Connally Asks Texans To Avoid Conformity

Smith Pleads For Economy In Government

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally today appealed to fellow Texans today to "dream the dreams and attempt the deeds of uncommon men" in reaching for the future greatness of the state.

"We must keep the door open to human adventure, and reinforce the daring of the individual," Connally said in an inauguration address minutes after taking office for a third term as governor.

"... We must be free to develop our own style and to reach for the moon so long as we do not tread on our neighbor's lawn."

Connally stressed that Texans "must at all costs avoid imposed conformity."

NEED FOR ECONOMY

The governor made no specific mention of his long-awaited speech to the legislature Wednesday in which he will recommend new forms of taxation to finance his ambitious budget for 1968-69.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, in his inauguration speech, stressed the legislative need for economy — "an old-fashioned word rarely heard any more in politics and government."

Smith said taxpayers already are "paying the barren taxes of inflation and we know there is a limit, somewhere, to the taxpayer's patience and his ability to pay. So far he has tightened his belt and paid. It is high time for us in government to tighten ours."

HALLOWED GROUNDS

Connally said the essence of being free men is "to be free to experiment. . . . When experimentation and aspiration are stultified by the heavy hand of government, the very vitality of our people is destroyed."

Connally looked up at the towering arches of the old pink granite Capitol and noted that "Here on these hallowed grounds, we are in the shadow of glories of strong men of another day. All around us stand majestically the tributes to the courage and dreams of Texans before us. But there are no monuments here to mediocrity. "They are monuments to the will of man to shape his own destiny, to dream his own dreams, to reach for his own stars."

DREAM THE DREAMS

"As we resume the journey here together today, they stand as inspiration to us in our own undertakings. Let us resolve as we begin our work once again to measure up to the daring and to the vision of these great Texans before us. Let us dream the dreams and attempt the deeds of uncommon man," Connally said.

Texas Democrats thronged the capital city Monday for a "victory" dinner honoring all their elected officials and many stayed over for the traditional rites on the south steps of the flag-bedecked pink granite building. They were joined today by thousands of just plain Texas citizens—and the one Republican state senator and the three GOP representatives.

BLACK TIE BALL

The festivities continue throughout the day with an afternoon parade and the formal, black tie ball tonight.

Connally, a youthful-looking 49 but with a lot more grey hairs than he exhibited six years ago, faces his toughest legislative session, which may affect his decision whether to run for an unprecedented fourth term. The governor, who has already said the legislature needs to raise more than $100 million in new revenue, tells a joint session Wednesday exactly what he thinks Texas needs at this time.

BITTER FEUD

Smith, 55, a soft-spoken, neatly dressed businessman, goes into the session, facing what many believe will be a long, bitter controversy with Speaker Ben Barnes. Both have the governor's chairman as a future goal.

Smith, who has been a strong supporter of economy in government throughout his tenure, called again for it in his inauguration speech.

Mao's Faction Gains Upper Hand In China

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung and his faction appear to have gained the upper hand in Communist China's power struggle and there are signs the threat of violence in Peking and other major cities is dissipating, the Peking correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri reported today.

The Japanese correspondent said the chaotic situation on the mainland appears to have "passed its peak and the tense situation prevailing over Peking, Shanghai, Nanking and other major cities appears to be subsiding following Mao's personal leadership of the purge."

Wall newspapers in Peking last week reported Mao had returned to the capital, quoting Premier Chou En-lai and other high Communist party officials.

URNS TIDE

"There is no doubt Mao's appearance played a decisive role to turn the tide of the crisis," the Yomiuri report said but added that the 73-year-old party chairman has not made any public appearances.

He reported that 30,000 anti-Mao workers left their jobs in Shanghai and set out for Peking but were intercepted and persuaded to return.

"Hundreds of thousands of workers had poured into Peking, creating tension last week," the dispatch continued, "but disappeared from the streets after Mao's support to an urgent appeal from Shanghai revolutionary pro-Mao rebels was reported in the People's Daily Thursday."

RALLY AROUND

Earlier Mao's faction had hinted at divisions in its ranks with a call on all pro-Mao organizations to rally around the Red Chinese army.

The call for unity—with its implication that Mao's offensive against President Liu Shao-chi and his followers has split—appeared in the Kwang Ming Daily, the organ of the Maoist intellectuals, and was broadcast by the official New China News Agency.

Quoting Mao as saying "the Chinese Red army is an armed body for carrying out the political tasks of the revolution," the paper asserted: "This is the fundamental principle of the great alliance of proletarian revolutionary groups."

CLEAR-CUT STAND

There were these other developments in the continuing struggle on the mainland:

The Albanian Communist party organ Zeri I Popullit said Mao's "revolutionary line has crushed the reactionary maneuvers of a handful of revisionists and plotters." It was the first time the Albanian party, the Chinese Communist party's chief European ally, had taken a clear-cut stand against Liu's faction and was considered an indication that the Albanians, whose defense minister is now in Peking, believe Mao has won or is winning.

Two Lost As Webb Trainer Crashes

Webb AFB today confirmed that a student pilot and instructor were killed in the crash of a T-37 jet trainer 15 miles north-northeast of Midland at 11:55 a.m. today. Names are being withheld pending notification of kin.

A T-37 from Webb AFB crashed and burned 13 miles north of Midland shortly after noon today.

Officials at Webb AFB confirmed that a T-37, on a routine instrument training flight, had left the base at 11:04 a.m. with two men aboard. It was missing.

A helicopter and military crash convoy were dispatched to the scene shortly after news of the accident.

Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders said that the occupants of the plane were killed.

Saunders said that the crash occurred on the Mabey ranch in western Martin County about three miles west of the Midland-Lamesa highway.

The aircraft crashed toward the north, leaving a furrow about 100 yards long. The charred wreckage appeared as though the airplane flipped over, coming to rest tail-first in a lonely pasture. The resulting fire burned off about an acre of grassland, near a rural road.

The Department of Public Safety first said that its initial reports were that a commercial plane was down and burning, but later confirmed that the craft was a military trainer.

Flag Man Dies After Being Hit

HENRIETTA, Tex. (AP) — A Highway Department flag man died Monday night after being hit by a car several hours earlier near Byers.

He was Homer Frazier, 56, of Henrietta.

Highway patrolman B. R. Nobles said Frazier was working at a Texas 79 construction project two miles south of Byers.

He said a Wichita Falls man, 68, failed to see the warning signs and the flagman until too late.

Burleson Loses Close Fight For Tax Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberal Rep. Jacob Gilbert, D-N.Y., defeated conservative Rep. Omar Burleson of Texas today in a close fight for a Democratic seat on the tax writing House Ways and Means Committee.

The Gilbert victory means that the committee, which will handle such crucial legislation as Social Security and the proposed income tax, will remain evenly divided between liberals and conservatives with Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., holding the decisive vote.

The committee in the new Congress will have 15 Democrats and 10 Republicans but two of the Democrats are Southern conservatives who generally vote with the Republicans.

The vote was 115 to 113, which means 18 Democrats failed to cast ballots at the party caucus.

Democrats held a 17-8 majority in the Ways and Means Committee in the 89th Congress, but the committee ratio was revised to reflect Republican gains in last November's election.

Murder Count Filed In Fatal Shooting

Jimmie D. McCarty, 23, died early this morning of a gun wound he received about 11 p.m. Monday, during an argument involving neighbors at Sixth and Runnels.

Charges of murder with malice were lodged shortly before noon today against James M. Reed, 20, said District Attorney Wayne Burns. He had been conferring with Detective Capt. Stanley Bogard and said the investigation was continuing.

The shooting occurred at 204 E. 6th, in the apartment of Reed and Foster McMillan, 19. The house is adjacent to 601 Runnels, where McCarty and his wife live, as well as Airman L.C. and Mrs. Tom Schreiber.

In statements made to police, the Schreibers indicated the arguments began over the attention directed toward Mrs. Schreiber and Mrs. McCarty by Reed and McMillan. Officers said the two married men earlier in the evening went to the apartment of Reed and McMillan to warn them against such attentions.

They returned shortly before 11 p.m. and on the second visit, the shooting occurred.

Schreiber called police, who found McCarty lying in the doorway of the apartment. Detectives said he had been struck once in the stomach by a bullet.

An Alert Ambulance carried him to Hall - Bennett Memorial Hospital, where he died at 2 a.m. today.

Jimmie Dewaine McCarty was born Jan. 1, 1943 in Sterling City, and he came here two months ago from San Angelo to work for the Forsan Oil Well Service Company. Mr. McCarty was a member of the Church of Christ. He had completed a tour of duty with the U.S. Navy in 1965 and was married to Karen Wingo May 28, 1966 in San Angelo.

She survives him as do his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McCarty, San Angelo; two sisters, Mrs. Nathan (Christene) Morris, Big Spring, and Mrs. Don Martin, Chama, N. M.

Services will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Sterling City Church of Christ with the minister, Marion Hays, officiating. Burial will be in the Montebale Cemetery under direction of Nalley - Pickle Funeral Home.

Ten Thousand More GIs Will Be Sent To Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten thousand more GIs will go to South Vietnam this month, boosting the U.S. force there to 405,000, Pentagon sources said today.

These officials predicted that by the end of the year the United States will be supporting a force of 475,000 in the Southeast Asian country.

At present there are 395,000 American servicemen in South Vietnam. The over-all Southeast Asian commitment stands at nearly 500,000, including 50,000 to 60,000 Navy men aboard ships of the 7th Fleet off Vietnam plus around 30,000 men, mostly Air Force, based in neighboring Thailand.

BIG BUILDUP

The steadily expanding buildup was signaled Monday by Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who told a Pentagon news conference there has been no change in President Johnson's policy stated in 1965.

That policy, he said, is that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, will be supplied the men and materials he needs.

BOUND TO WIN? Published reports have said that the Joint Chiefs of Staff disagree with what was described as an administration-set ceiling of 400,000 to 450,000 men in Vietnam.

Wheeler said Gen. Westmoreland does not differ with Washington officials over what force is needed in South Vietnam.

Wheeler, a four-star general, said he would "stick his neck out" by saying flatly the Communists have lost any chance they once may have had for a military victory in South Vietnam.

Does this mean the United States is bound to win, Wheeler was asked.

"I think so," he replied, declining to pick a date when the moment of victory will come.

Suit Over Bank Shortage Starts

By SAM BLACKBURN LAMESA—The Select Insurance Company began today its legal action to avoid payment covering losses to the Lamesa National Bank growing out of alleged defalcations discovered in 1965.

A jury of eight men and four women were hearing the case in 106th District Court, Judge Truett Smith, presiding.

C. A. Hollingsworth, president and a member of the bank's staff for 40 years, was the first witness and testified to discovery of notes which he described as "forgeries." He identified one specific $972 note as a "forgery."

SPOT IRREGULARITIES

On Oct. 27, 1965, he said, B. P. Middleton, an employee of the bank, discovered what appeared to be irregularities. There were several notes and other items which seemed to be out of line. The following day, Hollingsworth said, he and Middleton went through the note case and spotted about 200 notes which they thought were questionable.

Then, on Sunday morning, he and several officers of the bank called W. E. David, 32, executive vice president, to the bank for an interview, explaining they had found certain irregularities and asked if he knew about them. Hollingsworth said that David replied that he assumed they were talking about "the forged notes."

"The bank officers asked if David would be willing to go through the note case, and he said he would. There were about 1,200 notes, and some 200 were extracted in the process.

LONG PERIOD

They discussed the possibility of restitution, and Hollingsworth said David thought he might be able to make restitution with the help of his mother. It was near lunch and Hollingsworth said he asked David if he were expected at home, and he said he was. Hollingsworth told

A celestial visitation? Sorry, earth folk. It's only the Air Force experimenting.

SORRY ABOUT THAT, EARTH FOLKS

A Celestial Visitation?

ATLANTA (AP) — It came from the east. Some say it looked like green vapor with a band of lights.

Others claim they saw three concentric circles, pink and green, with turkey feathers.

One Georgian reported he saw something that looked like "a man jumping from an airplane—real slow like. Different colors were coming from it."

Scores of other Georgians were also puzzled or alarmed Monday night when they saw what appeared to be cigar or disc-shaped colored clouds in the sky.

Officials at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., said they launched three Nike-Iroquois rockets to begin tests of wind in the upper atmosphere.

Chemicals released 100 nautical miles above the earth emitted green, red and blue clouds seen in Savannah, Atlanta and other Southeast cities—and even as far west as East Texas and Oklahoma.

Three rockets were launched between 5:30 and 6 p.m. Soon, Georgians were reporting everything from blue streaks to red rays to an invasion.

RE-RUN SCHEDULED If you missed the celestial happening, officials at the base have arranged for a rerun Wednesday afternoon.

"I'd heard of flying saucers and said it was ridiculous. But I saw this thing and it got closer and closer until it was over a tree about 200 yards away. Oh, it was huge."

So reported Patricia Cook, 18, who, along with scores of other Georgians, saw cigar or disc-shaped colored clouds in the sky Monday night.

A visit by little purple men? Shucks, it was only an Air Force rocket.

Mrs. Linda Wallace said her child saw a blue streak. Mrs. James Belden said she saw an "inverted question mark with a light coming from it."

Rosanne Williams, 13, saw something too—"A huge grey cloud with a tail and it separated and zigzagged and left a small trail."

Spokesmen at the base said the vaporized barium payloads gave off a light green cloud, tinged with red and dark blue. They formed elongated patterns along the lines of the earth's magnetic field and were visible for about 30 minutes.

Time lapse photography was used to gather information about wind speeds and direction in the upper atmosphere. Cameras were situated as far as 100 miles from the launch site in northwest Florida.

A LOVELIER YOU

Winter Vacationing? Try The Jet-Set Tips

By MARY SUE MILLER
Winter vacations offer instant relaxation and pleasure only when you get off to a carefree start. For the "most" while in transit to your beach or ski slope, don't burden yourself with luggage. The type wanted is feather-light, yet durable and roomy. For instance, new "weightless" dress bags of travel-conditioned fabric safely transport 10 or more costumes. Some of these bags even fold and snap shut for ease of handling. To transport shoes, lingerie and accessories, there are compact nylon valises, fitted with see-through pockets. Zippered travel totes in paisley and floral prints are ideal for cosmetics. And en route necessities like, maybe, a pair of soft leather folding slippers, a sweater and a who-done-it. Don't overlook such indispensables as spillproof cosmetic containers, mending and medicine kits. If you plan on taking bulky sports equipment, be sure to arrange for its transportation when you arrange for your own. Before setting out on a long haul, rest up and get plenty of sleep. Be sparing of food and drink during the journey. Then you will not be victimized by the stresses that so often beset travellers. You'll feel relaxed on the way and ready to go when you get there.

Soviet Bloc Trade Barriers Vanishing

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A huge but very gradual expansion of trade between the East European and American nations seems to be in the making, barring unexpected changes in world politics.

If present tendencies toward lessening of barriers between Communist and capitalist nations continue it would mean some success for President Johnson's desire to build bridges of commerce to insure peace.

Ideological barriers appear to be dropping, battered by political and economic conditions.

The fact that two names long identified with capitalism—Eaton and Rockefeller—have been united in a plan to promote trade with the Communist nations symbolizes this.

Trade between the East European Communist nations and the United States is relatively small now. In 1966, the United States probably exported less than $40 million of goods to the Soviet Union and imported only a little more.

But the potential for improvement of this trade is enormous, and seems increasingly to interest both East and West.

might want more outlets for some of the discontinued trade with China.

The United States, in turn, would rather deal with a peaceful than a warlike Eastern Europe and Soviet Union. It feels trade could neutralize some political differences and keep communications open.

In pursuing closer commercial ties with these nations, President Johnson last October lowered export restrictions on 400 products. Previously these items—chemicals and machine tools among them—required special permits.

The administration also permitted the Export-Import Bank to guarantee credit loans by private American companies to Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

LOWER TARIFFS
Various other moves were announced in October, including a liberalization of travel rules for Americans going to Communist nations. Now it appears Soviet airliners soon will travel to New York and American liners to Moscow.

The response from Soviet and other Communist nations hasn't been entirely positive, but there has been some hint that objections to Johnson's proposals might be lowering.

The President now hopes to lower tariffs on East-West trade, but this could run into political opposition in Congress. Many Americans still object strongly to American corporations aiding Communist nations or earning money through trade with them.

The Eaton-Rockefeller plan would be a cooperative effort to develop more trade between European Communist nations and the United States, Latin America and Canada.

Thailand Finally Coming To Grips With Red Threat

Editor's Note: Thailand, one of the United States' staunchest allies in Southeast Asia, is fighting a Communist insurgent movement that some observers fear could engulf the country in a Vietnam-type conflict. Fred Hoffmann, military affairs writer for The Associated Press, went to Thailand to survey the situation. This is the first of a four-part series.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — After years of temporizing, Thailand is finally coming to grips with the growing threat of Communist terrorism in its northeast, U.S. officials believe.

A majority of American officials here agree that the guerrilla movement, backed by Red China and North Vietnam, can be contained without a major commitment of U.S. forces and without a minor insurgency developing into a wide open struggle like that in Vietnam.

But Thai and U.S. officials alike add that chances for success here hinge in a large measure on a satisfactory conclusion to the war in Vietnam.

It has been left out of the prosperity enjoyed by many of the 32 million Thais.

EXPLOITING
The peasants and villagers of the northeast have had slight contact with the Thai government, except for an occasional policeman or tax collector. Often the policeman was a predator rather than a protector.

"The Communists have basically been exploiting a vacuum," a U.S. diplomat says.

The Bangkok government is trying to redress this, with the help of about $43 million a year in U.S. economic aid.

About 85 per cent of the U.S. economic and technical aid is pointed toward counterinsurgency. So is much of the $60 million in military aid, which was increased this year at the urging of Ambassador Graham Martin.

Attempts by Peking to foment a Communist takeover of Thailand go back to early 1959 when a "Free Thai Movement" was set up in China, using disgruntled Thai expatriates.

BAD TURN
Things took a serious turn in November 1964, when Radio Hanoi announced formation of a "Thailand Independence Movement."

A clandestine radio calling itself "The Voice of the Thai people" raised the intensity of its propaganda onslaught. The broadcasts originated outside Thailand probably in China.

In 1965, Red China told the world the "Thai Patriotic Front" was in business. The front later absorbed the year-old independence movement.

The first clash between Thai security patrols and an armed Communist band in Thailand was recorded in the fall of 1965.

100 SKIRMISHES
This was followed by more than 100 skirmishes in the ensuing year. Most were quite small, but a couple of bigger firefights last winter jolted the Bangkok government some 350 miles away.

There are no confident estimates of the Communist armed strength in the northeast.

A top U.S. military officer said his guess would be about 1,500—"give or take 25 per cent."

This officer has access to the most complete intelligence information available, but he concedes: "Our intelligence net has great gaps."

The estimate of about 1,000 insurgents puts Communist rebel strength in Thailand well below what it was in South Vietnam in December 1960, when the National Liberation Front was founded.

According to statistics collected in Saigon, there were about 35,000 Viet Cong members in late 1960. This doubled within a year.

Civil Case Is Settled
A civil jury panel reported Monday in 118th District Court only to find no work awaiting them. The case docketed for trial Monday has been settled over the weekend, Judge Ralph Caton has been advised.

The court qualified the jurors and then sent them home with instructions to report on Wednesday at 10 a.m.

A second case on the docket, tentatively set for Monday, was not called and will apparently be the first case slated for Wednesday. No court is planned on Tuesday.

The case reported settled is styled Liandro Valencia vs. Texas Employers Insurance Association, compensation action.

A second compensation case, styled W. A. Patterson vs. Industrial Writers Insurance Co. was also set for Monday but it was not called.

No. 3 case on the docket is T&T Supply Co. vs. Fred's Transfer and Storage. This is a suit on a debt. Also set for Wednesday in No. 4 place is a suit, Carol J. Smith vs. Noel D. Marsalis, damages, and another damage case, John W. Anderson vs. Godfrey Chadd.

DEAR ABBY

Take A New Look

DEAR ABBY: Last summer I fell in love with a swell guy. He was on leave (I thought) from the service, but he seemed to be staying around for an awfully long time. Then it turned out he was A.W.O.L. I told him if he didn't go right back we were through. He went back and faced the ordeal which wasn't as bad as I had expected for being A.W.O.L. for 58 days.

To make a long story short, five days after he squared himself for his first A.W.O.L., he went A.W.O.L. again and now he is in the stockade at Fort Bragg, N. C. I understand he will be there for quite a while.

We planned on getting married as soon as he gets out of service, Abby. My problem is, should I go through with those plans? He is really a swell guy.

DEAR GOING: Wait until this "swell guy" gets out of the stockade, out of service, and into civilian life again and then take a good, hard look at him. You have plenty of time before making a decision.

DEAR ABBY: On Thanksgiving day you published your favorite blessing to be said before meals. It was the most meaningful "grace" I had ever read, so I clipped it and said it before our Thanksgiving dinner. All of our guests agreed that it was wonderful, and they asked for a copy. A question arose, however, about which there was a difference of opinion. In the line, "May these remembrances still us to service," Abby, by "still us" did you mean to "be still in us"? Or did you mean "Steel," to make hard or resolute? Thank you.

BOSTON FAN
DEAR BOSTON: Neither. It was a typographical error. The line should have read, "May these remembrances stir us to service, that thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen."

DEAR ABBY: You will never know what marvelous relief and fond memories were revived when I read about the bride who received a silver candle snuffer and wrote to thank the giver for "the darling little gravy dipper."

When my husband and I were married, he was a struggling medical student who worked after school for a distinguished radiologist. For our wedding gift, this man and his wife sent us an elegant sterling silver angel food cake slicer and server. Being unaccustomed to such luxurious items, neither my husband nor I could figure out what this utensil was supposed to be used for. We finally agreed, and I wrote to thank them for the "lovely meat tenderizing tool."

Many months later, to my horror and humiliation, I saw a similar "meat tenderizing tool" being used to serve cake at a Christmas party. The lovely lady never mentioned my faux pas, and I hopefully thought I got my gift cards mixed up when I wrote my thank-you notes.

Mrs. Wallace Buckles Down

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. Lurleen Wallace, the first woman to govern a state in three decades, buckles down to the task today.

She will have little time, however, to ponder the uncommonness of her role. Her first working day as Alabama's chief executive is a full one.

At midmorning, she holds her first Cabinet meeting. After lunch, she addresses the legislature.

There was no announcement prior to the Cabinet meeting that there would be any changes from the cabinet of Mrs. Wallace's husband, predecessor and "No. 1 adviser," George C. Wallace.

BOND ISSUE
In her first address to the legislature, which winds up its 10-day organizational session today, Mrs. Wallace may announce that she will call the legislators back, perhaps later this month, to act on what would be a record road bond issue. Along with the anticipated request for $150 million or more to refill the highway department's depleted coffers, may come a proposal for increased highway revenue.

Alabama's first — and the nation's third — woman governor was sworn in Monday.

CROWD ROARS
In her speech Mrs. Wallace strongly indicated that her husband expects to run again for president next year, as he did three years ago. Wallace, in introducing his wife, reinforced that impression.

Though Wallace has carefully avoided any outright declaration of his intention to do so, the campaign to elect his wife as his stand-in successor revolved heavily around broad hints that he intended to run again for the presidency.

Mrs. Wallace told the cheering throng that she ran for governor to enable her husband to "take our fight (for states rights) to the final court of appeal — the people of the United States."

YOUR Horoscope Forecast for Tomorrow

By Carroll Righter

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is no time to make any drastic changes in your life. If you are in a rut, don't try to break out of it today. Wait until tomorrow.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Forget that secret anxiety you've been carrying around. You can open up a whole new kettle of worms and reveal your important duties. Be thoughtful and you learn how to handle difficult work. Don't be a fearful snail.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid falling into that trap that a friend is maliciously waiting out for the fun of it and you get all straightened out nicely. Avoid anything that takes you away from your important duties. Be precise in both public and social affairs. Use today and show others your confidence with care, whatever the forces you face.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Steer clear of that troublemaker who has great trouble with higher-up who has great trouble with higher-up who has great trouble with higher-up. Don't do it. Avoid losing friends because you feel temperamental.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although you may feel limited financially, all you need is a rather secure mode of income. Be precise in both public and social affairs. Use today and show others your confidence with care, whatever the forces you face.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your associate's ideas are not good for you right now so be sure you are diplomatic in handling him, or her. There is some pressure on you and you hardly know what to attribute it. Be on your guard.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although you may have much work ahead of you, don't give up in despair, but dig right in and you get it out of the way. You find you still have time for recreation later. If you are tired, increase bedtime.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Morning fits you wanting to go out for fun and later even to avoid working along with associates. Getting busy during obligations is best. You can settle any disagreements of a better nature.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Certain situations of home irritate you somewhat, but if you look on the funny side of things, you settle them very easily. Plan ahead with care. Do not expect much of anything important to happen today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study reports that have you quite puzzled and then handle home affairs that are somewhat confusing, but be tactful. Be very careful in handling mechanical instruments of all kinds. Avoid accident's.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Be a person of wisdom. Avoid some big money right now, later, avoid some big argument with an associate. He, or she, is in an unusual fix. Be patient. Know what is expected before venturing forth on a new vital project on the morrow.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN tomorrow, he or she will be one of those human dynamos who could get into a good deal of mischief if you don't make sure, early that energy is directed properly in constructive channels. The trouble-shooter will then be definitely in this chart, as well as the humanitarian. There is a deep understanding of mechanics and others can learn and be helped much by your enterprising progeny.

Biologists Fear Deer To Perish

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, fearful of famine among the state's deer herds, recommends supplemental feeding beyond Dec. 31 end of deer hunting season.

Mainly because of fall drouth, deer are exhausting their natural food supplies the department says. Consequently they have begun raiding crops and grazing on highway shoulders, endangering traffic.

Biologists fear this year's yearlings will be the first to perish if food supplies are not replenished by rainfall and supplemental feeding.

Miss Fonda Describes Nude Scene

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "What has happened to Hank Fonda's nice little girl Jane?" asked a Beverly Hills dowager recently.

What indeed? First Jane Fonda showed up in Playboy in the characteristic pose for that magazine? nude.

Now she has been banned in Italy. The film she made with her husband, director Roger Vadim, "The Game is Over" — Italian title: "The Kill" — was seized on a citizen's complaint that it was obscene — Italian law allows such a practice. A magistrate in Bari, Italy, ruled that it was indeed obscene and ordered trial for the film's distributor and theater managers who showed it.

NOT OBSCENE
On the latter matter, Miss Fonda was mystified. Here to finish "Barefoot in the Park," she commented that the Italian censors had already passed the Vadim film and it had enjoyed a good reception in Italy. She denied that it contained anything obscene.

"Vadim would not do anything that was not in good taste," said the actress, who refers to her husband with his last name.

On the matter of the Playboy spread, she is more voluble. She has sued the magazine for $9.5 million, charging that printing of the seven photos showing her "almost completely nude and with her breasts exposed" was unauthorized. The suit added that "her professional career and aspirations are and will be incalculably and permanently harmed."

"Not every one who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven." (Matthew 7:21, RV)

PRAYER: Eternally gracious Lord, put it into our hearts to cease neglecting our worship of Thee in the church. May we think of it as one way of witnessing to the world and to Thee of our undying loyalty and love for Thy church for which Jesus laid down His life. In His name. Amen.

Why Not Open Hearings?

Once again an effort has failed to change the Texas Senate's rule for considering gubernatorial appointments in sworn secret session. This is not an issue of liberal vs. conservative.

When a gubernatorial appointment, subject to Senate ratification, is rejected or approved, the people of the state are entitled to know why and by what vote. And on a controversial appointment, the people of each senatorial district are entitled to know their senator's stand on the issue. The present secrecy rule only serves to let senators play underhanded pressure politics with gubernatorial appointments and pressure the governor without being held accountable by their own constituents.

And the rule can and has worked gross injustices on appointees. The Texas Senate should adopt the fair and open procedure of the United States Senate in considering presidential appointments. The federal procedure is for a Senate committee to weigh the competence of the appointee, with an open hearing at which he is questioned and can answer critics, and recommend approval or rejection by the full Senate, which is done after open floor debate and recorded vote if the appointment is controversial.

So long as the Texas Senate handles gubernatorial appointments in complete and unwarranted secrecy, decisions in this field will be suspect.

Less Noise, Please

There is growing awareness that noise is not merely an annoyance—that it can be a threat to health of body and mind. And a high noise level is increasingly a condition of life in our industrialized, mobile, entertainment-oriented society.

Leo L. Beranek, an authority on noise and how it affects people, writes in Scientific American of the importance of making "a tolerable adaptation to the noises of civilization." The phrase suggests very well the only sensible course open to us: We must consciously adapt to noise as man has adapted to other environmental factors.

Practical suggestions offered by Beranek would be good food for thought in legislatures and Congress. We commend to the attention of both lawmakers and private industry this passage: "With some ingenuity and at moderate cost we can hush our noisiest industries to save the hearing of workers. We can mitigate the roar of traffic—on the ground and in the air—by instituting and enforcing noise codes, by improving the design and operation of vehicles, interposing buffer zones to separate residential areas from airports and superhighways (through zoning and condemnation) and by sealing buildings against noise where proximity to noise is unavoidable."

All this would be expensive, but the psychological and physical price we pay for noise is high, too. Perhaps the time has come for laying the groundwork of an effective, broad-scale noise control program.

The Superbowl In Washington

WASHINGTON — Americans have been subjected to so much football on television this season that it's very difficult for any of us to look at anything, except in football terms. I couldn't help thinking as I watched President Johnson deliver his State of the Union speech last week how it would have been reported by two football commentators.

"Good evening, folks. Welcome to the Credibility Bowl, another wonderful State of the Union classic between the Great Society Longhorns and the hardhitting American Solons, who haven't won a contest against the Great Society team in three years.

"THE BACKFIELD for the Great Society team is the same as last year. At quarterback for his third year is Lyndon B. Johnson, at fullback Lyndon B. Johnson, at halfback Lyndon B. Johnson, and at flanker Lyndon B. Johnson. The line is composed of the famed seven blocks of Lyndon.

"The Solons are fielding a strong defensive team of Republicans and Southern conservatives this year and are expected to give Great Society some serious opposition.

"Great Society has won the toss and team captain Lyndon B. Johnson has elected to kick off and receive at the same time.

"QUARTERBACK Johnson comes out of the huddle, takes the snap from center and hands off the ball to the fullback who hits the line for no gain. Halfback Johnson tries a run around end, but the rugged Solon line is holding and once again Great Society shows no appreciable gain. It's third down and long yardage. The quarterback rolls out to throw a long pass about taxes, but it's incomplete and Great Society may have to kick.

"It's time out on the field, and seated next to me is one of the great ex-

Billy Graham

One question bothers me and it concerns David the Psalmist. He was called "A man after God's own heart," and yet he sinned, committing adultery and murder. Isn't this a big contradiction?

D.B.

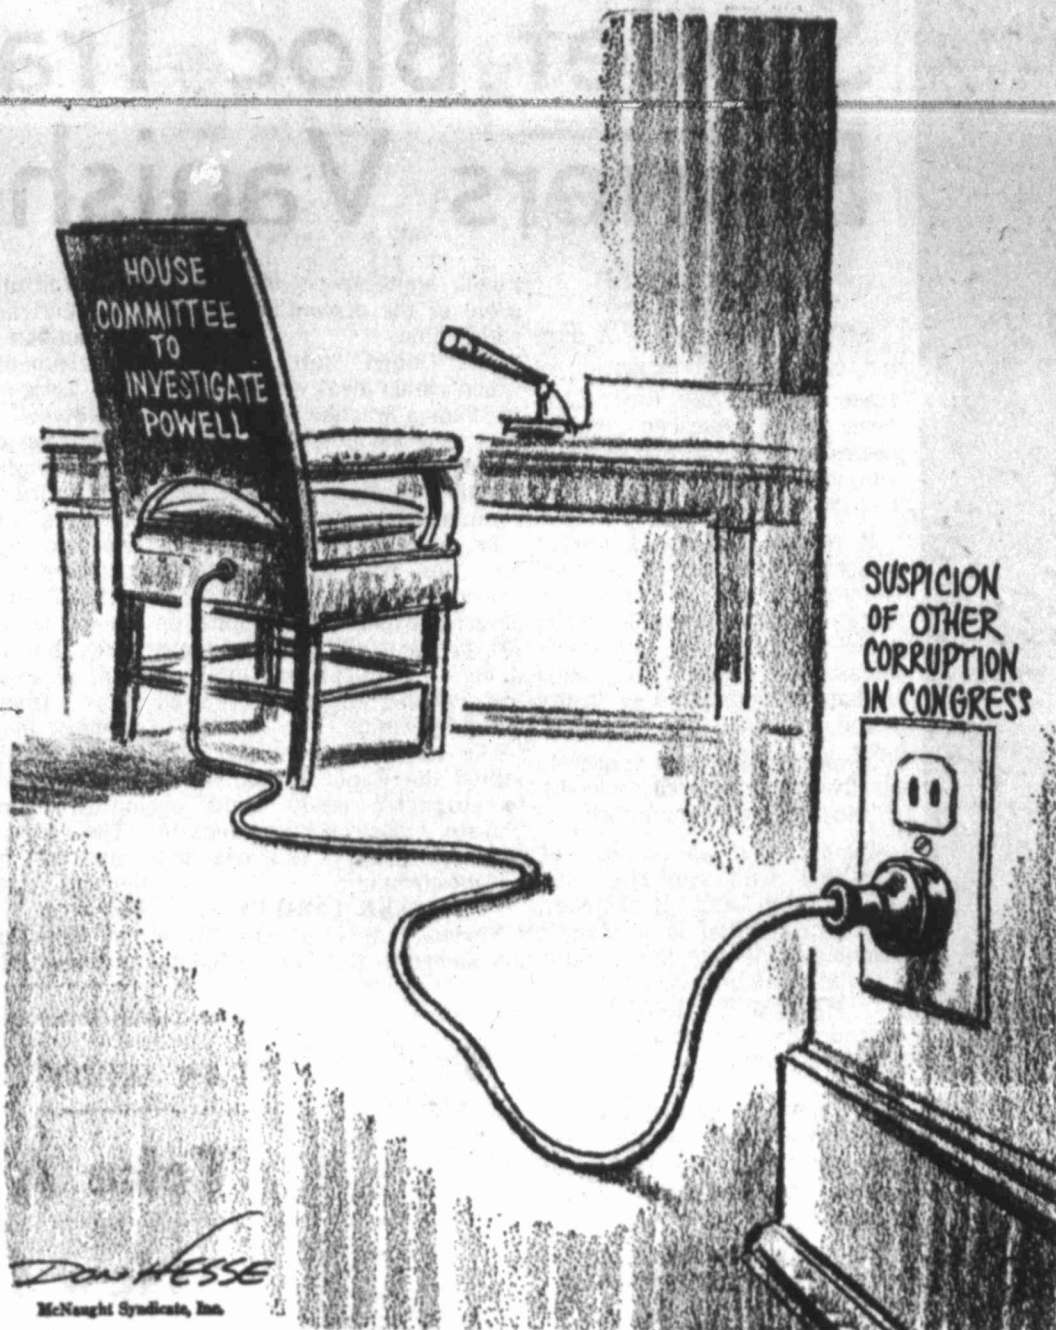

Not at all. One thing that makes the Bible such a believable book is that it does not cover up its heroes' mistakes and sins. It shows them just as they are, blemishes and all, sins and all.

God's love for David shows the nature of God. What if He only loved perfect, sinless people? Of course there aren't any such people, but suppose the Lord loved only those who had no flagrant sins. Where would the rest of us be? I believe the story of David was put in the Bible to show us that God loves us, even though we are sinful, blundering, and given to doing wrong. The Bible says "God commandeth his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

I see nothing contradictory about such a love. It is just like the Lord to love us in spite of our mistakes, and I'm glad He did, for if He had loved only those who seemed perfect, then I could not have been counted among His children.

Vietnam Needle Stuck

WASHINGTON (AP)—A year passes. The questions and answers about Vietnam begin again. The same voices speak. They sound sometimes like an old record with the needle stuck — nothing has changed much.

That is, nothing has changed much in the arguments of the ones making them. There have been changes.

The United States has more troops in Vietnam, about 395,000 now to about 180,000 a year ago. More than 6,630 U.S. military men have been killed in Vietnam since 1961, over 5,000 of them in the last year.

IN FACT, more American military men have been killed in Vietnam than in the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, or the Spanish-American War.

And the longer the war the more the damage to President Johnson's popularity and the greater the number of his critics. The war itself looks no nearer an end than it did this time last year.

But the talking goes on, like the bombing of North Vietnam.

Behind closed doors Monday Secretary of State Dean Rusk spent four hours testifying about the war before the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee whose chairman, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, is one of Johnson's most persistent critics.

NEXT Monday Rusk will face the same committee in public. Last year he did the same. At that time Fulbright said the war did not involve the national interest of the United States.

He said it was the kind of war that keeps on escalating, hardly a prophetic statement since the war has been getting bigger year by year.

Monday, Fulbright, sounding exactly like himself of a year ago, said the fundamental issue is whether the war is in "our national interest." Many things have happened in a year but Fulbright still makes that the basic issue.

But the claim that American national interest and security are the main reasons for this country's involvement in the war has been the Johnson administration's basic position from the beginning.

AFTER talking privately to the committee Monday, Rusk talked to newsmen and said U.S. bombing of the north must continue while this country keeps trying "to find out" whether stopping the bombing would be a move toward peace.

If the north stops trying to seize South Vietnam by force, Rusk said, peace can come very quickly.

A year ago he said if the armed attack against South Vietnam is brought to an end, peace can come very quickly.

Thus the position of the Johnson administration is what it was a year ago, just as there is nothing in Fulbright's view in 1967 that seems different from his view in 1966.

Carbon Copies Complaint

By GORDON BEARD
BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — I'm not eligible for medicare yet, and it's just as well. I can't even understand the simple form to be filled out for a routine accident case.

This is not a complaint about hospitals or their employees. After all, a gash on my little finger, left hand — self-inflicted with a knife while looking for a midnight snack — was sewn up quickly and without fuss.

IT WAS those preliminaries, in the twilight zone of the carbon copies, where I lost contact with reality.

Actually, it all started when I walked into a hospital emergency room about 1 a.m., my bandage finger held aloft and my right hand cutting off the flow of blood.

"May we help you?" was the first question. I should have known what to follow.

"WHAT seems to be the trouble?" the nurse asked, reaching for the duplicate form.

"What's your last name?"
"Beard."
"Be-a-r-d?"
"Yes," I answered, squeezing my finger a bit tighter.

"First name?"
"Gordon."
(Hal Boyle is III.)

"Middle initial?"
"Well, actually, my middle name is Gordon." Now, she didn't know what to do with the "R," my first initial.

"What's your mailing address?" Presumably, in case I kept bleeding and they needed help in finishing the form.

"201 1st Street, Greenwood Acres."

"LET'S see, did I spell 'Acres' right?"
"What was your birth date?"
Hurry up, I may not have another one.

"Are you married?" They must have a lot of domestic quarrels around here.

"How did you cut the finger?"
"Boy, they really have specialists in this hospital."
"What time did it happen?"

"TWELVE twenty-seven and one half." She didn't record the one-half.

"Who brought you here?"
Now they think I'm a member of a gang.

"Who's your family doctor?"
They're still trying to trap the rest of the mob.

Suddenly I realized it was all legitimate. The next question brought me back to reality.

"Do you have insurance?"
(Hal Boyle is III.)

Around The Rim

The Poor Also Escape

It is generally believed an individual who has money can get away with murder—literally.

"Oh, he'll get out of it," is the comment of the public when some character who is well to do kills someone and winds up in the courts.

AS A GENERAL rule there is a lot of truth in the cynical conclusion. The availability of ready cash to pay for attorneys, court costs, depositions and the slew of other material essential to the complicated and tedious trial of a lawsuit certainly helps the defendant.

However, it is not always a matter of having money. Sometimes a pauper, charged with crime, can foil justice and evade paying for his offense as deftly as a millionaire. In these days, with more and more handicaps being laid on the police, the prosecutors and the lower courts, the lawbreaker's chance of going free—or at the worst getting the minimum penalty for his crime—have been much broadened.

SO IT IS no longer solely an issue of money.

In hundreds of more or less million-felon cases, the disposition is devoid of elaborate legal maneuvering. Hundreds of defendants, indicted for felonies, are brought before the courts each day. They have no funds for the employment of lawyers, so the court appoints a lawyer from the local bar to represent the defendant. The lawyer, whose time is valuable, has no great wish to act but he does so. Generally the hearing is brief.

This is not always the case. Consider the ubiquitous John Edwin Myers.

SELF-ADMITTED slayer of four persons—all of whom were ruthlessly slaughtered for no cause other than greed—Myers was financially broke when he was arrested and probably is broke today. He had no relatives who were interested in helping him. Indeed, one relative brushed him off as "no good" and asked that no one bother her about him any longer.

Arrested in 1961, Myers has cost the State of Texas and the State of Illinois countless thousands of dollars, and he has yet to be punished for any of the four homicides for which he stands accused.

HE HAS BEEN twice convicted, and in both convictions a jury of his peers decreed that he die for his crimes. In Texas, where three attempts were made to try him, the highest court in the state reversed the death verdict and ordered a retrial. Sent back to Illinois, he was again tried and again convicted, and once more he heard the judge assess his punishment at death.

This time, the high court of Illinois declined to intervene in his case when he appealed. However, when Myers, inspired by the recent actions and rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, sought to take his case to that high tribunal, the Illinois supreme court granted him an "indefinite" stay of execution. It worked out that the U.S. Court, (somewhat surprisingly), declined to consider his appeal. However, the Illinois edict was in effect and Myers' execution date passed. Thus, he is still alive after nearly six years and still unpunished for his crime.

IN ALL of those years, Myers has not had a cent of money other than gifts from a few softheaded and maudlin individuals who somehow worked up a sympathy feeling for "the poor fellow" and sent him modest cash gifts.

But society (against whom he most grievously offended) has spent countless thousands of dollars to insure that this man be given all of his rights.

Meantime, the four luckless individuals whose right to live Myers summarily revoked with a gun, lie sleeping. Among other things, justice is funny.

The Alignment In Congress

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
(For Marquis Childs who is on vacation)

WASHINGTON — Something about half-way between a moderately liberal and a faintly conservative tone is dominant in the new Congress, in its biennially revamped committee structures and in the purposes of its leadership in both parties and in both houses.

The upsurge of a kind of old-guard conservatism excitedly seen by some observers is both a fiction and a cliché, resting primarily upon a misunderstanding of the action of the House of Representatives in disciplining Rep. Adam Clayton Powell.

BECAUSE the Republican House membership massively joined nearly all the Southern Democrats — and some Northern Democratic liberals as well — in forbidding Powell his seat pending an investigation of his conduct, the notion has arisen that "the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition" of old memory is back.

The fact is that this was an action of happenstance and of thoroughly mixed motives. And it does not for a moment forecast that a long-dead coalition will be back in business on legislative issues generally.

THE REPUBLICANS, not unnaturally, were glad to cooperate in laying the whip on Powell, not simply because his behavior has been indecorous in the extreme, but no less because he is a Democrat and a thoroughly demagogic one at that. The deep Southerners, equally naturally, were not at all averse to cutting him down to size if only because he symbolizes Negro political extremism.

But the core of the reality was that it was neither Republicans nor Democrats who opened the attack upon Powell, but rather ultra-liberal Northern Democrats who turned on a man who had long served their doctrinal ends because his arrogance had become excessive, even to them. There is, parenthetically, some grain of truth in Powell's observations that he was "lynched" by Northern liberals.

THE ULTRA-LIBERALS had sought his ouster here and now. In this they failed, for it is still possible that ultimately he will be seated. They did, however, make a far stronger showing than all experience had suggested to be possible. But at all events, the point is that no possible generalizations for the future of legislative issues in the House can be drawn from this episode.

Putting the Powell matter aside for what it is—a sideshow—the factual position is that a middling and wait-and-see stance may confidently be predicted for this Congress.

FOR EXAMPLE, it is extremely improbable that, barring some sharp economic upward turn into inflation, Congress will grant President Johnson's request for a six per cent increase in income taxes. If business goes way up and there is a great deal of hot money around, the increase probably will be voted, along about summertime. If business goes on about as it is, or if it ebbs, there is no real chance in this session of any tax rise.

ON THE OTHER hand, it is far too early to suppose that the relatively modest welfare bills proposed by the President will be lost. The Republicans in Congress, notwithstanding their significant gains last November, have clearly not come here automatically determined to repeal the Great Society and may indeed go along here and there with certain extensions of it.

And this is about the size of it. (Copyright, 1967, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Bobby Baker And Adam Powell

WASHINGTON — Since life so often arranges its scenes more dramatically than a dramatist could, the trials of Bobby Baker and Adam Clayton Powell opened last week on the same day.

Two men, caught at the peaks of their careers, had been seized by the custodians of public rectitude and rendered in jeopardy of losing much that they held most dear. Dramatically, too, the fates of Baker and Powell were inexorably knotted into the tangled relationship of the most widespread antagonists on earth — the white and the Negro races.

THIS LAST is not instantly apparent, for justice is blindfolded and American politics is supposed to be color-blind. All the same, nothing was more evident concerning the Baker jury than that 11 out of 12 were Negro. And nothing about the demotion of Congressman Powell was more noteworthy than that Negro militants from his district and all over the country hurt whatever chances he had to escape.

EDWARD BENNETT Williams, the renowned defense attorney, is Baker's best hope to beat the rap. Williams unintentionally caused reporters to surmise that he was as satisfied with the jury box coloration as the prosecutor, William O. Bittmann was otherwise. Williams probably has more experience than Bittmann in these matters, and is a superb courtroom stylist of the underplayed appeal. As one reporter later remarked: "The jurors won't be hearing Bobby's Southern accent. They'll be listening to Ed."

IT MAY BE, as my own opinion goes, that any attorney who shows full confidence in the ability of Negro jurors to acquit themselves well, already has an advantage over the opposing counsel. I have seen this turn out to be true in other courtrooms.

But the ever-present rub between Negroes and whites was clearly hurtful to Powell. A backlash was put into being by the Negro leaders (and by Powell himself) who wrongly contended in advance that the case was racially prejudiced. Democratic congressmen received bundles of messages, urging them not to be taken off the trail by the red herring of a phony issue. The phonyness was emphasized by the arrival in town of Stokely Carmichael and a rabble of his bearded, chanting followers. The case against Powell, pure as the driven snow in the first instance, was sullied when Black Power made its rowdy entrance.

SAD BUT TRUE, the rising tide of color now wets the feet and mires the pathways wherever mankind turns. In courtroom and Congress, in the U.N. and all along and below the Equator, the suspicion and antagonism between black and white are deniable only by those who choose not to acknowledge what is manifest.

Yet on the second day of the cases of Baker and Powell, the most warmly welcomed newcomer in the Senate chamber was Edward Brooke, the non-racial Negro. His presence shows how much different such things may someday be.

Israel, Syria Okay Plea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel and Syria have accepted U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's appeal for an emergency meeting to ease border tensions, but the meeting does not appear imminent. Thant urgently requested the two governments Sunday to agree "without delay or preconditions" to a meeting of the Israel-Syria Mixed Armistice Commission after he received reports of a major military

Special Panel Being Called

One hundred and 75 men and women of Howard County will be getting notices from the sheriff's office this week to report to court next Monday at 10 a.m. They will comprise a special venire drawn yesterday by the district court clerk, under direction of the district judge, to serve in the trial of three murder cases docketed for trial next week. The cases are against Narciso Santiago, charged with the slaying of M. T. Gore; Roy F. Young Jr., charged with killing Clarence E. Williams; and Avery Foster, indicted for the death of Jessie Palmer. Fern Cox, district court clerk, pointed out that it is not within the power of either clerk's office or the district judge to excuse special veniremen from serving on the venire. The only way a venireman can be excused is to contact the district attorney, and (in this week's docket in particular) the defense attorneys for all of the three men slated for trial. This is necessary because it is not certain which of the three cases will go to trial. If a juror is to be excused from serving on the panel, all of the attorneys must agree. There is no use, it was stressed, in contacting Cox or Judge Ralph Caton asking to be excused.

Fun Train Bash Held

NEW YORK (AP) — Parks Commissioner Thomas Hoving, who has tossed all kinds of bashes in efforts to make New York a "fun city," came up with a fun subway train Monday night. Ladies in gowns, minks and sables, and gentlemen in dinner jackets and patent-leather footwear invaded the sooty old east side IRT subway for a special train ride to the Brooklyn Museum. The museum wanted Hoving and his guests from society and officialdom for the opening of its new paintings study gallery. The museum chartered a 10-car train from the Transit Authority for $400.

Terrible Water Taste Corrected

DALLAS (AP) — Dallasites, recently screaming about the terrible taste of their water, were reassured of its safety by H. J. Graeser, water department superintendent. A light rain fell on fallen leaves, soaking out the peculiar taste and letting it flow into reservoirs. Normally this responds to treatment but did not at this time. The taste eventually passed.

Author Speaks

Author William Manchester tells a press conference that Mrs. John F. Kennedy has withdrawn her lawsuit against his book "Death of a President." Manchester read from a prepared statement at the Overseas Press Club in New York yesterday. (AP WIRE-PHOTO)

Many Cuts In Kennedy Book Made

NEW YORK (AP) — Many changes made in settling the Kennedy book controversy out of court with Harper & Row involved what the late president's two children said and did in the immediate period following his assassination, it was learned today. A source close to the Kennedy family said that in all roughly 6,000 to 8,000 words figured in the changes in William Manchester's book, "The Death of a President." "Many changes involved the children and their reaction in the period of the assassination and what they said and did," the source said. "It was nothing embarrassing, but it was very sensitive and could be difficult for the children in the future." PAPERBACK EDITION An official of Harper & Row said that the changes involve a cumulative total of about eight pages out of 654. Mrs. John F. Kennedy's lawsuit to block publication of the book was withdrawn Monday when Harper & Row and Manchester agreed to delete or modify certain personal passages of concern to President Kennedy's widow. The settlement, which came after nearly a month of negotiations, clears the way for Harper & Row to go ahead with its scheduled publication of a hardcover edition in April and a paperback edition to be published by Dell Books at least a year later.

United States Withholding Visas From Czechoslovaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials have confirmed reports from Czechoslovakia that the United States is withholding visas from Czechoslovaks in retaliation for the continued detention of a Czech-born U.S. citizen. Although U.S. officials have not banned travel to Czechoslovakia, they are advising travelers that relations between the two countries are tense. The current situation resulted from the arrest last Oct. 31 of Vladimir Kazan-Komarek, a Cambridge, Mass., travel agent, when his plane from Moscow made what was described as an emergency landing in Prague. He was charged with espionage.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has reassigned Gen. John D. Ryan, now commander in chief of the Strategic Air Command, as commander in chief of Pacific air forces. Ryan succeeds Gen. Hunter Harris Jr., who retires Jan. 31. Taking Ryan's old post will be Lt. Gen. Joseph J. Nazzaro, present vice commander in chief of SAC, who is being promoted to four-star rank. Johnson also said Monday Lt. Gen. Keith K. Compton, Air Force deputy chief of staff for plans and operations, will succeed Nazzaro. Lt. Gen. Glen W. Martin, inspector general of the Air Force, succeeds Compton.

Gambler Faces Electric Jolts

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) — Alfred Morfitt is going to take electric shock treatments in an attempt to end his passion for gambling. A Sheffield court ordered the 41-year-old factory worker to have "aversion therapy" to stop his betting or go to jail for swindling fellow workers out of money he spent on the horses. Psychiatrists prescribed this course of treatment: "A movie will be made showing Morfitt's wife and three children in some scenes and in others Morfitt at race tracks and in betting shops. The film will be played back for Morfitt, and he will get painful electric jolts every time he is shown at the races or talking to bookies. The psychiatrists hope he will associate gambling with pain and discomfort and give it up. Sheffield Hospital, where the treatment will be tried, didn't say how long it is expected to take.

Area Cold Wave Warnings Issued

By The Associated Press

A norther that powdered the Texas Panhandle with snow pushed southward today, with intense cold and freezing rain forecast for the portions of the state.

The Weather Bureau issued cold wave warnings for Northwest, Northeast and North Central Texas and said driving could be hazardous as far as deep East Texas by evening.

No blanket of snow was likely to come from the latest norther. Snow flurries mixed with rain was the forecast.

MERCURY DIPS — Temperatures fell steadily as the cold front passed. Dalhart, with an inch of snow on the ground, had 25 degrees at dawn and 21 degrees three hours later.

Forecasts were for lows of five degrees in the Panhandle and 15 to 28 degrees in North Central and Northeast Texas by Wednesday morning. The cold will intensify Wednesday, the Weather Bureau said.

Early morning temperatures dipped to 20 degrees at Perryton, 23 at Dalhart, 24 at Lubbock and 25 at Amarillo. At the same hour the readings ranged up to a balmy 58 at Brownsville, where the front was expected to arrive about 5 p.m.

FOUR ABOVE ZERO — By 7 a.m. the forward edge of the cold front slanted toward the southwest along a line from near Waco to Junction and Del Rio.

Temperatures dropped slowly with the front's passage, but bitter cold was in prospect for some sections by Wednesday morning. Forecasts called for readings as low as four above zero in the Panhandle, 16 in Southwest Texas, 18 in North Central Texas, 22 in Northeast Texas, 24 in South Central Texas and 26 in Southeast Texas.

Occasional light rain was promised Northeast Texas by tonight with a likelihood it would freeze and glaze the eastern edge of that section.

A few snow flurries were expected through this evening in parts of Northwest Texas.

No other moisture was indicated. Brisk winds accompanying the cold front appeared certain to accent the growing moisture deficiency in many parts of the state.

The same winds kicked up dust Monday in the Panhandle-Plains sector and fanned fresh outbreaks of minor grass fires at many points.

Top temperatures Monday included the nation's high of 80 at Presidio. Maximum readings elsewhere in the state ranged down to 56 at Dalhart.

Mrs. Boullion Is Named Head Of Concert Group

Mrs. Elbert B. Boullion Jr. was elected president of the Big Spring Concert Association Monday evening. She will succeed Mrs. Ann Gibson Hauser as head of the organization which for more than a quarter of a century has brought good entertainment to Big Spring.

The board returned Dr. Josh Burnett as program vice president, and Mrs. Roberta Phelan as secretary. Mrs. Floyd Mays was named treasurer.

The board also started its search for programs for the 1967-68 concert season and indicated that it will make inquiries on a broader front.

Plans also were made for the next program on the current series, the Midland - Odessa Symphony Orchestra and Chorus here Saturday evening. Dr. Lara Hoggard, director, is premiering a lost Bach work here as a highlight of this program.

An expression of appreciation was given to White Music Company for its support of the association. Saturday it will supply a piano and organ for the concert, which is but a continuation of a policy the company has followed for years as a contribution to the cultural life of the community. This has been done without expense to the association.

Weather Forecast

Snow is forecast in the northeastern section of the country Tuesday night. The central and northern Plains regions can also expect snow. Showers are predicted for the central Gulf Coast area with freezing rain due in northeastern Texas. It will be colder in most sections of the country. (AP WIRE PHOTO MAP)

Party Politics Stirs In Viet

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Party politics are stirring anew in Vietnam in preparation for civilian elections promised for later this year.

A new constitution is scheduled to be completed by March 27. Village and hamlet elections are expected in May or June. National elections are supposed to take place within six months after the constitution goes into effect, probably in November or December.

There is political ferment at the top in Saigon in Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's war cabinet, in the Constituent Assembly which is writing the constitution, in the Army-People's Council, an advisory body, and among old-line politicians who hold no office.

Pollticking is also reported at the rice roots, especially in the five northernmost provinces which include the cities of Hue and Da Nang.

"TICKET BALANCING" — Political observers are already "ticket balancing" — speculating over possible candidates for president and vice president. Some feel the best accommodation for these offices would be a military man and a civilian, one from the north and the other from South Vietnam.

One possible combination, is Constituent Assembly Chairman Phan Khanh Sui and the present premier, Air Vice Marshal Ky. Sui was chief of state in previous regimes in the past three years and is a southerner. Ky is a refugee from what is now North Vietnam.

The draft constitution blends American presidential government with the British parliamentary system. In practice it will most closely resemble the Korean or French forms of government.

WIDE GAP — The president and vice president are to be elected. An estimated six million persons over 18 are eligible to vote. A National Assembly will be elected several weeks after the president and vice president.

The Cabinet is to be selected by the president, but individual ministers can be unseated by a simple majority vote in the lower house of the assembly. The Cabinet could be turned out by a two-thirds majority.

The idea, according to Vietnamese officials, is to provide the continuity of a president elected for a fixed term with the right of a parliament to censure the government.

The switch from a military regime to civilian government will be a touchy business. There is a wide gap between the ideals of democratic government and the realities of Vietnam. Civilian politicians failed time after time to achieve a political movement capable of holding the country together.

After national elections the junta now ruling the country theoretically would be dissolved. But even hopeful Vietnamese politicians expect the military will insist upon retaining some civil authority.

50-50 SPLIT — Bromley, an unemployed lobbyist, related for the prosecution in federal court Monday how he and Baker, then the secretary to Senate Democrats, stepped into an alcove of the Senate library and split a $5,000 payment 50-50.

"Later Mr. Baker and I agreed that I would report the entire $5,000 on my income tax," Bromley testified. When it came to figuring his taxes, Bromley said, he finally had to get Baker out of bed eight months after the normal filing deadline in order to straighten out their many deals.

Baker is charged with income tax evasion, converting $80,000 of campaign contributions to his own use, and conspiracy.

CHECK AFTER CHECK — Bromley testified the $5,000 was for expediting in 1962 a charter for the Redwood National Bank in San Rafael, Calif. He said his part of the work consisted of calling up Baker to see how the matter was coming along. The charter was granted in early 1963.

War On Poverty Officials Late

AUSTIN (AP)—Poverty war officials in Galveston County did not get their application in on time, and that's why they have no money yet for their programs, says a spokesman for the poverty war's Southwest regional office.

The executive director of the Galveston Community Action Council, Miss Irene Rahnold, charged Monday there was a need for "less paper shuffling and more action."

The regional office spokesman said applications for funds must be filed 75 days before money is needed to assure timely approval. The Galveston application was received on Dec. 5, he said.

Also, the application failed to comply with other requirements, he said. The regional office had to ask for additional material, he said, and while this might be paper-shuffling to some it is "protection of the taxpayer's money" to others.

The regional office needs 75 days, he said, because its small staff must process applications from more than 180 such community action agencies.

To Get Degree

Among the nearly 400 candidates for bachelor degrees at the University of Texas at mid-term is Gerald Wayne Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Moore, 3603 E. 25th. He is to take a bachelor of arts degree.

The driver and his assistant were checked at the Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital but were not believed to have been injured. The accident was on 18 25 five miles west.

Glasscock Stock Has Brisk Sale

By ROBERT SETTLES — Glasscock County youngsters Monday received $5,000 for their stock in the auction following the annual Glasscock Junior Livestock Show. Steers averaged $115 while the pigs and lambs averaged $100.

Tommy Merricle, Colorado City, wielded the gavel for the auction following a barbecue dinner for visitors and officials of the show.

The grand champion finewool lamb, pig, steer and mutton lamb were all consigned to Big Spring buyers.

"It was a real good auction, and I'm very pleased with the results," said Oliver Wert, Glasscock county agent. "There is nothing more worthwhile than to help our youngsters prepare themselves for the future."

The floor price on lambs was 23 cents for 100 pounds and under and 20 cents for over 100 pounds. Floor price on pigs was 40 cents per pound and on steers 23 cents per pound.

Approximately 150 people attended the auction including buyers from Big Spring, Midland, San Angelo, Odessa and Abilene.

The Big Spring buyers, exhibitors, and price per pound were: Grand champion finewool lamb by Taylor Implement Co. and Kimble Feed from Ronnie Hirt, (114) $1.55; grand champion pig by Big Spring Locker Co. from Rudy Halfmann, (190) 50 cents; grand champion steer by Taylor Implement Co. from Robert Halfmann, (684) 36 cents; grand champion mutton lamb by First National Bank from Steven Hirt, (107) $1.20; steer by First National Bank from Ronnie Halfmann, (665) 36 cents; lamb by Nalley - Pickle Funeral Home from James Seldeberger, (87) 80 cents; steer by Jack Lewis Buick from Rudy Halfmann, (729) 32 cents; lamb by Cowper Clinic & Hospital from Lisa Hirt (104) 90 cents; lamb by Gound's Prescription Pharmacy and Good-year Tires from Guy Newell (86) $1.05; lamb by Malone & Hogan Hospital from Larry Schaefer (92) $1.15; lamb by State National Bank from Antonette Schraeder (78) 90 cents; lamb by Bob Brock Ford from Roland Halfmann (86) $1.00; lamb by Howard County Farm Bureau from Pat Halfmann (95) 80 cents.

Reagan Isn't Backing Down

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Ronald Reagan has made it clear to Californians that he sees no way to avoid a tax increase and isn't backing down in the furor over raising the cost of going to college.

The chance of tuition being imposed at the state university and colleges stirred more unrest than the prospect of more taxes. The man Reagan succeeded, former Democratic Gov. Edmund Brown, purported to view the tuition possibility with dismay. But the legislature's top Democrat, Speaker Jesse Unruh, warned critics of the proposal to temper their protests.

Reagan said he must balance the fiscal 1968 budget, which the Democrats appear to have left with a $473 million deficit.

Getting it out of the red, the Republican governor said, means either raising taxes, cutting governmental costs, or a combination of both. He made it clear he will take the combination route, saying: "Distasteful as it is to me, we are going to have to do this."

However, he added, "taxes will only be raised after we are certain government is operating at peak efficiency."

He praised California's higher education system and pledged to maintain its high quality. But, he declared, "So far, those receiving this education have not been required to share in this

Mobil, Sinclair Okay Contract

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union announced Monday that tentative agreements have been reached with the Sinclair and Mobil oil companies.

Union President A. F. Grospron said Sinclair and Mobil were the last two large companies to reach an accord.

The company-wide contract with the union's oil bargaining policy committee and the contract will be submitted to the 5,500 members it covers for ratification.

The contract with Mobil covers the workers at the Beaumont, Tex., refinery, Grospron said. Similar contracts are being negotiated at other Mobil installations, he said.

MAYOR'S SPECIAL COMMITTEE REPORTS

City Pay Raises Suggested; Garbage Fee Hike A Source

A finding that the City of Big Spring's current wage and hourly schedules should be improved... together with a suggestion of methods of meeting the required additional outlay — came Monday from a special study committee.

Generally speaking, the 31-member panel found that there should be an upgrading of city pay; that it would be more practical to analyze all jobs under departmental organization rather than to make an "across-the-board" adjustment; that some economy and efficiency might be obtained through reorganization of manpower.

The committee also expressed the opinion that one method of increasing municipal revenues in an equitable manner would be the raising of residential garbage collection fees by 50 cents per month, and by making a study of current commercial garbage collection fees.

The committee made it plain, however, that the final responsibility for such change in assessments rested with the city commission, and that the garbage collection fee was one method which could be considered. Big Spring householders currently pay $1.50 per month for trash and garbage pickups twice a week.

Informally discussing sources of revenue, committee members expressed the general opinion that the ad valorem tax level in the city is as high as it should go at this time. They also expressed the hope that, within another year or so, new sources of revenue would be opened up to cities of Texas, through action by the state legislature.

FOR JUST A YEAR The committee — again informally — voiced views that its current suggestions would meet the city's manpower problem no longer than a year; and that subsequent review would have to be made. It did suggest that, for this next city fiscal year, all monies made available through increased revenue and through departmental economies, be applied to the payroll.

Mayor Arnold Marshall and members of the city commission in early December named the special wages and jobs committee, with the idea that a more divergent viewpoint might serve as a guideline in meeting the city's manpower shortage problems. In some departments this has been critical.

LENGTHY STUDY The group named a sub-committee which held several lengthy sessions, interviewing City Manager Larry Crow and various department heads, as well as looking at current pay scales and job categories. It had available the wage and pay schedule of a number of other Texas cities, for comparative purposes.

The formal report, approved unanimously and delivered to the Mayor Monday, reads as follows: "The special jobs and wages committee for city employees as appointed by you has made considerable study through a sub-committee and herewith reports the following findings: "1. It is our opinion that the current wage and salary schedule for the City of Big Spring should be improved.

BY DEPARTMENTS "2. It is our opinion that an upgrading of such wages and salaries should be made on a departmental basis; and that each department head, under supervision of the city manager, work out a proposed schedule for his own classifications of personnel.

"3. It is our opinion, after interviewing some department heads, that they can — and are willing to — effect some over-all economies in personnel, by a general re-organization of manpower, and of not filling some jobs that might in the future become vacant.

"4. Your committee recognizes that adjustments as outlined above cannot be done without the city finding more revenue. While we recognize that this is the responsibility of the city commission, it is our opinion that one method of increasing revenue in an equitable manner would be the raising of residential garbage collection fees by 50 cents per month; along with this the commercial garbage collection fee schedule should be reviewed.

ADD TO PAYROLLS "5. We are advised that additional revenue for the year can be made available through a fiscal revision of the stores and supplies account, and this money can be applied to pay-rolls. We would accept this. "6. It is our opinion that such money as can be budgeted from revenue sources listed above, and from departmental reorganizations as suggested, should be applied this year in bringing up the level of wages and salaries.

"We express our thanks for the good help given in our studies by City Manager Larry Crow and his department heads. We also are most appreciative of the good morale and spirit of cooperation that obviously exists throughout municipal personnel, and are hopeful that adjustments as outlined will in some measure relieve their individual problems, as well as those of the entire municipal employment pattern." Clyde McManon and R. W. Whipkey were co-chairmen of the committee, which included: J. W. Atkins, Harvey Clay, Bill Coleman, Glenn Coates, John Currie, G. W. Dabney, Wesley Deas, Rev. James Deasley, Warren A. Farrow, R. E. Hickson, Dr. J. E. Hogan, Clyde Hollingsworth, Jimmy Jolly, Bill W. Jones, Lowell Jones, Jim Bill Little, Ralph McLaughlin, Paul Meek, Rev. Melvin Montgomery, Lester Morton, Joe Moss, Bill Pollard, Joe Price, R. E. Reeder, Ike Robb, Dr. Lee O. Rogers, R. L. Tollett, Don Womack, George Zachariah.

Campaign Against Car Thiefs Mapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is planning a national campaign against car theft and is seeking — through persuasion or legislation — to have automobile manufacturers make their cars harder to steal.

Announcing this today, Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred M. Vinson Jr. said steering wheel, transmission and hood locks and more secure ignition systems are devices which would help reverse the rising trend of automobile thefts.

ANTITHEFT DEVICES Vinson said the Justice Department has conferred with industry representatives "with a view to installation of feasible and effective devices at the earliest practicable date.

"We are following with interest the automobile industry's activity in this regard and we are considering legislation, if necessary, to require installation of antitheft devices at the point of manufacture or assembly," he said in testimony prepared for the Senate subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency.

S e n. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., the subcommittee chairman, said his group also is considering legislation which would require antitheft devices on new cars.

NEW LAWS Their talk of possible new laws dealing with automobile equipment came with manufacturers and the government at odds over the number and nature of safety devices to be required on 1968 model cars under a law passed by the 89th Congress.

Vinson said the criminal division of the Justice Department is coordinating a national auto theft prevention campaign, due to begin about March 1. He said 19 organizations of automobile owners, manufacturers, officials and law officers are participating.

the programs that will be part of the campaign: A drive for the enactment of local laws which would make it illegal for motorists to leave the ignition key in unattended cars, a public information program to encourage motorists to lock their cars and take out the ignition keys when they park, strengthened automobile title laws and legislation to regulate the sale of motor vehicle master keys.

$2 Million Judgment Filed Against Estes

AMARILLO (AP) — A $2 million judgment against Billie Sol Estes, the Pecos, Tex., promoter now serving a federal prison term, was filed Monday in U.S. District Court here.

The order, signed by Judge Sarah Hughes of Dallas, was in favor of Pacific Finance Corp. of Los Angeles.

The firm originally sought $4.5 million from 19 individuals and four firms, but judgments, dismissals or transfers had been obtained in all but the Estes case.

In making the judgment, Mrs. Hughes wrote: "The court finds that the plaintiff's cause of action is based upon a claim for money obtained under false pretenses." She ruled that Pacific Finance had a just claim for $2,035,354 against Estes.

The judge ordered that Estes pay six per cent interest to the finance company until the full amount is paid. Estes is serving a 15-year prison term at Sandstone, Minn., for fraud.

There is no indication that Estes has any money, although his family is reported living comfortably at Abilene, Tex. Estes, once known as the boy wonder of Texas agriculture, is accused in federal and state courts of a multi-million-dollar swindle by selling mortgages to such companies as Pacific Finance when the fertilizer tanks listed as collateral did not exist.

Oil Output Takes Dip

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Production of domestic crude and lease condensate declined slightly last week, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

For the week the average was 8,528,750 barrels daily, down 1,940 from the previous week. A sharp decline in Oklahoma was offset by an increase in Kansas. Oklahoma production averaged 610,330 barrels a day, down 10,855 for the week, and Kansas averaged 376,730, up 19,900.

Figures were unchanged for Texas at 2,958,150, Louisiana at 1,085,000 and New Mexico at 355,700.

Officials... Auction... people at... exhibitor... on five miles... TS... choice... GOREN ON BRIDGE... BY CHARLES H. GOREN... The jack of diamonds was played from dummy and East, without a moment's hesitation, covered with the queen — which held the trick. A diamond was returned to West's ace and a third round cleared the suit as South won the trick with the ten. Declarer proceeded to drive out the ace of clubs but, since West had no more diamonds and was unable to get his partner in, South succeeded in running off with 10 tricks. As soon as East put up the queen of diamonds, he retired himself permanently from the play. Observe the effect, if he permits the jack to hold the first trick and contents himself with giving an encouraging signal by playing the nine of diamonds. When West gets in with the ace of clubs, his ace of diamonds will drop the king, and another diamond to East's queen will enable the latter to cash two more tricks in the suit. The play of the nine can hardly lose. If West has four diamonds, then declarer's remaining card in the suit will drop on the next round. What if South doesn't have the ten of diamonds? Well in that case he would surely put up dummy's king on the first trick, since the opening bidder is clearly marked with the ace.

ALL NUMBER CALLING coming here 7-Numeral Numbers Due in Big Spring in July EFFECTIVE with the issuance of a new telephone directory here next July, all Big Spring telephone numbers will be changed from two letters and five numerals to seven numerals. Big Spring thus will become one of the first Southwestern Bell exchanges to have this new numbering system, known as All Number Calling, already in use in many other parts of the nation. The present prefix, "AM," will be changed to "26." This will not represent a real change, since "AM" and "26" are the same in dialing. The last five digits of each telephone number will remain unchanged. For example, AM 7-7491 will become 267-7491. Numbers in New Directory All the new seven-numeral numbers will be included in the new telephone directory. Why the change? The reason we're eliminating central office names is simple. On a nationwide basis, we're running out of suitable, easy-to-pronounce-and-understand names. All Number Calling gives us about 50 percent more usable telephone numbers. We need these new numbers to keep up with the demand for service. There are several things you'll like about All Number Calling. Confusion between letters and figures (such as I and one, O and zero) and between central office names (such as Hubbard and Hobart) will be eliminated. This means fewer wrong numbers. Faster, Easier Dialing Also your dialing of local calls will be faster and easier, with only numbers to look for on the dial. Since "AM" and "26" are the same on the dial, stationery and other printed material bearing the "AM" telephone numbers can still be used after the change. However, customers who use printed material bearing their telephone numbers will want to be sure to remember to use the new number in reordering material. We believe that you will find this new up-to-date numbering system simple and more trouble-free to use. And Big Spring, as in the past, will continue to be in the forefront of telephone progress.

Steers, Eagles Vie In 2-4A Barnburner

Comes now the biggest test of the season for the Big Spring Steers, who are at the crossroads in their quest for the District 2-AAAA basketball championship.

The Longhorns will be at home to the Abilene High School Eagles at 8 o'clock this evening and the largest crowd of the season likely will be in the stands to see how the two teams perform, many of them from Abilene.

A victory would enable the Steers to again deadlock the War Birds for first place in the standings. A loss would put them two games off the pace and complicate matters for them no end.

Abilene has won four of its first five starts. Big Spring came a cropper in its game against Midland High last week and lost by two points after four overtime periods.

Abilene has always posed a tremendous problem for Big Spring, psychologically as well as physically. Big Spring hasn't beaten the Eagles since some of their rosters set up a "trash can symphony" here several years ago and so created a din that it was said to have unnerved the Eagles into defeat. Be that as it may, the then coach of the Eagles, Nat Gleaton, never quite forgave the local team nor its fans for the reception his boys were given.

STEER RESERVE Rommie Wright

He made it a special point to try to clobber Big Spring whenever possible. As a result, the Steers have taken some rather embarrassing defeats from Abilene in recent years.

Big Spring is 20-4 for the season.

Abilene High is now calling its forces the Clutchmen, a tribute to the club's ability to look adversity in the eye in the waning moments of a game and come on to win.

The pressure is plainly showing for both teams, so it may come down to a question of who folds and who doesn't fold under stress.

Coach Don McDonald of Big Spring likely will go with a lineup consisting of Charley Tubbs, Danny Clendenin, Wayne Johnson, Robert Jackson and Richard Green.

Abilene should go with Rusty McDermann, 6-5; Tony Davis, Richard Mulkey, Randy Spiva and Bruce Huff.

The Eagles will have a height advantage over the locals, for that matter, the Steers have fielded a smaller team than most of their foes this season.

McDermann leads the Eagles with an 18.4 scoring norm while Davis is averaging 16 points a start, Mulkey 11.6 and Spiva 10.6.

B teams of the two schools square away at 6:15 p.m.

Spyglass Hill Course Given Close Scrutiny

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The entry list was complete today for the three-course Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament, starting Thursday, and PGA officials began adjusting the new Spyglass Hill play for its introduction as one of the trophy battlegrounds.

Bob Tuthill of the PGA Tournament Field Staff set up Spyglass as he felt it would probably play for the tournament. After practice rounds today and Wednesday changes will be made if necessary in tee and pin placements on the holes with the illustrious names out of Robert Louis Stevenson — Billy Bones, Capt. Smollett, Long John Silver, Israel Hands, and piratical cohorts.

The championship tees of Spyglass Hill play at a grueling 6,972 yards. Its medium tees cut the distance to 6,609 and some of these may be used out of consideration for the amateurs paired with the pros.

Pebble Beach and Cypress Point courses will be the same as they always have for this 26th Crosby on California's Monterey Peninsula.

Champs Came Near To Using Hornung

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coach Vince Lombardi, an acknowledged Golden Boy Paul Hornung to edged lunch player, almost gave the Green Bay Packers a psychological lift.

Bowl game when he toyed with Lombardi made that revelation Monday when he made his final observations on the game, saying pointedly:

"In the first half, a couple of times, I seriously considered using him. I thought he might give us a lift. There's no question what he means to the Green Bay Packers. He's a great leader."

Lombardi also said that Hornung's status remains up to the doctors. The longtime star of the Packers has been having trouble with his left arm ever since he suffered a pinched nerve during the 1960 season.

"I think Hornung's arm is okay," Lombardi said. "If he gets hit on the head the arm will go limp. When that happens, he's in trouble. But it's really up to the doctors."

Hornung, meanwhile, was preparing to leave on a honeymoon after his marriage Wednesday and said he would wait until he has a thorough physical before deciding on his pro football future.

While Hornung remained a question mark, the status of fullback Jim Taylor also has not been determined and there was some doubt about the future of three other key team members.

Taylor played out his option with the Packers this year and did not sign a contract. There have been reports he would like to play for the New Orleans franchise which becomes operative next season as the National League's 15th team.

Lombardi didn't seem to be concerned either about Taylor or the retirement stories beginning to crop up about receiver Max McGee, one of the hero's of Sunday's 35-10 victory over Kansas City, and guards Fuzzy Thurston and Jerry Kramer.

Lombardi also took another look at Sunday's game and the comparisons being drawn between the National and American leagues in general and the Packers and Chiefs in particular.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

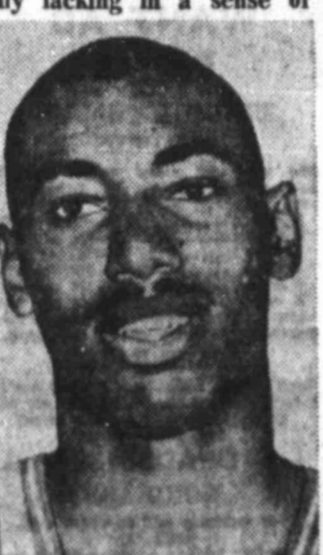

Sports dialogue: The late KNUTE ROCKNE, great football coach at Notre Dame, who never tried to hide his dislike for basketball:

"Basketball is a game totally lacking in a sense of humor. You hear funny stories by the stack about baseball, football, racing and other sports, but about basketball—none."

WILT (THE STILT) CHAMBERLAIN, pro basketball great in this league, not with an 80-game season. That's the trouble—we play too long. Don't you think we put out as much energy in basketball as we do in football? Imagine playing 14 games a year. That would be child's play. I could play football. You take that last few minutes in the Packer-Cowboy game. You think if I was in there for the Cowboys I couldn't have done something. You know what they could have done? Thrown a pass to me right up there under the cross bar of the goal posts. I'd like to be a quarterback and don't think I couldn't do it. I could throw a football as far underhanded as they throw overhead. I'd like to play tackle, but not on offense.

... The Boston Celtics. They're better than us at every position, except one—coaching. That's the only position we're better at... I once lifted 1,000 pounds and I'll bet $1,000 I can do it again. I've also hand wrestled two men at the same time, and beat them. And there's nothing I'd like to do better than play pro football.

CHAMBERLAIN

PEPPER RODGERS, new head football coach at Kansas University:

"You really can't have a good team without a good quarterback and you can't have a great team without a great quarterback. The kind of football we're going to play it would be pretty hard to have a great team without a great quarterback. If I had my choice of a great player I'd want a great quarterback rather than a great tackle. But don't get me wrong, I'd like to have a great tackle and great quarterback... The trend is more and more to throwing but I don't see how we can throw much more than now. We'll run the 'T' with single wing type blocking rather than the 'I.' We will attack with our quarterback like other teams used to attack with a single wing tailback. Trends are dictated by who's winning. All coaches do research. We don't call it scouting — we call it research. A coach could do the best job in the world but have poor material and win only three games and I don't think anybody would copy him."

Entertainer BILL COSBY:

"When I played basketball in the slums of Philadelphia, mostly we used to argue about fouls. There were no referees so we called the fouls ourselves. A 'light foul' is a punch in the eye. A real foul is where a guy is driving in and you just submerge him and he comes down on the concrete and you visit him every two weeks in the hospital. Another one is where you let a guy drive and there's a pole sitting up in the middle of the court and you just screen him right into the pole. This is where you visit him three times a week in the hospital 'cause he's not coming out at all... Now I'm a celebrity basketball with guys like Doug McClure, Sidney Poitier and Pat Boone. That is where you pull up in your Rolls-Royce and your chauffeur puts you in a beach chair and wheels you out, and after each shot we have a catered affair. The ball is made of gold. Music is played and after every basket is scored we have a 10-minute standing ovation for the guy."

BOBBY MURCER, who aspires to the shortstop's job with the New York Yankees:

"The Yankees are going to win the pennant this year. We have a lot of fresh, young players and we're going to surprise a lot of people. We sure won't finish in the cellar."

DON McDONALD, basketball coach at Big Spring High School:

"It looks like the team that wins the 2-AAAA championship will be the one that wins the ones it isn't supposed to lose."

An editorial writer in the Lincoln (Neb.) Journal:

"For those who watched the consecutive parade of football on New Year's television, it was clear that the poise, quickness and agility of Alabama created a cutting edge of scars and psychological advantage which isolated the Crimson Tide with a special ranking of winners all their own."

Runnels Avenges Defeat At Hands Of Andrews

Big Spring Runnels took sweet revenge for a basketball defeat handed it in Andrews recently, defeating the visiting Colts, 46-43, here Monday evening.

Runnels also won the eighth grade contest, 34-17. The local ninth graders now boast a 6-7 won-lost record while the eighth graders are 5-9.

The ninth grade Yearlings grabbed a three-point lead with three minutes to play and went into a successful stall. A total of 21 fouls were called against Big Spring, compared to 14 for Andrews, but the Yearlings overcame that handicap.

Joe Willie Winters, the Yearlings' leading scorer with 15 points, fouled out with six minutes to play but his teammates adjusted well.

In the eighth grade game, Benito Rubio counted 12 points and Robert Evans 10 for Big Spring. The two Runnels teams invade Coahoma Thursday in a renewal of play.

Cassius Works Hard On 25th Year Of Birth

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay turned 25 today, a day he began like most training days, up before dawn to run in a wooded park in west Houston, jogging through the cold in the patch of brightness from the headlights of his white and tomato-red Lincoln Continental.

Trainer Angelo Dundee, driver of the training car, said Monday night Clay still is growing at age 25.

"His arms, his shoulders, his back muscles — they're all getting bigger," Dundee said. "He's going to be a super-heavyweight."

By his own testimony, Clay is ready for Feb. 6, the night he meets Ernie Terrell in the Astrodome to settle the world's heavyweight championship.

Clay, the consensus champion, said so Monday when he ran into Terrell, the World Boxing Association's champion, in the exhibit hall both share as a gym.

It was Terrell's first day in town and Clay was late clearing out after a workout without sparring partners. The crowd was gone and only a dozen or so of the two boxers' followers saw what happened.

"I'm ready, I'm ready," Clay said, throwing a shoulder against Terrell.

Goliad's 8th Wins, 40-19

Goliad Junior High's eighth grade defeated San Angelo Lee, 40-19, for their 11th victory in 14 starts but the local ninth grade team lost to representatives of the same school, 46-34.

The Mavericks depended on uniform scoring to win the eighth grade encounter. Danny Glover had 10 points, Larry Vasquez nine and Ben Johnson eight for Big Spring.

The Goliad ninth graders dropped their 12th decision in 14 starts, despite a 12 point effort by Jimmy Farris.

The Maverick teams will be at home to Andrews Monday evening.

Adolph Rupp Is Caustic After Loss To Georgia

Tennessee upset 10th-ranked Florida and Georgia upset sinking Kentucky, but Adolph Rupp of the Wildcats was more upset than anyone Monday night. And another defeat was not the reason.

"If I had 13,500 seats, I'd try to fill them," said the Kentucky Baron, whose Wildcats lost 40-40 after Georgia's stalling tactics left Kentucky leading 5-6 at the half.

Rupp pointed out that the fans normally object to low-scoring games, then added cuttingly, "Of course, it looks like they outsmarted us. After all Ken Rosemond won. He's the fair-haired boy and I'm just the old man."

"I know the fans don't like it," said Rosemond, whose Bulldogs beat Rosemond, whose Bulldogs beat Rosemond for the first time since 1950, "but you can't let the fans dictate how you play the game."

"Our kids realize their limitations, and it wasn't hard to convince them we had to do something. Our game plan was to hold them the first half and play them the second, and it worked perfectly."

Rosemond, whose team has won only six of 12 games, is in his second year at Georgia.

Kentucky, a regular college basketball power with a 572-152 record entering its 38th season under Rupp, fell to 5-7. A pre-season pick for the Top Ten after finishing second in the NCAA playoffs last March, the Wildcats are on their way to possibly their worst season under Rupp.

Rosemond said Kentucky should have been forced to try to break up the stall under rules that require a team to have two men out forcing the action on defense if it is behind or the score is tied.

However, Rupp retorted, "The team with the ball should be forced to play. How can you expect the team without the ball to start the action?"

Tennessee moved faster than Rupp, but still relied on a deliberate game to upend the Gators 66-53 and tumble them out of first place in the Southeastern Conference.

Ron Widby had 18 points and Tom Hendrix and Phil Justus 16 each as the Vols took a 36-27 halftime lead and fought off a Florida challenge that carried it within 35-33.

Uclans Increase Margin In Poll

Undeclared UCLA increased its lead and Princeton gained additional ground in The Associated Press' weekly major-college basketball poll today.

The Bruins were unanimous choices in the voting by a national panel of 40 sports writers and broadcasters. A week ago, they had all except one vote which went to runner-up Louisville.

Louisville held the No. 2 position this week followed by Houston, North Carolina, Princeton, Texas Western, Kansas, Florida, New Mexico and Providence in that order.

UCLA increased its record to 12-0 last week with victories over Washington, California and Stanford.

Louisville was beaten by Southern Illinois, but rebounded to defeat Bradley. The Cardinals, 14-1, collected 318 points in the balloting which was on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, nine for second, etc. The voting was based on games through last Saturday.

New Mexico's setbacks by Wyoming and Denver dropped it from third to ninth place. Houston rushed up from fourth and grabbed the No. 3 spot after defeating West Texas 103-72. North Carolina also advanced a notch to fourth after edging North Carolina State 79-78.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points in parentheses:

1. UCLA (40) 408
2. Louisville 318
3. Houston 287

Sukarno Asked To Step Down

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik disclosed today he has asked President Sukarno to step down "in the interest of the nation."

Malik told newsmen after meeting Sukarno at his palace he advised the president to make this move before he was brought down in dishonor.

COUP DENIED
Testimony at various treason trials has tended to connect Sukarno with the attempted Communist coup Oct. 1, 1965. But in a statement last week to Congress, Sukarno denied he had anything to do with it.

After the coup, the army cracked down on the Indonesian Communists and gradually took away Sukarno's powers. Since last March, when Gen. Suharto took over as the actual head of Indonesia, Sukarno has been little more than a figurehead.

Malik gave no indication what Sukarno's reaction was to his request.

He asked Sukarno to dissociate himself from everything connected with the presidency he said.

Elaborating on a meeting with Sukarno during a ceremony at the Foreign Office, Malik said if necessary Sukarno should appoint someone else until general elections scheduled for 1968 are held.

Speaking to Sukarno "as a comrade in arms for tens of years in the past" he told the president they needed his help to maintain peace in Indonesia.

Malik warned that if Sukarno faced the present situation with out "a clear head and greatness of spirit" he would face serious issues.

Malik implied in his comments that Sukarno would have to give full accounting of his responsibility on the Communist coup attempt in 1965.

Malik, one of the key men in the long power struggle, said he told Sukarno if he stepped down now "in the future maybe we can save you and maybe we still can support you in a peaceful way."

It was one of the toughest speeches ever made to Sukarno. It also appeared to support growing feeling here that heavy new pressure will be applied against the 65-year-old president.

If Sukarno was bothered by the request he showed no emotion as he later drove around Jakarta in a small bus with newsmen and guests.

MALIK OUTSPOKEN
The action by Malik came in the wake of a series of new confrontations between Sukarno and the new government headed by Suharto.

While Suharto has been cautious in dealing with Sukarno, Malik has been more outspoken. Malik ended Sukarno's military confrontation with Malaysia and led Indonesia back into the United Nations. The president had pulled the nation out of the world organization.

Behind the cautiousness is a realization that while unpopular in Jakarta, Sukarno still has a wide following through the nation, particularly on the populous island of Java.

'Saint' To Ax Andy Williams

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "China watching" in Hong Kong during these days of upheaval inside the Communist country must be like trying to report a prison riot from outside the walls.

CBS correspondent Bernard Kellbrenner gathered three newsmen — an American, an Englishman and a Canadian — around a table for an informal on-camera discussion Monday night. The three China experts, conceding their information in many areas was scanty, proceeded to theorize — and to disagree on most theories.

Robert Elegant, the American, called the confusion a basic conflict between a concept of life in a complex country — and the reality of life for its masses. "Richard Hughes, the Englishman, declared it is "the greatest upheaval in the 20th century." Mark Gayn, the Canadian, called it "a revolution decreed from above."

There appeared to be general agreement that it was kicked off by Mao Tse-tung because he was worried about the "decay of his revolution," as Gayn put it, but that he was using 30-year-old tactics.

There was a difference about China's relationship with the Soviet Union. Gayn thought that the break between the two nations could be repaired. The others felt that the Soviet Union is not eager to have a strong nation on its flank.

The discussion, while fluent and philosophical, did little to clear up the average viewer's confusion.

NBC plans to replace "The Andy Williams Show" May 21 with a series of adventure programs. "The Saint" They are part of a long-playing British series starring Roger Moore, some of which have been seen on television in various parts of this country, but not on a network. They are based on the dashing character created in books by Leslie Charteris.

"SILENT NIGHT"
Williams' NBC contract has run out, and it is known that he would prefer to star in occasional specials instead of in a weekly variety show.

ABC is proceeding with plans to shoot "Silent Night" as a Christmas show for next season. It is to be part of the "Stage 67" series, so presumably that anthology program will be around next year. It is almost definite, however, that it will not have a fixed day and hour of broadcast, but will pre-empt other programs as a weekly special.

Recommended tonight: "The Italians," CBS, 10-11 EST, documentary narrated by Luigi Barzini, author of a book of the same name.

Team To Research Art Of Twenties

AUSTIN—It was the time of flappers and of bathtub gin—and it was reputed to have "roared."

"It" was the 1920's, more significantly a period of intense creative and critical activity in the arts which notably influenced the development of modern ideas.

To document more fully the major developments in the arts of that time, the University of Texas has embarked on a project, "The Arts of the Twenties," which will culminate in late 1968 with a series of art exhibits, musical and dramatic performances, seminars and, it is hoped, special lectures by some of the artists of that decade.

Although the U.S. of the 1920's will be the major focus of the project, the arts that flourished concurrently in Western Europe and in Latin America also will receive attention.

Texas Grain 'Very Poor'

AUSTIN (AP) — The U. S. Department of Agriculture says small grain conditions west and south of the Texas Blacklands are "very poor."

In its weekly crop-weather report, the department said grain conditions generally are poor across the state, although rains improved conditions along the Gulf Coast and in East Texas.

There is increasing wind erosion in the Panhandle, with some damage to wheat.

No effective moisture has been received by the High Plains dryland wheat crop since planting, the department said, and its condition is poor.

Oat conditions also continue poor, and flax planting continues slow, "far behind last year's schedule."

Freezing rain, sleet and snow curtailed vegetable harvest in the Lower Rio Grande Valley last week. Growth was slowed, but moisture received was beneficial. Cabbage, carrots, lettuce, spinach, broccoli, cauliflower, celery and assorted greens were available. Citrus continues to move in good volume.

Range and livestock conditions continued depressed because of low temperatures and drought conditions.

Bill Drafted To Remedy Redistricting Mistakes

AUSTIN (AP)—Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi says he will introduce Wednesday a bill to correct the flaws a three-judge federal court found in Texas' court-ordered redrawing of House districts.

A three-judge federal panel in Houston sent the 1965 redistricting bill back to the House for further action, primarily over 11 "floterial" districts. The floterial districts were created when several urbanized areas had surplus population over that needed for one or more representatives.

WARNING

The Houston court let stand the rest of the redistricting act for the Texas House, but warned that the floterial districts had to be corrected.

Hale said Monday he will introduce a bill Wednesday that would require all House members in counties that are part of floterial districts to run "at-large" within the districts.

A source said Hale had won approval from most of the affected lawmakers and would accept amendments from those who did not like the proposal.

AUSTIN EXAMPLE

One example of a floterial district is 40F, in which Rep. Bob Armstrong of Austin serves both Travis and Burnet counties. Travis County has three other representatives to itself.

Hale's bill would mean that Armstrong and all other Travis County lawmakers would all run in Burnet and Travis counties.

The floterial districts are 46F, Nueces and Kleberg counties; 48F, Kennedy, Willacy, Cameron and Brooks; 15F, Smith and Gregg; 32F, Grayson, Collin and Rockwall; 20F, Fort Bend and Brazoria; 36F, Coryell and McLennan; 40F, Travis and Burnet; 38F, Bell and Williamson; 62F, Haskell, Jones and Taylor; 77F, Lubbock and Crosby; and 69F, Reeves, Loving, Winkler and Ector.

Burns was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Burns, general delivery, Broadus; Goldhagen son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Goldhagen of Waco, Nicholas the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Patterson of Clayton.

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — Gisella Adorni, 83, Italian soprano who starred with Caruso and was admired by Arturo Toscanini, died Monday. Miss Adorni first sang on an opera stage at age 15 and gave her last performance at Bologna when she was 73.

Farmers Are Liable For Self-Employment Taxes

Most Texas farmers must pay federal self-employment tax for 1966, Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of Internal Revenue Service for northern Texas, advised today.

The rate of self-employment tax is 6.15 per cent, or a maximum of $405.90, and is in addition to income tax.

By law a self-employed person is one who operates his own business or farm. He is considered to be self-employed if he employs others to operate or work the farm even though he does not live on it himself. Farmers Tax Guide, publication No. 225, gives details. It is available at the IRS office.

A farmer is subject to self-employment tax if net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more.

Farmers must file a federal income tax return and pay the self-employment tax due even though gross income is less than $600 and they owe no income tax.

A special optional provision in the law enables farmers to acquire Social Security credits even if they have a loss. It works like this:

- 1) If a farmer's gross income from farming is no more than $2,400, he may count two-thirds of the gross of such income as his net earnings from farm self-employment.
- 2) If gross income from farming exceeds $2,400 and actual net earnings from farm self-employment are less than $1,600, he may use $1,600 as his net earnings from farm self-employment.

Under the above provision a farmer with annual gross income from farming of $600 can declare his net earnings from farm self-employment to be $400, or two-thirds of his gross farm income, to get Social Security credit for that year.

An owner or tenant of a farm, acting as a landlord, may be required to pay self-employment tax on income received under a rental arrangement with another individual, if the land is used to produce agricultural or horticultural commodities.

Prisoner Says Raid Kills 200

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A captured Viet Cong major reported that a B52 raid near the "Iron Triangle" killed 200 Communist soldiers and dispersed a regiment of enemy troops, U.S. military headquarters said today.

A U.S. spokesman said the major was assigned to a rear-echelon service regiment and was taken prisoner after a heavy bomber raid Jan. 8 near Ben Cat, about 25 miles northwest of Saigon.

The spokesman said the major told his interrogators the Viet Cong regiment — about 1,500 men — dispersed after the raid and the bombing also destroyed 3,000 tons of rice.

Hoffa Seeks Wage Boost For 450,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa tosses his national trucking contract demands on the bargaining table today, asking five to seven per cent wage hikes for 450,000 workers.

Hoffa, who could be in prison before negotiations are completed, has said Teamsters' demands will range up to seven per cent for trucking employees now earning from $3.31 to $5 per hour.

This does not include fringe benefits, which Hoffa estimates run about $1.10 per hour on the average now. The Teamsters are expected to demand improvements in this area also.

FIRMS CONCERNED

Hoffa is to exchange contract proposals with a group of 12,000 trucking firms, headed by Trucking Employers Inc.

Hoffa aides and some trucking firms have expressed concern that the negotiations could bog down if Hoffa is imprisoned on his jury-tampering conviction before a contract agreement is reached.

But spokesmen for some major trucking firms said they believed the talks could go on normally even without Hoffa.

DEADLINE NEAR

Hoffa has until Feb. 4 to file a request for a new hearing before the Supreme Court, which upheld his eight-year jury-tampering sentence in December.

The trucking contract deadline is March 31. Hoffa is not expected to be free much beyond mid-March unless he wins a further delay of his 1964 prison sentence. He is also appealing a five-year mail fraud sentence.

Today's exchange of contract proposals opens renegotiation of the master national trucking contract the Teamsters first hammered out three years ago, climaxing a 30-year campaign.

It covers most of the nation's city, state and cross-country trucking firms. The new talks are aimed at a three-year contract.

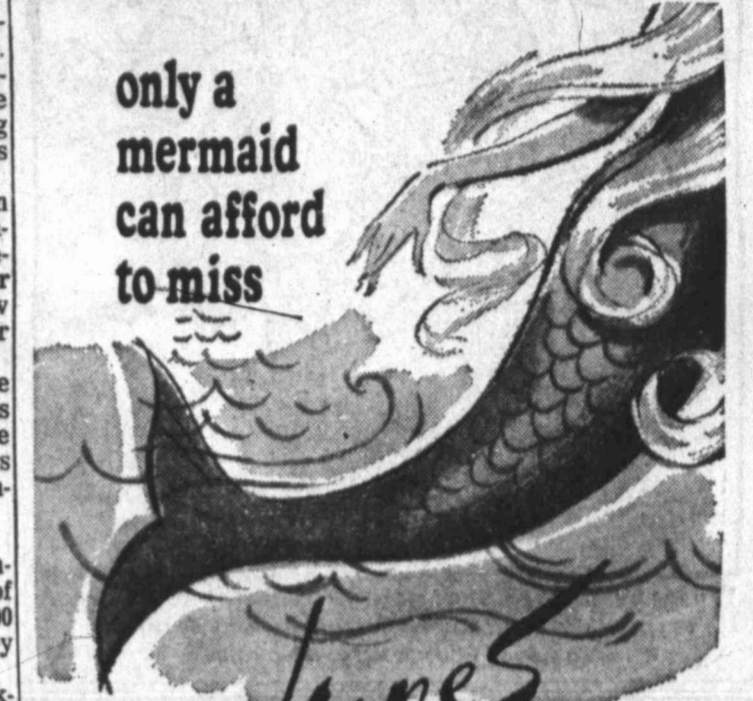

The Teamsters' demands, Hoffa said in Hollywood, Fla., two weeks ago, will be "within the elastic formula of five to seven per cent" of other recent major labor settlements.

Watching Light Bulbs Profitable

DENISON, Tex. (AP)—Jerry Horr, a civilian employe at Perrin Air Force Base is $560 richer all because he watches light bulbs well.

He won the award when told to do something about the frequent burnouts of bulbs at the installation.

Horr found that the base sometimes has a voltage of 130 or 131 and was using standard 120-volt bulbs. He experimented with 130-volt bulbs and the plan worked, and is expected to save the Air Force more than $21,000 annually.
