British Back Nuclear Arms Treaty Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Britain today welcomed the reported progress in U.S.-Soviet negotiations on a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. It declared that the urgent need now is to translate this new climate into an agreement.

Britain's views were laid before the U.N. General Assembly's main Political Committee by Lord Chalfont, British disarmament negotiator, who has been participating in the 17-nation discussions in Geneva.

Chalfont declared: "We can make in this assembly of the United Nations the first real positive steps towards a disarmament agreement that might lead to a transformation of the international scene."

The British representative urged the non-nuclear countries to try to make a nonproliferation treaty dependent upon agreement on other arms measures. He noted that such a treaty would have only a limited picture.

"We have now in this assembly, the choice between possible success and certain failure in the race to bring nuclear weapons under the permanent control of mankind," he declared.

British quarters have expressed belief that the proposed treaty, now deadlocked by U.S.-Soviet differences, will be signed late next year. They believe it is possible agreement may come before the assembly convenes again next September.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union declared at the outset of the U.N. arms debate last week that prospects for agreement on a treaty were improved. Both warned, however, that differences remained.

STUMBLING BLOCK
Main stumbling block has been the role West Germany would play in the nuclear defense of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Russians contend that West Germany would get its hands on nuclear hardware as part of a multilateral nuclear force—MLF—proposed by the West, but Western officials at the United Nations have expressed the belief that the MLF idea is about to be quietly abandoned.

Mahon Eyes Tax Increase

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—There will probably be a general tax increase next year, Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee, said today.

"I think there may have to be a tax increase," Mahon said in a speech prepared for the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. "Expenditures for the war in Viet Nam will continue to mount upward, and expenditures for domestic purposes are mounting."

"Government revenues are going up too, but the increase in revenues . . . probably will not be sufficient to approach a pay-as-we-go situation."

The appropriations handled by Mahon's committee this year set a peacetime record—about $145 billion, including such fixtures as interest on the national debt.

He said, however, that "we can pay as we go, and we cannot at this time defend a policy which does less."

The alternative to a tax increase, Mahon said, is wage and price controls "but they are not in the offing."

Nation's Housewives Bent On Reducing Food Prices

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The nation's top food store executives, complaining of declining profits, faced new appeals from housewives today to cut their grocery bills.

"We'll boycott their stores," said Mrs. Charles Lundstrom of Miami, president of the Dade County Consumers' League. "If they don't do something about this, we'll picket their hotel."

As the supermarket executives gathered here for a convention to hear a report that their profits dipped last year, the housewives' protest gained momentum.

In Atlanta, Ga., women formed the "We've Had It Club," and at Rockledge, on the east coast of Florida, they were talking about a "Halloween rebellion."

BOYCOTTS PROGRESS
In Miami and Houston, Tex.,

boycotts were already in progress. The industry, on the other hand, contends that profits declined last year. A report prepared by Cornell University and released by the National Association of Food Chains Monday showed that profits were 1.31 per cent of sales, down one-tenth of one per cent from last year's 1.41 level.

"Profiteers indeed!" Seymour D. Simpson, executive vice president of Daitch, Shopwell Supermarkets, New York, told some 1,000 executives. "We are working on a profit of less than 1-1/2 per cent. This is not proof of our virtue, but rather of our posture and plight."

VERY EMOTIONAL
"This report," he said in an interview later, "won't go into the head of the housewives. They are very emotional. The logic of our balance sheet does not interest them. They wouldn't even bother to study it."

He also discounted the effects of widespread boycott plans. "I don't see how anybody in his right mind can reduce prices because of boycotts."

Told of the Cornell study, Mrs. Lundstrom, a 65-year-old widow who said she bought and won her first war against an increase in the price of milk in 1937, said:

"That's not so. I don't believe it. They are building new buildings all over. They have so much money they don't know what to do. That is not so."

CLUBS FORMED
Food prices have increased 5.2 per cent since 1960, she said. She planned to send a delegation to carry the league's appeal to Gordon Bloom, president of the food chains association. She said the delegation would ask removal of trading stamps and prizes which she and other housewives say are responsible for the increase in food prices.

Housewives across the nation began forming clubs to protest what they called steadily rising food prices as well as demanding an end to trading stamps.

Also in Georgia, Decatur housewives started a telephone campaign asking friends to shop at smaller markets and bypass the chain stores.

SMALL PROFITS
An official of the Georgia Retail Association, Tom Gregory, said profits are at minimum and high costs should be attributed to the increased cost of production, processing and delivery.

Houston chain stores officials have agreed that food prices are high but told housewives so are other commodities — and salaries.

One major chain, Furr's Inc., operators of more than 70 grocery stores in the Southwest, announced price cuts of up to 14 per cent. A spokesman for the firm said it would drop expensive promotions.

CRMWD May Serve Stanton

STANTON (SC) — The Colorado River Municipal Water District will do everything possible to see that Stanton's water needs are met, O. H. Ivie, general manager, told the Stanton city council here Monday evening.

Ivie and W. P. Odom, assistant to the general manager, had been invited to meet with the council and others to discuss a solution to Stanton's dwindling well supplies.

Discussions of how Stanton could be supplied were in broad terms, and most of the talk hinged around availability of supply.

"We want to do everything in our power to see that your water needs are met if this is your desire," said Ivie.

The district will enter, subject to approval of its board of directors, a purchase contract on mutually agreeable terms with Stanton, he added.

Attending the meeting were Mayor Stanley Wheeler, Delbert Franklin, Juil Reid, Dr. Allen Fisher, J. W. Sale, City Secretary N. H. White, City Treasurer Mrs. Addie Mac Buey, and Roy Crim, consulting engineer.

Bombers Hammer Viet Cong Bases

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers struck at Viet Cong bases in South Viet Nam today but monsoon storms nearly washed out American raids over the Communist north.

The Guam-based bombers hammered at dawn at two suspected Viet Cong troop concentrations 65 miles northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

U.S. planes flew only 21 bombing missions over North Viet Nam Monday, the lowest since May 27.

PRISONERS SET FREE
In the Mekong Delta, South Vietnamese troops overran a cave prison camp of the Viet Cong and set free 13 government soldiers and five women, including a Catholic nun. The prisoners were found handcuffed and starving, a government spokesman said.

Ground fighting in South Viet Nam continued in a lull with only small, sporadic clashes reported.

U.S. military headquarters announced the termination of the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division's Operation Irving, one of the most successful actions of the war. In fighting in mountains and marshlands along the central coast, the helicopter-borne cavalrymen reported killing 681 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers since Oct. 2.

PINCER DRIVE
The "Flying Horsemen" also reported capturing 690 prisoners, screening 4,136 suspects and seizing 210 weapons. The cavalrymen said their own casualties were light.

The operation was a pincer drive coordinated with South Korean and South Vietnamese forces. The Korean force — units of the Tiger Division — continued the mop-up north of Qui Nhon, but South Vietnamese troops terminated their operation and reported killing 221 Communists, capturing 618 prisoners and seizing 100 weapons.

The raids over North Viet Nam Monday were all flown by the Air Force as Navy planes were unable to leave their carrier bases in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The 21 missions added up to about 75 sorties and included four missions in the demilitarized zone.

GUNS SILENCED
Pilots reported knocking out two gun emplacements in the buffer zone between the two Viet Nams. The other strikes hit mostly in North Viet Nam's southern panhandle, and bad weather prevented a detailed damage assessment.

U. S. headquarters announced the number of American planes lost in action since August, 1964, over North Viet Nam reached 410, including two plane losses not previously disclosed.

Headquarters said 130 U. S. planes have been downed in South Viet Nam since major American involvement in Viet Nam started in January, 1961. Helicopter losses were reported as three over the north and 213 in South Viet Nam.

SINK SAMBANS
Units of the U. S. 1st Infantry Division continued on a multi-battalion search-and-destroy operation 15 miles north of Saigon, concentrating on Viet Cong traveling by night in sampans along the Saigon River and its tributaries.

Since the new operation, named Allentown, began last Friday, the infantrymen have reported killing 43 Viet Cong and sinking 11 sampans. They also seized three tons of rice and destroyed a Viet Cong base camp with ammunition and supplies in the drive to clear the area for resettlement of Vietnamese civilians.

In air action over South Viet Nam Monday, U. S. pilots flew 380 sorties and claimed destroying or damaging 199 Viet Cong bunkers, sampans, huts and fortified positions. South Vietnamese pilots flew 111 combat sorties.

Malaysian 'Pinks' Get Riot Warning

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Prime Minister Abdul Rahman warned Malaysian leftists today against staging anti-U. S. demonstrations when President Johnson arrives Sunday for a 21-hour visit.

Rahman, speaking during debate in Parliament on Johnson's visit, gave a flat "no" to a request by a leader of the opposition Labor party to stage a peaceful protest at the airport during the President's arrival.

SIX CLASHES
The prime minister said such demonstrations, "even if they set out to be peaceful, may turn out to be violent."

Members of the Labor party have clashed with police half a dozen times this year during demonstrations protesting American policy in Viet Nam.

Rahman denied that the government was contemplating a secret deal with Johnson to send Malaysian troops to Viet Nam.

The prime minister said the President "knows of our commitments and our security problems and we have no troops to spare."

RED THREAT
Rahman's government in a white paper issued today warned that "militant and violent forms" of Communist activity have emerged on the Malayan Peninsula and charged that this is "a vital part of the over-all pattern of Communist aggression and subversion in Southeast Asia, master-minded and directed by Peking."

The white paper said the Communist threat was manifested partly by "campaigns to support the Viet Cong and the violent propaganda attacks against American involvement in the Viet Nam war."

MANILA (AP) — In a bid for future peace and progress in the Asian and Pacific region, LBJ, Allies Ready To Withdraw Forces If Peace Terms Met

U.S. officials described the communique section on withdrawal of the allies a significant statement for U.S. policy, though consistent with the U.S. stand because it makes emphatically clear that the Americans do not intend to stay on in South Viet Nam after the North's forces leave.

The pledge was made in this way, at this time, it was said, because of recent charges that the Americans really wanted to stay on.

So far as Washington is concerned, if the North Vietnamese pull out and Hanoi stops supplying the Viet Cong, South Viet Nam can handle its own insurgency problem, these sources said.

It added it would take six months, by realistic reckoning, to pull out the huge U.S. and allied forces now numbering 370,000.

FREEDOM GOALS
The communique and two companion declarations on "Goals of Freedom" for Asia and the Pacific were signed at a televised ceremony in the Malacañang Palace by the American President, chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu of South Viet Nam, President Chung Hwe Park of South Korea, Prime Minister Harold Holt of Australia, Prime Minister Keith Holyoake of New Zealand, Premier Thanom Kittikachorn of Thailand, and the conference host, President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines.

The agreement on troop withdrawal — clearly a new bid to interest the Communist side of the Vietnamese war in talking peace — was the key new element in the communique.

The "Goals of Freedom" declaration stated:

"We, the seven nations gathered in Manila, declared our unity, our resolve, and our purpose in seeking together the goals of freedom in Viet Nam and in the Asian and Pacific areas. They are:

CONQUER HUNGER
"1. To be free from aggression, and disease."
"2. To conquer hunger, illiteracy, and disease."
"3. To build a region of security, order, and progress."
"4. To seek reconciliation and peace throughout Asia and the Pacific."

In their Declaration on Peace and Progress, the leaders agreed on these "principles on which we base our hopes for future peace and progress in the Asian and Pacific regions:"

1. "Aggression must not succeed."
2. "We must break the bonds of poverty, illiteracy and disease."
3. "We must strengthen economic, social and cultural cooperation within the Asian and Pacific region."

FINAL ROUND
4. "We must seek reconciliation and peace throughout Asia."

Japan has started to go down recently, and this may be associated with dramatic changes in the diet, particularly in increased milk consumption, said Dr. Hirayama.

Dr. J. F. Higginson, director of the International Agency for Research on Cancer told of a study in the Kansas City area of the United States trying to pinpoint any particular dietary influence. As with other such studies, no single factor was implicated unequivocally, said Dr. Higginson said, suggesting that this be looked into in larger surveys in Western countries.

One main difference was that cancer victims drank less milk, he said. Another was that they used much more salty food, especially salted pickles, a mainstay of the Japanese diet.

People eating a combination of milk, meat and green-yellow vegetables had the lowest incidence of risk, he said.

DRINKING MILK PROTECTS SOME PEOPLE

Pickles Boost Cancer Risk

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Drinking milk seems to help protect some people against stomach cancer, but eating salted pickles every day seems to boost the risk.

These observations come from new studies into the mystery of why people do or do not get stomach cancers and why the risk of stomach cancer generally is coming down.

Cancer researchers suspect a main villain is what people eat, but they agree it is very difficult to blame particular food items or to prove that others are protective.

FOOD PUZZLE
The puzzle about food was reported today at sessions of the ninth International Cancer Congress. Japan has one of the highest rate of stomach cancer in the world, along with Chile and Iceland. Dr. Takashi Hirayama of the National Cancer Research Institute told of comparing the diets of stomach cancer patients with Japanese free of the disease.

One main difference was that cancer victims drank less milk, he said. Another was that they used much more salty food, especially salted pickles, a mainstay of the Japanese diet.

People eating a combination of milk, meat and green-yellow vegetables had the lowest incidence of risk, he said.

'Open Letter' Rips Vietniks

By The Associated Press

"I never was a flag-raising, bugle-blowing type of patriot," says Sgt. Richard Byrd, a Texan at war who nonetheless found he had quite a bit to get off his chest.

Byrd, 25, had to travel light with the 1st Artillery Bn., 12th Marines, and sent some personal things to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Byrd of Beaumont.

RELEASED BY MOM
Mrs. Byrd, going through these things, came upon an "open letter to the people of the United States" written by her son during a period of Stateside peace demonstrations.

Nothing much came of the letter at the time, she said, but recently she released it anew for publication. In part, it says:

"We believe that our objective and the purpose of this war is to protect for all people all rights for all times.

'WE PITY THEM'

"As for the Vietniks, or anyone else who wishes to oppose us and our purpose, we pity them as they seem, to us, to be afraid that if this turns out to be a full-scale or all-out war, they just might have to tuck in their guts and fight. That is one point that we have over them; we don't have to worry about tucking in our guts and fighting, as that is what we have done since we have been here.

"We are proud of the job that we are doing and we don't really care what a minority of people of the United States thinks about our job and we will continue to do our best and strive to stop Communist aggression on foreign soil rather than the soil of America."

Ambulance Agreement Is Signed

Howard County Commissioners Monday signed a contract with Bruce Frazier and the Bennett House to operate emergency ambulance service for any of the county's indigent citizens who require such service.

The contract calls for the county to pay a flat fee of $20 for any emergency run the ambulance operator may make to serve any indigent person in the county at any place. The payment will be made by the county when it is established that the person served is actually indigent.

Frazier was not in attendance at the time the county commissioners attached their signatures to the pact. Meantime Frazier related contract between Frazier and the city of Big Spring is due for approval soon.

Under this joint effort by city and county, emergency ambulance service will be restored to the community. Frazier has informed the county it will be a month before he begins operating his ambulance service. The need for this contract arose when the ambulance service operator here announced several weeks ago that he was stopping emergency runs. Since then the city, by use of a fire department station wagon rigged for emergency ambulance duty, has served on calls inside the city limits.

BEFORE SANTA HITCHES REINDEER Yule Shopping Begins

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Santa won't hitch up his reindeer for another two months, but the Christmas season already is starting to sparkle in the nation's stores.

An Associated Press survey shows that Christmas will be a little early, partly because of the Viet Nam war.

"Whenever there is a war, people have on their minds getting packages to Sonny," said W. G. Austin, manager of the Kansas City Merchants Association. "It makes them think about Christmas shopping earlier."

'BOYS IN VIET'
John McNavola, manager of a W. T. Grant variety store in Pittsburgh, Pa., said he noticed many persons shopping earlier "because of the boys in Viet Nam." He could tell, he said, because of a big demand for heavy corrugated cartons to ship merchandise and food.

"With the troops overseas and the need for early purchases and early mailing, we have to have our lines out in time," said H. P. Smith, Woolworth regional manager in San Francisco.

GIFT WRAPS
In Helena, Mont., Ben Morris, manager of the J. C. Penney department store, said he already is doing 25 to 30 gift wraps a day for Christmas.

Do people complain about early starts for the Christmas shopping season? "There always have been for the Frederick and Nelson some complaints about rushing department store in Seattle. the season," said a spokesman.

District Water Revenues Slip As The Rains Fall

Revenues dipped in September for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, and there was prospect of more this month.

Receipts of $129,545 from member cities was down about $6,000 from the same month in 1965, due to rains in August, when sales shown in September occur. September of this year really declined due to unprecedented showers, and these lesser revenues will be reflected in the October financial statement.

Water sales to oil companies, on the September record, did come up about a thousand dollars in reaching $96,150. Total revenues in September were $229,537 compared to $234,800 a year ago. For the first nine months of the year, receipts stood at $2,020,012, slightly under the $2,053,718 for the comparable period in 1965.

Operating expenditures in September stood at $87,403, or up by $2,000. However, during the first nine months of this year, the district transferred $1,247,640 to the net revenue fund, which is up from the $1,224,255 a year ago. Expenditures in turn are made from the net revenue fund for bond retirement and interest, as well as to other indebted funds.

The district has sold half a billion gallons less water through the nine months period than the previous year. Through September, the district had delivered 8,602,948,000 gallons.

Oil Output Up In U.S.

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The Oil and Gas Journal reported today that crude oil and lease condensate production increased an average of 18,200 barrels per day last week, hitting 8,271,900 daily.

Output was unchanged in Texas at 2,840,300 barrels a day, Louisiana at 1,868,500 and New Mexico at 339,400, while Oklahoma gained 25,100 daily to 629,400.

Pastor Predicts Christianity End

DALLAS (AP)—The pastor of the nation's largest Baptist Church predicts that Christianity—already fading—will almost cease to exist by the 21st century.

Dr. W. A. Criswell, minister of the 13,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, blamed the "loss of conviction on the part of preachers that the Bible is the word of God."

Tracing the decline of Christianity through history, he said that 180 years ago 25 per cent of the world's population was evangelical Christian compared with 8 per cent today.

At the present rate, he said, "in 1980 the number will decline to 4 per cent. By the year 2000 the number will be less than 2 per cent."

"In the century that follows, unless God intervenes, they will become practically non-existent," Criswell said.

Frost Lightly Coats Midwest

By The Associated Press

Frost lightly coated the Midwest and Ohio Valley today as a brisk pattern of cool nights and sunny, mild days continued over most of the nation.

The pleasant autumn weather was marred only by some showers in the Southeast and the north Pacific Coast.

A frost warning was issued by the Weather Bureau for Ohio, the western sections of Pennsylvania and New York. Arkansas and Tennessee also expected light frost.

Safety Officer Takes Work Home

LONDON (AP)—Bill Dooley is a highway safety officer who takes his work too seriously, his wife, Joyce, complained to the Farnborough Town Council.

"It's a bit much when your bedroom looks like a road junction," said Joyce, reporting signs all about reading "Give Way," "Stop" and "If You Drink Don't Drive," plus two sets of traffic lights under the bed.

Her husband said their home was "only a small place and where else can I put my beacons?"

Mrs. Dooley, mother of two children, said things reached the limit when her husband moved a big green cupboard full of more posters into the bedroom.

Town Clerk Stuart Jones told her: "We shall try to find a lockup garage to store the equipment and clear the congestion in the bedroom as soon as possible."

Arrests Halt Bridge Block

ROMA, Tex. (AP) — Arrest of a dozen persons halted efforts to keep Mexican laborers from crossing the Rio Grande to jobs on Texas farms.

Sheriff's deputies cleared demonstrators from the International Bridge to this border village after they blocked pedestrian and auto traffic across the span Monday.

Some of the demonstrators sat in the roadway and others stood shoulder to shoulder until officers broke up the blockade. The first taken into custody were Eugene Nelson and Bill Chandler, organizers of the United Farm Workers in Texas' lower Rio Grande Valley.

Officers estimated 50 to 60 men and women took part.

Spokesmen say American farmer workers are unable to compete with Mexican laborers who help cultivate and harvest crops in the semitropical valley.

Demonstrations began last summer in support of union demands for a minimum $1.25 hourly wage. Spokesmen say current pay varies from 40 cents to $1 per hour.

VOTERS TO REPUDIATE CARR'S 'BAD MOUTH?' Candidates Toss Tart Words

By The Associated Press

Growing asperity marked some of the campaign utterances Monday by the two major party candidates for U.S. senator between whom Texas voters will choose Nov. 8.

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, the Democratic nominee, and Sen. John Tower, the Republican bidding for another term, each directed some pointed remarks at the other.

In an evening speech at Paris Junior College, Carr said he was concerned over inequities in the effects of selective service laws and asserted:

"Legislation under this subject comes under the jurisdiction of the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which my opponent is a member. If I had been a member of this committee the last four years, I would not have sat idly by while the inequities go from bad to worse."

PERSONAL ATTACK

At a rally in Denton, Tower accused his opponent of waging "a campaign of bitter personal attack against me." The senator added:

"He (Carr) is not discussing the issues of importance—such as inflation and Viet Nam—because he does not have the experience, knowledge or understanding to be conversant with those issues. . . . I expect Texas will repudiate his 'bad mouth.'"

At Lufkin, Carr declared that Tower "cast so many votes against the best interests of Texans that it is difficult to choose the ones that should be emphasized. And at a Tyler luncheon the attorney general brought up the question of civil disobedience."

LOOKOUT RECORD

"Why has he (Tower) been silent during the months of disorder and riots?" asked Carr. ". . . What I want to know is why it took him until October, just a few weeks before election, to decide lawlessness is a problem."

The Republican senator, in turn, said he was accused by Carr before a Fort Worth audience recently of not voting on a foreign aid bill for five years. "If they will take the trouble to look at the public records," Tower went on, "they will find during my Senate service for Texans that I voted on 112 roll call votes on foreign aid. That's a 112 per cent 'truth gap' for Mr. Carr."

Carr quoted a national news magazine as reporting Connecticut Republicans had collected $400,000 to bolster the campaigns of Tower and GOP office seekers in California and Georgia.

TEXAS' INTEREST

"This poses the question of what could happen if an issue arises with Texas' and Connecticut's interests on opposite sides," the Democratic nominee said. "How sure can anyone be that the junior senator will vote for Texas' interest?"

Tower told supporters in both Dallas and Denton that he expects administration efforts at the next session of Congress to repeal of so-called right-to-work laws, to impose wage and price controls and to raise income taxes—all of which he said he opposes.

"Whenever the administration again challenges our Texas law," the senator said, "I will once again join with senators of both parties . . . to save the right-to-work law."

Aides of Carr said the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the San Antonio Express and News have endorsed the attorney general, raising to 37 the number of Texas newspapers backing his candidacy.

A Devotional For The Day

Suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind . . . And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost. (Acts 2:2, 4)

PRAYER: O Lord, we pray for the winds of Thy spirit that we may launch our boats. We pray for confidence that Thou wilt sustain and guide us to the place of Thine appointment where we may best witness for Thee. In Thy name. Amen.

Speculation Notwithstanding

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., is probably right. No number of disclaimers on his part is likely to end speculation that he may have designs on the presidential or vice presidential nomination in 1968.

Nevertheless, such speculation is politically unrealistic. Kennedy has flatly stated that he would not run for national office in 1968 "under any foreseeable circumstances." And no one should question the quality of his foresight. It even expressly included the improbable possibility that Johnson might tap him to replace Vice President H. Humphrey, a speculation growing out of the high popularity poll standings of Kennedy.

However, Humphrey has done yeoman's work for the President and the party. To dump him, largely as a scapegoat for the Viet Nam policy, would be so overtly cynical as undoubtedly to cost the administration more 1968 votes than it might gain. Anyway, no one who knows Lyndon Johnson's appreciation for political loyalty could conceive of such a move.

The decisive point is, however, that if Kennedy should make a bid in 1968 for either the presidential or vice presidential spot, the inevitable result would be to cause such a split in the Democratic Party as to make a now-incredible Republican victory a really strong possibility. And Kennedy is an experienced enough politician to know that.

Consequently, Kennedy probably will campaign for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket in 1968 and run for senatorial re-election in 1970. And, barring unforeseen circumstances, he can be expected to be a major presidential contender in 1972, but that is a long, long time away.

Cutting The Fat

The action of a supermarket chain in Big Spring in closing its doors to mark down food items can hardly be attributed to the spontaneous action by a group of women petitioning for lower prices. The chain already had initiated the action and had the machinery turning in that direction, but the ladies have demonstrated a growing dissatisfaction with markups at the market.

No one seriously blames the retail outlets, for they are simply on the firing line and are passing on what processors, wholesalers and jobbers have added to the cost of food. The retailer is the one who hears about it when each week brings a slightly higher quotation than the one before. They are hard pressed to answer the housewives' complaints when things which sold for 69 go to 79, then 89 and finally stop short of the dollar mark by a couple of pennies.

Substantial reversing of this will have to be done up the line. Meanwhile, the action in cutting out all contests, raffle-dazzle promotions, bonuses, drawings, etc. in the interest of lower prices is a step in the right direction. Now, if this can be accompanied by some less frills in packaging and in preparation, perhaps some of the fat can be cut off the food bill.

When The President Misses The Point

THE PACIFIC. — It has taken Lyndon B. Johnson 24 years to make the trip back to the scene of his brief World War II experience in New Zealand and Australia. Those years have been one long pursuit of a goal defined only by his own boundless ambition.

Touring the capital of what was not long ago Britain's farthest outpost of empire, he drives himself with the demonic energy marking every step of his career. On his arrival at the airport he goes up and down the airport fence shaking hands not once but three times. Riding through the streets of Wellington he jumps out of his automobile to greet the crowds with a wave or a handshake.

FOR ALL HIS seemingly inexhaustible reserves of energy, the strain must be very great. To sustain the pace and keep the whole company in motion drives his aids close to distraction.

The President, the theory is, thrives on the warm embrace of the crowds. Part of this is his intense self-centeredness that is a reflex of his driving ambition.

But that self-centeredness has a price and it is frequently in evidence on this, his first foreign tour as President. In the drama of the stop at Pago Pago in Samoa it had a rather poignant illustration.

I have often wondered what is the underlying cause of human problems. Is it bad luck, circumstances, or a quirk in human nature? You have had a lot of experience in dealing with people. I thought you could give me an answer.

—Y. R. V.
In Connecticut the other day a twenty-nine year old man stabbed his four children to death, stabbed his expectant wife, set fire to his house, and then cut his own throat. The report said that he did all this because of domestic problems. But the cause was much deeper. This man's biggest problem was himself. Inside each of us is a roaring inferno of confusion and deception. Psychologists assert that we are all "potential killers," given the circumstances and occasion. Most of us, through fear of detection and punishment, and the wrath of society, are able to control our urge to inflict harm upon others. Occasionally, however, we amaze ourselves at our bad behavior. Most of us have done things on the spur of the moment, and in a rage, that made us ask the question, "Why did I do that? why am I Like I am?" The Bible calls this proneness toward violence and evil which exists in each of us, "sin." It was this fault in human nature that caused God to send His Son to die upon the cross. God's salvation is not just to save us from hell, it is to save us from ourselves—to change us into the image of God, and give us a new nature. The Bible says, "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature." This is what the Gospel is all about.

James Marlow Business Council Frown Chills LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — As far as American industry is concerned, the Business Council is The Establishment.

Outside Washington, it is the least known of the major business organizations. In Washington, it is by far the most influential.

So there were ripples of concern in the administration when, at the council's fall meeting in Hot Springs, Va., last weekend, the first signs appeared of some slight strain in the long honeymoon between big business and President Johnson.

What is the Business Council, and why does its frown send a chill through the executive branch?

THE COUNCIL was the idea of Franklin D. Roosevelt. His aim was to mobilize the talents of the country's foremost businessmen in devising ways to lead the nation out of the Great Depression. It was made an advisory committee to the then Secretary of Commerce Daniel Rogers.

By an enormous irony, this creation of the New Deal has become the most in-groups. Its membership roll is a roster of wealth, power and prestige.

And, since the council chooses its own new members, it has acquired the aspect of a self-perpetuating private club. Its gatherings are closed to press and public. When government men attend, they do so as invited speakers or guests.

THERE ARE 120 members, not counting about 40 who are "honorary" and the roll includes the top men of scores of the country's greatest corporations—Ford, Du Pont, GM, GE, U.S. Steel, Standard Oil, AT&T, Bank of America, you name it.

The council gives research and advisory services to more than a dozen departments and agencies, including the White House. Many members have taken government posts, some in the Cabinet. But the council has no official status whatever. Its advice and good will are sought eagerly by bureaucrats, Cabinet officers — and the President.

PRESIDENT Johnson has wined and dined its members at the White House, danced with their wives, made speeches at their meetings, consulted them on grave decisions and appointed their members to tasks of honor and responsibility.

The council has reciprocated. Its leaders and members have supported him on problems ranging from taxes to the balance of payments. Many of them forsook their Republican labels in 1964 to vote for him and contribute to his campaign.

They considered that he "understood businessmen" — talked their language, shared their views on spending, cost reduction and balanced budgets. Now they are concerned over inflation and rising wage demands. They fear a tax increase and a squeeze on profits in 1967. So they want the President to do some ruthless budget-cutting.

It's a safe bet that he will, if he can.

Hal Boyle Talent Scout's Dream

NEW YORK (AP) — Susan Pack is a talent scout's dream. She is 19, auburn-haired, slender and lovely.

Everyone who meets her is sure this young singer has a great future in show business. "You could be real big in films," the talent scouts tell her. Or, "When you hit Broadway, they'll forget all about Mary Martin and Julie Andrews."

BUT SUSAN, who is so wholesome it almost hurts, simply laughs at these promises of a pie in the sky show business future. Recently she turned down three other contract offers in order to join the New Christy Minstrels, a folk singing group of two girls and seven boys that has made 16 hit record albums in the last five years.

"I'm not interested in films at all," she said. "Film work is too cold. You have to be able to turn your emotions on and off. I'm not sure I can."

"I enjoy working with an audience too much."

"Performing is a lot of fun. But I'm not at all certain I would want it to become a line of work I like to think of as a hobby."

"One of the reasons I'm in the Minstrels is to earn enough to go back to college."

To Your Good Health Psychopath Can Be Alcoholic, Too

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I am married to a psychopathic alcoholic. I had him put in jail for trying to kill me with a carving knife.

So I think you will have to be guided by psychiatrists who study him very carefully. Changing a deep-rooted psychopathy is not easy, and keeping a person from drinking unless he deeply and sincerely wants to stop is likewise difficult.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 21 and have been thinking of plastic surgery on my nose. I know it sounds vain but my nose really gives me a terrible profile. My parents are very much against it. Do you think it would be wise to look into this or forget it? Also how much would it cost? —MISS V.J.

Whether you have it done is a personal rather than a health matter. It's your nose. Consult a plastic surgeon.

Contrary to popular beliefs, a specialist isn't automatically going to say "Yes, have it done." He is understandably interested in having people satisfied with results, so he will try to make you know in advance what you can expect. A profile photograph, touched up to show how much difference a new nose will make, is a good way to do this, so you won't expect too much or too little.

The cost will depend on a number of factors for each individual case, but it will be several hundred dollars. On this, again, the best way to find out is to ask him first.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble—symptoms; treatment; how to speed recovery—write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all readers mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim The Home Brew Was Of Value

After we had loaded the corpse in the back of a car, we drove to his house.

The unpainted shack sat back from the road and you had to climb a series of earthen steps to get into the yard. It was dark and the only light was from the stars and the reflected rays of a kerosene lamp inside the house shining through the open screenless door. It fell across a woman sitting in a rocking chair on the porch. We knew that she was the wife of the man who buckshot-torn body we had in the car at the gate.

THE WOMAN never looked at us as we walked toward her. She sat staring to the right, rocking back and forth in the squeaky old chair.

The sheriff spoke: "We have your husband in the car there," he said. "Would you like to see him?"

The woman shifted her eyes to the officer. Without expression she said: "Naw, I don't want to see him."

SOME OF the officers had gone to the rear of the house. The woman, silent and sullen, ignored the questions that the sheriff asked her.

Out back, the deputies came upon a sort of outhouse, about 10 feet square, with no windows and only one door. A heavy chain, fastened with a big padlock, was on the door.

One of the officers pushed on the door. It opened about half an inch. A sourish odor greeted his nostrils. He called another officer. He sniffed and nodded his head in agreement.

NEARBY WAS a woodpile with a double-bitted axe embedded in a log. One of the officers picked up the axe and swung it with full force at the door.

The woman evidently heard the im-pect of the axe on the wood. She leaped from the rocking chair, pushed past the sheriff and ran to the back of the house.

In the interval, the deputy's axe had broken open the door. A flashlight revealed the building was jammed to the rafters with case after case of "home brew." (This was in the days when prohibition was a national law and in the state where this incident transpired, a double offense.)

THE WOMAN, who had shown no emotion over her husband's murder, and had shed not one tear for him now began to weep wildly. She screamed at the axe wielding officer to stop and when he and others began systematically shattering the bottles of brew, she squatted on the ground, ringing her hands and sobbing. Tears streamed down her cheeks and she wailed pleas to the officers not to destroy her beer.

I stood at the corner of the house. I watched the busy officers destroying the brew, and the weeping woman. By turning my head I could see the silhouette of the sheriff's car parked at the front. I could see the bundled shape which we had placed in the car's rumble seat.

THAT WAS the body of this woman's husband. The luckless man for whom not a tear was shed.

A small lake of sourish frothing liquid was spreading from the doorway of the outhouse. This was the precious home brew for which the woman, slumped there in the dirt, was weeping so loudly.

That was a great many years ago. The scene is still sharp and clear to me. There was something so grotesque about it that it etched itself deep in my memory.

Holmes Alexander We're Weak In Nuclear Field

WASHINGTON — Though I have forgotten the Latin for it, I used to carry in my notebook the sapient comment by Julius Caesar: "Men most easily believe that which they wish." It would be an appropriate motto to print at the top of the 1963 Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, an achievement in the suave humbug of peace-through-weakness.

SENATOR Henry Jackson (D., Wash.) recently gave us a flimsy report on his stewardship of the Treaty's "safeguards." If the Senate hadn't been jaded, if the President hadn't been winging through the Orient on a peace mission, if euphoria hadn't become a national state of mind, I daresay there would have been a real rumus.

Jackson, mind you, is a skeptic. He voted for the ban on nuclear testing in the atmosphere, but not until the safeguards proviso was included. This clause enjoined the Executive Department to (1) Keep on with underground testing, (2) Keep up its nuclear laboratories, (3) Keep ready to jump back into atmospheric testing if necessary, (4) Keep improving our methods to detect cheating on the Treaty by the enemy. On September 18, Jackson presented his third annual checkup on these four points, somewhat as follows:

UNDERGROUND testing: It's true that we have nominally conducted some 100 subterranean tests since the summer of 1963, but the question is—how much is enough? Jackson calls our capacity "good," but he calls the Soviet underground program "very intensive . . . very active . . . yielding several hundred kilotons." I doubt if many Senators in the dying session noted Jackson's warning that "the Soviets will narrow the gap materially if we do not do everything the safeguards permit . . ."

Nuclear labs: Jackson paid a committee chairman's boring compliments to these military and Atomic Energy Commission workshops ("we are particularly proud of the people involved") but he mentioned a lot of unfinished business and no significant breakthroughs at all.

READINESS to resume: If Russia should break the Treaty, or if national interest should require us to renounce it, here is President Johnson's approximate timetable for testing in the air, underwater, in space: two months for military operational tests, three months for "nuclear tactical exercise," three months for development experiments, as much as 12 months to try a re-entry flight.

Detection of enemy cheating: This is by far the fuzziest and yet the most solemn section of Jackson's presentation. There are still, he says, a number of "unidentified events" each year, suggesting that we cannot be sure the enemy is living up to the Treaty.

THE CAESARIAN theory would say, alas, that the American people and government will dismiss all doubts raised here about the Test Ban Treaty. Loving peace, they adore the hocus-pocus of disarmament. My own inclination bends toward the Darwinian theory which says that only the fit survive. Jackson's nuclear fitness report, inadvertently shows the USA in a sadly flabby condition.

Art Buchwald The Last Word On Flying Saucers

WASHINGTON — Every time I go out lecturing I discover that one of the first questions that comes up is "Do you believe in flying saucers?"

I don't know why people are always asking me that question unless it's because I look like the type of person who might have seen one.

There has been a lot of nonsense written about flying saucers, and it is for this reason that many people have reservations about them. The most authoritative book to date on flying saucers has been written by Dr. Steglehoffer and is titled "The Flying Saucer Cookbook." Professor Steglehoffer not only goes into details on the flying saucers that he has seen but he has also managed to gather together the favorite recipes of the captains of flying saucer ships.

THE PROFESSOR was in Washington to testify on the truth in packaging bill and agreed to see me in his hotel suite.

"Professor, do you believe there are flying saucers?"

He was about to reply when he suddenly rushed to the window.

"What was that?"

"What was what?"

"I thought I saw something strange fly by my window."

"In Washington, D. C.?" I asked incredulously.

"OH, THEY'RE getting more audacious all the time. Besides, they now know where they money is."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, the Air Force has just authorized $350,000 to make a study of flying saucers, and the people on the saucers think they should have a say in how the money is spent. After all, it does affect them."

"HOW many flying saucers have you seen personally, Professor?"

"About 33 or 34."

"Did you talk to any of the crew?"

"Only to the officers. I never talk to enlisted men."

"What did they say?"

"They're flying over the United States for peaceful purposes, and they will stop their overflights only if the American people are allowed to decide their own destiny. They say they don't want to inflict their system on ours, but they are committed to protect the United States against aggression from Mars."

"Then they're not from Mars?"

"NO, THEY'RE from Venus. The ones that have been spotted over the Soviet Union are from Mars."

"That certainly complicates the picture. Does France have any flying saucers?"

"Only little ones. But it gives them a sense of grandeur. We'd much prefer that the United States and the Soviet Union be the only countries where you could see flying saucers, and we were even willing to share our sightings with them but De Gaulle insists the French people see their own."

"Thank you, Professor, for talking to me."

"IT'S MY PLEASURE." He ran back to the window. "There they go again. Damn, I told them not to land in the rose garden of the White House. Now Lady Bird is really going to be mad."

Captain Will Get Honor As Colonel Celebrates

The Officers Club at Webb Air Force Base will be the scene of a promotion party for Col. Michael W. Shareck Jr., commander, 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron on Oct. 28. Shareck was promoted to colonel on his 24th anniversary of military service.

Guests at the party will include G. E. "Jerry" Bentley, manager of F-104 projects for the Lockheed California Company and Tony LeVier, director of flight operations. They will present an inscribed plaque to Capt. E. M. Bunn recognizing the surpassing of a goal of every F-104 pilot — attainment of 1,000 hours of flying time in the Mach 2 Starfighter. Less than 25 pilots have ever reached this mark, and only one has logged 2,000 hours. LeVier is well known for his flying exploits which include 13 initial flights in experimental aircraft, first test flight in the first operational jet (F-80) and pylong racing in smaller aircraft.

Capt. Bunn began flying the F-104 in July, 1958, while assigned to the 538th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Larson AFB, Wash. He passed the 1,000 hour milestone on Oct. 14. He is presently gunnery officer for the 331st, and is an instructor pilot and flight examiner in the F-104. He and his wife, June, live at 55-A Chanute. They have one son, Gregory, 6.

Big Day For Both

Not such a wet party as you would imagine. At left is Capt. E. M. Bunn of the 331st Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, who has just passed a coveted goal — 1,000 hours of flying time in the F-104 Starfighter. Enjoying the scene from a safe distance is the 331st's commander, Col. M. W. Shareck Jr., who has just been promoted to colonel. At Col. Shareck's promotion party Friday night, Capt. Bunn will receive a special plaque from Lockheed, which builds the F-104.

New Money May Perk Up Movie Firm

By BOB THOMAS
AP TV - Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After 50 years as one of the film industry's companies, Paramount Pictures has ceased to exist as a corporate entity.

Last week Paramount was withdrawn from the New York Stock Exchange trading, its final standing at 78%. Stockholders had voted to merge the movie concern with the Texas-based Gulf and Western Industries.

The merger followed an industry trend. Entertainment companies have been seeking the stability of having immense corporations as parent concerns, thus avoiding the periodic depressions that can come with changes in public tastes.

NEARLY MERGED

The American Broadcasting Co.-Paramount Theaters was absorbed this year by International Telephone and Telegraph. United Artists nearly merged with Consolidated Foods and is now exploring a combination with TransAmerican Corp., a California insurance and financing giant.

What changes will the new affiliation bring to Paramount? That is the present concern of studio workers. The production company has been hampered in the past three years by a debilitating proxy war which was waged and lost by financier Herbert J. Siegel and Broadway producer Ernest H. Martin.

The first half-century of Paramount's history provided many excellent years and, especially during the depression, some bad ones. The company was founded July 19, 1916, with its original merger — Adolph Zukor's Famous Players and the Jesse Lasky Company. In the following year, 12 other production companies were added.

ZUKOR THINKS BIG

Zukor believed in bigness, and in 1919 he started buying up theaters to provide showcases for the Famous Players-Lasky films. He also brought forth films on an epic scale — "The Covered Wagon," Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" (1923). Zukor paid his top stars handsomely: Mary Pickford was given a million dollars a year to remain with the company.

Paramount, as it has been called since 1927, fell on bad times during the depression. The weight of empty theaters carried the corporation down to bankruptcy in 1933. Reorganization in 1935 revived Paramount and the company began its most glorious years.

OFTEN TRUE

"If it's a Paramount picture, it's the best show in town" — so said the brave motto, and often it was true. The studio special-

What do other station wagons have that a Volkswagen doesn't?

- 1 A snazzy looking body.
Compared to other station wagons, a Volkswagen comes off kind of plain, styleless and boxy looking. But that's the beauty of it. Because it's shaped like a box it can hold about twice as much as stylish wagons. And because we make the body higher instead of longer, it'll park in 4' less space than stylish wagons.
- 2 An engine in the front.
Most station wagons devote about 1/3 of their space to carrying an engine around. But our engine is in the rear, out of the way, so most of a Volkswagen's space can be devoted to space. And with that extra weight in the rear, it gets extra traction in mud and sand and snow.
- 3 A drive shaft.
It makes that big mound in the floor, from front to back, forcing the middle passenger to sit with his knees in the air. Naturally, wagons with engines in the front have to use a drive shaft to make their rear wheels go. But not the Volkswagen. It uses a rear engine to make its rear wheels go.
- 4 A radiator, a water pump and hoses.
All very necessary if your wagon uses water, but a VW never touches the stuff. It's cooled by air. There's nothing to boil over, nothing to freeze up and no place to put antifreeze.
- 5 A frame.
Most other wagons have bulky frames. But instead of a frame, 15,982 spot welds join the Volkswagen body into one solid piece of steel. So loading 3/4 of a ton may cause a strain, but on you, not it.
- 6 All of the above.
That's our Volkswagen Station Wagon. Because of what it doesn't have, it doesn't have much in common with other wagons. It doesn't look like one, it doesn't act like one and it can carry about twice as much as one.
Come in and take a look.
We think you'll like what you don't see.

Vitamin A Doses Halt Lung Cancer

TOKYO (AP) — Big doses of vitamin A can halt or prevent development of lung cancer in animals, a scientist reported today.

He has found a way of inducing lung cancer — the same kind that humans get — in hamsters. But when he also feeds them vitamin A, very few come down with lung tumors.

His findings, he stressed, are by no means an invitation for cigarette smokers or people living in air-polluted areas to start gulping down vitamin A, or lots of carrots which are rich in the vitamin. Too much vitamin A can be harmful to humans.

Dr. Umberto Saffiotti, Italian-born pathologist now at the Chicago Medical School, described his research at opening scientific sessions of the Ninth International Cancer Congress. He implied them in an interview.

He turned up evidence that dust particles in the air, or in cigarette smoke, can be the "carriers" to take cancer-causing chemicals into the lungs. Using hamsters, he prepared inert dust particles to which were attached crystals of a potent cancer-caused benzpyrene. Benzpyrene is found in smoke or exhausts from industrial plants, automobiles, coal furnaces, and also in cigarette smoke.

He injected this material down the windpipes of hamsters, rather than let them breathe it in over a period of months or years. He could follow what happened because the benzpyrene fluoresces.

The dust particles mostly became lodged in the walls of bronchioles and alveoli, or air sacs. Soon the benzpyrene dissolved and spread through the lungs.

Hamsters given dust only, without benzpyrene, did not get tumors. Looking for a way to prevent the cancers, Dr. Saffiotti gave some hamsters — already treated with combined dust — two 5,000-unit feedings of vitamin A. Only one developed a tumor, compared with 30 per cent of a group of dusted mice not getting the vitamin.

Council Seeks Wider Highway

FREEMONT, Tex. (AP) — The Freemont City Council approved a resolution to ask the Texas Highway Department to widen Highway 288 from Angleton north to the Alameda area of Houston.

Mayor T. C. Selman said the request followed a conference with W. E. Carmichael, highway department district engineer, concerning the timetable of highway construction between Brazosport and Houston. It is understood that the planned freeway between Brazosport and Houston may take as much as eight years for the first leg to be completed. By that time Highway 288, now crowded, would become congested between Angleton and Houston. The new freeway is to be near 288 but not an enlargement of it. Bonds have already been voted to take care of securing right-of-way in Brazoria County.

Bags Replace Garbage Cans

LAKE JACKSON, Tex. (AP) — It might seem like laundry bags to some, when citizens see large polyethylene plastic and rubber bags, instead of metal garbage cans, out at the curb to be used in disposing of garbage carried off by the city garbage truck.

It's a new idea that is being tried, said Mayor Kara L. Cooper. Members of the council and a few others were given some of the bags for trial.

The "king-sized" waterproof bags are to be placed in regular garbage cans in an inconspicuous and handy spot at the residence. When filled, the bags are to be tied at the top with a band provided, and then placed at the curb in front of the house, where the garbage man takes both the bag and its contents away for disposal. The bags would cost about four cents each, to be paid by the householder.

Assistant State Librarian Picked

AUSTIN (AP) — H. Kenneth Jackson has been appointed assistant state librarian, succeeding William K. Peace, who resigned Sept. 29 to accept a scholarship at Louisiana State University.

The appointment was announced by state librarian Dorman H. Wintrey.

Jackson was promoted from directorship of the Texas State Library's field services division.

Opening lead: Three of ♠
An alert play at the opening gun by South, the declarer at four spades in today's hand, led to the establishment of a trick that proved vital to the success of his contract.

West opened the three of clubs, the four was played from dummy and East put in the jack which won the trick. A heart was returned and ducked in the closed hand. West was in with the jack of hearts and he

Declarer led a club and covered West's seven with dummy's ten. East won the trick with the ace and a third round of hearts was returned and ruffed in dummy with the four of spades. The king of clubs was cashed and South discarded his remaining heart.

The seven of spades was led, East followed with the nine and declarer put in the jack. When the finesse succeeded, he continued with the ace and king of spades to draw the remaining trump, and the rest of the tricks were his. In all, South lost two clubs and one heart.

Observe that, if the declarer plays the ten of clubs from dummy on the opening lead, he cannot subsequently develop a trick for himself in that suit, and is left with a losing heart at the end.

East can counter South's strategy by putting in the eight of clubs after the dummy has played the four, but to do so would lay him open to a charge of having peeked into the declarer's hand. If South has the nine of clubs instead of West, then East would be surrendering a trick by failing to put in the jack.

OCTOBER IS NATIONAL RESTAURANT MONTH

Fisher Selected Texan Of Month By The WTCC

Beeman Fisher of Fort Worth, chairman of the board of Texas Electric Service Company and immediate past president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is West Texan of the Month for October.

The honor was announced by the West Texas Chamber in the October issue of the magazine, West Texas Today.

"My confidence in West Texas, its resources and its future, is unbounded," Fisher once said.

Fisher concluded a two-year term as president of the WTCC last April.

He is known for his expressions of faith in the West Texas Chamber. At Stephenville last year he addressed a group of WTCC leaders and prospective members, saying: "The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is an organization that can do for West Texas that which the local members and other organizations cannot do.

Fisher has plugged continually for industrial development and the need for a diversified economy in West Texas. In Midland last year he waved aside the pessimistic attitude of some that West Texas would sometime deplete its natural assets of gas, oil, fertile soil and water. "Let me suggest, instead, that our dynamic technology, our research and development efforts are constantly expanding, these resources through the ingenious use of human knowledge," he said.

He has urged repeatedly that West Texas utilize its labor supply to the utmost, noting that "labor is a resource that must be utilized when it becomes available. Otherwise, it will drift away to areas of greater economic opportunity."

He preaches teamwork, too. He said in one of his appearances, "In using our managerial resources to best advantage, we need to cooperate even while we compete. One man cannot do it all."

He joined TESCO in 1938 as assistant to the president. Before '38 he was with Texas Power and Light Company in Dallas as advertising manager and editor of the company's employe publication. He has served as director of the Edison Electric Institute, the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, the Texas Research League and the Texas Water Conservation Association.

The End Of Hurricane Season

It takes a lovely lady (Kathy Witt of Miami) to signal the end of a season of ladies who were not so lovely. Take Alma and Inez for instance. They killed people and tore up a lot of property just like Kathy is tearing up a hurricane flag. After all, Tuesday is the official end of the 1966 hurricane season, according to the 1966 World Almanac. (AP WIREPHOTO)

HCJC Is Co-eds' Delight, Two Men For Every Woman

Howard County Junior College should be a happy place for co-eds this semester. Among unmarried students, there are two men for every woman. Other statistical breakdowns show 566 full-time students, 355 part-time. The part-time students are taking enough work to be the equivalent of 110 full-time, thus the fall semester would be 676. The semester hour total is 10,093.

Among those registered for the first time were 424, of whom 248 were men, 176 women. There were 412 men and 272 women in the freshman class, a total of 684. The sophomores numbered 102 men and 80 women, a total of 182. Thirty-five men and 20 women who were unclassified (more credits already earned than would permit sophomore standing) to make 55, and thus run the total of 921.

October Grand Jury Impaneled

Howard County grand jury began consideration of 25 felony matters at 10 a.m. today. The grand jurors were qualified for their duties by Ralph W. Caton, judge of the 118th District Court.

A corridor full of witnesses and principals awaited summons to the grand jury room. With good luck, the grand jury could finish its work in two days, according to Wayne Burns, district attorney.

Judge Caton had 16 of his original panel of 20 prospective grand jurors on hand when he convened court at 10 a.m. This was a larger number than usual.

He selected the first 12 on the list. The grand jurors are Mrs. W. Byron Neel, Ike Robb, Bill Sheppard, Billy W. Jones, Mrs. John Quigley, Jack M. Denson, Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald, Robert D. McCullough, James Meador, Mrs.

Justin Holmes, Roy Cederberg and Harvey Adams. One murder case is slated for consideration. This complaint charges Frances Jean Ford with shooting Raymond Lang to death on the night of Oct. 1.

Whether the grand jurors were to begin consideration of this case or would take the complaints in the sequence they were listed on the district attorney's docket was not announced.

Members of the retail committee of the Chamber of Commerce voted today to again sponsor the community home decoration contest for the Christmas season.

Oscar Glickman, chairman of the committee, said that he hoped a good response would follow. Prizes will again be offered for the decorated homes, and details will be announced closer to the Christmas season.

It was decided to ask "Santa Claus" to appear in Big Spring first this year on Nov. 23 so that pre-school youngsters will be given more of a chance to inform Santa what they would like for Christmas. Times and scheduling for Santa's visit will be announced later.

It was reported that the holiday activities fund has a grand total of $972.50.

Mrs. Denver Polly, chairman of the Housewives for Lower Food Prices, said today that any campaigning or picketing by that organization had been called off.

Mrs. Polly said that her organization had talked with all local chain store managers and had been satisfied that the price slashes advertised by the chain stores were the best the stores could do at the present.

"Our campaign will be resumed only if prices are raised beyond what we feel is reasonable," Mrs. Polly said.

Tower Due Wednesday

Sen. John Tower brings his campaign for re-election to the United States Senate here Wednesday morning.

As a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, he plans to arrive at 9 a.m. at Webb AFB. He will be escorted on a tour of the base and its facilities by Col. Chester J. Butcher, wing commander, then will go to the Settles Hotel for a coffee in his honor. He will speak briefly there, afterwards holding a short press conference before going to Midland for a noon speaking engagement.

He will be escorted to the hotel by Dr. Akin Simpson, Republican county chairman, John Richard Coffee, campaign manager, and John Currie.

An off-setting fact, however, has widened the gap, for male students are more apt to enroll and stay serious about school with the draft situation as pressing as it is. Under such circumstances, parents able to send only one child will concentrate on getting and keeping the boy in school.

Total enrollment for the fall semester was 978, down from the 1,024 for the previous September.

By the time dropouts and special program students are eliminated, the total head count qualifying for state support is 921. Of this figure, 531 are men and 370 are women. Another interesting thing is that there are 397 single men registered, 190 single women, so there you have a better than 2-1 ratio among the eligibles.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) - Five children, the oldest 7, died Monday night in a fire that flashed through their two-story frame house.

Fire officials said the mother, Bernice Nunn, about 25, who is expecting her sixth child, arrived home shortly after the fire broke out and collapsed when she saw flames leaping from the children's first-floor bedroom windows.

She was treated for shock. Mrs. Nunn's children were Frank Finley, 1; Lisa Nunn, 3; Lonnie Nunn, 4; Mark Nunn, 5; and Michael Johnson, 7.

Seven jury panels of 120 members each for service in the 118th District Court between this date and Jan. 23, were drawn from the jury wheel by Judge Ralph Caton on Monday afternoon. 90th Congress Already Faces Pile Of Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 90th Congress, most of which won't be elected for another two weeks, already has a pile of work laid out for it.

Social Security, the union shop, unemployment compensation, extension of "Great Society" programs and those presidential proposals which failed in the just-adjourned 89th Congress all are almost certain to be considered.

And a tax raise might be, too. Which controversial programs get passed, however, may make a shorter list.

Measures which failed during the past two years failed despite better than 2-to-1 Democratic majorities in the Senate and House. Mostly they lost to a Southern Democrat-Republican alignment which even on some legislation that passed cut President Johnson's working majority to a handful of votes, especially in the House.

GOP GAIN DUE

Virtually no one expects Democrats to gain any House seats in the Nov. 8 election. Predictions average out instead to a 20-to 30-seat gain for Republicans, which could wipe out that slim working majority and hamstring proposals which couldn't survive under more favorable conditions.

All 435 House seats and 35 of the 100 Senate seats are up for election. Little significant Senate swing is expected.

President Johnson announced 10 days before the 89th Congress adjourned that he would ask the 90th to increase Social Security benefits and revise the system.

Some members of the 89th wanted to tackle that appealing task before the election, but leaders agreed to make it the first major order of business in January.

JOBLESS PAY

Organized labor — no big winner in the 89th Congress despite its overwhelming support of Democrats in 1964 — undoubtedly will press again for fixing of federal standards for unemployment compensation payments and repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits states to ban the union shop.

The 90th Congress must grapple with a budget full of programs enacted in 1965 and 1966 at little initial cost — but with bills which begin to come due next year.

For example, the demonstration cities plan to rebuild large areas of urban blight carried only a $12-million price tag for planning funds in the present fiscal year. But it authorized $400 million for the spending year beginning next July 1.

Many legislators believe that these mounting costs, coupled with steadily climbing Viet Nam war expenditures and pressures to slow down the economy, will require Johnson to ask for an across-the-board income tax boost next year.

Nude Blonde Found Slain

NEW YORK (AP)—A strawberry blonde secretary, a singer and model in her off hours, was found murdered in a vacant Manhattan apartment Monday night. Her nude body had been slashed and stabbed apparently with a razor.

The victim was Suzanne Reynolds, 22. She was a willowy 5 feet 8½ inches tall and weighed 114 pounds.

The body was discovered in the comfortable Murray Hill section by Charles Yuki, 28, a pianist-singer and friend of the woman.

Yuki, who lives in the building with his wife, told police he had an earlier appointment with Miss Reynolds and left the apartment in her company. They separated, but when he returned, Yuki told police, the door was open and her body was lying on a rug underlinter inside.

No clothes were found in the apartment, but police discovered a pair of women's shoes, a brassiere and one stocking. In a nearby subway station they turned up a two-piece beige suit.

To Save A Soldier' Labeled Memorable Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "To Save A Soldier" on ABC Monday night was a memorable hour of television, a revelation of the compassionate as well as cruel face of war.

The documentary showed, in sometimes shocking detail, the military operation that can lift wounded men from isolated rice paddies to medical care in minutes. It followed along on the long journey home for the 99 per cent who can be "returned to life."

The cameras picked up a young soldier, Dennis Aldrich, a few minutes after he had stepped on a mine and a metal fragment entered his flank, shattered his spleen, destroyed part of his kidney and lodged in his lung.

In following Aldrich through four hospitals in Viet Nam and the Philippines we also were shown the network of men, hospitals, plans and communications all over the world working to help heal the injured.

One of the most interesting sequences was shot aboard a hospital plane returning 25 men to the United States for further treatment. Dedicated flight nurses ministered to the men.

The Aldrich story had a happy ending. It showed the recuperating soldier arriving at his Stevens Point, Wis., home and the emotional greeting from his family.

The program also underscored the terrible waste of war. A flight nurse summed up: "I don't know whether it makes any sense or not as to why they're..." she said, letting her words trail off. "I don't think about it, I don't understand it. The problem is to see what you can do with them from here on in."

'BONANZA TOPS'

"Lucy in London," said to relate, is not nearly as amusing as Lucy in L.A. and the Desilu Studios. Her CBS special Monday night was loaded with frantic action but little real entertainment.

The new Nielsen ratings, issued Monday for the two weeks ending Oct. 9, put NBC's "Bonanza" back in its accustomed spot at the top of the prime evening time show list. Others in the top 10 were CBS's Red Skelton Show, Andy Griffith Show, NBC's Boj Hope hour and Saturday night movie, CBS's Lucy Show, ABC's Rat Patrol — only new series to get top audience grades — CBS's Jackie

100 Students File For Tests Under Draft Plan

Only a hundred students who are eligible under the Selective Service program to take the tests on educational qualifications have made applications at the local draft board of office to take such examinations, according to Mrs. Louise Nuckolls, clerk. The deadline for applying was Oct. 1.

Mrs. Nuckolls said it is possible a considerable number of Howard, Martin and Mitchell County youths in the draft age who are in college in other cities have picked up application blanks in those cities. She said that such requests would not be known here.

The 100 who asked to take the tests locally are mostly high school and Howard County Junior College students, she said.

DEAR ABBY

Alcoholism And Illness

DEAR ABBY: Why do so many people—including YOU—defend drunks by giving them high-sounding titles like "alcoholics?" And lend further dignity to their weakness by calling it a "disease?" I have actually heard intelligent people say that an alcoholic should be condemned any more than a victim of polio, diabetes, or heart trouble. Really, now! Alcoholism is not CAUGHT, like measles or mumps, Abby. One must cultivate it.

You are forever harping on how those drunks need "understanding." And I, for one, am sick of it!

AN EX-READER DEAR EX-READER: You need more information than can give you here. In a nutshell, some can take a drink, or two, or six, and stop. Others need only to sniff the cork and they are powerless to stop drinking until they have lost consciousness—and frequently their jobs, money, families, and self-respect as well.

Psychiatrists say that one who is aware that alcohol can destroy him, but drinks anyway, is unconsciously trying to destroy himself. And if THAT isn't a form of mental illness, what is?

DEAR ABBY: My 12-year-old son came home from school and told me he was given a questionnaire to fill out and sign. Here are some of the questions he said he was asked to answer:

"Do your parents drink? Is there frequent quarreling in your home? Has anyone in your family ever had psychiatric help?"

I feel that these questions do not pertain to my son's school life, and the whole questionnaire was out of order.

I don't want to get my child in trouble by making a big stink, but I want to know what can be done about a situation like this.

HIS MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: I would first ask my son's teacher who was responsible for the questionnaire. Then I would inquire as to its purpose, and to what use the information would be put. Having learned that, if I still felt the questionnaire was out of order, I would complain to the appropriate authorities, making as big a "stink" as was necessary to protect my privacy.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Texans Collect $251 Million

FORT WORTH (AP)—Living policyholders in Texas received a record $251.3 million last year in life insurance, pension and annuity benefits from life companies, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. This was $20.6 million or 8.9 per cent more than they had collected in 1964.

MENTAL HEALTH CONCERNS BUSINESS

Somebody Has To Pay The Bill

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Business is becoming as concerned about mental health as the hospitals are, but for a different reason. Somebody has to pay the bill. More and more it looks as if business might be the one.

Medical and disability payments for mental illnesses may well become a fringe benefit if you use recent court cases as a guide. Time after time lately companies have been held liable for employee breakdowns.

A classic example involves payment to a railroad man who suffered a collapse because of what he said were emotional stresses and tensions in operating a traffic system while people shouted at him over loudspeakers.

ALCOHOLISM COSTS

The costs already are building up. Alcoholism, for example is even now costing industry about $2 billion a year. But this bill is tabulated in lost productivity, in alcohol's proven association with accidents and absenteeism.

The bigger bill, however, is likely to be in medical and disability payments. Emotionally ill persons may be out of work a long time. They could run up ills in the tens of thousands of dollars.

The costs of workmen compensation and insurance premiums is rising. Premiums on compensation alone now run between $2 billion and $2.5 billion a year, even without the possible flood of mental illness claims.

PRECEDENT SET The precedent has been established now that an emotional illness is "compensable" when it originates in a physical injury. A physical injury caused by emotional stress also is payable.

Now the law has recognized that a psychiatric illness resulting solely from mental stress may be payable.

In some cases the worker has not even had to prove his illness was caused by his job. Instead, the responsibility was put upon the company to disprove the connection.

UNFAIR FEELING

Some businessmen feel this is unfair. But others feel business

Grand Jury Picks Woman Foreman

BEAUMONT (AP)—A woman was named foreman of the county grand jury. It is believed to be the first time in the county's history a woman has headed the panel.

Mrs. Willard J. Hall was named by Dist. Judge George Taylor. Courtroom veterans say they cannot remember a woman ever being named to the position.

Jaycees Bring In $1,200 In UF Effort

Initial report of the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce, which has accepted the task of signing up United Fund cards in the metropolitan area, shows that $1,200 has been received.

The Jaycees will make 600 personal calls in connection with the coverage of the metropolitan area and has assigned 76 of its members and helpers to do the job. That means that each worker has been assigned eight cards.

Chairman Charles Bell has sounded an appeal to Jaycees to finish the work on their cards without loss of time. He wants to wind up the canvass this week and report the metropolitan area completed by next Monday.

Bond Fixed For C-City Youth

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Johnny Selvera, 19, Colorado City, was charged in Mitchell County court with DWI Monday, following a Sunday afternoon accident in which six were injured. Selvera, who is on a probation sentence in connection with a downtown shooting incident, had bond set at $1,000 and is being held in the Mitchell County jail.

Rose Ann White, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer G. White, Colorado City, was in a pickup which was in collision with the automobile driven by Selvera, and is being treated for a mild concussion, abrasions and a broken right arm. Five others were given emergency treatment and released.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Fill Lunchbags With Frozen Goodies

Dear Heloise:

Here is an easy way I learned to pack those school lunches every morning when time is short.

After I go to the grocery store and buy the goodies (donuts, cup cakes, etc.) or when I bake such things, I separate and freeze them in small packages ready for the lunch bags.

Also, things like grapes and other fruit, I wash and wrap in individual packages before putting them in the refrigerator.

Potato chips and corn chips I put in small plastic lunch bags before storing - much cheaper than buying the individual sizes.

Most kinds of sandwiches can be frozen and just popped into the lunch boxes each morning before the children leave for school.

No more leftover, stale donuts or cup cakes, and a much more peaceful "prior school morning." ... Mrs. Richards

Dear Heloise:

I tried all kinds of scratching posts to keep my cat from clawing the furniture and I found this to be the only thing that really works for me:

I loaded a large cardboard box with old books and heavy objects that I wouldn't be using. Then I wrapped an old piece of carpet around the box and sewed it together.

My cat loves to scratch and claw the carpet.

The secret is that it is heavy and solid. She can get a grip on it and pull and claw all she wants to.

The box provides a little extra storage, and doesn't look bad either. ... Joan Jenrich

Dear Heloise:

I solved a real backache by using a child's plastic rake.

Instead of crawling under baby's bed to retrieve toys after he is asleep, I use the rake to drag out the toys. ... Mrs. D. Call

Dear Heloise:

Some people don't care for celery in soup because of the strings.

Try cutting off and washing the bottom stalk-part of the celery which we usually toss in the garbage pail.

Put it in the soup. After cooking the soup, remove the celery core. ... no strings in the soup, only the delicious celery flavor. ... Elizabeth Johnson

Dear Heloise:

For those rush-rush days when I have ironing to do and don't have time to sit with baby while he takes his bottle. ... I use a handy bottle holder made from an elastic loop and one of his stuffed animals.

I sew the elastic loop on the animal's back and slip the bottle through it to keep the bottle at the proper level for drinking.

By stuffing the animal's legs between baby and his infant seat, it keeps the bottle holder in place on his tummy.

Of course, I watch him while I iron to see if his bottle falls away from his mouth. ... Mrs. D. Call

Dear Heloise:

Worn out top sheets make a good pad for a bed by folding them in half and placing them over the mattress. ... Doris

A LOVELIER YOU

Be Ready To Go At Ring Of A Telephone

By MARY SUE MILLER
Lives there a lovely who is always perfectly groomed? Ready at the drop of a telephone call to accept an unexpected invitation?

Even though you are the organized type, the pressure of duties can upset your grooming schedule. And there's where these few shortcuts would come in handy:

To halve the time of a nail polish change or touch-up, use a spray-on fixative. This dries the surface in about a minute and prevents smudging unless, of course, you immediately put your hands to rough work.

To camouflage a hand complexion that looks a bit seedy, smooth on skintoned body make-up. The ruse is undetectable under night lights. More-over the finish is impervious to water and rub-off. (But not to soap.)

For a quick removal of fuzz on the legs, slather on hand lotion and then razor. No pre-treating, soaping or rinsing is necessary. And the skin looks satin-smooth thereafter.

When you crave an instant refresher, rub down with a fragrant friction lotion. It's the next best thing to a lengthy shower for a tingle-clean feeling.

Brighten a fading make-up with firm pats of a cotton ball, moistened with skin freshener. After it dries, fluff on a brush-on. Use a shade with the merest peary blush of color and apply it to the entire face for an illusion-veiling effect. Add a wiglet to these tricks and you're ready in minutes to go-go-go!

YOUR GROOMING

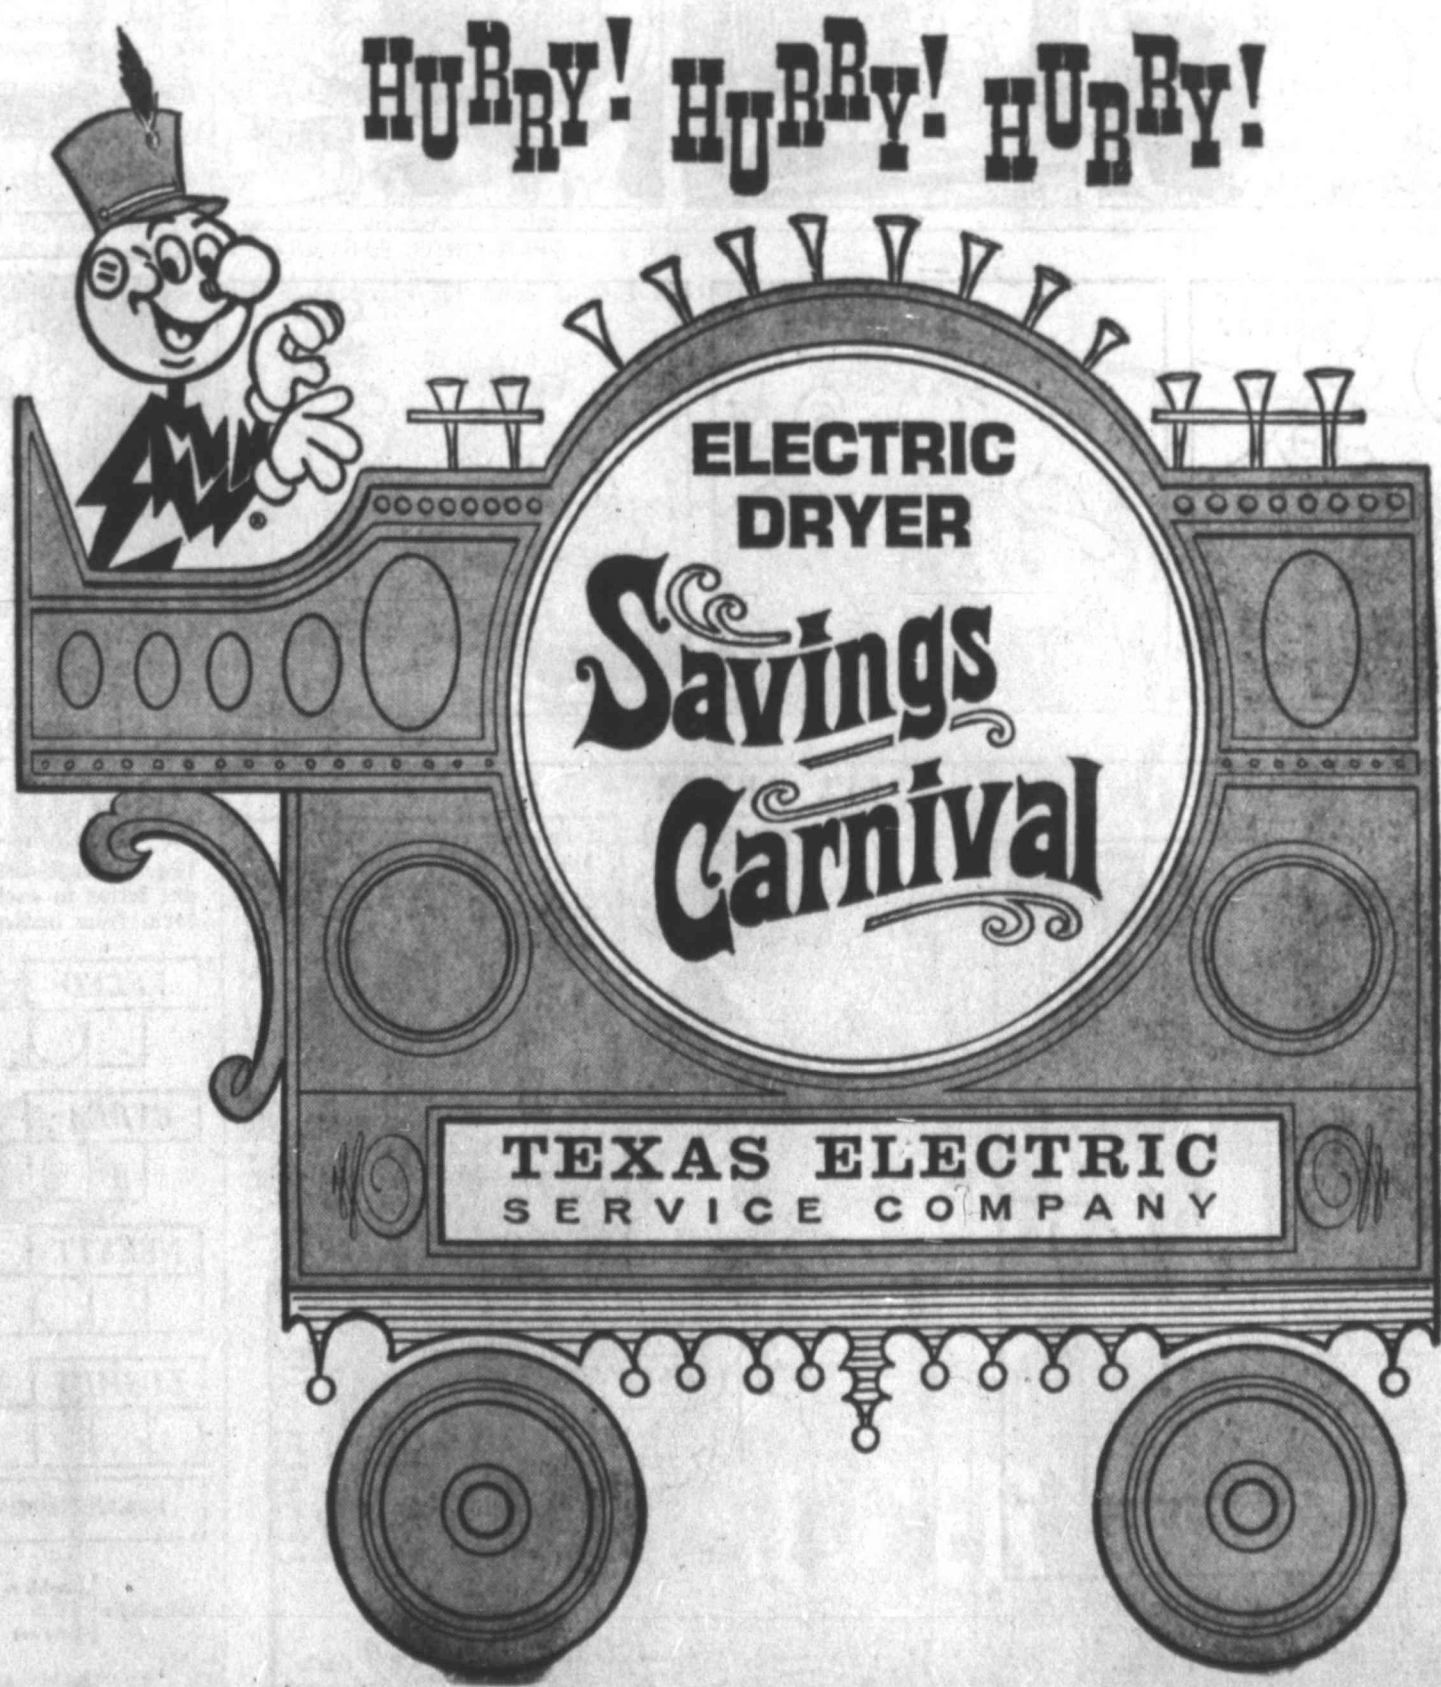

Put aside your grooming doubts and worries! Send today for "Your Grooming A to Z," a booklet that covers every step in achieving smooth looks. It tells how to manicure and pedicure, use deodorants and depilatories, bathe for beauty, tend feet, hands, teeth and eyes, polish skin and hair, care for clothes, apply perfume, overcome personal posers. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

Basketball Is On The Griddle With Olympians

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Unless basketball cleans its skirts, it may be tossed out of the Olympic program.

Avery Brundage, the president of the International Olympic Committee, didn't say so but he gave some broad hints at the end of the IOC meetings here over the weekend.

"We are not pleased with the irregularities in basketball in many countries," Brundage told a press conference Monday. He added that the United States was among the choice offenders.

The IOC chief was asked to clarify what he meant by "irregularities." "The sport is over commercialized," he said. "In many places, it is conducted in a way that is adverse to the Olympic amateur code."

Basketball is on the 1968 Olympic program in Mexico City and it will stay there, Brundage said. He refused to comment on what might happen after that.

Ponies May Lose Starting Fullback

DALLAS (AP) — D. J. Moore, Southern Methodist starting fullback, may be lost for Saturday's game at Texas because of a bruised shoulder, coach Hayden Fry said Monday.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: MURRAY OLDERMAN, syndicated columnist, discussing Big Spring's Charley Johnson, now the St. Louis Cardinal quarterback.

"Charley's passing has fluctuated like the weather in West Texas. When he's hot, he can melt the insides of a freezer in Alaska. When he's cold, forget it and wait 'til next week."

CHARLEY JOHNSON, talking about his own plan of battle: "When receivers are covered I'll run around back there, waiting and hoping someone will get clear. I just hate to see a play go down the drain. But I would have had fewer interceptions and lost less yards if I had just thrown the ball away."

BILL MacPHAIL, sports director for CBS, discussing his brother, Lee, newly appointed general manager of the New York Yankees:

"He would bet on anything. He would bet you whether or not a cockroach would run up the wall."

SIR ARNOLD LUNN, the Englishman who invented modern slalom ski racing and had it recognized as an Olympic sport:

"I dislike dishonesty in sports and to pretend that the Olympics are amateur is pure humbug. Everybody knows that athletes from Communist countries are subsidized. If not supported outright by their governments, but Communist countries are not the only guilty ones. Alpine countries need to win gold medals in skiing, to convince others that their teaching methods, or their skis, are best. If some peasant boy from a mountain village shows promise, his country is going to jolly well make it possible for him to ski. They've got to see that he is not financially handicapped."

WILLIE DAVIS, all-pro defensive end for the Green Bay Packers, when asked how his team managed to hold Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears to 26 yards rushing in 15 carries:

"It's a matter of not making any mistakes. Last year, Sayers made the defense make mistakes. This year, we knew what he could do and knew we had to keep him contained. Our guys are so conscious of him because we knew he could go inside as well as outside. He forces you to play a game of no mistakes."

LEW BURDETTE, big league pitching veteran who will be 40 in November, when asked if he planned to retire:

"Why should I? I've just finished my best season in five years as a reliever for the California Angels. I pitched in more games than I ever had in my life. I was in 54, all in relief, and the most I ever pitched in before was 45. It's just like I kept saying when things were going so good the last few years. It was just a question of getting out on the mound. I never thought I was through and never thought of retiring. It seems like everybody thought about it but me. I always pitched from a line drive down. In other words, I always tried to make them hit the ball on the ground. If you don't walk anybody, you've got a pretty good chance of being a good short relief hurler."

JIM MURRAY, Los Angeles scribe, after venturing to Baltimore for the World Series:

"Baltimore is a quaint blend of the old and the older... It is so old the police carry muskets and is the only place in America where they still block three-cornered hats. When I ordered food in a restaurant, I think they brought mine in on a leash. I put it in a little doggie bag but my dog wouldn't eat it. I think he recognized it. The roast beef was so tough and raw, I told the waiter to take back the knife and fork and bring me a sword and cape. And the hotel? The rooms were so small, the files had to walk. The only things the Dodgers hit all series were the walls of their rooms rolling over in bed. When we checked in, we didn't demand to see the manager, we asked to see the warden. It was the only jail I ever saw where they number the rooms instead of the roomers."

Bill Bradley May Be Lame All Year

AUSTIN (AP) — Coach Darrell Royal of Texas told his weekly press conference Monday that the team had made it in good shape in the 14-6 victory over Rice and "we came through the game without serious injury."

He thought this was particularly outstanding in favor of Texas, in view of the numerous injuries of the past games that had him wondering who was playing.

But he said there still were some old injuries from previous games and "we'll just have to wait and see."

He added that he didn't think Bill Bradley, the sophomore quarterback who has been playing despite injured cartilage in his knee, would be able to go full speed all year and "he probably will have to have the knee repaired after the season before he can go full blown."

But, Royal added, Andy White, Bradley's substitute, "came out on spring-out plays with a lot of positiveness. He came out of there running instead of drifting, which I was tickled to death to see and I sure did make a difference."

Royal declared he thought "we played short yardage in goal line defense about as effectively as we have ever played it. We probably got more acclaim and more attention from that goal line stand in the Orange Bowl against Alabama in 1965, but they were called on repeatedly the other night."

He cited Freddie Edwards for his defensive game and added Joel Brame played well again "but Freddie's effort, I thought, was outstanding."

Edwards was named MVP of the game and Brame was named defensive MVP.

Only one of the games with Lamar was one-sided, however. The Mavericks dropped that one, 38-6.

Edison will take a 3-2 record into the field this evening. The Crimson Tide has beaten Big Spring Runnels, 18-0; San Angelo Lake View, 32-0; and San Angelo Lee, 16-0; while losing to Lee, 6-0; and the Winters ninth grade unit, 40-0.

The Mavericks have played ties with San Angelo Lake View and Snyder Lamar twice, Snyder Travis and Sweetwater.

Only one of the games with Lamar was one-sided, however. The Mavericks dropped that one, 38-6.

Bullet Coach Takes Abuse

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mike Farmer, a defensive specialist, has been put on the defensive after only four games as a coach in the National Basketball Association.

The Baltimore Bullets have lost all four of their starts in the young season—looking extremely inept in the process—and already the local fans are booing Farmer.

A shakeup seems certain, but with a new two-year contract Farmer isn't likely to be dumped so quickly. A trade would be more feasible, and even the players are thinking along this line.

"Our attitude is real bad," said backcourt man Kevin Loughery. "How can it be any other way after losing three in a row by 20 points or more?"

Some observers believe trades already made are the chief reason for the bad start. Baltimore dealt off Bailey Howell, a high scorer and tough rebounder, to Boston for Mel Counts—a reserve for the Celtics who has never proven himself an NBA regular.

In another deal, the Bullets sent beefy Jim Barnes to Los Angeles for skinny Leroy Ellis, stripping themselves of another rugged rebounder.

Magnolia Once Thriving Port City On The Trinity

By ED SYERS Below Palestine, timber and meadow roll away, dogwood splashed in spring, to a big northerly bend in the Trinity, 10 miles southwest. There's a lane, and the river's quiet now. But glimpse it a century ago — the bustling riverport Magnolia.

Ghost Magnolia was sought in a recent OBT query. From Teague's historian Llewellyn Notley and Stephenville's Tucker C. Pemberton comes a composite sketch:

"In the 1860s, 20-year-old Magnolia rested on the bluff here, population 800 and a name from its square's big-flowering tree. Its future? Sidewheelers up Trinity, far as Dallas.

"There was an elegant two-story, wide-galleried, 28-room hotel on the bluff. You could look down on 'Mac's Landing,' mooring as many as six boats at a time.

"There were names like Early Bird, Kate, Ida Rees, Black Cloud, Belle of Texas alongside often; and on the lawn of Palestine's Chamber of Commerce today, you can see the anchor of the old Ruthven, one of Magnolia's biggest and last callers.

THEN THE RAILS "The sidewheelers toiled up-river from Galveston with cloth and hardwoods for the frontier. Downriver went cotton — 800-bale decks — and hides. "At the same time Magnolia thrived," adds Freestone Countyman Notley, "just a few miles north was this county's leading town — Troy (also called Pine Bluff) — another burgeoning river port.

"Then in 1872, Palestine got its railroad. A ferry worked the river for cotton farmers and the hotel stood awhile. Inevitably, Magnolia turned ghost; there's nothing now."

You can reach it, along with much of historic Anderson County, on one of several well-mapped scenic drives (Palestine Chamber). When the wind's right, on a quiet day, some say you can hear that whistle round the bend.

Ghost Magnolia . . . or promise? Plenty of others, up and down Trinity, will tell you one day soon you'll see the vast river traffic back — for keeps.

YOU CAN DIG IT OBT mail reflects the growing interest of searchers who'd be more than arrowhead collectors. So hear Waco's Jim Shannon: ". . . Central Texas Archaeological Society was recently formed here. Objective: systematic locating, surveying, excavating, recording and reporting of early man sites in the Central Texas area. Membership open . . . to those with genuine interest (3504 N. 25th St., Waco)." (Note: There's a society in your area, its latch string out and really just one requirement: learn to search right—where the real fun is.)

MAILBOX: (Write OBT, care of The Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, or Ingram, Texas 78025. For a personal reply, please enclose stamped, addressed envelope). Thanks to historians Dayton Kelley, Belton; and Ruby K. Mixon, Fort Worth for detailed data on Philip Nolan . . . who'll one day fill a real book as far more than a 1791 Texas huss-hunter . . . Thanks from Falturrias' Mrs. Adolph Brochet who reports locating her Texas-trekking 1880 flax farmers: settled, Seguin area . . . Add Dove Creek: Whitney's Mrs. E. D. Carter (Rt. 1, Box 35A) lost kin in that Confederate - Kickapoo battle (near San Angelo), believes her family history accurate, invites correspondence. Best I've read is historian William C. Pool's "Bosque Territory"; and Merton's Mrs. Leta Crawford's just

Alaska Oil Hunt Costs

"This is one of the larger investments among oil companies planned for next year, and represents a continuing strong thrust into the future of our northernmost state," declared Robert O. Anderson, board chairman of Atlantic Richfield released "History of Iron County" covers it, too.

PERSONAL NOTES Houston's Ted James: "Was the Civil War guerrilla leader Quantrell in Texas? I recall something about his shooting the steeple off a north Texas courthouse . . . 'Las Cruces, N. M.'s J. Davis: "You asked about Fort Phantom Hill (Abilene) which is a real phantom, all right. Saw one account of what destroyed it—a jealous or angry wife of an officer who burned it down . . ." Grand Prairie's "Skeptical": ". . . your buffalo legend is interesting but hard to swallow. Who ever heard of a white buffalo?"

In the Big Spring Area, you know where the In Crowd is? At your Quality Buick dealer's. (Where else?)

New Special GS. Low priced. Nice!

Some of the In crowd's somewhere else. Namely, driving new Buicks (with all the new GM safety features) of their own. And with the In crowd growing so fast, you know that (a) Buick's the year's hot car, and (b) every day you don't have a Buick is a day you'll regret. (Especially considering 4 out of 5 new-car buyers pay Buick prices.) So you also know (c): you'd better hurry in.
