Baker Linked To Conspiracy?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government produced checks of various companies today made out to Wayne L. Bromley, a Washington attorney and former associate of Bobby Baker. Prosecutors in Baker's trial in U.S. District Court here apparently were laying a foundation for the charge of conspiracy against Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats, who also is charged with income tax evasion and other offenses. One of the indictments charged that Baker, Bromley and Clifford Jones, former lieutenant governor of Nevada, conspired to defraud the United States in its tax collecting function through concealment and misrepresentation. $31,500 PAID The conspiracy was designed, the indictment said, to conceal the nature, purpose and intended recipient of payments made by five companies, purportedly to Bromley but actually to Baker.

15,000 Gls Face Action In Rice Bowl

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A detachment of American support troops — engineers, signal and security forces — has set up shop in the Mekong River delta in a movement expected to commit at least a 15,000-man U.S. infantry division to the war in that waterlogged rice bowl. The U.S. Command announced today the detachment moved to an area on the My Tho River at Dong Tan — about five miles southwest of the town of My Tho and 40 miles southwest of Saigon — and "is continuing preparation of the base site." The long-heralded shift of Americans to the thickly populated delta, which could contribute to making 1967 the bloodiest year of the Vietnam war, developed as shells from supporting artillery killed eight American soldiers and wounded 24 in a company of the 1st Infantry Division in the Iron Triangle north of Saigon.

PLOTTING ERROR

"Preliminary investigation indicates error in plotting the firing data," a spokesman said. A report from the field, where about 30,000 American and South Vietnamese troops are pressing the biggest offensive of the war, said 16 of the 155mm shells fell among the company. Though the announcement concerning the delta covered only the support troops, it was obvious they were paving the way for long-range operations by American ground combat forces. Government battalions and the Viet Cong have waged desultory war to a stalemate in its mud, muck and water.

CONG CLASH

A short-range operation by 4,000 U.S. Marines and Vietnamese was in its eighth day on the coastal Thanh Phu peninsula, 55 miles south of Saigon and 40 miles from My Tho. A detachment of 12 to 20 U.S. Leathernecks reported moderate casualties in a clash with a Viet Cong force of undetermined size in the first solid engagement of this campaign. Enemy casualties were not known. U.S. commanders have said the delta, laced by 25,000 miles of navigable waterways and countless miles of swamps and paddy fields, must be wrested from Viet Cong control if the war is to be won by the allied side. More than a third of South Vietnam's 15 million people live in the delta and it is estimated 100,000 guerrillas are based among them.

DECISION DELAYED

Fear that the massive firepower of modern American weapons might claim heavy toll among civilians was one factor delaying the decision that the government forces must have help.

SAN ANGELO COUPLE WEDS IN BEER JOINT

SAN ANGELO (AP)— Donald Jones, 27, a house painter, and Paula Martin, 19, were married Thursday night in a beer tavern — and by a minister. About 20 friends gathered shortly before the ceremony, which was planned at a motor hotel. On the spur of the moment, Jones said, he and the bride decided to say their vows in the motel's bar "just to be different." The Rev. Edgar Tatum, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle here, was unaware of the setting before his arrival. He agreed to go ahead after all the tables and bar were cleared of beer glasses. By the time the wedding march pealed from a rinky-dink piano, 30-odd spectators joined the wedding party "just to see if it really was going to happen."

Mrs. Fred Jones, mother of the bridegroom, was asked what she thought about the setting. Her only reply was: "I wish you hadn't asked that." The minister declined comment.

Over 400 Due To Attend Annual Chamber Banquet

Big Spring Chamber of Commerce formally launches a new year of activity with its annual membership banquet Saturday evening. Indications are that more than 400 will fill the ballroom of the Big Spring Country Club for the affair, which starts at 7:30. The program will be highlighted by an address by Dr. Geoffrey Bray, director of the Great Britain Travel and Culture Association. John Currie, retiring president, will give a review of 1966 activities, and Dr. Lee O. Rogers, who assumes the presidency, will outline aims for the new year. An attractively printed program of work will be available to all in attendance. Presentation of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award will be made by Richard Hughes, Jaycee president; and a special civic service plaque also will be awarded.

SPEAKER

R. H. Weaver is to preside for the program, and invocation will be by the Rev. John H. Payne Jr., rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church. Dr. Bray, one of Great Britain's distinguished citizens, currently is in the United States to organize special tours to England. He has worked closely with the United States Chamber of Commerce in lowering barriers that had handicapped trade and travel between the two nations. Dr. Bray, a graduate of Oxford with a Ph.D. in political science, for 10 years was a member of the British Parliament. In recent years, he has been

Worker Dies At Compress

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Adam Ornelas Alvarez, 23, was crushed to death instantly here Thursday at 4:15 p.m. when he slipped and fell into the cotton bale press at the compress. Alvarez, a long-time employee of the compress, was working beside the unit which reduces cotton bales to about a third of their normal gin size when he slipped and fell directly into the press, said fellow workmen. Arrangements are pending at Kiker & Son Funeral Home. Alvarez was born in Colorado City April 8, 1943 and had lived here all his life. He was married May 5, 1961 to Nellie Torres. For the past six years he had been an employee of the compress. Alvarez was a member of the St. Anne's Catholic Church. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marcelo Alvarez; three brothers, Abel, Jesse and Marcelo Alvarez; three sisters, Albina, Adela and Elva Alvarez, all of Colorado City.

DeSalvo Admits Rape Rampage?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A Boston psychiatrist today quoted self-styled strangler Albert DeSalvo as saying he had attacked women in at least two states besides Massachusetts and that he gave detailed descriptions of killing 13 greater Boston women. Dr. Robert R. Mezer testified in Middlesex Superior Court: "He told me willingly that he was the strangler, that he had strangled 13 women. He went into detail with me, including the most intimate details." Mezer quoted DeSalvo, a 35-year-old mental patient, as saying he had attacked women in their homes in Connecticut and Rhode Island. "He may have mentioned New Hampshire, too," the psychiatrist said. THREE ATTACKS IN DAY DeSalvo told of as many as three attacks in a single day, Mezer said. The defendant is on trial for a series of assaults not related to the stranglings in greater Boston between June 1962 and January 1964. Questioned by defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, the doctor said he interviewed DeSalvo on at least 15 occasions, the interviews ranging from an hour to all day. GREAT APPETITE "We find that his sexual appetite is great and his sexual capacity is large," Mezer said. Mezer was the second psychiatrist called by Bailey in DeSalvo's defense. Mezer's testimony of DeSalvo's recital of his activities was similar to that of Dr. James Brussel, New York psychiatrist, who testified Thursday. "The Boston psychiatrist said, 'These very abnormal impulses or urges go back a long way. They would vary in intensity. When they reached a certain peak they would become uncontrollable and he would be unable to stop himself.'"

"HE WAS GOD" Brussel testified that DeSalvo could not tell right from wrong because "in his world, he was God and what he did was entirely right." He said DeSalvo suffers from schizophrenia — a split personality. "He can tell the difference between right and wrong as prescribed by law, religion and morality, but it means absolutely nothing to his personality structure. In his world, he was God and what he did was entirely right," Brussel said. WARPED MAN Brussel and Bailey described DeSalvo as a man warped from early childhood by exposure to deviate conduct and who was driven to the stranglings when his wife rejected his affection. Asst. Dist. Atty. Donald Conn, the chief prosecutor, challenged Brussel's diagnosis of schizophrenia and questioned whether the amount of time Brussel had spent with DeSalvo was sufficient to support his conclusions. LACKS EVIDENCE Such persons frequently suffer from delusions, the psychiatrist said, and in a child-like way demand immediate satisfaction of their desires, regardless of reality. The incidents for which DeSalvo is being tried involved attacks on four women in their suburban Boston homes in 1964.

Parrot No Longer Needs $20,000

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — When Victoria Wilson died 17 years ago she left part of her estate for the upkeep of her pet parrot, Louis, with the residue to go to Jubilee Hospital and the Canadian Red Cross. Howard J. Harman, a lawyer for Miss Wilson's estate, said Thursday that Louis, now 102, no longer needs the more than $20,000 remaining in the fund. So two-thirds of it will be given immediately to the Red Cross and the hospital.

Job Switching Hits New High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says American workers are switching jobs faster than ever. A Labor Department report issued today attributed this trend to the growing number of workers under 25 and a bright employment picture which is encouraging more people to move to better paying jobs. The report said a survey this month showed that the 71 million Americans now at work have been on their current job an average of 4.2 years, compared with 4.6 years three years ago. AGE CALLED KEY The length of time spent on a job varies directly with age, the report said. "Workers under age 35 averaged only about 1.5 years on their current job while those 35 years old and over averaged 8 years." Men tended to stay on one job longer than women — 5.2 years and 2.8 years respectively, the report said. Of the total 71 million U.S. workers, 38 million had started their present jobs after 1961, and more than half this group had taken their jobs just in the past year, it added. ECONOMIC RECOVERY Another 8.7 million had held the same job 15 to 25 years and 4.5 million acquired their current jobs more than 25 years ago. Workers under 25 years of age increased from 14 per cent of the work force in 1963 to 17 per cent now, and the report said this was a prime cause of the shorter average length of time on the job. "A second factor might be the economic recovery which would induce more workers to change jobs," it said. "A worker whose earnings are relatively high and who takes pride and satisfaction in his job is more likely to remain on that job for a long time," the report said. "The underpaid, dissatisfied worker who believes he can earn more elsewhere would probably want to change jobs," it said.

NY Couple Wins Adoption Fight

TILLSON, N.Y. (AP) — Beth was the calmest person in the house," said her foster father, Michael Lunis, after he and his wife won a year-long battle to adopt the blonde four-year-old. Lunis, an $8,900-a-year technician for International Business Machines said he himself was "stunned and bewildered" after learning Thursday that the Ulster County welfare commissioner is reluctantly consenting to the adoption of Beth by the Lunis. The Lunis have contended that the commissioner, Joseph Fitzsimmons, opposed the adoption because of the ethnic differences between themselves — dark-haired Italian-Americans — and fair-skinned Beth. The commissioner has said he opposed the adoption because of medical reasons and the age of the Lunis. Both are 48. "CONDEMNNS ME" Fitzsimmons told a news conference Thursday: "Firmly con-

FRIDAY 13th Horrible Horoscope

By SAM BLACKBURN Don't walk under any ladders today. There might be a painter on the ladder with a bucket of paint ready to dump on your head. Don't start on any major enterprise — especially if you have doubts that the enterprise will work out. It might go sour. Don't sit at a table where there are 13 guests, and you are the 13th. There might not be enough food for more than 12. Don't take any wooden nickels today (nor tomorrow). They're not any good. If you see a black cat crossing your path, don't slam on the car brakes too hard. It may make your car veer to one side and turn over, or get rammed from the rear. And if there is a sniper shooting at you and your companions tonight (which does seem rather unlikely), don't be the third man to light your cigarette on one match. The sniper will have had time by your turn at the match to get a pretty fair bead on you. Don't do any of these things today — or any day, for that matter. But today is particularly poisonous to those who have qualms and superstitions. It's a double jinx day. Everyone knows the 13th is very bad luck. Somebody said so a long time ago, that's why. So be awfully cautious — but not too much, because something good might slip up on you.

DEAR ABBY

Pattern For Engagement

DEAR ABBY: This may sound dumb coming from a 24-year-old man, but I have to have the answers, so here goes. What is the correct procedure for getting engaged? Does the man ask the girl first and then ask her father? What if the girl says yes and her father says no? And if he asks the father first, what if the father says yes and the girl says no? Now, let's say the girl says yes and her father says yes. Does the man pick out the ring and give it to the girl? Or should he have the ring in his pocket when he asks the girl? What if he has the ring in his pocket and the girl says no?

"IN LOVE" DEAR "In": Ask the girl first, and if she says no, don't bother her father. If she says yes, ask her father. If he says yes, ask the girl to help you pick out the ring. Makes sense, no?

DEAR ABBY: The other day a friend of mine (I will call her Josephine) told me how cool she thought my brother was and that she would give anything to go out with him.

Well, I told my brother about Josephine and what she said and he didn't think the same about her. In fact he thought she was a creep. I even offered him money to take her out just once, but he wouldn't do it. I know Josephine is going to ask me about my brother again. What shall I tell her?

ON THE SPOT DEAR ON: If Josephine inquires about your "cool" brother again, tell her that he freezes at the suggestion of dating a friend of yours, and unless she can attract him on her own, it's not tonight, Josephine — or any other night.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column and usually concur with your advice, but I believe you

$91 Million In Economic Aid Missing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ernest Gruening says 20 per cent — or $91 million — of U.S. economic aid to Vietnam was lost through theft and diversion last year.

And the Alaska Democrat, chairman of a Senate subcommittee on foreign aid, added that his 20 per cent estimate probably was low. He noted that some other sources had estimated losses as high as 40 to 50 per cent.

Another member of Congress joined Gruening today in doubting that the loss in Vietnam aid through theft and diversion is as low as the government's official five to six per cent estimate.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House Foreign Operations subcommittee, said "no one really knows what the figure is." He added that if the five to six per cent estimate made by the Agency for International Development is correct, "they have indeed achieved a miracle."

Gruening's estimate Thursday of 20 per cent losses for the year was close to that reported in a series of Associated Press articles in November following a two-month investigation by a team of AP newsmen. Some knowledgeable persons in Vietnam told the AP team that loss percentages might run to 40 per cent.

AID Administrator William S. Gaud reported to President Johnson Monday that losses were no more than five to six per cent "in recent months." He later told reporters that by "recent months" he meant the final two months of the year. Estimates out of Saigon earlier that day applying the five-to-six per cent loss figure to all of 1966 were in error, Gaud said.

Community Action Officers Re-Elected

Officers of the Community Action Agency of Howard County were re-elected at the annual meeting Thursday evening. All had taken office last mid-year when the team was re-organized, and will now serve a full year.

They are the Rev. James A. Puckett, president; Dr. Milton Talbot, vice president, and S. M. Anderson, secretary.

The group was advised that the Office of Economic Opportunity presently has no funds to finance a special community survey as to anti-poverty needs, so the application as filed here must wait further appropriations action.

However, the Community Action Agency will remain in being to assist in whatever OEO programs might be developed. Chief of these is the Head Start program for pre-school children in lower-income categories. Keith Swim, director, said the program currently is serving 200 children, and it is hoped that a grant can be obtained to continue it through the summer months. An ultimate goal, he said, is a 12-month program.

Also underway here are the Neighborhood Youth Corps, under which school students are given employment to enable them to continue studies; and the College Work Program, which pursues the same route for college students.

Press Freedom Bill Scheduled
AUSTIN (AP)—A state senator says he intends to introduce a bill in the legislature to guarantee that most meetings of public officials would be open to newsmen.

Sen. Chet Brooks of Houston made the announcement at a meeting of the Austin Industrial Editors.

Brooks, while a House member, made unsuccessful efforts to pass similar bills in 1963 and 1965.

Under Brooks' proposal, any citizen would be able to attend all meetings of tax supported commissions, government agencies and committees, with the exceptions of certain courts, closed sessions of the legislature, and some hearings when the individual involved asks for a closed session.

Liquor Election Hotly-Contested

LUBBOCK (AP) — County Atty. Fred West said Thursday night the 1966 pre-election poll tax list would be used as an eligibility criterion for a hotly-contested liquor election Saturday.

Dist. Judge Herman Jones of Austin Thursday voided the election results that saw a majority of Texans vote out the state poll tax in a Nov. 8 constitutional amendment.

The Saturday election is to decide whether a Lubbock County precinct will go wet or dry on the off-premise sale of liquor and beer. A total of 548 absentee votes was cast out of a potential 2,850 voters in the precinct.

A slender 5 foot 2 1/4 inches tall (she dislikes being called "petite"), Mrs. Heckler has bright blue eyes and wears her dark reddish hair in bangs across her forehead and a french twist in back.

SCORES UPSET

At 35, she challenged former House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., R-Mass., in the primary election, and scored an upset. At the time of his defeat, Martin ranked second in seniority in the House, having entered Congress several years before Mrs. Heckler was born.

In a quick glance at her first couple of days in Congress, she pronounced the experience "monumental and quickly sobering."

CODE OF ETHICS

As for the opening day controversy over seating Powell, she said, "I feel strongly that there is a need for a code of congressional ethics. It should set the standards for all, and those who violate the code should be brought before their peers."

A lawyer, she is said she was especially anxious for judiciary committee appointment.

She and her husband, John, an investment broker who has transferred to a Washington firm, have rented a home for themselves and three children in nearby McLean, Va. They hope to move in by Feb. 10.

Mrs. Heckler said moving the children here created no problem.

"They (Belinda, 10, Allison, 8, and John Jr., 6) are young, healthy and adventuresome. It is adding new dimensions to their lives."

Fable About Our Spring

A Lubbock lady's Howard County treasure quest for a flowing spring beside a willow seems less likely to lead to gold than to ghosts.

Fort Worth's Albert Barnes recalls a "story heard back in 1942 when stationed at the air base there . . . a story that goes back many years when a family, traveling by wagon, camped overnight near the Spring.

"They had a small girl. Next morning, she was found drowned in the spring. They buried her nearby and put a small willow tree on her grave . . . went sadly on west.

"Years later, a traveling salesman drove through, saw a beautiful girl at the roadside. He offered a ride and (en route Big Spring), she related the story.

"As they neared city limits, he turned to look out the left window momentarily. When he looked back, the girl had vanished.

"But the empty seat beside him was wet." (Until about 30-35 years ago there was a small marble headstone near the Big Spring site-ED.)

Rain Spreads Across Texas

By The Associated Press

Damp and warmer weather dispelled the recent chill over much of the southeastern two-thirds of Texas today.

Light rain fell in hit-or-miss patterns during the night across South Texas and kept spreading toward the east and north.

By early morning the moisture belt—also including numerous dry spots—stretched across the Louisiana line toward the east and past Breckenridge, Fort Worth, Waco, Tyler, Longview and Mount Vernon to the north.

Among the points receiving rain in the southern sector were San Antonio, Del Rio, Cotulla, Brownsville, McAllen, Victoria, Palacios, Galveston, Beaumont and Lufkin.

Overnight temperatures stayed above freezing generally except in parts of the Panhandle and far West Texas, where it dipped a few degrees below that level in places.

Occasional light rain or showers were predicted or scattered areas tonight and into Saturday in all sections except West Texas.

Key To State's Progress

The master key to Texas' economic development, and hence to its social progress, is expansion of manufacturing, which has the greatest growth potential of any phase of overall industrialization.

Manufacturing expansion is basic to general economic growth because it creates wealth and new jobs. Its employment impact is of multiple importance because each new manufacturing job generates consumer demand that in turn increases employment in distribution and service industries.

Consequently, it is welcome news, in a report from Gov. John Connally, that 34,000 new manufacturing jobs were added in Texas last year, against only 25,400 in 1965. That was despite a slight drop-off in new plants gained, from 327 in 1965 to 309 in 1966, and also in plant expansions, from 485 to 437.

As Gov. Connally commented, "The industries and expansions we are getting are employing more people, and that's what we're after." Certainly more high - employment industries as in durable and other consumer goods manufacturing, are needed to provide jobs for this state's still rapidly expanding population. Moreover we need better distribution of such new industries to provide employment in labor - surplus areas of the state.

Texas has the resources and is now reaching the population density that should attract new manufacturing at a progressive rate. To realize that prospective growth fully, this state must — as it is now striving to do — improve education at all levels, and especially vocational and higher education. It must also keep its tax structure, state and local, attractive to industry, as well as steadily improve and intensify both public and private industrial promotion activities.

In Texas' total labor force of more than four million, 618,000 jobs are now in manufacturing industries. That is encouraging, but the proportion in manufacturing must be continually increased if this state's below-average per capita income is ever to be pushed above the national average, as it can and should be.

Redistricting Guidelines

In its first decisions on the subject in 1967, the United States Supreme Court indicated it is going to hew close to the line on its "one man, one vote" rule for legislative redistricting. The court invalidated the recent reapportionment of the Florida Legislature and congressional redistricting in Indiana and Missouri.

The 7-2 decisions laid down these guidelines. State legislative and congressional districts must be as nearly equal in population and as compact as practicable. Only "minimal deviations" from population equality will be allowed, and the burden of proof will be on the state as to whether such deviations are unavoidable or justified by local circumstances.

These opinions are important to the 60th Texas Legislature, now in regular session. The 59th Legislature reapportioned state Senate and House districts and congressional districts. But lower federal courts have since held that the state House and congressional reapportionments must be improved before another general election. Specifically, 11 House "floral" districts must be eliminated, probably by cutting off parts of populous counties to convert floral into regular districts. And congressional districts must be revised for more nearly equal population and to make at least two sprawling districts more compact.

In doing this, the legislature should aim at the strictest population equality possible. Otherwise the results would be unlikely to stand up under U.S. Supreme Court review. Furthermore, another complete redistricting job will have to be done by the 1971 Legislature, following the 1970 decennial census. And the better redistricting is done now, the easier it will be to do over again then. It should be clear that the federal judiciary is going to insist from now on that representational districts must be kept closely adjusted to population shifts and growth.

Time For Firm Decision

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, experienced legislator and master politician, had the opportunity this week to start a different trend in America—a return to practical and sound policies which could restore confidence in the administration. Will he achieve such a result?

TELEVISION AND radio permit the entire nation to see and hear a President deliver his address to Congress on the "state of the union." But the people's judgment isn't always influenced by the quality of the rhetoric or oratory or by glowing promises of future prosperity. There has to be a firmness and a resoluteness about both domestic and foreign-policy proposals and an outline of the legislative measures through which important goals are to be attained.

challenge now is how to insure that American forces will not have made their sacrifices in vain.

On the domestic side, the question is whether the President's message means a curtailment of extravagant spending. In view especially of the increasing costs of the Vietnam war, it becomes necessary to forego certain projects, even though a start has been made on many of them.

BUT GOVERNMENT policy is directly dependent on the collection of tax revenues. There has for several months been talk of a tax increase. But the nation has not been convinced that it has become imperative. Instead a feeling has prevailed that, by economizing, enough money could be saved to avoid a rise in tax rates.

Billy Graham

I've been going to the same church for nearly two years, and I believe I could count the people who have greeted me with a smile on one hand. Doesn't the Bible say something about hospitality? Please tell me why non-religious people are often more friendly than church people.

P. G. J.

I have had several people write me about this matter, and I am not sure I know the reason why some church people are "unfriendly." Perhaps it is the natural shyness all of us have by nature. Or, perhaps they are preoccupied with other matters. Whatever the reason, there is no excuse for it. We could blame it on the lack of spirituality and concern, if it were not for the fact that clerks in stores, bank employees, and even filling station attendants, who make no religious profession, are more friendly than many church people. Friendliness is a habit, and any of us can develop it. Unfriendliness is a habit also, but one that ought to be broken — especially if one is a follower of Christ, who says: "I have called you friends."

The Scriptures admonish us to have our "faces aglow" and be "given to hospitality."

UNFORTUNATELY, this is not the only factor involved. The business structure is capable of increasing tax receipts under existing rates provided the national economy is put on a sound basis. There is no real advantage in a tax increase if it has to be repeated next year, for it doesn't eliminate the uncertainties that surround business planning. Unless the President can remove the barriers to the growth of business, the much-talked-about tax increase being proposed merely as a remedy to inflation would be of little avail.

EVEN AN unpalatable program can be accepted—and planning can be based on it—if there is a positiveness and a convincing argument showing that, from a practical standpoint, there is no alternative. The nation has been up against similar dilemmas heretofore when major wars have occurred. The biggest damage is done when the wavering and uncertainty are not removed.

Broadly speaking, the administration has been reluctant to put the nation on a wartime footing. The Vietnam operation, however, has been escalating slowly so that now America's own forces in Southeast Asia are larger than those which were engaged in the Korean war. Congress at that time passed a law imposing wage-and-price controls. Such a step has long been logical for the Vietnam war, too, but political considerations have left the situation dangling without action.

THE HOUR of decision has come at last, and the new Congress now will also find it necessary to use its own judgment and make its determination of what is really in the public interest.

Nuclear Giants Embarrassed

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is that peculiar time in history when the giants are embarrassed by their own strength.

The shining example of this is North Vietnam, which is only slightly larger than New York State and whose population of about 16.2 million is slightly less than New York's.

Little North Vietnam has the huge United States over a barrel in more ways than one, even though this country is almost 51 times larger and has a population of around 200 million.

The two nuclear giants, the United States and the Soviet Union, are so strong they could eliminate each other. The last thing they want is war with each other. As a result, they walk on tippy-toes when they deal with each other.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A glance at the calendar reminds me that next month I'll be 56 years old. What other blows can mankind take and still endure?

The prospect of being 56 inevitably inflicts philosophic thoughts on a fellow.

Reaching that age may be a hollow victory, but it is still a victory. A majority of the human beings who have teemed the earth never lived to be 56.

Once you go beyond 55 you are getting into winter territory. You have an instinctive realization that there's frost ahead. It hits you somewhere inside like the blow of a mammoth hammer.

Emotions Send Her Blood Pressure Up

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 35 and always had normal blood pressure until an emotional crisis sent it up to 175 over 145. Later it went back to normal, but when the problem came up again, my pressure soared again.

Is this as dangerous as high blood pressure from other causes? Is it possible to tell when your pressure is up, say from headaches or the heart thumping? Would it help to take phenobarbital (which the doctor prescribed) at such times even though the emotional problem is far from solved? — MRS. K.B.

The abnormal pressure — and the figures you cite are high — is the important thing, regardless of the cause.

One potentially favorable thing about high blood pressure from emotional causes is that if the emotional storms can be quelled, pressure is reduced. Some of the physical reasons for H.B.P. are less easy to control.

Subduing those emotional problems can be far from easy, and individuals vary widely in the way they respond to nervous stress. Some take such tensions pretty much in stride. Others are so sensitive that blood pressure soars.

Sedatives, including the one you mention, can help the patient relax somewhat in such episodes, so it is reasonable for you to take it at such times. However, sedatives can't do it all, nor should they be taken in large quantities or too often.

The important goal is to find some way of resolving whatever your emotional problem is, and furthermore (if possible) learning to accept such a problem more calmly. If there is something we cannot change, we must try to bear up under it and not let it upset our lives and our health. I grant that this advice may not be easy to follow, but it is valid.

Yes, a person can often sense a rise in blood pressure by such symptoms as thumping heart, headache, ringing in the ears, a sense of fullness of the head, or

Dear Dr. Molner: Is this soap (advertisement enclosed) good for removing brown old-age spots from the skin, or is there something better? — MRS. L. W.

Try the soap if you want to. Or try lemon juice. Or try hydrogen peroxide. If these or anything else will actually remove the spots, I'll be surprised, but you can try.

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are all doing all you can to relieve the problem, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, requesting the booklet, "How to Deal with Varicose Veins," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Inventory Time

The New Year did not catch me unprepared — or ungrateful — for a change it might have in store.

For some time my mind had been conditioned to accept whatever the next moment brought with whatever degree of grace I could muster, but now, fate seemed to demand courage as well.

UNTIL THE LAST days, the year had been a rather bland thing — to my mind — one day differing from the next only in its degree of frustration or defeat.

But inventory time had come. What did we have? How much had gone out? And what would need to be replaced?

First, the gaiety and love of life had been repressed to a pitiful flicker, small talents had been debauched by disuse and shining faith dimmed by cold reasoning. Hopeful dreams had been made into ugly caricatures by grim reality and a neglected, undeveloped personality had tried to hide in the darkest parts of my mentality.

I SAT VERY still, and through the cigarette smoke, more ghosts gazed back to taunt me. I dropped my eyes. Here was my self-nurtured weakness, my neglected opportunities, my undischarged responsibilities, my vacillations, my procrastinations, my lack of ambition, my loss of ideals, my slothfulness — my general no-accountness.

The entries were such a sorry lot that I looked at the last of them through tears.

PERHAPS I wouldn't have looked at all — but across town, a friend lay in a hospital bed. Always, when death had taken someone from me, it had been behind my back so that I didn't see — but now, I seemed to feel its presence in the halls and its hand raised at the door.

The friend has been a casual one, I thought. Now I remembered that on most of the bad days of the year, it had been this neighbor who had done the small kindnesses and said the right words of encouragement that changed disaster to delight — and defeat to something still honorable.

THE PRAYER was awkward at first — for unquestioning faith had been replaced by a pseudo religion — but it flamed from whatever spark was left within a disenchanted heart. And I made promises.

Christmas came, and perhaps a miracle. If somewhere, prayers are inventoried, I hope there's a small, urgent, answered one that's signed —

—JO BRIGHT

Reds Demand American Surrender

And while it is undeniably finding willing helpers both in this country and in the bureaucracy of the United Nations, it is reaching as well an unexplained pitch of danger — to the Communists themselves.

Call It Reverse McCarthyism

WASHINGTON — It is true, as a reader reminds me, that the term "McCarthyism" is about the most ill-used, loosely-defined word in our language.

It is employed as a feeble retort, on a par with "Oh, yeah?" and "Says you!" when somebody's ideological ox gets deservedly gored. But for all that, the term is in the language to stay, and I have such a paucity of invention that I am going to stick with my derivative expression, "reverse McCarthyism," at least through the duration of the 1968 presidential season which has already opened.

REVERSE McCarthyism means the use of totally unwarranted, unsubstantiated, unbelievable and fulsome praise in order to lift a person, idea or institution to a station that is above its worth. For instance, there's a move on to elevate the status of Sen. Jacob Javits (R., N. Y.) to vice presidential eligibility.

THREE TIMES in two paragraphs, Javits is patted on the head for his "candor" in seeking the vice presidency. The misinformation is added that politicians don't seek that office. But at least half a dozen Democrats in 1944 wanted to be running-mate to the perishing Franklin Roosevelt, and there were outer movements in 1956 to get Vice President Nixon's job behind the ailing Eisenhower, to say nothing of Bob Kennedy's frank desire to run with Lyndon Johnson — another cardiac case — in 1964.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Folks: Do you know how many hours the average housewife spends at her ironing board? Add up your weekly hours and multiply them by the 52 weeks in each year, times the number of years you EXPECT to live. You'll be amazed!

If you don't have an adjustable ironing board, why don't you run out and buy one? Or borrow or rent one from your neighbor, and try it out.

Once you have used an adjustable board, you won't be without one. Common sense tells us it's easier to iron a garment while sitting down—with the iron below waistline height. This takes far less energy than reaching up when sitting at a too-high ironing board, or standing up to iron.

If we spend five or 10 dollars on an adjustable ironing board, there's no reason to feel guilty. Look at the hours we spend there.

So, spend a few dollars on this treasure for yourself. You'll never be sorry. Heloise

Dear Heloise: Both my husband and I smoke, and, either through instinct or training we are quite careful when we dump our ashtrays.

I assumed that everyone was equally careful, but have noticed how many people (especially nonsmokers) throw stiff-warm stubs into the waste basket. This is especially true at parties, when ashtrays are filled rather quickly. Perhaps an idea I copied from a friend will prevent a fire: When cleaning ashtrays, I dump their contents into a one-pound coffee can and leave them overnight. (Do not cover the can with a plastic lid—the smell will be unbearable.) In the morning, the cigarette stubs can be thrown away, with the assurance that they are cold and harmless... "Smoker"

A LOVELIER YOU

Break Routine With Bit Of Brightness

By MARY SUE MILLER Are you in a slump? Feeling and looking like a dreary day? It's a usual mid-winter complaint of those who are subject to routine. Unless you get an occasional change of scene, walking a treadmill is a wearisome business that affects both your looks and outlook. But what can you do, when even so small a break as a long weekend is out of the question?

You might try breaking up the monotony right on home grounds. There's many a way: How about brightening up your living room? Rearranging the furniture and introducing a few springlike plants? Or you could refurbish needy closets. That's a universal morale booster!

Right in your kitchen, you can get away from it all by planning around-the-world menus — authentic Greek, Japanese, Indian or Danish dinners, let's say. Why not perk up your wardrobe? And then add something

Tower Of Babel Effort To Get Near God, Scientist Contends

By MAHMUD ABDULLA
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A French scientist contends the Tower of Babel was not "an act of arrogance on man's part to defy God, but rather a means to get close to him."

Prof. Bernard Groslier, writing in the Cairo magazine "L'Image," said:

"No doubt, the first civilizations which arose somewhere between the Nile and the Euphrates operated under the concept of 'towers' rising toward the sky, like the pyramids and obelisks. This was for the purpose of aspiring to reach the skies, get close to the gods in order to make prosperity descend through the steps from heavens on mankind."

"Egypt's step-pyramid of Saqqara is but a kind of ladder to reach the sky," said Groslier, who is director of the French School of Archaeology in Cambodia.

"In Egypt's Fifth Pharaonic dynasty, a text says that the obelisk touches the sun and thus streams down along the pyramid its rays to the earth," he explained.

He added that Cambodia's ancient mountainlike monuments, known as "angkor," which are the Asian version of Egypt's pyramids, and the towering monuments of India have the concept of "towers" reaching to the sky.

This religious concept moulded in the architecture itself, crossed through the Indus and spread out in Asia. The mountainlike monuments in Cambodia prove it, according to Groslier.

Groslier said that he found a papyrus scroll of one of the Khmer — Cambodian — kings which cites: "I have built this temple with its towers to burst through the sky and stream down along the pyramids on my people the benefactions of the gods."

According to the Bible, Jacob's Ladder is used by angels to climb up to the sky and to come back, the professor notes. This religious concept is evidently related with nature and the cosmos. In Egypt, the helical star has been focused for the orientation and emplacement of ancient monuments. In India, the polar star — which is known as the only fixed star — impressed the Indians on the Himalaya summit who considered it as the axle of the world.

Groslier said that the Merou Mountain is, in the Cambodian concept, also considered the center of the world. The temple ostensibly reflects it by the statue of its god.

There also are Egypt's archaeological solar boats, he added, which were laid out from east to west, similarly to the orientation of the Khmer temple doors.

MARKS OF CHRISTIAN NOT IMPOSED, BUT FROM WITHIN

Goods on the shelves are known by their trademarks. Brand names stand out. Should a Christian be any less readily identified?

Sunday's International lesson, "The Marks of a Christian," brings into focus some of the attributes of those who truly seek to follow Christ. They are not outward, physical signs or rituals but are inner qualities which radiate our feelings to man as well as God.

The Scripture is strikingly similar to the Sermon on the Mount, but Luke is writing for the broad stream of humanity. The question is not what God thinks of us, but what we think of God, and in essence the lesson says this is revealed in how we treat others. "Thus, life becomes God and you and others."

Christ so inverts world standards that the doctrines are seemingly unattainable. The secret is to yield to and obey the Holy Spirit, which lives within us and guides us and gives us strength otherwise beyond us. The challenge is encapsulated in verse 36: "Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful."

The Scripture passage is Luke 6:12-49 with the focal passage 6:20-23, 28-36. Daily Bible readings are: Monday, Luke 6:12-16; Tuesday, Luke 6:17-26; Wednesday, Luke 6:27-38; Thursday, Luke 6:39-42; Friday, Luke 6:43-49; Saturday II Cor. 5:16-21; Sunday, Psalm 1.

Chaplain Richard Johnson Resigns Post At Hospital

Chaplain Richard E. Johnson has resigned from the staff of the Big Spring State Hospital in order to return to the University of Texas graduate school to work on his masters degree in literature.

He is a native of Mount Pleasant and a graduate of Dublin High School, Sam Houston State College, and Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University. Before coming to Big Spring in September 1965, he was associate chaplain at Austin State Hospital. During his tenure in Big Spring, he became well known in the community with his stories of folk lore and American Ballads. Mrs. Johnson has been an instructor in basic English at Howard County Junior College. She and their two children will accompany Chaplain Johnson to Austin.

The position of chaplain at Big Spring State Hospital involves ministering to the spiritual needs of the patient and his family and is a part of the treatment of the patient.

Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent, expressed regret at losing the services of Chaplain Johnson.

Dr. Love served as an associate evangelist with the Billy Graham Crusade for six years. Mr. Wildish is a missionary leader from Jamaica and a former pastor in New York City.

Mary B. Crawford, who has been a missionary in the Congo for 20 years, will speak at the First Presbyterian Church Jan. 30.

Her appearance here will be one of only six in the entire presbytery. Women of the church are planning a covered dish supper, and they have extended an invitation to the St. Paul and Coahoma churches to join in this occasion.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Robert Deming will present the program at the Men's Supper Thursday at 6:45 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Fellowship Hall. He will give an illustrated lecture on scenes from Greece and the New Testament lands. Charles Luck is president of the men's organization. At 8 p.m. there will be a session meeting.

LEONARD W. MOODY

Moody Joins Trinity Staff

Leonard W. Moody has assumed his duties as director of education and music for Trinity Baptist Church.

A native of Stark, Fla., he has been attending Bible Baptist Seminary in Arlington. It was there that he met Jeanette Craven, who later became his bride. They live at 3204 Auburn and have a baby. Mrs. Moody is the daughter of the Rev. Claud Craven, pastor of Trinity, and Mrs. Craven.

Moody got an early start in music, singing his first solo as a lad of five. By the time he was 13, he was leading the church choir, and he has been at it ever since. He led the choir in Pine Level Baptist Church at Stark before entering the seminary. Music runs in the family, for he has a brother, Raymond, who is still in the seminary as a music and education major.

Viet Stance Has Pressure

President Johnson may find his administration under increasing fire from religious leaders in 1967, in the opinion of Louis Cassels, religion writer for United Press International.

The State of the Union address may have eased some pressures by retaining a butter and guns tone rather than a guns over butter line. However, the President's strong position on staying seems not to be the sop that some religious spokesmen wished concerning Vietnam.

Catholic bishops of the United States and the General Assembly of the National Council of Churches have each taken stands which could raise some storm signals for the President's position.

Meeting in Washington, the Catholic bishops said they could "conscientiously support" U.S. Policy in Vietnam "in the present circumstances," but added: "It is the duty of everyone to search for other alternatives... We are bound always to make sure that our government does, in fact, pursue every possibility that offers even the slightest hope of peaceful settlement."

The National Council of Churches' assembly went even further. In a lengthy statement that was the main item on its agenda, the assembly declared that "this war must be brought to an end soon." It called for serious consideration of a unilateral halt in bombing raids and other "risk" actions to bring about peace negotiations.

Evangelism Parley Set

Evangelism will be the keynote and Dallas the location for two major assemblies of Texas Baptists this month.

Some 15,000 church leaders and members from the more than 4,000 churches and missions which make up the 1.7 million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas are expected to attend sessions of the Monday-Wednesday BGCT Evangelism Conference in Dallas at Memorial Auditorium and First Baptist Church.

Prior to the annual conference a unique Evangelism Research Institute has been conducted for five days, at Mt. Lebanon Encampment, south of Dallas.

This first annual institute is designed primarily for Texas evangelism chairmen. Select pastors, laymen and musicians also will be invited from an area of 200 miles around Dallas. The new innovation in leadership training will include intensive study in both the theory and practice of evangelism.

The 1967 annual conference is expected to be "the greatest convocation we have ever experienced," according to C. Wade Freeman, director of the convention's Evangelism Division.

C. E. Autrey, Atlanta, Ga., director of evangelism with the home mission board of the Southern Baptist Convention, will join with a score of Texas evangelism leaders as speakers for the massive conference. Theme for the annual event is "Redemption."

Missionaries To Speak At Church In Flower Grove

The Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Hagemeyer, former pastors of the Assembly of God Church in Anton, will speak at both services Sunday at the Bethel Assembly of God Church in Flower Grove, six miles west of Ackery.

Program For Texas Solons Is Planned

AUSTIN — Distinguished statesmen, educators and churchmen will attend University Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) here Sunday in an unique service of worship invoking God's blessing upon the convening of the 60th Session of the Texas State Legislature.

It is believed to be the first service of its kind ever to be held in the Texas Capitol. Justice Zolie Steakley, associate justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, will be guest speaker for the 10:50 a.m. service.

"This is the first step in a long-range program of ministry which University Christian Church will undertake in an effort to serve as a bridge between the academic world of the University of Texas and the political world of the State Capitol," according to William C. Howland Jr., minister. "Dialogue between these three shaping forces of society is both essential and needed and the members and professional ministry of our church seek to establish such an encounter as a part of its total ministry," Howland added. "Long-range plans, he said, in addition to the traditional service of worship, call for forums, symposia, lectures and events of a liaison nature to provide for continuing dialogue and exploration of the separate and interrelated impact made on society by government, university and church. Others participating in the service include Dr. Harold Kilpatrick, executive director of the Texas Council of Churches, Austin; Dr. T. T. Swearingen, executive director of the Texas Association of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), Fort Worth; and Howland.

LBJ's Social Security Proposal Builds Pressure In Congress

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If the Social Security minimum benefit is raised to $70 a month, as President Johnson proposed, many recipients in that category will receive bigger checks than they had earned while working.

of present Social Security scales, which apply the minimum payment to those whose average yearly earnings after 1950 were less than $300. At the present minimum of $44, these people receive $528 a year. Under the Johnson proposal they would be entitled to $840.

benefits might be, they illustrate the gradual but tremendous change that has taken place in the concept of Social Security during the past three decades. GRADUAL CHANGE As originally stated, Social Security benefits tied to the amount paid into the fund while the individual was working. This idea has been dropped. Benefits now are based on average earnings. Since it was established three decades ago, Social Security has been interpreted differently almost year by year as knowledge grew, personal needs and social demands changed, and political pressure became more or less insistent. LIMITS LIBERALIZED Originally, workers who retired at 65 were eligible. Dependents and survivors were then added to the list of recipients. Limits on retirement earnings were liberalized later. The disabled began receiving benefits in the 1950s, and coverage was extended to farmers and other self-employed. Now we have medicare, and some members of both major political parties want to see benefits tied to the rising cost of living. To pay for these benefits, most of which fall below minimums for a decent life and must be supplemented from savings, other income or private pensions, the tax on payrolls has been steadily increased. TAX SOARS Originally, each employee and employer paid $30 a year into the fund. In 1966 this had risen to $277.20. On Jan. 1, the tax rose to 4.4 per cent of the first $6,000 earned, or a total of $290.40 from each employe and employer. Johnson did not disclose details of his proposed increase in benefits. To make such an increase, however, would require still another boost in the payroll tax.

Health Worth More Than $20,000 Gift

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — "It's worth more to have your health than the money," was the chief reaction today of an impoverished man who would have inherited $20,000 if he had not quit his job less than a year ago.

Eugene McCarthy, 65, of nearby Potter Corners, was one of the people mentioned in the newly publicized will of Miss Ruth R. Wallace, 62, Saratoga Springs, who bequeathed about $2½ million to the Pope of the Roman Catholic Church.

The new stations are located in Longview (2), Henderson, Kilgore, Marshall, Palestine, Port Arthur and Beaumont in Texas, and Shreveport (2) and Lake Charles in Louisiana.

Premier President H. W. Meehan said the change over to Premier will occur immediately.

Horsemen To Stage Benefit

A March of Dimes Playday is set for Sunday at the Rodeo Grounds under the sponsorship of the Howard County Youth Horsemen Club.

All money derived from the event goes to the March of Dimes.

The plan is for the Playday events to begin at 1:30 p.m. Anyone who attends will have a chance to contribute voluntarily to the March of Dimes at the gates. This is the only fee for admission.

Names of donors will be written on a list and prizes, donated by business establishments of the city, will be given away at the close of the program.

Only members of the Howard County Youth Horsemen can take part in the actual events of the Playday.

New officers were recently elected by the club.

Senior officers are Fuzzy Minick, president; L. C. Gibbs, vice president; Mrs. Elmer Lyster, secretary; and Mrs. Fuzzy Minick, treasurer.

Junior officers are Mike Hudson, president; Perry Gamble, vice president; Carol Lyster, secretary; and Pat O'Brien, treasurer.

'Howlin' Mad' Smith Expires

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Retired Marine Corps Gen. Holland M. "Howlin' Mad" Smith, who led massive amphibious assaults on the Japanese during World War II, died Thursday at age 84.

He suffered a heart attack November 14 and had been in critical condition at Balboa Naval Hospital since Dec. 13.

Known as the father of amphibious warfare, he gained fame while leading American forces to victory in the Gilberts, Marshalls, Marianas and Iwo Jima campaigns.

A onetime lawyer, Gen. Smith became a Marine almost by accident.

OUTBURSTS

In 1965, he applied for a commission in the Army, but was turned down because there were no vacancies. When told the Marine Corps had vacancies, Smith asked, "What are the Marines?"

He was told — and then he joined.

Two wars and 41 years later, Gen. Smith retired, wearing the Distinguished Service Medal.

His "Howlin' Mad" nickname came from his outbursts at men who didn't follow instructions and machines that didn't work.

HIGH TOLL

Although his success in storming the shores of islands heavily defended by the Japanese took a high toll in lives, Gen. Smith maintained that "no way has ever been found to make wars safe and easy."

Just before World War II, he took a Marine brigade to Cuba for seven months of amphibious training, and then returned to train other Marine units and the Army in the art of amphibious warfare.

17-GUN SALUTE

Troops trained in his methods were successful in Europe and the Pacific, and played a major role in the war.

In 1943, Smith commanded the 5th Amphibious Corps, and the next year was named commander of the newly created Fleet Marine Force.

Smith was born on April 20, 1882 at Seale, Ala., and received a law degree from the University of Alabama.

His son, Rear Adm. John Victor Smith, is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and is attached to the Pentagon.

His grandson, Holland M. Smith II, is a Navy ensign heading for Vietnam.

A military funeral service with a 17-gun salute will be held Saturday at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot Chapel in San Diego. He will be buried at San Diego's Ft. Rosecrans National Cemetery.

Opening lead: Four of ♥ South's aggressiveness catapulted the partnership into a slam contract in spades that was a distinct underdog, depending apparently, on picking up both the king of spades and the king of hearts. A thoughtless play by a defender at the opening gun provided him with an opportunity to overcome the odds against him.

West chose to open the four of hearts, altho with nothing in that suit, it would appear that the ace of clubs is a sounder selection. By cashing his trick at the outset, West assures declarer's defeat, for East must eventually score with the king of trumps.

East put up the king of hearts at trick one and South topped it with the ace. He led the queen of spades next and when West followed with the seven, declarer went right up with the ace. This gave him a chance to drop the king, since there were only three trumps outstanding—or if that failed to happen, he could run the diamonds and if the hand with the spade king also had three diamonds, declarer would be able to sluff his king of clubs as his opponent ruffed in.

The king of spades withstood South's efforts and as the diamonds were led, East trumped the third round. However, he was now faced with a guess. If partner held the ace of clubs, a shift to that suit would set the declarer. If, on the other hand, West had originally led from a heart holding headed by the queen, then the setting trick could surely be cashed in that suit. East made a mental toss of the coin and finally led the jack of hearts. South had no trouble in claiming the rest of the tricks.

Altho East's quandary was genuine and might merit some sympathetic reaction for his unfortunate guess, he could have avoided the dilemma altogether by making a more thoughtful play to the very first trick. When West opened a heart against the slam bid, he could hardly be underloading the ace. It cannot cost, therefore, for East to play the jack of hearts instead of the king. If the jack forces declarer's ace, then East can be certain that West holds the queen. If the jack loses to the queen, as actually proves to be the case, then the club shift later becomes obvious.

TEXANS AT WAR

Reds Knocked Out His Tank

By The Associated Press
An East Texas cavalryman who won the Bronze Star for heroism in Vietnam says that country is probably the worst in the world for tanks.

Vietnam with the 3rd Squadron, 4th Cavalry, 25th Division, until November of 1966. He is now with the 67th Armor, 2nd Armored Division, Ft. Hood.

He said the swampy conditions of much of Southeast Asia make it poor tank country.

SPRAYS ENEMY

"Another thing is the high grass," he said. "Grass and brush get clogged in the air vents, the engine overheats, and the tank is out."

Crockett received the Bronze Star with "V" device for his action while serving as the gunner on an M48 tank en route to reinforce a pinned-down infantry unit between Pleiku and Duc Co.

The tank was disabled by Viet Cong fire but Crockett applied first aid to the commander, driver and loader, saw to their evacuation, and then stayed with the crippled vehicle, spraying the enemy with machine gun fire.

'Dragnet' Magic Gone

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Movie - TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - All the familiar elements were there - the "dum de dum dum" theme, badge 714, and even Jack Webb still wearing a sport jacket and a disgusted look.

But either something has happened to "Dragnet" in the years it has been away or something has happened to this viewer. The old magic just wasn't there.

DUTY DEVOTION

He was knocked off his feet twice by anti-tank fire, but persisted, and was credited with foiling an ambush.

Crockett's citation reads in part: "This outstanding display of aggressiveness, devotion to duty, and personal bravery are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service, and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army."

LSD PEDDLING

Typical was a final scene as Friday and his partner, now played by Harry Morgan, caught up with a boy who had been using and peddling LSD capsules.

"He's been taking them - the pills - all day," explained the boy's buddy. "He kept saying he wants to get even farther out."

There was not much of a police action plot to the first show. It was more of a preachment against use of LSD.

DISAPPOINTING

Webb, looking older and dour, did most of the police work. Morgan, an excellent actor, had not much more to do than tag along, and once was allowed to say that he would cover the back while Friday went in the front.

All this was disappointing to an old "Dragnet" fan. It was like going back to the old home town and finding that it was all very different from the way you remembered it. Of course, maybe the mistake is in going back.

Texas Prof Dies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Dr. Kenneth W. Spence, 59, experimental psychology professor at the University of Texas and former chairman of the psychology department at the University of Iowa, died Thursday.

Spence came to Texas in 1964 after serving for 22 years as head of Iowa's psychology department. He was born in Chicago.

Millionaire Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Elsie Machris Gilliland, 84, millionaire philanthropist, died Thursday after a long illness. She was the widow of George Machris, founder and president of the Wilshire Oil Co., and of oilman C. Ray Gilliland. She was born in Watertown, Wis.

Dick Gregory Free On Bond

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Negro comedian Dick Gregory was freed on $1,000 appeal bond after being sentenced Thursday to six months in jail, with half of the term suspended, on three counts of illegal fishing.

His wife, Lillian, was sentenced to 30 days in the Thurston County Jail on the same counts, but Superior Court Judge Hewitt Henry suspended all of her sentence.

Gregory gave notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court and later flew to New York.

He and his wife were convicted of illegally fishing with nets on the Nisqually River east of Olympia in November. They were taking part in a demonstration on behalf of Indians who claim the right to fish with any gear in the accustomed places of their ancestors.

The state contends that off their reservations the Indians are subject to state laws against net fishing, for the sake of fish conservation.

STATE TO APPEAL

Court Rules Against Voter Registration

AUSTIN (AP) — Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin says he plans to appeal a district judge's decision striking down the constitutional amendment requiring annual voter registration in place of the poll tax.

Dist. Judge Herman Jones ruled Thursday the amendment was misrepresented on the ballot.

"Certainly we are going to appeal," Martin said after learning of Jones' ruling.

If the Texas Supreme Court upholds the decision, the legislature will be free to repeal the annual Registration Law enacted by the 1966 special session and enact some other form of voter registration.

The suit challenging the amendment, approved by a 642-136 vote Nov. 8, was filed by Roy R. Evans, secretary-treasurer of the State AFL-CIO, and Allen C. Matthews, president of the Austin Labor Council.

REQUEST REFUSED

Jones earlier refused an AFL-CIO request to keep the amendment off the ballot on grounds he lacked authority to do so. The amendment was submitted to the voters as a choice for or against repealing the poll tax as a voting requirement. The U.S. Supreme Court, about a year after the legislature submitted the amendment, ruled the poll tax requirement unconstitutional.

No mention of the annual registration provision was made on the ballot.

COURT'S DUTY

"Frankly, the court has tried to find a way to avoid invalidating the result of an election, but it is my judgment that under the (legal) authorities it is the court's manifest duty to do so," Jones wrote.

"... Since the voters, by the ballot form, were told only that something in the constitution was being repealed, with no suggestion that anything was being frozen into the constitution, it is my judgment that the ballot form fails to meet the requirements of law.

"It is not to be implied from this holding that the court is suggesting any bad faith with reference to the form of ballot used; rather, it is my conclusion that the form of the ballot fails to give the voter fair notice of the scope, character and purpose of the amendment involved."

LAW ON BOOKS

Secretary of State John Hill, defendant in the suit, never has officially counted votes for the amendment. State election law prohibits the canvass when an amendment is challenged.

During the 1965 legislature, sponsors of a poll tax repeal amendment twice failed to get enough votes. The annual registration provision was inserted as a compromise to win conservative support. Last February, the legislature, in special session, passed an annual registration law endorsed by Gov. John Connally. That law remains on the books, in any event, unless changed by legislators.

The AFL-CIO, along with the League of Women Voters and some liberal groups, fought for permanent registration, but were defeated.

You've come to the right ad.

That's how little we charge for a Volkswagen. Of course you don't get certain things with it. Like a drive shaft. (The engine's in the rear.) Or a radiator. (It's air-cooled.) Also, because a VW gets about 27 mpg, you don't get a whopping bill at the end of every month. Come in and take a look. We think you'll like what you see. And also what you don't see.

Betting Bill Chances Better

AUSTIN (AP)—A Brownsville representative says horse race betting has a "much better chance this time."

Rep. Maurice Pipkin, who sponsored an unsuccessful proposal in the last session of the Texas Legislature to allow pari-mutuel betting, said Thursday he is ready to introduce another such bill.

He said the measure would have the effect of allowing horse race betting on a local option basis only in Harris, Dallas, Tarrant and Bexar Counties.

'IMMACULATE BOMBING' Rules Frustrate American Pilots

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—American pilots are flying bombing missions over North Vietnam under a set of ground rules they often find frustrating. Airmen call this the most restricted bombing offensive in history.

The fliers and their commanders are puzzled, for example, at Washington's ban on attacks against MIG airfields, targets they regard as entirely military.

Restrictions limit the fliers both as to type of target and the location.

POLITICAL REASONS
 Broadly, they are imposed for political reasons—to keep from drawing the Soviet Union or Communist China into the war or into bigger supporting roles, to forestall adverse world opinion, and to hold civilian casualties to a minimum.

U.S. officials concede that some civilians in North Vietnam have been killed and wounded by American bombs but they insist that no raids have been planned or made on civilian targets and that such casualties

FAIR GAME
 Similarly ruled out of bounds are major power plants, factories, high-density populated areas, Haiphong's harbor facilities and the MIG airfields in the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

U.S. airmen claim they could wipe out the small North Vietnamese air force in one night of raids. The Air Force was estimated at 75 planes before nine MIG21s were downed by U.S. airmen in the first week of January.

The ban on attacking Haiphong harbor apparently is to prevent hitting Soviet or other Communist vessels and thus possibly broadening the war.

Targets on the unrestricted list—fair game for U.S. bombers almost anywhere except Hanoi and Haiphong—are bridges, roads, rail lines, rail cars, trucks, barges, junks, staging areas, storage areas, oil depots, antiaircraft gun positions and surface to air missile sites.

Peters Due Short Term

John Marvin Peters, 29, who gained a lot of attention two years or so ago when he voluntarily confessed to a series of murders—none of which he could have committed—is soon to be checked in at the state penitentiary at Huntsville. However, he won't have to stay there long.

He entered a plea of guilty here Thursday to the charge of burglary against him. Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, assessed his punishment at two years in the state prison.

At the time of his arrest, Peters was held in jail here for 10 months and 15 days when he was found insane by a jury in 118th District Court and ordered to Rusk. After a year at the hospital he was held to be mentally recovered. Brought back here recently, he elected to plead guilty to the indictment.

Judge Caton gave Peters credit for the 10 months and 15 days he has served. With good time credit at the pen, officials said Peters will not have to stay in the prison but a short time.

Aubrey Standard, sheriff, said that Peters and H. B. Beck, under four-year sentence for a plea of guilty to a forgery charge, will be taken to Huntsville in the near future.

Bishop Holt Dies

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Bishop Ivan Holt of the Methodist church, 81, whose work took him to many parts of the world, died Thursday. The Rev. Mr. Holt served as bishop of the Methodist church from 1938 to 1944 when he was named Bishop of the Missouri Conference. He was born in De Witt, Ark.

Firemen Lead 70 To Safety

OMAHA (AP)—Three persons were hospitalized but more than 70 others escaped injury after fire broke out early today in the Hamilton Hotel on the edge of Omaha's business district.

Firemen brought two persons down aerial ladders from upper stories of the eight floor structure. The blaze was reported under control 30 minutes after it was spotted.

Fire Chief Martin Dineen said the fire broke out in a sixth floor room at the northwest corner of the hotel, and water and fire damage was confined to that area.

John Arndt of Dallas, Tex., said his son awakened him after he smelled smoke in a sixth floor room. They knocked out a window and called for help.

"The smoke was so thick we couldn't see or breathe," young Arndt said. "Flames gushed out at us as we walked down the corridor."

Firemen led them to safety.

Doctors Cited For Misconduct

FORT WORTH (AP)—The Texas State Board of Medical Examiners cancelled one doctor's license and placed another physician on probation Thursday, citing both for misconduct.

Two other doctors were scheduled to appear today to answer charges that they violated terms of their probation.

Dr. Clarence Houston Vann of Dallas lost his license on unprofessional conduct charges stemming from felony convictions against him in Michigan.

The board placed Dr. J. Clyde Chapman, Sanger osteopath, on five-year probation, citing him for drug offenses.

A second doctor accused of drug offenses notified the board he was too sick to travel and the case was postponed.

Ex-Rail Exec Dies After Long Illness

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Russell Lee Dearthmont, 75, former president and board chairman of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, died Thursday after a long illness. Dearthmont began his association with the railroad in 1930 and retired in 1962. He was a former Protestant co-chairman of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.
