Meter Maids Strike

NEW YORK (AP) - The ladies wear sensible oxfords, tuck their hair under visored caps, and carry their parking tickets in little leather pouches slung bandolier - style over their uniformed shoufders. Gently, fondly at first, the city called them meter maids. The idea was to bring the woman's touch to the job of lifting windshield wipers and snapping overtime parking tickets underneath.

Somewhere, though, public relations apparently went wrong and many New Yorkers began saying the women were arrogant and over-zealous.

Buddy System Nixed

Wednesday, the insults got to the meter maids. More than half the 200-woman squad stayed home, demanding that they be allowed to work in pairs. Their complaint was harassment not only from civilians but their supposed comrades in arms -

"It's the public that is often antagonistic, abusive and takes liberties that it would not take with anyone else in uniform," one meter maid said. "Sometimes individual policemen are not too sympathetic either."

JUDITH ROBESON

30 Officers Probe Slayings

WASHINGTON (AP)- Police have assigned nearly 30 officers to investigate the slaying of Miss Judith Robeson, the senatorial aide whose beaten, nearly nude body was found in her apartment Tuesday.

Authorities said they still had no clues to the death of the blonde, 24, who was research assistant to Sen. Frank Carlson,

Carlson made plans to accompany Miss Robeson's body to her home town, Shawnee Mission,

Her violent death, which police say occurred Monday, brought a warning Wednesday from Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., that "Time is running out in America's war on crime."

Curtis said one of his secretaries was nearly beaten to death three years ago. Last year, he said, a secretary in the office of Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., had to use a pistol to hold an intruder at bay.

Washington police were investigating the death of Wendy Jarboe, 24, who had been married only six weeks ago to Harvey Jarboe, 26, of nearby Fairfax County, Va.

Her body was found in the trunk of her car, parked at National Airport.

Police said she apparently had been dead since shortly after her husband reported her missing last Thursday. The cause of death was not known.

LBJ Makes Fair Visit

MONTREAL (AP) - President Johnson came to the fair

After a quick visit to the Montreal world's fair, Expo 67 Johnson planned to discuss the Arab-Israeli crisis, with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, then return to Washington.

It was a red letter day at the fair. Not only did it get a visit from the President on the fair's U.S. day but some time during the day the seven millionth visitor was expected to pass through the turnstiles. Expo 67 opened April 28.

Johnson's plane set down at Montreal's International Airport. The President's party had a chance to see some of the exhibits from 62 nations that are participating in Expo 67- part of Canada's celebration of the 100th year of confederation.

The U.S. exhibition has drawn criticism from some Americans, notably Gov. George Romney of Michigan, considered a Republican presidential candidate, who said it was "pretty on the outside but full of trivia on the inside," Johnson planned to tour the fair for about an hour, then take off by helicopter for Harrington Lake, 20 miles north of Ottawa, for a luncheon conference with Pearson.

Johnson was accompanied by Walt W. Rostow, his assistant for international affairs, who presumably will be brought into discussions on the Middle East situation. After talks and dinner at Harrington Lake, the President and Pearson will leave for Ottawa Airport for Johnson's return trip.

Record Total Of Americans Die In Action

Command announced today that a record number of 337 Americans were killed in action last week, mainly in fighting around the demilitarized zone which has now been emptied of allied troops following its invasion a

The American Command said the last U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese units have now left the southern half of the zone, taking with them a wealth of captured booty plus thousands of civilian refugees.

Among the captured items were 180 North Vietnamese gas masks seized Wednesday along with 1,000 mortar shells

2,282 WOUNDED The casualty report listed 337 Americans killed, 2,282 wounded and 31 missing during last week. In addition, 241 - South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and other allies, mainly the South Koreans, reported 50 dead. Communist losses were 2,464 killed. All this made the week by far the bloodiest of the

The week's casualties brought U.S. losses for the war to 10,253 dead and 61,425 wounded by unofficial tabulation. The previous beak figure for killed in action in one week was 274, reached twice this year. The toll reflects the mounting intensity of the war and the continued growth of American and allied forces involved.

INVASION The joint Marine and South Vietnamese invasion of the southern half of the demilitarized zone, begun last Thursday, had been precipitated by increased casualties caused by Red guns and mortars firing from the buffer area. The week's casualty figure included the first three days of the invasion - when allied casualties were severe.

With the announcement that U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were again clear of the zone, the United States appeared to be trying to restore it to something of the buffer status it was supposed to have under the Geneva agreements of 1954 which divided Vietnam and set up the zone. Whether the North Vietnamese would refrain from again infiltrating the clearedout area appeared questionable.

JET DOWNED More heavy air raids over North Vietnam and occasionally sharp ground fighting in South Vietnam were reported by the U.S. Command today.

A Navy F4 Skyhawk jet was reported downed in Wednesday's strikes near Thanh Hoa the 559th combat loss of the air war against the North — but the pilot was saved by a helicopter rescue.

U.S. headquarters reported most ground fighting again was in the northern area near-the demilitarized zone and along the western edge of the central highlands.

In the highlands southwest of Pleiku, a company of the 4th Infantry Division was hit by a North Vietnamese unit of unknown size in a sharp hour and a half battle Wednesday. The Communists poured in a mortar barrage and about 70 rockets and the Americans replied with air attacks and artillery. When it was over, there were 35 North Vietnamese dead, five Americans killed and 14 wounded.

STUMBLING BLOCK A major stumbling block to easing tensions was Egypt's proclaimed blockade of Israeli shipping to and from its southern port of Elath, on the Gulf of Agaba, its link to East Africa, Asia and Iranian oil. Despite Nasser's reported willingness to "facilitate" Thant's peace mission, it was doubted that he would lift the blockade, which Israel has said it would not permit. However, there was no word reared here, graduating from

of any Israeli attempt to challenge the Egyptian guns and patrol boats guarding the Strait of Tiran, the entrance from the Red Sea into the gulf. No Israeli ships have been reported en route to the gulf, and an official at Elath said no ships were docked there.

East opened the bidding with one heart and South overcalled with one no trump, holding 16 well distributed points. Altho North does not have the 10 points usually associated with a direct raise to game, his semi-solid five card suit does provide a measure of justification for West opened the deuce of hearts. East played the king, ace, and then a third round to clear the suit. Declarer led a small diamond to dummy in order to take the club finesse. When the queen held, he had eight tricks - five diamonds, two clubs, and one heart, A potential ninth trick was available in spades, however, South was reluctant to make a spade play immediately, for fear that East would get in to cash the setting tricks. Declarer chose to run the diamonds first. East observed that he would be obliged to make three discards, and in order to protect his holdings in the black suits, he elected to give up both of the established hearts, in addition to one spade. [Keeping one heart and parting with both small spades is tantamount to surrender, and discarding a club is equally fatal.]

A spade was led from dummy, and East played the six, subjecting declarer to a guess in the suit. Observe that, if South finesses the jack, West will win with the queen. Now if the latter returns the ten of clubs, he can establish his partner's king for the setting trick, while East still retains the ace of spades.

South, however, decided to play the opening bidder for the ace of spades, and when East followed with the six, declarer put up the king to score his ninth trick.

Disappointing And Ill-Advised

The Texas County Judges and Com- cy to aid and coordinate state-local missioners Association was shortsighted to oppose Gov. Connally's constitutional amendment proposals to strengthen urban county governments' organization and powers.

Moreover, the association was downright obstructive in rejecting Connally's compromise offer to drop the county amendments in return for support of five statutory provisions for intergovernmental cooperation in metropolitan areas. The association is still opposing four of those five meas-

The two constitutional amendment proposals and five recommended statutory changes resulted from a threeyear Texas Research League study of how the state could help improve local government in Texas urban centers. All together, the Connally-League plan would grant a measure of homerule to county governments reorganized to cope with urban problems, set up a state local government agenrelations and authorize and encourage intergovernmental cooperation at the local level, especially in metropolitan-area planning and contracts for joint works and services.

The over-all plan has drawn national attention as a voluntary means for adapting outmoded local governmental structures to contemporary metropolitan conditions with a minimum disruption of traditional forms and processes.

The county judges and commissioners' opposition is ill-advised. But also disappointing is the lack of vigorous support from the Texas Municipal League, the cities' main lobbying force in the state capitol. And the legislature's performance on these measures is no cause for pride. It can only be hoped that some useful parts of the program will be approved this session, and that a more enlightened view of urban governmental problems can be developed by next

Security And Conscience

The United States' only recent global involvement as a superpower has raised a free press-vs.-national security issue of grave dimension and baffling complexity. Extensive debate must precede any attempt at legal solution, if indeed one be devisable in a constitutionally open society.

The core problem is what information should be revealed, and how soon, by government insiders after leaving public service. The decision of Gen. George C. Marshall, who knew more than any other one man of World War II and its aftermath, not to write his memoirs, has become more the exception than the rule.

In recent years there have been the flood of Kennedy aides' books and articles, retired military men's strategic critiques, the CIA subsidies exposures, ex-diplomats' dope on situations not yet cooled off, ousted bureaucrats' swan's songs and out-of-favor politicians' self - justifications, among lesser categories. Their motives are varied: Big money for best - selling stuff; partisan politics; a genunine desire to "set the record straight" or influence national policy; the yearning for fame or prestige; vindictiveness or self - righteousness or a real effort to contribute to history.

ably some of those revelations seriouslations with other nations, though few may be said gravely to endanger national security.

This has moved some to suggest this nation should have something like the British Official Secrets Act regulating what former officials can reveal-though that has not prevented a recent flap over revelation of the Eden government's dubious role in the illstarred Franco-British-Israeli plot to invade Egypt and retake the Suez

The perplexities are: Any censorship aimed against premature or unwise revelations almost certainly would degenerate into denial of democratically needed information and distortion of history. Time - lapse and subject - matter limitations on disclosures would be difficult constitutionally to enforce. Discretion agreements, as a condition of employment or appointment, are only partially reliable. Public denunciation for indiscretion after the fact comes too late, though it may discourage emulation. Treason and security - classification law cannot extend into the grey area of merely embarrassing if risky, revelations.

There seems to be no substitute for individual responsibility and integrity less revolution and then didn't in this troubled area of private de-Whatever the motives, unquestion- cision - making of powerful public impact. magic, as a fellow from Texas might say, ain't what it used to be.

The President isn't being supported on Capitol Hill in the manner to which he became accustomed just before and after the big electoral roundup of '64.

IN THOSE days he couldn't lose for winning, and the Great Society leaped like a prefab cook-out to the festive boards. But it's been a long while between barbecues. Some of the favored guests are famished or indisposed. Organized Labor never did get its promised 14-B Repealer. Aid to Education has been taken to surgery by a determined Republican minority. Manned Space Flight has been on the critical list ever since the Apollo tragedy. Rent Supplement has been put on a starvation diet by the House.

Billy Graham

I can't believe that God has forgiven me, because I don't feel any different. How can I be sure? C.J. Forgiveness is one of the great words of the Bible, and over and over again we read such words as: "Thou Lord art good and ready to forgive," and "Our heavenly Father will for-give our trespasses." To accept what God has freely promised is not presumption, but redeeming faith. If we ignore what God has promised we reflect upon His sincerity, and remove ourselves from untold blessings. The attitude to take is this: I need forgiveness; God has promised to forgive me; so, I believe God, and thank God that He has forgiven me. The Bible says, "Without faith it is impossible to please God." It is not how we feel that pleases Him, nor what we do, nor even the remorse we feel that pleases Him. It is accepting what He has promised as "fact." Take this promise as your very own and forget about your doubts; "If we confess our sins unto him, he is faithful and just to forgive our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." I John 1:9.

God is a God of "love" - who gave His Son to die on the cross that you might be forgiven - now be-lieve it!

ABOUT THE same time, President Johnson was badly jolted by another stripling, 42-year-old Sen. Howard Baker (R., Tenn.) who became the first freshman to put over a bill in the 90th Congress. Baker, sitting obscurely on a Government Operations subcommittee, began to react with conditioned reflex when he noted what he considered a snatch of Congressional authority by the White House.

The President's Reorganization Plan, Number 2, looked innocent enough. It merely transferred some internal power from six members of the Tariff Commission to the chairman of that body. But this would have meant a subtle shift of authority to the President, and Baker introduced a resolution of disapproval. Before the administration would muster its forces Baker had won over the full committee to his side, and the administration decided against making a losing

I CAN'T HELP thinking, on the basis of his performance in the past few months, that the fact that Garrison is tied up is probably the best break Sen. Dodd has had so far. You wonder how Garrison would have defended Sen. Dodd if he had the chance.

First, Garrison would probably call a press conference and announce he was going to subpoena all six members of the Senate Ethics Committee to testify before a grand jury

"Why are you going to do that?" he would be asked. "Because I believe there's a definite conspiracy between the Senate wald. I can't reveal more than that at. this moment.

"But what would that have to do with Sen. Dodd?"

"NOTHING, but it has a lot to do with Cuba. I can assure you there will be a conviction if I have anything to say about it."

"Mr. Garrison, Sen. Dodd has been charged with using $116,000 raised at political testimonial dinners for his own personal use. How do you plan to answer that?" "That $116,000 was not a money figure but was a code used by the ethics committee to contact certain people in Dallas. If you subtract 23,465 from that figure and then add all the odd pages in the World Almanac and then divide this by the days in the month of May, you'll discover that the number you arrive at corresponds exactly with Jack Ruby's telephone

"BUT THIS doesn't answer the charge that the testimonial dinners were advertised as political events and the people who attended them did not know they were paying off Dodd's personal debts."

"I will produce witnesses who have undergone hypnosis and who will testify they knew in advance what kind of dinners they were attending. Only someone under hypnosis knows the real truth about these affairs."

Dodd gave his fifth testimonial dinner."

David Lawrence Who's Running The War?

ning the war in Vietnam for our government? Presumably, as the Constitution says, there is only one Commander-in-Chief - the President of the United States. But evidence is accumulating that virtually supreme power over the management of the armed services has been delegated to the Secretary of Defense. This contradicts both the spirit and the letter of the Constitution.

THE NATIONAL Security Act of 1947 permits the delegation of administrative duties to the Secretary of Defense, but there is nowhere in the statute any transfer of authority or control over the making of decisions in war operations. The question was studied and reported on by a special committee ap-pointed by President Eisenhower in 1953, as the Korean war was coming to an end. But the document submitted to the House Armed Services Committee is mostly concerned with the functioning of the Department of Defense in peacetime. It says in part:

"IT (THE committee) does not be lieve that it is possible - for admin istrative purposes - to make a sufficiently clear distinction between military affairs, on the one hand, and on the other hand civilian affairs such as political, economic, and industrial affairs - to serve as a practicable basis for dividing responsibility between military and civilian officers, or for establishing two parallel lines of command."

THE FORMULA followed ever since has been one that makes the Secretary of Defense virtually the Commander-in-Chief. He makes the decision as to the size of the forces to be recruited and sent on foreign mis sions. He may "assign or reassign the development and operational use of new weapons or weapons systems to one or more of the military departments or one or more of the armed forces." The secretary, to be sure, is obliged to report to Congress the details of any action he proposes to WASHINGTON - Who is really run- day in a large war involving nearly a half million members of the armed services, and the cost is running into many billions of dollars a year. But the duties of the Commander-in-Chief are being performed, in effect, by the Secretary of Defense.

NEVER BEFORE has such a system been operated during a major war in which the United States has participated. In both World War I and World War II, the highest military officers were in constant contact with the President. In World War I, the commander of America's overseas army, Gen. John J. Pershing, reported directly to the Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army in Washington, who in turn consulted almost daily with the President. In World War II, the members of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff met with the President three or four times a week. There were instances when even the civilian secretaries at the head of the armed services were purposely not informed of certain plans for attacking the TODAY MILITARY strategy is far from secret. Civilians have their say and can overrule or nullify military decisions if they think considerations of an international political nature should take precedence.

The whole subject needs exposition in a comprehensive manner by a committee of Congress. Certainly if the current system is maintained and another world war breaks out, it is doubtful whether the set-up can be changed overnight so as to attain maximum efficiency in the use of military power. GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until midafternoon be sure you do not become engaged in some bitter argument over some partnership matter for neither you nor the other person would win and scars could result that it would be very difficult to eliminate. The evening is fine for getting everything organized on a more satisfactory basis.
ARIES (March 21 to April 19) An argument between a higherup and an associate should not be entered into since it does not concern you and could be rather troublesome. Try not to force others into doing what you want them to. Be more diplomatic.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Although you are tempted to run off on same tangent with others, it is best you carry through with obligations that are very important. Be loyal with a co-worker who is worthy. Make much of

Going Back

DALLAS (AP) — Army Spec. 4 Roby James, 20, who came home as escort for the body of his slain soldier brother, isn't going back to Vietnam.

His mother, Mrs. Earl B. James, said Wednesday this decision by the Pentagon "was an answer to my prayers."

He spent a year on duty in Vietnam and had volunteered to stay six months longer before his brother, Spec. 4 Kenneth James, 18, was killed in action with another unit last month. At the parents' request, the Army detailed Roby to accompany the body of his brother for burial. He was expecting to
