FIGHT FOR LIFE

Mom Hurls Speck Kiss

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Margaret Lindbergh stepped from the witness stand, raised her fingers to her lips, and threw a kiss to her son, the man on trial for the slaying of eight nurses.

Richard Speck's mother, brother, five sisters and a brother-in-law were called Wednesday to testify as the defense opened its fight to save the life of the 25-year-old drifter.

The prosecution, which has asked the seven men and five women jurors to find Speck guilty of the July 14 killings and set his penalty at death, rested its case Wednesday after eight days of testimony.

Bodies Of Nurses

The bodies of the nurses were strewn in four rooms of the South Side Chicago townhouse where they resided.

Mrs. Lindbergh of Dallas arrived with her children in a heavy rain. The women pulled black scarves around their faces to prevent photographers from seeing them.

Carolyn Wilson, the youngest member of the family, entered the courtroom sobbing and was asked only a few questions. As Mrs. Wilson left the room her eyes met the defendant's and she covered her face with both hands.

Plain Black Dress

Speck's mother was the second witness. She appeared in a plain black dress with her gray hair fixed in tight curls.

The other members of the family called were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thornton of Chicago; Howard Speck and Madeline Thornton of Monmouth, Ill.; Shirley Jensen of Alexis, Ill., and Erma Holman of Galesburg, Ill.

Most of the family remained composed throughout their testimony, but Mrs. Holman held back tears when she said, "I saw him (Speck) twice, once in April and again in Chicago—in July."

Mrs. Eugene Thornton was on the witness stand the longest of any family member. She and her husband gave the defendant a home for two months last year and aided him in obtaining a job as a merchant seaman.

'He Does Now'

Mrs. Thornton, a tall, slender brunette, said she gave her brother $25 July 11 and again July 13. She last saw him, before the nurses were slain, at 9 a.m. July 13.

Two days later, "six or eight police came to my home," she said.

"They asked if my brother had a crewcut," Mrs. Thornton testified. "I said, 'No, he doesn't like short hair.' A policeman said, 'He does now.'"

Mrs. Thornton was the only family member cross-examined by prosecutor William Martin who pursued the state's efforts to link Speck with two T-shirts found in the townhouse.

"What brand of T-shirts did your brother wear?" Martin asked. "I couldn't tell you," the witness said. "I don't even know my husband's underwear."

Koreans Clash

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — About 100 North and South Korean soldiers exchanged fire for two hours before dawn today in the biggest border clash since the 1953 Korean armistice. At least three North Koreans and one South Korean were killed.

It was the third clash in the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea in two weeks. At least 12 Koreans have been killed, 11 of them from the North.

The South Korean government charged the Communists with trying to cause unrest to affect the South Korean presidential election May 3.

Intruders Spotted

The United Nations command said the gunfight today started when a 12-man South Korean patrol spotted three North Korean intruders about 425 yards south of the armistice line dividing the demilitarized zone.

It said that when the patrol attacked the intruders, it was fired on by a reinforced North Korean platoon of 40 to 60 men.

Two South Korean officers and 34 enlisted men moved up to help the outnumbered patrol, the command said, and the South Koreans began firing artillery — the first reported use of artillery since the armistice.

Besides the one South Korean killed, three others were wounded, the U.N. command reported.

The South Korean army said the Communists left behind three bodies when they withdrew north of the demilitarized zone. The clash occurred about 70 miles northeast of Seoul near the "Iron Triangle" of Korean War days.

Texas House Kills School Election Bill

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas House members voted today in favor of making motorcyclists wear helmets and keeping convicts in prison longer before becoming eligible for parole.

They killed, 52-39, a bill requiring that school board vacancies be filled by election.

VOICE VOTE

A bill, recommended by Gov. John Connally, that would require all motorcycle drivers and passengers to wear approved safety helmets passed to the Senate on voice vote.

"Entirely too many young people are killed on motorcycles in this city. The evidence is inescapable that injuries to the head are the major causes of death," said Rep. Bob Armstrong of Austin, a co-sponsor.

GOOD TIME

Also passing to the Senate on voice vote was a bill that would require that a convict serve a third of his sentence, or 20 years, whichever is shorter, before becoming eligible for parole. The 1965 code of criminal procedure made convicts eligible for parole after a fourth of their sentences or 15 years. "Good time" for good behavior may reduce this considerably in terms of calendar years.

"I think the people of the state are demanding that convicts stay in the penitentiary longer," said Rep. Walter Knapp of Amarillo, the sponsor. There was no debate.

Corpus Christi Rep. Ronald Bridges' school board election bill applied to local school districts, junior college districts and regional college districts.

He said the present law allowing a school board to fill its own vacancies is undemocratic.

"You wouldn't want this body appointing your successor," he said.

But Rep. John Traeger of Seguin contended only a small minority of voters turn out for special elections, and this would be an undemocratic way of filling vacancies.

Water Rights Bill Signed

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally signed today the Water Rights Adjudication Bill, which will permit determination of water rights without lengthy and expensive court fights.

Every other Western state has a similar law, but the only such law Texas ever had, a 1917 statute, was declared unconstitutional in 1921.

A recent Lower Rio Grande Valley water suit cost all parties an estimated $10 million, of which the state paid $400,000, and the case is being appealed.

Today's bill was sponsored by Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas and Rep. Menton Murray of Harlingen.

It requires all riparian users to file a record of their claim with the Texas Water Rights Commission by Sept. 1, 1969. All disputes will be disposed of by the Texas Water Rights Commission after hearings, with appeals to the courts only for judicial review.

Cold Front Spawns Bad West Texas Weather

Winds Rake 100 Copters

By The Associated Press

A Pacific cold front brought turbulent weather to East Texas today, leaving in its wake the residue of a million dollar agricultural rain and a like amount of damage from a wild night and morning of tornadoes, hail and damaging wind.

The front spawned at least a dozen tornadoes in a swath across Texas and rains fell the length of the state. Winds estimated at 70 miles an hour drove into the Ft. Wolters Army Heliport near Mineral Wells early today, doing $500,000 worth of damage to 100 Army helicopters.

WIDE SWATH

Heavy damage was reported from Childress in West Texas to Tyler from two separate tornadoes and others were reported in the Panhandle, Central Texas, and the Tyler area.

Several deaths were blamed on rain-slicked highways.

Snow fell in the El Paso area as temperatures took a wintry bite.

A wide swath of East Texas was under a severe thunderstorm watch.

A tornado churned a path near Childress during the pre-dawn hours, demolishing a brick schoolhouse and plucking utility poles from their moorings.

NO INJURIES

The Childress twister cut a 200-yard path as it tore down power poles west of the city, then took a path to the northeast and skirted the western city limits.

An apparent tornado near Belton in Central Texas destroyed several buildings but there were no injuries in it or the other twisters kicked off to the massive cold front.

SLICK ROADS

Rain-slicked highways during the general state rain, however, took a heavy toll of life. James Lloyd Glenn and Daisy Pool Johnston of the Paris area were killed in an early-morning collision about 15½ miles north of Paris. At Decatur two cars collided in the rain, killing Rubye Nell Walton, 23, of Harrisonburg, La.

Forecasts called for a sharp cooling in the state, with snow to continue through the afternoon in the far western reaches of Texas.

TYLER TWISTER

The Tyler twister hit 10 miles southeast of the East Texas town as hail and high winds pelted the area.

The front brought the most (See WEATHER, Pg. 6-A, Col. 3)

Every Little Drop Big Help

Light showers, some reported as much as 30 inch, fell over Howard County during Wednesday night as the sole beneficial contribution of a rugged weather front which pushed through the area. Brilliant electric display, roaring winds, and heavy thunder held out promise of moisture which did not materialize.

Temperatures topped to a very chilly 44 degrees and the cold continued on into the day, aggravated by a dust storm of impressive proportions which rolled in at mid-morning.

The dust was heavy over the entire county and in the rural areas where barren fields are abundant, visibility was limited to a few hundred yards.

At Fairview, the dust was so bad that from the Fairview gin office, IS 29 was barely visible at 10:30.

Here in town rain ranged from sprinkles to as much as a quarter of an inch. Coahoma said that dust was "very bad" and only light showers had been reported.

The wind velocity, which reached 47 knots between 8:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., rose again steadily Thursday morning and at noon peaked at 50 knots (which would be well over 55 mph) at Webb AFB. The air warning was for continued blowing until 6 p.m.

The cool weather is to hold until Friday when a warming trend is supposed to begin. There was no promise of moisture in the official forecast this morning.

West Germany Slow To Meet Big Obligation

WASHINGTON (AP) — With time running out, West Germany still is well short of fulfilling a two-year agreement to buy $1.35 billion in American military goods and services to offset the cost of maintaining U.S. troops in that country.

Government sources said today West Germany is about $350 million short of meeting its obligation under the agreement, which expires June 30.

The Pentagon said, however, "The German government has indicated that it intends to fulfill its commitment."

FRICITION

The Defense Department refused to provide an official figure on the amount West Germany still must commit to meet its obligation.

"This information is classified at German request," a Pentagon spokesman said. Normally, military security is the major consideration in classifying information. Defense officials acknowledged there is no security question involved in withholding the West German purchase figures.

West German slowness in meeting the commitment has been a cause of past friction.

NO REASON

Sources said the actions already taken by the West Germans come to a bit more than $1 billion and include not only purchases of goods and services but also buying of U.S. Treasury securities and repayment of debts.

A new arrangement covering a period beyond June 30 is being negotiated. Bound up in these talks is the matter of the size of the U.S. garrison in West Germany.

There are reliable reports that U.S. troops there, now totaling some $25,000, may be reduced by about 30,000 men.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff believe there is no military reason for cutting the garrison in the absence of any Soviet agreement to reduce forces on the Communist side of the Iron Curtain.

Military authorities said the impetus for any reduction of troop strength in West Germany comes from the civilian side of the U.S. government.

Gunmen Stage Checks Caper

NEW YORK (AP) — Four gunmen stole $620,000 in American Express travelers checks en route to Germany today — the third loss of a valuable international shipment reported by police in New York this week.

The gunmen taped and handcuffed four guards on a United States Line pier on the Hudson River, and made off with two wooden boxes containing the $10 and $20 travelers checks.

American Express said serial numbers of the stolen checks, which were being sent to its Frankfurt office, will be sent to banks and law enforcement agencies throughout the world.

Travelers checks are signed by the buyer upon purchase, and again upon use. The thieves easily could make both signatures and cash the checks unless the serial numbers were noted by persons cashing them.

Earlier this week police had reported the disappearance of $420,000 in bank notes, en route from Laos to a French bank in New York, stolen from a strong room at Kennedy airport.

They also reported loss of a 40-pound gold bar, worth $40,000, en route from Canada to the Netherlands West Indies on a plane which left Kennedy airport.

The theft of the travelers checks occurred about 4 a.m. at Pier 62 on West 22nd Street.

American Express offered an unspecified reward for information leading to the conviction of the thieves, or recovery of the checks.

Police said the gunmen had herded the guards into a small office before ransacking a "securities room" where the travelers checks were kept.

Huddle At Summit

LBJ Challenges Latin Colleagues

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — President Johnson challenged his Latin colleagues at the summit today to make this "a decade of urgency" for the hemisphere.

In his first formal speech at the 19-nation meeting, Johnson called for 10 years of intensive efforts on a broad front to speed the social and economic development of the Americas.

"I speak to you as a ready partner in that effort," he said.

Actually, Johnson's formal remarks were less attention-getting and significant than those he delivered Wednesday at a private session with his summit colleagues.

DIRECT AID

His earlier, informal statement had the look of a dramatic bid to still the clamor for more direct aid to Latin American nations.

In his formal speech, the U.S. chief executive ticked off areas in which he said the United States was ready and eager to help — to support a proposed Latin-American common market, to help build big projects cutting across national boundaries (highways are an example), to explore tariff advantages for all developing countries, to help modernize agriculture, and to promote better health and education.

HELP PLEDGE

"I pledge to you today," he said, "that I will do all I can, in my time of leadership, to help you meet these challenges."

Johnson's speech and his promises seemed to inject new life into a meeting that had been marked by backstage bickering among foreign ministers in the presummit negotiations.

A high source said the presidents were in agreement that establishment of a common market should be completed by 1985 with automatic tariff cuts leading to it.

ACTION NOW

Another source said Chile, Colombia and Venezuela were in accord on formation of a subregional market within the Latin American free trade area.

The U.S. President called on the Latin Americans to act "boldly — wisely — and now," and added:

"If we do, we can create a new America where the best in man may flourish in freedom and dignity. If our rhetoric is not followed by action, we shall fail not only the Americans of this generation, but hundreds of millions of others."

The passage was indicative of what was on Johnson's mind: an apprehensive feeling that all the oratory and high-flown words at this summit might go for nothing if steam could not be generated behind the Latin American governments.

NEW SIGNS

Even with the new signs of life at this conference, there was no assurance that Johnson's promise would satisfy the Latin American governments.

Johnson apparently had gone just about as far as he could within the confines of the possible, what with the attitude of the U.S. Senate at this moment and the U.S. unfavorable balance of trade and the outflow on gold.

SPRING BRINGS WANDERLUST

Doug Rides To Adventure, But Mama Keeps Finding Him

By SAM BLACKBURN

Wednesday was a big day for Doug.

He had the wanderlust.

Doug is a tricycle riding expert, perhaps two-years-old. No one happened to find out his last name. He is said to be a resident of the Monticello Addition.

GREAT DAY

For Doug, Wednesday was a great day — a good day for running off from home.

Two times he tried it.

The first time was not so exciting. He got as far as Virginia Avenue on his trusty trike before Mama caught up with him and hauled him back home.

At noon, he was off again — this time several blocks from his home. He had even crossed busy Birdwell Lane and made his way to Park Street. Mrs. Charles Bailey, who lives at 1317 Park, reported to the city police department that a small boy, on a tricycle, was in front of her house.

She had tried to talk to him. All he could tell her was that his name was "Doug." He wouldn't even give his serial number and rank.

NOT CLAIMED

She had made an inquiry all over her immediate neighborhood, she told the police, but the boy was not claimed by any of her neighbors.

Patrolman Jim Eggleston picked up the boy — and his tricycle (which had a car plate on it bearing the name "Doug") — and brought him to the police station.

He was no more communicative at the station than he had been at the home of Mrs. Bailey. His name was Doug and that was all he had to say.

He didn't ask for a lawyer.

The police provided him with peanut butter sandwiches on which he munched happily. He enjoyed the long corridor between the dispatcher's office and that of Police Chief Jay Banks. It made a fine runway for his trike and he trundled happily up and down eating his peanut butter sandwiches.

PARENTS CAME

Police were trying to locate his parents. While this was under way, the parents showed up, claimed their wandering son and departed. No one got their names or their address but it was learned the father is at Webb AFB.

Doug waved a happy farewell to his police friends and gave them a cracker-crumby smile as he headed for home and possible disciplinary action.

TEXANS AT WAR

Hopes To Start Viet Classes In Medicine

By The Associated Press
Capt. Sam Axelrad, a Texan at war who commands the 15th Medical Bn., 1st Cavalry Div., in Vietnam says he hopes to start classes in medicine for the Vietnamese people.

"I really feel for these people. Maybe we'll find a few who have the intelligence to take over after we leave the area," Axelrad told his mother, in Houston, with tape recordings sent home.

LET IT BE
When he was a senior at Seawance Military Academy in Tennessee in 1956, Axelrad wrote in his high school yearbook: "I there must be trouble, let it be in my day, that my children may have peace."

Axelrad went on from Seawance to become a doctor and his mother remembers the yearbook inscription when the Vietnam War is brought closer to her through letters, newspapers, photographs and tapes sent from the battlefield by her son.

One of the clippings tells how a wounded Viet Cong soldier turned against his old comrades after his life was saved and he was nursed back to health by Axelrad.

Another issue of the Army newspaper, also about Axelrad's work in a dispensary near Phu Cat, tells how he brought three small Vietnamese girls, victims of war and disease, back to health.

GUN SOUNDS

His mother says she can hear the sounds of gunfire, helicopters and jets in the background of the tapes.

Axelrad's father, the late J. H. Axelrad, was a Houston lawyer. His older brother, Moose, is a Houston doctor. His younger brother, David, is a freshman medical student at Galveston. A sister, Sandra, attends Texas Christian University.

Axelrad attended the University of Texas and got a medical degree at Galveston. He interned at D. C. General Hospital and took his residency at Georgetown Hospital, both in Washington. He was drafted into the Army last August.

April Showers Pumping Life Into Oklaland

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — April showers may bring May flowers, but the downpours of the past two days have pumped life-giving moisture into Oklaland.

Experts say the rain may have come too late to save the state's wheat crop from being the worst in 10 years, but the rains are filling dry stock ponds and stimulating seedbed preparations and growth prospects for summer crops.

"This is really going to be a godsend for Oklahoma's livestock industry, but we're not in a position to appraise survival or revival prospects for our small grain crops planted last fall," said D. D. Pittman, Department of Agriculture statistician in Oklahoma City.

Pittman and others said even if moisture continues through the growing season there's little hope for much change in the state's poor wheat prospects.

"The rains came just 30 days too late," said Chester Robins, Union Equity grain merchandiser in Enid, one of the largest grain buyers operating in Oklahoma.

"I can't say if this year will be as bad as it was in 1957, but it's certainly the worst wheat crop year since then."

Gene Wheeler, president of the Wheeler Brothers Grain Co. at Watonga, was a little more optimistic.

"The rains will prevent a catastrophe," Wheeler said. "That's what we were going to have if they didn't come when they did."

Rainfall amounts measured from over eight inches at Ardmore in Southern Oklahoma to almost two inches in the bone-dry northwest.

Before the rains, the Agriculture Department estimated Oklahoma's wheat crop this year would be only 65.3 million bushels, barring further setbacks. In December the government had predicted the 1967 state wheat crop at 104.5 million bushels.

Pearl's Prize Pal Permits Pat

DALLAS (AP) — Mrs. Pearl Birch, facing ouster from a trailer court, appeared before Justice of the Peace Tom Naylor Wednesday with her prize witness, King, but the case never got as far as a judicial hearing.

King, a German shepherd, started all the fuss, apparently merely by his presence at the trailer court.

But at the session King sought to prove his good behavior by jumping up and placing his paws on Mrs. Birch's shoulders, and allowing Justice Naylor to pat him.

Meanwhile, lawyers for both sides huddled and reached agreement that Mrs. Birch should remain for two more months until her brother, James Choate, finishes a technical course.

Earlier, Naylor said Dr. A. H. Palms complained in eviction papers that the pair was not wanted because they kept a large dog and "for other reasons."

Mrs. Birch became the center of a controversy recently when she took A. Otis Birch to Altus, Okla., and married the 95-year-old California - Texas millionaire. She had been nurse for Birch and his first wife, who died about a month earlier.

Five Baptist - affiliated organizations in California which had received large donations are contesting the will, in which he left all his possessions to Mrs. Pearl Birch. He died March 15.

Mrs. Birch, 57, once served a lengthy prison term for slaying a carpenter and was released in 1963.

Two Hours To Live Forecast Fizzles

BROADSTAIRS, England (AP) — Sir Milcolm McAlpine, who was told by a doctor in 1898 after he suffered injuries in a rock-blasting accident that he had only two hours to live, died Wednesday at the age of 89. McAlpine was a racehorse owner and chairman of one of Britain's biggest civil engineering firms.

Demonstration Plot

MUENSTER, Tex. (AP) — Texas Research Foundation at Renner will establish a "Renner Pasture System" on the Alphonse Felderhoff farm, three miles northwest of Muenster.

The 6-year demonstration will involve 188 acres and will include the establishment of the three warm-season perennial grasses in the Renner pasture system—Coastal Bermuda, Ermelo Lovegrass and DeSoto.

Demonstrations of this type are put in communities where the people join with the research foundation in accepting financial responsibility, according to S. H. Whitehurst, administrator.

Several Damage Suits Filed Here Wednesday

A rash of damage suits landed in the hopper of 118th District Court Wednesday.

One accident was responsible for two of the suits.

In the petitions the plaintiff of the first case filed is named as a defendant in the second suit.

Ernest Barbee brought one of these cases against Alert Ambulances Inc. He alleges that on Jan. 22, the defendant's ambulance, going westward, crashed into the car driven by Mrs. Jo Barbee, wife of the plaintiff. The accident occurred at Birdwell Lane and FM 700.

He sues for $877—the cost, he says, of repairing his car and the loss he sustained for the weeks he was without the car while it was being repaired.

Another suit stemming from the same accident is brought by Bill R. Allen for his son, Randy Allen, 18. Randy was a passenger in the ambulance, his father recites. He sues Alert Ambulance and Mrs. Barbee for injuries he alleges his son received. He asks $50,000.

A third damage suit growing out of this same mishap is slated for filing soon, it was said.

Curtis W. Compton is plaintiff in a suit for damages against Perry L. Peterson. This is a case where the plaintiff acts for when the son was struck as he rode a motorcycle on a city street. He asks $100,000. The accident occurred Sept. 27.

Jeff Grant filed a suit against Kathy Linda Butts for $38,000 damages. He alleges he is entitled to the money for injuries caused by a collision on US 87 Aug. 30, 1966.

Navy Bombardment Of Viet Restricted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy bombardment of North Vietnam's coast is restricted by orders from Washington to the lower half of the country, Pentagon sources said today.

U.S. ships engaged in shore bombardment authorized Feb. 27 are prohibited from shelling Communist targets north of the 20th Parallel, sources said.

This keeps naval fire at least 60 miles from North Vietnam's key port of Haiphong, major point of entry for Soviet and Communist Chinese shipments of war goods.

Other administration restrictions prevent Air Force and Navy planes from bombing MIG fields, zones circling Hanoi and Haiphong, and a buffer area along the North Vietnam-China border.

Steel Company Taps Out Hike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The steel industry used to pound through price boosts with a sledge hammer. Now it does it with light taps.

U.S. Steel Corp. did some tapping Wednesday, marking up prices on odd-sized structural steel sections and sheet piling.

The increase covers only a small part of the company's output; and will bring in an estimated $4.5 million a year.

The government has not commented on the action.

U.S. Steel is the nation's biggest steelmaker. Its influence on prices is considerable.

If past patterns prevail, other producers will raise their prices if U.S. Steel can make the hike stick in the marketplace.

So far, none has indicated it would.

It was the second steel price hike this year. Increases were posted on some tubular products in January.

Wednesday's boost was mild compared to the across-the-board increases which was the general practice for years.

This was last tried in 1962, and for the first time it didn't work.

The late President John F. Kennedy applied pressure to stop it, calling the increase inflationary, and some companies stood pat on old prices. Between the two, the boost was killed.

Since then, price increases have been selective affairs, touching only one or a small number of products at a time.

RED FEAR

Although the Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended it months ago, the administration has resisted pressure to knock out or blockade Haiphong, fearing such a move might bring greater participation in the war by the Soviet Union or Red China.

Unable to seal off Haiphong, the chiefs urged last November greater use of Navy power to help curb the sea and coastal flow of supplies to Communist troops in South Vietnam.

The Navy launched patrols last fall to cut off supply-laden barges and junks.

In February the Navy was

Stereo Tapes Listed Stolen

One theft and one found bicycle were reported to police Wednesday. Jimmy Skelton, 1602 Stadium, reported that 14 stereo tapes valued at $84 had been taken from his car while it was parked at the Western Club on US 80 west.

Barry Burger, 1304 Main, found a bicycle in his yard and brought it to the police station.

Weather Maps Guide Pilots

SAIGON (AP) — American bombers are being guided to targets in North Vietnam by daily photographs received from U.S. weather satellites, the Air Force announced today.

It said the sweeping photos of all Southeast Asia have become one of the most valuable guides to U.S. bombing. And the North Vietnamese could be receiving them, too, and using them for air defense planning.

The weather photos from the Essa and Nimbus satellites — both orbiting more than 600 miles up — are monitored by Air Force weather stations in Saigon and Udorn, Thailand.

So vital are the pictures that wet prints are frequently rushed to the U.S. air commander in Vietnam, Lt. Gen. William W. Momyer, while strikes are already headed north.

By spotting breaks in the clouds, Momyer can divert planes to areas that are unexpectedly clear. With satellite photos sometimes taken just minutes before, he has a grasp of the weather situation impossible to obtain by conventional forecasting.

The wave lengths on which the satellites transmit the photos are public knowledge, and they are being received and studied by various nations throughout the world.

Tourney Starts In Coahoma

COAHOMA (SC) — The volleyball tournament sponsored by the Young Homemakers and the Young Farmers begins at 5 p.m. today at the Coahoma High School gymnasium.

Other rounds will be at 4:30 p.m. Friday and 4 p.m. Saturday.

The Young Homemakers will operate the concessions, selling hot dogs, corn dogs, chili and barbecue burgers, as well as coffee, soft drinks, cakes and pies. There is no admission charge to the tournament, and the club urged patrons to come and have supper. Proceeds will be used to purchase playground equipment for the Coahoma City Park.

Viet War Takes 3 More Texans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon Wednesday identified three Texans who died in the Vietnam war.

Killed in action were Army Spec. 5 James H. Edwards, husband of Mrs. Janet Edwards, 705 Southwest 22nd St., Mineral Wells and Pfc. Jody M. Langley, son of Mrs. Francis L. Brown, 722 Kelso Drive, Dallas.

Air Force Staff Master Sgt. Harry W. Martin, husband of Mrs. Mamie L. Martin, 1315 6th St., Shallow Water, died of non-hostile cause.

Trio Rescued, Three Dead?

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — "The other three are dead," Charles Grosso told rescuers who saved him and two companions Wednesday after they trudged through deep snow for three days following the crash of their plane high in the Rockies.

Grosso, 35, and Jack De Giam como, 27, were treated and released from Poudre Valley Hospital Wednesday night but Albert Romano, 49, remained hospitalized for treatment of head and back injuries.

The rescued trio and their three friends, all residents of Louisville, Colo., were flying back Sunday from a Wyoming fishing trip when their single-engine Piper Cherokee slammed into a mountainside.

Of Jack Henander, 28, the pilot, William P. Elrod, 54, and Charles De Novellis, 53, Grosso said, "as far as we could tell they were dead." He said at the Fort Collins airport where he was flown by helicopter, "We checked for pulse and heart."

An aerial search for the wreckage, under way for three days, resumed today.

Sheriff Ray Scheerer said, after interviewing the survivors, he believes the plane crashed into the side of Comanche Peak, a 12,716-foot mountain along the northern boundary of Rocky Mountain National Park. It is about 25 airline miles west of Fort Collins.

Computer System Keeps Tabs On Bank's Books

Until they receive statements, customers of State National Bank likely will not be aware that their transactions have been put through a computer. Even then the only apparent difference will be in the new design and texture of the monthly statement.

But this makes a big difference to the bank in its ability to service accounts. It's not far-out banking either — just staying abreast of the times and getting on the right track to stay abreast, said John Currie, vice president of State National.

What is involved on the surface is the bank sending all transactions of the day to the computer center in Lubbock, and then having the materials, together with a battery of reports back in the bank by opening time the next morning.

This is possible through the marvels of electronic data processing. The materials sent from State National — as well as a number of other area banks and businesses — are fed into the National Cash Register 315 Electronic Data Processing system, which represents an outlay of approximately a million dollars. At the rate of about 2,500 per hour, the transactions of the day are fed into the system, balanced, computed, analyzed, and printed.

One product of the processing center is a daily journal showing all accounts active on a given day, the credits and debits, and balances. Should there have been an inadvertent overdraft, this will show, together with the balance were it honored. A second report is a statement of all accounts at the end of any day. Thus, tellers or others at the bank will be able, by thumbing to an account number, to tell a customer quickly what the balance is or if there has been any activity in the account recently.

The bank here starts the ball rolling on EDP by running all checks and deposits through the electronic proof machine. If checks (or deposit slips) do not have the account number in coded electronic ink, this is added, and so is the amount of the check. (If there should be a typing error, another device erases the magnetic ink so that correct information may be re-pressed in the same space.)

At the center in Lubbock, the checks (and deposits) are fed into the NCR magnetic ink character recorder — a roller which reads them at the rate of 1,250 per minute, records the information on magnetic tape and prints an audit list. If anything is out of balance, it is

NBC Special Little Sticky

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Thomas turned up Wednesday night in an NBC variety special that is a sort of television cliché — a lot of rich performers mourning sadly the good old days when they were poor and hungry.

One probably should not knock the device since it provides a handy jumping off place for all sorts of jolly production.

The theme Wednesday night was the block party. First it was what looked like the square in an Italian town, then a Spanish town, a German town and finally New York town. This opened the way to some dances in colorful costumes, some singing by Vic Damone — Italian — Ricardo Montalban — Mexican — a polka by Lawrence Welk — the Dakotas — and a tap dance by Sammy Davis — Harlem. And it led to a stirring windup with a song fest of "America the Beautiful."

Thomas, an excellent entertainer when he is singing and telling funny stories, generally preaches over a handsome, bouncy variety show, but has a tendency to get sticky when he starts to sermonize.

NBC has signed country singer Jimmy Dean to carry on as host of the "Tonight Show" through April 21, and then will put Bob Newhart into the late evening driver's seat for a week.

Newhart, recently signed to an NBC contract, is considered to be the number one candidate to replace Carson on a permanent basis if Johnny and the network fail to resolve their contractual differences.

The current fuss between Carson and NBC is undoubtedly a cause for some elation at ABC since "The Joey Bishop Show" will have its premiere as "Tonight Show" competition on Monday night. Opening show guests will be Debbie Reynolds, Danny Thomas and — a late entry — Gov. Ronald Reagan.

ABC will broadcast the "Emmy" awards show on June 4 with Bishop playing host on the Hollywood end of the TV industry's big annual event. Johnny Carson was asked to hold down the New York end of the ceremonies, but refused. Now the honor goes to Hugh Downs.

Vet Newsman Dies

MONMOUTH BEACH, N.J. (AP) — Stanley W. Prenosil, 73, who accompanied the first American troops to France in World War I as an Associated Press newsman, died Wednesday. After his service as a war correspondent, Prenosil covered the top stories for the AP and had served as night city editor and as a feature writer in the New York bureau. Prenosil, who left the news service during the 1930s to go into the public relations field, was born in Springfield, Mass.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 4 ♥ Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠
When the above hand was dealt in a recent tournament, nearly every North-South pair reached a contract of four hearts. While every declarer made his contract, only one South succeeded in scoring an extra trick. By so doing, he obtained a top score on the deal.

West opened the five of spades and East put up the ace. Seeing no attractive shift, he continued with the deuce, his fourth best, and West covered declarer's ten with the jack, forcing the dummy to ruff. A heart was led and East's king fell to the ace. South ruffed out the queen of spades as East followed suit with the eight.

The contract was now assured, and South looked around for a way to develop an extra trick, which in tournament bridge, may spell the difference between an excellent or merely an average result on the deal.

The appearance of the trump king on the first heart lead and the fall of the spots in spades, suggested that East had started with one heart and four spades. It appeared, therefore, that he had considerable length in both diamonds and clubs, and since the burden of protecting both suits might fall on his shoulders, South decided to apply pressure in that direction.

Since he had lost only one trick so far, he could afford to concede one more, and he did so at once by leading a small club from the North hand. His object was to force East to make an extra discard later in the play, while the vice was being steadily tightened.

East put up the jack of clubs to hold the trick, and returned a diamond which was taken in dummy with the king. South now proceeded to draw West's trumps, and as he did so, East found himself caught in a pincer movement. His first discard was the nine of spades and his second was the six of diamonds; however, on the last round of hearts, he was at the end of his rope. If he gave up a club, it would establish North's entire suit, so he discarded another diamond. The ace of diamonds now cleared that suit, dropping both the queen and jack, and South's seven of diamonds was established for his 11th trick.

Birch Not Millionaire?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A. Otis Birch often was called a millionaire, but a lawyer says the late oilman's estate may total only $250,000.

Attorney David Agnew commented as the will of Birch's first wife, Estelle, was accepted for probate Wednesday. "We've not had an opportunity to delve deeply into it," he said, "but from my conversations with people familiar with the estate and with the couple, it appears that $250,000 is about it."

Outside the courtroom, Agnew said the Birches had given away millions of dollars to charitable, religious and educational institutions when they lived in South Pasadena, Calif.

The first Mrs. Birch died in Texas last October. Birch, who subsequently had married the couple's nurse, the former Pearl Choate, died March 15 in Dallas at the age of 96.

The day of his death, Mrs. Pearl Choate Birch filed a handwritten will in which Birch left all of his holdings to her. Agnew is contesting that will. He also is representing the First Western Bank, executor of the estate of Estelle Birch.

The attorney said a trial on the contested Otis Birch will is scheduled for July 11 in Dallas.

An earlier will, executed in 1965, leaves Birch's estate to 16 institutions. Agnew contends that is the valid testament and follows Birch's established custom of endowing church and educational organizations.

The will of Estelle Birch left her estate to Birch, providing he survived its distribution. Otherwise, it was to be shared by 16 institutions.

The First Western Bank contends that because distribution had not begun when Birch died, the institutions should receive the money. Agnew said a probate filing of Estelle Birch's will has been taken at a court in Breckenridge, Tex.

He added that dismissal of the petition for probate in Breckenridge will be asked.

Republicans Trying To Kill Rent Supplement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republicans trying to kill the administration's controversial rent supplement program are facing an unfamiliar foe—leaders of the home building and financing industry.

Normally allied with GOP causes, the bankers, builders and real estate boards have become friends of the program that House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford has called "a radical, revolutionary gimmick."

With a hostile House Appropriations Committee about to consider a request for $40 million to keep it moving, the program needs all the friends it can get.

TINY MARGIN

Last year a $20-million appropriation was approved by four votes in the House and one in the Senate. Since then Republicans have gained substantially, particularly in the House. Many GOP members predict they will bring the program to a halt.

If they succeed, they will be chopping off a program that is just beginning to roll.

The idea of the program is to make clean, decent housing available for low-income families without the institutional aspect of stigma of public housing by having the government help pay the rent. It also permits tenants to stay on as their income rises, even if they no longer need any federal supplement.

EVICITION LOOMS

Public housing tenants face eviction if their income goes above specified levels — often leading to falsification of income reporting, a stifling of initiative to improve one's income, and a housing hardship when the still relatively poor family must move.

Another major aim of the program — and the reason the home building industry is behind it — is to bring private enterprise into the monumental task of providing low-cost housing in urban areas.

All housing in the rent supplement program is privately built and is owned and managed by either nonprofit, limited-dividend, or cooperative organizations, with the government furnishing mortgage insurance at market interest rates.

MISUNDERSTOOD

Two years after Congress voted to let the federal government pay part of the rent for low-income families, only a handful are actually living in housing

Hart-Hanks Buys Corsicana Papers

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP)—The Hart-Hanks newspapers have purchased the Sun-Light Publishing Co., publisher of the Corsicana Daily Sun and the semi-weekly Morning Light, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The sale is effective May 1. Purchase price was not revealed.

Fred DuBose, Sun-Light publisher, made the announcement. DuBose, editor Paul Moore and Boyce Martin Jr. are the owners.

The Light was established in 1885 and the Sun in 1895.

The new owners said they plan to erect a modern newspaper plant on a new location in the near future.

The Hart-Hanks group includes newspapers at Abilene, Big Spring, Corpus Christi, Denison, Greenville, Marshall, Paris, San Angelo and San Antonio.

made available by the program. But far from being discouraged, officials at the Department of Housing and Urban Development hail it as the most successful multifamily program at this stage that the government has ever had.

"It's also the most misunderstood," says a HUD official. "People thought we were just going to start handing out rent checks. But this is a construction program, and it takes about two and a half years to get a project all the way through."

AGED AID

To speed things the department has approved several structure rehabilitation projects and is paying supplements for some elderly couples living in existing homes for the elderly. Only one project is actually under construction at this point — a 104-unit apartment in Pasco, Wash.

Applications now are coming in at a rate that will require the full $400 million appropriation requested for fiscal 1968, HUD spokesmen say.

BAD ESTIMATE

At the moment, however, the government is paying rent supplements on only 1,500 units, all of them in housing for the elderly except for a rehabilitation project in Cleveland.

By the end of summer, HUD hopes to see occupied 689 rehabilitated living units in Boston and 350 in New York City.

When the administration pushed the legislation through Congress in 1965 it estimated rent supplements would average about $40 a month. They are running closer to $75 a month, due mainly, HUD says, to the higher interest rates now prevailing.

Under the program, tenants who qualify pay 25 per cent of their income toward rent and the government makes up the difference between that and a previously agreed-upon fair market rent.

RENT RULER

To be eligible for the supplements, tenants must have an income within the range of public housing requirements in their area — generally about $5,700 a year. They must also be currently living in substandard housing, or be elderly, handicapped or displaced by government action.

There are also limitations on the assets tenants may have — $5,000 in the case of the elderly and $2,000 for all others.

Sponsorship of the projects so far approved is about evenly divided between nonprofit organizations and limited dividend corporations. The rent supplement payment goes to the owner or sponsor of the project.

Lose, Baby, Lose

NEW YORK (AP) — There was one write-in voter who disagreed Tuesday with Adam Clayton Powell's sweeping re-election to the House of Representatives. He wrote in: "Hope you lose, baby."

Powell's slogan since he was excluded from the House has been "Keep the faith, Baby."

Fumbling Yanks Lose To Young Coleman

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Young Joe Coleman, a minor league flop with a major league future, figured Senatorial backing would keep him in Washington this year.

The 6-foot-2, 20-year-old right-hander has received all the support he's needed — from the fumbling New York Yankees. The Senators poured across nine unearned runs — the last four on Ken McMullen's grand slam homer — in the second inning Wednesday night and whipped New York 10-4 as Coleman breezed by his fourth victory in as many big league appearances.

Chapman's was shut out until the final inning by Jim Ward. With one out deep in the seventh, Tito Arcencibia collected Chapman's first hit and D. A. Miller followed with a triple, then scored himself on an error.

Aggies Sign Lee Leonard Of Jayhawks

UNIVERSITY PARK, N. M. — Lee Leonard, 6-4 Howard County (Tex.) Junior College stand-out, has signed a letter of intent to attend New Mexico State University next season, Aggie coach Lou Henson announced today.

The All-Conference and All-Regional forward from Eunice, N. M., averaged 17 points a game as captain of the Howard County team this winter. He connected on 54 per cent of his shots from the floor and 85 per cent from the line.

"We're very pleased that Lee has selected NMSU to further his education and continue his basketball career," Henson said.

"Lee got outstanding coaching from Joe Langston at Eunice High and Buddy Travis at HCJC, so we feel that Lee is fundamentally sound and a top-notch college prospect," the NMSU mentor continued.

As a high-schooler at Eunice, Lee was one of the best cagers in the state. In addition he led his team to the high school state baseball championship. He compiled a 10-2 win-loss mark and had a 1.03 Earned Run Average.

Lee was also offered a full scholarship from Texas Western College at El Paso but passed it up in favor of the New Mexico State offer.

Gail Winner In Fem Meet

COLORADO CITY — Gail Forsan finished one-two in the District 24 girls' track and field meet here Tuesday, scoring 164 and 86 points respectively.

Hermleigh was third, with 85; followed by Ira, 74; Fluvanna, 55; and Sands, 32.

Forsan's only first place was won by Sharon Shattel, who tossed the shot put 30 feet 2 inches.

Other Forsan qualifiers for Regional included Ann Harrell, third in the 440; Wanda Albertson, second in the 220; Mollie Condron, second in the 80-meter hurdles; and Mary Lou King.

King, Harrell, Shattel and Albertson ran on the Buffalo Queens' 440-yard relay team, which was second.

Members of the third place Forsan team in the 880 relay were King, Condron, Shattel and Albertson. King, Shattel, Condron and Harrell also ran on the mile relay team, which wound up second.

The Regional meet takes place April 18 in Colorado City. 400 relay — 1. Borden County, 54:5; 2. Hermleigh, 4. Sands, 40:0; 3. Fluvanna, 40:0; 4. Jones, 40:0; 5. Clinch, 40:0; 6. Hermitage, 40:0.

Palmer Is Seeking 3rd Vegas Crown

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The name of Champions, Las Vegas' springtime contribution to golf, got under way today.

Arnold Palmer, the defending champion who would like to make it three in a row, two-time winner Jack Nicklaus, Bill Casper and Gay Brewer headed a cast of 26 professionals who qualified for the tournament by having won a PGA-sanctioned event in the past year.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Coach Spike Dykes of Big Spring High School is going to give his junior high coaches through opportunity to prove themselves in spring workouts before he decides on any possible changes on those grade levels.

The junior high mentors will work closely with the varsity staff at that time to get a general idea of the over-all plan Dykes is implementing here.

Incidentally, Dykes wants to stage an invitational track and field meet here next spring. He points to the community's good track facilities and the central location of the city in West Texas. Finding a date which doesn't conflict with another meet is another matter.

A fellow I know insists he knew a baseball umpire who quit to become a peace officer. He says the first arrest the ex-arbiter made was a statue on the courthouse lawn, for trespassing on the grass.

Willie Brooks, who guided Midland High School to an 8-2 football record in 1954, is the new head coach at Bowie High School.

Tom King, the former Big Spring assistant, says he was offered that job first but had to turn it down because of family problems at Kilgore.

Brooks formerly was an assistant to Tugboat Jones at Highland Park High School. Jones, of course, is now a member of the District 2-AAAA athletic family—he's the new athletic director at Midland.

Sale of season football tickets for NFL home games of the Atlanta Falcons is already approaching the 47,000 mark—and some observers wondered aloud if college and pro ball could co-exist there.

L. E. McColloch, the Odessa College basketball mentor who believes in recruiting strongly outside the state, has signed on two California prospects.

They are Steve Voss of Sonora, a 6-5 200-pounder; and Gary Harris of Atwater, who stands only 6-1 but who is supposed to be a Dead-Eye Dick with the basketball.

McColloch obviously covets the Western Conference crown that eluded the Wranglers by a single game last season. Odessa has never won the championship.

They're feeding Scrapiron Johnson, the heavyweight boxer formerly managed by Martin County's Melton McMorris, to the wolves.

He's now been matched with Joe Frazier, the Philadelphiaian who is being built up for a fight with Cassius Clay.

Johnson's proposed bout with Floyd Patterson in Sweden, for some reason, was called off.

Jim Gentile, the former Houston first baseman, says that baseball has cost him everything. (His wife divorced him and was awarded both the family home and children).

Jim's personality problems may have been contributing factors. He's not the most approachable man in the world. He's been trying out with Philadelphia but chances are the Phillies won't avail themselves of his services.

Golfdom's Rabbits Play In Wilmington Tourney

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The so-called rabbits of professional golf, the low men on the game's financial totem pole, make up a major portion of the field in the $35,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament which began today at the Cape Fear Country Club.

Fittingly, the overlord of the tournament is the president of the sponsoring Wilmington Athletic Association — J.B. (Bunny) Hines.

But for at least one self-styled rabbit the four-day tournament offered a chance to graduate to the tiger class.

He's Dave Stockton, 25-year-old Californian who created quite a flurry two weeks ago in the Greensboro Open.

Dave was tied for the 54-hole lead before slipping to a fourth-place finish. But his $6,250 check was his biggest yet and his game gave evidence that he may not be in the bunny brigade much longer.

He didn't rate a Masters invitation last week, but he looms as one of the top contenders in the field of 144 competing over the par 72 course measuring about 6,700 yards.

Angelo's JV Tips Dogies

Hits came few and far between in a Big Spring-San Angelo junior varsity baseball game here Tuesday afternoon, won by San Angelo, 2-1.

San Angelo managed two hits, using one to get the winning run in the final inning. Big Spring failed to collect a hit in the seven inning struggle but Jimmy Wilson managed to count for the locals in the fourth after reaching base on an error and stealing second.

Newly crowned Masters champion Brewer, who almost made it but lost to Palmer in a playoff here a year ago, and George Archer are the last pair to tee off.

The setting is the rolling, 6,625-yard, par-36-371 Stardust Golf Course, which is a new experience for the visiting professionals. In previous years, the Desert Inn Country Club was the scene.

As usual, the weather may be a factor in the pros' drive for the $20,000 top money, and windy weather was forecast for the afternoon.

Last spring, despite winds that blew as much as 55 miles per hour, Palmer fashioned a tremendous 69—three under par for the course—to defeat Brewer and his 73 in the playoffs.

Palmer, Nicklaus, Casper and Brewer were listed equally as 5-1 favorites to win this edition in a community where the natives will bet on almost anything.

Julius Boros and Doug Sanders were next in the fancy of the wager-minded at 6-1.

In the past five years, Palmer has won this event three times and Nicklaus twice, but whether the shorter Stardust course will hamper these two long hitters remain to be seen. Fellows with excellent iron shots and short games, such as Boros, Sanders or Art Wall Jr., who captured this tournament in 1954, might prevail.

Tournament Director Bo Winger, after watching the final practice rounds Wednesday, observed, "I feel certain that the boys will have a good contest going here. The course is 6,625 yards, but will have rolling features to it, which will make it play longer than the listed yardage. Besides, there are 25 sand traps and six water hazards, which should make the boys a little careful out there."

$1735

What's the catch? There isn't any. That's the price of our new 1967 Volkswagen Deluxe Sedan. It includes the built-in heater-defroster, windshield washer, 2-speed windshield wipers, driver's seat and two back-up lights. There's one option that makes a lot of sense, matching leatherette upholstery for $30 extra. Of course, you'll have to buy license plates and pay local tax. And that's it. (Unless, of course, you count the cost of gas and oil it takes you to get here in your present car.)

Dear Abby Philandering Pal No Friend

DEAR ABBY: This problem isn't exactly mine. It's my husband's. He is a doctor. One of his colleagues has taken to playing around quite a lot, and his wife has started to check up on him.

She calls my husband and asks if her husband was "assisting" him — or taking his calls last night. So far my husband has covered for him, but he just isn't used to lying, and so he gets nervous, flustered and upset.

When he's upset, I get upset, so please tell me if I should call up this woman and tell her to quit calling and questioning my husband?

UPSET NOW
DEAR UPSET: Don't call the wife. But tell your husband to advise his philandering colleague to find himself another party because he's "covered" for him for the last time.

DEAR ABBY: A widow in our town who is getting on in years is becoming a real problem. She is a gossip and has no real friends.

As soon as she hears that someone is sick — even people she hardly knows — she "calls" on them. She does this in the name of mercy and kindness, but she really visits them because she has nowhere else to go, and she can visit the sick without an invitation.

She never brings a book or a flower, but she eats all the refreshments in sight, and she stays and stays until mealtime hoping to be invited for supper.

We hate to hurt her feelings, because she's probably not "all there," but something must be done about his obnoxious pest. But what?

NO NAME, PLEASE
DEAR NO NAME: Someone should tell her that she should not visit without telephoning first. And if she phones she could be told that the patient is not receiving visitors at that time. If she appears at the door without warning, she could be given the same treatment — courteously, of course, but firmly. Only in this manner can she be discouraged.

DEAR ABBY: I do not want to be a meddling mother-in-law, but how can I impress upon my new daughter-in-law that it is important for her to acknowledge her wedding gifts within a reasonable length of time?

Abby, she is a darling girl, and I don't want to hurt her, but I have hinted so many times I hate to mention it again. Many of my friends have asked me if she ever received their gifts? Please tell me how to get her to write her thank-you notes. We are quite well known in this town and it is getting embarrassing.

DEAR EMBARRASSED: You would be doing your daughter-in-law a kindness to tell her in plain language that people have been asking YOU if she has received their gifts. Tell her if she needs any "help" in writing her thank-you notes, you are available. Short of writing them for her, there is nothing more you can do.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bell Due For TSTA Meet

Lloyd R. Bell, assistant director of public relations for the Texas State Teachers Association, will address the annual spring meeting of the Howard County unit of TSTA.

The dinner meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. April 28 at Cosden Country Club, and wives and husbands of faculty members and administrators at Coahoma, Elbow, Midway and Coahoma schools will be guests.

The affair also will be the occasion for installation of new officers, including Darrell N. Flynt, superintendent of the Forsan district, as the president. He will succeed Mrs. Loma Jean Wynn, Coahoma, who has held this office for the past two years.

Others to be installed include Bill Easterling, Coahoma, vice president; Mrs. Don Stevens, Forsan, secretary, succeeding Mrs. Doris Easterling; Larry Latsan, Forsan, treasurer, succeeding Walker Bailey, Bailey and Mrs. Loy Acuff, who have been associated with the county TSTA unit for approximately three decades until the office of county superintendent recently was liquidated, will be recognized at the banquet.

Entertainment for the affair will be furnished by the Border Brass of Coahoma High School.

Bell's topic will be "Needed: More Interpreters, Fewer Publicists." He is a graduate of the University of Missouri and has his masters in education from SMU. He taught school in Joplin, Mo., and then in Dallas before spending nine years in administrative work in the office of "Education U.S.A.," a publication of the National Public Relations Association of the NEA.

Family Back From Services

The family of Sgt. Raymundo Gomez, killed in Vietnam, have returned home from San Antonio, where they went Sunday to attend his funeral rites. The burial was Monday in the Fort Sam Houston Military cemetery with full military rites.

Sgt. Gomez was wounded in action in Vietnam, dying later of his wounds. The body was flown home from Vietnam.

Mrs. Gomez and her children live on Cindy Lane.

Sixth Graders Dominate Fifth Annual Spelling Bee

By SAM BLACKBURN

When the 18 school champions meet in the Fifth Annual Herald Bee Saturday morning, it will be a contest largely featuring sixth graders.

The Howard County Spelling Bee will be in the Vocational Education rooms at the Big Spring High School at 10 a.m., with Mrs. O. T. Brewster as official pronouncer. The judges will be Col. George Franks, Roger Brown and Bill Johnson. A check of the 18 champions selected in the competing schools shows there are 16 sixth graders. Three are in the fifth grade, two each in the fourth and eighth grades and one in the third and one in the seventh.

Seven of the 18 champions are 10 years old; five are 12; three are 9; and three are 13 years of age. Ten of the champions are boys, and eight are girls.

The alternates from the several schools — boys and girls who placed second in the school spelling bees and who will spell in the county bee only if their school's champion fails to appear—show about the same statistics.

Seven of the alternates are 12; four are 11; three are 13; and one each is 8, 9, 10 and 14. Six of the alternates are sixth graders; five are fourth graders; two are in the eighth grade. There is one alternate each from the third, fourth and seventh grades.

Ten of the alternates are boys, and eight are girls.

The three youngest contestants — each of whom is nine years old—will be Linda Little, Moss Elementary school champion; Ronnie Peterson, Marcy school champion; and Michael Barbee, Midway school winner.

The oldest champions are Mary Lou Brown, Rannels Junior High, a real veteran of the county spelling bees with four school championships to her credit; David Roberson, Gollad Junior High; and Susan Sulak, Immaculate Heart of Mary school champion. She, too, is a veteran, having won her school championship last year. All are 13.

Champions and alternates will be presented with purple and white ribbons, respectively, to mark their achievement.

Each champion and alternate will also receive a souvenir pen. These will be presented by Walker Bailey, former county school superintendent, who will be in charge of the bee Saturday morning.

Winner of the county championship—the best speller in the Howard County Spelling Bee—gets a free trip to Lubbock April 9 to compete against 21 other West Texas County champions for the regional crown. Winner of the regional gets a week's free trip to Washington, D. C. in June, and a chance to compete in the National Spelling Bee.

The winner here Saturday will also receive a specially engraved plaque bearing his name and reciting his achievement. Runner-up in the county bee will also receive a gift.

To attend the bee, drive on 10th Street to Birdwell Park and turn south onto the high school grounds. Park in the area around the flagpole. The east door of the high school leads directly to the Vocational Education rooms, where the county bee is to be held.

Cure For Insomnia?

LEBANON, Ky. (AP) — Banker Edwin Carlisle Litsey gives this cure for insomnia:

"Lie on your side until you get fully rested and composed. Then turn over, lie flat on your chest, without a pillow, thinking only pleasant things and soon sleep will follow."

Ex-Chancellor Seriously Ill

BONN, Germany (AP) — Konrad Adenauer, seriously ill with flu and bronchitis, was weakening today.

A bulletin from the home of the 91-year-old former chancellor of West Germany said: "The organism's powers of resistance are declining. Heart and circulatory functions are weaker. His personal physician and doctors of Bonn University under the direction of Prof. Adolf Heymer Wednesday that Adenauer was stricken with flu complicated by bronchitis that put a "strain on the whole organism."

Members of the Adenauer family appeared at the white gabled house, including a son, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Paul Adenauer.

Newsman and photographers were kept at a distance by a police guard.

Heymer, head of the university hospital, left Adenauer's house late this morning through the back entrance, shaking his head to newsmen's requests for information.

One visitor today was Konrad Adenauer, the ex-chancellor's eldest son, who is an executive of a coal firm in Cologne. He and his wife looked concerned but would not speak to reporters.

Doctors kept vigil all through the night at the aged statesman's home in Rhodendorf, overlooking the Rhine River.

Karl Ackermann, chief press officer of Adenauer's Christian Democratic party, announced

Shortes Brought To Hospital Here

Darrell Shortes, critically hurt in an automobile accident that took the life of his father, F. O. Shortes, and seriously injured his mother, was brought to the Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital Saturday. Both were taken to the Shannon Hospital in San Angelo after the March 17 mishap in which their car, pulling a trailer, left US 87 and plunged down an embankment.

Adam Delays Tip Of Hand

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell has won back the congressional seat from which he was excluded but rumors here and in New York indicate he is more interested in winning his Washington court case.

The reason is 22 years of seniority. But Powell isn't ready to tip his hand.

Asked about reports he would subordinate presentation of his election certificate to pursuit of his suit against Congress for excluding him, Powell replied: "No comment."

Those two words were about all Powell would say in the presence of newsmen. He said his attorneys had instructed him to say nothing for the present.

An aide said an attorney and O'Dell Clark, senior deacon of the Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem, were en route to Bimini to confer with the Harlem preacher-politician.

Downtown Lions took in the Indianapolis 500 at their Wednesday luncheon at the Settles. Pictures of the qualifying rounds and the race—including the spectacular pileup at the first turn in which a third of the field was eliminated but without injury to drivers—were projected by Charles Marchbanks, local Sinclair distributor.

Roy Hughes, chairman of the troop committee, said that it appeared that the club's Boy Scout Troop No. 7 would clear about $300 from its Mexican dinner. Proceeds will go to finance the unit's summer camp.

L. T. King, president, said that the club had 14 delegates at the District 2-A1 convention in Midland last weekend, and that the club had put in its bid to host the 1969 convention. The next year parley will be in Brownwood.

charges being filed so that court action may result. Judge Ralph Caton held a question and answer period following the talk. He said that locally there is no one who can investigate the cases of neglect or abuse as there is no full-time worker available for consultation. As a result, many children are later apprehended as juvenile delinquents when they could have been aided earlier.

Turn Head And Get 'Pleated' Neckline?

By MARY SUE MILLER Pleats are "in," except in the throat. In a woman's own throat, that is!

Perhaps you have noted the pleated condition. It occurs when a woman turns her head and one side of her neck develops deep unpressed pleats while, on the other side, the tendons stand out to form valleys of inverted pleats.

Californian Ends Vacation In Knott

KNOTT (SC) — Mrs. Jewell Mangini has returned to her home in Livermore, Calif., by plane following a visit with her sister, Mrs. Arch Hodnett. Other guests in the Hodnett home were Mrs. Ida Plunkett of Menard and Mrs. Walter Barlow and Mrs. J. W. Barlow and sons, all of Abilene.

Observe how those movements release the tendons and prevent pleating. If you make a habit of the action you gain an advantage other than the immediate improvement in appearances. Your neck is less likely to wrinkle, prematurely. Wrinkles already present are more likely to smooth out.

CALORIE COUNTER

Mrs. Maedelle Davidson visited her sister, Mrs. J. O. McNew, in Snyder Saturday.

Do you really know the calorie counts of the foods you eat? Our new booklet, "Pocket Calorie Counter," tells the score at a glance. It also gives a diet plan — a way to eat and slim. OFF BEATEN TRAIL

Texans Praise Faithful Mule

By ED SYERS

Ever since Sinton's Joe Martin put us in for 'Mule Stories,' the mail's trickled in with a word, here and there, for this slowly-passing, oft-maligned burden-bearer. I really expected more; my wife Margaret says I'm mule-oriented.

That's good company. Bigfoot Wallace, maybe our frontier's greatest, for example, was a mule - man at heart. He rode into more than one fight, mule-saddled, says Corsicana's S. G., adding "maybe because the two were alike, neither wanting to stop, once he'd started."

DANGER SNIFFERS

"Mules were quicker than horses to sense Indians. Danger in a night camp, a ranger would catch first from mules on picket line."

And Houston's 'Retired Horse Soldier': "There is or was a grave marker or monument to an old mule at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio. Now, there's a mule story, if you'll tell it." (Will, if I get help.)

Finally, by way of Marfa's Judge H. O. Metcalfe, comes a Tucson, Ariz., report from Bob Kell, comparing mule and horse, back when he cavaliered Big Bend's early 1900 border troubles. "Those days, a U.S. Pack Train had 14 men and 65 animals: a packmaster, assistant, blacksmith, cook and 10 packers. Fifty mules for pack, 14 for saddles, one for the bell-lead."

OLD BUCKSHOT

Kell's favorite was Buckshot. He had a 7 m.p.h. running walk, could carry over 400 pounds 45 miles without a stop or a crooked load. His gait was so smooth you could balance a cup of coffee on his load.

"Buckshot would never un-track himself from the spot you left him ground-tied; all the tying you needed was to drop your reins. But he loved to take off at a dead run, pick you up on the fly about his second jump."

"His only stubborn trait was never to leave that pack train he guarded (when he had a rider aboard) . . . so long as he could hear the bell mare, ahead. And many times we packed cargo from Marfa to Presidio, 60 miles, no stops."

"Mules are all that Joe Martin said: brave, intelligent, loyal and determined," declares Kell. "For a saddle animal over any trail and long distances I wouldn't have traded old Buckshot for any horse I ever rode."

RODEO KNIGHTS

Gail's Mrs. Edna Miller, recollecting bygone Plains country outings, says an old time rodeo feature you don't see now was "tournament riding." Its origin goes back to Knighthood in England. It consisted of catching small rings suspended over the course on a smooth, long wooden lance or cue, while riding at full speed. It was a timed event. Few could catch all the rings."

Name Withheld: "The Jack County Historical Society will make a mistake if they place a Historical Plaque on the old James C. Loving home and designate Mr. Loving as founder of the Cattle Raisers' Association (beginning of the end for rustlers, when pioneer ranchers cracked down)."

"Mr. Loving accompanied George Slaughter and Kit Carter to Graham for the organizational meeting. They took the lead in the founding."

(Note: To OBT, Slaughters, Lovings and Carters rode tall enough saddles not to worry over whether "a" founder or "the" founder. All they wanted and got were "the" results.)

Hamilton Funds Has Dividend

The board of directors of Hamilton Funds, Inc. has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 1/2 cents per share from net undistributed income, payable April 17, 1967, to shareholders of record March 30, 1967.

More than $2.5 million will be distributed to nearly 300,000 Hamilton shareholders all over the world, it was announced by Hamilton president A. R. Tyrone.

This dividend will bring per-share distributions since the beginning of the year to 5 1/2 cents from net undistributed income and 22.77 cents from realized capital gains. The net asset value of Hamilton H-DA shares, which was $5.01 at the close of last year, was $5.50 on the March 30 record date.

The total net assets of Hamilton Funds, which were $489.9 million last Dec. 31, had increased to $578.2 million by March 30.

Journalism Society Will Hear Purcell

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Association of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, will hear a report from Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., on his recent tour of Southeast Asia.

Purcell will speak before the journalists when they hold their Region VIII meeting in Dallas April 14-16.

Forrest Moore, general chairman, said more than 300 newsmen from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana are expected to attend the convention. Purcell's speaking time has been set for the group's annual banquet on Saturday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Grain Dealer Free On Bond

ARCHER CITY, Tex. (AP)—William R. Kelly, charged with illegal movement of stored grain valued at $200,000 by the Texas Department of Agriculture, was free on $10,000 bond today.

Dist. Atty. Paul Wylie of Archer County filed two felony charges Tuesday against Kelly, an Olney grain warehouse operator, at the request of the State Department of Agriculture.

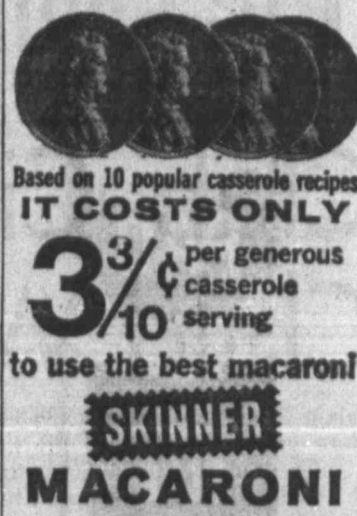

The Archer County grand jury will consider the charges at the next session of its grand jury.

B. T. Williams, director of the Agriculture Department's consumer services department in Austin, said Kelly came under investigation last week when some persons reported they had been unable to retrieve grain belonging to them from the warehouses.

Kelly was not immediately available for comment. Williams' department was attempting to subpoena records. He requested that all grain owners in the area to contact him.

Kelly owns grain warehouses in Megargel, Munday, and Weinert. The Texas Department of Agriculture has closed all

Typifies New Generation Of Modern Young Homemakers

By RHODA LEMONS

Attractive Mrs. Louis G. McKnight typifies the best of the modern young homemakers. She has multiple interests and tasks and performs them all well.

"My first interest is in things related to the home, and cooking is my favorite chore," said Mrs. McKnight who resides with her husband at 2307 Marshall. The McKnights have two small children, Mark, four, and Melody, two. He is a representative for Equitable Life Assurance Society, and has won a number of distinctions in his work.

"Mother was instrumental in helping me desire to be a good homemaker and cook," continued Mrs. McKnight, "because even as a small child I was allowed to help in the kitchen and encouraged to make games from housework."

Mrs. McKnight is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Y. Smith, 206 Washington, and she feels her children are fortunate to have grandparents living so close to them.

"I try to shop every two weeks, and I make out flexible menus in advance," explained Mrs. McKnight. She doesn't like a rigid schedule, but is happiest when things are well organized. She puts seasonal vegetables in the freezer, and keeps an orderly two-file recipe system. The new and untried ones are filed in one group, and the family favorites in another. When the first group meets with family approval, it is recorded and transferred to the latter section.

"My husband and children are delighted to cook for," said Mrs. McKnight. They enjoy unusual dishes and their "very, very favorite" is Mexican food for a late supper on Sunday evenings.

They enjoy entertaining in small groups and usually serve dinner to their guests. Some evenings are family night, and everyone brings the children. Other nights are just for grown-ups, and offers the mothers an evening away from small children. They play "42" and gin rummy and just visit together with friends.

Mrs. McKnight lists her blender and clothes dryer as her most valued appliances. She uses the blender as a chopper, mixer and juicer, and finds it invaluable in preparing meals.

Her living room is furnished in colors of blue and green, and she has a charming handmade dining table which she found in her parents' garage. She has antiqued green high ladder back chairs used with it and has added personal decorative touches throughout the house.

She has a printed wall cloth with floral colors of orange and green, which she bound in orange and under it added an antique green shelf making a handsome wall decoration.

Mrs. McKnight has redone her daughter's bedroom suite in antique white and pink. She has backed her daughter's dressing table accessories with pink dotted swiss, and is making matching curtains for the windows. She has an old doll's dresser which she will antique white and mount on a chest for a dressing table effect.

Her latest interest is in making flowers which are effectively placed adding striking color to the home. They are professionally done and she is justifiably proud of them.

Mrs. McKnight sews for herself and her children, however, she readily admits that she will be sewing more for her daughter than for her young son. "It is just more practical to sew for girls," she said ruefully.

She and her husband enjoy working in the yard. When the weather is favorable, he barbecues outdoors and relieves his wife of her cooking duties. In return, Mrs. McKnight does his typing, filing and doubles as his receptionist and secretary, a job she finds most rewarding. As the children get older, she plans to become even more actively engaged with her husband in his work.

McKnight is president - elect of the Big Spring Jaycees, and serves as president of the Big Spring Association of Life Underwriters. He is a member of the A&M Club and is a deacon at the First Baptist Church, where the family has membership. Mrs. McKnight is a member of the Jaycee-Elites and the Junior Woman's Forum.

"We enjoy working together and being with the children," says Mrs. McKnight in summation. Judging from her tranquil attitude and her well-behaved children, she manages all her tasks with equal ease.

Caraway Seeds Improve Pork

The little touches are what mark you as a good cook. Unusual combinations, subtle seasonings, different ways of serving—all these make food more enticing and establish your reputation as an imaginative cook.

Add a different seasoning to enhance the flavor of food. A pork roast seasoned with salt and pepper is always good, but ground coriander, sage or cloves rubbed into the meat before roasting adds a gourmet touch.

Celery seeds or caraway seeds added to the cooking liquid for spareribs give them an unusual flavor.

Shoulder steaks and pork chops can be rubbed with paprika before broiling, or seasoned with chili powder, oregano or sage to make them something special.

Guests Applaud Asparagus Divan

Nice when a few of 'the girls' come for a noon visit.

ASPARAGUS DIVAN
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen asparagus spears
1 1/2 tbsps. each butter (or margarine) and flour
1 cup milk
Salt and white pepper to taste
3 servings sliced cooked chicken (white meat)
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Paprika
Cook the asparagus according to package directions; drain, cover and keep warm. Make a white sauce of the butter, flour and milk, adding salt and pepper. Arrange the asparagus in a deep 8-inch glass pie plate; cover with chicken. Pour sauce over chicken; sprinkle with Parmesan and paprika. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until bubbly—about 20 minutes. Makes 3 servings.

PANTRY PICK-UPS

When you coat veal chops or veal cutlet before cooking, you can use bread crumbs (fine dry or fresh) or coarse cracker crumbs. The procedure for "breading" is to dip the meat in seasoned flour, then in lightly beaten egg diluted with a little water, and finally into the crumbs.

Chef's tip: boil fowl in an open pan because covering tends to make the stock cloudy.

Nothing tastes better in the spring than cooked fresh asparagus marinated in French dressing. Use the asparagus prepared this way as a luncheon salad garnishing with crisp greens, hard-cooked eggs and pimiento.

You can steam rice dry, after cooking. If you put the rice in a colander over boiling water and cover it with cheesecloth. Just be sure that the rice does not touch the boiling water.

When you are preparing tomatoes as an accompaniment to a main dish, you can brush the cut sides of the halved tomatoes with melted butter and brown them rapidly under the broiler, then put them in a moderate oven (a convenient waiting period) to finish the cooking.

Water used to poaching eggs should come up two inches high in a saucepan or deep skillet.

Homemade tomato sauce to be used for dressing spaghetti, benefits from the addition of both thyme and oregano.

A delicious salmon salad (made from the canned or fresh-cooked fish) needs nothing more than the simplest additions: diced celery, minced onion and mayonnaise. Garnish the salad with greens and hard-cooked eggs that are sliced or quartered.

Professional chefs sometimes add monosodium glutamate to the dressing to be used for potato salad.

Ever add a little sour cream to French dressing? This combination is delicious on a lettuce and cucumber salad.

Serve freshly made coffee at once. Flavor and aroma are lost as brewed coffee stands.

Grenadine, available in bottles in food markets, gives delightful flavor and sweetening to a fruit cup.

Use warm rather than hot water when you are removing a jellied dish from a mold; if the jelly doesn't budge, dip the mold in the warm water again. But before beginning the dipping, loosen the edge of the jelly with a small spatula or knife.

Turn a fruit-flavored gelatin dessert into an eight-inch square cake pan and chill until set. Cube the gelatin right in the pan and then remove to dessert dishes. Top with whipped cream.

If a recipe calls for a cup of coarsely shredded raw carrot, you'll find that two large carrots (pared before shredding) will probably give this amount.

Cut the kernels from leftover cooked corn and heat with a little cream and some cooked finely-cut snap beans for a delightful fresh vegetable dish. Pass the pepper grinder!

Small fry and teenagers like tiny marshmallows folded into chocolate sauce as a topping for ice cream.

Kitchen trick: candied ginger is difficult to cut, so rinse it in hot water before applying the knife.

Lovely to look at!

That was how they described grapefruit back when it was known as shaddock. The name seems to have been given the fruit by an English sea captain who first brought it from the Orient to the West Indies almost 400 years ago.

The term "grapefruit" came into use after the trees had been introduced into Florida about 100 years ago, and people noticed that the fruit grew in clusters something like grapes.

The main reason grapefruit was admired only for its beauty was that the early varieties were very sour. People didn't begin eating the fruit until the 1880's.

Today's grapefruit all are improved varieties—much sweeter than most of the early wild shaddock—with just enough acid to make them one of the favorite "waker uppers" for American breakfasts.

Latest U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates place this season's production at 51 1/2 million boxes—unequaled since the 1947-48 crop.

In shopping for grapefruit, you'll find the best ones are firm, well-shaped and heavy for their size. Heavy fruit usually are thin-skinned, which indicates they are juicy. Thick skinned and puffy grapefruit usually are less juicy. A slightly pointed stem end on a grapefruit indicates thick skin. A russet or bronze color on the outer skin is no indication of internal quality.

Both seedless and seeded grapefruit are on the market now. Keep in mind that the taste of grapefruit with seeds is somewhat more intense than the seedless varieties.

Make Family Happy, Bake Butter Cake

Pride of the French is Quiche Lorraine, a delicious, hot cheese - custard pie... an excellent dish for special supper parties. The original from Alsace - Lorraine boasts of a rich custard filling, chock-full of melted Swiss cheese, chopped onion and bacon, and framed in a flaky crust.

A velvety smooth and creamy bechamel or white sauce is the important foundation for this masterful dish. New feature of the special recipe, here, is the use of the new - formula powdered creamer in place of perishable fresh cream. With the help of this modern, new convenience food, it becomes a simple matter to turn out a faultless sauce every time.

QUICHE LORRAINE
Pastry for double crust
2 tbsps. butter
1 cup finely chopped onion
4 tbsps. flour
1 cup new non-dairy cream
1/2 tsp. salt
2 cups boiling water
2 eggs
2 cups grated natural Swiss cheese

Makes Tempting Dish For Supper Parties

Few desserts are more popular with Americans than their own great big layercakes, filled and frosted.

When such a cake is made with butter, its flavor is at its best. When it's filled with lemon butter and frosted with lemon - flavored whipped cream, it's heavenly.

The following recipe should interest all layercake devotees. There's lots of cake - three layers of it - and the creamy frosting is piled on thick.

LEMON BUTTER LAYERCAKE

3 cups sifted cake flour
3 tbsps. baking powder
3/4 cup (1 1/2 sticks) butter
1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
3 eggs
1 1/4 cups milk
Lemon Frost and Fill (one recipe)
1 1/2 cups heavy cream
1-3 cup confectioners sugar
Butter three round 9-inch layercake pans. On wax paper, sift together the cake flour and baking powder. In a large mixing bowl, cream the butter, granulated sugar and vanilla. Add eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Stir in the flour mixture in four additions, alternately with milk, just until smooth; begin and end with flour mixture. Turn into prepared pans. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean. Place cakes in pans on wire racks to cool for five minutes. Turn out on wire racks; turn right side up; cool completely.

Place a layer of the cake on a serving plate; spread with 1/2 cup of the chilled Lemon Frost and Fill; add a second cake layer and spread again with 1/2 cup of the chilled Lemon Frost and Fill; add the third cake layer. Whip cream until almost stiff; add confectioners sugar and beat until stiff; fold in the remaining Lemon Frost and Fill; use this to frost top and sides of cake - it will make a generous covering. This cake keeps well for several days in the refrigerator. No salt is used in the cake batter recipe.

LEMON FROST AND FILL
(For Lemon Butter Layercake)
1 tbsps. grated lemon rind
1/4 cup lemon juice
1-3 cups granulated sugar
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
3 eggs, slightly beaten

Into a one-quart saucepan turn the lemon rind, lemon juice, sugar and butter; place over low heat until sugar is dissolved and butter melted; remove from heat. Stirring vigorously to blend, slowly pour the slightly beaten eggs into the lemon mixture. Return to medium heat and cook and stir constantly until slightly thickened - do not boil. Cover and chill. Use as directed in Lemon Butter Layercake recipe.

SKILLET SQUASH

Any soft-shell summer-type squash may be used in this recipe.

COFFEE KLATSCH CAKE

Give flavor boost to dessert

Serve Coffee-Flavored Cake And Creamy Icing

Have no qualms about giving both cake and frosting a coffee flavor boost when you use decaffeinated coffee. It has all the flavor of freshly brewed ground coffee without the stimulating after effects. Let it substitute for water in white cake mix; use it with confectioners' sugar and melted unsweetened chocolate to make a quick and easy frosting. You can serve the cake from a cutting board; that way it's easy to carry to a club meeting or party. And if it's a program planning party that may go on all afternoon, better serve decaffeinated coffee for drinking, too, so no one need worry about having second and third cups.

COFFEE KLATSCH CAKE

1 pkg. white cake mix
1 1/4 cups freshly brewed decaffeinated coffee, cooled
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Mocha Frosting
Prepare cake mix as directed on the package, substituting brewed coffee for the water and adding vanilla to the batter. Pour into a greased and floured 13x9-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool cake in pan 10 minutes; then remove from pan and finish cooling on rack. Frost cake.

MOCHA FROSTING

Using four cups sifted confectioners' sugar, gradually blend in two cups. Add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and two squares melted unsweetened chocolate. Add remaining two cups sugar, alternately with about 1-3 cup brewed decaffeinated coffee, until of spreading consistency. Beat after each addition until smooth. Makes about two cups frosting.

Beef Short Ribs

If beef short ribs are cooked with water (about 1 1/2 cups) and cooked covered for 1 1/2 to two hours, they will then cook fairly quickly on the outdoor grill. As they are grilled, brush them once or twice with your own or bottled barbecue sauce.

10 potatoes
2-3 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup mustard
1 tbsps. vinegar
Bake 10 potatoes, when done remove from shell and add salt, pepper, butter and milk as desired for creamed potatoes. Add the mayonnaise, mustard and vinegar. Mix thoroughly. Put mixture in half shell, top with slice of cheese and place in oven until cheese is melted. These potatoes freeze well. Freeze without cheese topping.

HAM LOAF

2 lbs. cured ham, grind or chop fine in blender
1 lb. fresh pork
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups cracker crumbs
1 cup milk
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup water
1 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
Mix the above ingredients except the last three, shape into loaf and bake 1 1/2 hours at 350 degrees. Baste during cooking with bouillon cube dissolved in water to which has been added the Worcestershire sauce.

CHILAQUILAS

8 tortillas
1 large onion
1 can green chiles and tomatoes
1 small can green chiles
1/2 lb. rat cheese (American can be used)
2 cloves garlic
1/2 cup table cream
1 tsp. butter
Salt to taste
Cut tortillas in quarters and fry. Cut garlic and onion fine and steam in small amount of cooking oil for 20 minutes. Add green chiles and tomatoes and small can green chiles, butter and salt. Cover and let cook slowly about 25 minutes. Pour in cream and stir slowly. Place layer of tortillas in baking dish and layer of cheese and then layer of sauce. Repeat until tortillas, cheese and sauce are all used. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

CHOCOLATE NUT UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup broken walnuts
CAKE
1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
4 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 cup sugar

1 egg yolk

2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/4 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
1 egg white, stiffly beaten
Prepare topping as listed. Cream butter or margarine and brown sugar together in small bowl; stir in syrup and nuts. Spread in bottom of buttered 1 1/2 quart ring mold.
Prepare cake: Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter or margarine until soft, add sugar gradually. Cream until mixture is light and fluffy. Add egg yolk; beat well, and melted chocolate. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add vanilla. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and pour onto topping.
Bake 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until cake tester comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Loosen cake, invert. Serve warm or let cool before serving.

CUCUMBER SALAD

1 pkg. lime gelatin
1/4 cup hot water
2 3-oz. pkgs. cream cheese, softened
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tsp. horseradish
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup drained, shredded, unpeeled cucumber
1/4 cup finely sliced green onions
Dissolve gelatin in hot water, add cheese, mayonnaise, horseradish, salt and lemon juice. Beat with electric mixer until partially set. Stir in cucumber and onion. Turn into mold and chill until set.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

1 pkg. frozen strawberries
1 small pkg. cream cheese
3 tbsps. lemon juice
1/4 tsp. salt
1 can fruit cocktail, No. 2 1/2, can
1/2 pint whipping cream
Drain juice from package of frozen strawberries. Mix soft cream cheese with juice from strawberries. Add lemon juice and salt, then strawberries and drained fruit cocktail. Fold in whipped cream. Freeze.

NO - KNEAD REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

2 pkgs. dry or compressed yeast
2 cups warm water
1/2 cup sugar
2 tbsps. salt
6 1/2 to 7 cups sifted flour
1 egg
1/4 cup soft shortening
Dissolve yeast in water, add sugar, salt and about half of flour.

Beat thoroughly for two minutes. Add egg and shortening, gradually beat in remaining flour until smooth. Cover with damp cloth and place in refrigerator, punching down occasionally as dough rises. About two hours before baking cut off amount of dough needed. Place formed rolls on greased baking sheet. Cover and let rise 1 1/2 hours to two hours. Bake 12-15 minutes. Makes about four dozen rolls.

BAKED ALASKA

1 pint pkg. vanilla ice cream.
Freeze in tray lined with aluminum foil.
1/4 cup margarine
1 square unsweetened chocolate
1 egg
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup flour
1/2 tsp. vanilla

MERINGUE

5 egg whites
2-3 cup sugar
Base: Over low heat, melt margarine and unsweetened chocolate, stirring occasionally, until smooth. Meanwhile with mixer at high speed, beat one egg until very thick; beat in granulated sugar until light colored, then blend in flour, vanilla and the chocolate mixture. Pour into greased six-inch glass pie plate; bake 30 minutes at 225 degrees. Cool.

Meringue: Beat egg whites until soft peaks form, gradually add sugar and beat until stiff peaks are formed.

To assemble: Place cooled brownie layer on a cookie sheet. Invert ice cream onto brownie layer, lift off bowl, peel off foil. Quickly cover ice cream and brownie base with meringue, swirling it into peaks.
If desire to prepare ahead of time, at this point return to freezer until serving time. To bake, quickly place on lowest rack in extremely hot oven (500 degrees) and bake about three minutes or until meringue is browned. Cut in wedge-shaped slices to serve.

MOCHA PIE

24 marshmallows
3/4 cup strong coffee
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 pint cream, whipped
1/2 oz. shaved chocolate
1/2 cup pecans
Melt together in double boiler. Chill, and then fold in whipped cream and grated chocolate. Pour into baked pie shell and sprinkle grated chocolate and chopped nuts over the top. Chill well.

Chicago Drivers, Dock Workers Turn Back Truck Traffic

CHICAGO (AP) — Most of the nation's truck fleet rolled across the highways today after a three-day lockout, but 56,000 Chicago drivers and dock workers remained off the job and turned back trucks from other points.

As a result of the nationwide lockout, tons of merchandise remained stacked up at loading docks and warehouses. Spokesmen estimated thousands of plant workers would remain idle the rest of the week before operations return to normal and depleted supplies are replenished.

The auto industry, unable to get parts, still had some 24,000 workers laid off.

WORKERS IDLE

Chicago was hardest hit, however, with thousands of factory workers idle and food shortages threatened if the local work stoppage continues.

Chicago's 4,700 trucking firms, their drivers and dock workers were not parties to the tentative agreement reached Wednesday in Washington between the Teamsters Union and long-haul truckers.

A federal mediator scheduled a new negotiating session in Chicago today in an effort to end the work stoppage.

RETALIATION

Trucking Employers Inc. estimated 250,000 Teamsters members were idled by the nationwide lockout it ordered Sunday in retaliation for scattered drivers' strike against some members of the organization.

The Chicago workers, members of the Teamsters Union and an independent union on strike, halted most truck traffic in the city and turned back hundreds of trucks which had set out from other cities after the national settlement.

LONG-HAUL

Some long-haul drivers turned back by pickets started back to their home depots. Others telephoned their employers for instructions. The strike also barred Chicago based long-haul drivers from heading for out-of-state points.

Long-hauls from Denver and Indiana were among those being routed around Chicago to avoid local pickets.

A Zenith Corp. spokesman said 10,000 of its employees were idle in eight Chicago area plants and warehouses because of the work stoppage. Four Motorola Inc. plants employing 5,000 persons prepared to shut down because of a shortage of supplies.

COOKIES RESCUED

More than 80 railroad cars of meat valued at millions of dollars remained undelivered in freight yards of the Chicago and North Western Railway and the Illinois Central Railroad.

The Chicago strike tied up in a warehouse 22 million cookies some 22,000 Chicago-area Girl Scouts were scheduled to start selling Friday. However, Boy Scouts and adults came to the rescue with station wagons and autos and hoped to make deliveries to the 1,000 Girl Scout troops on schedule. There still were an estimated 600,000 boxes of cookies in the warehouse Wednesday.

In the national settlement, the Teamsters Union asked its locals to cooperate in getting trucks rolling again. Union members will vote on the proposed contract by secret ballot the weekend of April 22-23.

Details of the national agreement were not made public. It included pay boosts and other benefits to long-haul drivers now receiving between $3.32 and about $5 an hour.

Academy Aftermath Assignment

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Academy aftermath—

"I think it's a shame all those winners didn't show up," said the boss's secretary the morning after the Academy Awards. "They shouldn't let them have the Oscars if they don't have the courtesy to come to the affair."

Her suggestion sounds a bit extreme, but it reflects the disappointment of other television viewers who were denied the reactions of three of the four acting winners.

Only Walter Matthau, supporting winner for "The Fortune Cookie," was present. Elizabeth Taylor, best actress for "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?," had been expected until last Friday when she canceled.

CYNIC

Did she really intend to come? Said one cynic: "She announced she would appear so the voters wouldn't think she was snubbing the academy." Others suspected she canceled when it appeared the awards wouldn't be televised because of the actors' strike against the networks.

Such snide reports are denied by Miss Taylor's publicity man. He said she and husband Richard Burton fear air travel and dislike separations.

"They swore when they married that their personal lives would take precedence over professional matters," said the publicist. "Elizabeth finally decided not to come when she saw how much her leaving worried Richard. He hadn't slept for two nights."

The Burtons are making "The Comedians" in Nice, France.

What about the other winners — Paul Scofield of "A Man for All Seasons" and Sandy Dennis of "Virginia Woolf"?

TOP HAT

He is beginning work on "Macbeth" at Stratford-on-Avon, and she is filming "Sweet November" in New York. Both surely could have obtained a couple days' release from their assignments. But both are retiring, even timid personalities, and they chose not to face the hurly-burly at the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

"This is one year," commented my wife, "when the presenters were the show, not the winners."

Her own favorite moment came when Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers glided onstage looking as if they had just stepped out of "Swing Time" or "Top Hat." It was a magical moment when he twirled her around in response to the warm applause.

Also heartwarming was the appearance of Patricia Neal, walking on-stage with sure steps and speaking out with the same throaty voice.

106th Birthday

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Josephine Beckley, born here in 1861 just one day before the Civil War began, observed her 106th birthday Tuesday.

Her father, a Union soldier, died in the Confederate prison at Andersonville, Ga.

Officials of the Eden Park Nursing Home, where Mrs. Beckley lives, said her health is good.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., April 13, 1967 7-B

State Prisons Hold About 400 Men Condemned To Die

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 400 men wait today in the death rows of state prisons, condemned to die for a crime.

Among them is Lester E. Morford II in Nevada, scheduled to die April 19 for slaying a bridegroom. Among them was Aaron Mitchell executed in California.

More state legislatures were discussing abolishing the death penalty this year than in previous years.

An Associated Press survey showed that bills to abolish capital punishment were introduced in at least 18 state legislatures.

BILLS ALIVE

They have failed in eight of these states and are given little chance of approval in five more. Bills still are considered alive in Illinois, Missouri, Ohio, Tennessee and Connecticut.

Just Wednesday, an Illinois House committee approved legislation calling for a six-year moratorium on the death penalty.

Just Wednesday, too, a California Senate committee killed a bill that would have abolished the death penalty in California.

acting about two hours after Mitchell was executed.

DEATH VOTE

Still awaiting legislative action in California is a proposal to submit repeal of the death penalty to a vote of the people.

In Georgia, Gov. Lester Maddox has said he is thinking about calling for a state referendum on abolition of the death penalty. In a referendum last November, Colorado voters approved continuing the state's gas chamber.

Thirteen states have abolished capital punishment, beginning with Rhode Island in 1852. The last were New York, Vermont, West Virginia and Iowa, in 1965. Alaska and Hawaii abolished it in 1957 shortly before becoming states. Others are Oregon, Michigan, North Dakota, Minnesota, Maine and Wisconsin.

3,857 LISTED

Records of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons show that at the end of 1966, some 465 persons were under sentence of death, compared with 351 a year earlier.

The bureau started keeping such death records in 1930, when 155 persons were executed. The highest toll was 199 in 1935. There were 47 in 1962, 21 in 1963, 15 in 1964, seven in 1965 and one last year. The total since 1930 is 3,557.

Utility Gifts, Lavish Parties Spark Hearing

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Tales of massive campaign gifts and lavish parties by utility companies who haven't lost a rate increase case in Oklahoma for more than 15 years were aired before an Oklahoma Senate Investigating Committee Wednesday.

The five-member committee, recessed until next week, heard opening day testimony from two former law partners who have fallen out.

"I simply feel I am owed money," said Clyde Hale Jr., in stating his reasons for disclosing payments by his late father, long-time utility company lobbyist Clyde Hale Sr.

VOTE FUNDS

Hale said he has filed a lawsuit seeking to recover funds from James Welch, a former law partner.

Welch, the only other witness to appear before the committee Wednesday, said he would cooperate fully and would make his financial records available.

Hale produced checks, expense accounts and other financial records kept by his father from 1959 through 1965.

He testified gas utility firms furnished his father more than $100,000 to contribute to political campaigns during that period and threw lavish parties for Corporation Commission members, their families and numerous commission employees.

RATES JUMPED

The Corporation Commission, he said, granted every rate increase sought by the utility firms his father represented.

In one 1957 case in which Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. got permission to boost its rates by $4.3 million a year Hale testified the law firm prepared the order granting the boost and presented it to the commissioners.

He said the Corporation Commission subsequently issued the order as prepared by the gas company lawyers.

Hale also introduced cancelled checks and check registers which he said showed his father had paid Welch $30,944 while Welch was general counsel for the Corporation Commission, and $6,061 to W. L. Anderson while Anderson was general counsel for the commission.

FEE INCREASED

Hale testified Welch joined his father's law firm Jan. 1, 1958 — one week after the Corporation Commission, with Welch as its lawyer, granted permission to adopt the $4.3 million rate hike.

However, Hale said Welch kept drawing his state salary as a Corporation Commission attorney until March, 1958, when Welch "officially" joined his father's firm.

"Approximately a month before my father died," Hale said, "he told me that the president and vice president of Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. told him to bring Mr. Welch into our firm. They increased our retainer fee by $1,000 a month."

Welch, the only other witness to appear before the committee Wednesday, said he would cooperate fully and would make his financial records available.

Hale produced checks, expense accounts and other financial records kept by his father from 1959 through 1965.

He testified gas utility firms furnished his father more than $100,000 to contribute to political campaigns during that period and threw lavish parties for Corporation Commission members, their families and numerous commission employees.

RATES JUMPED

The Corporation Commission, he said, granted every rate increase sought by the utility firms his father represented.

In one 1957 case in which Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. got permission to boost its rates by $4.3 million a year Hale testified the law firm prepared the order granting the boost and presented it to the commissioners.

He said the Corporation Commission subsequently issued the order as prepared by the gas company lawyers.

Hale also introduced cancelled checks and check registers which he said showed his father had paid Welch $30,944 while Welch was general counsel for the Corporation Commission, and $6,061 to W. L. Anderson while Anderson was general counsel for the commission.

FEE INCREASED

Hale testified Welch joined his father's law firm Jan. 1, 1958 — one week after the Corporation Commission, with Welch as its lawyer, granted permission to adopt the $4.3 million rate hike.

However, Hale said Welch kept drawing his state salary as a Corporation Commission attorney until March, 1958, when Welch "officially" joined his father's firm.

"Approximately a month before my father died," Hale said, "he told me that the president and vice president of Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. told him to bring Mr. Welch into our firm. They increased our retainer fee by $1,000 a month."

Lubbock Judge Lindsey Dies

LUBBOCK (AP)—Victor H. Lindsey, 70, judge of the 72nd District Court for 16 years, died Wednesday.

Lindsey entered a hospital March 27 for treatment of what doctors described as a malignant condition.

Lindsey served also as presiding judge of the 9th Judicial District, appointed to the post in 1964 by Gov. John Connally.

Lindsey became 72nd District judge in 1961 by appointment of Gov. Allan Shivers.

He was a native of Justin in Denton County. Lindsey moved in 1925 to Lubbock from Fort Worth, where he had been deputy clerk and bailiff for the Court of Civil Appeals and as assistant city attorney.

His widow survives. Services are pending.

A Devotional For The Day

Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel. (I Corinthians 1:17)
PRAYER: Father, make us true disciples. Fill us with the Holy Spirit that we may speak boldly for Thee. In the name of Jesus Christ who gave His life that we might have our sins forgiven and lead godly lives. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

Casualty

The Defense Department hasn't yet recovered from its surprise over the Senate Armed Services Committee's rejection of a plan to create a "fast deployment logistic ships" (FDLS) fleet. Then the Senate confirmed the committee report.

The rejection came on a proposal to build seven of the ships. The Navy was thinking in terms of 30 of the ships which could carry Army equipment which could not be transported by air. For the first time in about 10 years the Senate has said "No" to a major Defense Department request.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, chairman of the Armed Services Committee expressed the uneasiness of congressmen generally when he said that the plan would lend itself too easily to a "world policeman" concept. Although he had supported the plan initially,

Russell said that he had turned to opposition for fear that the ships would be used to support the views of the United Nations, or provide our allies with an excuse to depend on the United States to straighten out anything that goes wrong in the world.

In truth the FDLS program is one of the casualties of the war in Vietnam. Members of Congress, reflecting the sentiment of their constituents to a greater degree, are profoundly troubled by the situation in Vietnam, without being able to propose any acceptable plan for alternatives. Members obviously do not want to make it any easier for the United States to become the world's policeman. The Senate seemed to be making its point, by indirection, in refusing to go along with the proposal.

Start Of Long Journey

Elections at the village level have begun in South Vietnam. Voters will choose their head man as well as members of the village councils. The election will continue for 2 1/2 months in 1,262 villages and 5,487 hamlets.

This is the beginning of the long road back toward a legitimate government in South Vietnam. No one really knows how long that road will be, nor what the eventual outcome will be.

The beginning of the breakdown of legitimate government in South Vietnam can be pinpointed. It came in 1958 when President Ngo Dinh Diem dispensed with elections naming village chiefs. Thereafter the chiefs were appointed by Saigon.

A constitution has been adopted. Election of a president and representatives to an assembly, or parliament, will be held in the fall. Never in recent years have the protests been so promising.

Yet no one should underestimate the formidable task that lies ahead. The creation of a popularly elected government is an important step. But equally as important is the uprooting of the clandestine government established by the Viet Cong, a government which claims the allegiance of the people in about half of the villages in the South and competes at night in many other villages.

The lack of truly national figures, other than in the military, is one of the tragic aftermaths of the French colonial era. The French deliberately suppressed any emergent leadership. What is more, they failed to develop a civil service capable of operating the machinery of government even if the top leadership was poor.

There is the ever-present danger that the military will take over the civilian government, no matter what its complexion. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, an Air Force general, is almost certain to be one of the candidates. But the new constitution does provide that candidates for president from the military must resign from their arm of service in order to be eligible. This may discourage wholesale candidacies from the military. But the influence of the military, particularly in these troubled times which may continue for the foreseeable future, will be great, if not overwhelming.

Hopefully, the elections may mean the birth of a new and legitimate government in South Vietnam, one that represents the people and is responsive to the people. It will not be democracy as we know it, of course. Vietnamese people have never experienced democracy, nor are they prepared for it now. Enlightened authoritarianism is the best that can be hoped for. If legitimacy is established, though, the task of building a nationhood can be undertaken with hope and enthusiasm.

When Corporations Handle It—

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien's radical proposal to do away with the Post Office Department and make it into a non-profit government corporation is getting serious study here. His reason for making the suggestion is that the post office is a money-losing proposition and he feels it should pay its own way.

The trouble with the plan is that if it is adopted it opens up a whole can of beans with the other departments of government who are also losing money, and the time may come when every Cabinet member will demand that his department be made into a corporation, too.

LET US PEEK in on a Cabinet meeting a few years from today.

"Gentlemen, the President of the United States."

"All right, let's get the meeting under way. We'll hear from the chairman of the board of the Interior."

"I'm happy to announce, Mr. President, that the Interior Corporation is in the black. We had to sell the Grand Canyon to do it, but we still have Yellowstone National Park, and by raising the rents on the Indian reservations we should have a banner year."

"Very good. What about the Labor Corporation?"

"MR. PRESIDENT, the Labor Corporation is in very good shape. By merging with the Teamsters Union we've been able to do away with our deficit and even invest money in negotiable bonds."

"That's wonderful, Willard. Are we still charging a substantial fee for invoking the Taft-Hartley Act?"

"Yes, sir, it's been one of our best money-makers."

"Fine. Now let's hear from the chairman of the Justice Corporation."

"MR. PRESIDENT, I'm happy to say that Justice is holding its own. We lost money on our crime cases, but we showed a profit selling bug-zapping equipment to private companies. We used the surplus to buy a race track outside of Washington and it's doing very well."

"As long as you don't keep it open on Sundays, I guess there's nothing wrong with it. Does the Transportation chairman have anything to report?"

"As you know, Mr. President, we merged with General Motors and we were doing fine until Ralph Nader wrote a sequel to 'Unsafe at Any Speed.' Now car sales are off. We've asked the Justice people to follow Nader, but they say it's no skin off their corporation."

"LET'S HAVE no bickering. Now the Defense Corporation. I see from the books that you people lost $50 billion last year. Can we attribute this to faulty management?"

"I know it looks bad on paper, Mr. President, but the Vietnam war just isn't showing a profit. Maybe we shouldn't have gone into it in the first place. If we had to do it all over again I think we should have gotten into a fight with Switzerland."

"Well, if the Defense Corporation can't make a go of it, we're going to have to give it up."

"I have one suggestion, sir, which could get us even."

"What's that?"

"CONRAD HILTON wants to buy the Pentagon and rename it the McNamara Hilton."

"Let him put in a bid and we'll consider it. I guess that winds it up for today. Oh, by the way, next week we're meeting at the Shoreham Hotel instead of here."

"How's that, Mr. President?"

"Howard Johnson's has just leased the White House from us at very reasonable terms."

LBJ Faces Tough Going

WASHINGTON (AP) — Time is short. For President Johnson this is the last warm-up lap before the 1968 presidential election year. He has to have a record to point to when he runs again, which means he must rebuild his.

His 1965 record was superb. It hasn't reached that peak since. Rebuilding it will keep him busy when he returns from the Latin-American summit meeting in Uruguay.

He will have to concern himself about a lot of things, including the economy, the Republicans, the war in Vietnam and his programs in Congress. Luckily for him the Republicans have put themselves in a bit of a box.

THE MOST likely Republican candidates, though still unsure of what lies ahead and at this point probably very unsure of themselves, are not hesitating to take positions.

The Republicans — and Michigan's Gov. George Romney is the shining example — have backed Johnson on the war, which makes it awkward if they later try to change their position or make the war an issue.

Meanwhile, the Department of Commerce said Wednesday the economy stood still in the past three months for the first time since its expansion began six years ago.

THE VALUE of all goods and services — the Gross National Product — went up $3 billion but was absorbed by price increases. Johnson administration economists said they weren't alarmed.

They said they had figured the economy would get sluggish the first half of this year and then pick up steam. With this in mind Johnson had asked Congress to boost taxes to help pay for big government spending and frustrate inflation.

CONGRESS has been chilly about it, being intent on cutting spending. But if the economy goes down, spending cuts would help recession trends. A recession in 1968, on top of the war, would be enough to do Johnson in.

Worrying about that alone should keep him busy, but that's only a bit of the problems which cover practically everything for a man who likes the White House.

HE WON enormously in 1964 but his popularity melted under the heat of the war, so much so that a recent public opinion poll showed Romney ahead of him in a "test election" last month.

Right now the end of the war is invisible. If he can wind it up before the election, by victory or negotiation, much that he lost in public esteem will probably be recaptured.

Even a continuing war may not destroy him if the Republicans make a mess of themselves, as they have in the past before election day with their issues and their candidates.

BUT, BESIDES all that, a politician like Johnson will feel required to run on a record which includes more than the record of 1965.

This year he didn't hand Congress anything like the memorable load of proposals he made two years ago, most of which he got approved.

Talents Trample Talk

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Prince Charles is subduing the persistent comment that Britain's royal family is uninterested in the arts.

It was seldom bruited about publicly, but often — usually in arty, arty circles — one heard such acid remarks as:

"Music? Why, my dear, the queen's favorite music is Housewives Choice."

HOUSEWIVES Choice is a morning radio feature of British Broadcasting Corp.

"Painting? Why, my dear, they're no more interested in serious painting than I am in comic strips."

"Literature? Why, my dear chap, everyone knows their in-terests goes no deeper than James Bond."

Now Prince Charles' talents have stopped some of this talk.

IN PUBLIC within the last few months he has sung, acted, played the trumpet and knocked off a bit of Mozart and Schumann and Benjamin Britten on the viola. A music master says he possesses perfect pitch.

Prince Charles started slowly, first by mastering the drums, the bagpipe and then the electric guitar, even to the point of performing with a pop group at the palace.

THEN AT Gordonstoun School in Scotland he played Macbeth, sang in a performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Pirates of Penzance," became accomplished on the viola and said that he is fascinated by Shakespeare.

As to the rumors that the royal family is uninterested in culture — persons who know them well dismiss the rumors as wild exaggerations, but admit there may be a germ of truth in the gossip.

THE QUEEN inherited one of the greatest art collections and can talk with interest and considerable knowledge about old masters.

But, aside from her family and her job her main interest is in horses. Prince Philip's mind is scientific and mechanical.

When it comes to the theater, the royal ladies are most often seen at comedies and farces.

Daily Dosage Of Calcium No Cause For Fear

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a man of 83, have had a complete examination and X-rays and the doctor says my back pain is from degeneration of the bone so he ordered me to take calcium tablets three times a day. I also wear a sacral belt.

I want to be sure too much calcium won't cause me trouble in other joints. The doctor says if I get too much it will pass out of my body, but how come to many people have calcium in their joints? — E. O.

Your doctor leveled with you, as he should.

Calcium is a vital necessity. It contributes hardness to our bones and our teeth, but it also serves in other ways, particularly in healing damage to the body.

If a bone breaks, calcium accumulates at the fracture to mend it, and afterward we can see it with X-ray, like a soldered repair.

The same thing occurs after severe infection and inflammation. The inflamed area heals in much the same way, with calcium as an important part of the repaired tissues.

The reason so many folks have calcium in joints is that over the years injuries, ordinary wear and tear, or inflammation from joint diseases (including arthritis) have to be repaired by the body. Hence the calcium accumulates.

Sometimes the healed place may be a nuisance or be painful as a by-product. The best example may be a bruised heel. The bruise gradually gets better as the injury heals, but then there's a small accumulation of calcium — and, like a pebble in your shoe, it can be painful to walk on.

At 83, you surely remember how we used to repair tires, whether for a car or a bicycle. We often created quite a bumpy spot when we patched a puncture. It could make the car, or bike, go bump-bump-bump, but it was still preferable to having a flat tire.

That's why so many people have calcium in joints and elsewhere. They are mended places.

That is why your doctor wants you to take supplemental calcium in tablet form, to be sure that you have sufficient calcium to combat the degeneration of bone in your back.

If you get more calcium than you need, the body will discard it, but if you don't get enough in food or medicinal form, there is no way for your body to get any, except by robbing your bones of calcium.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

There Must Be A Better Way

I wish I had the courage to fill out one of those forms with a bunch of nonsense numbers and send it in to see if the Internal Revenue Service people would really sweat them all out to see where I was wrong.

EACH YEAR about this time, I confirm again my conviction that a simple head tax would be far easier and more equitable all the way 'round. This matter of figuring out what is deductible and what isn't gets more complex each year, until like Alice, it appears like some mad party in which the rules change almost as fast as the action.

I no more than get all the figures entered in the right columns and added up more or less correctly, then I hear someone say at the coffee shop, "Did you know you can claim a deduction for filling teeth if they use white cement and it was done prior to the issuance of Form 531 as amended in Directive 5-66 and issued under the seal of the undersecretary?"

"HOWEVER," the speaker goes on as I strain to hear every word, "that is only if it applies to your Schedule X under the Rev. Proc. 64-82 amendment, and you must make allowance for any expenses under the combined amount as detailed for employees, as set forth in the Code, paragraph A-29."

Jotting down as much of this intelligence as possible, I go back to the books, scrap all the forms I laboriously filled out, and begin from scratch. With a golden opportunity such as this, how can I miss to gain an extra buck or so?

LIKE MOST folks, all I want is to pay my just tax, and the IRS states all it wants is what I owe. We agree up to that point. After that, only one of us knows what its all about, and that isn't me.

Although the forms are getting a few lines longer each year, I think I might prefer some immeasurably long form which would contain every conceivable deduction and let me fill in the numbers. Then, I would be sure of getting any deduction that I might otherwise have missed.

ON THE OTHER hand, wouldn't it all be simpler and much sweeter if the government merely stuck us $10 per person per year and let it go at that?

—V. GLENN COOTES

David Lawrence

Hubert Is LBJ's Boy

WASHINGTON — The true significance of the spectacular reception given at the White House by President Johnson for Vice President Humphrey on the latter's return from Europe may not be apparent on the surface. But it has the earmarks of a very shrewd political maneuver. For whatever question may have been raised in recent months as to whether the President would abandon Mr. Humphrey as his running mate in 1968 seems to have been effectively answered.

THE RUMORS developed when Mr. Johnson's popularity curve had turned downward, while Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York was going around the country making political hay. This led some over-enthusiastic supporters of Bobby Kennedy to suggest that the only way Mr. Johnson could recover the lost strength among "liberals" would be to put the New York senator on the ticket.

No such theory, however, has ever been taken seriously at the White House. For it is obvious to any experienced politician that if a President running for re-election isn't strong enough to win on his own record, the vice-presidential candidate is hardly able to make up for that deficiency.

MR. JOHNSON had a wide field in 1964 from which to choose a running mate, and selected Hubert Humphrey because he seemed to be able to win the "liberals." At that time, the image of Mr. Johnson was that of a "conservative," or at least not as a conspicuous member of the "liberal" school of thought.

Mr. Humphrey's demeanor as vice president has been politically efficient. He has praised the President on every occasion, and there probably has not been a single public speech in which he has not lauded the President's acts and declarations of policy. This, of course, is one of the inherent obligations of a vice president, but few vice presidents have been as vocal on behalf of the chief executive whom they served.

THE PARTICULAR reason, however, for making a fuss about the vice president on his return from Europe is related to many other things besides domestic policies. Mr. Johnson is not too eager to spend a lot of time abroad himself and would like very much to build up Mr. Humphrey as his potential envoy for the many difficult situations that are arising on almost every continent. Hubert Humphrey thus far has handled the overseas job skillfully. The anti-Vietnam war demonstrations and other dramatic exhibitions designed to downgrade the United States and its representative did not in the slightest degree affect his poise.

THE UNUSUAL emphasis placed upon Mr. Humphrey's trip by President Johnson will not be overlooked in political circles. Sen. Kennedy now says he is going to support the Johnson-Humphrey ticket in 1968, but some of his ardent supporters think this is merely a tactful comment at this time. They are still talking about pressing a future campaign for Kennedy for either first or second place. But such ideas seem to have been discounted this week by President Johnson as he, in effect, makes clear that he has already chosen his running mate for 1968.

THE MORE public notice taken of Vice President Humphrey, the more effective he can become as a campaign speaker in behalf of Mr. Johnson. Certainly the vice president can expect to attract larger audiences than would have been the case if he hadn't been the beneficiary of so much publicity bestowed upon him by the President himself.

Florida's Go-Go Governor

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — At 7:15 a.m., the morning after some all-night political revels, the man who answered the knock at the ornate double-door on the second floor of the second floor of the marble-splendor Florida capitol was the governor himself.

He had been there, at work and alone, some considerable while before the hour of his interview. And he had readily agreed to meeting a traveling reporter on the opening day of the new legislative session, with a hostile cabinet already agreed to refuse his requests and a 2-to-1 Democratic general assembly standing by to make the first Republican governor in more than 90 years look as much as possible like an upstart and a freak.

NOT UNNATURALLY, the description which suits Claude Kirk Jr. is that of a go-go guy. Florida is a holiday spot, a hot-cha-cha region, if you don't mind superficial assays. The 41-year-old governor, a divorced man, sprung a post-election sensation by marrying a divorced jet-set beauty from Brazil. He is a two-war Marine officer, a swinger, a financial whiz in business who's holding his first public office. The understandable tendency is to rate him as flashy, perishable and rushing headlong toward a crackup.

BUT THE GO-GO impression may be deceptive. We have a can-do Democrat in the White House, and Gov. Kirk could well turn out to be the Republican counterpart. He is limited by Florida law to a single, four-year term and, although already chafing in the usual fashion against these wise restraints upon executive power, the governor shows no disposition to suik or to alibi. His wholesome remedy for briefness of tenure is, "do it now." His escape from the boxed-in position of being potentially thwarted by a Democratic cabinet and legislature is to grab at the authority which existing laws already give the gubernatorial incumbent. He intends to spend such popularity as he has in a spurge of achievement.

THE MAN is acquainted with the fleetness of time, the hurrying footstep of opportunity, the plunging instinct of the gambler. He did not wait past his inauguration day last January to hire the George Wackenhut private detective agency as his personal investigation force in a Florida war on crime. As Gov. Kirk explained it, if he'd gone to the legislature and asked for permission, the debate would have gone, "Look at it, buddy, more laws?"

THE GOVERNOR correctly judged that he didn't need more laws. The state constitution gives him plenty of authority to protect the lives and property of the citizenry. Kirk immediately made use of long-dormant manpower in the complacent hotel-and-restaurant commission to route gangland prostitutes out of their snug nests of sin and extortion. Inspectors of the beverage department were required to go beyond the dull duties of bottle-counting and license-checking. They were sent on anti-narcotics raids.

AT THE same time he has begun a public relations drive, such as giving medals to outstanding police officers, to implant respect of the law in the communities, and especially among the young. He'll take whatever the traffic will bear—legalized wiretapping, capital punishment — to come down on the side of the attacked instead of the attacker, the sinned-against instead of the sinner. He isn't much interested in the fuddyy-duddy delicacies of civil liberties for misunderstood miscreants.

He is not a contemplative man. His ideas beyond those of smashing crime and "do it now" in all matters, are not discernible. But in the title of a John Phillips Marquand novel, "So Little Time," he may be on the right track. On every problem that America has, at home and abroad, the clock is running against us.

Drouth Cuts Wheat Output

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — In parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado fields of winter wheat which would be greening with even a little water are spotted brown.

Farmers of Kansas, the nation's greatest wheat-producing state, planted one-fifth more wheat last fall than they did the year before, but will be lucky to reap a crop even equaling the 200 million bushels of 1966.

The official Agriculture Department crop estimate was that the Kansas yield will be only 197,190,000 bushels.

WE'RE HURT

"There's no question we've been hurt," says Charles W. Pence, executive secretary of Great Plains Wheat Inc., a regional and international marketing organization.

"We've seen years like this and crops like this and then we've gotten rain and come up with an average crop," says J. E. Pallesen, statistician for the Kansas State-Federal Crop Reporting Service. "If we can get normal precipitation now a lot of our wheat would be a fair crop."

The drouth affects the western half of Kansas — where the bulk of the state's wheat is grown — and extends through southeast Colorado, the panhandles of Oklahoma and Texas, and western Oklahoma.

RESERVES LOW

While eastern Kansas received up to six inches of rain last weekend, the big wheat counties of Sumner and Sedgewick received only half an inch. Those counties, in south-central Kansas, received only .64 of an inch of rain the first three months this year. The average is 3.28 inches.

When there is sufficient moisture below the ground, young wheat can draw its spring nourishment from there. But subsoil moisture reserves are low because some areas got only 40 per cent of normal rainfall last year.

Bill Crotinger of Tribune, legislative agent for the Kansas Committee of Farm Organizations, had predicted the crop at 168 million bushels on the basis of April 1 conditions. "That area of the state of Kansas, west of US 81, which produces about three-fourths of the state's wheat, is still powder dry," Crotinger said. "The ravages of drouth, winter-kill and insects are readily visible in most areas."

SOONER HEAT

Grain elevator operators throughout the Oklahoma wheat belt had indicated they expected their crop to be only 50 to 80 per cent of last year's 98.4 million bushels, and Monday's official estimate was 65,320,000. Harold A. Rector, market analyst for the Oklahoma Board of Agriculture, says the few local areas that had sufficient rainfall probably will have production equal or better than 1966. "But these areas are very small," Rector says.

The official forecast is for a national winter wheat crop of 1.16 billion bushels. This is down sharply from the 1.23 billion bushels forecast in December but 10 per cent more than last year's production.

LOT OF WHEAT

"Remember," said J. H. Dean of Hutchinson, Kans., "one billion bushels of wheat still is a helluva lot more wheat than we would use in this country in one year." Dean is general manager of one of the largest wheat marketing cooperatives in the country, with 125 elevators.

"It is inconceivable that the U.S. won't produce more than enough to take care of its domestic needs and a goodly portion of foreign requirements," said a Kansas City milling official. He said the government, through export subsidies — paid to exporters to bring their sale price down to a competitive level on the world market — will dictate the price of wheat.

Union Will Appeal Poll Tax Decision

AUSTIN (AP)—A 3rd Court of Civil Appeals decision sustaining last November's poll tax amendment will be appealed, says Roy Evans, secretary-treasurer of the Texas AFL-CIO.

"We know we have a good cause," Evans said Wednesday after the appeals court reversed a trial court decision. Evans brought the suit to invalidate the amendment on the ground that it did not give voters fair notice of what they were voting on.

The trial court agreed with Evans, saying the voters did not get a fair notice that in addition to abolishing the poll tax they were putting an annual voter registration in the constitution with a yes vote on Proposition 7.

"It's too important an issue not to appeal," Evans said.

The appeals court majority opinion said voters were adequately informed of the content of the amendment by all the publicity that news media gave Proposition 7.

Truck Firms Open Gates

DALLAS (AP) — Trucking firms in Dallas opened their gates to Teamster-represented workers Wednesday.

"It's being over is a tremendous relief to us because our customers have not been able to serve their customers," said J. C. Aspinwall Jr., president of Great Southwest Warehouses Inc., in comment about a tentative agreement between the Teamsters Union and the Trucking Employees, Inc.

A survey of industries and warehouses showed a few "tight spots" had developed.

J. A. Sheetz, president of the Southwest Operators Association which represents 25 motor freight carriers in this region, said Wednesday was a heavy work day.

Charles Haddock, president of Truck Drivers & Warehouse Men's Local 745, said his union has asked all of its workers to report to work "because all the carriers I know of have terminated their lockout."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You certainly are apt to get involved in all sorts of unpleasant conditions unless you use the care and caution that is essential when difficult problems do face one — such as this day and evening. By so doing you prevent accidents, arguments or both that could put you way behind the eightball.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19) Care must be exercised in spending money in motion and in conversations with others, especially partners otherwise you could get into trouble. Check over all figures. Some error could be very costly.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20) Try to ascertain your financial property or you can get into all kinds of difficulty. Keep a budget, let it be streamlined. Precision is very important. Improving all other assets requires much care as well.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) Don't be forced with those in social life because you want to get ahead in the fashion, since diplomacy will be far more effective. Discharge your obligations wisely. Then take time for relaxation you need.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) You are busy feeling frustrated, so get busy on small duties that have to be done sometime, and you find you are soon on even keel again. Don't argue with loved one. Avoid a quarrel day for pointing out what you think is an error.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't endeavor to discuss with good comrades some excellent ideas you have, since they are apt to be very busy. Await a better day. Quality plan social events for days ahead. Avoid persons who are not really your type.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Some vexatious problem can hurt your reputation. If you surrender to a higher-up, be sure you look into inventive gadgets that will save you time and energy in your work. Increase efficiency.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You think that if you start new interests rolling you will get rid of your problems quickly. Nothing works that fast, so be sensible. Do something constructive about them first. It does not harm to listen to what a new contact has to say.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although you want to criticize one who has hurt your feelings, cool off and await a better time to state your ideas diplomatically. Get busy with obligations of hand. Be sure of what you are doing.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Concentrate on how to deal with associates more intelligently and harmoniously and show concentration so that you don't make opponents of them. Don't be forced. Let situations develop and do something.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Many tasks are before you and if you plan your work and schedule your time, you find you get all handled well. Don't criticize co-worker because you feel irritated. Be sure to get to bed early tonight.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to be extravagant with money at this time, but it is better to think of the future when you may need it. Put some special new skills to work instead. This could be fun as well as profit.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to March 20) Stop being so difficult at home by losing your temper and keeping others impatient. Gain their respect instead. Find better ways to increase security and you find all appliances for you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN tomorrow he, or she will be a veritable human dynamo of action and could prove quite a handful for those who have him, or her, in their charge, so give the benefit of sports, chess, to perform, etc., early in life. The field of selling is ideal for your progeny, much money can be made of this, since your progeny has the perseverance and gift of gab necessary as well.
