Shouts Against Vietnam War

New Zealand policemen push back a shouting demonstrator outside the Star Hotel in Auckland, where Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky and his wife are to stay during their visit to the city. Some 200 demonstrators hurled ink at policemen and kept up a continuous booing as they carried anti-Vietnam war signs. Earlier, as the Kys arrived at the airport from Wellington, a crowd of about 300 demonstrated, some throwing themselves on the roadway to halt their car for about three minutes. Jeering Crowd Splashes Eggs Against Ky Car

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Policemen with police dogs broke up a wild brawl at Auckland Airport tonight after demonstrators stopped South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's car by throwing themselves on the roadway.

Women hurled themselves in front of the speeding black limousine, and men pounded on the windows with their fists as a shower of eggs splattered against the car.

Screaming and punching at policemen who tried to stop them, the demonstrators forced the driver of the car to brake quickly. Police dragged two women and several men from the road as the crowd of about 300 surged around the vehicle.

'FASCIST'

The car's interior light was on, and Ky appeared anxious as a burly New Zealander thumped the window and cursed him. The booing, jeering crowd chanted "Ky, go! Ky, go!" and "Fascist! Fascist!"

Placards and lumps of wood bounced off the car as it sped off after a delay of about three minutes.

The crowd tried to stop other cars in the motorcade, and fights between police and demonstrators continued for several minutes after Ky was on his way to a downtown Auckland hotel. There another crowd of about 200 hurled ink at policemen and kept up a continuous booing that could be heard for several blocks.

KY PROTECTED

Security police surrounded Ky as he stepped from the limousine and walked briskly to an elevator.

The demonstrators at the airport waited more than an hour for Ky's plane to arrive from Wellington, the capital 450 miles to the south.

Earlier, the South Vietnamese leader's tour had appeared to be turning into an unexpected success.

Connally's Money Bill Clears House

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally won two legislative victories today: House passage of his $6.38 million emergency appropriation package and Senate failure to take up a quickie pay raise bill for state employees.

Sen. Charles Herring of Austin fell one vote shy of the 25 needed to bring up his $5.2 million bill giving 38,000 state workers pay raises as of March 1. The vote was 24-6.

Connally was reliably reported to have rejected bids to submit the bill as an emergency matter and to be opposed to the measure, although asking for 20 per cent average salary boosts in his 1968-69 budget.

SKIRMISH

Voting against suspending rules to take up Herring's bill were Sens. J. J. Blanchard of Lubbock, Wayne Connally of Floresville, the governor's brother, Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, Don Kennard of Fort Worth, Jack Strong of Longview and James Wade of Dallas.

The Senate adjourned until 10:30 a.m. Wednesday. The emergency appropriations bill cleared the House and moved to the Senate on a 121-23 vote. But first there was some skirmishing over the $5.5 million item for the Texas pavilion at San Antonio's 1968 HemisFair.

Speaker Ben Barnes' forces were ready with all the votes they needed to take up the emergency appropriations and pass them at once. The HemisFair item, originally a separate bill, was made an amendment to a smaller bill carrying funds for the College Coordinating Board, attorney general's office and Texas water plan.

100 VOTES NEEDED

"That was the only way we could be sure of getting 100 votes," said a source close to Barnes. The 100 votes, a two-thirds majority, is needed to place the bill into immediate law once Connally signs it. A two-thirds Senate majority, 21 votes, also is needed.

The House also sent Connally the first bill of the session to pass both houses.

The measure by Sen. Murray Watson of Mart allows McLennan County (Waco) to use last year's voter lists in the special Feb. 4 runoff election to fill a legislative vacancy. The House vote for final passage was 141-0.

Reps. Carl Parker of Port Arthur, Clyde Haynes of Vidor, Ed Harris of Galveston and Don Gladden of Fort Worth made a last-ditch fight to defeat the HemisFair appropriation.

RETIREMENT ACT?

"Think how much this is going to be taking from general revenue when we are going to be called upon to pass untold millions in appropriations," Haynes said. "This could ultimately be the retirement act for a lot of members when we go back home."

Rep. W. S. Healy of Paducah, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said "San Antonio just happens to be the seat of the birth of Texas. . . . This is our duty to our forefathers and our founders."

"I cast no aspersions on our heroic forefathers," Parker said. "I feel a little like our forefathers in the Alamo when I get into one of these battles with Mr. Healy," Parker said.

HOUSE ADJOURNS

Connally requested the $5.5 million appropriation to complete the state's Institute of Texas Culture building at HemisFair. The 1965 legislature appropriated $4.5 million.

Other items in the emergency appropriation bill are $625,000 to finish the Texas water plan, $145,583 to help administer the college student loan program and $113,861 to handle a backlog of cases in the attorney general's department.

The House adjourned until 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Also moving out of House committee Monday was the Senate-passed bill allowing voting officials to use 1966 poll lists in Waco's election to replace former Rep. George Cowden, who resigned to join Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin's staff.

LBJ Sends Congress $135-Billion Budget

'Sacrifice' Plea Voiced By Johnson

By The Associated Press

Budget in Brief	1967	1968
For fiscal year ending June 30	$126.7	$135.0
Spending	126.7	135.0
Income	117.0	126.9
Deficit	9.7	8.1
Federal Debt, yearend	327.3	335.4

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called on the nation today for "a measure of sacrifice" — higher taxes, higher postal rates, higher paycheck deductions — to help finance history's biggest budget.

Along with a $135-billion spending blueprint for fiscal 1968, the year starting next July 1, the President sent a hands-off warning to Congress members who are grumbling loudly at rising deficits.

The spending loomed much larger, and the deficit smaller, in two less familiar budget yardsticks mentioned by Johnson. The "cash budget" adds up to $172.4 billion; the "national income accounts" show $167.1 billion with a deficit of only $2.1 billion. Both include Social Security and other trust fund payments along with the regular budget appropriations on which Congress acts.

Deep budget cuts could cause a recession instead of the expected seventh successive year of record prosperity, Johnson's annual budget message said.

He told Capitol Hill: "The economy, the budget, and the aims of our society would be jeopardized by either a larger tax increase than his proposed 6 per cent income tax surcharge, or by large slashes in military or civilian programs.

"I have reviewed these programs carefully. Waste and nonessentials have been cut out," he said.

VIET IMPRINT

The budget bears what Johnson called "the deep imprint" of Vietnam. Acknowledging that the war is beginning to pinch, Johnson asked $19.4 billion for Vietnam alone in this year's expanded $67-billion Defense Department budget and $21.9 billion in the $72.3-billion Defense Department budget for fiscal 1968. Roughly another $500 million in each year would be spent for economic aid in Vietnam through the agency for international development.

The President requested $75 million for start of production of the Nike X antiballistic missile defense "for such purposes as defense of our offensive weapon systems," pending arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union.

The deployment of the defenses—which could cost up to $40 billion—will be deferred, Johnson said.

But he added in the event discussion with Moscow "prove unsuccessful, we will reconsider our deployment decision."

The "sacrifice" asked by Johnson includes the 6 per cent surcharge on corporation and most personal income proposed in his State of the Union address—and widely criticized in Congress—as well as a further speedup in corporation tax payments and more "user taxes" on transportation. Successive steps in Social Security taxes in 1968 and 1969 would be required to pay for the benefit increases Johnson proposed to Congress Monday.

Johnson's revised budget for 1967 shows a $9.7 billion federal deficit, the second biggest since World War II. It was exceeded in "peacetime" only by President Dwight D. Eisenhower's $12.4 billion of red ink in 1959.

NO RETREAT
Comparisons in billions of the revised 1967 budget and the proposed 1968 budget: spending $126.7 and $135.0; receipts $117 and $126.9; deficit $9.7 and $8.1.

The budget carried few surprises, although it called for "an unmanned landing on Mars in 1973 and early-stage construction of a third nuclear aircraft carrier.

Keeping his pledge of no retreat on his "Great Society" programs of education, welfare and housing, Johnson called for "a modest increase in domestic expenditures."

Among the biggest, in spending terms, were $135 million to extend Project Head Start into the elementary grades with follow-up work, $160 million to help create jobs for slum youths and adults, and $150 million for the "model cities" slum-eradication program.

The downhold was visible also in Johnson recommendations that: —Space outlays be cut $300 million, to $5.3 billion, without delaying the effort to place a man on the moon by 1969.

—The decision to build a supersonic airliner, with Uncle Sam footing nine-tenths of an estimated $4-billion bill, be delayed further while design work goes ahead. A $450 million allowance for contingencies would cover the starting costs, Johnson said, "should an affirmative decision be made to proceed."

POSTAL HIKES

—A prospective $618-million postal deficit be erased by mail rate increases totaling $700 million. The proposed new rates would include a one-cent hike for first class and air mail letters and a 20 to 30 per cent increase for second and third class mail. Parcel post would not be affected.

—Up to $5.75 billion of government-held assets be sold to investors. Republicans have attacked the asset sales as "budget gimmickry."

To indulge in heavy-handed budget cutting, the President warned Congress, "could depress economic activity, reduce the incomes of individuals and corporations, and thereby fail to secure the revenues it was designed to achieve."

Big Budget Highlights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are textual highlights of President Johnson's budget message:

In the budget for 1968, I am again proposing a fiscal program tailored to meet responsibly the needs of an expanding economy. This program will require a measure of sacrifice as well as continued work and resourcefulness.

In the year ahead, defense expenditures will continue to rise as we carry out our obligations in Vietnam. After a rigorous review of civilian programs and a sharp paring of spending requests, a modest increase in domestic expenditures will be required as we press forward to meet our obligations at home.

In the 1968 budget I have sought to recommend increases only where these are vitally necessary to meet the needs of a growing society. I have given particular, but selective, attention to programs designed to bring into the mainstream of American life those to whom opportunities are now denied.

We cannot permit the defense of freedom abroad to sidetrack the struggle for individual growth and dignity at home.

Trapped in the declining centers of our cities are the poor and the victims of discrimination — who lack the resources to solve their problems without outside help. This budget provides funds to meet these needs.

Three Perish In Midland Plane Crash

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A private plane crashed late Monday, killing three persons. The wreckage and bodies were found today.

It was the third fatal plane crash in eight days in the immediate Midland area.

Tentatively identified at the wreck found today were the bodies of Gus Slaton, manager of the Holiday Inn here; Frank Gilliland and J. D. Wilson.

The plane took off at 5:15 p.m. Monday from Midland on a teaching flight and was due back at 7 p.m. The wreckage was sighted from the air about 7:30 a.m. today, eight miles south of Midland.

Residents of the area reported seeing a cloud of dust near the location at nightfall Monday.

A week ago two men were killed in the crash of a T37 from Webb Air Force Base. The site was seven miles north of here. Saturday, one man died and another suffered critical injuries when a plane crashed on Midland Country Club property directly north of Midland.

Gilliland, 27, moved here two weeks ago from Phoenix, Ariz., and was starting a flight training school.

Wilson was a sheet metal worker at the air terminal.

A Nicaraguan Tells Her Story

White-haired Adela Vargas Espinoza, 89, tells her story after emerging from a hotel in Managua, Nicaragua, yesterday, where rebels had held foreigners as hostages. A 20-hour uprising by anti-government forces ended with the release of the hostages. She told newsmen she was at the hotel "to see that nothing happened to Dr. Agüero." Hike In War Funds Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson formally asked Congress today for $12.3 billion of new spending authority for the Vietnam war, saying "you will want to continue your firm support" of American fighting men.

In a letter to House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., Johnson said $9.1 billion of the total will be spent in the current fiscal year that ends June 30. The balance will be available for future commitments.

"These funds are needed," he wrote, "to sustain our combat operations and to supply our field forces with the aircraft, weapons, ammunition and equipment they must have to fight aggression in Vietnam."

"The Congress will, I believe, want to act promptly to provide these funds."

The supplementary request is in part included in an estimate in the President's budget for the coming year, presented today, that costs clearly attributable "to the Vietnam war will exceed $47 billion by mid-1968."

Rebs Release 89 Americans

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — A 20-hour uprising in which at least 21 Nicaraguans were reported killed and more than 100 wounded ended Monday a night with the freeing of 117 foreign hostages, including 89 North Americans.

The besieged rebels were released after they surrendered their arms.

The rebels against the Somoza family, which has ruled Nicaragua for more than 30 years, had holed up with their hostages in the Gran Hotel. They agreed to surrender their arms if allowed to go free.

CROWD ROARS

National Guardsmen with tanks surrounded the hotel while insurgent leaders negotiated with representatives of President Lorenzo Guerrero in the presence of U.S. diplomats.

A cheer went up from a crowd outside as the first U.S. hostages emerged from the hotel. They included uniformed but unarmed members of the U.S. military mission. An American flag appeared over the second-floor balcony.

The hostages included a number of North American tourists and businessmen staying at the hotel. They were given shelter in the homes of U.S. diplomats and U.S. residents in Managua.

ARSENAL SEIZED

Inside the hotel, soldiers sorted out a small arsenal of rebel weapons, including 10 rifles and 25 pistols of ancient make, a quantity of ammunition, knives and saws.

The short-lived revolt erupted Sunday after a political rally conducted by Fernando Agüero, Conservative party candidate for president against Gen. Anastasio Somoza Jr., standard bearer of the Liberal party and an heir to Latin America's oldest political dynasty.

Lawmaker's Wife Votes Loud 'No'

AUSTIN (AP) — The wife of Rep. A. C. (Bud) Atwood of Edinburg votes a loud 'no' to Gov. John Connally's plan for yearly meetings of the legislature, Atwood says.

Shortly after the 1965 legislative met, Mrs. Atwood gave birth to their first child, a girl, Heather Adele.

Now, with the 1967 session just getting started, Atwood says his wife is expecting their second child about the middle of February.

"Felix McDonald asked my wife at a party the other night about annual sessions," Atwood said. McDonald also is a representative from Edinburg.

"She said she's not having any part of it."

MOUNTAIN FOLKS SHOUT 'AMEN'

Topless Girls Must Go

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — A Scripture-quoting crowd of several hundred citizens confronted Roanoke's City Council Monday night demanding that the city's topless go-go girls simply go.

Mayor Benton O. Dillard, who has voiced some defense of the beauties, was called on to resign.

The calls met with shouts of "Amen!"

Likening his southwest Virginia city of 100,000 to Sodom, Gomorrah and ancient Rome, some 40 speakers at the meeting charged that when tops come off, sex crimes and broken homes multiply.

GRATING GALS

Technically, the arguments are academic because the tops in Roanoke don't come all the way off. Half-dollar-sized pasties remain.

Much of the fire was directed against Dillard. Though he says he hasn't seen the show, the mayor commented at a council meeting last week that he had received only a few complaints from "prudish women—usually old women," since the girls started grating three weeks ago.

GOOD DEEDS

Dillard said he thinks there is

"nothing more beautiful than a beautiful woman and added: "This is one of the best things to happen to Roanoke in a long time from a business standpoint."

Some civic leaders agree with Dillard that Roanoke's position as Virginia's first—and so far only—topless municipality will boom the convention trade.

But his remarks brought first a denunciation from WKBA, a gospel-music radio station in nearby Vinton, and Monday night, the protest crowd.

NO TAKERS

The council took no action, since the city attorney is trying to define the legality of topless dancing, and expects to have a report in a couple of days.

Two of the dancers showed up fully clothed Monday night to counter charges they are "Jezebels."

Honey-haired Phyllis Whorley said her parents are Christian people and noted that none of her accusers had seen the show they were denouncing.

She added helpfully: "If there's anyone in here who wants to see, I'll be glad to do it."

She had no takers.

TEXANS AT WAR Saving Life Gains Medal

By The Associated Press
The Navy pilot was in a bad fix. Shot down over the North Vietnam coast, he was bobbing alone in the water with dislocated hips while Communists shot at him from shore, 400 yards away.
And the tide was sweeping him toward the enemy.
A rescue helicopter was unable to set down on the water because of heavy small arms and mortar fire, and the pilot's injury prevented him from getting himself into a sling lowered from the chopper.
To save the pilot's life, a Texan at war traded places with him.
Tom Goen of Wichita Falls dived 15 feet from the helicopter, helped the pilot wriggle into the sling, and then bobbed helplessly amid gunfire as his helicopter retreated over the horizon, leaving him isolated.
While he waited for his own rescue, U.S. airplanes strafed the enemy to check the fire against Goen.
Was he worried?
"NOT TOO MUCH"
"Not too much," says the petty officer, first class. "I'm a pretty good swimmer and I knew my ship would be back for me. Besides, those airplanes were giving those guys on shore fits."
The helicopter returned and Goen was rescued unhurt. Later he was awarded the Silver Star, the Navy's third highest decoration for valor.

Dozens Accused Of Plot Seized

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Police swept through Santo Domingo and other cities during the night, rounding up dozens of persons accused of taking part in a plot to overthrow President Joaquin Balaguer.
Gen. Luis Ney Tejeda, head of the National Police, said about 33 persons have already been rounded up. Dispatches from Santiago, the nation's second city, reported the arrest of a number of men who took part in the April 1965 revolt to restore ex-President Juan Bosch to power.
Among those caught in the dragnet was Maximo Lopez Molina, president of the Orthodox Communist party and founder of the Dominican Popular Movement.

Storm Rips West Coast

By The Associated Press
A new Pacific storm battered the West Coast today and whole gale warnings were up for much of the coastline.
In contrast, balmy weather for the season blew out of the Gulf of Mexico into the south and east on warm, southerly winds.
New York recorded a high of 61 degrees Monday—one degree short of the record of 62 for the date—set in 1906. The mild weather was expected to extend throughout the day as the January thaw continued.
Travelers warnings were in effect inland over the High Sierras for heavy snow blown by more winds.
Strong rain splashed up and down the West Coast. Many areas already have received more than the normal monthly quota of rainfall during the last few days. There were reports of mudslides.
Another storm coated the Rocky Mountains with a fresh snow blanket. Lander, Wyo., measured three inches of snow in six hours.
Fog shrouded parts of Chicago.

Phone Calls Major Leads In Slaying

HOUSTON (AP)—Three telephone calls dialed last week from a Galveston motel room became major leads today in a nonstop manhunt for the slayer of policeman Louis Sander.
While police followed the fresh clues supplied Monday by a motel keeper in the island city, Sander's widow, Linda, 23, arranged to attend her husband's funeral this afternoon. She is awaiting the birth of their second child, due since last week.
Sander was felled Saturday night on a North Houston street by a single bullet which penetrated his heart and both lungs. Witnesses said he apparently was killed by the driver of a car he halted for running a stop sign.
They said the car was a tan Pontiac which Sander spattered with pistol bullets as it sped away and left him dying beside his motorcycle.
The bullet-creased car was found Sunday in an empty downtown parking lot. One of its attendants told police the same car was left there Friday by a limping man who needed a hair cut.
This description tallied with that supplied police Monday by Mike Loomis, operator of Galveston's Nautilus Motel.
He said the limping man and another stayed at his motel from mid-afternoon Thursday until early Friday morning. The license number on their registration card tallied with that on the Pontiac, which proved to have been stolen Jan. 7 from a parking lot in Little Rock.
Police went to work on the motel room, recovering fingerprints and cigarette butts. The room had not been cleaned since the pair checked out.

Love Finds A Way—At Last

After a 37-year separation, Benjamin Peck, 89, of suburban Dousman, and his ex-wife, Florence, 74, of Milwaukee, remarried Sunday in a ceremony attended by children, grandchildren and a great-grandchild. Mrs. Peck, whose second husband died last year, explained "the children wanted us together, and we both needed a place. So now we'll have a home together again." The Pecks have 10 children. Plea Changed, Defendant Gets Two Years In Slaying

Avery Foster, indicted for the death last July 5 of Jessie Palmer, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of murder without malice in 11th District Court on Monday afternoon. Foster will be sentenced to serve two years in the state penitentiary. He declined to waive his statutory time allowance on Monday afternoon, which delayed his sentencing until a later date.
Foster went on trial Monday morning on an indictment charging murder with malice. The morning was spent qualifying the special venire which had been drawn for the trial.
A jury had been selected, qualified and seated in the jury box when Roger Dale Brown, court-appointed attorney for Foster, announced that his client would enter a guilty plea to the reduced charge and that the punishment would be left to the court.
Judge Ralph Caton excused the 12 jurors who had been seated.
The state presented only two witnesses. One was city patrolman Willard Meek, who was one of the first officers to reach the scene of the killing on the evening of July 5, 1966. He also brought to the court a number of pieces of wood which he had gathered at the scene. Also on hand was the head of a garden hoe from which the handle had been broken. Meek said the fatal altercation occurred at the Gomez Apartments, where he had been called about 9 p.m.
Cecil Johnson, who had an apartment in the area at the time, was the other witness. He told of an episode an hour or an hour and a half earlier than the time of the slaying. In this case he testified he saw Palmer standing over Foster, who was prone on the ground, and strike him with a hoe. Foster leaped to his feet, grabbed a handful of rocks and fled, throwing at Palmer as he ran. Palmer gave chase said Johnson.
SECOND ROUND
Sometime later, the witness

Pair Will Attend Farm Bureau's Austin Parley

Durwood Blagrove, president of the local Texas Farm Bureau, and Larry Shaw, policy executive chairman, will travel to Austin to attend the state and national legislative program conference Wednesday.
The highest elected state officials, along with all legislators, have been invited to attend a banquet concluding the one-day session at the Villa Capri Motor Hotel.
Special guests invited include Gov. John Connally, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, House Speaker Ben Barnes, Attorney General Crawford Martin and Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.
Texas Farm Bureau President C. H. DeVaney, Coahoma, will outline the TFB's program for the 60th Legislature at the banquet. In brief, the voting delegates of the state's largest farm organization have called for retention of the sales tax exemption on farm production items, preservation of the present Farm-to-Market road program, and defeat of any proposals for a minimum wage for farm labor.
The session will get under way at 1 p.m.; the afternoon session will recess at 3 p.m. to permit the county farm leaders to visit their elected representatives and state senators at the capitol.

Is Backache Kidney Trouble?...

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.
Many people have asked why I stopped writing the column but actually a person gets tired of thinking of ideas each week.
We are beginning again for a period of time and want to cover this as so often a person gets fooled by thinking backache is mostly caused by kidney trouble and so they take a kidney purge. Actually, few backaches are caused by kidney trouble.
Pain or backache between the hips and in the lower part of the back is caused by pressure on spinal nerves caused by a misplaced spinal joint, and is permanently rid of the next Tuesday.)
persistent, nagging backache, the cause of the weakness must be dealt with. As did this case we treated recently... This man had been to 3 or 4 clinics and still the pain persisted and had for two months. When he came in that evening, the pain was unbearable and it was going from his low back down his right leg. We examined him and found the offending part of his spine. With the first treatment, he got almost immediate relief and now he wishes he had received this treatment first. No. 3305.

Peking Undergoing Violent Convulsion

Editor's Note: For years many Westerners have pictured Mao Tse-tung as a sort of monolithic monarch who bent China to his will. Actually, troubles and dissension have plagued him since his Communists took control in 1949. An AP specialist in Communist affairs traces the story in this second of five articles back-grounding the current upheaval in the world's most populous nation.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

China is a land of calamity. For at least 2,000 years, its people have been the victims of disasters, natural and man-made. Today it is undergoing a violent convulsion. Yet another man-made disaster may be just around the corner.

The current upheaval with its titanic power struggle dates back at least a decade.

Behind the political troubles lay the ancient economic ones, aggravated now by reckless totalitarian measures which desperately sought cures. An attempt was made a decade ago to turn China's nation of teeming millions into one which a French observer once described as a "nation of blue ants." It failed, miserably, and the fuse of today's great political explosion began sputtering even then.

EMPTY BELLIES
It is difficult for a Westerner to understand the how and why of what is going on in China today in the wild confusion of a "great proletarian cultural revolution" launched last summer by Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist party, and his chief ally, Defense Minister Lin Biao. But the "cultural revolution" was just one more step in the developing upheaval which now has reached a new and critical stage.

At the basis of China's troubles are backwardness and empty bellies — this despite the fact that Red China has achieved five atomic explosions and produced a nuclear-tipped missile.

China can produce for war. It has difficulty producing for peace. For at least 2,000 years, feeding China's population has been a major problem. Even as long ago as that, the balance of nature was upset and China ever since has been subject to floods, droughts and famines, tormented by eroded soil and ferocious rivers, condemned to plagues of pests.

POOR LAND
China is slightly larger in area than the United States, but much of its land is poorly suited to agriculture. Only a tenth of it can be cultivated, and less than half of that is good farmland. This must feed a population of 750 million, growing at a current annual rate of 15 million. To feed them, a half-billion peasants labor mostly in the ancient ways of their forebears. If there were a similarly large proportion of U.S. farmers, 160 million Americans would be in agriculture.

China may have had a chance with Sun Yat-sen's 1911 revolution against the Manchu dynasty, but the agent for destruction of that revolution was the Kung Chang Tang — Chinese Communist party — created by agents of Moscow's Communist International, including a man named Nguyen Than, later known as Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

'PEOPLE'S WAR'
Mao was at the founding meeting in Shanghai in 1921. When he reached a position of authority, he purged Soviet elements from the party and it went over to insurrection which continued on into revolution, with Chu Teh as the organizer of Mao's 4th army. Today Chu, at 80, is pilloried by Mao's "great proletarian cultural revolution" as a traitor to communism.

Mao had many clashes with Joseph Stalin's Soviet party and nurtured his revolution out of Moscow's reach. He took advantage of the Japanese occupation of northern Manchuria and then of the Japanese-Chinese war to sabotage Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang forces.

The theory of "people's war" was born. Chu Teh, master of guerrilla warfare laid it down.

it often is credited to Mao:

"When the enemy advances, we retreat. When the enemy halts and encamps, we harass him. When the enemy seeks to avoid battle, we attack. When the enemy retreats, we pursue." Today's war in Vietnam is a "people's war" by the Mao definition, patterned on the Chinese Communist revolution, and a test case for the whole theory.

'LONG MARCH'

Mao's revolution almost lost. He saved it by his famed "long march" to escape Chiang's troops — an arduous forced march of 8,000 miles winding through mountains, deserts, swamps. Often Mao's men lacked food. Many thousands died. But the remnants holed up in 10,000 caves around Yen in the bleak northwest and Mao established headquarters. The Japanese attack on China, and then World War II gave Mao's Communist forces a new lease on life.

Eight unbroken years of war left China prostrate and exhausted. The ultimate result was a Communist victory over the mainland by Oct. 1, 1949.

Next: The cultural revolution.

Lack Of Rain Hurts Grain

AUSTIN (AP) — Stiff winds and lack of rain put Texas' small grains in poor shape, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Disappointingly poor" was the way the department's weekly crop-weather report Monday described small grains and winter pasture in the western two-thirds of the state.

Moisture conditions improved along the Gulf Coast and in East Texas, but elsewhere dry soils slowed land preparation.

The report said that High Plains dryland wheat was "very poor," that wind erosion damage had been "very severe" and "most wheat remains susceptible to additional damage." Oat conditions remain poor.

Some oat fields are being abandoned with the land being prepared for 1967 crops, and the same thing may happen soon to wheat, the department said.

Fair weather in the Lower

Rio Grande Valley picked up the momentum of the vegetable harvest, and cabbage, carrots and lettuce moved in moderate to heavy volume. Citrus moved in good volume.

Demilitarized Zone Plastered By Bombs

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. B52s rained bombs in the middle of the demilitarized zone today while the air war in North Vietnam and the ground war in the south quieted down.

The B52s made two other raids during the day, both in Tay Ninh Province northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

In the Iron Triangle, also north of Saigon, Brig. Gen. Richard T. Knowles, 51, of Columbus, Ga., commander of the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade, escaped unhurt when his helicopter was hit by Viet Cong ground fire Monday for the second time in five weeks. A soldier aboard the helicopter was wounded.

CHOPPER HIT

The chopper made a forced landing after it was hit by automatic weapons fire 200 feet off the ground over the Ho Bo Woods, 25 miles northwest of Saigon. Knowles also escaped injury Dec. 19 when his helicopter was hit eight times by enemy ground fire.

Bad weather closed in over North Vietnam again and U.S. pilots were limited to 42 missions Monday, the first time after a week that the missions fell below 50.

One plane, an Air Force F4C Phantom jet, was shot down by Communist ground fire and the two-man crew is missing. U.S. headquarters announced. It was the 466th announced U.S. plane loss over the north.

Among the raids, Navy fliers from the carrier Kitty Hawk attacked the Thanh Hoa railroad yard 80 miles south of Hanoi and reported a large secondary explosion. Air Force pilots reported cutting up highways in four places in the western part of North Vietnam near Dien Bien Phu and the Mu Gia Pass.

Both the U.S. and South Vietnamese military commands reported only minor ground action in South Vietnam. Operation Cedar Falls in the Iron Triangle continued 20 to 30 miles north of Saigon. U.S. forces reported seven more Viet Cong killed, bringing their total to 678 since the drive started Jan. 8.

On the political front, informed sources reported another reshuffle in South Vietnam's government was in the making involving as many as eight high officials. The sources said the impending changes reflected in part shifting power in the ruling military junta, and the chief purpose appeared to be to shut out Lt. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co, the deputy premier, war minister, defense secretary and once one of the junta's most powerful members.

RESHUFFLE?

However, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, who is touring New Zealand, denied at a news conference in Wellington today that a reshuffle was in the works. "If there were to be a reshuffle, I would be the one to decide," he said.

The B52 raid in the demilitarized zone was aimed at a North Vietnamese troop concentration in the center of the six mile wide buffer area between North and South Vietnam. The attack at noon was the second of three raids today.

At dawn, a wave of B52s struck at a Communist headquarters complex about 77 miles northwest of Saigon in Tay Ninh Province. In midafternoon another formation pounded a troop concentration some 86 miles northwest of the capital.

U.S. pilots flew 315 strike sorties over South Vietnam Monday against enemy troop concentrations, camps and fortifications. South Vietnamese pilots flew 67 strike sorties.

A U.S. military spokesman predicted a reduction in air raids against North Vietnam for the next six weeks. He said the northeast monsoon was moving into the area and poor flying weather was expected to continue through February.

U.S. military sources reported that only about 2,500 prisoners of war are being held in South Vietnam, far fewer than generally had been believed in view of the weekly casualty reports listing hundreds of enemy prisoners taken each week.

Six months ago it was reported that the South Vietnamese were holding an estimated 23,000 prisoners, but that number now is said to have included political detainees and persons rounded up in military sweeps. Of the 2,500 POWs, the sources said, 1,834 are held in three South Vietnamese camps and the other are in medical or processing centers or still held in other places of detention. The number was reported to be about evenly divided between North Vietnamese soldiers and Viet Cong.

No Post-War Recession Necessary

Some time the war in Vietnam must end. It may end abruptly or just dwindle out. The end may come improbably soon or be painfully distant. In any event, the United States must be prepared to absorb the shock of transition in its national economy, but that should not be too difficult to do.

The transitional shock will of course be much greater should the war end abruptly, so that is the maximum contingency to be planned for. And we have experience as to what to expect.

World War II and the Korean war both ended abruptly. The gross national product, the best index to overall economic activity, leveled off for two years after fighting stopped in Korea. But after that, the GNP reached a peacetime increase matching its wartime increases, faltering only during the "Truman recession" of 1947-48 and the "Eisenhower recession" of 1957-58, the last before the current and continuing long expansion period.

That experience suggests that the transitional economic shock of an abrupt end to the Vietnam war—though it would have harsh localized and specialized impact—can be quickly absorbed to continue economic expansion. But that would require, as President Johnson recently reported that his administration is planning, a prompt shift of governmental gears to more support of domestic programs. A fade-out end to the war would simply require slower, more careful shifting.

Certainly there will be no lack of economy-expanding tasks awaiting war's end. There will be the war-retarded antipoverty program, the stretched-out highway program and other deferred public works, health and education facilities, a home-building lag, war-checked consumer demand, conservation and recreation and water supply and other needs to be met, and stepped up aid to ease the population-food crisis in poor nations. The list could be lengthily extended.

The cardinal point to keep in mind is that it is a gross misconception in Communist theory that a capitalist economy needs war to stimulate its expansion. Modern American economic history demonstrates that post-war expansion can be equal to, or greater than, war-time expansion, and to far more productive long-range purposes.

Fair Test But No Excuse

There can hardly be any quarrel with the propriety of Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin testing the constitutionality of Congress' 1966 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act that apply federal minimum wage law to state employees.

The law affects employees of state special schools and hospitals, all public schools, colleges and universities. And as Martin says, it could subsequently be extended to all other state and local public employees.

Certainly there is an open constitutional question as to whether the federal government can fix wage standards for public employees of state and local governments who are paid from state and local taxation. And even if constitutional, there is still a serious question of the soundness of the public policy. We have persistently, for example, opposed efforts of the Texas Legislature to fix minimum wages and maximum hours for public employees of home-rule cities, believing that should be left to local governments directly responsible to local voters and taxpayers.

It is shameful to Texas that thousands of its state employees are paid less than the nationally recognized minimum wage and have incomes below the poverty level. Any government job worth doing at all is worth more than that to society, and Texas is economically able to pay its public employees decent wages.

Atty. Gen. Martin's test case is justified on principles of intergovernmental relations, at the same time the 60th Legislature should follow Governor Connally's recommendation to increase the state's salary scales enough not only to attract better personnel into public service but also to prevent the state government's employment policy from being substandard. Federal compulsion on this point is wrong, but it is just as wrong for the state to get itself into a situation where such compulsion seems inviting.

Holmes Alexander LBJ 1967—And The Great Society

WASHINGTON—He thrives on encouragement. Two business tycoons, Thomas Watson and Thomas Gates, had sent messages of approval and congratulations on the State of the Union address, and the President of the United States was elated. Tom Gates, an Eisenhower Cabinet officer, no less!

The address on the State of the Union had been delivered on a Tuesday night under elaborate precautions against premature leaks. The speech had to be a surprise party, although the advantage in that was hard to find.

THE PRESS was more miffed than mystified, for here was another example of how President Johnson did not trust it and made its work more difficult. The Capitol Hill Democrats had said during the afternoon that they ought to be cued in as to whether the President was going to ask for higher taxes. The Republicans, particularly Sen. Dirksen and Rep. Ford, would be called upon for off-the-cuff critiques, and needed some time to think.

IN THIS ATMOSPHERE the more-than-an-hour dissertation in the House of Representatives found a relatively cold audience. The tax decision was noted without enthusiasm. The proposal to merge the Labor and Commerce Departments fell flat, because no one had had time to mull it over. The one item that everybody pounced upon was that the President never once called the Great Society by name.

WHEN THE MORNING newspapers and the columns of Wednesday and Thursday made much over the omission, the President took umbrage. Sixty-four minutes of his speech, he felt, had been devoted to the Great Society. He had no need to put in a specific reference, and no plan to leave it out. He hadn't even intended to give his programs a collective name. Newsmen and columnists had done that. What mattered to the President was that the State of the Union was good. There were more jobs, more income, better education, better health, better transportation than America ever before had enjoyed. He still had unsolved domestic problems, but nothing comparable to what other national leaders had to struggle with in Britain, Germany and India. Good men in both parties, and in the press, too, should come and help him with ideas and with support of the projects that had already been launched.

BY FRIDAY it appeared that people had digested the message and found it to be a good one—the tax part, included. The columns reflected this opinion. The stock market had reacted strongly. But the good omens were volatile. By the weekend, Sunday newspapers were coming out with depth studies. The President's ringing periods in which, not long ago, he had halved the Great Society by name were being re-quoted. Questions about "visibility" of results and "credibility" of promises were being impolitely raised. The Civil Rights was waved goodbye. The essential of moon voyages and supersonic air transports was quizzed.

THOSE WHO wonder whether criticism will induce Lyndon Johnson to dismantle the Great Society of which he is the architect can find the vital answer in the President's doctory character. There is a make-believe material called "impervium" which plane-makers and missile designers like to talk about. Perhaps it exists nowhere else in Nature. But it's the stuff of which the President's determination is made.

Billy Graham

I would like to know if Lazarus, whom Jesus raised from the dead, had to die again. Did he have a glorified body, or did he have to die again just like anyone else?

D. J.

There is every reason to believe that Jesus restored Lazarus to his original, natural state, and that he had to experience death just like anyone else. If he had been given a glorified body like our Lord had after his resurrection, he could have gone through closed doors, and would not have been limited to space as are normal people. But we read nowhere in the New Testament that Lazarus possessed this power. It is assumed, therefore, that Lazarus passed through the experience of a second death, which makes him a little unique and one of three such people whose lives Jesus touched. They were: The widow's son, Luke 7:11; Jairus' daughter, Matt. 9:18, and of course, Lazarus, John 11:44.

Even though these were restored to life, we must assume that they actually died after living out their life span. The Bible says, "It is appointed unto man . . . to die, and after death the judgment." It would have been interesting, indeed, to have followed these three people whom Jesus raised from the dead, and recorded their statements about what they experienced when dead.

'HERE'S HEARTENING NEWS FROM HOME'

James Marlow Fulbright Called Unrealistic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like Socrates of old, Sen. J. W. Fulbright tries to be a gadfly on the conscience of the community.

But sometimes there seems to be more buzz than bite.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, has been President Johnson's steadiest critic on foreign affairs. He flailed Johnson for his handling of the crisis in the Dominican Republic.

He has never let up on Johnson's handling of the war in Vietnam. Now he has put his ideas together in a just-published book, "The Arrogance of Power." It's an enlarged version of his lectures at Johns Hopkins International Studies last year.

a cease-fire and stop the bombing of North Vietnam.

In this arrangement Fulbright seems to put the Viet Cong on the same plane of power with North Vietnam, although the Johnson administration considers North Vietnam the main adversary.

And, Fulbright suggests, the United States should pledge to remove its forces from South Vietnam. That is what Johnson did at the Manila Conference last fall, provided peace was restored.

Then there should be an international conference — which would have to include Red China — to guarantee an agreement on self-determination for the Vietnamese, plus a plan for a referendum and reunification of North and South Vietnam.

Hal Boyle Tension Can Kill

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Uncle Sam's eagle-eyed tax inspectors now find a mistake in one out of every five federal income tax returns. Could it be they are using the new arithmetic?

Your brain—yes, Matilda, even yours—is far more complex than any computer so far built by man. It has several billion circuits, and is so efficient it can operate for four hours on the energy from a single peanut. Take two peanuts, kid, and think real big.

How much do you spend on clothing? In the average family one out of every $10 goes for this purpose.

PROSPERITY note: The U.S. Census Bureau estimates that by the age of 64, the average doctor has earned $717,000, the average lawyer $621,000.

Quotable notables: "A man is not old until regrets take the place of dreams." —John Barrymore.

Under the gun: Science is finding out that undue tension can be killing. A study of 133 persons who had suffered heart attacks found that 94 could be classified as excessively competitive and aggressive and involved with work requiring the meeting of deadlines. So relax, and live longer.

SUPERSTITIONS in stores: Gems have long been thought to hold curative properties. As late as the 18th century, it was thought sapphires would relieve insanity, jet would still the pangs of an aching tooth, and topaz would ease asthma. It is even rumored in some circles today that the gift of a fair-sized diamond will reduce melancholy in wives.

Speaking of wives, the Book of Proverbs says, "Who so findeth a wife findeth a good thing." This was a favorite saying of King Solomon, who reputedly managed to find a thousand of those "good things" for himself.

WORTH remembering: The trouble with being a bachelor is that a guy has to get up so early to make the money to stay out so late.

Final bugle: Time makes a dusk of all banners and all armies. Only four veterans are alive today of the 106,000-man U.S. army force that fought the Indian wars in the Far West between 1869 and 1898.

This may surprise you: The glass industry turns out only three billion bottles and food jars a year for babies—but five billion bottles to pacify America's grownup beer drinkers.

To Your Good Health Hormones Following The Menopause

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Four years ago, at 56, I had a partial hysterectomy (only uterus and tubes removed, not the ovaries).

Some time later my doctor started me on hormones and said I would have to take them as long as I live. Since then my doctor has left town, but I am still taking the pills. Should I quit? I read in your booklet that it is not necessary to take them for life.

Is it necessary to have Pap smear tests after a hysterectomy? — MRS. T. M.

As I wrote, hormone medication may be necessary only to help a woman over the troublesome symptoms of menopause. As the symptoms subside, the treatment can be stopped. If the symptoms recur, hormones can be resumed.

There is a tendency lately to try continuing hormone medication well past menopause because it makes some women feel generally better. To this, I can say only that we should exercise good judgment. If the patient clearly is more comfortable with the hormones, that is good reason for continuing them.

But I look with suspicion on the tendency to think that because hormones help some women, that all should have them. Health and the practice of medicine are intensely personal, individual matters, and each case should be judged on its own merits.

I do feel that when such hormones are taken for a prolonged time, it is usually wise to use them cyclically — that is, to omit them for a week or two each month.

As to Pap smears, they are not necessary after a total hysterectomy, but if some organs are left in, particularly the cervix or part of the uterus, then Pap tests should be continued.

However, even after a total hysterectomy the type of cells found in the vaginal wall may give your physician a clue as to the need for hormonal treatment.

Dear Dr. Molner: Much of the time when I have a strong need to urinate, the force of flow is noticeably restricted and it takes more time to relieve the bladder pressure. What can be causing this? — S. G.

It is one of the classic signs of prostate enlargement, although occasionally other factors may be involved. I'd report this to your doctor at once. If you want more data on where and what the prostate gland is, and how it behaves and misbehaves I have a new booklet, "The Pesky Prostate." You can obtain a copy by sending 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Herald.

Of all the problems that pediatricians encounter in children, pinworm is the commonest. To learn the newest methods of treatment for this pest, write in care of The Herald for the booklet, "The Commonest Pest, Pinworm," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

It's All In The Way You Look At It

There's an old fable of three blind men who were taken to "see" an elephant. One of the three was led to the huge beast. Reaching out, he caught the pachyderm's trunk in his groping hands. "An elephant," he proclaimed, "is very like a serpent."

The second came in contact with one of the elephant's legs. "Ho," he declared with certainty, "an elephant is much like a tree."

THE THIRD somehow got hold of the elephant's tail. "Surely," he said, "anyone can see—an elephant is like a rope."

And they went their ways, each thoroughly convinced that he was right.

I sometimes think that scientists delving into the very ancient past of man are somewhat like the three blind men.

They find a fragment of skull imbedded in a sand dune. By measuring the fragment and "projecting" they announce that our ancient citizens were hulking giants with broad shoulders, long arms, narrow hips and shortish legs.

ANOTHER SCIENTIST unearths a bone of some other ancient resident in another remote part of the world. Using the same system of projecting, he comes up with the statement that the man of that distant time was not a hulking, animal-like brute but was a huge well developed (according to modern standards) specimen.

A few weeks ago, I read where a scientist had found still another skull fragment in Africa. This early being of that time, said the scientist, was a smallish critter — almost a dwarf.

WHAT PUZZLES me is whether you can determine by measuring a small piece of ancient bone how tall the being was from which this bone came. Further, even if your calculations are correct, how can you be sure that the one whose skull fragment you hold in your hand was a typical example of the man of his day. In other words, how can one know that the particular individual whose bones survived wasn't an abnormal example of his race? A giant, perhaps. A somewhat malformed creature with arms much longer and shoulders much broader than his fellows?

OR OF THE most recent finding — maybe that particular man of long ago was a dwarf in a race of creatures all of whom were much larger than he was.

If we could find a burial where a score or two score of skeletons, all of the same historical period, were made available, then, I agree, that we might be able to estimate something of our predecessor's physical being.

SOME YEARS ago, a rare archeological find was made near Midland. It was of importance, scientists said, in that it proved man was in these parts much earlier than had been believed. And the skull fragments were widely described as those of the "Midland man."

Later on, though, another expert looked over the bone fragments. He measured and calculated and came up with something.

"The Midland man, he stated, was in reality, 'the Midland woman.' Oh, well — it doesn't matter too much, I suppose.

Secretary Rusk Stays With It

WASHINGTON — Despite the spate of rumors popping up in many places in print, Secretary of State Dean Rusk has no intention of resigning nor is there any indication that President Johnson is seeking a replacement. As he begins his seventh year in the most contentious and difficult Cabinet post his nickname among his close associates is Durable Dean.

THE RUMORS were related to the possibility that Rusk would be asked to become president of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. Milton Eisenhower, Johns Hopkins present head and brother of the former President, is retiring in the spring at the age of 67.

To inquirers the Secretary simply says that he has given no thought at all to resigning. His schedule of speeches and public appearances go through May and into June.

THE OFFICE of Secretary of State is surely second only to that of the presidency in the battering the occupant takes from the public. Often the Secretary is a target of those who withhold their fire from the chief executive. Hardly an American over the age of 21 does not believe that he could do a better job in handling foreign relations if only given the chance.

Congress has been traditionally a trap for Secretaries of State. But, with the exception of his most vocal critics on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Rusk's relations with Congress have been good. One reason is the diligence with which he cultivates his Congressional monitors.

IN JANUARY, for example, he will spend 12 days talking to one group or another on Capitol Hill, including committees dealing with foreign affairs and with new members of House and Senate whom he has been asked by the President to brief on the world situation. That is a lot of time out of a schedule normally crowded from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day.

If any proof of his durability were needed it is his record of travel—nearly 700,000 miles, long since breaking John Foster Dulles' record. Another quality that emerges as he begins a seventh year is his outward equanimity.

RUSK HAS seldom appeared ruffled by his critics and attackers. Arthur Schlesinger Jr. stirred up a storm when in the magazine series based on his book, "A Thousand Days," he wrote that President Kennedy had been planning to drop Rusk in his second term. While this unverified report, which Schlesinger omitted from his book, cut him deeply, Rusk had no comment on the controversy it stirred.

Schlesinger was critical of what he called Rusk's "Buddhalike" passivity in White House foreign policy sessions. And this is probably the heart of the criticism of those who have worked with him at the top level. He rarely speaks his mind and is content with a passive role as the agent of the President in foreign policy. This is the view not alone of Kennedyites, most of whom have left the administration, but of others. In his public utterances Rusk reiterates positions long since taken and the result is often cumulative boredom.

RUSK WILL be 58 years old next month. If he serves until mid-1967 he will have been Secretary of State longer than any man in this century with the exception of Cordell Hull.

If Rusk complains of the rigors of his office it is to his wife in strictest privacy. Should he want to resign at this time it would be difficult in the midst of a war of which he has been a principal defender. And the end of that war, as he would be the first to say, is nowhere in sight.

Art Buchwald A Gold Mine In Recordings

WASHINGTON — The news that Adam Clayton Powell is putting out a record titled "Keep The Faith, Baby," and will use the royalties to pay off a libel judgment in New York City, is a great shot in the arm for the long-playing disk business. Every record company is looking for someone in the public eye to make an album that can compete with it.

I talked to the head of one of the largest record companies the other day and he was desperate to find an idea for a talk record.

"SEN. DIRKSEN started the whole thing," he said. "And now with Powell following up his record we've got to come up with something to compete with them."

"Do you have any ideas?"

"We've been working on some dandies. We're trying to persuade J. Edgar Hoover to put out a record titled 'Voices of Famous People I Have Bugged.' We'd like to use actual conversations that the FBI has picked up over the years."

"It sounds great. Has Hoover showed any interest?"

"HE CLAIMS Bobby Kennedy has all the tapes."

"Well, we've got one idea for a record called 'Sing Along With Joe Valachi.' The idea would be to use the tapes of Valachi singing to the police with a choir in the background."

"You could subtitle it 'Nongallant Men.'" I suggested.

"I'VE ALSO BEEN on the phone to Alabama trying to get Lurleen Wallace to make a record for us."

"What did you have in mind for her?"

"We thought of something like 'Lurleen Plays Music to Segregate By' with her husband George conducting the Alabama State Police Symphony Orchestra."

"It would sell better than 'Dixie.'" "I'd also like to get Gov. Lester Maddox to make an LP titled 'Themes and Variations on Making Fried Chicken.'"

"HOW ABOUT Ronald Reagan reading his budget deficit on a long playing record?" I suggested.

"We're hoping to get him to do one titled 'Ronnie Reagan Swings at Berkeley.' I think he works better before a live audience."

"It should be a riot," I said.

"We hope so. You know there's so much to be done in this field. We want to do a record called 'Bob McNamara and His Pentagon Brass' and another one titled 'Dean Rusk Reads Humorous Highlights From The Fulbright Hearings.'"

"I'd buy that one."

"ONE OF OUR people has suggested we make one called 'Sex and the Supreme Court.' Each Supreme Court justice could read a passage from his favorite book that has been condemned as pornographic because it appeals to prurient interests."

"The cover alone would sell it," I said excitedly. "Has anyone talked to Bobby Baker?"

"Someone is over at the courthouse right now. We want to title it 'Bobby Baker Pleads Innocent' and we've promised if he did it we'd back him up with 200 violins."

"What about George Hamilton?"

"I'VE GOT a check in my drawer right now. As soon as he signs the contract, it's his."

"What title would you put on it?"

"'Praise the Lord, and Pass the Ammunition.'"

MRS. CLAUDIE HORN

Recites Vows In Sanctuary

Miss Patsy Hale and Claudie Horn were united in marriage Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the sanctuary of the Primitive Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wilson of Wichita Falls and James W. Hale of Amarillo. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Horn, Southland Apts.

Elder B. R. Howze officiated at the double ring ceremony, before an altar graced with arrangements of white carnations and white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white lace over peau de soie, featuring a round neckline and scalloped bodice. The softly-gathered skirt formed a deep pleat in front and extended from a white satin sash. Her elbow-length veil of illusion fell from a tiara of rhinestones, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations with satin streamers.

Miss Linda Kay Hale, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a pink lace dress over pink satin and carried a pink carnation nosegay. Arnold McCollum was the best man.

The couple will be at home at 1102 Nolan. The bride attended Big Spring Senior High School, and the bridegroom is a graduate of the same school. He is employed by the Texas State Highway Department.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the bridegroom's home. Those in the receiving line were the bridal couple, their parents and the feminine attendants.

The refreshment table was laid with a white cloth and centered with the bridesmaid's bouquet. A two-tiered wedding cake was decorated with the bride's chosen colors of pink and white.

Mrs. Bernard Guralson, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the guest register. Others in the house party were Mrs. Dorothy Hannabass and Mrs. L. J. Brown, sister of the bridegroom.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kerr of Garden City, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. James W. Hale of Amarillo.

A LOVELIER YOU

Just Thirty Days To Acquire Trim Hipline

By MARY SUE MILLER
Does your weight tend to settle in your hips? Many love-lies are prone to hipness, although they are not otherwise overweight. The solution is spot-reducing exercise — routines that get lazy muscles working to girdle and redistribute flesh.

But what if you are both too heavy and hippy? The answer then is a combination of diet to lose weight and exercise to make sure of losing it in the hips. You just can't escape workouts when you want a trim hipline. The following routines take off an inch or more in 30 days:

1. Sit erect on floor with legs straight out and together. Using hands as pushers, bounce 10 times on right buttock, then 10 times on left. Be sure to shift balance well to sides, so as not to jar spine.

2. Lie back down on floor and raise legs perpendicular to it. Rotate legs in large circles, 20 times clockwise and 20 times counterclockwise.

3. Roll onto left side, draw knees to chest, then fling legs straight down floor. Repeat 10 times; reverse position and continue as before for 10 counts.

Mrs. C. B. Smith Is Conductress

Mrs. Carlos Warren, president, installed Mrs. Charles B. Smith as conductress at the meeting Monday evening of the Eagles Auxiliary at Hotel Settles.

Mrs. E. M. Tippie announced that a member, Mrs. Jackie Johnson, is a patient at Cowper Clinic and Hospital, and Mrs. Bobby Batton read a letter of appreciation from a family which the auxiliary has assisted.

A donation of $25 was made to the F.O.E. Jimmy Durante Children's Fund for the physically and mentally handicapped. This is a national project and all auxiliaries will contribute.

Ten members attended, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Bill Cochran and Mrs. Clarence Whittington. The next meeting will be Feb. 13 with Mrs. A. J. Anderson and Mrs. Batton as hostesses.

Watch the column for more routines. Now in the making, they'll solve your figure problems and increase your grace, too. Willow — that's the spring-time picture of you!

HIP REDUCING
You can diet until you become feather-light and still be hip-heavy. Reduction in the hipline is assured only by exercise. For a set of quick and effective ones, send for my leaflet, "Hip Reducing Routines." Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover handling.

Gag Vote Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate votes today on whether to take up a proposed change in rules making it easier to halt filibusters.

Senators advocating a tougher filibuster rule are pessimistic about getting the two-thirds approval necessary to shut off debate on the motion to consider their proposal.

A cloture, or debate-closing, petition was filed last week by 21 Democrats and 10 Republicans after the Senate rejected 61 to 37 a move to bypass the two-thirds rule and cut off debate by majority vote.

The two-thirds rule is the rule under attack. Some senators want to make it possible for three-fifths of the senators voting to choke off filibusters. Others want a majority of the Senate to be able to halt unlimited debate after 20 session days.

To get either proposal to a vote it is necessary to overcome a filibuster by defenders of the present rule, led by Sens. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said if the vote is close, he expects to file a second cloture petition. Otherwise, he will move that the Senate turn to other legislation.

Brother Succumbs In Washington

Word was received by Mrs. Charles Teague, daughter of Mrs. D. L. Pettitt, of the death of Mrs. Pettitt's brother, George F. Bellomy, in Vancouver, Wash. He died Saturday at the age of 58 from a heart attack.

Mr. Bellomy was born in 1908 and had lived in the Westbrook, Colorado City area in the 1920's and 1930's. He had lived in California, Oregon and Washington over the past 15 years. He was a Presbyterian and was married.

Survivors include his wife, and one son of Vancouver, Wash., two sisters, Mrs. D. L. Pettitt, Big Spring, and Mrs. Loraine Floyd, California; two brothers, J. L. Bellomy, Tahoe, Calif., and T. R. Bellomy, Santa Maria, Calif. Burial will be held Wednesday at Vancouver.

Youngster Shaken When Hit By Car

Michael King, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. King, 1109 E. 14th, sustained minor injuries when he was hit by a car Monday in the alley directly behind College Heights Elementary School. Driver of the car was Harold Lee Cagle, 1001 E. 17th.

The accident occurred when Michael and his brother were walking to school. A friendly scuffle between the boys caused Michael to dart out in the path of the on-coming car. He was taken to Cowper Hospital where he was treated and released.

Other accidents Monday included Randolph Ladell Glover, 803 E. 13th, and Juanita P. Dibrell, 803 Dallas St., who ran together at Eleventh Street and Goliad. Paralee Renfrow Royle, Dallas, and Cordean Dean Swell, Gall Route, collided at 1202 E. 3rd.

County Extends Two Hospitality

Two men arrested for obtaining a room by fraud now have a minimum of five days free lodging plus board — inside the Howard County jail.

The two are John Austin and Anson Scott. Charged with frauding an innkeeper, the pair entered a plea of guilty today in the Howard County court. Judge Lee Porter, acting on recommendation of Dee Jon Davis, county attorney, ordered each man to jail for five days, plus costs in the case.

The pair apparently lack funds to pay the costs, so they may be detained over the five days unless they make financial arrangements.

More Special Events Are Fixed By March Of Dimes

Two more special events for the March of Dimes annual campaign were announced today.

O. T. Brewster announced Thursday will be coffee day at almost a dozen local restaurants. The money received for coffee during the day will be turned over to the National Foundation.

Bob Galbraith, station manager at KWAB-TV, announced that the popular "Penny Parade" for youngsters will be staged 6-6:30 p.m. Saturday. Television personalities will stage this effort as usual, he said, plus all children who come to the station will be assured of appearing on camera. A video tape will be made of the parade, and screened Sunday, to assure that all youngsters are

Bids Sought On Demolition Of Elbow Building

Bids will be received on Jan. 31 for demolition of the old Elbow school house and for removal of cattle guards around the Forsan school campus.

Part of the old Elbow plant, erected in 1929, will be demolished to make way for a new classroom unit, but bulk of the structure may not come down until after April 1 when the district hopes to have use of the new classrooms. The old building has been condemned as being structurally unsound. In its earliest years, it had what was one of the first indoor gymnasiums. It was tiny, but it was a gym.

When the Forsan school was built, it was in the edge of a pasture, and the town opened on to ranges. Hence, heavy cattle guards were installed at two entrance points to keep stock off the campus. Now the pasture area has been fenced off and recently the new corporate government of Forsan passed an ordinance which prohibits livestock in the city. With this went the last necessity for the cattle guards.

Dixie Shows Sixth Place Pig

Dixie Coleman, Big Spring, showed a sixth place lamb at the Abilene Fat Stock Show on Monday. Apparently Dixie was the only Howard County youngster to place as high as sixth in the show.

Swine were judged at the show Tuesday morning and steers on Tuesday afternoon. Dixie had the only Howard County pig to be entered.

Robert Haney, Lawrence Long, Dolores Lankford, Mark and Maxwell Barr had steers entered.

Credit Union Has Annual Election

Directors were elected Friday evening at the annual meeting of the Big Spring Electric Credit Union at Cosden Country Club.

Those named were T. L. Young, president of the board, W. F. Fenley, vice president, and Doug Hill, secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the supervisors committee were Ralph Barrie, Ernest G. Barbee and David Yater; to the credit committee R. N. Tidwell, W. I. Fenley and J. G. Mitchell.

During the past year the B. S. Electric Credit Union made 120 loans amounting to $231,975 compared to 146 loans in 1965 amounting to $187,849. The number of outstanding loans this past year was 422 for a total of $216,805 compared to 416 amounting to $394,061 in 1965. The number of loans since the credit union organized is 2,436 amounting to $2,309,273 in loans.

There are 364 shareholders amounting to $212,791. The dividend is six per cent for a total of $11,466.

Teams To Seek Pledges For Sunday Closings

Teams of laymen will begin contacts next Monday to obtain voluntary pledges from business operators to remain closed on Sunday.

This is one aftermath of a meeting of Citizens for a Better Howard County, which had more than 100 Sunday afternoon for a meeting. The turnout exceeded expectations, said Dr. H. M. Jarratt, president.

Speakers at the meeting said that several businessmen had indicated they are ready to cooperate in the effort, but that they felt they were obliged to remain open because their competitors do. March 5 was set as the target date for the general closing.

Crux of the pledge to be sought is to close on Sunday. There is one proviso—that others within a competitive group would also agree to remain closed on Sunday. Among types of merchants who will be contacted are operators of variety stores, general merchandise, supermarkets, discount houses, etc.

Several supermarket operators expressed a willingness to cooperate, and the manager of a major discount house also indicated a Sunday closing would be observed.

Mayor Arnold Marshall had noted in a letter that many had contacted him and other city officials about Sunday closings. The citizens group, however, expressed the hope that this could be achieved by voluntary cooperation.

FUNDS RAISED Funds were raised at Sunday's meeting to help finance

Attack Fatal To Hulet Williams Of Colorado City

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Hulet (Gramps) Williams, 73, collapsed and died with a heart attack shortly before noon Monday while loading feed south of Westbrook.

Services were to be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the First Methodist Church in Colorado City with the Rev. Fred Smith, pastor of the Payne Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was to be in the Colorado City Cemetery under direction of Kiker and Son Funeral Home.

Mr. Williams was born June 27, 1893 in Energy, Miss., and came to Mitchell City in 1907. He had operated a farm eight miles south of Colorado City near the Payne Baptist Church, where he was a member.

Surviving are two brothers, John Williams and Charles Williams, both of Colorado City; three sisters, Mrs. R. H. Delaney, Colorado City, Mrs. Howard Lindley, Duncanville, and Mrs. Eva Morrow, Midland.

Police Investigate Burglaries, Thefts

One case of aggravated assault, one burglary, and three thefts were on file today at the police department.

Mrs. R. L. Hammack, 2284 Warren, reported to police that her son, Randy Hammack, 18, had been cut by three Latin-American males at the 7-11 Store on Wason Road. Randy said the three boys had jumped him, and he received numerous small and light cuts on the abdomen.

Norman McNew, 504 Aylford, reported a theft of his 1960 model automobile. The car had been parked at the City Body Shop located at 308 Young.

Daniel Mark Virgil, 1011 N. Scurry, reported a bicycle valued at $35 was stolen, and also Lou Beckum, 200 Goliad, reported a bicycle missing.

The burglary was reported by Mrs. Joe Byrd, 2209 Runnels, when she discovered $150 missing from a piggy bank. Capt. Bogard, of the police department, investigated and within a short time an 11-year-old boy admitted taking the money. He was turned over to his parents.

expenses of the campaign, which will include advertising through the media. Other funds will be welcomed, said Dr. Jarratt.

Some merchants, aside from religious issues, pointed out that the imposition of the new federal minimum wage (Feb. 1) might influence some, because this will increase operating costs (especially since most Sunday help is on overtime, and thus at time and a half).

Similar campaigns have been conducted in Amarillo, Lubbock, Lamesa, Abilene and Houston with considerable success, particularly among large supermarkets and discount houses.

Woman Wanderer Promotes Peace

With nothing except the clothes on her back, a comb, folding tooth brush, ballpoint pen, a scarf, and a few papers, a silver-haired lady is tramping over the country in the interest of peace.

Monday evening she arrived in Big Spring and will remain over Tuesday night before going on to Abilene, Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and Houston.

She goes by the name of Peace Pilgrim, a non de plume she adopted a long time ago. For nearly 14 years now she has touched every state in the union, just walking and talking.

Her formula is simple: Outer peace comes from inner peace. For 15 years before she hit the road in 1953, she said she had been seeking personal peace and a sense of mission. She sat upon her journey first from Los Angeles to New York (she passed through Big Spring then) without a penny in her pocket.

She still operates that way, casting herself upon the humanity of others. It works, she said, because as she came into Big Spring, a New Jersey woman who had seen her on television in El Paso, picked her up at the edge of town and insisted that she be her guest for dinner, and to speak to her church in New Jersey when Miss Pilgrim reaches that state.

ON INVITATION She stayed in the lobby of the Settles overnight, and when Sam Peters, manager, learned about it, he proffered a room and breakfast. Miss Pilgrim said she had invitations to appear on radio and was to be guest of Brenda Murphy on television.

"I only stop in cities where I'm invited," she explained. "I make it a point to walk into and out of these. If towns are not too far apart, I walk. Sometimes if distance is great, I take rides. If it is cold, I just put some newspapers under my clothing."

Churches, schools, communication media and various groups often invite her to speak, she added. Her papers include a multi-part "Peace Pilgrim's Message," which she distributes. Frequently people write to her at Cologne, N.J. (where a friend forwards mail to her). Some of these are testimonies that after talking with her, the writer has resolved friction or personal enmities.

WAY OF WANDERER Only as people have peace within themselves and their families can there be peace in the community and world, and she says that she took a vow of the "way of the wanderer" to dramatize this message.

This is her fourth swing, which really began last year with visiting cities of 25,000 or more in the 10 Western states. Now she has moved to 13 Central states. Her age? "When you have peace, you're ageless." Family? "All men and women are my brothers and sisters."

$65 Million For Texas?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appropriations in excess of $65 million for construction of non-military projects in Texas is recommended in the budget President Johnson submitted to Congress today.

The bulk would go for navigation and flood control works during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The Budget Bureau also included recommendations for many millions of dollars in regular operating costs of numerous federal agencies in Texas. The budget figures for such old line agencies as the Agriculture Department include expected costs of operations in Texas and other states. Defense Department proposals call for large outlays in maintaining military installations in the state.

WATER FUNDS Proposed navigation and flood control works by the Army Engineers in Texas approximate $35 million, with nearly $11 million going to projects to benefit shipping on waterways.

Continuation of work on Amistad Dam on the Rio Grande at Del Rio, under funds appropriated to the State Department's Boundary Commission, will require an appropriation of $12,069,000 during the next fiscal year, the budget said. This would leave $3.1 million needed for completion of the giant U.S.-Mexican water storage and flood control undertaking.

Also included in the State Department's requests is an $8 million item for construction of a border highway at El Paso, in line with agreements reached in the negotiation of the Chamizal treaty with Mexico. That treaty settled a century-old dispute over ownership of a tract of land between El Paso and Juarez.

LUBBOCK COURTHOUSE Another request for Texas with an international aspect is the recommended $2.4 million to continue work on a United States exhibit at HemisFair in San Antonio in 1968.

Irrigation and reclamation projects in Texas costing $2.2 million, including rehabilitation and improvements to existing facilities, are recommended by the Interior Department.

It was recommended that the General Services Administration, the housekeeping agency of the government, get $4,505,000 for construction of a federal courthouse at Lubbock, and $750,000 for a federal motor vehicle pool in Houston.

The Commercial Fisheries Bureau in the Interior Department proposes to spend $140,000 on rehabilitation of the biological research laboratory in Galveston.

Keeps Pact For PO Unit

Contract for continued operation of the Webb AFB branch post office was awarded to Mrs. Ella Phillips when bids were opened at the Big Spring post office Monday night, according to Frank Hardesty, postmaster.

Mrs. Phillips had the contract for the substitution at this time but she asked for a new award. Her low bid was $2,998 which was about $300 more than her current contract. She had complained that present compensation was not adequate to the work she has to perform.

The 14 bids ranged widely, Hardesty said. Second low after her low bid was $3,492. Highest bid was $6,000.

Hardesty said that the new contract with Mrs. Phillips would be activated without loss of time.

Mrs. Phillips, under the terms of her contract, has to keep the office at the base, operating 6 1/2 hours a day five days each week. She carries on the general services available at any post office.

Mail is delivered to and from the base by the Big Spring post office.

'Generation Gap' Called Key Issue

DALLAS (AP)—Billy Graham says the central social issue in the next few years may be the "generation gap" — the difference in social values and moral beliefs between youth and older people.

"It's getting wider all the time," the dynamic Baptist evangelist told more than 11,000 persons at the Dallas Memorial Auditorium Monday night.

"The basic needs of young people today are not being met by much of modern education. We stand at a serious moment in history; there has never been an hour so fraught with danger for America."

MORAL VACUUM

Graham gave the main address at a Christian education convocation sponsored by Dallas Baptist College.

"I find a developing vacuum of moral fibre among young people in America today. Hitler found a vacuum of moral standards among young Germans 30 years ago, and the world exploded," he said.

'TIDE MUST TURN'

Many young people begin to feel that "man is alone. God is beyond reach," Graham said. "Some become revolutionaries. We are in danger of educating savages in this country today," he added.

"The tide must be turned," he warned, and said the way to turn it would be to build "great spiritual institutions" which emphasize the reality of God.

Lingering Fog Plagues Texas

By The Associated Press

A dry norther whipped into the Texas Panhandle, light rain peppered balmy sections of the state farther south and persistent fog plagued the upper Texas coast today.

Winds up to 35 miles per hour raised dust in the Amarillo area as a Pacific cold front arrived before dawn. Limited cooling promised to be about its only effect. It moved eastward along a line from Childress to Big Spring before dawn.

Light showers and occasional drizzle, slowly moving eastward, dotted an area from San Antonio northward to Lake Texoma.

There also was a little moisture between Possum Kingdom Reservoir and Wichita Falls, from near Fort Worth toward Gainesville, in the area east of Paris and Dallas to Tyler, and around Victoria and College Station.

More fog billowed over the Houston area for a fourth straight night, once more forcing the city's busy international airport to suspend operations and keeping more than 40 ships from entering or leaving port.

Beaumont and Galveston likewise were enveloped by fog.

500 Persons Feared Dead In Rio Floods

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — About 150 bodies have been recovered following disastrous floods around Rio de Janeiro, and one police estimate said as many as 500 may have died.

With hundreds reported missing, rescue workers combed through mud and debris. No exact casualty figures were available.

Torrential rains Sunday night fed the raging waters and set off landslides which swept one crowded bus off a highway into the swollen Paraba River 33 miles west of Rio and buried another under mud and rocks. Fifty bodies were recovered.

CAMP ENGULFED

A construction camp in the same area was engulfed by a tributary of the Paraba. At least 300 persons were reported living in the area before the floods hit.

FAMILY LOST

A few miles away, Ataide de Oliveira lost his entire family as a hillside collapsed, spewing mud and rocks over his house.

"I went out through the roof with my small girl in my arms," he said. "My wife and my brothers-in-law were with me. Soon they disappeared, dragged by the stream coming down the hill. When I saw all that water falling, I threw my girl over a landbank and managed to seize a branch. When I came back she was gone."

SWEEP TO DEATHS

The Rio-Sao Paulo highway, which runs parallel to the Paraba River, was impassable for more than 90 miles. Police said a number of persons in private cars may have been swept to their deaths. Witnesses reported at least a dozen cars in the swollen waters.

At least 10 persons died in Rio de Janeiro as a result of the rains, including three who drowned when a bus with 10 passengers fell into a canal. Four persons were known to have died in Sao Paulo.

Color TV Joy Coppered Out

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — The members of the Oklahoma House of Representatives were overjoyed to find a color television set in their lounge at the state capitol.

Only problem was, the programs were not in color.

It seem that the capitol's copper roof blacks out the color. So in order to get programs in living color, somebody will have to climb to the top of the five-story structure and put up an antenna.

South was not far removed from a demand opening and his thoughts turned to slam. His three diamond rebid is a one round force, inasmuch as hearts is the agreed suit. When North showed a feature by bidding three spades, South decided that the hands fit well and he proceeded without further ado to six hearts.

Portuguese Officials Face Pro-Red Boycott

MACAO (AP) — Pro-Communist Chinese leaders tonight ordered food, services and taxes denied to Portuguese officials of Macao.

The boycott announcement followed a broadcast by the government of the six-square-mile colony on the Chinese mainland that it had been unable to agree with Communist China on wording of a Communist-demanded apology for the deaths of eight Chinese during pro-Communist riots early in December.

Pro-Communist leaders said the boycott initially would apply only to Portuguese officials and not to private Portuguese citizens.

They called on all of Macao's Chinese — 98 per cent of the colony's 275,000 people — to:

- Refuse to sell food or other commodities to all Portuguese government personnel;
- Refuse to allow them in buses or taxis;
- Refuse to allow them in hotels or restaurants;
- Refuse to pay taxes or fees

Milk Bandits Flee

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Two men, one of them armed with a pistol, robbed the Sunny Brook Dairy Farm of an undetermined amount of money Monday night.

One of the robbers grabbed two half gallons of milk as they fled.

Skipper Reports Commie Shelling

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese fishing skipper reported today his boat was shelled by Communist Chinese shore batteries Jan. 14 shortly after he left the southeastern port of Fochow, Japan's Kyodo news service reported.

Ehiko Fukwe, skipper of the Daishin Maru No. 2, said three shells fell about 12 yards from his vessel. He said the ship sped away at full speed, no one was hurt and the boat was not damaged.
