England Don't Swing Much Now

LONDON (AP) — You can change the words of the song: "England Swings Like a Pendulum Do." It doesn't swing like it used to.

A year ago the word spread that in a decade dominated by youth London had burst into bloom. It swung, it was the scene.

Well, the pendulum has started swinging back. It had to come. Extremes breed extremes, and last year was pretty extreme.

The birds — girls — are just as pretty, the restaurants and the food they serve seem to get better. The general air of permissiveness that encourages unconformity has cooled only slightly. London is still for many the warm center of the universe and a great place to live.

But some of the floss is being knocked out of the candy-floss society. There's a square backlash.

One sign is that the "Top of the Pops" record sales charts look more like "the stop of the pops." This spring, for the first time in years, the top 10 selling records consisted of nine ballads and one pop disc — "Penny Lane — Strawberry Fields" by the Beatles.

Even the Beatle disc put up a poor performance against the track record. It spent only one week in the No. 1 spot, then dropped to No. 4 and then No. 9.

The Rolling Stones, whose music was considered the most "in" last spring, are in trouble. Critics attack them for a lack of progress. On their recent European tour angry teenagers were arrested for throwing fireworks and rioting during their shows.

In the world of pop music fringe operators, smalltime promoters and indifferent performers are disappearing.

Rik Gunnell, manager of singer Georgia Fame and several other pop stars and groups, says: "The nonentities are being completely squeezed out."

As are the bands which make a noise but have nothing else to offer. Tours by groups are pretty sick too, but the major attractions are unaffected."

Gunnell is a partner in one of the busiest discotheques in town, the Bag O'Nails, which currently is one place where faces — personalities — make the scene. Even this spot had only about 50 customers one recent evening.

The discs that once spun by the thousands in a widening orbit of discotheques are now decreasing in number. From a pressing of 101 million records in 1964 they fell to 94 million in 1965 and to 85 million last year.

Denton Elects Martin Mayor

DENTON, Tex. (AP)— Zeke Martin was elected mayor Tuesday during the first meeting of the new City Council.

Martin, who polled the most votes in the City Council election last week, led the 10-candidate ticket with 1,253 ballots.

Marvin Loveless, second high with 1,189 votes, was chosen mayor pro tem. J. T. Jones Jr. was the third new councilman sworn in with Martin and Loveless.

The three new councilmen were supported by the new "By the People League." This marked the first time in eight years the Denton Charter Association candidates had failed to gain office. The DCA has two holdovers, Warren Whitson, year and grew out of an urban renewal fight in 1966.

Oral Cancer Is Menacing, But Often Can Be Checked

Oral cancer — cancer of the mouth and associated areas — took the lives of almost 7,000 men and women in the United States in 1966.

This number may not seem large in terms of the millions of adults in this country. But it is large — large because so many of those deaths could have been avoided. In many cases with no great inconvenience to the person involved.

Today only 36 per cent of those who develop oral cancer survive for five years or more after treatment. The survival rate could be improved by vigilance on the part of the individual, the physician and the dentist.

According to physicians, oral cancer is one of the most accessible for early detection and successful treatment. Because of this, oral cancer control has been made an especially significant part of the American Cancer Society's five-year minimum achievement program to save more lives from cancer now.

"This action program, now in its second year, seeks to involve at least 50 per cent of all dentists and physicians in a program to make cancer detection a part of every checkup examination," a medical spokesman said. "At the same time it is hoped to persuade the public to exercise greater personal vigilance.

"The 50 per cent involvement goal is only half what the ideal calls for, but the Society believes it is an achievable goal. The Society knows from experience how difficult it is to motivate people to act, even if they know such action would be in their interest. If the 50 per cent can be achieved and many more people can be made personally vigilant, the number of deaths from oral cancer would be drastically reduced."

The doctor explained: "The oral region, the tongue and the lining of the throat are highly sensitive. Instances of unusual sensation, pain, swelling or other abnormalities such as bleeding, sores and white spots should be acted upon without delay. These are warnings that a person can recognize and do something about."

"In the case of oral cancer, the dentist can be a real source of protection. The regular dental examination focuses on the mouth, and abnormalities may come quickly to the dentist's attention."

"This is why the American Cancer Society puts great emphasis on the significant role of the dentist in the detection of

High Plains Counties Will Plant Less Cotton In 1967

LUBBOCK—Producers in 23 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., have signed up to plant 1,430,384 acres of cotton in 1967.

This is 64.6 per cent of the 2,198,908 acres available for planting in the area, and is 21,023 acres less than was planted in 1966.

Area figures were compiled by PCG from figures released by the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office at College Station. The sign-up period for the 1967 cotton program extended through March 17.

Of the total acreage available for planting in the area, producers indicated they would divert 750,846 acres to conservation uses. This is 34.4 per cent of the total acreage enrolled in the program, and compares with a 32.7 per cent rate of diversion in 1966.

Accounting for most of the 17,875 acres not enrolled in the 1967 program are allotments signed up in the cropland reserve or cropland adjustment program, but there are also some small acreages which producers simply didn't bother to enroll and probably won't bother to plant.

Original cotton allotments on the plains in 1967 totaled 2,165,872 acres. The additional 33,036 acres in the total "available for planting" came to the plains area through purchases or leases of allotments from acreage transfers between farms of the same ownership. Such transactions were permitted under the Agriculture Act of 1965 for the first time in 1966, when the plains had a 46,770 acre net gain from acreage transfers.

By far the biggest gainer of acreage under sale or lease and transfer provisions has been Gaines County, with 12,906 acres moved in the first year and 8,940 gained acres in 1967.

The 1967 cotton program, as in 1966, gave producers a choice of diverting between 12 1/2 per cent and 35 per cent of effective allotments. The government payment for this diversion in 1967 will be 10.78 cents per pound times the farm's projected yield.

In addition cooperating producers will receive a price support payment on production from domestic allotments (65 per cent of effective allotments) of 11.53 cents per pound times projected yield. Diversion and price support payments, respectively, were 10.5 cents and 9.42 cents per pound in 1966.

With this economic incentive almost every county on the plains this year will come close to diverting the maximum 35 per cent.

Despite slightly reduced acreage in 1967, Donald Johnson, executive vice president of PCG, believes the area can reasonably expect to produce over 200,000 bales more in 1967 than in 1966. Adverse weather conditions last year cut High Plains production on 1,461,407 planted acres to approximately 1.25 million bales.

Sweeney Sets 3 Camps For Summer

Camp Sweeney Educational Center at Gainesville, operated by the Southwestern Diabetic Foundation, Inc. and sponsored by the Texas Jaycees, will operate three 3-week semesters this summer. Camp periods will be June 4-24; June 25-July 15; July 16-Aug. 5.

Any diabetic child, 6-16 years old, is not only welcome but is urged to share in this life-saving experience. The tuition is based on parents' ability to pay.

Under supervision of a specialized staff of doctors, nurses, dietitian and counselors, these young diabetics are taught their proper diet, with regulated exercise; how to take their own urine tests; give their own insulin injections, and of major importance through this group association, overcome their inferiority complex.

Camp Sweeney is recognized as "The largest training center in the world for diabetic children. Since opening in 1950, almost 4,200 diabetic youngsters have learned how to live, physically, mentally and emotionally with their incurable, yet controllable disorder — diabetes. # Karloff Feted After 50 Years

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Last week they gave Boris Karloff a party — the first in his honor during almost a half-century in Hollywood.

The occasion was the release of a Decca album "An Evening with Boris Karloff and His Friends," which features scenes from the actor's films, including "Frankenstein," "Bride of Frankenstein" and "Son of Frankenstein."

The site for the party was natural enough: The Magic Castle, a spooky old mansion off Franklin Avenue where magicians meet. It's a club where diners and drinkers are sometimes joined by vampires and monsters, presumably imitated by Magic Castle personnel.

Karloff seemed at home in such surroundings, and he responded with his usual good humor. Unlike some stars who resent being typed in their most famous role, the London-born actor — real name: William Henry Pratt — has always spoken affectionately of the cliff-browed monster he first played in 1930.

"I am a very lucky man," he reflected. "Here I am in my 80th year (he'll reach the mark Nov. 23) and I am still able to earn my bread and butter at my profession. I am one of that very small family of the human race who happens to thoroughly enjoy his work. If I didn't enjoy it, I wouldn't go on."

Despite a leg brace to aid an arthritic knee, he maintains an active schedule. He and his wife now live in a London flat and a cottage in Hampshire, but he comes here twice a year for films. During the past year he also made an "I Spy" in Spain and worked with Raquel Welch in "The Sorcerers" in London.

Daily Exercise Is Recommended

"Anyone who exercises only on weekends is asking for trouble," warns Dr. Warren R. Guild of the Harvard Medical School, and president-elect of the American College of Sports Medicine.

"If you're soft and indolent all week, a massive weekend effort is foolhardy," says Dr. Herman K. Hallerstein, heart specialist at the University Hospitals in Cleveland.

These are but two warnings against excessive weekend athletics contained in a recent issue of Today's Health, published by the American Medical Association.

Medical authorities agree that excessive concentrated activity on the weekend paves the way for coronaries at worst, seriously strained muscles at least.

Their advice: exercise regularly. One physician observed: "I seize every chance for a little extra exercise. When I can, for instance, I walk rather than ride."

Team Is Studying Ice Age Fossils

DALLAS (AP) — A Southern Methodist University team of geologists is studying Ice Age fossils in the western desert of Egypt.

Purpose of the seminar is to explain to local businessmen some of the changes which occurred in the Armed Services Procurement Relations during the past year. Among the topics to be discussed are: the Air Force Contractor Experience List, Liquidated Damage Clause, Service Contract Act of 1965, and the Air Force's Zero Defects Program.

In addition, prospective contractors will be given an opportunity to discuss with procurement personnel the procedures involved in doing business with the Air Force. This seminar should clarify procedures for all prospective contractors.

Try-Outs Set For Next Play

Readings for parts in the next little theatre production — "A Streetcar Named Desire" — will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. and Monday at 8 p.m. in the Prairie Playhouse of City Park.

Mrs. Jayce Sandner will conduct the try-outs, according to Mrs. Norman Spencer, president of Big Spring Little Theatre. All interested residents are invited to read for a part in the play, she said, which is the last of the current season. There are parts for six men and six women.

The production will be staged in the city auditorium May 19-20.

Mrs. Jeff Randall and Clark Frayser will be producers for the drama, and volunteers are welcome to help with backstage work, including set construction, painting, props, make-up and costuming.

LBJ's Nephew Beaten By Gang

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nephew of President Johnson, serving as a poverty program volunteer in Venice, Calif., was severely beaten by a gang of youths on a street there about three weeks ago.

Phillip Bobbitt, 18, was knocked down, kicked and beaten on the head and face. He suffered a fractured cheekbone. Bobbitt is now at his home in Austin, Tex., and was reported today by officials of the Office of Economic Opportunity to be eager to return to Venice. They said no decision has been made on whether he will be sent back there, but that he will continue in the poverty program.

Bobbitt is the son of Johnson's younger sister, Becky. He left Princeton University to serve with Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) and was in his second year at Venice when attacked.

JUMPED Officials here gave this account of the beating incident as reported to them:

Bobbitt was walking along the street with two other VISTA volunteers, Ritchie Holcombe, a girl, and Ken Friedlander. They were approached by a group of youths about their same age who asked for cigarettes.

Bobbitt told Miss Holcombe and Friedlander to walk on and spoke with the youths. When they jumped him, the other two VISTA volunteers ran back, yelling at the gang which broke off the attack and moved away.

At indications that all three might be attacked, Miss Holcombe, Friedlander and Bobbitt ran into an apartment house.

Blue Angels Stop At Webb Today

The Navy's precision air demonstration team, the Blue Angels, stopped Wednesday morning at Webb AFB for refueling while en route to Miramar and Alameda Naval Air Stations in California.

Rotarians Hear Dykes

Rotary Club members heard new Athletic Director Spike Dykes outline his philosophy of coaching and were given a report on the school sports program at the regular meeting Tuesday at noon.

Dykes told the Rotarians that he asked from his football squad physical fitness, dedication, sincerity and pride. These are qualities that will spill over into adult life and hopefully make the boy a better man. This in turn, he said, could be the basis of better citizens.

Dykes said he is interested in all sports, called attention to the track, tennis and baseball teams and noted they were composed primarily of younger boys that would have one and two seasons remaining.

He said that sports would not cut into scholastic activities but were available for anyone willing to pay the price of participating and conforming to certain rules and show proper respect. Dykes asked the club to back the various teams. He was introduced by John Taylor.

President Dick Ream told the members that the club would meet May 2 at the state hospital in observance of Mental Health Week.

Now Just Who Pulled Prank On Newlyweds?

GOLETA, Calif. (AP) — The note, stuffed in the gas tank lid, said "Help! I'm being kidnaped and forced to pose as his wife! Please call police!"

Gas station attendant Edward Facundus acted quickly.

"We broadcast an all-points bulletin immediately," said Lt. Harold C. Clark of the Santa Barbara County sheriff's office. The State Highway Patrol prepared roadblocks.

A half hour and 30 miles later Tuesday, Patrolman Paul Whiting spotted the car, radioed ahead and, with another officer, intercepted it. They rousted out the driver, hands above his head.

"What's this all about?" asked the shaken driver, Arthur Baker, 35, of Rialto, Calif. "Why are you doing this to us? Why the guns?"

Whiting and Officer Frank Loper explained the note.

"But I am his wife," said Mrs. Baker, 27, producing a brand new marriage license.

The newlyweds said they didn't know who pulled the prank.

Predicts Farmers Will Never Sign Union Contracts

WESLACO, Tex. (AP) — The second ranking official of the Lower Rio Grande Valley's big La Casita Farms predicts farmers will never sign union contracts with striking Valley workers.

Ralph Ross told the Lions Club Tuesday La Casita has felt no effects of a boycott called by United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, AFL-CIO.

The union has made La Casita its main target in a drive for a union contract.

Ross said the approaching melon season "will either make or break this labor movement." "Our workers are going to tear into them and I'll be right there with them," Ross said.

Widow Recalls Villa's Glories

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — Luz Corral was lissome, fair-haired and blue-eyed 56 years ago when Pancho Villa brought her as his bride to the cottage he had built on what was then the edge of this town.

She still lives here today, 44 years after her general was assassinated in a nearby village. Of course, time and circumstance have changed both the lady and her house.

NOW GRAY

Her much-admired ash-blond resses are now wispy gray strands knotted carelessly in back. Hanging on her huge form is a shapeless black crepe dress and sweater. A hole is at the knee of her black net stockings and her heavy black shoes are worn over the sides. Yet her pale blue eyes still glisten with vitality and humor, vestiges of the youthful beauty which numerous old photographs on the wall attest was once hers.

"Say I'm 72," she suggests. "Of course, I'm lying."

As for the house, it was burned down twice by enemies of Pancho Villa. At the height of the revolutionary hero's power and resources it was rebuilt into an opulent Franco-Spanish 50-room mansion with pink marble columns, a formal garden and a ballroom that often rang with music and merriment.

LOVED MUSIC

"Pancho loved to dance to good music," his widow recalls wistfully.

Now it stands in shabby dignity among the squat, plaster buildings of the town that now surrounds it. Some of the once-grand rooms are empty except for oil paintings on the walls. Hanging slack across the garden is a line of dingy wash belonging to the destitute family the childless senora has taken in. Her only child, a daughter, died at age 20 months.

"The general always sent me the poor to care for," she says. "Especially poor little boys." (Pancho Villa, born Doroteo Arango, was a poor boy who sought freedom from the penance of his parents at an early age.)

LOYALTY

What has not altered in almost half a century is her fierce loyalty to her husband, though he was notoriously unfaithful to her during their 12 years of marriage.

"I knew he had women, lots of them, scattered among the hills. How could I not know when everyone went to a great amount of trouble to see that I did?"

Senora Villa shrugs her huge, somber frame as if to say, "So what?" Tenderly she tells how the swashbuckling hero of the revolution took her to be his wife, the only woman he legally wed.

"When Pancho stormed the town where I was born — San Andres—he came to the general store my mother ran to ask for food for his men. He saw me and we both knew, but he said nothing. He was gone three years before he came back to ask for me as his bride."

CRITICS

From the moment they "knew" she determinedly shrugged off Pancho Villa's critics — those who even now look back upon him as dangerous and irresponsible, a thief unfit to be revered in death as a national hero. Except to admit that he had little education — "He was right. I think a very high Mexican official paid $50,000 to have him shot."

CAR IN GLASS

In the back of the house enclosed in glass is the car in which he was shot, a roadster, rusted and riddled with bullet holes. She taps on the glass with a rubber-tipped cane.

"He died the same way President Kennedy did, ambushed from a building as the car moved through the crowds. It was a Good Friday. Lincoln died on Good Friday."

"So did Jesus Christ," she adds.

The large black figure guides her guests through half a dozen rooms cluttered with guns, swords, flags, photographs and other souvenirs of her general's days of glory, reciting in singsong fashion an obviously rehearsed commentary, much as though she were a First Lady taking a television audience on a tour of the White House.

At the end of the tour visitors surreptitiously slip a few pesos under the big guest book.

TREASURE MAP
Among the myths of Pancho Villa is one that he buried his money somewhere. Once somebody gave his widow a map to the supposed cache.

"Oh no, I'll never bother to look for it," she says. "I don't believe it is there."

Though cynical after years of rebuffs, the senora still looks to Mexico City to help glorify her husband some day as a Robin Hood and a champion of democracy. Before she dies, she hopes the government will take steps to maintain her homestead as his memorial.

Recently, Pancho Villa's name was engraved in gold letters in the House of Representatives in the capital city.

Dear Abby Some Things Are Priceless

DEAR ABBY: You recently wrote, "Nothing is more overrated than money. Ask anyone who has suffered a real tragedy, and he will tell you that no amount of money could have comforted him in his hour of sorrow."

I disagree with you. My husband and I worked and saved to buy a home of our own. It took us 14 years, but we finally got it. Then along came a tornado and our lovely home was demolished! Of course there was no insurance, so it was a total loss.

Now if some kind soul had come along and given us $55,000 it would have comforted us plenty in our hour of sorrow. So please, Dear Abby, admit that even YOU can goof once in a while.

DEAR ABBY: I admit that I "goof" more than "once in a while." But while losing one's worldly goods is indeed tragic, only he who has suffered an irreparable loss, such as a mate, a child, or a beloved friend, knows the meaning of "real" tragedy.

DEAR ABBY: Some friends of ours recently had a golden wedding anniversary, so several weeks before that date I telephoned a local florist and asked him to send them two dozen long-stemmed yellow roses. (Cost $24). The daughter of this couple had planned a party for her parents, and she used the same florist I called. She learned of my order so she told the florist they wouldn't be needing any extra bouquets, so to just accept my money and to deduct it from HER bill.

Since she is well-known and respected in town, I don't blame the florist for doing as she requested, however I am very hurt to think that I paid part of HER bill rather than to have sent my own flowers. The daughter did tell her parents about my order, however, because I received a nice thank you note for my "intentions." Am I wrong to feel hurt? HURT DEAR HURT: No. But the florist with whom you placed your order is every bit as guilty as the daughter who dreamed up that chintzy scheme. I can't imagine a reputable florist going along with such a suggestion without your approval. As I see it, you owe that florist NOTHING!

DEAR ABBY: I was at home preparing to go on a much-needed vacation when I received a phone call from my daughter's boss, telling me I should try to convince my daughter to get some help. Her boss seems to think she is mentally ill as she has been coming to work with hosiery run to shreds and mismatched shoes. He says her hair is uncombed and she is very careless about her appearance lately. Do you think she is abnormal? I have since spoken to a psychiatrist who tells me that these are usually signs of a sick mind. Please, Abby, tell me the right words to use when I tell my daughter because I know she will be very angry when I suggest that she needs help.

HEARTBROKEN MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: If you "know" she will be very angry when you suggest that she needs help, perhaps you are not the one to tell her. Talk to the psychiatrist again and ask for his suggestions.

Sen. Reagan Pulls Back Tax Proposal

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Bruce Reagan canceled Tuesday a scheduled committee hearing on his proposal to rebate a portion of the general sales tax to the cities. 16-A Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Wed., April 12, 1967

Homer Rich New Head Of Pastors Assn.

The Rev. Homer Rich, pastor of the Assembly of God, was elected new president of the Big Spring Pastors Association at a meeting Wednesday morning. Rev. Rich, who succeeds the Rev. Leo Gee of the First Methodist Church, will take office June 1. The association made plans for an installation meeting to be held at the First Methodist Church on the evening of May 13. Other new officers are Chaplain Robert Deming of Webb Air Force Base, vice president; Glenn E. Falson, First Baptist minister of music, secretary; the Rev. D. M. Duke, Church of the Nazarene, treasurer, and the Rev. Jarrel Sharp, Wesley Methodist, chairman of the Bible class program in the schools. The association expressed its formal appreciation to The Herald for its cooperative work in publicizing church programs generally; for assistance in the Easter sunrise worship service and for help in raising funds for the Bible class in the high school. The gesture toward the newspaper was made in the presentation of a plaque to the publisher, R. W. Whipkey.

El Paso Mayor To Head TML

Mayor Judson Williams of El Paso became president of the Texas Municipal League Monday, following action of the TML board of directors in Austin. Williams succeeds Dr. C. Clifford Burross, alderman of Wichita Falls, who was defeated for re-election to the local city council earlier this month. The present term extends through the league's annual conference in Houston, Nov. 5-7, 1967. Williams has served on the league board as director-at-large since late 1963. He has been continuously active in the development of statewide legislative programs and in regional affairs of city officials in the far West Texas area. He was a strong supporter of the local option municipal sales tax bill recently passed by the legisla-

Two Plans Offered For HCJC Vocational Bldg.

Two types of plans will be filed with the Texas Education Agency for a new vocational building at Howard County Junior College. Trustees instructed Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, Tuesday to consult with state officials to see which form of building appeared to be most practical. One will be a square design, the other a long rectangle. Both will be two-story. The square type has 29,718 square feet and is estimated to be the more economical to construct and operate. The rectangular design, however, will contain 30,960 square feet. Both are designed to house units for data processing, key punching, drafting, bookkeeping, office procedure, business machine operation, typing, plus a dozen and a half plain and technical classrooms. Some kinds of vocational training might be interchangeable with the present practical arts building. The college will proceed with an application for state and federal participation in a building, once the form of plant has been agreed upon. Dr. Hunt explained that the courses to be offered will be under a two-year plan, with parallel academics for those who desire that type as well as technical-vocational training. Requirements will be set up on a college standard basis.

Taste Of Mutton Bothers Official

FORT SUMNER, N.M. (AP)—W. E. He said poorly prepared dishes by military cooks in the past "ruined a whole generation" of Americans for the taste of mutton and lamb.

Works Harder Since He Came To Retire

SEADRIFT, Tex. (AP) — A Pennington tells people, "I came here from Victoria 14 years ago to retire. Seems I've worked harder since than I ever had before."

To be working at 92 seems remarkable, but in his four and a fraction terms as justice of the peace in this town of 1,500 persons he has settled about 2,000 cases.

Looking over his docket and the tottings of fines administered, it is plain that he has little patience with those who flaunt the law.

Asked if he considers himself a severe judge, he limited his reply to a wry smile.

Speaking of his occasional political opponents, he says, "The only thing they could use against me was that I was too old."

Judge Pennington holds court in the parlor of his five-room home in downtown Seadrift, a community of about 1,500 on the Texas coast.

He sandwiches in a wedding ceremony now and then. A widower, he lives alone, keeps a spotless house and is a good cook.

He first was appointed to the job in 1952 and later that year won a write-in campaign. Pennington, alert and spry, has held the job since. Many of the cases are brought to him late at night.

has a favorite expression when he finishes speaking:

"I may not break the habit but I'll break you—trying."

Calhoun County Justices of the Peace receive a salary of $10 a month and do not work on a fee per fine basis. The fines go to the county's road and bridge fund.

Pennington is grateful for his good health.

"I remember being sick one time—about 50 or 60 years ago when I had typhoid fever," he recalled in an interview.

About four years ago he went to Houston to have a cataract removed from an eye—his first time in a hospital.

Gaining great age appears to be a trait of his family. A twin sister died only recently. His mother lived to be 99, his father 92 and a brother 97. He has other brothers and sisters surviving.

Pennington and his wife, Helene, had been married 65 years.

Pennington, before his first retirement at 75 years, was bookkeeper for 14 years for the Victoria Plumbing Co.

He was born in old Washington, Tex., and worked for a number of years with the Wells Fargo Express Co. in San Antonio.

He was a baggage agent for Southern Pacific about 1914 and was chief clerk to the general baggage agent with the Missouri, Kansas and Texas lines in Houston.

From Houston, he went to Lubbock, where he managed a furniture firm.

His relatively heavy work load in Seadrift he dismisses with, "It keeps me out of devilment."

when she died about five years ago.

He learned to cook during his wife's final illness.

"I use cake mixes," he admits, but then adds proudly, "I make my own icings."

Often he makes cupcakes for his friends at the Port Lavaca Courthouse.

Pennington likes to visit friends downtown or walk to the nearby waterfront.

As for fishing, "I gave up that foolishness long ago," he said.

He says his three children have no reason to worry about his living alone, but he did give up driving a car at their insistence. He is a great-grandfather.

Still Insists Earth Is Flat

By EDDY GILMORE

DOVER, England (AP)—"Of course the earth's not round," said Samuel Shenton. "It's flat."

"No man knows the ultimate shape of the earth," he replied, "but that portion that we live on is most definitely flat."

COMPLEXITY

"No man will ever know what the whole complexity is like, I suppose, because it goes beyond his sphere of observation, investigation and comprehension."

Speaking very slowly, patiently, even gently, he added: "The small area that we occupy is actually deep within the earth, and yields to water levels, horizons and horizontal and is quite correctly termed — a flat earth."

But what about those photographs taken by the astronauts? "That's right up my street," he answered. "The astronauts took their pictures with wide-angle lens. The wide-angle lens is what distorts. It's a deception of the public and it isn't right."

"People today are unable to conceive of the earth mass in any other form than that of a globe. Consequently, they are very easily persuaded that the press, TV, and films present the true picture of 'space' flights."

HOBBIES

Shenton, a retired sign painter and a man of property, is an elected fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society and the Royal Geographical Society. Astronomy and geography have been his hobbies since he was 16.

At 63, Shenton is secretary of the International Flat Earth Research Society, whose headquarters are at his home, 24 London Road, in Dover.

Warning now to his theories, he continued: "Flat earthists hold that, rather than being a self-evolved, whirling, gyrating globe, the earth is of special construction, and absolutely motionless."

He swallowed, smiled patiently, and continued:

"If you can prove, or anyone else can prove, that the orbital speed of the earth is 66,000 miles per hour, some 20 miles per second, and explain how still water can be convex, well, I'll guarantee you one thing, I'll shut up and say nothing more about the earth being flat."

SPEED
"I maintain that the assertion of this fantastic speed of the earth — unsupported by evidence — is definitely a crime. While such proofs are lacking, our younger generation should not be brain-conditioned to accept orthodox speculations as facts."

Shenton receives 20 to 40 letters a day from all over the world, many from the United States.

"I really can't answer them all," he said, "because for one thing, I'd go broke buying postage stamps."

He held forth a letter dated Feb. 21, 1967 and postmarked Eldorado, Iowa.

It said in part: "Our entire physics class of 14 and our instructor at Eldorado, Iowa, are seriously worried about the prevailing scientific attitude towards the shape of the earth. The nature of our concern lies with the unscientific explanation of the earth's spherical shape."

SUPPORT

"We support your society's attempts to show the true flat shape of the earth. We agree so heartily with your organization that we wish to become connected with it, if not through actual membership, perhaps through associate membership."

But Mr. Shenton, what about those ships that disappear over the horizon?

"Ah," he replied with an air of gentle resignation, "that is the oldest one of all, perhaps. They seem to vanish because of the perspective. No astronaut has ever gone around a ball-like earth just as no ship has ever gone around a ball-like earth."

"See here, now. If one stands at the base of the Dover cliffs, beneath old Dover Castle, looking eastward, one sees a water level, a sea horizon."

"Now go to a point on higher ground near St. Radigund's behind the town. Here one observes that the horizon has equally risen and is then cutting through the castle keeping some 350 feet above the original position. This would not be possible upon a globe."

EMPHATIC
With an answer to every question, he is very emphatic on the difficulties of spacemen in catching up with the earth's orbital speed.

Suggest to him that the atmosphere is carried around by the earth, and indeed, is a part of the earth, he smiles slowly and says:

"I have counted five different layers of cloud going in different directions — a very hard thing to do."

"That would never be so if there was the greater thing of the orbital speed. It would all be carried along together."

He said the parent of the International Flat Earth Research Society was American.

"Yes, it really started in America in the 1870s when it was known as the Universal Zetetic Society, searching to know rather than theorizing. The headquarters were in New York."

Shenton said that George Bernard Shaw attended one of the meetings here, stood up during the discussion and said he found the arguments very persuasive. "He added that the discussion had led him to the conclusion that the earth was not flat but like a cylinder," said Shenton.

Shenton and his views come in for a lambasting.

ADVERSE NOTICE
"I get a lot of adverse publicity, of course," he said with some resignation. "People think I'm a crank and so on, but that's all right because, you see,

Opening lead: King of ♠

A simple reflex action by East provided South with an opportunity to salvage his four spade contract. South was not too far removed from having a demand bid—in terms of playing strength, his holding is worth nearly nine tricks. Therefore, when his partner managed to eke out a one trump response, he decided to leave nothing further to chance, and he proceeded directly to game in spades.

West opened the king of hearts, and when the dummy appeared with a singleton club, he shifted to a trump. South put up North's jack and East covered with the queen to force out declarer's king. A heart was returned and West rose with the ace to play another spade. North's eight held the trick and drew the outstanding trump in the process.

The queen of hearts was cashed and when the jack and ten fell, South had enough discards for his losing diamonds and he scored up his contract with an over-trick.

Had East not covered the jack of spades when West shifted to that suit at trick two, South would have fallen short of the goal. When the next trump is led, East's queen will force declarer to win the trick in his hand, and he will have no way to reach North's established heart suit. Forced to play the diamonds himself, South must lose two tricks in that suit.

East had nothing to gain by covering the first spade, for in view of South's jump in that suit, there can be no hope of establishing a trump trick for West. By making declarer use up North's spade early, East can shut his opponent out of the dummy subsequently when the hearts have been established.

P-TA Slate Of Officers Presented

Mrs. Garland Brown was elected president at the new official slate was presented at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Kentwood Parent-Teacher Association at the school.

Other officers are Mrs. Melvin Riddle, vice president; Mrs. Jim Hatler, secretary; Mrs. Doris Peters, treasurer; Mrs. Bruce Frazier, reporter; and Mrs. David Hodnett, historian.

Leon M. Kinney of the Texas Employment Commission, spoke on "Learning for Earning," and said that every day he is reminded of the value of learning in education while interviewing job applicants. He further pointed out that there are essentially two kinds of education, that of making a living and the other, learning to live.

He pointed out that education increases self respect, but that education is of no value if the individual cannot fit into the world of the employer. He stated that the average uneducated youth will cost the taxpayer $30,000 in unemployment insurance, welfare and remedial education.

Mrs. O. R. Vess presided, and Mrs. Martin Landers gave the invocation. Room count was won by Mrs. Landers' fifth grade class. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Gary to approximately 50 attending.

Tip For Swingers

Any old rubber stair treads you don't need? Attach one to the seat of a child's swing, with heavy glue. The children will be less apt to slide off, and splinters from worn wood will be avoided.

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Are you going about the city enjoying the sights the beautiful roses and irises are making? There's a rose hedge between the yards at 1701 and 1703 Purdie that is something I have always dreamed of. It's blooming, it's thick and it's even.

Washington Boulevard is pretty with roses, and at the HARBOLD TALBOT home the irises are blooming their heads off... which well might happen, tho' not from blooming but from the strong winds.

Just a few short weeks ago the tulips on the VA Hospital grounds were full, and also, there were Texas Bluebonnets in several places. The H. L. SHIRLEY had beds of them in full bloom as do the ALBERT HOERTZES.

At the joint banquet of the D.E., V.O.E., and V.I.E. groups at the BSHS we enjoyed being at the table with the JACK ALEXANDERS, the GEORGE RICES, the SAM ANDERSONS, the FLOYD PANNELLS and the ED SHIVES. The Alexanders have two sons in military training, one in the Air Force ROTC and another in Army ROTC; the Rice's son, George Jr., a senior at Texas Tech, will go into Navy OCS when he graduates this spring. Incidentally, he has been on the Dean's List four times. His major is Latin American Area studies... Sam Anderson is planning on a European trip for TSTA during the summer.

MRS. HERMAN TAYLOR is back from Dallas for a few days before returning there to be with her sister, Mrs. C. B. SULLIVAN, who is a patient at Medical Arts Hospital, Room 1712. Mrs. Sullivan's illness has been diagnosed as sprue, a rare tropical disease. She has recently undergone surgery and was in intensive care for seven days. Her condition is improved but she will have to be in the hospital for two more weeks and stay in Dallas for two months.

MRS. H. T. MOORE is staying at the White - Plaza Hotel to be near her daughter.

Mrs. Sullivan has enjoyed the many flowers and the expressions of friendship she has received through this long illness and has expressed her appreciation to her many friends here. She likes to hear from the home folk according to Mrs. Taylor who plans to go back to Dallas this weekend.

The Altrusa women did themselves proud with their observance of the golden anniversary of the organization's founding. At the dinner last night everything was coming up golden... including the tiered cake that was baked and decorated by the president, MRS. ZIRAH LEFEVRE... Enjoyed the table chatter of friends about us especially MRS. NORMAN READ who has recently returned from a cruise to Hawaii. When she attended church services of the Methodists there she was happy to be greeted by an Air Force officer, JOE WEST who had been trained at Webb AFB and had sung in the First Methodist Church choir here. He asked to be remembered to MRS. DON NEWSOM, MRS. FRED MCGOWAN and IRA SHANTZ who no longer lives here but was a member of the choir at the time Lt. West was here. He told Mrs. Read that of all places he and his wife had served, the Big Spring people were the friendliest to the service people... so we thought we'd pass the nice words on to the people that he was talking about... Also was happy to see MISS STELLA MERRILL who was a member and past president of the Wichita Falls Altrusa Club several years ago and was enjoying the meeting with the local group.

Founded April 11, 1917, in Nashville, Tenn., Altrusa is the oldest of the women's classified service clubs. From the first, Altrusa has pioneered in human betterment projects that today are part of community life.

Civic services initiated in Altrusa cities continue to fill many needs, and range from day nurseries and foster homes for children, to traffic safety campaigns and adult education forums.

As early as 1924, Altrusa adopted vocational guidance as a policy. Career conferences were introduced in schools, job visits arranged for students, and total club effort directed toward aiding older women workers.

Not only did Altrusa pioneer in the field of aging by helping older women with their job problems, but in addition started hobby centers and Golden Age clubs for both men and women.

Altrusa is a service organization for executive and professional women in diversified careers. It is a club of women leaders with only one representative of a specific business or profession invited to membership.

The key to what Altrusa does is implied by its very name, derivation of "altruism," or devotion to the interests of others.

Altrusa is known for two major projects. They are: Founders Fund Vocational Aid, which enables women to enter the job market, and Inter-American Grants - in - Aid, which is building friendship with Latin America. Both are cooperatively supported by Altrusans.

In this unusual project, Altrusa International gives, through its clubs, outright grants of $50 to $250 to women of all ages who need training or retraining in a skill, or certain equipment to become self-employed.

From $7000 to $8000 a year has been allocated for these grants since 1953.

Through this project, in operation since 1945, grants of $250 to $750 are given outright to Latin American women graduates in North America who need a supplementary sum to finish training in chosen vocations.

Some $10,000 to $15,000 is spent each year to lift the economic pressure for students, and enable them to devote themselves more wholeheartedly to their studies, see more of the country around them and have an opportunity to know the people.

In 1954 this project earned for Altrusa the George Washington Honor Medal, awarded by the Freedoms Foundation for "an outstanding achievement in helping to bring about a better understanding of the American Way of Life."

Tends Her Wounded Sister

A Vietnamese girl holds her wounded baby sister and watches Vietnamese Rangers go by. They were rescued by Rangers from a smoke-filled bunker beneath their burning house. Both children were wounded by pieces of shrapnel from U.S. helicopter rockets when the soldiers fought guerrillas around farmhouse in the Mekong Delta about 35 miles southwest of Saigon. ### Nugents Buy Pink House

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Deciding their rented duplex is a bit small for an expanding family, Luci Johnson Nugent and her husband, Patrick, plan to move soon to an expensive French provincial home they bought from an attorney to await the arrival of their first child.

The home was reported to be worth $70,000, but a White House spokesman said it was "substantially less than that."

The pink brick house is located at 2707 Macken Drive on the far west side of Austin in an area of winding streets, abundant low cedars and post oaks.

Dan Felts, the attorney who sold the Nugents the house, is expected to vacate the home May 1. Luci's baby is due around June 1.

The Nugents have lived in the small duplex since their marriage last August. The new house is about a quarter of a mile east of Lake Austin in rolling terrain just south of where the hill country starts. President and Mrs. Johnson own some land in the general vicinity.

Judy Wins Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Judy Garland was granted a divorce Tuesday from actor Mark Herron after she testified he drank "about two great big bottles of scotch a day" and "beat me and would kick me when I was down."

The marriage was the fourth for Miss Garland, 44. She and Herron, 36, were wed Nov. 14, 1965, in Las Vegas and separated five months later.

Herron did not contest the action. There was no alimony order.

Lawmakers Like Loon, Ladyslipper

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota House of Representatives has voted 130-0 to make the ladyslipper the official state flower.

How many were swayed by the poetic accompaniment wasn't certain, but Rep. Jack Morris of St. Paul recited this prior to the vote: "Roses are red, poppies are not; ladyslippers will keep the state from going to pot."

A few years ago, the lawmakers voted the loon as the state bird.

'LBJ University' Will Be Snazzy

By The Associated Press
Some time this summer construction will start on a building where President Lyndon B. Johnson says he wants to work after leaving the White House.

University of Texas officials say building plans are just about complete for the Lyndon B. Johnson Presidential Library and the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs. Both will be in a new campus complex east of the university tower and a short punt distance from Memorial Stadium.

It all started almost two years ago when President Johnson sat on the front porch of one of his ranch houses near Johnson City and unexpectedly told reporters he wanted to return to teaching after leaving the presidency. With a glint of determination in his eyes, the President said he thought politicians and public servants should have better educational advantages.

And, he said he would like to be a lecturer in such a school as the University of Texas.

Soon afterwards, university officials said the President's dream would come true—The university would start a Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, one of very few in the nation. At the same time it was announced the university would build the presidential library which then would be operated by the national archives.

University officials say, privately and publicly, that President Johnson knows about and approves every step taken toward the new complex—which already has been informally christened "LBJ University."

The library and school will feature the best and latest in everything.

Dr. Robert Bahmer, archivist of the United States, said the Johnson library will be different from other presidential libraries in that it will contain complete microfilm and photographic copies of public records of the Johnson administration as well as all the President's personal papers. Bahmer also predicted the Johnson library will attract more public visitors than other presidential libraries, although it may be several years before it is opened to the public.

SPECIFICATION
Dr. William Livingston, professor of government who is head of a faculty committee making preliminary arrangements, said the Johnson School of Public Affairs will be distinctive because it will be the only one offering specialization in state government. It also will be unique in that it is located in the state capital.

Other top flight public affairs schools are at Princeton, Harvard and the University of Southern California. Princeton also has the Woodrow Wilson Library and Harvard will have the Kennedy archives.

BUT IS IT ART?

'Amateur' Night Not For Angels

NEW YORK (AP) — They had amateur night for strippers down at the Gayety Burlesk a while back, and a few of the fellas dropped in to see how it all came off.

Down into the fleshpot for the 7:40 show they troop, mostly middle-aged, business-suited and topcoated, quietly fanning out through the dim theater and sitting alone, two or three seats apart.

Onstage the emcee is doing — believe it or not — a James Cagney imitation, the one that starts, "Awright, you guys... I don't want any trouble, ses-e-e... He intones a few gamy limericks, does a buck-and-wing and then alludes with sly extravagance to the girls in the wings, ticking off their charms like a litany of secular, fleshly delight.

'HERE SHE IS'
And here she is, folks! — Princess Iris, dressed to the nines. Slim, Oriental and beautiful, she prowls the stage like a Siamese cat, while the orchestra plays softly, almost in tune.

To any but the most practiced eye, she looks mightily professional. Slowly, haughtily, ever so sexily, she peels off — her gloves. But then comes the subtle tip-off, that classic test that separates the amateurs from the pros. Now suddenly she is working too fast. Novice that she is, Princess Iris quickly shucks the rest of her raiment as if it were a trenchcoat, until Section 1140 of the penal code is her G-string and minipasties. Nice. But is it art?

WHOOFS!
Then comes Candy Lane, trippingly, trippingly, a little-girlish dream in blonde hair and a demure Alice-in-Wonderland frock. She grabs the mike and sings in a forthright contralto: "Bring it on down to my house, baby, ain't nobody home but me. And whoops! There goes that pale blue dress and here comes Alice down the runway, nearly into your lap, reborn as Lolita in lavender ostrich feathers and green eye-paint this deep.

NEARLY NUDE
Now we have a comedy skit starring a baggy-trousered buffoon and a girl who is a sobering confrontation between miniskirt and maxifanny. The dramatic highlight is when she belts the guy in the face with a bagful of flour. This gets so many yocks from the others onstage that she belts him again. After the sixth or seventh faceful the actors dissolve in helpless laughter, amid funeral silence across the footlights.

And then comes the girl — you can just tell — who is to be the winner this evening, Sandy Frisco. ("I'm from California," she explains later.) There is something open and healthy in her fresh-faced smile, and when her nearly-nude, wondrously cantilevered frame strolls proudly over the runway, this open, fresh-faced look extends even to the green pasties on her sustan. They have a wide-eyed, innocent expression that is difficult to explain.

'MISS SEXATIONAL'
Gradually you suspect that the ad for this amateur night, which promised "scores of unknown beauties," somehow violated truth-in-packaging standards. You've only counted nineteenth-century one score, and if AAU rules applied, this would have to be classified a pro-am event. Bored housewives these aren't.

Backstage, the girls admit they're not amateurs but apprentices, hoping to be headliners soon. All in their late teens to mid-20s, some have been at it a couple weeks, some a few months. Except Shal Marlo; she's the headliner: "Miss Sexualional."

Shal, a voluptuous rubens type — plump, with a bit of a tummy — is off by herself, dragging angrily at a cigarette. How long has she been stripping? "Five years," she snaps, and stalks out.

'SHE'S BUGGED'
"She's bugged. Some jerk made a crack about this," explains another girl, patting her stomach.

"I'm an exhibitionist," announces Sandy Frisco. "I like to show off, and if guys want to pay for a look, it's a way to keep eating till I'm old and ugly."

Theater manager and den-mother Lisa Holiday says the girls work six days a week, four shows a day, five on Saturday, at $150 to start. "It's hard work," she says, "but they're not out hustling and they're not on relief. It's not for angels, maybe, but a girl could do worse."

'YEAH, SURE'

At the Reno Bar next door, where the girls go for a break, Shal is sitting at the far end. She smiles now and then at the comments of a young man on the next stool, then turns back, hands fretting absently at her cigarette and beer glass, eyes staring wide and without expression out the window. She swallows her beer, shrugs into her coat and starts back for the final show.

"See you later, honey," says the barmaid.

"Yeah, sure," says Shal.

Texan Joins Red Attack

SAIGON (AP) — Lt. Cmdr. Harvey Elkel of Hanford, Calif., Lt. (j.g.) Roger Van Dyke of Pawhuska, Okla., and Lt. (j.g.) Jack Waeltz of Freeburg, Ill., were among U.S. Navy pilots who attacked enemy troops south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam Tuesday.

Another flight that attacked enemy troops included Lt. Robert Spane of Jacksonville, Fla., Lt. (j.g.) John Goodman of Sherman, Tex., Lt. Robert Burnett of Columbus, Ga., and Lt. (j.g.) Robert Wideman of Cleveland.

Firm To Construct Recreational Area

GAINESVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A proposed $3 million recreational development in southeast Cooke County has been announced.

John E. Erd, representing American Realty Service Corp. of Feeding Hills, Mass., outlined plans for the housing development around a 600-surface-acre lake just south of Woodbine in Cooke County. The development will include between 1,800 and 2,000 acres with space available for 1,600 homes and two businesses.

The firm has constructed more than 50 such developments in 23 states.

A Devotional For The Day

Whatever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him. (Colossians 3:17)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, but for the promise of Thy presence and sustaining power, we would be overwhelmed by the consciousness of our responsibility. To live aright, to fulfill Thy commandments, to do all the name of the Lord Jesus, we ask Thee to help us. For Jesus' sake. Amen. (From the 'Upper Room')

Entitled To Fair Shake

There is now pending in the U.S. Senate a bill (927) which would make it unlawful to assess a common carrier (railroad) property at a greater rate than other property. This would become a part of the Interstate Commerce Act to declare as "an unreasonable and unjust discrimination against and an undue burden upon interstate commerce" any state or local tax assessments on common carrier transportation property "at a value which bears a higher ratio to the true market value of such transportation property than the assessed value of all other property in the taxing district subject to a property tax levy bears to the true market value of all such other property."

means of effecting relief upon due proof.

It seems to us that this is a reasonable proposal, for railroads, nor anyone else for that matter, should not have to bear a disproportionate tax load. We know all the old arguments about railroads being given land subsidies, etc. in the early days of the industry as an encouragement to expansion and development, but these arguments are not really germane because we are talking about different sets of values, and about incentives rather than subsidies. We are talking about here and now, and not about three-quarters of a century ago.

This is a means of providing equitable tax treatment under the umbrella of federal statutes. It may be that carriers are unable to obtain relief in some states from an undue share of the tax burden, and a federal statute would be one expeditious Railroads, among all the common carriers, must maintain and pay taxes upon their roadbeds, rails, communications, etc. as well as totally supporting their own terminal facilities. The least they could be given is a fair shake.

Interstate Education Compact

Dr. James B. Conant's idea for an interstate education compact has caught on remarkably, undoubtedly because it would logically meet an obvious need. It has quickly gained 38 members, and probably soon will become nationally unanimous.

mon problems, to judge how relatively well they are operating, to benefit from others' experience, and to gain new ideas. Each must now conduct its own slow and costly surveys, rely on information from national education organizations, or glean what it can from U.S. Office of Education reports. None of these sources is fully satisfactory, as a means of educational information exchange among the states and their institutions of higher education and public school systems.

Rep. Dick Cory's bill for Texas participation, endorsed by the College Coordinating Board and Texas Education Agency, should and probably will be passed this session.

The interstate compact agency's work can, and presumably will, be tailored to give each state maximum benefit, in meeting its own peculiar needs, of a full and sustained international exchange. The result should be a valuable guide, worth far more than its cost, for state educational policy.

The compact will, in effect, become a comparative research center and information clearinghouse, at low cost to each participating state, performing a valuable service.

A state and its educational agencies and institutions often need comparative data on a national scale — to see how others are handling com-pay of Castro or the Chinese, he will be able to discard the threadbare garments of a cleaner-upper of sin in New Orleans and put on the raiment of a crime-buster beyond compare.

Two Southern Showmen

Everybody seems to know the tall, dramatic district attorney and seldom refer to him other than as Jim. His political ambitions are well known. His abilities are well recognized. His admirers are torn between two sets of beliefs about his razzle-dazzle bid to prove that a conspiracy brought about the assassination of President Kennedy.

George Wallace, prince consort of Alabama, isn't quite as spicy a topic as Jim Garrison, but conversation about his political plans for 1968 are habit forming and seem not to cloy the appetite. The governor's husband says he's running for the presidency against both the major parties, and people in the Deep South have long ago stopped laughing at the presumption of George's intensions, if they ever did.

ON THE ONE hand, Jim's series of arrests have flushed a covey of shiftless and other bizarre characters, but haven't produced Fact One to show them implicated in the crime of the century.

THE TWO-PARTY system is at last on the march throughout what was once the Democratic Solid South. Evidence of GOP success is everywhere.

On the other hand, I'm told that Jim is likely to conjure up the credibility of a conspiracy whether the reality exists or not. His career is on the line, and the Warren Commission with its big name membership and its convenient theory of a lone, crazed assassin has taken on the undesired role of a dude whose humiliation would stop the show and bring down the house with applause.

But Republican leaders are of one mind about the George Wallace candidacy — it could render the GOP presidential nomination worthless and clinch the re-election of Lyndon Johnson. This is not because the businessmen, lawyers and professors who form the conservative core of Southern Republicanism have the slightest use for Wallace. They look upon him as a charming Montebank, but distrust his filmfand ways. Wallace could canvass for Republican leadership backing from Montgomery to Mobile by way of Baltimore and not collect a beggar's tin cup of encouragement from the ladies and gentlemen who sponsor the Grand Old Party in what was once Democratic country.

The Bible says, "Faith without works is dead." Does this mean that we are not saved by faith alone, as I have always been taught? F.M.H.

There really is no conflict between faith and works. In the Christian life they go together like inhaling and exhaling. Faith is taking the Gospel in; works is taking the Gospel out. Actually, what James is saying is: You can't have one without the other.

AND YET Wallace is going to run big among the masses of white folks in the Southland and borderland whose understanding of conservatism is part visual, part visceral. The race issue is black-and-white to the farmers, villagers and laborers who thrill to the Wallace call of the wild.

The book of James balances off this matter of faith and works, and reminds us that the Christian must have both. True, we are not saved by works, but James reminds us also that we are not saved if good works do not follow. Some people argue this point so vehemently that it almost becomes the old argument of which comes first the chicken or the egg. The word "believe" comes from two words, "be" and "live." Faith helps us to "be," spiritually. But after we receive life, it is to find expression in Christian works and deeds. To show that there is no conflict in the Scriptures between the two, Paul, the advocate of faith speaks of "being rich in works," and James, the exponent of works, says, "rich in faith." Why be content with either when God has provided for, and says we must have both.

Where conservative intellectuals could not lead a stampede out of the Democratic ranks into the Republican camps, Wallace can lead one of considerable size into the lost legion of a third party. By denying troops to the improving GOP, Wallace will neutralize that party's southern gains and do LBJ a signal, if unintended, service.

Two showmen: Garrison and Wallace. People who would always rather be entertained than instructed are held spellbound.

Prosperous Latin America Vital To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — If tomorrow a nuclear war bathed every continent in bombs, the survivors would probably clamor for a one-world government as the best hope of ending war forever.

If World War II hadn't almost destroyed them, it's doubtful the West Europeans would have shown for generations as much, although limited, cooperation as they have since the war.

They wouldn't have dreamed of such a solution, or permitted it, before the bombs made it seem a necessity for survival. Without compulsion mankind isn't likely soon to end the barriers between nations.

SURVIVAL there, of course, was the compelling necessity. And the United States, despite all its help for them, can hardly claim unselfishness in its solicitude for the people of Latin America.

Since nationalism is only an extension of tribalism, and man is still primitive, he can't without compulsion stop thinking in tribal terms. The transition from "me first" to "me too" is a long way off.

NO WONDER then that neither President Johnson nor any of the Latin-American presidents at the summit meeting in Punta del Este, Uruguay, is apt to come up with solution for the special interests of them all.

The Latin Americans went into this meeting with feuds, disputes over borders, and insistence on trade preferences in the common market the United States wants them to create by the 1980's.

THE DISPUTES, differences and antagonisms of the Latin Americans are even more true of the new African nations which are far less advanced and experienced than the Latin Americans who, themselves, are behind the times.

But neither the United States nor the rest of the world can afford to look down its nose at the Latin Americans or Africans, since they have been in turmoil since their beginning, and they have been at it longer.

ONE OF the biggest mistakes any married man can make is to let his wife teach him how to run the electric dishwasher.

Johnson would like the Latin Americans to agree on a common market to make trade easier for the benefit of them all. But each is primarily interested in its own problems and benefits.

THE ODDS are at least five to one that the next person over 40 you meet won't be chewing gum.

THIS ISN'T peculiar to the Latin Americans. There has been no bed of roses in Europe's Common Market where that extreme nationalist, French President Charles de Gaulle, kept the British out.

Thinning Of Bones After Menopause

Dear Dr. Molner: Please send your booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." (Self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin enclosed.) Would you comment on post-menopausal bone thinning, how you know you have it, and whether arthritis could become involved with this? — M.S.C.

Basically, treatment consists of giving hormones and making sure that the diet includes plenty of calcium. Sometimes calcium is given in tablet form.

You'll find this included in the menopause booklet. Actually there is not a great deal to say about it—unless you get into the chemistry of it, which then becomes very complicated.

Calling it post-menopausal bone thinning is somewhat inaccurate. It is true that it is more likely to occur after menopause, but that does not mean that it is a routine part of menopause. Some women are affected; others are not.

The term for this condition is osteoporosis. Our bodies are constantly being replaced, cell by cell, and this includes the bones.

And osteoporosis can affect men, too, although not as often. Some brittleness of the bones is not unusual in either sex as folks grow older.

When calcium is being withdrawn from the bones more rapidly than it is replaced, that is osteoporosis. X-ray shows it. But the patient naturally has no way of knowing it unless symptoms appear which call for investigation.

In brief, women should be aware of the possibility of this trouble which, if it is to develop, is more likely to occur after menopause. Drastic treatment is not required or helpful. The slow, simple process of making sure that the system has adequate calcium, and administration of suitable hormones to encourage the uptake of calcium in the bones, is the wise course. No sudden or spectacular improvement is to be expected, but gradual improvement is.

It usually is painful. Bones of the spine lose some of their density, and some rather slight shifting of the vertebrae can put pressure on nerves. In severe cases, the bones become brittle and fractures can result, but treatment ordinarily

A peaceful, prosperous Latin America is extremely important to the United States in a couple of vital ways.

FIRST, it's a great benefit to American national security, for if the area is prosperous, a Communist intrusion is less likely; and, second, a prosperous Latin America is a good trade outlet for U.S. products.

Nationalism and self-interest have even made a farce of the brotherhood of communism, which for so long tried to belittle both.

Why Redheads Have More Fun

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Redheads have more fun than either blondes or brunettes because men are more vulnerable to them. No man feels he has lived life utterly unless he has been in love at least once with a red-haired girl.

The greatest exhibitionists among sports enthusiasts are spear fishermen and water skiers.

FEW MIDGETS care to have dogs as pets, and the breeds they are least likely to own are Great Danes or Chihuahuas.

Executives who put their feet on the desk while opening their mail rarely get to become head of their firms — except through inheritance.

Funny how some things stick in your memory—not important things, just places or things.

good, hot soaking time. It was almost like a turkish bath, and boy did it beat that old No. 3 tub.

TODAY I could shut my eyes and almost retrace my steps from school to home when we lived down in the east end of town. It would be a little difficult because there are several business houses, a hospital, school and numerous residences in the way. But the Thomases, Pickles, McCrays, Cootses, Caubles and others followed this basic path a couple of round trips a day, fair weather and foul. It left the city street system just below Sugar Loaf (or Flat Top) hill near the present Sixth and Benton, angled across the draw about where the west extension of Boydston school now is situated, then up the slope over the hill where Hall Bennett Hospital is located, and back into Ninth Street about where Carver Pharmacy does business.

ROPER'S GROVE or Parish Park was another fond spot. The covering of Bermuda grass under those stately cottonwoods provided a restful place to play, and you could lean back and imagine that you were Tarzan flitting from branch to branch. I say imagine, because one flight was enough to teach me that that bark was a lot rougher than they must have had in the Congo. Anyhow, there's something about the rustle of the breeze through cottonwoods that you never forget.

ANOTHER SPOT that lingers in memory is the old railroad YMCA, just east of the present Texas and Pacific freight terminal. This was a noble structure which had a large game room where railroad men had their domino games, a library (thanks to Helen Gould, daughter of the notorious financier Jay Gould), upstairs meeting room, one equipped with elemental gymnasium items and one big enough for sizable assemblies. But the bath section was the joy of my life, for on Saturday night, my Dad, my brother and I went for a

AND WHO could forget the old ball park where National Supply and Oil Well Supply now have their stores? I don't suppose this could have seated more than a few hundred at most, but it seemed like a great stadium to me. Here was the home of such celebrated clubs such as the Elks, who clipped some Class D pro teams, and the famous Texas & Pacific team with Lefty Baber, Sammy Sain, Pap Payne, Tex Thornton, and many others. All of us kids got there early and prayed for a foul ball to sail over the grandstand so we could get inside and join in shouting words of derision at the opposition, calumny upon the umpire and encouragement and adoration to our favorites. It made an incorrigible baseball enthusiast out of me.

Freight Car Problem Remains

NEW YORK (AP)—The perennial problem of the freight car shortage is still with us, a bit empty and idle right now but loaded with repercussions for fall, when the big grain harvests come in.

is uneconomical for the nation's railroads to keep in reserve a large supply of cars merely on the chance there will be a peak demand for them for a few days.

"If we have good weather we will have a severe problem," a federal official says.

Already the nation has 1,821,423 cars, "fairly comfortable for today's needs," says a railroad official, "but maybe not for next week."

SOME OF THE grain growing areas have been having poor weather, however, and just this week the Department of Agriculture reported a 10 per cent cut in winter wheat estimates for parts of the Great Plains.

AS IT IS, the Interstate Commerce Commission estimates that in one year the average boxcar moves loaded a total of only 23 days and moves empty another 14 days. For the rest of the time it is idle in yards or on sidings.

But the problem remains. Because of the depletion of reserves there's been a big increase, more than 30 per cent, in grain plantings. This leaves the Great Plains crop still at a potential 10 per cent more than last year.

To add more cars — and some of them cost $35,000—would be to invest in a certain amount of idleness.

If a return to good weather brings this crop to harvest in full it could swamp the railroads. And if good economic weather brings a surge of industrial production at the same time the problems would be multiplied.

Obviously, though, there is room for improvement in utilization, and this part of the problem is being tackled by both the ICC and the railroads. Simply to increase the number of days a car is used has the same effect as building new ones.

IT IS A MYRIAD of problems such as these that makes the nation vulnerable to this annual shortage. Not even a computer can mix all the business, weather, economic and financial problems so as to have enough cars in the right spot at precisely the right time. It is a box score that never adds up.

UTILIZATION, however, is bogged down in a morass of old practices.

The peculiar nature of the problem is emphasized by the fact that it worsens on good news and shrinks on bad: poor weather, economic downturns, poor crops, declines in auto production. But it's always there. Why?

Both shipper and receiver of a freight car receive 48 hours of "free" time. "If we cut that time," said a railroad official, "you would hear immediate howls from customers." The railroads, therefore, aren't likely to act. But, an observer notes, "if the ICC orders them they can't do much about it."

THE SIMPLEST answer is that it

Other idleness results from over-ordering by shippers, holding of cars by carriers for future loading, switching time, the time required for grain inspections, the use of cars as warehouses, too much unloading at ports.

More Questions On The Powell Case

WASHINGTON — More issues are raised than were settled by the decision of Judge George L. Hart Jr., in the U.S. District Court here declaring that the federal judiciary has no authority to interfere with the action of the House in excluding Representative Adam Clayton Powell.

at any moment exclude a substantial number of members and thus obtain a two-thirds majority? Are not state governments, moreover, a part of the nation's governmental system under the Constitution and, as such, entitled to be considered immune from interference on the theory that the principle of "separation of powers" applies to them, too?

JUDGE HART ruled that the courts do not have the power to question the validity of the House resolution which ordered that Powell be deprived of his seat. The reason given for the dismissal of Powell's suit is that this is a "political question" and that to interpose any judicial decree would be to violate the doctrine of the "separation of powers" as between the three branches of the government.

THESE contradictions are further aggravated by the fact that, while all other citizens face jail penalties for any misappropriation of public funds, apparently members of Congress are immune. For there are no signs that the Department of Justice intends to take any legal action to ascertain whether Adam Clayton Powell violated the law in his misuse of federal funds as disclosed by a committee of the House of Representatives. This is indeed, in the literal sense, a "political question." The administration is presumably reluctant to alienate political support of Negro voters by taking to the courts the question of Powell's behavior.

Does this mean that, while courts can declare any law passed by Congress unconstitutional, a resolution which may deprive a member of Congress of his rights cannot be ruled invalid?

CERTAINLY Judge Hart's decision, while strictly in accord with early precedents, ignores the fact that the Supreme Court of the United States did in recent years step in and order a reapportionment of state legislatures on a "one man, one vote" formula. This, too, had been regarded as a "political question" in previous reasoning by the Supreme Court.

INDEED, ONE of the most fraudulent acts in the history of free government was perpetrated when, after the war between the states had ended in 1865, a majority in Congress suddenly took away the seats of members of the House and Senate from several Southern states and declined to allow them to be seated until their respective legislatures — placed under military rule — ratified the Fourteenth Amendment.

THE SUPREME COURT now will have an opportunity to review Judge Hart's ruling and may possibly take over the phrase "political question." If the high court fails to decide the issue, this is one of the subjects that a national constitutional convention might tackle. A new amendment to the Constitution could make clear the rights of the states and the extent to which the courts' power to review may be applied even to "political questions."

Though historians have agreed that this was a flagrant case of blackmail, the Supreme Court has since then always refused to pass on any case regarding the unseating of members of Congress, and has argued that these are "political questions." Judge Hart, therefore, cites the court's refusal in the past to rule on the merits of cases involving the exclusion of elected members of Congress.

BUT DOES this mean that when a majority in the House or Senate cannot muster a two-thirds vote to ratify a constitutional amendment, it can

Fight Not In The Bag

Floyd Patterson, who was to have challenged heavyweight champ Cassius Clay in Las Vegas April 25, takes a look back over his shoulder as he leaves training gym at Madison Square Garden Tuesday. The Nevada State Athletic Commission, at the urging of Gov. Paul LaSalle, who said the fight would be a mismatch, refused a license for the title bout. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Midland High Rips Bovines By 9-7 Tally

MIDLAND — Midland High built up a 9-2 lead and then withstood numerous Big Spring counter-attacks to defeat the Steers, 9-7, in District 2-AAAA baseball play here Tuesday.

The defeat left the Longhorns in sole possession of the conference cellar with a 1-4 record. The four defeats have come in a row.

The Steers will try to get off dead center in a 2 p.m. contest Saturday at home with Abilene High, a club that has been very warm of late.

David Mitchell started on the mound for Big Spring but was derailed in the first before he could retire a batter. Johnny McCullough came on to toil until the fifth, when James Newman took over.

Newman faced only six batters in the two rounds he worked.

Midland banked six runs in the opening rounds and added its other three in the fourth.

Big Spring didn't get started until the fourth, when it picked up two runs, but added three in the fifth and its other two in the seventh round.

Big Spring banged off 11 hits, three of which came off the bat of right fielder R. J. Englert. Englert also scored three times.

Dean Gilstrap accounted for two of Big Spring's safeties and drove in four runs, all told. His fourth inning triple followed Englert's one-baser and the arrival of Bill Burchett at first base as a hit batsman.

Bobo Combs crashed out three safeties for Midland, all of them singles, while Larry Pipkin and Jerry Treadway each had two hits for the winners. One of Treadway's safeties was a fourth inning home run with Danny Smith aboard.

Over-all, the Longhorns are now 9-7.

Stylish A's Defeat Cleveland Indians

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The fashionable Kansas City A's have countered the miniskirt rebellion with a new style of their own, and it was enough to touch off another Charles O. Finley colorful controversy.

The American League doormats of the past have foreseen their former drab existence and Tuesday night stepped into first place wearing white shoes that left the Cleveland Indians kicking.

The A's opened their 1967 season by beating the Indians 4-1 on Fred Whitfield's error with Houston belted Atlanta 6-1 and St. Louis blanked San Francisco 6-0. Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 6-1 Monday and the teams were not scheduled Tuesday.

The A's unveiled their fashion show in the first inning when they took the field. Their wedding-dress white, Fort Knox gold and sea-foam green uniforms of last season were a notch brighter, but the main addition was the rare albino kangaroo white shoes with kelly-green laces.

The uniforms, of course, were the idea of Kansas City owner Finley, who in past years stirred the league with his pennant porch in right field, his mule mascot and his sheep grazing area beyond the outfield.

Joe Adcock, making his debut as Cleveland manager, did not take kindly to the white shoe idea, not that he isn't fashionable. Adcock claimed the white shoes worn by Kansas City pitcher Jim Nash distracted his hitters and protested the game after the first pitch.

"I want to get this settled right away," Adcock said.

However, American League President Joe Cronin and Cal Hubbard, supervisor of umpires, already had given the A's permission to start the season with their classy and colorful footwear.

"White shoes aren't going to bother a hitter," said A's Manager Alvin Dark. "A pitcher has both feet on the ground when he releases the ball. A hitter is going to be following the ball, not the shoes."

Whether or not the shoes helped, Nash stopped the Indians on five hits and three runs for seven innings before leaving for pinch hitter Ramon Webster with the bases loaded on two walks and a wild pitch third strike that put Joe Rudi on base.

in Kansas City, and joined Baltimore, California and New York in first place.

The Orioles, looking the same as they did as world champions last season, clubbed Minnesota 6-3 and the Angels dropped Detroit 4-2 to grab the share. The Yankees beat Washington 8-0 Monday.

The only other AL game, the Chicago White Sox at Boston, was postponed because of cold weather.

In the National League, Pittsburgh stopped the New York Mets 6-3, the Chicago Cubs overcame Philadelphia 4-2, the bases loaded in the seventh

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

HCJC's Robert Lindsey is probably better suited to run the 220 than he is the 440 but coach Red Lewis is so deep in sprinters and so shy of strength in the quarter he wants Lindsey to master the longer event.

Lindsey was leading the 440 at Snyder the other night but tied up when the field hit the stretch and fell behind.

Little Jimmy Jasper of the Hawks apparently is still ranked by the close defeat he suffered at the hands of ACC's Bill Tooke in the 100 in that recent five-way meet here.

Jasper not only ran Tooke into the ground in the 100 at Snyder but beat Tooke in the 220. In the 440-yard relay, he took the baton about ten yards behind the first place man on the anchor lap and beat him to the tape.

Incidentally, Lewis had Dee Fletcher run the two-mile at Snyder, reasoning it would be good therapy for the Dallas freshman. Dee ordinarily runs the short races, anywhere up to the 440. He's favoring a gimpy leg, however. At Snyder, Fletcher ran a 5 minute first mile and was caught in 16:36.8 in the two-mile event — not bad for a dash man.

Melton McMorries, the Martin county fight fancier, left Sunday with his ring tiger, Marciano Rivas, for Los Angeles where tomorrow night the Mexican featherweight crawls through the ropes with the well-known Jesus Pimentel.

Rivas should get his biggest payday in that one, since Pimentel is a great draw in Southern California.

Pimentel, who has scored 82 knockouts in his career, will come in at 120 while Rivas will weigh 115.

McMorries and Rivas flew out of El Paso Sunday for the fight site.

Big Spring may have made the best showing of all the district schools in the recent 2-AAAA track and field meet here, when you consider the fact that the team is built almost exclusively around sophomores.

The Steers finished fifth ahead of such worthies as Abilene Cooper (which won it all last year), Midland Lee and Midland High. Midland High, incidentally, has 23 sophomores on its team.

Kirby Horton, Joey Baker and Snake Tucker will represent Big Spring at Regional. The first named is a senior, the second a junior and the third a sophomore.

Back in school at New Mexico State University and out for football is Big Spring's Jerry Dunlap, the former GI who was working in Midland for a time.

Dunlap had second thoughts about finishing his work toward a college degree and called coach Warren Woodson to see if it was all right. Woodson greeted him with open arms. Dunlap is a linebacker.

Mac White, the SMU quarterback whose parents moved here after Mac had already enrolled in college, received his degree at mid-term and is now in the investment business in Dallas.

Harold King, the deposed Midland High football coach, decided to plunge into the business world rather than resume coaching at some other school.

He's going into the savings stamp business, and is introducing a new variety into the West Texas area.

Cards Eye Game With Cee City

The Sacred Heart Cardinals will journey to Colorado City Sunday in an effort to win their victory skunk.

The Cards split a double-header Sunday at Teen-Age Park here by grabbing the opener 6-5 before losing the nightcap, 6-4.

Oddly, Ronnie Steen got credit for the win and also absorbed the loss for the Cards. He came on in the fifth with the score tied 3-3 in relief of Manuel Olague, then helped his cause by not only snuffing out the Rebels but clubbing a home run. Steen then went the distance in the second game, only to drop it, 6-4.

Cards In Need For Uniforms

The Big Spring Cardinal baseball team is in need of a half dozen uniforms to suit out its entire squad.

Those who would like to dispose of old uniforms can call Benny Marquez, a team official, at 3-2883.

Champions Meet Lures Arnie, Nicklaus, Brewer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, who have dominated the last five Tournament of Champions, figure to continue the role when the $100,000 golfing event gets under way for its 72-hole run Thursday.

Palmer bagged the winning loot in 1965-66 and 1962, and Nicklaus was the big man in 1963-64.

The field of professionals numbers 25, each having qualified to compete here by winning one or more PGA-sanctioned tournaments in the past year.

Included is the newly crowned Masters champion, Gay Brewer, who tied for the lead with Palmer here a year ago and lost in a playoff.

Brewer had already qualified for the 1967 T. of C. however, prior to his Masters triumph last Sunday. The week before Brewer went on a birdie rampage and won the Pensacola, Fla., Open.

This year's cast is confronted with a different course for the first time since the tournament was inaugurated in 1953 at the Desert Inn Country Club.

With the Desert Inn under new ownership — wealthy Howard Hughes took over — the event was shifted to the Stardust Country Club.

The Stardust course measures 6,825 yards and par is 36-35-71, and is regarded as not quite as difficult as the Desert Inn's 7,200 yards and par 36-36-72.

Palmer, Nicklaus and Art Wall Jr., who won the tournament in 1954, are the only former victors back this year.

Rounding out the field are Bert Yancey, Roberto de Vicenzo, Harold Henning, Frank Beard, Bruce Devlin, Phil Rodgers, Bill Casper, Bobby Nichols, Al Geiberger, Dick Sikes, Mason Rudolph, Don January, Romero Blancas, Don Massengale, Ted Makalena, Jacky Cupti, Bob Gosalby, Tom Nieporte, Julius Boros, Doug Sanders and Dan Sikkes.

Are you willing to go as low as $1735 for a new VW?

We don't sell status. Just a car. One that gets about 27 mpg, averages 40,000 miles on a set of tires, and hardly uses oil between changes. Of course, the fact that it's practical is no secret. And everybody is going to know that you're saving money. But that's the price you pay for Volkswagen.

More Volunteers Needed In Local Cancer Crusade

With the organization of the American Cancer Society's 1967 educational and fund-raising campaign in its preliminary stages, the Howard County crusade chairman has issued an appeal for "additional urgently needed volunteers."

A county-wide door-to-door canvass will take place next Tuesday evening, April 18, and workers for this endeavor are needed. Those who will assist are requested to call either of the co-chairmen, Mrs. Ralph Caton, AM 7-2301, or Mrs. Bob Galbraith, AM 3-4899.

Mrs. Joe Moss, who is general chairman of the whole program, said that while the response from those willing to serve as volunteers in the fight against cancer has been gratifying, "many more workers are needed if an outstanding job is to be done."

Meanwhile, a business solicitation has been under way under the guidance of John Burgess. This has been largely a mail contact, and Burgess today appealed for prompt response. "We do not want to have to knock on doors and take up the time of busy men," said Burgess, "and yet we know they want to have a part in this Crusade. They can just use the return envelopes that have been sent, and an early report would be helpful."

The local chapter is seeking

JOHN BURGESS

$8,000 this year to help carry on the fight against cancer.

What it takes, emphasized Mrs. Moss, is volunteers.

She explained that the volunteer "is the life-blood of the Society's fight against cancer. It is the volunteer who helps save lives now and holds out the promise of helping save many more in the future."

Mrs. Moss quoted from one of the first calls for volunteers in the fight against cancer, made 30 years ago. At that time fewer than one out of five was being saved from cancer. Now it is one out of three.

The call of 30 years ago said: "When the dead and dying of cancer are regarded in a similar light to the slain and wounded on a field of battle, the same compulsion that leads to victory against an invading army will operate in the struggle to vanquish this disease."

A shortage of volunteers, she said, "could mean failure in the Society's struggle to save lives from cancer."

One of the main objectives of the volunteers, the chairman said, will be to alert every adult to what can be done now about cancer, especially in the six most common sites — the uterus, colon and rectum, breast, oral cavity, lungs and skin.

"These cancers," she said, "account for about 60 per cent of all cases of cancer diagnosed today and for more than 48 per cent of all deaths from cancer."

"Medical knowledge of detection and treatment, if properly applied, could save additional thousands of American lives from these six types of cancer. What is more, present knowledge translated into positive action could prevent the development of many cancers in most of these sites."

The chairman added that there is much that needs to be done now, more people must be persuaded to act for their own protection, because about 950,000 people in the United States will be under treatment for cancer by 1970, and, at present rates, about one out of three of them will die from the disease. This amounts to the population of one large city being wiped out by a single disease in one year.
