

Reparation?

Mayor Wins Sword Duel In France

PARIS (AP)—A Gaullist member of the National Assembly duled to defend his honor today, but the Socialist mayor of Marseille who called him an idiot during an assembly debate won.

The Gaullist was only scratched twice on an arm.

Mayor Gaston Defferre, 56 and a Socialist leader in the assembly, and Gaullist Rene Ribiere, 45, crossed dueling swords at noon on private property in Neuilly-sur-Seine, a suburb just west of Paris.

Fast Flicking

The duel lasted only four minutes. Defferre, though his opponent had 11 years on him, was reported much faster with the sword, flicking Ribiere on his right arm at once and then a second time.

The duel was halted and the adversaries were embraced by their seconds.

First Time

Although Ribiere chose the weapon, "this morning was the first time I had ever picked up one of these weapons," he said. "Defferre knows the technique of sword fighting."

Ribiere spent about 45 minutes this morning with the master of arms in the fencing room of the National Assembly, familiarizing himself with the weapon which he apparently had never had in his hands before.

Verbal Clash

Defferre also did some practicing this morning.

Both deputies indicated Thursday night they hoped to get the duel out of the way in a hurry. Ribiere plans to be married Saturday. Defferre said he has an important appointment in Marseille late today.

The challenge to duel came after a stormy debate in Parliament. During a verbal clash between Premier Georges Pompidou and leftist leader Francois Mitterrand, Ribiere thought he heard Defferre call him an "abrutit" — meaning stupe, slouch or idiot.

Ribiere strode over to Defferre and asked if he had heard correctly. Defferre said yes.

"I ask you for reparation," Ribiere declared, although he left out the traditional slap of a glove. Ribiere's seconds presented themselves to Defferre a few minutes later and Defferre named his seconds.

Svetlana Wings To NY

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—Svetlana Stalina was flying to the United States today — apparently to swing a deal if not to live there.

After she left Switzerland this afternoon, a reliable source said she was accompanied by a Swiss lawyer whose clients include many movie stars. This spurred reports that she and Joseph Stalin's daughter will negotiate the sale of her memoirs in the United States.

A New York public relations concern advised editors there that Miss Svetlana had a statement ready to read at Kennedy Airport on her arrival.

Needs Money

The office of the Swiss lawyer, Dr. Willy Staehelin, declined to give any details of his whereabouts.

American magazines and newspapers have been interested in obtaining her first-person story—reportedly to the tune of several hundred thousand dollars.

Through a French publishing friend she recently sold three letters written to her by her father. Reliable sources said she needs money.

First Class

A Zurich police source said Svetlana was accompanied as far as the airport by Dr. Antonino Janner, a senior Swiss government Foreign Office official who has been her adviser in Switzerland. She was taken into the first class section of the plane.

The source said Svetlana told him she had been very happy in Switzerland. "She seemed to be rather sad at the idea of leaving," he commented.

No Comment

The Swiss government declined to comment on the question of political asylum for her in the United States.

Svetlana has been quoted in India as saying she was disenchanted with the Soviet Union and wished to live in India or the United States.

The Swiss government, which has given her refuge for the last six weeks, announced her departure. Washington sources confirmed she was going to the United States but did not clarify whether she had been granted asylum.

FATHER CURRAN

Fired Priest Gains Backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cardinal and an archbishop on Catholic University's board of trustees are backing a young priest-professor whose ouster generated a mass student-faculty strike that has closed the institution.

The Rev. Charles E. Curran, 33, who says he apparently was fired for his liberal views on moral theology and birth control, has received the backing of Lawrence Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore and the Most Rev. Paul J. Hallinan of Atlanta. The 600-member university faculty and 6,000-member student body almost all stayed away from classrooms Thursday.

The two prelates voiced no endorsement of Father Curran's view as such, but took their stand on the issue of how the matter of his tenure should be decided.

VIGIL LINES

The faculty passed a resolution pledging to stay on strike until Father Curran's contract is renewed. Many students carried signs supporting Father Curran and marched in vigil lines. Others simply milled about the campus in Northwest Washington.

Cardinal Shehan, in Rome attending a plenary session of the secretariat for Christian unity, issued a statement through his Baltimore office saying Father Curran should be "restored to his former status."

Cardinal Shehan said, "The entire matter should be referred to the full board of trustees for consideration."

UNWISE

In Atlanta, Archbishop Hallinan agreed Father Curran should be reinstated.

"I think he is a very competent man and, more important, his academic peers recommended him for a permanent teaching position," said Archbishop Hallinan. "In view of that, it was unwise for the trustees to act in a situation in which faculty members were not heard."

The Most Rev. Thomas A. Connolly, bishop of the Seattle, Wash., diocese and also a trustee, said he did not know all the facts in the case but added: "I could suggest that it be referred to the entire board of trustees. I don't believe that anyone should be dismissed without a hearing."

SHEHAN STAND

Cardinal Shehan was the first of the five U.S. cardinals to take a stand on an issue that centers on the priest but also has far-reaching overtones of the academic freedom issue.

All five cardinals are members of the board along with the 22 other U.S. archbishops, six bishops and 11 laymen.

Gunpoint Dictatorship Set Up By Greek Army

Constantine's Leftist Foes Behind Bars

ROME (AP) — Acting in the name of King Constantine, the Greek army clamped a gunpoint dictatorship on the Balkan nation today and some of the monarch's left-wing opponents were reported jailed.

Reports filtering out through the near-total communications blackout imposed in the lightning midnight move said shots were heard in Athens as tanks and soldiers in full battle kit took control of the deserted streets of the Greek capital.

A royal proclamation read over a Greek army radio station said the king had ordered the army to seize power to protect the country from "internal dangers" pending new elections next month.

COMPLETE CURFEW

The military moved almost like an occupying army. A complete curfew was ordered for all civilians except doctors and pharmacists on emergency cases and soldiers were told to shoot violators.

Civil rights were set aside. A news agency in Turkey said King Constantine had abrogated the law prohibiting death penalties for political reasons.

It was the first dictatorship set up in Greece in 30 years except for the Nazi occupation in World War II.

BITTER STRUGGLE

In Rome unconfirmed reports spread among Greek airline officials that the king's arch foe, former Premier George Papandreu, 80, his American-educated son Andreas, 48, and key followers were jailed.

The Papandreu, leaders of the powerful leftist Center Union party, largest in Parliament, had been engaged in political struggle with the king for 21 months. The Papandreu had been expected to open the parliamentary election campaign Sunday and Greek police feared they would touch off widespread demonstrations against the king.

ELECTION SLATED

A source in the Greek Embassy in Rome said the embassy had been advised from Athens that the election of a new Greek Parliament would be held on schedule May 28 despite the military takeover.

"We have been informed," said the source, "that the coup was staged to assure public order and prevent any extremist revolution during the period preceding the election."

He added that the embassy was told the country was completely calm.

SHOTS HEARD

Later in the day, however, Tanjug, the Yugoslav news agency, reported from Athens that shots had been heard in the Greek capital.

U.S. Air Force headquarters Weisbaden, Germany, said conditions were normal at its base in Athens and the commander there "reported there is no apparent threat to any U.S. military installations or personnel."

The Athens army radio announced that the military had taken over the Balkan member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization at midnight Thursday night under a proclamation signed by the 26-year-old king, conservative Premier Panayiotis Canelopoulos and his Cabinet.

Normal communications with Greece were cut and commercial flights in and out of Athens were suspended.

TRAFFIC HALTED

Greece's border with Turkey was closed and all road traffic between the two countries was halted, the police chief of the Turkish border town of Edirne reported. But a Yugoslav border official at Gevgelija said traffic was moving normally back and forth across the Greek-Yugoslav border and there was no sign of any unusual activity on the Greek side of the frontier.

Tanjug reported from Athens that tanks with soldiers in full battle dress were patrolling the streets of the capital and that pedestrians and civilian vehicles were kept off the streets.

The Yugoslav report said schools were closed, telephone service cut, and the civilian radio station was silent.

Airport Plan Of Expansion Is Revealed

To bring Howard County Airport up to the point where it will serve aviation needs for the community in the foreseeable future and prepare it for any innovations in air passenger and air freight service for the years ahead, will call for the expenditure of approximately $1,600,000.

MASTER PLAN

James Nichols, engineer with Freese Nichols and Endress of Fort Worth, so informed the Howard County Commissioners court and members of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce aviation committee Thursday in a report on the development of a master plan for the facility here.

He had been instructed, he said, to provide the Federal Aviation Authority with some workable figures on the probable requirements of the Howard County Airport by April 26.

He said that the improvements, as he outlined them, would be borne alike by the county and the FAA. The county's share of $800,000 would probably have to be provided by a bond issue.

MORE LAND

Nichols told the meeting that additional land will be needed to permit the extension of the runways—a must in view of the increased size and speed of aircraft which will make use of the field. The runways will also have to be widened, he said.

Additional taxiways will have to be provided as well as an expanded parking apron. An interim terminal building is also contemplated along with a large number of additional "T" hangars.

Carroll Davidson, secretary-manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, pointed out that the situation can become extremely critical if steps are not taken to alter the airport to conform with modern aviation demands and needs.

LOSE AIRLINE

It could, he warned, result in the loss of commercial aviation service soon, and perhaps forever, for the community — if steps to provide the needed facilities are not afforded.

A bill is pending before the state legislature which would enable the county to create an airport authority — if the plan won the approval of the legislators—which would have the management and operation of the airport as its responsibility and would chart the road for any improvements which are needed.

Legislators have said that the approval of the bill is certain.

AUTHORIZED

The county commissioners ized the drafting of a master plan for the airports future development. The report, made by Nichols, was the basic statement of steps needed.

Ideas Net $10,000

DETROIT (AP) — If you use the work suggestion box to dispose of cigarette butts, the thought of Thomas Gawlik might spur you to approach the idea bin with a different gleam in your eye.

Gawlik, 52, has won more than $10,000 from Kelsey-Hayes Co. in the past 10 years for 85 ideas.

Gawlik, of suburban Livonia, was named suggester of the year by the Detroit chapter of the National Association of Suggestion Systems.

As a tool inspector with Kelsey-Hayes for 35 years, Gawlik has submitted 215 ideas to the company, 20 of them now under consideration.

ECCENTRIC CUT

"I've been with the company so long I can see when something's not going to work," he said. "What looks right to the designer doesn't look right to me, so I think up a way to make it better."

His biggest award was $4,100 for improving an out-of-balance condition on a machine similar to a lathe.

"I just took an eccentric cut where the engineers didn't think it was possible," he said.

Another time, Gawlik repositioned some weights on drums to help them pass inspection. Reward: $3,700.

His ideas sometimes range to other company levels.

BIG BUSINESS

"I said the company should diversify itself in the component field for its own assembly operations," Gawlik recalled. "My idea was turned down because the company thought the board of directors should handle things like that."

Suggestions are becoming a big business. NASS officials said in honoring Gawlik.

C-C Protests Non-Stop Flight

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce has filed a protest to a proposed non-stop Trans-Texas flight between Midland and Dallas. This halted an automatic consideration for final action by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The CAB last weekend announced the proposal to permit Trans-Texas to inaugurate such a flight without government subsidy. Continental Air Lines now provides such a service between Midland and Dallas.

Currently, Trans-Texas must stop at either Abilene or Big Spring on flights between Dallas-Fort Worth and Midland-Odessa.

Noting the existing service by Continental, Carroll Davidson, the manager, observed in a communication with the CAB: "Thus, a local service carrier would be providing the same service as a trunk-line carrier. Big Spring is not now served with non-stop service to Dallas."

The communication went on to say that Howard County "is making extensive plans for changes in the county airport in order to adequately, comfortably, and safely handle TTA's turbo-prop Convairs and the DC-9s when they arrive. TTS has encouraged us to do this to maintain service, although at the same time they are happy with our boarding figures which are far in excess of the requirement."

In making the proposal, the CAB said last weekend that if no protests were received within 20 days, the matter would be taken up for final action.

Peking Drug Ban Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration has advised U.S. drug manufacturers of its willingness to lift its Red Chinese embargo enough to permit a shipment of epidemic-fighting drugs to that Communist country.

Officials said today 14 domestic drug makers were advised of the government's position at a quiet meeting Wednesday with Lawrence C. McQuade, assistant secretary of commerce for domestic and international business.

The meeting was called by the government, it was said, to advise the firms that if they receive any inquiries about drug shipments to Red China the government would be disposed to approve them to fight three epidemics reportedly ravaging that country.

Aggie Muster Slated Tonight

The Big Spring traditional Aggie Muster will be one of more than 500 similar ceremonies held throughout the world, tonight when the former students of Texas A&M, who live in Big Spring, gather at 7 o'clock at the Big Spring Country Club to pay homage to fellow classmates who have passed on, and also pay tribute to the Texans who accomplished the freedom of Texas in the battle of San Jacinto on April 21, 1836.

Alton Marwitz, president of the local A&M Club, urged a big turnout of all former Aggies.

Blonde Stowaway Taken Aweigh

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A 20-year-old blonde who says she was trying to get to her boy friend in California spent a night aboard the U.S. Navy's only nuclear-powered guided-missile cruiser in Sydney this week before a guard shouted: "There's a girl under the admiral's bed!"

Marine guards aboard the cruiser Long Beach found Sandra Hilder of Long Jetty, Australia, about three hours before the ship sailed for the Philippines Thursday.

SANDRA NO SPY

"I think they thought I must have been a spy," said Sandra.

She was in the cabin reserved for the admiral. He wasn't aboard.

The Long Beach spent five days anchored in Sydney's harbor and visitors were allowed aboard Wednesday. Sandra was among them.

"I thought I could get to America that way — I just wanted to see Bud," she explained.

Bud is Bud Brewer, 23, a Californian who was serving on the icebreaker Glacier when it visited Sydney last month.

"I met a Marine and went down to the crew's lounge," Sandra reported. "All visitors went ashore at 4:30 p.m. but those who had friends among the crew could stay until 8:30 p.m. before going ashore in a longboat."

"I stayed in the crew's lounge for most of the evening — I read and watched TV."

"Later on I knew I would have to hide so a Marine took me up to the bridge. He showed me the admiral's cabin and said I could probably hide in there without any trouble."

TOP SECRET

"I was pretty tired so I went to sleep on the admiral's double bed. I slept on top of the covers so I didn't mess it up for him."

The girl said she also cleaned up in his lounge.

"I realized that all the books around were probably top secret. I didn't touch a thing — I knew it would not be worth it."

GIRL UNDER BED

About 12:30 p.m. Thursday, she said, she heard a shout in the corridor: "I can't believe it. There's a girl under the admiral's bed."

Soon eight Marine guards and a Sydney policeman were questioning her.

"They asked me what I had touched and what I had read. They asked me what I had taken and what I had done."

The girl said she was taken to police headquarters, searched and questioned by the vice squad. Then the police took her back to the ship, circled it in a launch while the cruiser's Marines were lined up at the rails, and told her to point out the Marine who had helped her.

BUSTED

"I saw him there," said Sandra, "and indicated him because I thought it better for him than being found out later on. He would have been in worse trouble. As it is I think some of them will get busted for breaching security."

"We escorted the Long Beach half a mile out to sea and came back. After it was all over I was driven home."

A U.S. Navy spokesman said there would be no charge against the girl and the Long Beach was making a routine investigation of the incident.

County Library Offers Largest Book Selection

National Library Week has brought out the not too well known fact that Big Spring has more than the expected number of libraries of various kinds. In addition to those which have been publicized during the past week, there are numerous others which have not been given study. Included are a number of excellent church libraries, as well as the county library every day.

New books are being added each month.

Although many of the schools have good libraries, boys and girls make heavy use of the county library every day.

In addition to Mrs. McDaniel, there are two full time assistant librarians, Mrs. Ray Redman and Mrs. W. A. Crownover. Also the library has the services of two young Latin-American girls on a 60-hour-per-month basis under the Community Youth Program out of Snyder.

The library, insofar as its limited space permits, is endeavoring to broaden its range of usefulness to the community. A relatively new operation is the Tuesday morning story book hour for young patrons. This feature, staged in a garage, is a part of the original property.

Two years later, it moved into the lower northwest wing of the new courthouse where it remained until nine years ago. At that time the Dora Roberts Foundation provided the county with a library building—by ceding the Dora Roberts residence and remodeling the original structure to serve its new needs.

Now the library is again suffering acute growing pains. Not only is the area inside the building crowded, but the problem of adequate parking is becoming more and more intense.

In 1966, the library circulated nearly 95,000 books. It has 16,487 registrants on its rolls. The shelves now hold 20,000 books.

NEW YORK (AP) — The question about which twin had the Tony — Tony Randall that is — was purely coincidental Thursday night in a tired little stab at British comedy called "The Wide Open Door" on ABC.

The program obviously was designed to match the mood of the famous old film comedy, "The Lavender Hill Mob" and was even written by the same man, T.E.B. Clarke. But it just never came off.

CONFUSION

In the first place, there were just too many ingredients, all of them confusing. The result was an enormous amount of scurrying around by a large cast trying to touch all bases, but there was a marked shortage of humor.

Worst part was the confusion. First there was Honor Blackman playing twins, one dumb and one bright but both members of a mob attempting a bank robbery. Then there was Tony Randall playing a mustached Scotland Yard sleuth and who assumed the detective's identity and a false mustache to pull off his evil deed.

LAUGH TRACK

Most of the time the viewer did not know which was the sleuth and which the crook and what was worse, didn't really care. Anyway the bad guys were caught in the end and it must be said the whole thing was accomplished without shooting, fisticuffs — or laugh track.

The 90-minute program was one in the "Stage 67" series. NBC and Johnny Carson, after long negotiations, patched up their differences and the performer will return to his "Tonight Show" Monday after a three week absence.

Recommended weekend viewing: Sunday — "Go," ABC, 7-8 p.m. EST, musical special with Herman's Hermits and Noel Harrison; "Bogart," ABC, 8-9, documentary about the late film star; "The Law and the Prophets," NBC, 10-11, one of the "Project 20" actuality series.

Long And Short Of Minitempest

POMPTON LAKES, N.J. (AP) — When the school board in this New Jersey community proposed last week to tighten rules against long-haired boys and short-skirted girls it touched off a minitempest.

"School is a place of business, and students are expected to dress and groom themselves appropriately," began the ruling, due to take effect May 7 after a second reading.

From there the code goes on to specifically prohibit sweat-shirts, shorts, work dungarees, tight pants and long hair for boys, and curlers, bizarre hair styles, slacks and tight or short skirts for girls. "No miniskirts," it said.

VERY PROVINCIAL

"We're not trying to change a fashion trend," said Lester V. Jochem, principal of Pompton Lakes High School, sporting a paisley tie. "We're only interested in working out the extremes. We all know women and girls are wearing shorter dresses now."

Jochem said he believed that only about a dozen students out of 1,176 are affected directly.

One of that dozen was Louise Woolf, 17, a senior, wearing a man's button-down shirt, tie, a long sweater and a short skirt. "I don't think any adult should tell kids how to dress," said Louise. "Pompton Lakes is very provincial."

TIGHT DENIMS

"It's not fair to take away our rights," asserted Bill Avery, a long haired guitar player in a rock 'n' roll group called "The Splinters." He wore a dotted blue shirt, tight white denims and suede boots.

"If it's a choice of cutting my hair or not being able to attend school, I think I'll see the Civil Liberties Union," said Bill, who is 17 and a sophomore.

Terry Avokian, a 17-year-old senior, said "I don't want long hair, but if somebody else does, let them."

The minitempest spread across town.

In the school hallways and on the campus there was talk of pickets and parades.

But "that's mostly what it is — talk," said Frank Campagna, the minister.

Joe Dunn, Big Spring, will be singing during the services, and Mrs. Sue Wilson, Vincent, will be the pianist. Services will be held nightly at 7:30 o'clock, beginning Monday and continuing through Sunday.

Storms Packing Funnels Rip North Texas Areas

By The Associated Press
The populous North Texas region reeled today as the year's most severe storms slammed the area with hurricane-force winds, extremely heavy rain and a scattering of tornadoes.

Officials postponed the $100,000 Dallas Open golf tournament for the day and authorities helped hundreds of persons, some in a rest home, to higher ground to escape flash flooding.

From 600 to 700 persons between Arlington and Mansfield lost water service and had to revert to private wells when lightning knocked out a pumping station of the Kee Branch Water Supply Co-op.

TWISTER DAMAGE

At least one twister struck Fort Worth, causing minor damage.

No serious personal injury was reported from the violent weather.

The Weather Bureau said the Trinity River would crest at Dallas at 29 feet tonight, one foot below the 30-foot flood stage. That advisory was issued before new downpours struck the city.

More than six inches of rain poured down in places, setting off flash floods.

Official observers blamed a nearly stalled cool front for the weather violence. This morning it lay along a line from near Vernon to Big Spring and into the Big Bend country of far West Texas.

PATIENTS FLEE

A small creek overflowed after a 6.50-inch downpour at Sherman and the water rose into the Chapel of Care Rest Home, forcing the evacuation of 110 patients from the one-story building. They were taken to hospitals and a National Guard armory.

On the north side of Sherman, water climbed two feet deep into some homes. Firemen escorted 10 to 15 families to safety.

A flash flood washed out 50 feet of Southern Pacific Railroad track near Denison and high water blocked US 69 between Denison and Bells.

FOUR TWISTERS

Six inches of rain poured down at Bonham, isolating some dwellings for a time and causing damage to a Texas 78 bridge north of town.

Sightings of at least four tornadoes were confirmed, but the only one causing damage apparently was a twister dipping to earth southwest of Springtown, in Parker County west of Fort Worth. It wrecked a farmer's barn and damaged a silo.

VICIOUS WINDS

Vicious winds in the Bonham vicinity wrecked seven barns and tugged two houses off their foundations at Ravenna, seven miles to the west, and uprooted trees and tore a carport off a home at Savoy, 10 miles west of Bonham.

Big outdoor screens toppled at two Fort Worth drive-in theaters and one fell across a car, but no injuries were reported. There were about 500 persons at the theaters.

Station WBAP-TV in Fort Worth reported its equipment clogged winds in the Meadowbrook section at up to 85 miles per hour, exceeding minimum hurricane force. There was damage to an Arlington trailer park and a house was unroofed. Roofs also sailed off at least two houses at neighboring Grand Prairie.

CARS STALL

Water rose into the First Christian Church in downtown Fort Worth after a drain clogged and numerous underpasses filled. Firemen helped motorists from cars stalled in three feet of water.

Hail fell at many points, including chunks of ice up to 8 1/2 inches thick at Rock Creek Camp on Possum Kingdom Lake near Mineral Wells. Boats, roofs and windows suffered heavily.

Photographer Lois Luecke of the Wichita Falls Record-News told of seeing two giant tornado funnels dip menacingly low near Monday, where hail pounded wheat and vegetable crops into the ground only the night before. Insurance adjusters placed losses in that vicinity near $500,000 to crops and about the same amount to property.

KILLED MARE

Owner Linda Loftis, a former Miss Texas, looked in horror as lightning killed her thoroughbred mare near Fort Worth. She was sitting only 150 feet distant.

Rainfall measurements in addition to the half-foot deluges at Sherman and Bonham included Carrollton 2.59 inches, Justin 2.05, Boyd 1.40, Fort Worth 1.14, weather was comparatively fine

Slides Show Weed Problem

A slide set depicting the weed problem in West Texas is expected to arouse already noted interest.

Titled "Billion Dollar Bandits," the set of 52 slides was developed for the Texas-Weed Control Association by Dr. Allen F. Wiese, professor of agronomy (weed control) at Texas A&M University's Agricultural Experiment Station at Bushland, and by Gaines C. Franks, Potter County agricultural agent.

The slide set, produced by professional artists, forcefully dramatizes the economic impact of weeds to farmers and businessmen in the western part of the state, points out Wiese. Weed losses run up to $84 million annually in the High Plains and this amounts to about one-third of the losses on all crop land in the state.

Over-all, the Texas situation looks like this. Weed losses amount to $774 million every year. Losses on range land amount to $367 million; on field crops, $260 million; and on other crops, $147 million. The set illustrates both annual and perennial weeds most common to West Texas and how they rob the soil of moisture and nutrients, the agronomist points out. And, in turn, the slides clearly show how weeds rob the farmer and rancher.

Sets are available for loan on a one-day basis for presentation at public meetings, or they can also be purchased. The slide sets plus additional information are available from the Texas Weed Control Association, Box 828, Amarillo.

Candy Fails To Get Gems

HOUSTON (AP) — Mrs. Candace Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, have failed in an attempt to get a court order against lawyer Percy Foreman in a dispute over land and jewelry given Foreman as collateral on a fee.

Mrs. Mossler and Powers were charged with murder in the slaying of her millionaire husband, Jacques Mossler, but were found innocent in a nine-week-long trial last year in Miami.

Foreman defended Powers in the Miami trial and Clyde Woody defended Mrs. Mossler.

Mrs. Mossler and Powers had asked for an injunction against Foreman to keep him from disposing of the property.

Civil Dist. Judge John L. Compton denied the injunction Thursday after listening to three hours of testimony from the principals.

War Helps Up U.S. Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department says the Vietnam war helped push U.S. military spending during March to the highest monthly level since World War II.

A department report said Thursday the $6.61 billion spent on military items last month raised the total military spending for the first nine months of fiscal 1967 to $50.013 billion.

Military spending totaled $5.509 billion during February and $5.912 billion during January, the Treasury said.

The report represents the payment by the government of its bills for the military, during those months. It gave no breakdown of Vietnam spending.

Get Out Broom And Sweep Away Inches

By MARY SUE MILLER

Get out your broom . . . and sweep inches off your waistline! For a real clean sweep, wield your broom like so:

1. Stand erect and hold broom with arms straight ahead and fully extended. Twisting hard to left in waist (not hips) swish broom along floor in the widest possible arc. Immediately reverse action and swing to far right. Without stopping, repeat for 10 rhythmical counts.
2. Kneel on floor with back erect; hold broomstick in center and raise broom as high above head as possible. Now bend from side to side in waist and try to touch ends of broom to floor. Twenty repeats.
3. Kneeling, grasp broom so hands are six inches from center of stick on either side. Raise broom overhead and slowly bend forward until it touches floor near knees. Quickly return to starting position. In bending forward, lead with chin and curl spine gradually. On return trip, work for maximum stretch in waist. Repeat 10 times.

If you perform daily, a neat waistline is sure to follow. And just in time for a new two-piece bathing suit or a summer dress with a newsy karate-wrap sash. Purely as a fashion - figure.

Guests Greeted By Host

John Otis Cole, right, chats with Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser, Mrs. Don Brinegar and Miss Marie Hall, who were among the numerous guests Thursday evening at Big Spring Country Club. Cole hosted the festive cocktail party and banquet to mark the beginning of the Metropolitan Opera season in Dallas.

Gold Room Scene Of Gala Cocktail-Buffer

The Big Spring Country Club was the scene Thursday evening for a gala prelude to the Metropolitan Opera season in Dallas as John Otis Cole hosted a cocktail-buffer attended by approximately 150 guests.

Mardi Gras colors were used in the abundant floral arrangements and balloon clusters placed throughout the entertaining area. In the club foyer, Picardi and white gladioli, interspersed with lemon leaves, was used to form a massive fan placed on a white pedestal.

Champagne and punch were served from twin tables in the Gold Room where branched silver candelabra held avocado tapers arranged with multi-colored stock, carnations and chrysanthemums. The credenza accent was a striking French bouquet on carved wooden pedestals, and a similar arrangement graced a table in the banquet room. The buffet was centered with a pedestal arrangement of French heather, carnations and multi-colored irises with garlands of smilax. Hanging chain baskets held mixed blossoms, and flanking the organ were pedestals with lemon leaves and huckleberry greenery in Grecian urns. Music was by Mrs. Gail Bonner.

Bank President Talks To Credit Women's Club

"The Federal Reserve system began in the early 1900's and gradually became clearing houses for the banks," said Larson Lloyd, president of Security State Bank at the Thursday meeting of the Big Spring Credit Women's Club at Hotel Settles.

Lloyd spoke on the subject, "Checks and the Electronic Ink Numbers." He said that counter checks are on the way out and that the numbers on the checks are symbols denoting the Federal Reserve district, the local bank number, and the universal banking number.

"It now takes checks three days to clear through the Federal Reserve Bank in Dallas," continued Lloyd. "An armored truck picks up the checks each evening and takes them to Dallas that same night."

He said that computers, soon to be established, would process 60,000 checks in an hour and that many other aids will be possible. He told of banks in Houston, California and New York that issue credit cards where customer bills are received and paid by the bank.

Mrs. Noel Hull presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker. Fourteen guests and 21 members attended.

Wax Leather Bags For Longer Wear

Dear Folks:

Today, I'm coming in with a smash. And it's another way to save money — a problem that plagues us all.

So many of you have written wanting to know how to take care of good leather purses and how to renew them.

I asked Lucile Bush when she was in our home recently, (Lucile is the Consumer Education director for one of the largest wax companies in the world.) Here is what she said:

"Good leather purses should always be well cared for. Smooth polished leather (NOT reptile or suede) needs to have a coat of paste wax once in a while. This keeps it soft, puts a good protective film on it and helps preserve the leather.

"I suggest you housewives use a good paste wax, such as is ordinarily used for floors. They will be amazed at the results. (Test an inside spot first, such as the fold on the side of the purse, because a few types of leather are so porous they are easily stained.)

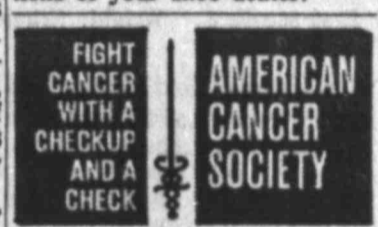

bags should be applied sparingly to a small area (no more than one side at a time) and polished IMMEDIATELY with a soft cloth while the wax is moist.

"Most paste waxes used on floors contain coloring to hide scratches in wood, so this type is only for black, navy blue, brown and other DARK colored purses.

"A few words of caution: Use only good quality WAX products on shoes and purses, NOT oily furniture polishes.

"Wax gives a hard, dry finish that resists soil and finger marks. Oily finishes are sneaky — catch dust, dirt and finger marks easily.

"Very porous leather (extremely soft with an oily feel and low gloss) could be darkened and stained by polishes. On some of these leathers (such as deerskin moccasins) even neutral paste polishes can cause staining. For porous leather, follow recommendations of your shoe dealer."

Lessen Work In Garden Season

To cut down on the work during the busy garden season, use the empty paper fertilizer sacks in the cucumber, melon, and tomato patches, putting them down around the plant before it starts to vine. This saves a lot of hoeing and weed pulling. While these sacks are serving their purpose as a paper mulch, they are also adding to the fertility of the soil, for there is always some fertilizer left on the sack.

Prevent Mildew

Both Troubled Over Borderline

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

As medical technology advances, the borderline between life and death becomes more obscure. And the question of what measures are justified in retarding transition between the two zones today troubles both doctors and theologians. "With each advance in medical techniques, the problem grows more acute," says the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Blaker, a Presbyterian theologian and academic dean of Brandon Hall, Atlanta, Ga. The issue is pointed up in cases in which physical breathing can be maintained by artificial devices and drugs, sometimes for years, in incurable patients in comatose states. How far should science go in such physical prolonging of "life"? This is "an ever-present medical concern, now increasingly discussed in medical circles," writes an Amarillo, Tex., physician, Dr. Tom W. Duke. At a national Methodist convocation on medicine and theology last week in Rochester, Minn., no definite answers were determined to fill all cases. But Dr. Edward H. Rynearson of the Mayo Clinic drew extensive applause when he urged that hopelessly ill patients be allowed to "die with dignity" and in peace rather than merely prolonging their bodily breathing. With modern clinical methods, biological life can often be maintained long after the brain has stopped functioning, leaving the body and lungs working without thought or consciousness. This raises questions of just what constitutes life or death. Is the line crossed when the mind stops working, or the flesh? Episcopal Canon Michael Hamilton of the National Cathedral, Washington, D.C., said in a recent sermon: "I think we will have to revise our understanding about the nature of man to the extent that we avoid tying man's personal identity ultimately to his biological functions, but rather relate it to his consciousness. This would be consistent with the biblical understanding that man's uniqueness is in having rationality or freedom for moral choice, rather than his having a body." In ancient Judeo-Christian tradition, physical existence was viewed as secondary to spiritual life, although both were considered intertwined, the sacred creations of God. There is a "time for every matter under heaven: a time to be born and a time to die," says Ecclesiastes. On a CBS television discussion of the issue some time ago, Dr. Eusebius Murphy, a member of the American Medical Association committee on medicine and religion, was asked if a doctor was "ethically bound" to maintain a patient's life "by all means at his disposal?" "No I don't go quite that far," he said. He added that after thorough diagnosis and consultation had determined that a case is terminal and there is "nothing further that medicine can do to save this man's life—I don't say to prolong his life, but to save his life—then we are not obligated to carry on using these extraordinary means of preserving life."

REV. R. L. KIRK

Kentwood Sets Special Week

A week of spiritual enrichment will be observed, starting Sunday at the Kentwood Methodist Church, 2805 Lynn Drive. The Rev. R. L. Kirk, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Seminole, will come here Monday to be the speaker for services at a 7 a.m. breakfast and at 7:30 p.m. daily through Friday. The nursery will be open at the evening services. The Rev. Marvin Roark, pastor, will speak Sunday at 11 a.m. on the topic "We believe in the church," based on Col. 1:18, and in the evening there will be a continuation of the movie course on "Theology for the Layman, The Church." The Rev. Kirk is a graduate of the Iliff School of Theology and is a graduate of Asbury College. Prior to his Semole pastorate, he was at Wesley Methodist Church in Amarillo and the First Methodist Church in Grover. He is a member of the Northwest Texas Conference board of evangelists and is director of the Ed Rob Evangelistic Association.

Methodists Urged To Leave The Rut

Their own ministerial organ exhorts Methodists to get out of their provincial rut by discarding the myth of their denomination's permanence. The "Myth of Methodism Forever," the "Christian Advocate" warns in a recent issue, "is not only a false reading of history, but it is an act of unfaithfulness to continue our operations as though this myth were, in fact, true." This myth—which prevails among other denominations—is seen as a barrier to Protestant church union, says the Rev. James M. Wall, editor of the Methodist bi-weekly magazine for ministers and other church leaders. With the next Consultation on Church Union scheduled May 1-5 in Cambridge, Mass., denominational leaders are advised to admit that 18th and 19th century denominationalism is far out of date in the 20th century. "The real question facing COCU now," Wall states pitifully, "is whether it will have to wait until our false separateness withers away, or whether it will be able to take the necessary steps to program into union." The Rev. Wall jibes at a bishop who had chided a theology student for attending a non-Methodist seminary instead of one of his own denominations. Such an attitude, he points out, must be junked promptly because it is a barrier to Protestant union. America's denominations, the editor explains, were "developed for the frontier" and were useful through two centuries. Methodism was "aided considerably by the westward movement on the American frontier," he continues. Predicting that some form of structural church union is "inevitable," Wall says it is imperative in the next few years for the Methodist General Conference (the denomination's highest legislative body) "to provide our COCU delegates with the power to actually negotiate a formal union." However, he adds, if "the Myth of Methodism Forever prevails in the way it dominated the 1966 General Conference" there can be no real progress toward Protestant unity. He derides the 1966 General Conference for having "refused to consider any serious changes in traditional Methodist patterns of policy and structure."

Christian Churches Elect Officers

SAN ANTONIO — Top officers were named last week to head the Texas Association of Christian Churches during 1967-68. Dr. Lewis H. McAdow, senior minister of Bethany Christian Church, Houston, since 1955, will be president, and chief executive officer of the statewide church unit of 496 member churches which have a total membership of over 100,000. Named to serve with Dr. McAdow are Mrs. Clarence Williams, minister of Christian education at First Christian Church, Corpus Christi, first vice president; William C. Howland Jr., minister of University Christian Church, Austin, second vice president; Mrs. R. T. Nail Jr. of University Christian Church, Fort Worth, secretary; and Russell Withrow, Abilene layman, treasurer. Withrow was re-elected for a second term. Howland's chief function as second vice president will be to serve as program committee chairman for the church unit's 81st annual assembly at Dallas next spring. A native Missourian, Dr. McAdow became minister of the Houston church in April, 1955, after earlier ministries with First Christian Church, Mexico, Mo., for six years and with University Park Christian Church, Indianapolis, Ind., for 10 years. In Houston, Dr. McAdow has served as president of the Council of Churches and president of the Greater Houston Clergy Association and board member of the YMCA, Holly Hall Home for Retired and the Planned Parenthood Center. Awarded the honorary D.D. degree by Texas Christian University, Dr. McAdow is a member of the TCU board of advisors. He is president of the Christian Literature Commission of the Christian Churches. Holder of the B.A. degree from Missouri Valley College, Dr. McAdow earned the masters from University of Missouri, B.D. from Lexington (Ky.) Theological Seminary, and Th.M. from Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis. He is a member of the board of trustees of the Institute of Religion, the Houston Council on Alcoholism, the affiliate board of the National Council on Alcoholism, River Oaks Rotary Club and Memorial Drive Country Club. An active leader in state and national work of the Disciples, Dr. McAdow has served as president of the board of managers of the United Christian Missionary Society and as a member for nine years of the UCMS board of trustees. The Society is the largest agency of the Christian churches with headquarters at Indianapolis. He and Mrs. McAdow have two daughters and two sons. Mrs. Williams is a former missionary to The Democratic Republic of Congo.

UNLIMITED RESOURCES TAPPED BY UNLIMITED FAITH TOLD

A classic example of unlimited resources tapped by unlimited faith is contained in the uniform Sunday School lesson which is based on Acts 3:1-16. This is the familiar story of Peter and John going together to the temple to worship and being attracted by the lame beggar at the Beautiful Gate. Noticing their intent gaze, the beggar doubtless looked hopefully to them for a substantial monetary gift. "Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk." In the words of one scholar, the beggar "asked for alms but he got legs." For he received Peter's hand, rose up in strength—a different man physically and spiritually. There are several elements present here, and none is more apparent than faith. Peter and John had unlimited faith in Christ's promise that "all power" would be given unto them. It never occurred to them that God would do other than to heal the lame man, who, however, had first to respond to that faith with a faith of his own. There is a lesson here in the radiant confidence of the apostles. (Do the look on my face and in my eyes and the tone of my voice lift others or depress them?) The first thing that Peter and John did was to disclaim any personal credit for the miracle. They made it plain that this was God's work; not man's. The man went with them immediately into the temple—changed by God, he responded by going in the right direction.

Swap Stamps Crusade Fades

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing has dropped so abruptly from the news as the housewives' revolt against trading stamps, which just six months ago had the fervor of a Carrie Nation crusade.

What is the cause? Is it simply the inevitable conclusion of a typically feminine outburst? Or is there a deeper meaning to be found in this silence?

Some irreverent critics suggest that a highly imaginative and effective public relations campaign by the stamp people might have had something to do with calming the irate housewife.

WINS AWARD

At any rate, the president of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs this week received the achievement award of the Trading Stamp Institute of America, the first woman so honored. Previous winners were merchants.

Said Geraldine V. Brown, the president, at the award dinner: "The Board of Directors of the New Jersey Federation thought so highly of the stamp industry that they went on record in the fall in favor of trading stamps."

"We went on record in opposition to any bill which might come before the New Jersey State Legislature opposing their (stamp) distribution," she said.

Miss Brown was honored because, and was happy because, her organization's clubhouse was built largely through the redemption of trading stamps — on which four different stamp companies paid big bonuses.

FAVOR PLAY?

The Trading Stamp Institute estimates that one half of the $125,000 needed to build the clubhouse, on the Rutgers University campus, came from stamps collected from members in hundreds of clubs throughout the state.

Various methods were used in computing the bonuses, but in the final analysis it shows that one company, for instance, redeemed 3,000 books of 1,500 stamps at $2 each although the regular redemption value was $1.50. Another gave $2 for $1.20 books. And donations of time, effort and expense also were made.

This can be viewed in two ways: as an overt play for favor or as a public service contribution.

The stamp industry prefers to view its public relations as public service or, as one of its service representatives puts it, "a charitable, philanthropic thing."

Oil Industry Leaders Cheer Burleson's Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen from oil producing states denounced Thursday proposals by six oil and chemical firms to establish new refining operations in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

More than 250 representatives of the domestic oil industry cheered when Rep. Omar Burleson, D-Tex., told Oil Import Administrator Elmer L. Hoehn, "While we have a vital interest in the development of the islands, oil import legislation does not permit use of the import program for such purposes."

Modification of oil import restrictions is the key to establishment of the proposed new operations.

Spokesmen for the governments of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands endorsed the companies' requests.

GREAT HARM
In his attack, Burleson said, "The proposals would not only jeopardize the entire (import control) program and do great harm to independent oil producers, but would give undue advantages to a few plants over mainland refineries and petrochemical industries."

Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., said he was "deeply concerned about the conclusions to which I have regrettably been led by repeated actions" of the Interior Department.

He said he was sorely disappointed that instead of a "firm policy on petroleum imports which would encourage domestic exploration and production" there has been "continuous chipping away through the various loopholes and subterfuges" resulting in "continuing efforts to increase oil imports."

DISPLACES MARKETS
"Whether it is petrochemical feedstocks, petrochemical end products, asphalt or whatever, it still displaces markets for domestic crude oil."

"Although those charged with administering the oil imports program in the federal government seem to have lost sight of history," said Purcell, "the history of the oil imports program has been, as far as Congress and the actions of the President are concerned, tied only to national security considerations."

BROAD SUPPORT

Other legislators presenting similar views included Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., and Reps. O. C. Fisher, D-Tex., and Tom Steed, D-Okla.

Officials of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands and spokesmen for the applicant companies outlined their hopes for a major development of petrochemical industries in the Caribbean.

Gov. Ralph M. Paewonsky of the Virgin Islands said he had "broad support of an overwhelming majority of the people of the Virgin Islands" in supporting an application of Hess Oil Co. in connection with petrochemical operations.

Truckers Renew Strike Against Chicago Firms

CHICAGO (AP) — Truckers have resumed their strike against eight Chicago area firms as negotiations between trucking associations and Teamsters bogged down in Washington.

Management and labor representatives flew back to Chicago Thursday and the industry's negotiating team scheduled a meeting for Saturday to discuss the situation.

Trucking industry spokesmen in Washington asked Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., to seek government intervention to head off a widespread strike.

STOP SERVICE

They said the new strike could halt even the shipment of food and have a paralyzing effect on national commerce. A combination strike-lockout last week in the Chicago area forced a number of industries to shut local plants.

Teamsters Local 705 Thursday stationed pickets outside the truck firms which employ more than 1,700 drivers, and ordered company officials to recall their vehicles. The firms affected are the Willett Transportation Co., Frank Cordray Motor Service Inc. and the Lasham Cartage Co.

Jobless Pay Bill Advances

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas House passed and sent to the Senate 114-28 Thursday a bill raising the maximum weekly unemployment compensation benefit from $37 to $45.

Employers, who pay for the benefits through a special tax, would have to report up to $6,600 of an employee's annual wages, instead of the current, $4,800.

The bill, by Rep. Gene Fondren, Taylor, would allow the Texas Employment Commission to require a person claiming jobless benefits to submit evidence of his own efforts to find a job.

Fondren said in debate Tuesday that benefits for lower paid employees would not be increased. He said a major purpose of the bill was to halt the "drain on the fund to people who are not in the active labor market who shouldn't receive benefits."

There was no debate today on the bill.

The House passed on voice vote and sent to the Senate a bill implementing Gov. John Connally's $75 million bond program to buy and develop state park land. The measure allows the Parks and Wildlife Department to charge entry fees at parks to pay off the bonds, and limits interest the state can pay on the bonds to 4.5 per cent.

GI Backs U.S. Bombing Policy

By The Associated Press

A Texan at war from Moran, returned from Ben Hoa takes the administration side in the controversy over U.S. bombing policy in Vietnam.

"The Viet Cong have 500,000 men tied up in air defense. If we weren't bombing, they'd all be free to snipe, kill and explode ammo dumps," says Sgt. I.C. Charley Harber.

"It would be very difficult to step up the bombing, or to use nuclear bombs. The VC are too scattered, there is no single concentrated area to hit," the career soldier says.

Police Exams Set Tuesday

Examinations for prospective patrolmen will be given Tuesday at the police department and applications will be accepted until that time, according to Chief of Police Jay Banks.

There is presently one vacancy and interested persons should complete applications by test date.

Qualifications include 21 years of age, a high school education, never been convicted of a felony, and good moral character.

The police department will make a background check on each person from fingerprints, credit rating, driver's license, and character investigation, according to Banks.

South possessed the high card values to make a take-out double, however, when East opened the bidding with one spade, there seemed little point in inviting his partner to bid a suit when South was interested only in a heart contract. Inasmuch as he required only a few trump from partner with which to ruff out his losing spades, South chose to gamble it out for game by leaping directly to four hearts. There was the further consideration that his direct action might inhibit the opposition from uncovering a fit in one of the minor suits.
West opened the jack of spades and South won the informed warrior in the history of the world. "They know not only what's going on around them, but they are also aware of the reasons they are there."

He says it is common to see a GI with a transistor radio plugged into his ear, and that stateside television programs reach the front in the form of 16mm films.
"On any given night," says Harber, "you can see soldiers huddled beneath ponchos in the rain—the sounds of small arms fire and falling bombs ringing in all directions—watching our favorite program: Combat."

Teen Tongue Thrust Therapy

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "Tongue thrust therapy" is to help teenagers who start pushing their teeth out of the front of their mouth after they take their braces off.
The therapy, used to correct a habit of pushing the teeth with the tongue, calls for the patients to place his or her tongue against the roof of the mouth and shift pressure upwards and backward.

Three Water Plans Okayed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Development Board found three major projects eligible for application Thursday, including a $3.77 million loan request from the Jackson County Flood Control District.

The district is asking for funds to pay for its share of the cost of the first stage of the Palmetto Bend project on the Navidad River in the coastal bend country.

Included in the application is a request for the water development board to purchase storage space in the reservoir for $21.33 million.

The project is part of the Texas water plan and is proposed as the head of a 190-mile coastal aqueduct that would supply water to the Gulf Coast and the lower Rio Grande Valley. Total estimated cost of the first stage of the project is $37.7 million.

A request by the Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District for $1.22 million for a two-phase water development program also was approved for application.

The proposal includes supplying water to Rockport, Fulton and the Copano area. Estimated cost of the program is $2.45 million.

The board also found a proposal by the San Patricio Municipal water district eligible for application. The district is asking $750,000 for a water treatment plant and extension of water lines.

Total cost is estimated to be $795,000. The district proposes to supply treated water to the Aransas County Conservation and reclamation district and to increase water delivery to Portland, Orem, Taft, Gregory, Ingleside, Aransas Pass and Port Aransas.

The board approved an application by the city of Terrell for $1.75 million to construct projects that include a pump station and water line from Lake Tawakoni to Lake Elmo.

Girl With A Real Problem

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow habit, and I could re-train myself if I really wanted to. If you tell me to try, I will, but I honestly think he is expecting the impossible.

SLEEPYHEAD

DEAR SLEEPYHEAD: Mike is right. If you really wanted to, you should change your sleeping habits. (New mothers do!) If you require more sleep, take a nap in the afternoon. It's not easy, but it's not impossible either.

My problem is a 21-year-old mentally retarded girl who has a crush on my embalmer — in fact, on ALL men. She chases after them, and so far she is lucky she hasn't been taken advantage of.

At funeral hour, which is sacred for the family, this bold girl stands outside the funeral home dressed in stretch pants and a tight sweater (in summer she wears short shorts and a skimpy halter top) and she just stares at my embalmer. My curb men are instructed to tell her to move on, but they can't budge her.

How can I get rid of this boy-crazy girl? She is ruining the dignity of my funerals and embarrassing my embalmer.

NEBRASKAN

DEAR NEBRASKAN: Don't worry about your embalmer — he can take care of himself. I would be more concerned about this poor girl. She needs to be protected and supervised for her own good. Call on her parents and put them wise before something happens to her.

DEAR ABBY: When I married Mike he knew that I HATED to get up in the morning. I have always worked the 4 p.m. to midnight shift (waitress) and now I can't suddenly change my way of living, even though I don't work anymore. Well, Mike has to be on his job at 8 a.m., so he expects me to get up at 6:45 a.m. to fix his breakfast. I tried a couple of times, but I spilled the coffee, dropped things and burned myself.

I am just no good in the morning. Mike can't seem to understand this. Abby, it is ruining our marriage. I love Mike very much, but he says I am selfish, that sleeping late is a

Due Pat On The Back

The job of being a policeman in this country carries little romance with it. Television and movies have glorified the old-time sheriff, the detective and the special agent, but the rank-and-file policeman remains a pretty neglected fellow.

The fact is that the everyday policeman deserves better than he gets. His work is often tough and risky, as is newly emphasized by the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports for 1965. It gives a grim picture of the policeman's exposure to violence.

In the six-year period from 1960 to 1965, says the FBI, 278 policemen were murdered in line of duty. Most of these deaths occurred when policemen were arresting or transporting criminals. Moreover, 10 out of every 100 policemen were assaulted in 1965. While these assaults did not always result in injury to the officer, close to one-third of them did.

Many who learn these and related facts will feel the impulse to pat the policeman on the back for doing such risky work at usually low pay and with but small recognition. We say the impulse is a good one. Whatever his faults, the average policeman deserves a quiet word of praise for a hazardous job well done.

No Rapid Fire Action On Rifle

The Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee has begun a closed-door hearing into charges that the Army's program for buying M-16 rifles is seriously inadequate.

Most of our troops in Vietnam are armed with the M-14, a 7.65 millimeter weapon that can be fired single-shot or up to 750 rounds a minute in automatic fire. The M-16 fires a .223 caliber bullet with a much higher muzzle velocity than the M-14, weighs approximately 1½ pounds less and can fire approximately 900 rounds a minute on automatic fire.

Recently Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, ordered all his troops equipped with the M-16, but only the Army's "maneuver" battalions, or combat units, have so far been supplied with the new weapon.

Meanwhile only 25,000 M-16 rifles a month are being manufactured. Members of the Senate want to know why more are not being made. They also want to know why the Department of State, in the face of the shortage in our own forces, has approved the sale of 20,300 M-16s to neutralist Singapore.

Recently Kim Sung Eun, South Korea's minister of national defense, visited the United States to plead for

M-16 rifles to supply the 45,000 Republic of Korea troops fighting in Vietnam. He was promised 16,000 of the rifles by July.

Obviously the M-16 has proved to be a better weapon than the M-14 for the peculiar fighting conditions in Vietnam. But neither of those rifles can approach the accuracy, especially in long-range fire, of the obsolescent M-1 Garand of World War II and Korea.

It should be remembered, though, that the change from the M-14 to the M-16 will take time. Both the rifles and ample ammunition must enter the 7,000-mile pipeline to Vietnam at the same time.

One other fact should be borne in mind: Most soldiers, sailors and Marines in the United States have never seen the M-16, much less fired it. A program of familiarization firing will be needed throughout the Department of Defense.

Stepped up production of the M-16 is under way, the Army reports. But no one should conclude that our men in Vietnam, much less our troops in the United States and in Europe, will soon be equipped with these specialized rifles. What may be good for Vietnam may not be adequate in other theaters, where the search for the "perfect" weapon must continue.

Russians Need To Understand Us

WASHINGTON — What they apparently need in the Soviet government is a good public relations man. For certainly the formula of "how to win friends and influence people" has been given little attention in Moscow. Many Americans indeed are wondering why the Soviet government considers a military alliance with the North Vietnamese government to be more rewarding than the good will of the American people.

WITHIN THE last few days news has come out that in March nearly 10,000 tons of war supplies—a record high—were shipped into Haiphong, the major port of North Vietnam. The bulk of this was carried on Communist ships—not only Russian but those of the Communist-bloc countries in Eastern Europe.

Coincidentally, President Johnson has been trying to persuade Congress that this is a good time to pass legislation to take off many of the existing restrictions on trade between the United States and Communist countries. Sen. Everett Dirksen, Republican leader, however, has just said that the revelation of the Soviet agreement with Red China to step up the shipping of war munitions to North Vietnam has caused dismay in Con-

Billy Graham

I go to church and get so sick of the dreary services, and the inconsistent Christians. Surely we have drifted a long way from New Testament Christianity. Sometimes I feel like just chucking the whole thing overboard. Do you agree? B.L.P.

No I do not!
Anyone can take a negative attitude, and it is much easier to join the "Wrecking Crew" than the "Construction Gang." Admittedly, there is much wrong with the church. Admittedly, there are many imperfect Christians. There was only one perfect person, and that was the Lord Jesus Christ. The church is imperfect because it is made up of people like you, and if you should by chance find a church you thought was perfect, the minute you joined it, it would be imperfect.

Yes, probably we have drifted a long way from New Testament Christianity. But if you really believe this, and are concerned about it, do something about it—don't just stand there wringing your hands. Since you see the flaws in the church and in Christians, perhaps the Lord, if you were to put yourself in His hands, could use you to help change the situation. The temples and synagogues of Jesus' day were not all they were supposed to be—but Jesus set us an example by attending them.

gress. He declared in an interview:

"THIS PUTS a new light on President Johnson's recommendation for legislation to authorize freer trade with the Soviets. I don't think Congress is going to be very happy to do that at a time when the Russians are increasing military help to the North Vietnamese."

The United States and the Soviet Union are continually discussing questions of mutual importance. Many Americans have hopefully felt that sooner or later there would emerge in Russia a group of leaders who would begin to appreciate the value of a friendly relationship with the United States.

MAYBE IN MOSCOW they do not have comprehensive surveys of American opinion and hence do not realize that the subversive activities which have been inspired by the Communists in North and South America, as well as on other continents, are beginning to be viewed as an indication of hostility toward this country that is growing instead of lessening.

A GOOD PUBLIC relations man in Moscow, on the other hand, would long ago have recommended that the Soviet and American governments could together accomplish much for the good of the world if a sincere effort were made to reduce the tensions that exist between the two countries. Ill feeling instead is building up because of the substantial help the Russians are giving to the enemies of the United States in Vietnam. Indeed, there are many people in Washington who believe that the Vietnam war could be ended overnight if the Russians said the word. The benefits that would flow from such a step are incalculable.

SURELY THE Russian people, who have been through the agony of two world wars with enormous losses, would welcome effective steps to prevent another catastrophe. The fact is that the only two nations which could possibly fight a major war in the future are the two strongest nuclear powers. While Red China can make trouble, it could not get very far if the Soviet and the United States governments were lined up together to ease tensions and work toward peace.

Romney Realizes Viet Smoky Subject

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's Gov. George Romney got an early taste of what it's like to be a presidential candidate, in case he becomes one in 1968. It seemed to irritate him.

Last summer he made mish-mash of an answer to a question about the Vietnamese war. After that he discussed it intermittently and reluctantly. Then he decided not to discuss it at all until he was better informed.

WHEN HE felt he was sufficiently informed — this was about nine months after the mish-mash — he made a major speech on April 7, backing President Johnson's major positions on handling the war now.

He was against U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam; he was against all-out escalation of the war; and he said he was "one Republican" who would not settle on Hanoi's terms. This delighted Johnson.

For one thing, it was an endorsement from the man who may be the Republican presidential candidate next year. And because of this speech, if Romney is the man, he has narrowed down beforehand his field for criticizing Johnson.

ROMNEY wasn't all praise but his criticism was not about the way the war is being fought. He said Johnson had bypassed Congress in the decision-making that got this country into the war. He said he didn't think Johnson had been frank enough about the war. And he said this country must in the future avoid similar involvements.

JOHNSON promptly sent him a thank-you note, ignoring the criticism which his press secretary, George Christian, dismissed as a "few partisan morsels." Romney threw to his "lions." Johnson called Romney's speech an endorsement.

Romney apparently felt this put him in a bit of a box. This week he tried to wiggle out of it in an interview with the Washington Post by declaring his April 7 speech wasn't all praise. "I do not," he said, "consider my Vietnam speech to be a blanket endorsement of the President's program.

"The White House tried to smother the significance of what I said by creating the impression that what I said was in agreement with what the President was saying."

IN READING the Romney speech over again it is hard to see where he is not in agreement with Johnson's handling of the war at this time: no pull-out, no all-out escalation, no peace on Hanoi's terms.

But his criticism is debatable and will probably cause Romney argument up to and probably through the presidential campaign, if he gets the nomination. He will have to go into detail to explain his thinking, as he did after the mish-mash.

He was repeating criticisms made by others when he complained Johnson bypassed Congress in taking the United States into the war. Johnson did not ask Congress for a formal declaration of war.

INSTEAD, when North Vietnamese boats attacked U.S. warships in the Gulf of Tonkin, Johnson asked for authorization to take all necessary steps to repel any armed attack on U.S. forces. He got it, and Congress approved beforehand any steps he took to defend Southeast Asia.

Ex-Playboy Proud Of Pop

NEW YORK (AP) — Some sons feel it is a handicap to have a famous father.

Not actor Sydney Chaplin, son of Charles Chaplin. "I think anyone who feels his life has been scarred because of the fame of his father is a bore," he said.

SYDNEY recently completed a role in "The Countess From Hong Kong," which was produced and directed by Charles Chaplin. It was his second appearance in a production by his father. In 1952 he played a young composer in "Limelight."

The younger Chaplin is proud of his father's historic stature in the film world. "My father invented the big salaries in this business," he remarked. "He was the first man to ask and get a million dollars a year. He was always a good businessman."

LIFE WITH father in Hollywood wasn't too congenial for Sydney as a lad, however, because of his own harum scarum ways.

"Because he had to quit school after the first grade to support his mother, my father always had a great respect for education," he said.

"But I was pretty wild. I had been thrown out of three schools by the time I was 16.

"DAD was terribly disappointed in me at that time. He tried to be strict. He told me, 'You have to be something in life. You must do something to earn a living.'

"But how can you tell a kid that he needs to go to work when he lives in a house with 12 servants?"

"You know how some kids earn money by setting up a lemonade stand in their front yard? Well, I tried that gimmick, too, but instead of lemonade I sold scotch. Why not? It was there, and easier to do. And at 15 I was getting only $1 a week as an allowance."

A TOUR of duty during the war, Sydney said, brought an end to his playboy ways and a realization that it was time for him to seek a career of his own.

He helped organize a theater in Hollywood and discovered that father wasn't the only actor in the family. Since then Sydney has appeared in half a dozen films and a notable series of Broadway musicals, including "The Belles Are Ringing" with Judy Holiday and "Funny Girl" with Barbra Streisand.

Sydney maintains homes here and in Paris, where until recently he also owned a restaurant called the Chez Moustache.

Six feet one and powerfully built, Sydney bears little physical resemblance to his father.

Cars And Private Property

One of the most repeated objections heard to the city's proposed "junk car" ordinance has been the issue over private property rights.

Those in opposition have said they agree that the city should remove "junkers" from streets, alleys, and other public grounds, but they opposed allowing the city to come on private property to take away hazards to life and health.

SUCH A STAND protecting the property-owner's rights is certain to be popular, as all of us like to think that our property is hallowed ground, where we may do as we please. It's lamentable just how thin the ground we stand on.

In the first place, any government agency can take our property almost at will, if it has a vital use for it, such as a street or other public necessity. Short of that, the city dictates a wide range of requirements for private land.

FOR INSTANCE, the city prescribes what kind of house may be built, how much of the ground may be covered, and exactly where the house can be placed on the lot, all on private property.

If your youngster wants to open a lemonade stand, this could conceivably violate the zoning ordinance, for the city states what use you make of your private property, whether residential, business, or light industry, to mention a few.

YOU CAN'T keep chickens on your private property, nor a cow or herd of sheep. Curiously, I think you can keep a lion, tiger, or covey of quail. The city tells you where to install sewer lines or water lines, and who can do the work and what kind of wiring may be put in your house.

It even has the authority to see that you keep the weeds clipped short, and if you don't, the city can do the work for you, charge you, and take your property away from you if you refuse to pay.

AND OTHER regulations might be listed.

A defense of private property rights is laudable, but it may be just a little late.

LBJ Takes His Eye Off Vietnam

WASHINGTON — Some of us, with a good deal of fact and reason, predicted victory during 1967 in Vietnam, but the latest facts and reasons ask for a halt in optimism.

There is chilling evidence that President Johnson has missed the floodtide which, six months ago, might have borne him to fortune. The Johnson patience in waiting for Ho Chi Minh to crack under selective bombing has been over-matched by the enemy's stoic resistance which would be admirable in a better cause.

BUT THIS is not the worst of it. Just as Churchill, in the best of causes, called upon Britain to stick it out in World War II until help should arrive from the New World, so the communists in Hanoi have stuck it out while help has accumulated from world communism.

"WE HAVE fooled around too long," said Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) in a Foreign Relations Committee hearing. He meant that Russia and Red China had closed the breach and were now united in supplying Red Vietnam with a plenitude of sophisticated weapons that offsets our limited use of air and sea power. The Johnson Administration, employing its customary methods of secrecy, has admitted as much by indirection. Planted news stories from White House sources are being floated to break the harsh tidings as gently as possible — the two great Communist powers have effected a combined command, a service of supply, by rail and ship.

BYRD, DEMOCRAT from Virginia just back from Vietnam, told this reporter that he was appalled by the casualties which the Johnson limitation on bombing is costing us. Byrd came home convinced, as is Hickenlooper, that we have fooled around too long, that the President's patience is approaching a fatal excess. The Sino-Russian split, used by the Administration to fling the Soviets into acting as a peace-broker, is regarded by Byrd as a fabricated myth which Johnson has used to get bridge-building concessions out of Congress.

IF BYRD'S diagnosis is correct, the President is not so much trying to win the war as he's trying to wheel-and-deal in a manipulation of super-colossal magnitude. By restraint in Vietnam, by the Consular Treaty with Russia, by the Space Treaty, by further nuclear disarmament, by trade pacts across the Iron Curtain and by the same confidence in personal magnetism which caused Roosevelt into believing he could soften Stalin, the President — so it appears — aspires to global peace-making. Vietnam has become a chessman on the universal board.

A RECAPITULATION is in order. The whole of the Johnson grand design needs re-examination.

It does seem we'd better win the battle already joined instead of seeking business with communist shopkeepers in East Europe, and swapping consular favors with the gunsmiths of Russia and worrying about pre-pacification of Outer Space.

Nothing should be allowed to distract attention from the fields where our blood is flowing—not even future tranquility on the moon and the stars.

Vietnam Is Not Like Greece

WASHINGTON — The purple rhetoric pouring out on the 20th anniversary of the Truman doctrine for Greece and Turkey conveniently ignored one historic fact of the first importance. American military and economic aid and the 600 American military advisers who went to Greece were vital in ending the Communist rebellion.

But if Tito had not closed the Yugoslav-Greek border beginning in the early summer of 1949 the war would have gone on much longer and at a much greater cost. It could have been indefinitely prolonged with help from the neighboring Communist powers moving across a mountainous and ill-defined boundary line.

THIS IS where ardent supporters of the administration's policy in Vietnam strain historical analogy to the breaking point when they equate the war in Vietnam with the Greek war. There is slight basis for comparison.

In the Vietnam war two open borders are a standing invitation to a larger war. How either of these two borders can be closed to a flow of military materiel is not foreseeable.

ACROSS THE first border, between North and South Vietnam with the demilitarized zone intervening, come regular North Vietnamese units. Despite more than two years of bombing, this flow has been impeded but never really checked. The units crossing the DMZ and moving into South Vietnam have recently taken part in some of the heaviest fighting of the war. North Vietnam has one of the best trained armies in Asia and only a fraction of that army is as yet committed.

THE SECOND border is that between North Vietnam and Red China. This border takes on added importance in view of reports that Peking and Moscow have settled their differences over the transit of military materiel from the Soviet Union. If these reports are correct shipments from the Soviet Union to the North Vietnam will increase. Chinese work cadres up to a total of 50,000 are reported in North Vietnam today.

THE LOGIC of the restraint applied by the President and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is plain enough with respect to this second border. McNamara says that the MIG bases in North Vietnam will continue to be off limits for American bombers. If those bases were destroyed the MIGs would shift to already prepared bases not far distant in China. The pressures would quickly grow to hit them there and the dimensions of an open-ended war would no longer be in doubt.

YUGOSLAVIA'S action announced by Tito on July 10, 1949, was a political development of inestimable importance. Prior to that move the Greek guerrillas when hard-pressed could move into the Yugoslav sanctuary for rest, regrouping and re-equipment.

Tito's bold, courageous action in publicly breaking with the Cominform in 1948 prepared the way for much that has happened since. Even while the Stalinist grip was at its peak, independence did not necessarily mean annihilation. American policy encouraged this independence with aid.

AMERICAN AID to Greece beginning in 1946 and through '49 was $818,000,000 of which $345,000,000 was military. Without that help the odds were high that Greece would have become another Soviet satellite.

As for Vietnam, after the Geneva accords in 1954 hope was held out that Ho Chi Minh in the North would be another Tito anxious to establish his independence from China. But when John Foster Dulles proclaimed South Vietnam a bastion of freedom to be defended by the United States that slender hope vanished.

100 For Valor

DONIPHAN, Mo. (AP) — A high school boy, on his way to take a driver's test, stopped to save an unconscious man from drowning and led his wife and five children to safety.

The boy, Ted Dwayne Wilson, 16, had watched the family's car plunge off US 160 into a creek. The car was partly submerged. The man had been thrown 100 feet and floated unconscious in the water.

Wilson jumped from the truck in which he was riding with a friend, waded out and revived the man with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. He then turned his attention to the rest of the family, and ferried them to the creek bank. Their injuries were minor.

After drying out at a nearby home, Wilson continued his trip and passed the driver's test with a score of 93 out of a possible 100.

Gay Brewer Facing Jinx At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The second round of the $100,000 Greater Dallas Open Golf Tournament was postponed because of rain Friday and will be played Saturday, with the tournament thus being extended a day and finishing Monday. Postponement came when heavy rains accompanied by lightning held the start of play through 9:15 a.m. At the same time the postponement was announced, Arnold Palmer, golf's greatest money-winner, who slumped to a 6-over-par 76 in the opening round Thursday, asked permission to withdraw because he was ill. Permission was granted.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Gay Brewer, the Masters champion from Dallas, led the $100,000 Dallas Open Golf Tournament with a six-under-par 64 today but he faced a jinx.

There have been 14 tournaments on the PGA tour this year, and in only three of them has the first-round leader emerged winner. Brewer, however, is playing the best golf of his career and fired his third 64 of the campaign Thursday. He also equaled the record first round in the tournament's history — the 64 shot by John McMullin in the opening round of 1958.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Ole Miss tried to recruit a talented Negro quarterback named Bill Triplett recently but Triplett, who went to Temple High School in Vicksburg, Miss., defected to Michigan State.

Duffy Daugherty found good talent in the south and is now scouting all over the south in efforts to keep pace with Notre Dame's nationwide search for prize footballers.

No city in Texas has done better by Texas Western College than Big Spring when it comes to supplying top-notch football talent.

Joe Jaure, Thurman (Big Daddy) Randle and Charley West are three local products who will perform for the Miners this fall.

In the immediate past, such Big Spring standouts as Jack Ed Irons, Dexter Pate, Jimmy Evans and Buster Barnes have all gone on to make good with the El Paso club.

The site of the next Super Bowl football game will be selected next month. The game almost certainly will go to Miami, since Los Angeles has already been discredited and New Orleans is concentrating on the job of trying to get a domed stadium built.

Sept. 1 this year arrives on a Friday, which means the annual Big Spring Invitational Golf tournament will probably be held Sept. 1-4.

Schedule on other area tournaments which might be of interest to local players include: May 4-7—Tail City Open (for women professionals) at Midland; May 13-14—McCamey—Lamesa Invitational; June 2-4—Kermitt Partnership; May 25-28—Levelland Invitational; June 15-18—Men's West Texas; June 9-11—Midland; June 24-25—Gaines County Invitational; June 30-July 2—Brownfield Invitational; July 1-4—Andrews Invitational; July 13-16—Odessa Pro-Am; July 29-31—Amarillo Partnership; July 29-30—Plainview Invitational.

A date to circle: The St. Louis Cardinals, with a healthy Charley Johnson (they hope), are booked to meet the Dallas Cowboys in Dallas Nov. 23—which happens to be Thanksgiving Day. The contest is booked at an odd hour—5 p.m. The television people requested it for that time.

Thurlo McCrady, who came here a few years ago as a representative of the American Football League to serve as chief speaker at the Quarterback Club's annual banquet honoring the Big Spring Steers, is now an assistant to commissioner George Mikan of the newly organized American Basketball Association.

R. E. (Booty) Blount Sr., in for a visit from Austin recently, says son Peppy has signed on for another season as an AFL official.

Peppy, currently a practicing attorney in Longview, has a son who is developing into an ace goal kicker in football. Pep is no longer in politics. He was county judge down there at one time.

Booty, who lost his wife last year, probably will be moving to Longview soon.

Johnnie Carrigan, who tries to visit out this way at least once yearly, will open his 17th Big State Boys' Baseball camp at the University of Dallas June 4.

Carrigan plans to have four three-week sessions. They're coming in from as far away as Madrid, Spain, for this one. Bobby Bragan and Firpo Marberry will be among the guest lecturers.

Andy Etchebarren (Baltimore) and Ted Uhlender (Minnesota) are among graduates of the school.

Expenses for each session total $100 and cover just about everything, including room and meals.

Those interested can contact Carrigan by writing Box 7034, Waco, Texas 76710.

Cincy Goes 13 To Turn Back Dodger Nine

Cincinnati's Don Pavletich, a reserve catcher, weighs 211 pounds and isn't what you'd call lightning fast on the bases. He needed all the help he could get in the 13th inning of the Reds' 3-1 victory over Los Angeles Thursday night. Pavletich was on first base with a one-out walk when Gerry Arriago bunted. Ron Perranoski, the Dodgers' third pitcher, grabbed the ball, thought about Pavletich lumbering towards second, hesitated just long enough, then wheeled and fired, hoping for the force. He didn't get it. Pavletich slid in safely moved to third on a force play and then scored the winning run when Vada Pinson dropped a tantalizing single into short right field. The Reds got an insurance run on Pete Rose's base hit.

Gary Nolan, an 18-year-old right-hander, worked the first nine innings for the Reds and struck out 12 Dodgers. But Los Angeles pushed across a run in the bottom of the ninth on Jim Hickman's pinch double, tying the score at 1-1 and sending the game into extra innings.

It stayed that way until Perranoski hesitated in the 13th. Elsewhere in the National League, New York battered Chicago 6-1 and San Francisco ended St. Louis' six-game winning streak, 7-5.

In the American League, Cleveland blanked Kansas City 2-0, Detroit nipped California 4-3, and Chicago whacked Washington 8-4. Minnesota and Baltimore were rained out. Tommy Davis hammered a home run and a double — his first extra-base hits of the season — as the Mets trimmed the Cubs.

Rookie pitcher Tom Seaver, a $40,000 bonus baby, got credit for his first big league victory, with Don Shaw, another rookie, finishing up. Veteran Curt Simmons was the loser. The Giants bunched five singles in the second inning, scoring five runs, but had to hold off the rallying Cardinals for their victory.

Three Bulldogs In Regional

Coahoma has three boys entered in the Class A Regional track and field meet at Lubbock Saturday.

MUNY SETS GOLF MEET

ON LOCAL FIELD

Steers Oppose Lee Saturday

Midland Lee moves into Big Spring Saturday afternoon to help the Big Spring Steers open the second round of competition in District 2-AAAA baseball play.

The Longhorns bowled over the Rebels in their first game this season, 4-3, but since have fallen upon evil times. It'll take a win tomorrow to move them out of the cellar and even then a couple of other teams in the circuit will have to lose.

The outlook for the Steers is bleak but far from hopeless. The locals are capable of playing some fine ball, too, as proved against both Lee and Abilene High.

They'll carry a 2-5 league record onto the field against the Rebels. Over-all, the Big Springers are a respectable 10-8.

Jerry (Moose) Ryan likely will pitch for the locals, in next Tuesday, at which time they oppose Odessa High.

VI-B Athletes Seek State Meet Berths

Athletes by the hundreds descend upon Big Spring Saturday for the annual Region VI-B track and field meet, which gets under way at 10 a.m. in Memorial Stadium. First and second place qualifiers here travel on to Austin for the State meet two weeks hence. Finals in the field events get under way at 1 p.m. in the running events at 3 p.m.

Forsan Delegation

Pictured here are the five boys who will represent Forsan High School in Saturday's Region VI-B track and field meet in Memorial Stadium Saturday. From the left, they are Steve Park, Larry Callihan, Ray McKinnon, Johnny Dolan and Carl Dean. Park runs the 440 and on the mile relay team. Dean is a pole vaulter. The others are members of the mile relay team.

Verdel Turner of HCJC will again serve as meet director. He'll be assisted by HCJC personnel. A scratch meeting of coaches will be held in the small dining room of the Student Union building at 8:30 a.m. Klondike won the meet last year with 52 points and is one of the favorites again. Ira was second a year ago with 44 points while Edan had 36.

Bronte Leading By Four In VI-B Golf Tourney

Bronte of District 44-B carried a four-stroke lead into the final 18 holes of competition today in the Region VI-B golf tournament, which started Thursday at the Muny course here.

The Longhorns' four-man team toured the layout in 345 strokes, Steve Williams leading the way with an 80. Keith McCutchen was one stroke off that pace.

Robert Lee was a strong second with a total score of 349 while Fort Davis was not far removed with a 365.

In all, 11 teams had teams in the meet. Loraine's four-man squad was 28 strokes behind the leaders but supplied the individual lead-

Eden And Barstow Dominate Tennis

Eden and Barstow representatives won three opening round matches each in the Region VI-B tennis tournament Thursday at HCJC here.

Finals in all divisions are scheduled for this afternoon. Winners qualify for the State meet at Austin two weeks hence.

Cynthia Jacoby of Eden won her girls' singles match by turning back Jane Wall of Hermleigh without losing a game.

In girls' doubles, the Eden combination of Barbara Bridges and Judy Tallaterra sidled Naomi Garcia and Margie Salinas of Barstow, 6-0, 6-1.

In boys' doubles, Eden's tandem of Mike Craig and Bill Jacoby decisioned Christoval's combination of Richard Menchaca and Albert Galan, 6-3, 6-0.

Barstow representatives advancing were Cruz Abilla in boys' singles, Charles Diehl and Rick Petty in boys' doubles and Audie Whitaker in girls' singles.

Representatives of 12 different schools reached the semifinals in the four divisions of competition.

Results: BOYS SINGLES: Larry Cohen, Klondike, over Jerry Hermleigh, 6-0, 6-0; Soliv Muny, Water Valley, over Lee Fisher, Fort Davis, 6-2, 6-2; Cruz Abilla, Barstow, over Larry Stoddman, Trent, 7-5, 6-0; Fred Pains, Wall, over Ed Murphy, 6-0, 6-0.

Reed's Slams Meet Champs

Bill Reed Insurance upset Morton's Foods, 9-3, and Webb AFB turned back the Optimists, 7-0, in opening games of the City Softball league at the City Park Thursday night.

Morton's was fresh from a comeback victory in the pre-season tournament conducted by the league and was slightly favored to kayo Reed's but the Insurors erupted for their runs in clusters, getting four in the fourth and four more in the seventh.

Thelbert Camp, on the mound for Reed's, scattered seven hits effectively. Frank Long clubbed a second inning solo home run for the winners and drove in a run in the fourth with a single. Jerold Cox, Sammy Mims and Charles Boadle each connected for doubles for the winners while Joe Sharpnack of Morton's was the only member of his team to hit safely twice.

Webb used two pitchers, Bob Keuber and Bolin, to blank the Optimists. Together, they limited the losers to three hits.

Rubber Workers Call Walkouts

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The United Rubber Workers Union struck three of the big four rubber companies today as contracts expired at midnight. More than 50,000 union jobs were affected.

It was the first company-wide strike since 1965 when the rubber workers manned picket lines against the U.S. Rubber Co., now Uniroyal.

A union spokesman said it was the biggest since 1959 when the union called walkouts against the same companies struck early today — the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., the B.F. Goodrich Co., and Uniroyal.

PICKET LINES
Word of the breakdown in Firestone negotiations came at about 10:30 p.m. Thursday. The

One-Act Play Winners Listed

Russell Willis, youthful student of Rochelle High School, is the best actor in Region VI, Conference B. He won this top honor at the University Interscholastic League competition in one-act plays here Thursday in a piece titled "The Twelve Pound Look."

Roby's Dinah Lovett, who portrayed Lady Macbeth in a cutting from Shakespeare's tragedy, was rated as the best actress.

"The Twelve Pound Look," staged by Rochelle High School, directed by Bill Spurgin, won first place as the best of the eight plays offered.

Borden County High School's production of "Death of the Hired Man" was rated as the second best play. Ben Jarrett directed this play.

Third place award for best play went to "Macbeth," presented by Roby High School, and directed by Mrs. J. B. Hughey.

Dr. P. Merville Larson, head of the speech department at Texas Tech, Lubbock, was the judge.

In addition to Willis and Miss Lovett, others rated as "all star cast" members were Susan Boren, Rochelle, in "The Twelve Pound Look;" Jim Espy, Fort Davis, in "Goodbye to the Clown;" Johnny Flores, Tornillo High School, in "The Red Velvet Coat;" Vicki Gambelin, Rochelle, in "The Twelve Pound Look;" Catherine Holmes, Borden County High School, in "Death of the Hired Man;" Elaine Price, Sterling City, "Diary of Anne Frank;" Meiva Pearce, Rotan, in "Patchwork Quilt;" and David Walker, Borden County High School, in "Death of the Hired Man."

Four Facing Kidnap Rap

HOUSTON (AP)— Three men and a woman accused of stealing two small girls from their home were charged with kidnaping Thursday night.

Charged in Justice of the Peace Jack Treadway's court were Neda McCracken, 29, William Barfield, 33, Staten S. Stratman, 28, and Lewis L. Hodges, 31. The four had not been arrested late Thursday night.

Mrs. Betty Jean Wortman, 29, mother of the girls, told police she met the four at a club and they went to Mrs. Wortman's home early Thursday.

Mrs. Wortman, who is estranged from her husband, said she left the room and returned to find her purse containing about $100, a television set and her two small daughters by a previous marriage—Pricilla Sue Webb, 2, and Shelia Neda Johnson, 4—missing along with the four visitors.

Later in the day, police said, a woman called and informed them Mrs. Wortman had given her the tots. The woman told police the children were in a motel. Officers went to the motel and picked up the girls and returned them to Mrs. Wortman.

Regents Elect Laredo Mayor

KINGSVILLE (AP)— Regents of Texas A&I Thursday elected the mayor of Laredo, J. C. Martin Jr., president after accepting with regrets the resignation of John F. Lynch of Houston.

Lynch had headed the A&I regents since 1952 and had been a member of the board since 1951. He is senior vice president of Texas Eastern Transmission Co.

In other business, the regents let a contract for a new library building to Roberts & Roberts of Kingsville for a low bid of $1,024,839. Construction is to start in 100 days with completion scheduled for early summer of 1968.

The board announced that a dormitory to be named for Martin will be dedicated May 6 at 3 p.m.

Welcome Anyway

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP) — City Manager Robert Applegate says the state has refused permission for the city to put up a "Welcome to El Cajon" sign on state land bordering the city, saying it would conflict with antibillboard and freeway beautification laws. But Applegate says you're welcome to El Cajon anyway.

Grand Jury Calls For Death Penalty

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A Nueces County grand jury recommended the death penalty Thursday for the first time since 1940. It called for this penalty after convicting Guadalupe Sanchez, 19, of killing Ethel Lynch, 53, at her home here in 1965.
