LABOR DAY

Most Stores To Close For Holiday

One of the big long weekend holidays of the year is at hand—Labor Day—beginning Saturday. Big Spring will generally note the date with a holiday. While not all stores will be closed, a majority of the larger establishments in town will present shut doors to the public Sunday and Monday.

Public Offices Close

Public offices will be closed almost 100 per cent. This will apply to county, city and state. The Labor Day close down is traditional in Big Spring. Banks will be closed and the post office, in accordance with its time honored custom, will make no house to house deliveries. The windows in the lobby will be shut and only a skeleton crew will be on hand to cope with incoming and outgoing mail.

The sheriff's office will be the only agency in action at the courthouse. The police and the fire department, of course, will be functioning.

In fact, all peace officer organizations—county, state and municipal—will be on a special alert. The heavy traffic which hits the highways on long weekend holidays poses a severe threat of danger and a drive to avert, if possible, accidents is scheduled.

Early Press Time

The Herald will go to press early Monday, in order that its employees may have a part of the day off the job.

Lakes and resort areas are expected to be thronged. South Texas will be getting a large share of hunters who will trek there to start off the white winged dove shooting season.

Families will make trips to other cities or visitors will come here to take advantage of the last holiday before the schools and colleges get into full swing.

Holiday At Webb

Webb AFB will observe the day as an official holiday. Training programs will be dropped and only skeleton operational crews will be on hand to keep the functions of the base going.

Hospitals, of course, will be open. Motels and hotels will probably have a big day due to weekend visitors.

No Report On Loyds

MEXICO CITY — There was still no sighting reported this morning of the missing airplane which carried the John Howard Loyd family on a vacation tour of Mexico.

Miguel Angel Jara Monroy, search coordinator at the Mexico City Airport Command Center, said about 20 airplanes from Mexico City, 15 from Acapulco, and a number of military aircraft had participated in the search, which has been continually hampered by bad weather.

Bible Fund Swells

Experiencing its best day in number of donors and amount of contributions, the High School Bible Class Fund today reached $487.

The Big Spring Pastors Association expressed gratitude for the quick response and urged other friends to send in their gifts as soon as possible. This year's appeal was late in starting and therefore will be shorter than usual—but the need is as great as ever. Please mail or send yours to The Herald for grateful acknowledgement.

Sen. Kennedy Challenges Marine Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy challenges the contention of Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., Marine Corps more important than the plight of U.S. cities.

"That's a mistake," the New York Democrat said in an interview. "President Johnson has said we can fight the war and still act on our problems at home."

SERIOUS CRISIS

"Our first priority should be to our own people. We are on the brink of the most serious crisis since the Civil War."

"It seems to me we are devoting all of the resources required to the war in Vietnam but we are not doing so in respect to our domestic problems. There is no question that we have not done what we should have done for the urban and rural poor."

Greene told the American Legion convention Wednesday in Boston that if the United States does not stop the Communists in their promotion of world revolution "then our domestic problems and our pocketbooks are going to become mighty important in the future."

VIET OPTIMISM

The Marine Corps chief criticized what he said was an attitude of pessimism at home about the progress of the war. He said when he left Vietnam three weeks ago after his sixth visit there, "I left an atmosphere of optimism."

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., a leading Johnson policy supporter on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in another interview he thinks Americans are entirely too pessimistic about Vietnam. "We need confidence and patience," he said. "We not only are going to win the war but we are winning it now. No military expert I have talked to has given me any contrary report."

'WAR-ENDING PLAN'

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a critic of the Saigon military regime, said there is growing unrest in this country "based on a realization that our real objectives in South Vietnam are not appreciably nearer attainment than they have been during all the many years of our involvement."

And Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., proposed in a speech to the Legion convention that military leaders be directed to develop a "war-ending plan" for the use of ground, naval and air power "necessary to win as quickly as possible and bring our men home."

TOUGH TASK

"I see no prospect of early success under a policy of applying military pressure in a limited, gradual and piecemeal fashion," Stennis said. "We must face up to an unpleasant job and get it over with."

Kennedy said he had no reason to change his opinion that Sunday's South Vietnamese elections will be a fraud. Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said earlier the poll-watching mission of 22 prominent Americans sent to Saigon by Johnson "can't amount to a damn."

Aiken told an interviewer that appointment of the group was "a long shot on the part of the President to bolster his position" that the elections would be conducted fairly.

But Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, said he is encouraged "by the progress which has been made toward a representative government in South Vietnam." He said in a statement the Sunday elections should not be written off as a fraud.

Communist Mortars Hit Fourth Vietnam Capital

Britain Seeks To Skip Total Peking Break

LONDON (AP) — Britain, hoping to keep its listening post in Peking and its hold on Hong Kong, sought today to avoid a total break with Red China by offering to discuss normalization of relations following violent incidents in Peking and London.

There was no detectable sign, however, that the British expected the Chinese to agree to a message suggesting talks.

The offer Wednesday cabled by British Foreign Secretary George Brown to Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi, was seen primarily as an effort to prevent a further deterioration in relations at a time when British officials feel a change in China's leadership may be near and want observers on the scene.

No one would say so officially, but British officials are known to feel that Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung's campaign to purge his enemies is heading toward a climax in which his authority may diminish.

British officials declined to say whether Brown proposed a personal meeting with Chen or discussions through normal diplomatic channels.

The Foreign Office said Shen Ping, China's charge d'affaires in London, also was handed a copy of the message but refused to accept it.

The Peking-London feud has been over Hong Kong, the British southern coast. Local Communists, with encouragement from Peking, have been trying to gain the upper hand there.

After Britain ignored Red China's ultimatum to free Communist newspapers held on sedition charges, a mob burned out the British mission in Peking on Aug. 22.

Nazi Sniper Trial Slated

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — An Arlington County Court declined today to commit John C. Patler, accused of slaying American Nazi party leader George Lincoln Rockwell, to an institution for further mental examination.

Judge L. Jackson Embury, rejecting prosecution requests for further testing, based his ruling on a report submitted by three court-appointed psychiatrists that Patler was competent to stand trial.

Patler, a former Marine and once No. 4 man in the party hierarchy, has been charged with murder in connection with last Friday's sniper shooting of Rockwell on a shopping center parking lot near the party headquarters here.

Embury also noted during today's hearing a 10-year-old psychiatric examination describing Patler as a potential murderer and paranoid.

The judge then set a hearing for next Wednesday on a defense motion to reduce the $50,000 bail under which Patler has been held since his arrest an hour after the shooting. Embury said he will set a preliminary hearing later.

Rockwell's body was cremated Wednesday after his followers were unable to find a cemetery that would permit his burial. The party has turned to the American Civil Liberties Union in its bid to bury the cremated remains in a military cemetery.

UAW Convention Call Recommended

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers' national councils at Ford, General Motors and Chrysler recommended today calling of a special UAW convention to beef up the union's strike fund.

Identical resolutions passed at separate meetings of the councils called for the convention in the event one of the Big Three automakers is struck when contracts expire at midnight next Wednesday.

Egypt, Saudi Arabia Agree To Get Out Of War In Yemen

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Doubt was cast today on the effectiveness of a Yemen peace pact reached by Egypt and Saudi Arabia because they did not consult the warring Yemeni republican and royalist factions.

This came as the Arab summit meeting heard the first talk of a "political solution" with Israel. Summit sources said Egyptian Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt in a closed session took a less belligerent stance toward Israel, victor in the June war.

NOT SIGNED

Nasser also was the kingpin in the formula for ending the Yemen civil war, promising to withdraw his forces from Yemen who had been supporting the republican regime. In return, King Faisal of Saudi Arabia agreed to halt military assistance to the royalists, who have been fighting the republicans for five years.

"My government cannot consider itself bound by any agreement with which it was not associated and which it has not signed," declared Foreign Minister Abdel Aziz Sallam of the Yemeni republican regime.

The royalists also are known to have become increasingly disgruntled, by Saudi Arabia's attempts to make peace over their heads but are expected to go along with the accord.

If the formula fails, it will not be the first time an agreement to end the civil war collapsed. A peace plan concluded in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, in 1965, fell apart in a welter of recriminations.

Nasser and Faisal approved a plan calling for the formation of a three-power committee to supervise the passing out of hostilities. Sudan, Iraq and Morocco were named to the committee and planned to begin work immediately after the windup of the summit meeting Friday.

NO DATE SET

No date was set for the beginning of the withdrawal of Egyptian troops, who numbered about 40,000 in Yemen until a large contingent was moved out following the Middle East war in June.

Premier Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub of the Sudan, who served as mediator, said the dispute had been settled "in the interests of purifying the Arab atmosphere of political division."

WEDNESDAY EXPLOSION

Skipper Driver Burned Seriously

Skipper (William J.) Driver, 24, widely known young rancher and nationally prominent in junior rodeo circles, is in the Midland Memorial Hospital in serious condition as result of burns suffered at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

EXPLOSION

The son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Driver, who live south of Big Spring, young Driver was engaged in welding a pipe when an explosion occurred.

The sudden flare burned him over the entire upper torso — about 40 per cent of his body in all. The burns were described as second and third degree. He was taken to the Midland Memorial Hospital and immediately placed in the intensive care ward. He cannot be removed to any other hospital at this time, relatives here said.

Driver was at his ranch where he and his wife, the former Wanda Boatler, live. The ranch is about half way between Garden City and Midland.

Another man, not identified, was with Skipper when the blast occurred. He immediately placed the injured rancher in a car and rushed him to Midland. Mrs. Driver went with them.

Driver was wearing goggles as he worked at the welding job and these are credited with saving his eyesight.

He graduated from Texas Tech in June and has been living on the ranch since that time.

RODEO RIDER
Skipper was national president of the American Junior Rodeo Association for two terms and was widely known as a rider in the rodeos sanctioned by that organization.

Mrs. Boatler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Slick Boatler, Silver Heels Addition. She was a leader for many years in 4-H Club work in the county, and graduated from Texas Tech a year ago.

They were married earlier this year.

GIs Off Duty Told To Stay In U.S. Billets

SAIGON (AP)—Communist guerrillas dotted South Vietnam with pre-election assaults and terror attacks today, shelling a fourth provincial capital in as many days and kidnapping 39 draft-age men in another village.

With Sunday's presidential election only three days off, officials warned that worse Red violence was expected. Americans off duty were warned to stay in their billets.

U.S. Command announced the loss of two more warplanes over North Vietnam, maintaining a recent loss rate of more than one plane a day.

DEATHS DROP

The weekly casualty report reflected the current lull in ground fighting, with 125 Americans killed last week and 1,078 wounded. Both totals were up slightly from the previous week but were below the average of recent months.

Communist losses were 1,330, also below average, while the South Vietnamese had 101 killed and 367 wounded, well below the American figures and reflecting the increased role of U.S. troops in Vietnam.

LYING LOW

The latest terrorist attacks were scattered throughout the Mekong Delta, the Saigon area and the central provinces. The guerrillas were generally lying low in the far north after spectacular attacks Tuesday in which two dozen hit-and-run strikes were made and 997 prisoners were freed from the provincial jail at Quang Ngai.

Two American Army advisers and a U.S. government civilian employee were killed south of Quang Ngai when guerrillas caught two platoons of militiamen in a crossfire as they were trying to recapture some of the freed prisoners. A crewman of a U.S. rescue helicopter also was wounded, but the Viet Cong slipped away when Vietnamese army reinforcements arrived.

RALLIES HELD

The fourth provincial capital hit this week was the normally sleepy town of Phan Thiet, on the coast about 85 miles east of Saigon. Mortar shells began to fall at 1:30 a.m. and when the 15-round barrage ended a small child was dead and 11 civilians were wounded. About the same time a band of guerrillas entered the village of Cua Dai, 288 miles north of Saigon, and carried off 39 young men at gunpoint. The normal Communist tactic is to indoctrinate such captives and put them in Viet Cong units.

Despite Communist efforts, the election campaign appeared undisturbed. Rallies were held throughout the nation and international observers—including the 22 Americans sent by President Johnson—began to appear at offices and campaign meetings.

PLANES DOWNED

Military headquarters reported relatively clear skies over North Vietnam Wednesday, with 157 missions taking off from Thailand, South Vietnam and three carriers in the Tonkin Gulf.

The two planes downed were a Navy A4 Skyhawk jet and an A1 propeller-driven Skyraider lost to ground fire. The jet pilot was missing but a helicopter pulled the Skyraider pilot from the sea with Red shells falling all about.

Military headquarters said Navy pilots flew heavy strikes against installations above the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong while Air Force jets attacked the MIG airfield at Hoa Lac, 20 miles west of Hanoi.

MIGS PAINTED

Pilots returning from Hoa Lac reported no MIGs on the ground but said the Communists had painted the outlines of MIGs inside sandbagged revetments to decoy U.S. planes. They also painted bomb craters on the runway to give the appearance the field was out of action.

However, Air Force officers said the field was still being used, with some MIGs parked well outside the area for towing to the runway. They said the Red jets may come down from Red China and refuel at the field before taking off on missions.

Ghostly Catarina Was Planned As Dream City

By ED SYERS

The brush country's ghostly Catarina, toward Laredo, intrigued a wayfarer here recently. Particularly, the "decaying elegance" cupolas and tiled palms of its pillared mansion. What's the story? I can't list, let alone thank all who answered. For the town, Austin's Good Roadsman Weldon Hart: "There was a brief (mid-20s) day when Catarina was to be dream city of the Upper Rio Grande Valley, the arid country about, to bloom with artesian water. An 80-block townsite was marked, streets paved, waterlines laid. There wasn't enough water; the town dwindled... land reverted to ranch country."

For the mansion, its now-owner, T. E. Knott of Seguin: "This house was built in the early 1900s (long preceding the town) by Charles P. Taft, brother of upcoming President William Howard Taft. The Taft family owned and operated a huge farm and ranch property at Catarina. This house was headquarters (the President never got to see it). In the 1920s, Charles Ladd, a land promoter, acquired the Catarina for subdivision and built the town. He used the house as 'club' for the thousands who came to buy."

Much the same report comes from La Pryor's Mrs. Coleta Cox who made a special trip to tell you; from Kingsville's Mrs. John H. Oliver, whose Arkansas father was one of the first to arrive by train and bought land; also from San Antonio's John A. Kenager, whose dad worked with Landsman Ladd; and from Carrizo Springs' editor Mrs. Joyce Bradshaw, who has told the Catarina story thoroughly and well.

BOOMED AND BUSTED Stephenville's Mrs. Jack D. English knew those brush country town-breakings, saw the one at nearby boomer Los Angeles, when 1920 sky divers trailed Pioneer White Wings flour to mark their free fall... while you had barbecue and observed how citrus grew.

"What happened to Catarina," says Arkansas City, Kansas' Brian Boyne, "was what happened to many towns near the Valley — visions of citrus boom, then a water table gone and a depression come."

"If your friend had stopped in Catarina," adds San Antonio Expressman Fane L. Burt, "he'd have seen a hotel large enough to serve a much larger town, schools that could accommodate many times the students who now go to classes, a huge swimming pool, citrus as well as palm trees, a Model-T fire truck... and some really fine people."

Catarina was vast rancho, he pointed out, dating from Spanish title. It went through many hands, trying for green destiny that water could bring. The great Taft House was a milestone, U.S. President — connection or not. A milestone, like those grownover streets.

And the House? The Knotts bought it in 1954 with some surrounding land. "We furnished it in old-fashioned furniture (it's well preserved inside), use it for our hunting club. We have people stop and visit; when we're there, we're always happy to show it. And we're repairing outside."

Mailbox-Family Circle: San Antonio's Miss Niomah E. Sealy: "Have you any information on naming of the towns of Roscoe and Sealy?" (Note: Her father, fair question, was Roscoe Sealy)... Las Cruces, New Mexico's Ellen Dundon: "Is anything known of a John Flint or Flynt who left Beeville about 1884... about his possible death at Live Oak on the Pecos?"... Glen Rose's Mrs. L. C. Ross: "What is known of the founding of Chalk Mountain, between Stephenville and Glen Rose on US 87? My grandfather Benjamin C. Wilks went there in the '70s after Confederate service, married 'Harriet Young, daughter of Stephenville doctor... am hunting famous

Youth Gets Fast Action

Jackie Dan Murley, 17, may not regard it as a special distinction, but nevertheless he probably goes on record as the fellow charged with a felony complaint who got the speediest grand jury action in the history of Howard County.

Murley was arrested by city police at 1 a.m. Wednesday on a charge of having taken a car for a ride without the owner's consent.

At 1 p.m. Wednesday, Murley had been indicted for felony joy riding—the gravity of the offense being determined by the retail value of the vehicle "borrowed."

Meantime, Murley was still at the city jail. He had not, at the time the grand jury turned in the indictment to the district court, he was transferred to the county jail.

Murley, according to Wayne Burns, district attorney has been in difficulty with the law as a juvenile.

He allegedly took the car of Mrs. Merry Jo Bright, 1504 Johnson, from her driveway Tuesday night. He was arrested at 1 a.m. in the car after she had reported it missing.

Midway School To Have Only A First Grade

COAHOMA — Effective Tuesday, grades two, three and four will be shifted from Midway School to the Coahoma campus. In a called session Wednesday evening, the board of the Coahoma Independent School District analyzed the attendance in these grades at Midway and concluded unanimously that it was impractical to maintain the classes at Midway. The first grade, which has 31 enrolled, will continue to be taught on the Midway campus. Enrollment of the other classes, however, was too low to justify teaching units. The second and third had 13 each and the fourth 12. They will be combined with existing classes at the Coahoma campus after the Labor Day holiday, said W. A. Wilson, superintendent.

Bond Sales Dip Below

Sales of United States savings bonds dropped below the pace needed to attain the annual quota, reports from July show. Larson Lloyd, district chairman, said that sales in District 4 aggregated $99,932 for July, whereas a rate of about $117,000 per month is needed. For the first seven months of the year sales have amounted to $713,788, which is 51 per cent of the goal for the year.

Martin led with sales of $20,549 for the year, making 68 per cent of its quota. Howard, with sales of $398,332 has 57 per cent, followed by Dawson with $71,038, or 55 per cent. Others in order are Scurry $52,814 or 49 per cent; Mitchell $78,017, or 46 per cent; Andrews $38,106, or 42 per cent; Gaines $23,932, or 37 per cent. Dollar sales in July showed Andrews $3,004, Dawson $6,072, Gaines $3,642; Howard $60,432; Martin $2,336, Mitchell $6,764, and Scurry $17,862.

State sales in July reached $14,227,962, which made $98,079,008, or 84 per cent.

RIO TURNS MEAN

Flooding Rouses Ire Of Farmers

MISSION, Tex. (AP) — Farmers with flooded fields threatened legal action Wednesday as the rain swollen Rio Grande backed up from Anzalduas Dam into the Floodway Diversion Channel for the first time since 1958.

The normally calm river ran almost bank full from Rio Grande City to Brownsville Wednesday after 10 days of rain and flood water from the San Juan River turned the river mean and brown.

PEPPERS DAMAGED Bill Hardwicke, one of the owners of a farm bordering on the Rio Grande upstream from the jointly operated dam, said the Rio Grande flooded a 55-acre field of bell peppers valued at $4,600 Wednesday and menaced more crops along the bank.

Hardwicke, who said a group of farmers have told the International Boundary and Water Commission they plan legal action, called the backing up of water at Anzalduas "unjustified." He claimed that more water could be released from the dam without endangering inhabited areas downstream.

NO COMMENT "We are being flooded to protect Matamoros, Mexico," he said.

The river is expected to crest at Brownsville, just across from Matamoros, at 17 feet Monday. Flood stage for the sister cities is 18 feet. Residents of Matamoros have expressed concern that the river might flood there.

A. J. Moore, resident engineer for the commission, declined comment on the reported legal action. He said decisions such as the one to let the flood waters back up into the floodway are made by Commissioner Joseph Friedkin of El Paso.

Flood waters from the San Juan continued Wednesday to pour into the Rio Grande just west of Rio Grande City. Ralph Ross, assistant general manager at La Casita Farms, said the water level near Rio Grande City dropped Wednesday.

Flood Leaves 30 Homeless

BEATTY, Nev. (AP) — Some 30 persons were homeless today after a flash flood roared through this southern Nevada desert town wrecking houses and cars and washing out roads.

The flood hit the north part of the community hard late Wednesday night shortly after a cloudburst in the nearby timber mountains. Residents said three houses were destroyed.

The proprietor of the Exchange Club, where many of Beatty's 1,000 residents gathered after the flood, said all of the homeless had found temporary lodging. No injuries were reported.

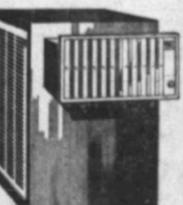

Nye County Deputy Sheriff Bob Mullins said the torrent was the worst in 25 or 30 years. "There were waves six or seven feet high coming across the highway," he said.

Assailant Jumps Ackerly Man

James Burns, 26, Ackerly, was listed in good condition today at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital from severe cuts received in an assault at 12:15 a.m. today.

Detectives said the alleged attack took place at 504 NE 11th. Burns was unable to talk early this morning, but officers talked to two witnesses, Tony Torres, Ackerly, and George Rojo, 405 NE 11th.

Both men said they were driving in Burns' pickup truck down Main Street on their way to Rojo's home. They said a man jumped into the back of the pickup, and when Burns got out of the truck, he was attacked by the suspect. He was allegedly kicked in the right eye and sustained a severe cut.

Dear Abby Asking For Trouble

DEAR ABBY: Through a club my husband and I belong to I recently met a handsome young, unattached man I'll call Randy.

First, let me tell you that I'm 5 feet, 1 inch, weigh 96 pounds, am bow-legged and have no figure to speak of. I am not witty or cute, or anything special. Take my word for it, I'm not being modest.

Anyway, this Randy person always greets me with outstretched arms, a big grin, and a compliment. He has told me I'm sweet, adorable, desirable, and 96 pounds of woman! I know he's feeding me a line, but after being married for nine years to a man who has never given me a compliment, it's delicious.

When Randy could have any woman at the club — single or married — what in the world does he want with me?

YOUNG AGAIN
DEAR YOUNG: He may want 96 pounds of (married) woman but I doubt that he wants the ton of trouble that would come with the deal in this case.

DEAR ABBY: Will you settle an argument for us? Do you think women dress to please men or to please other women?

TWO WOMEN
DEAR WOMEN: Which women? Some women dress to please their boyfriends or husbands, specifically. Still others dress in the latest fashions because they want to be "in." (They please only the merchants.)

The wisest woman of all knows what looks best on HER and she wears it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, living on a limited income. A neighbor of mine (and her children) are always asking me to buy tickets, chances, greeting cards, etc.

I simply can't afford to buy things I neither need nor want just to please her, but I am running out of excuses. The last time I refused, she told me I was "unneighborly."

Abby, I feel it is unneighborly of her to keep pestering me and putting me on the spot.

I don't enjoy refusing to buy. It's necessary. What is your opinion? CAPTIVE CUSTOMER

DEAR CAPTIVE: When you are asked to buy something you don't need and can't afford, simply say you can't afford it, and that should be the end of it. If you offer "excuses" instead of reasons, you'll continue to be pestered.

LBJ Frees Road Funds

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) — President Johnson told the Midwestern Governors' conference Wednesday he had ordered immediate apportionment of $4.8 billion of highway funds for the next fiscal year.

In a telegram to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, the host governor, he said: "I have today instructed the secretary of transportation to make immediately the apportionment of the highway fund for the next fiscal year. This means that $4.8 billion are now available for new highway planning and construction."

"None know better than you that money alone will not solve the basic problems of our states and cities. We must find better ways to combine local knowledge and local administration without national resources. Constructive and productive conferences such as you are just concluding take us a long way toward that goal and the country is in your debt."

Governor Hearnes read the wire to the conference at its final session.

Gov. Otto Kerner, Illinois Democrat, was elected chairman of the conference to succeed Gov. James A. Rhodes, Ohio Republican, Gov. Nils A. Boe, South Dakota Republican, was elected vice chairman, succeeding Kerner.

In its closing session, the conference went on record for federal-state revenue sharing and new directions in federal aid programs. There have been objections throughout the meeting to present policies imposing federal penalties on the states.

Another resolution supported pending congressional legislation to cut meat imports by 20 per cent.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, potential Republican presidential candidate, said this would not reach the real root of the farmers' problem—the high cost of producing machinery and other things the farmer must buy.

Kerner, who described himself as a free trader, said the import cut was only a temporary measure and would not solve basic import-export problems.

Thugs Told To Lay Off

ELECTRA, Tex. (AP) — "Get your cash somewhere else," admonished the three-column six-inch advertisement in the Electra Star-News.

Joe Matthews, co-owner and manager of an Electra lumber company, said he placed the ad as a way of telling thieves to lay off.

It read: "To the burglars, robbers and thieves who have broken into our office five times within the past six months.

"The safe is not locked. "And no money is kept in it overnight. Money is deposited in the bank's night depository slot and has been handled that way since you got the $81 from the bottom part of the safe.

"Stop breaking our windows and door glasses. Get your cash somewhere else."

Science And You

Mars And Medicine

—By DR. LEONARD REIFFEL

Would you believe that an X-ray of your chest and a picture of Mars have something in common?

You'll probably recall that a few years ago the United States scored a real space spectacular when we sent a spacecraft flying by Mars to take 22 close-up pictures of that planet. These photos revealed for the first time the pockmarked surface of the planet.

One of the reasons the final versions of those pictures were so good is that computer techniques were used to clean them up. When the photos came back by the radio over the millions of miles between Mars and Earth they were pretty "noisy." A noisy scientific picture from Mars looks very much like a TV picture from a weak or distant station. As a matter of fact, the Mars pictures had scan lines just as an ordinary TV image.

Therefore, a computer was programmed to clean up the Mars photographs on a point-by-point basis. It averaged the grayness in every tiny area to take out the scan lines; other special approaches were used to sharpen up edges and improve the contrast. This is by no means cheating or faking. The computer did its work on a very unbiased and cold-blooded basis, but the results were really remarkable. The clarity of the pictures was enhanced enormously so that details formerly hidden in the noise were made very apparent.

Obviously, if one can clean up a picture of Mars, one can also clean up other pictures.

And, where else are tiny details in a photo of great importance? One answer is in medical X-ray technique. On an X-ray plate, a doctor is looking for signs of changes in the density of tissue or other clues which might mean the difference between life and death to the patient. Here again, the computer can be asked to enhance changes in grayness of the image or sharpen edges of objects. All of these changes can make a diagnostic X-ray more readily interpretable. Application of such procedures to medicine is in its very early stages, but it's very likely that they will improve our ability to detect cancer by X-ray methods as well as to understand how other diseases progress — or might be responding to treatment.

One problem with such processing is that a picture contains a tremendous amount of information. Thus, a computer which has to make a separate calculation for every point in the photo has to work on one picture for a very long time. This makes the process extremely expensive. Other scientists are, therefore, looking for ways to use the equivalent of these computer techniques for cleaning up pictures. Not by handling each point in the picture individually.

A Devotional For The Day

Wherever I go, thank God, he makes my life a constant pageant of triumph in Christ. (II Corinthians 2:14, Moffatt)
PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for all Christian homes. Enable the young men and young women who go out from these homes to touch countless other persons with the contagion of their Christian faiths. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Congress Coy On Expense Vote

The U.S. House avoided a roll-call recorded vote in agreeing to increase its members' public - paid round trips home from five to 13. The Senate is likely to do the same if it decides to increase its members' seven paid round trips. Why the political shyness?
As congressmen are supposed to represent their constituencies' interests and views, regular visits to their home states and districts should have worthwhile democratic value. And it seems reasonable enough that they should be made at public expense as part of the legislative process. Also, a good many congressmen now make extra visits home at their own expense.
Coyness in voting themselves more salary or expense money has long been routine congressional politics. Members don't want to give challengers for their seats any peg for criticism. The extra shyness now, however, probably reflects awareness of voters' suspicion of the state of congressional ethics, a suspicion aggravated by recent shoddy incidents.

And the House's home trips bill is faulty on two counts. It doesn't remove the provision, as it should, that members can collect cash for unmade trips up to the allowed number. Why should the public pay for trips not taken? Also, the bill lacks adequate safeguards against duplicating public payment for trips for which expenses are otherwise paid, as by honorariums for appearances before special - interest groups.

The public should not mind covering legitimate expenses for representative government. But the popular suspicion aroused by this House action—and the way it was taken—is Congress' own fault, the failure to devise and enforce a strict code of ethics.

An Agency For Peace

In these days of increasing inflation and soaring costs, commodities and services that have chalked up price declines are rare indeed. If you were asked to name a price that had dropped nearly 40 per cent in 20 years, it is likely that you would give a decisive snort and say that no such thing exists. But, you would be wrong. The pioneer overseas airline, which recently completed its 10,000th round-the-world flight, charges 38 per cent less today than when this service was initiated in 1947.

It is cheering to note that while the world generally has been living in a period of strife and war, or near war, certain fundamental shifts in international relationships have been taking place that auger well for the future.

Much has been heard of the people-to-people programs of government and industries. These programs have been sponsored and encouraged in the hope of developing commercial ties and understanding between nations. Such efforts would have been mere gestures a few years ago, but the jet aircraft has made the people-to-people concept a vital reality. It is the 575-mile-an-hour jet's speed, for example, that today enables leaders of governments to be in cabinet meetings more than 6,000 miles from New York one day, then appear the next day before the United Nations to participate in delicate diplomatic debate aimed at maintaining world peace.

If the cataclysm of war can be staved off a few more years, the jet airplane may well become one of the mightiest practical implements of peace that has so far been developed.

How To Out-Flank Shriver

WASHINGTON — There's a famous military maneuver, the flanking attack, and Senator Joseph Montoya (D., N. M.) is using it against poverty czar, Sargent Shriver.

To understand what's going on, you have to know Joe Montoya, a Spanish-descended politician's politician. Not yet a headline Senator, he's one of the amiable and energetic reasons why the wheels of government turn as well as they do. Everybody talks about federally aided self-help, but Montoya has lived that story.

THE SON OF a Sandoval County sheriff, he worked for the Interior Department while putting himself through Georgetown University Law School. By do-it-yourself effort, he won election to the legislature at 21, became majority floor-leader at 23, and subsequently served four terms as lieutenant-governor before coming to the House of Representatives and in 1964 to the Senate.

Montoya's out-flanking movement against Shriver, the Senator explains, differs from the frontal attack — it's administrative rather than legislative. The Republicans in Congress are aiming to shatter Shriver's agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), by handing over its programs to the Departments of Labor, HEW and others. But the strategy-minded New Mexican says he's accomplishing the same thing in committee without having to rewrite the laws in the dubious battle of Senate debate.

"FOR INSTANCE," he says, "I found out that the economic develop-

Billy Graham

Should a Christian be ambitious and wish to be prominent? Or is this contrary to God? F.B. Lack of ambition would be fatal to anyone, Christian or not. Every one should have a normal amount of ambition. It takes ambition to make an honest living; to get up in the morning; to wash the dishes; even to mail a letter. So, let's not eradicate ambition altogether.

Selfish ambition is another thing. The heart of sin is ego or self-centeredness — this is what Christ meant by denial of self.

It can best be explained this way: If we are ambitious for self glory, this is wrong! If we want to become well known for the glorification of our ego, that is sinful, Paul said, "I (my ego) has been crucified with Christ." God looks upon our motives. For example, if we want to get a higher education just to inflate our pride, then the motivation is wrong. But if education is a means of serving God and others better, then desire is justified. So, anything that is selfish is wrong — anything that is for God's glory is right.

Our greatest ambition should be to glorify Christ, and to be conformed to His image.

LBJ's Formula For Handling The Budget

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress eventually votes an income tax increase it will be from conviction that the chronically borrowing U.S. economy can't stand competition from a government trying to float $29 billion in loans in a single year.

This technical, banker-like argument—more than fear of inflation or appeals to back the Vietnam effort—is the one apparently having the most impact on the House Ways and Means Committee as it continues its hearings on President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal.

THE ARGUMENT gains force from a painfully practical demonstration last year of what happens when money gets tight—when the demands for credit by the government and corporate borrowers press against the national total of savings and bank funds made available through the Federal Reserve System.

Interest rates soared. Worse, credit for some purposes simply dried up. Small businesses got elbowed aside in the scramble for loans and one big, basic business—housing—suffered as higher interest rates offered elsewhere sliced away savers' funds from the institutions that traditionally finance home building.

UNEMPLOYMENT in the building trades went up and industries associated with construction took fright. Students seeking government-backed college loans found banks uninterested.

Congressmen heard plenty from affected constituents and they haven't forgotten. So, for many of them, the prospect of the government, faced with a deficit on the order of $29 billion, having to go into the still not-too-easy market and soak up that much credit is simply not to be contemplated.

THOSE WHO CONTINUE to oppose Johnson's proposals usually take one of two positions. One is that the government could cut spending enough to bring the deficit down to manageable proportions—nobody thinks it can be erased —without a tax increase. At least, those who take this line insist, no tax increase should be voted until the administration has done much more budget-cutting than has yet been undertaken. A manageable deficit has been estimated at $10 billion to $15 billion.

Johnson's formula for handling the budget is to save some, tax some and borrow some. More and more, the argument in Congress appears to be not so much whether to accept or reject the formula, but in what proportions to spell it out.

Is Your Status Slipping?

NEW YORK (AP) —What is your status?

Having status in America is as important as saving face is in the Orient.

Without it you're a rimless human zero, a nothing, as undistinguished as a flyspeck in a Bowers restaurant. You have no more impact on the world than a figure in a wax museum.

But with status you're a somebody. You make echoes. In time they may even throw you a testimonial dinner at which you can eat for nothing.

SINCE STATUS is so important, naturally a fellow worries about achieving it and keeping it. It's the only way he can judge how he's faring in the modern rat race.

But how can a man tell whether his status is slipping? Here are a few warning signs that indicate you're on the way to becoming the low man on the totem pole:

The boss fidgets and looks the other way when you try to brighten up a dull conference with a funny story.

YOU HAVE trouble keeping cockroaches out of the briefcase in which you carry your lunch to work.

When you want to play golf, you always have to call somebody else up because nobody ever calls you.

If you try to join the office bowling league, each team captain tells you his team is full.

The office boy generally delivers your mail to the wrong desk—he hasn't taken the trouble to find out who you are.

IF YOU'RE an executive, the personnel department invariably tries to palm off the homeliest secretary on you.

When they send a memo around to be initialed by everyone on the staff, your initials are invariably near the bottom of the list.

At the country club the veteran bartender never tells you juicy gossip about the other members.

IF THERE'S a convivial gang gathered around the office water cooler, they break up when you approach.

If you compliment the minister on his Sunday sermon, he quickly lets go of your hand and looks over your head to see that the person standing behind you thought of it.

You've conscientiously attended P-TA meetings for five full years, rain or shine, but have yet to be asked to serve on a committee.

None of your coworkers ever tries to borrow or lend you money, aspirin tablets or paper clips.

IF YOU SWITCH to a new kind of shave lotion, not even your wife notices you smell different.

If you go to a masked ball, nobody wants to talk to you after you take your mask off.

Yep, those are sure warning signals that you are on the skids, socially and every other way. What can you do?

Well, anybody who has lost that much status can never really regain it. Maybe the solution for you is to move to the Far East—and try to save face.

To Your Good Health

Petit Mal Epilepsy—Should A Child Swim?

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our son, 8, is under daily medication for control of mild petit mal seizures. Our doctors told us not to divulge his condition to his school or any social organizations as immediately he would be termed an epileptic and perhaps not accepted.

My question is whether he could take swimming lessons. What if a seizure occurred, could he drown? Also, aren't these seizures chronic, and can only be controlled? Can a child outgrow them as we have been led to believe?—MRS. T. A.

I have just checked with experts from one of the epilepsy associations and there is one bit of information needed to answer your questions. How well controlled are the little boy's petit mal attacks now?

It is preferable, they tell me, to do as your doctors said: Make no mention of his condition at school or other organizations.

If the boy is still having attacks, that is a different matter. The situation will be obvious to people at school and you will not have to tell them — nor can you keep it secret.

But assuming that the medication is preventing further attacks, there is nothing to be gained by telling them, and the word "epilepsy" still carries such an undesired reputation that there can be harm.

In fact, experts advise that a child not be told the word epilepsy. It is better to refer to his spells, "as the case may be, or even 'convulsions' or 'attacks.' When he is in his teens, it is time enough to talk of epilepsy and the different varieties of it.

As to swimming, there is no reason why he should not learn. Sun and outdoor exercise tend to be helpful instead of the reverse. Let the swimming instructor know, confidentially, of his condition. If there is any possible chance of an attack while in the water, he will know what to do. Please discuss this specific question with your doctors. They know the child's condition.

In talking to the swimming instructor, I dare say it would be better to say that the youngster has had convulsive seizures in the past, and therefore should be watched — in case.

It is not always possible to predict whether a child will outgrow petit mal, or "small seizures." Sometimes it happens. More often he does not outgrow them, but if medication is now keeping them under complete control, there is every reason to expect that it will continue to do so.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for a copy of his helpful and comforting booklet, "Acne — The Teen-Age Problem." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

The Consumer Plugs The Loophole

Another round is coming up in the battle of Sunday closings, and those opposed to stores opening on Sundays may fare no better this time than the first time around.

THERE ARE rumors in the major metropolitan areas that stores have figured a way to have a change of ownership one day a week, in order to circumvent the latest Legislative move in this chess game.

On Sunday morning, an outside firm will lease certain stores, buy all the merchandise, open for business all day, then sell back to the former owners when the lease expires Monday morning. Of course, the store and its merchandise would be the same from one day to the next, the ownership change would satisfy the letter of the law.

AND WHILE a car dealer may not be able to sell a car on Sunday, he can talk to his prospects, then close the deal on Monday. It might hold true as well for salesmen of a number of other items.

It appears inevitable that so long as there is a market, someone is going to find a way to satisfy it. The law of supply and demand is an old one, but as effective as ever.

ONE MAJOR view of the matter, and particularly voiced by proponents of Sunday openings, is that it is the only day some folks have an opportunity to shop. They say that a fellow who works six days a week, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., cannot go shopping except on Sundays.

Some years ago, I was surprised to find out that supermarkets in one metropolitan area were open 24 hours a day. It was even more surprising to find out that they had large crowds between midnight and dawn. In such an industrial area, it is more convenient for many workmen to do their shopping when the rest of us are catching our winks.

BE THAT as it may, there probably is no chance to draft a law that will meet the requirements of proponents of a blue law. Someone, somewhere, somehow will find a way to beat it—legally.

But reduce or eliminate the demand, and no law will be needed. When folks do not patronize stores on Sunday (or any other time, for that matter) the owner will certainly not keep it open and pay his employees. It must be profitable for him to maintain any hours.

THE MOST effective way to tackle the problem by proponents, it would seem, is to dull the demand — which is to say, encourage the populace to limit its Sunday shopping.

Military Chiefs' Hands Are Tied

WASHINGTON — If anything were needed to convince the North Vietnam government that they can gain their ends by prolonging the war, it is the news that comes over the wires nowadays from Washington.

Not only is it clearly evident that the hands of the American armed services are being tied and that they are being prevented by the Secretary of Defense from using maximum power to win the war, but the enemy is being informed, in effect, that the United States is hesitant to take the steps which could lead to victory.

PORTIONS of the testimony before the preparedness subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee now have been made public which indicate that the military chiefs do not relish the restrictions imposed on them in fighting the war. General Wallace M. Green, commandant of the Marine Corps, told the committee, for example, that the United States "must make it as difficult and costly as we can for Hanoi to support the war." He emphatically recommended, as he has heretofore, "a stronger air campaign against North Vietnam," because he believes this "must be a necessary part of our strategy."

GENERAL GREENE summed up the situation from the military viewpoint when he declared that the enemy is counting on its own patience, the lack of American patience and the gradual attrition of our forces in the South in order to be assured of victory.

Equally positive is the statement by Senator John Stennis of Mississippi, Democrat, chairman of the Senate subcommittee, who unambiguously emphasizes that the testimony of the military witnesses appears to be "in clear and direct conflict" with the views expressed by Secretary of Defense McNamara last Friday, Mr.

Stennis said, moreover, that the military witnesses had "stated very clearly and strongly that they had not been able to gain approval to strike militarily important targets which they have recommended."

THE CONTROVERSY between the Secretary of Defense and the heads of the armed services on the subject of strategy has produced a sense of frustration in Congress. Some senators who have been urging a procedure that amounts to what has been called in the past "peace at any price" now fell encouraged to intensify their efforts along the same line.

THUS FAR the Hanoi government has shown no signs of coming to the peace table. The only reason given in the press dispatches which seems logical is that the North Vietnamese believe that, if they persist in carrying on the war, they will make it more and more expensive for the United States and eventually bring about a humiliating withdrawal which would be mailed throughout the world as the biggest defeat that the United States has ever suffered. Communist imperialists everywhere would then rejoice.

WHAT ISN'T generally realized is that if the Vietnam war should have such a tragic result, another war in Southeast Asia could break out after a short interval, and the United States might become directly involved with Red China because Peiping might make the same kind of miscalculation that Hitler did. The assumption again would be that the United States had decided not to enter any major war thousands of miles away from its shores. This illusion, fostered by retreat in Vietnam, constitutes the real danger for the future.

Facial Foliage Virility Symbol?

By PHIL THOMAS

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hairy the cave man didn't know what he was starting that day he stretched his whiskers across a log and chopped them off with a flint ax.

Neither did Gen. Scipio Africanus, who was a pretty good soldier as well as the first Roman believed to have indulged in a daily shave.

MEN NO LONGER use tweezers, clam shells or shark's teeth to remove their beards, but every morning millions of American men crawl out of bed and shave.

Most of them gripe about this daily chore, but if they had a chance to have their beards removed permanently they'd turn it down.

The beard is a symbol of virility to a man, says Gordon Blackwell, a New York electrologist.

BLACKWELL, WHO removes hair by electrolysis, says only a few men have come to him to have their beards removed.

"Most men who go in for beard removal are driven to it because they get terrible skin rashes from shaving," he says. "I've only had one man come to me and have his beard removed solely because he didn't like to shave."

Blackwell estimates it would take several hundred hours to remove a normal beard. The going rate for electrolysis, he says, is about $15 an hour.

MOST MEN, however, use a safety razor or an electric shaver to clean the bristles off their cheeks.

The average man has about 30,000 hairs on his face, according to a spokesman for the Gillette Safety Razor Co., a leading producer of safety razors and blades. Each of these hairs grows about one-fifth of an inch a day.

THE AVERAGE MAN, if he begins shaving at 15 and lives the normal life span, will cut some 27½ feet of whiskers from his face over the years, the spokesman says, and spend about 2,350 hours or 139 days on the job over a 55-year period.

Supplying the blades, razors, creams, lotions, soaps and such to soothe and remove this facial foliage has grown into a multimillion-dollar industry.

GILLETTE, WHICH says it sold 51 razors and 14 dozen blades in 1963, estimates that since its formation in 1901 it has produced more than 750 million razors and 120 billion blades.

Figures for the entire industry show that Americans laid out $213,640,000 for razor blades and $28,580,000 for razors in 1966, compared with $114,760,000 and $10,710,000 in 1956.

THE 1966 payout for shaving preparations — creams, soaps, lotions and the like — came to $194,450,000, compared with $108,250,000 a decade earlier.

Although demand for electric shavers leveled off after 1957 and remained fairly static until 1965, the industry now reports increasing sales.

One spokesman estimates more than 7.25 million electric shavers, costing some $150 million, were sold in 1966.

ROBERT P. CLARK, vice president-marketing for Sperry Rand Corp.'s Remington Electric Shaver Division, says the industry estimates about 47 per cent of the male shaving population uses electric units.

Regardless of what tool he uses, the average American male shaves almost two square miles of his face during his lifetime in the pursuit of beardlessness.

AT 7:30 BARBECUE TONIGHT

QBC Honors Steers

The Big Spring Quarterback Club starts an ambitious program at 7:30 o'clock this evening with a barbecue honoring members of the Steer football team and their coaches.

The meal will be served in the amphitheatre at the City Park.

Highlight of the party will be a talk by Berl Huffman, head freshman coach at Texas Tech and a man long noted for his homespun humor.

A spirited membership campaign has been conducted by QBC co-captains Don Newsom and Jess Slaughter but those who do not yet have the membership tickets can purchase them at the gateways to the amphitheatre.

Each ducat sells for $5 and will serve to admit an entire family to the barbecue, as well as to all future functions of the booster organization, which meets once weekly during the football season to review films of preceding games and hear scouting reports on future opponents.

All money collected by the QBC, of course, is used to promote school activities.

This will be the first opportunity for many football buffs to meet and hear members of the BSHS coaching staff.

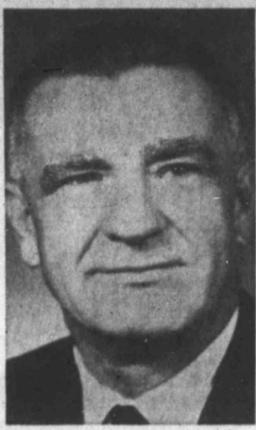

Spike Dykes is the new head coach of the Steers. Only holdover coaches on the varsity staff are Jack Taylor and Oakey Hagood. New assistants include Charley Bright, Gerald Loyd, Joe Chrousen, Doyle Parker and Kirby Pugh. The latter doubles as the head basketball coach.

The Longhorns will start and end workouts early today in order to shower and get ready for the barbecue.

A man with a large family gets a real break at the barbecue, since he can feed his tribe for less than he could at home.

Huffman coached at Lubbock High from 1931 until 1935, when he joined the Tech coaching staff. His duties were freshman football coach, varsity basketball coach and track mentor.

He interrupted his coaching duties for four years of duty with the Air

QBC SPEAKER BERL HUFFMAN

Force before returning to the Lubbock school. He departed Lubbock in 1947 to coach the University of New Mexico Lobos, a post he held until 1952.

He was out of coaching for a few years but responded to an offer to return to Texas Tech when J. T. King beckoned.

Berl is one of the hardest workers on the Red Raider coaching staff. He comes in early, leaves late and he's never too busy to talk to an old friend or a young athlete asking for advice.

To many, Huffman is the greatest living example of the Texas Tech spirit that has made the big West Texas college the envy of many an older, more sophisticated campus.

Huffman has a limitless supply of jokes. His style of delivery serves to make him a unique speaker.

In event of rain, the site of the barbecue will be moved to the National Guard Armory immediately east of Webb AFB.

Steve Tensi Could Lead Bronc Surge

DENVER (AP) — Apparently, whatever Lou wants, Lou gets.

Lou is Lou Saban, the new general manager-coach of the Denver Broncos, and just three weeks ago he said:

"Sid has what I want."

Less than two weeks later, Saban had what Sid Gillman, general manager and coach of the San Diego Chargers, had and what Lou wanted — quarterback Steve Tensi.

Saban wanted Tensi because neither of his quarterbacks, Scotty Glacken and Max Chobolan, had convinced him that they were ready to solve the quarterback problems of the Broncos who had a 4-10 record last year.

Saban had to give Sid Denver's No. 1 draft choice for the next two years, but the Bronco boss already has a lot of youngsters, and he needed a quarterback to become competitive with the rest of the American Football League's Western Division.

EARLY RESULTS That Tensi can assist Saban as a junior partner in miracle making became obvious only three days after the third-year pro joined the Broncos.

Coming off the bench, Tensi fired the Broncos to a 14-9 triumph over Minnesota, their second victory in two games against National League opponents. No other AFL team can make that statement.

Tensi is part of the new image Saban has been working on since he returned to the AFL after a year's hiatus at the University of Maryland.

"We had to create a new image," Saban said. "They've had problems here, and they haven't been able to win. We may not win any more, but we're not going to lose with the same faces."

That's for sure. Since taking over, Saban has dealt away nine players while acquiring 13.

Gone are such faces as receiver Lionel Taylor, running back Abner Haynes and line-backer John Bramlett. Chobolan also was released. Arrived are other faces such as Cookie Gilchrist, Dave Costa, Rec Mirich and Ernie Park.

Other additions include the best rookie crop the Broncos ever have had — Floyd Little, Pete Duranko, Tom Beer, George Goeddeke and Mike Current, among others.

GILCHRIST IN FIGHT Little is battling Charlie Mitchell for the running back spot while Gilchrist, a fullback for Saban when they were at Buffalo, could win that job from Wendell Hayes.

Beer takes over at tight end which was left vacant when Al Denson switched to flanker.

Mirich, Current, Park and Goeddeke could become fixtures in the interior of the offensive line, and Costa, Duranko and rookie John Huard will help the defense which also includes returning backs Lonnie Wright, Goldie Sellers and Nemiah Wilson.

Saban is particularly concerned with the lines.

"You can't throw passes, and you can't stop anyone from throwing passes unless you have the lines," he said. "We went to the lines first. That was the reason for some of the trades."

Texas Returns To Grid Camp

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Donnie Shanklin of Amarillo will play with Kansas again this year. He has reported for the 1967 season following rejection for military service.

Shanklin ranked No. 2 in rushing in the Big Eight Conference last fall and he was the top punt and kickoff returner.

Coach Pepper Rodgers expressed pleasure at having Shanklin back.

Tourney Field Now Totals 67 Players

List of entries in the 36th annual Big Spring Invitational Golf tournament mounted to 67 this morning, with the bulk of the field due to register today and Friday.

Qualifying begins for the big meet formally begins tomorrow. Match play is scheduled to start Saturday and continue through Monday — Labor Day.

Entry fee is $20. The price of admission includes a ticket for a Friday night barbecue and a Saturday night dance. Deadline for entry is 5 p.m. Friday.

Those shooting for medalist honors must play the course Friday. Otherwise, the linksters can call in their notices of entry and scores to Buddy Hughes, Country Club pro. He can be reached by dialing 267-5354.

Tournament officials are holding out hopes that upwards to 200 players will plunge into the competition. No more than 224 can be accepted, in which case they would be divided into 14 flights.

Each flight will consist of no more than 16 players. Two rounds of competition are scheduled the final day.

The prizes to be given away to winners in each flight are impressive — pro-line irons (seven of them) to flight winners, pro-line woods (three) to flight runnersup, golf bags to consolation winners and a dozen golf balls to each consolation runnerup.

Mike Cleckler of Odessa, the defending titlist, called in Wednesday to say he would return. Roy Peden of Kermil, last year's runnerup, is also committed to play.

George Adams, formerly stationed at Webb and now assigned to a base in Colorado, is coming back to try his luck. Adams is capable of playing outstanding golf and should rate the title flight.

Ronnie Broadrick and Mike Hall are two local players who may make a run at the championship.

Entries are expected from San Angelo, Odessa, Midland, Lubbock, Lamesa, Colorado City, McCombs and Fort Stockton. Snyder is holding a partnership tournament on the same dates, so may not send over its usual delegation.

Pairings will be completed as soon as possible following Friday's qualifying round.

OBIE BRISTOW MATCHES AGE IN ROUND AT COUNTRY CLUB

Obie Bristow, 67, set the links brigade at the Big Spring Country Club to talking Wednesday when he toured the layout in 67 strokes.

Matching your golf score with your age is considered one of the game's rarest feats.

Bristow was honing his game for the Sept. 1-4 Big Spring Invitational Golf Tournament.

Obie's experience in the Big Spring meet dates back to 1932, when he lost to Charley Qualls of Post in the championship finals, 2 up.

In 1940, Bristow again surged into the tournament finals, only to yield to E. C. Nix of Seminole, 2 and 1.

Par for the 18-hole course is 35-36-71. Obie was out in 33 and came home in 34 strokes. Playing with him at the time were Ted Gross, Marvin Williams, Bob Rogers and Leonard Morgan.

Robinson Boys On Rampage

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

The Robinson Rock—the swinging melody that guided Baltimore to the world championship last year—is in on the American League pennant chase again even though the Orioles are nowhere near the top this season.

Frank and Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's partners in punch, left Minnesota reeling with two straight losses that dropped the second-place Twins 1 1/2 games off Boston's league-leading pace.

Brooks lined a three-run double that keyed the Orioles' 4-3 victory over Minnesota Tuesday night and Frank hammered a two-run 10th-inning homer giving Baltimore a 4-2 decision against Dean Chance Wednesday.

Elsewhere in the pennant race, Boston got an 11th-inning home run from Carl Yastrzemski and nipped New York 2-1. It was the Red Sox' 14th victory in the last 18 games. Tommie Agee lined three key hits as Chicago topped Washington 5-1, and California pushed across two ninth-inning runs that joined third-place Detroit, 3-2.

In other American League action, Kansas City shaded Cleveland 6-5 in 12 innings. Chance, 17-18, was making his first start since pitching a no-hitter against Cleveland last week and he was trailing 2-1 until the eighth inning when Bob Allison smashed a pinch home run.

That sent the game into extra innings but not for long. Boog Powell singled with one out in the 10th and then, after Paul Blair was retired, Frank Robinson connected.

It was Robinson's 26th homer of the year and made a winner out of Eddie Wait, who struck out four in two innings of relief. Yastrzemski, who had been hitless in 18 at bats in the Yankees series, redeemed himself with his 35th home run and beat Al Downing.

Downing struck out 12 batters but Yastrzemski, who entered the game in the eighth inning, snapped the tie in the 10th. The homer gave him the major league lead by one over Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew.

Chicago, which opens a crucial four-game series in Boston tonight, salvaged the final game of a three-game set in Washington, thanks mainly to Agee and Don Buford. Agee singled and came around on Buford's hit and two infield outs in the first inning, singled again and scored on Buford's triple in the third and then doubled a run home in the seventh.

First Fred Innes and Bob Locker fired six innings, getting credit for the victory.

Detroit's Earl Wilson, gunning for his 19th victory, was leading 2-1 and cruising along on a three-hitter against the Angels when he walked Jimmie Hall on four pitches with one out in the ninth.

Bubba Morton, a former Tiger, followed with a double scoring Hall with the tying run. When Al Kaline fumbled the ball, Morton raced to third. Then Bill Skowron bounced to shortstop Ray Oyler and Morton beat the throw to the plate to score the winning run.

The defeat kept the Tigers in third place, one percentage point back of Minnesota and 1 1/2 games behind Boston. Danny Cater's fifth hit of the night drove in Kansas City's winning run in the 12th inning against Cleveland. Tony Horton knocked in three runs for the Indians.

Dame Pattie Due To Lose

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The America's Cup may be the Holy Grail of international yachting, but if the cup races were held in Yankee Stadium or Fenway Park the fans probably would storm the box office for a refund.

As a sporting event, the odds, based on past history, are more than 10 to 1 against a challenger on a single race and 20 to 1 against winning the cup.

The United States has won all but six of the 64 races held in 116 years.

With due respect to doughty Dame Pattie of Australia and her gallant crew, it looks like "The Dame" may well end up another Australian sheep for slaughter.

The 29th challenge, a best-of-7 series, starts Sept. 12, 10 miles at sea from this famed resort.

Since the schooner America first won the cup against an English fleet in 1851, the ornate Victorian pitcher has never left the sacred precincts of the New York Yacht Club.

The Australians have a new boat and a bold skipper in Jock Sturrock. But the Americans match them skipper for skipper in Emil "Bus" Mosbacher, who turned back an Australian challenge by Sturrock aboard Gretel in 1962.

In the sloop Intrepid, the United States has the latest creation of Olin Stephens, whose wizardry as a yacht designer has been behind every American defender with one exception since 1937.

But Intrepid's greatest advantage is American technology.

In the past two decades, daron sails and the synthetic ropes to handle them have tossed overboard thousands of years of seafaring history written with canvas sails and hemp.

After the sea lords of the New York Yacht Club saw Sturrock win one race and lose four in 1962, they ruled against a challenger using gear and sails not manufactured in his own country.

REFLECTED GLORY, $50,000 OF IT Jack Nicklaus with Westchester check

Nicklaus Holds Off Late Rally To Win Rye Title

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus is generally conceded to be the greatest golfer in the world, he is on the road to being the richest and most successful, yet there is one battle he hadn't won.

That's the battle with Arnie's Army.

Big Jack, after pocketing the $50,000 first prize Wednesday in the $250,000 Westchester Classic, insisted that he didn't let the army bug him too much, but he left his listeners wondering.

"Aw, I'm getting used to it—it's really quite comical," Nicklaus said. "I'm out there to play golf. I try to concentrate and ignore them."

The army, with banners and lungs at top mast, was out in force at the Westchester Country Club for the final round of the world's richest event which presented Nicklaus, Palmer and Dan Sikes in the final and featured threesome.

Nicklaus stood off a late rush by Sikes, 36-year-old Jacksonville, Fla., law graduate and Player Committee chairman, to win his fourth tournament of the year by a stroke.

Jack had a 72-hole score of 272, 16 under par, while Sikes, who twice pulled out and started home but came back when rain washed out the rounds Saturday and Sunday, was runner-up at 273.

Rallying from three shots back, Sikes caught Nicklaus with successive birdies at the 11th and 12th but fell back after landing in a trap at the 13th and failed to tie it with a bold 13-foot putt that hit the cup and stayed out at the final hole. He collected $30,000.

The rest of the leaders looked like a who's who of golf with Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, the British Open king, third at 274; Gary Player of South Africa, fourth at 275 and Palmer, with a birdie at the final hole, fifth at 276.

Palmer's fabled army—a stampeding, yelling pack cut from the cloth of the boisterous New York Mets baseball fans—tramped behind their hero and cheered every swing. They groaned in agony when Nicklaus and Sikes picked up strokes.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

When Polk Robison, athletic director at Texas Tech, and his head football coach, J. T. King, began to look around a few years ago for a mature coach—one who could direct the freshmen and indoctrinate them in what the varsity expected—they turned to a football patriarch named Berl Huffman.

Huffman, who descends upon Big Spring tonight to mount the speaker's dais at the Quarterback Club's barbecue honoring the 1967 Big Spring High School football team, was not exactly a stranger in Lubbock or on the Texas Tech campus. He had invested more than a decade in the city, as a coach on both the high school and college level, and might have had an uninterrupted tenure there had not the University of New Mexico invited him over to become its head coach.

Berl later served as manager of the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce and directed the New Mexico State Economic Development Commission before he was named to dictate the policies of the Alamogordo Industrial Development Corp.

The love for coaching proved to be strong for Huffman, however, and, when King beckoned, Berl responded. Huffman gives the impression of being as tough as leather spaghetti, which he is, and he wastes little time in separating the ambitious type of player from those who have no real appetite for the game.

If he has all the characteristics of the storied army top sergeant, he is also a sort of 'father confessor' to the young fellows who start their collegiate play under him—gifted with an engaging trait that serves to help them over the hurdles in the first year in a very demanding society.

Huffman is known all over the Southwest for his ability as a public speaker. He may not boast the rhetoric of a Richard Burton but he gets his message across in a homespun, humorous way that is bound to please. And, they say, he knows more jokes than Milton Berle.

When Darrell Royal, head football coach at the University of Texas, visited in Midland last week, he said his Longhorns may be a year away from greatness.

A lot of Longhorns buffs are expecting Texas to dominate the sport on the collegiate level in the Southwest Conference this year but the Steers are thin in places and need all the breaks to go through undefeated.

Ray McDonald, the promising rookie back for the Washington Redskins, has a younger brother due to report for football workouts at New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell this fall.

He is Ed McDonald, a 185-pound end, who played his high school ball at Alamogordo, N.M. Ray holds all the rushing records for the University of Idaho.

Marty Servo, the former boxing great, recently underwent his eighth operation and is in a bad way.

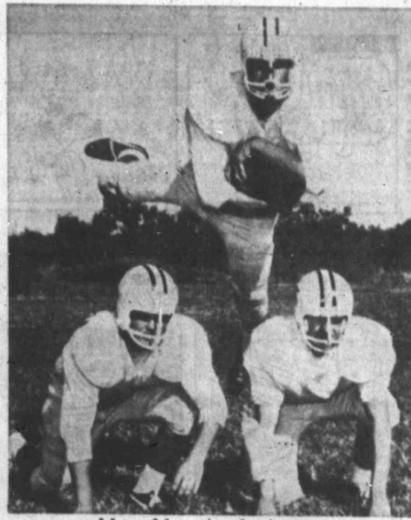

He's been crippled by an inflammation of the spinal column and is paralyzed from the waist down. He's hospitalized at Colorado Springs.

Sunland Park, which had a total handle of $11,580,917 last year, may not do as well next season because its season has been cut back slightly but the average daily handle could go up.

Sunland's average daily pari-mutuel handle last year was $137,568. The coming season at the track, located just outside El Paso, opens Nov. 4 and extends through May 5.

Elwood Kettler, the fellow who replaced Emmett McKenzie as head football coach at Nederland when McKenzie came here a few years ago, is now an aide at Oklahoma State University.

When Oklahoma State plays the Air Force Academy this fall, Kettler will be coaching against his former teammate and close friend, Don Ellis. Ellis is now a backfield mentor for the Falcons. Both Kettler and Ellis attended Texas A&M.

Billie Jean King Gets Nod In Women's Meet

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Billie Jean King, the best women's tennis player in the world, is a strong favorite to break a six-year drought and bring the United States national championship back to this country in the tournament that began today.

The best available of America's men are just as strongly favored to extend the long dry spell in which they haven't won since Tony Trabert turned the trick in 1955.

Australia, with John Newcombe, Roy Emerson and Tony Roche, owns all three of the top men's seeds and probably the eventual champion.

Emerson, who won the U. S. nationals in 1961 and 1964 and was a beaten finalist last year, is the No. 2 seed to Newcombe, the current Wimbledon champion. Roche is No. 3. Fred Stolle, who won last year, has turned professional.

With Lt. Arthur Ashe, America's best, away on military duty, the only seedings awarded United States males were Clark Graebner, Beachwood, Ohio, No. 7, and Charles Pasarell, Puerto Rico, No. 8.

It's a much brighter picture on the distaff side. Darlene Hard was the last American woman to win the U. S. title, in 1961.

But Mrs. King, the two-time Wimbledon champion and beaten finalist in 1965, will be lacking her two principal rivals, over the last few years, for women's world honors.

Texas League Race Tight

By The Associated Press

The Texas League race tightened up like a wet hatband Wednesday night as leading Albuquerque and second place Amarillo both lost and third place El Paso moved strongly back into the picture with a 7-6 triumph over Dallas-Fort Worth.

Tempers also tightened up with the big showdown just five days away. Six players and managers were thrown out of games for arguing too vociferously.

It was almost ludicrous when Manager Jo Jo White of Dallas-Fort Worth helped get his own player off the field and then was ejected himself for doing the same thing—arguing with the umpire.

Sonny Kopacz slashed a two-run homer to gain Austin a 3-0 victory over Albuquerque but the Dodgers retained first place by half a game as Amarillo took a 5-4 thumping from Arkansas.

Then up from third place swirled El Paso with its triumph over Dallas-Fort Worth, which cut Albuquerque's lead to two games. Amarillo was only 1 1/2 ahead of the Sun Kings.

The biggest showdown of all begins Friday when El Paso opens a five-game series with Albuquerque.

It prompted Texas League president Hugh Finerty to plan for a playoff if there should be a tie. Albuquerque will be the home club in a one-game playoff if the Dodgers and Amarillo tie. El Paso will be the home club if El Paso and Amarillo tie, and El Paso the home team if it deadlocks with Albuquerque.

Roberto Clemente Is Candidate For MVP

By The Associated Press

They're touting Orlando Cepeda for the National League's Most Valuable Player award, but Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente isn't making it easy for the St. Louis Cardinals' star to win his first National League batting championship.

Clemente is a three-time winner of the batting crown. Cepeda never has won it, but he's driving toward the top just as the Cards are moving swiftly toward the pennant.

Cepeda collected three hits as St. Louis downed the New York Mets 2-0 Wednesday night. Clemente had two safeties, including a two-run double, that helped Pittsburgh down Atlanta 11-9. In other games, Cincinnati downed Philadelphia 2-1, Los Angeles thrashed San Francisco 9-3 and Chicago defeated Houston 4-1.

Clemente's hits enabled him to increase his league-leading batting average one point to .348. Cepeda's three safeties, though, hiked his mark three points to a runner-up .343.

Tim McCarver also starred for St. Louis. He drove in both runs with his 12th homer and a sacrifice fly. Larry Jaster and Ron Willis combined to limit the Mets to four hits.

Willis relieved Jaster after Bob Johnson walked with one out in the ninth inning and retired the next two batters. Rookie Danny Frisella was the losing pitcher. The triumph enabled the Cards to maintain their 10-game lead over second-place Cincinnati.

Matty Alou, the defending batting titleholder, and Willie Stargell also helped the Pirates down the Braves. Alou collected four hits in five tries lifting his average to .325. Stargell walked a two-run double and his 18th homer.

Home runs by Felipe Alou and Joe Torre had helped the Braves build a 6-4 lead, but Pittsburgh came back in the fourth and regained the lead on Clemente's two-bagger.

Pete Rose drove in the winning run for Cincinnati with a bloop double in the sixth inning that scored Tommy Harper.

Field Day For Farmers Set Sept. 12

Paul Gross, Howard County agent, urged all local farmers to attend the annual field day at the South Plains Research and Extension Center near Lubbock Sept. 12.

The field day, from 1 to 5 p.m., will highlight production of cash crops in this area and the use of herbicides.

The event, which is open to the public, traditionally attracts a large crowd of farmers and businessmen. The center is located seven and one-half miles north of Lubbock on US 87.

Information on such crops as cotton, grain sorghum, soybeans, castor, rapeseed and guar will be presented, says Gross. Adaptability tests of various varieties, breeding research and cultural practices will be discussed.

"Do's" and "Don'ts" concerning the use of present-day herbicides will receive major emphasis at the field day, points out the agent, since numerous weed control problems have arisen this year.

A greenhouse display is also planned for the event. This is one of the best educational opportunities of the field day, Gross feels, because it gives producers a chance to learn the symptoms of various plant diseases and other plant disorders. Spotlighted at this year's display will be grain sorghum and cotton diseases.

Another attraction at the field day will be a large machinery exhibit. The latest planting and harvesting equipment developed by researchers at the Center will be on display as well as machinery exhibited by commercial companies.

Rain Accents Chill In Texas

Light rain accented the chill in some areas as weather milder of autumn spread across about the northwest third of Texas today.

Early morning temperatures sagged to 52 degrees at Dalhart, 53 at Pampa, 55 at Amarillo and Perryton and 57 at Lubbock. Readings elsewhere, in sections ahead of the front, ranged through the 60s and 70s up to 89 at Galveston.

Moisture amounts included Pampa 65 inch, Dalhart 54, Lubbock 39 and San Angelo 15. Misty weather, usually bringing only traces of rain, extended into Southwest Texas as far as Del Rio on the Mexican border.

There also were occasional showers Wednesday in most sections of the state, with as much as 1.90 inches of rain near Perryton in the upper Panhandle.

It stayed dry, however, in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where water accumulating behind Anzalduas Dam near Mission spilled into the floodway diversion channel for the first time since flooding occurred in 1958.

Runoff from streams in Mexico and more than 10 days of rain caused the Rio Grande to run nearly bankfull from Rio Grande City to Brownsville.

The brisk morning temperatures contrasted sharply with Wednesday's summery heat at a number of points. Wichita Falls recorded a high of 104 degrees and the mercury hit 102 at Fort Worth, Mineral Wells and Tyler, and 101 at Dallas.

Weather Bureau observers expected the cooler air to keep on edging southward until it reached the Corpus Christi and Laredo areas by early Friday. Widely scattered thundershowers were predicted in most sections.

Explosion Rips Jetliner

TOKYO (AP) — An explosion ripped through the engine of a Cathay Pacific jetliner moments before takeoff for Formosa today, but an airline spokesman said none of the 55 passengers aboard the plane was injured.

The four-engine Convair 880 skidded to a sudden halt with blue smoke pouring from the faulty engine. Passengers clambered down ladders as firemen doused the smoking engine.

A spokesman for the line said the explosion was being investigated.

Advice Adopted

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — After 22 resolutions were introduced in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives instructing Congress on how to vote on certain bills, another resolution was introduced and quickly adopted. It asked Congress to offer its advice on how Pennsylvania should be run.

Film Violence Stirs Concern

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In "The Dirty Dozen," a squad of American soldier-felons pours gasoline into an underground shelter to incinerate a hundred Nazi officers and their women.

In "A Fistful of Dollars," Clint Eastwood picks a quarrel with four town toughs, then plugs each of them off a fence, like targets in a shooting gallery.

In "Beach Red," a Marine sergeant and a Japanese captain engage in a jungle duel in which the arm of one is broken by a rifle and the stomach of the other is sliced with a knife.

RACIAL RIOTS
Such scenes typify the new cycle of film violence that has caused concern in some circles, especially during this violent summer. In seeking causes for recent racial riots, a New York Times survey of psychiatrists and psychologists cited among conditions adding to the mood of unrest:

"The accentuation of violence by television, films, newspapers and magazines, and particularly the impression this makes on children."

Dr. Lewis Austad, executive clinical director of the California Educational Center for the Emotionally Disturbed, says: "There can be no doubt that television in movies and on television can be very disturbing to the youthful mind, especially of the nonaverage type."

SUICIDES
"Impressions of violence can lead to imitative behavior, just as the popularity of 'Superman' contributed to an increase of accidental suicides of children who thought they could fly like him."

Movie reviewer Bosley Crowther of the New York Times recently wrote: "By habituating the public to violence and brutality—by making these hideous exercises into morbid and sadistic jokes, as is done in 'The Dirty Dozen'—these films of excessive violence only deaden their sensitivities and make slaughter seem a meaningless cliché."

'BEACH RED'
The National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures, successor to the Legion of Decency, condemned "Beach Red" with the comment: "In attempting to explore the inhumanity of war, this film is self-defeating because its repetitious emphasis on the realistic details of carnage and its degrading treatment of women are themselves inhuman."

Influential Martin Quigley Jr. editorialized in Motion Picture Herald: "Today, on TV and in too many films, killings are piled on killings, new and extraordinary means are found to kill and maim. An appeal is made to sadism and perversity."

LIFE 'CHEAP'
"But worst of all, life so often is shown to be 'cheap,' to be expendable at the hero or antihero, as the case may be. Killing the adversary is the easy way out, the almost inevitable solution. Morality and respect for human dignity hardly count."

How did movies get this way? The cause may well be attributed to James Bond, who caught the public fancy with a new kind of cool killing. A flood of imitators followed, with even more variations of torture and brutality.

OTHERS FOLLOW
The success of the Clint Eastwood films, especially in Europe, has impelled other makers of Westerns to attempt new violence. "The Dirty Dozen" expects a U.S. gross of $20 million to $25 million.

Depiction of violence in films once was governed by stringent principles in the industry's self-censorship code—"Action showing the taking of human life is to be held to a minimum. Brutal killings are not to be presented in detail. Revenge in modern times shall not be justified."

CODE CHANGED
But the advent of Jack Valenti as president of the Producers Association swept away the old code except for a few generalities. The new provision reads: "Detailed and protracted acts of brutality, cruelty, physical violence, torture and abuse shall not be presented."

The man who applies this yardstick is Geoffrey Shurlock, code administrator. Says he: "You treat violence as you do profanity and drinking—each picture has its own guidelines. As the story merits violence, we approve it."

Shurlock doubts the theory that violence on the screen inspires viewers to actual violence. Instead he sees violence as a release for frustrated energies.

'NONSENSE'
"For psychiatrists to blame the movies for what happened in Detroit is nonsense," he says. "If the Negroes who rioted this summer had more time and money to go to movies, they wouldn't have rioted. I think it's significant that there wasn't a movie theater in Watts when the riots took place there."

"I hate violence myself. But as long as the public accepts it, I will have to approve it in films."

Cornel Wilde, who directed and starred in "Beach Red," denied that his film was excessively violent.

REALISTIC
"It is less violent than a James Bond or a Matt Helm picture," said Wilde. "What I did was a very realistic and highly subjective film about war. It would be foolish to depict a war without violence. But I didn't inject violence gratuitously."

Robert Aldrich, who directed "The Dirty Dozen," rejected the notion that the violent nature of the film is the reason for its success.

Said he: "I think we gauged more accurately than most film makers the rejection of authority in this country. That's what the picture is about."

'I Think I Was Put On'
'Kisser' Highlights 'Hippie Happening'

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly 400 tattooed artists, architects and religious leaders wearing rope nooses around their necks tried out the "hippie" life of psychedelic lights, discordant music and spontaneous happenings Tuesday night at a Greenwich Village church.

The happening—officially billed as an "ordale"—started with a kiss and ended with an order, "Get out!" and a push out the door.

For more than an hour, the participants took turns facing the hot lights of a police line-up, listening to bedtime stories while curled up with stuffed animals on long church pew cushions, and crawling through a blackened simulation of purgatory.

'MAKES YOU THINK'
"It was a trip—like what those LSD trips must be like," said one smiling nun as she emerged from the Judson Memorial church.

Others disagreed. "It's a bunch of people taking themselves seriously about I don't know what," said a rabbi. "If this is a commentary on American life, it's a pretty infantile

Deputies Shoot Youth Who Says He Killed Dad

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies shot and wounded a knife-wielding youth who told them that he killed his father and that he had been taking LSD.

Sheriff Ken Cox said he and another officer answered a call Wednesday and were met at the door by James Arthur Smith, 20, who rushed at them with a knife. Cox said he yelled a warning and then fired three shots at Smith, critically wounding him.

Cox said that as the youth was being rushed to the hospital he told officers that he had stabbed his father to death Tuesday night.

Deputies found the body of the father, Elden Smith, in a car a half block from the family home.

Officers said young Smith told them he had been taking the hallucinatory drug LSD for many months and had suffered a number of bad effects.

A LOVELIER YOU

Double-Trouble Skin Needs Special Care

By MARY SUE MILLER

A lovely writes: The center of my face is oily and the sides are flaky-dry. When I try to clear up one problem the other seems to worsen. Is it possible to treat both at the same time?

The Answer: Yes! The condition, known as "combination" skin, responds to a combination treatment. Each area is treated differently, but within the same time span. The method follows:

1. Wash oily areas three times daily, dry areas only at bedtime. Use liquid suds combining hexachlorophene and the pH factor. The combo retards skin-borne bacteria and flaky dryness. To apply use your fingertips and work up a good lather; rinse very well and pat dry.

2. To cleansed face at bedtime apply two treatments: a) Light moisture product to cheeks, throat and under eyes. b) Liquid formulated for oil control to forehead, nose and chin.

3. Oily areas benefit from a weekly application of cleansing grains or medicated mask.

4. As make-up plays a large part in the remedy, its correct possibilities should not be overlooked. Cosmetic cleansers, foundations and under make-up moisturizers for dry areas should be in the "cosmetic" or medicated category.

You soon become adept at the separate but equal treatments.

And the double effort soon remedies the double skin trouble.

COMPLEXION

Whatever your skin problems, to find a solution send for my booklet, "A Lovelier Complexion." Detailed advice contained includes the correct care for dry, oily, combination and normal skin types; proper application methods; treatments for blackheads, enlarged pores, circles, wrinkles, crepiness, etc.

For your copy of "A Lovelier Complexion," write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost and handling.

First Cotton Bale Now Worth $500

By SAM BLACKBURN
A year ago today, Terry Fields, 18-year-old Lee Community farmer, brought in the first bale of 1966 cotton and received a check for $300 for his effort.

This year, there's $500 awaiting the Howard County farmer who brings in the first bale of 1967 cotton, but no one seems to expect any claimant to show up in the immediate future.

In the first place, it is pointed out, there is relatively little cotton flourishing in the county. The bale which will cop the coveted Chamber of Commerce cash will most likely come from the limited irrigated acres in the county and none of the cotton on these, apparently, is yet at the picking stage.

Experience has indicated that the way things work out, the first bale producer and the second bale winner often turn out usually to be the same man. That happened in 1964 and in 1965. This led to the decision to give the money to one grower.

Naturally the first bale must be cotton planted and grown in 1967. Secondly, the bale must weigh not less than 450 pounds and it must have been produced wholly in Howard County. It is necessary for the grower to be a farmer who has a qualified number on file with the Howard County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee and this number and the other details — weight, grower, and so forth — must be phoned to the chamber of commerce as quickly as the ginning has been terminated.

Two bales of Martin County cotton have already been ginned. One bale or perhaps more has been ginned in Glasscock County. Last year at this season the farmers of the county were reveling in what promised — and turned out — to be one of the best crops in several years.

This year, with a few scattered exceptions, the vast expanses of dryland cotton which last season yielded as much as two bales an acre are cottonless.

The few scattered fields where dryland cotton of some-promise is to be found are located in the Vincent area, around Lomax and in the vicinity of Coahoma. There are also a few scattered fields in the Luther community which could make some cotton.

Knott and Fairview, where particularly fine yields were scored in 1966, have many fields with no cotton at all.

Vealmoor got off to a fairly promising start early in 1967, but a devastating hailstorm wiped out the fields which offered the happiest possibilities of production.

High Costs Holding Up Sparkle Project

Excessive costs are to blame for a loss of sparkle in the downtown beautification program, according to city manager Larry Crow.

"A drainage problem in the 400 block of Main would require an unusually large amount of reconstruction, as far as tearing out streets, curbs and gutters according to a study made by city engineers," said Crow. He said city commissioners had anticipated in the budget a cost of $6,000-7,000 for the improvement of the block, yet estimated figures are running to more than twice that amount.

"The city commission authorized plans and specifications to be drawn up for the project and the engineering department began a study of the situation early this summer," said Crow. "We have been unable to get the estimated costs down to a reasonable figure although the engineers are still continuing their study in an effort to bring construction costs within a figure which might be acceptable."

Beautification and improvement of the 200 block of Main was completed last summer.

Sooner Reveals Nixon To Enter Four Primaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's new campaign chief indicates the former vice president will enter at least four state primaries next year in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

Plans are under way, Henry Bellmon told a Tuesday news conference, to set up Nixon for President committees soon in "the crucial primary states of Nebraska, New Hampshire and Oregon." Such a committee already is at work in Wisconsin, which also has a presidential primary. Bellmon, the ex-governor of Oklahoma who recently succeeded Dr. Gaylord Parkinson of San Diego as national chairman of Nixon for President, said he expected Nixon to announce his candidacy early next year.

Rhodesia Bars Former Premier

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Former Rhodesian Premier R.S. Garfield Todd has been barred by the South African government from entering the country, the Johannesburg newspaper Rand Daily Mail said today in a dispatch from Salisbury.

Todd was scheduled to give a lecture at the newly formed Albert Luthuli Foundation of Natal Province University, the newspaper said. Luthuli, a Nobel Peace Prize winner and African civil rights fighter, died here recently.

Todd told the newspaper the South African government had informed him he would not be given a visa to enter the country. No reason was given. Todd last year ended a year's restriction to his farm imposed by the Rhodesian government.

Social Security Benefits Increase

Vocational Rehab Work Outlined For Lions

How the vocational rehabilitation program at Big Spring State Hospital functions was detailed Wednesday noon at the Settles to the Downtown Lions Club. Larry Cheatham, in charge of the program, told the club that the normal case load was 200, but that during a year he and his staff would work with 745 individuals. When patients are sufficiently recovered to function on their own, they are generally referred to the vocational rehabilitation office. Here old skills are sharpened or new skills are taught, and above all, the individual is motivated to function in their home communities. There is a program for housewives, too, so that they will be equipped to resume their places as homemakers. The BSSH staff also has a nurse aid program going, and it can arrange for almost any type of training. "Not all of our cases are success stories," said Cheatham, "but we equip enough with skills and tools to make the $16,000,000 budget for the state program a paying one. Besides this, those who go back into society are no longer public wards. Rehabilitation programs date back to 1923. Cheatham told the Lions, but they were mostly geared to those with physical disabilities. For practical purposes, it was not until 1960 that it was really broadened to include those with mental or behavioral difficulties. Inducted as new members of the club Wednesday were Joe Vinson, Maj. Richard Gray, Capt. Charles E. Anderson, James E. Gillespie, and Jerry Phillips.

'The Fugitive' Stops Running

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press TV-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "On Tuesday, August 29, 1967, 'The Fugitive' stopped running," intoned the unseen narrator, and Dr. Richard Kimble, cleared of his wife's murder, smiled at the pretty girls at his side and walked into the sunset.

It was Tuesday night's widely heralded wind-up of ABC's "The Fugitive," and while the final pair of programs are unlikely to be candidates for writing awards, they did break television precedents.

The two-part episode tried to tie up all the loose ends of four seasons and to satisfy the curiosity of the viewers about how their hero emerged from his jam. It also produced the novel wrap-up in new programs broadcast during the summer rerun doldrums.

The conclusion was hard to pull together, so it's no wonder the final chapter wasn't up to the standards of the rest of the long-running series. No secret was made that the one-armed man was the murderer, so suspense had to come from another area.

WIND-UP PROBLEM
Finding an eye-witness to the killing was the central theme, but that hardly seemed dramatic enough, so the climax was a chase through a deserted amusement park and a fight-to-the-finish atop a high-rise—a familiar pair of end-of-show television clichés. What has attracted considerable attention in the industry was giving the viewers a wind-up show. The device attracted publicity and drew oversize audiences. The national Nielsen ratings, estimating the size of the audiences, will be closely studied when they come in, but preliminary checks indicate a lot of homes which usually turn off their sets for summer had them on for "The Fugitive."

Executives presumably are now wondering if the right kind of new programs might attract those millions who are, each summer, presumed to be off fishing.

ABC executives tried to figure out a way to use the interest in the end-of-show programs. "We thought of having the one-armed man arrested and jailed," said Harve Bennett, West Coast program vice president, "and then, in the last scene, Judd, the lawyer in one of our new series, would come into the cell and prepare to defend him. But we couldn't find any way to work it out."

JUDD REJECTED
One stumbling block undoubtedly was Quinn Martin, creator and head of the production company that turned out the departing show. "Judd for the Defense," the new courtroom series, is made by another producer with ties to other film studios.

David Janssen, who played "The Fugitive" for four exhausting years—he appeared in almost every scene—breathed life and sympathy into a thoroughly implausible character. Perhaps the greatest challenge, however, was handed Barry Morse, cast as the policeman who pursued him relentlessly, obviously a neurotic victim of some compulsion but who, at least once was so kind and trusting that the recaptured man could talk him into temporary freedom.

One thing that made the wind-up show possible was the fact that Janssen wanted to leave the series and he was impossible to replace. ABC would have liked to continue the show, but Janssen, fatigued, was eager to get into a less rigorous and equally rewarding motion picture career.

Meanwhile "The Fugitive" is due to start running all-over again, as the four years of programs are sold for local station reruns.

ADDS VIET HEAT

Press Is Livelier Than Ever Before

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's presidential campaign is making the local press livelier than ever before. The newspapers are enjoying their freedom, but frequently adding more heat than light to the election.

When political censorship was lifted last month few editors were ready to accept the decree of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky at face value. As the candidates themselves grew bolder, however, the press followed suit.

Now the newspapers have surpassed the politicians and the reader is getting a heady political diet. The censored white space or delicate circumlocutions of the past has been replaced by uninhibited reporting.

TRAITOR

Within the past few weeks Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, a presidential aspirant, has been called a traitor in print. Lesser though similarly emphatic labels have been applied to all his civilian rivals for the presidency.

Such free-wheeling treatment is not universal in Saigon's 38 daily newspapers published in Vietnamese, Chinese, French or English. But it is widespread enough to have made candidates of all stripes wince. Since the newspapers represent practically all brands of opinion save Communism or outright neutralism, they have lashed out at everyone.

PRESSURE

Thieu and his vice-presidential running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, were stung daily.

A wide range of newspapers—mostly two- and four-sheet dailies with more enthusiasm than money—have printed charges that Ky and Thieu are using their governmental positions to put pressure on provincial officials.

The honesty of the election machinery has become the overriding issue so far as the newspapers are concerned.

"Provincial officials are breaking their backs to support Thieu and Ky," one daily charged. "Obviously they are doing this to strengthen their own positions with their bosses."

PEACE PLEAS

Although the papers have borrowed the words "hawk" and

"dove" from the American press, none has come forward with anything like a conciliatory policy toward the Communists. They might generally be classified as outright hawks or just plain hawks, although practically all of them are conscious of the peace issue and discuss how it might be brought about.

On such issues as land reform, taxes, corruption or the American presence in Vietnam, the papers like the candidates have been noisier than they have been specific.

NO NAMES

On the other hand they have used their new, and possibly temporary, freedom to bring a lot of issues into the public domain. The U.S. presence is no longer sacrosanct.

There are areas where the press is still reluctant to venture too far. When the military junta recently disclosed that a shakeup was being planned in which some corrupt officers would get the ax, the local press named no names although foreign correspondents freely did so.

Such reluctance to tangle openly with the military is privately admitted by editors who fear that the present freedom cannot continue. Even if political censorship remains lifted the government has such weapons as control of the newsprint supply and tax laws at its disposal.

For the moment, however, the military has evidently kept its pledge to let the press talk freely about the elections.

Texan Convicted Of Killing Son

SHERMAN (AP) — A District Court jury Tuesday convicted Doyle Wayne Smith, 24, of murder without malice in the fatal beating of his 6-week-old son last June 9.

A sentence of two years in prison was recommended by the jury.

Smith testified he lost his temper when the infant kept crying as he was changing diapers but that he did not remember striking his son.

INFERNO SPREADS

Bombers Help Battle Flames

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Every man and machine the U.S. Forest Service can find has been thrown at the walls of flame in the Pacific Northwest forests.

Already there have been over 2,000 fires this summer, compared to 995 in a similar period last year.

MEN HACK LINES

Sweating men still hack out fire lines, but fire fighters have called in World War II bombers to help the foresters gain control.

"If we hadn't had aerial weapons this year, we'd be in worse shape by now," said Bill Wood, fire control equipment officer for the Pacific Northwest region of the Forest Service.

The region includes 26 million acres in Oregon and Washington. The headquarters are in Portland.

The bombers drop retardants on forest fires, checking their spread. Helicopters skim the trees with loads of men and equipment for the ground war.

HOT SPOTS

Smokejumpers, carrying packs on their backs, leap into the smoke.

Planes fly over the green sea of trees, looking for signs of fire.

Other planes, equipped with infrared devices can detect hot spots and can map terrain hidden by thick smoke or the dark of night.

The helicopters carry rescue litters for carrying injured men to hospitals.

Wednesday fires in the Willamette National Forest in Oregon broke loose and never stopped, sweeping over 7,000 acres of heavy timber. That was one of several big fires in the Pacific Northwest during the day.

In fighting the fires, strong pumps weighing only 30 pounds are put into action by firemen minutes after water is located.

FROZEN FOOD

Trucks carry bulldozers to the front lines and convert instantly to water tankers with inflatable tanks.

Modern packaging makes it possible to drop ground equipment from planes, including field offices, tools, water and dried and frozen food.

Men carry protective shelters on their backs which offer refuge when 750-degree fires surround them.

The Forest Service, and nearly every other fire fighting agency, uses a commercial mixture which contains ammonium sulfate, to retard fires.

RELY ON HOPE

So far this summer the Forest Service has dropped a million gallons in the Northwest. Besides stopping the fires, it fertilizes the soil.

Not all the weapons are new. Observers, in towers rising from the highest peaks, still watch for fires and relay radio messages to remote spots.

Thousands of men still work with picks and shovels in the face of the spreading inferno.

When the weather gets so dry and hot that any little spark will start a blaze, the foresters begin to rely on old-fashioned hope.

This year there has been a record drought in the Northwest. Wood said the number of fires may exceed any other summer.

Wood is sure things would be way past hope by now without the latest weapons.

"They have saved our bacon numerous times," he said.

'Smut Mill' Is Smashed In Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — A pornography ring, which had peddled smut pictures to buyers as far away as West Germany, was believed broken up today after detectives and postal inspectors raided a "smut mill" and arrested three men.

The raid hit a dingy house. All three men were jailed Tuesday night.

Officers said they confiscated a pickup truck load of photo-developing and printing equipment, office supplies, typewriters, magazines, and mailing lists, plus hundreds of nude pictures of young boys.

Two men in the home were aged 37 and 28, police said, and quoted them as saying they had planned to print about 600 pictures Tuesday night.

The third man, 31, was picked up in a luxury apartment nearby, where police said they confiscated more equipment.

"We have had bigger pornography rackets here," Detective Jerry Curtis said, "but there never was one as well organized as this one."

Five Alpine Men Cash In Raft Idea

ALPINE, Tex. (AP) — Five Alpine entrepreneurs are cashing in with an idea they borrowed from Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson's trip by raft through Mariscal Canyon in the Big Bend National Park in the spring of 1966 supplied the men with a new enterprise. They are conducting floating trips through any of four canyons in the park area—Mariscal, Bouquillas, Colorado or Santa Elena.

The trips are by rubber raft and the guides supply life jackets and other necessities for the trip between high, colorful bluffs and through several rapids in that section of the Rio Grande.

Failure by the defense to cash out at the crucial moment enabled South to scamper home with a contraband slam.

North opened the bidding with one diamond and South, whose holding was easily worth 20 points, flashed the immediate slam signal by making a jump shift response to three clubs. When North rebid three diamonds, South decided to check for aces via Blackwood.

When the opening bidder announced only one ace, South was obliged to give up on slam aspirations since the opposition was known to have two top controls. His bid of five hearts is conventional and requests partner to return to five no trump. Observe that South cannot bid five no trump himself since that call asks for kings. He must, therefore, make his next call in an unbid suit.

Unfortunately, North misunderstood the sequence and proceeded to six hearts, apparently thinking that his partner was showing a suit. South was obliged to carry on to six no trump and hope for the best.

West opened the ten of spades and the queen was played from dummy. Declarer observed that his only chance was to find the missing aces divided between the two defenders. It appeared that if he drove out the ace of diamonds, a heart shift might become too obvious. He, therefore, decided to play hearts himself, even tho this did not necessarily assure the establishment of 12 cashable tricks. Observe that he has only 10 top tricks in the black suits.

A heart was led from dummy and South put up the king. West was in with the ace and chose to return the nine of spades. South was in with the king and he promptly led the ten of hearts. West covered with the jack to dislodge dummy's queen, and South claimed 12 tricks—three spades, two hearts, and seven clubs.

It appears that West should have switched to a diamond when he was in with the ace of hearts. South's three club response was presumably based on a very fine club bidding to cash out. The bidding suggested that East has an ace. If it is the ace of clubs, he can hardly lose it; if it is the ace of diamonds, however, haste becomes of the essence.
