

'Nick Found Peace Of Mind In Gambling'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A cool breeze ruffled the black lace veil of a pretty doll sitting near the casket of Nick the Greek, the last of the high rollers.

"Nick found peace of mind in gambling," the priest was saying.

The sun gave a reddish tint to the bare treetops at Woodlawn Cemetery while several dozen guys stood on the dry grass.

They buried Nick the Greek, king of the gamblers, Thursday.

Nicholas Andrew Dandolos was 84 and nearly broke when he died Sunday night in a Los Angeles hospital.

But his friends couldn't bear the thought of Nick going to a pauper's grave. So he was buried in style.

BIG SHOTS PRESENT

Nearly 150 persons crowded St. John the Baptist Greek Orthodox Church for the funeral. Few were of the faith. Most were friends or acquaintances of Nick, who won and lost hundreds of thousands of dollars in his gambling career.

Ed Sullivan, television star and newspaper columnist, was among the guys there. City and county officials and leaders of Las Vegas' gambling industry attended. And there were guys who worked at some of the casinos who had paid Nick his winnings — or collected his losses.

The Rev. James Adams conducted the service.

H.M. Greenspan, publisher of the Las Vegas Sun who was one of the friends arranging the funeral, eulogized Nick as the man who epitomized Las Vegas. "If we are to confine Nick to the cold fastness of the grave without justifying the life he lived, we are talking of an empty and useless life," Greenspan said.

More Medals

Col. Bill Johnson, a native of Tyler, last July led the helicopter rescue party that plucked survivors of one of the war's bloodiest battles off No Nam Hill. The first thing he did when he arrived in South Vietnam was to name his helicopter command post Johnson City. He then started adding to his collection of medals for heroism stretching back through Korea into World War II.

Snow Squalls Sock Dakotas

By The Associated Press

The late December major snow storm has moved into eastern Canada but cold air today covered wide areas in most of the storm-stricken sections from the Midwest into New England.

Snow squalls, with high winds, continued during the early morning along the eastern Great Lakes to New England. Snow flurries flocked areas in other sections of the snow belt, mainly in the Dakotas and Minnesota and northern parts of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

SOUTHLAND CHILLY

The mercury dropped below zero across areas in the Midwest, including cities in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Nebraska. Near zero marks were reported in parts of Iowa and Illinois. Readings were in the teens in Kansas and Missouri.

It also was chilly in parts of the Southland, with freezing temperatures in the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia and Alabama. Near freezing was reported in Louisiana and in Phoenix, Ariz. The big storm dumped more than a foot of snow in some Midwest cities. The snow cover in mountain areas in New England measured nearly two feet.

GALE WINDS

But rain washed away much of the snow which belted areas in the East Thursday, including southern and coastal sections of New England. Rain splashed the Boston area, diminishing the snow accumulation.

Gale winds were clocked at 95 miles an hour at Blue Hill Observatory south of Boston Thursday.

Outside the snow belt, more changing to snow in the northern Rockies. Amounts of one to three inches were reported in parts of Idaho, Utah and western Montana in six hours. Showers sprinkled areas along the Texas Gulf Coast but clear skies prevailed across most of the southern half of the nation.

Elephant To Vanish In Smoke

NEW YORK (AP) — A seven-foot-high elephant is going to vanish in a puff of smoke before the eyes of television viewers Sunday night.

This may sound impossible, but Milbourne Christopher, master magician, is not at all worried about whether he can pull off this unprecedented illusion.

He's only worried about whether he can get the elephant on the stage before he makes it vanish.

Christopher, who has mystified audiences around the world with somewhat less formidable feats of legerdemain, is co-producer as well as performer in an hour-long show of magic on a Garry Moore special on CBS.

If he can get the elephant on the stage — it took hours to figure out a way during rehearsals — he swears he will stand 14 feet away, fire a pistol and make the elephant — plainly seen behind slatted gates — vanish in a puff of smoke.

If he goes, it will be the first time anyone ever did it on a brightly lit stage, and with a full-grown elephant in view.

Six Negroes Destroy Mural

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Six Negroes who stormed City Hall Thursday and tore down a controversial mural were being held today on a variety of charges, including grand larceny.

The men, all in their 20s, are members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, an organization which advocates black power.

They were arrested after they fled with the large painting, fought with police and finally attempted to destroy the canvas which they claimed depicted Negroes as being "despicable."

Police said the 4x3-foot, painting, valued at $15,000, was commissioned in the early 1940s by the city government. The picture shows two Negro minstrels performing for whites about the turn of the century.

$100,000 Fire Started By Thugs

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — A fire that did an estimated $100,000 damage Thursday was blamed on safecrackers by Fire Chief Harry Hebert.

The chief said the yeggs apparently left their acetylene torch burning near a wooden wall when they were started by an alarm or a watchman.

He said the blaze spread quickly through the Diamond Warehouse and its combustible contents of paint and lacquer. Port Neches, Beaumont, Orange and Port Arthur fire departments joined in fighting the blaze.

BAILS OUT CITY

Company Prevents Payless Paydays

ECORSE, Mich. (P) — This steel-making Detroit suburb of 17,328, where municipal expenses perennially outrun income, has been rescued from payless paydays for its employees — by its biggest taxpayer.

The No. 1 taxpayer is Great Lakes Steel Corp., and this will be its third bailing out of the city.

Great Lakes Steel has agreed to finance the city for the rest of its fiscal year, ending next June 30, but has tied some strings this time to the money it will advance.

BORROWED MONEY City Controller Charles Coman said the company, which contributes 88 per cent of the tax monies going into city coffers, laid down a requirement that it be permitted to review each week's payroll and expense vouchers before making an advance.

Great Lakes' first contribution amounted to $61,000 for Friday's payroll and $17,300 for this week's operating expenses. The preceding week, city officials said they borrowed $41,000 from other firms against their July 1, 1967, tax bills in order to meet the payroll.

TREASURY BARE Mayor Albert Budy said the city will need about a million dollars between now and next July 1, that the treasury is bare, and that the city faces a year-end deficit of $800,000, up some $400,000 from the preceding year.

At least a part of the city's troubles stem from a charter limiting the amount of property taxes it may levy. Now the limit is $20 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, with $12.50 earmarked for operating purposes and $7.50 for debt retirement. Residents will vote Jan. 24 on lifting the limit to a point where it may get up to $19.50 for operations.

Faulty timing led to the downfall of South's six spade contract.

West opened the king of hearts and South played the ace. A small heart was ruffed in dummy, the ace and king of diamonds were cashed as declarer discarded a heart, and a diamond was trumped in the closed hand.

South ruffed his remaining heart with the five of spades, and now he turned to the trump suit. The king of spades was cashed, followed by the seven. When only small cards appeared from the opponents, declarer finessed the jack in his hand. West produced the queen and the return of a heart forced out the ace of trumps.

Altho the club finesse succeeded and South cashed three tricks in that suit, West retained the ten of spades and ruffed the last round of clubs to send his opponent down to defeat.

North observed that his partner could have salvaged the contract by refusing the spade finesse and concentrating on the club suit instead. If South puts up the ace of spades and leads the queen of clubs thru to pick up the king, he can run clubs until West ruffs in with the queen of spades. The latter is restricted to the one trick, however, for declarer retains the jack of trumps at the end.

South did not, in fact choose the best line of play. He should lead the queen of clubs at trick two in order to first determine whether he has a loser-in that suit. If the club finesse succeeds, he can afford to follow his partner's suggestion and cash the ace and king of spades—relying on a three-two division in that suit. If the trumps behave according to expectation, he will be able to ruff two hearts in dummy and discard the other one on a high diamond. If the club finesse fails, however, declarer still has time to ruff out his losing hearts and then fall back on the trump finesse, in an attempt to bring in the spade suit without any further casualty.

Author-Editor Critically Ill

Harry L. Golden, author of several books and publisher and editor of The Carolina Israelite, was reported in critical condition at a Charlotte, N.C., hospital today following removal of an infected gall bladder.

DEAR ABBY

Let It Come Out In Wash

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother and his wife have made it a habit to "call on us" every Sunday. They arrive with their four children, "loaded down" with one quart of milk and a quarter of a pound of bacon (for eight of us!).

Naturally I can't just sit and watch her, so I pitch in and help. Now Abby, they live only 35 miles away, so do you think they really come to see us, or to get their laundry done?

DEAR FED: I doubt if your sister-in-law would respond to tact. But if you want to put a stop to it, tell her that you don't do your laundry on Sunday and if she does, she should do hers at home.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that thru the ages most men have treated their mistresses far better than they have treated their wives? What is behind this warped reasoning?

Naturally, since she gets the frosting on the cake, she is always good-humored, loving, and sweet-tempered. So the man who gets this kind of treatment responds in kind to the woman who provides it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy who needs your help. I have been going steady with a girl for nearly a year and I want to break up with her but I can't find a good reason.

DEAR RANDY: You have a good reason. But be kind. Tell Girl Number One that you think it would be better for both of you if you started dating others.

Uncle Sam Hoards Oil Land

TAFT, Calif. (AP) — For 54 years the federal government has been hoarding a $3-billion property in Elk Hills, Calif., hoping it may never have to use it.

It is a 98-square-mile reserve rich in oil deposits—one of Uncle Sam's most valuable pieces of real estate. Scattered across the brush-covered hills, 10 miles from Taft, are 1,032 wells ready to produce 230,000 barrels of oil a day.

But aside from periodic checks on functioning—and a short period in World War II—the wells are little used. They are America's standby oil pool for national emergencies. Probably only an all-out war would get the wells into production.

OIL PAYS TAXES The reserve is administered by the U.S. Navy and is overseen by Navy Cmdr. Justin D. Denman, a veteran of battleship, carrier and cruiser duty.

Assisting Denman is another Navy officer and 16 civilians. Then there are about a 100 persons employed by the Standard Oil Co.

serve, Standard Oil owns about 20 per cent. It owned all the land prior to Sept. 12, 1912 when Congress set it aside. Standard Oil is cooperating with the plan and draws only enough oil to pay taxes and operating expenses.

Kiwanis Prexy Trains Chairmen

Bill Johnson, president-elect of the Big Spring Kiwanis Club, conducted his committee chairman training session at the regular luncheon meeting of the club Thursday.

He read the 1967 objectives of Kiwanis International, then introduced each of his committee chairmen and discussed the duties of each committee. Chairmen were handed their instruction books and other literature.

Directors will meet Tuesday night at Coker's Restaurant to plan details of the annual installation dinner, a ladies night affair on Jan. 12.

Johnson will succeed Clyde Hollingsworth as president of the club as of Jan. 1.

DRY HOLES MISSED

So rich is the field that during a period following World War II, 200 wells were drilled without hitting a dry hole.

In fact, the oil workers produce $10 million worth of oil a year just in periodic tests of well equipment and in restricting losses from movement. It all flows into the U.S. Treasury.

The field figured in the 1923 Teapot Dome scandal that shook the administration of President Warren G. Harding. A Senate investigation disclosed that Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior, had persuaded the secretary of the Navy to transfer the Elk Hills and Teapot Dome Wyoming oil reserves to Fall's department.

Fall leased the reserves to private oil producers without competitive bidding. Fall said the royalties it could get before the field was drained by wells in the adjoining Salt Creek field.

Fall was convicted of accepting a $100,000 bribe from his former prospecting partner, Edward L. Doherty. Doherty was acquitted in the same court and before the same judge of giving Fall the bribe.

Fall the bribe.

Cold Water On Future Farming

Probably not many farmers in the High Plains were listening the other day when Dr. Gerald Thomas, dean of agriculture at Texas Technological College in Lubbock, gave them a grim reminder.

"We now have utilized 30 to 40 per cent of our underground water in the High Plains of Texas," Thomas said. "With the tremendous evaporation going on (all but two inches of the 18 to 20-inch annual rainfall evaporates) the recharge is a maximum of two inches or less, and the overall withdrawal averages one foot a year."

High Plains irrigators draw from the Ogallala formation, described by Thomas as "the largest single aquifer in the world." But even the Ogallala is not inexhaustible. As the water table drops steadily pumping costs go up. At some point the cost will

Something To Contemplate

Every now and then someone notes lugubriously that, with the world economy geared to war and preparations for war, world peace might bring a disastrous economic letdown. Though the dim prospects for world peace make the question somewhat academic just now, it is one worth thinking about all the same.

An abrupt slackening in demand for war material would doubtless cause severe economic dislocation. With adequate planning, however, a shift could quickly be made to meeting other needs. The human race is confronted with numerous problems whose solution could absorb the scientific and productive and organization capacity now devoted to the support, supply and deployment of armed forces.

Everyone is aware of some of these problems: Producing enough food and housing and goods and amenities for a skyrocketing population, relieving the congestion of great urban centers, controlling the weather, guarding against natural disasters, conquering the great killer diseases, and so on.

What if the ingenuity and resources now devoted to devising and making weapons were focused on these problems? Could they withstand such an onslaught? Peace, far from disrupting world society as many fear, would in many ways be its salvation.

William S. White Strong Man In The West

(For Marquis Childs, who is on vacation.)

WASHINGTON—One of the most irrational but nevertheless unshakable conditions of American politics is that news and opinion concerning it somehow moves more readily and in vastly greater volume from East to West than from West to East.

The consequence is that the political personalities and even attitudes of the supposedly more cosmopolitan and savvy East are given an undue prominence, and thus an excessive influence upon national thinking, that rests more on habit than on reality.

Twenty times more, for example, has been written and said lately of the mere possibility that Bill Moyers may some day become a rising young Democratic politico in New York under the sponsorship of Robert F. Kennedy than has been written and said of the hard, here-and-now fact that a notable young Republican political star has already arrived in California. He is Robert H. Finch, the lieutenant governor-elect.

In the old days and in old circumstances the election of some fellow to be a lieutenant governor somewhere—and surely anywhere in the West—would hardly alter the calm of the national political community. But times have changed and so have circumstances—and notably the circumstance that California has become the country's biggest and most important political state and is the locus, moreover, of a new and powerful grouping within the Republican party that may well dominate and will certainly influence the selection of the 1968 GOP presidential nominee.

The importance of Robert Finch is dual.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

In his book, "The Pleasure of His Company," Paul B. Fay Jr. relates a memorable conversation with President John F. Kennedy after the Bay of Pigs.

The President had been powerfully urged to move into Cuba full force and take over the country. He had stood up against the pressure, and an indication of how difficult this was for him is seen in the anger and frustration of his outburst to Fay:

"Nobody is going to force me to do anything I don't think is in the best interest of the country. I will never compromise the principles on which this country is built, but we're not going to plunge into an irresponsible action just because a fanatical fringe in this country puts so-called national pride above national reason... Do you think I'm going to cause a nuclear exchange—for what? Because I was forced into doing something that I didn't think was proper and right?"

What is crystal clear to a particular one-track-minded general, columnist, orator, or politician is not at all clear to the man of better balance, or the man with better information.

And yet the very positiveness, the very absence of any doubt on the part of the one-sided man endows his argument with a special force which the doubter finds hard to face down.

What Mr. Kennedy saw, and they did not, was the chance that they might be wrong, and the awful consequences of such an error.

Great victories, we suppose, result from a commander's persuading both himself and his troops that the right path is as plain as day. But peace, we think, is safer in the hands of a man capable of doubt.

—CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

Billy Graham

I am a 16-year-old, have confessed Christ as my Savior, but when the boys at school make fun of me, I am tempted to punch them in the face. How can I overcome this temptation to fight?

T.M.

I can sympathize with you, for I became a Christian at age 17, and I can remember I had similar feelings. You are not alone in this. Remember the apostle Peter, when the soldiers started to arrest Jesus, he took a sword and cut off the ear of a soldier. Jesus reproved Peter, and said, "Put up again thy sword into its place; for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." It is natural to try to defend your faith, physically. But it is not the way which Christ recommended. If you look at this same Simon Peter on the day of Pentecost, you will see a different man. Filled with the Spirit of God, he used another weapon against the enemies of Christ: the Word of God, and three thousand were "slain of the Lord," and added to the church. Let the Holy Spirit take the energy, and the zeal you have, and direct it toward constructive purposes. Then, instead of "punching" your friends in the face, you will "pierce" them in their hearts, and they will be drawn to the Savior you serve.

James Marlow Antifilibuster Battle Looms

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The start of the new Congress will once again find the Senate caught up in a tussle over its antifilibuster rule.

As usual, the battle will stir up a lot of parliamentary dust likely to obscure what both sides regard as fundamental issues. It also may put Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey — the Senate's presiding officer — on a politically sticky spot.

The dispute is over Senate Rule 22 under which a two-thirds majority of senators voting is required to cut off debate. Once the rule is put into effect, each senator's speaking time is limited to one hour.

In its present form this closure (debate-closing) rule was adopted in 1959. It was largely the handiwork of Lyndon B. Johnson, then the Senate's Democratic leader, and represented a slight modification of an earlier rule requiring a two-thirds majority of the Senate membership to shut off a filibuster.

With the beginning of each new Congress since then, a bipartisan group of liberals has led a fight for a change that would permit cloture to be imposed by three-fifths or a majority of the Senate.

For years they have argued that the two-thirds rule blocked the passage of meaningful civil rights legislation, forced the watering-down of other controversial measures and encouraged paralyzing filibusters.

SOUTHERN senators led by Democratic Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia have been in the forefront of those opposing any further limitation on freedom of debate. For this reason the issue has taken on a civil rights coloration.

But Russell and other senators from outside the South have contended what is at stake is whether the Senate will be subjected to "gag rule."

Much of the steam was taken out of the fight for a change in Rule 22 two years ago by the passage in 1964 of the most comprehensive civil rights bill in the nation's history. A South-

Hal Boyle Brooding Time Again

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — New Year's Eve is the best time of year for brooding and self-pity, says one of the world's foremost masochists.

"An annual orgy of self-flagellation," Dan Greenberg calls the holiday in somber appreciation.

Greenberg, a lantern-jawed young man of 30 with the most mournful face this side of a dystopic bloodhound, is the author — with Marcia Jacobs — of the training manual "How To Make Yourself Miserable."

One of the good things about New Year's Eve, Greenberg points out, is that you can start dreading it just as soon as Thanksgiving is over, giving you more than a month of unalloyed misery.

He ticks off what you can look forward to:

- "1. The inevitable impossibility of obtaining reservations at any good restaurant or show."
- "2. The prospect of being repeatedly jostled by drunken revellers or maimed by drunken drivers."
- "3. The humiliation of paying $15 to $30 per person for a glass of cheap champagne, an imitation TV dinner and two dimestore party favors."
- "4. IF YOU'RE single, as Greenberg is, you are permitted the additional anxiety that you'll end up with a date you'll be embarrassed to be seen with. Or maybe you won't be able to get one at all."
- "5. Last New Year's Eve, Marcia fixed Dan up with a blind date who spent the entire evening saying how accident-prone she was."
- "I was afraid to get close to her," he recalls. "Then we went to a party with wall-to-wall people, who kept telling each other what a great time they were having. It was awful."
- "Naturally he is suffering immeasurably as this year's great night draws near."
- "But he has the same alternatives as everyone else: '1. Deliberately ostracize yourself from your friends and be miserable alone, or '2. Put on a funny hat and drink too much with the rest of the group, postponing your brooding till the following day, when you will have ample opportunity to regret your behavior and be sick.'"
- "Greenberg finds New Year's Day an especially rewarding time for brooding if unrealistic goals are incorporated in New Year's resolutions, such as finding the perfect mate, the perfect job, writing the great American novel, and getting even with the telephone company."
- "Miss Jacobs, Greenberg's partner in literary wretchedness, is a sleek, 29-year-old brunette with bangs in her eyes. She says she learned about being miserable from the movie stars she got to know during her recent stint as a theatrical press agent. She married an advertising man last July and really isn't all that miserable."

Not Boyle, who usually writes this column, is on vacation.

To Your Good Health A Misconception About Cancer

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I understand there are two types of cancer, one that is treated with X-ray, and the other with surgery. Does one kind travel faster than the other? — D.Y.

No, that's not quite the way it is. Actually there are many types of cancer but for the most part what dictates the type of treatment.

If a cancer is found early and can be removed totally by surgery, that's that.

Sometimes a cancer is so located that surgical removal is impossible, or is highly dangerous because of risk of damaging other organs.

In such cases, powerful, concentrated X-ray beams can destroy the cancer cells while doing much less damage to normal cells. (Heavy X-ray bombardment is bound to do some harm, but cancer cells are far more sensitive to the rays than healthy flesh.)

Again, X-ray may obliterate a cancer with less scarring. Or, in still other cases, surgery to remove the cancer may be followed by X-ray as a precaution if there is any suspicion that some malignant cells may remain near the site of the operation.

For still another possibility, very useful, the process may be reversed. X-ray is used to shrink the tumor after which it can more safely and easily be removed by surgery.

In some instances a tumor may be inoperable, and may have begun to spread to other tissues. (Metastasized is the term.) In that case we know that it is bound to spread further and we cannot prevent it. But we can slow it down. In some instances, advanced breast cancer being one, a combination of X-ray and hormone or other medical treatment can be far superior to either method used alone. In the last 10 or 15 years there have been cases of women apparently hopelessly ill and bedridden and exhausted, who with this treatment were able to get up, put on weight, feel fine and be able to take care of their families. This is important to a woman who wants to live long enough to see her children grow up, and they especially welcome these extra years of active, comfortable life.

Thus there are many considerations, and the choice of X-ray or surgery does not indicate either the type of cancer or its seriousness.

Mononucleosis is primarily a disease of young people. To learn more about it, send in care of The Herald for my booklet, "Mononucleosis," enclosing with your request a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses their questions in his column, but because of the great number received daily, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

Around The Rim One Thing And Another

One thing and another: Did you hear about the Yank soldier in World War II who won the Croix-de-Guerre in France but he was so ugly they couldn't find a French general to kiss him?

I like the story about the minister who was out playing golf. When he hit a ball on one occasion, a bird grabbed it. It proved to be too heavy for the feathered friend so the bird dropped it on the green and the ball rolled into the hole.

Looking up at the sky, the minister said: "Please, Father, let me do it myself."

Visitors in Ireland this year are discovering that not only the Irish have the gift for blarney.

One tourist bought a miniature metal donkey carrying a set of salt and pepper barrels decorated with shamrocks.

Written in Gaelic across the donkey's chest was the legend: "An tseapain tir a dheanain."

An Irish friend was asked to translate the message for the tourist. The reply was: "Made in Japan."

SOME ONE once described diplomacy as the art of saying "Nice Doggie" while you're looking around for a stick.

Time was when creosote ranked as one of the top cure-alls in medicine. The healing powers of such things as tomatoes and petroleum were also extolled a hundred years ago.

PATENT MEDICINES still are big in America. In a single year, more than 30 million bottles of such things as Dr. Quack's Magic Elixir are still sold. Regrettably, some of the so-called medicines bottled for sale are just cheap liquor.

In the days before government control, plain or salt water were sometimes the only ingredients of the medicines.

MANUFACTURERS of television sets are currently working on sets with screens no wider than four inches.

A few of the viewers with whom I've talked say that — after having seen some of the new network shows that are being offered this fall — the manufacturers are moving in the right direction.

David Lawrence Ignorance Of Warfare

WASHINGTON — Pacifism theoretically may be tolerated as freedom of speech, but sheer ignorance of what happens in a bombing raid is inexcusable. Thus, twelve national churchmen, without a knowledge of the facts, denounced — in a letter addressed Monday to President Johnson — the military forces of the United States for having killed civilians in Hanoi, the capital of North Vietnam.

THE CHURCHMEN request the President to halt the bombing and make peace without any prior commitment by the Viet Cong or the North Vietnamese. They also condemn, in effect, as unbecomingly the American military forces to defend themselves against the enemy by bombing supply centers where some civilians may be killed.

MANY THOUSANDS of American and South Vietnamese soldiers have been killed, and there have been wanton, inhumane and vicious attacks on people in hotels and in private homes in Saigon as the Communist guerrillas have waged a savage war. But all this apparently is disregarded by the clergymen, who insist it is only the American pilots who must be humane and avoid any bombing whenever some civilians happen to be near a supply of guns that are later to be used to kill Americans.

Military targets, to be sure, are always vulnerable, and it is customary for civilians to be evacuated from such areas during any fighting. So it seems strange that 12 churchmen now are accusing their own government of deliberate acts of inhumanity.

THE DEFENSE Department is, in effect, criticized in the churchmen's letter for trying to explain the complex problems involved in attempting to carry out bombing operations without hurting civilians. The Department, for instance, said that some civilian damage is especially hard to avoid when the "North Vietnamese deliberately emplace their air-defense sites, their dispersed petroleum, oil and lubricant sites, their radar and other military facilities in populated areas, and indeed sometimes on the roofs of government buildings."

THE CHURCHMEN, however, continue to infer that the American government has been endeavoring to mislead the public by false statements. When first reports come in, of course, the assumption of officials who are at headquarters is that the airman have carried out their orders to avoid hitting civilians. But later on, when the bombs have been dropped, it becomes known that areas near the targets may have been hit, too. These are the accidents of air warfare. There probably hasn't been a bombing in which some civilians who were inside a military zone didn't suffer damage.

THIS IS becoming the strangest war in history. To give aid and comfort to the enemy used to be called treason. Today it is described as righteous protest. The American people are constantly being urged to ignore all the sacrifices that have been made for a moral principle — to repel the aggression of those who would enslave a helpless nation.

For the United States to abandon such an objective and go cravenly to the peace table with a virtual offer to surrender could encourage the Communists in both Asia and Europe to take steps which would lead to a third world war and an enormous loss of life.

THERE ARE clergymen in America who evidently think that Communist commanders are humane, that their forces in Vietnam didn't violate the Christmas truce this year or last year and that they never kill any civilians in their raids, skirmishes and midnight assaults in South Vietnam. This is an example of what has been called the "valor of ignorance." Publishers Newspaper Syndicate agent

Holmes Alexander History Will Overcome Present Taint

WASHINGTON — Not since the abdication of Britain's King Edward VIII has there been such a public washing of the royal linen as the Kennedy survivors performed in the closing months of 1966.

Like the self de-thronement of the British monarch some 30 years ago, this American rapture of high level privacy and legend involves a beautiful and willful woman and her Prince Charming, a constitutional crisis over the transfer of power, a massive but futile attempt to muzzle the press and finally gobs of gossip for the simple folks to abide outside the walls of Camelot.

EVERYBODY WITH access to a typewriter has served as a volunteer juror in the case and I say that the service has pretty well divided the men from the choir boys, the genuine inklingers from the incense throwers. There was manly, dignified, well informed comment which appraised the behavior under stress of the Kennedy clan and President Johnson, but there were also mawkish, degrading and narcissistic exhibitions, which betrayed one or two writers in the role of professional-mourners and chain-of-the-leg retainers.

THESE SORRY mendicants and mercenaries, it seems to me, are the only persons in the entire go-round to have suffered loss of face. The principles of the Dallas tragedy and its aftermath of December '66 have emerged not only unscathed, but deeply humanized. It may take a few months and a full consideration of what will have been published and left unpublished, but I cannot believe that Mrs. Kennedy and President Johnson or any loyalist to either of these reigning houses will have to endure any degradation in the hearts of their countrymen — although it's certain that Kennedy haters and Johnson haters will do their worst.

THERE WILL be no lasting de-facement of our mental portraits of these people. There is too much good will on deposit to allow such a sacrifice. I will never forget the occasion when Sen. Jack Kennedy drew me out of a crowd and introduced me to his winsome lady. Later, I was not at all surprised at her gallant public performance on stage throughout the tragedy, and not at all disillusioned to learn that backstage, she was the bitter, impassioned, temperamental queen of sorrow. It doesn't seem within the sterling character of the American people that they won't understand and sympathize with her, and, if it comes to that, forgive anything that Jackie has said or done in the extended circumstances of her soul-shattering experience.

NOR WILL there be no denigration of Lyndon Johnson's personality, for he is protected by the same armor of affection and admiration that surrounds the Kennedy widow. The accusations that the new President was boorish and inconsiderate at the time of the tragedy, just won't stand up to the memories that so many of us have of the man. LBJ is bossy and take-charge, brooding and impulsive, very big both in physique and emotion, but he could not be callous and over-bearing for more than a few minutes a day.

I KNEW FROM intimate knowledge that Johnson's resentment during the vice presidency was not directed toward President Kennedy, but toward the palace guard that surrounded JFK. One afternoon, dropping in on Johnson at the Capitol, I was invited to continue our talk in his limousine and he told me with pride that this would make the third time that same day that President Kennedy had sent for him to get advice and assistance.

ON ANOTHER afternoon, he unloaded his anxiety over the Bay-of-Pigs catastrophe and asked me to prepare a written memo on what he might do to improve the collapsing prestige of the administration in which he was only Number Two.

These are one reporter's reminiscences, but they do exist galore in the minds of hundreds, even thousands of Americans who have known the Johnson friendship. I don't see how anybody with a smattering of Kennedy-Johnson recollections over the years can doubt that the goodness in the widow and in the President will soon lead to oblivion all that has been unpleasant in the recent past.

The Fleet's In

When the mammoth fleet of trucks is in at Clyde McMahon's Concrete Co., it is a big view of ready service to the construction industry in the Big Spring area.

McMahon Concrete Co. Can Help You Plan Your Job

Thinking of putting in a concrete drive or possibly adding a room to the back of your home? The Clyde McMahon Concrete Co., 605 N. Benton, has all the tools needed for "doing it yourself."

Huge mixing hoppers have been set up on the lot where trucks just back under the chutes and load in a hurry. These provide the proper mixture for all kinds of jobs, including foundations, bridges, curbs and gutters, street pavement and anything else needed if built with concrete.

The firm features White-man finishing machines and tools to complete the work on the poured concrete. Rotary blades finish off the mixture to the proper surface far different from when it was formerly done with trowels or a piece of "two by four."

McMahon's also handles Eveready brick saws and blades, expansion joint material, wire mesh for re-enforcement, steel rods, Richmond snap ties, Remington stud drivers for driving studs of nails into concrete, wheel barrows for brick, tile or concrete, vibrators for settling and eliminating air pockets in concrete pourings, and all types of small tools for concrete or mason work.

The plant, located on the Snyder Highway just north of Big Spring, is open daily from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. except on Saturday, when hours are 7 a.m. to noon. There is a competent staff of employees to help customers with all types of service.

Convenient Place To Eat

The Wagon Wheel Restaurants offer convenience and good food when you are planning to eat out. Take the family to one of the Wagon Wheel Drive-in restaurants. There are three locations for convenience in getting there, and no matter what the family has decided to eat, it will be prepared in the best manner possible for their enjoyment. Make it a point now to eat out soon — and eat at one of the Wagon Wheel Drive-ins.

Phillips Tire Stands Behind Fisk Premier

Some tire salesmen know little more than the basic conception that a tire is round and has a hole in the center. This is the point where a person needs a professional, and this is the point where the Phillips Tire Co., 311 Johnson, has been stepping in for the past 23 years.

Ted Phillips, owner and operator of the Phillips Tire Co., has been placing his knowledge of tires and a tremendous service effort behind every top quality Fisk tire he sells.

The Fisk tire, known as the Fisk Premier, is the safety tire of superior durability. Engineered with four piles of powerful, pressure-cooled nylon, the Fisk Premier has proved new high speed safety. The tire has been tested in corner, tracking, lane changing, passing and parking. This recently-proved control has been attributed to the wrap-around shoulder sureness on curves.

State National Bank Offers All Your Banking Services

The State National Bank of Big Spring is a convenient place to do all your banking business. One of the many features of the State National is an easily-accessible all-night deposit facility. It is located in the north wall of the newer addition of the bank in a well-lighted area. A sign shines brightly to make it easier to locate. You just drive up, drop in your deposit and you're on your way again.

It is easy to use. There is no key required. Just pull down the bar marked "envelopes" and insert the deposit in the opening. The deposit immediately drops into a safe within the bank as the bar is released.

The depository is in addition to the drive-in windows on the north side of the bank for more convenient banking-hour business by those who drive up, do their banking, and drive off, regardless of how they are dressed. Just one of the many continuing steps made by State National to keep just a little ahead of the time with conveniences for customers.

These courtesies and conveniences have been the steady growth of the oldest bank in Big Spring. It is home owned and operated.

So drop by the State National Bank for all your banking needs.

MR. AND MRS. J. F. SKALICKY

J. F. Skalickys Will Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Skalicky, who reside at 1623 E. 17th, long-time local residents, will observe their golden wedding anniversary Saturday, a full 50 years since their wedding on Dec. 31, 1916, in Colorado City.

Mrs. Skalicky is the former Miss Minnie Green, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Green of Colorado City. When she was in her late teens, her uncle owned a grocery store here which was approximately where the Walton Morrison law offices are located now. It was there that she was introduced to Skalicky, a young employee of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, and they were married a year later in her parents home by the late Rev. W. D. Williamson. Their attendants were Miss Ethel Dyas, now Mrs. W. M. Gordan of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Nathan Miller.

Area Families Go On Hunting Trip

KNOTT (SC) — Taking a hunting trip to Mason are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sample, Mr. and Mrs. Wimp Holcomb of Flower Grove, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Parker.

Recent guests of the Fred Parkers were Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Ralph White, Coahoma, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Parker, Ackerly. Mrs. Fred Parker is a patient in Hall - Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Clay, Seminole, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Gaskins. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl McKee, Vealmoor, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Metcalf, Coahoma. The Clays are new residents in the Midway community.

where which was approximately where the Walton Morrison law offices are located now. It was there that she was introduced to Skalicky, a young employee of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, and they were married a year later in her parents home by the late Rev. W. D. Williamson. Their attendants were Miss Ethel Dyas, now Mrs. W. M. Gordan of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Nathan Miller.

In detailing the wedding, the Colorado City paper noted that the young people left on the evening train for their new home in Big Spring, and "The Record, with their other friends, wishes them a useful, prosperous and happy life."

The Skalickys recall that the trip took more than an hour's time so they left Colorado City in 1916 and arrived in Big Spring in 1917.

The Skalickys are parents of two boys, James Skalicky and his wife, Maria, live in Lancaster where he is a B-70 supervisor in flight testing for the North American Aviation Company. The other son, Ray, lives here with his wife, Jo Ann, and works as a car inspector for the Texas and Pacific. There are two grandsons, Dale and Bruce, and one great-granddaughter, Stacey Marie. The J. F. Skalickys' only daughter died in infancy.

Skalicky remained with the railroad until his retirement in 1964, and they have made their home in this area the entire time. They are members of the First Baptist Church where she is active in the TEL Sunday school class. IN SWINGING LONDON

First 'Long Winter' Of World's Shortest Skirts

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — The dolly girls of swinging London are ushering in the first long winter of the world's shortest skirts.

All over London, thousands of English girls slip to work showing vast expanses of sheer-stocking bare skins.

And on this misty, chilly, soggy, island, that's not style — it's sheer courage. Or craziness. Or both.

How do they do it? A personal poll of some of the pretties revealed a lot.

They do it because the clothing manufacturers actually brought back old-fashioned underwear, craftily camouflaged as a space age style gimmick.

Called tights, they're really fashionable longjohns from long ago.

Sold in a multitude of colors, with silver the most favored, they begin at milady's toes and, hugging flesh every inch of the way, stretch upward to clutch her waist.

These smarted-up longjohns, which could more properly be called longjills, retail in a variety of designs — diamonds, flowers, vines, birds, boats, bees, serpents, dragons, flamingoes, spiders and just plain old fisherman fish nets.

The all-enveloping body stocking, reaching from tootsies to topsies, is another comforting gadget for winter.

In Britain's wintry blasts, however, tights and body stockings are not enough. Beneath the tights and body stockings, in the middle altitudes, the girlies wear a shortie version of real heavy drawers, disguised as tailored briefs or panties.

London designer Mary Quant has introduced knickers to match minidresses and miniskirts. These are really streamlined bloomers from yesteryear.

Let no one ever say the British dollies wear no more beneath their miniskirts than the Scot is supposed to wear beneath his kilt.

TOPS Club Reports On Activities

Mrs. Herbert Doering presided during the Thursday evening meeting of the TOPS Plate Pushers at the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

During the business meeting, Miss Margaret Cockerham was elected to fill the vacancy of historian, and Mrs. Johnny Herbert reported on delivering a Christmas basket to a needy family.

Mrs. Doering, Mrs. Raymond Washburn and Mrs. Herbert reported on judging holiday decorations at the state hospital, and a program was given on group therapy.

Members were reminded that Jim Gilbert of the Young Men's Christian Association will be guest speaker at the Jan. 5 meeting. The meeting place will be set at a later date.

Teenagers Take Part-Time Jobs

More teenagers worked at part time jobs last year than they did in 1955, despite the fact that jobs are supposed to be harder to come by. For the record — 49 per cent boys in 1965 as opposed to 35 per cent in 1955; 30 per cent girls in 1965 as opposed to 22 per cent in 1955.

Gabardine Fabric Makes Raincoats

Stretch gabardine is a fabric most of us became acquainted with when it was used for pants several years ago. Now stretch gabardine has a brand new application in raincoats. But oddly enough the stretch factor has no function at all.

What counts in this fabric is its firm stable hand, rigid enough to hold the shape of the new tent coat silhouettes with no wilt, droop, or wrinkling.

Priest Seeks To Solve What He Calls Internal Injustice

By TERRY MCINNES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Rev. Lester Kinsolving has little patience with what he calls injustices and pettiness in his church and has organized a clergy's union to change things. The 39-year-old Episcopal priest, the son of a bishop, is one of a new breed of clergy-men who work outside the traditional job of shepherding a flock in an assigned parish. Kinsolving shies away from the word "union" in describing his recently incorporated Association of Episcopal Clergy. "Rather," he said in an interview, "it is a vocational association modeled after the American Bar Association or the American Association of University Professors."

the association to fight for," he said, "because the church is analogous to a large corporation with 10,000 graduate executives and no personnel department." In his view, injustices range from the administration of the pension fund for widows to salaries paid clergymen. "Widows of priests are paid one-millionth of the fund's total assets per month," the priest said. The fund, Kinsolving said, totals $160 million and pensioners "receive an average of $153 a month." "The church pension fund is operated in a manner approved by the general convention," said Bishop John E. Hines, leader of the church's clergymen. "Some church institutions are subject to criticism by people who think they can run them better."

his newspaper work and by writing magazine articles. "One goal we have is to create conditions where a priest has the freedom to express his personal convictions in sermons to his congregation. With the present lack of freedom, priests are leaving the parochial ministry to work in schools, administration and in special projects such as civil rights," he said. "The association is growing slowly," Kinsolving said. "We have 150 members from all over the United States, representing 23 dioceses."

MANY TALENTS
A man of energy, he writes a weekly religious column for the San Francisco Chronicle, works as a reporter for the newspaper, campaigns for reforms in California's abortion laws and is president of the new priests' association. "There are many causes for Bishop Hines has described Kinsolving's association as "outside the nature of the church." The association also is campaigning for higher pay for priests. Kinsolving supports himself, his wife and three children by

Berea Baptist To Welcome New Year

Berea Baptist Church, 4204 Wasson Road, has scheduled Watch Night services Saturday beginning at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. J. F. Fields will bring the opening devotion, followed by a 30-minute religious film, "Vietnam Profile," on missionary work. A fellowship period will follow and then the concluding prayer service.

College Baptist Sets Watch Night

Saturday from 9 p.m. until midnight are the hours set for the College Baptist Church "Watch Night Party." An evening of fun awaits both children and adults, and the church nursery will be open for small children. Friends as well as members of the College Baptist Church are invited. "Our regularly scheduled worship services will take place Sunday, even though it is New Year's Day," said the Rev. R. Byron Grand, pastor of the College Baptist Church. Sunday School will be at 9:45 a.m. followed by the morning worship at 11, and Training Union at 6:30 p.m. will precede the evening worship service at 7:30.

THE IMPORTANCE OF GETTING READY FOR LIFE'S WORK

The vital importance of getting ready for any great undertaking is brought into focus in the Sunday School lesson, "Time of Preparation." Focal passages are found in Luke 3:21-22 and Luke 4:1-13. There are two major steps here. The first is baptism, marking the initiative of Jesus and the response of God. Christ is obedient unto the act by which men and women would be identified with his Church. The second is the temptation. It is significant that Jesus faced temptations as each of us, and to speculate that He could not have yielded is to miss the point of His humanity. Three temptations — to the flesh, to desire, to pride — are enumerated. But these are only typical, for remember the Lord was tempted for 40 days, but in His steadfastness He pushed back the tempter. To overcome temptation is to strengthen faith, and this will prepare us for greater victories. (Daily Bible readings: Monday—Luke 3:1-4; Tuesday—Luke 3:7-14; Wednesday—Luke 3:15-22; Thursday—Luke 4:1-15; Friday—John 1:29-37; Saturday—Malachi 3:1-4; and Sunday—Isaiah 4:1-5.)

Choir Has New Robes

The new year will be off to a good start for the College Baptist Church sanctuary choir, which has just received 34 new robes and stoles. These were made possible by the plus contributions of many of the church members. The congregation saw the new robes for the first time at the presentation of the cantata, "Carol of Christmas," under direction of James Stephens, minister of music and education. Those out of town then will have their first opportunity to see the new vestments at the Sunday services. Shown wearing the robes are Mrs. Bill Sheppard, Mrs. Jimmy Huckaby, Mrs. Preston Adams, Mrs. Bill Blalock and Mrs. Fred Phillips. (Photo by Frank Brandon)

Systematic Plan Will Help In Reading Entire Bible

There is no habit one might form that will do more to ease the strain and tension of life today than the regular reading of the Scriptures, because there is a power resident in them found in no other book. Often included in New Year's resolutions is one to read the Bible through, but because there is no systematic plan of reading, the effort is soon abandoned. The following outline is simple, and with a few minutes each day, one can read through the entire Book in a year. Cut this out and paste in your Bible and begin the reading for 1967: (Explanation on January 1, read to Gen. 4; on January 2, from Gen. 4 to Gen. 8; on January 3, to Gen. 11, etc.)

Table with columns for months (JANUARY, FEBRUARY, MARCH, APRIL, MAY, JUNE, JULY, AUGUST, SEPTEMBER, OCTOBER, DECEMBER) and corresponding Bible chapters/verses to be read.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Man of the Years

- For his earnest devotion to a duty that is everyone's...
- For his faithfulness in exercising the most precious freedom of all...
- For his resolute courage in the face of dangers real and imagined...
- For his honest appraisal of his human strength, and his humble trust in God...
- For his deep insight into the needs of mankind, evident in his support of unselfish causes...
- For his friendliness as a neighbor, his loyalty as an employee, his integrity as a community leader...
- For his family's response to his own Christian example, and their participation with him in the life of the Church...
- For his readiness to share with you and me the faith that lives in his heart...
