For Snatched Coins

Reward Posted

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An heir to the E. I. du Pont de Nemours wealth wired his seaside mansion four ways to guard against kidnaping of his sons but today he was offering a substantial reward to get back a fortune in coins stolen while the alarms were turned off.

A team of five masked bandits smashed a door at the Willis Harrington du Pont mansion early Thursday and took a collection of U.S. coins valued by Du Pont at $500,000 and the Russian Prince George Mikhailovitch collection valued by the Smithsonian Institution at about $1.5 million.

Stormy History

The true value of the one-of-a-kind Mikhailovitch collection to others may be underlined by the stormy history of the coins, a prize of the Russian Revolution later stolen from the Bolsheviks.

Du Pont, 31, his Spanish wife Miren, 29, their oldest son Victor, 4, and two servants were tied up. Another son, 1-year-old Lamot, was left asleep.

"They came right into the bedroom and shoved their weapons at us and said, 'We want your money . . . tell us where it is or we'll blow your brains out,'" Du Pont said.

Mrs. Du Pont was told to open the bedroom safe.

Bullet Threat

"I was so nervous I couldn't remember the combination she said. 'They told me: You better remember or we'll put a bullet through your head.'"

The bandits took $4,000 in cash and $50,000 in jewels from that safe. Dropping a $10,000 bill on the bedroom floor, then led Du Pont downstairs to his den where he opened the large vault containing about 500 Russian coins and about 6,500 U. S. coins.

"How much are they worth?" one of the thieves asked.

"Maybe $400,000," du Pont said he replied.

"Then maybe you'd be willing to buy them back for $200,000," the thief shot back.

When agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation entered the case, Du Pont refused to give further information to newsmen but Miami Police Captain C. O. Hutte said Du Pont seemed willing to pay the $200,000 ransom to back his collection.

Real, Hot Potato

Thursday night an attorney for Du Pont announced what he termed only "a substantial reward . . . no questions asked" for return of the collections. Private detective William Stanton sat by a special telephone 759-0293 and opened post office Box 347, Miami, Fla., to deal with the bandits.

"They've got a real, hot potato on their hands," Stanton said. "There is no insurance. At the present time, I have been ordered to negotiate and find out what they want." He said he had received no calls from the bandits.

Band Has Sign, Mascot

The Big Spring High School Band has two new aides this year—an electric sign and a mascot. The sign — stating in red neon "Steer Band" — was created by Mel Stinson, one of the Band Booster officers, with the help of several local firms. It lights up at all the home football games.

Barney Schultz

Barney Schultz is the mascot, a papier mache permanent member of the band. His initials, by the way, are the same as Big Spring. He stands four feet high, wears a sparkling new uniform and a black fuzzy hat, which the band members rub for luck.

Barney travels everywhere the band goes—to football games, band contests, and on tour.

Discrimination Debate

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP)—British Laborites called on the government today to outlaw racial discrimination, which they said is spreading throughout the country.

Debate during the windup session of the ruling party's annual convention ended with unanimous passage of a resolution expressing concern at the extent of discrimination in employment, housing, insurance and other services. It also urged new laws to promote "equal opportunity without regard to race, color or ethnic or national origins."

Unchallenged Master

Party leaders, after noting that certain new antidiscrimination laws are being prepared for parliamentary action, accepted the resolution.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson left the convention unchallenged master of his party with more time to advance toward the frontiers of the great society he has promised to establish in Britain.

Young Exhibitor Bitten By Her Pig

Cynthia Shaw, 10 (left), was the only casualty of Thursday's annual barrow show. She suffered a painful wound on her finger when her barrow bit her during the judging. Cynthia had to go to the doctor for treatment. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt Shaw of Knott. Although she wept bitter tears at the time of the incident, she and her cousin, Patty Feugh, seemed to regard the matter as most amusing later on. Patty, 10, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Feugh, Knott. Cynthia and Patty were the tiniest of all of the boys and girls in the show here Thursday.

Fliers Strike Again At Commie Targets

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots are taking advantage of good weather, to get in the heaviest blows they can at two key points where Communist war material enters North Vietnam—the port of Haiphong and railroad lines just below Red China, the U.S. Command said today.

Targets reported hit Thursday included a rail bridge 10 miles from China, a bridge leading out of Haiphong and a major fuel dump near the port. The raiders left a smoke column nearly two miles high at the dump, which had been on the Pentagon's restricted list and was hit for the first time.

AIR CHALLENGE

It was the third straight day of strikes at rail links in the narrow valleys just south of China and the second of raids on bridges in Haiphong. Other targets included two more fuel dumps in the port area and the MIG airfield at Hoa Lac.

MIG 17s came up to challenge Navy planes striking Haiphong and at least one enemy plane was reported damaged in a brief dogfight. The U.S. Command said one F105 Thunderchief was lost and its pilot was missing.

Only scattered skirmishes were reported in the ground war in South Vietnam but Viet Cong guerrillas stepped up terrorism and assaults in the northern five provinces making up the 1st Corps area south of the demilitarized zone. The Communists appeared to be trying to weaken government control in the thinly held area.

BUSES HIT

Thirty-eight civilians died when two buses hit mines near Da Nang, a South Vietnamese district headquarters was heavily attacked and a U.S. Marine was killed and 14 wounded.

But the main action was in the skies over the North, where Hanoi claimed six American planes were downed Thursday and a total of 21 since Tuesday. The U.S. Command announced the loss of four planes.

With the scheduled shift in monsoon winds this month promising poor bombing weather over the North, it is evident that U.S. warplanes are trying to damage North Vietnam's supply routes so that they remain disrupted for some time. The list of Pentagon-approved targets has been gradually expanding and air commanders are being given permission for more frequent re-strikes in sensitive areas.

DOG FIGHT

The stepped-up American pressure is meeting intensified barrages of Soviet-built ground-to-air missiles, heavy anti-aircraft fire and more frequent en-

Crest Threatens Farming Areas

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A record crest on the Lerma River threatens to flood large farming areas in the states of Jalisco and Michoacan, the Ministry of Hydraulic Resources reported Thursday night.

It estimated 50,000 people might be driven from their homes by the worst flooding in half a century.

counters with the elusive North Vietnamese air force, which minimizes its risks with hit-and-run harassment sweeps at American formations.

Thursday's four-minute dogfight above Haiphong began when six MIG-17s were spotted by a flight of slower Navy Skyhawks that had just dropped their bombs. One Skyhawk caught a MIG with its 20mm cannon during a harrowing head-on pass and the Navy pilot saw bits of metal flying from the enemy plane.

BREAKTHROUGH

The Navy said the MIGs were attempting to break through to attack two propeller-driven A1 Skyraiders and a helicopter evidently on a pilot rescue mission in the Haiphong area—an indication that at least one Navy plane was downed during the day in addition to the Air Force F105 Thunderchief which was the 688th announced U.S. combat loss in North Vietnam.

U.S. fliers are aiming to cut the city's communications with the rest of North Vietnam so that supplies will jam its limited storage areas. The four bridges leading from the port have all been cut in at least one spot. Thursday's target was the most vital of the four, the main bridge leading to Hanoi, eight-

Antipoverty Bill Showdown Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's antipoverty bill has cleared the Senate with surprising ease but backers expect a far stiffer fight in the House.

The $4.6 billion, two-year extension of President Johnson's so-called "War on Poverty" drew strong bipartisan backing on Thursday's showdown vote after 11 days of debate.

The 60-21 tally sent the measure to the House where a quareling Education and Labor Committee already is at work on it.

GUNNING FOR OEO

In addition to anticipated efforts in the House to slash the bill's total, a bid to break up the Office of Economic Opportunity, which runs the program, also is expected.

The Senate-passed total is equivalent to $155 over a two-year period for each of the 30 million Americans the administration says live in poverty.

Forty-one Democrats and 19 Republicans supported the extension bill and 9 Democrats and 12 Republicans voted against it.

AUTHORIZATION

The 39-vote margin represented a bigger majority than Senate antipoverty legislation won in 1965, when the vote was 61 to 29, or in 1966 when it was 49 to 20. The bill only authorizes the program. Separate legislation appropriating funds is under consideration.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., floor manager for the bill, said he was glad the Senate had givtents of a mile from Haiphong's center.

Pilots report at least two spans of the 300-foot, three-span structure have been dropped and, in addition, 3,000-pound bombs have blown out the road-bed in the bridge's center.

SHELLING FALLS OFF

Although Communist artillery shelling along the demilitarized zone has fallen off sharply in the past 10 days, an intense air campaign continued to forestall any new Red buildup.

B52 bombers made three more strikes on Communist positions in the DMZ, dropping a total of at least 450,000 pounds of bombs.

Marine and Army gunners are pouring in daily barrages and Marine fliers sweep in throughout the daylight hours.

For the first time in the war, the U.S. Command announced the official number of American combat casualty figures since 1961. Previously, it issued only weekly totals and interested persons added up the cumulative figures.

The command reported total casualties of 101,025—13,634 killed, 86,633 wounded, 345 missing and 211 captured. Of those wounded, it said, 41,002 were treated and immediately returned to duty.

Monks, Nuns Plan March

SAIGON (AP) — Militant Buddhist leader Thich (Venerable) Tri Quang has begun a hunger strike outside the presidential palace, his followers said today, and up to 1,000 monks and nuns plan to march there Sunday despite a government ban.

Meanwhile, a leader of the Hoa Hao Buddhist sect, Nguyen Tan Dat, was trying to mediate the issue that led to the militants' protests—a government charter recognizing another moderate faction as the official representative of South Vietnam's Buddhists.

Tri Quang has been staging a sit-down in a park across from the palace since Sept. 28, when about 1,000 monks and nuns marched there from their headquarters, the An Quang pagoda.

Members of the politically ambitious militant sect said Tri Quang has begun "a fast until death if necessary." A spokesman said later the monk had eaten a few dry crackers and was drinking small amounts of liquid.

Jobs Freeze Fails To Net Tax Support

Johnson Faces Deep Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's domestic program is in deep trouble in Congress—trouble that can be traced to several sources.

There is general agreement that a major cause of the problem is growing concern among voters over the war in Vietnam, the prospect of higher taxes, rioting in cities and the cost of living.

Members of Congress, particularly in the House, are getting more mail than normally. Frequent recesses and long weekends have given them more time to go home and rub elbows with the people.

The message is coming through.

FRUSTRATION

"The people are frustrated," a top House Democrat said. "They are unhappy and it's getting worse. They wonder why we don't do something about it and if we don't, they might do something about us in next year's elections."

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma summed it up this way:

"We (the Democrats) just don't have the votes we had last year when the President's program fared very well. We lost 47 seats in last year's elections. Another factor is the growing concern of the people over the fiscal situation and the war in Vietnam. We just can't move as fast this year as we did last year."

LEADERSHIP

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican Conference composed of all 186 GOP members, agreed with Albert's appraisal of how the voters are feeling.

"But the fact remains," Laird added, "that the Democrats still have a majority. It's not our fault that they don't vote together. I believe that lack of leadership on the part of the President is a major cause of the slowdown. The President should establish priorities, keeping in mind the war in Vietnam. Then we could vote on them and get out of here."

CENSURE CASE

A leading Senate Democrat who preferred anonymity put it this way:

"The session has dragged out longer than we had planned because of several factors that hadn't been counted on. Several months were used up on the congressional reorganization bill. The Dodd censure case took up a lot of time. Almost two months were used up debating the campaign financing bill. And then there has been the almost daily long discussions of Vietnam policy."

The Senate-passed congressional reorganization bill is one of the major measures in trouble in the House. There have been committee hearings but no definite action is sighted. The bill isn't too popular with the leadership.

BOGGED DOWN

Another Senate-passed measure, a $4.6 billion two-year extension of the antipoverty program, is almost hopelessly bogged down in the House Education and Labor Committee. It may be weeks or months before the House gets a crack at it. And it almost certainly will be trimmed.

A House-passed civil rights bill designed to protect individuals in the exercise of their rights is languishing in the Senate Judiciary Committee, whose chairman, James O. Eastland, D-Miss., is far from enthusiastic about it.

There is no prospect for early Senate action on a House-passed bill to broaden and liberalize the Social Security program.

QUESTION

The biggest question mark hangs over the President's request for more taxes to help keep the deficit down. The House Ways and Means Committee started, then postponed, consideration. Its members want some evidence of a big cut in federal spending before they try to justify a tax hike. If there's no cut, there will be no tax bill.

The committee may take into its own hands the job of cutting spending if the President doesn't move first. Republicans want to add to the next appropriation bill in the House a directive to the President to cut spending at least $5 billion.

AID SNAG

The President's foreign-aid authorization is tied up in a Senate-House compromise committee. Money to finance it can't be appropriated until the authorization measure becomes law.

The foreign-aid money bill is one of three appropriation measures that haven't even started through Congress. Only four of the 12 that have passed the House have gone to the President. The others are in various stages of progress.

A $13.3 billion measure financing the Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was recommended Wednesday by the House because it contained 13 hikes over the budget figures. The same fate faces several other bills.

SCHEME BACKFIRES

Schools Cannot Share In Sweepstakes Money

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The New Hampshire Supreme Court ruled today that parochial and nonpublic schools cannot share in state sweepstakes profits.

In a 4-1 decision, the court voided a state law that would have allowed the parochial and nonpublic schools to share.

"Since parochial and other religiously oriented schools appear to predominate among the nonpublic schools which are sought to be aided," the court decision said, "the major part of the scheme cannot be carried into effect because of the constitutional prohibition."

Justice Edward Lampron, in a minority decision, held that the "purpose and primary effect" of the recently enacted law "is not the promotion or advancement of a, or any, religion, but the secular public purpose of assuring an adequate secular education to all the elementary and secondary school children of New Hampshire."

The ruling was sought by Gov. John W. King and the Executive Council on a law which would have become effective next Jan. 1.

The court majority held that

Congressmen Push Spending Whacks Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress wants a curb on high-priced government programs in the future as well as an immediate spending cut, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills said today.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said in a statement that is the meaning of his committee's 20-5 vote Tuesday to delay action on the tax increase measure. The committee decided to postpone action until the President and Congress reach an understanding on spending.

CUTS PUSH

"It is clear that the point of the protest has been missed," the Arkansas Democrat said. "Spending cuts in this fiscal year or in 1969, welcome as they would be, are not really the central objective."

Mills spoke out a day after President Johnson, at an impromptu news conference, renewed his insistence that Congress act on his request for a 10 per cent surtax on individual and corporate income taxes.

He disagreed with Congress' contention that he should first show firm plans for spending cuts.

PET PROJECTS

Despite the President's plea and a federal freeze on Congress' pet public works project Congress shows no signs of increasing taxes before spending is slashed.

The administration added a new ingredient in the weeks-long test of wills between the President and Congress by suspending indefinitely some $3.5 billion worth of military building and civil public works programs.

The freeze, announced by the Defense Department, came as Johnson again laid responsibility for budget cutting on the congressional doorstep and said taxes should be raised to stifle inflation.

FREEZE PRAISE

The public works freeze drew praise from Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, as "the kind of thing that's required."

To some congressional observers the freeze appeared an indication Johnson is beginning to yield to pressure that he take responsibility for cutting back or eliminating programs popular with hometown voters.

The stalemate over who should cut spending involves in part the determination by Congress not to be saddled with the blame for such cuts.

HARDER LINE

Byrnes cautioned, however, that the freeze could be lifted at any time since the money for such Army Engineers civil projects as flood-control dams, dikes and harbor improvements already has been appropriated.

"We'll need some assurances this isn't just window dressing," he said in an interview.

Johnson's renewed contention that Congress shouldn't delay action on his tax hike proposal until spending has been cut left apparently unmoved Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee.

"Unless there is substantial cutting in spending programs, I don't see how we can justify a tax increase," said Mills.

Byrnes took a harder line. "The President apparently hasn't got the message. The committee and the House sent a very clear message that spending must be cut."

Byrnes said the President determines spending priorities in sending Congress the budget.

"We need a new schedule of spending priorities and he better send us one soon," he warned.

Water District To Ask Bids For Larger Pipeline Soon

Bids will be asked soon for construction of 33 miles of 36-inch pipeline from Big Spring to the Martin County Pump Station of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Directors, meeting Thursday in Big Spring, authorized O. H. Ivie, general manager, to proceed with advertising of bids. This section of line will be constructed first in order to help the district move more water from Big Spring to the west end of the system. Currently, there is a restriction on the movement because the district has only a 27-inch line between these points. Later, bids will be asked for pipeline between Big Spring and the district's new lake to be impounded above Robert Lee.

The board also gave Ivie authority to proceed with plans for a channel dam on the Colorado River above Colorado City to intercept and divert the concentrations of salt water in the normal low flow of the river. The structure would be low enough to permit passage of the fresh flood waters over the dam and down the river into the new lake. Ivie said test borings on prospective sites had been made and the datum soon would be studied.

The board was briefed on the district's appeal of a $774,000 total condemnation award for land, damages, water contract, etc. on the Willockson ranch in Coke County.

Charles Perry, Odessa, president, was authorized to sign a contract with the Texas Highway Department for the rerouting of SH 158 and FM 2034 around the south end of the new reservoir, and the district also granted borrow pit easements to the highway department.

The final draft of the proposed budget of the district for 1968 was amended to the extent of $7,032 to permit adjustment of professional salaries. The revised figure is $2,182,706, of which $914,332 is in operating expenses and $1,268,374 in debt service requirements. The increase is only about two percent over the previous year. The budget was presented by Lyle Deffebach, Snyder, new chairman of this panel.

Payment of $12,290 to the Texas Water Development Board for the district's share of measuring quantity and quality of stream flow was approved.

Sworn in as a new member of the board was H. S. Samson, Odessa, succeeding W. E. Bruce, who resigned after 17 years of service. Bruce was one of the original directors from Odessa.

Tiomkin Tied Up, Robbed

Three men last night tied up composer-conductor Dimitri Tiomkin, struck him in the face with a pistol and fled his Los Angeles home with $11, police said. The Academy Award winner, injured slightly in the robbery, earlier in the day had attended burial services for his wife, who died Monday.

DEPORTATION DECISION They've Decided To Pick Canada

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A choice was offered Cruja and Desanka Apostolovic—leave the United States and return to Yugoslavia without their two children or pick another country. They've picked Canada.

A spokesman for the Canadian Consulate in Los Angeles said Thursday night the couple's way is expected to be cleared by this weekend.

Apostolovic, 27, and his wife, 26, came to the United States from Belgrade five years ago on two-month visas. They asked in Los Angeles for six-month extensions which were granted.

TOUGH CHOICE
In Redondo Beach, they set up housekeeping. Apostolovic took a job as a cook.

"We liked it here so much we applied for indefinite extensions," Apostolovic said. But the indefinite extensions which they sought never came through. The extensions required the presence of relatives living here who were citizens and who would have signed for them. On Aug. 24, the couple received a letter from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service telling them to prepare to enter some other country or they would be deported at government expense. The couple's two children—Miroslav, 2, and Danica, 13 months—were to remain if the couple was deported.

'IMPRESSED'
The children were born in the United States. A government spokesman said only noncitizens can be deported.

Then George Rosenberg, chief of the Los Angeles bureau of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, called his Canadian counterpart, D. Walter Jennings.

Apostolovic had written the Canadian immigration and applied for admission. Jennings met Apostolovic and said he was "impressed."

Truckers' Strike Violence Fading

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Violence has tapered off in the steel truckers' strike, but an economic vise gripped steel producers and users in seven states.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan said, "We are prepared to put all the manpower necessary on the road to put an end to lawless and violent acts."

Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer ordered State Police Commissioner Frank McKetta to take a personal hand in directing reinforced patrols in western Pennsylvania, a hotbed of violence.

PINCH
But the steel industry, which ships more than 50 per cent of its products by truck, was still feeling the economic pinch and other industries—from highway builders to grocery stores—were beginning to feel the affects as the strike closed off supply and delivery lines.

The Ohio Contractors Association said $154 million in highway projects were stopped and another $51 million were jeopardized. The western Pennsylvania Heavy & Highways Contractors Association said millions of dollars of construction projects were snarled and 4,000 tradesmen idled because concrete shipments were halted.

RIDES SHOTGUN
In Pittsburgh, sheriff's deputies rode shotgun to get bread delivered to a supermarket chain north of the city. Restaurants and hospitals at Cleveland, Ohio, say they're having trouble getting frozen foods and fresh meat.

The wildest strike by 20,000 to 20,000 independent truckers cut back steel production by 30 per cent last month, according to Iron Age magazine.

Prisoners Help Cut Crime Rate
NEW YORK (AP) — The prisoners at the Queens County Detention Center were delighted when Dist. Atty. Thomas J. Mackell had their television sets repaired.

They asked if there was anything they could do in return. Mackell sent them some sheets of printed material that needed to be cut into card size and the prisoners promptly obliged.

The cards remind citizens to report any crime in their community to the DA's office or to police in emergency cases.

Said Mackell of the prisoners' work: "It was nice of them."

Science And You

Those Lengthy Answers

—By DR. LEONARD REIFFEL

Have you ever heard of the verbal interaction constant? Most people, I suspect, would have to answer such a question with a puzzled "no" — except for a few psychologists.

Psychologists seem to be studying everything about everything concerning the way men behave and one example is the problem of the ratio of the length of answer to the length of question in a conversation.

One psychologist studying the problem concluded that he had discovered a "verbal interaction" (conversation) "constant" of five to one. Suppose people talk to each other during medical interviews or psycho-therapy or during civil service, store employment interviews (all of which were studied), or just in free conversation. The psychologist claimed that on the average the number of words used to answer a question will be five times the number used to ask it.

Ask a question of about 10 words, and you'll probably get an answer of about 50 words. Ask a three-word question, and you can expect an answer of fifteen words!

Even though the discoverer of the five-to-one verbal interaction constant studied a rather wide range of conversational situations, this question naturally arises: How universal is this phenomenon?

To find out, another team obtained records of two very extreme situations and tested them. One situation was space flight, where questions are fired at astronauts in orbit and the answers could mean life or death; the other extreme situation chosen was presidential interviews. Does the ratio change under these very peculiar circumstances?

In the case of space flight, where obviously everybody involved is aware of the need to be brief and succinct, the ratio of answer length to question length is about 1.2 to 1. This is probably because of the very highly structured nature of the conversation between the flight controllers on the ground and the astronauts in orbit. After all, a space mission goes through a great many dry-runs, so the participants don't have to communicate to each other in the same detail that strangers might have to use.

As far as the presidential interviews are concerned, the data came out this way: On the basis of some 61 different exchanges between John F. Kennedy and newspapermen, the answer length to questions length came out 2.7 to one.

Thus, roughly speaking, one finds that in highly rehearsed, structured, and very tense situations like space flight, answer length is about equal to the question length. In a very tense but unrehearsed situation, in which a top man is talking for publication, answers tend to be about three times as long as questions. However, in normal circumstances, if you want a question answered remember that you're still going to have to listen to five times as many words as you used to ask the question in the first place.

Dear Abby She Talked Too Much

DEAR ABBY: I am desperate. After nearly 20 years of marriage my husband has asked me for a divorce. He says he needs a wife, not a housekeeper.

Two years ago, in the middle of a heated argument I told my husband that his love-making did nothing for me — that I had only been putting on an act.

Abby, it wasn't exactly the truth. I only said it to hurt him. I never realized that he would take it so to heart. He hasn't touched me or kissed me since that day, and now he wants a divorce.

I would do anything to have my husband back the way he was. I have a fine home, wonderful children, a car of my own, and I don't want a divorce. Please, please, tell me what to do.

DEAR SUNK: Unless you can convince your husband that what you said was not true, and you only tried to hurt him, I am afraid you are indeed sunk. There may not be much help for you in my reply, but it may serve to let others know that one seldom regrets unspoken words.

DEAR ABBY: My Angelo says he wants supper to be on the table at 6 o'clock sharp. So I put supper on the table at 6 o'clock sharp and where is Angelo? He is outside looking at the yard, or talking to the neighbor. I yell "Angelo" and he yells back, "One minute." One minute turns out to be one hour. So I take his supper away and heat it up again.

I have reheated his supper as many as three times, and then he says, "Boy, oh, boy, are you a rotten cook."

ANGELO'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Give him a 10

Club Votes Valley Aid

Big Spring Kiwanians Thursday donated $50 in club money and pledged a per capita assessment of $1 per member to a fund for the relief of flood sufferers in the Rio Grande Valley. The board of directors had approved the proposal at a meeting Tuesday, and Thursday the club unanimously adopted the plan.

The program for the day was presented by Jim Thompson, Don Lovelady and Ward Jackson, who recently attended the Oklahoma - Texas District Convention of Kiwanis Clubs in Tulsa. Reports on speeches and other events at the convention were made by the three delegates.

Jackson, as retiring division lieutenant governor, took occasion of his appearance before the club to stress the importance of a visit here on Nov. 23 — Thanksgiving Day — of Ed C. Keefe, former international president of Kiwanis Clubs. Keefe will speak at a breakfast meeting for Kiwanians and their wives at Cosden Country Club on the morning of Nov. 23 and will appear as guest speaker at the union Thanksgiving services at Webb later in the day.

minute warning call. Then put the supper on the table hot, and if he doesn't come and get it — give it to him cold.

DEAR ABBY: I know that ALL personal letters and notes be hand-written, and it is considered very poor manners to use a typewriter on these occasions, but this is my plight:

I suffer from arthritis in the fingers of both hands and it is extremely difficult for me to use a pen. I am able, however, to use a typewriter, so I type all my letters and notes. Is it necessary for me to mention in my typewritten notes that I know better, but because of my arthritis I beg to be excused? KNOWS BETTER

DEAR KNOWS: I believe that regardless of what the etiquette books say, consideration, common sense should dictate behavior. I personally appreciate typewritten notes, the propriety of which never enters my head.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Swedish Twiggy Idolizer Dies After 'Cure' Flops

HALMSTAD, Sweden (AP)—An 18-year-old Swedish girl who wanted to look like her ideal, threadlike British model Twiggy, died a living skeleton in a hospital here following a self-imposed "Banting cure," doctors reported Thursday.

The girl died of undernourishment, complicated by pneumonia, after she had become afflicted by a psychic disorder that made her refuse food. She weighed only 45 pounds at her death, said doctors who treated her in this southwest coast town.

The girl and four of her school mates who also idolized Twiggy decided last New Year's on a Banting cure of their own. The Banting cure, named for William Banting, a London undertaker, who used it, consists of avoiding mealy, oily or scabberine foods. The 18-year-old was afflicted shortly by a neurosis which made her refuse all food.

The other four girls, who managed to lose weight without losing appetite, were shocked by their friend's fate and broke off their cures. Their diet consisted mainly of fruit and milk.

Two Leave Here In Prison Van

Two men were removed from the county jail to the state penitentiary Thursday.

They were Reuben Jimenez, violation of probation, three years for burglary; and Tubercio Lunas, picked up here on state prison request for parole violation.

A. N. Standard, sheriff, said they were loaded aboard the State Prison Van which came through town Thursday.

Convinced by West's two club overcall that the missing honor strength was adversely located, South nevertheless managed to salvage his six spade contract by uncovering a plan that made adequate provision for his pessimistic conclusions.

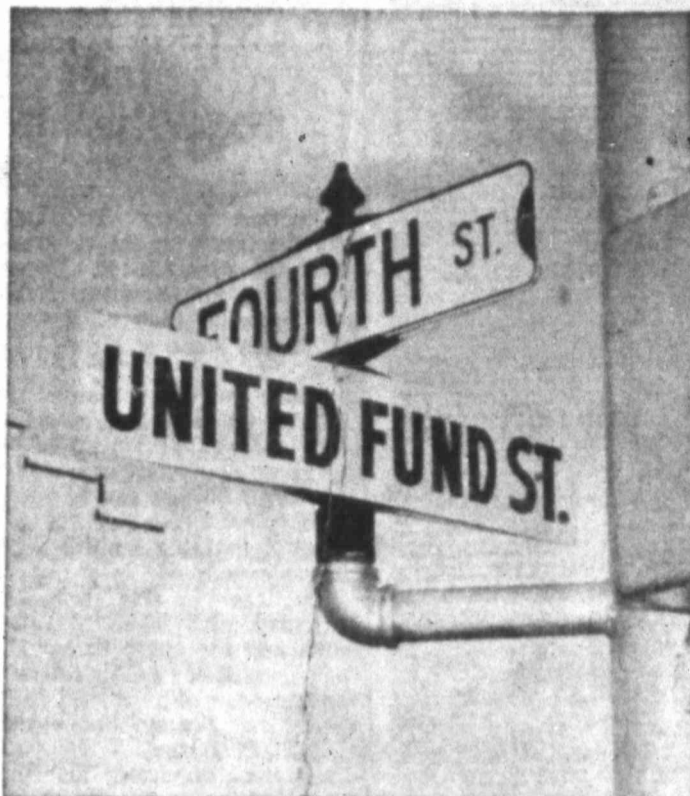

West opened the king of clubs and dummy put up the ace. A superficial analysis of the combined holdings suggests that declarer must win both red suit finesses in order to make this contract. However, South observed a method that allowed for not only one, but both kings being off side.

A club was ruffed in the closed hand and the king of spades drew the opposing trump. Now South cashed the ace of diamonds and then continued with the deuce. If West puts up the king, it will establish two discards for declarer on the queen and jack of diamonds. He can dispose of both the queen and nine of hearts and claim the rest of the tricks.

West decided to sacrifice his sure trick in the hope of getting back two in return. He, therefore, played the six of diamonds and, when dummy put up the jack, it held the trick. A diamond was ruffed, the North hand reentered with the seven of spades and the queen of diamonds was trumped to complete the stripping process in the side suits.

A small spade was led to the jack and a heart was returned. East put up the jack in a desperate effort to prevent declarer from ducking a cheap trick to West. South covered with the queen and West was in with the king. He could not return a club without giving his opponent a ruff and discard. The forced heart lead away from the ten into South's ace-nine provided the latter with a free finesse and his contract.

Changes Made

During October, Main Street has a new look — in name only. City commissioners approved last week a request from United Fund president, Dick Ream, to temporarily call it United Fund Street in observance of the yearly fall campaign.

Radio Actress Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — May Davenport Seymour, 83, an actress who played in the radio serial, "Against the Storm," from 1940 to 1949 with her daughter, actress Anne Seymour, died Thursday. Miss Seymour had built up and watched over the theater and music collection of the Museum of the City of New York from 1927 until 1963.

Davis Asks For Release

Lewis Davis, 60-year-old itinerant, who hung up a record for being kept in county jail here the longest time before being taken to the state penitentiary to serve 25 years for murder, has filed a belated petition for release from custody on a writ of habeas corpus.

Davis, arrested Oct. 23, 1961, was charged with the murder of Roy Brown. The killing climaxed a fight between the two men in a hobo jungle alongside the T&P tracks. Brown died of being struck on the head with an old battery.

He was placed in the jail Oct. 6, 1961.

He remained in the county jail continuously — unable to post bond set in his case — until April 30, 1964, when he was finally taken to the state penitentiary.

He was tried for murder with malice and convicted on that charge Dec. 13, 1961.

He now alleges assorted irregularities in his trial in his handwritten, prison-drawn petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The petition reached the hands of Judge Ralph Caton yesterday.

No date for a hearing has been set.

Men Sentenced To Jail Terms

Fifteen days in jail and costs in the case were assessed against two Dallas men who were charged with malicious destruction of private property. The pair pleaded guilty in Howard County Court Thursday.

They were Roger Emerson England, 17, and David Roy Gray, 18, both of Dallas. They were arrested for allegedly damaging a motel room where they stayed $139 worth.

Theft Charged In Tire Case

Charges of felony theft have been filed against three men arrested Thursday by the sheriff's office in connection with the Sept. 15 theft of 10 used grader tires from the Howard County barn. Sheriff A. N. Standard identified the trio as Roy Graham, 23, of 1603 Vines; Henry Miller, 21; and Andy Miller, 25, both of 1409 Oriole.

Bond was set at $2,500 each on the cases.

Standard said several of the missing tires have been recovered in Martin County, and that it is hoped the others will also be found.

Paris Policeman's Cape To Fade Away

PARIS (AP) — The traditional Paris policeman's cape is being swept off his back by the winds of fashion.

"As of January next year Paris policemen will be issued knee-length raglan coats," the prefecture of police announced. White gloves will replace the equally traditional white night sticks.

'Days Of Wine And Roses' Bloom During OWC Guest Day Luncheon

By JO BRIGHT

"The Days of Wine and Roses" bloomed with intoxicating loveliness Thursday afternoon as Officers' Wives Club models showed a fall bouquet of fashions from Swartz at the Monthly OWC luncheon in the Officers Open Mess at Webb Air Force Base.

The guest day affair was hosted by the DCO Group with Mrs. T. J. Rowland as general chairman, and the narration was by Mrs. S. G. Flowers Jr., and Mrs. Jay Leonard was organist.

Setting the scene for the show were ballroom decorations that carried out the wine and roses motif. Tables were dressed with turquoise cloths and lime green napkins, and centerpiece were clusters of large lavender and green "grapes" made from gourds. On the ends of each table were mason jars holding red crepe paper flowers, and these were linked by ivy runners extending the length of the table. Clusters of grapes and flowers decorated the pillars and grapes, mounted on straw mats were on the stage and walls. "A Day of Wine and Roses" was written across the back of the stage in blue and purple letters, and sets of purple and green plastic grapes were arranged on the head table. Most of the decorations were given as prizes, and each place was marked with a gold-cased lipstick.

Models for the showing were Mrs. Michael J. Rega, Mrs. Roger Blume, Mrs. James B. White, Mrs. Thomas Alison, Mrs. William Lund, Mrs. T. B. Tompkins, Mrs. Lowell Suckow, Mrs. William A. Henley, Mrs. W. L. Nelson, Mrs. H. T. Boe, Mrs.

Robert Hurst, Mrs. W. C. Daniel and Mrs. W. Cofer. They appeared three times, the first in casual and street dress, again in new furs and last in formal wear.

Opening the show was Mrs. Nelson who wore what the well-dressed woman would like to keep warm in this winter. Her full-length coat in beige and grey giant hound's tooth check was frosted with a generous blue fox collar and had a full, swinging back for fashion flare. Mrs. Rega followed, in a mustard colored crepe tunic brought up to date by bands of black dyed fox dramatically circling the three-quarter sleeves.

Mrs. Tompkins looked sly as the fox that formed the front tuxedo opening and banded the sleeves of her three-quarter-length suede coat. It covered an autumn brown wool gabardine dress chained in gold at the random waist. Collettes came into their own when properly paraded by Mrs. Henley. The "now" look of the sleeveless costume was underlined by the vibrant gold and rust plaid fabric and the low belt that rested on the hips. Totaling the casual look were the orange lace shoes and yellow patent and glass shoes.

Soft and white as new snow was the sleeved wool dress worn by Mrs. Boe that took its touch of drama with a big zipper that slashed diagonally across its front. Next Mrs. Alison who was "mostly Mod" with a full-fashioned tent coat in Scotch plaid with which she casually covered a lobster red basic shift. The exclamation point was glossy black, thigh-high boots. Mrs. Lund looked chicly fem-line in a gently-shaped autumn brown skimmer with lighter toned placket accenting the front and extending down the back, and Mrs. Hurst liked the luxury of suede in a full-length coat, thinly belted and self-buttoned.

The starkness of black and white, forever fashionable, was used for the houndstooth three-quarter coat worn by Mrs. Cofer over a roll-collared black sheath, and next was Mrs. Blume in a green and red plaid flair coat topping a paprika shift with zipper closing.

Soft and pretty was the beige and grey plaid fashion worn by Mrs. White. Belted high with wide, grey leather, the dress had new dominal sleeves and fell into a large pleat at the back. In another mood was Mrs. Suckow, a good sport, who was ready for the ski slopes in black stretch pants topped with an all-wool sweater trimmed in copper and white. Carried casually was the nylon parka to combat the cold.

The last of the first phase models was Mrs. Daniels who won applause with her camel's hair double breasted coat detailed with soft collar and detachable back belt. Its companion was a sleeveless dress with notched pockets and a border of leopard skin enhancing the neckline.

FOR EVENING

For games women play at night—and just right for under the lights—were the romantic wrappings for trappings. Mrs. Nelson captured admiring glances with her two piece off-white evening costume with side-slit slender skirt and sleeveless shell, glowing with bugle beads.

Sultry and elegantly flirtatious was the silver of copper brown sequins that covered Mrs. Rega with a rich glow. The sleeves were long, and the back was bared with a deep V cut that caught the eye. Mrs. Tompkins was next to appear, and her off white silk faille gown was circled at the waist with cording, and the back panel was slightly flared.

Shimmering sequins were laced over beige knit to form the long gown worn by Mrs. Henley. The rich touch of rhinestones sparkled in the border at the Empire waist and on the neckline and sleeves. A contrast in color was the deep lime, short-sleeved gown modeled by Mrs. Boe. The round neckline was enhanced with a braid of silver which fell into a four-inch border down the back to edge a double pleat in the A-line skirt.

Mrs. Alison's contoured cocktail dress was iced at the hemline with a border of bugle beads, sequins and rhinestones, and after her, came Mrs. Lund in the most popular gown of the show, a black crepe gown, its floor-length eased skirt rising slightly in front and edged with a wide fluff of ostrich feathers. The bold square back was emphasized with simple straps.

The Empire line was shown by Mrs. Hurst whose graceful gown glowed with sequins, tiny pink and blue shell pearls and tear drops which formed roses on the bodice and accented the sleeves. Mrs. Cofer looked light and airy in a full tent cocktail dress of avocado chiffon, lavishly necklaced and cuffed with crystals and gold beads. Layered chiffon in peach over yellow gave a pretty parfait look

Effective flower arranging was the theme of the program given by Mrs. J. E. Hogan Wednesday for members of the 1963 Hyperion Club when they met in the home of Mrs. C. L. Cook.

"Quick and Easy Flower Arrangements" was Mrs. Hogan's topic and she demonstrated to the group how effective a small number of flowers can be when properly arranged. She also emphasized that the flowers need not be expensive.

Mrs. Lew K. Gee, program chairman, distributed the yearbooks and the study theme for the year will be "Be My Guest". Hostesses with Mrs. Cook were Mrs. Jimmy Butler and Mrs. J. P. Darby.

Seventeen members and the guest speaker were served refreshments.

Stanton Lodge To Have Hobo Party

STANTON (SC) — The Stanton Rebekah Lodge 287 has made plans to have a Hobo party and supper at the IOOF Hall, Monday night, Oct. 16, following the regular session, announced by Mrs. Henry Louder, noble grand.

Beverly Clements is attending the Dallas Fashion College and is taking part of the training as a buyer at Sanger-Harris, Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Simpson and family have recently visited in Dallas with former Stanton residents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie White and family.

Mrs. R. E. Faughter, who died recently in Muskogee, Okla., was the mother of Mrs. J. V. Hopper, a former Stanton resident who now lives in Brownfield.

N. Birdwell WSCS Plans Activities

A change in time of meeting and announcements of future activities featured the meeting of members of the WSCS of the North Birdwell Methodist Church Wednesday.

Mrs. Johnny Welborn brought the devotional thoughts and prayer.

The meeting day has been changed to Thursday and will begin at the new time next week at 9:30 a.m. at the church.

Announcement was made of the Bible study to be held at the First Methodist Church Oct. 15 through Oct. 17 from 7 until 9 p.m. Nov. 3 is World Community Day and it will be observed at the First Presbyterian Church at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Joe Barbee announced that the box of clothing packed for the Overseas Relief sponsored by the Church Women United is ready for shipment.

In a relief project for the Asian children, the North Birdwell women will make trousers and jackets and furnish diapers and blankets. Members are asked to bring them to the next meeting.

Mrs. Vernon Kent served refreshments.

Farewells were said to Mrs. D. R. Eby, Mrs. A. P. Keith, Mrs. C. L. Gallager, Mrs. L. W. Burry, Mrs. J. L. Von Boeckman and Mrs. R. J. Startz.

Examinations Are Given Credit Club

Seventeen members of the Big Spring Credit Women's Club took exams over the credit manual when the members met for lunch and business at the Settles Hotel Thursday.

Mrs. R. L. Nall, vice president, conducted the examination.

Announcement was made of the installation dinner that will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14, at the Big Spring Country Club. Installing officer will be Mrs. Arthur Dietzel of Victoria, president of District 8, Lone Star Council of Credit Women.

The next regular meeting will be on Nov. 2.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Remove Stains From Utensils

Dear Heloise: Since I am Home Service Director for a manufacturer of Teflon pans, I thought perhaps you would be interested in the information we have to offer after much research, concerning the removal of stains from Teflon.

If a Teflon pan is stainless steel, it can be placed through a dishwasher cycle without any harm to the utensil.

However, if the pan is aluminum, the pan will gradually become severely discolored on the outside if continually washed in an automatic dishwasher. We have not found any method or cleaner which will successfully remove this discoloration without harming the metal by scratching. Therefore, we do not recommend that aluminum utensils be washed in an automatic dishwasher.

After each time a Teflon coated utensil is cleaned in a dishwasher, the Teflon surface must be conditioned with oil to insure non-stick cooking.

Extreme discoloration or staining indicates the utensil has been consistently overheated or inadequately washed. If this occurs, we recommend the use of commercial Teflon cleaners. These cleaners are available in most leading grocery, hardware and department stores. Darlene Mason, Home Service Director.

Dear Heloise: I may be a nut but, thank God, I'm happy.

Thank you dear, Heloise, for making me feel it is all right to be one . . . Gloria R.

Gloria, I'm sure you aren't . . . but you're welcome anyway . . . Love ya, Heloise

Dear Heloise:

LETTER OF THOUGHT

When my little girls' leotards wear out in the feet, I cut out the heel and toe, leaving an inch-wide band to go under the foot. Just like expensive stretch slacks.

Then I zig-zag around the cut parts and then can be worn with ankle socks. This also works if the leotards are becoming a little too short.

My girls love to wear leotards on real cold days . . . O.R.

CWF Hears UN Theme

"The U.N. and You" was the topic of a program given by Mrs. Herman Smith for members of the Christian Women's Fellowship of First Christian Church Thursday night at the church.

Mrs. Smith, a government teacher in the local system, told the group that the world needs healthy, educated people who can gather around a table and talk out their problems. They need to be able to talk and reason together and learn to understand each other's problems so that they will eventually make their swords into plowshares.

Mrs. Denor Pass was in charge of the worship and chose the theme "No Man is an Island."

Announcement was made of the all-day meeting in Lamesa on Oct. 26 of the Church Women United at the First Presbyterian Church. Hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Duffle bags must be packed by Oct. 8 in order to make the overseas shipment date.

A Devotional For The Day

There is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him. (Romans 10:12)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, help us to view ourselves as instruments of Thine in the building of a world of unity. In so doing, help us to learn to love one another so that tensions may cease and men be happier and more secure. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Action Needed On Privacy Measure

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on civil rights, has been working for a long time to protect the right of privacy of federal employees. It looks now like his major bill to that end will clear Congress this session.

The Senate has now passed the Ervin bill, (78-104), and it looks acceptable to the House in its present form. Without any expected detriment to the national security, it should go a long way toward enabling the federal government to attract better personnel. Too many have been shunted away from public service because of unjustified probing into their private affairs.

The bill as it passed the Senate will prohibit most federal governmental agencies from using questionnaires, psychological tests, or lie detectors to inquire into the personal affairs — religious beliefs, off-duty activities, family relationships, and finances — of prospective employees. Reasonably, we think, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Central Intelligence Agency and the National Security Agency are exempt if the agency head determines that such examinations are essential to national security.

The threat to the right of privacy is one of the gravest concerns in our mass democratic society. This has been brought out clearly in several carefully researched works, particularly Alan F. Westin's "Privacy and Freedom" that was five years in the writing.

All of these studies as well as the work of the Ervin subcommittee, confirm that legitimate personal privacy is under alarming attack from governmental and corporate policy, as well as sophisticated technology designed to disrobe the individual for public scrutiny. This must be combated.

New Type Of Professional Politician

The term "professional politician" usually has intended derogatory connotations, though certainly there is nothing wrong with making elected public service a lifetime career. There is a related term, however — "political professionalism" — that marks a significant new trend and is stirring up a bit of debate.

Already active at the state level on the East and West Coasts are full-time campaign-managing companies that now are hoping to move into presidential politics. Biggest are Spencer-Roberts Inc. of Los Angeles, associated with Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, and Campaign Consultants Inc. of Boston, now preparing Michigan Gov. George Romney's campaign in next year's opening presidential primary in New Hampshire.

These firms are a far cry from the common use of public relations and advertising agencies in campaigns. They take over the entire campaign operation — advertising, organization, research on issues and opponents, poll analysis, candidate conduct, appearances, scheduling and speeches.

Is the trend good or bad? Some political scientists favor this use of specialized, ably staffed campaign firms; they believe it will make for higher-level campaigning and cleaner politics. Others have serious doubts, mainly over whether candidates depending on such firms can retain control of their own political philosophies and positions on public issues — in other words, will the firm manage the campaign or the candidate?

The debate is largely academic. In an increasingly complex and growing society with instantaneous mass communications, the cost and complications of political campaigning will require more and more specialized management. The hope must be that Theodore Roosevelt's good advice will be heeded by responsible candidates, that experts "have to be kept on tap, not on top."

Continuing Problem In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE — The chanting goes on in the church before the altar of St. Boniface's Church to the rhythmic clapping and shouting of the congregation. "Black power, black power, sock it to 'em, black power" and now and then with great fervor, "We love Father Groppi, we love Father Groppi."

THIS INVOCATION, half a kind of fun-making go-go, half deadly earnestness, leads up to the 36th night of consecutive marching protesting the failure of the City Council to pass an open-housing ordinance. Organized by the Young Commandos, members of the Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, they file out and begin to march in a cold rain, singing as they go, through dark and dreary streets. While blacks are in the majority, a surprising number of youthful whites, some of them wearing Black Power sweat shirts, are among the chanters and the marchers.

ON BOTH SIDES of the embittered divide separating the Negro ghetto of north Milwaukee from Polish-American south Milwaukee they are beginning to ask where this ends and whether it can produce any results. And that question itself suggests a grave crisis just ahead.

The protest movement in this affluent city is still nonviolent, thanks in large measure to Father James Groppi of St. Boniface's parish. It still enlists both races in a drive to break through the walls of the ghetto. But how long this will hold no one can say with any assurance.

IN EARLY AUGUST a riot here resulted in three deaths and minor property damage. Mayor Henry Maier clamped on a rigid curfew for 24 hours, with all movement in and out of the city forbidden. This is believed to have prevented another Newark or Detroit.

In the aftermath of the riot hopes were high that with the lesson of flaring violence narrowly averted there would be movement. The stubborn stand of the City Council would be broken and an open-housing ordinance adopted. The tragic fact, however, is that the stalemate continues with communication across the north-south divide as halting and timorous as before.

SO WHY, the Young Commandos are beginning to say, should we fool around with this stuff. Moreover, an open housing ordinance seems a pretty abstract goal that won't really make much difference in the lives of the 90,000 Negroes who are virtually all crowded into the decaying houses and battered tenements of the ghetto.

Most observers credit Mayor Maier with good intentions. As a Democratic leader in the Wisconsin legislature he fought for liberal causes. He argues the cruel logic of the declining core city with the tax base eroding as demands pile up for civic improvements. Like other mayors around the country he feels in a trap with no exit, and the louder the demands the more stubborn and irascible he becomes.

AFTER THE minor riot last summer — they call it a skirmish — Father Groppi and the Commandos looked for action from the community. The mood today is one of disillusion. New and radical strategies are being whispered about that can present Milwaukee with something far more serious than a skirmish.

'CIVILIAN CONTROL OF MILITARY MUST BE PRESERVED'

James Marlow

LBJ Is No Longer In Full Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called a sudden news conference in his White House office. In itself this wasn't unusual. He has done it before. This time it was his purpose that was unusual.

When he called in reporters Thursday he wanted to complain about what Congress is and isn't doing. Other presidents have done that when they got steamed up enough.

BUT FOR Johnson to do it—the obvious purpose being to enlist public understanding of his problem by providing a fill-in on congressional behavior—was a pretty good indication he is no longer the master politician in full control.

He had a lot to complain about. Congress has been dragging its feet. Last January when he sent his budget to Congress, asking $136 billion to run the government, he included 14 major appropriations bills.

AFTER NINE months in session Congress still hasn't finished with 10 of the 14 bills. But Johnson was complaining also about the congressional fever to cut what he asked although in some instances it voted more.

In addition, he asked for an income tax boost as one way of heading off inflation. But Congress hasn't done anything about it and, at the rate it's going isn't likely to, preferring to cut spending.

But this public complaining isn't the way Johnson in the past would have tried to bend Congress to his will. While he was in Congress and since becoming President, Johnson has been one of the greatest political engineers in history in manipulating and maneuvering the men in the Capitol to get what he wanted.

IN SHORT, he hardly would have handled his problem the way he did Thursday if he was

White House and Congress seem to have been on divergent wave lengths.

NEITHER Johnson nor Congress is showing the fiery spirit it had two years ago when full American involvement in the war was just beginning.

Chase Thrills Socialist

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's as easy to make money today, man, as at any time in history," boomed the confident voice of the world's highest paid Socialist.

"There is plenty of opportunity," continued Leonard J. Matchan, sitting in shirt-sleeved ease in a Fifth Avenue hotel suite as he contentedly absorbed a dry martini.

"But some can see opportunity and some can't. Some have the guts to follow up on opportunities—to have a go at it—and others don't. That's why you have bank clerks and screwballs like me."

AT 56 MATCHAN has a carnival touch but is certainly no screwball.

In Britain as board chairman of Cope Allman International, Ltd., a gigantic holding company, he runs a firm that operates in 74 countries, has 164 subsidiaries, 15,000 employees and does an annual business in the $175-to-$200-million range.

He himself now has a tidy personal income varying between $550,000 and $600,000 yearly.

"IT MAY BE hard to reconcile all this with being a Socialist," said Matchan, whose chief disappointment in life is that he once ran for Parliament on the Labor ticket and lost. "But I believe in raising the standard of living for everybody."

The son of a sewing machine repairman, he started raising his own living standard shortly after quitting school at 16 and getting a clerk's job at $2.80 a week.

AT NIGHTS he studied a correspondence course in accounting and soon began helping work out the tax returns of American film figures such as Adolphe Menjou and Roland Young.

By 21 he had come to the United States, produced a film here and returned to London, "broke but wiser."

"An Englishman likes to think he knows more than anybody else," he said genially, "but I'm afraid your people were a bit too sharp for me—then."

BACK IN England, Matchan entered the cosmetics business and quit at 40, a multimillionaire.

"The only exercise I take is two sauna baths a day," he said. "For relaxation I sometimes play chess with a hotel headwaiter."

"I don't work for work's sake but for the interests it gives me."

"I like doing things that other people can't do or back away from. It's the thrill of the chase—that's it."

"I wouldn't mind having to start all over again tomorrow. What am I saying? I may have

Around The Rim

Retribution

Sweet is revenge — especially to a woman scorned, although revenge may be a little more barbarous than the feelings the lady felt.

But there is no question she was giggling up her sleeve as she alighted from the airliner the other day.

THE LADY is quite attractive. She was described justifiably as a beautiful girl some years ago—more years than you might guess. But she still is self-assured, poised, well-dressed and, as do practically all women not in their dotage, she likes to think of herself as still inspiring long, appraisive, appreciative glances from most men.

Anyway, a few minutes after she had boarded the plane in another city for the flight to Big Spring, a much younger, glossy dame took a seat across the aisle. And a second or two later a man came down the aisle looking for a seat.

A NICE-LOOKING man, the older woman admitted. A man who looked "interesting." A man who looked as if he'd be a good conversationalist and fun to sit beside during the flight.

Then the man stopped in the aisle. There was a vacant seat next to the lady. There was a vacant seat next to the younger dame.

AND THERE also was the infernal serpent.

"I didn't look up at the fellow," the lady said. "But he stood there in the aisle for several seconds, and I could tell he was looking me over, and then looking the girl over—like Paris trying to decide who was to get the golden apple."

"And then he sat down with her," the lady sighed. "Not with me."

But where does that barbarous word "revenge" come in? Why the later up-the-sleeve laughter?

"WE COULDN'T have been flying more than 20 minutes when the weather turned bad. It was rough. And suddenly, apparently without the slightest warning, the girl across the aisle got sick. Sick, I mean," the lady couldn't restrain a laugh. "All over herself, and all over him, too!"

Oh, the lady admitted her feelings were uncharitable and, perhaps, a little un ladylike. But she giggled later, after she alighted from the plane: "THAT'LL learn him!"

IF YOU HAVE trouble sleeping, you're not alone. Someone reports that 4,330 books have been written on the subject.

If Henry Cabot Lodge happened to be elected President, "Paste-Pot" men would hesitate to use initials—as they do LBJ's. Lodge's also stand for High Cost of Living.

Leo Aikman, of the Atlanta Constitution, relays this short but pungent prayer:

"Heavenly Father, let me be as patient with my fellow man as you have been with me."

THE "FUNNY" commercial is back on radio. Unfortunately too many of them aren't, and that makes them sad.

Britain Has Discontent, Too

LONDON, England — In Britain the sport is Premier-picking, just as at home it is President-picking. The British don't have a general election on schedule for three years, but a winter of discontent is setting in. Money is tight, unemployment is rising, England is isolated from the continent, the Commonwealth continues to crumble, the cry is raised for leadership.

PRIME MINISTER Harold Wilson, the common man's politician, is a bit too ordinary. He has no style, and his wife no flair as she tries to project herself as Lady Everybody of 10 Downing Street. The Labour Party M.P.'s grumble that there must be a change at the top or else defeat is certain. Labour loses in recent by-elections have stepped up the choral tempo of complaint, and the Conservative Party is responding in kind against its own leader, Edward Heath. "The riddle is going to be who goes first, Wilson or Heath?" declares an outspoken Tory.

He is Sir Gerald Nabarro, M.P., for Worcestershire South, who commented upon the by-elections:

"I HAVE BEEN musing on the paradox that Tory popularity in the country increases, but so does the unpopularity of the leader. Mr. Wilson is now so widely mistrusted that I reckon his party may chopper him if Labour changes its leader and the Tories don't, and Mr. Heath does not recover, Labour will lead again. Thus fickle are politics."

The American equivalent for all this would be that if Lyndon Johnson is too unpopular to lead the Democrats in '68, the Republicans had better find a truly popular figure and not rely on a shopworn candidate.

LIKE AMERICANS, the British take out a lot of their troubles on the faceless "bureaucracy" which is blamed for the loss of prosperity and Empire, beginning as long ago as the aftermath of World War I.

Putting these grievances into words is a well-received book here, "The System," by Max Nicholson, a minor figure in the Atlee regime. Nicholson's thesis is that his country's reliance upon Civil Servants, the bureaucrats, makes a mockery of democracy. The voters give power to the Parliament, which passes it along to the Government, which deals it off to the Civil Service, and the people have little to say about how the country is run.

NICHOLSON'S SOLUTION: to reduce the size of Parliament and increase the number of committees to prod and keep watch; to cut the Civil Service in half and appoint civil commissions to run the utilities such as transportation, communications and electric power; to abolish the Treasury in its entirety and substitute a responsible official, the Secretary of Economic Affairs.

In No Mood For Surrender

WASHINGTON — Members of the Senate are beginning to realize that some of the speeches hitherto made demanding peace in Vietnam are being misconstrued in Southeast Asia as a sign of weakness. With the approaching presidential contest, the American people in the midst of a war will vote against their President and in favor of an opposition candidate who presumably favors surrender.

BUT SEN. THOMAS H. Kuchel of California, assistant Republican leader, who recently visited Vietnam, has just made a speech in the Senate deploring the widespread misrepresentation of America's policy in Southeast Asia. He said:

"Domestic American politics does not offer a satisfactory basis for a winning strategy in world affairs. North Vietnam, unable to win a military victory, seeks a political one. She counts on our moral paralysis in the face of mounting pressure for peace of almost any kind in connection with next year's elections.

"I SPEAK BOTH as an American and as a Republican. What this administration does to demonstrate to the Vietnamese, both North and South, that America's commitment is enduring, will have, I sincerely believe, the support of the American people, and surely, of this United States senator. It is far too late in the day to throw away what free people have fought valiantly to achieve in Southeast Asia.

"AMERICA MUST not sully her commitment to the security of free Asia by groping for a nameless settlement. We seek an end that will leave the people of South Vietnam in lasting freedom and independence."

Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, also has spoken out in criticism of those senators who are advocating virtual retreat in Vietnam. He favors a "firm policy."

SEN. STUART Symington of Missouri, Democrat, who has just returned from a trip to Vietnam and other countries in Asia, warned in a Senate speech that cessation of U.S.

air raids against North Vietnam would "guarantee additional casualties in South Vietnam."

He urged instead that the United States announce a cessation of all military action in Vietnam as of a certain date and, at the same time, declare that if, after military action were suspended, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong nevertheless continued hostilities, then "the United States would feel free to pursue this war in any manner of its own choosing."

THIS WOULD amount to the making of a truce calling for a halt of military operations or reinforcements by either side after a specific date. It would demonstrate to the world the good faith of the United States. If the North Vietnamese did not adhere to the truce immediately, it would make inevitable the use of maximum military power thereafter by the United States and its allies to bring the war to an end.

The position of both political parties is slowly being clarified. The Republican party is by no means in favor of a surrender in Vietnam, and neither is the Democratic party.

Police officials said the patrols will have 18 dogs initially. The city also plans to establish the country's first Mobile Scientific Aid Unit, enabling fingerprint experts and other technicians to move to the scene of a crime.

Astro Eager For First Moon Flight Killed In Jet Crash

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — An American astronaut who said he wanted to be first on the moon and specialized in the craft that will make the trip was killed Thursday when his T38 jet trainer plowed into a hilltop near the Florida-Georgia border.

Marine Corps Maj. Clifton C. Williams Jr., 35, a member of the nation's third generation of astronauts, was flying alone from Cape Kennedy to Houston Manned Space Center by way of Mobile, Ala., where his father was reported ill.

MAYDAY

Williams radioed the distress mayday signal about 2 p.m., and 10 minutes later a helicopter rescue crew from Moody Air Force Base at nearby Valdosta, Ga., arrived at the scene on a plantation near Micooskee, Fla., 15 miles north of here.

"The plane disintegrated and the body disintegrated with it," said Air Force Maj. Joe Johnson of Moody.

Johnson said the fiery plane dove down so straight it singed trees but plunged between pines 100 feet apart without touching them.

A board of inquiry headed by the first American spaceman, Navy Capt. Alan B. Shepard, was named to investigate the crash. Williams was the eighth American astronaut to die accidentally.

Portable Treaters Sale Reported

Charles R. Perry, of Odessa, today announced the purchase of all assets and facilities of Portable Treaters Inc. from D. B. Hemphill and others for an undisclosed sum. Portable Treaters Inc. owns and leases various types of gas treating equipment.

Perry announced at the same time that the company would continue its operations under the same corporate name in the field of leasing, sales, and service of gas processing equipment.

Portable Treaters Inc. was founded in 1950, and has been operated by Hemphill since that time. The company designed and built the first truly portable amine treating unit for removal of hydrogen sulfide from natural gas.

Brownsville Unscathed

BROWNSVILLE — Hurricane Beulah, contrary to some reports, left Brownsville without major damage.

Mayor Tony Gonzalez said there was no flooding in the city and almost no damage to buildings beyond minor casualties.

"There were no deaths or even serious injuries," he said. "Flooding did not occur in Brownsville and only in the outer reaches of Matamoros, Mexico — Brownsville's sister city — was there standing water."

"Actually," Gonzalez said, "Beulah did a good bit of 'tree pruning' and maybe forced us to do some repair work long overdue."

"Because of the rapidity with which tropical plants and trees grow, the winter tourist will be unable to detect signs of Beulah in another six weeks," he said.

Only one motel suffered major damage and that is in the process of repair now. Matamoros suffered almost no damage—none whatever to tourist places. The city's parks and tourist facilities were unscathed.

The highways and levees along the Rio Grande were breached above Brownsville and the flood waters drained off into Mexico before the river could crest here.

Gonzalez said winter visitors are expected to move into the area soon and urged immediate reservations.

WILLIAM L. LOVING

Loving Promoted By Cabot Corp.

The election of William L. Loving, formerly senior vice president, as executive vice president, Cabot Corporation, was announced this week by Louis W. Cabot, Boston, corporation president. Loving fills the vacancy created by the retirement of D. D. Cochrane.

Loving joined the Cabot research and development department at Pampa, headquarters for the company's western region, in 1950. In the following years, he helped pioneer many of the fundamental developments that have changed the carbon black industry.

Red Cross To Spend $4 Million

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — The Red Cross will assist some 12,000 persons hit by Hurricane Beulah in rebuilding and will spend $4 million in aid, an official said Friday.

Ed Brandhorst, headquarters director, said the agency's first firm survey estimate was finished.

He said Hurricane Beulah damaged or destroyed more than 24,000 homes and that 8,978 persons with illnesses or injuries were treated by the Red Cross in the region hammered by the hurricane.

He called "amazingly low" the number of persons—244—hospitalized. Twelve persons died in Texas from Beulah's winds, rains and floods.

Brandhorst gave this breakdown for damage:

Homes: 542 destroyed, 2,683 major damage, 23,207 minor damage.

Mobile homes: 198 destroyed, 477 major damage.

Farm buildings: 607 destroyed, 1,146 major damage.

Boats: 110 destroyed or major damage.

Small businesses: $20 destroyed or major damage.

The Red Cross official said 31,263 families in Texas suffered losses of property of all categories.

Popular Actor Shot To Death

MANILA (AP) — Alberto Alonzo, 23, a popular movie and television actor who played James Bond-type roles, was shot to death today at a nightclub. Investigators called it a grudge slaying.

Alonzo's suspected assailant, 24-year-old Armando Trialdad Jr., and a policeman were wounded in an exchange of gunfire that followed.

The nature of the dispute between Alonzo and his assailant was not disclosed.

Fiery Fort Worth Crash Kills Three

FORT WORTH (AP)—A third teenager died this morning of burns and injuries suffered in a flaming automobile crash Wednesday night.

He was Mike Malone, 17, son of Dr. James Malone, a Fort Worth psychiatrist.

The crash also killed Michael W. Smith, 17, and Elizabeth Moncrief, 16, daughter of Fort Worth oilman R. B. Moncrief.

All three were students at Arlington Heights High School. Police said the car swerved out of control after apparently blowing a tire, smashed into a 30-foot-deep ravine and burst into flames.

Highway Dept. Executives Changed

AUSTIN — Five top-level administrative changes have been announced for the Texas Highway Department.

B. L. DeBerry, district engineer at Dallas, will become assistant state highway engineer effective Jan. 1. DeBerry will succeed J. C. Dingwall, who becomes state highway engineer on the same date.

Other administrative changes: Archie J. Sherrill, presently district engineer in Odessa (District 6) will be promoted to chief engineer of maintenance operations, succeeding John A. Waller, who is retiring.

John G. Keller, presently district engineer in Beaumont (District 20) will succeed DeBerry as district engineer in Dallas.

Franklin Carter Young, now district administrative engineer in San Antonio, will succeed Keller as district engineer in Beaumont.

Paul H. Coleman, assistant district engineer at Odessa, will be promoted to the district engineer's position there, succeeding Sherrill.

DeBerry joined the Highway Department as an instrument man in Sherman immediately after graduation from the University of Texas in 1937.

After serving in various engineer field capacities in the Paris district, he was transferred to San Antonio as assistant district engineer in 1953. In 1958, he was named district engineer at Lufkin and in 1960 took over as head of the seven-county Dallas district.

Woman Hurt In 3-Car Crash

Lola O'Barr Smith, Sterling City Route, is reported in good condition at Cowper Hospital from bruises received in a three-car accident with Corine Gray South, 1783 Kentucky Way, and Tommy Berry Ellison, 1701 Runnels, Thursday afternoon at Fifteenth and Gregg.

Ginger Ann Adams, 10 Highland Heather, and Johnny Quinn Tidwell, 1510 Main, were in collision at 605 E. 18th, Thursday afternoon. Ethel Harold Hartis, Dallas, and Nate R. Chavez, 306 NE 10th, were in an accident at 7:11 p.m. Thursday at Third and Gregg.

Today at 9:25 a.m. David Peterson, 517 Scott, Roger Grisham, 504 E. 23rd, and Sharon Swim, 607 Highland, were in collision at 1707 Kentucky Way.

Motor Bike, Tape Equipment Taken

Two thefts and an attempted theft were reported to police Thursday.

A motor bike, value $150, was stolen from Loran H. Warren, 2903 Navajo Dr. A stereo tape player, tape and tachometer, valued at $120, were taken from the car of Johnnie Arripe, 206 NW 10th, while parked at Bowl-a-Rama, US 90 east.

Someone attempted to take the battery of a car belonging to Bobby West, 4100 N.W. while it was parked at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Airport Expansion Election Discussed

Preliminary discussions looking toward a possible county-wide election for airport improvements were held today by members of the Howard County Commissioners Court and members of the county Airport Advisory Committee.

In the conference was Jim Nichols, Fort Worth, member of the engineering firm of Freese, Nichols and Endress, which is a consultant on the airport planning.

General consensus was that, possibly within a couple of months, a referendum should be

OIL REPORT

Howard Project To Test Reef

A Howard County wildcat location has been staked by Pierce and Davis 1967 Ltd. of Midland to test the Pennsylvanian reef at 7,800 feet.

No. 1 Carpenter Estate spots 650 feet from the south and 1,980 feet from the east lines of section 17-25, H&TC survey, four miles southwest of Vincent. Continental Oil will re-enter No. 6-A H. R. Clay and drill to 1,950 feet in the Howard-Glasscock (Queen) field of Howard County.

It spots 1,120 feet from the north and 200 feet from the east lines of section 139-29, W&NW survey, four miles east of Forsan. It was originally completed in the Gloria pay section.

Safety Seal Sale Slated

The 28th annual safety seal sale sponsored by Howard County Post American Legion, is slated to begin Monday, according to Foster L. Kemp, post commander.

Kemp pointed out the program has always been the principal means of caring for the welfare needs among veteran families.

Headquarters will be at the Legion Hall on the San Angelo Highway. Persons authorized to deliver the safety slogans to local business and professional people will have identification and a letter of authorization from Kemp.

They may also sign any receipt or paid-out slip needed by businessmen.

Another conference will be held next week with bond agents, to determine required financing and costs. After that session, petitions may be circulated asking that the election be held.

The Texas Legislature at its last session passed a bill providing for creation of a County Airport Authority, with consent of the voters. This agency would take over assets of the field, and operate it henceforth. It would also assume what bonded debt the county now has outstanding on the airport, and be responsible for future financing.

Nichols discussed general improvement plans, in line with a Federal Aviation Agency commitment to the local agency. This is in the amount of $198,425, and represents roughly one-half of construction costs.

Nichols' firm and the FAA offices in Albuquerque have been in consultation on various improvement projects. In Phase I of the program would be lengthening of the north-south runway, with new paving, various taxiways and parking aprons, site preparation, draining, lighting and marking. Also discussed is the possible relocation of the T-41 hangar, and construction of a terminal building.

FAA does not participate in the latter two items.

Total cost of the Phase I program is set at $620,563, with the local share put at $402,294.

A longer-range improvement program (to come in future years) sets up another $474,586, with anticipated FAA participation of some $237,293. The ultimate program looks toward a local bond requirement of some $750,000 — this to be expended over a period of years.

General consensus was that, possibly within a couple of months, a referendum should be

Johnny Burns, Wreck Injuries

Johnny Burns Jr., 23, who was born in Big Spring, died Friday morning in the William Beaumont Hospital at Fort Bliss in El Paso from injuries sustained in a car mishap Sept. 14.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Burns, Midland, and the grandson of Mrs. Nellie Burns, Big Spring, and nephew of Sam Burns and Mrs. Patty Maneely.

Ten years ago Johnny moved with his family to Midland, and he was a second lieutenant in the paratroopers, the 82nd Airborne, and was preparing to go to Vietnam when he was injured while en route with a friend to El Paso. Four times he underwent surgery, and finally his liver failed.

Arrangements are pending. Besides his parents, he leaves a brother, Jerry Burns, who is in the Air Force at Wichita Falls; a sister, Janie, who lives with her parents at Midland; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. N. G. Barton, Midland.

George Morgan, Retired At A&M

George Clarence Morgan, 76, died Thursday afternoon in a local hospital after being ill for a week.

He was born May 31, 1891, in Palo Pinto County, Texas. A retired A&M University employee, he moved to Big Spring in 1959 from College Station. He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Services will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday in the River - Welch Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Robert Polk, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Survivors are two sons, Ernest Morgan, Big Spring, and George Morgan, Roswell, N. M.; two daughters, Mrs. Lou Wilcox, Plainview, and Mrs. Dorothy Henderson, Big Spring; nine grandchildren; two great-grandchildren, one brother, Asa Morgan, Amarillo; and one sister, Mrs. May House, Fort Worth.

Mr. Hull died Wednesday evening in a local hospital. He is survived by three sisters and several nieces and nephews.

Palbearers were Jessie Angel, Charles Ray Franklin, Bill Franklin, Tommy Pool, Tim Pool and Jerry Williams.

Minister's Sixth Marriage On The Rocks

Mrs. Gloria Clark, 44, left, has charged her minister husband, the Rev. Gene Emmett Clark, right, 57, with cruelty, desertion, habitual intemperance and adultery in her divorce suit in Los Angeles. She held a court yesterday in Los Angeles that Clark took her out to dinner in 1963, along with another woman—telling both of them, "Darling, I love you." Pending outcome of the divorce suit, the judge ordered Clark to pay alimony and child support. This is the sixth marriage for Clark, minister of the Church of Religious Science in Beverly Hills.

Negro Winds Up In Fourth Place

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A. W. Willis, Tennessee's first Negro state legislator in more than half a century, couldn't put together a winning coalition Thursday and failed in a bid to become the first Negro mayor of a major Old South city.

Splendid Results Marked For Scout Night Program

Splendid results were achieved from the Scout Night program Sept. 26, Leon Miller, Scout executive, reported at the Lone Star District committee meeting Thursday evening at Cosden Country Club. For the district, 255 young boys signed up, and Miller is hopeful that the district soon can achieve its membership goal for the year.

District Chairman R. L. Tollett cited L. W. M. Harken for his work in the junior leadership course which had an enrollment of 44 boys with 33 completing the course. Most of the remaining will earn their certificates soon, it was indicated.

J. D. (Don) Womack's resignation as district commissioner was accepted and Ralph Barris named as his successor.

Donald Van Meter announced that Troop 301, sponsored by the Police Department, held its place in the advancement race.

Banks Returns From Civil Disorder Seminar

Hundreds of rioters, looters, arsonists and other persons associated with civil disorder participated in a mass demonstration Wednesday at Ft. Belvoir, Va., while FBI agents, military police and law enforcement officers from 50 states stood and watched.

"It was part of a seminar on riot control and civil disorders," said Jay Banks, chief of police, and one of six Texans attending the one-day session. "Various problems known to occur during such incidents were shown individually — for example, looters were subjects of one lesson, arsonists the other."

Step by step, from issuing a traffic citation to the arrival of an agitator, a resulting riot and patrolling streets when silence prevailed, service members staged a full-size civil disorder.

During other seminar sessions, Banks said a basic plan of operation was proposed for cities threatened with civil disturbances — he described as a carbon copy to one adopted last summer by Big Spring. Use of various tactics and equipment available for such problems was shown during the sessions.

"They went to elaborate lengths to prevent injury to anyone caught burning or looting during the demonstration—kind of handling them with kid gloves," said Banks. "It seemed effective since they had unlimited manpower, but for police use we would need to use much sterner methods in dealing with them."

YMCA To Dedicate Pool At Sunday Open House

The Big Spring Central YMCA will have an open house Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., Jack Little, president, announced today.

The open house will begin with the dedication of the Horace Garrett Memorial Swimming Pool. The late Mr. Garrett served as chairman of the board of the Dora Roberts Foundation for many years before his death, and during his tenure on the board, the foundation made grants totaling $112,500 to the Big Spring YMCA and its Lakeview branch. This enabled the community to have one of the finest facilities in existence in cities of comparable size. The most recent gift of the foundation retired all the Y's capital indebtedness, and in addition financed major changes in the swimming pool and dressing room area, as well as supplying funds for additional equipment purchases and the refurbishing of the existing plant.

Following the dedication of the swimming pool, the facilities will be open to permit the general public to see for themselves the changes effected by the recent gift of the foundation.

Punch, coffee and doughnuts will be served and Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y boys and girls will be on hand for guided tours of the building.

There will also be exhibitions of gymnastics, tumbling, handball, weight lifting and swimming.

The YMCA is located on Owens Street, north of the new high school complex, along the eastern boundary of Birdwell Park.

The Rev. Leo Gee, First Methodist pastor, will make dedicatory remarks. Mrs. Jack Cathey is chairman of arrangements.

Two Departments Give 100 Per Cent In UF Drive

Two City of Big Spring departments have reported into United Fund headquarters with 100 per cent reports. They are the employees in the inspection department and the sewage treatment plant employees.

Through today's count, the United Fund campaign had $21,378 accounted for, toward a goal of $116,121.69.

The various divisional reports today showed this amount in: out-of-town division, $4,531; big gifts, $13,923; special gifts, $307; employees, $2,383; public employees, $15; and metropolitan, $156.

Farm Bureau Convention Set

The Howard County Farm Bureau chapter will have its annual county convention at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building on the HCC campus.

The business session will follow a meal catered by A's Barbecue House and will feature three student speakers, and the introduction of the Farm Bureau Queen, Derwood Blagrove, president, will be in charge of the meeting.

One of the highlights will be the selection of nine directors from the following nominees: Lloyd Robinson, B. M. Newton, Robert Nichols, Jerry I. d. e. n. Jimmy Taylor, Fred Phillips, Lois Madison, Harvey Adams, J. W. Overton, R. V. Fryar, Carlos H. Ford, W. C. Clanton, Leonard Hanson, Roy Walker, Lloyd Underwood, and Bobby Cathey.

The elected directors will convene Tuesday evening to choose the president, vice president and secretary.

Ranchers See 'Sea Of Grass'

WESTBROOK — Twenty-five farmers and ranchers Thursday looked on a sample of what was once West Texas' sea of grass.

On a brush-control tour sponsored by the Texas section of the American Range Society and the Soil Conservation Service, they stopped at the half section owned by Mrs. D. Barger. Once heavily infested with brush, the land now stands almost waist deep in blue panic, sideoats grama and King Ranch bluestem. The land was rough plowed and seeded in 1965, and grazing deferred during summer months.

After lunch at the W. E. Smith Jr. ranch, the party viewed another pasture which had been heavily covered with mesquite and cacti. In 1966 he sprayed mesquite, and last spring treated the cacti with hand sprays. The grass promptly came back.

Pepsi Boosts James Lindsey

James B. Lindsey, president of Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Bakersfield, Calif., was elected national president of the Pepsi-Cola Bottlers Association at the organization's 21st annual meeting Tuesday in Phoenix, Ariz.

Lindsey had been executive vice president and a PCBA director. He has also held many assignments with bottler groups on state and national levels.

Of the 17 district directors named at the same meeting, Charles L. Sandahl Jr., Austin, will head District Seven.

Area In Chile Has Nitrates, Water; Looks For Tourists

By HOUSTON HARTE
IQUIQUE, Chile — This city of 60,000 to 75,000 is called the capital of the forgotten land. Here wars were fought in the last century over the ownership of the territory. It has been part of Peru and Bolivia during the last century.
 The nitrate mines are small as compared with the boom times of the First World War, but still produce sizable quantities of nitrate.
 The nitrate is on the surface and is strip-mined. There is enough water in the area to wash the dirt off the nitrate and make it marketable. Each of the three days we have been here we saw trains of nitrate coming down from the 3,000 foot escarpment to the loading plant on the dock.

AUTOMATION

The Guggenheims have efficient automated equipment that handles the nitrate on a belt system which unloads the

Insurance Flood Bill Advances

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Banking Committee approved Thursday a bill to set up a nationwide system of flood insurance.

Private companies would write the insurance with the government paying part of the premiums and also backing the companies with reinsurance in case of catastrophic losses.

Because of the high risk for any particular company, insurance against flood damage is now practically unobtainable. Hurricane losses attributed to water rather than wind accordingly are not covered.

The legislation, which now goes to the House, is similar to a bill already passed by the Senate. Sponsors said if it is passed and the differences adjusted, writing of flood insurance could begin by next summer.

The measure provides initially for coverage of one-to-four-family houses and small businesses. Limits would be $17,500 for individual homes, $30,000 for larger structures. Small businesses could be insured up to $35,000. A small business that did not own its building could get insurance up to the limit on the contents, including inventory.

A national limit of $2.5 billion would be established. The bill provides for premium rates and other details to be worked out as the program develops, and for recommendations to be made to Congress later about possible expansion of coverage.

Sponsors estimated the first-year cost of the program to the government might be $5 million to $7 million.

The Senate bill does not provide small business coverage and contains a provision, opposed by insurance companies, that would give the government first claim on profits for five years after an occasion when it had to pay off as reinsurer.

Lubbock Work Week Longest

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas factory workers worked six minutes less per week in August than in July and were paid 2 cents per hour less, the Texas Employment Commission said Thursday.

The commission said, however, average weekly earnings of $112.02 in August were $4.34 above August, 1966.

The Beaumont, Port Arthur, Orange area recorded the highest hourly wage at $3.51. El Paso reported the lowest, $3.91.

The longest average work week was in the Lubbock area, 45.4 hours during August, and the El Paso area had the shortest work week, 40.4 hours.

Found Innocent Of Gates Theft

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — A U. S. "Benny" Campesi, a 35-year-old Palm Springs construction worker, has been found innocent of stealing a 4,500-pound set of iron gates from the desert estate of composer Frederick Loewe.

The $75,000 gates were found by police in the garage of a Burbank, Calif., home—rented for storing "junk iron." Campesi pleaded innocent to charges of stealing them.

Loewe wrote the music for the Broadway musicals "My Fair Lady," "Camelot," and "Brigadoon."

Marxist Heads Dallas Draft Resist Action

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Times Herald said Thursday that a self-avowed Marxist told the newspaper he is heading a local group dedicated to keeping young men out of the draft by legal or illegal means.

The Marxist also said he was an organizer for the national office of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), which has a chapter on the Southern Methodist University campus in Dallas. In a copyrighted story, the Times Herald said the organizer said he does not recognize the U.S. government as "his government."

PAID PUSHER

Rather, it said, he considered "the black freedom fighter of Mississippi, the black freedom fighter of Detroit and the Cuban people who overthrew the imperialistic United States as my government."

The 20-year-old Florida native said he was among 15 paid SDS organizers throughout the nation, and was also the director of the Dallas Draft Resistance Committee.

The SDS organizer, unnamed by the newspaper, said he was expelled from high school in the 10th grade for publishing an underground newspaper and trying to form a student union.

He said he volunteered for service in the Army at 17 but asked for a discharge after three months because his political beliefs were incompatible with the military.

CONSERVATIVE CHAPTER
 He said he came to Dallas about a year ago after working with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee in Mississippi.

Southern Methodist Dean of Students Joe Howell said Thursday that the university was investigating the SMU chapter of SDS but he would not elaborate.

Richard Chambers, SMU history professor and faculty sponsor of the SDS chapter, said "there are some Marxists in the Dallas group." But he added that the SMU chapter was more conservative than most around the country.

And the state director of Selective Service, Col. Morris Schwartz, said Thursday that someone posing as a clerk for the Denton draft board infiltrated a meeting this week of Dallas draft board members.

Spring This On Farmers To Net Zap

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Spring this on a farmer and see if it doesn't curdle his cow's milk or cause the rooster to crow at midnight.

"An infertile soil and an eutrophic lake will produce less crops, while a fertile soil and a eutrophic lake will produce more crops," says the Pennsylvania Health Department in new scientific jargon.

Eutrophication, actually, is the overfertilization of lakes. This means lakes, as they age, fill up with junk, turn into marshes and eventually disappear.

The department is so intrigued with eutrophication that it scheduled six speeches on the subject at a health conference at Pennsylvania State University.

Falling Star Sent To Texas Officials

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dorothy McClain could hardly believe her eyes when a falling star dropped at her feet in broad daylight.

She said a deputy sheriff's badge fell from a small plane that flew at low altitude. The inscription showed the badge was issued by the Harris County, (Tex.) Air Patrol. It is being mailed to Harris County officials.

Witnesses Set Program

Frank K. Davis, minister of the Big Spring Jehovah's Witnesses, announced the tri-annual visit of circuit supervisor Clarence Newcomb next week, Oct. 10-15.

Newcomb will take part in the advanced training program for Jehovah's Witnesses which is to encourage more Bible discussion by people of all faiths. The program will begin Tuesday, Oct. 10, at 7:30 p.m. with a ministry training school. Wednesday through Sunday will be devoted to field missionary service and Newcomb will join ministers from the local congregation in making calls on residents in the community.

"New Things Learned" will be the theme of the program Saturday beginning at 8 p.m. Newcomb will discuss improving personal ministry.

Newcomb will speak on "Finding Courage in a World Full of Fear" at the Sunday 4 p.m. meeting. The week's activities will close with a Bible study.

All meetings will be held at the Kingdom Hall, 500 Donley. Interested persons are welcome and no collection will be taken.

Religious Belief Persists Despite Soviet Opposition

MOSCOW (AP) — Religious belief persists in the Soviet Union in surprising strength despite 50 years of Communist power.

In a recent survey in the large city of Kazan—the first of its kind known to have been made—21 per cent of the adults questioned said they believe in God. Another survey in a typical collective farm area showed that 57 per cent of the families had religious shrines in their homes.

The actual number of believers is probably larger than these figures indicate, since refusal to avow official atheism has social and career disadvantages.

Soviet authorities have expressed concern about the persistence of religion. Pravda, the voice of the Communist party, earlier this year called for an increased struggle against "religious survival." It said this caused "damage to our society" and called for more education in atheism for all age groups.

There is recent evidence that new and more subtle methods will be used since the old crude antireligious propaganda has not worked so well.

Komsomolskaya Pravda, the newspaper of the Young Communist League, unexpectedly printed a letter last week advocating belief in God. This was accompanied by arguments in favor of atheism.

But a polite and rational tone was maintained throughout.

The paper, which is read by millions of young people, apparently was trying to get through to those seriously considering the basic problems of life and death. It was not just dismissing the argument for religion as ridiculous.

The Soviet leadership seemed confident at one time that religion could be made to wither away, just as Marx said the state would under Communism.

Although the 1936 Stalin constitution guarantees freedom of worship, churches have been closed gradually and the training of new priests or other religious leaders has been hampered.

The obvious calculation behind this was that the people, without the traditional means to sustain their faith, would lose interest and accept the atheism taught in the schools and extolled in the press. The churches to survive are obliged to be inconspicuous and unassertive. The Communist regime imposes many restrictions to keep them from getting publicity and to reduce their importance in the community. Social and charitable work is banned. Sermons are censored. Children are not allowed to attend services.

SPIRITUALITY NEEDED TO GIVE RELIGION MEANING

The knowledge that one speaks for God imparts a boldness in spite of opposition. This is well, because it is not popular to preach on God's judgments, as the experience of Amos shows in Sunday's uniform lesson. It is taken from Amos 1:1-7, with Psalm 76 as devotional reading.

Amos was a nobody, from out in the sticks, but God chose this blunt-speaking man to deliver His message. The vision of which Amos speaks today was one of five which he beheld, all of which dealt with judgment. This particular one came when it was too late to change. Only God knows when the time comes for mercy to cease and justice to be done, but that time does come.

Amos beheld God using a plumbline on Israel, and the nation was found wanting. The nation had an opportunity to measure up to this standard of truthness, but it had ignored it. Now it would pay the price through the death of the King, the destruction of the monarchy and the nation.

The setting in Sunday's lesson is around 760 B.C., and within half a century the Assyrians had totally overwhelmed the northern kingdom. The places of heathen worship, established as a convenience, were among the first things to come tumbling down.

For his honesty, Amos was accused of conspiring against the king. This did not deter him for the "lord said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel." Amos got to the heart of the thing. Israel had lost its spirituality. This should say to us today that religion without spirituality is empty and vain.

It is easy to put too much "emphasis on the emotional and intellectual, rather than moral and spiritual. People want peace of mind, but they do not want purity of heart. They want to feel good, rather than to be good."

Janelle Tate Returns From Eye-Opening Trip

A round-the-world exposure to other people and other cultures has been an eye-opener to Janelle Tate.

Janelle was among a group of 20 young people from Churches of Christ who took part in a summer international culture exchange study.

"I learned two things from this experience," she said. "How to love and appreciate people, and how to appreciate our American freedoms. We do not know how fortunate we are until we go somewhere else."

One place she had in mind was East Berlin. Her group made an excursion into that part of the city, once the heart of the commercial area which is now lethargic, if not dead. But it was not until she looked over the wall into East Berlin that the contrast struck her.

On the west side of the wall people walked briskly, heads up, amid busy auto traffic. On the other side of the wall there was little movement—few cars, and the people seemed to walk with their heads down.

Janelle, a 1967 graduate of Stanton High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Tate, Tarzan. She is now a freshman music education major at Abilene Christian College. She was one of a party of 20 young students whose purpose was to go into home and native situations to get the feel of other cultures. This entailed six weeks of preparation at Hardin College, Searcy, Ark., where she studied mission techniques and anthropology to get a glimpse of the people they would be visiting.

In Hawaii, the young Christians spent two weeks at Hilo, living with natives (she stayed in a Portuguese-Catholic home) studying their culture, and helping with a vacation Bible school. Another week was spent on Oahu in similar work. The group went to Tokyo en route to Okinawa for 14 days in a village in the southern tip. They lived with people whose religion was largely ancestral worship; they did manual labor, built roads, taught children's classes.

The tour also included short stops in Taipei, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Bangkok, Beirut, Lebanon, Greece (they got to see the Parthenon, Corinth, etc.), and on to Rome, Italy, for a visit at the Vatican and in St. Peter's Cathedral as well as other points; then to Frankfurt, Germany, and Berlin. The party dwindled by three — Mr. and Mrs. Don Branham left the group in Tokyo to take up a mission assignment there, and another returned home to fill a teaching contract. Phil Elkins, a graduate student, was the leader.

Take A Tour

NASHVILLE (AP) — Thirty-one Methodists, most of them college students, left June 25 for two months in the Soviet Union as participants in a study-travel seminary sponsored by the church's Division of Higher Education and American University in Washington.

Bible College Quartet

The King's Harvester's Quartet from Gulf Coast Bible College in Houston will present a concert at the Highland Church of God, East Sixth and Settles, Sunday at 9:45 a.m.

Highland Church Marks 5th Anniversary Sunday

The Highland Church of God, East Sixth and Settles, will observe its fifth anniversary with three special services Sunday, Oct. 8.

The "Visitors Service," 9:45 a.m., will feature the King's Harvester's Quartet from Gulf Coast Bible College in Houston. It has toured the United States presenting concerts similar to the one to be presented Sunday.

Rev. Charles Freed, fieldman for Gulf Coast Bible College, will be in charge of the devotional period at the 10-11 a.m. services. The regular Sunday school classes will follow the devotional period.

Rev. Forrest Robinson, pastor, will be in charge of the worship hour at 11-12.

The Highland Church of God had its beginning in 1962 when 10 people held their first meeting in a home of one of the members. The first church building was located at Tenth and Runnels. In 1965, a new church was built at East Sixth and Settles by the growing congregation. The following year a three bedroom parsonage was purchased at 610 State.

The church has set a goal of 200 for attendance at the anniversary service and the public is invited to attend any of the three services, but particularly the visitors service to "bear the King's Harvester's Quartet."

Anniversary Set

Carl Street Church of Christ will celebrate its fifth anniversary and homecoming Sunday. A dinner will follow the morning service. Singing in the church building is planned from 2-4 p.m. The morning service is set for 10 a.m.; the evening service at 6 p.m.

A SENSE OF SECURITY

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
. . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Money in a savings account? Money in a checking account? Money in your pocket? These all add up to a fine sense of security. But as everybody knows, the security of money can disappear. The stock market drops, expenses chew up your savings.

There's another kind of security that is not based on the fleeting, material treasures of life. It is the security needed when sickness strikes, a son or daughter disappoints us, or death takes a loved one. This security chases out doubt and fear. It enables us to go right on living day by day, certain that we will not walk alone. In fact, God has said that He will never leave us nor forsake us.

Discover for yourself this security! In your church you can find those eternal values if you trust in the security of Him who cannot fail.

Bell, Briles Slated To Hurl Saturday

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jim Lonborg woke up today and knew he was on the road for real. Carl Yastrzemski woke up and knew how good it felt to be able to sleep without taking a sleeping pill.

GARY BELL JIM LONBORG

Collectively, the Boston Red Sox knew how it felt to be even with the St. Louis Cardinals again in the World Series.

The Red Sox pulled even at 1-1 Thursday by whipping the Cardinals 5-0 in Boston behind the one-hit pitching of Lonborg and the two-homer slugging of Yastrzemski.

The teams then moved to St. Louis where the Series will resume Saturday with Gary Bell, 13-13, pitching for the Red Sox and Nelson Briles, 14-5 going for the Cardinals.

MOVES TO HOTEL
Lonborg produced his masterpiece — he retired the first 19 batters he faced and didn't allow a hit until Julian Javier doubled with two out in the eighth — after forsaking his own bed again for a room at a downtown Boston hotel.

Yastrzemski, on the other hand, slept in his own bed Wednesday night, but he had to take a pill to get to sleep.

"I just wanted to make sure I got a good night's sleep," explained Lonborg, who did the same thing last Saturday night — before pitching the pennant-clinching game against Minnesota.

He stayed at the hotel both times because he wanted to simulate road conditions. On the road there's no one to bother him the night before he pitches, and his record has shown the difference. At home this season he was 8-3, on the road 14-4.

Yastrzemski has his own sleeping problems. "I'm a little nervous when I'm trying to go to sleep and sometimes I take a sleeping pill," explained the American League's Triple Crown winner who exploded from a hitless first game to a three-hit, four-run-batted-in second game.

"I took a pill last night, and I had nine hours of sleep," Yastrzemski said Thursday. "I won't need one tonight because we don't play tomorrow."

ICY CALM
As nervous as he is away from the ball park — "I'm very nervous when I'm home eating breakfast" — Boston's brilliant left fielder is completely calm once he reaches the playing site.

Before the second game of the Series, Yastrzemski passed up batting practice because he had taken 20 minutes postgame bat work the day before. Instead, he climbed onto the trainer's table and took a 45-minute nap.

"When I don't take batting practice, I usually take a nap," he said. "The trainer woke me up at about a quarter to 12, and I felt great."

The Cardinals didn't feel too good a couple of hours later when Yastrzemski socked a 350-foot bases-empty homer in the fourth inning and a 430-foot blast with two on in the seventh.

"When I hit the first homer, I told Jim, 'You have enough, Big Guy. Go get 'em!'" Lonborg certainly did get them.

For the first 6 1-3 innings, the 24-year-old right-hander allowed only one swing that resembled a hit — a hard ground ball that second baseman Jerry Adair backhanded and fired off-balance to first.

Then in the seventh Lonborg's chance to equal Don Larsen's perfect game feat in the 1956 watched as the next pitch dipped low and outside for the fourth ball.

In the next inning, Lonborg also lost his no-hitter. He retired the first two batters on grounders, but Julian Javier swung at the first pitch and lined it down the left field line for a clean double.

That was the only hit the Cardinals got, and Lonborg became the fourth hurler to pitch a one-off two pitches and then a Series game.

Shorthorns Slam Touted Midland

Yards Passing 4 for 31
Points 4 for 21

MIDLAND — The Midland High JV's, which entered into action identified as the "best team ever" to represent that school, came a cropper at the hands of the Big Spring Shorthorns here Thursday night. Final score was 21-0.

The Bullpups made menacing gestures at the Big Spring team throughout the first half but the Shorthorns shut the door in their face after the intermission.

Defense won it for Big Spring. Intercepted passes and fumbles cost the Bullpups dearly.

Big Spring drove 80 yards the first time it got the ball in the opening period to get on the score board. Gary Hinds passed 15 yards for the touchdown, after which Fernando Mendoza added the extra point on a kick.

Near the end of the second quarter, Midland drove inside Big Spring's 20 but a penalty set it back at that point.

In the third, Big Spring recovered a fumble and Johnny Rutherford teamed up with Jimmy Wilson to produce a touchdown on a pass.

In the fourth, Rutherford picked off a Midland pass and traveled about 30 yards for Big Spring's third tally.

Midland picked up lots of yardage in the middle of the field but bogged down near the goal. The Bullpups lost four fumbles during the contest.

The Shorthorns, who lost their opener to San Angelo, have now won four straight games — at the expense of Snyder, Andrews, Abilene and Midland.

They will be idle next week and will return to play at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 21, at home against Odessa High.

Kirkland Third In Lone Star

Benny Kirkland of Big Spring, quarterback for East Texas State university, is the third leading passer in the Lone Star Conference after three games.

Kirkland has completed 21 of 53 attempts for 310 yards, including two touchdowns.

Kirkland also rates fourth in total offense, having accounted for gains totaling 336 yards.

Poised To Open District 2-AAAA Season Tonight

If the Big Spring Steers are to prevail in their opening District 2-AAAA football assignment against Midland Lee in Midland tonight, the boys are going to have to hit the main licks on offense. In the foreground, from the left, they are tackle Jerry Ryan, guard Chuck Smith, center Bob Purser, guard coach Bob Burrus has carefully surrounded Frazier with a posse of hawk-eyed receivers who are willing to shoot it out with any assemblage at high noon or any other appointed hour.

Big Spring considered itself blessed by a week's layoff. A number of wheel-horses — including Lonnie Clanton, Doug Robinson and Chuck Smith — who were not on deck when the Steers crowded by Snyder — will be back in action tonight. The Steers' running game figures to improve with those three in there — Clanton and Robinson are ball carriers while Smith is a variable escort of the Steer ball carriers, wherever they go.

If the Longhorns can gain momentum by winning this one — and the smart money has them figured as six-point underdogs — there's no telling how far they'll go. Nothing would buoy their confidence like a win. Midland Lee has a loaded deck. Fullback Larry Molinare, a 190-pounder, gives the opposition fits by running up their backbone.

Fleet George Deffenbaugh, as hard to corral in an open field as a hot-butlered short, and flanker Marc McIntosh lend Frazier and Molinare a lot of help in the Lee secondary.

The Rebs, who operate with the rashness and defiance of a Jeb Stuart given license to raid Washington, boast a big, mobile line. Too, they're deeper than usual. That figures to help no end when the teams begin to tire in the back stretch.

One thing for sure, coach Spike Dykes of Big Spring will know what he has in the way of a club after tonight. The Steers can emerge as a true contender, a spoiler or merely a punching bag for other teams. Time will tell.

Probable starters:
BIG SPRING

MIDLAND LEE

Yearlings Rally To Get 14-14 Tie With Edison

SAN ANGELO — Big Spring, Runnels fought back to tie San Angelo Edison, 14-14, in an eighth grade football game here Thursday evening. The Yearlings were down, 14-0, at half time.

Edison scored in the opening period when Frank Hernandez went across, after which the try for point failed.

In the second period, Bruce Bridges roared 49 yards for Edison's second tally. Ramiro Cerda added two extra points on a run.

In the third, Gatlin Jones passed 30 yards to Billy Woods for Big Spring's first touchdown and Mark Earhart added two extra points on a run to make it 14-5.

With two minutes to go, Jones and Woods again teamed up on a 65-yard pass play for Big Spring's second tally.

Big Spring got two opportunities to make the extra points, following a penalty against Edison, but failed by inches the second time.

The tie left Runnels with a 1-2-1 record. The Yearlings play Monahans at home next week.

Failure to block hurt the Yearlings on offense but on defense standouts included Joe Pesina, Gene Mitchell, Lewis Smith, Jesse Henry, Mark Earhart, Woods, Ernest Trevino, Ron Carter and Jones.

Edison is 2-0-2 on the year.

San Angelo drove to Runnels' 20 in the waning seconds and the ball changed hands a couple of times thereafter but to no avail.

The tie left Runnels with a 1-2-1 record. The Yearlings play Monahans at home next week.

Failure to block hurt the Yearlings on offense but on defense standouts included Joe Pesina, Gene Mitchell, Lewis Smith, Jesse Henry, Mark Earhart, Woods, Ernest Trevino, Ron Carter and Jones.

Wins Eighth Fems' Crown

Mrs. Frank (Billie) Dillon won her eighth Big Spring Country Club Women's Golf title Thursday with a 54-hole score of 249.

Mrs. Dillon led from wire to wire, with an 85 the first day, followed by rounds of 82 and 82 on the final 36 holes.

Mrs. Madeline Atkins, the eventual runner-up, was very much in contention until the final nine holes when she slipped to a 47. She settled for an 86 the final day.

Mrs. Dillon has been inactive in tournament competition since 1964.

Pat Drake posted the low net in the championship flight. Betty Jones turned in the second low net while Bernice Jordan crowded into the list of prize winners by using the fewest putts.

In the first flight, Ernestine Smith had the low gross, followed by Mickey Marcum.

Harriet Zike posted the low net, followed by Edith Ramsey. The low number of putts was taken by Alta Lee Underwood.

The tournament, entries said, was one of the best in years held at the club.

Trophies were passed out in a ceremony held in the clubhouse following Thursday's play.

Yankee Gate Up From Last Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees reported today an increase in attendance of 17,066 for the 1967 baseball season over that of 1966.

The Yankees drew 1,141,714 for home games in Yankee Stadium this year compared to 1,124,648 a year ago.

In an Associated Press survey earlier this season an error in addition gave the Yankees' 1967 attendance of 1,027,466.

Sands Hits Road This Evening

ACKERLY — Sands is favored to make it three wins in four starts in a game with Cotton Center in Cotton Center this evening. Starting time is 8 o'clock.

Sands' only defeat has been an 11-man loss to Loraine. Cotton Center has yet to win in three starts, having dropped decisions to Southland, Estelina and Wellman.

Cotton Center leans heavily upon a 130-pound junior named Wade Jones and a heavy line. The team has guards weighing 190 and 195 pounds.

On offense, Coach James Blake of Sands will go with Kenny Gillespie 160 and Ron Taylor 130 at ends, Freddy Hodnett 190 and Jim Fryar 210 at guards, Kelly Gaskins 147 at center, Lance Hopper 155 at quarterback and Larry Newcomer 145 and Kynn Maxwell 160 at halfbacks.

On defense, Ike Lewis moves in for Taylor while Rick Graham takes over at a linebacker's spot.

Our man with the Armed Forces
Because beer is such a favorite with service men, we brewers like to do all we can to keep its surroundings right. So USBA representatives serve as adviser members of the Armed Forces Disciplinary Control Boards throughout the country.

These men from the USBA operate hand in hand with service and civilian police, with malt beverage licensees, public boards and committees: military, civil, professional. Object: to protect those who are underage, and to insure strict observance of the law.

We're proud of the work they do.

Rams, Colts Favored To Remain Unbeaten

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams and Baltimore Colts should roll along toward their big title in Baltimore Oct. 15 by knocking off the 49ers and the Bears this weekend as the pro football season begins to heat up in the midst of the World Series.

Green Bay figures to get even for that opening day with Detroit in the first rematch of the NFL season and Joe Namath should give that stout Oakland defense more than it can handle at Shea Stadium.

Mrs. George Franks, representing the Howard County unit of the American Cancer Society, will attend the 21st division's annual meeting next Wednesday and Thursday in Houston. Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr., Captain (U.S.N.), Houston, newly appointed 1968 Texas Crusade Chairman for the American Cancer Society, will address delegates during the session.

An important part of the several program committee meetings, seminars and workshop will be a special meeting of top leaders of the Society in Texas who will discuss ways and means of extending volunteer leadership to organize and conduct more extensive cancer control programs across the state. Election of new officers, directors - at - large, and executive committee members is also included on the agenda.

Fiery Smash Takes Three

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Two Grand Prairie men and a Dallas woman died Thursday in a fiery two-car collision on a US 80 overpass.

A third car struck the wreckage but apparently did not contribute to the death toll.

The crash killed Willie Nelson, 24; Lamon Harrison, 23, and Mrs. Edgar M. Lynch Jr., 44. Charles Thursty, 22, a passenger in the car carrying Nelson and Harrison, suffered a hip injury. Mrs. Lynch's husband, also 44, was treated for lacerations. Investigators said the car occupied by the three men skidded out of control, jumped a highway median and skidded into a bridge railing. The Lynch car plowed into the rear of the wrecked auto, rupturing a gas tank and touching off a fire that shot flames at least 30 feet into the air. Nelson and Harrison were trapped in the flaming car.

Texas Fair Attendance Due To Top 80 Million

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sometime during the next 16 days, the 80 millionth visitor will click through the turnstiles of the State Fair of Texas.

Actually, more than 80 million people have already attended the nation's largest annual exposition since its inception in 1894.
 But only 77,751,751 have been counted since official attendance figures started being kept in 1916.

Last year's record number of 2,919,416 visitors is expected to be matched again this year, so Official No. 80 million will be recorded between Saturday and
 Oct. 22, the dates of the 1967 extravaganza.

TIJUANA BRASS

Billed as "Texas International," the current offering features all the time-tested crowd pleasers with some additional attractions thrown in.

Such as: Celeste Holm starring in "Mame," the sparkling Broadway musical; The New Orleans Saints against the Dallas Cowboys in the Cotton Bowl;

 Herb Alpert and the Tijuana
 Brass; Esplanada Pops concert by the Dallas Symphony Orchestra; and the Pan-American Livestock Exhibition.

All the midway rides have been oiled up and even "Big Tex," the smiling giant with the big hat, has been decked out in his finest.

OPENING BANG

Things will be getting off with a bang on opening day
 Saturday as 100,000 Future
 Farmers, Future Homemakers and 4-H Club members ride
 2,222 buses from 200 Texas counties to be on hand for Rural Youth Day.

Buses carrying the youngsters will enter the main gates at the rate of one every 6 seconds between 5 a.m. and 9 a.m.

Once situated at the fair, the boys and girls will eat 10 miles of hot dogs and drink almost 10,000 gallons of soda pop and ice water.

A special attraction this year will be the 15-ton Sinclair dinosaur exhibit. The authentic fiber glass monsters will be on display during the full two-week run of the fair.

Most prominent among the beasts are a five-ton brontosau-rus and two 3-ton models of tyrannosaurus rex, the fellow with the powerful hind legs and the big, sharp teeth.

Crow Attends ICMA Meet

City Manager Larry Crow will be among 850 attending the 53rd annual Conference of International City Managers Association Sunday through Thursday in New Orleans.

During four days of sessions at the Roosevelt Hotel, urban administrators from Canada and the United States will examine key administrative and management problems — labor relations, fiscal reform, city-school relations, civil rights, increasing the individual's involvement in city government.

The association also plans to launch a year-long membership evaluation of goals that could result in broadening ICMA

membership and programs.
 William Slayton, executive vice president of Urban America Inc. will set the conference pace with his analysis, "At the Crossroads: A Time to Evaluate." At seven concurrent workshop sessions, managers will discuss innovations aimed at solving urban problems.

Texas City Lands Chemical Plant

NEW YORK (AP) — General
 Aniline & Film Corp. announced
 Thursday that it will install a new processing facility at its Texas City, Tex., chemical plant to manufacture a herbicide for soybeans.

The firm produces the herbicide, amiben, for Amchem Products Inc., of Ambler, Pa., discoverers of the product.

The new facility is expected to be producing early in 1969.
