

PRIMARYLY FOR TEENAGE TRAFFIC VIOLATORS

Juvenile Jury System Launched Here

Preparations have been completed for a "juvenile jury system" in City Court, according to Tom Huckaby, Big Spring City Attorney.

"We will begin holding cases for trial until we get a sufficient number to call the jury," he explained Friday. City court dockets are uncertain, until the actual time of trial. He said defendants frequently request and are granted continuance, change their plea to guilty, forfeit their bonds by failing to show up, so we must have a number of cases set to insure the juvenile juries will have cases to try when they attend.

LYNN GREEN

Lynn Green, senior in Big Spring High School, will act as liaison with the high school, Huckaby said. She will supervise a jury wheel and furnish the jurors to the court in her capacity as deputy clerk in charge of juvenile jury panels.

High school students who wish to participate in the jury system will give their names to Miss Green to be placed in the jury wheel. Twenty names will be taken from the wheel each time there is a need for jury panels in city court.

The offenses the juvenile jurors will hear will include traffic cases of teenagers who enter pleas of not guilty, and adult violators who indicate they wish their cases to be heard by a juvenile jury. Juvenile traffic violators will have no choice, Huckaby explained, if they desire to contest their ticket. The system is extra-legal, he pointed out, as the courts have held that a judge may seek any advice in a case prior to reaching a decision, and this will be the role of the juvenile jurors.

Huckaby explained that 10 jurors will be used in each case, if enough high school students are interested, to allow as many as possible to participate. Also, two juries will be used for each docket, so trials will not be held up while jurors are deliberating. The jurors will decide first on the guilt or innocence of the defendant, then will assess the punishment. City Judge W. H. Eyssen said all punishments will be by fines, as prescribed by the state statutes.

Although there has been some discussion about other forms of punishments—such as writing essays, attending traffic schools, etc.—Huckaby said no positive arrangements have been made.

The juvenile jury panel will be sworn in exactly as in the trial of any criminal case, Huckaby emphasized, hearing the evidence and witnesses from both sides—they will be the judges of the law and the facts—Judge Eyssen will instruct them to retire and elect a foreman and arrive at a verdict.

SIGNIFICANT

"We feel," Huckaby said, "that the system will be of significant value in educating teenagers and familiarizing them with the court system, the jury system of trial by jury, and the role of the Corporation Court."

The major problem, he added, is that there are so few cases for the juvenile jurors to try. The number of teenage offenders that plead innocent and request a trial is negligible, he said.

Dirksen To Back Consular Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., has come around to supporting the U.S.-Soviet consular treaty, apparently assuring the Johnson administration its first foreign policy victory in the new Congress.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, is maintaining publicly that he has not made up his mind about the treaty. He has criticized it in the past but now is telling friends his doubts have been resolved and he will support it.

WILL FOLLOW

This probably means a substantial majority of the Senate's 34 Republicans will follow his lead and back the treaty. Their support is vital since a two-thirds majority of those voting is needed for ratification.

The treaty would lay down the guidelines under which administration officials say one additional Soviet consulate could be opened in this country and one additional American diplomatic office in the Soviet Union.

Opponents have contended this would invite an expansion of Soviet espionage in the United States and in Latin American countries. Supporters have denied this, saying that it would build an additional East-West bridge and give Americans traveling in the Soviet Union legal protection they do not now enjoy.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., told objectors at a Foreign Relations Committee hearing Friday that the treaty had become "a symbol of something it really isn't."

Dirksen said in an interview Saturday he agreed with that assessment since President Johnson already had authority to negotiate additional consulates. He said the treaty "merely lays down the guidelines" for such negotiations.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, has complained that other countries could invoke the most-favored-nation clause of trade agreements and seek additional consulates of their own.

A State Department survey furnished senators indicates that of 33 countries eligible under this clause, only 11 show any interest in setting up new consulates and nine of these are Latin American.

ACTION

Action on the treaty is expected early in March when the buffeting winds of opposition to the President's Vietnam policies probably will be rising again in the Senate.

Currently the President's critics generally are maintaining cautious silence in the belief that there may be some talking going on behind the scenes that could lead to peace negotiations.

Special School On Beef Cattle Starts Monday

COAHOMA (SC) — The Vocational Agriculture Department, in cooperation with the Coahoma Young Farmer Chapter, will sponsor a beef cattle production short course beginning Monday and continuing through Thursday at 7:30 p.m. each evening. The meeting will be held in the vocational agriculture building.

Teacher for this course will be Bill Holtzapfel, beef cattle specialist with the agricultural education department, Texas A&M and the Texas Education Agency.

Enrollment fee for the four nights is $2. Holtzapfel will be available during the daytime for individual consultation on farm or ranch concerning beef cattle problems. Beef cattle production will be covered as thoroughly as possible on a wide range of subjects from feeding to pregnancy testing.

Republicans Accept Plan To Give Powell His Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The removal of Powell from the House. Everyone connected with the Powell investigation emphasizes that the situation could still change when the committee resumes deliberations Monday, but the outlines of a consensus have emerged.

Republican leaders are understood to have agreed with the four Republicans on the select committee studying the Powell matter that this is the most severe yet practical punishment that can be dealt the Harlem Democrat.

Four of the five Democrats are also tending toward this view, Rep. Claude D. Pepper of Florida is keeping an open mind on possible alternatives, although he is understood to lean toward a penalty that includes removal of Powell from the House. If the Republicans can line up most of their 187 members behind the censure plan, the House probably will go along with it. The key to the debate would be to avoid the direct vote of expulsion by blocking amendments to the resolution seating and censuring Powell. Once this was done, the resolution itself probably would win approval.

City Accepts Lease Bid

Big Spring City Commissioners, in a special meeting Friday afternoon, awarded an oil and gas lease on its Moss Creek Lake land area to the lone bidder—Tommy Hutto.

"It is an identical bid to the one I submitted five years ago," Hutto told the commissioners.

The bid gives the city a $10 per acre bonus for signing the pact, pays $1 per acre annual rental, and covers five years. City Manager Larry Crow told the commission approximately 250 acres are involved.

The contract includes a pool arrangement with other landowners in the area. The meeting lasted about four minutes, one of the briefest on record for the city dads.

Republican members of the committee told GOP leaders at a long conference Friday that to expel Powell would only make him a martyr. In addition, they argued, it might bring the entire matter back before the House within months if Powell, as expected, won the special election that would be called for his vacated seat.

The case against Powell rests mainly on his contempt-of-court troubles in New York, on his alleged use of government-purchased airline tickets on private journeys, and on his diversion to his account of checks made out to his estranged wife as an employee of his House office staff.

A monetary penalty against Powell would be to recover the ticket and salary funds.

Woman Convicted

FORT WORTH (AP)—A jury convicted Mrs. Frances Irene Sherman, 34, Saturday of murdering her estranged husband, then retired to determine punishment.

The state did not ask for a specific punishment, requesting only that it be "substantial." Mrs. Sherman claimed self-defense in the shooting of Wallace Sherman, 40.

The prosecution claimed she lured him to the house with the claim that her three children were ill.

The couple had resided in Sansom Park, a Fort Worth suburb.

Local Delegation Goes To Austin, Backs Senior College

A delegation of 12 from Big Spring will go to Austin today to help push for a senior college in the Permian Basin.

A meeting at 1:30 p.m. today with the coordinating board of the Texas College and University System has been scheduled by backers of the four-year school, to be located near the Midland-Odessa Air Terminal, midway between the cities.

Several hundred representatives of 10 cities in the basin are expected to be on hand for the meeting.

George Zachariah, a member of the local delegation and one of the two Big Spring representatives on the Permian Basin Committee for a Four-Year College, pointed out Saturday that the board has an established policy against upgrading junior colleges. Thus, he explained, the establishment of a new four-year school in the area is to have a senior college.

Zachariah said 700 acres has been made available for the college, across from IS 20 from the regional airport. In addition Midland has pledged $2 1/2 million in bonds for buildings.

In order to get the senior college off the ground, the committee is proposing that the college initially use the Odessa Junior College facilities, then move to its own campus when it has been built. Odessa would continue to have a junior college, he said.

Backers of the plan point out the basin includes 13 counties gaining population three times faster than the state as a whole, but it has no public or private senior college. In fact, it is the only metropolitan area which

Local pilots last week found plenty of clear days for flying, and made good use of it.

Robert Lebkowsky, in the planes of Howard County Flying Club, was aloft five times, but capped the week by going to Midland and successfully passing his flight test to become an instructor pilot.

Others up in the club aircraft were Byron Orand, Wayne Henry (4), Jo Polone, and Faye Reed (2).

The aircraft of Big Spring Flying Club were active as well. Going aloft were E. F. Henderson (2), Bowman Roberts (4), Gene Reinkemeyer, Ben Faulkner (5), Jack Little (cross-country) and Donald McKinney.

The Big Spring Aircraft airplanes were also aloft a lot. Marge Steffens (4), Raymond Donnelly, Robert Mayo (2), Ed Pearson, and Glenn Cootes (cross-country), made flights.

Romney Strikes At LBJ's Viet Policy

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Gov. George W. Romney of Michigan struck out strongly Saturday at President Johnson's policy in Vietnam. "It has been clumsy, ill-timed and poorly coordinated, he told a news conference.

Romney, who is on a presidential exploratory trip, said that the administration has become locked in concerning the Vietnam conflict. "Many of their options are gone," Romney said. "The Republican party has a chance for a fresh look at this. I don't intend to fritter away this opportunity with half-cocked observations."

It's for this reason, Romney said, that he plans to visit Vietnam and other nations later in the year.

"There isn't any question," Romney said, "that this conflict is affecting our relations all over the earth."

Romney also was critical of the role of the Central Intelligence Agency in subsidizing the National Student Association. Asked what he thought about the CIA disclosures, Romney said, "I was shocked as I think most Americans were shocked."

But, Romney said, this is what one must expect "when you have leadership that is increasingly interested in using government funds instead of getting private support."

Romney landed in this Alaska city in the middle of a heavy snowstorm, but he heard some warm words from Gov. Walter Hickel of Alaska who met him in Seattle, Wash., and accompanied him on the flight north.

"The image of a person like Romney is one that can win in 1968," Hickel said. "He comes across as a person who is knowledgeable but not political. I think he'd make a great president."

Hickel has supported Richard M. Nixon in the past and last year Nixon campaigned for him. But Hickel had this observation on the man who was the Republican nominee in 1960 and is considered along with Romney as a front-runner for 1968: "As against Romney, Nixon would be regarded as a more political type."

Later, at a news conference, Hickel said of Alaska's 12 votes at the next GOP convention: "They're not for sale, but they could be convinced. I think Romney has an excellent chance."

Florida's Jet-Set Governor Marries Blonde Divorcee

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Claude Roy Kirk Jr., Florida's jet-set governor, Saturday married a beautiful blonde divorcee from the bikini beaches of Brazil in a brief, quiet civil ceremony.

The vows between Kirk and statuesque Erika Mattfeld were completed in less than 10 minutes in the television room of the ornate Breakers Hotel, symbol of the affluence of Palm Beach society.

While the ceremony was in progress, two detectives from the Palm Beach County sheriff's office were perched on the twin towers of the exclusive hotel. Others cruised around the building.

Asked how he felt after the marriage, Kirk quipped: "Just like when it started."

Only members of Kirk's family and a few friends watched while state Supreme Court Chief Justice Millard Caldwell, wearing a flowing black robe, read the civil ceremony.

Kirk, 41, Florida's first Republican governor in 94 years, was automatically excommunicated from the Episcopal church.

Kirk and his bride, a native of Germany who gained a reputation as one of the head-turners at the Copacabana Beach in Rio de Janeiro, planned a two-day honeymoon.

The couple was given communion at a private ceremony in the high-vaulted Bethesda-by-the-Sea Church, 78 years old and a favorite spot for tourists in this exclusive ocean-front refuge from the super rich.

Three reporters were removed from the church, an intriguing specimen of Gothic architecture, by one of Kirk's aides and a highway patrolman.

Kirk, the aide said, "does not want you in here. We've got a nut running loose."

The aide did not explain, but security has been strict since Kirk's office got three hand-printed post cards threatening the governor's life.

Scores of state troopers, sheriff's deputies and private detectives from the Wackenhut Corp. — which also is prosecuting Kirk's war on crime, with private financing — stood guard at the church and at The Breakers Hotel.

A Bible-carrying picket, who scrawled offensive messages in chalk on the sidewalks near the hotel, was arrested twice, the first time at 7 a.m. After he had made bond on a vagrancy charge, he returned and was arrested again. He was identified as Larry Bonham, 26 of Miami.

Tomato Patch Grows Lush In A Bed Of Rocks

By JOE PICKLE

E. L. (Gene) Smith has a perpetual rain going at his place on US 87 some 18 miles south of Big Spring—but the main attraction is his tomato patch.

The rain is purely incidental, for it is the condensate of cool air circulating through his big hot house. Gene Smith doesn't need it — in fact he doesn't even need soil.

His is a hydroponic operation. Lush vines, laden with tomatoes, grow out of beds of pea gravel fed by chemically fortified water. If all goes well, eight or nine tons or more should come from the 5,000 square foot enclosure.

This is not the first hydroponic venture in this area and certainly not the first indoors production of tomatoes. Reppy Guitler, former Big Spring resident, pioneered hydroponics in this territory at Abilene five years ago, and Gene Smith launched his venture last year more or less on a trial run. In the meantime, a commercial hydroponic unit was erected at Lake Thomas and has been in production for several weeks.

HE DID IT

What makes Smith's indoor vegetable patch unique is that he built it himself. With the exception of some commercial trays and tanks in a few rows, he fashioned everything from the building to air conditioners. He's not against the commercial units, for indeed he is to be a distributor in a wide area for Hydroponic Industries, Inc. He uses its chemical formulation, its advice and will be using more of its equipment. Meanwhile, he is accumulating a lot of know-how.

Smith engineered his own plant, designing the steel arches for the quonset hut 42 feet by 120 feet. For added strength and for a covering support he constructed bows of 1x4's. Over this he stretched a fabric poultry netting, then a polyethylene film. This was covered with another layer of netting to help hold it in place, and the whole was tacked down with strips of lathe nailed to the 1x4's.

"Putting that plastic cover on is some job," he said. The material comes in strips 40 feet wide, and managing that in this breezy country takes some doing by at least 10 people from sunup to sunset. The arrangement is not too satisfactory, for the plastic has a disposition to crack in the sunlight, and Smith has found it necessary to re-cover the framework annually. Next year, he plans to go to Fiberglas, which will be permanent.

PLANTS IN TRAYS

The beds consist of Fiberglas trays 2 1/2-16 feet long set parallel on five foot centers. He butts one against the other so that he has rows 32 feet long. The two pair of 32-foot rows will contain something like 170 plants.

The trays are filled with pea gravel, which is fed by a tank buried between the rows. Submersible pumps in the tanks are activated by a time clock and pump water into the trays three times a day. Sewer tile, ripped in half, is inverted and buried in the gravel so that the water can drain back into the tank and be recirculated. Smith replenishes the tanks with the solution which is one pound of chemicals (with all the minerals and trace elements that the plants need) to 100 gallons of water. He uses something like 500 gallons of the solution each day.

One other operation calls for testing the acidity of water, for this is what gives the tomato its flavor.

Temperature in the hot house is furnished by three home-type 80,000 BTU furnaces thermostatically controlled. One of these pipes in air from the outside to insure freshness.

Air circulation is important, and a battery of moist air conditioning pads is located along one wall of the building. As exhaust fans expel air from the building, fresh air is drawn through the pads into the building. Optimum conditions require seven cubic feet of air per minute for each square foot of ground space.

PLENTY OF WORK

An experimenter, Smith fashioned most of his own trays by digging a ditch, covering it with a plastic blanket, and filling this with gravel. He made his own tanks out of oil drums and hooked up pipes to feed water into the trays. He also is experimenting with some plants grown in soil and watered about once a week with solution.

If all this sounds automated, take it from Gene Smith that there is more than enough work. First there is the matter of planting seeds in flat frames (he has a small hothouse for this), then transplanting the seedlings about 10 inches apart in the hydroponic beds. As the plants grow, they must be strung up on pieces of twine. Regularly, he must go through the house, pinching off sucker twigs and wrapping the twine around new top growth.

Starting at the bottom, the vines put on "hands" of tomatoes. These may fruit from a few to a dozen tomatoes. Usually these hands are at about eight-inch levels. (One freak vine which fruits tomatoes shaped like a large jalapeno pepper is putting out hands three times more frequently and twice as many tomatoes on the average.) The plants will grow from five to eight feet tall and normally begin turning out ripe tomatoes in 10 to 12 weeks. Production continues on an economical basis for about six months.

BEEES HELP OUT

Each vine (valued at $8) should yield 12 to 15 pounds of tomatoes before it passes its prime. To help the cause along, Smith has a couple of hives of bees in the hothouse, and so far they have kept the plants perfectly pollinated. He has 1,700 vines, staggered in plantings at two-week intervals.

Smith sowed some of the beds with salad lettuce seed when he put out the small plants, and there has been a lush crop of this. Thus, two crops may be grown simultaneously.

The most formidable problem, however, has been not in whipping production problems but in finding market outlets. He is developing some in Big Spring (at Newsom's) and hopes he can line up others. Of course, tomatoes are available at his place, about a quarter of a mile south of the highway, all the time. Visitors are welcome, though he urges those who want to make inspections to visit on Sunday afternoons.

Smith is convinced this will become a profitable source of fresh vegetables with ideal nutrients the year around. Moreover, he foresees the time when home gardeners may have their own miniature hydroponic plots to furnish their needs. Meantime, he'll see to supplying them.

Tax Refunds Delayed By Return Errors

DALLAS — Twenty-five per cent of the taxpayers filing their 1966 tax returns early in January caused their refund checks to be delayed by errors. Ellis Campbell Jr., district director for the Dallas District, says that the first report on tax filing from the Austin Service Center showed that 10,195 refund checks, amounting to $1,195,323, had been refunded by the Southwest Service Center at Austin, to taxpayers in Northern Texas.

However, Campbell pointed out that more than 2,500 other early filers had caused their refund checks to be delayed through taxpayer errors. There were 850 taxpayers who made an error by using the wrong tax table or putting their tax on the wrong line. More than 700 failed to enclose their W-2 forms. About 500 failed to sign their return. Some 265 returns had missing schedules and documents.

The use of preprinted mailing labels furnished with the tax returns has reduced the number of taxpayer errors on Social Security numbers this year. Errors in Social Security numbers were the most frequent taxpayer errors last year. There were still 250 taxpayers among the early filers who mixed up their Social Security numbers this year.

The Dallas District estimates that 750,000 taxpayers in Northern Texas will receive a refund on their 1966 income tax return. Campbell urges all taxpayers to check carefully to avoid errors.

In Baltimore, 130,000 people visited Wyeth's exhibition; in Philadelphia, 183,000.

RIO CONCHO MANOR IN SAN ANGELO Retirement Center Adds Tenants Monthly

Retirement Center Draws Many Residents From Area

A face familiar to San Angelo residents for nearly 10 years is growing increasingly well-known these days throughout West Texas.

The keen blue eyes of retired Air Force Col. R. H. (Bob) Augustinus are probing into towns he had never seen before as he travels to publicize San Angelo's 10-story retirement center, Rio Concho Manor.

Augustinus became executive director in December for the high-rise apartment building, set on a scenic riverfront site near the downtown business district.

50 PER CENT

Opened for occupancy in April 1966, the manor is approximately 50 per cent filled. Augustinus has set a goal of 10 new tenants monthly, aiming for a full house by late summer.

The new chief of the building has set up a presentation complete with slides and is appearing before any group "anywhere" which is interested in bearing about the manor and San Angelo's advantages in general as a retirement center.

"People are retiring earlier and earlier," says the man who at one time commanded Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo.

"They're looking for stability

San Angelo offers everything—not only Rio Concho, but commercial apartment houses, attractive homes, Hotel Cactus for the less active retiree, an abundance of high-quality nursing homes and excellent medical facilities."

HOSPITALS

Augustinus pointed especially to Baptist Memorial's Geriatric Hospital, noted statewide as a large and well-equipped facility specializing in care of the elderly.

The apartment building—rising tall and white in the San Angelo skyline—offers views from its windows of the meandering Concho River which has attracted many people to the city.

Its completion last year marked the climax of a long-cherished civic dream in San Angelo. Financed through a loan from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, Rio Concho is operated under the guidance of a citizens board of directors.

MODEST COST

The modest rental of the manor's apartments is often overlooked by people of limited means. A number of apartments are available in the $86.50 or $113.50 a month range.

Meals in the colorfully decorated ground-floor dining room are priced reasonably. For the home-cooking devotees, even the smallest of the efficiency apartments has its own kitchenette tucked out of sight behind louvered doors.

Meals are served to nonresidents, as well as tenants, in the dining room by a recently acquired chef long on the staff of two leading hotels in the city. The luncheon and dinner guests lend a change of pace to life at the manor.

"CONTENTED"

Augustinus calls its residents "the most contented group I've ever been around." Visitors are commonplace, particularly on weekly game days, bingo nights and for regularly scheduled coffees and a monthly birthday party.

Just next door is a top-notch motel, convenient for guests from out of town. Each floor of the manor has its own recreation lounge, used often for entertaining visitors.

A stroll along the nearby river bank is a pleasure. Manorsites enjoy frequently, and downtown shopping facilities are within easy walking distance. Those who don't care to go out often have a beauty salon and coin-operated laundry inside the building.

Not all the people at Rio Concho are retired. A good many still go out daily to their jobs. The minimum age requirement, originally set at 62, has been relaxed somewhat, and several younger people have been approved by the federal financing agency for occupancy.

Dear Abby

LANDLORD IS A WOLF

DEAR ABBY: I am a 22-year-old wife and the mother of two small children. I live in a farmhouse far from neighbors. My husband is away at work all day 30 miles from here. Our elderly landlord comes to visit me almost every day. Until now his visits seemed harmless. He talked about the weather and news, etc.

But lately he's been putting his arms around me and he talks about sex all the time. I try changing the subject, but somehow he gets back on sex again. I'm afraid to tell my husband. Maybe I should tell the landlord's wife? I hate to come right out and make accusations because he's been so nice to us it may ruin our friendship. What should I do? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You need the friendship of an elderly man who puts his arms around you and talks about sex all the time like a moose needs a hatrack. Tell him AT THE DOOR that you are too busy to visit with him. Don't let him in. And if he gets bolder, tell your husband.

DEAR ABBY: My grandmother died recently and left me her most prized possession (she thought) — a collection of 338 antique clocks from all over the world. All the clocks are in working order, and my grandmother was very proud of her collection, but it looked like a lot of clutter to me.

I hate to appear ungrateful, but I don't have any special interest in clocks, and I have had several good offers from clock collectors. Some members of my family have told others that we should keep the collection in the family, but no one in the family has offered to buy it from me. How should this be handled?

PREFERS CASH
DEAR PREFERS: Let the members of your family know that the collection is for sale, and offer it to them first. If you get no takers, sell the clocks to a dealer, and tell your family it took too long to wind up the estate.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my early 50s. I make my home with my sister and her husband because I am childless and do not like to live alone. I am financially independent and pay my fair share.

My problem: When my sister and her husband are invited to the home of a friend for a dinner party, this is the kind of invitation I get: "Molly and Max want us for dinner and they said to bring Zelda."

When I tell my sister that I don't consider that much of an invitation she says, "Don't be so formal — you know you're welcome." In your judgment is that an invitation?

ZELDA
DEAR ZELDA: A "bring Zelda" invitation is more than most widows who live with their sisters receive, but it's somewhat second-class. I understand your sensitivity, but don't indulge it. Go, and have a good time.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

Former Resident Rites In Arkansas

Mrs. Frank Matthews, 36, former Big Spring resident, died Friday morning in a Memphis, Tenn., hospital after a year's illness.

Services were to be held today at 3 p.m. in the Smackover, Ark., Methodist Church, and burial will be in the Smackover Cemetery.

She leaves her husband and three children, Edwin, Debbie and Betty. Matthews was associated with Phillips when the family lived here before moving to Smackover five years ago. Mrs. Matthews was extremely active in the First Methodist Church and in the 1955 Hyperion Club.

Officer Finds One Prowler

Two prowlers, a theft and a vandalism report were made to police Saturday morning.

Police officer Jimmy Eggleston was only a few blocks away when he received a call concerning two boys prowling around a house near the intersection of Victory and Wood streets. When he arrived within a few seconds, the boys had apparently left the scene or had hidden. Unsatisfied with the situation, Eggleston parked down the street a block and was there only a few minutes when one of the two prowlers reported tried to get into his parents' house.

Officer Eggleston had been waiting and watching when the boy tried to make his unsuccessful attempt to get into the house. The officer contacted the boy's father, who said he would take care of the situation.

The other prowler report was in the 400 block of West Seventeenth, but the prowler was gone when police arrived.

Robert Pusey, 1309 Baylor Street, reported two wheels and tires had been stolen from a parked car on the lot at Second and Nolan.

John Storen, 1510 Robin, reported a window in his car had been broken when a man driving by the car threw a beer bottle at it. Storen reported the license number of the car to the police. Officer Melvin Daratt spotted the parked car at a lounge and the driver was arrested for destruction of private property.

Can't Decide Yet On Leaving Prison

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — At 92, John Burr Brown is going to wait until next year and see how everything is going before he decides whether to seek a parole from the State Penitentiary he calls home. Then, he said, "I wouldn't mind joining up in the Vietnam war. I'd fight anywhere to free any man. I could do something in Vietnam, even if it was nothing but totin' water for the troops."

Brown, who first entered Tennessee's state prison in 1898, has spent more than half his life behind bars observes that prison life today "is heaven compared to what it was when I first came here. They don't whip them (prisoners) up, beat them up and shoot them up like they used to. They couldn't treat us any better."

Prison records describe Brown as a habitual thief who "will be a criminal offender as long as he remains in society," to which Brown himself replies: "I'm just an old fool who took almost all of his life to learn a lesson."

He recently asked the State Board of Pardons and Paroles to pass up a hearing on his freedom, even though he is eligible, and was assured that "you can stay as long as you like."

Brown, though, doesn't talk like a man just waiting to die — and even did an impromptu two-step to show a newsman that he's still kicking. Assigned to the prison hospital, his official duties — for which he is paid $3 a month — including feeding the pigeons, which are daily visitors, and tending up the hospital grounds.

A native of Troy, Tenn., Brown may have set some sort of record during what he calls "my hell-raising days." He has served nine penitentiary sentences under his own name in Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri — and admits to several others under alias names. He has at least three known aliases, but the other prisoners call him "Dad."

Dangerous Escapee Captured Saturday

LEESVILLE, La. (AP) — Thomas Walter Shaw, 30, an escaped convict who was serving a life sentence for the slaying of an East Texas policeman, was captured here early Saturday.

Shaw escaped last Thursday from the Veterans Hospital at Houston where he had been brought from the Texas prison at Huntsville for examination and treatment of an ear infection. Police said he escaped through a window.

Shaw, described as "very dangerous" when he escaped, offered no resistance. Deputy Sheriff James Brumley of the Sabine Parish sheriff's office was credited with triggering Shaw's capture. He said he was called to investigate a man in Many, La., who ap-

322 Agree To Closing Pledge

All contacts have been completed and operators of 322 businesses have signed pledges saying they plan to close down on Sundays, Dr. H. M. Jarratt, president of Citizens for a Better Howard County, reported at the end of the week.

The pledges carry a provision that agreements are contingent upon other businesses in a like category closing.

Only two major businesses are not now covered under the pledges so far obtained. One of these has indicated a willingness to go along contingent upon the other doing likewise.

Target date for the re-invigorated Sunday closing of businesses is March 5. Dr. Jarratt expressed the hope that the list could be made unanimous prior to that time. He reiterated the belief that the community would prosper to a greater extent if Sunday is observed as a day of rest and worship.

Insurance Agents Warn Against Special Deals

The fantastic profit-sharing plan — the hospitalization policy issued to the bedridden patient — the ground-floor deal given to a select few "in lieu of advertising" — all these are things that the insurance buyer should examine with great caution.

These, and other schemes within the letter of the law, are costing policyholders money and often times heartache, the Big Spring Association of Life Underwriters warned Friday. Plagued by a number of cases referred to the ethics committee, this panel urged people buying insurance to observe a few simple rules.

- ### SOME TIPS
1. Know the agent, and to know the company he represents.
  2. Remember that you still don't get something for nothing, and deals that sound just too good are liable to return you nothing for something.
  3. Still another is to be completely honest in filling out applications.
  4. Finally — and perhaps most important — call Lewis McKnight, president of the association, or any member of the association to answer any questions as a free service. Reputable insurance men with reputable proposals welcome questions.

"We're not concerned about out-of-town competition," said McKnight at a meeting of the ethics panel. "But we are concerned about the image of these operators give insurance in general. All we want is for people to get what they pay for. It's a double tragedy when people find out that they have been given a fleecing rather than protection."

Among the "policies" which backfire most often are those billed as "investments." One company specializing in this field instructs its agents to not work in the city where they reside. Not infrequently, these policies have coupons attached, which the buyer is led to believe is guaranteed earnings. He can apply the coupon against the next premium, paying the difference in cash, and eventually the coupon is supposed to equal the premium.

What the buyer isn't told is that every time he uses a coupon, he reduces the value of his policy by that much. If he carries through, using coupons annually for the 20 years, he will end up putting in about twice what he can get out of the policy. If he leaves the coupons, at the end of the 20 years he will realize perhaps one per cent simple interest on his money—a pretty poor deal.

The sales pitch is that the company is cutting the buyer in on 50 per cent (or some such figure) of earnings—but this is said in such a way the buyer thinks he is getting 50 per cent on what he puts in. Actually, reputable companies cut participating policy holders in on 100 per cent of their earnings. Other pitches include cutting the buyer in on money on lapsed policies. A lapsed insurance policy is about like a repossessed automobile — a loss (not a profit) to the seller.

The committee cited the case of a hospitalization policy issued to a man under oxygen and in bed for a chronic condition. Whether thinking that he was helping the buyer, or whether by design, the agent filled in the application, noting that there was no record of ailments. Obviously, this was incorrect, and in the sight of the law, fraudulent. Over on another page of this policy, which listed things the policy would not cover—about every illness known to man.

"Be completely honest in filling out applications and read over the answers to see that the agent has answered them correctly," advised the panel. "And take a close look at the paragraph on exclusions to make sure that the fine print does not take away what the big print has given."

Beware of flattery, said committee members. Fast-talkers move in on prominent people with a story that instead of spending a million dollars on advertising, the company has selected a few for this special policy and thus have walking advertisers. If this buttering-up works, it pays a double dividend—for often the buyer (or victim) recommends a number of friends who might like to get in on the ground floor. Thus, his prestige is used to hook others.

Then there are the vulture types who concentrate on the elderly. The committee had one case where an elderly lady had paid out around $1,100 in premiums within the space of about a year, and yet her estate could collect only little more than $100. The touch was so easy the agent wouldn't collect renewals; instead he rewrote the policy at the end of the year (which returned him a higher commission). Moreover, he sold a lucrative policy on a grandson, then came back and said that to avoid friction, the lady ought to buy one on another grandson. She did.

"Of course this gives insurance a black eye," said McKnight, but the worst part is that it often costs people money they can ill afford and it leaves them expecting returns or protection at a time when they desperately need both."

Adcock, Smith And Williams New Managers

Sandy Koufax is missing and Maury Willis is a Pirate. Roger Maris has become a Cardinal and Eddie Matthews a Houston Astro.

The winds of change have swept across the baseball fields during the off season, leaving many starting switches as the clubs go to spring training.

Bill Rigney's California Angels started huffing and puffing at their new preliminary camp in Holtville, Calif., Friday.

Cleveland will swing into action in the first exhibition games when they visit Mexico March 7-9 for a series with local teams.

Loy Williams of the Boston Red Sox is one of the three new managers who will take control during the spring season.

Most observers will be keeping a keen eye on Walter Alston's moves at Vero Beach as he toils to repair the damage done to the Dodgers by the retirement of Koufax and the loss of Willis.

Jasper Eyes 2nd Double

FORT WORTH (AP)—Clyde Glosson, who flashed to a wind-aided 9.2 in the 100-yard dash last year, returns March 4 to defend twin victories at the Southwestern Recreation Track Meet.

The Trinity speedster won the 100 and the 220 a year ago to sweep individual honors at the annual track and field festival.

Another double winner, Jimmy Jasper of Howard County Junior College, will be back for a shot at the junior college-freshmen division records.

He tied the divisional 100 mark of 9.6 last year and set a record of 21.5 seconds in the 220.

Texas Tech returns to defend its university division title, going against Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Arlington State and Oklahoma Baptist.

Early entries in the college division include Texas Southern, East Texas State, Prairie View, Howard Payne, Trinity and Oklahoma Christian.

Record Beaten

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bob Seagren broke his own world's indoor pole vault record with a leap of 17-3 Saturday at the 27th annual Knights of Columbus track meet.

Mustangs Keep Lead In SWC Standings

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Charles Beasley's clutch free shots broke a deadlock in the final seconds Saturday and carried Southern Methodist to an 85-83 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Texas Christian.

Methodist's eighth against two setbacks. A frenzied, partisan crowd of 6,158 screamed its disapproval as the Methodists virtually duplicated an earlier conquest of TCU, an 89-88 decision at Dallas.

Beasley, the 6-5 senior, calmly collected on both charity shots. Kreis raced down the court in a head-to-head duel with the clock but was prevented from getting off a clear shot at the basket.

Tyldesley Grabs Four First Places

MIDLAND—Midland Lee defeated Big Spring High School, 54-32, in a practice swim meet here Saturday morning, after which the Steers lost to the undefeated 2-AAA Midland Bulldogs in an afternoon dual, 64-22.

Against Lee, first places for Big Spring were picked up by Bill Bortner in the 200-meter freestyle, Bob Tyldesley in the 50-meter freestyle and 100-meter butterfly and Jim DeVore in the 200-meter individual medley and 100-meter backstroke.

The meet took place in a 25-meter pool. Against Midland High, Tyldesley copped a first in the 60-yard freestyle and the 100-yard butterfly strokes while DeVore collected second places in the 100-yard backstroke and the 160-yard individual medley.

Porkers Trim Rice, 66-63

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Tommy Rowland's 10-foot jump shot with 12 seconds remaining and Wally Freeman's free throws with three seconds left lifted Arkansas to a 66-63 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Rice Saturday.

Nicklaus Enters Colonial Meet

FORT WORTH (AP) — Jack Nicklaus plans to return to the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament after a two-year absence, club officials announced Saturday.

Nicklaus will be shooting for his first Colonial victory, having never finished higher than third in four previous appearances here.

The $115,000 event is set for May 18-21.

Howard County Junior College, the Hawks, who are likely to be stronger this year than last, will open their 1967 outdoor track season a week earlier in Fort Worth. Eight other colleges will enter teams in the junior college division. They are Victoria, Houston San Jacinto, St. Phillips of San Antonio, Temple, San Antonio, Blinn and Schreiner.

Forsan Decisions Coahoma, 56-52

COAHOMA—Sharpshooting at the free throw line here Friday night gave Forsan a 56-52 win over Coahoma in a red-hot practice session for the two district championship teams.

Forsan won the first half, Coahoma the second. Coahoma's shooting was cold during the forepart of the game, and Forsan had a 14-point bulge at intermission. In the third quarter, however, Coahoma warmed up and nearly caught the Queens. In the end, it was the ability of Forsan to connect on one-and-one shots that nailed down the game. Both teams had 24 fouls but Forsan hit 30 of 40 free throws while Coahoma connected with only 20 of 32. Sherry Walraven and Deryl Dunagan were benched with a full quota of fouls, and Gina Williams, Linda Richters and Barbara Weaver were lost by this route for Coahoma.

Coahoma goes to Forsan Thursday for a return practice session, and Forsan goes to Springlake on Saturday evening in a last warmup for the Queens' bi-district clash with Mertzon at the HCJC gym at Big Spring Feb. 25.

Edwards and Trinity and expects Texas Western, University of Mexico and Mexico Poly. San Antonio Highlands seeks its fourth straight championship in the high school division. Thirty-two schools are entered.

The most likely record breaker in the high school class is Robert Gonzalez, who set a standard of 4:14.4 in the mile. He has been doing 4:16.0 in practice this season.

Houston has won three championships in a row and 10 in 15 years.

San Antonio Lee returns to defend its title in the high school division.

Look Back On Tremendous Season

Glover Leads May Scoring

The 1966-67 basketball season saw Gollad's eighth grade team post the best season record to date. Boasting a 18-4 win-loss record, Coach Marvin Tatum's Mavericks.

Outpointing their opponents by nearly a 2-to-1 margin, the Gollad quintet racked up 778 points to their opponents' 549 over the season.

Danny Glover led all teammates in scoring with a total of 272 points for an 11.3 points-per-game average. Runner-up for the Gollad squad was Tony Dean with 112 points and 4.5 points-per-game average.

Other totals for the Gollad eighth grade team included: Larry Vasquez, 94; Randy Womack, 74; Steve Plunkett, 59; Ben Johnson, 52; Dave Duncan, 30; and Jimmy Youngblood with 24.

Also Scott McLaughlin, 17; Tommy Fletcher, 15; Terry Price, 11; Brad Cedarburg, 7; Ray Ward, 5; John Armistead, 2; David Englert, 2, and Howard Stewart, 2 points.

Steers Gain 5 Shots On Leading Bobcats

MIDLAND — Big Spring Steers won a 36-hole event starting Friday.

The Steers won't see action in league competition again until March 17, at which time they will report to the Odessa Country Club.

Results, with 36-hole scores listed in parentheses: SAN ANGELO (615) — Con Hartman 20, Doug Eckman 22, Dickie Robertson 22, John Gletton 25, Total 226.

ABILENE COOPER (627) — Tony Platt 77, Dick Gillingham 83, Ken McCure 85, John Barclay 87, Totals 222.

MIDLAND LEE (635) — Calvin Williams 78, Craig Campbell 80, Richard Ewert 81, Pat Archibald 83, Totals 224.

With three matches still to go, the final one of which will be at the Big Spring Country Club April 7, it's still anyone's race.

Ronnie Broadrick of Big Spring remains very much in contention for medalist honors, an honor which would qualify him for the playoffs toward a state championship.

Co-medalists for the day were Permian's Jim Nelson and DeWayne McNabb of Odessa High, who toured the layout in 75. One stroke off the pace was Con Hartman of San Angelo, who had a four-over par 76.

Big Spring next sees action in the Andrews Invitational tournament.

Barry, District 14 AAAA All-Zone quarterback last season, was injured Friday in Alice's first scrimmage of spring practice.

The 6-foot 180-pounder was paralyzed from the neck down when he made a tackle from his defensive linebacker position. He was taken to an Alice hospital, then transferred to Corpus Christi where he was placed in an intensive care ward.

Dr. E. W. Crisp, the team physician, said Barry was improved Saturday with some feeling returning to his hands and legs. Crisp said the youth suffered an unusual injury, a bruise to the neck that temporarily affected his spinal column.

Tahoka Bruises Past Meadow

TAHOKA — In a practice game here Friday night, the Tahoka Bulldogs rolled over Meadow, 77-44. Tahoka's Mitchell Williams paced both teams with a blistering 30 points, while teammate Doyle Sawyer hit for 21. Roy Jordan was high scorer for Meadow with 21 points. The win left the Bulldogs with a 19-9 win-loss record for the season.

In a bi-district clash at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday, the Bulldogs will take on Aspermont at Snyder.

Cee City Plays Crane Tuesday

MARFA—Rallying in the second half, the Crane Golden Cranes defeated Marfa, 69-54, here Friday night. The District 6-AA playoff game between the Eastern and Western Division champions was deadlocked 15-15 at the first quarter's end and led by Crane 35-30 at the half.

Crane's Tommy Jones, a sophomore, hit 27 points to pace the victors, while Eddie Hernandez found the range with 21 points to lead the Shorthorns.

Crane will now meet Colorado City, 5-AA champion, Tuesday at 8 p.m. in a bi-district clash in the Odessa Permian Fieldhouse. The winner will advance to the regional tournament at Lubbock Feb. 24-25.

Longhorns Have 47-81 Record In 2-4A League

By TOMMY HART

Don McDonald, who gave Big Spring High School a basketball winner his first season at the helm, recently received an offer to guide a new high school in a multiple school system at a higher salary than he is being paid here but turned it down.

McDonald ultimately hopes to coach on the junior college level. Big Springer Charley Johnson and the St. Louis Cardinals will appear in a benefit exhibition football game against the Chicago Bears in Chicago's Soldier Field the night of Friday, Sept. 1—a contest that's apt to be on TV.

Since joining the Cardinals, Charley has completed 858 of 1,691 passes for gains totaling 12,589 yards and 93 touchdowns in NFL competition. Over the 1966 NFL campaign, the Green Bay Packers made only 20 more first downs than the opposition—231 to 211.

Local game officials are not being used in the upcoming Region VI-B Basketball tournament and that may be a mistake. Expenses will have to be paid to the visiting arbiters, who are being brought in from Lubbock. The arbiters here are competent and dedicated workers. Consider the case of Bob Wash, father of one of the Forsan Junior High School girl basketball players. He took off for Union to see the Forsan girls perform but wound up at Union-Terry near Brownfield. He finally made it to the right gym one minute before the game ended.

Brenda Jacob, the Garden City High School forward, averaged 29.9 points a game during the 1966-67 basketball season. The Columbine Country Club in Denver, where the 1967 PGA will be played this summer, will be the longest course ever tackled by the PGA field—stretching 7,436 yards. The layout has four par-five holes ranging from 550 to 592 yards. Many golfers think the ball travels seven per cent farther at Denver's mile-high altitude than at sea level. Lonnie Clanton, a star running back for the Big Spring Steers last fall, is up to 192 pounds now and still growing. He should be a big help here this year.

The past basketball season marked the first time since 1958 the Big Spring Steers put two winning campaigns in district together. The Longhorns have been 8-6 against 2-AAAA opponents in each of the past two seasons, finishing third in the eight-team race each year. The Longhorns were 5-3 in 1956-57, their first year in 2-AAAA, and 7-1 in 1957-58, the only year they won the crown. Here's a rundown of the conference:

Year	2-AAAA Record, Finish	Overall	Coach	Champion
1952-57	5-3 (1st or 2nd)	18-7	Johnny Johnson	Abilene
1957-58	7-1 (won title)	24-7	Johnny Johnson	Big Spring
1958-59	2-8 (3rd)	18-11	Vernon Horton	Odessa
1959-60	6-4 (1st or 2nd)	20-9	Vernon Horton	Midland
1960-61	5-5 (1st)	22-9	Delmer Poss	Midland
1961-62	4-11 (7th)	15-23	Delmer Poss	S.A.-Od.
1962-63	2-12 (8th)	11-24	Delmer Poss	Odessa won playoff
1963-64	3-11 (7th)	11-15	Delmer Poss	Permian
1964-65	2-12 (8th)	7-27	Delmer Poss	Permian
1965-66	8-4 (3rd)	28-12	Allen Simpson	Abilene
1966-67	8-4 (3rd)	25-8	Don McDonald	Abilene

The Steers have won 47 and lost 81 since joining the league 11 years ago. Overall, they are a robust 177-138, during which time they have served under five different coaches. The circuit had only four members (San Angelo, Midland, Abilene and Odessa) until Big Spring was sworn into the league for the 1956-57 school year. Of the eight members now active, only Cooper has been deprived of a championship and the Cougars almost made it this year, finishing one game off Abilene's pace. Unlike the situation at the other conference schools, much of the squad here is made up of boys who also play football. Too, the basketball mentor has to work with football during September and part of October.

O. W. Follis, the highly successful basketball coach at Lamesa High School, says that junior Pat Fees, a 6-5½ boy who is an A student scholastically, is the finest he's ever coached. Pat made the second all-state (Class AAA) team last year while still a sophomore and is averaging 18.5 points a game and has hit 90 per cent of his free tosses this season. He had grabbed off 316 rebounds over the season prior to Saturday night's playoff game with Levelland. Pat spurred the team to 27 wins in its first 28 starts. I recently heard of a race track character who was such a cautious soul he wanted to bet on the rabbit—to show.

San Angelo Places Three On Big 33 Team

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — San Angelo, the state Class AAAA champion, placed an unprecedented three players on the 1967 Texas squad that meets Pennsylvania at Hershey, Pa., Aug. 12 in the fourth annual Big 33 football game.

Previously, no team ever has placed more than two and last year, state champion Odessa Periman was the first to have more than a single player.

San Angelo's other player to make the squad was guard Alan Sikes, who was nearly unanimous.

On the squad are no less than six quarterbacks, although three of them earned more votes for their defensive efforts. Mullins

Turner, Houston Westbury, Port Arthur and Plano each landed two players on the squad.

Heading the list is much-heralded Steve Worster, the 210-pound fullback from Bridge City. Others who had top votes from all corners were San Angelo quarterback Gary Mullins and tackle Randy Stout, Tascosa quarterback Monty Johnson, Spring Branch center Jim Achilles, Houston Westbury flanker David Elmendorf and Port Arthur running back Charley Speyrer.

Other quarterbacks were Bill Montgomery of Turner, Mesquite's Eddie Phillips and Steve Stuart of Nederland.

Joining Worster as running backs were Speyrer, who averaged 10.1 yards per carry; Plano's speedy Johnny Robinson, fullback Randy Cooper of second 26-10 and won 34-2 last year.

The Texas squad ends — Preslie Hodge, Carrollton; Derek Davis, Dallas Bryon Adams; Mitch Robertson, Abilene Cooper; Ken Pearson, Spring Branch; Memorial; Mike Parrott, Goleta Park; Elmo Wright, Sweeny.

Tackles — Randy Stout, San Angelo; Bill Alessi, Houston Jones; Charles Crawford, Spring Branch; Larry Caudill, Posdeno; Mike Tighe, San Antonio Lee; Jim Dyer, Highland Park.

Guards — Kenneth Davis, Plano; Alan Sikes, San Angelo; Scott Henderson, Dallas Hillcrest; Preston Payne, Donna; Jesse Young, Fredericksburg; Scott Palmer, Houston Westbury.

Centers — Jim Achilles, Spring Branch; Raymond Fontanel, Port Arthur; Backs — Bill Montgomery, Carrollton; Turner; Steve Stuart, Nederland; Eddie Phillips, Mesquite; Steve Worster, Bridge City; Charley Speyrer, Port Arthur; David Elmendorf, Houston Westbury; Johnny Robinson, Plano; Monty Johnson, Amarillo Tascosa; Randy Cooper, Dallas Woodrow Wilson; Jimmy Sheffield, Houston Waltrip; Paul Robichau, Beaumont Kelly; Gary Mullins, San Angelo.

This year's game will be the fourth in the colorful rivalry. Pennsylvania won the first game in 1964, 12-6, but Texas took the

"A Time To Be Planting"

THE JOYS OF RETIREMENT include savoring the results of time spent beautifying a home and its garden area. Dr. and Mrs. Paul Kionka prune a six-year-old Arizona Ash which is a reminder of their former home in Tucson. Helping them put their patio in order for summer entertainment is a son, Roger, who does his share of the preparatory work this time of year.

THE SUN WARMS THE SOIL and Mrs. B. B. Badger, 1303 Pennsylvania, is anxious to clear the semi-circle area at the front of her red brick home where spring flowers will soon bloom. Willing hands hold hoes and rakes as she is joined by her neighbors, young Frosty, Katie and Leigh Reynolds, children of Mr. and Mrs. Don Reynolds.

GREEN THUMBS AND A GREEN HOUSE combine to get an early start on spring. Mrs. John Hughes, right, is joined by fellow garden club members, Mrs. Tom Ivey and Miss Bessie Love, in tending the seedlings and potted plants that will be moved outside as soon as their survival is insured. Mrs. Hughes' husband built the shelter and joins in tending the tender sprouts to maturity.

HOME CAN BE ANYWHERE when the roots of roses proclaim its permanence. Miss Charlene Goins and Mrs. Fannie Clark reside in the nurses residence at the Veterans Administration Hospital. They have beautified the buff brick home by circling it with beds of irises, roses, daffodils, jonquils and verbena. For the cold months, there are colorful chrysanthemums.

Joyce Marie Cross Weds Pat McMahan

Miss Joyce Marie Cross became the bride of Patrick Michael McMahan at 7 o'clock Friday evening in a ceremony performed in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Jewel H. Taylor, 1104 Lloyd.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Cross, 1206 Lloyd, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland McMahan Sr., 1400 Nolan, and Mrs. Bill Lawrence of Fort Worth.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Billy Rudd, pastor of East Fourth Baptist Church, before a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli and stock interspersed with greenery in a tall white basket. The bridal aisle was laid with satin and marked with white streamers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a street-length A-line dress of white cotton lace with Empire bodice enhanced with threaded ribbon. Seed pearls etched a design at the rounded neckline, and the sleeves extended to below the elbow. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls and iridescents.

The bridal bouquet was formed of pink rosebuds circled with white feathered carnations and showered with white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Derryl D. Nelson of Washington, D. C., attended her sister as matron of honor and wore a deep pink knit dress with matching veiled headpiece. Her shoulder corsage of white carnations was tied with pink ribbon.

The bridegroom's brother, Bernard McMahan, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception where Mrs. Bernard McMahan registered guests. Members of the house party were Miss Linda Jones and Mrs. Phil Whistle who wore white carnation corsages.

The refreshment table was covered with white lace over pink linen and featured a tiered arrangement of pink carnations and leather fern. Crystal and silver appointments were used, and the three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sid Cross, Stanton; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Stephens, O'Donnell; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Barber, Midland. When the couple left on a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M., the bride was wearing a navy blue shantung suit with white shell top and pink accessories. Her corsage was the rose buds from her bouquet. Upon returning, Mr. and Mrs. McMahan will reside at 1101½ Lancaster. She is a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School

MRS. J. R. FARMER

Office Orchid

Mrs. J. R. Farmer, 114 Cedar Road, was born in Durant, Okla., but grew up in West Texas. Following graduation from Amarillo High School, she attended college in Denton at Texas University for Women which was then known as College of Industrial Arts.

It was in Amarillo that she met and married an East Texan, J. R. Farmer, and they have made their home in Big Spring for many years. He recently retired from the Sales Department of Phillips Petroleum Company and is currently devoting his time to golf and friends. The couple have one son, Jim, who resides in New York City, N. Y., where he is associated with the Susan Crane Packaging Company. Still a bachelor, he was home to visit his parents during the Christmas season.

Mrs. Farmer's professional career began with a job as legal secretary to P. F. Sapp in Amarillo. After coming to Big Spring, she was simply a housewife until the manpower shortage in 1943. At that time, she was recruited as a secretary by George R. French, assistant superintendent of the Western Division of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company. She was the first woman to hold that particular job with the company and remained in the position until the superintendent's offices were moved to Fort Worth in 1960.

In August of 1960, Mrs. Farmer took the position of medical secretary to the doctors of the 3560th USAF Hospital at Webb Air Force Base. It was in November, 1961, that she was promoted to the position of secretary to Col. Charles W. Head Jr., then commander of the Air Base Group. She was reassigned in April, 1966, as secretary to Col. Chester J. Butcher, Wing Commander.

"My duties are varied, demanding and always interesting," said Mrs. Farmer.

She is a member of the 1930 Hypersion Club and organized the Les Girls Investment Club which she has served as president three times. This was the first woman's investment club in the city. Also, she holds membership in the Life Insurance Fund of Midland and is a former member of the National Secretaries Association.

She lists music, people and sometimes golf as her outside interests.

Hyperions Told Of Finland

Oiva Knuutila of Finland was guest speaker at the Thursday meeting of the 1946 Hyperion Club in the home of Mrs. Charles Tompkins, 711 Tulane. Mrs. Harold Talbot, with whom Knuutila resides while an exchange student here, was co-hostess.

Knuutila noted that Finland has almost five million inhabitants with Helsinki, the capitol and largest city, having a population of 500,000. After a history of many wars, the country is now an independent nation governed by a president and parliament of 200 members elected by the people. Parliament members serve for six years.

The education system includes eight years of elementary education with another eight years of higher grades offered. In the latter, tuition is paid much as in this country's universities. Children attend classes six days a week in the lower grades, and there are four large universities in the country.

The climate varies, with short summers and severe winters. The country is made up of valleys and hills dotted with 60,000 lakes. From the pine and spruce forest has come the nation's largest industry, the exporting of lumber, and there is also grain farming and mining of copper and gold.

Knuutila explained that 90 per cent of the people are of the Lutheran faith, and that in the field of culture, Finland has many noted poets and musicians. Sports are skiing, track and field meets, and the American favorite, baseball.

In closing, the speaker explained that he began studying English in the third grade and was one of 50 students in Finland accepted for the exchange program.

Mrs. Robert Stripling presided as Mrs. John Hodges reported for the nominating committee. The new officers will be Mrs. Ross Boykin, president; Mrs. Glen Cox, vice president; Mrs. John Burgess, recording secretary; Mrs. Lloyd Wasson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. M. M. Edwards, treasurer; Mrs. R. W. Whipkey, reporter; and Mrs. Stripling, parliamentarian.

Teas Held For HD Members

Mrs. DeLaine Crawford, Howard Home Demonstration Agent, entertained with informative teas Tuesday and Thursday afternoons in her home at 701 W. 17th.

Members of Centerpoint, Knott and Luther Home Demonstration Clubs were Tuesday guests, and City HD club members, Cos-homa, Elbow and Lomax members were entertained Thursday.

During the program, Mrs. Crawford demonstrated the techniques used in planning and giving a coffee or tea. She reviewed the attributes of a good hostess and emphasized careful, reasonable planning.

In her talk, Mrs. Crawford said, that a good hostess first decides the kind of party she will have, determines the guest list and sets the date, place and time she will entertain. She might choose a theme if appropriate, then will plan the menu and table arrangements. "I always emphasize," continued Mrs. Crawford, "that a hostess use what she has, rather than planning beyond her facilities or her means."

The tea table was laid in a formal manner, with a pale pink damask cloth, and centered with an arrangement of pink and American Beauty roses. Crystal and silver appointments completed the decorations.

An informal coffee service in copper was used on the refreshment table in the den. The round table was covered with a green fringed cloth and centered with colors of yellow and green. Pottery and silver appointments completed the setting.

Thirty attended Tuesday, and 40 attended Thursday. Members of Fairview, Airport and College Park HD clubs will be entertained in Mrs. Crawford's home, Feb. 21.

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

Collecting as a hobby wouldn't be the least bit interesting if everyone had an interest in the same thing and it's the variation of interests that makes the hobby.

There are many things that, as far as I am concerned, are just objects to catch dust and make a general nuisance in the housekeeping department. However, when professional people can have their hobby and keep it where they work, it seems to me they have the right idea.

MRS. MILLIE ALEXANDER, a barber who has a shop on Wasson Road, has an interesting collection of straight-edge razors. While they have always been a fascinating instrument for the beautification of the male being, I have little knowledge of them, but Mrs. Alexander is quite the gatherer and now has more than two dozen of the blades. Two are more than 100 years old. One is very thin, of black metal with a delicately-shaped handle. Others are cumbersome in appearance but with a sharp edge. One of particular interest is a safety razor fashioned in the manner of the straight edge.

Some of the blades have been the gifts of fellow barbers who passed them on to Mrs. Alexander when they gave up the profession. She has them displayed at her shop and gets a big kick out of adding to them, when she finds one of a type she doesn't already possess.

JOE HEDLESTON, a collector of unusual bottles, has a relatively new one that his daughter, Nancy, bought for him in an antique shop in Philadelphia, Pa., last summer. It is one of the type that has the cork stopper, with no ridges, and has some of its original contents in it. The bottle contains remnants of a liquid that was used to mend buggy tops, etc. That is, the liquid was spread on the interior of the covering to stop up the holes where air and rain might come through. He also has a bottle of Tanlac... which he had to buy from the shelves of another druggist... his were all gone.

MRS. CLEVE PUCKETTE returned last night from a two-week stay in Honolulu, Hawaii, where she met her husband, CAPT. PUCKETTE, who was on a vacation from duties at Phan Rang AFB in Vietnam. En route home Mrs. Puckette stopped in Los Angeles for a night and day visit with the RUSSELL SCOTTS.

Mrs. Puckette and her children, Steven and Linda, are staying here with her parents, MR. and MRS. H. W. SMITH, while Capt. Puckette is overseas.

MRS. JOE M. FISHER writes that she is comfortably situated at her new home, Apt. 5E, Parkland Towers, Wichita, Kan. She would enjoy hearing from her many friends in Big Spring where she made her home for 51 years. She has only recently moved to Wichita to be near her daughter, Mrs. Jerome Fisher. Her ZIP code is 67218, and the telephone number is Area Code 316, MV 29450.

MRS. W. G. WILSON and her sister, MRS. HARTWELL STACKS of Texarkana, are vacationing in Hot Springs National Park, Ark., and hope to be there through the racing opening this week.

Wish we could all have such a happy surprise as the W. H. BAINS did recently. They were greeted in the early morning hours by a young man who means a great deal to them... their son, HOWARD, who has been in Vietnam. He is a military policeman with the US Army. They had expected him home in mid-March, and he suddenly showed up at their door 10 days ago. His next assignment will be at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

We don't call it a watch. All the parts that make a watch fast or slow have been left out. The balance wheel, springs, staff and screws. Accutron does not use these parts. Instead, a tiny tuning fork keeps time through vibrations that are battery powered. Accutron time is so precise that we guarantee average monthly accuracy within 60 seconds, which averages out to about 2 seconds a day. And we know owners who have not gained or lost this in a year. However, don't let this make you think that Accutron prices are higher than a fine watch. (Remember, a lot of parts were left out.) # Many Former Champions Enter Again

By SAM BLACKBURN
Interest in the Fifth Annual Howard County Spelling Bee is reaching a high peak. Already more than 700 boys and girls in the Big Spring schools have indicated they want to try their skill, and it seems likely a thousand will be engaged in the competition before the April 15 county match.

The spelling bee is sponsored by the Daily Herald. This year's bee will see a large number of former school champions back in the lists.

Last year there were 15 champions and 15 runners-up who appeared at the county spelling bee. A check of the list of experts shows an interesting situation—seven of the top spellers from the schools are now students in Goliad Junior High School and all but one or two have indicated they will make a new effort to win the county title.

Runnels Junior High has three of last year's top spellers as well as one or two experts from previous years.

The 1966 champion, Scott McLaughlin, is a student at Goliad and intends to make a new effort to retain his crown. Mary Lou Brown, who was second in the county spelling bee last year, is still at Runnels Junior High and eligible to try again. Mary Lou is seeking her third school championship as well as a chance to try for the county title. She won the Gay Hill championship in 1965; the Runnels title last year.

Ryan Walker, who was the Runnels alternate in 1966 is now a ninth grader and no longer eligible to compete.

Sharon Story, who was Goliad's runner-up last year, is not competing this time, according to her mother. She is too involved, Mrs. Frances Story said, in other activities to have the time to study for the spelling bee.

NEW SUPPLY AVAILABLE

A new supply of official spelling books to be used in the Howard County Spelling Bee are now on hand. A shipment of 500 books arrived Friday.

Boys and girls who have asked for the books are invited to try again Monday. The demand for the books has been so heavy that the original shipment was depleted before replenishment could be made.

The champions of last year and their present status follows: Airport school—Sandra Camp, champion, is moving from town and will be gone before the county bee. Clarice Ringener, alternate, is still in Airport and probably will compete again.

Bauer's champion, Valentino Valleria, is no longer at that school and was said to be at Runnels but Runnels officials say he is not in the school. Luis Parras, who was the alternate, is also gone from Bauer and his present whereabouts are not listed.

At Boydston, both David Raney, last year's champion, and Bobby Mayo, runner-up are still in school and probably will try for a second time.

Lora Baker, who was Cedar Crest's champion in 1966, is now at Runnels and eligible to try again. Kate Bradshaw, the 1966 alternate, is a sixth grader at Cedar Crest this year and eligible to compete again.

Dawn Botsford, who was last year's champ at College Heights, is no longer in the city but Marcia Staggs, alternate, is now in Goliad and supplementing that school's imposing array of expert spellers.

Both the champion and the runner-up of Marcy school—David Roberson and Jane Eby—and the champion and alternate of Park Hill—Marilyn Hale and Susan Whitten—are also on Goliad's list this year.

South Ward school has been abolished. Last year's champion Kay Miller is now at Washington school. Her alternate, Sheila Lewis, is at Runnels.

Catherine Fowler, who was the 1966 champ at Washington, is still in school but John Snyder, the alternate, is missing from the rolls. However, Washington school has picked up another champion of last year—Richard Lloyd of Gay Hill. With Kay Miller, Washington will be able to field three school champions in its school elimination.

Midway school in the Coahoma district, which had Ronny Pope and Jenny Kohanek as its standard bearers last year is not competing this year.

At Gay Hill, Richard Lloyd, the champion, is now in Washington school but Bruce Fells, who was alternate, is ready to defend his school if he can win the school title.

At St. Mary's Episcopal School, Paul Talbot, who at the age of nine was the youngest school champion of 1966, is still in school and eligible to try again if the school elects to enter this year's spelling bee. Beth Hungerford, who was the alternate last year, no longer lives in Big Spring.

Both Susan Sulak, the champion at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Parochial School, and Brad Bool, the alternate, are still in the school. Apparently both intend to try their luck again. Mrs. Herman Bool said that her son has already been shopping for a spelling book.

1966 Champions Back In Spelling Competition

Many of last year's school champions plan to compete in the ensuing Fifth Annual Howard County Spelling Bee. However, some of the youngsters will be representing different schools. Six of last year title holders who are eligible to try for a chance at the 1967 county crown are shown above. Upper

Murder Case Listed First On Week's Criminal Docket

Judge Ralph L. Caton, 118th District Court, has set the murder trial of Narciso Joseph Santiago as No. 1 on a docket to open Monday in his court.

Should the murder case not be ready for some reason not announced, the court plans to call a second charge against the young airman to the bar. This is an assault with intent to murder indictment.

The cases were set at a docket sounding Friday afternoon.

Santiago is accused of shooting Sgt. M. T. Gore to death last summer. At the same time, he allegedly fired a shot which wounded a woman companion of Gore's. This is the case charging assault with intent to murder.

Other cases which were called and announced ready include two DWI second charges against James Wesley LeGate, and a like charge against Henry Clifford Vaughn.

Several of the cases on the docket are slated to be settled by pleas of guilty, the attorneys announced.

Included will be a charge of robbery by assault pending against Donald L. Beekman Jr. His codefendant, Larry G. Wallace, it was said, may follow Beekman's lead, but the former's attorney was not available for comment Friday.

Miltin Dee Thompson will plead guilty, his attorney said. He is accused of DWI second. Similar action is expected in cases against Isaac Woolrich, accused of forgery, and of William Nichols, worthless check.

A charge of theft from the person against Carol Ann Scaggs was slated for trial this week, but her attorney was not in court to make an announcement when the docket was called.

It was announced that David D. Daggett, charged with removing mortgaged property, had not been apprehended. Other cases tentatively docketed as ready are Joe Sherman Jr., DWI second, and Truman Nannie, DWI second.

A jury panel of 140 has been drawn to report to the court at 10 a.m. Monday.

A city grows up on the prairie.

"When I look off toward Signal Mountain or out to the prairies and remember how it used to be—the bald, open stretches reached for mile on mile. The herds of antelope, the wild burros, the coyotes, the rattlesnakes and the wolves were the principal part of the scenery. I remember how Big Spring used to be—a sleepy little cown town, which sprawled up and down both sides of the railroad track, surrounded by a prairie wilderness with no cotton, grain, oil or anything in fact but cattle—and not enough of them unless it rained. I look at it now—a modern city with skyscrapers, fine homes, stores, office buildings and even some trees we planted that are doing pretty well—it makes me feel good. It makes me feel like I had a real part in the building of America."

A Devotional For The Day

The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart; and saveth such as be of a contrite spirit. (Psalm 34:18)
PRAYER: Dear heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy power to give us a new spirit through Christ Jesus, our Redeemer. May our hearts be filled with peace and assurance as we put our trust in Thee. In the Savior's name we ask. Amen.

Problem That Needs Facing

The Big Spring Independent School District is shaping up a new practice field area at Settles and Eleventh Place. This will release the old stadium area for redevelopment, but this is tied in with a lot of other possibilities. One of them is a north-south arterial route which might involve part of the old stadium area.

This matter has been discussed by the school board and the city council in times past, but aside from generalizations in understanding, little has been accomplished toward concrete agreements.

We suggest that the time is near when both bodies need to face this issue squarely. It has too many ramifications to be left until the time when some unilateral course of action might render an over-all plan infeasible or too costly. For instance, something must be done about a school baseball plant if a thoroughfare is to be cut through the northeast corner of the school tract.

In turn, a decision on a thoroughfare may have a profound effect on the Texas Highway Department consideration of an additional or improved railroad overpass in the eastern part of town.

Something also needs to be done about access to certain places such as the YMCA if the projected school-city development of a physical education-recreational center on the Boydston campus is firm.

This is a pretty intricate problem, which probably accounts for discussion in general terms and largely through representatives. The time is approaching rapidly when the two bodies will need to come together for some direct confrontation of the problem.

Congratulations

Maxwell Barr, the Vincent youngster who has a talent for livestock feeding, has brought new honor to himself and Howard County. Maxwell won the grand championship of the San Antonio show and reaped a handsome $3,700 reward for his efforts. Howard County and its 4-H feeding program reaped a lot of favorable publicity, too.

Within the past two years, our boys and girls have returned the county to the glory road our young feeders knew a decade and a half ago on the show circuit. This reflects upon their seriousness, upon the cooperative spirit of parents, upon the supervision they have received from agents, and certainly upon the breeders who have furnished calves. In this case, J. C. Sale is the breeder of the champion, as he has been of several other high ranking calves, and he can take a bow along with Maxwell. All of these honors point up our potential in cattle production and finishing.

Art Buchwald CIA Must Have A Cover Story

WASHINGTON — The news that the CIA had been supplying undercover funds to the National Student Association has caused another furor in educational circles. The association, with 300 chapters on campuses throughout the country, may have been compromised by accepting money from the Central Intelligence Agency; yet it's hard to believe that the CIA would do anything illegal or immoral to achieve its goals. I'm sure the intelligence people have a good cover story to explain their infiltration of the student organization, and when they present it we'll all be satisfied they did nothing wrong.

AS A matter of fact, there are several cover stories explaining the CIA's involvement with the NSA making the rounds at this very moment, and, while it is impossible to separate fact from fiction, all of them make sense.

One is that while the NSA was a cover for the CIA, the CIA was, in reality, a cover for the Ford Foundation. The Ford Foundation had to disburse millions and millions of dollars a year, and sometimes it prefers to do it without publicity. So it gives the money to the CIA, which is always on the lookout for worthy causes.

BUT THE CIA is in a terrible spot because if it denies it gave funds to the National Student Association to subvert it, then it will have to admit it gave the money at the request of the Ford Foundation, and everyone will start asking, "What the hell is the Ford Foundation messing around in education for?"

Another cover story making the rounds of Washington is that the CIA has been terribly worried about the educational situation in California and would like to do something to help the colleges out during the present crisis.

IF THE CIA gave the funds directly to Gov. Reagan, other states would demand similar subsidies. Therefore, the CIA decided to use the National Student Association as a means of slipping the dough to California without anybody finding out about it.

It has been no coincidence that many students from Berkeley have been seen leaving CIA headquarters at Langley with large satchels of cash. When questioned about the satchels, the students always replied, "We're going to use it to buy pot." But everyone now knows the money was going directly to the Board of Regents to improve the California school system.

THERE IS another story circulating that the CIA people had no intention of supporting the National Student Association. They thought the initials NSA stood for the National Security Agency. When the CIA top dogs discovered they were giving money to the wrong organization, they had to cover up their mistake by pretending they had the National Student Association in mind all the time.

Someone said the National Student Association officers also had made a grievous mistake, because they thought the initials CIA stood for the Committee for Indigent Alumni.

THE CIA has been reluctant to discuss the matter, but I did manage to corner a high official in a restaurant who gave me the best explanation for the whole affair I've heard so far.

"Why did the CIA get involved with the National Student Association?" I asked him.

"Because," he replied, "it was there."

WHAT OTHERS SAY

A general threat to church colleges is seen by some of their trustees and administrators in the action of the U.S. Supreme Court letting stand a Maryland court's ruling against state grants of funds to certain church colleges in Maryland.

A host of questions arises. The first one is what did the Supreme Court mean? We trust that those lawyers are right who have said it intentionally sidestepped the chance to take up an issue which, once considered, would lead the court into a metaphysical thicket.

One of the best of the Great Society programs is that of federal aid to higher education. This channels millions of dollars of federal money into church-connected colleges, and thousands of young Americans enrolled in them are benefiting from expenditures on new laboratories, classrooms, dormitories, libraries and so on.

The political outcome of any action which might be brought to stop church colleges from receiving aid of this sort should be quite obvious: a Supreme Court decision forbidding it would undoubtedly mean the end of all federal aid to higher education, public or private, sectarian or non-sectarian. Such is the power of church-oriented politicians in Congress.

Thus the realistic question is whether it is better to put tax-supported aid into all higher educational institutions, church-connected and non-church-connected, than to give no aid to any.

Jack Lefler Automotive Industry Has The Brakes On

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The drooping automobile industry has taken another jolt.

Sales of U.S.-produced passenger cars in the first 10 days of February fell 21 per cent from a year earlier to the lowest rate for the period since 1962, it was reported during the week.

Output totaled 170,788 cars, compared with 215,116 in the like 1966 period.

Automakers had expected the decline in sales to continue from the high-1966 rate, but they said the slide was accelerated by blizzard conditions in some sections of the country.

DECLINE RATES

Declines from the 1966 early February period by companies: General Motors 22.9 per cent, Ford Motor Co. 20.3 per cent, Chrysler Corp. 12.8 per cent and American Motors Corp. 26.8 per cent.

The downturn in car sales began last April.

As a result, inventories in dealers' hands built up to record proportions. In an effort to bring supply into balance with sales, carmakers laid off workers and closed some assembly plants for various periods of time.

Production for the week was estimated at 149,900 cars, off 26 per cent from 199,890 a year ago.

OTHER SHUTDOWNS

Chrysler closed two of its seven U.S. car plants for the week. American Motors closed its only assembly plant for the week and Ford scheduled short weeks at half of its 16 assembly plants.

Chrysler, the No. 3 carmaker, reported that profits in 1966 fell 18.9 per cent from the 1965 level. Earnings totaled $18.2 million, or $4.16 a share, compared with $23.4 million, or $5.44 a share, in 1965.

Lynn Townsend, chairman, blamed the drop on "higher costs of material and labor, including increases in cost-of-living allowances" granted workers under contracts with the

The company's earnings were also reduced by higher costs to engineer and tool the extensive 1967 line of products with many new improvements and safety features," he added.

RESIST GAS HIKES

The government continued its efforts to get major oil companies to either rescind or hold the line on gasoline price increases.

The Interior Department called in top executives of the oil firms to discuss the move that would result in a one-cent-a-gallon price increase at service stations.

The oil companies said their boosts were necessitated by higher production costs and maintained that their prices were lower than 10 years ago.

BUILDING BRIGHTER

A sparkling spot in the economic picture was the report of the Commerce Department that home-building activity, kindled by easing credit conditions, jumped 14.6 per cent during January, up for the third straight month.

New privately owned housing starts spurred to an annual rate of 1,243,000 in January, the highest level since last June's 1,285,000.

Housing was one of the soft spots in last year's otherwise bouncing economy. Officials blamed the slump on tight money.

The Commerce Department reported that retail sales in January remained at about the December level, reflecting continued sluggishness in a consumer demand.

The January volume of $25.315,000,000 was virtually unchanged from December's level of $25,329,000,000 but was up one per cent from the $25,023,000,000 of January 1966.

What Others Say

Georgia voters may not get the help they are needing when the Supreme Court of the United States enters its ruling on the confused gubernatorial race.

The specter of an election a month may still haunt them.

If the Supreme Court upholds a three-judge federal court sitting in Atlanta, the General Assembly of Georgia will not be able to elect the next governor by a voice vote, as the state's constitution requires when no candidate receives a clear majority in the general election.

The lower court held that a malapportioned legislature would violate the principle of one man, one vote, if it were permitted to name the governor.

But the people of Georgia would still be left with a problem if one part of their constitution is thus invalidated. Another part of the constitution requires a majority vote. Write-in votes could still prevent any candidate from gaining a majority. Conceivably the same result could follow in election after election.

What Georgia voters need is a Supreme Court ruling that the high man wins in a general election or in subsequent special elections held for the purpose of electing a governor. Understandably, though, the Supreme Court may be quite reluctant to enter this new thicket of prescribing rules for a state election.

Around The Rim George Didn't Get His Day In Court

Gus Washington came home one evening and, as was his wont, went out to inspect his thriving orchard, one of his great prides.

On this day, to his horror, he noted that one of the cherry trees — a favorite — had fallen to the ground, its trunk obviously having been chopped through.

THOROUGHLY upset, he called his wife, "Mary! What has happened to this tree?"

Mary came scurrying, looked past him to the wreckage in the orchard. Her shoulders sagged and she looked most unhappy. "I just don't know. I think little George was out there playing today."

"Where is that boy?" stormed the pater. He shouted and shouted, until finally George appeared.

"All right, boy," he said sternly. "What has happened to that cherry tree?"

"NOW WAIT a minute, Pa," the young one answered. "I do not have to answer any questions until I have benefit of counsel."

"Counsel, thunder!" stormed back the Pa. "I'll counsel you. What do you mean, counsel?"

"I mean, Father, that I have my personal rights. I am only required to give my name. To answer any further queries might tend to incriminate me."

"Where in tarnation did you hear that?"

"DON'T YOU know about the Supreme Court rulings, Father?"

"There's not even any Supreme Court yet!" shouted the irate father.

"No, but there will be," said the lad. "And we might as well set the precedent."

"Son, don't give me that gobbydegook. Did you cut down that tree, or did you? Where's the hatchet you used?"

"WAIT A minute, Father. The word gobbydegoon hasn't been invented yet, either. I am not forced to produce the alleged hatchet until a search warrant is issued by a magistrate of competent jurisdiction and it is properly served on me. Even then, I daresay, there would have to be irrevocable proof, by the use of fingerprints, that I ever used the alleged hatchet."

"We don't have fingerprinting yet, you rascal. Come on, did you cut down the tree?"

"FATHER, you cannot use abusive words against me. I am innocent until proved guilty. And the chances are good that even my confession will not be acceptable to the higher authorities. You will have to follow the judicial procedures, Pop, old boy."

"I know what the procedures are. They come with a switch. Now just tell me, did you cut down the tree?"

"Keep your cool, Daddy-o, I'm taking the Fifth." That's an amendment to the Constitution.

"WE DON'T even have a Constitution, much less any amendments. You just march to the woodshed with me."

"But, Pops — I mean Father — you're violating my rights. I'll appeal the case."

"Look, son. You're way ahead of your time. This time we do it my way. To the woodshed with you, and if there are any more trees cut around this place, it'll be much worse. You hear?"

George heard, and he was a better citizen from then on.

Marquis Childs Rich Get Richer, Poor Get Poorer

WASHINGTON — With the comfortable conviction of "full employment" in the President's 1967 Economic Report it is not considered good form to speak about the unspoken. But that is what Rep. Henry Reuss (D., Wis.) did when Budget Director Charles L. Schultze was before the Joint Economic Committee the other day.

The rich, said Reuss, are getting richer while the poor if not getting poorer are certainly not improving their position. For Schultze's benefit he pointed to two significant indicators to document his contention.

AFTER TAX, profit margins from manufacturing in 1966 were the highest in history. On the other side of the fence, and equally significant, also after tax, workers' earnings in manufacturing went down in 1966 and for the first time since 1960. Reuss was saying that even with the ideal goal of "full employment" there was a growing imbalance between what goes into the pockets of most citizens who will spend it and what goes into the bank accounts of the rich to be added to capital accumulation.

"I note," said Reuss, "that high interest rates, which we have had, channel money away from poor people to wealthier people. That is the effect of who pays and who receives interest."

THE Representative from Milwaukee went on to mention a subject even more unmentionable in the present atmosphere. He noted that not only are the old classic tax loopholes benefiting a minority of very wealthy taxpayers but new ones are being discovered.

While the President in his State of the Union Message proposed a six per cent tax surcharge to help meet the cost of the Vietnam war, not one word has come from the Administration on tax reforms.

AS THE cost of the Vietnam war escalates and the pressure on prices grows, there is increasing awareness of the tax bite and the inequities built into the topsy-turvy tax structure.

On the Social Security side, the Federal take to increase sharply if the President's recommendations are carried out, there is a conspicuous injustice. Even though the steady rise in prices has reduced the value of old-age pensions that were too low to begin with, if the pensioner earns more than $1,500 his pension is reduced or cut off. Yet he may have an unlimited amount of unearned income.

PRESSED BY Reuss for his explanation of the growing imbalance, Schultze said he could put his answer in three words: Ho Chi Minh. He went on to say that not so much the cost of the Vietnam war itself as the rapid rise in that cost during the past 18 months was responsible for a possible imbalance that would correct itself in the coming year.

But, the effect of the war to one side, the overwhelming phenomenon of the postwar years is the way wealth has proliferated. And as American capital has been invested abroad in ever-greater volume it is a phenomenon causing dismay and concern among many of this country's closest friends. In Australia, for example, of the 10 largest corporations eight are controlled by American interests.

ONE CONSEQUENCE of this proliferation of wealth is that the rich nations get richer at a far faster rate than the poor nations are moving out of poverty. Repeatedly, George D. Woods, president of the World Bank, has tried to tell the affluent West of what this must mean in eventual breakdown, chaos and instability.

David Lawrence Students Have Helped Us Abroad

WASHINGTON — The United States is today at war with Communist enemies. The gathering of intelligence is an important factor in the conflicts that are arising throughout the world. Yet when the Central Intelligence Agency endeavors to collect information by enlisting the cooperation of American student organizations, a hullo! is raised and members of Congress start talking about derogatory investigations that could frustrate America's information-gathering in foreign countries.

BOTH THE SOVIETS and the Red Chinese have infiltrated student organizations in the United States which are fomenting discord and starting demonstrations to help turn public opinion against the American government. The U.S. Central Intelligence Agency has by no means engaged in any such activities abroad, but has merely sought the cooperation of American students visiting foreign lands so as to help the government here to keep abreast of what is going on in various countries.

WHILE THE United States government ever since 1952 has spent approximately $300,000 a year to pay expenses of the information-gathering operation by American students, the Soviet Union has been furnishing at least 10 to 20 million dollars a year to student organizations that do not just gather information but actually engage in subversive activities in other countries.

THE CIA drew the line—it did not ask any student to participate in subversive activities of any sort abroad, but merely to let the United States government know what was happening in student circles which could affect the United States. This is important because of the international scope of the student associations which reach into virtually every part of Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Again and again, the United States has been confronted by "student demonstrations" that have been hostile to American officials, including ambassadors and ministers. To find out how these activities are organized is important to the government here so that steps can be taken to anticipate and to thwart such moves if possible.

THE FEDERAL Bureau of Investigation operates within the United States, while the CIA carries on its work only in foreign countries. The FBI has repeatedly told members of Congress about the activities of students inside this country who are members of the Communist party or who are affiliated with groups financed by the Soviet government.

If there are to be investigations in Congress of what the CIA has done to gather information, it would be logical to expect a thoroughgoing inquiry also into the leadership and financing of certain student groups within the United States. Some of them have been in contact with members of Congress and have submitted demands that are really in the interest of Communist governments abroad.

THE CIA has had nothing to do with the operations of student organizations within the United States itself. Whatever financial help it has given has been to officers of student associations who have been in charge of matters related to trips of American students abroad, particularly to Communist countries.

It is amazing to find that some members of Congress are so unfamiliar with the perplexing problems of gathering intelligence in other countries that they are preparing unwittingly to handicap the United States government in its efforts to learn what is being done to damage American interests throughout the world.

Billy Graham

Can you tell me what heaven will be like?
A.H.
All that we know about heaven is in the Scriptures. John the Revelator describes the beauty and wonder of Revelation in the twenty first chapter of Revelation. He goes into some detail, as was the custom of the oriental writers. But we are not to assume that the wonder of heaven is the 'gates of pearl', 'the street of gold', or 'the walls of jasper.'

The Presence of Christ will make heaven heavenly. Just as a house is not a home without personalities and love, heaven with all its proclaimed beauty would be empty without the One who we love and adore.

The Scriptures say, "And God himself shall be with them, and be their God, and God shall wipe all tears from their eyes."

He will not only be there, but He will be to us there what He has been to us here: the lifter of burdens, and the assuager of sorrow.

To Your Good Health Protection Against Hay Fever Can Start Now

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 14 and have had hay fever three years and this year was the worst of all. My eyes just about swelled shut. I took medication but it didn't seem to help. I read in your column that there was a preparation which can be given by a physician to desensitize you to ragweed. How rapidly does this work? — MISS J. K.

Desensitization does not work rapidly, but it can be very effective. This is how it does so. When you have "hay fever," it means that your system can tolerate very little pollen, and you have an allergic reaction to it.

Desensitization must be started many months BEFORE the hay fever season arrives. The physician makes tests to learn precisely what pollen or pollens may be causing your trouble. (There are quite a few besides the infamous ragweed.)

Then he injects extremely small doses of the offending pollen extracts — not enough to cause an allergic response, but enough so your system gradually builds up some tolerance.

This will not protect you against exposure to a large amount of pollen, but will serve you well if you avoid too much exposure.

It isn't too early to start such treatments now in preparation for next fall's hay fever season.

Dear Dr. Molner: Why do doctors perform spinal taps? What information are they looking for? — MRS. N. H.

Quite a wide assortment of neurological problems can be involved. The specific information from a tap (or puncture) can include a measurement of pressure; signs of infection (presence of white blood cells as well as actual germs); presence of sugar, protein and chlorides; presence of red blood cells, if brain hemorrhage is suspected. Serological tests for syphilis are essential in some instances.

It should be remembered that such tests often are performed to rule out certain possibilities, as well as for positive diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Molner: I think I have venereal disease. What do I do to get rid of it? Does it mean I cannot have children when I am older? — L. I.

There is only one thing to do: Go to a doctor. He is bound by his Hippocratic oath not to gossip about it, so do not let that worry you. Untreated V. D. can prevent subsequent pregnancy, so get treatment without delay.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms; treatment; how to speed recovery — write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Star Describes A 'Swinger'

In today's vernacular, what exactly is a swinger?

You may be able to come up with more intellectual definitions, but it's doubtful if you'll ever be able to find a definer better equipped for the task than Ann-Margret.

The Swedish star, whose latest film, appropriately titled "The Swinger," in Technicolor, which opens Thursday at the Jet Theatre, spells out "swinger" every time she takes a step.

"Everyone has his own definition of swinger," she tried to tell an interviewer, whose attempts at surreptitious ogling were failing miserably. "But, as for me, I think it means non-conformist.

"I don't conform and I won't conform, but it's not because I'm rebellious. I just pursue my own life and my own ideas as honestly and as quietly as possible.

"It's strange," she continued, "but in most people's minds,

Medicines Must Be Properly Protected

The United States Pharmacopoeia, called the "U.S.P." and the National Formulary, called the "N.F.," are the two basic official books which specify the standards, tests and dosage for drugs and some of their combinations. Pharmacists must completely know the contents of both these books.

The U.S.P. and the N.F. also specifies those drugs which require extra care to protect their potency and directs how they must be stored. Many drugs must not be exposed to light or heat. Others are dated and cannot be used after a certain time. Between publication dates of the new U.S.P. and N.F., published each few years, we study and file information about the new drugs to keep up to date.

Eastwood Stars In Unusual Western

Although he is on camera constantly throughout the story of "A Fistful of Dollars," opening in Technicolor Thursday at the Ritz Theatre, little is ever learned about the hero of this unusual film. A man with no name, he makes no friends and the few enemies he accumulate learn only one important fact: his aim is deadly.

Audiences likewise learn little about this cinematic innovation in westerners. He is slow moving... except on the draw. He hires out to anyone who can pay his price, which is always high. Yet he is too poor to afford a horse and rides into town on a mule! He has no ornate trappings, no silver-studded saddle like other professional gunmen. In fact, he has no saddle at all. No fancy clothes... a coarse Mexican poncho covers his one expensive possession: A Colt .45 long-barrelled old west peacemaker.

Cryptically portrayed by Clint Eastwood, the protagonist of "A Fistful of Dollars" is a young yet unnaturally jolly adventurer. His disdain for death is so self-conscious that amateur analysts in the audiences will have a field day. The scripters have purposely told us no more about him than is known by the residents of the dusty border town where the action (and there's plenty of it) takes place.

Asked why he risks death, he holds out a gloved hand and asks for $500 at a time, playing both sides against the middle for money. Another time he is offered the hospitality of his employer's hacienda and told to make himself at home. He replies that "I don't remember home was all that good."

To say that the men of the west were taciturn is not enough. Gary Cooper is credited with having cast the mold for the "Yup" and "Nope" westerner. But we understand Cooper's cowboy; we don't understand this mystery-man. Clint Eastwood's character in the "Dollar" movies (a sequel to the first film has already been completed) is something else again. Obviously articulate, he chooses to let his gun speak for him. In his own way he is perhaps the most dangerous man who ever lived. "A Fistful of Dollars" is the first motion picture of its kind. United Artists promises that it won't be the last! Whatever it is about the personality of this new kind of adventurer that so intrigues the audiences, it is clear that he is on the cinematic scene to stay. But that is the only thing about him that is clear.

Eastwood portrays a man who sleeps in all of his clothes, including gun and boots. Many cinematic plainmen have done this before—but in bed?

For Eastwood's pretty wife, the unusual "bit" was typecasting. "Clint frequently does the same thing," she confided, explaining, "When he's not working he likes to stay up late reading and I'll often find him fast asleep in the den, fully clothed, with a book across his chest and all the lights on... I just toss a blanket over him and go back to bed."

Eastwood, who owns 15 pairs of silk pajamas, says they all get plenty of use.—Mrs. Eastwood wears them!

The actor recalls that he was better dressed, better fed and better treated during his previous years in motion pictures and in television.

An unqualified good-guy on TV, he had the best tailor-made buckskins in the bunkhouse—and sat in the softest saddles on the handsomest horses in Hollywood. But as the anti-hero in the "Dollar" movies Clint is costumed in a mangy poncho and rides a mule to match!

Two Elizabeth Taylor Hits Due At Drive-In

Two of Elizabeth Taylor's greatest hits — "Butterfield 8," for which she won her Academy Award as Best Actress, and the torrid "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" — are being shown as a dual offering at the Jet Theatre.

Both attractions are in color. "Butterfield 8," based on the best-selling novel by John O'Hara, also stars Laurence Harvey and Eddie Fisher, with Dina Merrill costarred and with prominent roles played by Mildred Dunnock, Betty Field, Jeffrey Lynn, Kay Medford and Susan Oliver.

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" is the screen version of Tennessee

Williams' stage hit, which won both the Pulitzer Prize and the New-York Drama Critics' Circle Award. Paul Newman and Burl Ives star with Miss Taylor, with Jack Carson and Judith Anderson heading the supporting cast.

In "Butterfield 8," Miss Taylor is seen as Gloria, a girl whose traumatic experience as a child has left a permanent scar. Living by her own twisted code of rules, she had always thought love was the biggest lie since men and women were invented. That is, until she meets Weston Liggett (Laurence Harvey), married to Emily (Dina Merrill) whose devotion he cannot return but who gives him something he very much wants — a cloak of respectability. Eddie Fisher enacts Steve, young Greenwich Village pianist, and the only person who can buoy Gloria up at her lowest moments. The attraction between Gloria and Liggett is a stormy, emotional one, a relationship involving both happiness and pain. But through it they are able to bring out into the open the violent inner turmoil of hidden conflicts which has blighted their lives, until their story is resolved in a taut and gripping climax.

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" tells the story of a divided family and the conflict between its members when they are faced with the impending death of the father. The crisis brings to the surface the innate character of the two sons and their wives, revealing in one instance greed and opportunism; in the other, unselfishness and devotion. It is also the story of one of these couples, Brick Pollitt (Paul Newman) who takes refuge in alcohol in an effort to escape adult responsibility, and Maggie (Miss Taylor), obsessed with a passion for her disturbed husband and as determined as a cat on a hot tin roof to break down his resistance to her love.

Saga Of Luke Jenkins And How The Higher Law Won

As we today, old Texans marked their graves many ways—lovingly, proudly, reverently. Yet here's one, singular as none I know, its names changed for sufficient reason. Not its moral, which you determine.

Weathered gray, its stone stands lonely in the Hill Country scrub, well north of Kerrville, its recorded death, the 1880s. From a rancher, long in those hills, comes the story of two men we'll call Will Smith and Luke Jenkins. Will and Luke were neighbors.

and dust hid him, close beside, crawling. His family? How could they join this?

Still, the law waited, the Grande, is many a landmark of Spain's last great colonization drive, circa 1750, Laredo to Reynosa . . . even Goliad's La Bahia: with few exceptions, oldest Spanish Texas. Any help on the Hinajosa houses?

Then finally, that one witness died; word came. He could dare trial. Texas growing, he would face a jury in a new county . . . not back where he'd lived. He rode in.

BACK AGAIN

They had bare-handed the hard land and weather at a time when there wasn't much, that way west, except thin, open range, a few dusty, brief towns with trails between . . . and a six-gun to make your law. Luke Jenkins' gun made his, shooting Will Smith dead.

What caused their quarrel—waterhole, woman, or a whisky brew—wasn't that frontier's issue. A shot-in-the-back was. There was one witness; Luke hit for Devil's River country to the west. The witness told neighbors, who buried—Will, though . . . and set the stone. Then they called Rangers. Get Luke in court, that witness would hang him. First night's frantic ride, Luke sweated—the law he faced. His family? They'd have to come later!

NARROW ESCAPES

He'd come to know that law better, each sudden—awake night, the years passing. Go back to once home? His neighbors would sentence, quick as a noose. Yet wherever he holed up, the law dogged him. He rode into brush cow camp one night, just for coffee and beans. They weren't cowboys: one ranger drawn to another—in quiet Spanish—this just might be their man. Let him show at the fire.

Luke dropped his saddle and blanket, the outer shadows, to show he'd bed down but would hobble his horse first . . . but he eased away a little, then—bareback—raced clear.

Always the same, though, when he drifted in for tobacco or flour, or circled a remote town because he sensed the law waited. They cornered him once by a shack beyond the Nueces divide. He escaped that one, inside its brush corral. On hands and knees, he milled with the uneasy, bawling cattle. Lawmen searched the shack; noise

In the scantest time, up as far north as he got, Luke was dead. Some say he went crazy. Others figure, bottle or gun, he killed himself. He had faced a tombstone's judge and jury.

Carved deep today, with proper dates: "Will Smith . . . murdered by Luke Jenkins."

My rancher friend figures the Law just never let up. Of course, a Higher Court.

Buffalo Soldiers

Unfortunately late for OBT's Buffalo Soldier ordeal, comes Morton's able Historian Elvis E. Fleming, whose "Captain Nicholas Nolan: Lost on the Staked Plains," Texana, Vol. IV, No. 1 (Spring '66) trails the old Tenth's hellish march as few others—saga, step by step.

Corpus Christi's Mrs. Joe Ash: . . . recently discovered two very old stone houses on the Hinajosa Ranch near Alice. Carved on one of the ceiling beams, in Spanish: "This house was completed, Nov. 8, 1816." Texas was New Spain then.

How can I get more information?"

(Note: South of you, to Rio Grande, is many a landmark of Spain's last great colonization drive, circa 1750, Laredo to Reynosa . . . even Goliad's La Bahia: with few exceptions, oldest Spanish Texas. Any help on the Hinajosa houses?)

Marker To Honor Coke Stevenson

AUSTIN — Former Gov. Coke Stevenson will be honored at the dedication of an Official Texas Historical Marker on March 19 at Junction. The announcement was made by Charles Woodburn, president of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee. Ceremonies will be at 2 p.m. on the courthouse square.

The marker is the third to be erected in the Modern Texas Statesman series initiated by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee. Markers previously erected honor former Gov. William P. Hobby and former Gov. Allen Shivers. The Hobby marker was erected in 1964 at Moscow in Polk County while the Shivers marker was erected Oct. 1, 1966, in his hometown of Woodville. The marker will commemorate Stevenson's long years in public services.

County Criminal Docket Slated To Open Tuesday

Howard County Court will open a criminal docket Tuesday which will continue through Friday of this week. Dee Jon Davis, county attorney, said Friday. Judge Lee Porter at the docket sounding a week ago had suggested the Tuesday start of the cases rather than the Monday afternoon schedule originally contemplated.

One of the defendants on the docket, Payne Glen Sires, charged with DWI, entered a guilty plea Friday. He was fined $50 and placed on three months probation.

The cases set for Tuesday include Ira Lee Grayson Jr., DWI; Presiliano Salazar, carrying arms; Arturo Cortez Islas, DWI; Isaac Woolrich, aggravated assault.

and instructed to report to court Tuesday afternoon.

Davis said that R. E. Aulds, charged with writing a worthless check, had entered a guilty plea Friday afternoon and had been ordered to jail for 15 days plus costs in the case. Aulds case was not one of the docket set for this week.
