Pens And More Pens

Bill Signed For New Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Cabinet department to oversee the nation's land and air transportation came into existence Saturday with President Johnson's signature.

He expressed hope that Congress will reconsider its decision to omit water transportation from the sweeping unification of federal agencies.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

The push toward expanded airport facilities is now under way. More than two score community leaders turned out for a discussion of the subject and decided to obtain an engineering survey of probable costs; consider an airport authority as the financing agency or in the alternative petition for a county bond election. OPENING CAR'S TOMB TURNS INTO A PARTY

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Several hundred antique car buffs and some who admitted they just liked to dig in the rain gathered under an apple tree on the West Side Saturday for a ceremony equal to the opening of King Tut's tomb.

STRONG DOUBT
They dug up Perry Andrews' Model T Ford. Or rather what was left of it after 40 years. And there was some strong doubt that what they found was even a car.

"It was like one of our little children coming home," said a representative of Ford Motor Co., which wasn't about to miss such an opportunity.

Andrews, described by his family as sentimental, buried the car in his back yard in 1926 after he had tried to give it away but could find no one who would promise to preserve it intact.

He offered it to a son-in-law, William Morris Sr., now 63, but Morris said he planned to put a sport-car body on it. Old Perry apparently couldn't bear the thought.

He died in the 1930s, and it's probably a good thing he wasn't there Saturday to see what Mother nature had done to those classic lines.

NO DIFFERENCE
But it didn't make any difference. Everybody had a high old time.

Besides the Ford representative, an auto parts maker showed up with free coffee and doughnuts and little label stickers that said "Happy Digging." The Model T Club also showed up.

About noon some teenagers went home to get a guitar and an amplifier. All ages were represented. The youngest was Jay Marquis, eight months. U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, a Republican in a close election race, also showed up to pump some hands.

"This sort of a used-car buff, I'm also wet," said Griffin.

Everybody believed he was wet.

In fact, so many people showed up that at one point Perry's Model T was moving faster than the traffic on a nearby road.

And the Model T was still under the ground somewhere.

"I thought it was just going to be a couple of guys with shovels, but this—" said Mrs. Arthur Allen, wife of a policeman and mother of four who lives on the three-quarter-acre property now.

IDEA
The idea to dig up the old car was started by Harvey Versteeg of the Detroit Historical Museum, who was looking for a cheap 1913 Model T to put in a display.

Youth Admits Stabbing Over Dog Argument

FORT WORTH (AP) — A young Fort Worth housewife died Saturday after being stabbed numerous times in the face, neck and chest. Police said a 13-year-old boy told them he killed the woman after an argument about his dog.

HUSBAND
The victim, Mrs. Sheila Gay Wright, 21, was found by her husband of two weeks, Grady Wright, 23, in the kitchen of the couple's home.

Police arrested the 13-year-old neighborhood boy a few hours later.

Officers said the youth told them he went to the Wright home searching for his dog. He was quoted as saying Mrs. Wright told him she had not seen the dog and that he then looked around her house.

Police said the boy told them that as he was leaving, the woman came out "and fussed at me for running up and down the street while my parents were away."

He said he then returned home, got his knife and went back to the Wright house, where another argument ensued.

Officers quoted the boy as saying: "I stabbed her once. I saw the blood and heard her scream. I don't know what happened after that."

Dolores Continues Her Winning Ways

Dolores Lankford's 905-pound Hereford steer won the reserve championship for junior Herefords at the Kansas City Royal Fat Stock Show.

Judging was Saturday afternoon, and Dolores' steer won over 142 Herefords from all over the United States.

The steer competed also for the grand championship of the show against all breeds but did not win.

Dolores wins a cash prize, a trophy and a ribbon. Her steer, named Red, won first place in the heavyweight division to place in the competition for the championship Herefords. The animal is from the J. C. Sales Hereford Ranch in Martin County.

Last year, Dolores won the weight division only with her steer, which went on to win the grand championship of the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show.

She was also awarded the showmanship trophy at the Fort Worth show. Announcement had not been made Saturday afternoon of the showmanship division winners at the Kansas City Show. James Shelton, assistant coun-

Hit Hard By Winds, Snow

By The Associated Press

Vicious wind and swirling snow socked areas of the Midwest and the Great Plains on Saturday and torrential rains beat Texas as residents of Iowa cleaned up after a death-dealing tornado.

13 DEAD

At least 13 persons were dead after the season's first wintry onslaught, six in Belmont, Iowa, where a tornado struck Friday, and seven in blizzard-whipped areas of Colorado and Wyoming.

Some 150 persons were injured in the Iowa tornado and property damage was high. Cold rain or snow followed strong northerly winds down the Mississippi Valley to Iowa and frost or freezing temperatures extended from the Rockies to the neighboring Plains.

Winds up to 60 miles an hour, and snowfalls of up to 18 inches caused extensive damage and virtually isolated some communities in Colorado and Wyoming. The temperature dropped to near zero overnight in the Wyoming mountains.

A tornado Friday night in Mount Sterling, Ill., left about 20 persons injured and a swatch of wrecked buildings and broken trees.

Wide Areas Made Into Inland Seas

By The Associated Press

Great torrents of rain turned wide areas of the Lower Rio Grande Valley into an inland sea Saturday, routing families from low sections, collapsing roofs under the weight of water and snarling traffic.

FIRST FREEZE

Hundreds of miles to the north, the first freeze and frost of the season chilled the Panhandle with lows down to 26 degrees at Dalhart, 28 at Perryton and 31 at Amarillo.

More than 7.00 inches of rain fell at McAllen and still the water pelted down from a stationary rain front, a product of the cold front that swiftly engulfed the whole state. Edinburg had 7.00 inches, also. Brownsville 6.00, Mission 5.04, Rio Grande City 3.04, Mercedes 2.68, and Elsa 3.00. The rain began easing off about noon.

Streets became rivers, often sandbagged to prevent flooding of houses and stores. The area at the southern tip of Texas is so flat that runoffs are quite slow.

WARNINGS
The Weather Bureau issued flood warnings for the Valley and said up to 10 inches of rain was expected. Businessmen and others were warned to protect their merchandise.

Water came up to the doors of cars parked on Brownsville streets. Firemen moved out threatened families. High wind at Edinburg downed trees. Floods stalled cars. Part of the downtown area was isolated for a while. Lightning disrupted power service at Harlingen.

Rains were fairly general over the lower third of Texas as the blustering cold front, propelled by stout north winds that stirred up duststorms in the Panhandle, collided with moist air from the Gulf.

HIGH WINDS
Tornadoic winds in East Texas demolished a large house at the Boyett Poultry Farm near Nacogdoches, causing $25,000 damage. Corpus Christi clocked 70 mile winds on the intracoastal canal.

All Texas was cool. By noon, the state was fair northward from a line linking Houston and Laredo, but to the south, rain still fell.

Forecasts called for even cooler weather Saturday night everywhere except in the High Plains of the northwest. Sunday will be warmer in the west and north, the Weather Bureau said.

MUSIC AND GAIETY HELP SET THE STAGE FOR OPENING NEW SEGMENT OF OPERATION SPARKLE DOWNTOWN

Brisk Traffic Crowds Downtown For Celebration

Band music filled the crisp autumn air, and so did gay-colored balloons; drum majorettes pranced and a friendly crowd filled the sidewalks and overflowed into the street.

It was the ceremonial Saturday morning marking the dedication of an impressive segment of Big Spring's "Operation Sparkle" project—a brand new block of Main Street.

People—an estimated 500 to 600 of them—sipped coffee and doughnuts and listened to brief formalities, highlighted by the traditional snipping of a red ribbon which stretched across the middle of the 200 block of Main.

Mayor Arnold Marshall, Chamber of Commerce president John Currie, and president of Downtown Big Spring, Inc.,

Adolph Swartz, did the honors.

Later came drawings for three cash prizes totaling $250. Then the crowds began to visit downtown stores, which, in a giant cooperative venture, drew names during the day for various merchandise awards that ran to more than $3,000. Stores had brisk traffic throughout the celebration day.

Winners of the cash prizes were:

$100 grand prize—M. W. Tolbert, 1410 Scurry; winners of each of two $75 prizes—Nellie E. Burns, 309 Bell; and Erma Beyer, 604 East 8th, Odessa. Their checks awaited them at the Chamber of Commerce offices.

The dedication marked an important milestone in a new upgrading of the central business district. A new off-street parking lot had come first; and now, new pavement and new sidewalks with lowered curbs, and attractive circular walks at intersections—all climaxing a multi-thousand dollar program in which downtown merchants, property owners and the city administration had cooperated.

R. W. Whipkey, who presided for the program, pointed out that the Main Street development is just one segment of a city-wide program: "All of us want to see our city beautified from north to south, from east to west." He further said that additional paving, sidewalk and intersection work is due in the coming days.

Recognized for leadership in the community effort were Swartz, Currie, Marshall, City Manager Larry Crow and members of the present and past city commissions who gave the program sanction.

The program had been given a gala air by music by the Big Spring High School Band, and precision numbers by a drill team from Sweetwater, the Sweetwaterettes. The Rev.

James Puckett gave an invocation, and drawing of numbers was by Debbie Duncan, Junior Miss Big Spring, assisted by Col. Chester Butcher, wing commander at Webb Air Force Base.

Mostly it was a morning of informality, with Big Springers apparently showing their pride in an improvement job they had done by themselves.

OFF THE BEATEN TRAIL

Tales Persist Of Fabulous Riches In Lost Padre Mine

By ED SYERS

Climate to culture and high beauty to long history, El Paso country is among our richest. Now add, according to this Texan, a half billion hard treasure. It hides high in the expanding Franks; its hunter is ex-Pasosan Richard Marmo, reporting from Fort Worth.

As properly with secret lodes, Marmo's authority is the late great searcher Frank Dobie; his mine, 'the Lost Padre.'

"As the story goes, you look northeast from a Juarez cathedral door (or tower) at first light. High in the Franklin mountains, you should see the mine's black mouth. So far, this attack has failed since most accounts agree the mine was filled by priests under Indian attack. In fact, part of the fill was supposed to have been red soil from the Rio Grande, carried from somewhere near the Isleta mission by Indians there."

FABULOUS TREASURE
"According to the story, a fantastic amount of treasure is hidden there in addition to the native gold of the mine itself. The priests are supposed to have left over 300 jackloads of silver . . . to have walled up

4,300 gold ingots, five thousand bars of silver, nine muleloads of Aztec jewels . . . and four codices.

"Each codex is as valuable as the Codex Vaticanus and worth its weight in diamonds. 'The mine locale reportedly has been found at least twice prior to 1930. Yet strangely the attempts to excavate were never successful . . . at least to anyone's knowledge."

"One other thing: I started calculating the mine's possible value. Even deliberately underestimating, I wound up well on the far side of half-a-billion dollars!"

Then hunter Marmo asks the inevitable, wherever lost treasure hides:

"Can you supply any additional information on 'the Lost Padre'?"

OLD FORTS

Somehow, word seems out. OBFT has run a list of Texas' old forts — not altogether true. So, for Wichita Falls' Mrs. Bess B. Davis and others, hear San Antonio's Col. W. M. Vestal: "One possible source: write Dr. Eugene O. Porter, Texas Western College, El Paso, editor of quarterly 'Password' (El Paso County Historical Society). Spring issue, 1964 contains a listing of Southwestern Military Posts, 1849-62 by Major Richard K. McMaster (allowing for a busy historian and likely repro costs). (Note: Also check Texas State Historical Association's monumental 'Handbook of Texas' under Forts, Camps, Presidios.)" Mallbox: (Write OBFT, care of The Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, or Ingram, Texas, 78025. For personal reply, please enclose stamped, addressed envelope) Add OBFT thanks for the many kind things you've written. Their omission here does not lessen appreciation.

MESSAGE TO BIG SPRING

Mexia's Tom Chatham adds an easterly scenic hill — "highest and most picturesque point between Dallas and Houston is (ancient Indian fortress-home) Tehuacana Hill . . . some say it marks the beginning of the Ozarks . . ." Forwarded to Big Springs' one-room school-searching Miriam Russell from Denver City's Herman J. Whaley: "Now consolidated with Graford district, Grassy Ridge School first operated as a one-room log cabin in the 1880's near the mouth of Keechi Creek below Possum Kingdom Dam . . . later rebuilt (frame, then one-room brick) three miles south of Graford and standing today as private residence . . ."

For perhaps Texas' oldest continually operating country store, "there's homecoming at Stewards Mill (near Fairfield, Wacoways) Oct. 18. Come!", invites S. M.'s Mrs. Dorothy Bragg. (Note: for nostalgic look at Granddad's 'supermart', worth the trip) . . . Fort Worth's Mrs. Steward Wilson on a short E-Tex scenic train-ride: "The Moscow, Camden and San Augustine Railroad leaves Camden for Moscow at 10:40 a.m., returns 12:30 p.m. each Monday through Friday, 14-mile roundtrip at inexpensive fare . . . and a fun ride."

Odessa's Mrs. Clifford E. Vickrey: ". . . would appreciate any information concerning the 'Tompleson Estate' located somewhere along the Pecos River in Pecos County . . . any details, including if still in existence under this name."

Special to Grandfalls' Mrs. Elton Graham: See your nearest bookstore first; they're in the business, can order for you.

Newspaper Editors Think Carr Holds Slight Edge

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr holds a slight edge over U.S. Sen. John Tower in their battle for the U.S. Senate seat from Texas, a cross-section of newspaper editors and publishers showed last week.

The ratio is 55 to 45 per cent in favor of Carr. Only one of those polled gave Tower the edge. This was the Abilene Reporter-News which indicated the Republican senator had a 51 to 45 per cent edge, though it showed Carr gaining ground.

Newspaper executives in Corpus Christi, Paris, Commerce and Wichita Falls gave Carr a 60-40 edge—the largest of any of those polled.

The poll was made of publishers and editors in the Harte-Hanks group which has newspapers in all sections of the state. Carr being a conservative Democrat is the key factor in his election, the poll showed. Growing inflation and the war in Viet Nam were listed as two major issues.

The San Angelo Standard-Times gave Carr a 55 to 45 per cent edge, as did the Denison Herald, Big Spring Herald and the Greenville Herald-Banner.

The Standard-Times listed these as the decisive issues: "Tower's inability to show he has been an effective voice, the fact that the majority of Texas voters are conservative but not rightist enough to keep supporting Tower, moderates but not liberal enough to be satisfied with continually operating country store, 'there's homecoming at Stewards Mill (near Fairfield, Wacoways) Oct. 18. Come!', invites S. M.'s Mrs. Dorothy Bragg. (Note: for nostalgic look

Trantham Trial Is Due Monday

Carroll Trantham will go to trial on Monday as the first case to be called before a jury in 118th District Court.

Judge Ralph Caton Friday afternoon overruled the most recent of a sea of motions filed by Gil Jones, attorney for the young defendant. This apparently clears way for the case to begin at 10 a.m. Monday.

This was a motion asking a continuance of the case and also seeking other relief which

Jones contended his client is entitled to receive from the state.

The continuance plea was based on the outcome of a polygraph test given Trantham on Thursday by Dee Wheeler, polygraph operator, in Fort Worth.

Jones also asked a delay to permit his client to recover from a bad cold, which he said might have kept the polygraph test from being conclusive. He also asked time so alibi witnesses (Trantham contends the charge stems from mistaken identity) can be given polygraph tests.

Basic contentions of the motions had been made verbally when the court called the docket Friday morning, and when they filed in written form during the afternoon, the court overruled without a hearing.

The Trantham trial may take several days. Jones, according to district clerk records, has subpoenaed 20 witnesses, including four persons out of town. The jury panel has been called for 10 a.m.

A number of other cases have been announced ready for this

Colorado City Residents Seek Way To Save Hospital

By TOM JAY GOSS II
COLORADO CITY (SC)—Residents here are like the man in the story, these days—waiting for the other shoe to drop—and as Bob Reilly jokingly told the City Council the other night, "wishing for the good ole days when we had a private hospital!"

As Reilly well knows, the Root Memorial Hospital is still a private hospital, but likely, not for long.

Reilly, chairman of the citizens' committee working to keep the hospital open past a scheduled closing date of Oct. 15, has been promised $13,700 in county funds to keep the hospital open temporarily, probably about 60 days.

The shocker — announcement of the proposed closing—came when Charles L. Root, son of the hospital's founder, found that three months of operation under medicare had put hospital operations so deeply in the red that there was no money to pay hospital suppliers.

RELUCTANT DECISION
 "It was evident that things weren't going to get any better," Root says, "but it was with deep reluctance that the decision was made to close—because of the fact that it would leave 55 hospital employees without jobs and the community without a hospital."

Colorado City folks reacted instantly, called a meeting and vowed "the hospital must not close for a day."

The economic value of the hospital was sharply pointed up by Bennie Franks, a local Sun Oil Company executive, who told of the concern expressed by his company when they heard of the possible closing. Franks told them that Colorado City people would find a way to keep the hospital open adding, "I have faith in the people of Colorado City."

It soon became evident to the citizens committee under Bob Reilly that a lot of money was going to have to be added to faith to keep a hospital open.

NO FEDERAL AID
 The Colorado City Chamber of Commerce and the citizens' committee thought that surely there would be federal funds to help a little Texas hospital in an emergency — especially in an emergency created by a government program. Congressmen George Mahon and Omar Burleson saw no way to channel aid toward Colorado City and Mitchell County. And further, even the purchase of an existing hospital cannot be made from Hill-Burton funds.

That boiled it quickly down to set up three sub-committees — an evaluation panel headed by Bennie Franks; a legal committee with Tom Rees, attorney, chairman; and a polling and education committee headed by Bill Randle. The immediate goal seems to be a bond issue to acquire the orphaned hospital. The ultimate goal seems to be a hospital district.

WHO GETS IT?

The $13,700 bought time for the citizens' committee to try to get somebody—the city or county—to agree to take the hospital until a hospital district can be set up.

Said Frank Ginzel, county attorney: "We've done about all we can do—I doubt that we could even scrape up enough money for a bond election."

County officials wonder if the entire county would vote "yes" on an election because Loraine has a hospital. City officials wonder if ownership of a hospital would drain off so much of future revenue that expansion and updating of city services and functions would suffer. Or, if it took possession of a hospital, would it find itself in competition with another should a district come into being.

NOW AND EVENTUALLY

The citizens' committee has

Business Boom Losing Inertia

AUSTIN (AP)—The 66-month economic boom may be slowing down, the director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research says.

Dr. John R. Stockton said in a report that signs are beginning to multiply that point to a peak in the business expansion that began in February 1961.

"There are so many indications that a peak in the expansion may be approaching that every sign of a slowing down in the expansion may be approaching that every sign of a slowing down in the strategic factors in the business situation should be watched carefully," Stockton said.

New orders for durable goods in the United States declined 4.5 per cent in August and was the smallest volume of such orders since last November, he said.

For Texas three of the four leading indicators of economic change dipped substantially in July, although in August just one indicator—residential construction—declined, Stockton said.

Stockton said that Texas business activity during August generally continued to show gains over the highs that have been registered in previous months. Overall business activity in August was up 7 per cent from July, and 9 per cent over last year for the first eight months, the bureau reported.

Bank debts were up 8 per cent from July, residential construction was down 12 per cent, unemployment was down 7 per cent, and crude oil runs to stills were down 3 per cent.

"Regardless of the changes that may be shown by the individual components of the economy of Texas, there appears to be no question but that the total level of activity is still moving upward," Stockton said. Stockton said the rapid expansion of business investment in capital goods has been a critical factor in the current inflationary pressures.

More Moisture Slows Harvesting

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Just when the state's great agricultural machine began to pick up momentum, rain again spread across parts of the state last Tuesday and Wednesday. Although mostly light, it was enough to slow harvesting, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Solid progress had been made in harvesting, seeding grains, plowing and in the maturity of crops still needing hot weather during the past few days, he noted.

While farmers battled the elements, stockmen are having a hard time recalling a time when pasture and range conditions were better for this season than now, he said.

One district farm agent said that in part of his area "range conditions are the best since the Indians left and brush took over."

Moisture in the Panhandle is adequate, wheat seeding is about complete and wheat pasture for livestock is now available in six northern counties. Some grain sorghum has been harvested but most will come after frost.

The sorghum harvest on the South Plains is more than 65 per cent complete. From 30 to 60 per cent of the cotton is open but warm weather is still needed to mature cotton fully.

Moisture in the Rolling Plains is fully adequate to surplus and warm weather is needed to mature crops. Grain is being planted in dry fields. Cotton is opening slowly. Some boll rot has been noted. Boll weevils and bollworms are causing damage. Early grain is making good growth and the sorghum harvest is nearing completion.

It is too wet for general field work in North Central Texas but much land was prepared and grain planted during the few days of favorable weather. Early grains are up to a good stand.

Fall legumes and grains are being planted in Northeast Texas but the cooler weather is slowing pasture growth. Cotton is again being defoliated in preparation for the delayed harvest. Labor is short.

Ranges in far West Texas improved but the moisture slowed the cotton and sorghum harvests. Calves and lambs are being marketed and sheep shearing is on. Labor is short.

Moisture in West Central Texas is adequate but a few spots around Junction and Johnson City could use some top moisture. Dry weather will see the cotton harvest moving. Late grain sorghum has made excellent growth and peanuts are being harvested with good yields reported. Early calving is under way in Llano County. Sheep and goat shearing is on.

From 50 to 90 per cent of the cotton in the Central Texas Blackland counties had been harvested and dry weather is badly needed. Much wheat and oat acreage is yet to be planted. Armyworms are still causing concern in some counties.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Calls For Respect For Prayers, U.S. Anthem

To the Editor:

Being a newcomer to Big Spring, I have been overwhelmed by the hospitality of the local Texans. This hospitality that has been paid will long be remembered. With this warm welcome, I feel an obligation to awaken the residents of Big Spring on a situation that should concern all citizens.

Being an enthusiastic football fan, I attended the first home game of the Big Spring Steers. At this game, I was shocked to see the disrespect and apathy of the students and adults during the prayer and our National Anthem. After the game, I shared with other adults an incident that was most annoying. A whole row of cars had been the target for vandalism. The tires were all flat and it wasn't a very happy experience changing tires after such a victory.

After last week's game, I did not share the same car experience, but I did witness the same disrespect and apathy of the individuals that choose not to pay the respect to our National Anthem and prayers. To see individuals running, laughing, making all kinds of noise during our National Anthem causes one to wonder what is happening in this great country of ours.

Could it be that these individuals are not aware of what the National Anthem and American flag represents? Some of the students and adults may not be aware that American men are fighting and dying in South Viet Nam for the very principle this great country stands for... freedom. The American flag represents what men have fought and died for through the past wars. It displays the freedom that you are enjoying in your every day life.

Residents of Big Spring: Inform yourselves, inform your children. Respect the American flag and prayers at any public gathering. We owe it to our country and to the American men fighting for not only the freedom of South Viet Nam, but also for the future freedom of our great country... The United States of America.

BIG SPRING HAS SPOTLIGHT IN ISSUE OF TEXAS PARADE

Big Spring is getting state-wide and, in a more limited way, national publicity of a highly complimentary nature this month.

Texas Parade, a magazine sponsored by the state, has an eight-page, generously illustrated feature titled "The Bigness of Big Spring" in its October issue.

Prepared by William B. Alderman, editor of the magazine, with the cooperation of Big Spring civic leaders, the article features color photographs of exceptional quality of Big Spring and area.

There are 22 colored illustrations including an impressive picture of the "Big Spring" and another of Cosden Refinery.

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce has arranged for 5,000 copies of a reprint of the article in full color and these will have additional color plates. These will be used to answer queries by industrialists and others interested in Big Spring as a possible base of operations.

Stone Or Fish?

This newcomer to Marineland of the Pacific near Portuguese Bend, Calif., is the dreaded stone fish, most poisonous fish in the world. Its venom is so deadly that one short stab from any of its 18 spines can cause instant death. The fish, described as "having no redeeming features," weighs about two pounds and is about eight inches long. It was taken from the Great Barrier Reef near Australia and is isolated in a locked aquarium tank at the oceanarium. (AP WIREPHOTO)

IN TWO-YEAR PERIOD

Big End Of Indictments Result In Convictions

There were 135 felony indictments voted by Howard County grand juries in the period Sept. 1, 1964 through Aug. 31, 1966. Complying with a request by Waggoner Carr, attorney general, Fern Cox, district court clerk, has compiled a report on criminal court activities which have marked the period stated. His figures show that of the 135 indictments there have been 83 convictions, one acquittal and 52 dismissals. The defendants who were tried and convicted were sentenced to serve a combined total of 293 years, three months and 15 days in the state penitentiary and county jail. There have been five suspended sentences and 41 probated sentences handed down by the court. Eleven of the latter were in cases where the defendant was charged with driving while intoxicated (second offense.) NO LIFE-DEATH EDICTS There were no life sentences imposed by the court in the two years listed nor was there a death sentence. Murder and assault to murder have accounted for 35 of the felony cases which have landed in the court. History of the ten murder indictments returned in the two years show two of the defendants have been convicted, one has been acquitted. The combined prison sentences of the two convicted is a total of 10 years. Of the 12 persons indicted for assault with intent to commit murder in the period cited, five have been convicted and none acquitted. The five drew a combined prison sentence of 25 years. One suspended and two probated sentences were handed down in these cases. Burglary, as might be expected, is the most common felony that Howard County grand juries have to consider. There have been 30 burglary indictments returned in the two year period. Twenty - one of the defendants have been convicted. Three burglary cases have been dismissed. Two suspended sentences and 11 probated sentences were included in the statistics on burglary cases. DRIVING CASES Twenty - eight persons were indicted for second offense DWI. Seventeen of these have been convicted. Four of the indictments have been dismissed. Combined prison time for defendants is 18 years, three months and 15 days. They have paid in $1,500 in fines. Eleven of the defendants were given probation. Forgery indictments for the period numbered 19. Fifteen convictions have been listed and two of the cases dismissed. The defendants have been sentenced to a total of 75 years in prison. One suspended and five probated sentences have been handed down. Six of 11 persons indicted for robbery have been convicted and their punishment set at a combined total of 75 years in the state penitentiary. Two were given probated sentences. Seven of 11 persons indicted for theft have been convicted and one case has been dismissed. The total prison years meted out for this offense is 19. One case was suspended and three were given probation. HARD ON SWINDLERS Eight of nine swindle indictments have led to convictions. Prison time allotted the convicted swindlers is 21 years. Five won probated sentences. All other felonies for which indictments have been returned total four and one of the defendants in this category, has been convicted for a four year prison term, which was probated. There have been 15 petitions for writs of habeas corpus filed in the court and on seven of these the petitioners were discharged. Four were otherwise closed. As of Jan. 1, 1966, there were 43 criminal cases pending in the 118th District Court. Forty-one new cases were filed in the period Jan. 1 through Aug. 31, 1966. At that time, there were 84 criminal cases total for the period. Three were dismissed in the eight months, 20 were tried before the court (pleas of guilty) and seven were tried by juries. Thirty cases were thus dismissed during the eight month period leaving 54 criminal cases pending as of Sept. 1. THREE MURDER CASES Three murder cases have been tried this year. One defendant was ruled insane and committed to Rusk State Hospital for the Criminally Insane; a second murder charge ended in a verdict of acquittal for the defendant and a third was found guilty of murder without malice and his punishment fixed at five years in the state prison. Other jury cases include a charge of habitual theft which ended in the defendant being ruled insane; one DWI second case, in which the defendant was assessed nine months in jail, is now on appeal; two armed robbery cases, one of which drew a verdict of 25 years, is now on appeal. The second was 20 years and has not been appealed. DISPOSALS INCREASE For the full year 1965, the statistics show there were 69 criminal cases pending when the year opened. Seventy - five new cases were filed. Forty - one were dismissed and 47 defendants entered guilty pleas. There were 13 jury cases tried before the court in 1965. The total cases disposed of in that year were 101 which left 43 cases pending when 1966 began. No murder cases were tried in 1965 in the court. Two assault with intent to murder trials ended in convictions with sentences of two and five years. A defendant with a charge of murder with a motor vehicle drew a five - year sentence. There were three theft cases tried. One defendant drew a four year sentence, a second a two year sentence. The third was ruled sane after a hearing, then given a three year sentence. Four burglary cases were before juries. One defendant was ruled insane; a second changed his plea to guilty. Two of the cases ended in hung juries and were later dismissed. One theft by bailer was tried before a jury and the defendant given three years. CARD OF THANKS We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and relatives for their kind expressions of sympathy during the illness and death of our beloved brother. Criticizes LBJ Blackjacking AUSTIN AP) — State Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg in a 20-page statement for publication Sunday criticizes the state Parks and Wildlife Commission for setting up a private fund to finance the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park. Bates said he had received complaints as chairman of the Senate General Investigating Committee that the prestige of the President had been used to "blackjack" contributions from various individuals and firms. Bates said he tried to obtain the names of the contributors and the amounts contributed for the 245-acre park across Ranch Road 1 from the President's ranch near Stonewall, Tex. The park was established by the commission on Nov. 17, 1964, a few days after the national election. "If the entire matter of the solicitation of the funds for the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park had been carried out in an ethical, moral and legally correct fashion," Bates said, "then no one would have an opportunity to use the work of this committee in order to embarrass any state official, and to the ultimate end that the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park program would not have the shadow of gossip or the rumor of unethical acquisition of monies surrounding it in perpetuity." State Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr recently issued an opinion supporting Odom's right to keep the fund secret, but Bates said Odom requested the opinion in a letter that said "some news people" had questioned the fund's legality. "I seriously doubt that the Committee occupies the position of 'some news people,'" Bates said.

Need Gifts Of Old Appliances

An appeal for donations of old appliances has been renewed by E. Y. Buckner, in charge of the Big Spring High School vocational course in appliance repair. The items are needed for the youths to tear down, repair and reassemble. Particularly needed are refrigerators, but any kind of appliance will be gratefully received. Buckner said he was hopeful that someone would have a used or worn-out refrigerative window unit. Those who can give an appliance for this cause are asked to call the high school (AM 3-7314).

Linda Wehner To Join Family For Convalescence

Linda Wehner, Fort Worth school teacher gravely injured August 13 in a traffic accident in Fort Worth, is due to move soon to Colorado Springs to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wehner, during a year's convalescence. The Wehners are former residents of Big Spring, and Linda is the granddaughter of Harvey Williamson. Miss Wehner, who remained unconscious for three weeks following the accident, has had surgical operations totalling 30 hours, and still faces much "mending," relatives said. She suffered arm, face and severe head injuries.

Howard County Junior College trustees are ready to get started with planning on a new vocational building. They may make arrangements this week for some preliminary sketches for application purposes. This project would be on the order of half a million dollars.

Today's issue contains a number of stories dealing with Oil Progress. One of the shorter items is one of the most important, for it tells of plans for Cosden Oil and Chemical to expand benzene, polyisobutylene and premium gas output.

Bidding was brisk Thursday when the Hall Hereford farm had its annual production sale. Fifty head grossed $34,810, including a bull and a cow which drew $2,500 each. These cattle are from the outstanding Anxiety Fourth Hereford herd. Anxiety Fourth was the great English bull which established Hereford breeding in this country.

Forrest Gambill, who had taught in Big Spring schools for a decade, died last week. Time and time again he had bounced back from overwhelming odds. During illness he had lost a leg, then his sight, but even so he retained a radiant outlook.

Our United Fund is beginning to pick up a head of steam. At the end of the week, reports were beginning to come in with greater regularity and greater substance. So far only $42,000 is in, but the mainstream is just beginning to flow.

The city and county may be coming up with a solution of the problem of providing emergency ambulance service. A proposal by Bennett House was accepted tentatively, a contract prepared. Now it goes back to the officials board for final blessings.

We seem to have got through Fire Prevention Week successfully. Not infrequently, this seems to the ironic moment for a run of fires, even though there may not have been any or many for weeks. But this time, we seemed to have no really costly ones.

Saturday was a whoop-de-do day for Downtown Big Spring, and the formal completion of this phase of the project attracted tremendous interest. It's all a part of a renovation and revitalization of the established heart of the commercial district. Other things are to come.

Weather conditions — chiefly ample moisture — have been ideal for propagation of the screw worm, a pest which is costly to livestock producers. Last week a case cropped up in Glasscock County, and immediately a drop of sterile male flies was made within a 10-mile radius. This procedure originally all but eradicated the fly. Now the battle is to keep the fly from getting a toe hold again.

Lamesa Masons honored two grand old men of the lodge (No. 909) there. Fifty-year pins were presented to Joe H. Barron and Earl E. Hatchett, both of whom also were early day builders of this fine city.

Two youths, who unaccountably had a considerable amount of cash in their possession, took a room at a motel here last week. One of them went back to the car to get a pistol, and in pranking with it, the "unloaded" weapon killed Richard Hernandez, 16, instantly. Catalano P. Luna, 16, was returned to San Angelo for questioning about some break-ins.

Colorado City is planning a major street improvement program—one of the largest in the history of the city. The city council gave the green light for a $470,289 project, which, if finally approved, will be started before long. Some 125 blocks of streets and 11 blocks of alleys are involved. It's getting along to that time of the year, but seems like the weather just can't be content with summer readings. After several ideal growing days, a front moved in Friday, driving the temperature down to 40 degrees, the lowest of the autumn. Those late cotton bolls will have to warm up before they grow again.

The Steer football team, after a slump that had fans in the dumps, rallied Friday evening and did what they do best—rattle up with hard blocks and tackles. Robert Jackson came up with a clutch catch and Lonnie Clanton turned in some of the best running by a local back in a long time to turn defeat into a victory over the Midland Bulldogs. This week Ablene comes to town—and the Steers can't afford the luxury of even a brief lapse.

Dr. Allen Hamilton, optometrist, whose quarter horse has done right well (including topping the Dallas show), is mentioned in the August issue of Reader's Digest (P. 127). This refers to him as a physician, but he'll probably forgive them since it got the horse right.

MASKED MEN ROB TIFFANY'S

Loot Pegged At $100,000

CHICAGO (AP) — Four masked men took a gem fortune of about $100,000 Saturday in an early morning robbery of the recently opened Chicago store of Tiffany & Co., fashionable New York jeweler.

Police said the loss, at first reported at about $50,000 will be "at least $100,000 and perhaps much more."

Part of the loot consisted of at least 50 unset diamonds, other multikarat diamonds, rubies and emeralds in platinum and gold settings.

The smooth-operating robbers, wearing ski masks and armed with a carbine, a shotgun and pistols, apparently had accurate, extensive knowledge of the store at 715 N. Michigan Ave., and its operation.

Kathy Shaw Wins 4-H Foods Award

COLLEGE STATION — Kathy Shaw, outstanding Howard County junior nutritionist, is the 1966 winner in the statewide 4-H dairy foods program.

The Gold Star girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shaw, 2709 Rebecca, Big Spring, a senior in high school and veteran of eight years' 4-H Club activities. She has completed at least one demonstration in dairy foods each year and for the past three years has rated a white, red and blue ribbon in statewide competition. She holds many awards on the county and district levels not only in dairy foods but also in clothing, dress revues, achievement and nutrition.

As a junior leader, she teaches younger 4-H members about foods, nutrition and clothing. She is currently president of the Big Spring 4-H Club, a member of the county council, and has served on the district Gold Star banquet committee. She is active in church and high school organizations, including National Honor Society.

Home Demonstration Agent Mrs. Catherine Crawford describes the state winner as a careful planner and a 4-H member who does her work well. "She has been a real asset to 4-H Club work in the county," Mrs. Crawford said.

Miss Shaw plans to major in home economics in college. Her local adult leader has been her mother, Mrs. James W. Shaw. Donor for the program is the Carnation Company. In addition to medals for county winners and the state award, Car-

RR Tax Bill

Current annual taxes paid to the various government agencies in Howard County totaled $30,822, it is announced by the Texas Railroad Association. That amount was the county's share of the nearly $10,000,000 the railroads paid in Texas on their own right of way and other property.

UF Drive Nears Third Of Total

A total of $6,487.50, received from R. L. Tollett's out-of-town division, boosted United Fund collections Saturday to $48,787.45 — nearly one-third of this year's UF goal of $139,877.51.

The out-of-town division in 1965 netted $8,064. R. J. (Dick) Ream, drive chairman, said. Tollett was hopeful that another $3,000 could be added to his division totals before the UF drive winds up the latter part of this month.

Don Womack, chairman of the campaign's employe division, reported that Hemphill-Wells Co. had 100 per cent participation in giving to the UF. Although the company had the payroll deduction division before, under the "fair share" program the giving was increased 23 per cent over last year, according to Bob Hickson, co-chairman. Womack said that a status report on his division for all payroll deduction firms participating would be available by the end of this week.

As of Friday afternoon, UF coffers contained $28,472 in big gifts; $3,457 in special gifts; $5,927.10 in the employe division; $583 in the metropolitan division; and $3,948.85 from Webb AFB.

Webb's contributions were expected to mount during the week, as one of the pay periods of the month was last Friday. Donations would be forthcoming from many Webb areas, UF workers said.

The UF special slide presentation is still available to any organization or firm wishing to view it. For arrangements, contact the drive headquarters, 106 Permian Building, AM 3-7676.

No Tougher Laws Needed

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas does not need laws making it harder for a prisoner to get a parole, the head of the State Prison System said Saturday.

Dr. George Beto, director of the Department of Corrections, and A. C. Turner, Pardons Board chairman, appeared before a House committee studying Texas criminal laws.

Members of the committee said previous witnesses have called for new laws making a prisoner stay behind bars longer before becoming eligible for parole.

"I don't believe we are paroling too fast or letting them out too fast, if you follow national norms," Beto said.

Asked if he favors life sentences that would keep a convict in prison for his entire life, as recommended by some witnesses at previous hearings, Beto said, "No sir, I would not under any circumstances" favor such sentences.

"I would create a discipline problem and I don't think the interests of society would be served by that," he added. He told the committee that some highly dangerous convicts reach a "change of life" or "male climacteric" after which they are "burned out and are

Lonnie Clanton hustles over for Big Spring TD in fourth quarter. Plunge finally puts Steers ahead to stay in 10-7 2-AAAA encounter

Aroused BS Wings Way By Bulldogs

By TOMMY HART
MIDLAND — Just when it appeared everything was coming up roses for Midland High School here Friday night, Big Spring put the blight on the bloom.

tailback Lonnie Clanton, together with a flinty defense the entire club threw up in the final half, enabled the Longhorns to finish in front.

Coach Herman Smith has been desperately frisking his deck for a running back. He needn't look any farther. Clanton, a junior with a fine move and great desire, put on an awesome show in making mincemeat of the Bulldog defenses.

and gone on the attack, nursing a 7-0 advantage at the time. Midland failed to get a down renewal in three plays, although it did get close.

Plains Wins Over 'Dogs

By JERRY MONSON
COAHOMA—The Plains Cowboys lassoed the Coahoma Bulldogs, 23-8, in a one-sided District 6-B game here Friday night.

The Cowboys proved to be too much for the Bulldogs early in the first stanza and scored in each quarter except the second, while managing to corral the Bulldogs in a handful of near-touchdown efforts.

Winds gusting between 20-35 mph ruined punting for both squads and hampered several scoring plays.

Early in the first period, Elmore kicked a 36-yard field goal to put the Cowboys in front, 3-0. And it was Elmore again, three minutes later, when he ran five yards on the left side of the goal for the first TD of the game, hurling the Plains' score to 9-0.

Halfback Terry Denton and Ricky Evans attempted several advances deep into the Cowboys' territory, and quarterback Troy Fraser did a good job for the home team.

STANTON — Frenship poured more salt in the wounds of the Stanton Buffaloes here Friday night, winning by a score of 34-5 in District 4-AA competition.

A 20-point third period turned the contest into a rout. Frenship carried a six-point lead to the dressing room at half time, scoring in the opening period when Johnny Carrizales went over from the 16-yard line.

In the third, Joe Lara scored from the two for the visitors, then took a pass from Randy Curry for two more points.

Tavares Leader In Snyder Win
SNYDER — Mario Tavares led Snyder to an impressive 31-0 District 3-AAA victory over Levelland here Friday night, scoring three times on runs of 58, three and 44 yards.

In addition, he set up another tally with his powerful running. Frank Grimmel made good on one field goal try and added extra points on kicks after each of Snyder's touchdowns.

Tavares gained 202 yards, in 15 carries for the revitalized Tigers.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Dallas Likes Big Spenders

By TOMMY HART

I personally would relish seeing such a billing but the Dallas people dislike the idea of Baylor playing in the Cotton Bowl game . . . They recall that a few years back, when Baylor played in the Orange Bowl, the Miami merchants of mirth were complaining that "those Baptists brought the Ten Commandments and a ten-dollar bill with them, and never broke either one" . . . Another reason for the lack of enthusiasm for the Bears is that many of the Waco football buffs could drive up to see the game and then return home without staying the night . . . The Dallas people like those big spenders from Arkansas, Austin and Louisiana . . . If the truth were known, owner Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers probably was happy about the outcome of the recent World Series . . . Now he can talk against pay raises for his help . . . The California newsmen, insufferably smug about their athletic teams prior to the Series, made their excuses in advance for the Dodgers' humiliating defeat by insisting that Los Angeles spent its strength in the pennant fight . . . On the other hand, there are those who say that a team involved in such a race should be able to maintain its momentum, where a team like Baltimore, which clinched the American League flag so early, ran the chance of cooling off and not being able to regain stride . . . Be that as it may, the sweep by Baltimore was the best thing that has happened to the staid old game of baseball in many years . . . Other NFL teams hope the condition exists forever but the relationship between owner Jerry Wolman and coach Joe Kuharich of the Philadelphia Eagles is "cold war" at its worst . . . Kuharich, one of the most unpopular men in sports, has Wolman over the proverbial barrel because it was he who sold Jerry on buying the Eagles after learning through loop commissioner Pete Rozelle that the TV networks were going to engage in a bidding war for league games . . . Kuharich, as a result, in working on a 15-year contract with the club . . . The Midland High School B team, which yielded to the Big Spring reserves here the other night, has failed to post a victory the past three seasons.

ROBERT JACKSON

Big Spring's leading candidate for All-2-AAAA football honors at the moment is probably Robert Jackson, not only a fine pass receiver but a scorpion on defense . . . Jackson ranges all over the field making tackles . . . Oddly enough, Robert's favorite game is basketball . . . He yearns to earn a college scholarship in that sport and coach Buddy Travis of HCJC hopes to accommodate him . . . Travis has had his eye on Jackson since Robert was a sophomore . . . Minnesota Fats, the billiards star who gave an exhibition here recently, says he once played a singles match against Arthur Thurnblad for over $100,000, and won . . . The cash income from the Big Spring-Midland Lee game here recently amounted to about $5,800 . . . A turnout of 5,712 was counted . . . Most came from Big Spring, as usual . . . Ken Dodson, the Midland High halfback, was the 100-yard dash champion in the Big Spring Junior High track and field meet last spring . . . Observers said Midland High did a good job of containing San Angelo's power from tackle to tackle but that quarterback Gary Mullins of the Bobcats tore up the Bulldogs with option plays that were a study of perfection . . . San Angelo's longest gain up the middle was for seven yards, a factor that caused coach Emory Bellard of the Cats to remark that it wasn't one of San Angelo's better efforts . . . Georgia Tech coach Bobby Dodd said following the Engineers' recent game with Tennessee that the 6-3 victory his team posted was the most satisfying he had ever experienced . . . Tennessee had been favored in most quarters . . . Ex-Big Spring Don Robbins scouted Arlington State for Texas Western College last week and labeled the Arlington club as "the most deceptive team we have faced to date. They employ the Slot-I formation and have people running in all directions. When they line up, you'd better stay home and mind your knitting because they may be running it right at you."

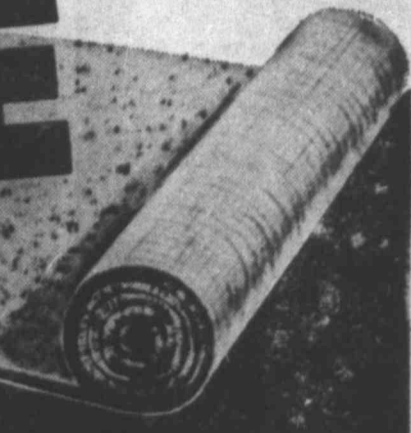

Troy Love, head of the American Little League here during its most prosperous era, has moved to Hobbs, N. M., for six months . . . Before Moe Drabowsky came on strong in the last World Series, he had reason to think he was a born loser . . . He gave up Stan Musial's 3,000th hit, was the losing pitcher in Early Wynn's 300th victory and tied a record by hitting four batters in three innings, including Frank Robinson twice . . . He even had a chance to give Henry Aaron his 300th home run but blew it.

Boxer Rubin Carter Held On Three Murder Counts

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Middleweight boxer Rubin (Hurricane) Carter was arrested today with a second man and charged with murder for a triple slaying in a Paterson tavern last June.

The slayings occurred in the Lafayette Grill in what appeared to be a holdup attempt. The two armed men involved reportedly walked in and began firing. Police said that money was missing from the place.

Houston Oilers Bidding For Upset Over Jets

By The Associated Press It may be too early in the season to call a game crucial but the situation in the Eastern Division of the American Football League could become critical for every club except New York unless Houston upsets the Jets Sunday.

The Jets, 52-13 conquerors of Houston on Sept. 18 and 17-16 victors over San Diego last week, are the only unbeaten team in the AFL with a 4-0-1 record. They are trailed in the East by Boston, 2-2-1, Buffalo, 3-3, Houston, 2-3, and Miami, 0-5.

Buffalo the defending AFL champion, plays host to San Diego, 4-1, and if both the Bills and Houston are whipped they may be virtually written off with four defeats each.

The Jets, off their runaway victory, are favored by 4 1/2 points over the Oilers, who were idle and recuperating last week. "It's a tough game," said Weeb Ewbank, coach of the Jets. "They may be a little mad about what we did to them last time."

In addition to beating them on the scoreboard, the Jets beat them physically. Defensive end Don Floyd suffered a broken hand, defensive back Al Trammell was carried off with a broken ankle and linebacker Dan Brabham reinjured his back.

Cee City Is 36-12 Winner

HAMLIN — Colorado City bounced Hamlin around in a District 5-AA game here Friday night, winning by a score of 36-12.

Hamlin moved ahead in the opening period when Sammy Ferguson surged over right tackle for six yards and a score. Colorado City gained the lead in the second round when Dan Steakley ran six yards around end and Glen Nix added the extra point on a kick.

Paul Long sneaked over for a Hamlin touchdown in the third while Steakley raced 44 yards for a Cee City tally. Nix again added the PAT on a kick.

Colorado City broke the game wide open with three touchdowns in the fourth.

Budda Kennedy raced 59 yards for one tally. Wayne Russell boomed three yards for another. Randy Parker intercepted a Hamlin pass and returned it 54 yards for still another marker.

Colorado City made 276 yards rushing to 106 for Hamlin and 66 passing to none for the Pip-ers. Colorado City had 16 first downs to only seven for Hamlin.

Bobcats Trip Rebels, 21-6

SAN ANGELO — The unsullied goal line of the San Angelo Bobcats got sullied Friday evening by a stubborn Midland Lee, which, but for a tough break, might have sullied the Bobcats, too.

Not until San Angelo put together a 14-play 84-yard scoring drive in the fourth quarter was the high-scoring No. 1 team in the state completely out of danger of an upset.

Momentarily, it looked like the same old story as Gary Mullins, Bobcat quarterback, covered 70 yards on two pass plays, the last one a 46-yarder to Don Aylor in a 46-yard quarter. Ken Newman kicked the first of three extra points for the evening. Two plays deep in the second, the Bobcats covered 41 yards in five plays with Mullins hitting David Robertson for the TD.

Lee rallied, and Tommy Orloff apparently had a TD when Collins hit him on the two-yard line with San Angelo recovering. Angelo couldn't go and Orloff took the punt back to the 38, whereupon Greg Frazier piloted the Rebels in for a score, going the last yard himself. That left it 14-6 at halftime.

San Angelo could get off but five offensive plays against the resurgent Rebels in the third, but in the fourth San Angelo mustered the insurance drive. The Bobcats led in first downs, 13-15, in rushing 165 to 84 yards, but in passing the Rebels were way ahead with 138 to 95 for Angelo. This left San Angelo with a 2-0 district record, Lee an 0-2.

Cardinals Awaiting Invasion Of Dallas

By MURRAY ROSE Associated Press Sports Writer

The National Football League comes up with a flock of natural Sunday headed by the Cardinals, the Eastern leaders and only all-winning teams in the league, at St. Louis.

The Western Conference has a dilly in the collision of the leading Green Bay Packers, 4-1, and the resurgent Bears, 2-2, at Chicago while New York offers the Booting Battle of the brothers Gogolak, Pete of the New York Giants, 0-4-1, and Charlie of the Washington Redskins, 3-2.

In the other games Los Angeles, 4-1 is at Minnesota, 0-3-1, Detroit, 2-3, plays at Baltimore, 2-2, Philadelphia, 2-3, visits Pittsburgh, 1-3-1 and San Francisco, 1-3-1 takes on the winless, improving Falcons, 0-5 at Atlanta. Cleveland, 3-2, has a bye.

A sellout crowd of more than 50,000, largest crowd in St. Louis pro football history, will be on hand for the Dallas, 4-0-St. Louis, 5-0, explosion. Dallas is a four-point favorite.

It features the Cowboys' big play offense — leading passer Don Meredith to sprinters Bob Hayes and Dan Reeves on the bomb — against the come-from-behind fireworks of the Cards. Jim Bakken has clicked on nine of 11 field goal attempts for St. Louis.

Billy Gambrell, back-up man for split end Sonny Randle and flanker Bobby Joe Conrad, has caught four touchdown passes in the last three games including the winner against the Giants last Sunday.

Randle, who has been used sparingly because of a broken bone in his right hand, will use a lighter cast and see more action against the Cowboys.

The Packers, beaten 21-20 by the previously winless 49ers at San Francisco last Sunday, are rated just even with the Bears, winners of their last two games including a 27-17 victory over the Baltimore Colts. Both teams are expected to be at full strength.

Green Bay leads the NFL in over-all defense and passing defense but the Bears' offense, starting to jell, rolled up 315 yards against the Colts as Gale Sayers had his first 100-yard rushing day (106 yards, two touchdowns) of the season.

If the Bears knock off the Packers, the once lowly Rams could move into first by whipping the Vikings. The Rams are favored by three points.

The Rams have a well rounded attack, as well as a solid defense. Quarterback Roman Gabriel's pitching to Tommy McDonald and Tom Moore and the running of Dick Bass, the NFL's No. 2 rusher, has the team rolling. The Vikings have had trouble with their long passing game and their running has been hurt by the absence of knee-injured Tommy Mason. Mason may go part-time against Los Angeles.

Winners of their last three games, Washington's Redskins are seven-point favorites over the Giants, who just bowed in the final minutes to the Cardinals, 24-19, last Sunday.

Pete Gogolak, 24, kicked four field goals for the Giants in that game and has made good on seven of 10 attempts. Brother Charlie, 21, has the same 7-of-10 mark for Washington and also booted four in one game, against Pittsburgh three weeks ago.

The soccer-style kicking Gogolak boys played against each other just once before. That was in the Ivy League when sophomore Charlie's heavily-favored Princeton team whipped Pete's Cornell team 51-14. Pete kicked one field goal and made Princeton's conversions. Pete had two PAT's.

Baltimore, back at home after three games on the road, is favored by 14 points over the Lions, who were spurred by the running of high-priced rookie Tom Nowatzke in the 14-7 loss to Los Angeles. The Colts were hurt by interceptions in the 27-17 defeat by the Bears.

Philadelphia is a 4 1/2 point favorite over the Steelers at Pittsburgh in a match-up of slumping teams. The Eagles have lost two straight, including last Sunday's 56-7 shellacking by Dallas. The Steelers were overpowered by the Cleveland Browns 41-10 in going down to their third consecutive defeat.

San Francisco, fresh from its upset of Green Bay on the fine play of George Mira, is rated nine points over the Falcons at Atlanta. The Falcons, with ex-

Packer Dennis Claridge at the controls in his first start, gave Washington a battle before bowing 33-20. Claridge hit on 11 of 19 passes for 147 yards.

Coyotes Shocked By Cotton Center

COTTON CENTER — The Borden County Coyotes, fresh from a ranching country, got a lesson from the flat land farmers Friday night, dropping an eight-man football contest to Cotton Center, 28-16. Tony Isaacs scored two TDs for Borden and Don Nunnally picked up four extra points.

Cotton Center scored in the opening round and was never headed. Pat Williams scored 16 points, Donald Barrett and Oscar Esqueda each ran over TDs for Cotton Center.

Grapple Card Proceeds Will Go To United Fund

The United Fund campaign will be the largest single beneficiary from the American Business Club's professional wrestling show at the city park's amphitheatre Tuesday night.

The show is being moved outside because the city auditorium is being used.

The Ambics will give all of their share of the gate to the drive now in progress, depending upon concessions to pay the expenses.

Prices will remain the same, too. General admission will cost $1 each while children under 12 can gain admittance for 50 cents. Those sitting at ringside will pay an extra $1 for the privilege.

Promoter Pat O'Dowdy has lined up one of his most promising cards ever for the match. Eleven grapplers, including five women, will be on the three-bout card.

The five girls will engage in a battle royal in the final event on the program. The women booked here include Peggy Allen, Betty Niccoli, Jean Antone, Verne Bottoms and Kay Noble.

Only Miss Noble has been seen here before, so the onlookers are in for quite a treat.

Gary Hart and Alex Perez will clash in a best two-of-three falls match, with a one hour time limit. Perez reigned here before Ricky Romero moved in. Both, of course, are Latins.

The third bout, and one that would command top attention anywhere, is a tag team test pitting Batman and Dory Funk Jr., against the villainous tandem of Killer Kox and Professor Tom Tanaka.

Kox is new to the local scene and believes in giving the foe the evil eye.

Funk is the son of an illustrious wrestler and some say the boy is the best of the Funk tribe. Batman showed here last month and acquitted himself very well, beating Hart in two straight falls.

This one is down for the best of three falls, also with an hour's time limit.

The show gets under way at 8:15 p.m.

Reserve seat tickets for the Tuesday night benefit wrestling match here can be purchased in advance at the Bill Reed Insurance Agency, 211 Johnson, at a cost of $2 each.

Cotton Bowl Ducats Will Be Made Available Soon

DALLAS—Tickets for the December 31 Cotton Bowl Classic will go on sale to the public Thursday. Applications for tickets to the New Year's Eve game will be accepted by mail only from Thursday, Oct. 20, through Tuesday, Nov. 1.

The decision to play the game on Saturday, December 31, instead of Monday, January 2, means that the Cotton Bowl will offer two classics in a single calendar year for the first time. When New Year's Day fell on Sundays previously, the game was played on Monday.

The 31st Annual Classic will match the eventual Southwest Conference champion against another nationally-ranked team. It is unique among post-season games, as it is the only one sponsored by an athletic conference.

The price of tickets is $6 each and a 25-cent mailing fee should be added to each application. There is no limit on the number of tickets an individual may order. However, no more than ten should be ordered on a single application. For those desiring more than ten tickets, two or more applications should be submitted with separate checks or money orders accompanying each.

When all orders have been received by the Nov. 1 deadline, a drawing will be held to determine the allocation of the 25,000 seats available to the public.

Applications should be mailed to arrive within the specified period: Oct. 20-Nov. 1. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association and applications addressed to Box 7185 Inwood Station, Dallas, Texas, 75209.

Tickets will be mailed to purchasers shortly after December 1. Unfilled applications and accompanying payments will be returned to senders at that time.

Midshipmen Win Over Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Navy capitalized on two interceptions to score a field goal and a touchdown late in the first quarter Saturday, then went on to rout Pitt 24-7 and end a three-game losing streak.

An aggressive Middle defense, which intercepted five of quarterback Ed James' passes, kept Pitt bottled up in its own half of the field except for one drive when the Panthers reached the Navy 40.

Pitt's only touchdown came on an 88-yard interception return by Mickey Depp, the longest in Panther history.

Irish Vanquish North Carolina

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame shepherded its sensational sophomore passing combination except for one 56-yard bomb Saturday and thundered past North Carolina 32-0.

The passing battery of Terry Hanratty-to-Jim Seymour, which has been instrumental in lifting the Irish to their No. 2 national ranking, clicked for only one completion. That came on a 56-yard touchdown play in the second period after a fumble recovery to spin Notre Dame to a safe 20-0 halftime lead.

The switch from passing to the running of Larry Conjar and Nick Eddy, who romped for a 52-yard touchdown run in the third quarter, was caused more by weather conditions than design.

For half the game, including the first quarter, Notre Dame had to go against a 22-mile-an-hour wind with gusts up to 40 miles an hour.

Conjar, a workhorse throughout the first half, battered his way for a pair of one-yard touchdown runs to give Notre Dame a 13-0 lead.

Carrying 13 times for 87 yards—all in the first half—Conjar's scores capped drives of 73 and 55 yards.

Longshot Winner In Cambridgeshire

NEWMARKET, England (AP)—Dites, a 40-1 shot, won the Cambridgeshire Handicap today, the last race of the season linked to the Irish Sweepstakes.

Isis, also a 40-1 choice in pre-race betting, was second and Tarquogun, last year's winner and a cofavorite this time, was third.

Purdue Trims Wolverines

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Guard Frank Burke blocked Stan Kemp's punt early in the fourth quarter, caught it in the air, and ran into the end zone to give Purdue a 22-21 victory over Michigan in a Big Ten football battle Saturday.

Michigan drove from the 32 to the Purdue 17 in 10 plays where, on fourth down and 1, Rick Sygar attempted a 35-yard field goal from the 25. The kick was low and wide to the left. Purdue took over and ran out the clock.

Sparkling defensive plays by John Charles and George Catovalos also thwarted the Wolverines and handed them their third straight loss.

The decision kept Purdue in the thick of the Big Ten race, with two victories and no defeats in the race for the Rose Bowl.

With Michigan leading 21-14 in the third period, Purdue star Bob Griese punted to the Michigan one. It appeared the ball was rolling into the end zone, but Rick Sygar grabbed it and was tackled in the end zone by Charles for a safety.

Top-Ranked Spartans Survive Buck Visit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — 84,282 fans. The No. 1 ranked Spartans had to fight off a late Buckeye drive before posting their fifth straight conquest of the season while Ohio was losing its third straight for the first time since 1943.

Jim Raye, a clever 5-foot-10, 171-pound quarterback who outshone his heralded running back engineered the winning touchdown march that came with 7:09 left to play.

Raye, a junior from Fayetteville, N. C., completed four passes in the scoring drive, picking up gains of 27, 14, 16, and 10 yards on the connections.

Ohio State staged a valiant goal-line stand in a bid to thwart the score, holding the slick Spartans to only two yards in three rushes at the line. But bulldozing Bob Apisa smacked into a big pileup at the goal line on fourth down and barely negotiated the final eight inches.

The Buckeyes, unimpressed by Michigan State's two-touchdown favorites role, clung to 2-0 halftime lead after picking up a safety at 8:09 of the first period when Spartan center Larry Smith centered the ball over the head of punter Dick Kenney. The ball sailed out of the end zone. Ohio thwarted three Spartans scoring chances with a stubborn defense.

Michigan State 0 0 3 8—11
Ohio State 2 0 0 6—8

Syracuse Winner Over BC, 30-0

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Floyd Little shattered a Syracuse scoring record but it was Rick Cassata and Larry Csonka who spurred the Orange to a crushing 30-0 football victory over Boston College Saturday.

Sent in to replace jittery sophomore quarterback Jim Del Gaudio, Cassata calmly drove the New Yorkers to a decisive 20-point second quarter.

The triumph, the Orange's third straight after two losses, established a stronger claim in the Lambert Trophy race and earned Cassata the No. 1 signal calling berth.

Cadets Edge By Rutgers

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Army ended touchdown drives of 30 and 51 yards with one-yard quarterback sneaks in carving out a 14-9 football victory over fumble-plagued Rutgers Saturday before the largest crowd in Rutgers Stadium history.

An estimated 30,000 saw Army score in the first and third periods after recovering fumbles by Rutgers' sophomore halfback Bryant Mitchell.

Steve Lindell and Jim O'Toole plunged over for the touchdowns that sent a Rutgers team down to its second defeat in four games.

Tigers Surge Past Devils

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Quarterback Jimmy Addison passed 25 yards to Phil Rodgers for a touchdown in the final minutes Saturday allowing Clemson to defeat Duke 9-6.

The Tigers held Duke for downs at the Clemson 12 with one minute left to protect their lead. Quarterback Al Woodall had passed 55 yards to end Dave Dunaway to set up the Duke threat.

Each team had a long touchdown recalled and Clemson missed a 22-yard field goal try.

BUT REPUBLICANS ARE EXPECTED TO MAKE MODERATE GAINS

Over 60 Congressional Seats Could Go Either Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the big name election contests and more than 60 House races are in such a delicate balance they could easily tip either way in the remaining three campaign weeks.

But, in the absence of some major domestic or international incident that might precipitate a pronounced shift, a 50-state mid-October survey indicates the Republicans can expect modest to average "off-year" gains in House seats, probably a stand-off in the Senate and possibly a pick up of three or four governorships.

COULD CHANGE

Yet so many contests are obviously going right down to the wire, that the picture could change by Nov. 8, election day.

House races tend to be settled on local issues. But when they are close, the outcome may swing on the amount of straight party voting in statewide races.

Thus, the size of prospective Republican House gains may be influenced importantly by the outcome of the major name races.

In New York, for instance, the survey tabbed six House seats, all now held by Democrats, as in the doubtful category.

If Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller wins re-election the chances of several of these seats winding up in the Republican column are certainly much better than if he loses.

LITTLE EDGE

At the time of the survey, Rockefeller seemed to have a little edge over Democrat Frank D. O'Connor in a race complicated by the additional candidacies of Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., the Liberal party nominee, and Paul L. Adams, Conservative nominee.

In California, six seats — five Democratic and one Republican — were rated as close. If Republican Ronald Reagan, who was regarded as slightly in front, beats Democratic Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown he may supply the needed lift to Republicans in some of these. Conversely, if Brown wins, the balance in some of the close districts might shift Democratic.

Among the Senate races, three that appear squeaking tight are those in Illinois, Massachusetts and Oregon.

SURVEY

In the survey, made by AP bureaus with collaboration of member newspapers, they were sized up this way:

A bit of an edge for Republican challenger Charles H. Percy over Sen. Paul Douglas, Illinois Democrat.

In Massachusetts, too close to call an edge for either in the contest between Republican Edward W. Brooke and Democrat Endicott Peabody.

One reason this one has drawn particular attention is that Brooke, now state attorney general, is a Negro and if elected would be the first of his race in the Senate in nearly 100 years. A victory by Peabody would shift this seat from Republican to Democrat.

PULLS UP

In Oregon, Republican Mark Hatfield, now governor, appeared a few weeks ago to be definitely behind Democrat Robert B. Duncan in the Senate race but has pulled up. The survey call 50-50 with Hatfield probably having the edge if there is one. This is presently a Democratic seat, being given up by Sen. Maurine Neuberger.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, Republican, was believed to have a thin edge in Michigan over Democrat G. Mennen Williams, hampered in campaigning by a hospital stay due to a kidney stone. But Williams is now out slugging away and this one undoubtedly will be a hard battle the rest of the way.

Republican Gov. George Romney of Michigan was rated well ahead in his re-election contest and his pull may help Griffin.

DOUBTFUL

Statistically, as to the House, the surveyors rated 227 Democrats and 139 Republicans as apparently ahead in their races, and tabbed 69 as doubtful, possibly to go either way.

For purposes of comparison, the present House has 294 Democrats, 139 Republicans and 2 vacancies — one previously Democratic and one Republican.

With the present heavy Democratic hold on the House, most of the seats rated as doubtful are of course Democratic, but there is a sprinkling of doubtful seats now held by Republicans.

Among seats the Republicans may not be able to hold are at least two of the five they won in Alabama in 1964 and the one in Mississippi that Rep. Prentiss Walker gave up to run for the Senate against Democratic Sen. James O. Eastland.

Doubtful and possibly a Democratic pickup is the Massachusetts seat held by former Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., who was beaten in the primary by Mrs. Margaret M. Heckler, 35, a lawyer-housewife.

The 139 districts in which Republicans were adjudged ahead is the same number of seats they now hold. If they can take these seats, any gains must come out of the 69 districts classed as doubtful.

An even break in these would just about be a recoup of the 38 seats, net, they lost in 1964. An average off-year gain for the party out of power is 37.

Of the 35 Senate seats involved in the election, 20 are now held by Democrats and 15 by Republicans. The total present Senate division is 67 Democrats and 33 Republicans.

In summary, the Democrats may take Oklahoma and Idaho from the Republicans and are a strong threat in New York. They trail in other presently Republican states but are not very far behind in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Minnesota, Nevada and South Carolina.

Along with California, Republicans have good prospects for taking over statehouses from Democrats in Arizona and Nebraska. They have possibilities also in Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, Minnesota, Nevada and South Carolina.

cratic Gov. Sam Goddard.

In Nebraska, Norbert T. Niemann, a small-town banker, is trying to return Nebraska to the Republican camp. He was tabbed as having a good lead over Democrat Philip Sorenson.

'Home Canning Fever'

TRIM, CHOP, SLICE OR GRIND — the plump, juicy fruits and vegetables are quickly made ready for canning so that the flavor is captured at its peak. Mrs. Wally Slate, and many of her friends, make light work of canning by doing only a few jars at a time rather than making an all-day session of it as their grandmothers probably did.

PREPARING PEPPER RELISH and pouring it into sterilized jars are Mrs. Tom South and Mrs. Odell Womack who think teamwork takes the toil out of home canning. On recent mornings the Womack home has been a gathering place for friends who sip hot coffee and share the news as they help prepare the relish their hostess is famous for. Later, the jars may be topped with ribbon bows to make someone's Christmas dinner a little tastier.

PICKERS WITH PAPER BAGS are a common sight at the A. D. Brown farm at Ackerly, Brown, who was once presented an honorary plaque by the Future Farmers of America, has a "community bean patch" which he shares with friends. Here, Mrs. Jack Irans and Mrs. A. F. Kasch find a few fine pods in the last of the okra and accept Brown's invitation to return when the fall garden is ready to harvest.

PANTRIES WITH PLENTY of food for the winter have always been a part of the A. D. Brown home where the harvest from the fields is never wasted. Mrs. Brown shows peppers that her husband "put up" but in the shelves are delicacies of her own doing. Ready for the table are jars of jellies, jams, preserves, tomatoes, peas and pickles.

Wedding Solemnized In Church Of Christ

MRS. LESLIE E. GREEN

Office Orchid

"Secretary to the President" is an impressive title—and Mrs. Leslie E. Green is an impressive woman who has learned her profession well in achieving her goal as executive secretary to R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Oil and Chemical Company.

The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Duley, she was born in Bonham. Her father was a railroad man, and the family lived in a number of cities prior to moving here in 1932. Mrs. Green attended various convents, took preliminary schooling at St. Xavier's Academy in Denison and was graduated from St. Edwards Academy in Dallas. After moving to Big Spring, she worked extra at Big Spring High School, the Chamber of Commerce and for the Howard County Agent before joining Cosden.

She has been a source of information and inspiration to Cosden personnel since Oct. 1, 1933. As Helen Duley, she joined the company on that date, starting as PBX operator and typist. During the first two years, she was the only girl employee at the Big Spring Refinery. She later became stenographer and refinery timekeeper; then, in 1943, became secretary to two vice presidents. In 1946, she was appointed secretary to Tollett, and in 1955, was made assistant secretary of Cosden Petroleum Corporation and assistant secretary of Cosden Pipe Line Company, a subsidiary.

In a quarter of a century, she has done just about everything that falls to an oil woman. She has served as switchboard operator, punched out Western Union messages, been a typist, operated a teletype machine and taken dictation from a number of "bosses."

She married Green on May 9, 1949, and the couple have two daughters, Lynn Anne and Paula Patricia senior and sophomore at Big Spring High School.

Mrs. Green is a charter member of the Desk and Derrick Club and organist at Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church.

Airman J.C. and Mrs. Louis L. Huber are making their home at 1906 Pennsylvania following their wedding Saturday in the 14th and Main Church of Christ. Perry B. Cotham, minister, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of 1st Sgt. and Mrs. Raymond L. Brown, 1502 Pennsylvania. Sgt. Brown is presently serving a tour of duty in Korea. Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Huber Sr. of South Plainfield, N. J., are parents of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Kenneth E. Sellers of Belton, wore a formal gown of white Chantilly lace over bridal satin. The bodice was styled with a sweetheart neckline and long lace sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her semi-full skirt extended to a chapel train, and her finger-tip-length veil of illusion was held by a crown of pearls.

The bridal bouquet of white carnations was backed with tulle and tied with white satin streamers.

Miss Nelda Morris attended the bride as maid of honor and wore a blue brocade street-length dress. She carried a nosegay of white carnations tied with blue ribbon.

Airman J.C. Bill Bensen of Houston, now on duty at Webb AFB, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, the couple was joined by the mothers and his grandmother, Mrs. H. Cotay of Elizabeth, N. J., in greeting guests at a reception in the home of the bride's parents.

The three-tiered wedding cake centered a table covered with a white cloth trimmed in blue, and to one side was an arrangement of white wedding bells. A miniature bride and groom topped the cake.

Guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Sellers and daughter, Barbara Lynn, and Patricia Camp, all of Belton; and Mrs. Arthur Neves of Knott.

The bride attended Big Spring Senior High School, and Airman Huber was graduated from South Plainfield High School in South Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Wash, recent guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Wash, were recently in Odessa to visit the H. G. Greens.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Oglesby visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Oglesby in Odessa recently. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Baum in Stanton.

Mrs. Clara Mae Fletcher has returned from Irving where she visited with her daughter, Mrs. Jimmie Porter.

OES Plans Supper At Tea Room

Plans for the annual chicken and spaghetti supper were discussed during the Thursday evening meeting of the Laura B. Hart Chapter, Order of Eastern Star. The 29 attending met at the Masonic Hall with Mrs. Lloyd Duncan presiding.

The supper will be Nov. 4 at the Downtown Tea Room from 5 to 8 p.m. Adult tickets are $1, and children's tickets are 50 cents. The proceeds will be used for the chapter's welfare projects.

Joe Hoard conducted a candlelight initiation ceremony, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Ed Wright, Mrs. Bill Adams and Miss Helen Ewing. The table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of blue and white flowers.

Lipstick, Polish Keep New Colors

Shimmer shades, lipsticks and nail polish with built-in shine, continue big through the year. Recommended to catch the sunlight is a fresh-water coral. This is to go with melon, peach, orange, lemon and lime cabana or city clothes.

For evening, it's a touch of moonlight with a pinky mauve. This sets off splashy floral prints and the violet, rose azalea and leafy greens that go dancing or relax comfortably on the patio.

Make Planters From Teapots

You can make a pretty centerpiece that will bring compliments to your dining table by planting ivy in an old teapot. The centerpiece can be called into use when flowers are unavailable and you want a bit of green to liven up the table.

Country Club and the announcement was made during the chapter's Thursday evening meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Perry, 1207 E. 18th.

Mrs. B. E. Reagan presided, and guests welcomed were Mrs. Cecil Kelley, Mrs. Walter Maynard and Mrs. William Star.

Plans were also discussed for hosting the Feb. 11-12 state executive board meeting in Big Spring, and Mrs. Jackie Touchstone conducted the program on "Understanding ESA." She gave a brief history of the sorority and the ideals of the organization.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white damask cloth and centered with a milk glass bowl filled with pale green flowers.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Plastic Bins Good For Extra Storage

Dear Heloise:
About those plastic stack-type vegetable bins... They are great if there is a shortage of linen closets in your home. I use them in the bathroom for extra towels and wash cloths. They are inexpensive and can easily be taken along when you move to a new home (without damaging the landlord's property)... Gene Hunt stretching the stocking over the top of a five- or six-inch wire strainer. After mixing the dye, it's easy to pour it into the machine through the nylon covered strainer. I then place the strainer under the machine's flow of hot water for a second, getting more color from the remaining granules... Nola

Dear Heloise:
If you have a flexible spray hose in your bathroom (for taking showers without a regular shower) use it to rinse out the tub after a bath. Also works great to wash down the sides of the tub while scouring it... Mrs. Devy Pickering

Dear Heloise:
Make a small bag of nylon

Those bins can be bought in different colors to match your bathroom color scheme and best of all... Did you know that they also fit wonderfully UNDER the wash basin?

You can stack them to face the front of the basin or use two stacks and face them back to back, leaving open space on each side where the contents aren't so noticeable. This will give a solid looking surface when viewing it from the front. These bins do come in different sizes. Measure your space before making your purchase. May save a trip to the store to exchange them later. Time is so precious to us wives. Let's don't waste any of it and when we can save some... let's try to stack that up, too! Maybe the day will come when we have a whole hour or two accumulated and can just plop down in our best chair and rest... Heloise

Dear Heloise:
A neighbor gave me some gorgeous roses but they were short - stemmed as he must keep cutting them to have continuous blooms. I put pastel green nylon net in my vase, and it brought the blooms to a perfect height and also gave the vase a lovely new look.

By sticking the short stems into the nylon net inside the vase, it held the roses in place and enabled me to make a beautiful arrangement. Adding water, as we all know, has no effect on the beauty or stiffness of the nylon net... Lynn Davis

Dear Heloise:
A use for an old, discolored plastic tablecloth... Wash the cloth, then use pinkish shears to cut it to the proper size and shape for lining shelves. These are attractive and so easy to make and keep clean... Angeline Nemes

Dear Heloise:
Many people strain dye with a nylon stocking when dyeing fabric and they have been faced with the problem of only two hands to do it with. You usually end up with both hands dyed along with the fabric! I solved the problem by net to hold seeds that need to be dried. The seeds dry quickly because there is plenty of air circulating through them... Oz H. Miller

MR. AND MRS. PAUL T. KOSKI AND SON, PAUL

Paul Koskis Attracted By Geophysical Area

By JO ANN PHINIZY
 The phenomenon of Big Spring's terrain was the attraction for the Paul T. Koski family. Big Spring is centrally located to four geophysical areas, the Edwards Plateau, the Trans-Pecos Region, the High Plains, and the Rolling Plains.
 A tempting situation for one who's interested in studying effects of various climates on soil. Koski is just such a person. He is with the U.S. Agriculture Research Service, and he was sent here from Tempe, Ariz.
 Primarily he is going to study atmospheric radiation penetration against temperatures and moisture of soil resulting in air pollution, with the purpose of finding cover grasses for proper range management. In other words, he's going to do something about these sand storms. Koski has directed his attention toward such matters for a long time. He received his BS degree from Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colo., and his Ph.D. in range management and soils from Texas A&M, College Station.

One of Mrs. Koski's hobbies is writing. She is doing research on the progress of America's development based on contours of the land. Right at the moment, she is studying about the Ozark Mountains in Missouri.
 Says she, "Someday, I hope to have enough information to do fiction based on historical facts."

Fourteen-year-old Paul is an amateur writer and a star Scout. He was assistant patrol leader in Tempe and plans to continue his Scout work here. He has also studied voice and music, two other areas he does not intend to neglect.

PHOTOGRAPHY

Photography is the Koski family hobby, with Koski stepping into the professional bracket by having his pictures and comments published in national trade journals and as background exhibits for his lectures.

The Koski's know they will enjoy Big Spring even though their moving was done in a rush.

"It wasn't rushed in planning," Koski said. "It's just that we underestimated our movers. We thought they would probably get to our Arizona house about noon; they were knocking on the door at 7:30 a.m. We thought they would wander around West Texas before they finally got to Big Spring. They didn't; we were bumper to bumper right to this front door."

The real estate agent just had time to write 4033 Alma Circle before the Koski family moved in and started unpacking.

Papier Mache Pins Shown To Clubbers

Making flowers from papier mache was one of the topics discussed during the weekly meetings of area home demonstration clubs. All groups made final preparations for the Oct. 19 home craft exhibit at Highland Shopping Center, and several programs concerned the merits of the Social Security program. Guests were welcomed, and reports from the September Texas Home Demonstration Association meeting in Corpus Christi were given.

KNOTT CLUB
Flowers made from papier mache and tin was the program exhibit during the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Knott Home Demonstration Club. The members met at the home of Mrs. Emmett Grantham with Mrs. Billy Gaskins presiding.

Each member prepared an annual report for mailing to committee chairmen, and business letters from the state hospital and Mrs. Neil Norred were read.

Mrs. Charles Rhodes was introduced as a new member, and Mrs. Grantham conducted the program.

CITY CLUB

Mrs. Delaine Crawford, HD agent, gave the program on table settings, noting that "mealtime should be a happy time." She said that too often "careless" entertaining is con-

Sign Scroll At Lubbock Ceremony

Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, 306 W. 18th St., had the honor of signing the Altrusa International's Golden Anniversary Scroll while attending the District Nine Altrusa International Conference at the Koko Inn in Lubbock this weekend.

Mrs. LeFevre represented all members of the local Altrusa Club in the scroll-signing ceremony. The scroll started a two-year, 'round-the-world' trip in Dallas last July. Her signature is one of 650 "Signatures for Service" that will be on the scroll before it ends its journey in Miami, Fla., in July, 1967, during Altrusa's Golden Anniversary Convention.

The scroll is made of fine linen-like cloth and is enclosed in a custom-designed, gold-embellished mahogany and plexiglass case with a golden pen attached and fits into a luggage-like carrying and shipping case to protect it during its travels.

Those attending the ceremony from here with Mrs. LeFevre are Mrs. H. D. Cowden, Mrs. E. E. Brindley, Mrs. A. C. Bass and Mrs. Ruby Billings. Altrusa, the pioneer of women's service clubs, was organized in Nashville, Tenn., April 11, 1917, and now has approximately 17,000 members in 12 countries.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Miller, 1614 Bluebird, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth K. Sigmon, Bassett, Va.

Miss Rogers sang solo arrangements of "I Love You Truly," "Faithful and True" and "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of brocade taffeta in the Empire design. The dress was accented by a scooped neckline, long petal point sleeves, and a chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was attached to a headband of seed pearls and iridescents. For her bouquet she carried white carnations atop a white Bible.

The maid of honor was Miss Kay Hooten who wore an antique gold formal dress designed with an Empire waist and a scooped neckline. She carried a nosegay of gold daisy chrysanthemums.

The best man was Airman 2.C. Gene A. Wintamute, and ushers were Marshall Miller, brother of the bride, and Danny Hooten.

For a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore an olive green knit suit, gold accessories, and a corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple will reside in Bassett, Va.

Mrs. Sigmon is a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School, and Airman Sigmon is a graduate of John D. Bassett High School in Bassett. He has been

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

If things went according to plans Saturday morning there was a good thing going in public relations on the junior high level at the home of the JOHN BALCHES. Their granddaughter, PAM EUBANKS, is a member of the Sweetwaterettes who were invited to parade in the Sparkle festivities parade. When the girls had performed, Mrs. Balch had the girls and their sponsors as her guests at their home at 2800 Cactus. They were served refreshments and did what junior high aged girls do when 50 or so get together. Mrs. Balch was assisted in preparations by her good stand-by friends, MRS. CAL GUILLIAMS and MRS. WILL BARON who baked some cakes for the affair.

The MELVIN CHOATE family is together again with the arrival of CAPT. JOHN MARSHALL (Sonny) CHOATE from England on the 11th. His wife and children have been with the Choates since early in September when she enrolled them in school, waiting for Capt. Choate to be relieved of his duties overseas. The family will be here until Nov. 1 when they will leave for his new assignment at Langley AFB, Va.

I have never become accustomed to thinking of CLARA SECRET as being a visitor in Big Spring as she made her home here for so many years. But a visitor she has been these past few days with her long-time friend, MRS. BILL CURRIE, and Mr. Currie. Miss Secret moved back to her home town of Hamilton when she retired from the teaching profession.

Do you ever wonder what type of clothing will be saved for posterity to depict our generation? Many have saved the flapper dresses and that definitely was an era to remember. They were pretty saucy numbers. Nothing was particularly pretty about those long line dresses that did nothing for a woman's figure and certainly made a young woman appear to be matronly. Then the dresses with belts around the lower hips were fashionable... come to think of it, they are fashionable now, also, but mostly with the teenage group. Remember the "New Look" with the padded shoulders, the tight waist and the very full and long skirts? That certainly did away with anything that was left over from last year. If you didn't buy something new a ruffle on the hem was the only solution. MRS. H. C. STIPP and Mr. Stipp have just returned from Houston where they had the pleasure of going to Sako-witzes celebration of a number of years in business. The window models were dressed in clothing of the early part of the century and that decor was carried out throughout the store. The clothing was reminiscent of the clothing worn by her mother, and mine and probably yours. And didn't the women look dignified in their 'shirtwaist' type dresses? The high collars and the waist with ruffled fronts with lace inserts. The long fitted sleeves and skirts that came to their shoe tops.

They wore their hair ratted, too, so that they could wear it high in front and done in a bun behind. They didn't call it back-combed in those days.

Can you imagine how the bikini is going to appear to people in the next century? There can't be much more scanty bathing attire... well, I guess there could be but I hope not. And the mini-skirts and slacks. Of course, only the very young and beautiful can wear these... photographers don't take pictures of those who come out ugly. But it might be hard to make it understood that everyone didn't have a wardrobe that included such unusual fashion tidbits.

The CLYDE ANGELS are having a short vacation and plan to visit in Galveston among other places.

New members are Mrs. Dee Jon Davis, Mrs. Dan Hale, Mrs. J. W. Tipton and Mrs. Ray Vess.

Guest speaker was Dr. M. A. Porter of Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital. His topic was on the cures of tension. He stressed that the first remedy was to recognize and understand causes resulting in tension.

Mrs. Burnett presided during the business meeting and appointed a committee to revise the club's constitution. Mrs. Glen Faison will be chairman. Mrs. Thomas presented suggestions for projects during the year.

Mrs. J. B. Apple To Continue Conferences

Mrs. J. B. Apple, president of the Lone Star Council of Credit Women, left Friday for Lubbock to attend the Panhandle South Plains Regional Consumer Credit Conference. This is the fifth conference meeting in the state which Mrs. Apple has attended, doing the installations and participating in the various programs.

She is slated to appear on programs in Dallas, Oct. 18-19; San Antonio, Oct. 22; Graham, Oct. 25-26; Victoria, Oct. 29; Irving, Nov. 2; and Corpus Christi, Nov. 22.

Mrs. Apple returned Sunday from Houston where she attended the South East Texas Regional Consumer Credit Conference. While there, she worked with the planning committee which is working on the state spring conference which will be held in Houston May 20-23. The final planning meeting will be in January, 1967. During the meeting Mrs. Apple also served on a panel discussion featuring J. E. R. Chilton, owner of the Dallas Credit Bureau; Hadley Phillips of Lub-

DAVE DUNCAN DOESN'T KICK

Hole Ratio Seven To One--Dry

Dave Duncan, rugged owner of the Duncan Drilling Co., says he "figures he has an interest in about 600 dry holes" that he has drilled in the half century he has followed the oil business.

"I can't kick, though," observed Duncan. "We have an oil well for every seven dry holes." Duncan, now 75, is president of the Duncan Drilling Co., with offices at 2209 Gregg, feels that the oil future in Howard County is bright.

"The future in the oil business in this county," he said, "is still to be made. Through water-flooding and deeper drilling there will be lots of oil found here and in West Texas. The chemical industry has come up with some wonderful discoveries in making the old pay sands produce oil. Distance is no longer an issue—we think nothing of sending a man 100 miles to run tour. The oil industry is still a wonderful industry. If our politicians had to hew to the line like we do in the oil business, we wouldn't be in the mess we are today."

Duncan has had a varied and colorful career. He has made and lost several fortunes. He has found bad luck and good luck along his way but has permitted nothing to stop him in pursuing the resolution he made in 1919 to be a drilling contractor.

He also remembers a short time, when living on a farm hag-ridden by drouth, he tried his hand as an insurance salesman.

"I made a big success of it," he recalls. "I sold one policy—to myself. I still have it—paid up—as a keepsake."

In 1909 Duncan enrolled in Tarleton Junior College as a green country boy with no money but with a talent as a baseball and football player. He lettered on the teams the two years he was there. He spent three years in old Trinity College, working his way through.

"I was fortunate," he said, "in being put in charge of the boys' hall. I also collected laundry to make a little money. I made poor grades, and I think the teachers passed me more for effort than for ability. Often

I had to take exams over because I was away with the football and baseball teams."

In 1915 he graduated and was offered a job coaching football for Amarillo High School. "While I was coach," he proudly relates, "we won 10 games and then lost No. 11 for the state championship."

The football field was a mile and a half from the school, and he and the team ran to and from the field each afternoon.

"I arrived in Amarillo with exactly $6 in my pocket," he said. He had saved that much from a summer's work at 15 cents an hour in a flour mill.

After he had been in Amarillo a short time, he was offered the job as principal of the junior high school. He was 23 at the time and had never taught a day in his life.

"I had seven old maid teachers on the staff—all old enough to be my mother."

The school was rough on principals. Few stayed longer than a year. "They let you whip the unruly students in those days," Duncan said. "I took after 'em. I had nice red hair then and they were a little afraid of me."

At mid-term, he was called to the superintendent's office.

"He fired me and told me to get out of town by Saturday morning," says Duncan. However on Thursday of that week, the superintendent called Duncan back and told him he could teach to the end of the term. "My old maid teachers told the superintendent to let me stay as I was the only principal who had kept order in the school."

It was then he went back to Lingerville, after school had ended, to resume living at his old home. He and his brother tried their hands at insurance selling.

In that year he got a job in a bank at a salary of $45 a month. It cost him $35 for room and board. The hours were from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

In April, 1917, World War I broke out and a short time later Duncan enlisted in the Navy. He served throughout the war as an instructor at the Great Lakes Naval Station.

When he left the service, the Ranger and Desdemona oil booms were well under way. He got a job with Magnolia, walking 15 miles a day as a scout. Five other fellows joined him and the group bought an old Army tent. They all lived in it.

"I decided then I would be a drilling contractor," he said. He got an old crippled driller to take him out into the fields and teach him all there was to tool dressing.

This led to jobs on several wildcats in the Eastland area and eventually Duncan found himself working on a rig on the Morrison Ranch near Westbrook. That was in January, 1923.

"I had been saving my money," he says, "and I had a pretty nice bank account."

Early in 1922, an event of great importance to him occurred. He met a young woman named Eunice Carroll. "I fell for her right off," he recalls.

However Miss Carroll wasn't so easily sold. "It took me three years," said Duncan, "to get her to see things the way I did." They were married in 1925, and Duncan now had something else to work for.

In 1923, Duncan took the labor contract on a drilling well.

"I threw away my dinner pail," he said, "and became a partner of a fellow by the name of Christin who had some second hand oil field equipment."

The enterprise paid off and Duncan "made good money" in a short time. In 1924, oil was found near Artesia and his partner wanted him to go there. Duncan had been fortunate in acquiring some good standard tools by that time.

"I have been on my own payroll ever since 1923," he proudly points out.

He took a try at what he calls "promoting."

"I had just married in 1925," he said, "and right on top of that I began to hit dry holes. I had begun promotion with $15,000 to $20,000 in the bank. In 1926, I was completely broke."

One person never heard about Duncan's financial difficulties in that year. That was Mrs. Duncan. "I never told her anything about my troubles," he said.

Things began to break better soon after, and in a few months Duncan was back on his feet and better off financially than before.

Later the depression came on and completely wiped out all of Duncan's gains. The stock market slump in October, 1929, brought a slump in everything else.

"I didn't realize what the situation was at the time," Duncan recalls, "because on May 20, 1930, I spent all the cash I had on a small ranch in Hamilton County. I also went into debt to buy livestock to put on it."

This wasn't the end of his jinx string, however. Duncan came out to Big Spring in June, 1930, to drill a well for E. L. Smith Oil Co. The location was near Lees Store south of town.

"I really went under on this well," comments Duncan. "I lost $4,000 more than I got out of the job. . . . I could write a book on what happened to me in the next four years."

In August, 1934, Duncan organized the Ajax Drilling Co. in Big Spring. This company was dissolved in 1941.

"Since then," says Duncan, "it's been my wife, my son, James, and me. We are the Duncan Drilling Co."

Howard County, Duncan feels, has been "very good to me." From 1944 through 1956, the firm averaged drilling 150 wells a year.

He also feels he has been fortunate in finding men to help him who were possessed of loyalty and ability. There are a number of employees on his payroll who have been with him for 20 years or longer. Jim Parks, a pumper on a lease near Odessa, has been with Duncan for 42 years. A. L. Gilstrap, another employe, began work in 1934, and Louis Helms in 1939.

"I appreciate these men's loyalty," said Duncan.

The Duncan Drilling Co. and its predecessor, Ajax Drilling Co., have drilled between 2,500 and 4,000 wells in West Texas and New Mexico.

Walker Has 50 Years In Oil Fields

Arvie Walker Sr., president of Walker Drilling Co., 506 Permian Building, began his work in the oil fields at the ripe old age of 15.

"I'm still in it," he notes. "I guess I can claim 50 years experience."

Walker came to Big Spring from Ardmore, Okla., where he operated in the heyday of the Carter County oil boom. He established his Walker Drilling Co. in 1931.

Walker limits his operations strictly to cable tool drilling. Most of his present work, he says, is in Sterling and Tom Green counties. At the present time, he has two rigs operating.

His full time staff comprises four people. He recruits workers to man the rigs — it takes half a dozen to operate a cable tool — when occasion arises.

He also has production in his own right and some employees are used in connection with that.

He lives at 404 Washington.

His son, Arvie E. Walker Jr., is a geologist with offices in the Permian Building right across the hall from the Walker Drilling Co.

Area Counties In Shadow Of Billion Barrel Output

Howard and six contiguous counties are heading for a billion gallons of oil production, and in a couple of more years they may reach that monumental figure.

Through 1964, the last year for which there are complete production figures, they had a cumulative output of 847,384,000 barrels of oil. By projecting trends of 1963 and 1964, it is reasonable to assume that the counties turned out 33,850,000 barrels of oil during 1965. That would mean a cumulative total of 885,000,000 barrels at the end of last year. By now, of course, the total is well beyond 900,000,000.

Sticking to the 1964 figures (by the U.S. Bureau of Mines), the value of oil and gas produced in the seven counties of 475 miles. These wells cost $29,383,334 to complete and $6,966,800, Borden, Dawson, Glasscock, Howard, Martin, Mitchell and Sterling amounted to $113,538,996. (Gas output amounted to 25,799 million cubic feet for a value of $3,199,076.) If anything, the value figures for 1965 should be somewhat higher.

Payment to royalty owners in the seven counties was pegged at 14,192,375, and the yield in state taxes (oil and gas production) was $5,299,272.

Payroll for drilling, production, refining and manufacturing approximated $12,500,000 per annum.

Drilling figures for 1964 (and again 1965 likely exceeded these totals) showed 347 wells bored in the seven counties for a total of 2,387,855 feet, something like 172 of this amount went up like a puff of smoke for holes that turned out to be dry.

Here are some statistics on area oil:

County	1964 Cumulative
Borden	7,950,000 139,805,000
Dawson	8,750,000 85,945,000
Glasscock	3,300,000 85,275,000
HOWARD	14,000,000 247,000,000
Martin	2,500,000 21,437,000
Mitchell	1,400,000 194,282,000
Sterling	1,500,000 11,497,000
Totals	28,850,000 885,000,000

(These figures are estimates. Using trends of 1963-64 to arrive at estimated 1965 production, which was added to actual cumulative production through 1964.)

Experts Probe Postal Pileup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department has dispatched a team of 15 experts to Chicago to try to break up a massive jam which it says has caused delays of as much as 10 days in the delivery of mail.

Many Firms Aid Industry

There are dozens of firms located here allied with the oil industry. The oilman can find a firm to drill the hole and haul the oil away; service his equipment and furnish supplies; test the oil bearing section and buy his oil; plus a multitude of many other facets of the business.

Many of these firms set up shop when oil was first discovered in the area; others are new on the scene. But all make the oilman's work much easier by being readily available when needed.

Robinson Drilling Has Good Year

Robinson Drilling Co., which until March of this year operated out of Colorado City, has enjoyed a prosperous interval since establishing itself in Big Spring.

Robinson Drilling moved to Big Spring on March 20, 1966. Its office address is 306 Permian Building.

Reason for moving to Big Spring, according to G. R. (Bob) Robinson, president of the company, was to be closer to the company's main sources of supply. He pointed out that two firms already here were of importance in providing equipment and supplies for his operations. He says that the move has been beneficial.

The company came into existence 18 years ago in Colorado City. In 1948, Robinson started activity with little capital and an elderly cable tool rig. He came to Colorado City from Miami, Okla.

The company now has eight rigs operating in the Permian Basin area. It contracts to drill both gas and oil wells. In 1965, the company drilled 75 wells. The range of depth the company handles is from 2,500 to 12,000 feet. Mostly the depth is around 7,500.

Robinson is a geology graduate of University of Oklahoma. He served as mayor two years in Colorado City and has always been active in the affairs of the communities in which he lives.

The company employs 117 persons. Many still live in Colorado City and Snyder. The company is particularly proud of its low accident rate. In 1965, its safety record was 25 per cent lower than the average for other companies.

Chester G. Miller is production supervisor for the company. Drilling supervisor is Kenneth H. McGrew who has been with Robinson for 14 years. Lester E. Mannering, the accountant for the firm, continues his office in Colorado City. Mrs. O. D. Carter, an 11-year veteran with the company, is secretary to Robinson.

Texas Also Is A Big Consumer

Texas is also one of the country's major users of products from its own oil and gas wells.

The 5.6 million Texas motor vehicles account for a major part of the 5.4 billion gallons of gasoline consumed in 1965. Texas ranks third behind California and New York in the number of vehicles registered.

To provide fuel, lubrication and accessories for these millions of motorists, the industry maintains approximately 15,000 service stations in Texas. Texas is second to California in number of stations.

LIFE LOOKS BETTER...

Thanks To Oil Progress

Today, you and your family enjoy the benefits of oil progress in more ways than you'd guess. Few of us recognize oil when we walk on linoleum floors, use our toothbrushes, wash with detergent, wear drip-dry clothes, or even when we take medicine.

Yet all these and many other things we use every day have been made possible with oil, either directly or through research by the oil industry.

Since the discovery of oil in 1859, the men and women of the industry have been constantly searching for new and better uses of oil. And behind this progress of oil lies the tradition of freedom so cherished in America. In the future, we at Cosden Oil & Chemical Company will be working in the same spirit of freedom, dedicated to continued progress so that oil and the petrochemical industry, of which we are so proudly a part, will seek even better ways to bring you more benefits from oil.

Petro-Chemicals Add To Amazing Cosden Record

Just east of the city limits of Big Spring, for all the IS 20 travelers to see as they drive by, stands the refining-petrochemical complex of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company. Should any of these passersby have followed US 80 along a similar path some 37 years ago, they must surely do a double-take today.

In 1929, when the 10,000 barrels-per-day refinery of Cosden Petroleum Corporation came on stream, there was a bare minimum of processing and skimming facilities for refining petroleum. Today, multiple towering columns, jacketed in gleaming aluminum, witness that crude oil is processed not only for production of automotive and jet fuels but also substantial quantities of petrochemicals in great variety.

Throughput daily of this plant is in excess of 30,000 barrels, and another 13,000 barrels a day are refined at the Colorado City plant of the company's Col-Tex Division. Except for asphalt, at Colorado City, all products are piped to Big Spring for further processing.

The planned, dramatic growth of Cosden has evolved under the leadership of R. L. Tollett, who has been president and general manager since June, 1940. Under his guidance, the company first became widely known as a custom refiner and a manufacturer of paving and roofing asphalts to meet strict specifications.

Then, across the country, the lure of getting more from a barrel of crude oil was drawing more and more industry people into petrochemicals. After careful study, Cosden diversified into that field in September, 1952 when it completed its Platformer-Udex installation and started making benzene, toluene and xylenes, basic building blocks for other intermediates and chemicals.

COSDEN PROCESSES

In fairly rapid succession, the next years were highlighted with new units for petrochemicals which reach domestic markets as well as Europe, South America and the Far East, with end uses that are vastly divergent. Some of these Big Spring petrochemical units utilize processes developed and patented by Cosden on its own. And more than 19 companies in at least seven countries have been licensed to utilize Cosden's processes for ethylbenzene fractionation, production of styrene monomer, polystyrene and polybutene.

hence. A major factor contributing to this rise will stem from the completion of the 500 million pounds-per-year styrene monomer plant which was recently announced as a joint venture by American Petrofina, Incorporated, of which Cosden is a wholly owned subsidiary, and Borg-Warner Corporation. Construction on the $20 million project, which will be the world's largest styrene monomer facility, will commence in early fall on a site 16 miles south of Baton Rouge, La. The plant will be owned by Cos-Mar, Incorporated. The stock of this company will be held equally by Cosden Oil & Chemical Company and Borg-Warner. The latter's Marbon Chemical Division will operate the facility, which will utilize the styrene monomer process jointly developed by Cosden, Union Carbide Corporation and The Badger Company, Inc. As an equal partner in the enterprise, Cosden will supply feedstocks and market half the plant's output. Personnel from Marbon and Cosden will comprise the engineering and operating committees for the projected plant which is scheduled for completion by mid-1968.

Petrochemical sales alone soared over the $20 million mark last year, and will in 1966 approximate $30 million.

A major factor contributing to this rise will stem from the completion of the 500 million pounds-per-year styrene monomer plant which was recently announced as a joint venture by American Petrofina, Incorporated, of which Cosden is a wholly owned subsidiary, and Borg-Warner Corporation. COSDEN INGENUITY

Industry veterans have tipped their hats to Cosden ingenuity and pioneering spirit throughout the past decade for innovations such as the recovery of ethylbenzene from mixed xylenes by superfractionation, for example. And Cosden remains the only manufacturer of polystyrene from crude oil to the finished polymer on one plant site.

And, while it has this summer completed an expansion program which will rocket its polystyrene manufacturing capacity from its original 20 million pounds in 1953 to 120 million pounds a year, Cosden has also introduced a spectacular breakthrough to coloring polystyrene beads.

This innovation, the unique "Surface Pigment Bonding" technique, for which a patent application has been filed, offers many advantages in economy, inventory control and processing benefits to molders and fabricators. Most of Cosden's polystyrene, which is a thermoplastic, goes to the construction, appliance and packaging industries.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS

Always interested in tailoring products to customer needs, Cosden has developed specialized types of polybutene for more sophisticated uses, such as lubrication fill for high-voltage cable conduits. The company also supplies polybutene for manufacturers of lubricating oil additives and nondryng caulking and sealing compounds.

Looking to the future, bright prospects loom on the horizon for Cosden. Meanwhile, the 940-plus employees of the company's $7.2 million annual payroll (865 in Howard County and 84 for $600,000 at Colorado City)—the personnel who are Cosden's greatest asset—are busy turning out fuels, asphalts and petrochemicals derived from petroleum and natural gasoline fractions originating in the Permian Basin.

Expansion Is Due This Year

More expansion is in prospect for Cosden Oil and Chemical Company this year.

Benzene, polyisobutylene and premium grade gasoline outputs are due to be stepped up substantially, said R. L. Tollett, president.

Revamping of facilities is expected to add about 10 per cent to the output of benzene, one of the key elements in Cosden's petrochemical operations.

The polyisobutylene volume would be advanced around 15 per cent.

The ratio of premium grade to regular grade gasoline would be stepped up from the present 35-65 to a new ratio of 40-60, according to Tollett.

The past year has been an extremely busy one for Cosden, with virtually all facilities operating at capacity.

Spiritual training is important.

The corner service station in Big Spring represents a multi-million dollar industry—one of the largest in the area.

From 105 outlets in 1962, the industry has blossomed to 138 today. The individual stations represent a payroll of approximately $2½ million annually, and 17 gasoline and oil marketers (jobbers, distributors and other agents) add another half million dollars to the payroll. The latter supply the individual stations with an employe force of almost 100.

In addition, there are three service station equipment companies serving the industry here, adding to the burgeoning oil and gas growth.

MORE OUTLETS
The new Interstate 20 bypass has increased the number of outlets by eight, and these major oil company stations account for a large portion of the industry's sales and employe strength.

Service stations, according to George Oldham, director of the Texas Oil Jobbers Association, are being caught in the same economic squeeze as other businesses. All business expenses are going up (such as taxes, insurance, rents, utilities, etc.), while the gasoline profit margin is about the same as in the 1940's and 1950's. Most gasoline price increases have been in the form of taxes, which is now five cents federal tax and four cents state tax on every gallon.

At the same time, Oldham said, service station operators anticipate a promising future. More and more oil companies are affiliating with motels, which increases service and income for both businesses.

BIG YEAR AHEAD
Looking toward the HemisFair in San Antonio and the Olympics in Mexico City, both upcoming in 1968, service station men are preparing for an influx of tourists and visitors, particularly along the US 87 and IS 20 routes. Through service station dealers, Oldham said, these visitors will be urged to spend the night, increasing the fair share of the community of the available tourist dollar.

He pointed out that along with traffic officers and restaurant personnel, the service station operator provides the impression most tourists receive of a community. An informational program on this vital phase of community relations is being undertaken throughout the state by the association, he said.

Service stations in Big Spring are fortunate, Oldham pointed out, to have Webb AFB and Howard County Junior College which provide part-time help in assisting stations through peak periods and holidays. These two facilities give a caliber of personnel most stations could not afford on a full-time basis, Oldham added.

YOUNG WORKERS

The high school's D.E. Program, headed by George Rice, is another area that provides qualified personnel for the industry. Many long-time dealers here, such as Foy Dunlap, have trained numerous young men who have gone on to important and lucrative positions in the automotive field.

The future for service station attendants, Oldham said, is the same as in most other fields—it depends on him. He emphasized, however, that there is an acute shortage of shop foremen in car dealerships and garages nationwide.

This, coupled with an estimated nine million new vehicles turned out this year, indicates this shortage will get worse.

Shop foremen and mechanics are making good income now, he said, and they are fast approaching a 5½ day week. This area will continue to grow and offer more benefits to those people in it, he predicted.

Accident Rate 'Acceptable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says the accident rate of Navy and Air Force precision flying teams is "acceptable in relation to the achieved objectives."

This response was given by a Defense Department spokesman after two members of the Air Force Thunderbirds team were killed while practicing Wednesday over Nevada. Last month a member of the Navy's Blue Angels team was killed in a crash at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

Asked how such pilot and plane losses can be justified in a time of war, the spokesman said the exhibitions serve a useful role in recruiting new pilots and military personnel — "a function that increases in importance in times of armed conflict."

Richardson Plant Runs At Capacity

Capacity operation in 1966 has marked activities at the Sid Richardson Carbon Co., plant north of Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. refinery, according to Grant Boardman, plant manager.

The plant is equipped to produce 50,000,000 pounds annually. Completion in early spring of a new 2,000,000 pound storage tank at the plant has been of great help in handling capacity operation schedule, Boardman said.

The plant produces HAF and ISAF carbon black types. These are the types which have been recently in greatest demand.

FOR TIRES

A major use for carbon black is in the manufacture of tires for motor vehicles. With the steady increase in the number of rubber tired vehicles, the demand for the carbon climbs.

The plant has added five new employes to its payroll since last fall. There are now 45 full time workers. In addition to the regular workers there are several sales trainees now with the organization here. These men, when they have completed their tenure here, will be set out into the field as sales representatives of the company.

The annual payroll is about $200,000.

LOCAL SUPPLIES
The plant buys and acquires all of the material and services required for its operation on the local market. The oil from which the carbon is obtained is purchased from Cosden Refinery. Pioneer Natural Gas Company supplies fuel for the plant and electric power comes from Texas Electric Service Co.

Much of the petroleum handled by Cosden and which provides the furnace oil raw material for the Richardson plant comes from local fields.

Another supplier who benefits from the operation of Sid Richardson plant is the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Richardson plant was placed in production in 1961 and has been on capacity production nearly every year since it was started.

Prospects for the months ahead look bright for Richardson plant according to Boardman.

An Abundance Of Natural Gas

One of the principal sources of vitality in Texas economy is our abundance of natural gas. Texas not only is the nation's largest producer of gas, but it is likewise the largest consumer. About half of Texas gas production is used in Texas, the remainder is sold to other states. Gas provides Texas some $850 million a year. Nearly every light and electric motor in Texas is supplied with electrical energy converted from natural gas. Approximately two million Texas homes use gas for cooking and heating. Texas industrial plants depend on gas for 92 per cent of their total energy.

Cabot Tops 120 Million Lbs. For Five Consecutive Years

Cabot Corporation's Big Spring carbon black plant has enjoyed the best year in its history in 1966, according to A. R. (Dave) Davenport, plant superintendent.

"Production has been maintained at 125,000,000 pounds annually," he said, "which is 5,000,000 pounds ahead of last year."

The company has added important bulk storage tanks in recent years which have contributed to its ability to maintain maximum production. The company makes great use of the specially designed U.S. Rubber seal liner shipping tanks.

Addition of more modern machinery last year has been a factor in the improved production.

The payroll is up about $50,000 this year to $850,000. Two full time employees have been added to the regular staff. The plant now has 100 full-time workers.

The plant is happy over its five-year record of 120,000,000 pounds and better annual production. Shipments in 1966 have stood well in line with the records for 1965 and 1964. Most of the carbon black produced here is shipped to the customers of the plant in company-owned hopper cars designed for this particular use. The U.S. Rubber company seal liners look like overinflated balloons when inflated and make shipment in open gondolas practical and expeditious.

Almost 100 per cent of the

Transportation A Big Operation

Every 24 hours the Texas petroleum industry must move nearly half a million tons of oil from thousands of fields to the refineries and then move about that much finished oil products into the supply lines which sustain American civilization.

To link the most remote West Texas oil well with the consumer's gasoline tank, the industry relies on all forms of transportation — pipelines, rail tank cars, trucks, barges, and ocean-going tankers.

The heaviest part of this great transportation task, however, is handled by the industry's network of pipelines totaling some 63,000 miles in Texas. About 25,340 miles of these lines are the smaller systems which gather oil from the wells and deliver it into the big truck lines.

plant's production goes to the automobile tire industries. Tire made from Cabot Carbon are rolling all over the world on all types of vehicles.

Cabot buys all raw materials and essentials locally.

The residual oil used to produce the carbon comes from Cosden Oil and Chemical refinery. Pioneer Natural Gas supplies the fuel, and power is supplied by Texas Electric Service Co.

Search For Oil Since Civil War

The search for oil and gas in Texas began just after the Civil War and some production was developed before 1900, but it was the flood of oil released by the Lucas gusher in Spindletop, near Beaumont, in 1901, which first made Texas world famous as a petroleum area.

In the past 100 years, over 540,000 holes have been punched down in Texas seeking oil. The deepest of these went down 25,340 feet in 1959 — and yielded nothing. The world's deepest producer is a Texas gas well completed in 1965 at 22,998 feet.

DEAR ABBY

Children Are First

DEAR ABBY: After eight years of marriage, I decided to get a divorce. I had two children and would have stayed married for their sakes, but their father cared nothing for them, so it would have been pointless. Two years later I married a widower with three children. In six months I realized that I had made another terrible mistake. All he wanted was a cook, housekeeper and someone to raise his children.

He favored HIS children and accused me of favoring mine. (Actually, I bent over backwards so far trying to be fair to his, I was unfair to my own.) My problem is that I am miserable but if I get another divorce everyone will say BOTH divorces were my fault. I am 30 years old and don't want to be a two-time loser. If it weren't for my children, I would commit suicide.

DEAR TRAPPED: The people who talk don't help you to bear the burden of your misery. Do what is best for you and your children and forget everything else.

DEAR ABBY: I was married 10 years ago and now have three children. Two years ago I found my birth certificate and discovered that my mother's maiden name was on it, not her married name, which means she had me before she was married.

This has been bothering me for a long time. I want my children to be legitimate. Are they or aren't they? I don't know who to ask without a lot of embarrassment.

DEAR WORRIED: Your children are legitimate even though YOU may have been born out of wedlock.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon and would like very much to have my brother be an usher at my wedding, but my fiancée told me that he has already chosen his ushers and he isn't planning on having my brother. He will give me no reason other than he wants his "friends."

Abby, I asked a cousin of his to be a bridesmaid, and she is no close friend of mine, but I thought it would please him. My brother feels very hurt about this and my parents are upset. Please give me a suggestion on how I can tactfully solve this problem? OHIO BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: Technically the groom selects whomever he wishes for his ushers, but since it has now become an issue, it would be both wise and generous for him to include your brother, knowing that if he doesn't, ill feelings will prevail.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

1340 shillings for William and Mary

The word went out. King James I was launching a college in Virginia. Funds were low.

Two crews of able English seamen heard the word, pooled farthings and halfpennies, and William and Mary was 1340 shillings richer.

Tales of such cooperative giving fill the annals of American education.

Few of us can launch a college. Most of us can help keep one afloat.

Give to the college of your choice.

Story Of Statuettes Due At Ritz

Coveted as a symbol of the ultimate in achievement in the arts and sciences of the cinema, the Oscar, as it has come to be fondly known, is a 1 3/4-inch golden statuette that has grown to enormous international stature in the decades since its inception on May 4, 1927. Few single events command the world interest of the Academy Awards Presentation — Oscar Night. Now, in color and widescreen, "The Oscar," opening today at the Ritz Theatre, brings to motion pictures for the first time the story of an Oscar race, with all the tension, excitement and drama generated by the annual presentation of Hollywood's highest award.

"The Oscar" has assembled an unusually brilliant and versatile cast of stars, including Stephen Boyd, Elke Sommer, Milton Berle, Eleanor Parker, Joseph Cotten, Jill St. John, Tony Bennett, who makes his screen debut in the film, Edie Adams and Ernest Borgnine.

In addition, "The Oscar" is further highlighted by an extraordinary roster of guest artists comprised of such stars as Broderick Crawford, Ed Begley, Peter Lawford, Walter Brennan, James Dunn and, appearing as themselves, Hedda Hopper, Merle Oberon, Nancy Sinatra, Edith Head and Hal Pereira, and other surprise celebrities.

Aside from the 36 sets designed and built for the picture by art directors Hal Pereira and Arthur Lonergan, including the lush mansions lived in by producers and stars, and a chic supper club, 15 familiar Hollywood locales were used as location sites, plus Tijuana, Mexico, some sections of New York City, and Santa Monica's Civic Auditorium, where the actual Oscar presentations have taken place in recent years.

Sean Connery

Shown here with one of the many beauties in the two James Bond movies, "Goldfinger" and "Dr. No," a twin feature program opening at the Ritz Wednesday.

Sean Connery Has A Different Role

There's nothing like the sweet smell of success except a change—not from the success, of course, but from the source of it.

That's the way Sean Connery feels about it. Emerging as the most meteoric new star to reach the screen in the past three years as the result of his phenomenal success as secret agent James Bond in "Dr. No," "From Russia With Love" and "Goldfinger," handsome 32-year-old Connery faced the bugaboo that many a successful film actor has run into—the fear of being typed.

For the moment he has escaped it. He got away from the secret service in his role opposite Gina Lollobrigida in "Woman of Straw" and in Alfred Hitchcock's "Marnie," and in his latest picture, MGM's "The Hill," he goes a long way from the James Bond image as a broken warrant officer who becomes a prisoner in a British prison stockade in North Africa during World War II.

"Some people think I couldn't make a go of it if there weren't the sex angles in my pictures," he said recently. "I suppose you can't blame them, considering the number of beautiful spies I've tangled with in the an Fleming thrillers. But they won't be able to say that about this new picture—there isn't a single girl in it!"

Connery's early life prepared him for the demanding physical requirements of most acting roles today. He needed every bit of the stamina he possesses for his part in "The Hill," in which he had to make torturous runs up and down a 75-foot "punishment hill" in the broiling sun (the picture was filmed largely on location in the desert country near Almeria, Spain) while carrying a full army field pack.

The actor was born in Edinburgh, the son of Joseph Connery, a long-distance truck driver, and Euphemia Connery. After leaving school, Tommy (he adopted the name Sean later) worked as a driver on a milk route, the first of a succession of rough-and-ready jobs. For three years he served as an able seaman, serving alternately on battleships as a trainee with a gunnery school, and with an anti-aircraft carrier squadron. Returning to private life, he took jobs successively as a cement mixer, bricklayer, steel bender, printer's assistant and life guard, with a slightly macabre stint of polishing coffins sandwiched in between.

Bibi Andersson Stars In Her 1st U.S. Film

Soap commercials sometimes sell more than soap. It might even sell a career as a motion picture star.

Take the case of Sweden's lovely Bibi Andersson for example. Long recognized as one of the continent's most beautiful and accomplished actresses, with Cannes and Berlin Film Festival awards to prove it, she now moves on to the international scene in her introductory American vehicle, "Duel at Diablo," in color by DeLuxe which opens Wednesday at the Jet Theatre.

Luckily, Ingmar Bergman was able to see through the soap suds and it wasn't long before the gorgeous blonde starred in five of that director's operas including the highly-regarded "Wild Strawberries" and "The Face," for which she won the Cannes Film Festival Award for best actress.

But it's new worlds she steps out to conquer with her appearance in "Duel at Diablo" which also stars James Garner and Sidney Poitier; co-stars Bill Travers and includes Dennis Weaver in a stellar role. The film is from Marvin Albert's best-seller "Apache Rising," and while it has plenty of hard riding and six-gun action, it is said to be in the "important" western genre which includes such classics as "High Noon," "Gunfight at OK Corral" and "Stagecoach."

The soap commercial deal came about when Bibi, who wanted to be an actress ever since she could remember, found that she would have to support herself while attending a private dramatic school in her native Stockholm. Luckily for her, Bergman didn't think commercials weren't worth viewing — for new talent at least — and after watching her wash her face a couple of times she was soon enrolled in the Royal Dramatic School in Stockholm and when Bergman was sure she was ready, it was before his cameras for her.

Bibi was starred in Bergman's "Seventh Seal," "Smiles of a Summer Night," "The Wild Strawberries," "The Face" and "The Devil's Eye," and each role was written especially for her. She also appeared in Vilgot Sjoman's "The Mistress," winning a Silver Bear award in Berlin with it, and in which she appeared opposite Max von Sydow whose role in "The Greatest Story Ever Told" made him world-famous.

Little Theatre Ready For Opener, Concert Time Near

This is the week for the Little Theatre. Its premiere for the season, "Poor Richard," will open Friday at the Municipal Auditorium with an 8 p.m. curtain time. The second performance will be at the same hour and place Saturday. All reports indicate that the production is well along, the actors know their lines and the comedy is taking on an air of spontaneity. Volunteers will begin this weekend to put the sets together. Season tickets ($8 for the family, with offerings for singles, dual, etc.) are still available, and the price per adult at the gate is $1.50. Those still interested in season memberships may contact Mrs. Norman Spencer, LT president.

JOANNE WHEATLEY
 HAL KANNER

Time for opening of the Big Spring Concert Association series is nearing, too, for that's only two weeks away on Oct. 29. Apparently, many people are not aware of the calibre of the opening performance, "Music of Richard Rodgers," which brings a full fledged orchestra under the baton of Richard Maltby, veteran conductor who took the ASCAP International Award in 1965. It also features the outstanding voice of Elaine Malbin, a star in everything from musical comedy to opera, of Joanne Wheatley and her husband, Hal Kanner, and the rich baritone of William Metcalfe. Most of all, however, it features the all-time favorites of Rodgers, whose phenomenal association with Oscar Hammerstein II began with the unforgettable "Oklahoma!" and carried through to the incomparable "Sound of Music." Anyone who hears and sees this program is bound to go away humming those lulling tunes.

The striking Ruth Taylor Theatre on the campus of Trinity University in San Antonio will have its dedication Oct. 24 at 8:15 p.m. This unique building—three theatres in one—was built around the philosophy of Paul Baker, who achieved fame at Baylor and more recently has been the managing director of the Ruth Taylor Theatre. The main theatre is Theatre One, with three stages, containing 401 specially designed seats, 140 of them chairs which swivel in the direction of any of the stages. There are three audience levels. Attic Two and Cafe Theatre are smaller, more intimate theatres. The opening play, "A Different Drummer," was written by Eugene McKinney, Trinity drama professor.

Campus Enters Guilty Plea

Pete Campos, charged with burglary and slated to face a jury this week in 118th District Court, pleaded guilty Friday.

Judge Ralph Caton accepted the plea, also the recommendation of Wayne Burns, district attorney, that Campos be placed on three-year probated sentence.

A provision was made that he repay the Big Spring High School for a typewriter which he stole and which has not been recovered.

Judge Caton gave the defendant 14 months in which to pay $175 to the school. The principal of the high school, John F. Smith, testified two typewriters were stolen and only one was recovered.

Sight Of Justice Greatly Reduced

NEW DELHI (AP) — Justice may not be blind but in one case here its visibility was reduced. Thieves removed the headlights from the car of Sessions Judge D. R. Dhameja while he was in court.

Pleas Thin Court Docket

Twenty pleas of guilty, plus one jury conviction, marked the results achieved at the Howard County court criminal docket heard in the past two weeks.

Dee Jon Davis, county attorney, said that two more days of jury trials are now set up for Oct. 27 and 28. He said that several defendants, whose cases were on the docket, have announced they desired to enter pleas of guilty. He expects additional reductions in the docket before the Oct. 27 date.

A dozen cases, passed last week and the week before have been tentatively set for trial Oct. 27 and 28. Also planned for disposition will be some of the appeal cases which are pending in the county court and which had been included in the long docket called by the court on Oct. 3.

None of the cases on the docket has been dismissed, and Davis feels that good results accrued from the session.
