Firemen Battle Marina Blaze

Firemen battle a wind-whipped blaze that destroyed 17 luxury yachts Thursday night in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Dozens of other boats were damaged as the blaze raged out of control for three hours. The cause of the fire at the Broward Marina was not known immediately. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Fire Destroys Luxury Yachts

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A wind-whipped blaze leaped from one luxury yacht to another, exploded gasoline tanks like huge firecrackers, and demolished more than a dozen expensive seacraft at a plush river marina today. Police estimated the damage in excess of a million dollars. Three persons fled a yacht and were treated at a hospital for burns. Police said 13 craft were declared total loss and four others heavily damaged. The vessels that burned to the waterline ranged from a 31-footer to the 102-foot cruiser Heather IV.

OUT OF CONTROL
As many as 50 firefighters battled the flames, which raged out of control for three hours. "It was one of the worst fires I've ever seen, but we couldn't see anyone on the boats," said Lt. Jim Brown of the Fort Lauderdale Fire Department, an 11-year veteran of firefighting. "What made it bad was that gasoline tanks caught fire," he said. At times, flames could be seen six miles away. The fire erupted shortly after midnight at the Broward Marina, where wealthy northern yachtmen keep their craft during the winter months. The marina is on the south fork of the New River.

NOT KNOWN
Although some owners use the yachts as their winter homes, fire and police officials said they doubted that anyone was on board. Some of the boats were in the marina for repairs. Damage could not be estimated at once, but was expected to be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The cause of the fire was not known. Fort Lauderdale Fire Chief M. T. Whidby said at least 17 boats were either completely burned or heavily damaged. "It was burning all over when we got there," he said. In a matter of minutes, luxury yachts moored under a central shed in the big marina were enveloped in flames. At times, the blaze was as big as a football field, witnesses said. One witness said he saw one of the central shed supports crash down on a boat.

Three Klan Leaders Enter Guilty Pleas
WASHINGTON (AP) — Three state leaders of the Ku Klux Klan pleaded guilty today to charges of contempt of Congress. The three, each with the title grand dragon in the United Klans of America, are James R. Jones of North Carolina, Robert E. Scoggin of South Carolina, and Calvin F. Craig of Georgia. U.S. District Judge Edward M. Curran, who received the pleas, deferred sentence pending the outcome of an appeal by Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton, who was convicted on a similar charge Sept. 14 after a three-day trial. Shelton was sentenced to the maximum penalty of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine. He has vowed to appeal the conviction to the Supreme Court, if necessary. All refused to provide records demanded by the House Committee on Un-American Activities last year.

Floods Menace Dozen Villages

ROVIGO, Italy (AP) — A dozen villages in the southernmost Po delta were evacuated hurriedly during the night as the waters of the stormy Adriatic sea backed up over thousands of acres of farmland. Dikes guarding dozens of other villages were threatened. A total of 10,000 delta residents now have been taken to higher ground, but hundreds of stubborn villagers and truck farmers clung to their homes and lands despite impassioned official warnings. While the salty Adriatic was washing gradually over the walls of the dikes, officials said there was no immediate threat to the river embankments further inland. Most of the delta land is almost a yard below sea level. The Po flows high above the plains between built-up embankments and spills into the Adriatic Sea through 10 outlets. The winds and tossing waters that menaced the delta were having an opposite effect on Venice, north of the delta. VENICE EXPOSED Venice was left badly exposed to the sea by the Nov. 4 floods that crippled a third of Italy. The canal city had been awash its protective dikes were torn away or weakened. Officials at Venice said the winds now blowing from the northeast were keeping sea water from piling up and surging toward the city. They said the anxiety since Nov. 4 has been over the danger of strong winds from the south carrying the Adriatic once more into Venice. More than 48 hours of rain drenched the low-lying coastal delta south of Venice. It had stopped during the night after 30 hours, but only briefly. NOT SWAYED Despite the urgings of rescue teams and local officials, hundreds of villagers and truck farmers in the delta preferred to stay rather than abandon their homes and fields. They were not swayed by the threat of new breaks in the dikes. Most of the 5,000 inhabitants of the towns of Scardovari and Bonelli were evacuated hurriedly Thursday, having returned to their homes following the Nov. 4 floods that wrecked wide areas of north and central Italy.

MOON SHOTS EXPOSED

Orbiter Clicks Shutter Twice

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Lunar Orbiter 2 made its first try today at photographing lunar terrain where astronauts may land—but the pictures may have been double exposures. The Jet Propulsion Laboratory said telemetry from the spacecraft indicates that the shutter clicked twice as many times as it should have in a 16-frame sequence. The photographs, expected to show surface details as small as three feet across, would have been the finest capable of pinpointing potential sites for a planned manned moon landing by U.S. space voyagers later in this decade. DOUBLE FIZZLE The laboratory issued this statement after the photo pass this morning: "An analysis of telemetry indicates an irregularity which cannot be fully explained at this time. A counter used to monitor the shutter operation appears to have recorded twice the number of events called for." A spokesman said it is possible that something is wrong with telemetry, and the shutter functioned properly. But if telemetry is correct, double exposures were likely. "What actually happened won't be known until picture transmissions to a tracking station at Madrid, Spain, are studied. DRY PLAIN Orbiter's camera run was over a dry plain called the Sea of Tranquility. There were to be two pictures on each of the 16 frames, one each from a high-resolution lens and a low-resolution lens. The U.S. space agency had planned to release prints of one or more photos at Madrid several hours after the transmissions, with more released here tonight. Plans called for the photographs to be snapped at the low point of a 30-by-1,150-mile orbit into which the spacecraft was steered by remote control after launch Nov. 7. At this altitude Lunar Orbiter 2's high resolution camera was expected to show whether slopes in the target area are gentle enough for Apollo program landing craft, due to be launched in 1968, to land on without toppling. BLURRED Technical problems blurred the high resolution pictures taken by Lunar Orbiter 1 in August. Its medium resolution photographs did not show surface roughness in the detail required by scientists seeking potential landing sites. A spokesman said Lunar Orbiter 2 would snap more than 400 high and medium resolution pictures over the next eight days and radio them to earth periodically over the next month. These pictures will cover 13 possible landing sites in a zone along the moon's equator. Photographic surveys by Ranger spacecraft indicated the smoothest areas on the moon. The Surveyor spacecraft which touched down gently on the moon last June proved the lunar surface was strong enough to support manned landing craft. Three Soviet spacecraft currently are orbiting the moon but only one — Luna 12, launched Oct. 22 — has returned pictures. Those photographs, snapped at a height of 62 miles, show less detail than those taken by Lunar Orbiter 1.

Cambodia Rips 2-China Deal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cambodia, a leading Asian sponsor of Red China's bid for a U.N. seat, today denounced Nationalist China as a "clique installed by the United States" and rejected the concept of two Chinas in the United Nations. Leading off the annual U.N. debate on China, Cambodian Ambassador Huot Sambath spoke as Canada and some other countries continued behind-the-scenes talks on a formula to seat the Peking government without expelling Nationalist China. There can be only one China, Sambath said, just as there is only one France or one United States. He asserted that the question before the 121-nation General Assembly was who represents the people of the Chinese mainland. Nationalist China's chief delegate, Liu Chieh, told The Associated Press this week that his government still opposes any two-China deal. "If we were to accept the idea of two Chinas, we would be accepting the division of my country and, in effect, perpetuating this division," he said. The resolution is cosponsored by Albania, Algeria, Cuba, Congo (Brazzaville), Guinea, Mali, Pakistan, Romania and Syria. It asks that the assembly recognize representatives of the Red Chinese government "as the only lawful representatives of China to the United Nations" and demands that it "expel forthwith the representatives of Chiang Kai-shek." The Italian plan would have the assembly set up a committee to make a 12-month study of the China question and recommend a solution. Informed sources said the United States opposed this idea at first, but agreed to accept the proposal when it began picking up support.

Informed sources said the United States opposed this idea at first, but agreed to accept the proposal when it began picking up support.

LITTLE HOPE U.N. diplomats entered the debate with little hope that the China representation issue would be settled this year. That accounted in part for the feverish efforts to find a new approach. Diplomats said Italy would spell out a formula for settling the 16-year-old China problem on the basis of "political realities." They said support was growing for the Italian plan, described as a maneuver which eventually would give Peking the China seat and let the Nationalists stay, as representatives of Formosa.

Unions Cancel Tape Sessions

NEW YORK (AP) — Union-ordered work stoppages on some taped television programs added urgency today to a federal mediator's initial effort to avert a threatened strike against the nation's major television and radio networks. The AFL-CIO American Federation of Television and Radio Artists invoked the work stoppages Thursday against taped television shows whose producers would not agree to keep reruns off the air in the event of a strike. One of the first affected was the Johnny Carson "Tonight" program. At the union's direction, Carson and his cast stayed away from their regular early evening taping session and the National Broadcasting Co. filled the late night slot with a Carson rerun. A taping session for NBC's daytime serial "The Doctors" was canceled Thursday when cast members walked out after a rehearsal. Master of ceremonies Gene Rayburn and announcer Johnny Olsen refused to tape a third half-hour episode of another NBC daytime show, the "Match Game," after completing two tapings earlier in the day. YOU DON'T SAY "We have told our members not to appear in a prerecorded unless they know that the producer has signed the agreement," an AFTRA spokesman said. Canceled taping sessions in Hollywood included NBC's "Swinging Country" and "You Don't Say." Many shows are taped weeks before they are to be aired, and the effect of Thursday's stoppages might not be apparent immediately. Contacts between the networks and the two unions — AFTRA and the AFL-CIO Screen Actors Guild — expired at midnight Tuesday and negotiations collapsed some four hours later. Saying he was "deeply concerned" over the "continuing impasse," Frank H. Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, Thursday asked both sides to meet with mediator Albert Dessler today. Donald F. Conaway, executive secretary of AFTRA, met here Thursday night with members of the union's national board — which has authority to call a strike — and said other board members would meet today in Chicago and Los Angeles.

Burglars Fail To Crack Safe

RICE, Tex. (AP)—Burglars broke into the vault of the First State Bank in this tiny Northeast Texas town during the night, breaking open safety deposit boxes but failing to crack the safe itself. Either intentionally or by accident, the burglars set fire to papers within the vault and by 6:30 a.m. Friday the vault was destroyed and the bank heavily damaged by smoke. Vice-President James E. Fortson said estimates of the loss would be difficult since the bank had no knowledge of the contents of safety boxes or how much was stolen. Smoke and water damage was heavy, a sheriff's deputy said. Texas Rangers and FBI agents investigated the robbery after fire units from Corsicana and Ennis extinguished the blaze.

Vets' Land Sold

AUSTIN (AP) — Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler said today 4,367 acres of forfeited veterans' land were sold this week for $728,036. Bids ranged as high as $1,111 per acre, he said. The land was sold in 72 tracts. While in Texas, Moyers said, the President will have conferences with government officials who will fly in to help him prepare next year's budget and legislative program. AUSTIN BUSINESS Johnson may conduct some of his business at the federal office building near the Texas Capitol in Austin. For that reason, Moyers said, newsmen and photographers accompanying Johnson will be quartered in Austin rather than San Antonio, their recent base. Johnson awakened late today and told his doctors he felt "great." Johnson is expected to leave Andrews Air Force Base, Md., around midday and fly to Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin. From there he will fly to the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City. Moyers said the expects Johnson will go directly from the hospital at Andrews, either by auto or helicopter, without stopping off at the White House. In answer to a question, Moyers said Johnson's stitches would not be taken out before his departure. Moyers said they "can be taken out down there (in Texas)" but when asked whether they would be removed at the ranch or at some hospital in the area, he said, "Let's wait and see." Johnson told his doctors he felt "great" when he awakened this morning. On the second full day after his double operation, Johnson still complained of soreness, however. The White House said the President fell asleep about midnight — even before finishing his usual stack of evening reading — and did not awaken until almost 8 a.m. For him that was a late hour. Before wading into some department reports, Johnson moved to a chair for a tray breakfast of melon balls, apple juice, chipped beef and tea. The President's recovery so far has been routine — so much so that the latest White House statement on his progress contained no information of a medical nature.

Viet Cong 'Honcho' Captured

Chief Convinced Baby Kissing Pays

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The re-elected tribal chairman of the sovereign Navajo nation says the paleface politicians' old-fashioned idea about baby kissing still is worth while. "It paid off, didn't it?" says Raymond Nakai, 48, of his 1,500-vote victory over Samuel W. Billison, 41, in this week's tribal elections. The campaign on the sprawling reservation in New Mexico, Arizona and Utah was sometimes stormy. Fisticuffs broke out during at least one political rally. HOGAN TO HOGAN But Nakai, during an interview, attributed his victory to kissing babies, shaking hands and hogan-to-hogan stumping. In a more serious vein, he cited his pledges of more social and economic advances for the 110,000 members of the nation's largest Indian tribe. He said Thursday that unemployment on the 24,000-square-mile reservation is the greatest problem he must cope with in leading the Navajos during the next four years. One of Nakai's proposed answers to the tribe's problems is spelling out the rights of the Navajo people, including adoption of a tribal constitution. He explained that while Navajos had constitutional and states' rights, they don't have any rights now through the governing tribal council. OWN GOVERNMENT The 74-member council, equivalent to a state legislature, is an "instrumentality to the secretary of the interior," Nakai said. "The Navajo people would much rather set up their government according to their will, desires and liking," he said. "They want a government they can call their own." The Navajos, by treaty, are a sovereign nation within U.S. boundaries.

WILL FLY TO RANCH

LBJ Feeling 'Great'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson got a go-ahead from his doctors today to check out of the hospital Saturday and fly to his Texas ranch to recuperate. Billy D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said the surgeon who operated on Johnson two days ago "are very satisfied with the President's recuperative progress" and that they are "quite pleased" that he was heading for the ranch to relax in the sunshine. Moyers said all the doctors involved are satisfied that the chief executive has sufficiently recovered to leave the Bethesda Naval Hospital Saturday. MEETS WITH RUSK Johnson's recovery from Wednesday's surgery to remove a throat growth and repair an abdominal hernia has been such, Moyers said, that only the regular White House medical staff will accompany him to Texas. Johnson met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk this morning. While in Texas, Moyers said, the President will have conferences with government officials who will fly in to help him prepare next year's budget and legislative program. AUSTIN BUSINESS Johnson may conduct some of his business at the federal office building near the Texas Capitol in Austin. For that reason, Moyers said, newsmen and photographers accompanying Johnson will be quartered in Austin rather than San Antonio, their recent base. Johnson awakened late today and told his doctors he felt "great." Johnson is expected to leave Andrews Air Force Base, Md., around midday and fly to Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin. In answer to a question, Moyers said Johnson's stitches would not be taken out before his departure. Moyers said they "can be taken out down there (in Texas)" but when asked whether they would be removed at the ranch or at some hospital in the area, he said, "Let's wait and see." 42 Red Vessels Blasted

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. warship bombarded cargo vessels along a 10-mile stretch of North Viet Nam today in a renewal of the 7th Fleet's new campaign to cut the seaborne flow of Communist supplies to the South. The Navy reported 42 cargo boats destroyed or damaged in the bombardment by two destroyers ranging 20 to 30 miles north of the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam. The Navy said the destroyers John R. Craig and Hamner fired more than 250 rounds of five-inch shells at supply craft both on the beach and in the water. The U.S. command reported only small and scattered ground action in South Viet Nam, while Vietnamese headquarters reported a series of Viet Cong harassing attacks with mortars and mines that ranged from one end of the country to the other.

FOUR-HOUR FIRE One sabotage attack set off a four-hour fire and a series of explosions in a U.S. ammunition dump near Saigon, but a U.S. military spokesman said damage was light and there were no casualties. On the political front, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky announced six changes in the civilian cabinet in an effort to end the eight-week-old dispute between southern cabinet ministers and northerners dominating the ruling military junta. Reports of friction persisted after a stormy meeting of top leaders Thursday night, and further changes were thought likely.

52 MISSIONS For the seventh day in a row, monsoon rains and generally poor weather cut heavily into U.S. air strikes Thursday against North Viet Nam. U.S. pilots flew only 52 missions, about one third the average during good weather. U.S. military sources said the North Vietnamese are taking advantage of the foul weather to rush repairs of roads, bridges and rail lines. Guam-based B-52 bombers struck today in Viet Ninh Province for the ninth consecutive day in support of Operation Attleboro, the 30,000-man hunt by U.S. ground forces to flush the Viet Cong out of a major stronghold 60 miles northwest of Saigon. LIGHT CONTACT Only light ground contact was reported in Operation Attleboro, but U.S. headquarters announced that the number of enemy killed so far in the month-old operation passed the 1,000 mark. The U.S. force in Tay Ninh reported killing about 20 more Viet Cong by air strikes and small ground clashes. This raised to 1,069 the total enemy officially reported killed since the operation started Oct. 15. Troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division, combing areas east and northeast of Tay Ninh City, located a Viet Cong base camp today with a large hospital building and a tunnel complex, U.S. headquarters reported.

RICE SEIZED Other units found 15 enemy bunkers in a nearby site and another infantry company seized half a ton of rice. The rice haul for the operation, already the largest of the war, rose to 2,329 tons. U.S. headquarters reported that Viet Cong guerrillas early today infiltrated the U.S. ammunition dump at Long Binh, 13 miles northeast of Saigon, and set off a satchel charge on one of the ammunition pads which touched off a fire and secondary explosions. Vietnamese military headquarters reported that a company of Vietnamese Rangers suffered moderate casualties when ambushed 12 miles southwest of Saigon. The Rangers killed six Viet Cong, a spokesman said. The Viet Cong set off a mine in a village market 102 miles southwest of Saigon, killing one civilian and wounding two women.

'PSYWAR' WAGED

Tons Of Paper Dumped In Viet

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, (AP) — Enough paper to reach more than twice around the earth at the equator has been dropped on North Viet Nam by American planes.

More than 400 million propaganda leaflets have been dumped on the Communist-controlled north since April, 1965.

Such psychological warfare called psywar here—"is not going to win the war but it will make a real contribution by wearing down morale," said one U.S. intelligence man.

SAFE CONDUCT
North Vietnamese prisoners and the pockets of northerners killed in action often carry leaflets, many of which promise safe conduct if they surrender to allied forces.

Purpose of the leaflet barrage is to win Communist soldiers over to the Saigon government.

They are also aimed at discouraging northerners from repairing roads and bridges destroyed by U.S. bomb strikes. One leaflet has a photograph of a shattered bridge and the shadow of a circling U.S. bomber.

The reverse side says in Vietnamese: "Compatriots who are forced to repair bridges and roads, beware. The quicker they are repaired the sooner they will be bombed again. Try to avoid working on roads and bridges, you will save yourselves from a needless death."

'WORTHLESS PAPER'
To cripple Communist savings, counterfeit North Vietnamese bank notes are dropped along with the message: "As the war goes on there will be less and less to buy. Prices will go higher. Your savings will become worthless paper."

The note is of one dong denomination, worth about two and a third cups of rationed rice in North Viet Nam. Northern army privates reportedly earn five dong each month.

Girls Pay Fines With Pennies

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Two pretty girls paid a $100 traffic fine in County Court Wednesday with 10,000 pennies, but it took longer than they planned.

Clerk Orville Holben ordered the girls to put the name Shelly Horn, 18, on each of the 200 rolls of 50 pennies. That took an hour. Miss Horn and Stephanie Allan, 18, each lugged a cosmetic case filled with the pennies into the clerk's office to pay Miss Horn's fine for a second offense of driving without a license.

"I didn't think it was fair for them to fine me $100," Miss Horn said, "so I wanted to do something to get even." After Holben's order, Miss Horn, near tears, said, "You don't have people write their name and address on dollar bills."

"We know how much a $1 bill is worth," Holben told her. "We don't know how many pennies are in each of the rolls."

FORTUNE TIED UP IN COURTS

Millionaire Won't Have To Go On Relief

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Otto Orkin, the pest-control millionaire with no spending money, won't have to go on relief after all.

The plight of the Latvian immigrant, 78, drew wide attention early this month when his wife applied for welfare funds and government surplus food because Orkin's fortune was tied up in a trust fund and the courts.

Since then, the Orkins say, they have received letters of encouragement, cash donations of $1 to $50 and an invitation to live with one newspaper reader.

And the couple's attorney says trustees of the Orkin estate have set up limited credit with grocery stores, druggists and laundries.

RAT POISON
Starting in Allentown, Pa., with a homemade rat poison and a third grade education, Orkin developed a $65-million extermination business with 400 branches in 28 states.

After years of litigation in intrafamily financial squabbles and sanity hearings, Orkin was ruled mentally incompetent in 1964.

His third wife, with whom he lives in suburban Smyrna, is custodian of his person but not of his property.

HEARING SLATED
Mrs. Orkin applied for aid from the Cobb County Welfare Department Oct. 31 and received a card entitling the couple to draw surplus beans, lard, meal, rice and peanut butter.

Mrs. Orkin was removed as guardian of Orkin's property in 1965 and a businessman was named in her place. This year the Orkins petitioned a county court to remove the businessman. The court said that according to provisions of the Orkin trust it had no jurisdiction over the property.

This made it impossible for the property guardian to receive any trust funds for the Orkins, and they were left without an income.

Now the Orkins have filed suit to remove the trustees of the estate or to obtain more of the trust's income. The suit is to be heard next week in Fulton County (Atlanta) Superior Court.

TEXANS AT WAR

Viet Cong Chop Heads

By The Associated Press

"When the Viet Cong is not given land and food willingly from the villagers across Viet Nam, they take it anyway. "Then they take the stubborn chief and his wife and kids and chop off their heads in front of all the other villagers," says Art Henderson, a Dallas native who was a Texan at War in Viet Nam.

"This makes pretty much of an impression on the people—they're inclined to come across with what the Viet Cong ask after that."

PROGRAMS IMPRESS

Henderson, who won two Purple Hearts, came back from Southeast Asia most impressed with the civic action programs that affect these villagers in the boon docks.

"The Viet Cong guerrillas have to depend completely on these villagers for their existence, for their water, food, shelter and information. Without their support, the Communists would have been in serious trouble long ago."

"Our civic action program wasn't started because everybody in the U.S. Marines had a heart too big for their body—but to convince the natives they stood only to lose when protecting the Viet Cong. We protect their crops and them as they take their goods to market."

LIKE ANT HILL

"I don't believe it would be possible to effect a full-scale rout of the Viet Cong. It's like trying to clear but an anthill. You can stomp on it, pour kerosene on it but you'll never get all the ants. We're staking our fight on getting to the people and convincing them we have more to offer than the Viet Cong," Henderson said.

The stocky, brown-haired Henderson entered the Marines as a private and came out three years and three months later as a sergeant. He was attached to the 1st Battalion, 3rd Marines in Viet Nam.

How's That, Doc?

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Members of the Western Surgical Association talked about almost everything but medicine at the organization's 75th anniversary meeting.

Dr. Kenneth Johnson of Phoenix said persons lost on the desert should sit down, preferably in the shade, so "friends will know where to look for you."

Five TB Cases Reported To Local Unit's Board

Five active cases of tuberculosis in Big Spring were reported by Mrs. Ray Puckett, case finder for the Howard County TB Association, at the Wednesday meeting of the board at Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Puckett told the board that two of the cases were being treated at McKnight Sanatorium and the other three were in isolation and being treated in their homes.

Dr. Nell Sanders was named to consult with members of the Howard County Medical Society concerning the feasibility of a mobile unit for use in the county. She was to ask for suggestions for obtaining such a unit and also the practicality of one. The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Harry Jordan as health nurse and heard a report from Mrs. Jim Butler on the mailing of 5,395 packets of Christmas Seals, the sale of which provides the only funds for work of the association.

Dr. W. R. Cashion, member of the Texas Tuberculosis Board, reported on the October meeting he attended in Austin which dealt with chronic respiratory disease and air pollution.

The board made plans to send Christmas gifts to the six Howard County patients that are now under treatment at McKnight Sanatorium.

Fourteen members were present.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠
An astute defender refused to give away the show when he was placed under pressure by South, the declarer at three no trump. West's calmness under fire, led to an upset on the deal.

West opened the jack of hearts, the three was played from dummy and declarer won the trick in his hand with the king. The jack of spades was led, West covered with the queen and North put on the ace.

A spade was returned and East put up the king as declarer unblocked his ten. East led back a heart and West played the nine to dislodge dummy's queen.

Declarer now had eight cashable tricks — three spades, two hearts, one diamond, and two clubs. Before attempting to develop a ninth however, he decided to force his opponent to make a discard or two, for it was obvious that West had some good hearts to cash as soon as he could get in to do so.

The ten of clubs was led from dummy and when East followed with the three, South played the king. Next came the eight of spades which was overtaken by North's nine as West discarded the deuce of diamonds. On the seven of spades, declarer gave up a club, and then it was West's turn to play.

West observed that, if he discarded a heart, it would give his opponent a safe opportunity to establish a trick in the minors, for West would no longer be able to cash enough hearts to defeat the contract. It was, therefore, necessary to unguard one of his stoppers and West did not ponder the matter at length. He promptly discarded the eight of diamonds.

South had no clew regarding the location of the diamond king, so he led the queen of diamonds from dummy next and took the finesse. West was in with the king and he proceeded to cash three heart tricks.

Declarer could have made his contract by refusing the diamond finesse and playing the ace. Observe that even if the king does not drop and it develops that East has that card, the lead may safely be surrendered to him—for he is out of hearts, and if he did have one left to return it would mean that West could take only two tricks in that suit.

A Devotional For The Day

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. (Matthew 5:16)

PRAYER: Help me, a follower of Thine, O Lord, to find ways and methods to carry Thy light to those living in darkness. Whatever the sacrifice, help me to bear it. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Time To Do Something

Tension is building up between the old American tradition of rapid rotation in office, designed to prevent bossism, and the urgent need for experienced men to manage the complex affairs of a modern state. There is, therefore, a discernible trend toward longer terms for state governors.

Today 12 states deny their governors the right to re-election. In all of these states, the governors' terms are four years, but a good governor has often just reached his peak of efficiency after four years of experience.

In another minority of the states, 13, including Texas, the governors' terms for their governors. And it is with right of succession. Only South Dakota limits its governor to a maximum of two two-year terms.

In the two-year-term states with right of succession, the governors barely have time to present their initial program to their respective legislatures before having to begin a campaign for re-election. And there is still a custom barrier in most of those states to a governor seeking more than two terms.

Florida, Michigan, Massachusetts and Nebraska are in the process of changing from two-year to four-year terms for their governors. And it is to be expected that in the future, states with four-year terms without right of succession will switch to letting their governors seek re-election, at least once.

Probably a good compromise for the states to adopt would be the two four-year term limitation on the presidency, which went into effect in 1951, or one long term of possibly six years. That would give a governor time to develop a comprehensive program, but it should prevent him gaining enough political power to perpetuate himself in office indefinitely. Texas would stand to be better governed, if its governor were both granted more time in office and given more authority to supervise the administrative machinery for which the people hold him responsible.

Viewer's Revolt

How long will the public tolerate massive interruptions of programs for spot announcements of candidates in political campaigns? It's a good question, deserving an answer.

"Apparently it is not enough that the taxpayer should have to look at the wretched political spot announcements that make a farce of civilized governmental processes," wrote TV critic Jack Gould, "now he is being invited to pay for them."

Could we take not only a broad swipe at spot announcements but at the new federal law which permits taxpayers to contribute $1 toward presidential campaigns on their income tax return.

Candidates seem to agree that television is one of the easiest means of reaching voters. But can this appeal be overdone? Probably so, considering the rising tide of criticism from viewers. If it is overdone the usefulness of television as a campaign medium can be reduced substantially by a viewer's revolt. They can, and many have, start turning off their sets during political campaigns.

Holmes Alexander The Obligation Of Nuclear Distrust

WASHINGTON — For six weeks in the autumn of 1965, two bands of scientists played hide-and-seek in the Utah wildlands. The hiders were simulating Russian testers of underground nuclear explosives. The seekers were simulating American on-site inspectors inside the Soviet Union. If, tomorrow, the Kremlin would agree to on-site inspection as part of a new Treaty, we would be ready to accept—though not to trust—the offer.

THE UTAH experiment is by far the simplest, most describable, part of our effort to safeguard against Russian cheating on present and future Treaty agreements. But there exists, as I have tried to show in this broken series of columns, two schools of thought about the Safeguards.

The Senate Safeguards Subcommittee takes the hard line of mistrust toward the Russians. But within the Administration there are soft-liners who feel that it is a waste of money to play scientific detective games, and that the Russians are fairly trustworthy at this time of history.

IN FAIRNESS, it should be reported that the Defense Department maintains a top-quality, well-financed staff of scientists who do nothing except work on Safeguards. It is called Project Vela, or Nuclear Test Detection, and its parent body is the Advanced Research Projects Agency (ARPA). Last December the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) devoted its entire monthly magazine to a series of papers on nuclear detection. This gives us a convenient check-list of what is being done:

IN MONTANA and Mississippi there are continuing experiments to discover by "seismic arrays" whether it is possible for the enemy to hold undetectable underground tests.

In Massachusetts and Texas states are going forward on ocean-bottom seismographs to find out if the Russians can explode underwater nuclear tests without our knowledge.

FOR IDENTIFYING explosions in the atmosphere, there have been horse-and-buggy systems in being for many years. But we are now well along in advanced "evolutionary" methods that continuously are improved. If the Russians should explode a "clean bomb" with no debris, we would still have the means to detect it by acoustic devices. They supposedly can separate the nuclear event from noises produced by wind turbulence, volcanic eruptions, chemical explosions and meteors.

For detection of Russian nuclear tests in space, we have launched three pairs of Vela satellites which are still in orbit. A nuclear detonation in space would hopefully be identified by "sensing the X-ray, gamma ray and neutron signals."

NO LAYMAN could possibly evaluate the worth of these efforts to keep surveillance on the Russians. It would be easy for the working scientists to concentrate on interesting phenomena and to neglect the military urgency, as some critics say they are doing.

Perhaps the best a writer can do is to point out the Administration's moral obligation to play it straight. The Test Ban Treaty was ratified on the understanding that we would trust the Russians no farther than we could watch them—underground, underwater, in the atmosphere and in space. Vest Pocket Sun Dials

NEW YORK (AP) — The reason a gentleman's vest has two small "watch pockets" is that watches were originally so inaccurate that you had to carry a miniature sun dial also, according to researchers at Bulova Watch Company.

Today's wrist timepieces are more accurate than a sun dial.

Wrong Offer

MELBOURNE (AP) — Norman Charles Field, 41, strolled into a yard and offered to sell a man an antique flintlock pistol.

"Could you use one of these for your stage productions?" asked Field. As a result Field went to jail for 21 days on charges relating to the theft of the pistol.

He had wandered into the yard of the Police Vice Squad instead of the Princess Theater next door. The pistol had been loaned to another theater from the police museum for the stage production of "War and Peace."

THE ITCHY FINGER

James Marlow Amendment Tries To Prevent Nightmare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once more the country escaped in President Johnson's illness — as in the illnesses of other presidents — the kind of rumpus which could occur because the Constitution is vague on what happens when a president is too disabled to do his job.

When Johnson underwent two minor operations Wednesday, he was under an anesthetic about one hour and a half. In about four hours he was whipping back into shape. Before he went to the operating room he and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had an agreement that if Johnson was too disabled to carry out his job, Humphrey would have stepped in.

AT BEST, it was only an informal arrangement, the same as Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy had with their vice presidents. There have been times in American history when presidents were terribly disabled but there was no arrangement for a vice president to take over.

The lack of a disability agreement spelled out by law could lead to a national crisis. For example: What if there was a dispute between the president and his vice president over whether the president, after the vice president had stepped in for him, was still too disabled to carry out his duties? In short, what would happen if a vice president refused to stop acting as president?

PERHAPS by the end of March, 1967, this problem will have been eliminated. By then three-fourths of the states — 38 out of 50 — are expected to have approved the proposed 25th amendment to the Constitution which Congress okayed July 6, 1965. So far 31 states have approved.

The Johnson-Humphrey arrangements provided that while Johnson was undergoing and recovering from surgery, Humphrey, if necessary, would carry out the presidential duties until Johnson had recovered.

The proposed 25th amendment tries to prevent the nightmare which would follow if once a disabled president left his vice president take over but then later decided he had recovered enough to take back his job but the vice president, and perhaps others, decided he was still too disabled to function.

The proposed amendment lays down these rules: If the president notifies Congress he is unable to carry out his duties, the vice president will take over until the president notifies Congress he has recovered.

IF THE president is too disabled to fill his job or to tell Congress so or is too disabled to even know he is, the vice president will take over, provided he and a majority of the principal officers of the executive branch tell Congress so.

Letter To Santa Upsets Hubby

NEW YORK (AP) — Santa Claus, that merry merchant, is ringing the cash register early this year.

An ornate yule tree has stood for a couple of weeks now in the window of a prominent Fifth Avenue store, reminding depressed passers-by that mankind's annual orgy of good will is nigh.

It seems to get nigher sooner with each succeeding season.

Riding to work in a cab the other morning, we passed a huge unit electronic Christmas tree climbing the side of another Fifth Avenue building.

The driver noted it gloomily and said:

"I GUESS I'll surprise my wife and let her get her teeth capped this Christmas. Well, why not? After all, it's only money."

And then he added moodily: "The trouble with Christmas any more is that by the time it gets here it's stale already."

Now isn't that true? It is impossible to celebrate more than one holiday at a time, and a growing number of people are resenting the trend to an earlier, ever earlier, Christmas.

For one thing, it is infringing on one of our oldest and most festive national holidays—Thanksgiving. Thanksgiving is one of the most profound expressions of mankind, as deeply religious in its essence as Christmas and even wider in a way because its gratitude to the Creator is bound by no particular creed.

It celebrates the harvest and man's eternal victory over winter and hunger.

BUT IT IS getting impossible to pay Thanksgiving its proper due with Santa Claus rushing on stage yelling "Ho, Ho, Ho!"

When President Johnson issued his annual Thanksgiving proclamation, it might have been a good idea if he had coupled it with a quiet order to U.S. customs inspectors along the Canadian border:

"If a fat guy wearing whiskers and a red suit shows up, keep him out of the country at least until the first of December. If he makes a fuss, tell him you suspect one of his reindeer has the foot-and-mouth disease. Check his license. See if he's driving a stolen sled."

In many cases it is less a celebration than participation in mass hysteria.

CHRISTMAS is getting to be such a year-round industry that, sooner or later, in some household a kid looking for hidden Easter eggs will be startled to see Santa Claus sliding down the chimney in a straw hat.

Editor's Note: Don't pay any attention to Hal Boyle. He just opened his wife's letter to Santa Claus and found she wants a fur coat for Christmas. That's enough to upset any husband.

Around The Rim

There Are Better Solutions

The Herald ran a page one picture Tuesday of three college-age students who were carrying a placard which read, "We are the future generation." From the looks of the kids in that picture, we'd all better hope they're not.

IF YOU TOOK all the teenage troubles from Berkeley to Harvard, combined them with an uncertain non-conformist attitude, added a pinch of the attractive 'mod' look worn sloppily and baked in an atmosphere of unrest that's been seething for a long time—then you'd have the looks of those kids in the picture. The caption might better read, "Girls — or Boys?"

Yet they're the ones that get the publicity—the rebels, the draft-dodgers, the beatniks. It's seldom you read, or hear, about a group of youngsters doing things that are a credit to their families, their schools, their churches and their communities.

A CERTAIN non-conformity is healthy—ask any teenager. It's the misuse of it that's unappealing—and often damaging.

When I was a student back at the "Big Farm"—the city kids' terminology for Ohio State University—there were a handful of serious, intelligent and well-informed students trying to study to make the grade to pass the course to get the degree. Clustered around this nucleus were the ever-increasing number of students whose favorite pastimes seemed to be (1) picketing, (2) sit-ins, (3) public demonstrations and (4) picketing, not necessarily in that order.

IT GOT TO be so bad after a time that those students bent on studying couldn't even study in the library—leaflets and circulars would be literally shoved into hands which more than likely shoved the leaflets into wastebaskets anyway. The real tragedy of the demonstrations was that they disrupted the atmosphere of the students who were diligently trying to study. After all, picketing the student union building because the cafeteria served Florida orange juice in preference to California orange juice seems to me to be a pretty silly way to spend the afternoon.

AN AWARENESS of world events is always necessary, and Americans have always had the right and the privilege to speak out in protest, to hold public assemblies without fear of punitive action and a host of other privileges which are contained in our far-sighted Bill of Rights.

But they are privileges, and a privilege should not be abused. Big Spring is fortunate to have hundreds of youth who are a real credit to the community—the work being done by the Hi-Y Council of the YMCA is certainly one example.

THROUGH their council work, these students are finding out that picketing is not necessarily the only solution—that qualified opinions and judgments are invaluable, and that these can be gained only through the best education possible.

Defeat For Law Enforcement

WASHINGTON — President Johnson had a chance this week to start a constructive movement throughout the country to deal with crime. But he passed it by. This may plague him in the election campaign two years hence when it seems certain the administration will have to face the country on what it has done or failed to do about the tremendous increase in the crime rate in the United States in recent years.

SINCE THE District of Columbia is governed by the President and Congress, its handling of local problems could serve as an example to the rest of the nation. The President had before him a bill that would have helped the police to deal with crime, but he vetoed it. The excuse given was that some phases of it are unconstitutional. This question often is raised as to legislation. Strangely enough, however, when civil-rights measures have been before the President in the last two years, he didn't worry about objections on constitutional grounds but took it for granted that the courts would draw the necessary distinctions between lawful and unlawful paragraphs in a law.

INSTEAD, therefore, of giving the District crime bill a chance, the President not only vetoed the measure but denounced it. He said that better-trained and better-paid policemen are necessary. But, though he has had plenty of time to work out a plan, no legislation has been passed to provide such improvements.

There were, to be sure, many criticisms of the crime bill. But any defects in it could readily be taken care of later by amendments, and at least a start toward crime prevention would have been made if the President had signed the measure. The Washington Evening Star — which, of course, has an intimate knowledge of local conditions here — was disappointed in the President's action, and said in an editorial:

"IN VETOING the D.C. crime bill, President Johnson followed bad advice. His decision discards, with the stroke of a pen, a positive, constructive attempt to strengthen the arm of law enforcement in Washington—and leaves nothing in its place . . ."

What difference does it make, for instance, if a criminal is kept four hours under questioning as a suspect? If he is innocent, he can say so and explain why. If he is guilty, he may under interrogation mention names or reveal facts which are useful in prosecuting either his crime or the crime of others. Most crimes are committed in secret, and there are no witnesses.

WHICH is more important—the right of a criminal in a case of murder to be spared an ordeal of questioning, or the right of society to see that those who commit crimes are punished? The President, by vetoing this bill which would have helped the police, may unwittingly have been instrumental in letting many criminals go free to commit other crimes.

The President had an excellent chance to show the nation that in the capital of the United States crime would be dealt with effectively. Ambiguous clauses in the law could have been decided in the courts, but at least there would have been a considerable moral effect by enactment of the statute. Instead, law enforcement has suffered a real defeat.

Will 'Peacetime' Boom Continue?

NEW YORK (AP) — We are approaching now the season of the annual economic outlook, a time when the oracles forecast conditions for the next year. Generally they expect 1967 to be much like 1966.

A forecast that calls for a continuation of existing conditions generally is the easiest to make. It is more difficult to call a turn, to forecast a reversal. And then there are other un-nerving factors.

A well-known private economist was offered expert legal advice that persons "pretending to forecast the future" might be deemed criminals under his state's laws and fined $20 and perhaps sent to jail for six months.

HE CONTINUED, nevertheless, as do thousands of others, to make his forecast.

The first of them, now making the rounds, generally foresees a Gross National Product of $790 billion for 1967. That would mean a rise in the total output of goods and services of $50 billion—an impressive increase.

However, this 7 per cent increase may be a bit illusory, for 3 per cent of it is expected to disappear in inflation. Still, it compares well with about 8½ per cent this year, of which 3½ per cent was inflation.

The oracles this year have several uncertainties before them. First, if they forecast a continuation of the boom they are forecasting a record upon a record. Already the boom is the largest ever in "peacetime."

A VERY PROMINENT uncertainty is President Johnson. Some of them blame the President for wrecking their forecasts of a year ago. He should have raised taxes, they say. He didn't. And now they ask: Will he, and if so when and by how much?

Uncertainties such as these cause some forecasters to speak vaguely. There is, of course, a reason for this. Most take a tip from the Delphic oracle, which in ancient Greece never had to recant because it spoke in riddles.

These oracles who do speak clearly show their daring only over a short term. Their forecasts often are specific for the first six months of the year. They plead their crystal ball is cloudy beyond that. Therefore, they call for a "slight readjustment" in the second half of the year.

Nevertheless, these economic forecasts are not the amusements they once were. More and more the corporate and government economist is a key man. If he ever was the fellow with the silly charts he isn't now. He is consulted at the decision-making level.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Statistics have a way of demolishing stereotypes. Recent ones from the Japanese Ministry of Labor play havoc with the widely accepted picture of the Japanese woman as a dainty creature in kimono and elaborate headress, far removed from the world's hurly-burly.

The ministry figures show two striking facts. Nineteen million Japanese women work outside the home. And 730,000 members of this group are classified by the ministry as serious careerists. They are lawyers, architects, doctors, business executives as well as teachers.

Since the average couple in Japan limits its family to two children, the mother is usually free from the responsibilities of child care in her early 30's. It is then she resumes the professional or business career she gave up upon marriage.

The Japanese women, the French women, the American, and others can easily forget national differences in discussing common problems of the two-career wife. A new sense of sisterhood develops when they tell each other how they find time to devote to their families in the face of new responsibilities.

Women have long given evidence of a sense of international solidarity. The new trends increase it. —CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

Billy Graham

Does every person have a guardian angel when he confesses Christ and becomes a Christian? E.A.D.

The Bible does say, "The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them." Psa. 34:7.

But the New Testament contains even a better promise. Jesus, himself, said, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." Loneliness is one of the things that hurt modern man. It is possible to be lonely in the midst of a crowd, in feverish activity, or even when engaged in some kind of pleasure. Loneliness isn't just being alone; it is the desire to be loved. The Bible says, "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." (Ro. 5:8). While some loves in life are selfish, this love that God gives is without an ulterior motive. "While we were yet sinners" denotes that His love goes out to the unlovely, the unattractive and the unloved.

It is comforting to know that in what seems to be an unfriendly world, that we are loved by One who is steadfast, dependable and unwavering. Love, as we experience it on the human level, can be capricious, changeable. But Christ says, "Look, I am with you, even to the end of the world." With that assurance, we have a Presence more comforting than an angel, and with Him we can never be lonely.

A LOVELIER YOU

Problems Bared If Gown Is Strapless

By MARY SUE MILLER
A lovely writes: I would love to have a strapless evening dress, but my shoulders aren't up to it. Bra straps have left deep ridges and worse, the collarbones are so sharp as to form hollows on either side. What hope?
The Answer: Those problems are correctable. To eliminate the ridges, simply consult a competent corsetiere. She will see to it that your bra straps snug, and not pinch. However much lift is needed, it will then come from beneath the cups as is proper.

Once you have the right bra, the ridges quickly fade away. You can hasten the process and pretty the scene, generally, by massaging daily with a good rich hand or body lotion.
The collarbone problem is not quickly solved, but it is nonetheless soluble. You actually can feel the following routine at work to plump up those depressions and bones:
With a strong leather belt in hand, sit tailor-fashion on the floor. Hold belt so hands are twelve inches apart, extend arms forward at shoulder level, and snap belt taut. By bending elbows into waist, touch belt to chest, hold for five counts, and return arms to extended position. Repeat twenty times.

Meanwhile dust a little contour blusher on the collarbones. This trick appears to cut them down to size. Next—get the dress!
ENHANCED BOSOM
For a more attractive bosom, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, requesting her ten cent pamphlet, "Enhanced Bosomline." Don't forget to include ten cents in coin and a large, self-addressed stamped envelope. "Enhanced Bosomline" contains detailed instructions on how curve and lift can be improved through exercise, posture and corsetry.

Stitch Seam To Ease Zipper Gap

For necklines that stand away from the body at the back zipper or in the front, adjustments should be made at the shoulder seams. Carefully rip off the facing at the shoulder seams. Stitch the shoulder seam up making it wider at the neckline and tapering it to nothing at the armhole. Make the shoulder seam of the facing smaller, too, and then restitch the facing to the neckline.

MRS. JAMES JONES

Club Explores Indian Lore

By JO ANN PHINIZY
Evidence of cannibalism in West Texas Indians is only one of the discoveries that amateur archaeologist Mrs. James Jones has had a part in "finding."
Other artifacts that she and her family have found include Indian ornaments made of ivory taken from animals that have been extinct since 2500 B.C. The Joneses have a collection of arrow pieces that Texas Tech museum members are unable to classify. The pieces are known to be from the period following the Folsom Man (dated from 8000 to 7000 B.C.).
The James Jones family lives in Tarzan and, with rare exceptions, their discoveries have been found within a 200 mile radius of Martin County.

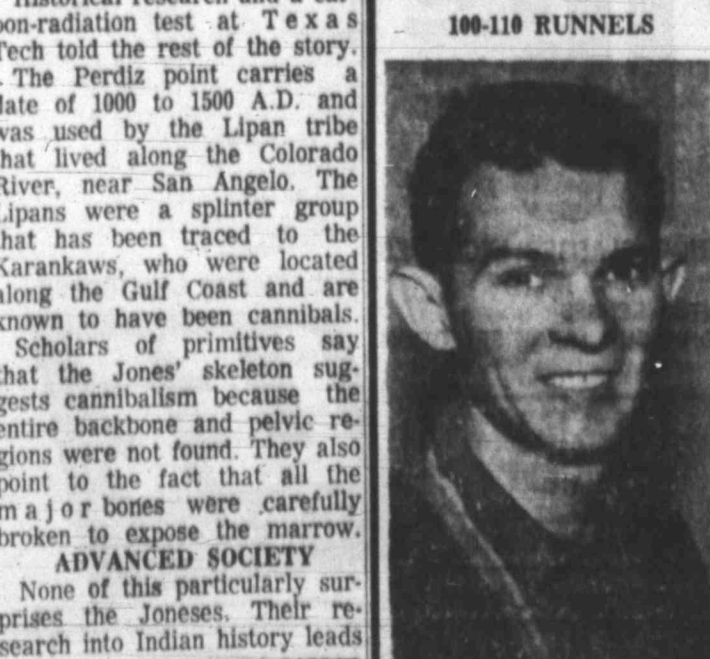

Mrs. Jones exhibited her collection of West Texas artifacts, and explained the family hobby, during the Thursday afternoon meeting of the 1948 Hyperion Club at the home of Mrs. R. W. Whipkey, 711 Dallas.

Mrs. Jones said it all started eight years ago with an attempt to find a constructive "teen-age" interest for her children. Not only has the hobby been a basis for many a high school theme, but the family has done research into history of Indians and, their discoveries have brought them in contact with archaeologists of Texas Tech and Texas University.

Hyperion Hear Talk

Mrs. Jones was introduced by Mrs. Glen Cox, and her appearance as guest speaker was in keeping with the club's educational theme, "Did You Know?" The day's topic was "Family Hobbies."
In her talk, Mrs. Jones detailed what her family's hobby had revealed to them about history as well as providing a pastime which could hold the interest of children and adults alike.
Mrs. Robert Stripling presided for a brief business session in which the resignation of Mrs. Larry Crow was accepted. The members will assist with activities at the state hospital Nov. 20, and the next regular meeting will be Dec. 15, the place to be announced.
The hostess served dessert to members and two guests, Mrs. Jones and Miss Jo Ann Phinizy.

DEAR ABBY Stay Out Of Her Path

DEAR ABBY: This is my second marriage. I was a divorcee with four small children, but this time I got the best man who ever walked in shoe leather. I am 22 and my husband is 21, and his mother does not like me. She says her son isn't ready for so much responsibility. She told me to my face that she doesn't like small children, especially mine because they are not HER grandchildren.

She said if I ever had her son's children THEY will be her grandchildren. And she does not want my kids calling her "grandma." I don't want to come between my husband and his mother, but I don't want my children hurt either. What should I do?

NEW IN THE FAMILY
DEAR NEW: Stay out of children's way. And do your children a favor and keep THEM out of her way, too. If you don't want to come between your husband and his mother, don't expect him to run interference for you.

A 22-year-old divorcee with four small children is lucky to get the "best man who ever walked in shoe leather." But you can't have everything. And your handicap is a mother-in-law who sounds like she could hunt bear with a switch.

DEAR ABBY: Married women are expected to wear wedding rings. I think all married men should wear something to indicate that THEY are married.

WILMA
DEAR WILMA: Isn't a five-year-old suit and a worried look sufficient?

DEAR ABBY: I have a close friend who has a 19-year-old daughter who is sweet, wholesome and respectful. She has always entertained her friends at home and has abided by her parents' wishes. But the problem, Abby is, no matter which boy the girl brings home, her father ignores him completely. In fact, he ignored them so completely, they all feel unwelcome in the home.

Her mother is at a loss. In fact she's become a nervous wreck due to his actions. This father claims he loves his daughter and would like to see her settled with a nice young man, so he can't be jealous and trying to run them off for fear of losing her. He is friendly and fun-loving with all her girl friends, but when a boy calls, he acts like he is made of stone. Can you figure this out and offer some advice?

A FRIEND
DEAR FRIEND: What father says and how father feels may be two different things. Some fathers don't "trust" any male who shows an interest in their daughters. Others are simply ill-at-ease with a young man of another generation.

Ask your friend to get her husband to talk about his feelings with regard to his daughter and her boy friends. Sometimes the truth reveals itself when the problem is discussed openly.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Texas' Draft Call Doubles

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas' January draft quota is 1,946 men, more than double the December call. State Selective Service headquarters announced today. The December quota is 744, November's quota is 2,339, and the October quota was 2,845.

The January quota is Texas' share of a national call of 27,600, all for the Army. Local draft boards will forward between 9,000 and 10,000 men for pre-induction examinations in January, Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service director, said.

Rehall Submits Substation Bid

Rehall Drug was the only bidder at deadline Nov. 14 to submit for operating a post office substation in Highland South shopping center.

Frank Hardesty, postmaster, said the Rehall bid was $1,200 for operating the station. Hardesty said he had sent the bid on to the regional office in Dallas with a recommendation that it be accepted.

The substation, when activated, will be like the station in the Hemphill-Wells store, the one at Edwards Heights Pharmacy and others in the community. It will issue money orders, sell stamps, accept parcel post packages and handle mail.

First Days Of Married Life 'Pure Purgatory,' Says Luci

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci Johnson Nugent says the first days of her married life in Austin, Tex., were made "pure purgatory" by curiosity seekers.

Now, says the President's 19-year-old daughter, she and husband Patrick J. Nugent "are supremely happy." "It's the most wonderful life" and they're treated "like everyone else."

But she described the first four days in Austin, where they moved as newlyweds into a duplex home, as "pure purgatory" — everybody drove by to try to see us, they rang the telephone and came to the door.

Talking to reporters as she joined her parents in a hospital celebration of their 32nd wedding anniversary Thursday, Luci said the sightseeing has finally subsided, and she and Nugent are settling down to normal married life.

VERY FINICKY
Luci says her husband has gained 5 or 10 pounds since their marriage Aug. 6, "but I've lost."

On their first month's anniversary, Luci said, "he took me out to dinner and gave me a big bottle of perfume." But, as the result of the outing, she recalled, he got sick.

"Before I was married," Luci confided, "I was not very neat but now I am the most finicky person in the world. I know that if I throw things around, there is no one but me to pick them up."

She said, "Pat is the most meticulous person. He never throws things around and if I do, he just stares at me until I pick it up."

LITTLE PUPPY

Luci said they have their own friends in Austin, "but we don't have them in very often for Pat goes to school and works, and I don't see him too much except at night."

Mercury Dips In Panhandle

By The Associated Press
Temperatures turned lower in the Texas Panhandle this morning and low clouds and fog cloaked much of the state's east and central sections.

A new cool front edged a little south past Amarillo before daylight. Readings dipped to 34 degrees at Dalhart and 40 at Amarillo, while downstate marks stayed mostly in the 50s and 60s.

Scattered light drizzle fell about dawn and spread northward from a line from Hillsboro to Texarkana. The occasional drizzle and fog also was expected to blanket the eastern part of the state Saturday with a few showers likely in that area Friday night and Saturday.

Unseasonably warm, moist air flowing inland from the Gulf of Mexico was blamed for the early morning fog and clouds.

Top temperatures Thursday afternoon ranged up to a summer 88 at Presidio in the Big Bend of West Texas. El Paso's 81-degree high was a record for the date. High marks elsewhere in the state ranged down to 73 at Galveston.

ministration at the University of Texas and is now employed at the Johnson family-owned radio-television station, KTBC in Austin.

Luci said she is taking one course — in the history of furniture — at the university and "it is just wonderful. I learn so much."

She says it has not been difficult to adjust to being a homemaker. She said she could cook before she got married.

While Luci painted a generally blissful picture, she did have this comment: "We have a little puppy, Kim, that is the most wonderful thing. When things get tense, we pet and talk to Kim and it breaks the tension."

$32 MILLION DEAL Warner Sells Movie Empire

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This week Jack L. Warner announced he was selling his one-third interest in the movie empire he and his brothers founded. The buyer: Seven Arts Productions. The price: an estimated $32 million.

The announcement by Warner's attorney, Louis Nizer, said the sale "was in accordance with Mr. Warner's plan ultimately to diminish his responsibilities." Yet the movie maker shows few signs of slowing the pace he has sustained for five decades.

His work day begins as early as 7 a.m. when he is on the telephone at his Angelo Drive home in Beverly Hills, talking to the New York office and to Warner Brothers outposts in other parts of the world. By mid-morning he is behind the desk of his studio office, the walls of which are covered with photos of Jack L. Warner shaking hands with renowned figures.

ABANDONS ROLE
In his office Warner abandons the clownish role by which Hollywood knows him from his public appearances. He is brisk and tough-minded in policy decisions.

At 1:30 p.m., he descends on the executive dining room, where he indulges in rallery with producers, directors and an occasional actor who is distinguished enough — James Stewart, Cary Grant, etc. — to eat with the top brass. Warner returns to his office and often remains at the studio until 11 or 12 if rough cuts or finished films have to be seen.

Warner is seldom interviewed, but one recent day he agreed to answer some submitted questions. His replies reflected his business demeanor rather than his public image:

Q. Do you think that the salvation of the film industry lies in the blockbuster film?
A. No, it lies in a successful production, irrespective of cost.

Q. What single film gave you the most satisfaction during your career?
A. "The Jazz Singer," where voice and music were first used in a feature film.

Q. Are actors more difficult to deal with nowadays?
A. A certain amount of actors have been difficult to deal with for the last 50 years. There is little difference between now and then.

CALL ME COLONEL
Q. How do you like being known as the Last Tycoon?
A. This is a rather exaggerated expression.

Warner retains a military bearing and likes to be called Colonel (from the Air Force, World War II). His broad face, characterized by the clipped mustache and toothy grin, seems little changed by the years.

Who will succeed Warner as head of the show business empire?

Baptists Expect To Reach Budget

Indications are that the First Baptist Church membership will subscribe their budget for 1967 before the week is out.

Billy T. Approximately 50 per cent of the membership have so far turned in dedication cards. Last Sunday morning's service alone accounted for estimated gifts of more than $150,000.

Young Actor Pays To Keep Long Hair

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Steve Sanders, a young actor who considers his long hair necessary to his career, is paying extra to attend a school where he won't have to clip his hair close.

Sanders, a ninth grade pupil, registered at Northside High School in Warner Robins last October, but was told by Principal Milton Sutherland he would have to leave until he got a haircut.

Sanders and his father, Herbert Sanders, of Centerville, Ga., contend the boy's long hair is necessary to his movie career. The elder Sanders said his son is paying a monthly tuition to attend Dudley Hughes High School in Macon. Steve recently appeared in films for the "Stage 67" show and "Gunsmoke."

'A DEN OF THIEVES' U. S. Goods Vanish Around Saigon Docks

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Goods which cost an awful lot of U.S. tax money vanish into thin air — or, some times, into shallow water — in the dock area of Saigon.

Amid rumors that some native port officials with salaries of about 10,000 piastres — $100 a month are wallowing in the luxury of expensive villas and costly cars, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky denounced the port on Nov. 10 as "a den of thieves."

During a waterfront visit, the prime minister told Brig. Gen. Pham Dang Lan, South Vietnamese director general of Saigon port, that any officials caught stealing henceforth would be shot.

"I'm not speaking of you," Ky told Lan. "I'm speaking of the men who are working under you."

CORRUPTION
Pilferage at the Saigon docks is only one aspect of the graft, corruption, black marketeering and other chicanery of the Vietnamese war, involving hundreds of millions of U.S. dollars, brought to light by an Associated Press reporting team in a wide-ranging investigation.

Port officials say about 500,000 tons of goods, most of it originating in the United States, pass through the Saigon waterfront every month. Some experts estimate that thieves get 20 per cent of it.

U.S. Navy sources in Washington say that figure is too high, but concede that around six per cent of strictly military cargo alone never reaches its destination. Eight months ago this figure was 11 to 12 per cent.

Across the river from downtown Saigon is the peninsula of An Khanh, the major staging area for smugglers and thieves. South Vietnamese customs officers stay away from An Khanh, where you can buy anything from an air conditioner to an automobile tire, all stolen.

RETRIEVE GOODS
An Khanh is where the divers live, too. They go down to the harbor bottom and retrieve goods chucked overboard by accomplices on ships waiting to unload.

They seem to work harder on An Khanh than they do on the Saigon docks.

One recent day along the Saigon wharves, Vietnamese stevedores squatted in the shade. A forklift operator slumped, snoring, in the seat of his machine.

In open spaces between the cargo sheds, piles of cracked wooden cases, piping, and rusted and broken equipment lay in apparent discard. Some of the cases bore the words "Fragile — Handle With Care."

There were plain signs of pilferage: a carton which had contained medicated powder, discarded and empty, boxes containing small motors ripped open and parts removed, packages of tire tubes rifled.

LIQUOR LOOTED
An American Military Police man showed a reporter a tall cardboard case which he said had been looted of liquor by Vietnamese workers.

The Vietnamese police and Vietnamese MPs on duty at the gates leading to the street are supposed to check outgoing workers for stolen property.

But there is strong suspicion the Vietnamese guards are lackadaisical in their checkouts and some likely are taking a cut.

Patrol boats police the crowded river, but observers say there aren't nearly enough of them.

The hundreds of Vietnamese barges ferrying goods from ships in midriver to the docks are a major problem. Entire barges have vanished. Some may have been hijacked. Others probably were delivered into the hands of black market rings, enforcement officials said.

TAX DODGERS
Late in September, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky became publicly indignant. His indignation followed the reported theft of tiles his wife had ordered for bathrooms in the new palace.

Ky was quoted as saying that a number of businessmen had "deliberately colluded" with thieves in an effort to dodge customs taxes and "to get their insurance compensation." No names were mentioned.

Following up Ky's blast, government - censored Saigon papers ran front-page stories declaring that "well - organized" groups had stolen hundreds of millions of piastres worth of imports. At the official exchange, there are 118 piastres to a dollar.

Most imports are financed under the U.S. economic aid program.

BICKERING
Since early summer, the military command has assumed widening responsibility for supporting port clearance of AID goods.

In time, and with enough resources, this may cure many of the difficulties.

Qualified experts say there must be strong action at a high level to halt bickering here between U.S. Army port authorities and certain AID officials.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara indicated, during his recent visit here, that he wants the port cleared — and what McNamara wants, McNamara most usually gets.

'My Three Sons' Try Wild Binge

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "My Three Sons," the CBS series, seems to go on smoothly from year to year specializing in warm family relationships, gentle comedy, a discreet laugh track and a very comfortable if not dramatic Nielsen rating.

Over the seasons the half-hour show has survived a change of networks, substituted William Demarest for the late William Frawley as the crochety, lovable senior member of the family. It married off — and out of the show — the oldest son who outgrew his part and replaced him with an appealing little boy who started out as a visiting orphan but now is a bona fide offspring.

It made all these shifts without causing so much as a ripple of discomfort for the program's devotees. But "My Three Sons" went on a wild, tearing Soupy

Sales binge Thursday night.

UNEXPECTED
It was all very unexpected. Robbie, currently the number one son, started a birthday supply operation that became suddenly big business during one of the father's absences. In fact, the boys were so busy making birthday cakes, they forgot their father's birthday — very typical of "My Three Sons" style with a nice little moral building up.

Then suddenly everybody gathered in the kitchen and started heaving cakes at each other — 37 of them in fact — as the laugh track whooped it up and whipped cream was scattered all over. Friends of the program devoutly hope this was just something the writers had to get out of their systems.

SHOOTOUT
On another front, NBC's "Daniel Boone" goes its busy way as an early evening program designed to entertain and amuse children in the audience. Although it is set in the Revolutionary War period, it looks like a western and very often it acts like a western.

Thursday night's episode featured a shootout between a good Indian named Red Sky and a bad Indian named Tall Deer. For all the presence of Boone's wife and children and occasional lectures on sportsmanship, manners and fair play, it manages to inject plenty of action and — let's face it — violence into most episodes.

The report in industry circles is that CBS will keep "It's About Time" in its present Sunday spot for the rest of the season but will make a radical change in its format in an effort to improve its low ratings.

Peters Judged Sane Now, To Be Tried Here

Remember John Marvin Peters?

In February and early March 1965 Peters drew a lot of attention by confessing to a series of murders. He said he had killed a woman in Marshall, had committed murders in New Mexico and even mentioned a Chicago mass murder case.

Earlier he had been arrested by Deputies Lindy Oldfield and A. G. Mitchell hiding in a mesquite thicket on the Kent Morgan ranch southeast of Big Spring.

Officers flocked here, but after their interrogations they said Peters couldn't have been involved in the cases he mentioned. So he went to trial in 118th District Court March 4, 1965, on a burglary count. At the defense table, he managed to shatter a plastic ash-tray, made a spectacular, although practically bloodless, attempt to slash his wrist.

A sanity hearing, instead of prosecution for burglary, followed and the jury said that Peters was insane. He was ordered committed to the State Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Rusk.

Now comes word from Rusk that Peters is hale, hearty and sane. So sane that the hospital has warned authorities here it plans to release him from further custody soon if something isn't done to keep him in custody.

Judge Ralph Caton of 118th District Court will issue an order, probably today, instructing the hospital to surrender Peters to Howard County authorities. He will be returned to Big Spring to face trial for the burglary. Wayne Burns, district attorney, said he is ready to prosecute the case.

for Tomorrow

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Confusion and muddled thinking can be a part of today's aspects and much of the beneficial influences in effect yesterday can be brought to naught if you change the scope or design of the plans made under the excellent astrological aspects yesterday. Make a point to use conscious self-control to sidestep arguments.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Try not to give friends a wrong idea of your financial worth or you will be asked to give exorbitant donations, which you can ill afford. Try to be more economical, too. Cut corners here and there.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Be sure you act in a more circumspect manner or higher-ups will get the wrong impression and you lose much that has been built up so carefully. Stay close to the Golden Rule. Leave no openings for the critic.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Although you think your ideas are unique right now, if you jump into things and make radical changes you get into a pack of trouble. A newcomer can be quite annoying. Steer clear of such an individual.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do nothing that will make your credit bad and spoil your chances for advancement. Be sure you are not disappointed with more, other close ties. You have made promises that should be kept.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Scrupulously carry out promises made associates instead of arguing so much trying to get out of them, it would be easy to have a senseless of complications, and this would be bad. Show perseverance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Instead of running away from that work ahead of you, be enthusiastic and get it done. Workers are let down unfairly, too. Get health improved during free time. You can do your work much better in the days ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Although entertainment is uppermost in your mind, if you jeopardize the practical you make a big mistake. Get busy and do your best work. Handle obligations scrupulously. Get ahead instead of falling behind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although you like to argue, don't miss the error of starting alterations at home or they mushroom into pitched battles. These are best avoided now. Later on you can quietly state what it is that is bothering you.

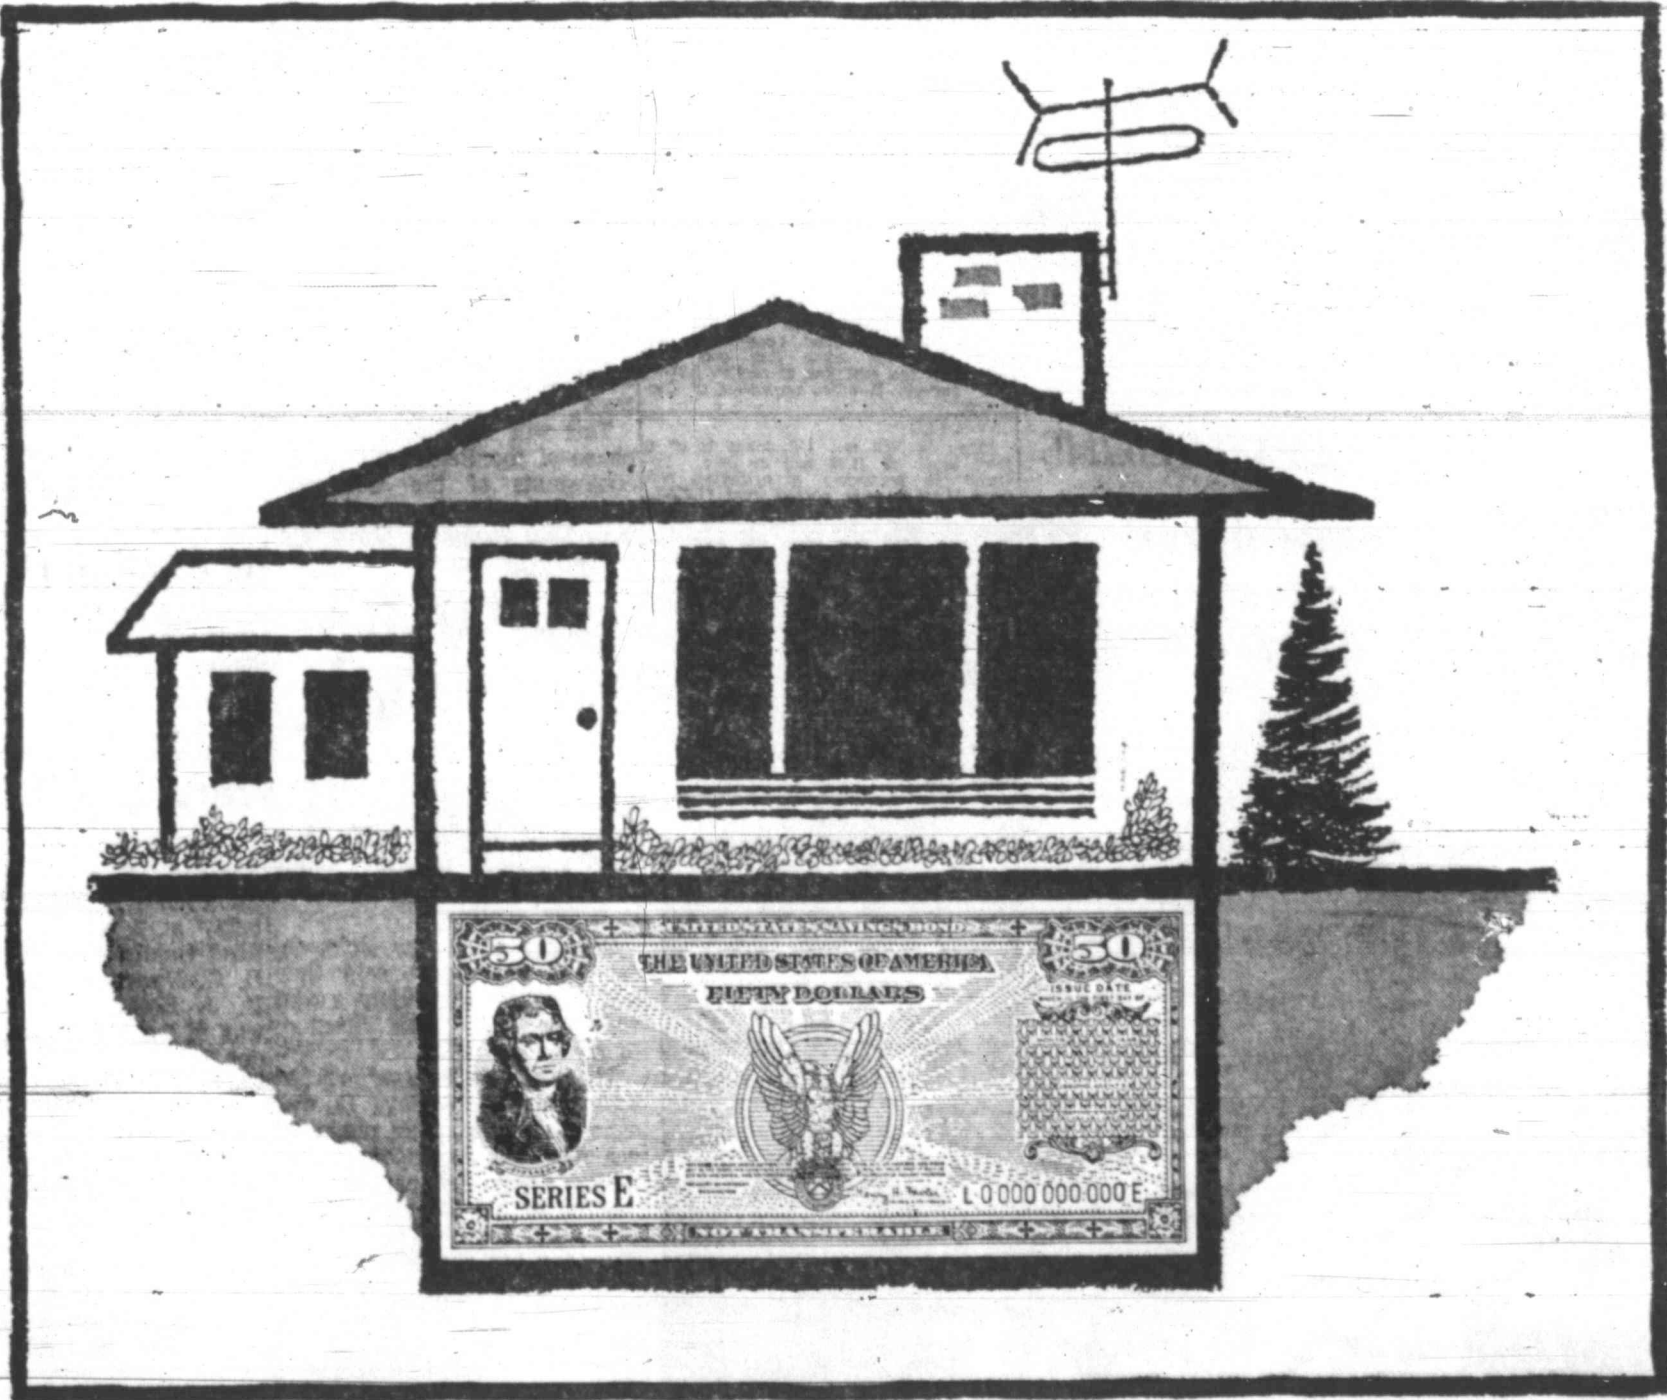

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Particular care in the road should be exercised as well as in making comments, otherwise you can get into a pack of trouble. Don't be fooled in reading letters. They are likely to contain such a way that they mean something entirely different.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Important you deliberate more before you spend money, get into new plans that have not been studied sufficiently. Still for time. You have to economize more. See it that you do not go over your budget allowances.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are just in the speed to throw away all caution and jump into some big plan, about which you know very little. This could prove extremely costly. Be careful where personal relations are concerned, calm and collected.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Instead of turning away from obligations that annoy you get right of them and they are soon behind you, and rightly following the advice of experts is a. You succeed as well as please them. Be dynamic.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN tomorrow he or she will be one of those seemingly fearless and unshackling individuals who can get into much trouble if you don't early teach to calm down and then use these qualities wisely. Offer enough training, and education is given. This is most important since you could have a delinquent in your home instead of a wonderful, courageous person. Teach to control the temper early, in life.

Stock Market Prices Dip; Trading Sags

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was lower early this afternoon but the pace of trading had slackened. Fairly sharp losses were shown both by blue chips and glamor stocks, including the selected issues which were pounded so severely Thursday. The list was lower from the start as it resumed its retreat of the previous session. Here and there some stocks held their own or even posted small gains, but the recovery movement was feeble. As trading entered the afternoon, losses worsened. Declines of fractions to two or three points appeared among the out-standing key stocks. Declines running to several points were shown by the high-flying glamor stocks in electronics, office equipment and aerospace.

News that housing construction in October had fallen to its lowest level in 20 years was a discouraging bit of news. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.4 at 297.7 with industrials off 3.5, rails off 1 and utilities unchanged. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 5.29 at 810.74.

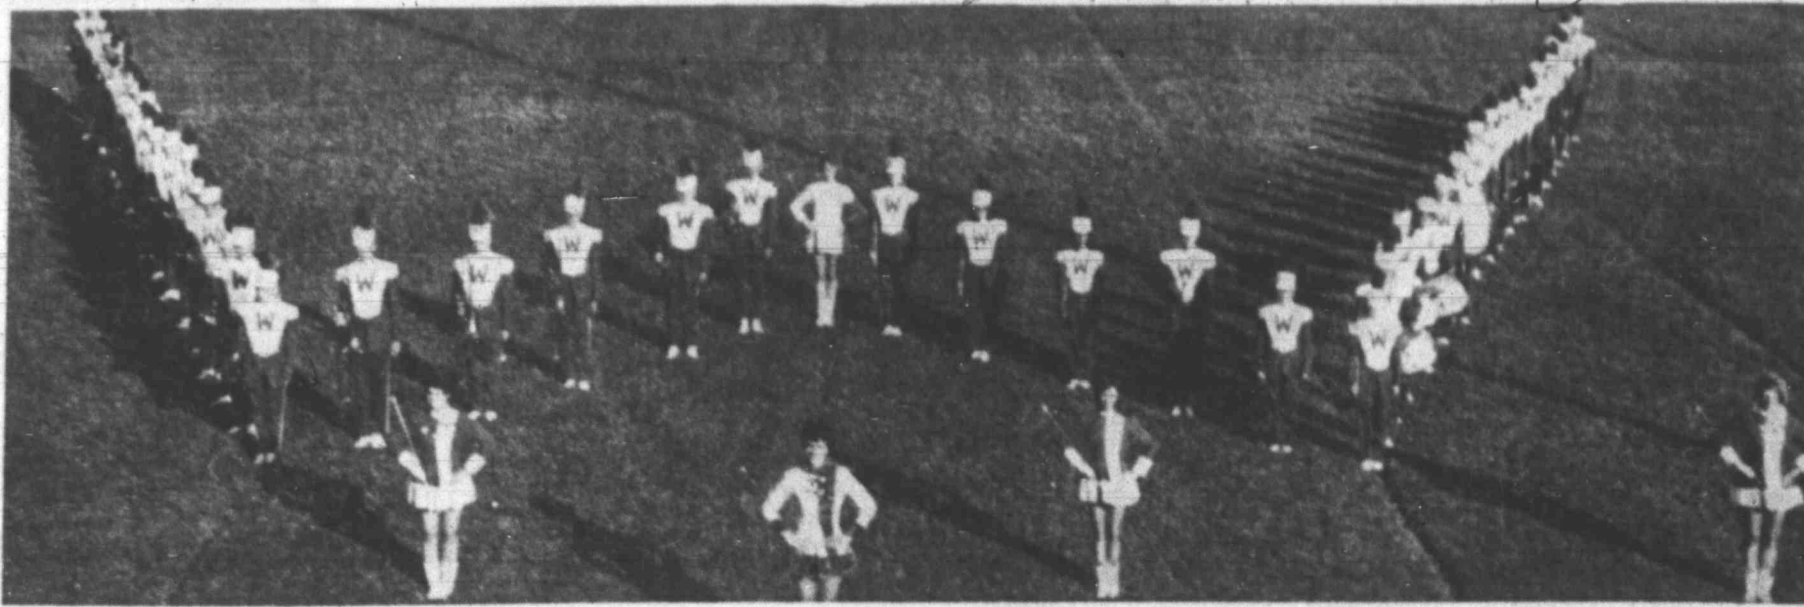

Among issues severely mauled Thursday, Fairchild Camera extended its loss of 19% by nearly five points; Motorola added half a dozen points to its drop of 10%, and Texas Instruments extended its decline of 15% by another point or so. Denials of rumors that there would be further broad price cuts in integrated circuitry did not help the stocks which were dumped so heavily in the previous session.

A bright spot was Tidewater Oil which advanced about five points on news it has offered to buy up to 1.1 million shares of its stock at $74 a share.

A three-point loss by Du Pont and declines of more than a point by Eastman Kodak and Kennecott dampened the averages. Xerox lost four, Polaroid, Boeing and Goodrich two each, RCA, M-G-M and Pennsylvania Railroad one each.

Gas Well Still Wild

DOWNSVILLE, La. (AP)—A wild gas well which forced evacuation of this little town was spewing violently today despite all efforts to bring it under control.

Officials of Butler Johnson, Inc., of Shreveport said they had called for Red Adair, a wild well specialist from Houston, to try to cap it. The new well blew out at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday. It was estimated the roaring plume of gas distillate amounted to five million cubic feet per day. Some of the 250 residents of Downsville returned to the area Thursday but sheriff's deputies refused to let them stay home. The well is on the outskirts of the village.

Attack Fatal To N. S. Spencer Sr.

Death from natural causes was ruled today in the death of Norman Spencer Sr., 69, of 2207 25th Street, Snyder. Mr. Spencer, one-time principal of Big Spring High School and dean at Sul Ross College, was found dead in his stalled car in a pasture near Vincent at 7 p.m. Thursday. He was the father of Norman Spencer Jr., Big Spring attorney. Apparently he had died of a heart attack. Mr. Spencer was found by James Barr, Vincent, and a companion. The car had plowed through a fence, and, according to Sheriff A. N. Standard, had gone about 500 feet inside the pasture. The car had only scratches and obviously had not been in a wreck—Jess Slaugher, justice of peace, returned the coroner's verdict, noting that Mr. Spencer apparently suffered a heart attack as he drove along FM 866 near Vincent. Officials surmised he was en route home from his ranch in northeast Howard County.

When Barr discovered the car and Mr. Spencer, he notified Standard. Big Spring ambulance dispatched a car and Standard, Deputy Lindy Oldfield, Highway Patrolman Jack White and Slaughter also went to the scene. The body was removed to Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Relatives said that Mr. Spencer often went to the ranch he owned west of Vincent and he was believed to have been there earlier Thursday before starting back to Snyder. Born in 1896, he was a veteran of World War I serving as a captain in the infantry. He was a member of the First Christian Church.

He lived in Big Spring in 1924-25 and was principal of the high school here. He held a Ph.D. from the University of Texas in Economics and was academic dean at Sul Ross College in Alpine from 1932 to 1940. In 1940 he moved to Stone-wall County to operate ranching properties he held there. He came back to Big Spring in 1946, living here until 1950 when he moved to Snyder.

Mr. Spencer was married to Miss Francis Jessie Anderson, July 17, 1926, in Canyon. Survivors include the wife, one son, Norman S. Spencer Jr., Big Spring; and one grandchild. He was a member of the First Christian Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Edith Trappnell, two daughters, Mrs. Dick Marshall, Lubbock, and Mrs. Wally Head, Big Spring; one brother, two sisters, and one grandchild.

COAHOMA CHURCH TO MARK ITS 75TH BIRTHDAY Present plant has served church since 1937

Coahoma Baptists Observe Diamond Jubilee Sunday

Members and friends of the First Baptist Church in Coahoma meet Sunday to commemorate the day in 1891 when 16 people met in the C. J. Robinson home to organize what they called the Central Baptist Church.

The Diamond Jubilee naturally finds the congregation in vastly different circumstances. Whereas, the tiny band met for the first year in the Robinson and F. T. Murray homes, the church now has a handsome plant at 205 South Ave. with an educational annex, plus an adjacent parsonage.

Membership now has grown to 485 with a Sunday school enrollment of 350 and attendance of 130-200. Since the beginning the church has had an active Women's Missionary Union and since 1938 a Brotherhood. It has the Training Union and most other organizations.

From 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. This period will have singing, special music, recognitions, plus reminiscences of former pastors and long-time members.

A year after the church was organized it began to meet in the recently completed school building. The first revival meeting was held in the shade of a grove on Hackberry Draw, and many families came in wagons pulled by oxen.

It was hard going then, but the congregation met regularly. In 1907, the name was changed to Coahoma Baptist Church and a building was erected on the south side of Coahoma. In 1915 the congregation moved the building to the north part of Coahoma, locating it where the Acuff Gin is now situated at 200 N. 1st. About this time the church acquired its first piano, and it also added electric lights.

CHURCH OFFICIALS

On the board of deacons today are Ralph White, chairman and one of the ranking members in tenure with 40 years, Clovis Phinney Sr., Worner Robinson, Donald Duke, W. A. Wilson, Earnest Richters, Ralph Williams and Dewayne Clawson. Those who hold key offices include A. C. Faulkner, Sunday school superintendent; Gary Culpepper, Training Union director; Dwayne Clawson, choir director; Mrs. Velma Woods, pianist; Donna Duke, organist; Mrs. R. A. Marshall, church clerk; Tommy Birkhead, Brotherhood president; Mrs. Kenneth Furlong is WMU president. Mrs. Marshall is the oldest member in service, having affiliated 54 years ago.

The pastor is a graduate of Howard Payne and Southwestern Seminary and has pastored one mission and four churches in his 18-year ministry. He came to Coahoma six years ago from Ryan, Okla.

JUBILEE PROGRAM

Former pastors, members and friends are invited to share in the commemorative services today, which will include a sermon at 10:45 a.m. by the Rev. A. A. Watson, Abilene, and one at 7:30 p.m. by the Rev. N. W. Pitts, Weatherford.

Another high point will be an all-church dinner at 12 noon, followed by a jubilee program.

NEW PLANT

The decision to build a new plant came in 1937, and when the old church was torn down, members met for a time in a store building. First service in the new church was held July 31, 1938.

Even so, it was something of a struggle for the church to progress, but it did, as evidenced by organization of a Brotherhood. In 1941, the church decided to set aside something for the cooperative program and raised its gifts from $5 to $8 per week. Two years later the church budget was set at $30.35 weekly. Today the annual budget is $23,000 with $3,680 going to the cooperative program.

23 PASTORS

Records are incomplete, but so far as is known, 23 men have served as pastor of the church. At least 28 have been on the board of deacons. In recent years, nine young people have surrendered to special Christian service, including Max Robinson, Darrell Robinson, Murphy Woodson, Paul West, Don Striden, Norma Spears, Gary Culpepper, Shirlene Richters.

Among those who have served as pastor are the Rev. Currie (first minister, and whose given name is not known), D. W. Adams, Rex Simpson, P. T. Hank, Jim Hull, J. Brown, W. B. Davis (1907), F. M. Rollins (1908), B. C. Shipkey (1909), Walter Smith (1922), E. E. Mason (1926), L. A. Thigpen (1929), W.

Rev. Arnett Leaves Post

The Rev. J. William Arnett has resigned as pastor of the Stadium Baptist Church, effective last Wednesday.

He became the first pastor of the church when it was organized four years ago and led during the construction of a new church home at 603 Tulane. During his tenure the church has had 32 baptisms and many more by letter.

Rev. Arnett said he had no immediate plans, but that he felt that after much prayer, the time had come for him to step aside. The board of deacons is to serve as a pulpits committee.

Rearred in Big Spring, where his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Jess Arnett were pioneer residents, Rev. Arnett spent his senior year in Midland, then took his degree at Hardin-Simmons University and attended Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth. He pastored at Caddo, Smith Chapel and Forsan, and during World War II was an Army chaplain. Called from Forsan to be missionary to District VIII, he served in this capacity for 17 years before retiring and accepting the Stadium call.

College Baptist Grows Again

When the College Baptist Church built a new sanctuary in 1964, the slogan the church used was, "Here We Grow Again."

Averaging a new addition to the church plant every two years, the church has now purchased a new building next to the present church property, where youth of the church will participate in various activities. Location is 1711 N. Monticello.

The sign in front of the youth building is unusual, as church signs go, for it has the mascots of the Howard County Junior College, Big Spring and Coahoma High Schools painted on it in the school colors.

The Rev. Byron Orand, pastor of the church, said that the sign was painted to show the youth the church is interested in them and in the things related to their personal achievements in school, especially.

"This new addition has encouraged us to adopt a new slogan," Rev. Orand said. "Don't Just Watch Us Grow—Come Grow With Us."

First Methodist Presents Bouchett In Concert Sunday

Richard Bouchett, organist of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City, will be presented in concert at the First Methodist Church Sunday at 5 p.m.

Bouchett, a native of Sweetwater, began his study of music at the age of six with piano lessons and gave his first full-length recital when he was 12. When he was in the eighth grade, he began studying organ, and within a year, he held the position of organist in the local Presbyterian Church. He attended Texas Christian University and the University of Oklahoma, where he studied with Emmet Smith, Adrienne Reinsner, Sylvia Zarembo and Mildred Andrews. In addition to his academic work, Bouchett was active in departmental and social organizations of the two schools.

RICHARD BOUCHETT

received the coveted Artist's Diploma in 1962.

At this time, he began his work at Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, taught at Westminster Choir College in Princeton, and began working on a master's degree at Union Theological Seminary's School of Sacred Music. He is presently a candidate for the degree, doctor of sacred music, at Union.

Recent organ study has been with Alexander McCurdy and Robert Baker.

This past spring Bouchett won the Young Artist's Competition of the Boston Symphony and will play in Boston's Symphony Hall this season, in addition to many other recitals throughout the country.

The concert is the third to be presented by the church since installation of the Reuter pipe organ in July of this year. The Rev. Leo K. Gee, pastor, has invited the public to join with the congregation for this special service.

St. Paul's Calls New Minister

The Rev. Dan Sebesta, who has served as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Eldorado for 7 1/2 years, has accepted a call to St. Paul Presbyterian Church here. He will move to Big Spring about Dec. 1.

Rev. Sebesta will preach his final sermon in the Eldorado church Nov. 27.

Rev. and Mrs. Sebesta came to Eldorado from the seminary at Austin in June, 1959, and both of their sons, Mike, 6, and Tim, 2 1/2, were born during his pastorate in Eldorado.

He is an active member of the Lions Club, was president of the Ministerial Alliance two years, served as a cubmaster and as chaplain of the Fire Department. He has also served as chapter chairman of the National Foundation for Birth Defects.

He received his master of theology degree from Austin in May of this year.

Struggle Through A Sea Of Grass

Waves of high grass, whipped up by the whirling rotor blades of their helicopter, slows down troops of the 1st battalion, 26th Infantry, 1st Division Tuesday after they were airlifted to the edge of a jungle patch

REDS RUSH REPAIRS

Foul Flying Weather Aids Viet Commies

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The North Vietnamese are taking advantage of the foul flying weather to rush repairs on roads, bridges and rail lines, U.S. military sources said today.

Rain and heavy clouds over the Communist North have kept U.S. air strikes to a minimum for a week. Bombing missions against the North averaged around 150 a day before the rains closed in. The number has dwindled to as low as 25 a day.

The sources said aerial reconnaissance, although spotty because of the weather, has detected definite signs that the North Vietnamese are making a major repair effort at key points along their supply lines.

pause at Christmas, in part because the North Vietnamese used last year's 37-day break to recover from the months-long pounding that preceded it.

These officers do not set the over-all policy. That is done at the highest U.S. government levels. So far, the prevailing opinion in Washington also appears inclined against another pause.

SPANS ATTACKED

U.S. officers voice grudging admiration for the ingenuity of the North Vietnamese in finding ways to fool U.S. bombers, at least temporarily.

One of the newest dodges discovered by U.S. reconnaissance involves use of mobile bridge spans. In a number of places, the North Vietnamese did not appear to make any effort to replace permanent spans dropped into streams by American bombing.

But U.S. photo analysis experts noticed fresh truck tracks leading to the blast bridges and away from them on the other side of the rivers. Closer study of the pictures disclosed wooden spans hidden in the water close to river banks but a distance away from the bridge locations.

After dark, U.S. sources said, the Communists apparently floated the wooden spans into place and ran trucks across them. Before daylight, the spans were hidden again.

Kiwanians Hold Chili Supper

Kiwanians and members of the Kiwanis sponsored Circle K Club at Howard County Junior College, Thursday stepped up advance sale of chili supper tickets in preparation for the serving of the meal at 5 p.m. today.

The chili supper (75 cents) will be served in the HJC Student Union building from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The Kiwanians, whose annual pancake suppers have become legendary in this community, hope to make their chili supper equally popular and enjoyable. Harvey Clay and Pete Hull, famous for their chili recipes, will be the chefs. The shutdown is set for 7:30 p.m. to permit football fans to get to the Big Spring-San Angelo game.

Program for the Thursday luncheon was under the direction of Jack Alexander, chairman of Kiwanis Education committee.

Brief classification talks were made by several of the Kiwanians, and the series will be continued until all members have opportunity to tell their fellows something about themselves, their businesses and their hobbies. Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, the club will meet next Wednesday.

Two Are Added To Fire Department

Two more firemen have been added to the force, but there are still two vacancies, Fire Chief H. V. Crocker said today.

John Lewis, 28, has joined the staff at the Central Fire Station and Edmon Bacon, 33, has joined the Eleventh and Birdwell Lane station staff. Both men are married and each has four youngsters.

Crocker said he is still taking applications to fill the remaining vacancies.

Firemen Seek Cast-Off Toys

Big Spring firemen have their paint brushes and tools ready for the annual Christmas toy campaign—they now need the toys to fix up for indigent children.

Fire Marshal A. D. Meador urged residents to bring old toys as soon as possible to any one of the six city fire stations, where firemen are ready to start work. Persons who cannot bring the toys may call AM 7-0683 and a fireman will make arrangements to come for them.

All kinds of repairable toys are needed, Meador said, as well as dolls. The toys needy youngsters request the most are bicycles and dolls. Even if some of the toys can't be fixed, the firemen can use them for parts, he explained.

Firemen have a large stock of parts, which they have purchased or have left over from previous years.

Most important, he emphasized, is that toys be brought to the fire stations early, so the men will have ample time to get them fixed and ready in time for Christmas. The repaired toys are turned over to the Salvation Army, which handles distribution to needy families.

Johnson Praises Tapioca Pudding

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson may turn out to be the best friend a tapioca pudding ever had.

He can't say enough for the stuff.

Take Thursday night. He looked at the big, fancy cake turned out by the White House chef for the 32nd anniversary of Johnson's marriage to Lady Bird.

"It is pretty," he said, "but I think I will have to have tapioca."

It was that way all day at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

FEWER CALORIES

In his hospital suite, the convalescent President told reporters he couldn't remember his menu — but "I know I had tapioca."

And off he went: "Tapioca has less calories than any other dessert that you can get and it has great advantages when it is made with skim milk and Sucaryl."

He said it is easy to make, filling, satisfying and low on calories.

BIG BATCHES

By Johnson's account, a heaping cup of tapioca has 109 calories; a serving of ice cream has 200 to 250.

At his anniversary party, Johnson sent for a dish of leftover tapioca and fed spoonfuls to reporters, pointing out the calorie count.

He said Zephyr Wright, the family cook, makes tapioca for him in big batches, and puts it up in containers.

Johnson said he takes them along when he goes to the LBJ Ranch in Texas — or goes to the hospital.

He said no one can match her tapioca.

First Jet Ace Traffic Victim

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Air Force Col. James Jabara, 43, America's first jet ace, was killed Thursday in a traffic accident.

Jabara became the nation's first jet ace during the Korean War, flying two combat tours and was credited with downing 15 MIGs. He also flew two combat tours in World War II totaling 403 combat hours, was engaged in 108 missions and was credited with downing 9½ enemy craft.

The Best In Bowling Is Offered By Bowl-A-Rama

The attractive, friendly atmosphere and fine folks at Bowl-A-Rama, located on US 80 east, are a winning combination as the 1,000-odd people who bowl there each week can testify.

Quality service and equipment in the modernized plant are two of Bowl-A-Rama's many features. Keith Henderson, manager of the Lubbock-owned bowling lanes, invites all Big Spring residents to come out of the winterish weather and into the relaxing atmosphere for individual bowling or for extra fun, party bowling.

The fall bowling leagues are still in progress, with upwards of 700 persons bowling weekly. In addition, there are three men's traveling bowling leagues and a few college leagues.

Not only does Bowl-A-Rama provide the most modern lanes around—shoes and bowling balls are also available to rent for a small fee. Brunswick is the type of well-known bowling equipment that Bowl-A-Rama specializes in, Henderson said. If you're hungry before you bowl, or perhaps after an exciting bout, stop by Bowl-A-Rama's spacious grill, where a variety of sandwiches and beverages, plus all types of snacks, await you.

And, for mothers who like to bowl with their friends, or for families that like to bowl together, as a group, a popular feature of Bowl-A-Rama is the free nursery, compliments of your hosts, Bobby Layne and Tommy Krueger Jr., owners. Don't know how to bowl?

That's never a problem—everyone can, and should, learn to bowl for healthful relaxation, the bowling experts say. Private lessons are available, and interested persons may call Henderson at AM 7-7484 to receive any additional information.

The youth bowling program at Bowl-A-Rama, known as "Taby," draws a large crowd of young people each year, Henderson said. The "Taby" program is instructed by Mrs. Ed Booth, who is assisted by six coaches, all of whom are certified annually through the Texas State Bowling Proprietors Association.

Bobcats Seek To Sew Up Crown Tonight

will likely try and take their vengeance out on the Steers. Big Spring will be trying to terminate a four-game losing streak and even its record for the year at 3-5. No one gives the locals much of a chance. The Steers, however, have a way of making it rough on the Tabbies. They get their back up at the mere sight of Orange, for some reason or other, and tonight they will definitely be looking at an Angry Orange. Legions of followers, a boatload of them, are likely to follow the Bobcats here in hopes of participating in a barbecue and watching their hopefuls sew up a spot in the Class AAAA cropper at the hands of Odessa Permian last week, 12-6. They

Star Lineman

Tim Smith (above) of Big Spring is one of the big reasons East Texas State University has clinched the Lone Star Conference championship this fall. Tim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Smith, has won a regular spot in the East Texas interior line. Coach Ernest Hawkins has lauded his play on several occasions.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Odessa Permian's 12-6 victory over San Angelo last week, not exactly unexpected here, was greeted around the Big Spring High School camp with mixed emotions. The loss cleared away for all time the aura of invincibility that had surrounded the Cats. For that reason, the local athletes are sure to approach their task with San Angelo here tonight with more self-assurance than they had this time a week ago.

At the same time, San Angelo will probably move into Memorial Stadium with the proverbial blood in its eye—and try to take out its frustrations on Big Spring. However, the Steers have shown an ability to take care of themselves at all times. They're tough. They're hungry. And they pull together. If the Cats let down in the slightest, the Steers could carry them to the woodshed.

The upset by Permian last weekend will have one good aspect on the game tonight: It should boost the crowd by at least a thousand and perhaps more. The Bobcats will bring a sizable delegation with them to see the Orange try and nail down a spot in the playoffs.

Big Spring's Benny Kirkland played a very significant role in East Texas State's surge to the Lone Star Conference title this season.

He took charge when regular quarterback Jim Adams was injured and played so well that coach Ernest Hawkins decided to leave him there.

Last Saturday night, Benny raced 25 yards for a touchdown that enabled the Lions to tie the Southwest Texas, 14-14, and sew up the league championship.

Kirkland has two more years of eligibility left with the Commerce team.

When the Philadelphia Eagles upset the Dallas Cowboys recently, Eagle defensive back Joe Sparpatti made the big play of the contest by stealing the ball from Dan Reeves.

Sarpatti said following the game that it was the worst play he made in the contest.

"First I let Reeves get away from me and catch the pass," Sparpatti explained later, "then I missed the tackle. That's how it was that I wound up behind him so that when he was being tackled I was in a position to try and steal the ball."

The play occurred with 1:24 left in the game with Reeves struggling for additional yardage at the Philadelphia 13. The Eagles won, 24-23.

One of the area's longest football winning streaks came to a halt last week when the San Angelo JV's defeated Abilene's JV's, 20-0.

Until the contest, the junior varsity at Abilene hadn't been beaten in three years.

When the next Rose Bowl contract is drawn, the TV loot will likely rise to $1,500,000.

The Cotton Bowl people should demand a recount, for they don't get anywhere near that amount from CBS. Fact is, most other major bowl games get more money for allowing their games to be televised than does the Dallas gem.

The total income for the Rose Bowl Classic, including the gate receipts, will rise to $2,500,000. For less than three hours of activity, that is a lot of money.

It's been possible to get tickets at the gate to home games involving the Chicago Bears this fall, and that hasn't happened in years.

The club has been a disappointment in NFL play, having posted a 3-4-2 record, but good years and bad in the past, the Bears could do no wrong in the eyes of the fans.

The fact that the country is being saturated by football on television this year as never before may be a factor, too.

Slow-Starting Buffaloes Win Over Lion 11

San Antonio Harlandale kept its undefeated, untied record intact while ruing that of San Antonio Brackenridge Thursday night to become the third district champion of Class AAAA schoolboy football to be crowned. Harlandale nosed out Brackenridge 8-7 to sack up the district title. Previously named district champions were Marshall and Spring Branch. Thirteen more will be decided tonight as the schoolboy campaign reaches its close in Classes AAAA and AAA. Class AAA already has named 10 district champions, leaving

Before the quarter ran out, Larry Callihan swept end for 25 yards and Forsan's initial TD to make it 8-6, Forsan.

In the second, it was all Forsan. The Buffs bruised to the opposition's 20, from which Callihan counted. A pass from Clayton McKinnon to his brother, Ray, added the two points. That made it 16-6.

Callihan ran 15 yards for another Forsan tally before the period was spent and Forsan was on Roby's one-foot line and driving when the half ended. Johnny Dolan's 40-yard scoring jaunt in the second was nullified by a penalty.

No score resulted in the third, as coach Oscar Boeker of Forsan was content to play his reserves.

In the fourth, Dolan counted on a screen pass, the play ending 30 yards. Tommy Girdner, Tommy Kirkpatrick and Freddy Willis did fine blocking on the play.

Later in the round, Ray McKinnon scored on a 40-yard play for Forsan but the play was canceled by a penalty. The Buffs came right back to count. McKinnon taking a pass from Jack Ellis for the TD. That play covered 55 yards.

Five seniors played their final game for Forsan. They were Ellis, Callihan, Ray McKinnon, Girdner and Willis.

Ellis earned another star for his helmet by making 16 tackles. Ray McKinnon gained similar distinction with 15 tackles. Willis had 11, as did Callihan while Kirkpatrick played an outstanding game as outside linebacker.

Queens Leave For Denton

HCJC's Jayhawk Queens departed this morning for Denton, where at 1 o'clock tonight they open play in the North Texas State University Women's Basketball tournament against the host school.

Other schools entered in the two-day event are Ranger, Tarleton State and Hardin-Simmons.

The Queens will carry an impressive 4-0 record to Denton. They will be quartered at the Holiday Inn in Denton.

Girls who made the trip with coach Juanita Sheppard include Sandra Gossett, Patsy Gooch, Sidney Black, Gloria Garcia, Alberta Demerson, Fay Langston, Sheila Powell, Gail Harding, Jodie Dodd, Susan Barker, Linda Long and Lawanda Zant.

In their latest start, the HCJC team defeated Weich.

HCJC Athletes Are Disciplined

Two members of the HCJC track and field team, Rodger Hill and Mike Gallagher, have been dismissed from school for disciplinary reasons.

Two other track athletes were placed on probation for the remainder of the term. The punishment evolved from a single incident.

Hill and Gallagher were sophomores. Hill was a valued member of the mile relay team and a specialist in the 440.

The scholarship help to the other two athletes were suspended but could conceivably be restored next September.

McCutchen Leads 4-B In Scoring

Doug McCutchen of Bronte, with one game still to go, leads the football scorers in District 4-B with a total of 165 points. McCutchen has scored 23 touchdowns, accounted for 19 points after-touchdown and added three field goals over the season.

The scorers through last week's games:

Porkers, Tech Cross Swords

LUBBOCK—Citing the Texas Tech-Arkansas game here Saturday as a contest matching the Southwest Conference's leading offense against the league's best defense is telling only part of the story.

Remainder of the tale is that offensively, the Razorbacks do not fare so badly.

Arkansas, fifth in the conference in total offense with a highly respectable 284 yards a game, has explosive power when it's needed.

Southern Methodist, for example, had a sturdy defense, but the Razorbacks slammed into the Mustangs for 339 yards in a 22-0 victory last week. Texas A&M wouldn't dispute the Razorbacks' offensive prowess following a 34-0 blasting in an earlier key game in the Southwest Conference race.

Arkansas' top rusher, Bruce Maxwell, ranks only sixth in the conference, with 276 yards. Add, however, 356 yards gained by the injured Maxwell's replacement, David Dickey, to Maxwell's and the combined total is second only to the output of tained by Texas' Chris Gilbert.

Quarterback Jon Brittenum isn't the busiest passer in the conference—his completion total ranking fourth—but he's the most accurate. Brittenum has connected on 62 of 125 for 51.2 per cent accuracy.

Martine Bercher guarantees the punt return as an offensive weapon, amassing 374 yards on 22 runbacks. Texas Tech's defense—despite recent stubbornness—is still the most generous in the conference, permitting an average of 340 yards a contest.

Texas Tech may have difficulty living up to its reputation as

Wertz Must Face Contempt Count

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wertz has been ordered to appear in U.S. District Court in Columbia Nov. 28 to show cause why he should not be held in contempt in a wage-and-hour case.

The order, filed in Florence Monday by Judge Robert W. Hemphill, stems from a complaint brought by the Department of Labor.

The complaint charging South-eastern Reconditioning Center, Inc., a Darlington automobile repair firm, and its operators, Raymond McIver Clanton and James Corbett Clanton Jr., with unlawfully withholding $19,788 in minimum wages and overtime from employees and with failure to keep required records.

Judge Hemphill said Wertz disobeyed court orders by refusing to disclose the identities of the persons who proved the information used as a basis for the charge.

Mass March Plan Nipped

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Student plans for a mass march in New Delhi were nipped today by police, who cordoned off the university campus and would not even let two students walk together.

By midafternoon, the only incident reported was a scuffle outside Parliament, the object of the planned march. This led to the arrest of 11 members of an opposition Socialist party. They were shouting antigovernment slogans.

The group had refused to break up after being warned of an ordinance banning gatherings of more than four persons. Officials were attempting to prevent a recurrence of last week's violence which broke out during a Hindu demonstration against the slaughter of cows — regarded as holy by the Hindu religion.

All schools and colleges in the city were closed for the day in order to prevent students from massing for the march. Police continued a close check on entry points into New Delhi to screen out any students coming in from neighboring states.

Shipyards Strike Could Affect War

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An electricians' strike opposed by other shipyard unions continued today in West Coast repair facilities after talks broke off in Washington.

Three days of fruitless negotiations ended Thursday. Both sides had been called to Washington Tuesday in an effort to end the two-week strike that could affect the Viet Nam war effort. Many ships under repair in the yards are used in the war effort.

In Portland, Ore., steamfitters returned to work for the first time since Nov. 4 following a Circuit Court injunction preventing their union officials from stopping the men from going to work.

More than 95 per cent of the machinists had continued to work in Portland and the majority of workers in the Seattle-Puget Sound area also have ignored the electricians' picket lines.

REQUEST IGNORED Although the electricians' picket lines have not been crossed at San Francisco-area yards, other shipyard unions have urged withdrawal of the lines.

William Cummings, head of boiler-makers union Local 10 in the San Francisco area, called the IBEW strike "irresponsible and incompetent," and said electricians international officers had ignored a request by the bay cities metal trades council for removal of pickets. Several vessels were transferred from struck San Francisco yards to Navy yards by the U.S. Naval Ships System Command.

Dentists To Aid Needy Children

DALLAS (AP) — American dentists, in what leaders called a "landmark decision," have voted to come to the aid of children suffering oral defects.

The new program will be called the "American Dental Association Health Program for Children."

The association's house of delegates called for pilot projects to be established, possibly as early as next year, so necessary information on manpower, administration and other data could be gathered.
