A Livelier Arena

The most changed element in the entire three-branch state government of Texas over the next two years will be the Senate. Lt. Gov. Preston Smith will be back to preside for a third term, but he, and the Connally administration, will face a greatly altered upper chamber.

The closely managed, conservativeto-moderate Texas Senate of a long series of sessions is gone. The dominant majority is moderate to liberal, with many team-players replaced by what now appear likely to be individual operators. The longtime rural weight has been swept away by a largely urban membership.

The reason is not a reflection of any dramatic change in the complexion of Texas politics. For the House still has a comfortable conservative-tomoderate majority, with certain-tobe-re-elected Speaker Ben Barnes apparently in firm control and in close cooperation with the Connally admin-

The reason is court-enforced redistricting, which affected the Senate far more than the House because heretofore the most populous counties could have only one senator each though nearly as many representatives as their populations called for. Redistricting shifted seven rural Senate districts to the big cities, and it forced new election (or re-election) of all 31 senators, who usually have stag-gered four-year terms. As a result, a third of the Senate in the 60th Legislature will be newcomers, though a majority of them have previously served in the House.

The new Senate thus is far less predictable than its recent predecessors. and it should produce more fireworks than Texas political observers have seen in years. But probably, after the early-session shakedown, it should be a more democratic body and perhaps even more responsibe to the Connally administration's program than the House. In any event, it will surely be a livelier arena of state government.

Saxon Era Of Banking Ends

been heard in conservative Texas banking circles last week when James J. Saxon retired as comptroller of the currency. The same relief may have been felt in other parts of the nation, too, since Saxon had kept bankers pretty well shaken up during the five years he served as comptroller.

J. M. Falkner, state banking commissioner, may also have been relieved over the end of the Saxon era. All too often the State Banking Commission, with Falkner's advice, rejected applications for state banks throughout the state, only to have Saxon approve a national bank charter for the same applicants. The authority of the commission and the commissioner was thereby diluted.

During his tenure Saxon approved

A collective sigh of relief may have the charters of approximately 500 new banks. He also approved the establishment of more than 3,000 branch banks by 4,800 national banks-branch banking is forbidden under Texas law. Saxon promoted something of a revolution in bank operations, too, encouraging banks to run travel agencies, sell insurance, service mortgages, run mutual funds and offer fac-

> There is just a possibility that this feeling of relief may be premature, however. President Johnson has named William B. Camp as Saxon's successor. Camp has been first deputy comptroller and is known as a "Saxon man." But he may be a little bit easier for bankers to live with than Saxon

But it is perhaps unfair to do this, because a careful analysis of all the circumstances will prove that political benefits or disadvantages are often a matter of coincidence with public events.

Thus, for instance, President Johnson abandoned the idea of stumping the country in the last week of the election campaign when he got back from his trip to Asia, and announced that he would be undergoing a surgical operation after the election.

ACTUALLY, Mr. Johnson could not postpone the surgery. His doctors told him it had to be done right away and that, in particular, he should not aggravate his throat ailment by extensive speech-making.

There are also those who have been saying that the trip to Asia by President Johnson was a grandstand play. They tend to minimize the importance of his mission.

PERHAPS THE most significant thing that has happened to emphasize not only the nonpolitical nature of Mr. Johnson's journey across the Pa-

Billy Graham

I am often called on to give talks in our church, and public speaking simply terrifies me. Before I give an address I cannot eat, and I am nearly ill with fright. I guess it is fear of failure. Is there any way to overcome this? L.R.W.

It may encourage you to know that most public speakers, including myself, are nervous before they address an audience. Preston Bradley in mastering fear, wrote: "I have known what it is to go into the pulpit full of fear. Sometimes I have thought I could not go out. But do you know what saved me? I substituted for the fear the constructive thought that I am attempting to do good, that I am attempting to be helpful, that I am attempting to be encouraging, that there can be no penalty for doing good. When my mind was flooded with this thought, fear was crowded

My experience is similar to the above. When I feel tense before an important meeting, with audiences of tens of thousands, I keep telling myself that I am not promoting Billy Graham, but that I am proclaiming the everlasting Gospel of God to hungry, discouraged and needy people. I think of what I am going to preach, and not how I am going to preach it. I think of who I am proclaiming and not who is proclaiming it. The Gospel is so exciting, so exhilarating, that I lose myself in the glory and wonder of it.

The secret is to get your mind off yourself, your limitations, and concentrate upon the message you want to get across. Thus, negative thoughts are crowded out by positive.

WASHINGTON - Some people see cific but the importance of a continuwas the announcement on Thursda that former President Eisenhower had visited President Johnson at the hospital and talked with him for nearly an hour about Asian problems. After the interview, Mr. Eisenhower merely said that he and the President had covered a wide variety of subjects and had talked primarily about Gen. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Viet Nam. Mr. Johnson stated later that he had also asked the former President "for his judgment on some of our friends in the Pacific and Asia."

> THE PRESIDENT presumably was anxious to get Mr. Eisenhower's evaluation of Gen. Westmoreland's recommendations for the prosecution of the war itself. Since Mr. Eisenhower is a military man and knows at the same time the reaction of the public generally to governmental action in the international field, the meeting furnished an opportunity for Mr. Johnson to get some helpful advice. For the President has to make up his mind soon whether the war is to be escalated further and what are the best ways to do it.

SINCE THE conference, it has developed that the President also took up with Mr. Eisenhower the possibility of a trip by the former President to Asia - including stops in the Philippines, Pakistan and Korea - and to other parts of the world. It was reported that Mr. Eisenhower is sympathetic to the idea.

The former President, it was revealed, had talked to Mr. Johnson about domestic matters, too, and had urged on the President a strong program of cost reduction and the need to take steps to protect the integrity of the dollar.

EVEN THE Eisenhower - Johnson conference will be construed by some persons as having a relationship to domestic politics. Mr. Johnson knows how important it is to get bipartisan support, particularly in the field of foreign affairs.

On the whole, therefore, while there may be some political implications in all these latest moves - national and international - the basic fact is that, on foreign policy, Americans tend to stick together in times of crises. Also, after an election the leaders of a defeated party are inclined to analyze the results carefully to see what les-

The Urge To Destroy

One thing and another: What defect is there in a person's character that causes him to want to destroy rather than build, to litter rather than repair? Vandalism is not a new human failing on this earth. On the contrary, the very word became a part of our language because of the looting and pillaging that went on in Spain, Gaul, North Africa and the sacking of Rome 15 centuries ago.

There is probably no nation on earth which now can more fittingly be called the nation of vandals than our present-day United States.

One can see examples of it on every hand, from the defacing that occurs on our public buildings to the wanton destruction that happens when racial strife flares up. The destruction of property is utterly without purpose.

IF IS DIFFICULT for the average mind, perhaps, to understand this urge to destroy. Sadly enough, we must accept the fact that there are those among us who despoil and destroy in order to fulfill their destiny.

And what a monument they leave to their existence.

DID YOU KNOW that, if the earth's history could be compressed into a single year, the first eight months would be completely without life, the next two would see only the most primitive creatures? Mammals would not appear until the second week in December and no human biped, capable of generating thought, would appear until 11:45 p.m. Dec. 31. The entire period of man's written history would occupy no more than the final 60 seconds before mid-

So you think you're indestructable?

WHEN BAD BILL Langley, the Texas bad man (portrayed on TV by one Rory Calhoun, who took some liberties with the characterization), went to his own hanging in 1877, after having dispatched 32 men, he was quoted as saving:

"I hate to die surrounded by so many enemies and so few friends. I know I have to die and I hate itwe all hate to die when the time comes - I have killed many men who hated to die as bad as I do."

Holmes Alexander Our Good Guy In Saigon

WASHINGTON - We should sing praises of the Honorable Henry Cabot Lodge, who soon may be terminating a long career. Having served his country in war and peace, in the sunshine of fame and winter of discontent, Lodge has proved himself wise in the Browning adage about "the last of life, for which the first was made.

ALL PASSION spent with defeats for his Senate seat in '52, for the vice presidency in '60, for a grab at the presidential nomination in '64, Lodge returned to an ambassadorship in the war zone of Saigon. There, as an elder statesman-can-do, he has repaid more than he ever took from the vanities and ease of public life.

IN A HOTEL room at Chicago housing the GOP Convention of 1952 Lodge once thanked me for a column-against his better judgment as he said at the time charming, cogent wife had made a rule, Lodge said, never to commend a writer for kind words, for it might put all concerned under awkward memories. I liked Lodge then and do now, but I did not like his treatment of Sen: Taft at that convention. When I later went to Boston to cover the race between Sen. Lodge and the young congressman, John F. Kennedy. I found more conservatism, more nationalism, more congeniality in the Democrat than in the Republican, so my opening column from Massachusetts came out more favorable to Kennedy, the challenger, than to Lodge,

IT MADE a friendship for me with the younger man, without forfeiting the one I had begun with the older one. But since I wished the Eisenhower administration to be rougher on Reds and much further to the right of center, I'm afraid I gave Lodge no later reason to bend his rule against thanking columnists for their compli ments. All the same, his name rides high on my personal admiration list-a very short one - and also should ride high on whatever roll of honor this country keeps for those who have served it in the clutch.

THIS LODGE has done, to much ignorant abuse and very little public appreciation, under two Democratic presidents. With his cultivation and advice, our fortunes in Viet Nam have turned from rotten to ripe. And if he gets a monument for his work, it could rightly be built around his own words in a recent interview. The whole of it bears reading in "U.S." News & World Report," where Lodge

"YES, WE HAVE reached a turning point. We did so in the President's far-sighted decision . . . to commit U.S. troops on a large scale here -which, as time goes by, appears more and more as a big turning point in history.

It will be history which Lodge helped considerably to write.

Big Trading Affects Market

NEW YORK (AP) - On the very day that a meeting was under way on the growing power of institutional investors 25 per cent of the stock in certain company was traded on the New York Stock Exchange

The amount was almost unbelievable. And it could only have occurred through trading by the big shareowners; that is, through activity of the institutions. Among these are mutual funds, pension funds, trusts.

THE COMPANY, Fairchild Camera & Instrument Corp., has less than three million shares outstanding. More than 562,000 of them changed hands in a few hours Nov. 17. The price plunged $19.62 to $106.75. About the same time, in an unrelated event, a speaker told the meeting on institutional investing that "apparently it is worrisome to the observers of the market to find we tend to buy and sell somewhat in unison.' The worry isn't confined to observers. It includes the exchanges, investment houses, federal officials and small investors. It includes as well the institutions, which have been proud of their role as stabilizers. SUCH DIPS would have been con-

"The name of the game today is he said. "All of us are members of analysts societies, and analysts trade information and judgments back and forth." But, he said, not the timing,

THIS BECOMES more important during the so-called performance mania. Institutions once held stocks for years. Now they trade in and out so that they can always show the best performance at any time.

The "unison" activity generally is not as evident as stock is purchased, for it can be accumulated slowly. But when it is unloaded it is dropped with a rush. Timing is important. Quickness in acting is essential 'The concrete information is on the sell side more often than on the buy side," said the mutual fund man. And frequently that sign is an indication that earnings might not be as good as anticipated. The institutions can be stabilizers, especially when they slow a rapidly declining market. But they present problems too.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Margaret Mead, despite or perhaps because of her gray hair, is one of the more relevant anthropologists around these days. This week, she struck an overdue blow at the social planners' obsession with brick and Dr. Mead voiced an opposite and equal reaction to that old warning about slums creating misfits: Misfits create slums. People accustomed to living in squalor are likely to have as much trouble adjusting to shiny new apartment buildings as the middle class might have adjusting to life in the slums. This is a major reason why public housing projects go down Yet it's not the conditions of the building alone but the conditions of life (hope, pride, morale or the lack of them) that create slums.

Margaret Mead says "the problem of slum dwellers is that they are mistaught and have to be retaught." She aggests reception centers and orientation programs for people moving into public housing. People need renewing, too. It's time that those most-interested in improving the quality of human life shuck their edifice complex

SPACIOUS SPECTACLE — Rocket "blasts off" from launching pad inside a giant "volcano" at the Pinewood Studios in England. The mammoth set was constructed for "You Only Live Twice," a James Bond film story. Interior is 126 feet high.

COLD EXPECTATION — Seems like cold weather is ahead from the looks of bundled-up rooster at Coventry, R.L. It's actually a metal bird atop a mailbox.

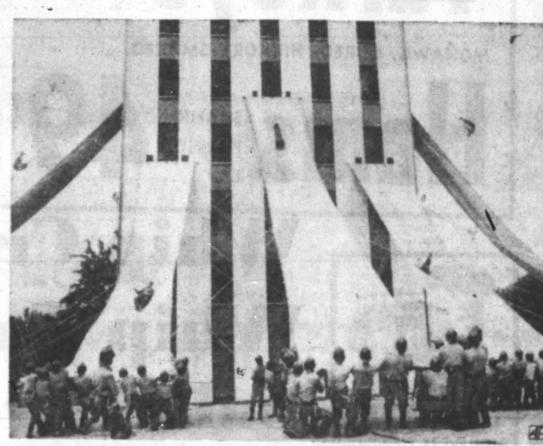

FLIGHTY PERFORMANCE— Actor Cliff Robertson frolics with friendly pigeons as actress Capucine watches during visit to the Piazza San Marco in Venice. They are among stars of "The Honey Pot," on location in the Italian city of waterways.

ROYAL GLANCE — A nude sculpture catches eye of Britain's Princess Margaret as she opened an extension at Liverpool Medical Institution in England.

Gen. Theodore J. Conway, U.S.
Army, has been named commander-in-chief of Strike Command, which provides reserve of combat-ready reinforcements.

DAREDEVIL DRILL — The members of Rome Fire Brigade Jump from building on to rescue sheets in a display of daring and fitness at training camp near the Italian capital. Drill followed swearing in of new recruits in presence of the Italian President.

MISSILE MINDED — Ronnie Hoff, 12, of Mansfield, Ohio, examines one of his balsa wood missiles. His "space shots" are 95 per cent successful, says his mom.

MATTER OF INCHES — The eye of girl looking at miniature motorcycle reflects size of the model. Built in the U.S. In the year 1880, it is on display in Paris.

ACTIVE PARTICIPATION — Could be a new twist in education as students go through drill during playground period at elementary school in Salem, Ore. They are practicing moves involved in high-jumping in preparation for track and field meet.

HIGH GOAL — Woodrow Wilson Sayre, 47, a grandson of President Wilson, hopes to climb 16,860-foot high Vinson Massif, believed to be one of Antarctica's tallest peak.

LOW LEVEL LOOK — Two U.S. soldiers, on pass in Viet Nam, get a cozy and low view of Saigon sights. They're riding in the "peddycab," powered by bicycle.

STRINGS FOR SPRING — The hats with spaghetti-like design are modelled during "Vienna Week" in Hamburg, Germany, recently. The styles are for the Spring of 1967. The stringy hats were created by Hamburg and Vienna fashion school pupils.

STAR REFLECTION — Actor Forrest Tucker, who stars in the ABC-TV comedy series, "F Troop," poses near life-sized bust of himself on Hollywood set.

MONSTROUS TASK — That's not a modern day St. George trying to slay the dragon, but helmeted Harry Burton sand-blasting bronze gargoyle statue in City of London sector of the British capital. The "beast" is on the London Temple Bar memorial.

Montana. Best last word comes to white (albino) buffalo. The doubtful one didn't believe there were white buffalo, and the oldtimer wondered what had happened to the white hide he'd seen in the early 1900s that belonged to J. Wright Mooar (likely a standoff with Billy Dixon as our top buffalo gun.)

"The white robe, now somewhat yellowed, is in a display case in the home of the grand daughter, Mrs. S. D. Hays Jr., on the old Mooar Ranch 10 miles northwest of Snyder. The robe is in remarkably good con-

"Mr. Mooar enjoyed showing it to everyone. Even youngsters who visited the ranch overnight were given the privilege of sleeping on it . . , and listening to the stories of (this great old hunter.)

SITE MARKED

"The site where the white buffalo was killed in the afternoon of Oct. 7, 1876, is marked today by a dead, fallen cottonwood on Deep Creek, 100 yards east and across FM Road 1609 from the ranch. The Scurry County Historical Survey Committee has been granted an official Texas Historical Marker.

"J. Wright Mooar claimed it was the only white buffalo killed in Texas and one of six or seven in the U.S. known killed by white men. The aloino was very unusual."

Wherewith, Mrs. Boren sums up for all of you from Grannis Arkansas' Mrs. J. S. McCright who recalls "standing barefoot on that robe" to Austin's Oklahoma-Panhandle-Native Charlotte Williams: "I don't know if there is a herd of buffalo in Texas now, but to see them graze in the Black Hills of South Dakota is something!

And old Banquete's Don Hedgpeth, lately back from Montana, forwards a Big Sky This white buffalo lived until the early 1950s near Pablo, Mont., on the National Bison and has since been mounted for the Montana Historical Society." You can stake out my hide

Crank Calls Dip

DALLAS (AP)-Annoying, ob-scene and crank telephone calls have fallen almost 50 per cent in North Texas since Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. laid plans to trap annoyance callers starting in mid-June.

Wayne Palmer, Dallas division manager for the firm, said new call tracing devices have been the major factor in the de-

Palmer said that more than 25 persons in North Texas alone had been arrested since the plan started.

Gee, Thanks, Officer

BEAUMONT (AP) - "You can't arrest me for drunk, I'm an alcoholic," the unsteady gen-tleman sternly warned Police Desk Sgt. H. W. Meek. "Fight," replied Meek, "we'll charge you as an alcoholic then they can send you to (the state mental hospital at) Rusk.' "Rusk? Hold it, sir. Anyone can see that I'm just drunk," was the man's frantic reply.

"Okay, we'll just put down that you're drunk and let you spend a while in jail," Meek

"Gee thanks, officer," the grateful prisoner grinned happily as the jailer led him upstairs to a cell.

♠K9753 ♥ 62 ♦ A93 ♣ 1052 The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1 NT Pass Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now? A .- Two spades, Under normal conditions, holding more than six points, you should pass the no trump bid for penalties, but in this particular case it pays to be a little more cautious, Since one no trump puts the enemy "out," partner may have stretched a point to double in order to put up some sort of fight. You she therefore, keep your powder dry by bidding two spades.

♠ 62 ♥AK1098 ♦ 753 ♣K95 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 4 Pass 1 ♡ 1 ♠ 1 NT Pass ? What do you bid now?

A .- Partner has announced a strong hand by making a free rebid of one no trump after the adverse spade bid. The suggested call is a raise of the no trump. With a timid partner perhaps to three no trump, with most part-ners a raise to two no trump would suffice.

What do you bid now? A .- Three hearts. This hand has splendid distributional values, and if a good suit fit can be found a slam is not at all remote. Partner's jump to two no trump does not deny possession of a four card heart sult and the temporizing bid is strongly recommended.

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. The four card major which you suppressed on the first round should be an-nounced at this point. This is preferable to showing the dia-mond support. If the bidding progresses constructively, diamond support may be shown belatedly,
