COLD FRONT Winds Rip Trailers

STANTON (SC)—Eleven empty cotton trailers were ripped apart at the Guitars Gin, a mile west of here on US 80 Tuesday night. Severe winds were accompanied by about two inches of rain in this same area, but the city area received only about an inch. There were no other damage reports.

Showers Moving South

By The Associated Press

Showers and cooler weather moved southward over Texas today and should push into the flood-ravaged southern part of the state before decreasing Thursday.

Rainfall amounts generally were light and should have no effect on the tremendous volume of flood-water rolling across South Texas.

A cold front that entered the northwest part of the state and triggered a tornado in West Texas was responsible for the shower activity.

Reaches A Line

Early today the front had reached a line from Texarkana to Waco, Junction and the Big Bend country.

Skies were cloudy behind the front and generally clear south of it.

Northwest and North Central Texas were damped during the night with Mineral Wells recording .95 inch of rain.

High winds scattered cotton trailers across Interstate 20 at Stanton Tuesday evening. A tornado was seen to roam harmlessly over open ground in the Midland-Odessa area.

The cooler air dropped temperatures into the 50s in Northwest Texas and southward into the Pecos Valley early today.

Rain In Flood Area

The Weather Bureau reported light to moderate showers from Houston and Galveston and extending north and west to near Austin, College Station and Lufkin.

Other light rain fell in the Panhandle-Plains and in East Texas.

It will be cooler across the state tonight with low readings mostly in the 50s and 60s.

Poor Peace Prospects

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Canada declared today that a halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam must be given top priority in efforts to de-escalate the Vietnam war and open the door to peace talks.

In a policy address before the 122-nation General Assembly, Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin said: "It seems clear that all attempts to bring about talks between the two sides are doomed to failure unless the bombing is stopped."

He added, however, that a bombing halt is "only one side of a military equation" and said, if there is to be success, peace efforts cannot proceed "as if the other side did not exist." The proposed bombing halt, he said, is only a starting point in the process of ending the conflict.

Big Power Problem

"There is no hope for progress toward a peaceful settlement," he said, "in appeals or proposals which place the total burden of responsibility of making essential concessions on only one side. That sort of approach is relevant only in circumstances of military victory and defeat."

Martin pledged that Canada would continue its efforts as a member of the International Control Commission to act along with the other members—India and Poland—to lead the parties to the Vietnam conflict to the conference table.

He agreed with others, who had preceded him in the assembly's general debate, that the prospects for Vietnam peace were poor. He also held out little hope that the United Nations would be able to play a useful role in finding a solution. The main reason, he said, was a lack of big power unity on the problem.

Wolcott Bound Over

GEORGETOWN, TEX. (AP) — The Williamson County grand jury, whose next regular meeting is scheduled Oct. 18, is expected to act on the case of James Wolcott, 16, in the shooting deaths of Wolcott's parents and sister.

Dist. Judge Kirby Vance bound over the youth to the grand jury Tuesday after a closed-door examining trial.

Purpose of the trial was to determine if there was sufficient evidence against Wolcott in the Aug. 5 slayings to send the case to the grand jury. The grand jury could convene earlier than Oct. 18, if the prosecution asks it to.

County Atty. Sam Stone, the Williamson County juvenile judge, certified Wolcott as an adult and bound him over to district court.

If indicted by the grand jury, Wolcott would be tried as an adult.

The bodies of his father, Dr. Gordon Wolcott, a Southwestern University biology professor; his mother, and his sister, Elizabeth, 17, were found shot to death Aug. 5 in the Wolcott home.

Mass Tijuana Deaths Linked To Pesticide

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—Authorities placed the death toll in Tijuana's mass poisoning at 14 or 15 today as scientists reported that a pesticide found in bread and victims' stomachs may be the killer.

Hector Valdivia, deputy federal district attorney here, said the number of dead, almost all children, was 15. He discounted an earlier report that 34 had died.

NO EXPLANATION

The funeral home in charge of handling the bodies of victims placed the number at 14.

There was no immediate explanation of the discrepancy of one.

About 250 persons were being treated at crowded hospitals and clinics.

Seven U.S. chemists at Sacramento, Calif., said tests showed a pesticide, parathion, was present in the victims in an amount sufficient to kill a child but not an adult.

GRIEVING CITY

In the grieving border city, stricken since Sunday, crying parents carried their young dead to clinics in their arms.

"The people, they keep coming. We do all we can, but there are too many," said Dr. Jorge Salas of the Red Cross clinic.

The disclosure that parathion had been discovered in bread brought release of 19 dairy officials and street milk vendors held for questioning since Monday. A ban on milk was lifted, and residents of Tijuana stopped boiling their drinking water.

BREAD PROBE

Fred Roth, chief of the residual pesticide laboratory of California's Department of Agriculture, said he and six other chemists found parathion in the stomachs of two of the stricken children.

An amount of parathion smaller than an aspirin tablet would kill an average sized man, Roth said. It is widely used in agriculture, particularly on vegetable crops.

It was theorized that the liquid pesticide spilled into flour that was later made into bread in Tijuana.

Spending Cut Plan Fizzles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee defeated today a Republican proposal seeking to force President Johnson to cut federal spending by $5 billion or more this year.

The proposal would have limited spending during the current fiscal year of $131.5 billion, exclusive of any additional military expenses.

The GOP leadership tried to tie the proposal to a routine temporary money measure financing government agencies for the month of October. It was rejected by a vote of 23 to 21.

Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, top Republican on the committee, said he would try to have the spending-cut plan considered later as a separate measure or have it tied to any tax bill that may come before the House.

Ways and Means Committee members have balked at the President's request for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge unless there is a deep cut in spending. The Bow proposal, which would not have affected defense spending, would have forced budget reductions and eased the way for a tax bill.

Shells Snap Cease-Fire

By The Associated Press

Egyptian and Israeli forces clashed at Ismailia on the Suez Canal today in the ninth breach this month of the Middle East cease-fire.

In Cairo, the Egyptians claimed the Israelis opened up a heavy artillery attack on the city midway on the 103-mile canal.

But in Tel Aviv an Israeli army spokesman said fighting was raging along 65 miles of the canal between El Qantara and Port Suez to the south. He charged the Egyptians had shattered five U.N. cease-fire bids. He said the fighting continued well into the afternoon.

The spokesman said six Israelis had been wounded.

Flood Miseries Pile Up On Both Sides Of Rio

Brutal Beulah Boosting Toll

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Flood miseries piled up on both sides of the Texas-Mexico border today as the raging Rio Grande put more thousands of people to flight and threatened even worse depredations.

Torrents gushing downstream sent water creeping higher in Harlingen, already hard hit, and the swollen river spread across ever widening areas in North-western Mexico.

54 DEATHS

Reports of 10 more deaths in Mexico meanwhile boosted the toll from Hurricane Beulah, which battered through this area more than a week ago, to 54 fatalities. That figure included 11 deaths in Texas.

Flooding drove 3,000 to 10,000 Harlingen residents from their homes. The Red Cross already was operating two shelters and it said a fresh influx of evacuees forced the opening of two additional shelters. Many of the occupants had returned only the past day or two after taking refuge from Beulah's 160-mile winds in other cities.

Unofficial reports reaching Mexico City placed the number of homeless at one million across the Rio Grande, now five miles wide in places, in an area stretching from Reynosa downstream to Matamoros near the river's mouth.

DAM FOLDS

In Harlingen the flood waters gushed down the Arroyo Colorado parallel to the river after a dam to prevent such a disaster broke two days ago.

Since then, the waters continue to thwart man's devices against them. Where dikes held, the water pressure reversed the intended flow of storm sewers, washing into business district streets.

Makeshift sandbag baffles gave way in great sections. Only two hastily constructed dikes thrown together by big bulldozers which pushed back earth across two streets kept the brown water from washing over the entire city.

The level kept on edging higher through the night after covering the south side of this city of 41,000 and spreading over big sections of the north side, but the peak appeared near.

Red Gunners Bombard South Vietnam Troops

SAIGON (AP) — The Communists slackened their month-long artillery battle of attrition along the demilitarized zone Tuesday and the focus of the war shifted to North Vietnam with American warplanes stepping up their raids despite swarms of Red jets and missiles.

North Vietnamese gunners fired 500 rounds to harass U.S. Marines at Con Thien, the key to American defenses blocking a possible Communist invasion of South Vietnam's northern provinces. But the heaviest shellings—850 rounds—fell on two South Vietnamese airborne battalions a few miles away.

JETS LOST

U.S. planes mounted a near-maximum effort over North Vietnam after a week of bad weather and encountered blistering defenses over the port of Haiphong and the vital northeast rail line that links Hanoi and Red China.

The North Vietnamese put up nearly every fighter they could muster from the unbombed MIG airfield at Phuc Yen. The Reds claimed downing five American jets but only one loss was acknowledged by the U.S. Command, and that was far to the south over the DMZ.

Air Force pilots reported many sightings of MIG17s and MIG21s, with three brief air battles and more attempts by Red fliers to sneak behind American planes on bombing runs.

Of the 35 jets North Vietnam is believed to have operational on fields below the Chinese frontier, at least half and probably more were in the air.

Once MIG21s attempted to drive a flight of Phantom jets into the path of a defensive net of Soviet-built ground-to-air missiles. The Phantoms broke off and saw two SAM missiles whiz by and blow up just out of range.

Navy pilots from the carriers Coral Sea and Intrepid smashed through SAM and antiaircraft barrages to finish off two important bridges in Haiphong that had been damaged in previous strikes.

BRIDGE HIT

Unloading bombs weighing up to 2,000 pounds, Navy fliers hit the main highway and rail bridge on the road to Hanoi and the 658-foot highway bridge leaving the southwest section of the port. The campaign against the bridges is part of the effort to strangle exit routes from the port, already jammed with supplies unable to be moved.

The Navy pilots swept low to attack 23 antiaircraft sites and four launching installations of SAM missiles.

Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew a total of 144 missions concentrating on other supply targets and the Red gunners along the demilitarized zone. B52 bombers struck three times along the DOZ Tuesday night and today, laying down one saturation raid barely two miles from the muddy post at Con Thien.

66 DIE

The U.S. plane acknowledged down in North Vietnam near the DMZ was a Marine Phantom. Its two fliers ejected and one was rescued but the other was listed as missing. It was the 684th U.S. plane reported lost in the North.

Marine gunners south of the DMZ hurried more than 6,000 shells northward in an effort to silence Red batteries.

But enemy batteries pummeled two South Vietnamese battalions sweeping between Con Thien and the coast 12 miles away. The Vietnamese reported light casualties.

Claire Caulfield Selected Nat'l Merit Semifinalist

Claire Marie Caulfield, a Big Spring High School senior who will be graduated before her 16th birthday, has been named a semifinalist in the 1967-68 National Merit Scholarship program.

RANKED HIGH

As one of 14,000 semifinalists across the country, she is ranked in the top one-half per cent of graduating secondary school seniors in the nation. Semifinalists scored the highest in each state on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test given last February and will now advance to the second step in competition for 2,900 merit scholarships valued at more than $8,000,000.

Finalists will be considered for one of 2,400 four-year scholarships financed by some 400 corporations, foundations, colleges, unions, trusts, professional associations, individuals and NMSC. In addition, about 500 $1,000 scholarships will be awarded for the first time in 1968.

Upon graduation from high school, she hopes to major in philosophy at Boston University. Meanwhile she is busy earning enough credits to graduate from high school in three years. During the summer months she earned advanced placement credit through correspondence courses in trigonometry and

CLUB MEMBER

At Big Spring High School she is a member of the Thespian Club and National Honor Society and last year received the Eta Sigma Phi award in Latin, a language she and her father converse in frequently.

Claire and her parents, T. Sgt. and Mrs. Gordon A. Caulfield, 164-B Fairchild, originally from Boston, moved to Big Spring two years ago from Waco.

Connally To Seek Federal Aid Funds

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally said today he would ask President Johnson to declare about 20 South Texas counties a disaster area and would request $2-$2.5 million in federal funds to help communities start repairing public facilities.

The governor made it clear that the $2-$2.5 million he is asking would be immediate aid to get initial repairs underway and that more requests for more money would be forthcoming as work progressed.

REPAIRS MONEY

The governor said he is still getting requests from local officials for federal funds for specific projects and would add other counties later to his request for emergency aid.

He called the $2-$2.5 million to start initial work on repairs to facilities damaged by Hurricane Beulah and subsequent floods. "A very approximate figure."

The governor said he had talked with the President and his key aides in the emergency field by telephone and anticipated no difficulty in receiving federal aid.

EXPLAINS LAW

Connally devoted considerable time during a news conference to explaining what federal aid money under Public Law 875 can do and how it will be distributed.

A city or county can get aid for necessary repairs to such public facilities as streets, bridges, culverts, schools, hospitals, municipal buildings, water and sewer systems and public power plants.

A grant of 25 per cent of the total cost will be given on approval of plans. The rest will come in 25 per cent increments, with the final 25 per cent coming after a final audit of expenditures. The full 100 per cent will be given.

Connally stressed that local communities almost certainly will have to spend some of their own money. As an example, he gave repairs to a road which is passable, though damaged.

The initial $2-$2.5 million would be allocated by the state's Division of Defense and Disaster relief as soon as applications are received, he said.

Connally said he has talked personally with President Johnson but stated in answer to a question he did not know whether the President planned to journey to Texas to view damage in his native state.

"PLAYING POLITICS"
The governor said three teams, each consisting of a state official and a representative of the U.S. Office of Emergency Planning, surveyed damage in the Lower Rio Grande Valley Friday and Saturday and returned Sunday night.

Smarting under a statement Tuesday by U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., that Connally was "playing politics" with the disaster and was too slow in requesting federal help, the governor pointed out that his request could not go to Washington until a fairly accurate assessment of damage had been made.

He said the senator's statement "represents the lowest form of demagoguery and the foulest distortion of facts and truth that I have ever seen uttered by a public official."

There was water on three sides of six-story Valley Baptist Hospital in Harlingen, separating it from the main part of town. Helicopters stood by to ferry patients from the Harlingen airport to the hospital, which made use of its own heliport long before the current crisis.

An employee said the hospital was left without water or sewer service, however, after city mains broke early today.

Police worked through the night to evacuate householders in amphibious vehicles, high-wheeled Army trucks, swamp buggies and outboard motor boats. There was no other traffic.

Police Lt. H. Gutierrez said "Three operators are taking calls for help. It hasn't let up."

The highway from Mexico City to Acapulco, the Pacific Coast resort, was cut in two places by flood waters as heavy rains continued. Seven children were reported drowned in the neighboring village of Embarcadero, a man drowned at Coyuca and another was killed in a collapsing house at Onsetepe.

Before striking the Texas Coast near Brownsville, Beulah also killed 34 persons in the Caribbean and on Southern Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula.

Back on the Texas side of the Rio Grande, the first word came late Tuesday from flooded Falfurrias, 70 miles north of Harlingen after being isolated since last weekend.

There was no other traffic.

Debray Resigns As Son's Counsel

CAMIRI, Bolivia (AP) — The father of Regis Debray, French theorist of guerrilla insurrection, has quit as his defense counsel, charging that military authorities kept him from his son before young Debray went on trial Tuesday for aiding rebels in Bolivia's jungles.

"With no contacts with him, all defense is a deceitful illusion," said Paris attorney Georges Debray, handing his son's case over to a Bolivian lawyer appointed by the military tribunal. The prosecution asked that Debray be sentenced to 30 years in prison.

NO CONTACT
Debray, 27, a protégé of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, is accused with Argentine painter Ciro Roberto Bustos of rebellion, murder and theft. Both "entered Bolivia clandestinely and took up arms," the government charged.

Debray's father has been prevented from seeing his son since Sept. 21, a defense statement claimed Tuesday night. Debray's defense, sketched out during the trial's first day, will acknowledge that he is in sympathy with Bolivia's guerrillas, but deny that he aided them, took part in ambushes or carried arms except for hunting.

Steel Firm Hikes Cost

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Crucible Steel Co., a major producer of stainless steels, has announced a price increase of 3 to 5 per cent effective Monday.

The announcement Tuesday by Crucible followed the action of Cyclops Corp. which last week hiked stainless steel prices an average of 7 per cent.

Crucible's increase came two weeks to the day after Johnson Administration leaders urged steel companies to hold the price line in the national interest. There have been three increases affecting varying types of steel in the past two months, raising prices on about a third of the industrywide tonnage.

In raising its prices, Crucible cited "continuing cost pressures."

Lodge Holds Anniversary Fete
STANTON (SC) — There were 73 on hand Tuesday night for the eleventh anniversary celebration of Masonic Lodge No. 891. Similar festivities have been held each year since the lodge moved into the new building in 1956.

Following the program for members and guests, Gene Perry and L. S. Adams received master degrees. Prentiss Hightower is worshipful master of the lodge.

Industrial Group Meets Thursday
The Big Spring Industrial Foundation, Inc. will have a directors meeting Thursday, at 5 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce conference room, according to Bill Pollard, president.

The purpose of the meeting is to plan for improving the Foundation's 182 acre site, east of town, to make it more attractive for industrial prospects.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —Tropical storm Edith, churning the warm seas that spawned killer Hurricane Beulah, was reported intensifying today and forecasters said she would become the season's fifth Atlantic hurricane before nightfall.

Her top winds climbed to 60 miles an hour as she moved toward the west at 10 to 15 miles an hour. She was forecast to continue toward the west or take a slight turn toward the west northwest.

Gale force winds extended out 100 miles from the center. At six a.m. (EDT), Edith was centered near Latitude 13.0 North, Longitude 51.5 West, a spot about 550 miles east of Barbados and a little more than 1,000 miles east southeast of San Juan, P.R. That was about 2,000 miles east southeast of Miami.

Texan Guns Two, Kills Himself
HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP) — Dennis Farr, 24, of Dallas, upset about a pending divorce, shot and wounded his wife and her father and then killed himself, police said.

The shooting occurred Monday night at the home of Lester Hawkins, father of Mrs. Farr. She has lived with her parents here for more than a month after filing for divorce, officers said.

Mrs. Farr was shot in the stomach and was in serious condition. Hawkins, 60, was shot in the wrist.

COMMITTEEMEN GROGGY

Beulah Triggers Political Squall

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Hurricane Beulah not only scourged Texas with winds, tornadoes and floods — the mighty storm also ripped wide open the chasm that separates Gov. John Connally and the state's senior senator, Ralph Yarborough.

The political squall burst forth in a congressional committee's trip to investigate Hurricane Beulah's devastation. It left the committeemen groggy.

"They got caught in something they didn't expect and never really knew what hit them," said one of the corps of federal agency officials brought to Texas with the House Public Works subcommittee.

OLD FEUD
The two-day survey and hearings in the disaster area ended Tuesday with the controversy between Yarborough and Connally, both Democrats, easily the most spectacular and perhaps the most lasting product of the expedition from Washington.

The feuding between Connally and Yarborough is years old but had been kept somewhat muted since President Johnson became the chief executive.

Johnson and Connally are old friends. Johnson and Yarborough were often at political odds in past years. When the late President John F. Kennedy came to Texas in 1963 on the tour which ended in his assassination, Yarborough at first declined to ride in the same motorcade car with Johnson, then vice president. Kennedy aides finally persuaded him to do so in Dallas.

'INVITED GUEST'
Since Johnson became President, the senator has supported him and they have spoken highly of each other.

On the disaster tour, Yarborough, who was carefully identified time after time by the House group as "an invited guest," did much of the questioning of witnesses and often was the first one to shake a hand at each stop on the tour of trouble spots.

Connally, who had been invited to make the tour with the committee and was listed on the official agenda as the first hearing witness, never appeared.

Instead, he went about his own inspection tour of Beulah's ravages.

complained privately that the senator took advantage of the trip even to the point of trying to tell the House members where they should go and whom they should see.

On the other hand, some subcommittee members felt they were snubbed by Connally.

TEXAS HOSPITALITY
"In any other state, the governor would have been here to greet us and go right along with us," said one.

"It was an unfortunate situation," said another member. "We felt almost as if they were trying to saw us in two."

Almost everyone agreed privately that Connally probably would have worked closely with the House committee, which included several of his personal friends, if Yarborough had not been along. But on the record, subcommittee members made no mention of the Connally-Yarborough feud.

BITTER EPISODES
Connally's and Yarborough's political distaste for each other goes back at least to the 1960 National Democratic Convention when Connally was a leader in the LBJ for President campaign and Yarborough worked for Kennedy.

Their bitter disagreements have been frequent since then, often involving President Johnson, now a friend of both.

One of the most bitter episodes came when Yarborough ran for re-election in 1964 and Connally tried to support another Democrat, former Rep. Joe Kilgore of McAllen. It first appeared Kilgore would run for the nomination but then he announced he was withdrawing.

PRESSURE
Pressure from the White House, pleading that Democratic unity was needed in a Presidential election year, kept conservative Democrats from uniting behind an opponent for Yarborough.

Recently Yarborough publicly agreed with those who think the governor should not seek an unprecedented fourth term. Periodically, rumors arise that Yarborough is considering another try at the Texas governorship. He was defeated for the job three times before he was elected to the Senate.

SNUBBED
A close Connally helper said of Yarborough: "He's just trying to latch onto the House group for political purposes." Some of the House Committee

Dear Abby She'll Shape Up

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow of 52 and have nine children. Eight boys and one girl. My daughter is the youngest. She is now 14 and should be a young lady, but she has been around boys so much she is just like her brothers.

She doesn't know how to act like a girl and doesn't want to learn. She doesn't have any girl friends and has never played girls' games. She prefers baseball and football, and plays with the boys.

The girls at school make fun of her and call her "Sam" but it doesn't seem to bother her. She just tackles them and beats them up. I am constantly being called by girls' mothers about such matters. I've tried to talk to her, but it hasn't helped. Is there anything I can do to make my only daughter a girl instead of another boy? Or am I too late?

SAD MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter is a healthy, normal girl, even though her environment has done much to make her boyish, she will instinctively "shape up."

Don't pressure her. And don't scold or shame her. Keep an eye on her, and if she continues to prefer being one of the boys, consult a school psychologist, if one is available. Otherwise, get some counseling on your own.

DEAR ABBY: Every morning when I go to work I wear gloves to cover my wedding band because I am ashamed of being a working wife.

We have no family as yet and I would like to quit working, but my husband wants me to work because my paycheck comes in handy in paying our bills.

I really believe that when a woman marries she should stay home and be satisfied to live on what her husband earns. I am but my husband has other ideas. Am I wrong to feel ashamed?

ASHAMED
DEAR ASHAMED: What you feel is resentment against your husband. If you are "ashamed"—it's not of yourself—it's of your husband.

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "TOO BUSY" could have been written by my ex-daughter-in-law. She was another one of those who had the idea that a man should look after all his own needs. When my son moved in here at the time she instituted divorce proceedings, I had to lend him some of his Dad's clothes, as everything he had was in such bad shape.

He was wearing two suits of underwear with holes in different places, so he was covered. I remember once, she got as mad as a wet hen because she had just cleaned out the bathtub to take a bath, and HE beat her to it. Now I keep all his clothes in order, even though I am "BUSY, TOO" IN RENTON Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pregnant Claim Called Fantastic By Pen Official

LONDON (AP) — An English girl claims she became pregnant after visiting one of Britain's top security prisons. She says she was visiting her boy friend.

Her boy friend, Robert Davidson, was then an inmate of the Shepton Mallet Jail in Somerset. Said a spokesman for the prison: "Her claim is fantastic. I just don't see how it could happen."

"An officer is always present when prisoners receive visitors. There are no exceptions and no really private visits."

Details of the case were made public when Davidson, later released, came up for trial in Gateshead.

Davidson's lawyer, Gordon McKeag related the girl's story to the court, and asked the court to release Davidson so he could wed the girl. He did not give the girl's name, but said she was five months pregnant.

Refusing the request the judge sentenced Davidson to six months for stealing an automobile, and continued cases against him for driving without a license, having no car insurance and altering his license.

When Thompson went to Calhoun's room, he said, Calhoun fired at him once but missed and then kept the revolver on him until they reached Thompson's car.

Police said a Salina, Kan., Army wife and mother of four who was with Calhoun fled in Calhoun's car but was stopped by Burnet police and held for Amarillo officers.

When the district attorney's office presented the formal charge of kidnapping to Justice of the Peace Bonit Potter, Calhoun himself said he did not want to be offered an opportunity to post bond.

"It will serve no purpose," the prisoner said, "I can't post it anyway."

Motel Exec Cheats Death

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A motel manager wrested a pistol from a Salina, Kan., parolee Monday and told police the Kansan had abducted him and forced him to drive west of Amarillo.

"The man has a gun at my head. Do not try to stop me," D. M. Thompson, 54, urged police. Police backed off but 20 minutes later had surrounded Thompson's car and began to slow down in front of it on all lanes of US 66.

Thompson, manager of the Holiday Inn West, then let go of the steering wheel and got the .38 caliber revolver away from Hans Werner Calhoun, 20. Calhoun was formally charged with kidnaping Tuesday.

Thompson said Calhoun had registered as Elton C. Taylor of New York but desk clerks asked the manager to check on his credit when he ran up a large lunchroom bill.

When Thompson went to Calhoun's room, he said, Calhoun fired at him once but missed and then kept the revolver on him until they reached Thompson's car.

Police said a Salina, Kan., Army wife and mother of four who was with Calhoun fled in Calhoun's car but was stopped by Burnet police and held for Amarillo officers.

When the district attorney's office presented the formal charge of kidnapping to Justice of the Peace Bonit Potter, Calhoun himself said he did not want to be offered an opportunity to post bond.

"It will serve no purpose," the prisoner said, "I can't post it anyway."

Opening lead: Five of ♠.
East defended as if he was looking at all four hands when he uncovered the only lead to submerge South's three no trump contract.

West opened the five of clubs and East played the nine, South winning the trick with the jack. Declarer led the king of diamonds which was permitted to hold, and followed with a small diamond to dummy's jack as West discarded the deuce of hearts. East was in with the ace of diamonds.

East reasoned that he had a reasonably accurate count of his partner's distribution. West's lead of the five of clubs marked him with a maximum of four cards in that suit, since every lower spot was in sight. West had shown out on the second diamond which meant that he held eight cards in the major suits.

It appeared likely that West had four spades and four hearts, for if he had five hearts, it was reasonable to assume that he would have led that suit originally in preference to clubs. If West has four spades, then declarer has only one, in which case a spade shift should prove effective for the defense.

In order to cover the possibility that declarer's spade might be the queen, East returned the king of spades. South held off for two rounds and then put up dummy's ace. Since he had only eight tricks at this point—one spade, one heart, four diamonds, and two clubs, he led the queen of hearts for a finesse.

West won the trick with the king and cashed a spade to send declarer down to defeat. If East does not switch to a spade when he is in with the ace of diamonds, South has time to develop the fulfilling trick in hearts.

How To Clean Gold Jewelry

Dear Folks: We have told you before that many readers say they clean gold jewelry with a solution of ammonia and water.

A gold miner, and others, said that they have good results using dry baking soda and a soft rag.

A rare coin dealer, and many others, use plain old toothpaste and a soft brush.

I tested all three methods and found that one method may work better than the other, depending on the quality of the gold. It seems that the purity of the gold (how much pure gold and other alloys are in the article) determines what cleans it best.

So, if one idea doesn't work to your satisfaction, try another. Just remember, if the article has a thin coat of gold on it, and you rub it a lot, you may rub off the gold and get down to the basic metal.

Of course, if the jewelry is solid gold, or almost pure gold all the way through, they say you can't hurt it by rubbing.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: I use a one-pound coffee can for a bathroom bowl brush holder.

First I cover the can with foil, pretty wallpaper or paint, and put a folded paper towel inside on the bottom. Then I cut slits crosswise (X) in the middle of the plastic lid, and slip it over the handle down to the brush. When the brush is put in the can the lid can be snapped on and it's almost airtight.

It makes a clean and odorless holder that is replaceable any time. T. G.

Dear Heloise: This is for my fellow junk collectors.

Are your cellars, attics and garages full? Are you tired of hunting through boxes?

Buy some large, heavy plastic drawstring bags, and start sorting. Put up a row of cup hooks wherever you have space for these bags to hang. Sort and divide your things such as artificial flowers, clothing remnants, games, odds and ends, and put them in the bags. Then HANG them up.

Everything can be seen at a glance and the needed items removed easily.

Not only saves time, but makes a neater basement, attic or garage. Norma

Dear Heloise: To give my window shades a lift, I bought colored fringe by the yard and sewed it across the bottom of the shades where the sticks are inserted.

Remove stick, sew fringe on, then just reinsert stick.

I also sewed matching fringe around the top and bottom border of my lamp shades.

It certainly gave the room a much needed change. Meiba Ruffatto

Dear Heloise: That ever faithful nylon net stretched over the middle prongs of the top tray in my dish washer keeps small articles from falling through.

I leave mine on all the time

Good Foundation For Fashion 'Underworld'

By MARY SUE MILLER

In the underworld of fashion, "wardrobe" is the big word. It is true: foundation garments matched to outerwear are necessities for good dressing.

In brassieres — a soft shaper for the popular knits with nary a seam; a long line for dresses with a high neckline; a push-up for dresses built on narrow tops. In girdles — a high-rise for dresses closing in on the waistline; a mini hip-hugger to smooth mini-skirts; a pantie girdle styled for pants.

An important element of all the new foundation is their smooth look, achieved by secret seaming that molds without revealing itself under the soft fabrics that are everywhere this season.

For special fashions there are special foundations: bras demilcupped for scooped and squared necklines; bra-lettes designed to revive "Gone With The Wind" waistlines; pantie girdles that are extra long, as alternate solutions to the sitting-down problem that hemlines present; garterbelts combined with panties or petticoats; supple pantie corselets for fans of all-in-one garments.

Fabrics and colors also favor coordination. Satins and laces, chiffons and tricot are amazingly functional despite their soft look and light touch. A wide range of colors is designed to mix or match. Whatever your preference, it's no trick to assemble a wardrobe of handsome foundations.

Here's an effortless way to trim off heavy spots. All you do is lie down or sit down, and flex your muscles. If that's for you, send for "Lazy Girl's Exercises." Based on the isometric principal of exercise, routines trim head-to-toe figure. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Resolutions Read By Rebekahs

Resolutions of sympathy were read Tuesday evening during a meeting of Rebekah Lodge No. 153 in the IOOF Hall. The resolutions were read in memory of Mrs. Sam Lamar, mother of Jones Lamar, and for Roy Wayne McNew, father of Mrs. Bonnie Bennett.

Mrs. Alton Allen presided as the 24 attending reported 20 visitors to the sick.

The district deputy president, Mrs. L. D. Robertson, announced that the group will meet with Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 254 on Nov. 14. Also, the Stanton Rebekah Lodge will attend this special meeting where the honored guest will be Mrs. Claude Morris, Texas assembly president. Those from Rebekah Lodge No. 153 who will participate on the program are Mrs. Jones Lamar, Mrs. Odell Buchanan and Mrs. LaVerne Rogers.

Fall decoration will not be easy, what with all the crazy mixed-up mod and op designs that one finds around. But design and color projections of off-beat styles has sparked the entire furniture industry out of its stodginess. It has made manufacturers think instead of acting like sheep merely improving a wee bit here and there on each other's designs as they do each year.

So—while there is lots of talk about disposable and inflatable furniture, at this point it merely indicates enthusiasm. A little bit of paper and a little bit of paint, doesn't a great chair make — yet. But give the idea time. Furniture designs run from one extreme to the other — a chrome chair that resembles an upholstered wire cage to a deacon's bench.

OFF-BEAT

Off-beat design is around to be sure, such as the undulating furniture designs of the young Frenchman, Olivier Murgue. These may look a little sinuous for relaxation but the floating shapes of chaises, settees and chairs are built for comfort molded of latex foam rubber, covered with stretch fabric of purple, orange, cerise.

And there is see-through design, in addition to the glass topped tables. There are clean, elegant bases of lucite for cabinets and sofas and sculptured seats in molded lucite shells in a custom line by Vladimir Kagan. Laverne has a plexiglass desk. Another designer uses lucite as an all-over shell for upholstery. There are handsome and inexpensive designs in wood, metal, vinyl, leather because modern design has been reduced to its simplest form by minimizing upholstery.

But there is lots of "quiet" furniture available such as Sam Moore's tranquil look that is highlighted by a sofa upholstered in blue striped velvet. There is blonde furniture of ash and oak and bamboo in dark finishes. Roger Springer stresses back interest in a sofa with laminated teak slats shaped to give pitch to loose foam cushions.

SMASHING Upholstery used alone is likely to be big, smashing, tufted. When it is combined with woods or metals there is less of it, so traditional chairs are slimmer.

In accessories, there is the zoo look, with manufacturers still on safari. There are pillows, rugs and other furnishings such as hassocks in furry fabrics that resemble everything from chinchilla to zebra. Lots of these furs have become so strictly fake that it is an insult to the animal kingdom, and the souped-up design can only fall into a "camp" classification.

FLOOR LAMPS

There are more floor lamps—a mini-look in all over patterns in soft and resilient floor coverings, wallpapers and fabrics as well as giant-size design on fabrics.

Those who want to freshen up last year's upholstery will find new ready-made slipcovers are identically sized by all manufacturers (if you want an early American wing sofa, it is style $5.—available in three-cushion styles fitting various sized arms and wings.) each manufacturer shows his own designs in fabrics, color, quality, and price in a large assortment of covers that include woven cottons and stretch nylons in solids and patterns for use in every room of the house.

New Way To A Beautiful Bustline

Los Angeles.—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect if your bustline were improved? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to acquire this kind of figure perfection. If your bra size is less than 32 and larger than 36, A, B or C, then this new idea is not for you. If your bra size falls within this range, then you can realize a new, youthful, naturally rounded bust silhouette without special exercising or heavy, unnatural padding. Young Secret is an all-new kind of weightless wonder bra constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the manner in which this bra, once put on, feels just like you. It actually moves as if it were you and looks perfectly natural in every possible way. The bra itself is of a beautiful nylon lace over a polyester fiberfill that will retain its natural shape for the life of the bra. The straps are comfortably stretchable and easily adjusted. The band is also stretchable for maximum freedom and comfort. This bra gives your figure everything that's possible with a bra.

"Young Secret" bras are the peak achievement of the designer-genius, Olga. The fully padded style (sizes 32-34-36, A and B), in white black or nude can be found in our area at Hemphill-Wells Foundation Department, 214 Main St., Phone 267-8283. —adv.

Rebekahs Celebrate Founding

A program commemorating the anniversary of Rebekahs in Texas was held Tuesday by Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 at the IOOF Hall. Those participating were Mrs. Carl B. Mangum, Mrs. C. D. Herring, Mrs. Mary Brown and Mrs. Guy Peterson.

Mrs. A. F. Hill presided and announced the refreshment committee for October. It includes Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Rubye Simpson, Mrs. A. N. Standard and Mrs. B. A. Bunn.

Cake and coffee were served Monday by members to patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital. Forty-one visits to the sick were reported by the 23 attending. The next meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Chapter Earns Merit Award

The Big Spring Chapter of the National Secretaries Association met Tuesday at the Cosden Country Club Blue Room with Mrs. Dee Ratliff presiding. Mrs. Ratliff announced that the chapter had earned the Professional Development Award for excellence in educational programming over the past year.

A report was given on the area Leadership Clinic which was held in Midland, Saturday, at the Holiday Inn. Mrs. Ratliff, Mrs. Vic Ames, Mrs. William A. Bryans, Mrs. Herb Heath and Mrs. Camille Patterson attended from Big Spring. The clinic was conducted by Mrs. Catherine M. Leonard, Texas - Louisiana Division first vice president, who is a member of the Desk Set Chapter in Corpus Christi.

The local chapter is sponsoring a bridge marathon this year to support a scholarship fund for a student planning to enter the secretarial field. The president also announced that Mrs. J. W. Powers had passed her Certified Professional Secretary exam. She is the fifth member of the chapter to receive the rating.

City Moves Slow On Junk Cars

By REBECCA NUGENT
Time will soon tell if caution and patience were the best ways to get the job done — as far as enforcement of the city's junk car ordinance is concerned.

Five of eight cars have been moved and owners plan to move or recondition the remaining three.
The procedure followed by the city in enforcing the ordinance is time-consuming, based principally on treating each case individually.

Aug. 1 and Aug. 3. Almost two months have passed since the so-called warning period ended.
The decision of the inspecting officer can be appealed to the city commission within 10 days after a citizen receives a 10-day notice. None have been filed.

Stock Market Prices Mixed; Trade Active

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market fell into a mixed pattern in active trading early this afternoon.
Advances and declines among individual stocks were almost even but the averages showed small losses.

Finalist In Boston Mayoralty Contest

Mrs. Louise Day Hicks greets campaign workers in her headquarters in Boston last night when she topped a 10-candidate field in winning one of the two places for mayor of Boston on the Nov. 7 ballot. Secretary of State, Kevin H. White, will oppose her in the nonpartisan final election. Mrs. Hicks, an avowed foe to school desegregation programs, led by a margin of more than 4-3 over White.

SHERIFF LEARNS PLAN

Barbecue Was Planned For FFA Show Pigs

The vandalism perpetrated at the FFA barn two weeks ago in which one show pig was killed, a second so painfully cut that he had to be destroyed, and several others less seriously slashed — was the climax to a fantastic plan for a "barbecue," according to A. N. Standard, sheriff.

Standard said that the confessions were made after he and his deputies had been taken to a place where the carcass of the slain pig had been abandoned.
He said the pair making the admissions blamed the one named in the warrant as being the wielder of the knife.

"At the pen, the statements assert two men stayed in the car and two went into the pens. Only one is supposed to have used the knife. The four took one pig away, but later, when the investigation began, they dumped the carcass in a pasture."
The pigs killed and maimed were show animals that FFA chapter members were feeding, in preparation for the Howard County Pig Show, which opens next Wednesday.

Subversives Board Wastes Tax Funds?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Subversive Activities Control Board, termed by one senator a costly sinecure "for political cronies," apparently is going to remain in business for at least another year.
What that business will be is another question.

Such a move, challenging the potent Appropriations Committee, would be defeated, and that this could supply ammunition to senators who want to revive the board with new exposure powers.
SACB funds were approved by the committee as part of a $2.2-billion appropriation for the State, Commerce and Justice departments, the federal judiciary and other agencies.

Activity. Its authority to force registration of people and organizations cited as Communist has been overruled by the courts.
"The shameful fact is that each of these five board members has been collecting $500 a week for the past two years for doing absolutely nothing, and that they continue to draw down that fat salary, a frightening waste of the taxpayers money," Proxmire said.

AF Band To Play Odessa During Tour

ODESSA — The United States Air Force Band, hailed by the critics as "the finest band in the land," and featuring the Singing Sergeants, will appear in Odessa Oct. 13 at 8 p.m. in the Ector High School auditorium.

The concert, appearing through the courtesy of the USAF, is sponsored by the fine arts committee of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce, headed by Dr. Richard Fielden. Admission will be free, but tickets are needed for a count, and may be obtained from the Webb AFB information office, phone 267-2511.

The orchestra and chorus, under the direction of Lt. Col. Arnold D. Gabriel, will perform a wide variety of selections for the concert.

Featured soloist will be trombone virtuoso, Sgt. Larry Wiehe, one of the few Texans in the organization. Accompanying the 65-piece band and 20 voice chorus will be an art exhibit, featuring a representative selection of paintings from the Air Force Art Collection. It will be displayed in the lobby of Ector High School and includes paintings of various phases of Air Force activities, both past and present, donated by American Artists.

This is the USAF Band's first Odessa concert, and this is the sixth stop for the organization which will begin its concert season Oct. 8 in Phoenix and conclude it 25 days and 28 concerts later in Jacksonville, Fla.

NOT HAPPY BIRTHDAY

She Watches Water Lap Against Home

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Wallace Athey stood on a sandbag dike watching her husband ride in a boat toward her home.

Water was lapping almost to the windows and was under the door. She shook her head sadly. "We ran to Austin to get away from the hurricane and then come home to find this," she said.

Her husband gestured to the man running the outboard motorboat. The craft cut around to the back of the white frame home and glided smoothly to the doorstep. Athey stepped into the water and unlocked the door.

18 YEARS

Mrs. Athey watched quietly 100 yards away. "We've lived there for 18 years," she said, "and everything we own is in that house. No one will write flood insurance. I guess any loss will be ours."

Tuesday, she said, was her daughter's birthday. Beverly Athey was 16 and but for Hurricane Beulah would be enjoying a party, a cake, a new dress and presents.

Instead, she watched dirty water wash against the only home she has ever known. "It's not too happy for a birthday," she said.

WE'RE OKAY

Mrs. Athey smiled and put her hand on her daughter's arm. "She held up real well until we saw the house," said the mother.

The Atheys fled from their home before the approaching 100 mile an hour winds of Beulah. They went to Austin only to have tornados drop out of the sky and dance and spin near them. Then they came home and their home was awash.

"I'm just glad nobody was hurt," the housewife said. "That's the important thing." She looked out across the water toward where her husband was again boarding the boat. "We have a baby grand piano in there worth $1,000. It's a family heirloom," she said. "But as long as we're okay, that's all right."

WET HUSBAND

Her husband's boat pulled up to the sandbag dike and he stepped out. He was wet. He had fallen in.

Yes, he said, the water is in the house. He indicated about four inches with his hand. "Is it in the living room?" asked his wife.

"No," said her husband, "the piano is all right." A police cruiser had pulled in quietly behind the dike. Suddenly the loud voice of its bullhorn sounded.

"The water is coming up," it said. The people were to leave the dike immediately.

"Oh, it's getting worse," said Mrs. Athey. She turned and looked again at her home of 18 years. Then she turned away and managed a smile.

"Well," she said, "I guess we can always go back to Austin." The family walked slowly back to their car. They looked back now and then, but soon the dikes blocked their home from view.

Former Beau Embarrassed

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (AP)—George Hamilton, the handsome former friend of Lynda Bird Johnson, says he is embarrassed over police reports that coats found in his impounded Rolls Royce belonged to the President's daughter.

"Nothing in the car belonged to Miss Johnson," he said during an interview between rehearsals of musical "Funny Girl," in which he plays the husband of Fanny Brice.

"It had my clothes in it," he said. Police in Kingman, Ariz., touched off the tempest when they found an expensive beige car, parked unlocked behind a restaurant.

At first, reports indicated that four mink coats were found in the car, along with several pieces of luggage with Hamilton's identification.

"Two of the overcoats are worn by me in the play, and they have fur on the collar only," Hamilton said, adding that the two remaining cloth coats were his, too.

William McMurchey, about 30, who Hamilton had hired last week to drive the leased car from California to the East Coast, was dismissed after the incident.

Hamilton said he sent the car, loaded with costumes and his personal clothing, ahead because there were too many to take on a plane.

The car had burnt out its brakes in Kingman Sunday. Police telephoned the actor in Maryland and Hamilton asked them to impound the car to safeguard its contents from looting.

Drinkers Don't Drive - Or Walk

CHICAGO (AP) — "If you drink, don't drive — or walk across the street."

That is the conclusion of a report given today by Dr. Norman S. Rose, chief of the Bureau of Hazardous Substances and Poison Control for the Illinois Department of Public Health.

He said a one-year study of blood alcohol levels of pedestrians killed by autos in Illinois showed 42 per cent had been drinking.

Money From Blue?

PITTS, Ga. (AP) — Wilcox County farmers are bound to be a lot more careful when plowing up rocks in their fields. They could be passing up money from the blue.

William F. Read, a geology professor at Lawrence University in Appleton, Wis., has offered to pay $10 per pound for hunks of a meteorite which fell near this South Georgia town more than 46 years ago.

Battle Drives Home Lessons Of World War II, Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veteran U.S. officers say the battle of Con Thien is driving home again lessons learned in World War II and Korea: Massive airpower and big gun power have only limited effect in silencing a dug-in enemy.

JOE SHOSID

AFA Director To Speak Here

Joe Shosid, Air Force Association National Director, will speak on "Objectives of the Air Force Association, 1967-68" at the meeting of the Big Spring AFA Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Big Spring Country Club.

Each member is requested to bring a non-member guest and those doing so will be eligible for a door prize.

Shosid is president of Advertising Unlimited, Inc. of Fort Worth and his prior business background includes newspapers, radio stations and advertising firms. He is a veteran of World War II and Air Force Reserve officer with current assignment in Community Relations division, Office of Information, Secretary of the Air Force, Washington, D.C.

He has served three terms as vice president of Air Force Association and was named Air Force Association "man of the year" for 1963. He was also presented AFA's exceptional service plaque in 1968.

Cash Stolen From Machines

Early this morning Hosea Banks, 1106 NW 7th, reported the theft of an undetermined amount of cash from the coin-operated machines at the Lake View Cafe, 700 Wyoming.

Tuesday N. R. Taylor, 1601 Oriole, reported the theft of a newspaper rack from in front of his store, 3107 US 80 West. A lawnmower was reported stolen from the residence of Billy Kirkpatrick, 1061 W. 2nd. Jimmy Estes, Key Motel, reported the loss of linens and some hamburger meat.

These officers, many of whom saw action in both earlier wars, said the only way to do the job is to send in infantry to root out enemy batteries burrowed into holes and caves.

Current U.S. policy forbids any U.S. infantry attacks across the border into North Vietnam, from which most of the Communist artillery fire is aimed at Con Thien.

U.S. batteries have fired as many as 10,000 shells at the North Vietnamese guns in a single day.

This was 10 times as many as the North Vietnamese guns were throwing at Con Thien.

DUG-IN FOES
In addition, waves of U.S. bombers and fighter bombers

U.S. sources said the North Vietnamese have arrayed between 75 and 125 artillery pieces north of the Ben Hai River boundary.

These Soviet-designed guns, ranging from 85 to 152 millimeters, have been pounding the U.S. Marine outpost, some 2 1/2 miles south of the demilitarized zone, for nearly a month.

U.S. batteries have fired as many as 10,000 shells at the North Vietnamese guns in a single day.

DUG-IN FOES
In addition, waves of U.S. bombers and fighter bombers dumped 600,000 pounds of high explosive on enemy positions.

The American officers said it appears the Communists wheel their artillery out of caves and tunnels to fire, and then probably roll them back in under cover.

In addition, Communist mortars ranging from 60 millimeter to 120 millimeter weapons, fire into the outpost from positions inside South Vietnam, west and south of Con Thien. These mortars are believed dug into deep holes.

Experts said American shells and bombs would have to score direct hits or near bursts to collapse the caves, tunnels and holes from which the Communists are pumping rounds into the Marine outpost.

radar units can locate a gun position with an accuracy of about 160 feet at a range of up to about six miles.

But officers acknowledge that the radar has limitations, in that it emits a relatively narrow beam and must be pointed in the direction from which the enemy's fire comes in order to spot the trajectory and plot it back to the mortar or howitzer position.

SUFFERING
There is a difference in opinion among U.S. military men here as to how severely the American air and artillery barrage may be punishing the North Vietnamese gunners and mortar men.

One U.S. Army artillery authority said the North Vietnamese "have to be suffering tremendously."

He said he considers "remarkable that they are willing to take heavy losses in people and guns and keep on with their shelling."

But other Americans who remember World War II and Korea dispute the belief that the enemy is being badly bloodied.

"I ran into this kind of thing on Iwo Jima and Okinawa," said one Marine officer. "If they get enough cover, it's hard to knock them out even with a direct hit."

The "Thunderbirds," the Air Force's official aerial demonstration team, will perform at Webb Air Force Base Dec. 2 while on a tour of Air Training Command bases.

Led by Maj. Neil L. Eddins, a veteran of the Vietnam war with 100 combat missions to his credit, the team will fly modified North American F-100 Super Sabres — the first USAF aircraft to fly faster than the speed of sound in level flight.

Other Texas stops on the tour include: Laughlin AFB, Oct. 21 and Laredo AFB, Dec. 9.

Thunderbirds Are Coming Here

'The Germans' Sketch Hailed

By CYNTHIA HLOWRY
Associated Press Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — West Germany today is a land of plenty, oriented to business, full of devoted families whose members consume an average of two pounds of potatoes a day, and has a school system designed to train the young to become job holders but avoid their exposure to ideas.

This was a portion of the picture drawn on CBS's weekly news show, "The Germans" Tuesday night, a once-over-lightly treatment of an affluent nation 20 years after a war it lost. It was, in essence, an illustrated essay on the subject by Hughes Rudd, a network correspondent who identified himself as "a German-watcher since 1942."

NOT NEO-NAZI
No one, of course, could do more than sketch in some outlines on such a vast, complicated subject in less than one hour's time. Rudd's tactic was to deliver a series of brightly turned phrases consisting of generalities that might or might not stand up under closer scrutiny.

"The Germans are a nation with a record: They want time off for good behavior" or "The Germans as a society are not neo-Nazi: They are neo-Victorian."

The photography was concentrated in an area in and around Huerenberg which Rudd asserted was "the most German of cities." His interviewees, most of whom were young, spoke excellent English and repeatedly declared that modern Germans do not want "to be seen through the glasses of the past," as one phrased it, but by the present.

BEER GARDENS
The program covered an enormous range of subjects, from the shots of beer gardens and families frolicking in public parks to the demolition of Hitler's stadium used for Nazi rallies. Some young people spoke of encountering hate when they went abroad. Two middle-aged Jews disagreed about the amount of anti-Semitism in the country. One said he found little if any; the other said he encountered it from time to time.

Rudd was at his best when reading his often witty commentary and tossing in small, significant details—like the potato statistic. His thesis, however, was that Germany today is an underdeveloped nation. This seemed borne out, not by the evidence of the camera, but by his figures on secondary education.

Eighty per cent of the school students, he said, quit at 14 to become apprentices at jobs they will probably work at for the rest of their lives and only 10 per cent finish high school.

Science And You

The Rainmakers!

—By DR. LEONARD REIFFEL

Even before the Indians began their rain dances, man must have dreamed about making rain when and where it was needed. In more recent years, rainmaking took a more scientific turn. Various kinds of cloudseeding experiments slowly began to show signs of success. Lately, however, progress has really been quite spectacular. As a result, rainmaking has now reached the point where the Secretary of the Interior has decided to approve the initial steps of a program designed to put it on a routine basis as early as 1972.

This is really a big change in attitude toward weather control research and applications. As late as 1962, only about $100,000 was being devoted to rainmaking research. In 1966, the funding jumped to $7 million and the way things look it's going to go up very rapidly in the future. Such an increased commitment to rainmaking is all part of a very large atmospheric water resources program which the United States is shaping up for implementation in the next decade or so.

It's expected that by 1972 we will have techniques for use in places like Colorado and Wyoming which will improve considerably the water flow in streams. Studies indicate that we'll have techniques available by 1973 for use in the southern Sierras. By about 1975, we'll be increasing precipitation by artificial means in the central mountain regions, in certain areas of the northwest and northern plains, and the southern plains and Gulf region.

Thus, by 1975, we'll have extensive control of rainmaking, and techniques for use under almost any conditions and in any locale are predicted to be available by 1980.

Our power over rain will undoubtedly bring a lot of benefits. People will be able to cultivate the land more effectively and many of our general water resource problems presumably will be substantially alleviated.

On the other hand, an ability to change the weather is also likely to bring plenty of problems. Just imagine a situation where, say, Kansas sues Wyoming because Wyoming pulled some of the water out of the sky that Kansas was intending to strip out with its own rainmaking techniques. It doesn't take much imagination to see what might occur if such problems extend to a worldwide arena. Just imagine war being threatened over the fact that country A is taking the water out of clouds that country B feels are its property.

As we take more and more control over nature, there are certain to be accompanying accommodations in the complex field of international law. Only by maintaining a careful step-by-step, parallel development in both technology and the legal machinery for its control can serious problems for mankind hopefully be avoided.

Up And Away In A White Bucket

A sky-high ride in the city's newly acquired aerial bucket awaits public works employees when traffic signals need a bit of repair. Roy Rogan, city electrician, left, and Mike Defelice, city employee, take a trial run for an aerial view of Big Spring. The truck—purchased at a cost nearing $11,000—includes a 32-foot-high hydraulic lift and bucket, although a working height of 37 feet can be attained. The frame of the truck is filled with 1,250 pounds of lead to serve as a counterbalance for the aerial arm.

IN EARLY 1966

U.S. Brass Sought Bombing Onslaught

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today he still is opposed to hitting the port of Haiphong to cut off the flow of supplies to North Vietnam.

McNamara told newsmen, as he left for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Turkey, that action to neutralize North Vietnam's chief port is "a risk that I don't believe we should undertake at this time." The defense secretary thus underscored his differences with the Joint Chiefs of Staff on the question of bombing or mining the Haiphong harbor.

RISKS RESPONSE
He spoke in response to questions about Senate testimony, published Tuesday night, in which Gen. Earle G. Wheeler stressed his belief the port should be shut down by military action.

Appearing behind closed doors in August, the chairman of the joint chiefs told the Senate preparedness subcommittee he had balanced the risks against the gains and "I have come down on the side that we could undertake action against the port of Haiphong . . ."

McNamara and his associates believe the risk of a confrontation with Russia would be a serious one in attacking the Haiphong harbor, because several Soviet ships are almost always there discharging cargo for North Vietnam.

RUSSIAN FEAR
A confrontation, they feel, might occur if Russian ships came under U.S. fire.

McNamara appeared to try to minimize the impression of differences with Wheeler. He said the general's testimony amounted to "a balanced appraisal of potential risks and gains" from action against Haiphong.

McNamara said Wheeler "pointed out very clearly the possibility of widening the war" by attacking the port. The testimony by Gen. Wheeler, delivered Aug. 16, disclosed that the joint chiefs sought a 16-day bombing onslaught against 90 key targets in North Vietnam early in 1966. They didn't get their way.

The administration instead adopted a gradual escalation approach which allowed commanders in Vietnam to attack only 22 JCS-recommended fixed targets all last year.

DIFFERENCES
Wheeler's comments indicated anew deep-seated differences between the military men and civilian leaders over the conduct of the war. President Johnson told a recent news conference there was no serious conflict between the joint chiefs and civilians.

Wheeler told the Senate preparedness investigating subcommittee that, in retrospect, the 90-target campaign probably would have taken 26 days to complete due to bad weather.

TOP TARGETS

According to previous testimony by Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, Pacific commander-in-chief, this attack campaign would have hit all major targets in six areas: power, transportation, air defense, war-related industry, military complexes and petroleum, oil and lubricants.

Although many of these have been hit over past months, Wheeler said a number of significant targets remain off-limits—among them the port of Haiphong, point of entry for Soviet war aid to Hanoi.

"I have come down on the side that we could undertake actions against the port of Haiphong," the general stated.

Housing Upswing Due To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The slow recovery of the housing industry from last year's recession is expected to continue through 1968, but there's no relief in sight for high interest rates on mortgages.

That's the assessment of the industry and key government officials if Congress approves higher taxes to help reduce a heavy budget deficit and stem inflationary pressures.

NO SURPRISE
Without higher taxes, they said, housing could go into another tailspin.

No substantial easing of mortgage interest rates is anticipated through next year and the home building industry indicated a further slight increase this year would come as no surprise.

High interest rates will undoubtedly hold down the housing recovery this year and postpone the catching up process until 1968, the industry said.

In a new housing forecast, the National Association of Home Builders said housing starts this year are certain to exceed the depressed 1966 level but the improvements will be slight over-all.

TIGHT CREDIT
For 1968, the association foresees a 10 per cent increase in housing starts if the administration's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes becomes effective on Jan. 1.

But the group expects no significant loosening in credit during the first quarter of next year and very likely throughout the year.

"Result, housing starts in 1968 will fail to increase as rapidly as in previous times of recovery after a tight money period," the report said.

NEW PEAK
Some government officials also foresee no substantial lowering of mortgage interest rates next year.

After reaching their peak last December, interest rates on home loans declined until late spring but have since increased.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which supervises the savings and loan industry, the largest single source of mortgage funds, said the average interest rate on conventional loans on new houses was 6.34 per cent during August, the same as July.

But the rate on existing homes increased to 6.37 per cent from the 6.33 per cent during July. Future loan commitments by S&Ls hit a record $3.4 billion in August.

Clay Flower Making Class Set Thursday

The West Texas Ceramic Association will resume monthly meetings Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the student union building of Howard County Junior College. A series of meetings will feature workshops conducted by members in various ceramic techniques.

Gerald Wilson, instructor in the Big Spring Special Education School, with a degree in industrial arts, will conduct the Thursday night class on clay flower making. Clay will be provided to all participants, but each is asked to bring tools.

"We hope everyone interested in ceramics will take advantage of this free workshop," Mrs. Robert Fuller, president, said. The business session will include nomination of officers to be elected at the October meeting.

STYLE HOUSE® FINE CHINA

Handcrafted in Japan, where fine china is a centuries-old art. It's elegant. Translucent, Petal Thin Lustrous. But don't be afraid to use it often — it's chip resistant. Craze proof. Strong enough for everyday use, yet will enhance the finest table setting.

STYLE HOUSE® IRONSTONE

Next to China, the finest ceramic ware made . . . more durable than semi-porcelain because clays are fired at higher temperature. Colors sealed under glass-hard glaze. Washing, even in dishwasher won't affect them. Excellent for everyday use.

A Devotional For The Day

We preach Christ crucified, . . . Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God. (I Corinthians 1:23-24)
PRAYER: O Savior of the world, who by Thy cross and precious blood hast shown Thy passion to redeem us, we come to Thee with repentant hearts. Help us, save us, we humbly beseech Thee, in Thy name. Amen.

Cuts For Tax

President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge bill is temporarily stalled in Chairman Wilbur D. Mills' House Ways and Means Committee. That was not unexpected. The decisive question is whether the strong-minded Arkansas Democrat is more concerned over proof of a serious inflation threat requiring the tax hike or with extracting from the administration the maximum in spending cuts to help reduce an estimated huge election-year deficit.

The reality of the inflation threat; almost unanimously predicted by economists in and out of government, should soon be obvious. The Mills committee can hardly stall more than a few more weeks on that point.

The spending cuts, which Mills has asserted must be specific and substantial as the price for a tax bill, are a far more complicated matter. So far the administration has offered, in generalities, spending cutbacks around $2 billion. Some members of Mills' committee are demanding reductions equalling the tax cut, that is, about $7½ billion.

The higher figure is probably a bargaining point. Considering irreducible war costs, fixed governmental costs (debt interest, administration, etc.), and politically untouchables such as public works, such a huge spending slash would have to starve foreign aid programs, shelve much of the space program, and cut vital social programs to levels that might disrupt related state and local programs. The result would be more waste than saving.

It is apparent, however, that the Johnson administration will have to do some serious horse-trading with Mills, and the rest of Congress, to get an anti-inflationary tax hike effective in a presidential and congressional election year. Painful specific cuts may have to be conceded; but a blanket slash must be avoided, and probably can be after Congress has put on a good economy show for the voters.

The nation's temper is not such, as the past summer's shocking experience indicate, that it would support congressional scrapping of urgent domestic programs to offset the Vietnam war's cost. Nor will it tolerate runaway inflation. The obvious compromise, then, would seem to be to grant the tax increase, or most of it, in return for a reasonable amount of cutbacks in spending on some of the less essential domestic programs.

Remarkable Record

There doubtless will be numerous stories of individual heroism come out of the historic and destructive storm and floods in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Yet there is a corporate heroism to match it on the part of law enforcement agencies, firemen, local officials, utility directors, Civil Defense representatives, etc.

Warnings were handled with such effectiveness that virtually everyone was alerted without being panicked;

there was an absolute minimum of deaths; and in general the evacuation was well-disciplined and thorough.

The cost in disrupted activities and but had not those officials charged with responsibility functioned so admirably, a grim toll of death and suffering would be added to this great catastrophe. These people are entitled to great commendation.

Mutual Funds Developing New Twists

NEW YORK (AP)—Regulatory officials who have tried for years to keep pace with the swiftly growing mutual fund industry may now observe that the shape as well as the size of the subject is changing.

This most recent of the multi-billion institutions, which has grown 80 times since 1940, now is showing signs of developing new characteristics and to some extent new purposes. This may bring a new set of problems to study.

Most of the changes deal with new marketing procedures being tested by the $40 billion industry. In recent weeks funds have entered into selling arrangements with insurance companies and, to the surprise of many, the Reader's Digest Association.

A CONCURRENT trend also could be developing in the sales of shares in American industry to foreigners.

The Reader's Digest Association, which has had a phenomenal growth from a basement enterprise 45 years ago to a $300 million business now, has announced plans to experiment with mutual fund sales in Germany.

Billy Graham

I'm a traveling salesman, and I do a lot of driving. Sometimes I find myself compulsively disobeying traffic laws. As a Christian I know this is wrong, but why do I break the speed laws? Is there a spiritual or psychological reason?

H. H. We are living in a high-gear, high tension age. The tempo of the times is one of speed and hurry. It is easy for even a committed Christian to become infected with the disease of "haste."

I find myself hurrying when really there isn't any reason to hurry. It is all part of the restlessness of this world we live in. Paul called it the "course (or pace) of this world." One of the symptoms of a world separated from God is restlessness and nervousness. Another is lawlessness. Paul wrote to the Ephesians who might have driven their chariots at excessive speeds: "Wherein in times past ye walked according to the course (or pace) of this world . . . the spirit that worketh in the children of disobedience." (Eph. 2:2).

Haste is not always speed. The Christian must conquer tensions and haste, like our heavenly Father who does His work patiently, and with thoughtful gradations. Chesterton once said: "Whoever is in a hurry shows that the thing is too big for him. Manners require time and nothing is more vulgar than haste." Davis said, "Wait on the Lord," and that is good advice. Especially for us moderns who wait for nothing, not even God.

When driving a car I try to use the motto, "Drive unto others as you would have them drive unto you."

There was an absolute minimum of deaths; and in general the evacuation was well-disciplined and thorough.

The cost in disrupted activities and but had not those officials charged with responsibility functioned so admirably, a grim toll of death and suffering would be added to this great catastrophe. These people are entitled to great commendation.

There are obvious advantages for both the Digest and the fund in this alignment. For the fund, a stranger to Germans, it means an opportunity to capitalize on the Digest's good name. For the Digest it means more income.

UNDER THE arrangement, the Digest will sell shares of Loomis-Sayles Mutual Fund, a relatively small Boston organization, on an experimental basis in the state of Hesse, where one-tenth of the German edition's 1.28 million circulation is sold.

This seems like a very tentative arrangement, but its potential is huge. The Digest claims a worldwide readership of 80 million in more than 100 nations on every continent. It has a primary circulation of 28 million copies in 29 separate editions and 13 languages.

"WE'RE OPEN to all possibilities and the United States is not excluded as a possibility," a Digest man said. This could mean that the Digest, which also sells books and records, might also become a worldwide seller of mutual fund shares.

The Digest is not, however, the first to realize the potential of selling shares in American industry to foreigners, whose incomes have grown strongly in recent years.

THE FUND OF FUNDS, operated from Switzerland, sells shares abroad in funds which reinvest the money in American industry. This fund has grown into a $420 million operation. The United States Investment Fund, based in the Bahamas and operated largely by former aides of President Kennedy, is also growing into a worldwide seller of shares in American industry and real estate.

DOMESTICALLY, the marketing of funds also is developing new twists. The Eastern Life Insurance Co. of New York has announced plans to join with Oppenheimer Fund, Inc., to offer individuals a program that would include both insurance and funds.

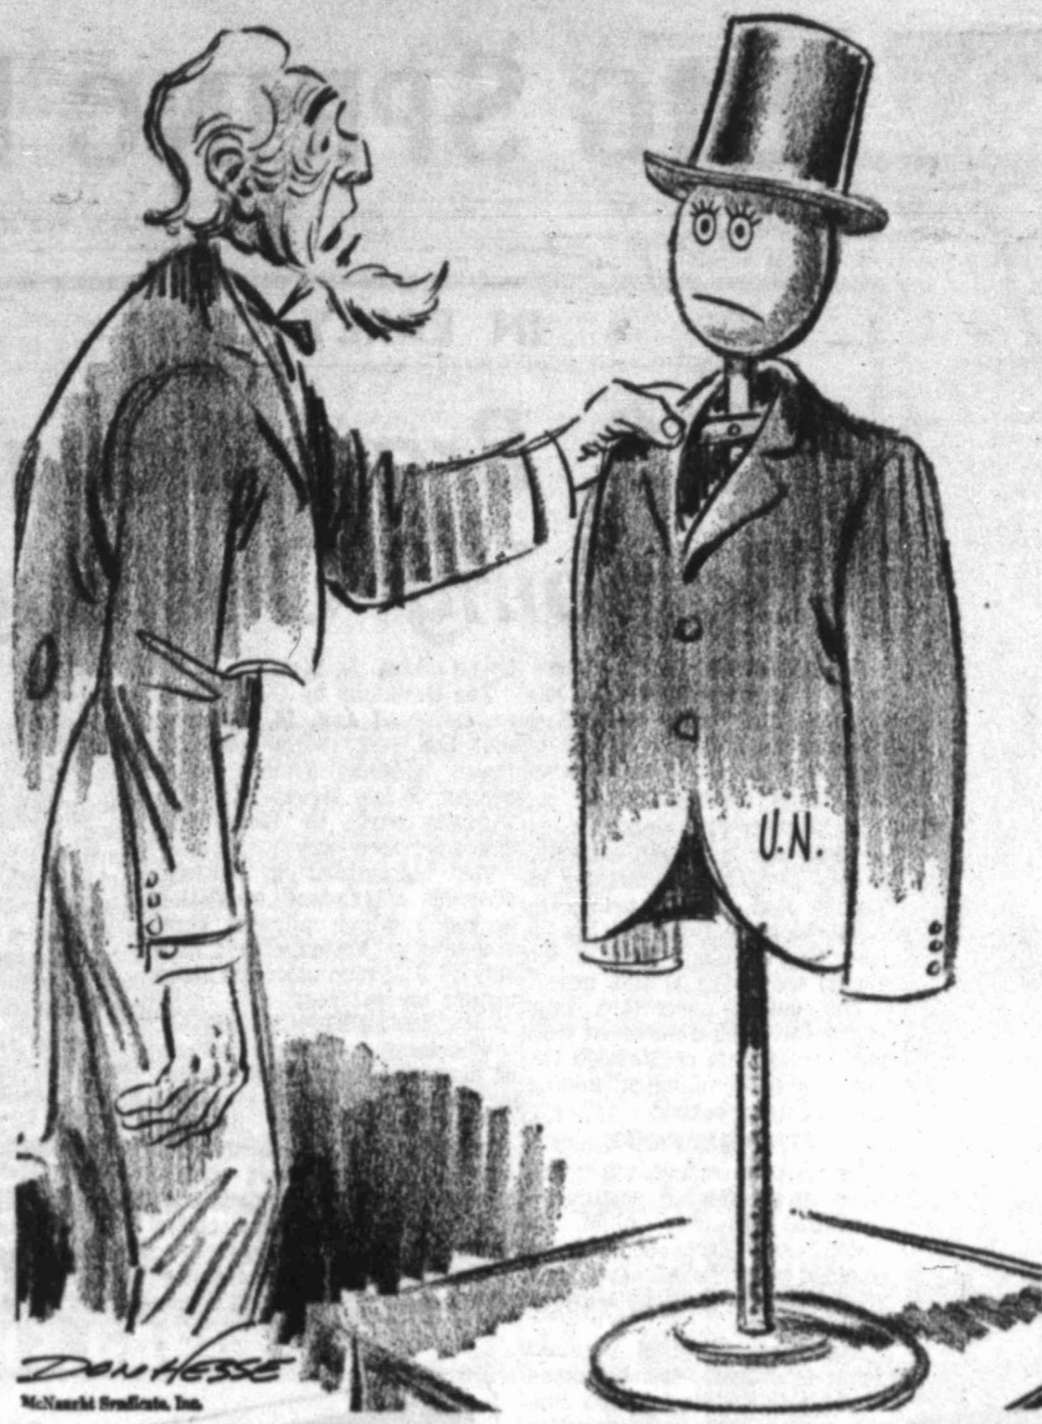

Ties That Bind

TOKYO (AP)—The president of Japan Uniform Center says people who wear neckties don't like to work. He says they wear them to conform to society.

A major Japanese newspaper, the Yomiuri Shimbun, interviewed Wajiro Kon on neckties and their introduction to Japan from the west.

Kon was quoted as explaining: "The necktie is worn by people who have no desire to work. The necktie is a yoke that restricts freedom of movement and causes labor efficiency to drop."

He did not elaborate how a dislike for work was linked to the tie.

Frustration Sets In As War Drags

WASHINGTON (AP)— Presidents all the way back got their lumps for something they did in foreign affairs, even though it looked dandy at the time. People and politicians turned sour later.

Good examples are Presidents Johnson and Harry S. Truman. Truman neither asked nor got congressional authorization for going into the Korean War. But Congress fully backed him by voting what he needed for the war.

FRUSTRATION set in as the war dragged on and debt increased. Clubbing Truman then became a hobby, particularly in Congress where Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft complained Truman had no right under the Constitution to do what he did. Now Johnson is getting the Truman treatment for the war in Vietnam although, unlike Truman, he asked and got congressional approval ahead of time for using troops there to stop aggression.

THE CONSTITUTION is not only silent on what a president can do in those situations, but is blank on practically everything else in foreign affairs except for saying a president can make a treaty if two-thirds of the Senate approve.

From the earliest days presidents have submitted 1,427 treaties to the Senate which approved 1,247 and flatly rejected 16. Another 141 were withdrawn because they couldn't get a two-thirds vote or for other reasons. Another 23 treaties are pending.

SOME of those rejects, like the Versailles Treaty after World War I, changed history. But, since trying to get major treaties through is a tortuous journey and the Constitution does not say presidents can't try other devices, presidents have. They turned early to "executive agreements." President

George Washington was the first to take this road with a postal agreement. Most agreements later had congressional approval, but by a simple majority vote since they were not treaties, avoiding the painful two-thirds process.

Mailbag Bulletins

NEW YORK (AP)— Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you think you have dental woes, consider the plight of George Washington. The "father of his country" had lost all his teeth by the time he was 40, and in later years wore at least three sets of false teeth. Although Dr. Sigmund Freud's psychoanalytic theories are under considerable scientific attack, some 250,000 Americans pay a million dollars daily to lie on a couch and talk about their emotional problems.

MUCH FUN is poked at the vanity of bearded hippies and beatniks. But men who wear beards have always been vain of them. During the 17th and 18th centuries gentlemen of class even wore cumbersome cardboard boxes in bed to protect their chin whiskers while they slept.

The tired people become individually, the more energy their civilization seems to need. It is estimated that between now and the year 2000, the United States will consume twice as much energy as it did in the last 150 years. And in the next 33 years the whole world will use up as much energy as it did in the last 2,000 years.

The chances are one in six that you have some kind of allergy—or will develop one during your lifetime.

QUOTABLE notables: "The average Hollywood film star's ambition is to be admired by an American, courted by an Italian, married to an Englishman and have a French boy friend." —Katherine Hepburn.

Tip to the thrifty: Don't leave your money dormant in an oak too long. In some states small bank accounts that are inactive for 10 years or more may be closed out by the bank with the balance, minus service charges, being sent to the state.

ARTFUL WEAVERS: Spider webs are almost as distinctive as human fingerprints. Each of the 30,000 known varieties of spiders has its own style of weaving and turns out a new web daily made of self-spun filaments stronger than a strand of steel the same thickness. Some spiders even weave nets and use them to "lasso" their prey.

Around The Rim

Those Amazing Water Thieves

Right now, the flood-stricken lower Rio Grande Valley is about the only spot in Texas not interested in more water. Eventually this will flow out to sea, with its trail of havoc, and within a year that area will be as conscious as the remainder of the state concerning water resources.

THE STATE HAS a master water plan for building a series of dams and impounding lakes to help meet water needs over the next half century. This will cost upwards of two billion dollars. How would it seem, then, if by magic process the state were presented with 10,000 acre-feet of water—enough to fill 50 Lake J. B. Thomases—each year?

Conservationists believe that this could be accomplished by one simple but massive attack on a major enemy—brush.

"WORTHLESS brush and weeds waste nearly as much water as is used for all other purposes in Texas," said H. N. Smith, state conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service. "One of our greatest potentials for saving water is reducing this waste by non-economic plants."

The SCS made a survey in 1964 and found that 88 million acres, or 82 per cent of Texas' 107 million acres of grassland, are infested with brush. You can be sure that the percentage is up substantially today. Brush takes away moisture and plant food which could go to useful plants, so that range experts estimate that four of every five acres are producing less than half of their potential.

SOME OF THIS brush falls into the category known as phreatophytes—moisture-loving plants growing adjacent to streams, lakes and ponds, and on soils with high water tables—and these have voracious appetites for water. Salt cedar, most familiar in this section, may consume as much as three acre-feet a year from rivers, ponds or from edges of lakes.

When I was a lad—and I like to think that wasn't so long ago—there were scarcely any salt cedars except for those used for ornamental purposes. Today all the way from the chain of lagunas above Big Spring to well below town, Beal's Creek is clogged with them and the adjacent flats a mat of salt cedars.

MESQUITE IS another familiar brush invader, covering countless acres I remember as good pasture land. On a typical warm summer day, a young mesquite plant may pump more than its own weight in water and expend it into the atmosphere as vapor. One study showed that a mesquite stand that has a canopy shading 50 per cent of the soil can use up to nine inches of water per month during the growing season.

Not only do these plants gobble up water, but they are notoriously inefficient in producing dry matter (which is virtually worthless). For instance, the same amount of water that produces 740 pounds of mesquite will produce a ton of good blue gramma grass.

SOMETHING CAN be done about it; success stories are innumerable. Fifteen years ago, George Skeete began a campaign to get rid of brush and restore grasslands on his ranch near Water Valley. Not only did his range come back, but so did a forgotten spring which has continued to run with the exception of two extremely dry years. Many similar experiences can be told.

IT IS A SHOCKING, sober thought that these "insidious thieves steal more water every year in Texas than is used by all the towns, all the factories, all the farms, and all the people. They annually use almost five times as much water as is stored in all the reservoirs of the state. About 10,000,000 acre-feet of water could be saved annually by controlling a major portion of these brushy water thieves . . ." according to C. A. Rechenhain and H. N. Smith in "Grassland Restoration" (Part V, Tex 47-157), a publication I commend to your serious study. —JOE PICKLE

Election Bill Would Be Blunder

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Twice in two years, under separate bills, the U. S. Senate (actually its Democratic majority) has sneaked its way into the Treasury and tried to lay hold of campaign funds. The chief robber barons, Sen. Russell Long (La.) and Albert Gore (Tenn.) may know not what they do. But abetted by a certain professional in the White House, they offer a number of pious reasons for this $100 million grab from the public till. If you believe the raiders, they desire to aid the "poor" among politicians, and to produce elections that are "clean" of rich men's lucre. But if Long and Gore were as candid as Willie Sutton, the safecracker, they would say about the Treasury as Willie did about banks: "That's where the money is."

THESE ISN'T any other believable rationale for legislation that would subsidize the national and senatorial tickets of 1968. Here is a snatch to make it possible for television monopolists (LBJ), corporation lawyers (Nixon), motor magnates (Romney) and hereditary millionaires (Kennedy and Rockefeller) to be able to make the sacrifice.

If the American public stands still for this one, it has to be for two reasons. One is that hardly anybody reads the legislative document itself. Voters, editorialists, commentators and apologists rely on secondary materials.

THAT PRIMARY reason why the American people might agree to a law (they haven't read it) for subsiding some '68 campaigns is very apparent.

The second reason, if I can spot it is part of a deep-down psychosis. There exists, as every man must tremble to report, an American death-wish. This is often ascribed to the Republican Party, a minor limb of the body politic, but sadly it pervades the entire structure of self-government.

The village idiot should be able to perceive that a public subsidy for aspiring politicians is a subversion of the people's choice, and thus a suicidal action.

THERE ARE officials in the state department's arms control and disarmament agency who are taking public money to reduce our ability to survive in warfare. There are large cliques (including presidential candidates) who encourage a black minority of not more than 15 per cent to subdue an 85 per cent white majority which represents all of the tradition and most of the production that founded and maintains the freest and richest nation on earth. There is a body of intellectuals who decry the capitalist system, the support and shield of every American's liberty and opportunity. There are peace-mongers in public office who would rather the Communists win wars than that we win them.

If we are going to kill off free elections, self-defense, majority tradition and the will-to-win, we are a has-been nation.

Marriage Repercussions Uncertain

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Rusk—whose 15-year-old daughter last week married Guy Smith, a 22-year-old Negro, just graduated from college—is understood to have offered to resign his post in the cabinet if the President thought the wedding would be politically embarrassing to the administration. But Mr. Johnson discouraged the "resignation."

WHAT, IT IS being asked, however, will be the political repercussions of the incident? Will it be a distinct plus for the administration in international politics but to some extent a minus on the domestic side?

In Great Britain 14 years ago the daughter of Sir Stafford Cripps, the finance minister, married an African, and the couple now have four children. The wedding attracted relatively little attention in this country, and at the time was not the subject of much discussion in London, where dark-skinned students from countries in Africa and Asia had for many years been accustomed to mingle socially with whites.

SO IT IS LIKELY that abroad—and particularly in most of the African countries where reports of the racial disputes in the United States have been utilized to spread anti-American sentiment—the Rusk-Smith marriage will be construed as a rebuttal of such charges.

In Washington today there are 117 embassies and legations, and the majority of the staffs include persons of the black or brown or yellow races. Certainly in official circles here social ties between men and women of all colors—especially among the younger generation—have increased substantially in the last decade.

AS FOR THE impact on domestic politics, probably millions of persons who watched the couple on television and saw photographs on the front pages of the newspapers talked with one another about the wedding, and doubtless many wondered if it had started a trend in America. There have been interracial marriages in recent years in various communities of the north, particularly in the theatrical profession. Also on some television shows nowadays Negroes and whites are seen dancing together.

The political significance of it all is that many voters who have been vigorously opposing racial integration in the public schools will claim that their viewpoint is being vindicated. They will insist now that, while it is desirable to provide equal educational facilities, integrated public schools are creating the social environment in which Negro and white youngsters grow up together and then marry. The same debate will, of course, arise in the controversy over "open housing" in many cities and their suburban areas.

CONVERSELY, the people who do not object to racial intermarriage will say that, since the daughter of a secretary of state has chosen a Negro for a husband, this gives a form of approval which has been absent heretofore. This will be regarded as confirming the long-held views of parents that school integration leads to interracial marriages. Segregated private schools presumably will increase in number.

AS FOR THE LEGAL phases, the Supreme Court of the United States has recently ruled that no person may be barred from marrying anyone of another race or color, and that state laws hitherto banning such marriages now are invalid.

The real extent of the political impact of the whole racial problem probably will not be measurable until the day after the presidential and congressional elections of November, 1968.

Awaiting Coleman Invasion

Coach Bernie Hagins is pictured here with several members of his Coahoma football club. The Bulldogs face a mighty challenge at home Friday night, clashing with Cole-

Coleman's Bluecats Invade Coahoma

COAHOMA—Plans are shaping up here for one of the Coahoma Bulldogs' biggest home games ever — a Friday night outing with the Coleman Bluecats. Kickoff time is 8 o'clock.

Although Coahoma now has a 2-1 record and Coleman is winless in three starts, the visitors will probably enter the game as slight favorites.

Coached by newcomer Grady Graves, the Bluecats have lost to Anson, 26-7; Winters, 21-13; and Bishop Dunne High of Dallas, 14-0.

Coleman had Anson down at half time, 7-6, and was tied with Winters going into the fourth quarter, 13-13.

In the 165-pound Jerry Howard, the Coleman team has one of the fastest quarterbacks in West Texas — a boy who is very dangerous on the sprint-out.

Mickey Bartlett, a 155-pound Negro; Tommy Madrano, 155; and Rick Smith, 164, help Howard in the Coleman backfield.

The Bluecats run much the same offense as Coahoma and will play a 5-4 on defense. Line stars for the Coleman team are Richard Barnett, a 163-pounder, right tackle on defense and a guard on offense; and linebackers Sal Andrade, Rick Smith, Butch Moore and Phil Chambers.

Coach Bernie Hagins of Coahoma has pronounced his team in excellent shape for the contest.

The Bulldogs have scored eight touchdowns this fall. Ricky Evans has crossed the goal line three times for the Coahomans — once in each start. Ken Gregory has counted twice, Dean Richters twice, and Lynn King once.

Officials for Friday night's game will be Jimmy Ray Smith, Johnny Berry, D. A. Miller and Bill Mims.

Killebrew Shoves Fist Into AL Pennant Pie

By The Associated Press

Just about everybody has a finger in the American League pennant pie, including Mother Nature, but Harmon Killebrew shoved his whole fist into it.

Killebrew walloped a pair of tape measure home runs Tuesday helping Minnesota whip California 7-3. The victory moved the Twins one full game ahead of both Boston and Chicago. The Red Sox lost 6-3 to Cleveland and the White Sox bowed to the elements when their game at Kansas City was postponed by rain.

STILL SECOND

The rainout left the Sox in second place, one percentage point ahead of Boston but Chicago must play a doubleheader tonight. Fourth-place Detroit, still alive, stayed 1½ games off the pace by whipping New York 1-0. Washington trimmed Baltimore 4-1 in Tuesday's other AL game.

Killebrew hammered a 435-foot shot following Cesar Tovar's sixth inning single as the Twins busted loose for four runs, wiping out a 3-2 California lead.

An inning later, Killebrew's third of the season went into orbit. Bob Allison also homered for Minnesota.

Jim Kaat pitched a five-hitter and struck out 13 for his seventh victory this month. It ran his season's record to 16-13.

Boston, meanwhile, was victimized by light-hitting Chico Salmon, who drove in three runs with a homer and a double. Salmon started the Indians off by doubling home a run and then scoring another in the second inning. Four innings later, he lofted his second homer of the year with a man on base.

Chuck Hinton also homered and Luis Tiant went the distance for Cleveland despite Carl Yastrzemski's 43rd homer, which accounted for all three Red Sox runs.

TRAIL BY ONE

The Red Sox trail both Minnesota and Chicago by one game in the loss column. They play the Twins the last two games of the season but can not make up the ground against the White Sox unless either Kansas City or Washington beats Chicago at least once.

Detroit stayed alive on Mickey Lolich's four-hitter, against the Yankees. Ed Mathews' sixth inning sacrifice fly drove in the game's only run against loser Mel Stottlemyre, 14-15, who allowed only three hits.

Lennie Green sliced a double to left, the first hit off Stottlemyre, opening the sixth. He raced to third on Dick McAu-touchdowns in Florida State's stunning 37-7 tie with Alabama. He also ran 11 times for 45 yards.

And he did all of this in the role of a substitute. Hammond started in place of Gary Pajcic, who was troubled by a sore arm.

Hammond's three TD passes matched the number Alabama yielded all last season. The 37 points also matched the total given up by the Crimson Tide in 1966.

"You had to be close to him to appreciate some of his faking," Daugherty said.

Some Michigan State defenders may have been close to McVea, but it is doubtful they appreciated him very much as he raced 50 yards for a second period touchdown to put Houston ahead to stay, 10-7.

McVea, who runs the 100 in 9.5, also reeled off jaunts of 8, 33 and 17 yards.

McVea barely edged Florida State quarterback Kim Hammond for Back of the Week.

The 6-1 senior from Melbourne, Fla., completed 23 of 40 passes for 280 yards and three touchdowns in Florida State's stunning 37-7 tie with Alabama. He also ran 11 times for 45 yards.

And he did all of this in the role of a substitute. Hammond started in place of Gary Pajcic, who was troubled by a sore arm.

liffe's single to center and McAniff reached second on the throw to the plate. After Al Kaline was intentionally walked, Mathews' fly ball drove in the run.

Three Washington pitchers—Buster Narum, Joe Coleman and Darold Knowles—limited Baltimore to four hits as the Senators trimmed the Orioles.

The pennant race resumes today with Cleveland at Boston and California at Minnesota for day games and Chicago in Kansas City for a two-night doubleheader. The Tigers have the day off.

Notre Dame, the nation's No. 1 team, is wondering how 10th-ranked Purdue will employ Leroy Keye, one of the best two-way players in the country.

Purdue's problem is relatively new and involves Irish quarterback Terry Hanratty. Hanratty's exploits as a passer are becoming legend but suddenly he has turned into a runner and Purdue Coach Jack Mollenkopf is wondering how often Hanratty plans to run.

Mollenkopf and Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian expressed great concern over their predicaments in telephone interviews Tuesday with Chicago football writers.

"We're guessing," said Parseghian when asked how he thought the Boilermakers would use Keyes, who last year grabbed an in-air fumble against the Irish and went 95 yards for a touchdown.

"He could play on offense," continued Parseghian, "and again they might put him on defense to possibly cover Jim Seymour. I don't know. I do know he's good enough to go either way or even both ways."

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Perhaps because they have developed a noticeable resistance to abrasiveness in a Nassau game and learned their short irons game compare most favorably to the play-for-pay people under ordinary circumstances, many golfers probably reason they could make a go of it on the pro tour—if only they could get some one to pick up the tab for their expenses until the lush times arrive.

Jim McPhate of San Bernardino, Calif., one of the hungry young pros on the tour, would have you believe otherwise, however, says he:

"It looks easy until you get out there. Then you play for a living. You play to survive. There is some kind of pressure on every shot that you never realized before. There's all the difference in the world. I wish I could explain it. I can't."

After he had scored three touchdowns and otherwise distinguished himself with his play against Plainview, Big Spring's Roy Lee Warren picked up the nickname of "Water Bug" in the Steer football camp.

Roy Lee puts the lie to the claim that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line. He maneuvers like he had first sat down on a wasp.

Indiana University has 14 freshmen footballers weighing in excess of 250 pounds each, plus seven backs faster than anything on the varsity.

The Hoosiers play Baylor in Bloomington next season. The University of Texas, which has been fielding football teams since 1893, has met eleven from 31 of the 50 states down through the years.

The Longhorns have yet to play teams from Michigan, Ohio (which is most surprising), Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Wisconsin, Montana, Arizona, New Jersey, Delaware, Rhode Island, Nevada, South and North Dakota, Iowa, Virginia and Utah.

Joe Reddick, the mercurial Negro cager from Syracuse, N.Y., who was committed to attend HCJC, checked in at Moberly, Mo., JC instead.

Hardin-Simmons mentors, who hope to make use of his services eventually, helped recruit him for Moberly. Lou Henson, the New Mexico State University coach, was sorely distressed at the news, since he had recruited Reddick in the first place and hoped to enroll him eventually.

Reddick's transcript was suspect. There was some doubt he could have passed his school work here.

Coach Frank Pulattie of Big Spring says he had an unpublished meeting with tennis prospects at the local high school the other day and 70 boys and girls turned out.

The Big Spring tennis program is bound to improve, with new facilities and new emphasis on the sport.

Last Sunday's NFL game in Dallas between the Cowboys and New York was seen by TV viewers over a 29-station hookup and reached radio listeners via 63 stations.

Golfer Frank Beard says Arnold Palmer is the man he fears over all others in a playoff ("he can get out of bed and shoot a 63 on any given day") but over 72 holes he'd have to go with Jack Nicklaus ("because he's much stronger").

Billy Joe didn't jump off the Talahache Bridge. He's been reactivated by the New York Jets of the AFL to replace the injured Matt Snell.

Bill Joe is the former Villanova star who was the most valuable player for his team in both the Sun and Liberty Bowls.

Cincy To Get Club In AFL

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati officially has its American Football League franchise effective in 1968 and Paul Brown plans to return to coaching—at least for a year.

The details were completed Tuesday when Brown and his associates signed an agreement with the American Football League to locate a franchise here with Brown having the control "vested in me."

It was reported to be a $7.5 million deal.

It will be a re-play for both Cincinnati and Brown.

Cincinnati had a professional football team many years ago but it wound up as a dud.

Brown first achieved fame as the coach of mighty teams turned out by Massillon High School. Then he went to Ohio State and was equally successful.

After a hitch with the Navy, as a coach, he turned to the pros — again with the typical Brown success.

He was ousted, however, as coach of the Cleveland Browns in 1963 and since has been sitting on the sidelines at his home in California.

First round competition in Goliad and Rannels seventh grade football gets under way Saturday morning, with two games scheduled.

The competition was originally to have started last week but a shortage of equipment for some of the personnel caused the schedule to be moved back a week.

Last year, each seventh grade fielded three teams. Each grade will have only two teams this year but coaches have announced plans to play everyone in uniform.

The schedule extends through Nov. 16 and will be climaxed by an all-star game.

loses only once each season and this isn't the weekend.

Nebraska over Minnesota: Both teams having quarterback problems but the Huskers are nearer to a solution.

Texas over Texas Tech: The Longhorns gave the mighty Southern California team fits Saturday night before finally losing 17-13.

Alabama over Southern Mississippi: Coach Bear Bryant never will let the Crimson Tide forget that 37-37 deadlock with Florida State.

Army over Boston College: The Cadets will have to use Roger Le Doux, their third-string quarterback but should wiggle through to a triumph over the September choice as the best team in New England.

Duke over South Carolina: But it will be close.

North Carolina State over Florida State: The Seminoles reached their peak last week against Alabama.

Missouri over Northwestern: The Big Ten team pulled its surprise of the season last weekend and Missouri has a big Russ Washington in a healthy frame of mind.

False Cop Report Costs Two Teens

CINCINNATI (AP) — Turning in a false police report is costing two Cincinnati youths $247 plus $5 court costs each. Municipal Judge Robert S. Kraft imposed the joint fine on Edward Brummett, 18, and Bobby Armentrout, 18. The youths were convicted but sentence was delayed while authorities determined the cost of the investigation that involved 32 policemen and 18 cruisers. The youths said at first that Brummett was shot by a sniper on July 23. Investigation showed he was hit by a bullet from a pistol he threw under a car.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until mid-afternoon you had better check closely any writings you send out as well as any spoken word. You utter since you may intend to use one word or phrase and inadvertently an inappropriate one slips out instead. Late afternoon and evening find you with a real change to gain the good will of most everyone. ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Caring to please family is best until 2 p.m.; rid yourself of whatever stands in the way of your getting ahead. Today's work can save the way for a happy evening. Be courteous with others. Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Get rid of those boring tasks that have to be done sometime in a.m. Then find some clever ways to increase regular income. You can have a pleasant time with family in the evening if you are kind, thoughtful with them. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to get more financial backing if you show manufacturers that you have some good reasons for wanting it. Then be economical. Out to some social affair in a.m. where you meet the right kind of person. CANCER (June 22 to July 22) Know what you want in a.m. but don't be forceful with others so that you can win your own way. Be more willing to let important bills slide. Do not retire too late tonight. LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23) Give that moving situation your full attention in a.m. so that later you can go out and socialize. State your aims to others. Assist one in trouble first, though. Then do your own thing. VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) You must see many persons during day who will be boring, but insist on being a happy time in the romantic sense. Try to please good friends in a.m., also. But the evening is entirely yours to enjoy. LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Do nothing that can cause others to be critical during day, but evening is more relaxing and you have a wonderful time. Get your work done properly. Making friends is easy in the evening. SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Cultivating new friends is wise even though they may seem too busy and worried. Be cheerful and you please them. Same letter could read you, if you permit. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Being sure to keep promises made, getting obligations out of the way without any reproach is new. Then make the acquaintance of new and interesting persons. Your intuition works better in a.m. Follow it then. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) Keep your distance from an attachment who is emotional and avoid a real tirade during day. There are problems that need to be handled with discretion, also. Then the evening can be enjoyable with closed lips. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 19) Try not to argue with partners since they are using this method to force you to do what they prefer. By evening oil is free. Although you would prefer not to work, it is important, so get it done. PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Concentrate on persons who admire and will assist you but don't expect backing until a.m. Do much work then. Do not overexert during daytime or you ruin your health. Get surroundings improved. YOUR CHILD IS BORN tomorrow. If he, or she, will be one of those young ones who, early in life seems to be too emotional, but this is good, since lessons are learned when using and upon maturity a fine, poised citizen will emerge. Once having come up the hard way, as it were, nothing will seem difficult for your progeny and duties will be carried out to the letter.

Municipal Sales Tax Facing Tests

By The Associated Press
Sentiment for the city sales tax was being tested today in at least three Texas cities—Elgin, Orange Grove and El Paso—as voters determined whether to levy the one per cent tax upon themselves.

Corpus Christi, Aransas Pass, Wichita Falls, Electra, Henrietta, Nacogdoches and Texarkana have scheduled municipal sales tax elections for Thursday. Residents at Austin and Taylor will vote Friday. Gov. John Connally signed the bill into law April 5 and it was one of the most controversial issues of the legislature.

CLOSE WATCH
Under the measure, a city could levy a local sales tax of one per cent if approved by voters in that city. Such elections can be called by either the city council or by petition of 20 per cent of the voters. It could be abolished in the same manner after two years.

Other state municipalities will be watching closely the results of this week's elections as a source of badly needed revenue.

Such elections would place a share of the cost of city operations on non-tax paying citizens. Mayor Oscar Swenson of Elgin estimated the city sales tax would net Elgin, a South Texas town, about $25,000 per year. The majority of the money would go to improving the city's water system.

LIGHT TURNS
He said if the sales tax does not pass the city will probably have to levy a large ad valorem tax.

There has been little public opposition to the municipal tax in Elgin. The vote turnout was expected to be light.

The law granting permission for the tax took effect Aug. 28. City sales taxes approved in any of the elections will take effect Jan. 1. Elections after Oct. 1 would not authorize collection of the tax until April 1.

TOURISTS TO PAY
El Paso Mayor Judson Williams said an estimated 25 to 40 per cent of the tax in El Paso would be paid by tourists. "We should let them pay for some of the services they enjoy," he said.

In Wichita Falls, city councilman Jim Davis said there was labor union opposition to the tax in his town. "Some argue that the tax is unfair, that it hits hardest at low income groups and senior citizens with fixed incomes," Davis said. "We are able to come back with some very convincing arguments."

He said most of the expenditures by low income groups are for exempt items such as rent, food, drugs, mortgages, and cars.

Wins Two Sports Medals In Chair

REEDS FERRY, N.H. (AP) — Mrs. Marilyn Woods, 53, of Reeds Ferry, won two medals in international sports competition this year—and she did it in a wheelchair.

Mrs. Woods has been paralyzed below the waist since she was struck by polio when she was three months old. She competes with other wheelchair athletes from around the world. "We do it just like the Olympics," she says, "with national tryouts in New York to pick the team for international competition."

In three years, Mrs. Woods has won three medals in table tennis and one in the javelin in games at New York, London and Winnipeg, Canada.

Potato Champion?

FUNTINGTON, England (AP) — Tom Cooke claims to be the world potato growing champion. He says he has harvested 1,182 pounds 4 ounces of potatoes raised from only six seed potatoes planted last spring.

Kim Poses

Actress Kim Novak poses in one of the outfits she wears in her new movie, "The Legend of Lylah Clare." She plays the part of Lylah, a legendary blonde of the 1930s, plus Lylah's look-alike, who becomes a star, too.

Kim Plays Legendary Blonde Bit

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie • TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From her superbly coiffed, ash-blond wig to her gilded toes—not just the nails, the entire toes—she appeared every inch the movie star.

The inches still read 37-23-37, as they did when Kim Novak was a brand new love goddess to replace the recalcitrant Rita Hayworth at Columbia Pictures. That was a decade ago, but at 34 Kim is making her first film since the disastrous "Kiss Me, Stupid," 2½ years ago.

FAMOUS FRAME

She appeared on MGM's Stage 18 as a movie star should—glamorously encased in a tent-like outfit of East India print, sheer enough to reveal the outlines of her famous frame. The new vehicle is "The Legend of Lylah Clare," in which for the second time she plays a film queen; in 1957 she appeared to little acclaim as "Jeanne Eagels."

This time she enacts Lylah Clare, a legendary blonde of Hollywood's 1930s, who died mysteriously, plus Lylah's look-alike who becomes a star herself by portraying the tragic star in a modern film biography.

BOTH SIDES

"I have been on both sides," says Kim reflectively, "so I can identify with both characters." Kim returns with the trappings of the star, notably the wooden baffle that shields the entrance to her dressing room from view of the casual workers on the movie set. The baffle, quite naturally, is painted lavender, the trademark color that became part of the Novak mystique.

MISFORTUNES

She talked openly about the misfortunes that have befallen her in the past three years. They were enough to dismay the most cheerful of performers: marriage and divorce from English actor Richard Johnson; a horse fall that removed her from the cast of "13"; two major automobile accidents that further aggravated her back injury; loss of her Bel-Air home through mud slides.

"Yes, it might have looked as though I were hexed for a time there," she observed. "But I believe every person goes through periods of good luck and bad luck. I had my bad luck—plenty of it. But that was more than offset by the amount of good luck that I have had in my life."

Mercury Dips To 28

By The Associated Press
The coldest weather of the new fall season chilled the Northern Plains today and triggered thunderstorms and drenching rains as it swept southeast into the middle Mississippi Valley. The mercury fell to 28 at Williston, N.D.

Thundershowers soaked a wide area from North Texas to Lower Michigan, marking the leading edge of the cold sweep. Rainfall amounts included 1.60 inches at Chanute, Kan., and 1.20 inches at Emporia, Kan. High winds and funnel clouds accompanied thunderstorm activity in western Oklahoma during the night. A tornado dipped into a wheat field southwest of Tonkawa, about 80 miles north of Oklahoma City.

The cold air was expected to overspread New England by Thursday morning. Thundershowers also rumbled across Florida, drenching Miami with 2.76 inches of rain since Tuesday afternoon.

Skies were generally clear from the Far West into the Northern Plains and from the central Gulf Coast to New England.
