A Devotional For The Day

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. (Matthew 5:9)

PRAYER: O Almighty God, we thank Thee that men have spoken to one another across the centuries and across continents. Grant that all means of communication may be used for the purpose of truth, peace, and love, so that all men may hear the good news of the gospel and find their brotherhood in Thee. Through Jesus Christ. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Rumblings Of A New Voice

Many students of the current scene profess to see a new and increasingly dominant figure in public affairs that of an entirely new generation. Indeed, they say that this force al-ready is being felt in elections, though probably not to the extent that some contend. The sounds being heard now are but rumblings of the voice that will speak more forcefully and even compellingly before many years pass. Consider that three - fourths of today's population had no adult experience with the stock market crash of 1929, and hence little rememberance of the great Depression.

By the same token, over seventenths of the population has had no adult experience with mass - employment such as 10 per cent out of work as late as 1941.

And that even two-thirds had no adult experience with World War I. And finally, that half of the present population was not even born when Sputnik I was launched only nine years ago.

So this new generation does not have some of the same rememberances, some of the same inhibitions or the same tempering experiences as their elders. But this does not mean that it will not have its own as its members advance to maturity.

They may be more willing to try new approaches, they may have more initiative and imagination. Perhaps they will have less of the cynicism and resignation than the generation they will replace. Not everything that is done will be for the best, but then much of it may be for the better. At least this is the sustaining hope of the nation, that each generation, rooted in the heritage and ideals of this country, will somehow make its own unique contribution to its preser-

There were substantial reservations, attached to the promise. For one, the military forces of North Viet Nam must be withdrawn. For another, the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces must be accompanied by a subsidence in the level of violence by the Viet Cong, a restatement of the official theme that the insurgency in the South and the infiltration from the North are of the same piece and directed from Hanoi.

In the Viet Cong view, they would, under the conditions set, have to lay down their arms and concede that they had fought for nothing. Or else they could return to the North, although most of them are natives of the South, and there contemplate their

Probably no one in an official position has any hopes that the Communists will accept these conditions.

But at least there is hope that the Manila conference will give some nations who can act as "honest brokers" an incentive to try to bring the war to the conference table. Russia is the best prospect among this company. But nothing spectacular, nor soon, is likely to occur.

Need For Cabinet Responsibility ..

WASHINGTON - Every time a president gets sick or goes to the hospital for an operation, people become worried about what may happen if he were to be incapacitated for largely ceremonial or political. He is any length of time. The American presidential system in this respect is plainly inadequate. Although warning signals have often been given, nothing has been done to accomplish a satisfactory transition of presidential power whether it be for one day or week or month or longer.

A constitutional amendment which now is pending, and which needs ratification by seven more states for adoption, deals with situations arising from temporary disability, but the plan projects a vice president suddenly into executive power when he really isn't thoroughly familiar with the confidential documents and background relating to all the important problems which will face him imme-

IN CONTRAST, the British and Canadian parliamentary system take care of any similar emergencies because the cabinet - and not one man-is responsible to the country. Inside the cabinet, every member is familiar with the day-by-day operations of the government, and an acting prime minister can take over in a few minutes. This maintains public confidence and assures absolute continuity until such time as an election

Billy Graham

My husband and I have been married 40 years, and now that I am beginning to get old and a little edgy, he doesn't seem to enjoy being with me any more. He finds every excuse to go to a lodge meeting, a Scout executive meeting, or club meeting. These things never used to interest him. I even sometimes wonder if he actually attends these meetings, or is seeing some other woman. Can you advise me?

The chances are: your husband is not running after some other woman, he is running from your "edginess." Nature has a way of evening the "score" in the aging process of husbands and wives. Sometimes women think their husband is neglecting them because they are aging, but the real reason his interest has waned is nagging. A woman cannot curb or control-the aging process, but she can control her "edginess." I am very sure that more husbands are lost through raspiness, edginess and nagging than because of old age.

What can you Jo? Pray for the good Lord to give you the same love, charm and personality that attracted your husband to you in the first place. Marriage, if not fed by love and tenderness, can become a "combat zone" and battle-ground. But I know many couples who have kept the flame of love alive up to, and in, the golden years. Like keeping the weeds out of a garden, they kept out the "edginess," and nagging, and cultivated love, understanding and tenmay provide a change of leadership

Under the American system, the vice president has duties that are supposed to preside over the Senate, and does so infrequently. He may attend cabinet sessions but, under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, these meetings have been held only occa-

HOW CAN A VICE president suddenly assume the duties of a president and acquire overnight an intimate knowledge of every important question on which a decision has to be made? In a nuclear age, action might have to be taken within minutes or hours, and it is not possible to familiarize anybody with the essentials of crucial matters in such a

Even apart from the problem of how to handle the transfer of presidential power in case of a long or short illness of the chief executive, a serious and unresolved question is whether any one man should ever lished first volume of a threewield the powers that a president of the United States does today. If, in- Randolph S. Churchill - which stead, 10 of the best qualified men in said: the country within the President's party were chosen for the cabinet and were not bogged down with administrative duties, the chief executive would have at his side constantly a group of advisers well informed on national and international policies.

IT WILL BE argued that the President does have special aides at the White House to whom he delegates much of his work. But they are responsible only to him and not to the Congress or the country. They are hand-picked assistants who too often are interjected between the President and the heads of departments.

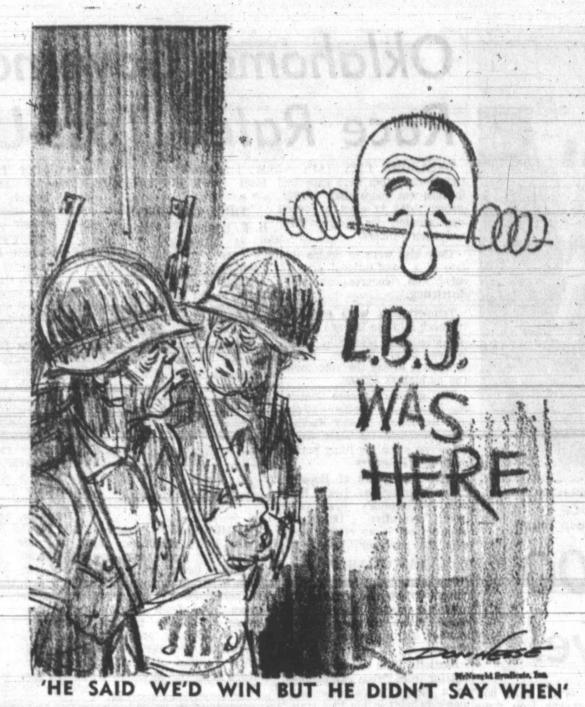

As population grows and federal budgets run into billions of dollars each year, the United States government - the largest business in the world-can hardly be expected to function effectively under one man. This is not related solely to sudden illnesses which may incapacitate him but to the increased number of decisions that Congress has been delegating to the chief executive to make. .

government by a group, rather than by any one individual. The old saying that "two heads are better than one" was never better illustrated than under the cabinet system in vogue now in several countries of the world.

The idea of applying the parliamentary concept, at least in part, in the United States is not new, Back in 1913 Woodrow Wilson, just before his in auguration as president. addressed a letter to the majority leader of the House of Representatives discussing presidential tenure. He predicted then that someday the United States would have to adopt a formula of cabinet responsibility to Congress and the country, somewhat like the parliamentary systems abroad. The need for more attention to this reform is being demonstrated again today. (Copyright, 1966, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate)

This is National Cat Week. I didn't know about the week until I opened a Sunday newspaper and a magazine supplement fell to the floor. There on the cover, in gorgeous "living," color, was an assortment of cats,

I did not want Tittums Jerome Blackburn, the Second, to see it. Tittums Jerome is my cat. He is a pedigreed alley cat. Now at the advanced age of seven months, he weighs in at 11 pounds and is getting bigger, fatter and sorrier by the day Tittums is 100 per cent black - well nearly. He has one glaringly white whisker of which he is inodrinately

I think he can read.

HE LIKES TO find newspapers and sprawl on them. That's why I hid the article about this being National Cat Week.

He is already insufferable because he is so convinced of his supreme importance. If he finds out there is a national week dedicated to him and his fellow felines, he will assume he was the inspiration.

Then, I am afraid, he would take over. I probably would have to sleep

The food we eat is seldom good enough for Tittums. Despite the fact he was born under a ramshackle barn on a lonely farm and that his mother. who was even more alleyish than he is, was a lady of somewhat loose pretty sorry litter. He owes his name to my memories of a predecessor in the house. This was Tittums Jerome Blackburn, the First. He was as black as his successor and possessed of nearly all the bad traits the present Tittums has.

This Tittums was a camera hog. All I had to do was pick up a camera and Tittums would strike a pose. He particulary liked to be photographed sitting on his haunches with his two front feet primly together and his tail looped over his ankles. He also liked to pose as a "Halloween" black cat with his tail in the air, his back arched and his big yellow eyes gleam-

ON THE OTHER hand, my present Tittums doesn't like to be photographed. I think there is something in his past which makes him camera shy. Instead of posing when I need a cat picture, he sneaks away into the dark shade of the shrubbery or walks back of the divan.

Renewal Of A Strange Alliance

WASHINGTON - The shark, the serpent, the vulture - menaces of the sea, the land, the air - cast their frightfulness before them. The creatures which are habitually their prey instinctively feel the presence of danger before it is clearly seen. By a similar early - warning system of the instinct, Americans should be able to sense by now the slinking nearness. of a Communist threat. There is one, if I am correct, in the furtive formation of a new Russo-American syndicate against Germany.

"THE STRANGE Alliance," a book title by J. R. Deane, gave the descriptive adjective to our wartime arrangement with Stalin in order to crush Hitler. Many Americans, notably Herbert Hoover and Harry Truman, intuitively warned against its and Churchill warned against its continuance. We have had a quarter - century to repent that we ever put a comradely hand in the glove of communism, no matter what the emergency. Behold now the combining circumstances which are drawing the American foreign policy toward a renewal of the strangeness.

LET US start with the once - familiar word "Anschluss." It was Hitler's term for "reunification" of the Germanfolk who were resident in other European countries. Well, anschluss is with us again in the desire by West German Chancellor Erhard and his countrymen to reunite with East Germany. "It is reunification, not nuclear sharing, which concerns the Germans most," writes Sen. Church of the Foreign Relations Com-

That brings us to the subject of nuclear sharing. It brings us to the bugbear of prewar thinking in all of Europe, in Russia and in America brings us to the historical distrust of Germany. Not a nation, from the Urals to the Atlantic, would willingly see a Germany armed with nuclear ternative. It is the one chosen by President Roosevelt, in fear, hatred and expediency, when he sent the first Lend Lease shipment to Stalin in order to stop Hitler. We come to a new alliance of sorts with Russia. Here again is Sen. Church, writing in Foreign Affairs, the authoritative quarterly which often reflects opinions of the State Department. "On the diplomatic front," says Church, "the best place for a breakthrough remains Geneva, where we may have come within reach of a non-proliferation (nuclear) treaty. Negotiations should not be permitted to break-" That is, we must treat with Russia on nuclear disarmament, not with Germany on reunification. Thus Germany, reunited or not, would be forbidden modern weapons and be surrounded by four nuclear powers, Russia on the East, the U.S.A., France and Britain on the West.

WE NEED NOT waste sympathy on the former Reich, but we'd better take notice that another strange alliance with Russia, by whatever name and means, would complete the ruin of NATO. It would also highlight several illusions which falsely picture our commonality of interests with Russia. Has not the Sino-Russian split drawn us closer to the U.S.S.R.? Did not Gromyko and President Johnson collaborate on the peace terms for North Viet Nam? Wouldn't it be easier to aid the backward nations if we pooled our efforts with Russia? As great powers and industrial giants, hadn't we better ride in the same squad car to police the world? And, since we already have a partial Test Ban Treaty with Russia, why not a total treaty?

ALL THESE factors, not my own but gathered by me around the town, are arguments for a renewal of the strange alliance. There is no better argument against it than the instinctive one. Americans ought to know when a triphibious shark-serpent-vulture is on the prowl.

Marquis Childs The Big Decisions Must Come

WASHINGTON - President Johnson has now divorced himself from the Congressional campaign that will end with the elections on Tuesday. If, as the gloomier prophets are saying, a debacle for the Democrats is in view, Mr. Johnson will not have involved himself in the wreckage.

HAD HE GONE to Illinois and California where Democratic fortunes seem most uncertain and Democratic candidates had lost despite his intervention, it would have been a demonstration of his lack of influence. Sen. Paul Douglas in Illinois and Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown had been prayerfully hoping that the President would come to their rescue and offset polls showing them lagging be-

Despite the President's disclaimer that he had made no plans to campaign on his return from Asia, asa natural sleep, it is good for bumps, and the skull is pretty early as Manila, a week before the end of the tour, Presidential Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers was telling accompanying reporters that a campaign offensive covering perhaps as many as 18 states was being lined up.

A PRESIDENT'S physicians have the last word and that word cannot be questioned. Yet, the fact remains that the conditions requiring the surgery they ordered prevailed before Johnson set out on his Asian tour. Furthermore, the President showed resentment at his press conference over reports that he had been so fatigued by his trip he needed to

The President's whole posture in recent weeks has been that of a candidate running for re-election with 1968 rather than 1966 as the goal. What is more, as a shrewd politician he seems to be positioning himself to run against Richard M. Nixon as the Republican candidate. At no time during his Presidency has he directed an attack as strongly personal as the shafts he aimed at the "perennial" campaigner who turns up each October with false prophecies.

THE PRESIDENT is determined to win the war in Viet Nam. Particularly when he was addressing young Americans in uniform he sounded like a war President. The theme of patriotism and the fighting spirit of America came out unadulterated. His improvised talk to troops at Camp Stanley, north of Seoul, had a jingoistic sound that startled those who had heard him talk of unity in Asia and how no country could stand alone as an island of prosperity in a world of poverty.

"We don't ask for much," he said in a mess hall of the 36th Engineer Combat Group, "but what we ask for we are going to get; we are going to keep, we are going to hold."

"WHATEVER you read about the demonstrators," he said in the same speech, "whatever you hear about those that burn their draft cards, remember that there are always some in every crowd. Once upon a time there was an ugly little bug. It could go about 27 miles on just one gallon of gas. It could go about 40,000 miles on just one set of tires. And it could park in tiny little crevices no bigget than a bug.

It was just right for taking father to the train or the children to school. Or for taking mother to the grocery store, drugstore, dime store and all the enchanting places mothers go when everyone else

The ugly little bug was just like one of the family. But alas, it wasn't beautiful, So for any important occasion the poor ugly little bug would be replaced. By a big beautiful charlot, drawn by 300

Then, after a time, a curious thing happened. The ugly little bug (which was made very sturdily) never got uglier. But the big beautiful chariot didn't exactly get more beautiful. In fact, in a few years its beauty began to fade. Until, lo and behold, the ugly little bug didn't look as ugly as the big beautiful chariot! The moral being: if you want to show you've gotten somewhere, get a big beautiful charlot. But if you simply want to get somewhere, get a bug.

FRANK BOGGS, Oklahoma City scribe, in his post-game story of the Nebraska-Missouri Big Eight game recently "Nebraska finally quit living danger-ously Saturday and Missouri darn near died as a result. Even one or two Nebraska fans in the record home turnout of 65,095 must have become bored before this mismatch was halted. It wound up 35-0 but the game was not as close as the score indicated. . Nebraska owned the ball 12 minutes and 30 seconds in the opening period. The Huskers owned Missouri for 60 minutes in all." WHITEY FORD, veteran big league pitcher, after undergoing a sympathectomy at Houston, in which a doctor took a vein out of his leg and inserted it in his shoulder to bypass a "Now I have pulse in my left wrist again, which is more than I had last year. I was always worried that come ambulance doctor would feel the wrong pulse and take me to the morgue instead of the hospital . . . After my first opera-tion, I couldn't sweat on my left side. Last year I was troubled by lack of circulation. In cold weather I couldn't even feel the ball, and any time I had a tough inning there was no blood in my left arm. By a tough inning I mean one where I had to throw 25 or more pitches." JOHN P. CARMICHAEL, Chicago columnist:

"Fight fans take strange sides. They resented Gene Tunney because he was a "book learner" while Jack Dempsey was a rugged man of strife. They adopted Joe Louis because they sensed a "class" within him that Jack Johnson didn't have. They liked the awkward, wipe-open stance of Rocky Marciano, because they knew he could . . . and would . . . take punishment to gain his objective."

of Western Universities "Any school that lets football deteriorate creates an atmosphere for cynicism."

MIKE HOLOVAK, coach of the Boston Patriots:

"The punt is the most under-rated weapon in football. If you've got a guy who can put the ball in the air and make the other team start at its own 20 all the time, it means an LARRY JACKSON, ace defensive back for the St. Louis Cardinals, after he had intercepted a pass thrown by Rudy Bukich and run it back in for a touchdown against the Chicago "I smelled that one coming and felt I had a chance to steal it even before it was thrown by Bukich. On the one I got at the Bears' 35 and returned it to the 18, I got a lot of help from one of our linebackers, Jimmy Jones. He held up man at the line of scrimmage so I was free to go for

MEL RENFRO, Dallas Cowboy defensive back, talking on the difference in contact between offense and defense: -With a defensive back, most of the punishment is on his shoulders. Some of them don't even wear hip pads. An offensive back is going to get hit from his ankles to his scalp and hit hard. You have to condition yourself to it."

Firefighter Course

T. Sgt. Steve Ayers and Fire Chief Edward R. Greer carry the stacks of material which will be used in teaching an Extension Course Institute class for the fire department. Forty-six members of the department are enrolled in the study which will continue over most of a year. Arrangements for the course, which deals with supervision of firefighters and with aircraft fires and fire prevention, were made by Jimmy Ray Smith, base education officer, and Sgt. Ayers.

Students To Hear Prison Inmates

Junior high and high school students will hear first hand that flaunting the law isn't what some crack it up to be.

Under sponsorship of the Jaycees, young inmates of the Tex as state prison will address student groups the afternoon of Nov. 17, giving a first person account of how they drifted into trouble, and how they feel about it now.

In the evening, at 8 o'clock, they will speak at a meeting in the municipal auditorium to parents. All adults are invited to hear this program.
