Whole Truth?

Dodd Hits Bilk Rap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, opening his defense against proposed censure by his colleagues, hits hardest at the charge he bilked the government on travel expenses. But he says if he is judged a thief, he should be expelled from the Senate.

The white-haired Connecticut Democrat acknowledges that he used some campaign and testimonial funds for personal expenses — although not to the extent reported by the Senate ethics committee in recommending his censure.

'So Help Me God'

In denying during Tuesday's opening of debate on the resolution that he deliberately billed the Senate for travel expenses collected from private groups, Dodd said, "I am telling you the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help me God."

The ethics committee, after a 14-month investigation, found Dodd billed both the Senate and private organizations for travel expenses on seven trips and also used political funds for his personal benefit.

Long Lone Defender

Dodd blamed the double-billing on bookkeeping errors and disclosed for the first time that he had sent a check for $1,763.96 to the Senate disbursing office "in full payment for the seven trips that were erroneously billed to the government."

Dodd's speech was released during debate Tuesday, but its delivery was delayed until today's Senate session after Sen. Russell B. Long — his lone announced defender — complained only 70 of the Senate's 100 members were present to hear it.

"We are sitting here as a jury," said Long, D-La., adding that only those senators who heard all the debate should vote on the censure resolution.

Double Reimbursement

In his statement released to newsmen, Dodd said the ethics committee's charge that he had requested and accepted double reimbursement for travel could only mean he deliberately defrauded the government.

The 60-year-old Dodd, serving his second Senate term, said if his fellow senators judged him to be a thief, they should expel him from the Senate rather than just censure him.

The bipartisan ethics panel said Dodd should be censured for a course of conduct that "tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute."

Committee Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., bore down most heavily on the panel's finding that Dodd converted at least $116,083 in political funds to his personal benefit.

Bad Bookkeeping

As a hush settled on the normally noisy Senate floor, and as Dodd's wife and other members of his family listened from the gallery, Stennis said: "There emerges an inescapable conviction that the senator from Connecticut deliberately set out on this course of conduct to convert to his own use funds over which he held only a trustee or fiduciary control."

He was referring to contributions to Dodd's 1964 re-election campaign and to funds raised at a series of testimonial affairs for Dodd between 1961 and 1965.

As to the double billings, Stennis said he believed the testimony of Michael V. O'Hare, Dodd's former bookkeeper, who said the Connecticut senator instructed him to enter the dual travel charges. Stennis said he found O'Hare's testimony very convincing, but Dodd said there was no evidence to support O'Hare's accusation. He called O'Hare a faithless employee and said he could cite countless instances of O'Hare's "slovenly bookkeeping."

Petty Larceny

O'Hare is one of four former Dodd employees who removed some 4,000 documents from the senator's office and turned over copies to columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson. Columns they subsequently wrote led to the committee's investigation.

Long called O'Hare "a burglar, a thief and also a perjurer."

Twister Hits South Plains Farm House

By The Associated Press

A tornado struck a South Plains farm house a glancing blow and thunderstorms rumbled through the northeast part of the Texas Panhandle during a brief round of vicious weather Tuesday evening.

Hail peppered rural areas north of Borger and northwest of Perryton, where ranch folk told of watching a twister writhe harmlessly overhead.

Aside from a few showers in far Southwest Texas, the rest of the state had at least partly cloudy skies and early summer heat in most areas.

NO INJURIES

Mrs. Winford Bell told police a tornado-funnel stripped part of the roof off her home seven miles west of Brownfield and spun away, disappearing toward the north. None was injured.

In Lubbock, 30 miles to the northeast, winds gusting to 40 miles per hour stirred dust about the same time.

A rancher's gauge in the area northwest of Perryton caught .35 inch of rain in 15 minutes as light hail fell. There was no word of damage.

The unruly weather occurred while all or parts of six Panhandle counties in the sector from Borger and Pampa northward past Perryton were under a severe thunderstorm alert.

WATCH CANCELLED

Official observers cancelled the storm watch soon after midnight, however, as the turbulence quickly abated.

Hot weather covering most of the state sent temperatures climbing to 107 degrees at Presidio and 101 at Wink in West Texas. At least two dozen other cities recorded highs in the 90s.

Forecasts held out a possibility of further thunderstorms in Northwest and North Central Texas and occasional showers in Southwest Texas. Considerable humidity was predicted across the southeastern third of the state.

Glass In Eggs Suit Refused

AUSTIN (AP) — A woman who got glass in her scrambled eggs at Galveston Memorial Hospital lost in the Supreme Court today her attempt to have the court reconsider the doctrine of governmental immunity.

Mrs. Barbara Slocum was a patient in the hospital Feb. 17, 1965, when she was served the breakfast with the glass by hospital employees.

She was severely injured. The glass shattered a tooth and cut her gums and mouth. Her mouth and head became swollen to the point of closing her left eye, and she had to have the tooth removed by oral surgery. She sued Galveston County for $20,000.

The county pleaded governmental immunity, a doctrine that goes back to the old English common law and provides that one may not sue the king without the king's consent.

The trial judge dismissed the case on motion by the county. The Court of Civil Appeals affirmed the decision.

The Supreme Court refused to hear the case, saying only that there was "no reversible error."

Mrs. Britton Dies Of Wreck Injuries

STANTON (SC) — Mrs. Alice Mozell Britton, 46, of Stanton, died at noon Tuesday in Midland Memorial Hospital, following an accident six miles west of here on IS 20.

INJURED

Mrs. Britton was fatally injured when her car and that of Betty Jean Crosby, 25, of Dallas, collided. Miss Crosby was also killed. A passenger in the Crosby car, Sandra Sue Smith, 20, of Dallas, was injured and is in the Stanton hospital.

Investigators said that Mrs. Britton was travelling west on the divided highway and that the other car was going east. Investigators said the crash was in the eastbound lane.

Mrs. Britton was the mother of "Porky" Britton, former Howard County Junior College student, who was gravely injured several years ago in an auto mishap on the same highway. Young Britton was unconscious for months following his mishap. He is now a guest at

Soviet Union Pressing For Emergency Session

Israeli Blitz Might Be End To Yemen War

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — One byproduct of Israel's blitz victory over the Egyptians may be an end to the civil war in Yemen—either through a quick and bloody Royalist victory or by a peace agreement.

The destruction of much of Egypt's air force and army raises the question of whether President Gamal Abdel Nasser, with his economy teetering on the edge of ruin, can afford the men, money and material which are the mainstay of the Yemeni Republican regime. The fighting in Yemen, largely forgotten in the crisis with Israel, began in 1962 when rebel army officers threw Imam Mohammed el-Badr off his 11-century-old throne and set up a republic in the Red Sea kingdom in the southwest corner of Arabia.

REBEL REGIME

The Imam rallied loyal tribesmen for war and Nasser sent more than 70,000 troops to shore up the rebel regime led by bearded, sullen Col. Abdullah al-Sallal.

Alarmed by the presence of the Egyptian Army on its border, Saudi Arabia threw its support behind the Royalists.

Princely commanders of the Royalist forces claim the death toll in Yemen goes into the hundreds of thousands. They say some 30,000 Egyptian soldiers have been killed or wounded in the fighting.

Egypt gives no statistics on the war, and there is no way of checking the Royalist figures, but signs of massive death and destruction abound in Yemen.

POISON GAS

Egyptian air raids have shattered hillside villages. Hundreds of villagers have died from Egyptian poison gas, the use of which was confirmed this month by the International Red Cross.

The Imam's tribesmen have slaughtered entire Egyptian units in isolated outposts, and strewn parts of the country with wrecked tanks and trucks. In the early days of the war, Royalist guerrillas defeated tanks by stuffing their turbans up the exhaust pipes to stall the engines and then beheading the crews as they emerged.

Nasser and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia agreed to end the war with the Jeddah Pact of August, 1965, which called for a halt in Saudi aid to the Royalists and the withdrawal of Egyptian forces. Nasser charged Faisal with violating the agreement and refused to pull out his army. The war went on.

Later Nasser made clear that Egyptian forces would stay in Yemen until neighboring South Arabia gets independence from Britain in 1968, raising fears of an Egyptian takeover there.

Shooting Of Tampa Negro Ruled Justifiable Homicide

By The Associated Press

Florida State Atty. Paul Antinori has ruled justifiable homicide in the killing of a Negro youth which touched off Tampa's first major race riots despite warnings by Negro leaders that such a ruling might trigger more violence.

After a special inquiry into the explosive case today Antinori announced that a white patrolman, James R. Calvert, shot Martin Chambers, 19, because he was running from police and was about to escape after committing burglary and grand larceny.

LOOTING

Two nights of shooting, burning and looting erupted in Tampa's Negro slums after word that Chambers had been shot in the back flashed through the area Sunday night. Violence tapered off Tuesday night but Negro leaders predicted earlier that a ruling of justifiable homicide for Calvert might bring more rioting.

"My plans are to go pray," Tampa NAACP President Robert Gilder said after the ruling. "And I definitely suggest that the whole of Tampa do the same."

In Cincinnati, Ohio, two big fires causing an estimated $800,000 damage erupted in Negro neighborhoods as 800 National Guardsmen helped police patrol streets after a second night of rioting.

100 FIRES

Firemen responded to about 100 fires during the night and were pelted with stones at most of them.

In Tampa, officials had held National Guard troops and police reinforcements out of the riot-torn areas Tuesday night. "The people wanted a chance and we want to give them a chance," a police spokesman said.

About 13 fires broke out during the night but shortly after midnight a Negro patrolman said things were "almost back to normal."

FIXED BAYONETS

Cincinnati Mayor Walton S. Borchard asked Gov. James A. Rhodes for National Guardsmen after violence spread over a wide area of his city. The Guardsmen, carrying the fixed bayonets and with machine guns mounted on Jeeps, moved into the riot areas early today.

Police said more than 20 persons had been arrested and at least 22 injured.

The trouble broke out in the Avondale section, the neighborhood where rioting erupted the night before. Within minutes, trouble calls poured in from the city's other predominantly Negro areas. A deluge of fire alarms, most of them false, poured in.

GUN BATTLE

Elsewhere on the racial scene, black power advocates Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown appeared before the second march in two nights by young Montgomery, Ala., Negroes. Both were critical of action by white officials during a gun battle at nearby Prattville Sunday night.

"These white-helmeted cops are your enemies!" shouted Carmichael as he pointed at the Montgomery police who had blocked the marchers from their destination, the State Capitol.

The gunfire between Negroes and law enforcement officers in Prattville Sunday night had followed Carmichael's arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was released Tuesday under $500 bond.

Kosygin Might Push Action To Ax Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union pressed today for an emergency session of the U.N. General Assembly to take action against Israel amid speculation that Premier Alexei N. Kosygin might attend.

The Security Council was scheduled to meet today on a Soviet resolution calling for Israel to withdraw immediately from the territory it seized in its blitz war against Egypt, Jordan and Syria. Council delegates believed the resolution would get only four of the nine votes needed for adoption, clearing the way for action on the Soviet request for the assembly to meet.

24-HOUR NOTICE

Following defeat of the Soviet resolution, Secretary-General U. Thant would poll the 122 U.N. members by telegram, and the necessary majority of 62 countries was expected to agree to the emergency session. Thant then was likely to call the session on 24 hours' notice.

Speculation that the Soviet premier would attend stemmed from a letter from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to Thant Tuesday saying "leading statesmen of the Soviet Union" would attend.

Soviet and other Communist sources at the United Nations said they did not know to whom Gromyko was referring, and Soviet spokesmen in Moscow refused to comment on the speculation about Kosygin. The Soviets obtained a permit to land a special plane in New York about Thursday but postponed the flight, apparently awaiting the scheduling of the assembly session. The U.S. Embassy in Moscow said the Soviet government had not requested any visas for the flight.

LBJ, TOO

Should Kosygin come to New York, many other heads of government and possibly even President Johnson were expected to attend the session.

The feeling was widespread among Arab delegations that the Russians were promoting the assembly session primarily to divert attention from their failure to help the Arabs in the war. In line with this, Saudi Arabian delegate Jamil M. Baroud commented that for the Arabs, the result of an assembly session would be "zero."

Gromyko's letter said that despite the Security Council's three cease-fire resolutions, Israel had "seized further territories" from Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

SPECIAL SESSION

The letter called for "the convening of an emergency special session of the United Nations General Assembly within 24 hours" to demand "the immediate withdrawal of Israel forces behind the armistice lines" fixed at the end of the 1949 Arab-Israeli war. While Gromyko did not say so, his letter indicated that he was acting under the assembly's 1950 "uniting for peace" resolution, which was adopted to circumvent the Soviet veto in the council. The Soviet Union has always called it illegal.

An emergency special session can be called only under that resolution, and only when the council has failed to act for peace "because of lack of unanimity of the permanent members, the big powers."

WITHDRAWAL

The Soviet resolution before the Security Council "vigorously condemns Israel's aggressive activities and continued occupation" of part of Egypt, Syria and Jordan and "demands that Israel should immediately and unconditionally withdraw her troops behind the armistice lines.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg told the council at a meeting Tuesday for the resolution was "a prescription for renewed hostilities." He said it would "let everything go back to exactly where it was before the fighting began on June 5," with the Gulf of Aqaba again blockaded and Arab and Israeli forces once more "in direct confrontation."

Flag Display Underlines National Flag Day

This display of United States flags was fluttering today on the lawn at the east front of the Howard County Courthouse. The display was arranged and presented by the Big Spring Elks Lodge. Featured in the display, which stressed the observation of June 14 (Flag Day) were the flags of the U.S. through history. The first is the "pine tree" flag flown in the early days of the American Revolution. Second is the noted

"rattlesnake" flag with the admonition, "Do not tread on me." This was also a Revolutionary banner. The third is the official flag of the early days with the British Union Jack in the area now occupied by the stars. The latter two flags shown are the current designs including the newest with 50 stars. (Photo by Frank Brandon)

Himalayan Kingdom Eyes UN Membership

THIMBU, Bhutan (AP) — Bhutan, a remote Himalayan kingdom that once wanted no relations with the outside world, is seriously considering joining the United Nations and entering the arena of international politics.

"Sooner or later we definitely will apply for membership," says King Jigme Dorji Wangchuk.

The first step may come at this fall's General Assembly session. The king's 25-year-old brother, Namgyal Wangchuk, we can do that, then perhaps some of us will stop disbelieving miracles."

He then presented checks totaling $5,000 to the winners, who will use the money for graduate studies. They expressed their gratitude with a "Sinatra Tribute," arranged by young Belling and played with the full band.

"Plans to attend as an observer and see what obligations, especially financial, we would have."

PRESTIGE BID

"If we join, it will be for prestige reasons, to show that we are a sovereign, independent nation," he explains.

Sovereignty is very important to Bhutan, which is tucked in the eastern Himalayas between India and Chinese-ruled Tibet.

As long as Bhutan's sovereignty is respected, the king and his aides believe, there is little likelihood the kingdom will be involved in any future conflict that might erupt between India and China.

Bhutanese proudly tell visitors that they have never been involved in any major international conflict, including the 1962 border war China and India fought in the neighboring North-east Frontier Agency.

NO TEST

"Even when Indian soldiers would retreat into Bhutan to obtain sanctuary, the Chinese did not pursue them because they didn't want to cross our border," said Dasho Tsering, the secretary-general for development.

Bhutan, with an estimated population of 700,000, is tied to India by a treaty signed in 1949. Under its provisions, Bhutan agreed "to be guided by the advice of the government of India in regard to its foreign relations."

No test has ever been made to determine what would happen if Bhutan did not want to follow India's advice. If Bhutan joins the United Nations, it would determine its own foreign policy — but it does not intend to get involved in any major power politics.

MINOR ROLE

"We will play a minor role in the United Nations," the king said. "We also will have to remain neutral because of our location in the world."

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has written the Bhutan government that India would be glad to sponsor the membership application. Finances apparently will be the major factor in determining how soon the application will be made.

"While there is a lot of prestige associated with belonging to the United Nations, there also are a lot of expenses involved and we will have to weigh the different factors," Dasho Tsering said.

"After all, maintaining a staff in New York, even for a few persons, can be expensive." Bhutan has only one major source of foreign exchange —

Sinatra New Arts Patron

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Now it's Frank Sinatra, patron of the arts.

The new role was disclosed last weekend at the First Annual Frank Sinatra Musical Performance Awards Concert in Royce Hall at UCLA. The concert was presented by the College of Fine Arts and attended by 1,500, including the donor of the awards.

Sinatra's presence was denoted by a cluster of youthful autograph seekers around his aisle seat before the performance began. The singer played it cool and academic, smiling courteously as he signed the programs. He was obviously relieved when the concert began.

HEADY MIXTURE

It was a heady mixture of classical and pop. William Cosby of Torrance, Calif., second prize winner in instruments, played a couple of intricate, moody pieces on the accordion, making listeners wonder why that versatile instrument is neglected for serious music. Next came the instrumental winner, Gary Gray of Indianapolis, Ind., who delivered free-wheeling versions of "Georgy Girl" and "The Shadow of Your Smile" on the clarinet. Then he demonstrated his scholarship with a rhapsody by Debussy.

Diana Sims lilted through a Schubert composition and "Musetta's Waltz." From Beverly Hills, Calif., she won first prize for vocals. She was followed by Andrew Belling of San Francisco, second-prize winner for creativity. He sang and played his own compositions on the piano and also conducted the New Chatsworth Band, a youthful group.

JOY, LOVE, WIT

The program listed "comments by Mr. Sinatra" after the intermission.

He strode swiftly to the stage and shook the hand of Dean William Melnitz of the College of Fine Arts.

"Young people insist on believing that they can work miracles — and they can. I am here to see if I can help talented young musicians make some miracles on their own," Sinatra said.

"I believe we should try to keep all lines of creativity open. I hope we can all strive to bring a little more joy, love, wit, kindness and talent into the world. If

In a highly competitive auction, South was permitted to buy the hand at four hearts, although the opposition had a cheap one-trick save available in spades. Inasmuch as West has no defense and his partner has confirmed a good fit by giving a jump raise, it appears that he should persist to four spades.

Once West passed, it was reasonable for East to defend since he holds three tricks in his own hand.

West opened the king of spades, and when the dummy was spread, East paused for a brief reflection before playing to the trick. On the basis of South's aggressive bidding, it appeared likely that the latter held the bulk of the missing high card strength in hearts and clubs. He was also short in spades and might have only a singleton. If this were the case, then the only other source of tricks for the defense was diamonds.

It did not appear likely that West would shift to diamonds on his own initiative even if East were to give him a discouraging signal on the first trick, for the dummy's side suit looked somewhat imposing. East decided to extend a helping hand to his partner, therefore, by overtaking the king of spades with the ace.

At trick two, East shifted to the king of diamonds to observe West's reaction. When the latter started a high-low by dropping the jack of diamonds, East continued with the ace and then a third round of the suit. Declarer ruffed with the ten of hearts; however, West overruffed with the jack to set the contract.

Had South guessed to trump with the king of hearts, North's ace and queen would have dropped the doubleton jack permitting declarer's ten to draw the last trump. However, South made the natural play on the hand and is not open to charge.

The major credit on the deal goes to East for taking full charge of the defense at a time when his partner could hardly be expected to come up with the right answer if left to his own devices.

Giant Money Bill Advances

WASHINGTON (AP) — History's biggest appropriation bill, a $70.3-billion Defense Department measure, went to the Senate today described as a House expression of all-out support for the U.S. military effort in Vietnam. It cleared the House late Tuesday 407 to one after predictions the $20.3 billion it earmarked for the Vietnam war wouldn't be enough and amid demands for stepped-up Vietnam military operations. The money, added to $43.7 billion available from previous bills, would finance Defense Department activities for the fiscal year starting July 1. It was the largest money bill ever brought before Congress. At the height of World War II, defense appropriations totaled $86.4 billion, but were provided in several bills.

Oil Merger Revealed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tidewater Oil Co. and Mission Development Co. will be merged into Getty Oil Co., officials of the three corporations disclosed Tuesday.

Offshore Oil Bidding High

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Interior Department received a whopping $512 million in apparent high bids Tuesday in a record smashing sale of leases on federal oil and gas lands off the Louisiana coast.

The old record was $445 million for leases on offshore areas bordering both Louisiana and Texas in 1962.

The total offered in all bids, both successful and otherwise, was another record — $1.6 billion. There were 742 bids.

During the bidding, the record high for a single tract was twice surpassed. An offshore combine bid $32.5 million for tract 1777 in the ship shoal area and Texaco offered $28.2 million for a tract in the South Pass area.

The previous single tract record was $26 million in a 1960 lease sale.

The high-bidding offshore combine included General Crude, Highland, Hunt, Kewanee, J. Ray McDermott, Metals Service Co., Offshore Operations, Inc., and Placid Oil.

Offers were made on 172 of the 206 tracts up for lease, about 84 per cent of the area, compared to about 50 per cent in sales in 1961 and 1962. About 700 oilmen attended the sale.

Texas Oil Demand Up

AUSTIN (AP) — An increase of 110,000 barrels of Texas crude oil a day will be in demand in July, even without consideration of the Near East oil situation, the Bureau of Mines predicts.

The bureau said Tuesday it was unable at that time to assess the effects of Arab embargoes on oil shipment to the West or the closing of the Suez Canal. It forecast a Texas oil demand in July of 2,990,000 barrels a day.

The July nominations by major purchasers total 2,813,793 barrels a day, the bureau said. This is an increase of 71,803 barrels a day over June.

The Texas Railroad Commission holds a statewide hearing in Austin Thursday to set the July oil allowable. The only question in most oil experts' minds is how large an increase the commission will authorize. The commission said Tuesday the calendar day allowable as of June 15 was 2,992,236 barrels, based on a production factor of 33.8 per cent of potential.

TEXANS AT WAR 'The Other Kid Bled To Death'

By The Associated Press

Billy L. Foster, a Texan at war, lay on the mountain all night, his legs and left arm riddled by grenade shrapnel.

A buddy, worse off, lay nearby. It was dark, foggy and raining. There was no chance for a helicopter to get through.

"I couldn't move," recalls Foster. He said he lay in the dark, wondering if he would make it. "The other kid bled to death during the night," he said.

FOGGY DAWN

The dawn was still too foggy for a chopper, so others in his 22-man patrol from the 1st Reconnaissance Bn. carried him down the mountainside on a stretcher fashioned from a poncho.

Foster, 18, of Plainview, recalled the events of his last day of combat. His patrol had climbed the mountain scouting. Foster didn't see any Viet Cong that day or night, but during the climb he did see a number of civilians herding cows.

BIG BOULDERS

The patrol set up a perimeter of defense at the crest, and Foster's machinegun was to be set up between two big boulders. Some high grass was in the way, so Foster went out to chop out a field of fire. He returned to pick up a Claymore mine to set out.

Just as he picked up the mine a grenade landed between him and another Marine.

"I knew I had had it before the shrapnel hit," says Foster.

Blast Off For Venus

Thundering spaceward on the tip of this fiery Atlas-Agena rocket, America's Mariner 5 spacecraft successfully rocketed toward Venus today. The craft, which blasted off at 2:01 a.m. (EDT) from Cape Kennedy, Fla., is chasing a heavier Russian Venus probe launched two days sooner. White cloth seen at top of booster is protective covering tearing away from nose cone as planned at liftoff. (AP WIREPHOTO)

U.S. Mariner Trails Soviet Ship To Venus

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Mariner 5 spacecraft tracked a heavier Soviet probe toward Venus today to penetrate with electronic fingers the planet's mysterious veil of clouds and help scientists see if Venus is a fit place to live.

The 540-pound Mariner 5, less than one-quarter the weight of the Soviet Union's Venus 4 craft launched two days earlier, rocketed from Cape Kennedy at 2:01 a.m. EDT today on the first U.S. venture to Venus since 1962 and this nation's first planetary probe in more than 2 1/2 years.

Mariner's fiery Atlas-Agena booster rocket threaded to an imaginary needle in space to send the windmill-shaped spacecraft toward its distant target 212 million miles away.

'VERY GOOD'

"We are going precisely where we expected to go," project officials reported after tracking the spacecraft for several hours. Mariner 5's flight path is well within the capability of an onboard motor to adjust its path later in the flight, they said.

"Spacecraft performance also appears to be very good," said Allen E. Wolfe, Mariner 5 system manager for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif., which oversees the Mariner 5 project.

Wolfe said experiments to study radiation in interplanetary space were turned on and the craft's four power-producing solar panels deployed. Guidance sensors aboard the $35-million Mariner 5 locked onto the sun for orientation as planned.

During a brief 26-minute encounter Oct. 19 when Mariner 5 is to pass within 2,000 miles of Venus, electronic fingers of high-frequency radio signals were to penetrate through dense Venusian clouds to study radiation levels and atmospheric temperatures, pressure and density.

Met Veteran Quits After 57 Years Wins Legal Battle To Wed Negro Star

NEW YORK (AP) — After 57 years in the Metropolitan Opera chorus, Marguerite Belleri has retired. She called it quits Tuesday after a career that began at 16.

Guests at her farewell party included her sister Lilli, a chorus member for 33 years. Lilli's husband, William Fischer, sang with the chorus for 23 years and before he died, Mrs. Belleri's husband, Lamberto, was a member for 10 years—a total of 123 years of service.

The family tradition goes on, though. Suzanne Martiny, 17, who is Mrs. Belleri's granddaughter, is a supernary at the Met.

LIEGE, Belgium (AP) — Giovanna Agusta, daughter of a wealthy Milan manufacturer, has won a four-month legal battle and the right to wed Brazilian Negro soccer star Jose Germano.

The Liege Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday there was no obstacle to the wedding.

Germano, 24, plays for a top Belgian soccer team in Liege. Giovanna, whom he met in Milan four years ago, came to Liege in February.

The family of Count Domenico Agusta, a motorcycle and helicopter tycoon, followed her to Liege and pleaded with the girl to give up Germano.

They threatened to deprive her of an inheritance and finally took the matter to court.

Youth Corps Quota Hiked

An increase from 25 to 50 students in the allotment for Howard County's Neighborhood Youth Corps Program was effective June 1, according to Roy Anderson, assistant city manager and area sponsor of the program.

Additional expansion to the program is being requested by Anderson due to the success it has had in this area since it was started last fall.

Planned to provide training for students from 16-21, the program allowed them to work 15 hours each week during the last school year. With summer came an increase to 30 working hours each week.

Although Anderson helps guide the program, applicants are screened through the Texas Employment Commission before being accepted. Wages of $1.25 per hour are paid by the federal government to those in the program. Upon high school graduation or dropping out of school, the student becomes ineligible to participate.

Presently, 49 of the 50 available positions are filled. Twelve of the workers are employed by the city; one each in the police department, water office, engineering survey crew, public works field office, and as a mechanic helper; two each at the garage and cemetery; three in the street department.

Thirty-seven other positions are held in various county firms and institutions. Thirteen are employed at the VA Hospital and nine at the state hospital. A further breakdown of the figures finds four working for the department of agriculture; one at the US Army recruiting office; two at the county library; one at the county tax office; three with the school system; two at HJC; and two at the Texas Employment Commission.

City Court Fines Total $240

Fines amounting to $240 were added to the police docket Tuesday and today.

Five traffic violations Tuesday afternoon amounted to $75; one traffic violation this morning was $15. Four were fined a total of $100 for drunkenness and another $50 for a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages. Violation of probation by one person led to his release to the sheriff's office. A warrant named a man for simple assault and disturbance.

Schools Hire New Director Of HS Choir

Kenny Mac Sheppard, who has been employed at the Crockett Junior High School in Odessa since 1965, will replace Mel Ivey as choral director for the Big Spring High School. Ivey has resigned.

Sheppard was employed by the board of trustees at the meeting Tuesday night.

Sam Anderson, superintendent, told the board that he recommended the employment of Sheppard and that the young musician comes to the system with high endorsement.

He holds a bachelor of music degree from Hardin - Simmons University.

Sheppard's contract is for 10 months and he is to report for duty Aug. 1.

Police were investigating one theft today. Bobby Moore, 602 Caylor, reported that three cartons of chewing gum and two cans of lighter fluid had been taken from his pickup parked in front of his house. He added that coffee grounds had been poured in his gas tank.

Band Uniforms Ordered At A Cost Of $14,366

Uniforms for the Big Spring High School Band, augmented in size to 225 players, are now being manufactured by S O Franks Inc. of San Antonio.

Sam Anderson, superintendent of the Big Spring schools, told the board of trustees of the Big Spring Independent District Tuesday night he had placed an order with Franks for the 225 uniforms for an average cost of $63.87 per uniform. Total cost will be $14,366. A drum major uniform and a band director's uniform is also on order. A price on a second drum major uniform is awaited.

The uniforms feature fur shakos, Anderson told the board.

Delivery will be as quickly as possible, but the company told Anderson delivery cannot be made by the first day of the 1967-68 school year.

single bid received from the Craddock-Witten Ford agency.

Colorado City had advertised for bids on two police cars, a pickup for the water department, a truck for the street department, and a truck suitable for use as a garbage truck.

The council voted to accept the low bid of five and to purchase the pickup from Jay Adams Chevrolet for $1749.25; and to accept the bid of Craddock Witten for $2,845.05, the low bidder of three on the truck for the sanitary department.

The council voted to readvertise for bids on the truck for the street department. Three bids had been received, one for a vehicle which did not meet specifications.

In other action the council:

(1) Gave authority to City Manager Ford Merritt to extend a lease on the city-owned hospital to former owner Charles Root.

(2) Heard a committee from the Oak Street Baptist Church complaining of damage to the church from a city sewer line which backed sewage into one of the church buildings. City Manager Merritt was authorized to arrange a meeting between representatives of the church and the city's insurance company.

Andersons To Take Vacation

Sam Anderson, superintendent of the Big Spring City schools, and Mrs. Anderson will leave from Midland July 13 on a month long tour of Europe and Canada.

He told Big Spring Independent School District trustees Tuesday night that as president of the Texas State Teachers Association, he has been selected as delegate from this state to the World Conference of Organizations of the Teaching Professions in Vancouver, Canada, Aug. 2-9.

He has also, he said, been awarded a three weeks educational tour of several European countries prior to the Vancouver meeting.

Anderson noted that on the basis of a two-weeks vacation per year he now has 20 weeks accumulated of unused vacation time to his credit.

He said he and Mrs. Anderson will fly to New York from Midland July 13 and leave that same date for Madrid. After four days in Spain, the Andersons are to go to France, then to Switzerland, Rome and to Berlin. From Berlin their tour takes them to Copenhagen and London.

They are to fly back across the pole from Europe to Seattle and go on to Vancouver. They will be back in Midland Aug. 9.

A Devotional For The Day

Whatever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope. (Romans 15:4)

PRAYER: Dear God, we thank Thee for Thy Book which lights our way with knowledge, comforts us in sorrow, and strengthens us under trial. Help us always to follow in Thy revealed way. For our Redeemer's sake. Amen.

Too Much Police?

A couple of years ago, police in Anaheim, Calif., confiscated an allegedly obscene movie film and charged the theater's owner and manager with outraging public decency. The California State Supreme Court now has the case after authorities' refusal to return the film was upheld by lower courts. Why is this seemingly rather commonplace case a matter for special attention?

Any case involving attempted censorship is of general interest, if only because citizens who cherish freedom of speech must remain constantly alert to possible infringement of that right. But this case is of even greater significance than many others centered on this issue.

That is so because it poses a centrally important question: Can the police, acting on their own without court sanction, legally withhold from the public material which the police consider objectionable? The question can be put more bluntly: Do the police have the power of censorship? Free men must insist on a negative answer.

The Anaheim police acted on the basis of a criminal code provision that an officer may seize contraband material if it is exhibited or offered for sale in his presence. They did so, however, without any judicial determination that the film was contraband in the eyes of the law. Moreover, they acted without a warrant. As an attorney representing the theater men put it in his oral argument: "One of the main questions here is, Does every police officer have the power of a czar over theaters or bookstores or do the courts have that power?"

Chief Justice Roger J. Traynor also had something to say on this point: "It seems that in an area with all these First Amendment overtones the very minimum requirement would be the application of a warrant. We simply can't leave such matters to the unfettered judgment of a police officer." That is the heart of the matter.

Annual Sessions Needed

The 60th Texas Legislature, because Lt. Gov. Preston Smith never let the Senate vote on the House-passed resolution, failed to submit to the people a constitutional amendment for annual legislative sessions. That proposal, vigorously backed by Gov. John Connally and House Speaker Ben Barnes, was far more important than any of the 19 amendment proposals that were approved.

There will soon be a clear demonstration of how badly annual legislative sessions are needed. That will come when the governor calls the special session now required to approve the second year's spending, and additional taxation, for the coming biennial state budget. The governor will be urged to include in that special session call enough emergency bills — largely unfinished business of the just closed regular session — to keep the Legislature busy another 140 days. He cannot possibly include them, however, for a special session is allowed only 30 days.

As a special session cannot submit constitutional amendment proposals, the question of annual sessions now cannot be given to the people for decision until after the 1969 regular session of the 61st Legislature. How the annual sessions issue will fare in that Legislature will depend heavily on how Connally's idea for a special budget session works out. That will test, fairly or not, how well legislators can handle spending and taxing bills with a general election imminent.

The pressure of a growing Texas' expanding, and increasingly complex, state government must soon compel adoption of annual sessions. Connally's special budget session is a stop-gap relief that cannot be repeated often, if at all. It is unfortunate that it will be at least three years before annual sessions can become regular procedure; we only hope that the delay can be kept to that minimum.

John Cuniff Lawmakers Sweat Topless Act

NEW YORK (AP)—While heat and sun and surf and tans absorb the populace in this languid presummer, the grim and serious members of Congress are in a sweat about a possible topless act that could be very embarrassing.

The act, to immediately reduce an interesting prospect to a prosaic truth, is the federal bill. Is there to be a ceiling on 85? Or is it to be, as some suspect, topless? Will it forever rise?

BECAUSE THESE questions have never been answered adequately, Uncle Sam is in the position each year of tramping up Capitol Hill to ask for an extension in the amount he can borrow—either a "temporary" increase or a "permanent" one.

This permits Congress to get in its jobs about fiscal responsibility. Each year the vote gets narrower, and some members of Congress are putting their foot down hard. Already this month they have said "no more."

AS A RESULT, the Treasury could be in a dilemma by June 30. On that date the "temporary" ceiling of $336 billion reverts to the "permanent" ceiling of $285 billion.

Now look at these figures: the actual debt is close to $328 billion; the projected upper limit of the debt during the next fiscal year is expected to be about $345.2 billion by March 1968. The conflict is clear.

As a result, the administration sought this month an increase in the permissible limit to a permanent ceiling of $385 billion, its second request this year for a new ceiling. Since it was turned down, time is fading fast.

ALTHOUGH the American people have a great deal of faith in Congress to do what is right, despite its partisanship and despite a possible attempt to embarrass the President, it could fail to act in time.

The feeling is general, however, that Congress really doesn't play such grim games with the nation's fiscal image, and so the dispute over the debt is hardly taken seriously.

BUT, UNLESS Congress acts to raise the limit within two weeks, Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler's checks will bounce and Uncle Sam's payrolls won't be met.

Already the Treasury has done some juggling. So critical did the situation become earlier this year that it rushed to Congress with an interim request to raise the temporary ceiling from $330 billion to $336 billion.

IN ADDITION, it used other means to sidestep the limit. When the $330 billion limit was approached earlier this year, the Treasury had several other federal agencies purchase government securities. Thus, the Federal Home Loan Board and the Civil Service Retirement Fund were called to the rescue.

Is all this necessary? There is a great and fundamental division of answers. Some feel it is a useless ritual to have the Treasurer go to Capitol Hill so often. Others say it is necessary for Congress to have the opportunity of quizzing the administration over the state of finances.

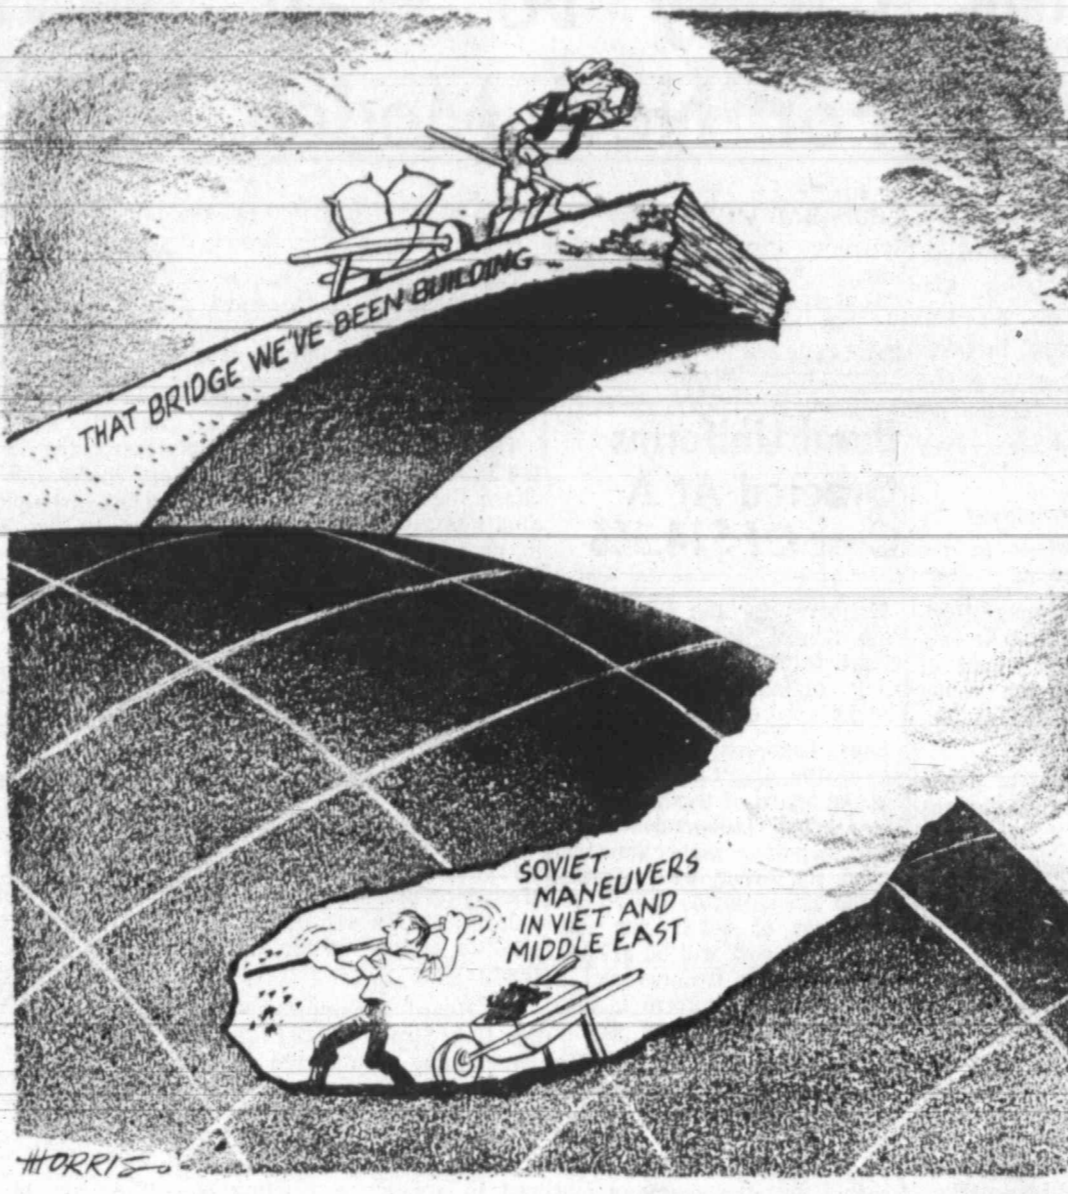

BY CONTROLLING the debt limit, Congress does have the chance to exercise a powerful influence on fiscal matters. In the present instance, some members of Congress feel that an increase will permit inflationary spending.

Unfortunately for the administration, the increase asked for was $29 billion, the exact figure by which some congressional mathematicians figure the deficit in the proposed Johnson budget. Their answer is for the administration to cut spending.

Perhaps a more distant view, with politics eliminated, would give a clearer picture.

EVEN THOUGH the national debt is now nearly 300 times what it was in 1910, the horror of it is more apparent than real. Today's debt cannot be viewed in relation to a 1910 economy that was a fraction of ours today.

The fact is that the federal debt has not risen as swiftly as other debt; it is much lower today in relation to production than it was a decade ago; it is smaller in relation to tax revenues than it was 10 years ago. Regardless, say those who prefer hard figures, interest on the debt now comes to 14 billion a year. Time for a top, they

WHO'S ENGINEERING THIS JOB?

James Marlow Eavesdropping Evidence Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sometimes the Supreme Court gets idealism and realism mixed up. It happened this week when it tightened the screws even further against police "bugging"—electronic eavesdropping—in criminal investigations.

The court threw out the bribery conviction of Ralph Berger, a Chicago public relations man. The decision was a tight fit, 5 to 4. It was a good example of how nine justices can look at the same problem and draw opposite conclusions.

The key in this case is how the Constitution's Fourth Amendment was interpreted.

THAT amendment says: "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall be issued, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized."

With these constitutional requirements in mind, New York State passed a law which says police can bug if they get permission from a judge, provided they swear under oath there is "reasonable ground to believe that evidence of crime may be thus obtained."

UNDER this law police did their bugging in the Berger case and the state later admitted that without the eavesdropping a conviction could not have been obtained.

Before he retired Monday Justice Tom Clark wrote the majority opinion, throwing out Berger's conviction. Why? Clark gave various reasons. He found fault with the New York law which said a judge could permit bugging if the police gave him "reasonable ground" to believe it might unveil evidence of a crime.

CLARK said this was too broad, too sweeping, that New York's "reasonable cause" phrase wasn't good enough since the Fourth Amendment talks about "probable cause."

If this seemed like hair-splitting to make a point—which is going to make it far tougher for cops to eavesdrop on criminals—Justice Hugo L. Black and the other three justices who disagreed with Clark certainly think so.

Hal Boyle Adventure In Irony

NEW YORK (AP)—Life is an adventure in irony, and this is particularly true in the case of Werner Klemperer, the actor.

Werner, son of Otto Klemperer, the famed symphony conductor, and his family fled their native Germany in 1933 because of the rise of Hitlerism.

NOW WERNER, who later served three years as a corporal in the American Army, makes a tidy dollar playing a bumbling Nazi officer, Col. Wilhelm Klink, on the CBS television comedy program, "Hogan's Heroes."

Although he has had a lifelong hatred of war and violence, nobody since the late Eric von Stroheim has come along who can play a foreign military villain with quite the heel-clicking authenticity of Klemperer.

Werner finds it hard to define just why he can do this so well. "Acting is largely a matter of accurate observation," he said.

"I SUPPOSE I must have seen many German officers when I was a boy in Berlin, but"—he added wryly—"I don't remember ever shaking hands with one."

"I don't find it a particular psychological hurdle, to play Nazi officers, so long as I can be very sure that I can give them the kind of dimension I feel they deserve.

"BUT I DON'T" want ever to play a good Nazi, and I don't want to act in Germany. No, not now."

Something of a specialist in unsympathetic roles, Werner has also played Bulgarian villains, Dutch villains and Russian villains, but his big desire is to play an Oriental villain.

"With my bald head and a little makeup I think I'd be very interesting," he said.

AFTER FLEEING Germany, the Klemperers spent two years in Switzerland, then came to California where the father became conductor of the Los Angeles Symphony.

Werner, then 13, learned enough English in three months to enter high school. He appeared headed for a career as a pianist, but gave it up.

"I DIDN'T" have the desire," he said. "Desire and talent usually go hand in hand. If the desire isn't there, chances are that the talent isn't there, either."

Werner chose the theater after wartime work with an Army Special Service unit led by actor Maurice Evans.

Urbane and sophisticated,

Werner at 45 feels he has carved himself a comfortable niche and says he has no desire to be either rich or famous.

Around The Rim

Kingdom For A Button

In certain clubs and groups, and usually at the senior class level, it was customary for the young men to have their photographs made in a tuxedo. Now this was in the days following the deeply lamented Wall Street crash, and an unencumbered dollar, much less a tuxedo, was hard to come by. So everyone leaned heavily on the few fortunate souls who possessed this treasure, and we borrowed the coat, shirt and tie and had the picture made.

BUT THERE came a time when a social function came up which was strictly formal. Maybe the girls were able to skip and save, or maybe their mothers were handy with a needle, so they managed to blossom in a lovely formal for the occasion. The only thing left for the boys was to start foraging.

This led to one of the most miserable evenings of my life, and to think I thought I had it made. Luck was with me. I managed a shirt from a roommate, the tux from another fellow my approximate size, rounded up a tie and a stud set.

EVERYTHING went fine until it came time to apply the studs. Alas, the set was shy the collar button. We searched frantically everywhere, knocked on doors, sounded the SOS, but there was no collar button to be found. Thus, I was stuck with the little wooden peg that held the collar together when it came back from the laundry.

At first, it seemed perfectly all right, but as the evening wore on, the starch lost some of its stiffness, and the peg lost its grip. I turned my head in reckless abandon, and... "spronnnn!" The collar had pulled loose and had flapped straight out like a slave from mama's corset.

QUICKLY, I turned away, muscled the stubborn collar back into position and pressed it upon the peg. As a precaution, I tightened my tie to hold the collar in place. This was a logical stroke, but while it did keep the collar from flapping out like a splint, it didn't keep the collar from pulling off the peg at crucial and inopportune moments.

The only course left was for me to nestle my chin down toward my left shoulder and pivot my torso when making conversation with someone on the opposite side. When this sweeping gesture was unnecessary because my companion in conversation was within peripheral view, I talked out of the corner of my mouth.

LOOKING BACK, it was funny, but that evening it was sheer tragedy, for I lurked to the back side of groups, stood in the shadows, and fumbled at my throat like my Adams apple was in perpetual itch. I know the feelings of that ruler who would have given his kingdom for a nail. Mine would have gladly gone for a collar button. —JOE PICKLE

Holmes Alexander The New Public Prosecutor

WASHINGTON — Fresh from his family law firm in Dallas, the 33-year-old Ramsey Clark in 1961 became part of the New Frontier's occupation force that took over the government of the United States.

The tall, thoughtful, talkative, well-read young liberal, a typical-enough follower of the new President, was assigned to head up the Lands Division of the Justice Department. Ahead of him stood Attorney General Bob Kennedy, with no courtroom experience at all, and Nick Katzenbach, a university law professor with very little. All were in their thirties and all within six years would take over the top post of prosecutor for the nation.

THAT POST, Attorney General of the United States, must inevitably deal with the very large criminal population of the United States. Bob Kennedy, setting an example which Clark and Katzenbach would follow, immediately divided this criminal segment into two convenient parts: the professionals and the amateurs.

Bob knew a great deal about the professionals. He'd been a racket-busting investigator and counsel in the Senate. A puritanical man, Bob loathed the procurers, the dope-hustlers, the touts and the extortioners of organized crime. He asked Congress for extraordinary new powers, and he went about his work with a ruthlessness in the public interest that would have delighted tough-minded Attorneys-General of the distant past. He hounded many a malefactor out of operation or into prison, and he wasn't a bit delicate about his methods.

BUT THIS FIERCE antagonism against "The Enemy Within," his book-title on the subject, was limited to upper-echelon crooks. Bob Kennedy had a protective feeling toward the lower orders of the lawless peoples, although they are much more numerous and commit nearly all the personal crimes against citizens. He implanted in the Justice Department, something that hadn't been discernible there before. It was liberalistic philosophy which held society responsible for lower-caste criminals. There was going to be one concept of law for the affluent hoodlum, and another concept for the hoodlum masses: the juvenile offender, the petty thief, the capricious violator, the underprivileged yegg.

BUT A QUESTION which answers itself arises. Can the nation's top lawman indulge his sentiments and practice favoritism in his duty as a prosecutor? The matter is still pertinent in Ramsey Clark, a third-generation Frontiersman, now Attorney General, whose sympathy for the criminal multitude, as distinguished from the criminal elite, seems to be manifest.

FOR INSTANCE, in the biographical sketch issued by the Justice Department, Clark selected items that reveal his soft spot: The sketch tells how he worked on legislation to eliminate the necessity of posting bail, to provide better court-assigned counsel for the accused, to rehabilitate prisoners — all reforms for the convenience of lower-caste offenders. This is commendable work for the social reformers and the defenders of persons before the law, but it raises the question of conflict-of-interest in a public prosecutor.

ALL OVER Washington, of course, there are federal jobs which hack at the roots of crime, poverty, depravity and maladjustment. The Justice Department does not have such assigned duties. The attorney-generalship is an office for removing the criminal, not the crime.

Or so it seems to this observer. In a following column, based on personal interview, Attorney General Ramsey Clark will make his rebuttal. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

David Lawrence Don't Repeat Errors Of The Past

WASHINGTON — In seeking a durable peace for the Middle East, more is to be gained by looking back and rectifying the mistakes of the past than by becoming enmeshed in a prolonged debate at the United Nations devoted largely to self-serving propaganda. New terms of settlement will not be achieved by direct negotiations between the adversaries but will finally have to be themselves or by the United Nations. So the sooner fundamental issues are emphasized, the quicker will a realistic judgment be formed by an observing world.

FOR THE TRUTH is that there wouldn't have been a war if arms hadn't been supplied in the last few years by Russia and the United States, respectively, to the Arabs and the Israelis. War was inevitable because nothing was done to cure basic grievances such as Nasser's control of the Suez and threats to deny Israel's ships access to the sea through the Gulf of Aqaba. Little was done, moreover, to solve the problem of a million Palestinian Arabs were forced from their homes when an Israeli government was established. This helped to foment in other lands an anti-Israel sentiment.

RELIGIOUS FRICTION has an emotional impact inside many a country, but when it becomes international — as sympathetic segments in various countries begin playing a part in trying to redress injustices — the inevitable result is to cause military strength to be built up in preparation for a day of reckoning.

What can the United Nations or any group of governments do under such frustrating circumstances? At least the errors made in the past can be reviewed so that they will not be repeated. Also, agreements can be reached on basic principles, such as the right of smaller countries to determine their own destiny without being threatened by military attack, and the setting up of a mechanism to settle or arbitrate legal questions, including the right of passage through essential waterways.

WHY, IT MAY be asked, did the fighting continue even after the ceasefire was demanded by the United Nations? Obviously, it was a lack of faith in the capacity of the U.N. to settle the big issues. Hence, Israel endeavored to occupy positions which would permit advantageous bargaining at the peace table. Israel could then give up some of what it had obtained by military operations in neighboring lands in exchange for a satisfactory system for the control of the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba. The Israelis doubtless will insist also on being allowed to retain possession of all of Jerusalem under some form of international supervision.

BUT EVEN when a peace treaty is drawn up between the Arab countries and Israel, this by itself will constitute no assurance against a recurrence of last week's military action unless both sides feel secure.

If the United Nations had carried out a thorough investigation of the build-up of military power by the countries of the Middle East in the last few years, the danger of war would have been recognized. The U.N., unfortunately, did not maintain a large enough peace-keeping force to prevent one side from attacking the other.

A CONTINUANCE of the alliances of potential aggressors only means that more and more armament will have to be made available by the U.N. itself for the defense of small countries. Otherwise, sooner or later, regional conflicts such as the world has just witnessed in the Middle East will surely break out again. (Copyright, 1967, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate)

Billy Graham

I would like to know your opinion about chewing gum in church. Many of our deacons and leading members chew gum during the services, but I was taught that this is disrespectful to the house of God. I will be watching for your answer.

Gum chewing is an American custom, like eating hot dogs and hamburgers—but neither should be done in the house of the Lord. It is not so much that it is sinful—it is simply not in good taste, and shows poor manners.

Few people would chew gum in the presence of the President of the United States. His high office commands respect and the highest possible etiquette. God, the Creator, should be given at least as much honor and respect as the men He created, and much more.

A man once asked me if I knew the difference between a cow in a field chewing cud, and a gum-chewing teenager in church. I told him that I did not. He said: "The main difference is the thoughtful expression on the face of the cow."

Gum chewing may reveal a nonchalant, thoughtless attitude bordering upon irreverence, and should never be practiced in the house of the Lord—whether one is a deacon or not. I constantly have to remind my own children of this.

To Your Good Health An Understanding Husband Can Be A Blessing

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife is going through her change of life. She is 47. Would this have anything to do with her unusual, irritable, nagging disposition? No matter how much I do for her, she always finds fault. It's beginning to make me a complete wreck. Is this to be expected? We have been married 25 years. — C. M.

Well, friend, neither you nor I can know exactly what change of life (menopause) is like, because we're men.

It is a difficult time in a woman's life. She knows it is the end of her chance to become a mother. She knows she is at that time of life called middle age. She encounters (in varying degrees) discomforts such as "hot flashes" and jitters. Sometimes she is taking on weight and losing her figure. She is afraid that she is "losing her femininity"—although that is not true. Still, she knows she's not the dewy-eyed charmer she was 20 years earlier.

Of course we mere males get older, and lose our figures, and sometimes our hair, and realize that we aren't the prince charming that we used to be, either. But it doesn't come on with an abrupt change in our physiology. We don't have the flashes. We rarely find our physical rhythms disrupted.

All of which led me to insert this sentence in the booklet I wrote on menopause: "An understanding husband is a blessing!"

It is no more than fair that a husband should inform himself of what the menopause means, and maybe you will want to read the booklet. If so, send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, and ask for "Make Menopause easier."

Menopause varies in its intensity from one woman to another. A few escape with very little trouble, some have a "lot," most have enough discomfort to make them edgy and annoyed with the whole business.

But it doesn't cause a complete change in disposition. After 25 years you must have a fair idea of your wife's normal reaction to things, and if she has changed from a pleasant, easy-going person into a chronic nag, you'd probably better look deeper than just menopause to explain it.

She needs and deserves sympathetic consideration from you, but if she is making life as miserable as you say, there probably is something deeper involved.

Editorials And Opinions The Big Spring Herald

Dear Abby

Time To Complain

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife, married nine years, who takes the children to visit her mother in another state for two months every summer? She arranges her trip so that the last two weeks fall when her husband gets his summer vacation. Then he has to drive to her mother's, spend his "vacation" there, and drive her and the kids back home.

Then when the husband tells her that while he was alone he went out a few times and had a couple of beers with the boys, she blows her top. How about this, Abby? THE HUSBAND:

DEAR HUSBAND: The husband should register his complaints with his wife. And if she continues to leave him, he can't be blamed for relieving his loneliness and boredom with "the boys." If the wife is smart, she'll change her routine because there is always a chance that the next time it could be with "the girls."

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law of 20 years standing has a friend who will soon celebrate her 25th wedding anniversary. This friend is having a party at her newly-built home.

Well, my sister-in-law asked me if I wanted to earn a little extra money by serving at this party. Abby, I have a very good secretarial job, own my own home, my own car, have no debts, and I am not in the slightest hard up for "extra money." I have never done waitress work in my life!

I know the anniversary couple socially, having been invited to the homes of mutual friends. In fact, the anniversary couple have been guests in my home. I was very much insulted and I let my sister-in-law know it. I haven't heard from her since. Was I wrong in feeling insulted?

NO WAITRESS

DEAR NO: If you honestly believe your sister-in-law wanted to insult you, then you had every right to feel insulted. You know your sister-in-law better than I do, so you'll have to be the judge of her motives.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with Jimmy for two years. Jimmy's brother, Tom, is getting married tomorrow and Jimmy will be an usher in the wedding. I am very upset because I wasn't invited.

I know the family sort of well, and I always thought they liked me. Maybe I am all upset over nothing. If I am, please tell me. Do you think I should have received an invitation? Who does the inviting anyway? Please answer soon as this has left me sleepless.

LEFT OUT
DEAR LEFT OUT: The bride and her family "does the inviting." But the groom and his family are allowed a certain number of guests also. If Jimmy had asked that you be sent an invitation, you probably would have received one. There is always the possibility that the number of guests had to be limited, or that the ushers had to "escort" the bridesmaids, so perhaps Jimmy had a "duty" date. Ask him.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Iguana Owner Says 'Freda Looks Awful'

CINCINNATI (AP)—The five-foot Brazilian iguana with a dragon-like head slithered away from its owner's home Sunday morning and has not been found.

Louis Tilder, a schoolteacher, said Freda, green and black striped, got out of a first-story window that had been left open. "Freda looks awful," Tilder said, and it is going to be quite a shock to whoever sees her.

Tilder said Freda isn't dangerous, but like all iguanas, she will bite if she is pestered.

Trustees adopted the tentative budget at a meeting Wednesday evening at the offices of Dr. W. A. Hunt, president. The hearing Aug. 15 will be at the same place at 5 p.m.

Improvement Project Report Delayed; Beer Permit Denied

Expansion of the downtown improvement program, one of the major items on the agenda for the Big Spring City Commission Tuesday, was not discussed. City Manager Larry Crow asked for more time to report, due to some engineering problems.

The engineering difficulties concern a drainage problem at the intersection of Fourth and Main. Recently, downtown merchants petitioned the commission to expand the project south from the 200 block of Main into the 300 and 400 blocks.

With no discussion, the commissioners voted to deny the request of Alene Bond for an on-premises beer consumption permit at the Cactus Drive-in, 2604 Wasson Road. Chief of Police Jay Banks recommended denial of the request, which was done on a motion by George Zachariah.

Mrs. Betty Carmichael, secretary to Crow, was appointed assistant city secretary.

Mrs. Euta Hall's request for a change from Zone 2F (two family residential) to Zone NS (neighborhood service) was approved on third and final reading for her property on Eleventh Place.

The city manager reported that the annual audit of the city's books is now under way by Clyde Hollingsworth, and he will have a report soon on some procedural matters.

Commissioner Walter Stroup asked that a sign be installed on the traffic signal at Fourth and Bell, regarding making right turns. He also asked Lillard to have street crews check the alley behind the First Methodist Church.

A 28-cubic foot garbage pack-body was approved on the bid of $3,900. Anderson pointed out Pak-Mor Manufacturing Co. is the only company that could submit a bid, due to specifications set out by the city in order to match existing equipment.

Commissioner Jimmy Morehead urged that city crews try using a chemical weed killer in some downtown areas, where weeds are sprouting between cracks in the walks.

SIGNS REGULATED Texas Law Bans Mass Picketing

By The Associated Press
There is more to walking a picket line in Texas than just painting a sign.

Would-be pickets or demonstrators should first take a look at the law. At least eight state law provisions, including one just passed by the 60th legislature, directly affect pickets and picketing.

RANGERS DUTY
Attention was called to Texas statutes recently when Homer Garrison, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said Texas Rangers on duty in the Lower Rio Grande Valley not only had the authority but the duty to control picketing, secondary boycotts, and prevention of others from engaging in their lawful vocation.

The so-called picket regulation law prohibits "mass picketing" and says pickets must not be closer than 50 feet to each other and must be at least 50 feet from the entrance to the picketed places. The placing or forming of any obstruction to the entrance also is prohibited. Other provisions prohibit signs or language that is obscene, slanderous, false or calculated to intimidate others.

OBSCENE KEY
A key provision of the bill says it is unlawful for any person or persons "by use of insulting, threatening or obscene language, to interfere or seek to interfere with, hinder, obstruct or intimidate another in the exercise of his lawful right to work or to enter upon the performance of any lawful vocation or from freely entering or leaving any premises."

Violators can be punished by $25 to $200 fines and up to 90 days in jail.

SYMPATHY STRIKE
The secondary boycott law bans sympathy strikes or work stoppages by employees not directly involved in a labor dispute. The section of this act that says sympathy strikers may not interrupt the free flow of commerce to a firm involved in a labor dispute is the section cited as authority for Texas Rangers to protect trains moving cantaloupes out of certain Valley farms. Violations can be punished by fines up to $500 and up to six months in jail.

Texas has a so-called right-to-work law that prohibits union shop, closed shop or agency shop contracts. It has another provision that a union cannot stage a strike for recognition unless it proves that it represents a majority of the firm's employees.

PUBLIC UTILITIES
Another provision forbids strikes against public utilities—firms furnishing electricity, gas or water to the public.

Employers and officials of any subdivision of the state or any county or city are prohibited from staging any concerted strike or work stoppage. They cannot enter into a collective bargaining agreement with any labor union.

The picketing law change made by the recent legislature concerned violence on the picket line. Previously the law made it a felony, punishable by up to two years in prison, for pickets to use violence in keeping another person from working.

VIOLENCE
Now the law makes it a misdemeanor for anyone to use force or violence to prevent others from engaging in any lawful vocation or in peaceful picketing. Supporters of the change said this will protect pickets from strike breakers and vice versa. Violations could be punished by fines of $25 to $200 and 30 days to two years in jail.

Each automobile was occupied by a brother and his wife and the three survivors suffered injuries.

Killed was Mrs. Emanuel Valdez. In the other car were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Valdez.

They were driving on the Great Southwest Parkway when the accident occurred.

A medical investigator said the train struck the car broadside, dragging it down the tracks.

They are Mrs. Connie S. Blake, 24, formerly of McKinney, fifth grade; Mrs. Ellen Boston, 23, from New Mexico, second grade; Mrs. Cynthia Boyd, 22, from Ohio, elementary; Mrs. Vivian Buckner, 36, Big Spring, fourth grade; Bill D. Other tornadoes damaged farm buildings west of Hastings and northwest of Grand Island, Neb. Tornadoes also hit near Norfolk and Kearney, Neb., and two funnels touched down east and southeast of Sioux City, Iowa, but caused no damage.

Tornado watches stayed in effect until 6 a.m. EDT for parts of Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Kansas and Minnesota, and severe thunderstorm watches were up in other sections of Minnesota and in Wisconsin.

Rain hit Florida too. Home-stead Air Force Base south of Miami measured 1.80 inches of rain in six hours.

Warm, humid air continued to blanket the area from the Southern Plains to the Southeast and north to the Upper Great Lakes.

LBJ Aide Due To Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert E. Kintner, plagued by progressive deterioration of his eyesight for several months...

Kintner, former president of the National Broadcasting Co. and the American Broadcasting Co., is to have surgery this summer.

He is secretary to the Cabinet, helps coordinate the writing of the President's speeches and has advised Johnson on so-called image problems.

Kintner, 57, is paid $30,000 a year. Before going into broadcasting, he was White House correspondent for the old New York Herald Tribune and later was a Washington columnist.

"We've heard four speakers already this week urge Baptists to take federal aid," said the Rev. Dr. Simmons.

He called the selection of speakers for the four-day meeting "a deliberate snow job."

More than 300 top Baptist leaders are meeting here to seek solutions to a continuing financial crisis at the denomination's 72 colleges and universities.

Most of the controversy stems from the rejection of federal aid by practically all of the Southern Baptist schools. Some, however, do accept government loans.

Objections of some Baptist leaders to acceptance of federal loans and grants are based on their claims that it would violate the principle of church-state separation.

The president of the nation's largest Southern Baptist school, Dr. Abner McCall of Baylor University, said the church's colleges and universities cannot continue to operate effectively without federal money.

Private contributions are not enough to meet the challenges of the future, McCall said, and educational expenditures are multiplying each year.

He labeled the federal government "the big spender in the academic world," citing figures which showed that Washington dispensed more money to the nation's campuses last year than all 50 state governments combined.

"In my opinion, we cannot afford to abandon an effective involvement in the field of higher education in America," he said.

"But as a practical matter, we cannot continue to maintain an effective involvement in the future without federal aid."

McCall's stand was opposed by the Rev. Dr. E. S. James, who said federal grants to church-supported colleges were unnecessary, unscriptural, unconstitutional and "unfair to unbelievers."

"If it isn't right, it is wrong, and we have no right to be wrong," he said.

The Rev. Dr. James, retired editor of the Baptist Standard in Dallas, said he feels "very deeply" for Baptist educators faced with financial woes, "but not deeply enough to consent to Baptists doing the wrong thing."

UNFAIR

McCall, saying some Baptists want to abandon the field of higher education altogether, said churchmen must decide whether the institutions will remain in operation.

"In my opinion, we cannot afford to abandon an effective involvement in the field of higher education in America," he said.

"But as a practical matter, we cannot continue to maintain an effective involvement in the future without federal aid."

McCall's stand was opposed by the Rev. Dr. E. S. James, who said federal grants to church-supported colleges were unnecessary, unscriptural, unconstitutional and "unfair to unbelievers."

"If it isn't right, it is wrong, and we have no right to be wrong," he said.

The Rev. Dr. James, retired editor of the Baptist Standard in Dallas, said he feels "very deeply" for Baptist educators faced with financial woes, "but not deeply enough to consent to Baptists doing the wrong thing."

Texans Join Baptist Debate Over Aid

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A southern Baptist educator from California charged Tuesday night a nationwide Baptist education conference has been deliberately stacked in favor of federal aid proponents.

The Rev. Dr. Lloyd Simmons, president of California Baptist College at Riverside, made this accusation after three speakers gave differing views on the issue.

"We've heard four speakers already this week urge Baptists to take federal aid," said the Rev. Dr. Simmons.

He called the selection of speakers for the four-day meeting "a deliberate snow job."

More than 300 top Baptist leaders are meeting here to seek solutions to a continuing financial crisis at the denomination's 72 colleges and universities.

Most of the controversy stems from the rejection of federal aid by practically all of the Southern Baptist schools. Some, however, do accept government loans.

Objections of some Baptist leaders to acceptance of federal loans and grants are based on their claims that it would violate the principle of church-state separation.

The president of the nation's largest Southern Baptist school, Dr. Abner McCall of Baylor University, said the church's colleges and universities cannot continue to operate effectively without federal money.

Private contributions are not enough to meet the challenges of the future, McCall said, and educational expenditures are multiplying each year.

He labeled the federal government "the big spender in the academic world," citing figures which showed that Washington dispensed more money to the nation's campuses last year than all 50 state governments combined.

"In my opinion, we cannot afford to abandon an effective involvement in the field of higher education in America," he said.

Mixed-Drinks Big Tourist Attraction?

DALLAS (AP) — Legalizing liquor by the drink in Texas could boost annual tourist spending to $2 billion within two or three years, John Cace, president of the Texas Restaurant Association, predicted Monday.

City Recreation Program Reports Attendance Up

A baiky bus has slowed the Citywide Summer Recreation program to some degree, but attendance was picking up at mid-week.

More and more parents were bringing their youngsters to the City Park at 8:30 a.m. for the closely supervised program of varied activities.

The swimming program, from 11:15 to 12 noon, was launched Tuesday as a part of the activities, said Mike Harris, director.

He has on hand a large staff of trained adults to work with the children (six years and older) in a program ranging from arts and crafts to activity games, from trampoline to story-telling.

Similar programs also are being conducted at Lakeview and at the Northeast City Park. Parents are urged to enroll their children for these supervised periods of recreation. There is no charge, although it is suggested that those who are able, make a $1 contribution to cover the bare cost of materials for arts and crafts.

Connally Denies Sending Rangers To Lower Valley

DALLAS (AP) — Gov. John Connally said Tuesday that he didn't send the Texas Rangers to the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

He also accused "some people" of making political hay of the labor unrest in the Valley.

Connally said "Col. (Homer) Garrison sent them (Rangers) just as he has a hundred times before. They're there to enforce the law and they're not there to take sides."

"There are always charges of Ranger brutality and always those who will take political advantage of it."

He said he would probably decide "within a couple of months" when to call a special session of the legislature adding he doubted the session would be scheduled this year.

Liquor by the drink may be included in the agenda, he hinted in a speech to the convention of the Texas Restaurant Association.

"I'm going to keep fighting for it in the future," he said. The statement drew thunderous applause.

"We came pretty close to passing the bill," he told the conventioners who are meeting with members of the Texas Motel Association.

Asked in the short news conference if his relations with Lt. Gov. Preston Smith were stable, he said, "Considering he might run for governor, yes we're still stable."

Keel Named Budget Chief

AUSTIN (AP) — Thomas Keel has been promoted from acting director to director of the Legislative Budget Board.

Keel was named acting director last year after Vernon McGee, director for 16 years, was ousted in a successful maneuver by Speaker Ben Barnes, vice chairman of the board.

The promotion was made at an unannounced board meeting May 30, the day after the regular legislative session adjourned. No announcement was made of Keel's appointment.

Keel's promotion was made effective June 1, with a $20,000 salary.

He is a 1952 graduate of the University of Texas. Keel worked at the Texas Education Agency three years before joining the Budget Board staff.

The board consists of the presiding officers of the House and Senate, plus chairmen of the taxing and spending committees of each house and two other members of the House and Senate.

Barnes, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith; Sens. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo and A. M. Aikin of Paris; and Reps. W. S. Healy of Paducah, and Ben Atwell of Dallas, are serving on the board. The other four members have not been appointed yet.

Charles and Eddie and the Country Ramblers of Sweetwater will play for the dance each night from 9-12 o'clock.

Tommy Marricle, Colorado City, will be the rodeo announcer.

Lots Of Leg In Kicky Fashion Extension

A lady loses no womanliness when she wears these fashion extensions that have nothing to do with "wearing the pants." Very feminine is the costume at left, a prism patterned nylon culotte at-home costume by Gayle Kirkpatrick, and appealingly glamorous is the blue poppy patterned toga over matching tights by Chuck Howard of Townley.

GET KICK OUT OF CLOTHES

Have Freedom While Maintaining Modesty

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—If you get a kick out of clothes, or if you like clothes that are kicky, you were born at the right time—and we presume at the right age.

Forget the big brouhaha over whether pants make a man out of you, when womanliness is your goal.

The divided skirt doesn't have to be a tweedy trouser leg with cuffs and a crease down the middle. Nor does a show of legs necessarily mean a display of both curvy gams at the same time. Given the proper materials, some designers can create imaginative costumes that give a girl the freedom of movement she wants while maintaining her modesty without taking a whit away from her femininity.

Gayle Kirkpatrick and Chuck Howard, for example, selected brightly colored bolts of enkaulure nylon, a man-made knitted fabric that drapes without clinging embarrassingly, or gathers or pleats without forming unflattering bulk.

Each designed a costume to illustrate the way they would like to see women dressed for at-home entertaining. Each, in a different way, gave her plenty of leg movement. After all, a hostess has to get around more than her guests. But it's her party and she ought to be queen of it, absolutely the most glamorous of women there.

Kirkpatrick's scheme is a strapless culotte. The gathers fall from the bra-like band at the top. A cape of the same prismatic print wraps around the shoulders to ward off the air conditioning, or hugs the head in case the home body cares to venture past her threshold later on.

A one-shoulder toga is Chuck Howard's idea of how to be dramatic though comfortable. One side opens from the shoulder to the hem. However, under all are skin tights of the same pattern of bright brilliant blue poppies on white ground. All in all, the effect is graceful and eye pleasing.

A girl owning either of these would have no kicking coming. But she could, with ease, if she wanted to.

Mays Delivers, Houston Falls

Willie Mays, usually a starter, surprised no one by turning out to be quite a relief hitter, but relief pitcher Phil Niekro stunned everyone by proving himself no slouch as a starter. "I'm still pinching myself," said Niekro, whose knuckleball fluttered Atlanta by Philadelphia 1-0 Tuesday night in his first start after 24 relief appearances. Mays, who entered the game in the sixth inning, took his success as a substitute more nonchalantly, as usual, after hitting a grand slam in the 10th inning to boost San Francisco over Houston 6-2. "Grand slams don't make any difference to me," he said. "Winning ball games does." Elsewhere, the Cincinnati Reds and New York Mets were still pinching themselves over rookies Gary Nolan and Tom Seaver. Nolan blanked the Mets 6-0 on six hits before Seaver halted the Reds 7-3 in a two-night doubleheader. Another rookie, Dick Hughes, held off Pittsburgh as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pirates 7-4, and Ron Santo's home run

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Zeke Bonura, who bossed the Midland entry in the old Longhorn league after Harold Webb decided it wasn't worth the struggle, was identified around the big leagues as a fellow who could catch lightning in a bottle at bat but who couldn't flag down a basketball with a butterfly net. Zeke was accused of being all thumbs as a thinker, too. The Chicago White Sox ultimately weighed his bat against his fielding deficiencies and concluded they could survive without him. Washington, it developed, was so desperate for help it agreed to take Bonura. Coach Bing Miller went to Jimmy Dykes, then manager of the White Sox, after Bonura had packed his bags and melted into the night-expressing concern because Zeke knew their signs.

"He didn't know them when he was with us," retorted Dykes, "Why should we change them now?"

Seven Texans, or boys trained in Texas, including Big Spring's Charley Johnson, will go to pro football camps in either the NFL or AFL this fall as No. one quarterbacks. The others are Don Meredith (Cowboys), King Hill (Eagles), Frank Ryan (Browns), Don Trull (Oilers), Randy Johnson (Falcons), and Karl Sweeten (Lions). Johnson, of course, will be with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Hank Bauer, manager of the Baltimore Orioles, said: "Best advice I ever got on hitting came from Johnny Mize. He told me a batter will get his pitch twice a game, and when you do, don't foul it up."

Jerry Green, the Country Club golf pro here, now has 11 carts available for rental. Another 24 kept at the club are owned by members.

Someone asked Willie Stargell, the Pittsburgh slugger, not long ago what his biggest thrill in baseball was. "The day Sancy Koutax announced his retirement," Stargell replied.

Melton McMorries, the Martin county fight impresario, was told recently that Scrapiron Johnson, who at one time fought under Melton's aegis, put up more resistance in his bout with Joe Frazier than any other opponent Frazier has fought. Johnson, now fighting out of Los Angeles, went ten rounds with the promising Philadelphia.

A total of 901,813 boys played high school football in this country last fall, according to a survey conducted by the National Federation of High Schools.

Basketball players numbered 687,263 while track and field lured a turnout of 599,979.

Texas boasts more high school footballers than California or any other state in the union, even though California claims half again as many people.

There were 94,302 high school boys playing the game in this state, compared to 82,650 in California, 73,900 in Pennsylvania and 46,800 in Ohio.

Lubbock Christian College will field one of the Western Conference's tallest basketball players next season in freshman David Nash of Floyd, N.M., who stands 6-8.

Nash is far from a polished performer now but coach Larry Rogers is sold on his potential. LCC's best new signee probably is Wiggle DeFreeze of Hobbs, N.M., a 6-2 performer who played a leading role in an early season win over Big Spring last year.

Detroit Wins Nightmarish Game, 15-10

By The Associated Press

Making a little go a long way is nothing to be ashamed of, but the Detroit Tigers and Minnesota Twins were stretching the point Tuesday night.

"I sat right there and saw it, and I don't believe it," said Detroit Manager Mayo Smith after the Tigers snapped a five-game losing streak by chopping and slicing their way to a 15-10 verdict over the Twins.

Fifteen runs were scored — 10 by Detroit — in an hour-long sixth inning marked by the absence of an extra-base hit.

"It was one of the worst games I've ever played in," the Tigers' Al Kaline said after what started as a pitching duel between Dennis McLain and Dean Chance turned into a Punch and Judy fiasco.

The win was the third in four starts for the Angels while the Red Sox are 3-2. Mike Gamboa authored the mound victory while Johnny Sevey was the loser.

The Angels outthrew the Sox, 7-6, with David Hanson and Mike Gamboa getting two blows each. Brad Cedarburg had two hits.

The Twins then batted around in their half of the sixth, scoring five runs — the last three when center fielder Mickey Stanley dropped Bob Allison's two-out fly ball with the bases loaded.

In all, there were 10 singles, five walks, one hit batsman, three errors two wild pitches and a passed ball in the full inning.

Detroit then pulled away with a three-run salvo in the seventh as Dick McAuliffe homered, Wert tripled, Kaline doubled and Horton singled.

The Tigers wound up with 19 hits, the Twins with 12. Jim "Catfish" Hunter hurled a four-hitter for his second successive shutout as the A's shaded the Orioles and hard-luck left-hander Steve Barber.

Two walks and Bert Campaneris' double in the second inning produced the game's only run. Hunter struck out six and allowed only one runner past first base. Barber yielded three hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The White Sox blanked Washington behind Tommy John's three-hit pitching and a three-run homer by Ron Hansen. John fanned nine Senators in breezing to his fifth victory in eight decisions.

Hansen's homer capped a four-run rally in the sixth after Ken Berry extended his hitting streak to 17 games with a run-scoring single.

Tom Tresh slapped two singles and a double, driving in two runs to help the Yankees top Boston and snap a four-game losing streak. Steve Whitaker also had three hits for New York while Fred Talbot and reliever Dooley Womack checked the Red Sox.

Don Mincher drove in three runs with a double and single. Jimmie Hall hit a two-run homer and pinch hitter Bubba Morton stroked a two-run single in California's twilight victory over the Indians.

Frazier Is Favored To Defeat Chuvalo

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten Joe Frazier was made an early 8-5 favorite over George Chuvalo today for their significant 12-round heavyweight fight at Madison Square Garden July 19.

The matchup of the heavyweight contenders figures to be a war as long as it lasts. It pits a young puncher in the 23-year-old Frazier against an iron-jawed, body banger in the 29-year-old Canadian champion Chuvalo.

Frazier, the 1964 Olympic champion from Philadelphia, has a 16-0 record as a pro, including 14 knockouts. Chuvalo, never stopped or floored, has a 29-46-13-2 record, including 39 knockouts.

The durable Canadian has won 11 straight by knockouts over mediocre opponents since he lost a 10-round decision to Argentina's Oscar Bonavena a year ago. On March 29, 1966 he lost a 15-round decision to heavyweight champion Cassius Clay at Toronto.

Frazier has demonstrated he can punch and can fight back after being tagged. Bonavena floored him twice in the second round last Sept. 21 but the Philadelphia rallied to win a split decision.

The winner of the television fight will be in a key position for any possible elimination tournament although the Garden's Harry Markson said "we've carefully avoided labeling this as part of a tournament. We hope to match the winner against another outstanding heavyweight."

Label or not, the winner will have to be reckoned with in determining any successor to Clay-Muhammad Ali.

Frazier is ranked second by the World Boxing Association and fourth by Ring Magazine. Chuvalo is ranked 10th now by the WBA after being rated fifth a month ago. Ring rates him fifth.

The Angels matched a run scored by the Red Sox in the fifth inning to notch a 4-3 Sophomore Teen-Age league win here Tuesday night.

The win was the third in four starts for the Angels while the Red Sox are 3-2. Mike Gamboa authored the mound victory while Johnny Sevey was the loser.

Barr Named Cage Coach

KERMIT — Kenneth Barr, one-time Lamesa athlete, has been named head basketball coach at Kermit High School.

A graduate of Howard Payne College, Barr succeeds Dwayne Turner, who resigned to take another position on the staff.

Barr was coach at Matador for two years and has been associated with the Lamesa staff the past two years. He is 26 and he and his wife have two children.

Kermit finished last in District 2-AAA standings last season. Barr is attending Washington State University this summer, majoring in mathematics.

Jones To Attend Abilene School

ABILENE — Hubert Jones, star quartermiler for Lubbock Christian College the past spring, plans to enroll at Abilene Christian College here this fall.

Jones won the Western Conference quarter mile but placed third in the Nationals. He had a 47.6 clocking in the event.

Jones attended Memphis High School.

The Angels won the nightcap behind rookie Rick Clark, who ended a personal six-game losing string with relief help from Bill Keiso. Four Cleveland errors contributed to the Angels' seventh victory in their last eight starts.

Winnipeg, Man. (AP) — Joe Harper, center forward, scored five goals Tuesday to lead the Scotland Nationals to a 7-2 victory over Canada's National team in an exhibition soccer game.

Yanks Win 13th League Verdict

The Lions had no difficulty winning their 13th National Little League game in 14 starts here Tuesday night. They belted the Yankees, 8-1, behind the stellar two-hit pitching of Terry Pate.

The Lions struck for two runs in the initial inning, added one in the third, three in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Pate lost his shutout in the second when Bob Bradshaw crossed the plate. Bradshaw and Jerry Dunn had the only hits for the Yankees.

Links Luminaries Ready To Revolt

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Julius Boros added their names today to the protesting petition and a player tournament committee said all name golfers were ready to revolt unless their demands were met by the Professional Golfers Association.

"We now have every known player on the petition except Bill Casper and Doug Sanders," said Doug Ford. "Both of them have told us privately that they are in sympathy with our stand. We are now ready for a showdown."

Ford, a member of the four-man players tournament committee, said Palmer, the game's leading all-time money-winner and Boros, two-time National Open champion, had affixed their names to the petition.

"We now have 150 players on the paper demanding a stronger voice in the conduct of the tour," the veteran New York professional, a former PGA champion, said after an unsuccessful conference with PGA officials.

In a seven-part petition the players are demanding that the PGA Executive Committee be deprived of an arbitrary veto and that the players be given a right to schedule their own tournaments and hire the men who run the show.

If these requests are not granted by June 15, the players' petition said, the touring pros will boycott the PGA National Championship, scheduled at Denver, Colo., July 20-23.

The PGA, which has built and promoted the tour into a $4.5-million enterprise, insists it will not yield.

"We have scheduled a meeting in Cleveland next Tuesday," said Max Elbin, Washington, D.C., president of the PGA and teaching pro of the famed Burning Tree Course where Presidents play.

"We refused to sit down with five or six players. We want to talk with all of them. We feel that many of the players are under a misunderstanding on what is taking place."

"The issue is simple," Elbin continued. "What they want is control. We cannot sit still for that."

A group of the players and their attorneys, William and Charles Buffalino, met with PGA officials at Baltusrol here Tuesday where golfers are preparing to compete in the 67th National Open Championship starting Thursday.

The 1-hour meeting ended on a note of bitterness, with both sides saying the other walked out.

BILL RICHEY R. S. HIGGINS

Pulattie, Richey, Higgins Added To Coaching Staff

The Big Spring coaching staff has been bolstered by the addition of three coaches.

The new men are Frank Pulattie, former Waco grid great, named head tennis coach and ninth grade mentor in football; Bill Richey and R. S. Higgins Jr.

Pulattie comes here from Kermit while Richey and Higgins were with head coach Spike Dykes at Belton last year.

Higgins knows this area well, having grown up in Stanton. He coached with Spike two years ago at Coahoma.

Higgins will head up the ninth grade track program locally while Richey will coach ninth grade basketball.

Pulattie, who attended SMU, succeeds Jim Kuykendall as head tennis coach of the Steers. Kuykendall resigned at the end of the past school term.

All three new men will work with ninth grade football in the fall. The ninth grades move into the high school building in September.

Richey holds a bachelor's degree from McMurry College. He has had one year experience, having been employed at Belton during the 1966-67 school term. Higgins graduated from Texas A&M.

Pulattie proposes to carry on an eight weeks summer tennis development program which is to be open to elementary and junior high school students. For this special work he will be paid $125 per week.

Fight Is Set For Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Promoters of the postponed world welterweight championship bout said today they were "going to put this fight on if we lose another $43,000."

The fight between champion Curtis Cokes of Dallas and undefeated Gypsy Joe Harris of Philadelphia was scheduled for June 27 at Dallas Memorial Auditorium.

Kenneth Hayles and Tommy Builock said Tuesday the fight was postponed to July 24 after RKO canceled plans to televise it.

Last month the two Dallas promoters lost an estimated $40,000 in staging the Cokes-Francois Pavilla championship bout here.

Hayles said he thought he had a firm commitment with RKO but he said, "They kept putting off the actual signing of the contract."

Only official action taken was the board's approval of the purchase of up to $10,000 football equipment at once in order to insure the material being on hand in time for the season opening.

Most of the figures read and discussed were apparently satisfactory to the board and there was no indication of any major revisions likely in the overall budget.

Dykes told the board that total athletic receipts in 1966-67 were $31,213.88. He expressed the hope that this year's receipts would be better. The ten football games in which the Big Spring team played last season drew 45,822 spectators. Gross receipts were $49,692.50. Net receipts after expenses were $44,078.24. Big Spring's share was $22,039.11. Other receipts from football were about $5,000. Basketball receipts were around $3,500.

Dykes' forecast of 1967-68 receipts was $29,275 with football the ensuing season calls for a total of $25,033.05. This covers the 9th grade and the Gollad and Rannels teams.

He told the board he would need $12,013.05 for football equipment this year. A list of all of the items he plans to purchase was presented to the board. Total travel expenses for the A and B teams of the high school will run about $1,550 for the season, Dykes said. His football budget is about $900 more than last year.

Basketball budget for the ensuing year will be $6,394 which is slightly more than the budget in 1966-67.

Baseball will cost $4,476 compared with $3,026 last year. Volleyball budget is $3,056 compared with $2,920 for the 1966-67 year.

Golf is pegged at $1,185. The budget last year was $700.

Tennis will have a budget of $1,975 compared to $1,052 for this past season.

Track budget is $5,925. Last season's budget was $5,371.

A swimming budget of $1,743 is included in Dykes' list compared with $4,060 for 1966-67.

Total budget, plus game contracts, will be $89,783.

Tennis Group May OK Open Tournaments

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Lawn Tennis Association, long a foe of open tennis tournaments, has softened its stand—but are the professionals interested?

That is the big question as the USLTA directed its two voting delegates at the International Lawn Tennis Federation meeting in Luxembourg July 12 that they were free to vote as they wished on the touchy subject.

But sources close to the touring pro tennis players said they probably would not be interested in competing against amateurs unless the prizes were worthwhile. Pros and amateurs regularly compete in open golf tournaments, such as the United States Open, which starts Thursday at Baltusrol in New Jersey, or the Masters in Augusta, Ga.

The USLTA held a special meeting here and voted by a substantial majority that Robert J. Kelleher, Beverly Hills, Calif., the president, and Lawrence Baker, New York, were to go "uninstructed" to Luxembourg.

"I have always been characterized as being for open tennis," said Kelleher. "I have always felt it would come some day. It was not a question of whether but of when."

"Mr. Baker would be characterized as not being for open tennis, but this year he has no open mind. We are going to do something for United States tennis."

England has already asked the ILTF for permission to stage one open tournament as an experiment and Australia has asked the ILTF to grant each member nation permission to stage one tournament.

"We want to be able to discuss and consider open tennis proposals at this ILTF meeting and to decide on merit any suggestions or proposals that come up," Kelleher declared.

The action taken at the special meeting here in effect rescinds a strong resolution passed Feb. 2, 1963, in which the association "declares of record its opposition to the principle of open tennis and instructs its officers and its delegates to the ILTF to oppose any changes in the rules of the ILTF which permit the holding of open events."

Stars Defeat Hawks, 6-2

Three runs in the first inning got the Stars off on the right foot as they sped to a 6-2 American Little League victory over the Hawks here Tuesday night.

The Stars are currently 6-8 in the race while the Hawks dropped to 9-6.

Mitt Parker, on the mound for the Stars, parceled out only two hits to the Hawks and fanned seven. The Stars drove out six blows. No one in the game had more than one safety.

Board Approves $10,000 Outlay

Athletic budget for the Big Spring school system for the 1967-68 year has been tentatively set at $89,793.11. This is not the final figure and is subject to some adjustment.

Spike Dykes, athletic director, was at the meeting of the board of trustees of the school district on Tuesday night and went over the figures with the members.

BRAVURA ON BIKE— It takes a special kind of skill to ride a bike in this fashion and Joe Myers of Glasgow, Ky., has it. When you're young, a spill doesn't matter.

GUESSING GAME— At this point they're just a hatful of peafowl born at Homosassa Springs, Fla. They'll either become beautiful peacocks or just peahens.

AT FIRST MEETING— Lt. F. E. Reynolds is the recipient of some affectionate licking. It was the Dalmatian pup's first day at fire department station in Orlando, Fla.

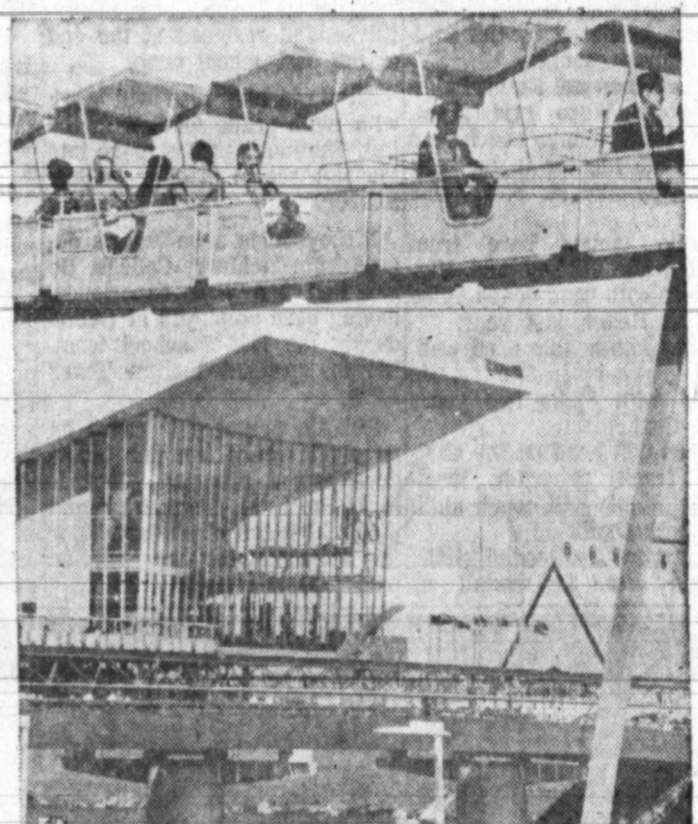

SOUND THAT RESOUNDS— Even the cows stand still when Friedrich Flueckiger gives forth with this mighty Alphorn at Luetzelfluh, Switzerland. Blowing this horn is a classic tradition in the tiny country. It requires skill and lots of lung power.

SPEED ILLUSION— They may appear to be riding tandem but it's really two motorcyclists vying for lead on the Coronado Raceway track at Albuquerque, N.M.

HEADS POLICE— Yuri Vladimirovich Andropov, 52, is the new head of the Soviet secret police. Andropov has spent most of his career as an expert in foreign affairs.

THE HIGH VIEW— You can do Expo 67 on foot but there's another way, the mini-train. Here it wends its way past the Soviet Pavilion in the background.

HEADY STUFF— It was boomy within but Perry Ricci caused the spectators to look twice as he came by with his drum in school safety parade in Washington.

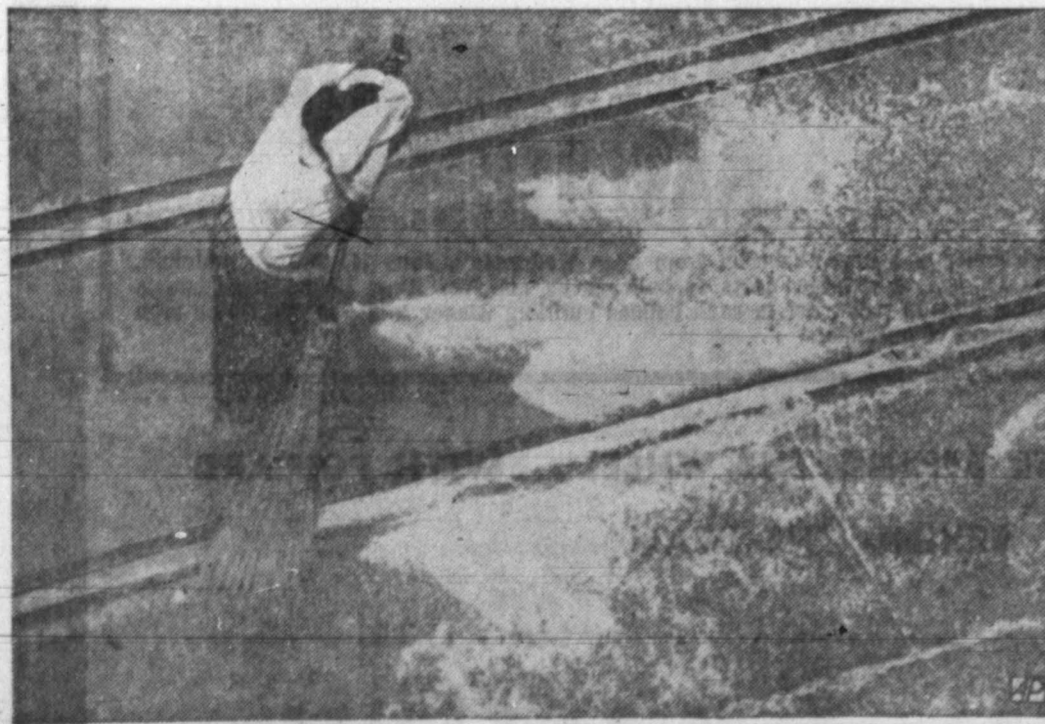

GREEK LEADER— Col. George Papadopoulos, the intelligence officer who was the brains behind the military coup, appears to be developing as the future dictator of Greece.

SUDS ON SET— It may be an unglamorous moment but Shelley Winters shampoos her tresses for scene for "The Scalphunters" being filmed in Durango, Mexico.

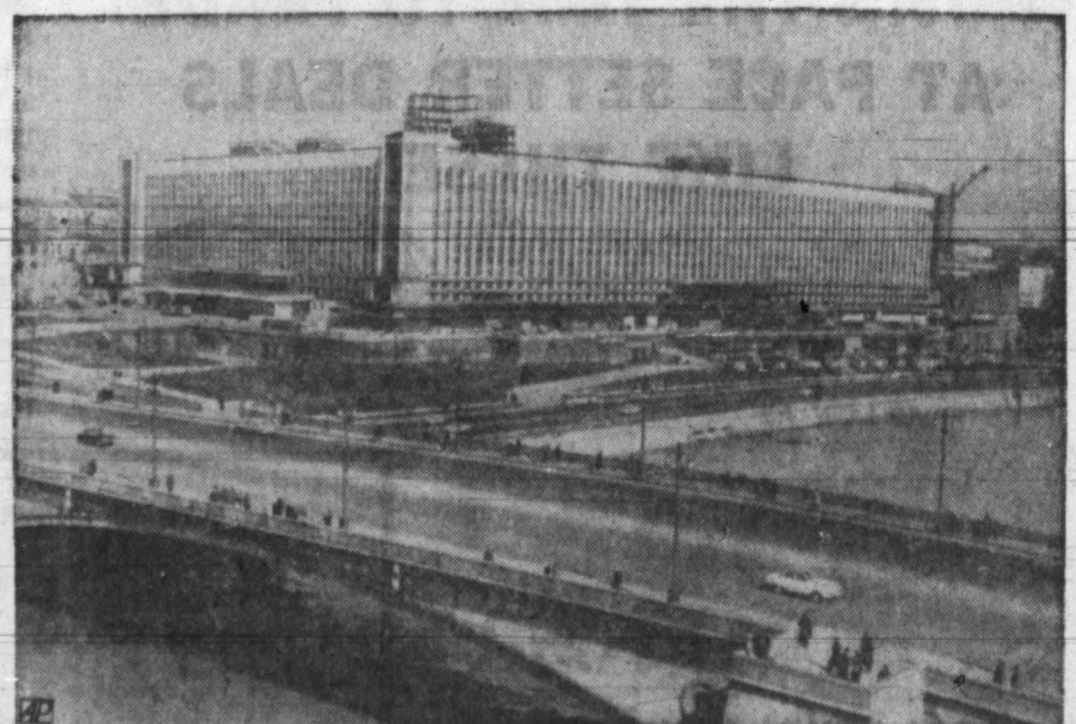

ROYAL SIGHTSEER— Spanish Prince Juan Carlos examines some old dance figures of barrel-makers during visit to the Munich municipal museum in the Bavarian capital.

'TAKE HOME' PAY— An Indonesian woman sweeps up some of the American rice lying in area after unloading from ships at Jakarta docks. The dock workers deliberately spill some rice to supplement their meagre pay. It is gathered up and taken home.

INGENUITY— Elizabeth Taylor and her coiffeur "created" an evening headdress in keeping with the Egyptian fad in Paris. It's a brooch mounted on a hair mass.

RISING OVER RIVER— Building complex facing the Moscow river is the Hotel Rossia in the Soviet capital. Main building will have 1080 suites for approximately 2,000 people. The hotel's highest section, under construction, will be 24 stories high.

'MAKES US FEEL A REAL PART OF WEST TEXAS'

Neighborly Borden Visit

By SAM BLACKBURN

GAIL—Borden County residents sometimes get the impression they are regarded as orphans by their neighbors in other West Texas counties, Borden County Judge C. C. Nunnally told a group of Big Spring business and professional men and women here Tuesday.

NEIGHBORLY

"It takes a visit like this and a neighborly gesture such as you good people have made today in coming to see us that makes us feel we are a real part of the community of counties in this part of Texas," said the judge.

Judge Nunnally's remarks were made at the dam of Gail's city lake, where the visitors stopped briefly on their one-day tour of ranches and farms in Borden County.

Thirty-seven Big Springers aboard a chartered Continental bus, made the trip under the aegis of the agricultural and the retail committees of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

A highlight of the trip was the barbecue dinner served at Gail in the Posse House, with the Big Springers as hosts to Gail County ranchers and officials. Eighty-seven persons took part in the dinner.

NO PROGRAM

There was no set program at the luncheon. Jimmy Taylor, chamber of commerce agricultural committee chairman, introduced his coworkers, George Weeks of the retail committee, and Gerald Miller, with the U.S. Soil Conservation service here.

Miller arranged the route, made contacts with the ranchers whose places were visited and served as commentator on the tour.

Each diner then introduced himself and told his address and occupation.

The tour was much like the one staged last year in Glasscock County. Emphasis at that time was on the rich irrigation district around St. Lawrence.

PRACTICES

This year, the visitors saw ranching operations and soil practices more than farming. Stress was on the work landowners have pursued to eliminate mesquite from the rangelands and their efforts to re-grass areas which have been denuded by excessive use.

The visitors were told that of the more than 450,000 acres of rangeland in the county, perhaps 350,000 were heavily infested with mesquite. Mesquite saps the land of moisture and destroys the grass.

Ranchers have made effective use of aerial sprays to kill the mesquite and have followed this, where adequate "kills" were achieved, with root plowing.

RESEEDING

Reseeding the pastures to grass is well under way on many ranches and the tour was arranged so that the Big Springers could see land being ruined by mesquite; land where the first steps to eliminate the pest have been taken; and other lands where the program is completed and new grass is beginning to grow.

Initial visit was to the farms of Vernon and Jack Wolf where a new system of parallel terraces has just been completed. This method of terracing is expected to be of tremendous benefit in conserving water and combatting erosion in this country.

At the Bill Wilson ranch, the visitors saw many acres of land redeemed from mesquite and inspected regrassing operations which are already proving effective.

HEAVY RAINS

Heavy rains of last weekend in Borden County were much in evidence and water stood in borrow ditches and trickled down ravines and ditches. Washing developed on some of the land. Wilson said that water gaps in his fence lines had been washed out for the first time since 1939. Another Borden County rancher, Mert Jones, said his ranch has had seven inches of rain in the last 10 days.

At Gail, the tourists were taken on a quick tour of the Borden County Courthouse. This structure, spotlessly clean and cooled by central air conditioning is probably almost unique in small county seats such as Gail.

The county's historic jail, built 80 years ago and still in use, was visited. The jail was declared a Texas historic shrine several years ago and a plaque so designating it is attached to the heavy steel front door.

MUSEUM

Borden County Historical Society's Museum, which is housed in the old Doward Drug store, was given a thorough inspection by the visitors. They found the effective display of hundreds of mementoes of early days in Borden County and West Texas most engrossing.

Luncheon was then served at the Sheriff Posse building in Gail.

The tour made a side trip to the Gail City Lake located a few miles northwest of the town. This lake, which supplies the community with water, was built about two years ago. It had the unusual distinction of filling within days of its completion.

Final stop was the Rich Anderson Muleshoe ranch just north of Vealmoor. Here heavy rains had so washed ranch roads that it was decided to cancel a visit to the ranch's famous quarter horse herd. This ranch was pointed out as the outstanding example in this part of the country where eradication of mesquite and restoration of grass has been most effectively carried out.

WILD GAMES

The ranch abounds in wild game and en route back to the highway, the bus passed within a few hundred feet of a herd of five antelope.

One tourist who took special interest in the trip was Oiva Knuutila, young Finnish exchange student, who leaves soon for his homeland. Clad in typical Texas gear the youthful visitor was in the forefront at each stop and listened with rapt attention to all that was said of ranching and its problems.

The number of tourists steadily grew as the day advanced. Many joined at stopping points along the line. These included several visitors from adjacent counties.

TOURISTS

Those who boarded the bus here included Mayor Arnold Marshall, Jimmy Taylor, Gerald Miller, Bill Crooker, W. A. Reed, J. R. Stanley, Oiva Knuutila, Jeff Painter, Joe Dunn, Johnnie Walker, Tot Sullivan, William Belew, Dorothy Ragan, Conard Miller, E. P. Driver, Fred Eaker, C. D. Davidson, Delbert Donelson, M. J.

Teen Club Is Discussed

A delegation of teenagers and adults met with City Manager Larry Crow and City Attorney Tom Huckaby Tuesday afternoon to discuss the future of a teen club in Big Spring.

"What they presented to us was not a city problem, but a community problem," said Huckaby after the meeting. He said they advised the group to organize as a club in order to receive financial backing from organizations in the city.

Exams Slated

Applications for examinations for several positions are being asked by the Interagency Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners (411 N. Stanton, El Paso 79901). Included are aircraft hydraulic systems mechanic ($3.01 per hour) at Big Spring, San Angelo; also sales-store stock handler ($2.40) at Big Spring, San Angelo.

CARD OF THANKS

To our friends, neighbors and relatives we wish to express our sincere appreciation for sympathetic attention, beautiful floral tributes and other courtesies extended to us at the passing of our brother and uncle, Elvan L. Lane.
