HIGH WATER GRADUALLY INCHES UP ON STALLED RAILROAD CARS

U. S. Helicopter Pilots Rescue Stranded Mexicans

HARLINGEN (AP) — The sun was already low when the call first crackled through the static. An estimated 200 people, a helicopter pilot radioed, were stranded by high water on a railroad bed near Reynosa, Mexico. Apparently they were staying in a train left there, but only a few feet of dry land remained before the tracks would be covered.

REFUSED
"Those people have refused to come out," radioed back Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. Win Corley from the cockpit of his big chopper, "but you might give them another try. Some of them may have changed their minds." Corley turned his craft steeply and looked down. Eight hundred feet below was a vast dirty brown sea. To the left, the San Juan River joined the Rio Grande. Together the two streams spread out over thousands of acres, reaching almost five miles in width. Occasionally the helicopter flew over people. Usually they were on high ground and often surrounded by water. One group was cooking over an open fire on an island shared with pigs, goats, cows and a horse. A man looked up and waved, grinning broadly. Then the busy airways snapped with another message. The people stranded on the railroad tracks wanted out. The water was coming up. Their refuge was shrinking. Corley swung his craft toward the island and circled it. Women, children and men waved and danced as he approached. NO FOOD

"They probably haven't had any food or water for a couple of days," Corley said. "They usually won't leave until the water's above their necks." "We can only take on 1,300 pounds," Corley radioed his crewman, Appren. R. J. Hertz of New Orleans, who was crouching in the door to the craft's cargo compartment. "We've got 200 to 250 people here that want to get out," Corley radioed. Other helicopters approached. And darkness came also. Soon, with no light for the evacuation, the helicopters would have to return to their base. The stranded people would spend another night in fear of rising water. Corley was suddenly in a race with darkness. Corley poured on the power. The helicopter strained and surged upward. The pilot spun it toward the McAllen airport, miles to the north, and raced through the air. Within minutes it set down, unloaded passengers, took on fuel and lifted off again. ONE MORE

"I think we can get another load," said Corley, aiming the chopper southward. Again the Mexican officer rushed people forward, two women with babies, their husbands, two other women and five small children. They carried bundles wrapped in colored cloth and their garments whipped in the wind from the helicopter blades. The radio crackled. The people on board, it said, were to be taken to a baseball park near Reynosa. With light fading rapidly, Corley came in over the park, passing just above power lines, and set down neatly on first base. A pretty young Mexican woman with a baby asleep in her arms looked toward the cockpit as she approached the door to alight. She smiled and nodded her head. HOME

It was black when he and the other pilots came in to Harlingen Air Force Base. Powerful lights cut from the craft to the runway. There was a slight bump and Corley's chopper was home. U.S. Army and Coast Guard pilots flew more than 100 such sorties Sunday. They rescued 635 people and delivered 27,330 pounds of food and medical supplies. Only darkness kept the figure from swelling.

Reuther Backs LBJ

Politics In Brief

By The Associated Press

President Johnson won a supporter, Charles Percy says he won't compete for the President's job and George Romney doesn't talk politics on Sunday.

Here is a summary of recent developments in presidential politics:
Percy Says No — Charles H. Percy, Illinois' junior Republican senator, has vowed he will go to any length to stay out of pre-convention jousting for his party's presidential nomination. "I'm not a candidate and I'm not going to campaign," Percy said, and promised to sign whatever affidavits are necessary to keep his name off preferential primary ballots.

Percy says he has been working for his party, not for himself, in keeping a busy round of cross-country speaking engagements.

Never On Sunday

Never on Sunday — Gov. George Romney of Michigan was a guest for lunch at the Pacific Palisades home of California Gov. Ronald Reagan. But the two Republicans often talked about presidential candidates said they didn't speak about politics.

"This being this day," Reagan said, Romney, a devout Mormon, "rules out discussion of politics, and I respect that. As a matter of fact I think it's a fine idea."

Today Romney continues his tour of the nation's big cities that has brought him into direct contact with slum dwellers, black nationalists and hippies.

Favorite-Son

A Favorite Son — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, who is as insistent as Sen. Percy in declaring he wants no part of the presidential sweepstakes, apparently will be his state's favorite son candidate at the 1968 GOP convention.

Republican party leadership in New York indicated this will be the best way of preserving the total impact of their state's 92 convention votes. Rockefeller has supported Romney for the nomination.

An Endorsement — President Johnson got some welcome support Sunday from one of the chief-tanks of organized labor, Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, AFL-CIO.

'Great Tragedy'

"If he is a candidate and the other people who are talked about being his opposition," Reuther said, "I see no reason why I should not" support the President.

Reuther said he has reservations on Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war, but favors strongly the President's domestic goals and believes it is a "great tragedy that Congress has not effectively implemented his program."

He said he could not support any Republican presidential nominee because the GOP "is not committed to the service and the solution of the basic problems of the American people."

Spending Ceiling Urged

NEW YORK (AP) — Congress should enact a tax increase and — if President Johnson does not cut spending — write an expenditure ceiling itself, the chief Republican tax spokesman in the House said today.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, said: "In the absence of credible action by the President to cut spending, the tax increase should be coupled with enactment of an expenditure ceiling on nondefense spending to which the President, the only one who can control spending effectively, must conform."

Terror Campaign Claims Small Boy

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel, indicating plans to stay put in some captured Arab lands, has announced it will move Jewish settlers into occupied Syria and a captured Jordanian section where Israeli troops and helicopter gunners wounded 11 Arab terrorists Sunday.

Meanwhile, the Arab stepped-up terror campaign claimed its first Israeli victim, a 3½-year-old boy whose home was wracked by explosives planted next to it. The attack in central Israel, near the old Jordan-Israeli war in 1948.

The return to occupied Jordan by sons and daughters of old Jewish settlers in the Hebron area is within 40 miles of Nablus, an Arab town where Israeli army units said they captured 13 El Fatah terrorists and Soviet automatic arms, Czech mines and Syrian hand grenades Sunday.

GUN BATTLES
Gun battles around the town continued for the second straight day. The area has been a stronghold of resistance against the Israeli occupation and scores of terrorists have been rounded up during an increase of bombing and sabotage over the past two weeks.

Israeli security patrols flushed out El Fatah squads, believed to be infiltrating across the Jordan River frontier with Jordan, from hills along the west bank while military authorities clamped down on businessmen believed to be financing them.

The report came from the crew of the 7,110-ton freighter Amfial out of Famagusta, Cyprus, which laid over in Haiphong harbor 36 days in late June and July with a cargo of sugar. The crewmen described the situation in Haiphong to U.S. and allied officials in Saigon. Parts of the report were distributed to newsmen.

The report was believed to be the first account of anti-aircraft fire from Communist Chinese ships on U.S. planes.

The crew also told the officials here that an acute labor shortage in Haiphong resulted in lengthy delays in unloading supplies, that war material was piling up on the streets and that the city's population was short of food and hungry.

The crew added that the Haiphong population was subsisting on a diet consisting mostly of rice and sugar water and most of the people wore ragged clothing.

They said the Red Chinese ships fired on U.S. planes "at every opportunity" with machine guns and 20mm guns.

The crewmen said none of the other ships from Communist countries fired at American aircraft.

dan-Israeli frontier, also wounded his parents. Prime Minister Levi Eshkol announced Israel will resettle the area on the west bank of the Jordan River between Bethlehem and Hebron where Jewish pioneers lived until the first Arab-Israeli war in 1948.

Young, army-trained pioneers already were heading into the craggy Golan Heights just beyond Israel's old border with Syria to start a new community. They will live in concrete huts along the Bnias ridge, a protected fortification for Syrian artillery firing at Israeli farms until the six-day June war.

AMC Hikes Car Prices

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors said today its 1968 cars will carry price tags averaging $99 or 3.8 per cent higher than those on comparable 1967 models.

AMC thus became the fourth U.S. car maker to increase prices on its 1968 models. According to the auto companies' own price figures, which include federal taxes and dealer preparation charges, these were in comparative increases: General Motors $110, 3.6 per cent; Ford $114, 3.9 per cent; Chrysler $133, 4.6 per cent; AMC Motors, $89, 3.8 per cent. AMC's price hike was smaller in terms of dollars than the increases announced by the Big Three but on a percentage basis it was nearer their figures.

New Floodwaters Roar Down River

Roof-Deep Water Sweeps Harlingen

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Surging waters of the flooding Rio Grande, swollen by Hurricane Beulah's massive rains, swept roof-deep through fine homes in this South Texas city today after bursting through a flood control dam.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said 5,000 persons in Harlingen had fled their homes as record torrents raged down Arroyo Colorado, a side channel of the Rio Grande.

Warnings also were issued for four other communities on the arroyo, including Mercedes, with a population of 11,143. Sim-

Volunteers Are Sought

A call went out for more volunteers to help crews who worked through the night throwing up sandbag dikes around $30,000 homes and trying to plug storm sewers that led to the arroyo.

The Department of Public Safety said Harlingen was in the greatest danger of the five communities threatened by the rampaging arroyo.

The Coast Guard said its helicopters had evacuated 635 Mexicans surrounded by Rio Grande waters elsewhere by dark Sunday.

Tremendous water pressure from the Rio Grande ripped out the flood control dam at Mercedes Sunday night, opening the

Officials Are Doubtful

Reports of heavy rains upstream Sunday afternoon in the Rio Grande watershed on both sides of the border kept officials doubtful about the amount of water that would finally roll down the border river.

Meanwhile, 150 miles north of here, new rains in the Nueces River watershed sent fresh flooding into the little town of Three Rivers, and people trying to start cleanup work were driven back to high ground. A record flood crest on the Nueces bore down on Corpus Christi Monday.

Throughout a 40,000-square-mile area in towns whipped by Beulah's winds, drenched by her rains, overrun by flooding streams and slashed by tornado-

Only A Trickle

Arroyo is a Spanish word for dry creek. Because Arroyo Colorado parallels the Rio Grande to the Gulf it often carries a trickle of water. Some fine homes are built on the north bank of the arroyo in Harlingen.

The dam was 300 to 400 feet wide with reinforced concrete abutting a center portion of half-inch steel pilings driven into the ground. In the center of the pilings was a square hole to permit a controlled amount of water—the normal trickle—to flow into the arroyo. The river smashed out the steel and concrete. The arroyo is about 90 feet deep at that point.

A. J. Moore, project engineer of the International Boundary and Water Commission, said if there was any good news in the break it was that it relieved the pressure of flood waters on levees protecting McAllen, Weslaco, Elsa and other upstream towns.

Boundary and Water Commis-ilarly imperiled were the small trading centers of La Feria, Rio Hondo and Lozano.

Water in the arroyo was a record 39.1 feet deep early this morning, a rise of almost a foot in three hours, and was still rising at this city of 41,100.

to the boiling, debris-littered river.

A state official said that since the Rio Grande was expected to stay at high water for several days, so would the arroyo, as it had become in effect a parallel river channel.

The arroyo carried a flood crest of 34.2 feet in 1958. After that flood the 300-foot wide steel and concrete dam was built near Mercedes to turn floodwaters into a man-made channel and away from the arroyo and the cities bordering it.

The State Highway Patrol set up road blocks to keep refugees from returning to the Rio Grande Valley. Most roads were either impassable or extremely difficult, anyway.

does, thousands remained in shelters—some of them short on food and water. But the water was receding in many places.

Beulah's death toll stood at 44-24 in her first sweep sweep through the Caribbean and the Yucatan Peninsula, 11 in Texas and nine in northern Mexico.

Boiling, brown and bouncing debris, the Rio Grande ripped out the steel and concrete dam near Mercedes, 14 miles upstream from here.

The dam was built at this point to turn flood waters away from the Arroyo Colorado into a man-made diversion channel which flows north, then east to the spongy coastal plain on the Gulf of Mexico.

State officials said they could not tell exactly how much water was released by the break, so they could not predict how much land it would cover. But Moore said "flooding in low areas will be there for days."

The Department of Public Safety warned evacuees to take "necessities to sustain them for a couple of days."

As the dam broke, a party of congressmen and federal agency officials arrived in Corpus Christi to make an inspection of the disaster area and then hold public hearings. They planned to split into five groups today and tour the area by helicopter.

Gov. John Connally who had returned to Austin from an inspection tour of the Valley last week planned to go today and Tuesday to disaster-struck towns farther north: Kenedy, Three Rivers, Corpus Christi, Rockport, Sinton, and Refugio.

Poll Discloses Reagan Slips

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — California's Republican party organization is ready to go to the GOP national convention backing Gov. Ronald Reagan as a favorite son presidential candidate.

A few hours before a poll was released showing Reagan's popularity has slipped a bit this summer, the Republican State Central Committee unanimously supported the first-term governor as California's favorite son.

State GOP Chairman James W. Halley told the Republicans Sunday: "The eyes of the nation are indeed on this state and on Ronald Reagan."

Mervin D. Field's California poll indicated California voters are finding more fault with Reagan. Field's figures show 37 per cent thought Reagan was doing a job as of this month, compared with 41 per cent in June. In both polls 33 per cent felt he was doing a fair job.

POOR JOB

Those finding him doing a poor job jumped from 17 to 25 per cent.

Field said voters in the earlier poll were judging Reagan more on style and personality. It now appears, he said, that Reagan's handling of state problems has begun to affect his popularity.

Field said Reagan is being criticized chiefly for proposing cuts in the state health program, raising taxes, cutting mental health funds and proposing tuition and fee increases for the state university.

The Republican party's state policy-making body gave its blessing to Reagan as the state's favorite son candidate for president next June as the head of an 86-vote delegation in the state's presidential primary election.

As of now no opposition is in sight for the Reagan delegation, and none is expected since both moderate and conservative wings of the party endorsed Reagan as a favorite son.

Reagan insists he is not an outright candidate for president, but just wants to be a favorite son to unify the party in his home state.

HIGH TIME

The Central Committee praised Reagan for "a job well done" as governor and unanimously supported his economies in such state welfare programs as medical aid to the poor.

Adoption of the resolution followed an unexpected debate in which two Negro Central Committee members pleaded that their race be given a place on the Reagan delegation.

One of them, Benjamin Perry, from the South Central Los Angeles district hit by the Watts riot of 1965, noted that California's 1964 Barry Goldwater presidential delegation had no minority group members.

Thousands Receive Food And Shelter

BROWNSVILLE (AP)—"When the need arises, it's surprising how many people come forward and volunteer," says the Red Cross coordinator for operations in this hurricane-battered city.

And the crushing load on both regulars and volunteers carried over into a second week today as the flooded Rio Grande pushed through a diversion dam at Mercedes. Thousands fled to shelters.

The Red Cross fed 100,000 persons and sheltered 49,897 in 133 centers Saturday night, the last statistics available and now out of date because of the new refugees in middle Valley towns.

H. H. Gilliam of Brownwood, coordinating the Brownsville Red Cross activities, said his command issued a week's supply of food to 1,600 families in Brownsville Saturday and Sunday which the families took back to their water-soaked homes.

They preferred going home rather than staying in the centers. "We have only one shelter operating now with about 200 persons in it," Gilliam said Sunday night. Most can't go home because their houses are too badly damaged or still afloat in the aftermath of Hurricane Beulah and her mammoth rains.

"When we wind up the emergency mass care—that's meeting the food, clothing, medical, and shelter needs—then we'll go into the rehabilitation long-haul, individual-planning stage," Gilliam said.

Barring new rains in the Rio Grande, the rehabilitation stage may come within three to five days, he said, at least in Brownsville.

In Port Isabel, mobile food units are kept in operation "because the buildings are not in any shape for us to set up feeding in them yet. The situation is not such that people can stay. They commute back and forth to Harlingen, going to Port Isabel to do repairs in the days and then back to the shelters at night," he said.

Gilliam said the volunteers, as well as the professionals, have been working 20 and 22-hour days, catching a nap on a cot for a half hour or so occasionally.

"But you can't imagine the volunteer support we're getting from business and labor and churches and Boy and Girl Scouts, and clubs such as the Jaycees."

Commissioners Meeting Tonight

Annexation and the annual audit report will headline the agenda of the Big Spring City Commission tonight, meeting a day ahead of schedule so city officials may attend the Austin anniversary dinner for the Texas Highway Department Tuesday evening.

A request to change Main Street to United Fund Street during October is requested and commissioners will be asked to approve tying on the Christmas lighting to the city's electric lines.

He said Brownsville schools were tentatively set to reopen Tuesday, unless new flooding forced great numbers of persons from Matamoros, across the Rio Grande in Mexico, to seek refuge in Brownsville schools.

Five Harlingen schools were used as refugee centers Sunday night when the diversion dam broke at Mercedes and more than 2,500 persons were alerted to flee from the potential new floods.

Palmer Simpson, regional manager of the southwest region of Red Cross in Houston, said an on-foot survey of houses and businesses in the flooded regions will begin this week. An aerial survey taken by the Red Cross Friday and Saturday will be used as guidance.

Simpson furnished the statistics on Red Cross shelters this weekend and gave this breakdown, also as of Saturday: Brownsville 800 persons; Harlingen 225, Hidalgo County 25,000; Raymondville 1,500; Roma 4,000; Rio Grande City 4,500; Aransas Pass 25; Corpus Christi 200; Pettus 200; Sinton 500; Beeville 100; Georgewest 2,000; Robstown 1,250; Rockport 100; Alice 200; Three Rivers 500; San Antonio 600; Pleasanton 76; Victoria 510; Calhoun 75; Gonzalez 52; Karnes 345; Yoakum 45; Falfurrias 1,500, and Mathis 100.

Stops Tormenting Rectal Itch

Exclusive Formula Promptly Stops Itching. Burning and Relieves Pain of Piles In Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): The embarrassing itch caused by hemorrhoids is most torturous. But science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids. And all without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind.

There is no other hemorrhoid formula like it. Preparation II also lubricates, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Sky Diver Plunges To Death

Body of amateur sky diver John Wasik, 27, lies in a field near a Rockledge airport after he fell 3,200 feet when his parachute did not open. Letters on the body indicated he committed suicide during the plunge yesterday. Exactly five weeks before, Wasik's wife, Rickie, 22, was killed near the same spot when her parachute straps became tangled during her second jump. Today would have been their first wedding anniversary.

Skydiver Folds Hands In Prayer

ROCKLEDGE, Fla. (AP)—Carrying the signed contract for his own funeral and wearing two parachutes, skydiver John Wasik stepped from an airplane Sunday at 3,200 feet. Instead of gripping the ripcord he folded his hands in prayer and crashed to his death.

Five weeks earlier almost to the hour Wasik stood below at Green Air Park and watched his pretty wife, Rickie, 22, bail out of the same plane on her second jump and die near his feet after her chute tangled.

Shattered by the death of his wife, whom he married one year ago today, Wasik told a reporter, "She took up skydiving just to please me."

The papers in his wallet indicated Wasik wanted to be buried beside his wife in the $1,700 silver casket he had chosen.

Wasik was an aerospace reporter and he continued on the job, returning to sport parachuting after the accident.

"He told me it is the best way to die, the way Rickie would want to die," said Pearl S. Leech, Wasik's editor at the Melbourne, Fla., Daily Times.

"She would want to die having fun; doing what she wanted to do."

Mrs. Leech said, "He told me that would never happen to him because he had enough experience so that, if his chute curled, he would know how to right himself."

Lyle Goodin, safety officer for the Falling Stars Jump Club, watched through binoculars from the ground Sunday as Wasik hurtled toward the ground.

"He held his hands in a praying position," Goodin said.

"We yelled and screamed at him to hit his chute," said Terry Alford, jumpmaster for the club.

Wasik was 27.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KJ9752 ♥2 ♦43 ♣Q865

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass 1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠

Pass 2 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—A prompt withdrawal from the scene is recommended. Partner would expect more substantial values if you rebid spades and might be induced to take action attended with danger.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠9832 ♥87 ♦Q862 ♣J53

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ 1 NT Pass Pass

Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two clubs. While we never originally dreamed of making a call on this hand, partner's action has made a bid necessary. To pass would be presenting the opposition with a clear profit and, altho bidding two clubs is attended with some degree of risk, it seems at this point to be the least dangerous procedure.

Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AKQ ♥AK10953 ♦3 ♣Q76

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. While it may be tempting to make an immediate jump raise in spades, such temptation should be resisted. Repeated diamond leads might play havoc with a spade contract, whereas at hearts you could handle the force without great inconvenience.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠6 ♥AQJ108743 ♣AQJ9

Your partner opens with one spade. What is your response?

A.—Three diamonds. Unless an immediate jump shift is made, subsequent bidding problems are sure to arise. Partner needs very little to produce a slam, and the big signal should be flashed at once.

Q. 5—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠762 ♥AK8 ♥AJ87 ♣32

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—One diamond. Even though you passed a 12 point hand nothing more drastic is as yet indicated. If partner is unable to take further constructive action there will be no game.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AQJ3 ♥Q87653 ♦Q ♣A4

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

Pass 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♠

Pass 2 ♥ Pass 3 ♣

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. A rebid of three no trump should be avoided wherever possible on distinctly unbalanced holdings. The mere fact that all four suits are adequately protected does not mark a hand for no trump. Communication between the two hands may be too tenuous to make the contract playable. Only if partner chooses to bid three no trump himself would we find this contract acceptable.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠2 ♥AQ7 ♥K1087532 ♣J

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 NT 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner has not expressed a desire to have you participate. If that were in his mind he would have doubled the opening bid. Unless North is highly indiscreet he has a reliable spade suit and inasmuch as he has not been doubled there is no present danger. A bid of three diamonds appears to have no real future and might tend only to stir up the animals.

Q. 8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J62 ♥982 ♦9872 ♣865

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass

3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. It is your duty at this stage to show a preference if you have one, which, bidding three spades to as honor, you have. If you bid three no trump, any subsequent spade preference you give may induce partner to believe you have only two spades.

Installation Service Set

Ministers of the West Texas District of the Church of God will visit Big Spring Tuesday night to conduct the formal installation of Rev. Forrest Robinson as pastor of the Highland Church of God.

Rev. Robinson arrived in Big Spring a few weeks ago and is making his home in the church parsonage, 610 State. He came to Big Spring from Madisonville, Ky., where he ministered for almost seven years, during which time the church experienced much growth and expansion of its program. He has served the Church of God in numerous capacities and has conducted meetings in about 20 states.

Rev. Robinson follows the Rev. Clyde Casleton as pastor of the Highland Church of God which has experienced rapid growth in its five year history. The church was started in 1962 and has grown from a small group to a strong congregation. The church will observe its fifth anniversary in special services Oct. 8.

The keynote speaker for the installation service will be Rev. Billy Sanders, Lubbock, and a number of other district ministers are on the program.

The church invites the public. Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be followed by an open house at the parsonage.

Tornado Rips Roof

By The Associated Press

A tornado tore the roof off a farm house south of San Antonio and thunderstorms roved parts of South Texas Sunday while floods deal still more danger as an aftermath of Hurricane Beulah.

Up to 3 inches of rain by unofficial measurement descended in San Antonio, sending more runoff to roll down overtaxed creeks and rivers. Laredo received .84 inch and Brownsville .69.

The twister struck near the Bexar County line, also wrecking some smaller farm buildings.

Thunderstorm activity elsewhere was heaviest from near Palacios and Beeville, still sodden from last week's downpours, and eastward into the area between Freeport and Houston.

Flood waters tore out a control dam late Sunday on a side channel of the Rio Grande, loosing muddy torrents to threaten the Harlingen vicinity.

Severe flooding also persisted on numerous other rivers, among them the Nueces above Corpus Christi, and the Atascosa, Frio, Guadalupe, Lavaca, Nacogdoches and San Antonio.

By early today, however, skies were mostly clear over Texas except for a thundershower at El Paso and partly cloudy skies in some sections of South Texas.

A weekend cool front disappeared, turning into a stationary front which retreated northward before stalling across Central Oklahoma.

Home With The Quads

Life has returned to normal for Mrs. Ruth Fahrenkrog, Florissant, Mo., who said Sunday taking care of her quadruplet boys is "Not as bad as I thought it would be." Mom holds identical twins Paul and Mark while Richard Fahrenkrog holds fraternal twins Brian and Dwayne. The other children are Kevin, 20 mos. (between parents); Brenda, 3 (front); and standing, Craig, 5; Debbie, 7; Ricky, 9, and Karen 6.

Lawmakers Try To Ease Pains

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — A U.S. House public works subcommittee, accompanied by Texas Sen. Ralph Yarborough, arrived in the flood soaked Rio Grande Valley today to see what they can do about Hurricane Beulah victims.

The nine congressmen, including several non-members of the committee, flew first over hurricane damage at Port Mansfield and the broad, brown flood that is the Arroyo Colorado which caused evacuation of several thousand.

Later today they were to visit other Valley disaster spots. "It is worse than I expected at Port Mansfield," Yarborough said. "I saw the damage after Carla and I believe there are a higher percentage of houses destroyed at Port Mansfield than I saw anywhere in Carla except Port O'Connor."

"There was certainly a lot of dangerous looking water down there," said Rep. Robert Jones, D-Ala., chairman of the subcommittee which will hold formal hearings in Corpus Christi Tuesday.

The lawmakers were greeted and briefed at Harlingen Air Force Base by Maj. Gen. Richard C. Stillwell, commander of the 1st Armored Division and commander of Task Force Bravo, the joint military services command that is handling rescue and relief operations in the Valley.

The delegation is flying in five helicopters. They took off early this morning from Corpus Christi.

Other tours and hearings are set for Wednesday and possibly Thursday.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., said the base of operations was switched to Corpus Christi because of the weather in the Valley Sunday.

DISASTER SPOTS

Three helicopters with Jones, Yarborough, Wright and Rep. Dan. Clausen, R-Calif., a committee member, plus government and military experts were scheduled to circle the Valley disaster spots. Two helicopters with Reps. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., James Kee, D-W.Va., and William McEwen, R-N.Y., all committee members, and accompanied by Reps. John Young, D-Tex., and Abraham Kazen, D-Tex., were to make a trip in the Coastal Bend area that would include Three Rivers, Sinton, Victoria, Goliad, Rockport, Corpus Christi, Robstown, Alice and other points.

There were tentative plans for the two groups to reverse their tour routes Wednesday. Raymond Telles, chairman of the U. S. section of the United States-Mexico Border Development Commission, who flew to Corpus Christi with the congressmen, planned to make his own survey of border cities, including those on the Mexican side.

RESCUE AIRCRAFT

Lt. Gen. L. J. Lincoln, Fourth Army commander in charge of all rescue and relief operations, said military officers felt they could spare the five helicopters from the approximately 25 military helicopters on duty in the Valley.

Rep. Robert Jones, D-Ala., urged Lincoln to be sure the aircraft would not be needed for search and rescue use before assigning them to the subcommittee.

Police Check Several Thefts

Thefts of a television set, tape player, approximately $140 in cash and a bicycle were reported during the weekend.

H. Keith, of Keith Motel, 1100 E. 3rd, reported the loss of a portable TV set. A tape player and a bottle of whiskey were reported stolen by Charles Morrison, 2511 E. 11th, Mack Bowlers, 813 W. 18th, reported the theft of approximately $140 by two men. A boy's bicycle was reported taken from the residence of Mrs. James L. Switzer, 1807 S. Monticello.

Bus Drivers Okay Pact

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The nearly 500 bus drivers and hourly workers at San Antonio's city-owned transit company accepted a new contract with a 24-cent hourly wage increase early today.

The drivers are unionized but under Texas law cannot strike against the public-owned company. Many had threatened to "go fishing," however, if a contract was not agreed upon.

The contract guarantees a 24-cent hike by next May, a 90-day accumulated sick leave and a $50 annual uniform allowance.

Shots Reported

Shots were reported fired at 10:29 p.m. Saturday in the Southland Apartments area near Webb AFB. A man at the apartments reported to police that a shot had been fired at his wife as she was walking to the rent office.

Holstein Is Real Producer

Bronston Leader Iris 5522324, a four-year-old registered Holstein cow owned by Bill Stansell, Fluvanna, has produced a noteworthy record of 21,650 pounds of milk and 772 pounds of butterfat in 329 days. Texas A&M University supervised the test. The average U.S. dairy cow's estimated annual output is 8,513 pounds of milk containing 315 pounds of butterfat.

Fifty House Members Propose Formal Look At Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress needs to take a formal look at U.S. policy in the Vietnam war, 50 House members suggested today.

The 46 Republicans and 4 Democrats proposed a resolution asking Congress to decide "whether further congressional action is desirable in respect to policies in Southeast Asia."

As they prepared their move: —Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said Sunday he does not believe Soviet rejection of his bid for help in getting North Vietnam to the conference table has wrecked peace hopes.

RETALIATION —Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., said Saturday night the United States indirectly told Red China several years ago it would face massive retaliation, including nuclear firepower, if it entered the war in Vietnam. The State Department said no one has been threatened and the White House declined comment on Mundt's remarks.

—Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said Sunday night the Soviet Union might send pilots to fly the

Norvell Will Not Seek Re-Election

AUSTIN (AP) — Associate Justice James R. Norvell of the Texas Supreme Court announced today he will not seek re-election.

Norvell's term expires Dec. 31, 1968. He was elected to the high court in 1956 after serving 17 years on the 4th Civil Appeals Court at San Antonio.

Norvell turned 65 Sunday. He said he would maintain his interest in the legal profession and governmental affairs through writing, lecturing and teaching.

MIGs it is supplying North Vietnam.

—Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers, advocated a pause in bombing of North Vietnam "for a period until I think that we have done everything reasonably possible to exhaust the possibilities of new initiatives that might lead to the conference table."

NEW MOVE —Signers of the latest move in Congress to test U.S. policy in Vietnam range in political philosophy from conservative to liberal.

Last Cotton Gin In Corsicana Shut —The last cotton gin in Corsicana has closed, although 10 are operating in Navarro County. At one time 57 gins, four in Corsicana, were in operation. Switching of land from cotton to grass is seen as the cause of the decline in number of gins.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said: "This resolution arises, in my opinion, from deep-seated

New LTV Plant Is Disclosed

GREGG COUNTY AIRPORT, Tex. (AP) — LTV Aerospace Corp. will establish a new multi-million dollar facility at the Gregg County Airport.

The new plant will start production by May 1968 and is due to grow to a 500-employee organization with an annual payroll of more than $3 million by mid-1969.

The plant will be used principally to turn out components for the A7 Corsair II light attack airplane which the company is producing for the Navy and Air Force.

An LTV spokesman said the plant will cost approximately $4 million in construction and equipment and is part of an expansion program by the company.

conviction that the Congress itself should deal at this time with questions of basic policy in regard to the Vietnam war. It provides the means through which the Congress can discharge responsibilities in foreign policy clearly placed upon it by the Constitution."

The resolution, if approved by the House and Senate, would call upon congressional committees to consider the questions and report their findings to the two branches.

UNEASINESS —Findley, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said he senses "a great uneasiness among members of Congress, many of whom voted for the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution."

The resolution authorized "all necessary measures" the President might take "to repel any armed attack" against U.S. forces and "to prevent further aggression." It also approved in advance "all necessary steps including the use of armed force" which the President might take to help any nation that requested aid "in defense of its freedom" under the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty.

Findley said the congressional uneasiness arose in part because there was the absence of an official determination at the time that an armed attack had occurred against South Vietnam.

Rain Spoils Trip For Lynda, Fiance

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Rain spoiled a fishing trip Sunday for Lynda Bird Johnson and her fiance, Marine Capt. Charles Robb, who arrived here on Saturday.

The President's daughter, Robb, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Woodward of Dallas were met at the airport by industrialist Bruno Pagliai and his actress-wife, Merle Oberon.

They were taken to Los Arcos, the Pagliai's palatial residence. A Secret Service agent told Lynda Bird, Robb and the Woodwards had planned to stay about a week, "but if it keeps on raining like this perhaps we'll be leaving sooner."

That resolution was approved by Congress Aug. 7, 1964.

The resolution authorized "all necessary measures" the President might take "to repel any armed attack" against U.S. forces and "to prevent further aggression." It also approved in advance "all necessary steps including the use of armed force" which the President might take to help any nation that requested aid "in defense of its freedom" under the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty.

Sukarno's Wife And Child Arrive

Ratna Sari Dewi, 26, wife of former Indonesian President Sukarno, holds their daughter, Kartika, six months old, upon their arrival at Kennedy Airport here last night from Japan. They will be staying in New York. Ratna denied reports she plans to divorce Sukarno, who has never seen Kartika.

Lynda's Wed Date Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House wedding of Lynda Bird Johnson and Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, with 14 bridal attendants, will be held in the historic East Room on Saturday, Dec. 9.

The White House made the announcement today.

Lynda, 23, eldest daughter of the President and Mrs. Johnson, will have her younger sister, Mrs. Patrick J. Nugent, 20, of Austin, Tex., as her matron of honor.

Close friends, relatives, and friends of the bridegroom, including one on duty now in Vietnam, will be in the bridal party. Lynda and her fiancé, Capt. Robb, 28, are vacationing at Acapulco, Mexico.

It will be an Episcopal service, but neither the time of day, nor the name of the officiating minister has yet been announced.

The maid-of-honor will be Lynda's close friend and roommate at the University of Texas, Warrice Lynn Smith, 23, of San Antonio, Tex.

Robb's best man is a fellow Marine captain—William Douglas Davidson, 28, who has been his roommate, too, at the Marine barracks in Washington.

Like Robb, he has been on duty as a White House social aide. Davidson is from Ker-shaw, S.C.

Among the wedding attendants will be Lynda's brother-in-law, Patrick J. Nugent, 25.

Bridesmaids will be: Marguerite T. Robb, 19, sister of the bridegroom, from Milwaukee, Wis.

Lynda's long-time friend, Mrs. Thomas Curtis, 25, of Austin, Tex.

President Johnson's secretary, Marie Fehmer, 27, of Dallas, Tex.

The wife of a former White House social aide, Mrs. Jerrald Giles, 26, of Springfield, Va.

And Phyllis Bonanno, 24, a secretary at McCall's magazine in New York City, who the White House said has been a close friend of Lynda's since she started her job as a McCall's writer a year ago. Miss Bonanno is from Stamford, Conn.

Groomsmen will include: A former White House social aide, Marine Capt. Peter R. McCarthy, 29, of Newport, R.I.

Neil Burmeister, 29, a college friend from the University of Wisconsin, who now works in Pompano Beach, Fla. He is from Madison, Wis.

Another of the bridegroom's long-time friends, William J. Foley II, 28 of Chagrin Falls, Ohio.

One of Lynda's long-time friends, Joseph E. Batson Jr., 23, a University of Texas law school student, of Amarillo, Tex.

And Air Force Capt. Frederick G. Widicus, 33, the senior Air Force social aide at the White House. Capt. Widicus is from Edwardsville, Ill.

58th Rio Victim

LA FERIA, Tex. (AP) — Establisao B. Garcia, 64, died Sunday night when he was struck by a car as he walked along U.S. 53 in La Feria. It was the 58th traffic death recorded in the Lower Rio Grande Valley this year.

Demo Leaders Face Big Task

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Congress is expected to stay in session until late this year, Democratic leaders are having a difficult time finding enough business to keep the House busy.

When Rep. James A. Haley, D-Fla., complained last week that the House should meet five days a week, finish its business and go home, Democratic Leader Carl Albert replied that the House works each week until it finishes its business.

"We do work all the time trying to get the legislative business from the committees of the House and from the committee on rules which must clear legislation for floor consideration, in order to have a full week of business," the Oklahoma Democrat told Haley.

'MUST' ACTION
But most of the important bills that still have to be passed, such as the antipoverty measure and the President's tax increase proposal, are so deeply buried in committees there is little likelihood of early House action.

In a way, it is a vicious cycle. The House does not schedule business on Fridays and some Mondays, but then committees are unable to meet those days since many members go home since the House is not meeting.

Thus, the House falls behind schedule, and so do the committees.

The Senate is still far behind the House in considering appropriations bills, having passed nine to 14 for the House. Moreover, the Senate will have to wait for House action before it can even take up the tax increase.

NO HURRY
During the past week, the leadership barely managed to round up enough bills and get them through the Rules Committee to put together enough business to keep House members busy in the coming week.

Except for an important bill to expand the federal program to prevent juvenile delinquency, the program consists of such things as an amendment of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the Fire Research and Safety Act and the monthly resolution to provide for continued appropriations at last year's levels because the fiscal 1968 money measures have not been approved.

Should action on these be completed, the leadership might have only two major bills with Rules Committee clearance available for the following week's schedule. Both are controversial measures no one is in much hurry to bring up.

Hurricane Kills Fish

HOUSTON (AP) — Heavy rains and high tides generated by Hurricane Beulah have caused thousands of fish, mostly mullet, to die in the lower reaches of the Houston ship channel.

"This is one of the most serious fish kills we've seen in some time," said Bob Cross, enforcement supervisor of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Cross said today the most massive kills were in Burnett, San Jacinto and Scott Bays.

"The high tides from Beulah pushed a lot of good water into the bays and the fish followed it. Then the rains flushed the channel and trapped them," he said in La Porte.

He added there generally is a complete lack of oxygen in the channel and fish cannot live from there to the turning basin.

"This polluted water usually trickles out slowly and can be absorbed in the better water, but every time we get a flushing rain we get a fish kill," he said.

Truckers List 2 Conditions

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—About 800 truckers from four states voted unanimously Sunday to turn down five proposals from the Teamsters Union aimed at ending a month-old strike.

The truckers agreed, however, to return to work for 90 days if they could get two conditions in writing from the Teamsters, according to Darrell Goff, a truckers' spokesman from Toledo.

The conditions specified were: —A guarantee of no loss of seniority or reprisals against anyone on strike.

—The state of "good faith negotiations between representatives of the steelhauled and other interested parties."

Goff said the proposals were made by Frank Fitzsimmons, executive vice president of the Teamsters in Detroit.

During the 90 days, spokesmen for the strikers said talks must continue to reopen the Teamsters contract. Trucker owner-operators want an increase to 79 per cent of the fee for hauling steel under contractor lease to major trucking firms. They now get an average of 73 per cent.

The truckers said they would go out again after 90 days if the dispute is not settled.

Truckers came from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Indiana to attend the meeting.

The eight-state strike began last month in Indiana.

Father-In-Law Of City Editor Stabbed, Beaten

FORT WORTH (AP) — William Henry Doss, 70, father-in-law of Delbert Willis, city editor of the Fort Worth Press, was in critical condition today at a local hospital after being beaten and stabbed 17 times Sunday night at his home.

Doss said an unknown assailant beat and stabbed him then fled with an undetermined amount of money.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be as charming as possible today, and tonight if you in any way attempt to get the sympathy of others by complaining, you find you lose out in the direction that mean the most to you. Show that you value the good will of any and all with whom you have contact, even though you want to go off and play somewhere else.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Home and family should be first on the agenda today. Forget all those personal plans for awhile. You like to plan and this would be one of those days when you would get into a good deal of trouble. Take it easy.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You are feeling very strong and wise and if behaves you to get outside problems handled cleverly. Also, visit with a pal who is ill. Try to be as helpful as you can with this person.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Financial affairs cannot be helped by just forgetting them. Do something constructive about them and stop worrying. Show others that you are an extremely sensible person. Get back into the groove of things.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 22) While others may not be giving you the help or cooperation you desire, take to your stride. They are out of sorts. Take time to entertain others, though you may not be in a good mood yourself.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23) Any good system you hit upon now that will assist you to get rid of some petty problem is fine. Learn to smile more. Your intuition is not working properly, so use only your finest judgment.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) Be realistic and show good points how much you think of them. Do them some favor that they will appreciate. Avoid the social scene, since they could be quite disappointing. Be clever in handling business matters.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Now is the time for you to cultivate that man or woman of influence who can get you the good will of an influential person. Forget gossip of others or there is bound to be trouble for you. Retire early in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) You have been living your life since the same humdrum, rather poor philosophy that has done very little for you. Evaluate your progress now. Listen to what a fine new friend advises. Then follow his advice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Better keep busy with every responsibility about 24 hours a day. A better before going off to fun you like. Don't give up to that temptation to give another a piece of your mind. Be controlled.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have the right system for handling duties others expect from you. Use them and get the system for others quickly. You get necessary information you rather would not have, but in the long run, everything will be in the order of the day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Laboring diligently in the order of the day, so forget entertainment for the time being. You have certain excellent ideas. Give fellow workers benefit of them only. Then you increase output very much.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) If you do only that which is right, following proven paths, this can be a very fine day and evening for you. Much you like to do comes easily to you now, though it has been difficult before. Be happy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN tomorrow He, or she, will surely in life have to be taught how to come to quick decisions, since the mind is a deliberating one here, and procrastination could be the drawback throughout the lifetime. There is an elusive charm here that draws others easily, but be sure early that it is not used to shirk responsibilities, hard work.

RESERVIST CRUSHED

Auto Accidents Take 11 Lives

By The Associated Press
Auto accidents took 11 lives and the over-all toll from violence was 19 in Texas during the weekend.

The deaths occurred between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Four members of an Irving family died in the worst crash, which occurred Friday night when a car dodged a stray call and collided with a truck. The

Ship's Officer Lost Overboard

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — All 40 officers and crew of the fire-ravaged Yugoslav freighter Trebinje were pulled aboard the Dutch cargo ship Schiekerk Sunday. But in the rescue operation the Dutch ship's chief officer was lost overboard.

The Schiekerk radioed that it could not find its missing officer in the Indian Ocean and was heading for Cape Town.

The Trebinje's rescued officers and crew—wet, cold and tired—were being treated aboard the Schiekerk for shock and exposure. The men had drifted most of the night in two rubber dinghies, swirled around by rough seas.

They had abandoned ship 285 miles east of Durban when flames enveloped the 7,401-ton Trebinje.

victims were Ray G. Harman, 36; his wife, Sue, 35, and their sons William, 9, and Ray Jr., 11. These were among the others dying violently.

SHOT TO DEATH

William Mercer, 18, was shot and killed Sunday during an argument at his girl friend's home. Police held a man for questioning.

Officers charged Joseph Rogers with murder after his wife, Geraldine, 43, was beaten to death early Sunday in her Houston apartment. Rogers was held without bond.

Pfc. Thomas Ray Oliphant, 24, an Army reservist, was crushed to death Sunday when a truck overturned at a curve 10 miles north of Decatur as he drove to pick up a special forces parachute team. He and Pfc. Chris Bowers, also 24, were pinned under the vehicle. Bowers, suffering only minor injuries, dug clear and summoned aid.

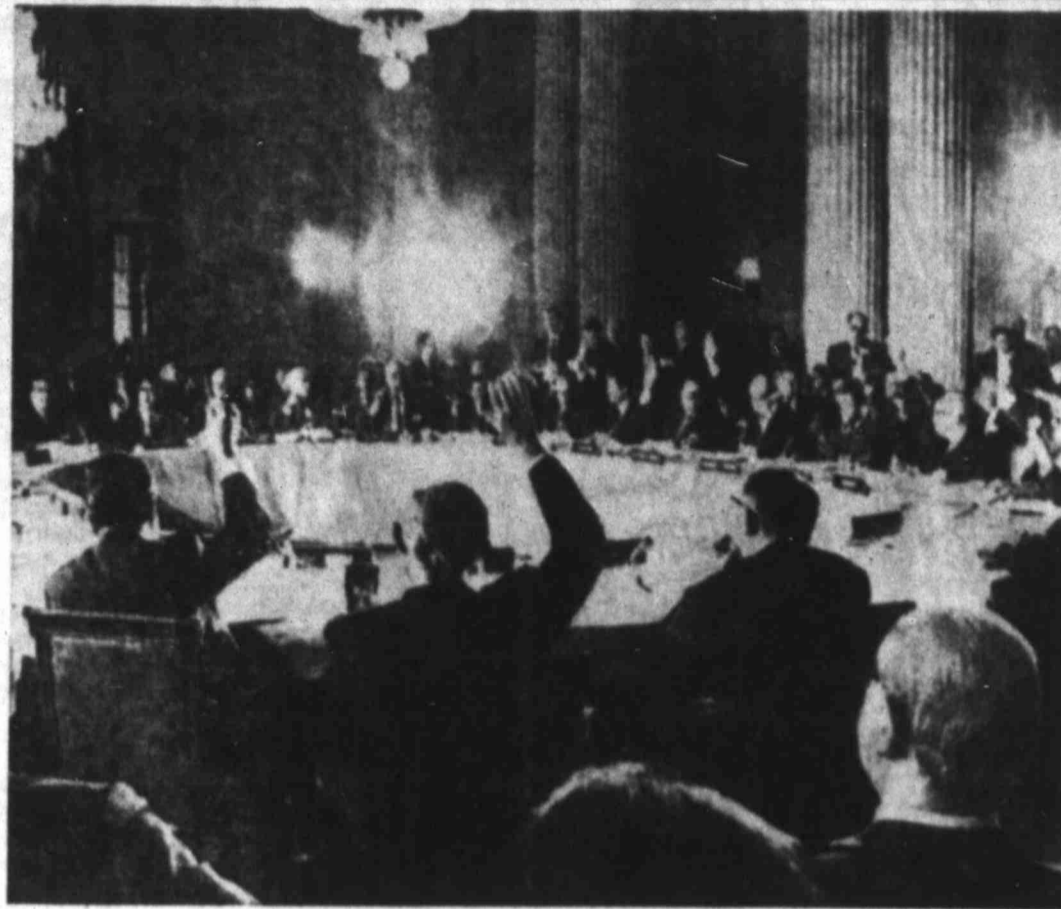

CAR HITS BRIDGE

Nicholas Jianfortoni, 18, was killed by a bullet as he listened to an argument early Sunday while attending a trailer house party in Houston. Police sought a suspect.

Robert Charles Andrews, 18, was killed and two companions suffered critical injuries as their car hit a bridge railing Sunday in Dallas. Police said the crash occurred during a high-speed chase involving several patrol cars. The injured youths were Wilson Elliott and Charles Carpenter, both 17.

Show Of Hands Against Castro's Cuba

Foreign ministers of the Western Hemisphere raise their hands as they voted last night to "condemn forcefully" Castro-communist subversion and to impose limited sanctions against non-communist ships sailing to Cuba. In foreground, backs to camera,

Foreign Ministers Denounce Fidel Castro's Regime Anew

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a blast at Castro-Communist subversion in Latin America, the Hemisphere foreign ministers signed early today a resolution recommending that the American republics apply limited sanctions against non-Communist ships which sail to Cuba.

The 20-0 vote "to condemn forcefully" Fidel Castro's regime for "repeated intervention and aggression" in Venezuela, Bolivia and other hemisphere countries was a highlight of the debate-filled, three-day Organization of American States conference on the Cuban threat.

SWEET VICTORY
The closer 15-0 vote, with six abstentions, for the U.S.-proposed shipping penalty was an especially sweet victory for weary U.S. diplomats.

After long hours of negotiating they lost a bid for hemisphere blacklisting of non-Communist firms doing business with Cuba.

Under the shipping proviso, part of a 15-point resolution aimed at confining the Havana menace, non-Communist vessels going to Cuba would be denied fueling facilities in Latin American ports and would get no government-financed cargoes.

The United States itself has long applied this penalty. Under the new OAS recommendation, which is not mandatory, it is up to the other American republics to follow suit.

BLACKLISTING

The idea is to put more teeth into appeals by OAS members—who have barred their own trade with Cuba—to other non-Communist nations to quit dealing with Castro so long as he pushes insurrection in the Americas.

Another point in the new resolution repeated the OAS appeal to "friendly states" to curb their commercial transactions and government credits in Cuban trade. But it was watered down with elimination of the blacklisting proviso.

Since January, 1963, calls by non-Communist ships at Cuban ports have dropped by one third with the U.S. blacklisting of some 270 vessels. Cuba's trade with the West has slipped to about $350 million a year, but countries such as England, France and Spain continue to do business with her.

BITTER DEBATE

It was past midnight—half a day behind schedule—when the foreign affairs chiefs finally signed the resolution after long-winded debate in closed and open sessions.

To Venezuela, which called the conference after persistent Havana-backed terrorism in that country, the declaration was an "enormous satisfaction."

U.S. diplomats hailed the 20-0 tally as evidence of hemisphere solidarity against Castro. Only Mexico abstained from the vote. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said: "Today the hemisphere is more unified than ever, more determined than ever to assure the peace, security and tranquility to which all of us aspire."

In most respects, the 15-point resolution breaks no new ground beyond recommendations made by the Inter-American body in past years.

Humphrey Suffers Minor Back Injury

W. Va. (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey suffered a back injury Saturday during a weekend visit here.

Marsha Shepherd, Humphrey's secretary, said Humphrey was walking at the time, but did not elaborate.

"It's nothing serious," Miss Shepherd said. "He's getting around fine—he was even out trap-shooting Sunday."

U.S. Planes Drop Leaflets Urging Reds To Join South

SAIGON (AP)—As the blasting back and forth across South Vietnam's northern frontier went into its third week, U.S. planes dropped leaflets urging North Vietnamese villagers to join the South, officials said today.

In an unprecedented move, some 240,000 leaflets were dropped in a village just above the border warning of "the terrible rain of death and destruction" caused by B52 bombing attacks in the area.

GIANT STRIDES
Meanwhile, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, said because of allied victories over the last two years, "We are now in a position from which the picture of ultimate military success may be viewed with increasing clarity."

He told South Korean troops in Saigon the allies "have taken tremendous strides toward military victory over the past two years."

In the border battle, Communist gunners fired more than 300 rounds today at Con Thien, a U.S. Marine outpost just 2 1/2 miles below the demilitarized zone. Marine commanders refuse to give up the post, saying it holds a commanding position overlooking Communist infiltration routes down from the DMZ, where North Vietnam reportedly has perhaps 35,000 troops.

RED PRESSURE
The B52s mentioned in the leaflets have been trying to take Communist pressure off Con Thien.

The eight-engine B52 Stratofortresses struck twice Sunday night and again today at Communist gun positions buried inside the DMZ. The bombers now have flown 79 strikes since mid-August in support of Con Thien and nearby outposts, unleashing perhaps 12 million pounds of bombs.

Associated Press Correspondent Edwin Q. White, with the Marines at Con Thien, reported that Marine casualties from today's shelling, although not officially disclosed, were relatively light.

White said this apparently was because the barrage came in the early morning when the Marines were still in their muddy bunkers and foxholes and not moving about the three small hills that make up the Con Thien base.

MARINES KILLED
Con Thien and another Marine outpost, Camp Carroll, were hit with about 125 rounds of artillery and rocket fire Sunday that left four Marines dead and 48 wounded, the U.S. Command said.

The Marines have suffered, by unofficial count, 61 dead and 785 wounded since Sept. 1 in shelling of the outposts. Most of the casualties have been taken at Con Thien. The Communists reportedly have about 100 artillery pieces aimed at the American positions.

ARMS SEIZED
Elements of the U.S. Army's 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment clashed for nearly 10 hours Sunday with an estimated 150 Communist troops dug in fortified positions near coastal Tam Ky, 550 miles northeast of Saigon. The U.S. troops reported

While the artillery duels raged across the DMZ in what appears to be a war of attrition along the frontier, one significant ground action was reported elsewhere.

THE SCENE
Recommended

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Telephone Hour returned to prime evening time on NBC and its premiere show Friday night, "The Many Faces of Romeo and Juliet" which was rich and rewarding.

The hour was, in a way, a sort of stunt-it demonstrated how the lovers of Verona leaped from Shakespeare's pages into other art forms—ballet, opera and the Broadway musical stage.

With Claire Bloom a beautiful, young Juliet and Jason Roberts—far too mature—playing Romeo, the program opened with a reading of the balcony scene. The orchestra played Berlioz and Tchaikovsky music with the same theme.

Then Carla Fracci and Erik Bruhn danced the scene, followed by another interpretation in Gounod's opera, sung by Anna Moffo and Sandor Konya. Finally there was Carol Lawrence and Larry Kert in a modern version, "West Side Story," with Leonard Bernstein's music.

ABC on Sunday night preempted its entire evening for a pair of programs it labeled "specials"—one being a three and one-half hour broadcast of the 1962 movie, "Mutiny on the Bounty." The other, earlier, was an ice skating show taped in Germany.

For most of us, one ice show looks pretty much like the next—the chorus of girl skaters, the athletic skating stars, the comedy skaters—and of course the comedian host, Jonathan Winters was the nonskating M.C. this time, and did about as well as other comedians in the spot.

Recommended tonight: "The Danny Thomas Hour," NBC, 9-10 p.m. EDT. "The Scene," drama, with Robert Stack and Geraldine Chaplin in her TV debut.

ed killing 45 enemy while suffering three dead and 13 wounded. Eight enemy weapons also were reported captured.

In the air war, monsoon rains limited strike missions over North Vietnam to a scant 74 Sunday, most of them radar bomb drops, thus preventing damage assessment. Navy pilots flying from three carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin were able to get in only one mission.

BARRAGES
Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese kept mortar and artillery barrages which, by unofficial count, have killed 47 Marines and wounded 633 in the last two weeks around Con Thien and the other Leatherneck outposts guarding South Vietnam's northern frontier. Six were killed and 33 wounded Sunday.

Trying to ease the pressure on the beleaguered Marines, eight-engine B52 Stratofortresses struck at Red gun positions and trench networks six miles north-northwest of Con Thien today. The raid followed two other B52 runs Sunday night that blasted enemy mortar and artillery positions five miles west and southwest of Con Thien.

ATTACK LOOMS
Enemy casualties from Marine shelling and B52 bombings were unknown but a Communist news dispatch hinted that they were high. Peking's New China News Agency quoted a report from the Viet Cong's Gial Phong news agency that said hardly a village in the area has escaped U.S. bombs and artillery.

U.S. officials believe that a North Vietnamese force of perhaps 35,000 men deployed in and above the DMZ may be poised for an attack southward across the six-mile-wide buffer zone.

Elsewhere U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment troops reported killing 45 Communists near Tam Ky in coastal Quang Tin Province 350 miles northeast of Saigon. Two U.S. cavalrymen were killed and eight wounded.

GOODBY
Air attacks over North Vietnam were held down by cloudy monsoon weather to just 85 missions Sunday, mostly in North Vietnam's southern panhandle. But Marine pilots penetrated cloud cover for two strikes on munitions storage areas 43 miles northwest and 40 miles north of Hanoi, the U.S. Command said.

Navy fliers were kept on their carriers by poor weather for the second time in the last six days. Meanwhile U.S. fliers said goodbye to Col. Robin Olds, the mustached World War II ace who led in kills of Communist MIGs in Vietnam. The 45-year-old Air Force veteran left Vietnam after four MIG kills to become commandant of cadets at the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

A Devotional For The Day

If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. (Matthew 16:24)

PRAYER: Teach us, O God, to see in the cross the greatness of Thy self-giving. In that love enable us to give ourselves in service to others. In the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen." (From the 'Upper Room')

Greater Load For Junior Colleges

To what level should the American concept of free public education extend? That is an increasingly pressing question with which taxpayers and their legislative representatives must cope. And the prospect is that the level will soon be recognized nationally as at least two years beyond high school.

The National Education Association this year resolved that "educational opportunity extend for at least two years beyond the high school for all high school graduates." It suggested public support and free tuition to that end.

The Texas Legislature this year in the Connally-Carrillo Act provided free state and junior college tuition for high-grade youths from low-income families. Estimates are that will include 8,000 students this year, and some 32,000 within four years.

The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, has taken over this state's junior college aid from the Texas Education Agency that supervises the public schools. And the trend is for the junior college system to take a large part of the undergraduate load off the senior colleges and universities.

David L. Norton, junior college director of the Coordinating Board, has told us how Texas stands in this field. This state has 38 public junior college districts, supported by local taxation, tuition and state aid, with a fall enrollment near 71,000. Nationally the junior college enrollment will be over 1 1/2 million this year.

Last year, Texas ranked third, after California and New York, in number of junior colleges. California has more than double ours, but Texas and New York are neck and neck. In total junior college enrollment, however, Texas ranked fifth.

Texas has greatly expanded state aid to junior colleges, and will provide more in the future. And somewhere in the immediate years ahead the decision must be made: Should attendance there be free as in the public schools or tuition-paid as in the senior colleges and universities?

If the state answers yes to this, then the junior colleges may be expected to absorb an even greater number of college students.

Time To Reassess The System

Though nothing is likely to be done about it until after the 1968 presidential elections, probably well after, the time is nearing when serious thought must be given to fundamental changes in the 31-year-old Social Security system.

As originally conceived, the basic Social Security system was designed to be an actuarially sound compulsory annuity insurance. It was to provide a minimum employer-employee paid retirement pension, sufficient to supplement private systems and to keep old folks who had been unable to save for retirement off public welfare.

As the cost of living has increased, so has Congress increased the Social Security benefits and so has the payroll tax risen. That is virtually certain to happen again this session. But something more profound has to happen.

The steady increase in the payroll tax is approaching the point where a young worker could privately contract for a better retirement pension than he could hope for from Social Security. Congress has continued to add so many welfare benefits — as distinguished from insurance payments — to the Social Security system that it may soon become impossible to keep the system actuarially sound at a payroll tax level acceptable to either employer or employee.

So something is going to have to give. Apparently Congress eventually must separate the welfare aspects from the insurance concept of Social Security. Or the Social Security system's payroll tax trust fund must be supplemented with heavy infusions of appropriations from general taxation. Suggesting solutions to this immensely complicated problem is certainly no field for amateurs, but let the debate of the professionals begin.

John Cunniff Wholesale Prices Saga

NEW YORK (AP) — A glance at the prices of some commodities, which are the basic goods from which other goods are refined, processed or manufactured, could hardly convince you that inflation is threatening.

The wholesale prices of some of these items are much lower than they were a year ago. Coffee, corn, wheat, zinc, tin, rubber and hogs are among them. Even some steel prices were lower last month than a year earlier.

THE SAME state of affairs exists also in some of the large commodity trading centers abroad. The price of copper, which is in great demand in this country because of a shortage, is among those lower at London.

The implications of this trend are ominous for some underdeveloped nations, a few of whose economies exist on the income from selling their one major crop or product to the developed nations.

DOMESTICALLY, some of these prices provide documentation of the farmer's complaint that he is not sharing in the same extent as his city cousin in the nation's expanding economy.

In August, for example, the price of No. 1 northern spring wheat at Minneapolis, Minn., was just a bit more than $1.63 a bushel. A year earlier it sold for more than $2.62 a bushel.

Corn could be purchased at Chicago for about $1.22 a bushel last month. But a year earlier the price was about $1.50. Colombian coffee sold for between 40 and 41 cents a pound at New York late last week. But in late September a year ago this commodity brought more than 45 cents a pound.

SOME PRODUCTS, such as cocoa and sugar, are selling higher. But for each of these increases, a comparable decline can be found—the price of butter and eggs in some areas, for example. The question naturally arises as to why so many economists in government, academia and business are shouting that inflation is coming if we don't watch out. Why should prices for finished goods rise?

The most plausible explanation is that the increases will be somewhere in the processing, manufacturing, packaging, transporting and retailing of these products.

EACH STEP in the development of a product adds value to it; the greater the value added the more cost might also be added to the product by the time it is marketed.

This curious situation of low prices for basic commodities and relatively high prices for the finished products is bound to create tension in the poorer nations, with some of it liable to explode in the face of developed nations.

But the industrialized nations have had their problems, too. It was the slowdown of some of these developed economies that helped produce the current problem. As they lessened their demand for many basic goods, surplus piled up. And as these piles grew, prices shrank.

SYNTHETICS also have played a role, especially in providing price-shrinking competition to products such as wool and natural rubber. This competition is hardly expected to diminish, either.

The entire complex situation is a serious one, loaded with problems both domestic and foreign, pulsing with implications that are not just economic, but political and moral also.

Billy Graham

I am a mother and I never get to leave our house for an hour because my husband refuses to stay with the children. He says it is the mother's duty to be with the children. He even does the shopping. This doesn't seem fair. What do you say to a husband who won't let his wife leave the house?

T.H.

Although I am all for you getting a little relief, I must say that you are an exceptional woman, in these days when most modern housewives are forever on the run.

I read about a woman who asked her husband to stay with the children while she went shopping. He was an accountant and he kept a record of his experience. When his wife returned home, he handed her a record of his ordeal:

Dried the children's tears 4 times
Tied their shoes 5 times
Served cold drinks 13 times
Toy balloons purchased — 3 per child

Cautioned children not to cross the street 34 times
Children insisted on crossing the street 43 times
Number of times father will do this in the future — none.

Every father should take care of the children occasionally. Few things will make him appreciate his wife more. I know of few things more nerve-racking — especially when you are not accustomed to it. I kept our children one day when my wife kept a social engagement, and when she returned I was exhausted — and so were the children. As a boy I used to think that plowing in new ground was the hardest job in the world. But I'd rather do that any day.

'And We Have Avoided The Overkill Tendency . . .'

James Marlow Heckling Is Ancient All-American Game

WASHINGTON (AP)—If President Johnson thinks he has it bad, he should have seen what happened to the first president, George Washington, got so fed up with abuse, not for getting the country into a war but for trying to keep it out of one, he said he'd rather be dead.

That was the start of the All-American game of heckling presidents over foreign policy but few have been hit harder than Johnson for the war in Vietnam. His critics are a mixed lot of doves who want a softer war or none and hawks who want a tougher one.

ONE OF THE MOST critical doves, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, has come up with a plan for clipping Johnson's wings, although he says it isn't meant to. But the resolution the Arkansas Democrat proposed in the Senate speaks for itself.

It would give the Senate a lot more say in foreign affairs than the Constitution provides and, therefore, Johnson less. If the Senate approves the resolution, Johnson can ignore it, and probably will, since it does not have the effect of law. But ignoring it would irritate the critics even more.

WHILE FULBRIGHT'S move reflects dissatisfaction with Johnson's role in the dragged-out war in Vietnam, it's just one more play in the old and endless struggle between the White House and Congress over which has the right to do what in foreign affairs.

Its roots are in the Founding Fathers' vagueness. They were muddle-headed, inexperienced and superficial in foreign affairs when they laid down the rules for the new government in the Constitution of 1787.

After their resentments and frustrations with the British royal governors in Colonial days, they were bent on separating the powers of the various branches of the new government through checks and balances.

NEW YORK (AP) — Well, it's this is a contretemps which will require professional assistance.

So a telephone call is made to the family doctor.

"OH, MY goodness," says the family doctor. "Bring the poor little fellow over immediately."

After a somewhat tiresome interlude a cab is captured and the trip is made to the doctor's lair on Central Park West.

"Hm," says the doctor. "You don't particularly care what happens to the pants?"

"No, doctor. The important thing is to release the captive."

"VERY WELL. Now, you take the right-hand side of the zipper and I'll take the left—and there we go! all right, Jeffrey?"

"Yes, doctor, and thank you," says Jeffrey, being brave.

Jeffrey, Nick and Daddy then repair back to the apartment building in a cab and another day in the life of a bunch of born losers is history.

We do not know how much money the United Federation of Teachers may have, but we sincerely hope it is plenty. Because we are going to sue them for every dime they own, unless we cool off quite a few degrees in the near future.

To Your Good Health Poisoning Cases Reach Shocking Total

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

This is the first of a series of six articles on poisoning.

A dogged, determined war is being waged against one of America's tragic habits — poisoning ourselves.

It is a necessary war, a good war. But the gloomy fact is that we are losing it. Why?

The exact number of victims, including children who constitute a tragic proportion, is not known. Poisoning, unlike measles or tuberculosis, isn't necessarily "reportable."

A death resulting from poison will appear in records of the coroner or medical examiner's office and become part of the depressing statistics. However, poisoning from which a victim "recovers," only to be in shattered health and die prematurely from some other disease, perhaps failure of the liver, doesn't show up as a "poison death."

There are statistics on the number of non-fatal poisonings, too, but they also are incomplete.

FRIGHTENING

The known total is large enough to be shocking, indeed frightening, but it still is only part of the whole miserable truth. Many a case of poisoning is treated by a doctor without taking the patient to a hospital. Others get only first aid or "home remedies," however risky that may be at times.

But even the partial figures available are enough to leave one shaking at the risks people are taking every day of their lives:

The National Safety Council, in its most recent totals (for 1965), reports 2,600 deaths from poison — solids, liquids or fumes.

That means seven deaths every day — a death by poison about every three hours.

The same source estimates that 300,000 persons a year "suffer disabling illnesses from accidental poisoning in the home."

That's 800 a day, poisoned to disability.

What the number of lesser, but still dangerous, poisonings may be is guesswork. The optimists suggest half a million a year. The pessimists, who have some reason for their pessimism, talk of 1,500,000 or more.

MUST BE CURBED

Whether we are allowing only one poisoning a minute, around the clock, or possibly permitting one every 20 seconds, day and night, this misery must be curbed. It is inexcusable. It shouldn't be happening.

Because these figures are "estimates," don't think they aren't based on solid facts. A nine-year study of 95,000 accidental poisonings in New York City alone is one sample of the evidence.

That same study, as well as many in other cities, shows the truly horrible dimensions of our national dangerous habit.

It also shows who the worst sufferers are — children, and especially babies. In New York's 95,000, there were nearly 34,000 victims only one or two years old — more than all the poisoned adults (28,349 over 20 years old).

BABY KILLER

More than 57,000 of the 95,000 were 5 years old or younger.

Nationally, three times as many toddlers under 4 die of poison as all people over 65. The ratio of total poisonings is even greater.

Most of you have read or heard safety campaigns and statistics. But have they sunk in? Evidently not.

Since 1960 the poison death rate has been going UP. Not just total deaths — figuring the increase in population, the rate itself is higher.

We are losing the war on poisonings.

Why? I'll offer some reasons, as I see them, in the next few articles.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, send for my booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

NEXT: Most people don't know a poison when they see it.

Around The Rim Have A Familiar Ring?

This and that:

Does this story have a familiar ring?

In Kildgrove, England, recently, a crew of gas workers waited patiently until road repairmen had repaved a street and then promptly moved in to tear it up again.

A woman living in the neighborhood said that the gas men sat on her doorstep until the road menders finished their job. They then took over and started digging holes in the pavement while the tar was still warm.

HOW MANY times have you seen a multi-million dollar paving job completed in this area, only to see another crew of workmen wheel their artillery about and systematically destroy the road?

No one seems to question their authority or the decision to redo the road but the poor old taxpayer must wonder about it all when it comes time to ante up the money for his levy.

company engineer. He then tells his listeners:

"There is a fault on the line—please take your telephone at once and drop it into a bucket of water."

Some of the London newspapers are calling the character "Jack The Dipper."

SOMEONE remarked recently that the picture of "Whistler's Mother" was nothing but the likeness of a nice old lady waiting for the TV repairman to bring her set back.

MANY WEST TEXANS have never seen a tornado and never want to see one. If they study nature, however, they can view an embryo tornado almost every day during the summer.

Out here they are called "whirlwinds." They are often vicious, always unpredictable and have been known to carry some rather weighty objects along with them. Housewives hate them. Motorists try to elude them. The kids might be prone to drive their bicycles or scooters through them, if they get the opportunity.

In other sections of the land, they are known as "dust devils." What ever name they go by, they are bloodless relatives to one of nature's most vicious products in its ugliest mood.

Marquis Childs Hanoi Waiting For U.S. Elections

WASHINGTON — Despite all the rumors of peace and the allegations of double-dealing one harsh, brutal fact remains. An end to the war in Vietnam is as remote as at any time in the past two years.

VISITORS TO North Vietnam report a hardening line despite hopeful interpretations of a recent speech by Premier Pham Van Dong. The evidence indicates that Hanoi is determined to wait for the American elections next year in the belief a Republican administration will pull out. The precedent is 1952 when Dwight D. Eisenhower responded to growing weariness with the Korean war and promised to find a way out.

A study of what is being written as well as the propaganda over the government radio in North Vietnam shows that every effort is being made to build up morale for resistance into an indefinite future. Every incident large or small within the United States that can be interpreted as opposition to the war is seized on and magnified many times over.

stress is on the effort to put Hanoi and the other cities of the north on a war footing. Objective reports tend to verify the success this effort has had. Whole populations, with the exception of essential military units, have been moved into outlying areas. Thousands of air-raid shelters and trenches have been built along the coast where strikes from American aircraft carriers are most frequent. There seems good reason to believe that even if Hanoi and Haiphong were leveled the North could continue to supply the few hundred tons a day of war materiel necessary to sustain the guerrilla attack in the South.

Supporters of the Johnson war policy frequently say that evidence of dissent in this country keeps the Communist regime in the war. The implication is that if only there were an unbroken consensus Hanoi would call quits.

INFORMED OPINION does not support this view. Evidence of dissent is useful, however, for morale purposes, even though at times the evidence seems to be manufactured in Hanoi's propaganda factory.

An article in the influential journal Hue Tap (studies) discusses the "important force in the U.S. peoples' struggle movement against the aggressive war in Vietnam" of American women, claiming they stood for days in front of a Harlem enlistment center.

STRIKES IN American industry are cited as slowing the war effort with the implication that they are motivated by a desire to force the United States to withdraw from Vietnam. The impression is given at times of a nation torn in two by dissension often to the point of absurdity.

Against this background the maneuvers for a peace settlement by direct negotiation or through the United Nations must also seem futile. Yet at the very least they prove to the world that a great many Americans are seeking a way out of the war.

(Copyright, 1967, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

David Lawrence President In Deep Trouble

WASHINGTON—Many politicians—both Democrats and Republicans—in their private comments express doubt whether President Johnson can be re-elected in 1968. Nobody, of course, can foretell what the condition of the country will be on election day and whether the discontent now manifesting itself from coast to coast will have been substantially diminished. One thing does seem sure—unless the Johnson administration faces up soon to the challenge that it has been trying to avoid for several months, it will not matter much who the Republican candidate is, because the country will vote against the Democratic party.

DISSATISFACTION about inflation, the cost of living, huge deficits and high taxes is considerable. Disorder is the biggest single issue—in fact, it is the most penetrating question that has aroused the American people in many years, and is related to two subjects. These are crime and riots.

In 1967 more than 120 cities have been hit by violence. Property damage has amounted to 270 million dollars. At least 118 people have been killed and nearly 4,000 injured. Crime rose by 62 per cent in 1966 over 1960, and indications are that 1967 will show an even higher rate.

RACIAL FRICTION has contributed to the nation's unrest, but basically the startling growth of the crime wave has frightened the American people. The fear of attack in one's home and on the street and the frequent indifference to so-called "demonstrators" who provoke mob violence have disturbed the nation. The anxiety will not be allayed merely by appropriations of public funds to improve sociological conditions. Nor will it be lessened by occasionally sending federal troops into the cities to preserve order.

The administration is being accused of playing politics with the whole problem of domestic disorder, and the people have the impression that the incumbent party is afraid of losing votes if stern measures are taken.

IN EVERY media tremendous

THE value of the visit of Stokely Carmichael who has been lauded as an ally in the "war of liberation" is that with little or no knowledge of the United States would believe from Hanoi's propaganda that Carmichael was assuming the leadership of a mass revolt of Negroes against the American "imperialists" on their home ground. Any visitor who suggests that, in spite of signs of dissent, the United States means to prosecute the war, short of negotiation or a mutual cease-fire, is rebuffed.

Cabled reports sent by visitors from Cuba, Mali and Norway have in recent weeks been eagerly seized on to prove North Vietnam was bound to triumph. A Norwegian report was quoted: "The more bombs are being dropped the more united this extremely tried people becomes. The situation is becoming worse for the Americans every day."

Red And Gold For Autumn

Yves Saint Laurent's autumn collection from Paris includes this short evening dress and collarless jacket of gold and red spangles. The collar, jacket and sleeves are bordered with gold and the dress is adorned with red ostrich feathers around the waist. It is worn with natural colored stockings, golden shoes and a wig with a black satin bow.

Mrs. Kenneth Crittendon Complimented At Shower

COAHOMA (SC) — Mrs. Kenneth Crittendon, the former Miss Sherrin Clark, was honored Saturday afternoon with a gift shower in the home of Mrs. Ross Roberts, 208 Ramsey.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Clark, Big Spring, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. and Mrs. Bill Crittendon, Hartwell, Ga.

The couple was married Aug. 11 in Big Spring, and the bridegroom is now stationed with the Air Force in Germany. Mrs. Crittendon will join him later.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Rod Tiller, Mrs. Ovis James, Mrs. T. A. Harris, Mrs. Ralph Beistle, Mrs. C. A. Cranfill, Mrs. Marvin Latimer, Mrs. James Fryar, Mrs. Jerry Robertson, Mrs. Truman Pherigo and Miss Judy Kiser.

Miss Kiser presided at the guest register which was covered with a yellow cloth and decorated with a miniature bridal couple.

The honoree was attired in a white brocade suit and was presented a yellow glabella corsage, and her mother was given a yellow and white carnation corsage.

The refreshment table was laid with a yellow cloth with white lace overlay and white satin bows at the corners. An arrangement of yellow flowers flanked by candles centered the table, and crystal and silver appointments completed the setting.

The bride was presented with a hostess' gift of cookware. Approximately 25 attended. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Oscar Batten, Colorado City; and Mrs. Bob Zilbert, Lubbock.

Mrs. Arthur Wilson will present the meeting outlines for the year.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Frost Your Glasses For Fancy Parties

Dear Heloise:

Here's a tip if you are having a party and want to serve cold drinks in fancy, frosted glasses. Fill the glasses with hot water from the faucet, then pour it out quickly and put the glasses in the freezer for at least 30 minutes before using.

When you take them out they will frost up and make the drinks look cool and refreshing. Patty

Have you ever tried frosting just the edge of the glass? All you need is a thin paste of powdered sugar and lemon juice in a shallow bowl. Turn each glass upside down, twist the edge in the paste, and then freeze.

This will make a delicious frosty lemon ring all around the edge of your glass that will last until that tall glass of tea or lemonade is all gone.

Try lime and concentrated orange juice, too. Sure makes your guests think you've gone to a lot of trouble, but it only takes a minute. . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Men who have their shirts done up by the laundry often run into the problem of which shirt has long or short sleeves, or French cuffs. They hate having to tear the shirt out of the plastic bag to check the sleeves, especially when time is short.

Well, I mark my shirts inside the collar with an indelible ballpoint pen, using a Roman numeral I for short sleeved shirts, II for long sleeves, and III to denote a shirt with French cuffs. . . . N. F. McNaughton Thanks, Sir, for writing. Your idea is great!

Or you could just use the letter S for short, L for long, and F for French. Bless you. . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Do you dig through kitchen drawers looking for your measuring spoons, or cups, and spatula?

Why not just keep them in your electric mixing bowl! The cover hides them and they are all right there when you need them. . . . Shirley Jewell

Dear Heloise:

I had just washed my kitchen trash basket and was trying to think how I could keep from doing this mean chore every day. Then all at once I remembered that our office refuse container was lined with plastic. So why couldn't I use those plastic drycleaner bags!

After tying a small knot to close the neck opening, I placed the plastic garment bag neck down into the basket. Then I stretched the open bottom of the bag around the outer edge of the container. Next I placed a large grocery bag into the basket. Presto, a perfect liner!

Since I've been doing this, I have not had to wash my wastebasket nearly so often. If the plastic liner gets soiled during the week, I dumped it out with the trash and insert a new one. The basket is free of soil and doesn't have to be washed.

A man's suit bag works fine. If you have to use a ladies' garment bag, allow the extra plastic to bunch up in the bottom. It gives better protection to your trash basket. . . . Eleanor McCray

And what a perfect trash basket liner. All for free, too!

But let's all remember to keep those plastic bags OUT of reach of children. . . . Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

You told us how to clean the bathtub with a broom. So now we have time and energy to do 20 bend and stretch exercises—that we would not have needed had we cleaned the tub the old-fashioned way. . . . Juanita Brown

Dear Heloise:

For those of your readers who wear wigs:

I have found that if I cut off the top portion of an old clean, nylon stocking and cover my own hair with it that my wig fits much more comfortably.

I don't have to worry about my real hair slipping out and showing around the sides.

Also, now I don't have the scratchy feeling I had before the wig. . . . A Faithful Reader

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

New Bride Honored At Gift Party

Spec. 4 and Mrs. Gaylon Calvin Knowlton were honored with a gift shower Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. J. I. White, 2203 Carl. The affair was an introductory party for Mrs. Knowlton who is a native of Germany.

Mrs. Knowlton is the former Miss Chris Simoneit of Germany. She and Spec. 4 Knowlton were married during his three-year tenure of service there. They have a five-month-old son, J. R., and they arrived in Dallas Monday. Spec. 4 Knowlton is now stationed at Fort Hood and the couple will be at home in Copperas Cove.

Knowlton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Knowlton, Knott Route, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Smith of Vealmoor.

Refreshments were served.

Mrs. D. D. Van Meter Speaks On America

The 1965 Hyperion Club continued with its study theme, "America, the Beautiful," at a Thursday meeting in the Gold Room of Big Spring Country Club.

"Image of America" was the topic used by Mrs. Donald Van Meter who presented the program. Mrs. Van Meter described the geographic divisions of the United States, detailed its industry, agriculture and type of government and climaxed her talk with personal observations and opinions on life in America.

Mrs. Terry Bull was hostess, and Mrs. Hayes Stripling Sr. presided for the business session as committee chairman gave reports on club activities. All members of the club have joined the "Friends of the Library" and will donate memorial books to Howard County Library on behalf of the club.

The year's projects will include participation in community improvements, youth activities and civic undertakings.

Introduced as guests were Mrs. Marvin House of Abilene and Mrs. Ed Schloeman of Gatesville.

The next meeting will have Mrs. Anthony Hunt as hostess, and Mrs. O. T. Brewster will present "Unity Through Diversity," a program on the general federation.

WOMEN OFTEN HAVE BLADDER IRRITATION

Common Kidney or Bladder Irritations affect twice as many women as men, often causing tenderness and nervousness from frequent, burning, itching urination. Secondly, you may lose sleep and have headaches, backaches and feel older, tired, depressed. In such cases, CYSTEX usually brings relaxing comfort by curbing germs in acid urine, and easing pain. Get CYSTEX at drugists today.

Meeting Change

The Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. J. W. Trantham, 1319 Stadium, instead of in the home of Mrs. Frank Wilson.

A LOVELIER YOU

New Fall Make-Up Is Sheer, Shimmering

By MARY SUE MILLER

Without exception new make-up is ultra sheer and shimmering. A divergence in direction comes in shades. One color family leans toward a tawny finish, spicy as ginger and glowing as a new penny. Another group favors the look of the early 1930's — pale skin, red lips, smoky eyes.

To each her own! If the tawny effect is your preference, here's the pro way of getting it:

As background, use a deep peach or creamy apricot foundation and translucent powder.

Highlight the cheeks with a cream blusher in a gleaming coppery pink shade; for molding where necessary, mocha cream blusher with a copper sheen. Is the choice. Eyes are set aglow with iridescent brown or bronze shadow. To spark the lips there are glistening lipsticks bearing spicy or coppery overtones.

The look of the 1930's comes down to us from the glamorous movie sirens of that era. Picture books of the period show the stars were curvy, curly, big-eyed and crimson-lipped. They did very well for themselves. If you'd like to have a shot at the look, here's what you do:

Get yourself the palest beige foundation, pink pressed powder blusher, cherry red lipstick, charcoal eye shadow, liner and pencil. In making applications be sure to bow your lipstick, blush with blusher, smudge your eyeshadow and pencil in raised eyebrows.

COMPLEXION

Whatever your skin problems, to find a solution send for my booklet, "A Lovelier Complexion." Detailed advice contained includes the correct care for dry, oily, combination and normal skin types; proper application methods; treatments for blackheads, enlarged pores, circles, wrinkles, crepiness, etc. For your copy of "A Lovelier Complexion," write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost and handling.

Gold Star Group Elects Officers

New officers were elected at the breakfast honoring members of the Gold Star Mothers Thursday in the home of Mrs. A. W. Moody, 1514 Tucson.

The officer's slate includes Mrs. Moody, president; Mrs. Felton Smith, vice president; Mrs. Herbert Smith, second vice president; Mrs. F. H. Talbot, treasurer; Mrs. S. B. Nobles, hospital chairman; Mrs. Jerome Lusk and Mrs. Alvie Trees, chaplain; Mrs. Joe Jacobs, historian; and Mrs. Domingo Abreo, Americanism chairman.

The refreshment table was laid with a linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow carnations flanked by yellow candles. China and silver appointments were used.

Mrs. Felton Smith presided and Mrs. Moody offered prayer. Mrs. Lees reported on the success of a coffee held Wednesday at the Veterans Administration Hospital. The group served approximately 75 patients.

Eight attended.

STANTON (SC) — The members of the Girls Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church held a skating party in Big Spring Saturday. Mrs. Elmer Long and Mrs. Granville Graves, counselors, and Mrs. Jess Angel accompanied the group. Twenty-six girls attended.

Subway Workers Nix 'Final' Offer

MONTREAL (AP) — The prospects are for more snarled traffic in Montreal and continued slack attendance at Expo 67. Some 2,000 striking bus and subway workers voted Sunday night to reject a "final" contract offer.

Negotiations between the Confederation of National Trade Unions and the Montreal Transportation Commission were scheduled again for today.

The strike began early Wednesday after a work slowdown designed to call attention to the CNTU's demand for a basic wage of $3.50 an hour for bus and subway drivers.

The MTC offer was to raise the basic wage from $2.77 to $3.02. With an added $1.22 in fringe benefits, the MTC claimed that total labor cost for each driver would be $4.24—the highest in Canada.

Dear Abby Mate Should Call

DEAR ABBY: Like so many others, I never thought I'd be writing a DEAR ABBY letter, but here I am.

When my husband calls and says he's going to be late because he's going out with his boss, don't you think he should call me if he knows he is going to be detained longer than he said he would? When I complained because he said he'd be home about 10 p.m., but he came in at 2 a.m., he said, "You're not my mother! What am I supposed to do, get up and say, 'I have to call my wife'... like a child calls his mother?" Abby, I just want to be sure he's not in a hospital, a ditch or jail. I trust him concerning other women, but because I was very jealous before we were married, he thinks I still am. I really do trust him, but don't you think a husband should call his wife to let her know he's going to be later than he says he'll be?

DALLAS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Yes. (And he should let her know if he's going to be early, also.)

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, Rene, was to have been married in four weeks to Max who is in the Army.

Plans for the wedding had been completed. The bridesmaids had bought their dresses, and the wedding invitations were ready to be mailed. Two showers had already been given for Rene, and she received many lovely gifts.

Then Max called and said his orders had been changed and he was being shipped to Vietnam for a year. Max then said that he had decided to wait until after Vietnam to be married.

Abby, Rene and Max are very much in love and they say that nothing short of a catastrophe will prevent the wedding next year. Under the circumstances should the shower gifts be returned? What about the bridesmaids who paid for their dresses? Max and his parents decided to postpone the wedding without even consulting Rene and her parents. Do you think that was right? It seems that the bride's parents should have had something to say about it.

PLANS SPOILED
DEAR PLANS: Max should have given Rene an opportunity to express herself. However, if only one of the principals decides to postpone a wedding that constitutes a majority. Keep the shower gifts, since the wedding was not canceled—only postponed. And unless the bridesmaids save the dresses to wear next year, they are out of luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am a P.K. (Preacher's Kid) and I sure wish you'd put this in your column for other P.K.s because I'm sure we all have the same problem.

Abby, we want to feel that we belong to the crowd and we want other kids to act the same around us as they would act around any other kids. We are human beings, we aren't perfect, and nobody has to feel uneasy around us in case he makes a slip of the tongue. We make them, too.

We just want to be accepted like everybody else, but most of the time we are left out because lots of kids don't want us in the crowd. Once I was out of town and a kid asked me what my father did. For a joke I said he sold fire insurance and I never had such a wonderful time.

Quadruplets Doing Well

FUKUOKA, Japan (AP)—Girl quadruplets were born Sunday and reported doing well, although birth was premature by 45 days and each weighed only 3.3 pounds.

The mother, Mrs. Mutsuko Munakata, 28, was also reported in fine condition.

Doctors at National Central Hospital in this southwestern Japanese city said that if the quadruplets, now in incubators, maintain their present condition for another day, their chances of survival are excellent.

Six other sets of quadruplets have been born in Japan but none of them has survived.

Science And You Russian Rocket Surprises

—By DR. LEONARD REIFFEL

I suspect 1967 will be remembered with a slight twinge of embarrassment by a lot of people who pride themselves on being experts on the Soviet space program. This was the year the Soviets gave the Western World its first real look at a Russian manned rocket.

It all happened this summer at the Paris Air Show, and the Western space world is still rocking.

What the Russians actually displayed was their Vostok launcher, the type that launched Yuri Gagarin into orbit in 1961. This is certainly not their most advanced launcher. The big surprise was obvious at a glance: The Soviets were not depending upon very large rocket engines to produce the big total thrust we knew their rockets were delivering. Instead, they had taken the alternate and really quite logical route of combining a whole bunch of little engines to do the job. The Vostok booster that was on display at Paris is designed so that there are not fewer than 32 rocket engines firing on the pad at the time of launch — 20 main booster engines and 12 trimming or vernier engines firing at the same time! By comparison, a typical American rocket or ICBM might be running three main booster thrust chambers and perhaps a couple of verniers.

The Vostok rocket is built up around a main core, a sort of cigar-shaped affair, on which four of the booster engines are mounted. Four additional sections are strapped around the core. Each of these strap-on sections contains four additional engines, giving a total of 20 main rocket engines. This technique allowed the Soviets to develop a total thrust of over one million pounds in the late 1950's and early 1960's — long before we got our big Saturn engines going.

We took quite a different approach with Saturn. Rather than clustering what seemed to Western designers to be a huge number of engines, we went into the development of very large individual engines. It cost us time, trouble and money but now, at least, we have them.

It is also true that the Russians have launched much larger payloads than would be possible with their Vostok boosters. They undoubtedly have a rocket booster of a more advanced type that can develop three times the thrust of the Vostok — nearly four million pounds. The question naturally arises — what does this new booster look like? Actually, it's hard to say. We do know from looking at the shape of their spacecraft that it's probably about 15 feet in diameter at the upper end — about twice the diameter of the rocket they put on display in Paris.

The new booster might be using, say, 20 rocket engines of a larger size or uprated performance. But it is also just barely possible that the new booster is just scaled up in diameter and uses something like 90 rocket engines of a standard variety displayed at Paris. The betting in the West would be that they've got a new and bigger engine, but they've surprised us before.

New Way To A Beautiful Bustline

Los Angeles:—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect if your bustline were improved? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to acquire this kind of figure perfection. If your bra size is less than 32 and larger than 36, A, B or C, then this new idea is not for you. If your bra size falls within this range, then you can realize a new, youthful, naturally rounded bust silhouette without special exercising or heavy, unnatural padding.

Young Secret is an all-new kind of weightless wonder bra constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the manner in which this bra, once put on, feels just like you. It actually moves as if it were you and looks perfectly natural in every possible way.

The bra itself is of a beautiful nylon lace over a polyester fiberfill that will retain its natural shape for the life of the bra. The straps are comfortably stretchable and easily adjusted. The band is also stretchable for maximum freedom and comfort. This bra gives your figure everything that's possible with a bra.

"Young Secret" bras are the peak achievement of the designer-genius, Olga. They are available in both fully padded (sizes 32-34-36, A and B) and contour shell cup (C cup size, too) styles. In white or black. They can be found in our area at Hemphill-Wells Foundation Department, 214 Main St., Phone 267-5283.

U.S. Sailor, Dog Rescued

CHATHAM, Mass. (AP) — A 64-year-old Chicago machinist whose home-made sailboat was disabled by storms in the Atlantic has lived to tell of a 10-week ordeal at sea that included rescuing his one companion, a pet beagle, Sheba.

Nels B. Nelson's trip to Florida was interrupted the night of July 11 off Newfoundland when a squall with "waves as high as the 41-foot mast" came up and pulled three staves from the main mast of his 30-foot craft, the Savaina.

RADIO SMASHED
After a New Bedford fishing boat found Nelson Sunday about 10 miles off his Cape Cod town and took his craft in tow, Nelson recounted the difficulties that had befallen him and his 3-year-old black and tan beagle. Nelson, a bachelor, said he went forward to fix the broken mast when "something hit me on the head."

"When I woke up at daybreak I couldn't move my left arm," he said. "The tiller was snapped off, the sails were damaged and the radio was smashed."

Nelson said he managed to clamp the tiller to the rudder and catch an easterly wind toward shore, using a second mast. He encountered several other storms, but said he knew his two-masted yawl would not capsize "because I built it."

WASHED OVERBOARD
Sheba was washed overboard once, but after several attempts Nelson was able to grab the paddling dog's collar and haul her back into the boat.

Several weeks ago, a ship approached and gave him several paves of bread.

"I wasn't in trouble then," Nelson said. "So I didn't bother to tell them I was."

Sunday, he was out of water and had one can of corn, two fish he caught, and four cans of soup.

When he began his voyage, he carried 130 gallons of water and a large quantity of food.

Nelson, who said he has been plying the Great Lakes in the boat since he retired in 1961, began a journey to Florida by sailing to Montreal for a brief visit to Expo 67. He then headed up the St. Lawrence River for the ocean.

A native of Sweden, he said he decided it might be fun to visit his home town of Malmo, located on the coast some 60 miles from Stockholm.

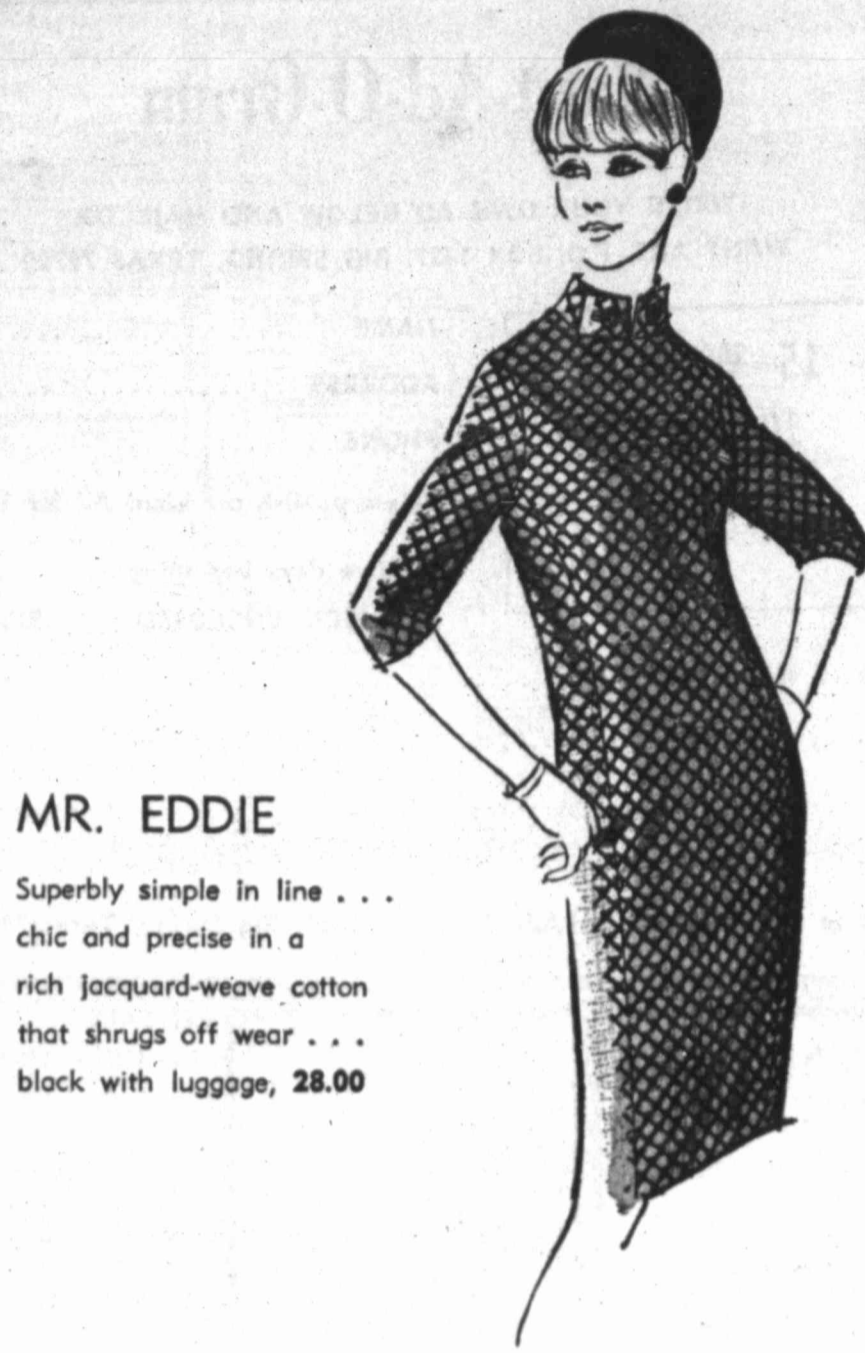

Nelson said he plans to go to Florida as soon as he can repair the Savaina, but will not sail out of sight of land and will go to port every night.

Statuesque Actress Selected Chairman

NEW YORK (AP) — Melina Mercouri, statuesque and blonde actress whose Greek citizenship was revoked by the ruling military junta, has been named honorary chairman of the newly formed National Committee for Freedom in Greece.

"Down with the junta and up with a free Greece," she cried out to more than 1,000 persons at a meeting of the New York chapter of the committee as she was named honorary chairman Sunday.

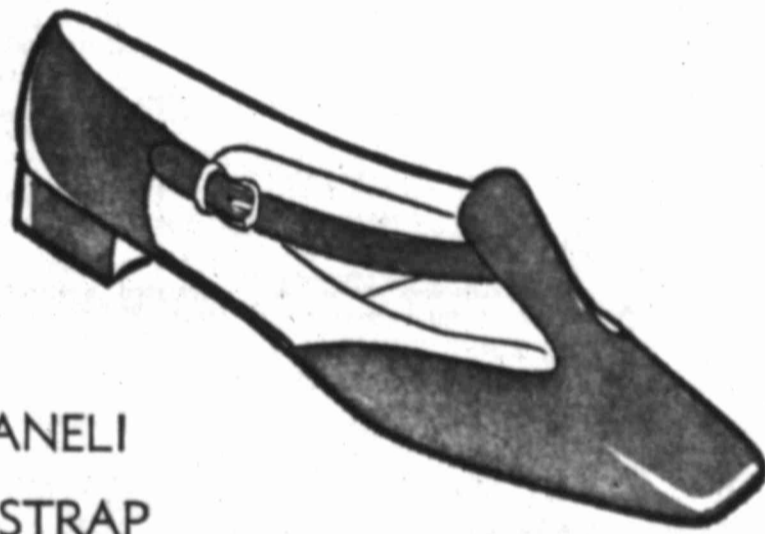

The national committee was formed Saturday by regional committees.

ADA Assails Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national board of Americans for Democratic Action has assailed an administration tax boost proposal, warned Congress not to withhold funds from domestic programs and declared it will work for a strong peace plank in the 1968 Democratic Party platform.

An earlier resolution calling for the replacement of President Johnson on the 1968 Democratic Party ticket failed to win majority support.

Any plan to increase taxes, the organization said, should give priority to closing tax loopholes and place more of the tax burden on corporations and high income earners.

The administration, the ADA said, should not yield to congressional pressure to cut spending on domestic programs as a condition for increasing taxes.

John K. Galbraith, an economist and ADA's national chairman, said his group is seeking ways to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and to bring that country's leaders into negotiations with the United States.

Galbraith said the ADA, long known as a liberal and left-of-center organization might well support a Republican as a presidential candidate if the Democrats refuse to adopt its minimum peace requirements. He declined to say which Republican candidate might be more acceptable.
