

Days Of Digging Surveyor To Sleep

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Surveyor 3 starts a well-earned two-week sleep tonight after 10 days of digging into the mysteries of the moon.

Four historic trenches—the first furrows made by man in any but his native soil—are visible evidence of what scientists suspected—that the lunar surface is strong enough to support manned landing craft.

More than 6,000 pictures televised by the tripod spacecraft show the dry, grainy soil has the consistency of wet sand, at least to the depth of 7½ inches, and there is some indication of a harder layer underneath.

Electronic Brain

Controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory radioed commands Tuesday preparing the 620-pound spacecraft for the minus 250-degree lunar night with taped instructions for the operation of the heater protecting its electronic brain.

The hand-sized scoop mounted on a five-foot extension, was left poised 30 inches above the surface, ready to resume digging after the sun rises on the moon May 17.

Four Trenches Dug

Picture taking will continue until the lunar sunset, about 6 p.m. EST tonight, prevents Surveyor 3's swiveling eye from snapping any more shots of the gouged and hammered terrain between two of the spacecraft's skeletal circular padded feet.

In 27 hours of scoop operation, Surveyor 3 has dug four 2-inch-wide trenches, the largest nearly two feet long.

That one, created by five passes of the scoop, is 7½ inches deep. Measurement of the electrical power needed to pull the shovel toward the spacecraft on successive scoops indicated soil firmness increases with depth.

Should Support Astros

Latest photographs of this series show the walls are still standing, marked with well-defined tracks from screw heads on the lower jaw of the scoop.

Two rocks—one a half-inch in diameter, the other twice that size—have been picked up by the scoop but disappeared after being dropped.

The scoop, like the arm of a toy steam shovel also was pushed into the soil seven times and dropped—from heights up to 30 inches—13 times to test the bearing strength of the surface.

All tests so far, a laboratory spokesman said, show the terrain that surrounds Surveyor 3's landing site in the dry Ocean of Storms would support the 15-ton landing craft planned in the Apollo program.

Double Bounce

Similar predictions were made after the soft landing in the same Ocean of Storms last June by Surveyor 1, which had a camera but no scoop.

Surveyor 3 was designed to make a soft landing too, but came close to the fate of Surveyor 2, which crashed on the moon last September after a steering maneuver failed.

For unknown reasons, Surveyor 3's small balance-control rockets kept burning briefly after the touchdown April 19. Compensating for the weak lunar gravity, they allowed the spacecraft to bounce twice before it settled down inside a shallow crater, without damage.

Church Union Friction

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A clash of viewpoints today confronted Protestant representatives over whether to press ahead with development of a plan for a united church—or to defer it temporarily. "We can no longer pussyfoot in this matter," declared Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord of Washington, D. C., urging immediate steps to proceed with the work.

However, Episcopal Bishop G. Francis Burrill of Chicago said such action would be "premature at this point" and would appear to be "without authorization of the bodies we represent" until they specifically sanction it.

Simmering Sessions

The friction, simmering behind the scenes all day in closed committee sessions, came out in the open at a Tuesday night session of the Consultation on Church Union.

It involves 10 major denominations with a total of 25.5 million members.

After reaching agreement on modes of worship, a common ministry and doctrinal standards for a unified church in five previous years of work, the key issue here was whether to go on and draft an organization system.

Bill To Hike Texans' Taxes Skips Hurdle

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate Finance Subcommittee approved today a one-year spending bill calling for $436 million from the general revenue fund, which could mean a tax increase of $11 million during the next fiscal year.

Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris, chairman of the Finance Committee, said he would ask full committee approval of the Senate bill Thursday.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, meeting with the subcommittee and newsmen in his office just prior to the start of the Senate session, said he would ask the Senate to consider both the one-year bill and a two-year appropriation measure, which has been on the Senate calendar for more than a month.

SPECIAL SESSION

It called for spending $846.8 million from general revenue.

"I want the Senate to make a choice which they favor," Smith said.

After the Senate Finance Committee had approved the two-year appropriation bill, Gov. John Connally asked the legislature to provide funds for running state government for only one year.

He said he would call the legislature back in special session next year to find money for the second year of the biennium.

PAY RAISE

The possible $11 million tax increase is the difference in the Senate's one-year proposal and the state comptroller's estimate of available revenue for the next fiscal year, beginning Sept. 1. That estimate, Aikin noted, could be revised upward or downward.

The Senate's one-year bill provides for placing $55.5 million in the foundation school fund for a teacher pay raise for one year, subject to passage of enabling legislation.

LBJ Rules Out Forced Rail Arbitration

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson ruled out today compulsory arbitration to avert a nationwide rail strike but said he will ask Congress later this week—perhaps Thursday—to provide machinery for further mediation.

In a far-ranging surprise news conference in his office, Johnson also said he has "no recommendations at this time" for increasing the number of American troops in Vietnam and expects no decision along that line in the next few days or weeks.

TAX PUSH

The chief executive, in response to questions, took a philosophical attitude generally toward those who dissent from his Vietnam policies. But, when asked for reaction to recent statements on the war by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., he replied: "We regret when any person asks the young people of the country to refuse to serve the needs of the country."

Johnson, on other points, said he's still pushing for a six percent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes.

SCHOOL VIEW

And he said that Republican efforts to amend the secondary school aid law would, in his view, mean a real revision that would be disastrous for young people.

In discussing the rail situation, Johnson said he still hasn't made final decisions on additional legislation proposals he will send to Congress.

However, he said the plan now under consideration would provide for a 90-day no-lockout period.

FAIR DEAL

During the first half of that time span, he said, a special five-member presidential board would pursue extensive mediation efforts and, in the second half, this panel would review its own findings and those of earlier emergency boards to make certain settlement proposals would be fair and equitable, protect collective bargaining and serve the purposes of the Railway Labor Act.

Should there be no settlement in sight at the end of the 90 days, Johnson said, further recommendations would be considered.

He said no decision had been made on when the 90-day period would begin. But he suggested it would start at the time he signed any legislation that might be approved by Congress.

Local Agencies Share In Dora Roberts Gifts

Foundation Distributes $150,000

Grants of $150,000 by the Dora Roberts Foundation were announced here today by Horace Garrett, president of the board and grandson of the founder.

Local institutions including the YMCA, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center and the Howard County Junior College student loan fund, were included for an aggregate of $70,000. Also sharing were Methodist Hospital and St. Mark's Home in Houston and the Midland YMCA.

FIFTH TIME

This was the fifth distribution of funds from the foundation since it was established in 1938 by the late Mrs. Dora Roberts. The initial grant of half a million dollars each went to McMurry College and Texas Wesleyan College. Since 1956 a board has administered the distribution of funds.

Garrett announced a grant of $40,000 to the Big Spring YMCA for the purpose of paying of remaining indebtedness and for capital outlay for various plant improvements.

Another $20,000 went to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center under a two year program to finance an additional therapist, and for improvements including some carpeting.

LOAN FUND

The HCCJ student loan fund, which had been established in memory of Mrs. Roberts, a pioneer ranch woman with extensive oil and property holdings, received $10,000, which matched the original gift.

A grant of $10,000 went to the Midland YMCA. The St. Mark's Home (for foundlings) in Houston, a previous recipient, was included for $20,000, and Methodist Hospital in Houston received $30,000, which matched a previous gift from the foundation to research directed by Dr. Michael DeBakey, famed surgeon.

OTHER GIFTS

Beneficence of the foundation, including the original million dollars to the two colleges, have amounted to $1,896,000. Among major items here are $300,000 to construct the Dora Roberts Student Union Building at HCCJ, $170,000 to construct the health center which houses the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center and the city-county health unit; $5,000 toward equipment for the center; $91,500 (excluding the current gift) to the YMCA and its Takeview branch; $40,000 to the Salvation Army for transient dormitory and canteen improvements; $30,000 each to the First Methodist and Wesleyan Methodist Churches; $40,000 plus Roberts home for Howard County Library; $50,000 (excluding the new gift) to St. Mark's Home; $100,000 to Methodist Hospital in Houston; $50,000 to Scott & White Hospital in Temple.

Members of the board met at the home of Garrett Tuesday evening. Other members are Mrs. Garrett, G. H. Hayward, Lester Martin, Judge R. W. Canton of Big Spring, and Robert Center, Midland, and Mrs. Eloise Waters, Houston, a daughter of Mrs. Roberts.

U.S. Marines Gain Control Of Two Hills

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Marines, who have won control of two disputed hills in northwestern South Vietnam at heavy cost in a nine-day campaign, fought a bloody battle with North Vietnamese soldiers today for a third hill.

More than 200 Red regulars struck before dawn at a Leatherneck company that had driven along a ridgeline to within 1,000 yards of Hill 881 North. They were repulsed only after penetrating the American perimeter, killing 22 Marines and wounding 69.

78 COUNTED

Marine reinforcements, air strikes and artillery helped to hurl back the North Vietnamese after a five-hour fight. The Marines said they counted 78 dead on the field.

U.S. losses in the drive launched April 25 mounted to 118: killed and 345 wounded. Marine reports show at least 502 Communists killed and Lt. Gen. Lewis Walt, the Marine commander, estimated the actual toll is at least 1,000.

"And we will take that hill too," Walt said on a visit to the battlefield.

TREMENDOUS JOB

He said the Marines, clearing high ground overlooking enemy infiltration routes from Laos, have done "a tremendous job."

Elsewhere, U.S. infantrymen and South Vietnamese paratroopers reported killing more than 300 Communist soldiers in two battles more than 400 miles apart. Another American unit uncovered one of the largest enemy caches of the war north of Saigon.

MORTAR BARRAGE

A spokesman said the Marine company was in night defensive positions, six miles northwest of the forward command post at Khe Sanh when Communist gunners launched a heavy mortar attack at 4:30 a.m. The barrage was followed with an assault by the two Communist companies, perhaps more than 300 men.

Units from other Marine companies moved in as C47 Dragons, artillery, armed helicopters and fighter-bombers pounded the Communist positions.

The attack was repulsed and by 10 a.m. the fighting appeared to have died down, the spokesman said.

Other Marines reported they occupied Hill 881 South in an assault Tuesday to clear the enemy from that point overlooking infiltration routes from Laos.

Stronger Water Pollution Ban Measure Okayed

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas House members passed today a Senate bill strengthening state water pollution control efforts after defeating amendments to let counties have tougher standards than the state.

The bill, approved on voice vote, returns to the Senate for action on amendments. The major amendment clarifies that the rights of owners of underground water will not be affected.

In the Senate, a finance subcommittee approved a one-year general appropriation bill calling for $436 million from general revenue. The bill includes $55.5 million for a teacher pay raise, subject to passage of enabling legislation, and would necessitate an $11 million tax bill.

House members passed on voice vote and sent to the governor for signature a bill making uninsured motorists' coverage a standard part of all auto liability policies. A driver would refuse the uninsured motorists coverage, however, by sending his insurance company a written statement.

Rep. Carl Parker, Port Arthur, withdrew a proposed amendment that would require uninsured drivers to pay for the coverage by contributing a set amount of money to a state fund when they get their license plates.

Dynamite Truck Blast Injures Three Persons

MERKEL, Tex. (AP)—A truck loaded with 100 cases of dynamite and fertilizer caught fire and exploded today near this West Central Texas town.

Three persons were injured by flying glass.

Although no one was killed, the shock wave from the blast broke windows a mile away in Merkel and could be felt in Abilene, 13 miles to the east. Two firemen were injured.

DRIVER WALKS
The truck driver, Arthur Harold Caudle, 38, said he had a flat a mile east of Merkel while driving on Interstate 20. He said he walked to a truck stop a quarter of a mile away for help, and saw the truck burning as he prepared to return.

A fire truck and a fire unit rushed to the scene, and the truck blew up while firemen were trying to extinguish the blaze.

FIRE CHIEF HURT
Injured were Fire Chief Waymon R. Adcock, 47, and Fireman Chester McWilliams, in his 50s. The extent of injuries was not immediately known.

Caudle, a driver for the Strawn Merchandise Co., was flagging traffic when the blast occurred.

Asst. Fire Chief Billy King said the injured men were "cut up pretty bad."

HIGHWAY CLOSED

The busy highway was closed for about two hours. Dist. Highway Engineer J. C. Roberts said an estimated $10,000 damage was done to the road.

The truck was demolished by the explosion, which in turn set two nearby oil tanks afire. Other fires were started as far away as a quarter of a mile, reports said.

A highway patrol spokesman said a hole 50 feet in diameter and 25 feet deep was blown in the west lane of the highway.

Former County Chairmen Named To Recount Votes

Two former county party chairmen—C. V. Riordan and Bill Sheppard—are recounting the ballots today in Voting Box 2 in the contested election for County Commissioner of Precinct 2.

Riordan, real estate and insurance man, is former chairman of the Howard County Democratic Party, and Sheppard, also in real estate, is former chairman of the Howard County Republican Party. Both have had many years' experience in elections and in county political affairs.

ASSIGNED

Judge Austin McCloud, presiding in the contest hearing, assigned the two veteran county political experts to the job, with the approval of the attorneys for both Winston Wrinkle, Republican who brought the contest, and Ray C. Nichols, democratic incumbent. Wrinkle lost the Nov. 8 election by a margin of only eight votes. He filed his contest and the recount of Voting Box 2 votes is a step in the determination of the correct totals in the balloting.

Judge McCloud and the two attorneys, Dick Milstead for the contestant and Lanny Hamby for the contestee, spent Wednesday morning going through the ballot stubs for Voting Box 18, one of the four boxes in Commissioner Precinct 2 which are under fire in the election check. Primary object in going through the stubs was to locate the numbers of a dozen voters in Box 18 whose ballots have been stipulated by both sides as invalid, due to the voters residing out of the precinct.

NOT SIGNED

At the same time, the court has been withdrawing stubs encountered in the search which were not signed by the voter. These votes, under the law, are illegal. The contestee has opposed this action, particularly on stubs which have been taken from the box after the stipulated illegal votes had been located and removed.

Judge McCloud has overruled Hamby's protest but has the matter of just how some of these ballots will be handled under advisement.

There are about 900 ballots in Box No. 2, which Riordan and Sheppard will have to check and tabulate in the county commissioners race.

Their first job was to remove from the box those ballots of the persons which the litigants have agreed are illegal voters.

NONE OTHERS

Judge McCloud did not order a recount of the ballots in any of the other boxes in Commissioner Precinct 2. In Voting Box 2, a heavy vote plus difficulty encountered by counters in tabulating the returns on the night of Nov. 8, created the possibility, he said, of errors in the figures reported. A recount, he felt, was the only way that the true situation can be determined.

In the other boxes, the withdrawal of the stipulated invalid votes (plus possibly the unsigned stub ballots) will constitute the only invasion of the boxes.

Voting Box 10, Forsan, was excluded from any search since neither contestant nor contestee suggested any irregularity or possible invalid votes in that box.

DELAY DUE

Judge McCloud said he had a case to try in Sweetwater Thursday and would be unable to be here. This will probably delay the further consideration of the contest until Friday. No announcement of trends shown during the check has been made, and none, the court has announced, will be made. When the final check has been completed, the court will announce the results shown.

Crane Plunge Proves Costly

HOUSTON (AP)—An 18-ton crane fell 28 stories today from the top of a downtown Houston Lighting and Power Co. building under construction.

The crane landed on a truck. Jim Bridges, 47, the crane operator, leaped to safety. No injuries were reported.

Houston Lighting and Power Co. officials estimated the overall damages at $250,000. The crane was valued at $30,000. A spokesman for the firm said the accident could set construction on the project back a month.

He'll Appeal To The Banana Bunch

Bearded Louis Abolafia sits among bananas and guitar-playing hippies yesterday in a theater in East Village section of Manhattan where he launched his campaign for the presidency of the United States. The happening was billed as a "Cosmic Love Convention, a 72-hour Freakathon for Hippies and Saints." "I want to spread love through art. If I become President, I will set up cultural centers throughout the country," Abolafia said. (AP-WIREPHOTO)

Cosmic Love-In Campaign Begins

NEW YORK (AP) — A delegate with a banana skin stuck on his nose was walking down the aisle of the Village Theater as Louis Abolafia spelled out his campaign platform for the presidency of the United States. "I want to spread love through art," Abolafia was saying between bites of a banana. "If I become president, I will set up cultural centers throughout the country."

LOVE EVERYBODY
"People's tastes would be improved," he explained. "Eventually love would spread all over the world and wars would become impossible because everybody would love everybody else."

Launching his campaign Tuesday, Abolafia, 25, had the theater alive with a semi-psychotic East Village happening billed as a "Cosmic Love Convention, a 72-hour Freakathon for Hippies and Saints."

HELP!
The delegates were met in the lobby by a sign reading: "Help a beatnik in his humble attempt at an honest living. Buy a banana."

Harold Chizman, seated on a mat covered with bananas, said they cost 15 cents apiece but added, "You get three cents back if you return the peel."

Inside, granny-dressed and miniskirted teenyboppers danced to the amplified dissonance of a rock 'n' roll group while projectionists played movies and slides on the ceiling, walls and floor.

"The idea is to have the audience and the band become one in the same," explained Abolafia. "There is no split between performing and looking."

POETRY
A blonde beating a tambourine ran up the aisle crying "Love, Love, Love!" as Abolafia explained his campaign strategy.

"I am asking supporters to write in my name. Of course, a lot of my supporters are too young to vote, but it's healthy that they should be interested," he said over the din. "Later we'll have lots more entertainment. We'll have poetry reading and singing and more groups playing. We haven't really gotten warmed up

Sen. Dirksen Lines Up GOP Behind LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen is keeping his sometimes balky Republican troops lined up behind President Johnson in fighting the war in Vietnam.

The resilient Dirksen climbed out of a hospital bed Monday, not yet fully recovered from a bout with pneumonia, to put down an incipient revolt among party members who don't like the way the war is going and are searching for a Republican alternative.

'FOUR SQUARE'

When Dirksen got through lecturing them at a closed Policy Committee meeting about the political liabilities of questioning the commander in chief's basic direction of a bloody conflict, they went docilely along with a statement giving "wholehearted support" to Johnson and standing "four-square" behind him.

FAIR INQUIRY

Romney said in Atlanta, Ga., Monday that "I don't think we should pursue a way that will weaken the President as long as he is president. And I don't think we should pursue a course that will help the enemy."

The wily Dirksen left an avenue open for the GOP dissenters in "preserving wholly the right of full and fair inquiry and criticism" on their part. They, in turn, left no doubt of their intention to march up that route.

HAPPY

Javits said this and other proposals were being submitted for a proposed policy statement. Dirksen said a statement will be made by the Senate-House leadership at its next meeting. But he made it clear it will not "modify our support of the President."

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., a first-line war critic, called for "a frank review within the Republican party of this nation's policies and objectives in Vietnam."

He was happy about a disputed report of the Policy Committee's staff which sharply criticized Johnson's policies and suggested that Republicans ought not to take any responsibility for his "mistakes."

"I believe this report will be of great value to us in proposing alternatives to administration policies which have been unable to bring either victory or solution," he said.

But Sen. John G. Tower, R-Texas, said that while the bulk of the report was factual and useful, "I find it necessary to disassociate myself with a number of its inferences and suggested conclusions."

Tigress Drugged

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — A 500-pound tigress that had gnawed through its cage and escaped aboard a Danish ship bound for Scotland was drugged and quietly captured by Edinburgh Zoo officials.

The tigress was holed up in a cabin on the cargo ship Borrevik. Zoo officials shot a harmless hypodermic dart into her and, when she was asleep, put her in a cage.

Damage Suit Trial Dragging

Trial of a damage suit in 118th District Court begun Monday is dragging on longer than anticipated and as a result, the jurors who were to report Thursday have now been informed their services will not be required any further this week.

Judge Ralph Caton, presiding in the trial, said that it appeared the case will take all of today, tomorrow and possibly Friday to complete.

It is a suit brought by W. C. Winters Inc. against Paul Goodman et al. The incident occurred in 1964. It involves the collision of a truck with a piece of heavy road machinery.

EL PASO (AP) — Searchers took to the air again today looking for a Pecos, Tex., cotton farmer missing since April 24 on a flight from West Texas to the Mexican Pacific coast.

The search for Paul Ivey, 40, switched to the border of Chihuahua and Sonora States Tuesday after residents reported a single-engine plane passed over Saguariipa, Sonora, April 24.

The report was the first lead in the week-long search. About 20 planes combed the area.

Pioneer Reports Earnings Up

AMARILLO — C. I. Wall, president, told the board of directors at a meeting held here today that net income of Pioneer Natural Gas Company and subsidiaries for the first quarter of 1967 was $2,675,615 compared to $2,441,829 for the same period of the prior year.

Current earnings amount to 37 cents per share compared with 34 cents per share for the first quarter of 1966, on the 7,173,028 shares outstanding during that period.

Directors also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 18 cents per share on the outstanding common stock, payable June 1, 1967, to stockholders of record on May 19, 1967.

Ransom Raps Lawbreakers

AUSTIN (AP) — Chancellor Harry Ransom said today that despite threats of retaliation he will not let the University of Texas campus become a sanctuary for lawbreakers.

"I am not willing to buy an illusion of local academic calm and tranquility at the cost of flouting national, state or local laws," Ransom said in a statement answering criticism directed at the university administration recent campus demonstrations and disorders.

"I am not willing to demonstrate university freedom by flagrant violation of the university regulations and deliberately destructive incursions against the real purpose of academic freedom and responsibility, whether these incursions are generated from outside the campus or by members of the university itself."

A state court hearing on charges filed against three non-students after there was a demonstration April 24 against Vice President Hubert Humphrey has been postponed until May 8. The state seeks an injunction forbidding the three—George Vizard, David Ledbetter, and Jim Lyons—from trespassing on the campus and becoming involved in student activities. Vizard also was involved in a recent local demonstration against Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

In addition, six university students were placed on campus probation until June, 1968, for their part in an unauthorized rally held April 23 on the campus by the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) to plan the demonstration against the vice president.

Ransom said in his statement that he prohibited the SDS rally partially because of an earlier SDS rally on April 14 for an address by Stokely Carmichael, militant spokesman for black power.

GOP Ladies Differ Over Vote Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) — When it comes to politics, Gladys O'Donnell and Phyllis Schlafly sound as if they don't disagree at all. They're for unity and Republican victory in 1968.

They disavow the John Birch Society, deny getting any campaign money from Eastern liberals or arch-rightwingers. They don't want to label themselves or anyone else and would embrace moderate, conservative and liberal in the GOP.

But, when it comes to election tactics, the two contenders for the presidency of the National Federation of Republican Women let go at each other.

COFFEE CLASH

They clashed over coffee cups Tuesday at a Women's National Press Club luncheon in their first face-to-face confrontation of the federation election. Balloting is Saturday.

Mrs. Schlafly, 43, Alton, Ill., mother of six, with her lawyer-husband John Fred in the audience, expressed her ire over being passed over by the federation nominating committee, although she is first vice president.

DERBY PILOT

The committee picked Mrs. O'Donnell, 63, a widow, owner of a crude-oil business in Long Beach, Calif., a Powder Puff Derby pilot and at present federation program chairman.

Mrs. Schlafly claimed the federation's national headquarters "to which we all pay dues" was being used for her opponent and that "stories leaked out derogatory to me."

Mrs. O'Donnell entered a denial that the national offices were used "by anyone, for anyone." She called some of the tactics of Californians and Alabamians for Schlafly "unworthy of Republican women."

DOUBT

She said some of her literature mailed to delegates was designed to "create dissension and doubt as to the veracity of my own campaign and my trustworthiness."

Asked if she sanctioned or approved these mailings in her behalf, Mrs. Schlafly said they were sent out before she saw them, conceding, "I would say certain aspects were less than fair."

Mrs. Schlafly took the opportunity to wade into a much-discussed letter from Barry Goldwater, 1964 GOP presidential candidate.

She said the incumbent federation president, Dorothy Elston, Middletown, Del., had "suppressed a paragraph, that concerned me because she didn't agree with it."

In it, Goldwater wrote Mrs. Elston: "You and I both know the election of either of these fine ladies will not be a slur on any member of the Republican party, will not have a divisive effect and further, that under the leadership of either, the federation will be united to carry out its true function, which is the election of Republicans all across the land."

Mrs. Elston's explanation has been that she left the paragraph out in one of her mailings because it would have necessitated a second page and strained the budget of her "shoestring campaign."

VEILED THREAT

One dimly veiled threat from Mrs. Schlafly came when the contenders were asked whether election of a conservative or moderate federation president would affect national Republican policy.

"Well, that remains to be seen," said Mrs. Schlafly. "The worst thing that can possibly happen to the Republican party would be that reliable Republicans—who have a consistent record of supporting the ticket they're not wanted in the party. I think it would be very divisive for them to feel that people like I am being by-passed and purged and that is not good for the future of the party, because, let's face it, nobody can win without us."

Special Session Prospects Revive Republican Hopes

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

The cold draft of a lot of Texas Democrats felt across the back of their necks the other night was a revival of Republican political hopes in 1968.

Until Gov. John Connally told of his plans for a special session of the legislature in 1968, most politicians predicted the Texas GOP would lie low while President Johnson organized his state's Democrats in a re-election drive.

The prospect of Texas Democrats being tied up in a hot taxing and spending legislature in addition to presidential politics apparently, was too good an opportunity for the Republicans to pass.

TOWER PLEDGES
State Republican Chairman Peter O'Donnell Jr. quickly sent a special letter to party leaders urging that Texas Republicans go to the 1968 national GOP convention pledged to support Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., as a favorite son candidate.

Tower soundly trounced the Democratic senatorial candidate, Wagoner-Carr, last November with considerable help from some Democrats.

In answer to Connally's speech, two Republican legislators, Sen. Henry Grover of Houston and Rep. Frank Cahoon of Midland, said in a "Hank and Frank" program for 25 television stations that a special session was an unnecessary $15,000-a-day expense.

GOP ACTION
Because of the imminent national political conventions, the four Republicans in the legislature may speak louder than they have in the current session.

Other GOP moves since Connally's speech include the appointment of Vernon McGee, former legislative budget director, as research consultant for the Texas Republican Party. McGee, recognized as one of the top financial researchers in the state, will have the primary job of working with eight different task forces that the state Republicans named to study major state problems—and Democratic party weaknesses.

FIRED
After 16 years as director of the powerful Legislative Budget Board, McGee was fired in a power struggle won by Speaker Ben Barnes over Lt. Gov. Preston Smith.

Smith, an avowed conservative, has said he will be a candidate for governor in 1968 no matter who runs. He has not announced any change of mind since Connally indicated recently he probably will seek a fourth term.

However, Smith denied last week that he was considering a reported invitation from Texas Republicans to run on the GOP ticket if Connally is the Democratic nominee.

SURVEY RESULTS
Another political element appearing in recent days comes from the so-called liberal faction of the Democratic party.

The Texas AFL-CIO said that a survey of 510 voters, paid for and announced by the labor union, showed only 28 per cent of those questioned in favor of a Connally fourth term, while 43 per cent were against.

The same survey showed 55 per cent of those approached considered themselves Democrats and 12 per cent said they were Republicans, leaving 31 per cent who call themselves independents. A wrong or right move by either party could sway the independents to a winning majority.

KENNEDY STICKERS
Also to be considered in 1968 politics are a sizable number of "Draft Kennedy '68" bumper stickers on cars.

A spokesman for what is called the state headquarters in Austin of "Draft Kennedy" says the one aim of the group is to give Texas liberals a political home during the presidential election year.

"We think that more than ever conservatives are trying to control the Democratic party in Texas," he said. "Our one aim is toward a rump convention for Kennedy at the next state convention."

Landlords Sue Rep. Joe Pool

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., has been sued by the owners of a house where the Dallas lawmaker and his family lived for more than two years, claiming damage to the property.

The owners, Navy Capt. and Mrs. Charles P. Muckenthaier, asked $7,771.11.

In a reply, Pool said the property was subjected to no damage other than normal wear while his family lived there from January 1963 to October, 1965.

Fear Cannot Long Suppress Crime?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The will to commit crime cannot long be suppressed by fear, says Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

"It can be permanently conquered only by creating in the hearts of our people a respect for the rights of others, which is to say — a respect for the law."

Clark said in a Law Day speech, "We must begin with our youth. They are our future, our most precious resource and our most lawless citizens."

State Department Orders Small Employment Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department's top administrative officer has ordered a two per cent cut in the department's employment ceilings here and around the world, it was learned today.

The order abolishes an estimated 273 jobs and apparently is aimed both at economy and at curbing what critics contend is overstaffing in the big foreign affairs agency.

FIRST STEP
Idar Rimestad, the new deputy undersecretary for administration who issued the order, described it as a "modest beginning" to try to turn around the gradual growth of the State Department's payroll.

"This is the first step to come to grips with the size of the department," Rimestad told a newsman through an aide.

"There is a general feeling that we can do with fewer personnel and what we want to do is to get the number of our people in line with available funds," he said. "It will have no impact on foreign affairs operations. They could even improve."

Rimestad, who took over the department's top administrative post in February, was previously in a similar position at the U. S. embassy in Paris when 50 jobs were eliminated there. He is known to believe this did not impair the embassy's effectiveness. Some veteran U. S. diplomats long have contended that American foreign policy could be better carried out with a smaller bureaucracy.

NO FRINGS

Rimestad's directive does not apply to the U. S. diplomatic staff dealing with Southeast Asia, where the Vietnam war rates Washington's top priority.

It also does not call for the firing of persons now on the payroll. The cutback is to be achieved by not hiring people to fill vacancies as they occur.

But "in general the reductions should be applied to officer positions" — meaning those held by career diplomats — the directive says.

This adds to recent pressure on many older U. S. diplomats to retire. The department also is planning to shorten the time limits within which foreign service officers must be promoted or face discharge.

3,600 DIPLOMATS

There are about 3,600 career diplomats, of whom some 400 in the higher ranks will face "selection out" in the next five years under that procedure, officials said.

The State Department's global employment total now is about 25,000. This includes 15,000 career U. S. foreign service officers, clerical and Civil Service personnel and persons paid for by other U. S. agencies, plus 10,000 foreigners employed abroad.

Rimestad's directive, dated March 21 and addressed to all of the Department's assistant secretaries and office chiefs, applies to those persons paid directly from State Department appropriations.

Wilhelm Files New Trial Bid

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP) — Ronald Wilhelm, 23, convicted and sentenced to 99 years in jail for the July 4 slaying of a Breckenridge service station attendant, filed a motion for a new trial Tuesday.

Wilhelm, of San Antonio, and Claude Dean Edwards, 24, of Ranger, were convicted in the gunshot death of service station man Clarence Swaim. A third man, Gene McCain, 21, of Eastland, has not yet been tried in the slaying.

Wilhelm's lawyers claimed their client's constitutional rights were violated last July 7 when he was arrested in San Antonio. The motion said the arresting officers had no warrant for Wilhelm's arrest and said one of the court-appointed lawyers for Wilhelm was a personal friend of Swaim's.

Judge E. H. Griffin of Graham did not indicate when he will rule.

Wilhelm was convicted in Corsicana last month. Edwards was tried and given the death penalty in Graham.

Too Much Milk Makes Baby Ill

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Mama, baby may be suffering from "iron-poor blood."

Iron-deficiency anemia isn't an exclusive ailment of old codgers, as you might have thought.

For that, you have the word of Dr. Patricia A. O'Connor, a pediatrician at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

And, she says, too much milk may be what's ailing baby.

"When baby's appetite isn't satisfied with a quart of milk a day, or when he is two or three months of age, it's time to start feeding iron-enriched baby cereal," she says in an article in the Journal of the Michigan State Medical Society.

She reports that one or two children are seen each week at University Hospital with nutritional anemia due to lack of iron.

She says these usually are drinking so much milk that they have no appetite for iron-rich foods such as baby cereal, meat and eggs.

Her advice: Cut down on the milk. Offer baby more eggs, meat or cereal — which he'll get hungry enough to eat.

ABA Relaxes Press Proposal

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Bar Association has acted to liberalize certain portions of its original fair trial and free press recommendations.

In a statement Tuesday, the ABA's advisory committee on pre-trial publicity relaxed proposals calling on prosecution and defense attorneys to withhold comment on any pending case from arrest to conviction.

As now stated, the proposed restrictions apply only pending the imposition of sentence in trial court and not while the case is pending "in any court."

This would apparently allow statements while cases are before appellate courts and possibly during preliminary hearings before a case goes to trial.

The amendments were approved by the 10-member committee headed by Judge Paul C. Reardon of Boston, a member of the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

TEXANS AT WAR

Amarillo Airman Changes His Mind

By The Associated Press
Bertram Buckley went to Vietnam with misgivings — about the Vietnamese, the Americans, and his own role there. Now the Texan at war says he was wrong.

"I changed my mind a few times about our mission over there," says M. Sgt. Buckley, 33, who returned this year after a tour with the 90th Tactical Fighter Squadron at Bien Hoa.

Top Execs Shuffled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — North American Aviation, Inc., criticized in Congress for its work in the Apollo program following the fire that cost the lives of three astronauts, has reshuffled top executives in its space division.

Harrison A. Storms, who has directed the firm's multibillion-dollar Apollo spacecraft program since its inception, was removed as president of the space division in nearby Downey, Calif.

He will be succeeded by William B. Bergen, former president of the Martin Co. of Baltimore, Md., who joined North American on April 7 as corporate vice president in the space and propulsion group.

Company spokesmen refused to give any reason for Storms' removal Monday. Currently on a medical leave, he will continue as a vice president of the corporation upon his return, a spokesman said.

The firm also announced the appointment of R. H. Ruud as executive vice president of the space division, and W. F. Snelling as division vice president.

Some congressmen sharply criticized workmanship of the Apollo moon capsule which caught fire Jan. 27 atop a tower at Cape Kennedy, Fla., killing astronauts Virgil I. Grissom, Edward H. White II and Roger B. Chaffee.

As builder of the Apollo capsule, North American defended itself in hearings of a House subcommittee.

Dr. Robert C. Seamans, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told the subcommittee that North American "has not always been sufficiently dedicated to engineering design or workmanship" in its role as prime contractor in the $2.3-billion effort to land men on the moon.

The testimony also brought out that the Apollo program director, Maj. Gen. Samuel Phillips, had submitted a report in mid-1965 pointing out deficiencies in the manufacture of the moonship.

He said when he left the United States he had a "sour taste" for the Vietnamese and hadn't sold himself on the idea that he was needed in Vietnam.

FRIENDLIES
"I changed my mind on both counts," says Buckley, now stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls.

"On the whole, I think that we're going at it the right way. Once they get the government set up, I feel Vietnam is going to be a substantial country."

He said the U.S. eventually will "turn the Viet Cong into friendlies."

"Those people over there have been at war a long time," says Buckley. "A lot of them don't remember anything but war."

PO Mails Editorials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department has begun circulating a 255-page publication reproducing newspaper editorials on Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien's proposal to abolish the Post Office as a Cabinet agency.

Most of the editorials favor O'Brien's proposal that the postal service be handled by a nonprofit corporation.

A department spokesman said the Post Office had printed 1,200 copies of the publication at a cost of $381,400, using its own facilities.

The publication contained no indication that it had been printed by the Post Office, although it was mailed in department envelopes.

A spokesman said the purpose of the publication is "to show the initial public reaction as expressed in editorials around the country to the proposal—to put in every editorial we were able to collect—without regard to whether it favored or didn't favor the proposal."

$90,000 Awarded To Probe Impact

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The Texas Transportation Institute at Texas A&M University has been awarded $90,000 to test impact devices for highway safety application. The devices are designed to reduce the impact of motor vehicles with immovable obstacles such as bridge ends, underpass dividers and massive posts.

Dear Abby
Daughter Being Nagged

DEAR ABBY: I am a single girl of 29, living at home with my widowed mother. I have a good job and am very happy. I date, but have no one steady. Even though I am content with my life, my mother is not. She thinks something must be "wrong" with me because I'm not married by now and it doesn't seem to bother me. She's even suggested I get psychiatric help.

I appreciate her motherly concern, but I am getting sick of hearing her tell me to hurry up and grab the next thing that comes along because it might be the last. She insists that every "normal" woman should have a husband. I can't take much more of her badgering. Please help me.

DEAR HAPPY: Tell your mother to quit worrying about you and to go on a manhunt of her own. (Widows are "normal," and she has less time left than you.) Point out that you can't in good conscience go to work on getting a man unless she has one. And if she still thinks you should see a psychiatrist, tell her you'll go if she will.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon and have had several lovely bridal showers. I received many duplicate gifts, such as toasters, mixers, steam irons, coffee-makers and deep-fryers. Mac (my fiancé) and I had planned on exchanging all the duplicate gifts for things we need but didn't get as gifts, so when my mother asked me if she could have every item I got more than one of, I told her I'd have to talk it over with Mac. My mother got real mad and said, "I didn't see Mac's name on any of the shower-gift cards!" Now she won't even talk to me. Imagine trying to plan a wedding with a mother who won't speak to you! Am I wrong? She called me a selfish, ungrateful child.

DOWNHEARTED BRIDE
DEAR DOWNHEARTED: Although Mac's name may not have been on the cards, the shower gifts were intended for your future household — yours and Mac's, so I think your mother is wrong.

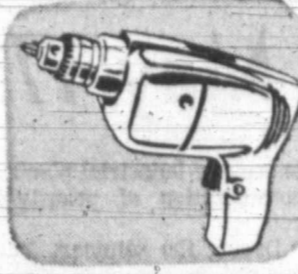

DEAR ABBY: You have led a most sheltered life if you didn't know that some boarding schools claim the right to censor their students' mail. (Notice I said "claim," not "have.") The post office department specifically states that some institutions such as mental hospitals, prisons, and the military, at certain times, may open first class mail, but otherwise it is strictly confidential. And for anyone other than the addressee to open it is a federal offense—a felony. If "inquiring" wants to put a stop to any mail opening, she should consult with her local postmaster. If her school has, in fact, been opening her mail, a simple warning from the postmaster should put an end to it. If it doesn't, the threat of a federal crime action against the school should scare the holy nosiness out of them.

Black Panthers In The Capitol

Members of the Black Panther Party argue with a California State Policeman in the Capitol in Sacramento, Calif., yesterday after he had disarmed them. The armed Panthers entered the Capitol to protest a bill before the Legislature which would restrict the carrying of loaded weapons within city limits. The guns held by the officer were taken from the Panthers. (AP Wirephoto).

26 Black Panthers Jailed After March

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A stunned California Legislature surveyed its security precautions today while Negroes who burst into the Capitol bearing a variety of loaded guns at noon Tuesday were summoned to court. Twenty-six youths aged 17 to 25 were arrested by city police with drawn revolvers and hauled to the police station in a paddy wagon shortly after they left the Capitol agor Tuesday. They were accused of possessing two illegal sawed-off shotguns, brandishing weapons in a threatening manner, disrupting the Legislature in session and carrying a fully loaded weapon in a car.

At the Capitol today, supporters mounted among amazed and disgruntled lawmakers for tightening security and imposing more severe penalties on those who disrupt an Assembly or Senate session.

It was a noon-hour session of the assembly that a dozen of the armed youths — members of the "Black Panther Party" — succeeded in penetrating briefly before they were ushered out and several of the loaded rifles, pistols and shotguns taken away by two state policemen in a mild struggle.

The danger of possible infection from the disease was recognized well-ahead of the potential deadline and the shots which the family are taking should preclude any possible bad developments. The shots have to be taken daily for 14 days.

Industrial Clinic Set Here May 17

Businessmen and other interested residents are being urged to attend an Industrial Development seminar here May 17, to be sponsored and conducted by executive staffers of the Texas Industrial Commission. Harry Clark, executive director of the TIC, will guide the sessions, which will be held in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building. The all-day meeting will begin at 8:30 a.m., with a tour of the city — industrial, business, scenic — then return to the headquarters for a program presentation by the TIC staff. This will include a discussion of local capabilities and problems in seeking industrial plants, with consideration of priority projects. During the seminar, local industrial assets and liabilities will be reviewed and assessed, and the professional staff will give advice on projects, types of industry to seek, and how the city can improve its program. Participants will have lunch with the Downtown Lions Club, and Clark will be the speaker. Residents intending to attend the seminar were urged to contact the Chamber of Commerce offices as soon as possible. In the event the size of participation demands it, the site will be moved to larger quarters.

Fox Is Rabid, Six In Family Are Taking Shots

Six members of a family living in northeast Howard County are taking shots for rabies, as a result of their having been bitten by a pet fox pup which later died of hydrophobia, it was learned today. Dr. H. F. Schwarzenbach, veterinarian, confirmed that the fox had been proved in Austin as having rabies. He said the family immediately began taking the shots at a local hospital. He said this is the first confirmed case of rabies to be reported to him in over two years. The fox, it was said, was brought from another county to Howard County after it was caught. The Howard County family had planned to make a pet of the little beast.

Improving Drainage. Eleventh Place, in the high school area, at Young Street, has been blocked since Monday as City of Big Spring crews have been lowering the street level, to match the drainage provided by a storm sewer installed by the school district. Ernest Lillard, public works director, said the work should be completed by late Thursday. The city is doing the dirt work and the school district will pay for the paving, which will be done by a contractor. The street will be temporarily closed till Friday when the topping is put on the street. (Photo by Frank Brandon)

Foes Of Campaign Law Predict Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jubilant foes of the presidential campaign financing law today predicted final victory by week's end amid vows by their principal opponent to continue the six-week floor battle indefinitely. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., author of the election subsidy plan and its staunchest defender, suffered a stinging setback Tuesday when the Senate voted 52 to 46 against his bid to overturn Senate repeal of the law. But Long showed no signs of giving up the fight, telling newsmen: "I don't know whether this is the half, or maybe the end of the first quarter."

Bandsmen Come Home From Trip

The 150 members of the Big Spring High School Band, with Director Bill Bradley and several adult sponsors, returned at 6 p.m. Tuesday night finishing the six-day spring tour which took them to Corpus Christi, Houston and San Antonio. At Corpus Christi Friday and Saturday morning, the band participated in the band contests connected with the Buccanear Days. The band received a "2" rating, considered "very good." There were over 50 bands competing in the contests. The band played "Second Suite for Band" and also "American Overture." Solo and ensemble competition was held Friday morning at the Memorial Coliseum in Corpus Christi with most of the band students receiving first, second and third places. The students then took a tour of Corpus Christi which included swimming in the bay. Houston was the next stop on the tour which included a visit to the Astrodome to see a game between the Astros and the Chicago Cubs — of which the latter were at the Astrodome, the lighted bulletin board showed, "Top of the Dome to the Big Spring Band Members" — in special welcome. Sunday morning started with members of the band attending church services. Sunday afternoon the buses took the group to the San Jacinto battleground, the Battleship Texas, Rice University, Houston Museum of Natural Science, Burke Baker Planetarium, Houston Zoological Gardens and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration — where they saw two films, one of the last Gemini flight and the other film a pro-

Boyd's Poker Tactics Flop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd is a flop at using poker tactics.

Boyd laid a blue chip on the table at hearings on the highway beauty bill in the House Tuesday but couldn't convince a single member of the Public Works Committee that he had anything in his hand.

The committee is threatening to rewrite the two-year-old program for removing billboards and prettifying up the roadside because it doesn't like the way Boyd is running it.

The secretary, trying to avert such action, said he would be willing to let local zoning authorities regulate billboards in commercially zoned areas instead of requiring approval by the federal government — a key point in the controversy.

read the statement, however, he changed "substantial removal" to "positive control."

Seeing a possible breakthrough, Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., said if the change represented a change in Boyd's thinking about what the law required, they might be near agreement.

"THAT'S NOT"

"No," said Boyd. "I try to be honest with everyone. I feel the law does require substantial removal of billboards but I changed the language to avoid waving a red flag at the committee."

Boyd then said Wright's comments indicated he didn't want any billboards removed.

"That's not so," said Wright. "Those that are grotesquely outstuffed or hideously clustered should be controlled."

Texan Critically Injured In Crash

BLUE CHIPS

"I've laid down a real blue chip," he told the committee.

Further questioning, however, showed that Boyd had firm opinions as to what constituted a competent local zoning authority. They were widely at variance with the committee's. The blue chip turned out to be worthless for settling the dispute.

Boyd had already demonstrated a weakness at bluffing, another fine art of the poker player. In his prepared testimony he said there could be no highway beautification program that did not provide for "substantial removal" of billboards. When he

Negro Civil Rights Forces Lose Battle

SUNFLOWER, Miss. (AP) — Negro civil rights forces apparently lost their first major grassroots political fight in this delta area, where Negroes outnumber whites.

However, a federal court suit was in the making, alleging that the municipal election in Sunflower was not held "in a fair and impartial manner."

Registered Negro voters outnumbered white voters in Sunflower 185-153. But when the votes were counted Tuesday, white candidates for mayor and alderman held a decisive edge.

my Lee Douglas. White councilmen also were ahead.

The ballot count resumes today.

The heavy Negro registration in both towns came after the 1965 elections were voided by the court on the ground that Negroes were not given enough time to get on the registration rolls.

The suit leading to the decision was filed by the Freedom Democratic party formed by civil rights forces in Mississippi and predominantly Negro.

A federal suit challenging the Sunflower election was decided upon Tuesday night, at an FDP rally.

yer from Jackson, said the suit was based primarily on a claim that election officials broke an agreement to allow a Negro voting commissioner to advise Negro illiterates in the polling booths.

Bronstein said 38 challenged ballots, not counted in the total, would be involved in the protest.

Both Sunflower and Moorhead are in the table-flat alluvial plain where cotton is still king — and where many Negroes live in poverty, displaced from farm work by extensive mechanization.

CLOSE VOTE

Mayor W. L. Patterson, who has held the $50 a month post for 12 years, defeated Otis Brown Jr., 21, by a count of 194-123 — indicating that Patterson drew some Negro support despite the aggressive Negro campaign to split the balloting along racial lines.

"I campaigned to get the votes of some of the good Negroes, but not those radicals in the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party," said Patterson.

Ballot officials gathered the ballot boxes after the count and took them to a bank, where they were placed in a vault.

The special elections here and in nearby Moorhead were ordered by a federal court. Moorhead, however, was not considered because white voters there outnumbered Negro voters, 390-310.

CHALLENGE

Alvin Bronstein, an FDP lawyer from Jackson, said the suit was based primarily on a claim that election officials broke an agreement to allow a Negro voting commissioner to advise Negro illiterates in the polling booths.

A Devotional For The Day

As many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name. (John 1:12)
PRAYER: Dear Father, renew us by Thy power, for there is no light without Thee. Deliver us from anything that would sever us from Thee lest we be plunged into darkness. Help us to bring Thy light to others. In the name of Christ—Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

Slow, Slow Start

May has been set up as a month for a community-wide cleanup, and while it is yet too early to predict the outcome, the start so far made does not suggest much enthusiasm.
The city has started its pickup of trash, but earliest responses reflect a tardiness on the part of residences to clean their premises and stack it at garbage collection points.

Continued high winds, plus dry weather, has heightened the distribution of trash all about our city. We are indeed in need of a thorough house cleaning.
So far we have had mostly talk about it, maybe all that talk is what's causing the wind.

That Unsolicited Hug

Gov. George Romney of Michigan is trying to escape the bear hug given him by President Lyndon B. Johnson. It will likely prove to be quite a chore.
After his April 7 address in Hartford, in which Romney ruled out both withdrawal and "massive military escalation" of conflict in Vietnam, the President expressed "gratitude and appreciation" for Romney's remarks, hailing them as "a strong endorsement of the fundamentals of the administration's position in Vietnam."
This was a much closer embrace than Romney expected. He was, in fact, considerably nettled over the bear hug. He gave vent to his unhappiness in an interview in which he said: "I do not consider my Vietnam speech to be a blanket endorsement of the President's program."

Going a bit further, Romney, in a show of petulance, said: "The White House ... tried to smother the significance of what I said by creating the impression that what was said was in agreement with what the President was saying."
Is it true that Romney is unwilling to place the war in Vietnam beyond the pale as far as the 1968 presidential campaign is concerned. The qualifications in his remarks at Hartford were carefully worded. He was unhappy over the war (most Americans are) but could not suggest an alternative approach. Thus he ended up mildly endorsing the administration approach while reserving the right to raise questions later.

Fed Bond-Rating Agency Needed?

NEW YORK (AP) — More than one municipal official has pounded a desk at Standard & Poor's or Moody's after those investment service houses lowered a city's credit rating.
To drop a rating from A to BBB might force the city involved to pay one-half of one percent more for the money it borrows. This amounts up. On a $10-million bond issue it means $50,000 a year additional in interest costs.
A BAD RATING could even damage the ability to sell at any price because of legal obstacles. Banks, for instance, are limited by law to the grade of securities they can purchase.
The problem that has bothered so many city officials is this: Why should these private businesses exert such power over a city's financial affairs? Why should their opinions count so much?

THE LATEST to ask the question is New York City, whose bonds were downgraded to BBB from A by Standard & Poor's and from A to BAA by Moody's, thus costing the city an estimated million dollars a year more in interest charges.
As a result, New York City's finance administrator, Roy M. Goodman, has a date with Federal Reserve Board officials in Washington this Thursday. Goodman's plan is to ask the Fed to set up a competitive bond-rating agency.
SUCH AN agency would provide an additional check of fiscal soundness from an institution that has traditionally showed its independence. But this route would have to be engineered through a maze of obstacles.
First, Fed officials aren't at all sure that their charter would permit such a rating agency. Second, it would put the Fed into competition with private business. Third, every senator and representative would feel compelled to exert his influence for a high rating for constituent cities.

ONE THING seems clear: Neither Billy Graham
I'm a minister with serious family problems that must be kept secret. I need to talk to someone. To whom can I go? I.P.
Most people have a pastor to discuss their problems with, but a minister has no pastor, and any problem shared with a parishioner may become public gossip. I can well sympathize with your problem.
It occurs to me however, that there are three people with whom you may discuss your family problems. First, there is your family physician. Doctors, like ministers, are ethical in keeping confidential information, and because of their broad experience their advice is usually helpful and valuable. Second, there are now professional marriage counselors in practically every town and city. These people, for the most part, are trained in coping with personal and family problems. Third, your immediate organizational superior (a District Superintendent, if a Methodist; your bishop, if Episcopal, etc.) should give you a sympathetic and understanding hearing ... but above all, take it to God in prayer. Prayer can do "wonders" for your situation.
Most people assume that a minister could not possibly have a family problem. But, because the minister's family life is lived in a "fish bowl," they often have problems as great or greater than the average. May God bless you for bearing your burden in silence, for His glory, and may you find the counsel and help you need.

WHAT OTHERS SAY
One of the casualties of modern merchandising is the soda fountain that once was the romantic identifying symbol of every drug store. Stationed just inside the front door and beside the cigar counter, it was a towering emporium of marble columns and counters, glistening steel cabinets, huge mirrors, and fascinating pumps and taps.
In the hot summer months it was cooled by the lazy swish of overhead horizontal fans that sometimes provided the only breeze in the community, and it had the inviting aroma of ice cream flavors. It was always the first stop of boys with money in their pockets. Many who lacked the cash lingered there anyway and were labeled with the familiar term of "drug-store cowboys."
Going to the drugstore was a regular routine for the girls, and they always appeared at appointed times primed in their Sunday best. Social life centered around the counter stools at the soda fountain and the little circular tables behind them.
The soda jerk who presided at the fountain, dexterously handling the scoops, shakers and squirters, and mixing his magic with a steady line of witty chatter, was the best-informed person in town.
Then something happened to the fine old institution. Some moved them to the back of the store and some moved them out. And something happened to romance.

Dirksen Draws Pictures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 71-year-old senator with the unkempt hair and a doomsday voice that makes Dr. Martin Luther King sound like a jolly comedian wanted to be an actor and went into politics. He has done very well at both.
He doesn't just make fun. He draws pictures, like the time he went after the antipovary program of his friend and former social companion, President Johnson.

THE SENATOR, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate's Republican leader, said he had heard 700 young men wanted to be trained under the antipovary program to operate a diaper service.
"That's really getting to the bottom of things," he said. "I'm tempted to say it's time for a change."
He went on Red Skelton's CBS television show to plug his best-selling record album, "Gallant Men," and got into a pre-arranged argument with Skelton on why a chicken crossed the road.

DIRKSEN INSISTED on know whether it was a free enterprise chicken or a government-supported chicken.
He has banged and pecked and sometimes ruined a Johnson program — as he did the administration's civil rights bill in 1966 — but he has given Johnson 100 per cent support on the war in Vietnam, or practically 100 per cent.

TWICE, he left a sick bed in the Walter Reed Army Hospital to fight for Johnson. He did it last March, when his support was crucial, to back the President just before the final vote on the consular treaty which Johnson wanted.
The Senate approved. He did again this week when, not fully recovered from pneumonia, he barged into a meeting of the Senate's Republican Policy Committee, which seemed ready to tee off on Johnson's conduct of the war.

WHEN HE GOT through, most of the Republican senators meekly agreed on giving the President "wholehearted support." Dirksen has attacked war protesters and ridiculed the draft-card burners as a bunch of publicity seekers.

He has a simple rule — "Never pound the desk too hard, you may hurt yourself" — which freely translated seems to mean "Don't take yourself too seriously."
ONCE HE STARED at a new bust of himself in his office. The bust started back. "Superb," Dirksen said. The bust said nothing.

There's Moral Somewhere

NEW YORK (AP) — It is best to come to a party unarmed.
Some people come, expecting to hold center stage, to charm, enchant, inform; to beguile, mystify, amuse. And some people come to listen.
Still, even the mildest and gentlest and most attentive of listeners can steal the show. At a cocktail party the other day, the host said that one of his guests had just returned from Africa, another from Russia.
"IT SHOULD be an interesting evening," he said.
Since the only place I had been lately was the drugstore, I looked forward to a visit to faraway places with two kindly Virgils to lead the way.
One guest of honor sat on the sofa, the other in an easy chair. Wispes of competitive electricity began to flicker between them.

"SO YOU'VE just been to Africa?" asked Russia theoretical.
"Yes, fascinating continent, but not so much as Russia I'm sure," lied Africa.
The listeners leaned forward. You knew something was up just by watching them. All eyes were on Africa and Russia.

"OF COURSE, we know so much about Russia now," said Africa.

Why Take Pills At A Certain Time Of Day?

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Why are different pills prescribed for specific parts of the day, as one in the morning, one after meals, before meals, four times a day, before bedtime, etc. Does the pill color or container (capsule, etc.) have any significance? — R.J.S.

There are lots of reasons. I'll give you some of the more significant ones.

It depends on what a medicine is intended to do; how rapidly or slowly it absorbs; whether it tends to irritate the stomach lining; sometimes whether its nature is changed by stomach juices.

Long-acting drugs are usually taken morning and evening. Some antibiotics, taken orally, maintain their action so that taken every six hours they provide steady effect without a gap.
Some appetite-depressing drugs are taken in the morning only, since later in the day the effect may linger and cause wakefulness at night.
Drugs to calm the digestive tract are commonly given before meals, but drugs to counteract excessive acidity (as for an ulcer patient) are usually taken an hour or so after eating.

Some medications can be irritating to the stomach lining and so are taken after a meal when the stomach, being full, is protected by the presence of food.
It is obvious why sleeping pills are taken in the evening, but with other medications, such as digitalis, which may be taken only once a day, a physician specifies a fixed time of day, perhaps at breakfast, the purpose being to establish a daily habit so the patient won't forget, or may not remember for certain whether he has had a pill. This is particularly true of birth control pills.
Colors, shapes and designs are applied by manufacturers to make medications readily identifiable, and the shape may signify a difference in strength or amount. Dosage in some cases may be imprinted. Some pills are scored so they may be easily cut or broken into a fractional dose.
Capsules at times contain pellets of the medicine with coatings of differing thickness, so some are absorbed quickly, others slowly, thus spreading the effect over a longer time.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband and I both suffer leg cramps during the night. How should we cope with them? Should we bring our leg up and rub the muscle to relax it, or just keep the leg stiff until the pain goes away? — MRS. R.R.

Changing position, including getting up and walking, is usually better—but there are various methods which often can prevent or lessen leg and foot cramps. Why don't you write for my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains?" Send 20 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy.
To learn the major categories of prostate trouble—symptoms, treatment; how to speed recovery—write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.
Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

When The Mesquite Got Caught

Ice in May? Unheard of, but then Tuesday's Herald had photographic proof of it.

THE THERMOMETER may not have shown freezing temperatures, but if conditions are right it is possible to have frost or ice. Apparently that's what happened Tuesday morning, and so far as the records reflect, it's the first time since records have been kept here that this has happened.

As a matter of fact the latest onslaught of winter that I can recall occurred in late April, 1938.

SPRING HAD come on with such vigor that old timers cautioned that "the mesquite ain't out yet." By mid-April, however, these venerable natives were in full foliage. Just about every other kind of vegetation was making a showing, too, with the possible exception of some hackberry. In town, the elms and other kind of trees not only had put out leaves, they had added heavy cover. Prickly pear were blooming, and so were the cholla cactus. Everyone relaxed; danger of freezing was past, and it looked like a modest fruit crop.

THEN ON APRIL 17, as I recall, the wind swung around to the north, and it blew, and it blew and it blew. The temperature skidded until it was below freezing. Snow flurries mixed with the sand being stirred by the driving wind. Still there was no letup.

For nearly three days the wind whipped down from the north and plastered a mixture of sand and snow in screens. People talked about the snud and slud, and griped about the stuff as they tried to clean out windows.

WHAT HAD happened to the countryside in the meantime was sickening. Losses of young lambs was heavy; loss of vegetation was almost total. Pastures and trees turned a sickly black-green with limp remains of foliage dangling. Many trees and shrubs, caught in full sap, were killed. Those that did recover were slow about it, and the second crop of cover was thin and mostly inadequate. Everywhere, the scene was like a monster blow torch had been played over the land.

For a long, long time people remembered it as the year when the mesquite got caught. —JOE PICKLE

Spoilers In The Senate

WASHINGTON — They were birds of a feather on this subject—the Asian War against Communism—and they were flocking together on the Democratic side of the aisle: Senators McGovern, Fulbright, Gruening, Bob Kennedy, and Stephen Young.

You could say that they were more like hoot-owls than doves, for they made derisive noises against General Westmoreland, our Vietnam commander, who was soon due to address Congress. They reminded a man in the Senate press gallery of a fanciful might-have-been.

HOW ABOUT it human owls, on the 18th of April, 1975, had hooted the Midnight Ride of Paul Revere? And aroused the Tory disloyalists? And alerted and encouraged the enemy?

The fate of a nation was riding that night," Longfellow had written. And wasn't William Westmoreland like Paul Revere, in every way that mattered? Early that week the general had told the Associated Press publishers in New York why it was the enemy kept fighting despite military defeat and carnage, and why this was not merely a local war in Vietnam.

THE ENEMY, said Westmoreland, "does not understand that American democracy is founded on debate, and he sees every protest as evidence of crumbling morale and diminishing resolve. Thus, discouraged by repeated military defeats, but encouraged by what he believes to be popular opposition to our efforts in Vietnam, he continues ... This, inevitably, will cost lives ..."
As to the war itself, Westmoreland called it, "only part of a protracted and carefully coordinated attack, waged in the international area." In brief, the fighting in Vietnam is a phase of the global battle against communism. So were the skirmishes that followed Revere's ride a phase of the then-undeclared American Revolution for independence.

BUT THE hooting senators, three days before Westmoreland's scheduled appearance at a joint session, were trying to spoil the effect of the warning he would bring.

The hooters belittled Westmoreland's warning that dissension at home meant deaths on the battlefield. "Obviously," said McGovern, "he is doing whether in New York or Vietnam, exactly what he is told to do ..."
Young said: "He is coming to Washington to seek ... further escalation in our intervention in the civil war in Vietnam."

THERE WAS some rebuttal, not nearly enough. Sen. Russell Long said he hoped McGovern "is not going to suggest that the sooner we let the Communists take over the world, the sooner they will stop killing American troops. Sen. Holland said that "they are very wrong in questioning the value of Gen. Westmoreland's comments." Sen. Lausche hinted that if there were a profile of courage to be praised, it should be that of Lyndon Johnson, a 1968 candidate, who "honest judgment on Vietnam has made him politically weak."
But history ought to record that in April, '67, Senators McGovern, Fulbright, Kennedy, Young and Gruening did all they could to spoil the ride of a modern Paul Revere.

Congress Shows Support In Viet War

WASHINGTON — An emotional hour seldom paralleled in American history was experienced at the Capitol last Friday as Gen. William Westmoreland addressed a joint session of the House and Senate. The repercussions will be felt throughout the world and particularly in Southeast Asia.

For the Congress of the United States saw a vision of its fighting men in Vietnam — more than 400,000 — and gave them whole-hearted encouragement and unqualified support. It wasn't just the commanding general of our armed forces in Vietnam whom the Congress applauded 20 times but the spirit of the men behind him as well.

ALMOST AT the very outset the cheers came as Gen. Westmoreland, referring to the military men who have preceded him in addressing Congress, said that "none of them could have more pride than I mine in representing the gallant men fighting in Vietnam today."

Instantly came another outburst of approval as the general declared:

"THE REPUBLIC of Vietnam is fighting to build a strong nation while aggression — organized, directed and supported from without — attempts to engulf it. This is an unprecedented challenge for a small nation. But it is a challenge which will confront any nation that is marked as a target for the Communist stratagem called 'war of national liberation.' I can assure you, here and now, that militarily this strategy will not succeed in Vietnam."

Gen. Westmoreland spoke of the brutality of the Communist terrorists as they wound or kill unarmed civilians in small communities. He plaintively remarked:

"ONE HEARS little of this brutality here at home. What we do hear about is our own aerial bombing against North Vietnam."

The general thereupon narrated the manner in which the Communist forces have been for years bombing bridges, interrupting traffic, sabotaging power stations and attacking airfields in the South, and pointed out that this is precisely the kind of bombing now being done by American forces in retaliation. He added:

"TO US, A cease-fire means cease-fire. Our observance of past truces has been open and subject to public scrutiny. The enemy permits no such observation — in the North or in the South. He traditionally has exploited cease-fire periods, when the bombing has been suspended, to increase his resupply and infiltration activity.

"This is the enemy — this has been the challenge. The only strategy which can defeat such an organization is one of unrelenting but discriminating military, political and psychological pressure on his whole structure — and at all levels."

THE CRIES of approval and spontaneous clapping by the audience — which included the representatives of nearly 100 embassies and legations — were like a shot heard around the world. For it told the allied forces in faraway Vietnam that, despite all the captious criticisms and comments of the exhibitionists in our midst, the Congress wants the fighting men to know that the support behind them in our government is unequivocal.

THE APPLAUSE that ensued was stronger than for any previous part of the address; but the ovation was thunderous when the general concluded with this declaration:

"Backed at home by resolve, confidence, determination and continued support, we will prevail in Vietnam over the Communist aggressor."

Case For Noise

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Don't make your kids turn off the radio when they're studying. It may improve their grades.

Two sixth graders, Patrick Spellman and Robert Dinius, asked six teachers to give their classes a list of 20 fairly difficult spelling words.

Students studied the words 15 minutes in complete silence in three classrooms, and made 305 mistakes.

In the other three classes, where radios, record players and television sets were going full blast, the students made only 282 errors.

The 11-year-old researchers reported their findings at a science fair at the University of Arizona.

Housing New King Target

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King turns his personal support to an open housing movement here today as tension and uncertainty mark Kentucky Derby week.

Threats of open housing demonstrations already have caused cancellation of the annual Pegasus Parade on Thursday and a country music show for tonight.

Local leaders, including the Rev. A. D. Williams King, Dr. King's brother, refused to set out what King's role would be.

Five Negro youths ran into the track at Churchill Downs Tuesday and were arrested, along with three adults.

GUARD DUTY

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt announced shortly after dark he would give "the traditional order that the National Guard and state police will be on duty at Churchill Downs on Derby Day as has been the custom in previous years."

Breathitt's announcement followed a strong statement by Louisville Mayor Kenneth A. Schmied which asked the governor "to call out the National Guard and the state police in sufficient number to insure that the Kentucky Derby will be run without incident."

After the incident at the track Tuesday, jockey Kenny Knapp said, "I definitely was not going to pull up. I'm not going to jeopardize myself. It made me ride just that much harder."

WHITE HECKLERS

"Those people just don't realize how hard a horse hits you. If a horse runs over you, you don't walk off the track. They carry you off. If anyone else gets in front of me, I'll run 'em down," Knapp said.

Leaders have hinted that demonstrations were in the offing since the Louisville Board of Aldermen rejected a proposed open housing ordinance nearly a month ago.

Massive protest marches followed and were met by hundreds of rock and egg-throwing white hecklers. Police on several successive nights had to use tear gas to disperse the crowds, while hauling scores of marchers away to jail.

Things have been relatively quiet the past 10 days.

Beef Cattle Starving To Death In Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Beef cattle, fenced into drought-parched rangelands, are starving to death as Florida's worst drought in a quarter century continued in spite of prayer and science.

Cows that survive the lack of feed are going to market 50 pounds skinner than usual, according to the Florida agriculture commissioner, Doyle E. Conner. The cattle industry will suffer a $5-million loss that will raise the price of beef.

Most of Florida—virtually the entire peninsula—has been without rain since early March while the sun broiled daily with temperatures pushing 90.

Cattlemen want the state labeled a disaster area.

In a new five-day forecast issued Tuesday—the Weather Bureau in Miami said no rain was in sight.

"My own ranch is parching,"

Conner said. "It's the worst drought I have seen in years."

He said the death toll was "sizeable."

Arthur L. Higbie Jr., executive vice president of the cattlemen's association, called it a "disaster" for ranchers.

"The calf crop is in deep trouble as a result of the burned grasslands since they can't eat anything else," Higbie said.

Higbie said his association has voted to ask the federal government to pin the "disaster" tag on the Sunshine State to open the way for low interest federal loans and extension of outstanding paper.

The Cape Kennedy area has been dry for 70 days. Tampa broke drought records set in 1938.

Police Get Odd Request

Does anyone know Andrew J. Graham of Gillingham, Kent, England?

Tuesday morning as Chief Jay-Banks was going through his mail, he took a second look at a letter from an Andrew J. Graham, Gillingham, England.

The letter stated Graham was interested in the police department, and he asked the chief to send him a picture of a police car and an emblem or patch Big Spring police wear.

The chief volunteered Patrolman Walter Johnson and his patrol car, and with the assistance of Pete Stone, identification officer and photographer, accomplished the task of taking the picture. The patch will go to England along with the picture.

The only way the chief can explain the unique request is that airmen and officers from Webb AFB come through the police department on tour and the chief remembers several coming through the police station from England.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

If industriousness brought on by the increased number of daylight hours has enthused everyone like it has the head of my house, I don't know if people are going to last until October or not.

I'm hearing how housewives find the long daytime as incentive for doing many things that have been left undone during the winter. At our house, JP is so wound up with jobs to be done that I fear he is going to fall in sheer exhaustion by the end of the first week. Never has the yard had such a scratching, the shrubs such trimming, the garden such tending . . . and it's all after working hours. As a matter of fact, he's even coming home earlier than ever before. I shall not like to go back to the regular Central Time. Daylight Saving, I love you.

Few principals in the school system have ever enjoyed the love and respect of her teachers as has MRS. RUTH RUTHERFORD who has served at Cedar Crest (and before that at West Park Hill and at Kentwood where she is retiring. Twenty-one of the teachers who are still in the system are honoring her Saturday, May 6, with a coffee at the Cosden Country Club Blue Room from 10 a.m. until 12 noon.

Invitations have been sent to a number of friends but the hostesses realize that many whose names they don't know would like to come to the affair to show their appreciation for Mrs. Rutherford. They want all who would like to honor her in this way to call Saturday morning and join them in showing their respect to Mrs. Rutherford.

DR. P. W. MALONE is in Mineral Wells and plans to return here Sunday.

Saw so many people and talked of so many things at the Saturday evening party for Karen McGibbon and Flipper Smith. MRS. JERRY HEWETT told me her brother and cousin, BARTON GROOMS and WALTER DICKERSON, both doctors, are serving in Vietnam. Barton should be back in August and Walter in January. Both young men are former residents and completed their high school work here. . . The JOE BLUMS are counting the months now instead of years. . . three more and her daughter and her family, CAPT. and MRS. RALPH BROOKS and the four children will be back from their second tour in Europe. They have been gone for almost three years. . . MRS. MALCOLM PATTERSON and her two nieces, JOY and JUDY JARVIS of Houston will leave for Europe on June 8. The Jarvisses are daughters of the REG JARVISES and the granddaughters of MR. and MRS. L. S. PATTERSON. . . Already in Europe and having a wonderful time with their son and his family are MR. and MRS. A. J. ALLEN. They have been abroad a week and plan on several more there. They are visiting MR. and MRS. ROBBY ALLEN and their year-old daughter, Bronwyn. The Allens plan to take only one tour, to Holland, during their stay.

Odessan Tells Plastics Story

Mrs. Norman Brott of Odessa was guest speaker for the Desk and Derrick Club when it met at 7 p.m. Monday in the Petroleum Building. She described a typical day in her life as she enumerated articles made from plastics which she now uses that were nonexistent at the time of her birth.

Mrs. Brott is employed by the Rexall Corporation, and the history of this company "From Patent Medicines to Polyolefins" was reviewed. The United Drug Company was formed in 1903 when Louis Liggett organized the 40 drug merchants in America into a company for the purpose of pooling all patent medicines then sold and manufacturing them under high standards.

This company soon became known as Rexall, meaning "king of all" and is now a major manufacturing organization which makes available over 3,000 counter type products to retail drug stores. Riker Laboratories eventually emerged for the research and manufacture of prescription type drugs.

In 1956, Rexall started its plastics process division with the acquisition of various types of plastic manufacturing plants located throughout the country. This same year Rexall set up its first petrochemical products unit for the production of polystyrene. A greater step for Rexall Chemical Division was taken in 1960 when it entered a joint venture with El Paso Products Company for the manufacture of petrochemicals in the Odessa Industrial Complex. The products manufactured in the Odessa location are of the polyolefins family of petrochemicals: polyethylene and polypropylene.

Mrs. Brott explained the chemical properties, manufacturing process, and uses of these products. She marveled that the gas coming from so far beneath the earth can be the only ingredient needed for the multicolored, durable plastic items used every day.

Miss Helen Hurt, social chairman, was in charge of the arrangements for the salad supper. Sixteen members were present and three guests. Mrs. Brott, Mrs. Patricia Buffington and Mrs. Murrell Pitt.

The next meeting has been set for June 5.
