

SET TONIGHT Cancer Drive Has Dual Aim In Soliciting

When your doorbell rings this evening, the person at your door probably will be one who has volunteered her time in the cause of the 1967 Cancer Crusade.

She will be asking not only for a check, to help finance the campaign against cancer, but also that you lend a hand in research purposes directed toward the same end.

Cancer's Warning Signals

Along with a request for financial help, the volunteers will leave a brochure on "Cancer's Warning Signals," with the hope that all persons will read these, take heed, and keep the printed precautions in a handy place as a regular reminder.

Also to be left at each household will be a simple survey card (which the respondent will be asked to complete and mail in). This is a simple questionnaire type which does not pry into personal affairs, but seeks to get nationwide information on such things as regular checkups, and normal health safeguards.

Full Attention

The public is asked to give full attention to these subjects, as well as to give the Cancer Fund a boost with a contribution.

Howard County this year is after an $8,000 goal. Some of this money has been raised by advance gifts and through business solicitation, but the bulk of the money will be sought in the residential canvass.

Mrs. Joe A. Moss heads the general Crusade, while tonight's volunteer effort is directed by Mrs. Ralph Caton and Mrs. Bob Galbraith.

Major Share Of Funds

Research into the causes and treatment of cancer will once more take the major share of funds raised in the Crusade.

The Texas goal is $2 million. A total of 31 per cent of funds raised last year—$597,911—is being spent for research this year, including grants to investigators in Texas hospitals and medical schools. Areas under investigation by American Cancer Society grantees include the relation of viruses to cancer, irradiation therapy, chemotherapy (treatment by drugs), basic molecular research, and use of new diagnostic tools.

Major Allocation

The second major allocation of funds was 28 per cent to public education. This $327,895 supplied free films, pamphlets, exhibits and posters for all Texans through school, church and civic groups and on display at shopping centers and convention sites. A new program in the public education effort was the development of a fleet of Cancer Mobile Van Exhibits, small trucks which contain moving exhibits on smoking and lung cancer, and on other major kinds of cancer.

Service to cancer patients by volunteers of the American Cancer Society used 13 per cent of the funds this year. The $248,551 purchased dressings, sickroom supplies and loan closet items which are all given to cancer patients upon authorization by a physician. Volunteers also provided transportation and a range of other services to cancer patients and their families.

Latest Developments

Keeping the medical profession informed of the latest developments in cancer treatment required a program using 14 per cent of funds raised—$259,673. Films, speakers, meetings and tumor clinics for physicians, nurses, dentists and technicians, as well as Research Fellowships, are provided by the ACS.

Coppolino Bid Lost

NAPLES Fla. (AP) — Dr. Carl Coppolino's lawyers lost a bid to bring his first degree murder trial to a quick end today when Circuit Court Judge Lynn Silvertooth refused to throw out testimony of the prosecution's star witness.

The defense had argued that the testimony of Drs. Milton Helsen and Charles J. Umberger of the New York Medical Examiner's office was based on hearsay and was inadmissible.

Coppolino's lawyers did win one point when the court rejected an effort by the state to introduce hypodermic needles of various sizes as evidence.

Coppolino, 34-year-old anesthesiologist, is on trial in the death of his first wife, Carmela, in 1965. The state says Coppolino gave her a fatal injection of succinylcholine, a muscle relaxing drug, to clear the way for his marriage to a wealthy divorcee.

Senators Snag Election Law Revision Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators, apparently a bit leery of a bill revising the election code, rejected an attempt today to bring the proposal to a vote.

A motion to suspend the rules and take up the bill got a 19-11 majority, but was not enough since a two-thirds vote, or 21, was needed.

Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells, the sponsor, handled dozens of questions on proposed changes in the code and assured senators that it, "in no way, restricts voting."

MONEY, HONEY

Angered by the Senate's refusal to take up the bill, Creighton was asked why senators had blocked the measure, and he replied: "Money. I'm afraid money is behind it. It's these electronic voting machine companies that's behind all this."

"But I'm going to pass that bill if I have to stir things up."

A provision in Creighton's bill provides for electronic voting, and he said the provision was broad enough to include any type of electronic data processing machine.

DO-OR-DIE

The election law revision bill resulted from a summer-long study by a special election law study committee and was first up on the Senate calendar.

The legislature's hottest issue, sale of liquor by the drink, had a do-or-die date with the House Revenue and Taxation Committee today, and was expected to be sent to the floor for full debate.

ATTENTION

The 2:30 p.m. session of the House Tax Committee attracted so much attention because of weekend compromise talks over the governor's plan to legalize sale of liquor by the drink then tax the cocktails to the tune of $15 million in new revenue.

The bill was heard by the House Tax Committee several weeks ago and has been in a subcommittee ever since. Late Monday, Rep. Ben Atwell, Dallas, chairman of the subcommittee and of the entire tax committee, said the full committee would act on the subcommittee's recommendation.

LOCAL OPTION

House sponsors of the bill, Reps. Dick McKissack and John Field, both of Dallas, said they expected the measure to be recommended by the subcommittee and approved by the full committee in much the same form as originally asked by the governor.

However, McKissack and Fields said the governor has agreed to an amendment that will be offered during floor debate and is expected to remove much of the opposition. The amendment would make legalization of liquor by the drink possible only after voters in a precinct or county had a chance to express themselves on the issue in a local option election.

MIXED DRINKS

As the administration's bill was first introduced it would have made mixed drinks automatically legal in about 122 counties or parts of counties where the sale of alcoholic beverages for on premise consumption is now legal. Opponents claimed this provision would not give residents of the 122 counties a chance to decide for themselves if they want mixed drinks in their hometown areas.

More Freedom In Using Oral Confessions Nixed

House Panel Axes Criminal Code Change

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee rejected today attempts to give police officers and prosecutors more freedom in using oral confessions.

The committee met at 7:30 a.m., to resume its review of a subcommittee's recommended changes in the 1965 Code of Criminal Procedure but had not finished when the House convened at 10 a.m.

It appeared the committee would not be able to take a final vote on the measure today.

WARNING

The subcommittee bill allows the use of oral confessions only if made in the presence of an examining court, reduced to writing and signed by the suspect or if they lead officers to material confessions.

Rep. C. A. Davis, Houston, tried to amend the measure to allow oral confessions about any matter after a warning of the suspect's rights. The officer taking the statement would have to reduce it to writing and file it within 24 hours with the clerk of the county or district court having jurisdiction over the case. The statement would have been a matter of public record, subject to perusal by reporters.

12-4 VOTE

Rep. Bob Armstrong, Austin, offered but later withdrew an amendment similar to Davis' without the requirement that the statement be reduced to writing and filed.

But the committee approved the subcommittee version, which is almost identical to Texas law before the 1965 code, 12-4.

Armstrong and Shannon explained the measure section by section Monday afternoon and today.

The proposed changes are aimed at meeting most of the objections of law enforcement officials to the 1965 code.

IMMEDIATELY

Lewis Berry, executive director of the Texas Law Enforcement Legislative Council, said he approves of most changes in the bill but thinks the confession provision should be stronger. He said he favored Armstrong's amendment.

The seven-man subcommittee's proposed bill includes changes in the law on confessions, warnings by magistrates, arrest warrants, identification of witnesses to crimes, arrests of suspicious persons and assessment of punishment.

One change requested by the law enforcement associations says a person who is arrested must be taken before a magistrate "without unnecessary delay" rather than "immediately" as required by the 1965 code.

VOTED DOWN

Armstrong explained that since federal courts have already written on the new language as part of federal procedure, this will save police the problem of getting the provision interpreted.

Rep. Renal Rosson, Snyder, wanted "forthright" added, but was voted down 5-10.

Another change allows policemen to arrest without a warrant persons "found in suspicious places and under circumstances which reasonably show that such persons have been guilty of some felony or breach of the peace, or threaten, or are about to commit some offense against the laws."

'MIRANDA' RULE

Shannon said some cities already have such provisions in local laws, but this should be made statewide.

Another provision is designed to require magistrates to warn an accused of all his rights, as spelled out in the U. S. Supreme Court's "Miranda" decision.

Retirement Age Lowered By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to lower the Social Security retirement age to 60 for eligible workers willing to swap full-scale benefits for five years of leisure. But some senators view the measure as a tactical move in a separate battle.

Passed 55 to 28 Monday was an amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., that would give those who retire at 60 about 70 per cent of the benefits they would get if they kept working until age 65.

The Byrd amendment was tacked onto the administration's bill to restore major business tax incentives.

PAY DEBATE

Pending as the debate on the tax bill resumes today is action on a proposed amendment to boost Social Security benefits $4 billion a year, raising the minimum monthly payment from $44 to $70.

Some senators saw in the continuing flood of amendments to the tax bill echoes of last week's bitter battle over the presidential election campaign financing law.

Opponents of the campaign law pushed through an amendment to the tax bill repealing the financing plan. But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., author of the election financing measure and floor manager for the tax bill, pledged a fight to overcome the repealer.

BILL LOADED

Foes of the finance law believe its backers are trying to load the tax bill down with riders in hopes it might be easier to kill all the amendments when the bill goes to a Senate-House conference committee. The House passed the tax bill with little debate but this is the third week of Senate consideration of the measure.

Byrd's amendment to lower the Social Security retirement age has cleared the Senate twice before. The House always has rejected it in conference.

HIKE SOUGHT

Widows are the only category now eligible for age 60 retirement. Other women and men may retire at 62 with reduced payments.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., a co-author of the election financing repealer, urged rejection of Byrd's amendment. But Long supported Byrd.

The $4-billion Social Security increase amendment is sponsored by Sen. Winston L. Proudy, R-Vt.

It would increase all monthly checks, although persons receiving smaller benefits would get proportionately larger boosts. The $168 maximum benefit under present law would rise only to $169.70 a month.

DON'T OGLE!

Spring Practice Starts

NEW YORK (AP) — It's molting season for both birds and girls, and so the American Society of Girl Watchers issued guidelines today for its 5,000 members.

They are: Don't ogle. When passing a girl going the same direction, don't turn the head around and stare.

Don't use binoculars — except at races. Don't whistle, pinch, whisper or commit any other overt act. Maintain eye-ball control at all times.

PARADISE

"We don't have any particular season," said Don Sauers of Eastchester, N.Y., founder of the society. "In fact, some of our best card-carrying members think ski pants in Miami or miniskirts in Los Angeles.

"But this is the molting season when the girls all take off their heavy over clothing and get closer to nature. Our spring season starts the middle of April. At this time Fifth Avenue — between 42nd Street and Central Park — becomes the girl watchers' paradise of the world."

GIRLS MORE FUN

The society started as a gag out of the head of Sauers and grew into an institution.

Sauer, 44, father of five, was sitting around at lunch with some Madison Avenue pals about 10 years ago and a hip-swinging miss swung by the window. Sauers was suddenly struck with an idea.

"Bird-watchers have their own organization — the Audubon Society. I suggested there are more girl watchers than bird watchers. Girls are more fun to watch. They all agreed."

LUSH QUARTERS

The society now occupies quite lush, four-story headquarters on 38th Street just off Park Avenue. It has members in 451 states and several foreign countries. It has its own guide book, au-

Bids Asked For New Federal Building Here

The post office construction project, in the mill for the past three years, appeared headed for the homestretch Tuesday.

Bids are being advertised today with a June 3 opening date for the $890,000 job, according to telegrams received from Rep. Omar Burleson and Sen. John Tower.

Plans have been completed here by Olen L. Puckett, architect for the project. These have been turned over to the General Services Administration, design and construction division, 819 Taylor St., Fort Worth, where contractors may secure copies.

The projected building, to be located on the block between Main and Runnels and Fifth and Sixth, will face on Main Street and will be located 20 feet from the north and 24 feet from the west lines of the property. The structure itself will be 142 by 137 feet, and the remainder of the area will be given over to a 20-foot loading dock, maneuvering space, employe and public parking, and a small spot for beautification.

The plant will be concrete frame with brick finish with granite and limestone trim; two stories with a part basement. The entire ground floor will be given over to the post office. This will contain space for elevator, service and lock box lockers (the service lobby can be closed off at night); offices for the postmaster, receptionist, assistant post master, superintendent of mails, inspector, storerooms, men's locker, restrooms, women's locker room, storeroom, lunchroom, mail vestibule, custodial space, and of course the general workroom area. This embraces around 18,000 square feet.

The second floor would contain offices for seven agencies, among them agricultural groups, the Armed Services, Civil Service, General Service Administration, Internal Revenue Service, HEW (health, education, welfare). Selective Service, building superintendent, restrooms, elevator.

The building will have electric air conditioning and gas heat. The electric distribution system will be underground.

While there has been some speculation of more space for postal and federal office purposes for several years, the first break came March 7, 1963, (See BIDS, Pg. 6, Col. 7)

Stanton To Vote On Water Supply

STANTON — The Stanton City Council has set May 16 as the date for an election on the city's water supply.

One referendum will be on whether to authorize a contract with the Colorado River Municipal Water District to furnish Stanton's water requirements up to 2,000,000 gallons per day. The other will be on bonds to finance a pipeline and filtration plant.

The bond proposal is for a total of $325,000, said Mayor S. W. Wheeler, of which $225,000 will be in the form of revenue bonds and the remaining $100,000 in general obligation bonds.

The total is based on estimates by Roy Crim, who is the city's consulting engineer. Included are about six miles of pipeline, possibly 12-inch diameter, and a filtration plant capable of handling Stanton's maximum requirements.

If voters approve the contract, which previously got the unanimous blessing of the city council, and if they also approve the financing, plans will immediately be pushed into the working stage so that an early invitation on bids may be set, said Mayor Wheeler.

Seasonal Eyestrain

Spring is the molting season when the girls take off their heavy over clothing and get closer to nature. So says Don Sauers of Eastchester, N.Y., founder of the American Society of Girl Watchers. Little-Known Librarians Given Publicity This Week

Friends of the libraries of the city and county, calling attention to the Tenth Annual observance of National Library week in Texas, are interested in publicizing the librarians of certain schools and agencies who are not widely known to the general public.

Shown above are three of the dozen or more persons in this community whose full time occupation is operating a library. Runnels Junior High School's librarian is Miss Joye Redman. The Runnels library is on the third floor of the school. It has more than 6,000 books in its stacks and is heavily used by the Runnels students. Miss Redman, formerly an assistant at the high school, was moved to her present post at mid-term. The library will continue, according to Roscoe Newell, principal of the school, in its present location despite extensive rebuilding plans for Runnels.

Kenneth Roach, librarian for Howard County Junior College, and his staff are looking forward to moving into their new library building sometime in the next month. The new building will offer much additional room and afford even wider expansion of the library facilities than has been its past history. The library now has more than 15,000 volumes on its shelves. The practice has been to add from 1,000 to 1,200 books a year to the lists. When the new library facility is opened, this may be increased to more than 1,500 books a year.

The HCJC library, in addition to serving the students, is also available to the general public. It features a great many volumes for research study not found in other libraries of the city. Goliad Junior High School library is suffering from congestion, but there is no relief in sight. Miss Ruth Beasley, the Goliad librarian, said that she has 6,800 books on the shelves and that a generous library budget makes it possible to expand the number of books each year. Miss Beasley is a veteran in the school library service. She was at Runnels Junior High School before Goliad was built, and moved to the new junior high school when it was put in operation.

National Library Week in Howard County has been officially proclaimed by the mayor, who has followed the lead of the president and the Texas governor.

The week has a dual theme this year—"Explore Inner Space—Read"—and "Reading Is What's Happening."

Volunteers To Be Honored

Fifty West Texans who served as presidents of statewide voluntary associations will be honored guests at the 49th annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce banquet in Del Rio Monday evening, April 24.

John Ben Sheppard, Odessa, president of the WTCC, said "West Texas is fortunate that a large percentage of the statewide voluntary organizations are led by such competent people from this area."

Special badges, an honor table at the banquet and leadership awards will be a part of the recognition program. W. O. Shafer, Odessa, president of the Texas Bar Association, will give the response for the men presidents and Mrs. B. F. Seay, Andrews, president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, will respond for the women presidents.

Banquet speaker Monday evening will be Dr. Dorothy Gregg, a native Texan and public relations specialist of U.S. Steel, New York.

TEXANS AT WAR Mesquite's Murphy Gets Morphine Shot

By The Associated Press
Claude Murphy, a Texan at war from Mesquite, and his squad went looking for Viet Cong. When they reached a rice paddy dike, an indefensible position, they found them. "We were right out in the open," says Lance Cpl. Murphy, 21. "We tried to find cover, but there was none to find."

He was wounded in the wrist and shoulder, and bullets were popping all around him and his nine squad members.

ARM NUMB

After 15 minutes almost at the mercy of the Viet Cong fire, "we finally got a machine gun set up, and the enemy started pulling back."

His right arm was numb during the battle, "but it was hurting by the time I boarded the helicopter. They gave me a shot of morphine for it."

His outfit, part of the 3rd Bn., 5th Marines, was searching for a battalion of Viet Cong last January about 12 miles northwest of Phu Bai, and he believes the enemy that fired on him was of that battalion.

FOUR HIT

"We had crossed a bunch of rice paddies and a bridge over a little river. We were just past the river when they opened up with rifles, machine guns and mortars. Four of us were hit immediately."

The machine gun provided cover for the corpsmen to apply first aid, and the Marines called for artillery support, which routed the Viet Cong. Murphy is recovering at the U.S. Naval Hospital at Corpus Christi.

Bishop Show Pretty Awful

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Joey Bishop Show," presided over by a very nervous host, took off in a shaky, thoroughly disorganized style on ABC Monday night.

It probably will settle down ultimately and assume some of the smooth operation of its prototype, the long-playing "Tonight Show" on NBC — that is, if Joey ever stops thanking people for coming to see him.

The 90-minute late evening show is a frank copy of its NBC competition in everything, including its faults.

COMMERCIAL

Bishop is installed behind the traditional desk with the guest accommodations on his right. Like his East Coast rival, he keeps fishing behind his chair to produce an endless assortment of products. The commercials continually interrupted the show. I counted 10 during the first 30 minutes.

The first program should have provided considerably more entertainment than it did. Gov. Ronald Reagan was the first celebrity guest. Since neither he nor Bishop seemed prepared, it was a long confrontation broken by awkward pauses.

Bishop moved into the audience and introduced a few celebrities and his wife, Debbie Reynolds turned up and described her work as a Girl Scout leader but was snapped off short when she started to do some amusing impressions of stars. Danny Thomas was in his usual reverent, patriotic and humble form.

"SIDE KICK"

Bishop's "side kick" is a Dennis Day-ish sort of fellow named Regis Philbin. "That's Greek for Hugh Downs," said Bishop. He seemed to have little to do except take abuse from the comedian.

It was a pretty awful beginning.

Hungarians Draw Death Sentences

BUDAPEST (AP) — Three Hungarians were sentenced to death and 16 others to long prison terms today after a court found them guilty of murdering some 250 Jews and Communists during World War II.

The death sentences were given to Lajos Kroesz, 56, Lajos Nemeth, 49, and Alajos Sandor, 46.

The state prosecutor had asked for nine death sentences after a three-month trial in which hundreds of witnesses were heard.

Seven defendants were sentenced to 15 years in prison. Nine others received terms from eight to 14 years.

Plant Blast Burns Woman

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — Investigators sifted wreckage today seeking the cause of an explosion that damaged a building at the Longhorn Army Ammunition Plant and critically burned a woman worker.

The victim, Mrs. Helen Chadwick of Marshall, 31, was the only employee working in a construction bay at the plant when the explosion rocked the building. She was in very critical condition at a Marshall hospital today with burns over 95 percent of her body.

A spokesman estimated $50,000 damage in the explosion and fire. Damage was confined to one building. The explosion apparently was set off in a bay where ignition components for hand-held signal flares are produced.

The fire and explosion happened at the Lone Star Army Ammunition Plant near Texarkana, Tex., Feb. 15, killing 11 persons and injuring 15. Army Lt. Col. Royce P. Larned, commander of the Longhorn plant, headed the Army team of investigators probing the Texarkana blast.

The plant here, with headquarters in nearby Karmack, Tex., manufactures a variety of flares and other lighting items used by the Armed Forces in Vietnam.

Harrison said he is renting the house for six weeks from mid-June. The Kennedys are not expected to stay the full time, Harrison said.

Neuritis is one of the most painful nerve fibers and form adhesions. This will aggravate the neuritis and develop in a chronic stage. Blows, falls, contusions and long exposure to cold will result in a similar way. The spine should be checked in all cases as it is actually a nerve affected.

Speck Near 'Hot' Seat

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard Speck, convicted Saturday of murdering eight nurses, was confined today in the Cook County jail 22 feet from the electric chair from which his attorney hopes to save him.

Speck was returned to a maximum security cell after a 180-mile ride to Chicago from Peoria, Ill., Monday. His trial was heard in Peoria on a defense plea that jurors from Chicago, where the eight young women were knifed and strangled July 14, would be prejudiced against Speck.

A jury of seven men and five women convicted him Saturday in Peoria and recommended execution.

Gerald W. Getty, public defender of Cook County who represents Speck, is preparing written arguments for a new trial to be presented to Judge Herbert C. Paschen May 15.

If a new trial is not granted, Getty plans to ask that the court hear from six psychiatrists before sentencing Speck. One of the psychiatrists, Dr. Marvin Ziporyn, assigned to the county jail, has already said he believes Speck was temporarily insane from the effects of drugs and alcohol at the time of the killings.

Getty hopes mitigating testimony may lead to a reduction in the sentence. Illinois law allows the trial judge to set aside a jury's recommendation of death and impose a prison sentence.

Enrollment Given Boost

Substantial gains at three elementary schools and modest losses in the secondary level combined to give Big Spring school enrollment a slight boost for the week. The 7,529 figure on April 14 was up seven for the week, and only 57 under a year ago. College Heights Elementary School gained nine pupils during the week. Moss Elementary five, and Airport three. Six elementary schools were static and three lost only one each. At the secondary level, Goliad was steady, Runnels dropped two, and senior high four. Special education was off one.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠
A defender's apparently "innocuous" small trump provided the key to the success or failure of South's six spade contract.

When North raised South's one spade response, the latter was alerted to slam prospects. Also the normal procedure would be to jump in clubs at this point, South reasoned that more information might be forthcoming if he made a simple forcing rebid of three hearts—a new suit. The club raise could always be held in reserve.

When North jumped directly to game in spades, South proceeded without further ado to a small slam.

West made the natural opening lead of the jack of diamonds and dummy's ace won the trick. Declarer observed that his partner's club holding was not too robust, and that a favorable division in the suit would be required to land the slam.

He tested the trump suit first by leading to the ace of spades and back to dummy's queen, as all hands followed. The club queen was put thru next. East's decision to cover with the king was questionable even though he is ultimately assured of winning a trick in the suit with the ten. Observe that he can play the king just as conveniently on the next round if declarer continues with the jack.

South was in his hand with the ace of clubs and he led back the suit—purposefully refraining from drawing the last trump. He had little to lose by this maneuver for, if the clubs do not divide evenly, the slam cannot be made.

West, apparently under the assumption that his opponent has miscounted trump, hastened to ruff in with the nine of spades. His satisfaction in scoring a lowly trump that could have been pulled—was short lived, for South promptly claimed the rest of the tricks. East's ten of clubs must succumb to the jack on the next round, and declarer ultimately discards North's losing heart on his long club, and ruffs out dummy's diamonds with his two remaining trumps.

Had West discarded on the second club, declarer would have fallen short of his goal, for a club trick must still be conceded to East and when South draws the last trump, he has only one spade left in his hand and is, therefore, able to ruff out only one of North's diamonds. A diamond trick must be surrendered at the end.

Walter Schirra Jr., one of five astronauts who testified last night before a House investigation subcommittee, talks to newsmen after the hearing into the Apollo 1 tragedy.

Expressing the astronauts' desire to return to the man-to-the-moon effort, Schirra said, "I think we'd like to get back... we've got a big job ahead of us." (AP WIREPHOTO)

Dear Abby Eavesdropping Is Rude

DEAR ABBY: I am employed by a professional man who speaks a foreign language that I neither speak nor understand. Although he and his wife both speak English very well, when she calls him at his office and I am sitting there working he will very often switch to that other language. This is most irritating to me.

I told him once that I would be glad to step out of his office when he is conversing with his wife, but he said it wasn't necessary. I am not interested in what they have to say to each other, but I think this is very rude, don't you? What should I do?

A Devotional For The Day

"Be Faithful till death, and I will give you the crown of life." (Revelation 2:10, NEB)
PRAYER: In the face of overwhelming odds, O Father, help us to spurn the side of evil and turn the tide so that love like Christ's may rule in the hearts of all mankind. Help us to pray, not merely with our lips but from the heart, the prayer Thy Son taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."
(From the 'Upper Room')

Lost Perspective

The communication media, perhaps in an effort to be more than fair in treatment of minority elements and opinions, sometime lose a sense of perspective and balance. Too often they settle for the easy quote from some popular figure or opportunist without due regard for the weight of testimony from these sources.

Thus, while media, particularly the electronic media, were going off the deep end to report almost every word of Dr. Martin Luther King in his new quit-the-war line, a pronouncement of Dean Rusk, Secretary of State, went almost unnoticed. What the secretary had to say, it seems to us, is entitled to considerably more consideration than that of a man who has vilified his leadership in what was once his righteous cause because the war got in the way of his program.

It is not to be denied that the communication media, particularly the electronic media, were going off the deep end to report almost every word of Dr. Martin Luther King in his new quit-the-war line, a pronouncement of Dean Rusk, Secretary of State, went almost unnoticed. What the secretary had to say, it seems to us, is entitled to considerably more consideration than that of a man who has vilified his leadership in what was once his righteous cause because the war got in the way of his program.

Tools For Control

If Texas is to check air and water pollution before it gets as far out of hand as it is on the Eastern and Western seaboard and Great Lakes area, it will not be enough to set up state agencies to define clean air and water quality criteria and to formulate regulatory rules. That is now being done, but it will not be effective unless workable enforcement machinery is devised and firmly and consistently used.

As Rep. Rex Braun of Houston persuasively argues, every level of government has a role in air and water pollution control, and the role of local government is primarily in the area of enforcement. To that end, he has three bills pending in the current legislative session designed to give local officials necessary authority in that area.

would make public and private corporations as subject to criminal law as are individuals or unincorporated entrepreneurs. House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee amendments restricted their application to air and water pollution offenses. Thus, in their present form, however, they appear a reasonable solution to an enforcement dilemma.

Under present Texas law, a corporation cannot be forced into court, much less convicted and punished, for a criminal code offense. As a practical matter, as Harris County cases have demonstrated, neither can its officers or other personnel in pollution offenses where individual responsibility is virtually impossible to fix. In effect, these bills would make it possible to fine and to restrain a corporation in order to enforce pollution controls at the local level.

A Strictly American Holiday

WASHINGTON — One of the things I find myself doing all the time is explaining our American holidays to friends from abroad. The other day a French friend visiting Washington asked me, "Why does everyone in the United States keep talking about April 15?"

"That," I replied, "is known as Income Tax Day, although this year, because it fell on a weekend, we celebrated it on the 17th."

"Is it a religious holiday?" the Frenchman asked.

"Yes, it's a happy day for them, but there are no fireworks displays or anything like that. So many people have lost so much that the government feels it would be in bad taste to set off rockets."

"Do you have any special foods that you eat on that day, such as you do on Thanksgiving?"

"YOU EAT whatever is left in the refrigerator. Some people have nothing left, so they make it a fast day."

"What are some of the other traditions associated with the day?"

Billy Graham

I have been married and divorced three times. Since that, however, I have found the Lord. My question is: How can I pick up the pieces of so many failures and make my life count? J. D.

After so many failures, perhaps you are fitted to live a very useful life. Having faced so many problems, you are certainly in a position to, at least, advise many people what not to do. Having had a lot of trouble yourself, you will have sympathy and understanding for those who face similar problems. The Lord has a way of even using our failures as stepping stones to success, and if you put yourself unreservedly in His hands, you will enter the greatest period of usefulness of your life.

"Not really. There is a legend that at the stroke of midnight an Internal Revenue Service man comes down your chimney and plants a bug in your library. But only the children believe it."

"DOES THE Internal Revenue man ever leave any presents for the family?" the Frenchman asked.

"No, but sometimes he attaches your furniture."

"It sounds like a truly wonderful holiday, and I'm only sorry we don't have anything like it in France."

"That's because you French people don't really know how to have fun."

Punctuality Pays

MEDICINE LODGE, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Wendall Warren was never late for work, and her punctuality saved her life.

When she failed to show up for work one morning at the First National Bank the bank president, C. B. Fullerton, called police.

Undersheriff Herman Schneider broke into the Warren home and found Mr. and Mrs. Warren unconscious from a defective gas furnace. They were rushed to a hospital and recovered.

LBJ Swings To Subdued Style

WASHINGTON (AP) — It sounded like a call to a new life, to a fresh beginning, and the very manner of the man gave that feeling.

In the White House the Latin-American diplomats stood listening as the young president proposed that their republics join the United States in a 10-year, 10-point program.

ITS GOAL, he said, would be "to build a hemisphere where all men can hope for the same high standard of living — and all can live out their lives in dignity and freedom."

He suggested that the various American nations could transform the continent and make it "an example to all the world that liberty and progress walk hand in hand."

THAT WAS in March, 1961, and President John F. Kennedy stirred the Latin Americans as they hadn't been in years. From that moment he became a shining figure to this country's southern neighbors.

Even the disastrous American-backed rebel invasion of Cuba just a month later didn't spoil the Kennedy image in Latin America, for later in the year the Alliance for Progress was created at Punta del Este in Uruguay.

Now it's almost six years later. Has there been progress under the alliance? Those who are delighted at any sign of forward movement in Latin America will say yes. Others, more pragmatic, think the alliance has just been stumbling along.

LAST WEEK another president, a different kind of man, with a different manner, Lyndon B. Johnson, went to another meeting at Punta del Este, this time for a meeting with 19 Latin-American presidents to get more action for the future and in more ways.

At the opening session he yielded his own speaking time to the others and did what was more natural for him since he had been doing that kind of thing most of his life: he talked privately with the individual presidents.

His ability as a speaker had never equaled his ability as a negotiator.

Brains Bank Brainstorm

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbside comments by a sidewalk Socrates:

What would happen if actress Jayne Mansfield were given an injection from the brain of the late mathematician, Dr. Albert Einstein?

Might it help make her figure better?

This and many another conjecture has been raised by two scientific experiments which indicate that specific information can be transmitted from one creature to another by brain extract injections.

THE EXPERIMENTS at Baylor University's College of Medicine and Queens College of the city of New York were done on mice.

The problem for the mice was to learn their way out of a maze. Evidence was found that beginning mice solved the problem quicker when given injections of brain extract from other mice who had earlier learned the best way out of the maze.

Naturally, if this is true on a broad scale, it is too good a technique to limit to mice. If it helps them get out of a maze, why can't it also help people solve the problems of the human rat race?

PARENTS by the thousands will drag their churlish, reluctant children to scientific laboratories with such requests as: "I want my son, Irving to be a doctor. What do you charge for three injections of medical brains? Better yet, make him a specialist. How much for 10 injections?"

"My daughter I would like to see in Radcliffe. Her brains seem okay in English and gymnasium, but she's terribly weak in Ancient History, Greek, and Social Science brains. Can she get all the injections she needs today, or do you want her to come back tomorrow also?"

"Our little boy is fine in nursery school in everything but group attitude. His teacher says he is far too aggressive. Would you recommend perhaps an injection of mice brains to help give him a meeker personality?"

There are no end to the possibilities, of course.

A husband with a wife chronically unable to balance her bank account could well threaten her with divorce if she refused to be injected with brain extract from an obliging accountant.

A WIFE with a husband unable to earn her a decent living might want to mortgage their small home to raise funds to inject him with extract of a millionaire's brain.

There is also the probability that criminal syndicates would get into the act. They could start selling brain extracts of famous people on the black market, and secretly water them down with brain extract taken from Bowery bums and broken-down horse players, eager to make a fast buck.

Aside from the threat of chicanery involved in creating a mass brain extract market to help everyone achieve instant wisdom, there is a practical limitation: There aren't that many brains around. And most of the people with good brains aren't about to dilute them for the benefit of others. They choose to keep them for their own use.

As Euclid said long ago, "There is no royal road to learning."

Despite what science may do with mice, people will have to go on learning with the brains they were born with.

He Drinks Cough Medicine By The Bottle

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a person, now 55, drinks cough medicine, a four-ounce bottle a day or almost every day, can it be harmful or damaging? He has done this for the last couple of years.

He is sleeping all the time. Has this anything to do with it? He doesn't have a chronic cough. He says he takes it for his sinus. Can he become an addict? — R.P.

Your last five words hit the nail on the head. That particular cough remedy contains codeine, a derivative of morphine.

At the rate he is swilling the stuff, there is little question that he already has become addicted, and I seriously doubt that he will shed this addiction without some help from a physician, giving him some safer substitute while he withdraws from the drug.

I think the Food and Drug Administration does the best it can, but there are many pressures involving which medications can be sold over the counter at drug stores and which must have prescriptions.

The syrup you mention (and there are many others) are safe enough if used according to instructions and only when needed. They become dangerous when the instructions are not followed—and someone becomes hooked to the extent of a bottle a day.

Get medical help for this man before things worsen.

Dear Dr. Molner: The doctor said my father passed away from acute myocardial decompensation. Would you explain what that means? — MRS. F.P.

It means sudden heart failure—myocardial referring to the heart muscle, and decompensation meaning failure, or inability to adjust to the demands on it.

When this happens abruptly, it usually is the result of some prior disease of the heart muscle, or of a type of sudden disruption of heart rhythm. (This does not apply to the common variety of disturbed rhythm involving skips or palpitation.)

Some heart disorders may result in a congesting type of heart failure which is slow enough in its onset to allow time for corrective treatment. Acute myocardial decompensation comes too quickly for that, even though it may have been and probably was preceded by some form of heart disease.

What are the warning signals of kidney disease? Read Dr. Molner's booklet "Your Kidneys—Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes a 11 reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Remembrances Of A Storm

I remember the water running in a stream under the door and spreading over the floor. It poured in around the windows, and my mother, with a mop, tried to stem its spread.

MY DAD was braced against the frail door seeking to hold it closed. Outside there was a tremendous roaring sound unlike any other I had heard or remembered. It was raining so hard that I couldn't see through the windows.

Our flimsy box house shivered and cracked ominously. Dishes in the cabinet rattled and slid back and forth.

THE LAMP had been burning on the table, but my mother now blew it out because it was trembling in harmony with the rocking of the house. It was so dark inside now that I could only see the dim outlines of my parents as they struggled against the raging winds and beating rains.

Then, as quickly as it had begun, the storm stopped. Instead of the deafening roar, there was a tremendous quiet. The little house stopped shaking. The rain passed and the skies lightened until you could again see clearly.

It was suddenly cold, although before the storm, it had been uncomfortably hot.

MY DAD opened the door and stepped outside. I followed, wading in water which came to my ankles. The yard was piled with rubbish. The two or three small trees were beaten to the earth. Rain had cut deep gulleys in the grassless yard.

We went out on the yard and walked along the narrow road which was the little town's main street.

At the general store, we turned in. Much of the front porch of the long, narrow store was gone — the winds had ripped it loose and it was piled haphazard against a shed where the proprietor kept kerosene and other merchandise. Inside I saw that the sheaving had tumbled along one side and all of the merchandise was piled in a tangled mess on the floor.

SCORES OF glass containers had broken and the floor was deep in pickles, fruit and vinegar. The wind had torn away some of the roofing, and a flood of water had poured in.

The proprietor was coming toward us pushing a mass of broken glass, spilled foods and battered tin cans. He was shoving the lot toward the front door with a big broom.

THE NEXT day, I remember, my dad took me to a farm where the storm had levelled the structures and left only the foundation stones. I remember the numerous dead chickens strewn about the site. Some looked as though they had been plucked.

Across a pasture in a sizable mesquite was a bulky object. We walked nearer to see what it was.

THERE PERCHED precariously in the branches of the tree was a parlor organ—a musical instrument of those days found in the more affluent homes. Despite its aerial journey from the house to the tree, the organ appeared undamaged.

I have long since forgotten all other details. I only remember this much of my first experience with a West Texas twister.

The Rise Of The Non-Believers

WASHINGTON — "The Fourth Group": Norman Cousins of the Saturday Review, has floated the phase to describe (and, I think, to exploit) what might be called the "infidels"—the nonbelievers in everything President Johnson says about Vietnam.

As Cousins puts it, there is a large block of public opinion willing to support the declared policy in Southeast Asia. It is distinct from two other bodies of thought, one that is gung-ho for victory, one that is for peace at any price.

"BUT," COUSINS goes on, "it is now discovered that the declared policy may not be the real policy." The fourth group, as he calls it, consists of those sliding from support to skepticism. These people are gazers at the well-known Credibility Gap. They cannot consistently reconcile what the President says and what he does. They don't understand the President's willingness to wound but not to kill off the enemy in North Vietnam. They listen to his repeated public statements on unconditional negotiations, but then they learn that there are, in fact, stringent conditions to any negotiations.

MR. COUSINS, of course, is a certified peace-monger, and his sincerity is much in doubt. My guess is that he would not believe anything Mr. Johnson said about Vietnam unless the President said — and did — bring the boys home.

But it is, nevertheless, a fact that the "infidels" are growing in number. Some have been enlisted from among LBJ's staunchest believers in the past and from among those who were willing to wait and see. The appointment of Ellsworth Bunker to replace Cabot Lodge in Saigon has shaken some stout hearts, for Bunker is an ass.

AND THESE speculations: The recent trip to Guam preceded by the October tour of the Far East, and by a gathering before that in Hawaii, drives home the point that Mr. Johnson puts too much reliance in show-boating. All told, despite continued military success and heartening gains of political stability in South Vietnam, the President manages to confuse those who prefer to trust him — and they are slowly defecting to the group that prefers to distrust him.

MY OWN FAITH is too firmly implanted for any slippage. It's LBJ's conduct of his public relations rather than his conduct of the war that I find disturbing. In mid-March, Sen. Hatfield (R., Ore.) spoke at Harvard and read back one of LBJ's many campaign twisters. "Some others are eager to enlarge the conflict," said LBJ in August, 1964. "They call upon us to supply American boys to do the job that Asian boys should do." But by the spring of 1965, the President was supplying American boys in large numbers, and he might better have said in the first place that Asian boys couldn't do the job.

TODAY HE is still fighting a limited war with conventional weapons, and for all we know, he has already decided to go to unlimited attacks with less conventional weapons. All we are certain of is that he'll refuse to call it "escalation." This is the kind of public relations which turns supporters into skeptics, skeptics into agnostics, and agnostics into infidels.

Desperate Need For Family Planning

WASHINGTON — Bailing out a leaky boat with a teaspoon — that is what the effort is like thus far to stem the upsurge of population threatening to overwhelm the earth's resources. An important change in American policy could, however, mark the beginning of a more meaningful attempt to defuse the time bomb of the population explosion.

WHILE IT got little notice, William S. Gaud, administrator of AID, told a Congressional committee that as part of AID's family planning program the United States will furnish contraceptive materials to countries requesting them. Until now AID has furnished only technical and advisory help for population programs, training and research.

The amount spent on this marginal effort has been tiny. Out of the economic program for the current fiscal year of $2.1 billion less than $9,000,000 goes into family planning. Of that amount $5,000,000 is a loan to Turkey to spread information about techniques to carry out family planning.

CAUTIOUS AS the approach has been, it is a radical departure from the timidity of the past that vetoed even the most peripheral look at a subject hedged in by a multitude of taboos.

The cautious steps have been taken the full meaning of death control — limiting the growth of peoples — without birth control is evident. The summit meeting in Punta del Este and before that the session of the international Planned Parenthood assembly in Santiago, Chile, pointed out the urgent need for action in Latin America where the population will double before the end of the century. Many of the Americas must import food to maintain a bare level of existence for constantly multiplying peoples.

A GRIM FACT conveniently ignored

in the past is being faced up to. This is the rate of illegal abortion steadily on the increase. It takes a toll in life and in health only partly reflected in statistics.

AID has just put out a report showing startling contrasts in rates of population increase around the world. The rate for Latin America is 2.9, over-all for the less-developed countries 2.5. The percentage for the developed countries is 1.1, the United States 1.2. In Italy, where the Roman Catholic Church is the official church, the rate is 0.7, only slightly lower than Denmark and the United Kingdom with 0.8.

CAUTION IS still the keynote of AID's approach to family planning with stress on the request that must come from the country wanting help. Some advocates of the desperate need to bring food resources into balance with population growth urge that establishment of family planning programs be made a condition of economic help. In his statement to the House Foreign Affairs Committee Gaud rejected this condition, stating that "to those countries which have voluntary family planning programs" allowing for individual freedom of choice.

ANY EFFORT to persuade or coerce sensitive underdeveloped countries into taking contraceptive material would kick up a political storm. Still under study is how to go about providing such help.

Of the total AID request for the next fiscal year of $2.5 billion $20,000,000 is budgeted for family planning. Double the current figure. It is a gain, although still a small beginning on an immense problem.

A LOVELIER YOU

Fight After-Effects Of Big Weight Loss

By MARY SUE MILLER
A thin, drawn face and slack skin sometimes follow the loss of a large amount of weight. Rather than suffer that aftermath, plump women are heard to say they'd rather stay plump. Of course the idea springs from envy.

In the first place, what is the alternative to reducing when you are excessively heavy? Only getting heavier, and perhaps endangering your health. And what is so terrible about a lean face? Surely full-moon contours never won a beauty contest.

As for the crepey problem, it is far from hopeless. The chances are that serious sag could be avoided if a woman with more than twenty pounds to lose would seek medical advice and supervision during the reducing period.

Once crepiness is entrenched, nature gets busy and restores some elasticity to facial tissue and muscle. Then the skin begins to snap back. The process, moreover, is quickened by proper skin treatment.

A moisture lotion or cream, applied under make-up, brings freshness. Smoothed on at bedtime, an oil-rich emollient works to refine texture. Various facial masks offer a temporary lift. And corrective exercise coaxes the muscles to tighten up for good. Just try this one:

Place fingertips to sides of cheekbones and gently draw up skin; throw head back and repeatedly open and close lips—open wide, close tightly. Perform daily and you'll get great results.

CREPEY THROAT
To firm and uplift sagging facial muscles and flesh, use my four-way method. It works wonders through corrective exercise, posture, skin care and make-up. Procedures are detailed in the leaflet, "Banish Crepey Throat & Chin." For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 10 cents in coin and a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

Dear Heloise: I do not have a vaporizer. Instead (when I need one), I use an old coffee pot.

Frost's Bread is that good?

(People know our Bread is good—soft and fresh tasting. But what a surprise when they saw it compared with milk! 8 out of 10 people said things like "I didn't know your bread was that good!")

Compare it to milk. 2 slices of Frost's Bread average even less calories than a glass of milk. Yet, on an ounce for ounce basis, Frost's has twice the protein of milk, over half the calcium, less fat, more iron and more B vitamins.

ROCKET BURSTS No problems developed during the first half of the 237,000-mile journey, said scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at California Institute of Technology.

A midcourse trajectory correction was completed at midnight Monday by a series of rocket bursts and the spacecraft locked back onto the sun and star Canopus for guidance moments later. "The vehicle quickly regained the sun," a spokesman for the control agency said, "and this was very crucial."

He said 12 more hours of tracking were needed before the maneuver could be termed a complete success "but all indications are it was."

The trajectory correction was performed by the Goldstone Tracking Station on California's Mojave Desert.

After the spacecraft plunks down on the moon Wednesday evening, a signal from earth will activate Surveyor 3's spongy diggers and send them clanging at the moon's surface.

The hand-sized scoops, able to bite as well as dig, should show scientists whether the surface could support a manned spacecraft. Its mechanical jaws are strong enough to crack concrete.

Before it can land to explore the nature of the moon's surface, however, the spacecraft must be slowed from 6,000 miles per hour, turn around and lower on a cushion of fiery rockets at a scant 3 m.p.h.

"Once the ship is turned around and begins the landing maneuver," a spokesman said, "no one on earth will be able to help. The maneuver is completely automatic."

Standing on tripod legs, Surveyor 3 hopefully will dig and take pictures for two weeks.

Each person applying for a commission as notary public must be at least 21 years of age, a citizen of the United States, and of Texas and a resident of the county for which he is appointed. The required application forms may be obtained from the county clerk.

Secretary of State Hill further stated that any person not now a notary public who desires appointment for the beginning of the new term should apply to his county clerk before May 20, 1967.

Paulette Johnston, charged with theft, entered a plea of guilty in Howard County Court Monday afternoon. She was fined $50, assessed costs in the case and ordered to jail for five days.

R. F. Dorsey, 507 Washington, reported the theft of a bicycle from the yard.

Surveyor Fired Back On Right Moon Track

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3, fired back on the track in a crucial space maneuver, zeroed in on the sun and stars today in America's first try at digging the moon.

The spacecraft, equipped with spindly, arm-like shovels, is aimed at the moon's Sea of Storms, the probable lunar landing site for future U.S. astronauts.

Touchdown for the 2,283-pound moon device, the most complicated yet developed by the United States, is about 7 p.m. EST Wednesday.

No problems developed during the first half of the 237,000-mile journey, said scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at California Institute of Technology.

A midcourse trajectory correction was completed at midnight Monday by a series of rocket bursts and the spacecraft locked back onto the sun and star Canopus for guidance moments later. "The vehicle quickly regained the sun," a spokesman for the control agency said, "and this was very crucial."

He said 12 more hours of tracking were needed before the maneuver could be termed a complete success "but all indications are it was."

The trajectory correction was performed by the Goldstone Tracking Station on California's Mojave Desert.

After the spacecraft plunks down on the moon Wednesday evening, a signal from earth will activate Surveyor 3's spongy diggers and send them clanging at the moon's surface.

The hand-sized scoops, able to bite as well as dig, should show scientists whether the surface could support a manned spacecraft. Its mechanical jaws are strong enough to crack concrete.

Before it can land to explore the nature of the moon's surface, however, the spacecraft must be slowed from 6,000 miles per hour, turn around and lower on a cushion of fiery rockets at a scant 3 m.p.h.

"Once the ship is turned around and begins the landing maneuver," a spokesman said, "no one on earth will be able to help. The maneuver is completely automatic."

Standing on tripod legs, Surveyor 3 hopefully will dig and take pictures for two weeks.

Each person applying for a commission as notary public must be at least 21 years of age, a citizen of the United States, and of Texas and a resident of the county for which he is appointed. The required application forms may be obtained from the county clerk.

Secretary of State Hill further stated that any person not now a notary public who desires appointment for the beginning of the new term should apply to his county clerk before May 20, 1967.

Realtor Week Plans Talked

The Big Spring Real Estate Board, meeting in regular session Monday noon at the Wag-on-Wheel Restaurant, discussed plans for Realtor Week, May 21-27. Sixteen attended the meeting, which was presided over by Jack Shafer, vice president.

Harold Talbot, president, added some tips to home sellers for improving the market ability of their houses. Home buyers, he said, often make a fast-over-all judgment about a house, then start observing the little things.

To capture that initial attention, he suggested that the seller drive around the block and approach the home as if he were the buyer seeing it for the first time. This means that the yard should be in good shape, grass cut, beds edged and weeded to give the impression of being well-cared for.

For the interior, "scrub" is the best advice. Rooms should be well cleaned, furniture neatly arranged, and perhaps some areas repainted. Furniture should be left in place until the house is sold if at all possible.

The kitchen should be gleaming and cheery, because women often make the final decisions about buying a home. The house should be well lighted, too. If a prospective buyer calls at night, turn on all lights. Check drawers, plumbings, etc. and make sure everything is in good order for showing.

If you can't actually leave the house when it is being shown, advised Talbot, turn off the radio and television, send the children and pets out to play, and stay out of the way. The realtor can handle the transaction expeditiously from this point.

Notaries Must File Again

The time is at hand for all qualified notaries public who want to continue their commission to file new applications, according to an announcement made by John L. Hill, secretary of state.

Margaret Ray, chief deputy in the office of Pauline Petty, county clerk, said there are 672 notaries listed on the records of the office.

The filing period for new commissions begins now and expires May 15. The actual period is May 1 to May 15 and the appointment is for terms which start on June 1, 1967 and extend through June 1, 1969.

The applications must be filed with the county clerk along with the oath and bond. Hill emphasized that notaries public should not send requests for re-appointment or for commissions directly to the secretary of state, inasmuch as the law specifically requires that the county clerks approve notary bonds and forward copies of the application to the secretary of state.

Each person applying for a commission as notary public must be at least 21 years of age, a citizen of the United States, and of Texas and a resident of the county for which he is appointed. The required application forms may be obtained from the county clerk.

Beauty Show To Have 38 Entries

The field for the Miss Big Spring pageant will contain 38 entries, Jimmy Anderson, in charge of entries, said Tuesday. The weekend brought four more entries, two in the seniors and two in the junior division. This makes nine contestants for the senior title, the first step in the Miss Texas and Miss America contests. Twenty-eight are in the junior division.

BIDS

(Continued from Page 1) when an addition to the present post office was projected. However, after a complete study, the GSA concluded that it would be substantially cheaper and better in the long run to construct a new plant.

The independent offices bill provided a total of $1,367,000 for land, plans, engineering, expenses and construction. On Oct. 26, 1964, a site selection group came here and on Nov. 24, 1964, the block area was picked. Puckett was awarded the architectural contract March 10, 1965, and earlier this year the GSA indicated an April bid invitation.

Child Cruelty Case Delayed

WESTLAND, Mich. (AP) — Examination of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Coffman of nearby Rockwood on charges of child cruelty has been postponed for one week by municipal judge Douglas Craig.

The Coffmans are accused of having tied their 11-year-old daughter, Debbie, to her bed and of having given her only cereal in one cold meal a day. Police said the child was kept in tatters, forced to eat off the ground and otherwise mistreated. Debbie and her five well-cared for brothers and sisters were placed in a children's home by authorities.

"Debbie is eating like a horse," an official at the home said Monday. "She is more interested in eating than anything else."

The Coffmans stood mute at their arraignment last Friday. Police quoted relatives as saying the Coffmans treated Debbie's five brothers and sisters with love and kindness, and that the harsh treatment of Debbie began shortly after two Coffman children died within a week about four years ago.

Police said Mrs. Coffman's only explanation of her treatment of Debbie was that "she was different."

Commuting Mom Named Top Student At Tech

Family responsibilities and long distance commuting notwithstanding, Mrs. Billye M. Grisham has captured the honor of top-ranking student in the school of home economics at Texas Tech.

BILLYE M. GRISHAM

She has been awarded the Borden scholarship at the annual Home Economics Awards banquet at Tech. To qualify, the student must have seen the top-ranking student for three years of college work in the school of home economics and must have completed nine or more hours in nutrition courses. Mrs. Grisham received the award on the basis of a 3.85 (out of a possible 4.0) grade-point average.

The award was all the more impressive because Mrs. Grisham is a housewife, mother of three children, and commutes daily to classes at Tech. She has been on the dean's list each semester, is a recent initiate of Phi Epsilon Omicron, the home economics honorary fraternity. She became a member of the all-college honor society, Phi Kappa Pi, in her junior year at Tech. To do this, a student must be in the top two percent academically.

Mrs. Grisham, who is the wife of Tolbert Grisham, optician at Malone & Hogan Clinic, is due to graduate this summer at Tech. She is a native of Blackwell where she completed her high school work, holds the Associate in Arts degree from Howard County Junior College. Before moving to Big Spring she was a dental assistant in Abilene, then served here as a newcomer hostess before embarking upon her academic career.

Ghana's Kotoka Reported Killed

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Lt. Gen. Emmanuel K. Kotoka, commander of Ghana's army, was reported killed Monday during four hours of sporadic fighting in which the military rulers of this West African nation put down a coup attempt by rebel officers.

Kotoka led the coup 14 months ago that deposed President Kwame Nkrumah. Unconfirmed reports said Kotoka was seized at his home, shot and his body left near Accra's airport.

Given Another Defense Lawyer

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, Monday afternoon accepted a request by Carlee Allen, under 25 year conviction for armed robbery, that he be given another attorney.

Judge Caton appointed Roger Brown to appear for the defendant, who wants to appeal his case, to replace Norman Spencer Jr., who has been attorney for the prisoner.

Ex-Managing Editor At Tucson Dies

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Tim S. Tippet, 51, former managing editor of the Tucson (Ariz.) Daily Citizen, died Monday after a brief illness. Tippet also had been managing editor of the Skagit Valley Herald at Mount Vernon, Wash., and worked for the Indianapolis Times and the Cleveland Press.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ministers of the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization reportedly are optimistic about the military trend of the Vietnam war, but see little chance for an early cease-fire. The SEATO Council of Ministers began its 12th annual meeting here today, with a closed-door statement on the South Vietnamese political situation an early agenda item.

Although South Vietnam is not a member of SEATO, Foreign Minister Tran Van Do is on hand as an observer and will give the report. Gen. Jesus Vargas of the Philippines, SEATO secretary-general, called in a speech Monday for stepped-up military pressure on North Vietnam. He said it's "about time the Communists realize that they cannot win by the use of force."

Privately, SEATO delegates appeared pleased with the way the war is going. But they said they doubted North Vietnam would be ready to discuss peace talks at this time except on terms unacceptable to the allies. Members represented at the talks, in addition to the United States and the Philippines, are Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, Britain and Pakistan. SEATO member France is boycotting the conclave because of its opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam. Pakistan, which also opposes the war, has sent only an ambassador rather than a minister.

While Vargas urged increased bombing of North Vietnam, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield hailed a proposal to build a ground defense shield against North Vietnamese infiltration. Mansfield told the Senate that South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's plan to build a defensive line of electrified wires, mines and warning alarms could do more than bombing to plug the flow of enemy troops.

Several lawmakers reacted angrily to Sunday's massive antiwar demonstrations in New York and San Francisco. Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., asked his colleagues: "How can such hypocrites tell the American people that they are really devoted to peace?"

Gunman Kills Oil Executive

ADEN (AP) — Hamed Nabih, personnel manager of the British Petroleum Co.'s oil refinery in Aden, was killed while shopping early today by a gunman who fired six bullets into his head and fled.

The assassin was believed to be a member of the FLOSY nationalist terrorist group, the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen, since the Arab employees of the refinery are considered sympathetic to FLOSY's rival, the National Liberation Front.

Soviet Slogans Reflect Shifts

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party issued May Day slogans today reflecting changes in thinking on Cuba, Vietnam and other international issues.

Soviet newspapers published a list of the party's 106 slogans prepared for the holiday May 1. The slogans appear twice a year, for May Day and for the anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution Nov. 7.

The wording and the order of the slogans varies only slightly from year to year, but changes normally reflect shifts in Kremlin thinking.

The slogan on Vietnam said: "Peoples of the world, fight for the termination by the United States of the aggressive war against the Vietnamese people. Demand unconditional termination of the bombings of the DRV — North Vietnam — and the immediate withdrawal of American troops from South Vietnam."

The demand for unconditional cessation of bombing was new for the Soviet slogan lists. It apparently resulted from this demand made in Hanoi since last November's Soviet slogans.

The demand for U.S. withdrawal appeared in earlier lists. The greetings to Cuba were downgraded. They were sent to "the working people" of Cuba rather than to "the heroic people" of Cuba, an indication of Kremlin animosity with Fidel Castro's brand of communism.

Vietnam Peace Talks Proposed

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam offered anew today to talk peace with Communist North Vietnam and proposed that both sides pull back their forces from the demilitarized zone and de-escalate the war.

A U.S. spokesman said the South Vietnamese government discussed its proposal with U.S. officials before issuing it and the U.S. government welcomed the offer.

The South Vietnamese proposed peace talks amid continuing clashes in the northernmost provinces below the demilitarized zone and as 1,500 Saigon government troops launched a new drive in the Mekong Delta 42 miles southwest of the capital.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported 90 of the enemy killed by ground forces and helicopter gunships in clashes near the northern border and about four miles from Hue, the old imperial capital. U.S. losses were three killed and seven wounded, a spokesman said. Government casualties were reported light.

A Vietnamese spokesman said government forces killed 15 Viet Cong guerrillas in the initial hours of the new drive in the Mekong Delta while taking no casualties.

Along the central coastal plains, the spearheads of two South Korean divisions linked up in a drive from the north and from the south to open up a long stretch of the vital coastal highway 1.

Advance elements of the Korean Tiger Division, driving southward from Song Cau, joined units of the White Horse Division, which had pushed north from Tuy Hoa.

The linkup closed the 37-mile stretch between the two coastal cities and extended the central coastal stretch in allied hands to a distance of 235 miles from Qui Nhon to Tan Lam.

The drive, the South Koreans' biggest operation of the war, started March 8, and some 19,000 Korean troops from the two divisions were deployed in it. The Koreans have claimed killing 830 Communist troops and capturing 417.

CANADIAN PLAN
The South Vietnamese peace offer was contained in a communique from the Foreign Ministry which welcomed peace proposals put forth April 11 by Canada. The communique broadly paralleled the four-stage Canadian proposals.

The Vietnamese government said it welcomed "all efforts to bring about peace in Vietnam and proposes specific courses of action such as the pullback from the demilitarized zone, inspection by the International Control Commission, further de-escalation of the conflict and talks, secret or otherwise."

"The government of the Republic of Vietnam," the communique said, "stands ready at any time to meet with or contact the Hanoi authorities either directly or through the good offices of a third party such as Canada."

WITHDRAWAL
The Canadian proposals called for "some disengagement, possibly in the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, together with a cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and of Communist infiltration of the South. (2) freezing military action in South Vietnam at the present level, (3) cessation of all hostilities, and (4) withdrawal of forces on either side of the 17th Parallel. The South Vietnamese gave no distance for the pullback they proposed from the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone which straddles the 17th Parallel. U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops continued bulldozing a cleared strip below the eastern part of the zone. The United States has been shifting its forces to provide reinforcements in the northern provinces just below the zone.

101 SORTIES
In the air war, U.S. planes flew 101 bombing missions over North Vietnam Monday, but spokesmen said poor weather limited the strikes to the coastal regions and the southern panhandle. Pilots claimed destroying or damaging 83 cargo barges, 14 trucks, six bridges and three gun sites.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported two more Viet Cong attacks today against teams of pacification workers, a prime target for enemy attacks in recent weeks.

One attack was against a pacification team near Ban Me Thuot, in the central highlands, and the other against a team near My Tho, in the Mekong Delta. The headquarters said the teams suffered light casualties.

"THICK BARRIERS"
North Vietnam today described South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's plan to build a little Magnot Line south of the demilitarized zone "a foolish design."

Asserting that "the enemy's 'thick barriers' such as Saigon, Da Nang, Chu Lai and other strongholds are defenseless," the North Vietnamese Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan asked: "How could the enemy — incapable of defending such tiny areas — defend a larger area like the one running below the buffer zones?"

Nhan Dan said Ky's barrier would be "but a big 'no-man's-land'" that "would tie down the enemy who is doomed to complete collapse."

Council Will Honor Workers
Volunteers will be honored with service stars and stripes at the Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Council meeting Thursday in the Alford Building at 7:30 p.m.

East-West Trade Plan Ires Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said today the Soviet Union has made "a new ball game" of proposals to boost East-West trade by agreeing with Communist China to step up the flow of war materials to North Vietnam.

"This puts a new light on President Johnson's recommendation for legislation to authorize freer trade with the Soviets," Dirksen said. "I don't think Congress is going to be very happy to do that at a time when the Russians are increasing military help for the North Vietnamese."

U.S. officials disclosed last week that the Soviets and Communist Chinese had reached agreement on handling of Soviet shipments to North Vietnam. The Soviets earlier publicly accused China of holding up supplies intended for use in the war.

WAR GOODS
Dirksen said in an interview he is convinced a majority of both houses now opposes any relaxation of trade barriers, although Johnson has said this would not affect the system of controls on export of strategic goods.

"Who can say with any certainty what is strategic and what is not?" Dirksen asked. "Anything we may sell them could permit them to divert more of their industry to making war goods."

Racial Friction Sparks Fighting

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Apparent friction between Negro and white students at Washington High School triggered gang fighting that spilled into the downtown area and the school parking lot Monday night. Police and Stark County deputies broke it up.

Six teenagers were arrested, three Negroes and three whites. The highway patrol said an estimated 500 students were roaming the area during the fighting, which lasted about four hours. At least one student was injured.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You need to get some important information and should do so by targeting dull doctormen. Talk with associates can widen your knowledge and you achieve far more to the day ahead. Be active.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Forget frivolity and concentrate on whatever is of a monetary nature; you can add much to present abundance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can accomplish a great deal today. Concentrate on whatever is closest to your heart, uppermost in your mind. Avoid one of kin who does not think as you do. Get figure and health toned up.
