White House meetings, sending representatives to Gettysburg to brief him and in asking for his suggestions and advice."

Mansfield said he does not attribute any political motives to Eisenhower's statements, although they were made at a news conference after a Republican policy meeting.

FIRE NINE YEARS AGO Sputnik Astounded U. S.

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Associated Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Nine years ago today the Soviet Union launched the first man-made satellite, Sputnik 1, and astounded the world.

Nowhere was the shock felt more than in the United States, which considered itself the unchallenged technological leader on earth.

Not only had the Soviet Union scored a tremendous technological and propaganda breakthrough, it also had demonstrated a rocket of great power, capable of hurling nuclear warheads more than 5,000 miles. The best the United States had at the time was a 1,500-mile ballistic missile.

American prestige sank to a new low two months later — in December, 1957 — when it rushed a Vanguard satellite rocket to a Cape Canaveral launching pad, only to have the rocket explode a few inches off the ground.

The U.S. finally put a satellite in to orbit four months later, in January, 1958. That was Explorer 1, which discovered the Van Allen Radiation Belt.

CLEAR LEAD
But the Russians, with their huge rockets, ran up a clear lead in the budding space race: the first rocket to hit the moon, the first to take pictures of its back side, the heaviest satellites. And on April 12, 1961, the most glittering feat of all, orbiting the first spaceman, Yuri Gagarin.

It was 10 months later before John H. Glenn became the first orbiting American.

But as the United States rallied its great technical and industrial know-how, gradually this nation caught up and forged to a lead in almost every category of space flight.

TIDE TURNS
Although nobody knew it at the time, the tide began to turn March 23, 1965, when the first two-man Gemini craft shot into orbit. It was only a five-hour flight and seemed overshadowed by a 24-hour trip just five days earlier by the Soviet Voskhod 2. On that flight, cosmonaut Alexei Leonov became history's first space walker.

Since Voskhod 2 — nearly 19 months ago — no Soviet cosmonauts have gone into space. In that period, nine Gemini craft in orbit have wrested every trip by three astronauts as an un-manned space record away from the Russians.

A total of 24 U.S. astronauts have logged 1,804 hours in space, compared to 11 cosmonauts and 507 hours.

The final Gemini flight is set for November and will be followed a month later by the first launching of a manned Apollo moonship — a two-week orbital trip by three astronauts as another step toward the goal of manned flight to the moon.

NOT MATCHED
America's Gemini astronauts demonstrated all the techniques necessary for traveling to the moon — rendezvous, linkup with another satellite, maneuverable spacecraft, and long duration trips up to 14 days.

Dirksen Predicts Viet War Will Expand Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen predicted today the war in Viet Nam will have to be expanded soon.

However, Dirksen made it clear in an interview he does not expect President Johnson to resort to the use of nuclear weapons — an action GOP former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said he would not "automatically" preclude.

"Things can't go on like they are in Viet Nam," the senator from Illinois said. "You either escalate the fighting or think in some other terms. We can't surrender and we can't retreat."

Meanwhile, others had this to say about military action in Southeast Asia:

"I THINK SO"
— The State Department: Its "information indicates" that Soviet missile specialists in North Viet Nam are limited strictly to training activities.
— Deputy Prime Minister Abdul Razak of Malaysia: "Well, I think so, yes. With the request of the South Viet Nam government," his country would probably send troops to South Viet Nam.
— Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., a leading critic of administration policy: What he called administration silence of the U.S. buildup in Thailand puts Congress in the position of "easily and compliantly — if not enthusiastically — "becoming the instrument of the President. In predicting that the war will have to be expanded, Dirksen mentioned no troop buildup figures.

He said that the question of nuclear weapons was discussed by the GOP group but only in the context of their possible use "in an emergency, if your back was to the wall and there was nothing else to do."

"DO ANYTHING"
Eisenhower said "I would do anything that would bring the war to an honorable conclusion as rapidly as I could."

This fell short of satisfying Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. He called in an interview for Eisenhower to "produce specifics" on how he would go about ending the war.

Drysdale, McNally Will Open Series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale, who has Dodger Stadium on his side, will pitch the opening game of the World Series for Los Angeles Wednesday against Baltimore's Dave McNally, who has a telegram with 7,000 signatures on his.

Drysdale's weapon, the same one that will serve Sandy Koufax and Claude Osteen, undoubtedly is more effective and is one of the major reasons Los Angeles' National League championships have been established as 8-5 favorites over the American League champion Orioles.

Junior Back

Tommy Maudin, who scored the first touchdown of his varsity career recently against Snyder, will probably see a lot of action when the Longhorns open their 2-AAAA season against Midland Lee at 8 o'clock Friday night. (Photo by Frank Brandon)

Sports dialogue: JIM MURRAY, Los Angeles columnist, discussing Lou Johnson of the Los Angeles Dodgers:

"Lou hits the fastest home runs in history, galloping around the bases as if they were mined. Home runs are supposed to be run out in ceremonial fashion as if the hitter were being carried in a sedan chair, or blessing a congregation from a balcony. Lou runs them like a guy in a getaway from a bank robbery. It was Frank Robinson who complained to teammate Pete Rose, 'leave those home runs to us guys who can act them out.' Lou Johnson acts as if he is afraid it won't count unless it is under ten seconds. He does everything but slide home. Like Pete Rose, his bases-on-balls are 3.5 from home to first. He gets to first on a base-on-ball faster than most players do on an infield hit. . . . He runs to bed at night. He is not a ball player, he's a fugitive. 'He goes everywhere like a guy being shot at,' Don Drysdale once observed. . . . He was even born fast. He came into this world so quickly the doctors said he beat the first labor pain by several minutes."

TOM GUYANT, Milwaukee Journal outdoor writer: "Exhaustive research convinces me that fishermen would rather talk about fishing than fish for fish. Interviews made over a weekend of talking and fishing reveal that for every hour spent in active fishing 11.368 hours are spent planning it, reliving it or just talking about it. This will shock those planners who look upon fishing as a participant sport. It isn't. It's clearly a spectator sport. What does a man do when he hooks a four-pound trout and loses it? Throw his rod and reel away? Of course not. He goes back to the cabin and talks about it. Some people would say he lies, and perhaps a few brassies lies do find their way into the conversation. But so what? Nobody criticizes golf."

CASSIUS CLAY: "After I fight Cleveland Williams in Houston, I'm going to take a four months' rest. I'm finding it harder and harder to get out of bed every morning."

MINNESOTA FATS, the famed pool player, who gave a series of exhibitions here last week: "My big mission in life is to break down the prejudices connected with the game. Too many cities are living in the Dark Ages when it comes to pool. I started playing when I was three. Imagine where I'd be today if I'd been banned by the parlor. In progressive states like Nebraska, mothers bring babies in their arms into pool halls. That's where they belong. All you can do in a pool hall is play pool and maybe have a soft drink and a candy bar. But you can't buy a drink in a pool hall. I never drank or smoked in my life."

HUGH BENBOW, manager of Cleveland Williams, who fights Cassius Clay in Houston shortly: "We've got some surprises for Cassius. I don't know right now whether I'll send The Cat to knock him out, or let him live a little. I can tell you this: Clay won't answer the bell for the 13th round."

NORM VAN BROCKIN, coach of the Minnesota Vikings: "Sometimes I think we have too many stars. It looked like we had a hard time even huddling up Sunday."

GENE STALLINGS, Texas A&M coach, after the Aggies lost to Tulane: "I was disappointed that we didn't win because that was our object. After the Georgia Tech game I was embarrassed. I was not embarrassed after the Tulane loss. Our kids fought back and were giving a full effort in the fourth quarter."

TOM DAY of the Buffalo Bills: "It's unbelievable, the amount of holding in pro ball. If the officials called every time someone held, some teams would have over 300 yards in penalties for that alone."

Bauer Rugged But He Helps His Players

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hank Bauer was thrust into the role of baseball manager unexpectedly, but he can hardly be described as holding down the wrong job.

The 44-year-old skipper of the American League champion Baltimore Orioles is a leader of men who keeps the players relaxed while maintaining respect. And his knowledge of the game's technical aspects improves every year.

Bauer's countenance — a rough-looking face and a rasping voice — is enough to give a rookie the shakes.

Make no mistake, the decorated ex-Marine is tough. His language is salty and he can handle himself in a scrap. But when it comes to running a baseball team, Bauer is most understanding.

"I try to keep everybody loose, more or less," Bauer said. "I tease them and they tease me back."

Bauer has a club curfew, but concedes that he never has conducted a bed check during his managerial career.

"I get after a player once in a while — but not much," Bauer said. "I think I'm fair with them and they're fair with me. I can't ask any more than they can't ask any more than they give me 100 per cent on the field."

"People who think I'm rough just don't know me." Bauer certainly gave 100 per cent during his playing career, being noted as one of the great hustlers of the game. With the New York Yankees, he played in nine World Series.

In the middle of the 1961 season, Bauer suddenly was given an opportunity to manage the Kansas City Athletics.

"I never thought much about managing," he said. "I thought I'd probably finish my baseball career as a coach."

"But when Charley Finley fired Joe Gordon, he asked me if I wanted the job. I took it right away, and thought later about how tough it was."

Mike Leinert New Standout At Tech

DALLAS (AP)—Mike Leinert, who was supposed to replace Donny Anderson at Texas Tech, is making a big try at it—and with success.

Leinert took over the lead in ball carrying in the Southwest Conference last week with 118 yards against Texas A&M, including the season's longest run from scrimmage—a 59-yard gallop.

Leinert ran his total to 240 yards on 42 carries—18 more than the former leader, Bruce Maxwell of Arkansas.

But the most productive conference player last week was Richard Deter of Baylor, who caught four passes for 103 yards and carried the ball 18 times for 108.

It shot him into fifth place among the ball carriers but pass receiving doesn't count in total

Moore Named Back Of Week

At the University of Washington, they think Don Moore soon will make everybody forget about Mike Garrett. But all Woody Hayes wants to forget about is Don Moore.

The Huskies' halfback, who gained 221 yards in 30 carries as Washington pounded Ohio State 38-22 last Saturday, is the Associated Press' college football Back of the Week.

Ever since the season began, the Washington partisans have been saying that Moore is the rightful heir to Garrett of Southern California, the Heisman Trophy winner and premier back in college football last year.

"I expect they're right," said Hayes, the Ohio State coach after the game. His club had been two touchdown favorites before the game.

Moore, a 5-foot-9, 212-pound junior from Tacoma, Wash., was a little dazed by it all.

"Unbelievable," he grinned in the jubilant Huskie locker room. "It feels nice, real nice."

Other nominees in the Back-of-the-Week category, were Rod Sherman, of Southern California, who sparked the Trojan attack against Oregon State and ran for a 75-yard touchdown; Dicky Thompson, of Alabama, who intercepted three Mississippi passes, and North Carolina quarterback Danny Talbot, who directed the club's upset victory over Michigan.

Alabama Drops To 4th In AP Football Poll

New Yale Grid Hero Asks: "Who Was Merriwell?"

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Brian Dowling is much obliged that they're referring to him as Yale's new Frank Merriwell, but who was Frank Merriwell?

"I never heard of Merriwell until I came here and I still haven't seen any of the books about him," says the sensational all-around sophomore athlete.

"Merriwell was supposed to be quite a guy who pulled off miracles. He'd hit a home run in the ninth to win a baseball game, then he'd rush over to the courts to win two tennis matches. He'd follow this up with a 300 game in bowling."

Dowling is a little embarrassed that he is being compared to the fictional sports hero who came out of the head of dime paper-based novelist William Gilbert Paten during the early part of the century.

Here at Yale, there are many who predict that the good-looking, 6-foot-2, 195-pound youngster from Cleveland may become the most celebrated athlete in the Elis' history — Frank Merriwell and his brother, Dick, of course excepted.

Brian is quarterback on the football team, a poised signal-caller who accounted for 1,200 yards and led the Yale freshman through an unbeaten season last year. He averaged more than 24 points with the basketball team, can play every position in baseball and is varsity material in both tennis and golf.

He is a dream athlete who was so outstanding at St. Ignatius High School in Cleveland that he was sought by more than 100 colleges, including every Big Ten team except Iowa, plus Notre Dame, UCLA, Southern California, Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt, among others.

"My main aim is to go to college to get an education for a future career," Dowling explained. "Some influential men in our town recommended Yale. So Yale it was."

Brian's dad, Emmett P. Dowling Jr., who had been ill with leukemia, died in Cleveland Sunday at the age of 49. He was chief executive of the Youngstown Steel Door Co.

The elder Dowling knew he was going to die but had hoped to see his son play this season. Saturday he was so ill he did not even listen to the radio broadcast of the Rutgers game. He lapsed into a coma and died Sunday morning.

Cass Bogus, Says Hurley

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Veteran fight manager Jack Hurley said Monday that heavyweight champion Cassius Clay "can't fight at all" and the public will have proof of this.

"Eventually, Clay must fight Ernie Terrell and the people will realize this guy Clay can't fight a lick," Hurley told the Puget Sound sports writers and sportscasters.

"Clay is scared to death. If he ever gets out that will be the end of it. He'll look in the mirror to see if that pretty face is marred, then he'll hang it up."

The next match will be Oct. 16 and will be the yearly scoring match.

The first division will be the shooter's choice (any calibre, center-fire and 6-power scope) with 10 shots at 200 yards.

The second division will be the sporter class for 243 or more calibre with 6-power scope, 10 shots at 200 yards. The matches will be at 2:30 p.m. and guests are welcome.

Local fans can purchase seat locations for the Rebel game anytime after 8:30 a.m. Wednesday at the School Business Office, 602 E. 13th.

Season tickets can still be purchased, incidentally. They are priced at $5 for the remaining four games.

As of this morning, a total of 1,821 season pasteboards had been sold for Steer games.

Reeves Takes Regular Spot In Lineup

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Dan Reeves this week sheds the title of "the most regular substitute in professional football."

Since he is leading the Dallas Cowboys in scoring and rushing, has done the most to keep them unbeaten through eight games and in the words of offensive backfield coach Ernie Allen "comes up with a big play every game," even head coach Tom Landry admits that "when Reeves goes in I'm not sure who's my starter."

But he got pretty sure of it Sunday as Reeves led the Dallas assault that felled Atlanta 47-14.

"He has earned the right to be the starter and he will remain so as long as he can hold the job," said Landry. "He'll start against Philadelphia here Sunday."

This comes as Mel Renfro, who was supposed to be the starter, returns from the injury list and is ready to go.

Reeves is the Georgia boy who starred at South Carolina as a quarterback and came to the Cowboys as a free agent, rather grudgingly, because Dallas couldn't find out his 50-yard dash time.

He had a chance to go to the Canadian League and Pittsburgh finally agreed to give him a trial. But Gil Brandt, the Dallas scout, liked his looks despite the fact that the best report he could get on Dan was that he made the 50 in 5.2—which is pretty slow for a pro football back.

Actually, Reeves could make it in 4.7, which is faster than required of a defensive back. That's why he started working there, only to be shifted to offense after two weeks of training camp.

Dallas made a change this year in order to get an outside runner to take the load off Don Perkins, the fullback who handles the inside work. Renfro, a speedster, was shifted from defense to running back although doubt was expressed that he was big enough to absorb the pounding a guy gets at such a position.

And it worked out that way—Renfro has been injured much of the time and Reeves has been his substitute. And what a substitute!

He has averaged two touchdowns per game and, if he maintains such a pace, could get 28 for the season. The National Football League record is 22, set by Gale Sayers of Chicago last year.

GE Negotiators Meet At Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for General Electric Corp. and its strike-threatening unions meet at the Pentagon today with government and military officials striving to end a contract dispute that could affect the U.S. war effort in Vietnam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the service secretaries are to brief company and union officials on what Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz calls "the vital importance of continued production at GE to the national defense."

Wirtz called the afternoon meeting a procedural session and said negotiations to end the threat of a nationwide strike against the huge defense producer will resume immediately after the talks — perhaps at the Pentagon.

MILITARY ITEMS
GE manufactures aircraft and helicopter engines and other military items.

The AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers and 10 associated unions agreed Sunday to a request by President Johnson to postpone the strike for two weeks.

But some 20,000 of GE's 120,000 union employees walked off the job at four plants after their contracts expired at 12:01 a.m. Monday. Local union leaders said the strikes involved local issues and thus were not affected by national negotiations.

STRIKERS RETURN
Fred Borch, GE president, said after a meeting with three Cabinet officers Monday the strikers were returning to their jobs.

Wirtz was joined Monday by McNamara and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor in separate, hour-long conferences with company and union officials in Connor's office.

Wirtz said after the meetings that both sides agreed to the government's insistence that there be no break in the flow of munitions to the forces in Vietnam.

MAJOR HIKE
Meanwhile, IUE President Paul Jennings said the major national issues in the dispute involve a contract provision for arbitration of grievances and a cost-of-living escalation clause that would protect union members against the threat of rising prices during the term of the three-year contract.

The union has indicated it would accept the company offer of a four per cent increase in each of the three years, but only if the escalator clause is in the pact.

Texas Murder Trial Begins

KARNES CITY, Tex. (AP) — Jury selection began today in the murder trial of Johnny Rudy Enriquez. Defense motions, including one to dismiss the entire jury panel, took much of the court's time during the opening session Monday.

Enriquez, 19, of Corpus Christi, is on trial for his life in the slaying of a pretty Beville housewife. He is also under indictment on four other counts of murder.

His lawyers, Marvin Foster of Corpus Christi and Walter Long Jr. of Karnes City, asked that the entire 144-member panel of prospective jurors be quashed because they claimed there was prejudice exercised in the panel selection.

The motion claimed that the panel did not include Mexican-Americans in the same proportion as the population of the county. Dist. Judge John May dismissed the motion.

Twenty-seven of the panel were excused for legal or personal reasons during preliminary examination Monday morning.

The defense held out little hope of getting a jury here. "We don't believe we will be able to get a death-qualified jury in Karnes County," Foster told newsmen.

Enriquez is on trial in the slaying of Mrs. Kay Foss, who died after she was shot in the head and thrown from a car moving at high speed near Helena.

The youth was also indicted on charges of murder in the shooting death of a girl friend, Victoria Perez, 21; her father; her brother; and highway patrolman Darwin Hogg.

Pauline Petty, Howard County clerk, said that total receipts for her office in September were slightly under the totals for August but that she regarded the month as a busy one. Receipts were $2,495.45.

She said that her office issued 43 marriage licenses, which is an exceptionally large number for a fall month. However, Mrs. Petty closes her books a few days before the end of the calendar month. There were four additional licenses issued from the date she posted her records through Sept. 30 to bring the month's actual total to 47 licenses to Wednesday.

Elaine Malbin, the featured soloist, is equally at home on the musical or operatic stage. She was acclaimed in the London Times for her "Madame Butterfly," took the lead in "Music America Loves Best," played innumerable operatic roles, was in "Kismet" on Broadway, and was featured in "Around the World in 80 Days."

GREW UP IN AREA
Joan Wheatley, who grew up in Artesia, N. M., has been tabbed "exciting, dynamic, dramatic, thrilling." She has sung with Fred Waring, who took her on the urging of Robert Shaw, the choral director. Among her favorites is "Hello Young Lovers."

One of the most delightful musical treats in many years — something on the order of Fred Waring and Author Fiedler — is in store for Big Spring Concert Association members on the very first note of the new season.

It is the "Music of Richard Rodgers," featuring Elaine Malbin, who has been widely in demand from everything from musicals to opera; William Metcalf, resonant, exciting baritone; and Joan Wheatley with Hal Kanner, who happens to be her husband.

Season memberships ($9 and $4 for four outstanding shows) are now on sale (Mrs. E. H. Boullion Jr., AM 3-7449). Other offerings include the famous First Piano Quartet, with a special vocal passage by the Big Spring High School Choir; the highly regarded Midland-Odessa Symphony and Choral under Dr. Lara Hoggard; and Rolf Bjorling, tenor. Admission will be by membership only — that is no single admissions.

GENIUS
Of course, back of it all on the opening show Oct. 29 is the genius of Richard Rodgers, who has been composing melodic, bouncing, haunting tunes since his teens.

He is perhaps best known with his collaboration with Lorenz Hart and then, for 18 years, with Oscar Hammerstein II. Together he and Hart did 18 Broadway musicals, plus three in London, also several movies.

In 1943, he and Hammerstein meshed their efforts on "Oklahoma," an unprecedented smash that changed American musical history. This was quickly followed in 1945 by "Carousel." Other legendary hits such as "State Fair," "Allegro," "South Pacific," "Flower Drum Song," and finally "The Sound of Music" issued from his creative reservoir.

There is almost no limit to his versatility which ranges from little novel, musical sidebars to "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" and to his monumental thematic work, "Victory at Sea."

ORCHESTRA CONDUCTOR
Maltby has a rich record as a band leader and as a director of top pops orchestras for such places as Carnegie Hall. He also is internationally known as a conductor for national radio and television shows. He and his orchestra have been heard in more than 500 colleges.

Clerk's Office Has Busy Month

Pauline Petty, Howard County clerk, said that total receipts for her office in September were slightly under the totals for August but that she regarded the month as a busy one. Receipts were $2,495.45.

She said that her office issued 43 marriage licenses, which is an exceptionally large number for a fall month. However, Mrs. Petty closes her books a few days before the end of the calendar month. There were four additional licenses issued from the date she posted her records through Sept. 30 to bring the month's actual total to 47 licenses to Wednesday.
