Triskaidekaphobia

Don't Walk Under Any Cats Today

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer

"Avoid walking under cats" is the tongue-in-cheek advice of one man but triskaidekaphobes are sometimes reduced to shy stay-at-homes on Friday the 13th.

Truly Miserable

Today is the 13th and triskaidekaphobia—fear of the number 13—combines with other traditional bad luck signs to make life truly miserable for the superstitious.

"I always stay home," says Phil Edwards, a newsman for radio station KTYM in Inglewood, Calif. "I'd stay in bed but there's always the chance that I'll fall out so I usually go to sleep on the floor."

Heleen Matusiak, a Chicago cleaning woman, says she was once told that if the first person you see on opening your window drapes in the morning on the 13th is a woman you'll have bad luck all day.

It happened to her once and she went to the store and lost $10, she said. Today, she added, "I'm not going to open the curtains all day."

Not Concerned

Marcia Ashley, 23, a high school teacher from Lynnfield, Mass., is not concerned about curtains but takes every precaution to avoid black cats. And with some reason.

"One night I was driving home when I saw a black cat walking across the road," she explained. "Thinking quickly I pulled into a driveway to avoid it. I did—but I also hit the car that was parked there."

Margi Vogel, a telephone operator from Albany, N. Y., says she was in an auto accident on a Friday the 13th two years ago but still maintains the bad luck superstition is "just a bunch of nothing."

"I have had luck all the time," she said, "so what precautions could I take that would help me on Friday the 13th?"

Some Scoff

Some simply scoff. "I have no superstitions and take no precautions because I always know exactly what I'm doing," said Dr. Jack Harper, a Helena, Mont., surgeon. Donald R. Dehon, researcher for a Boulder, Colo., engineering firm, said a company engineer once gave him the terse advice: "Avoid walking under cats."

No Clothing Needed

THREE RIVERS (AP)—Residents of this flood-battered town would like to thank everyone for donating surplus clothing, but—please—don't send any more.

"We have several warehouses full of clothes now and no people to give it to and it's still coming in," said S. J. Stewart, Three Rivers city secretary. Floods spawned by Hurricane Beulah caused an estimated $1.5 million damage in this community of 1,900, mostly to private homes.

Enough Clothing

"Everybody's loaded up with clothing here," said Stewart. "There are still people who need things, but not more clothing."

A civic group in Three Rivers, Mich., sent 6,000 pounds of clothing this week.

Stewart said trucks roll in daily and city officials can't say no thanks. He said what most families need is furniture and food.

"When a truck filled with clothes pulls up, you can't just tell them to take it back where it came from," he said.

Violence Flares

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An explosion and fire destroyed a terminal owned by the head of the National Steel Carriers Association today, and rocks, bullets and firebombs showered trucks in three states.

The renewed violence reinforced a view that hopes for a quick settlement of the two-month-old strike by thousands of steel haulers were sputtering out.

Split in Two Groups

The trucking company executives have split into two groups. A spokesman for one said it was opposed to a peace plan drawn in Pittsburgh. The strikers are voting on it anyway.

Spokesmen for the second group of companies said they also are opposed to the original recommendations and have offered a compromise. The strikers said they wouldn't even vote on the substitute.

Hit By Navy Jets

Map locates targets in Haiphong, North Vietnam, attacked by U.S. Navy planes yesterday for the first time in the Vietnam war. Bomb blasts show location of two shipyards that make and repair river craft and barges. U.S. headquarters estimated that together the shipyards amounted to eight per cent of North Vietnam's boatyard and small ship repair facilities. The targets were previously on the Pentagon's restricted list. Inset map shows location of helicopter and missile assembly site at Cat Bi and the power plant at Uong Bi.

Rusk-Fulbright Fight Becoming More Sharp

WASHINGTON (AP)—The conflict between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Sen. J.W. Fulbright is sharpening as Senate criticism of the administration's Vietnam policies grows.

SPEARHEAD Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has spearheaded that criticism for months.

While Rusk has been his urbane and unruffled self throughout most of the debate, there was a new edge to his voice and a new bite to his statements Thursday as he hit back at Senate critics—particularly Fulbright.

"That is not true," he replied when asked at a news conference about Fulbright's remark that the United States was at fault in the United Nations' inaction on Vietnam.

And, noting Fulbright's earlier support of the administration on Vietnam policy, Rusk said: "If people change their minds, it's fair to ask on which occasion they were right."

OBJECTIONS Fulbright, asserting "I believe I am right now," later resumed on the Senate floor his objections to the administration's war policies.

The Arkansas Democrat again argued that U.S. reasons for being in Vietnam have not been made clear. He held there was a conflict in basic American policy.

The administration contends that defending South Vietnam from Communist aggression is necessary to prevent the loss of Southeast Asia, Fulbright said, and also sets the goal of withdrawal after self-determination for the South Vietnamese is assured.

Maintaining a defense perimeter in that country would require a permanent American presence, he said, and U.S.

forces would have to stay "come hell or high water."

Referring to critics of the administration policy, Rusk said those who "place in question the credibility of the pledged word of the United States under our mutual security treaties would subject this nation to mortal danger."

SET UP AS TAX-DODGING SCHEMES

Checking On Foundations

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal crackdown is taking shape against private foundations set up as tax-dodging schemes.

The Internal Revenue Service revealed Thursday it began eight months ago an investigation into what it termed widely promoted plans to avoid taxes through private foundations or family trusts. A congressional inquiry into what Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., has called the mass production of tax-dodging foundations is scheduled to begin Oct. 30.

CALL FOR BAN

The Johnson administration's tax revision package scheduled to be sent to Congress later this year is also expected to call for a ban on the diversion of foundation assets to private advantage.

The first witnesses in the congressional inquiry by Patman's House small business subcommittee are expected to be trustees and members of a group called "Americans Building Constitutionally," headquartered in Barrington, Ill.

Patman said the group allegedly instructs its members on how to avoid taxes by setting up personal tax-exempt foundations. IRS said it doubts the legality of such operations.

The Treasury Department in 1965 recommended to Congress a general ban on financial transactions between a foundation and its contributors, officers, directors or trustees to prevent diversion of assets to private use.

This is still a basic Treasury objective and is expected to be included either in its original or modified form in a tax revision package Johnson has promised to send to Congress this year.

MESSAGE

In his economic message to Congress last January, Johnson said without spelling out details: "As one specific reform, I will urge changes to deal with abuses by tax-exempt private foundations."

Bombing Wins Aussie Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Australia said today that U.S. bombing of North Vietnam should only be stopped when Hanoi gives "convincing proof" that such a step would lead toward a peaceful settlement of the war.

"The one authority that can say with certainty what would happen when bombing stopped is the government of North Vietnam," Australia Foreign Minister Paul M. C. Hasluck told the 122-nation General Assembly.

REJECTION "The only words that have been heard from Hanoi are the words of contumely and rejection," he said.

Hasluck noted that the United States has already offered to halt the bombing as a first step toward negotiations, "provided that some reciprocal gesture is made, or some reciprocal restraint observed by the other side."

Australia has contributed 6,000 men to the allied force in Vietnam. The assembly winds up its annual policy debate today with more than a third of its members demanding a halt to the U.S. bombing of the Communist North.

DOMINATED

Although not on the agenda of the 122-nation assembly, Vietnam has dominated the debate. Prior to the closing speeches today, calls for a bombing halt came from 43 nations, most of them in Communist East Europe, Scandinavia, Asia or Africa.

Shipwrecked Migrants Not Worried, Await Luggage

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Retired San Antonio, Tex., police Lt. Jack Learned and his family are in a Sydney migrant hostel after surviving a Pacific shipwreck.

Learned, 51, his wife and their son, 3, were among 60 passengers aboard the 7,500-ton British liner Lakemba which ran onto a reef off Fiji a few hours after leaving Suva the night of Oct. 4. They were bound from Vancouver, B.C., to Sydney.

RESCUED

All the passengers and crew were rescued without injury by the cable ship Retriever, taken to Suva and then flown to Sydney Saturday.

They spent 12 hours aboard the wrecked Lakemba with waves pounding the side before the Retriever arrived.

Learned, 51, his wife and their son, 3, were among 60 passengers aboard the 7,500-ton British liner Lakemba which ran onto a reef off Fiji a few hours after leaving Suva the night of Oct. 4. They were bound from Vancouver, B.C., to Sydney.

"But perhaps we did not realize how serious it was," he said. "My son slept through it all." Learned said he strapped the boy to his chest as they left the Lakemba, then handed him to crewmen of the Retriever who were "strung on the rope ladder like monkeys and passed him from one to the other until he was on deck."

NOT WORRIED

He reported his wife, a native of France who spent some time in Nazi internment camps in France during World War II, and we hope all our baggage will get here soon."

Learned was worried about several crates containing his target pistols and equipment he left aboard the Lakemba, and was hoping they were taken off before the ship went under.

NOT THE LOVELIEST

Unusual Candidate

FORT WORTH (AP)—This year, as always, Texas Christian University's loveliest seniors are vying for the honor of Homecoming Queen. With one exception.

Male Is The Exception

This year, one of the candidates is a male. And, for all his undoubted qualities, he couldn't be called lovely.

Mason Dickson, 18, a senior who has made a tradition of defying tradition, filed as a queen candidate this week. Why? "Because I want to be Homecoming Queen. Why else?" Dickson pointed out that the only qualifications are 73 semester hours and a 2.0 grade average. The rules don't say a thing about candidates having to be girls.

The 5-9, blue-eyed candidate has wavy dark hair and a 35-28-35 figure.

Worried The Most

Student Cabinet President Drew Sawyer is worrying the most that Dickson might win. By tradition the cabinet president must kiss the Homecoming Queen.

Navy Jets Bang Haiphong Targets Shipyards Once Restricted

SAIGON (AP)—Waves of U.S. Navy jets placed a ring of attacks tightly around the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong Thursday.

TARGETS

The targets—which U.S. spokesmen said were heavily damaged—included two shipyards previously on the Pentagon's restricted list, the assembly plant where Russian missiles and helicopters are uncrated, a power plant outside the city, and the MIG airfield at Cat Bi just to the southeast.

The two shipyards, both less than two miles from Haiphong's geographic center, make and repair river craft and supply barges up to 150 feet long. U.S. headquarters estimated that together they amounted to eight per cent of North Vietnam's boatyard and small ship repair facilities.

Although bad weather covered much of North Vietnam, there were frequent breaks in the cloud cover, and American pilots got in 143 missions, about one third more than they have been flying in the past few days.

RAIL LINES

Although the vital rail lines north of Hanoi were covered by clouds, supply lines to the south were exposed and took a heavy pounding. U.S. Headquarters is determined to get in as many strikes as possible before the monsoon weather gets really bad later this month.

Ground action reported in South Vietnam was generally light and scattered, but harassing Communist attacks continued.

A civilian bus was blown up by a mine near the old imperial capital of Hue and nine civilian passengers were wounded. A small spotter plane was shot down by guerrilla riflemen, but the injured pilot was dragged from the wreckage by a helicopter crew which witnessed the crash.

The spotter plane was the 212th U.S. aircraft reported lost in combat in the south.

Heavy B52 attacks once again poured into the shell-scarred battlefields around the Marine outpost of Con Thien just south of the demilitarized zone. One hit the area just north of the DMZ where the enemy is believed trying to install some of the big ground-to-air Sam missiles for defense against the high-altitude bombers.

Con Thien took 30 enemy shells Thursday and reported five Marines wounded, an almost quiet day for the post which withstood barrages of 1,000 rounds some days last month.

With the ground campaign almost stagnant, the focus remained on the northern air war and the steady lifting of Pentagon restrictions on the much-debated target list. But Haiphong's main docks north and northeast of the city's center—the chief gateway for Communist war supplies coming by ship—remain on the restricted list, apparently because of the international repercussions if a Russian ship is hit by U.S. raiders.

The two shipyards previously off limits to U.S. raiders were the Thuong Ly installation 1.6 miles northwest of Haiphong's center and the Lach Tray yard 1.7 miles to the southwest.

Economy Has Surge During Third Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The economy surged ahead during the third quarter of this year, the Commerce Department reported today, adding strength to the Johnson Administration's argument for higher taxes.

JUMPED

In a quarterly report, the department said the gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced in the economy—jumped $15 billion at an annual rate during the third quarter, the biggest advance in six quarters.

The increase ended the pause in economic growth recorded during the first half of 1967.

The $15-billion jump raises the annual rate to $79.1 billion during the quarter despite the effects of the Ford Motor Co. strike and a major strike in the copper industry.

TRIMMING

Officials said earlier the Ford strike meant a $2-billion trimming of the GNP rate during the third quarter.

The advance, even more bullish than government economists anticipated two months ago, especially in view of the Ford strike, is certain to be cited by the administration in seeking congressional approval of higher taxes.

President Johnson's request for a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes is stymied in the House which is demanding spending cuts of $5 billion as the price for passage.

ADVANCE

The $15-billion advance exceeded the entire increase of $13 billion during the first six months of this year and was the largest since the $17 billion increase during the first quarter of 1966.

The department said the third-quarter rise featured a halt in the heavy inventory drag that retarded production in the first half of 1967.

More Safety Rules Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cribs and playpens for infant auto passengers, windshields that don't pop out and roll bars for motorcycles are among 47 new motor vehicle safety standards the government is considering.

IN 1968

The proposals, announced Thursday by Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd, would become effective in 1969 or later.

The first federal safety standards were issued earlier this year.

Cribs and other restraints for infants would be an extension of an earlier standard which requires seat belts for children up to 50 pounds who are able to sit upright.

The proposed amended standard calls for "rearward facing infant seats, forward facing infant seats and portable cribs and playpens . . ."

REQUIRED

New cars apparently would be required to have fittings so such devices could be installed by owners, a department spokesman said.

United Fund Is Making Headway

The United Fund Drive had netted $38,747.85 at noon Friday. The report by divisions is out of town $5,336, big gifts $21,589, special gifts $2,253.50, employee $7,946.19, Webb AFB $1,922.55, public $20, metropolitan $579.50 and rural $10.

YMCA and Jack Lewis Buick have reported a 100 per cent participation by their employees.

Gate Isn't Open All The Time

Mexican motorists and pedestrians wait for U.S. customs and immigration officer Owen T. Miller to open the gate which separates Los Algodones, Mexico, from Andrade, Calif. Citizens of the Mexican community have written to President Johnson urging a change in procedure so the gate would be kept open 24 hours daily instead of only from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Mexicans Want Border Gate Open At Nights

LOS ALGODONES, Mex. (AP) — When the people of Los Algodones need to call the fire department or get to a hospital in a hurry, they must go across the border to Yuma, Ariz. But the gate is open only from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. "Then we all turn into pumpkins," says Gen. Alberto Mejia, leader of a campaign to convince Americans to leave the gate open 24 hours a day. Over the last 12 years, the Mexicans' many pleas have accomplished nothing. In the meantime, they say, people have died because the U.S. facilities can't be reached. The Mexican community is 17 miles from the border. The people now have written a letter to President Johnson, asking him to open the border point around the clock. The letter told Johnson that the 60,000 residents of the Mexican valley surrounding Algodones are cut off from help at night. "We need your hospitals, your technicians, your schools, your commerce and contacts among our peoples..." Dr. Jorge Solis, one of the doctors serving the area, says the question of opening the gate is a matter of life and death. "The nearest hospital is in Yuma," he explains. "When someone is injured, sick or dying and the gate is closed, we have to jump the fence. We run to the homes of the two American immigration and customs officials in Andrade to get them to open the gate. Sometimes they are not there. We have lost lives because the gate has been closed." The border crossing is manned by two U.S. Customs and Immigration officers. "We are told the United States can't afford the expense of hiring four more border officials at this time," said Fay Reeder, of the Yuma Chamber of Commerce. The U.S. Customs and Immigration Director at Andrade, Owen T. Miller, substantiated the Mexican claim. Los Algodones has no fire department. When there is a fire residents fire guns to alert the Yuma Fire Department. But fire trucks cannot cross the border at night. "We are like so many Cinderellas, penned in at sundown each night," says Solis.

Revere Paid For Famous Ride

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP) — It seems that Paul Revere may have made his famous midnight ride for love and for money. Thomas Stotler, 46, an historian, says he has a document in which Revere lists an expense of 15 pounds, 6 shillings for his duties "riding for the Committee of Safety" in April and May, 1775. "This certainly doesn't mean Revere wasn't a patriot," Stotler says. "It just puts him in perspective. Paul Revere didn't live on his horse, wide-eyed, waiting to race about the countryside. He had to work, like the rest of us, to feed his family."

Che Guevara May Still Be Operating

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Conflicting reports, rumor and the skepticism of Ernesto Che Guevara's family cast doubt today on the Bolivian army's claim that it had killed the Latin American revolutionary. Government and army accounts clashed on whether the guerrilla said to be Guevara was buried or cremated, how he met his death and whether he identified himself before dying. Guevara's brother Roberto arrived from Argentina Thursday to claim the body but after conferring with Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, the commander of the army, he said Ovando told him the body had been cremated. Wednesday the army said Guevara's body had been buried in a secret place, and coincident with Roberto Guevara's arrival a government source said President Rene Barrientos was "of the opinion that the body should be turned over to the Guevara family." After Roberto Guevara told newsmen about the cremation, a government spokesman said he knew nothing of it. Roberto refused to say if he believed the man shot in Bolivia's jungles was his brother, but cousins and nephews in Buenos Aires, said they doubted he was Che. Radiophotos of the dead man showed a likeness, they said, but not enough to convince them of Guevara's death. One cousin said Che had written his father from Paris. Further skepticism involved a military communique that said Guevara was wounded in a battle with government troops Sunday and died Monday. But a doctor who examined the body said one of seven bullets that struck it went through the heart. "It was assumed that Guevara could not have lived 24 hours with a bullet hole in his heart," Gen. Ovando had told newsmen. Guevara "identified himself and admitted having failed." But Col. Joaquin Zentano, commander of the troops fighting the guerrillas, said "Guevara was unable to say anything."

Klan Trial Continuing

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department is calling up its final witnesses in the prosecution of 18 white men charged with conspiracy in the slaying of three civil rights workers.

U.S. Atty. John Doar said only a few witnesses remained before the prosecution rested. The 18 are charged with conspiracy to violate the state trio's civil rights under an 1870 statute. No state charge has been filed.

Former Ku Klux Klan members, including one under indictment in the case, highlighted Thursday's testimony in a packed courtroom.

James E. Jordan, 41, who was given money by the FBI to escape Mississippi after he gave information in the 1964 slayings, said he had helped round up the men involved and accompanied them.

Jordan has had his case transferred to another federal court district. The defendants sat quietly, but stared intently while Jordan told his story of how the three civil rights workers were killed the night of June 21, 1964, in nearby Neshoba County.

The imperial wizard of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan complimented those involved "for a job well done," Jordan testified.

The witness—who has been living under FBI protection in Georgia—said the Klan crew was organized in Meridian and drove the 35 miles to Philadelphia, county seat of Neshoba County, to wait for the civil rights workers to be released from the Neshoba County jail.

He testified on details of the killing but said he did not see who actually pulled the triggers. Jordan testified that defendants Horace Doyle Barrette, Jimmy Snowden, Jerry McGrew Sharpe, Jimmy Arledge, Alton Wayne Roberts, Cecil Price and Billy Wayne Posey were in the party which accompanied the workers to the death spot.

The three men, Jordan said, were delivered to the Klan crew by Deputy Sheriff Price. Jordan testified a group gathered in Meridian after learning that three civil rights workers had been jailed in Philadelphia "and needed their rear ends tore up."

Once in Philadelphia, Jordan said, an eight-man group waited in a warehouse until word was passed that Michael Schwerner, 24, Andrew Goodman, 20, both of New York, and James Chaney, 22, a Meridian Negro, had been released from jail.

Jordan said the Klan group had first been told a state highway patrol cruiser would stop the workers' station wagon on the narrow blacktop road leading to Meridian. The plan changed, Jordan said, and Price stopped the station wagon and put the trio in the deputy sheriff's car.

The caravan retraced its path from Philadelphia about four or five miles and pulled off about 400 yards down a gravel road, he went on.

Jordan said he was posted at the main highway as a lookout and didn't see the actual killings. However, he said he heard shots and ran back to find the three bodies sprawled in the red dust of the roadway.

Three other witnesses testified they received money for information from the FBI. Wallace Miller, a Meridian police sergeant, said he got $2,400 over two years; Rev. Delmar Dennis said he got $15,000 for three years; and Dennis' brother, Willie, said he got $400.

The Rev. Mr. Dennis, who has preached in both Baptist and Methodist churches, testified he had been a province titan in charge of six counties while receiving money from the FBI in exchange for Klan information.

The minister said the Meridian unit of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan had been told that a top level decision had been made to eliminate "Goatee," Schwerner's nickname to the Klan.

Joseph M. Hatcher, a Meridian policeman, who identified himself as a Klan member, testified that Edgar Ray "Preacher" Killen told him that the rights workers "had been took care of and their bodies were buried south of Philadelphia in an earthen dam."

Winning Churches Are Announced

DALLAS — Three churches winning in the 1967 Texas Baptist Church Development Program, one church winning in each of three divisions, have been announced by Clinton Watson, new director of the Baptist General Convention of Texas Church Development Missions.

Selected as Church of the Year, with their Pastor of the Year in each category, were Sunrise Beach Baptist Church near Llano, the Rev. J. William Mason, pastor, Category I (1 to 100 resident members); San Gabriel Church in San Gabriel, Rev. Melvin D. Zarnes, pastor, Category II (101 to 200); Meadowbrook Baptist Church in Waco, the Rev. Clifford H. Feeler, pastor, Category III (201 to 400 resident members).

No winners were named in the Category IV (churches with 400 or more members) but a special recognition award is being made to the Goodwill Baptist Mission of Junction. Rev. P. R. Martinez is pastor. The San Gabriel church took top honors in the Category II for the fourth consecutive year.

Delegates For BSU Picked

Pam Faulkner, Barbara Holman and Vicki Brinson will attend the 48th annual Baptist Student Union Convention at the Park Cities Baptist Church of Dallas, Oct. 20-22. The three students will represent the Baptist Student Union at Howard County Junior College. They will be accompanied by Martin W. Landers, who is faculty sponsor of the local group.

"Unto the Least of These" is the theme of the meeting which will feature the 130-voice Texas BSU Convention choir under direction of Leroy Yarbrough, minister of music at the Trinity Baptist Church, San Antonio.

Keynote speaker, Dr. J. P. Allen, pastor of the Broadway Baptist Church of Fort Worth, will discuss "The Bible Speaks Concerning Ministry to Persons."

Among featured speakers will be Dr. Jimmy Allen, secretary of the Christian Life Commission of the Baptist General Convention of Texas; Miss L. O. Elynn Coffey, a former Southern Baptist missionary journeyman to the Gaza; and Glen Herrington, furloughing missionary from Malaysia.

Antipoverty 'Bribery' Checked In California

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The FBI and Gov. Ronald Reagan's office are checking into the solicitation of under-the-table payments by federal and state officials for expediting antipoverty job training grants the San Jose News reports.

The newspaper said Thursday it has been investigating the practice for two months and had obtained signed statements documenting three cases.

It said in a copyright story amounts ranging from $500 to $5,000 had been solicited and in some cases paid under the guise of "consultant's fees."

The payments were reported to be for rewriting of grant applications in such a manner that their approval would be speeded up.

The paper said that in a Sacramento case approval was guaranteed at the time a $500 payment was solicited. Another case was said to involve Oakland poverty programs.

It said that in none of the situations it cited had a final proposal been delivered or a grant approved.

In Washington, the office of Sen. Thomas Kuchel, R-Calif., said it had received un-firm reports of irregularities and referred them to the Justice and Welfare departments. Welfare handles some job training programs for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The Justice Department informed Kuchel that the FBI had been asked to investigate, an aide reported.

A spokesman for the office of Economic Opportunity, the federal antipoverty agency, also said in Washington: "From all the facts available now, it does not appear that any OEO programs or personnel are involved in this situation."

Reagan's communications director, Lyn Nofziger, said the governor's office dealt with only one aspect of the case and that it is now completed. He added that there was "no evidence of criminal wrongdoing."

—ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She Picks The Bums

DEAR ABBY: I am a reasonably attractive, well-balanced young lady of 24 years, and I'm sure I could make some nice young man a good wife, as well as a good mother to the children I'd love to have. My problem is this. Given a choice between two men with whom to fall in love, a nice, respectable, steadily-employed man, or a good-for-nothing bum, I invariably choose the bum.

Can you tell me why? Is it because deep down, I have an unconscious liking for abuse? (The bums take my money and treat me badly.) Or could it be that I deliberately avoid the good prospects because I really don't want to get married yet?

I am asking you because I can't afford to go to a psychiatrist. FIRST CLASS DOPE

DEAR DOPE: I wouldn't presume to tell you why you invariably pick the bums over the respectable men, but if you are interested in finding out, try your local mental health clinic.

You say you can't afford to go to a psychiatrist. I say you can't afford to go on picking the bum over the nice guys. You may become disgusted, convince yourself that you don't deserve anything better, and marry one.

DEAR ABBY: I am probably the dumbest man in the world. After 26 years of a happy marriage, I took a fling with another woman. Then to make matters worse I got a little drunk one day and told my wife I was "in love" and wanted a divorce.

Needless to say, my wife was heartbroken. Came the dawn, I woke up to the fact that I really didn't want the other woman OR the divorce, and all I wanted was my wife.

She hasn't left me, and I don't think she will, but things haven't been the same between us since. All this happened a year ago, and when I tell her I love her, that I have changed and will never be unfaithful again, all she says is, "Yes, Dear."

Have you any advice for an old fool? OLD FOOL
DEAR FOOL: What's been done cannot be undone. Try to make it up to your wife by actions — not words. Pray that eventually she will find it in her heart to forgive you. If she does, you're lucky.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Boycott P-TA

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — City school teachers, upset by the refusal of Burlington voters to approve an additional tax to raise teacher salaries, voted to boycott all Parent Teacher Association meetings for an indefinite period.

Investigation Is Checking On Supermarket Pricing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee indicates it may extend to other cities its investigation of whether Safeway Stores raised prices in poverty areas on days welfare checks and food stamps are given out. The panel currently is probing the chain's pricing policies in the Washington area.

A House Government Operations subcommittee received conflicting testimony Thursday from three Washington women, who charged their survey proved Safeway engaged in such practices, and from Safeway officials who denied it.

"I tend to think that the ladies made a very persuasive case," said Chairman Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y.

Rosenthal and Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., told newsmen they thought the probe should be widened to include slum areas in such cities as Los Angeles, Cleveland and New York.

Rep. William L. Dawson, D-Ill., chairman of the full Government Operations Committee, commended Rosenthal and pledged to the three women, "We'll try to do something about it."

The three, Marguerite Kelly, Janie Boyd and Lisa Schlossberg, made the survey for the D. C. Democratic Central Committee. They said prices in three poverty-area Safeway Stores averaged 9.1 per cent higher on Sept. 1 than at six other Safeway Stores for 10 selected items sold in all stores.

The Federal Trade Commission is also looking into the charges but suspended its hearings Thursday so Safeway officials could appear before Rosenthal's panel.

The women presented to the subcommittee charts purporting to show that prices on 10 items tended to rise to a peak at the first of the month—when welfare checks and food stamps are distributed. Prices then would drop a few days later to await the next month's distributions, they contended.

Basil Winstead, Safeway's Washington area manager, and five local store managers denied any deviations from Safeway's standard price could have occurred and said their records proved this.

"Practices of this kind would be a deterrent to sales," Winstead said, adding that any manager who jacked up prices on his own would be quickly found out and dismissed.

Reuss then disclosed he had done some noontime comparison shopping at nearby Safeway Stores and emptied his produce onto a table.

He showed a green pepper, dome lettuce and chery bought at three different stores, two in poverty areas and the third at Safeway's showpiece downtown international store.

He said he paid 48 cents in each case for the three items.

But he noted the poverty-area peppers had holes in them and the lettuce looked wilted. "It seems to me the person who shops at the international store gets a lot more for his 48 cents," said Reuss.

But he added: "I applaud Safeway for operating food stores in poor areas." He said all stores were "clean, decent and I was served by obliging sales personnel."

Amarillo Girl, 12, Gives Birth; Man Named In Charge

AMARILLO (AP) — A 12-year-old Amarillo girl gave birth Wednesday to a daughter weighing 6 pounds and 6 ounces.

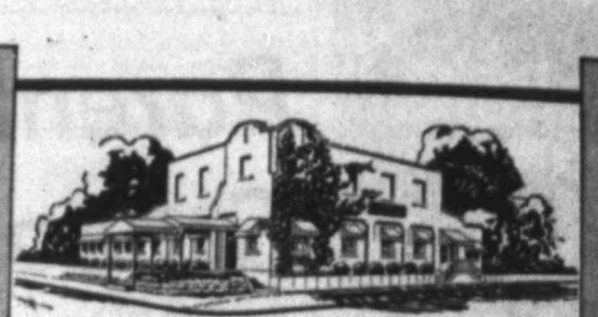

This was disclosed Thursday night when sheriff's deputies arrested Howard E. Chasteen, 23, on a charge of statutory rape.

Attendants at Northwest Texas Hospital reported the young mother was in critical condition. Her name was withheld. They said the infant was delivered normally and was in good condition.

The district attorney's office said its first word about the case came from a doctor who delivered the baby. A complaint was prepared and Chasteen's arrest at an Amarillo residence followed.

Chasteen, slender and ruddy-faced with bushy brown hair, waived examining trial after being advised of his legal rights. He was jailed in lieu of $7,500 bond.

Officers said Chasteen told them he was moving and had no permanent address here.

Probation Quickly Violated, Revoked

Rafael Lopez's speed in violating the probation sentence granted on Sept. 8 was matched and exceeded by the speed with which his probation was revoked. He was sent on his way to the state penitentiary Thursday.

Lopez, 23, who pleaded guilty to a burglary indictment for breaking into the Scarborough Cafe, was given a three-year probation sentence. Ten days later, Lopez was picked up for burglary of the Hamburger King cafe.

The probation officer reported the incident. Dist. Atty. Wayne Burns filed a motion with Judge Ralph Caton to revoke the probation. The matter came up for hearing at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Judge Caton heard the brief testimony and ordered the probation sent aside and the defendant taken to the state penitentiary to begin serving his three-year prison sentence.

The prison van which periodically hauls convicted persons to Huntsville happened to be in Sweetwater Thursday morning.

District Court Clerk Fern Cox's office expedited processing the papers. Deputy Bill Whittin loaded Lopez in a car and sped to Sweetwater. He arrived in time to place Lopez on the prison van. Last night Rafael was formally checked in at the big state prison.

Cut Estimates Are Far Apart

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas Democratic congressman and a former Texas governor were $1 billion apart Thursday on the amount they think the House should cut from President Johnson's budget requests.

A delegation led by Allan Shivers, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and former Texas governor, said a reduction of at least $5 billion is possible.

"I can tell you that this House will vote to reduce appropriations by about $6 billion instead of $5 billion," said Rep. George H. Mahon.

The House already has claimed reductions of about $4 billion in Johnson's budgets requests for the year which started July 1.

East failed to make effective use of the only honor strength in his hand, and thereby presented South with the opportunity to bring home a vulnerable four spade contract by means of an endplay.

West opened the queen of hearts, the deuce was played from dummy, East signaled encouragingly with the ten and declarer followed suit with the six—allowing West to hold the trick. South won the heart continuation, drew trump in two rounds ending up in dummy and then ruffed out the remaining heart.

The three top clubs were cashed to complete stripping operations in the side suits and then a small diamond was led from dummy. Declarer played the nine from his hand and West was in with the jack. The return of a heart would give South a ruff and discard, so West cashed the ace of diamonds. Declarer's king was now established, and the defense was limited to two diamond tricks and one heart on the deal.

East overlooked an opportunity to come to his partner's assistance and thereby thwart South's development of an end position. When the queen of hearts is opened, if East overtakes with the king—South must play the ace, or else East will have an opportunity to make a diamond play for West.

After trumps are drawn, a second heart will presumably be led from dummy. East must now rise with the nine and when this card holds the trick, he shifts to the eight of diamonds. West covers South's nine with the jack and then exits with a third heart. South must play diamonds subsequently himself and when he does, West cashes the ace and queen to defeat the contract.

Parents Losing School Fuss

HOUSTON (AP) — A suburban school district appeared today to be winning its battle with parents who have boycotted three of the districts' schools. Parents, protesting school board spending, began the boycott soon after fall classes began at the three predominantly Negro schools in the Northeast Houston Independent School district.

"Freedom Public Schools were set up in 14 churches and two other buildings by the boycott leaders who said they were being attended by about 1,500 students.

A check Thursday of the boycotted schools, however, indicated that only about 500 of the original 1,500 still attend the "Freedom Schools."

Parents' concern that their children's education was suffering apparently was one of the chief reasons for the return to normal classes by students. No buses serve the "Freedom Schools" and many children have to walk miles on dusty streets to the temporary schools. At one church 20 students tried to do their work in their laps, using books for desks. Boycott leaders had accused the school board of not making good on promises made during a bond action last year. They claimed the board agreed to build a new $450,000 school in the Settlegast area and improve three existing schools. The board contended desegregation has eliminated the need for additional classrooms. "Enrollment has been increasing for the last 10 days," said Principal B. C. Elmore of Elmore High School, which was named for the principal, and

Embezzler Caught Again

DETROIT (AP) — A 43-year-old mother of four who was convicted of embezzling $37,000 three years ago has been arraigned on new charges of embezzling $38,841 from another company. Mrs. Gertrude Bale of Bloomfield Township stood mute Thursday when arraigned on the charges and was released on $1,000 personal bond. Mrs. Bale was accused of embezzling from a Detroit building supply company where she worked as a bookkeeper. A warrant charged that she cashed checks made out to suppliers of her employer, Dealers Installation Service, Inc., and kept the money. She went to work for the company after spending six months of a five-year probation sentence in the Detroit House of Correction. She drew the sentence after she was convicted of taking $37,000 from the Detroit Orthogenic School.

Ford Proposal Is Rejected

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union has rejected a new proposal in contract bargaining with the strikebound Ford Motor Co., but a high union source said today "progress is being made that could lead to impending action."

Rejection of the proposal was reported by a well-placed company source who said "it was a generous offer. They—the talks—are not going anywhere right now."

While a union source said there had been progress toward ending a 37-day strike, he added that there have been no face-to-face meetings of the top bargaining teams since a news blackout was clamped on talks Tuesday night. UAW President Walter P. Reuther heads the union team while Vice President Malcolm L. Denise bargains for Ford. Mindful of the blackout, which sometimes in past contract years has meant settlement is near, both sources were reluctant to elaborate on the separate positions of the two sides. The union objected to the term "offer". A union spokesman said an offer in national bargaining can only be made to the national bargaining committees and the opportunity for this has not existed this week. But the union did not deny rejecting a company proposal of some sort. As leaks in the blackout—which a company spokesman described earlier as "1,000 per cent effective"—mounted, bargainers were expected to at least part the curtains of secrecy today, if not lift them altogether. "You will find out today what the situation is," said the union source. The union is seeking what it calls its broadest list of demands ever, including parity for Canadian workers, a big wage boost with something on top of it for skilled workers, a guaranteed annual income, pension improvements and other contract adjustments. In its only previous offer the company proposed an immediate 13-cent an hour wage boost for all, plus 2.8 per cent a year in the second and third years of a three-year pact. It said an added hike for skilled workers was negotiable, but it ignored Canadian parity and the guaranteed annual income.

Williams Gets Over 3 Year Prison Term

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A Mitchell County jury set punishment for Horace Lee Williams, 28, Loraine, at 3½ years in the state penitentiary in connection with the murder of Miller Holland, 62, March 7, 1967. The jury brought in a murder without malice verdict at 9:15 p.m. Wednesday after an all-day session. A lengthy debate Thursday about the punishment almost duplicated Wednesday's discussion as far as time was concerned. Williams had admitted shooting Holland, but claimed self-defense, saying that Holland had threatened to strike him with an armature from an automobile generator. The shooting arose over $120 in back rent which Holland was attempting to collect from Williams. Holland was shot once in the chest with a .25 caliber pistol and died en route to a hospital. Williams had plead guilty when charged with assault in connection with a shooting incident in 1959. At that time he was given two years in the state penitentiary, but his sentence was suspended. Weldon Kirk, Sweetwater, 32nd District attorney, and a Mitchell County attorney Frank Ginzel were prosecutors. Attorney Dell Barber of Colorado City represented Williams.

Conley Leads Band Tonight

Dan Conley, director of Big Spring's first band, will lead over 300 members of the junior high and high school bands tonight as they play the Star Spangled Banner in pre-game ceremonies at Memorial Stadium. Conley started the band in 1933 with between 15 and 20 members, placing first in contests that year. For 12 years he directed the bands, followed successfully by Frank Wentz, Joe Haddon, J. W. King, Clyde Rowe and Doug Weibe. Present director is Bill Bradley, assisted by Don Turner. During both pre-game and halftime ceremonies, parents of band members will comb the stadium selling band booster membership for $2 per family. Patriotic melodies will be played before the game, while halftime festivities will feature twirlers Susan Beal, Sberyl Williams, Harriet McKinney and Jan Langford performing a fire baton routine to the music of Georgy Girl.

Thieu To Make Peace Bid In Mid-November

SAIGON (AP) — President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu said today he will make his peace bid to Ho Chi Minh in mid-November, but "if North Vietnam persists in its aggression then we will continue to defend ourselves." The chief of state, who will be inaugurated as head of the new constitutional government Oct. 30, spelled out in a talk with Japanese newsmen the details of a letter he expects to send the North Vietnamese president two weeks after he takes office. Thieu's remarks were distributed by the Vietnam Press, the government news agency. A spokesman had outlined the plan Thursday. Vietnam Press said Thieu told the newsmen South Vietnam would ask for a halt in the bombing of North Vietnam, or de-escalate its military activities in the South "if North Vietnam would display similar good will." Asked what North Vietnam would have to do to show good will, Thieu replied this would include a halt to infiltration to the South, a stop to aggression in the demilitarized zone "and an acceptance of the basic principles for a first meeting between North and South Vietnam."

Firemen Make Two Fire Calls

A car belonging to Jerry Muehlberger, 1512-A Wood, caught fire Friday morning. The wiring was burned and the dash board damaged. Firemen's records show only one fire Thursday. There was a grass fire at 701 San Jacinto, a vacant lot.

Dallas Braces For Football Weekend

DALLAS (AP) — This sports-mad city prepared today for one of the most sporting weekends anyone could think of—four football games in four days in the storied Cotton Bowl. But tonight the Army-Southern Methodist game must vie for attention with the pre-game celebration by adherents of the Texas and Oklahoma teams. And by any others who can squeeze into the intersection of Commerce and Akard, traditional site of what can only be described as the annual happy riot. The Oklahoma-Texas game is Saturday. Then the pro Dallas Cowboys play the New Orleans Saints Sunday. The Monday gridiron fare will be Bishop vs. Prairie View. The Oklahoma-Texas rally normally draws thousands and wary police had their hopes dashed—no rain was in sight to dampen the Commerce and Akard festivities or reduce the crowd. This year the police are more than doubling their force, raising it to 450, to try to keep some semblance of order. They will capture their usual quota of drunks, probably. And the street by morning, unless the police are unexpectedly successful, will be an ocean of broken bottles and empty beer cans. Police will be particularly watchful for any violations of the law known as "clinging to an automobile." A fall from a moving car killed one youth last year. The police have doubled the number of booking officers at the jail. Violators will be taken to any of five command posts, placed in paddy wagons and taken to the jail. But anyone waking up to find themselves in the drunk tank at police headquarters will have one consolation. Police usually free the violators in plenty of time for them to get to the Cotton Bowl for the kickoff.

Kiwanis Note Newspaper Week

Big Spring Kiwanis Club paid tribute to National Newspaper Week Thursday. Sam Blackburn, news man with the Big Spring Herald, discussed the importance of newspaper in the life of a community and reviewed briefly the principal sources of news. He used slides to illustrate his remarks and, in his summation, gave the Kiwanians a pictorial tour of the county and the city — the highlights being the agencies and institutions where news originates.

Hurricane Takes 65 Per Cent Of Citrus Crop

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas citrus crop will be 65 per cent smaller because of Hurricane Beulah, the Department of Agriculture estimated today. However, the report said there was little permanent damage to trees and the 1968-69 crop could potentially produce as much as the good crop that was on the trees this year before the winds and flooding hit. The estimate calls for 2.9 million boxes of citrus fruit, only 35 per cent of the 8.4 million boxes produced last season. Prior to the hurricane, trade sources had predicted this year's crop would be at least as good as the 1966-67 season. The estimate calls for 1.7 million boxes of grapefruit, only 30 per cent of last season's crop; 600,000 boxes of early and mid-season oranges, 35 per cent of last year and 600,000 boxes of Valencia oranges, 55 per cent of last year. The harvest of early oranges was just beginning when the hurricane hit. Much of the fruit, both grapefruit and early oranges, was blown from the trees and because of the flooding that followed could not be salvaged. Fruit that remained on the trees, although some may be bruised and scarred, will be larger than usual, the USDA predicted, because of less fruit on the trees and better soil moisture.

Coahoma Band Boosters Meet

Coahoma Band Boosters Club will have its regular monthly meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the band hall. Parents of all band members are urged to attend. The Boosters meet each third Monday to consider means of supporting the band and music program of the Coahoma schools.

Atty Wayne Burns said that charges of felony theft have been filed against Hernandez in the court of Justice Jess Slaughter.

Baptists To Gather Items

Baptist churches in the Big Spring Association, as in most associations in Texas, will be collecting money, clothing, bedding, food and furniture for aid of Hurricane Beulah and flood victims in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Some of the churches have made collections already, but the associational push will head up by Thursday, Oct. 19, said Rev. Byron Orand, moderator. Most churches are designating places for members to bring canned goods, clothing, etc., he said, and for those who do not have collection centers, the T. Willard Neel warehouse will serve as a storage point. Rev. Orand said he hoped that the van bearing the materials could leave late Oct. 19 or on the following day for the old Baptist Academy building in Harlingen.

Should there be any residue of food or other materials from the relief gathering, he added, these will be used in Valley mission ministry. He urged all Baptist churches in the association to participate liberally.

One church, the First Baptist, turned over the entire balance in its Martha Wasson Memorial fund — $1,083 — for use of the emergency relief committee headed by Dr. Charles McLaughlin of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. A number of other churches plan to funnel cash gifts through this channel.

Compromise Group Hopes To End Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A breakaway group of trucking firms plans to offer a compromise settlement to end the two-month steel haulers strike.

The five-point settlement plan hammered out earlier this week is all but dead.

Robert Eazor, the Pittsburgh leader of a group of 80 trucking firms, said he would present the compromise today to the representatives of governors of seven states who drew up the original recommendations.

Eazor's group, which broke from the National Steel Carriers Association, has already rejected the first proposal. The National Steel Carriers are expected to veto it today in Cleveland.

Rejection of the settlement means a continuation of the walkout, a strike leader says. "No one will return to work," said William Kusley of Gary, Ind.

Kusley ordered his men to begin voting in the eight affected states. Results of the balloting aren't expected until the weekend, but a source in Pittsburgh said early returns indicate "a favorable response."

Kusley said, however, the proposal must be accepted by all parties.

New outbreaks of violence flared in two states as officials of the 68-member national Steel

Carriers Association gathered in Cleveland to act on the plan drafted Tuesday by a seven-state mediation team.

George Gregory Mantho, the association's managing director and labor counsel, said he didn't know what action, if any, will be taken. He was quoted earlier as saying the proposed settlement "is not worth the paper it's written on."

"Our association was committed to a collective bargaining agreement which we refuse to open," Mantho said in referring to a national contract signed last spring with the Teamsters Union.

About 60 per cent of the 19,000 to 20,000 striking independent steel haulers, who lease their own rigs to trucking firms and work on a percentage basis, are covered under a supplement to that contract.

A second group of carriers, representing 80 firms in the Pittsburgh area, has already said no to the settlement plan. Instead, the group offered a counterproposal which it said the drivers would have to compromise on.

As word of the carriers' dissatisfaction spread, trucks in Michigan and Ohio were peppered with gunfire.

U.S. Soldiers Learning To Speak Vietnamese

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marines and Army have decided you can't fight alongside Vietnamese allies or against Vietnamese enemies unless you or a buddy speak Vietnamese.

And so by the thousands they're learning this baffling tongue.

"If you asked us to produce 400 machine gunners," a Marine spokesman said Thursday, "we could press a button in personnel and—brrrrr!—just like that you'd have them." But when the language program began "we were starting from practically zero."

By putting as many men as it could spare through the all-service courses of the Defense Language Institute and establishing its own smaller schools, he said, the Marines now have enough language-trained men to put one in every company in Vietnam.

The Army also is making a heavy investment of man-years in language skills but it doesn't use a one-per-company yardstick.

"We leave it up to the unit commanders," a spokesman said. "At division level, say, the commander can specify that out of so many replacements he wants so many to be language-trained. It varies from division to division."

Taken together, the various programs add up to a far greater commitment to language training than in any previous war.

The Leathernecks plan to put some 2,600 officers and enlisted men through courses of varying length during this fiscal year. In late 1964 and early 1965 by comparison, the Corps sent only 32 for such instruction.

With four times as many men in Vietnam as the Marines, the Army has nearly 5,300 learning the language in the year ending June 30, up 64 per cent from the year before.

The shortest course either service employs is a six-week school for newly minted Marine lieutenants at Quantico. At the other end of the scale is a 47-week grind at the school the Army runs for the Defense Language Institute in Monterey, Calif.

For most situations, the services feel a man can get what he needs from a short course. When he emerges he won't be fluent but he'll be able to communicate.

Rickover Gets 4th Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any one planning a retirement dinner for Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover will have to wait another two years.

The outspoken, often controversial Rickover—credited with fathering the nuclear submarine—accepted Thursday a fourth two-year extension of service with both the Navy and the Atomic Energy Commission. He was scheduled to retire next Jan. 1.

The admiral, 67, serves both as director of the AEC's Naval Reactors Division and as deputy commander for nuclear propulsion of the Navy's Ships Systems Command.

Rickover originally was slated for retirement in 1962. But strong congressional pressure resulted in his promotion to vice admiral and a two-year duty extension.

Congressional intercession also was credited with blocking the Navy's plans to beach Rickover in 1964 and 1966.

In urging the Navy's entrance into the nuclear power age, Rickover often clashed with such superiors as Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. But the success of the nuclear submarine program apparently has quieted critics in recent years.

Science And You Computers And Speech

—By DR. LEONARD REIFFEL

One of the most challenging problems of our "Computer Age" is to find better methods of feeding information from a human being into a computer. The rather obvious ways used up to now just aren't very satisfactory for the long run.

Nowadays we can type instructions into a computer with special typewriters or code instructions onto magnetic tapes which, in turn, tell the computer what we want. But wouldn't it be nice if all we had to do was talk to a computer? For example, you could say something like "Would I be better off selling Gilch Consolidated short, or should I loan the margin money to my mother-in-law?" The computer could really help on simple problems like those!

The basic problem standing between you and a friendly dialog with a computer is that it's very difficult to teach an electronic brain to understand language. Compared to mathematics, the structure of language is very complex. Its rules are not as neat and precise as mathematical rules and this makes it more difficult for a computer to work with. Not only are the rules of language difficult, but the spoken language itself, as a physical signal, is variable. Three or four different people saying exactly the same words can sound very different.

Beyond these problems, human language is loaded with situations in which word context makes all the difference. How do you teach judgment to a computer?

Scientists have been hard at work on all this. As one small step in understanding the basic nature of the human voice, they have managed to program a computer to show reasonably well how the human voice makes sound. A computer-generated model of the vocal tract has been produced and the computer is equipped with soundmaking facilities so it can "speak." Scientists can command the computer model of the vocal tract to move in particular ways and can hear the sounds that are produced.

An outline of the model vocal tract that the computer is working with is actually displayed to the scientists on the face of a television screen. Thus, the researchers can compare the shape of the vocal tract with the sound being produced at any given instant. Using such sophisticated approaches, it may be that the computers and the scientists working together will finally learn enough about speech and language to allow the computer itself to "understand" language.

Another and quite different aim of the vocal tract modeling is to find out better ways of encoding speech signals for transmission through communications links. You'll agree that there is a great deal of "redundancy" and extra information in our spoken language. You can understand much of what is said, even though there is a lot of static that actually causes you to miss fragments of every word. This redundancy of language means that a considerable portion of the messagecan be removed from speech and still leave it understandable, or at least reconstructible. One immediate benefit might be a smaller phone bill for any household with a telephone and a teenager!

Admiral Sees No Benefits In Bomb Halt

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in the Far East said today a bombing pause of North Vietnam would have no beneficial effect and emphasized that the war is "going along quite steadily in our favor."

Adm. U. S. Grant Sharp, who arrived at the Naval Academy to address midshipmen on the war effort in Southeast Asia, said the Viet Cong have been driven from "a considerable number of their base areas and generally are taking up positions along the South Vietnamese border so they can retreat to the North when necessary."

"They are not accepting combat unless they are cornered and generally have switched to guerrilla tactics," he told a news conference.

Sharp also said the air war was going well and that both the northeast and northwest railroad lines from Hanoi to China have been interdicted.

It makes it extremely difficult to get goods out of Haiphong to Hanoi," he said.

Sharp said he felt it would be most helpful militarily to bomb the port of Haiphong, but "in hitting the docks at Haiphong, you put the ships alongside those docks in hazard. This is a very difficult decision for our government to make."

But the admiral said he felt that bombing of the port of Haiphong would end the war quickly.

Asked about reports that U.S. bombers were hitting more and more targets once labeled as restricted, Sharp said there had been no real escalation in the air war.

"As times goes on, we hit new targets. I don't think you can call it an escalation," he said.

Smith Keeps Slugging Away At Connally

FORT WORTH (AP)—Lt. Gov. Preston Smith says he doubts Gov. John Connally will seek a fourth term, but predicts that should he do so it will split the Democratic party.

Smith told a news conference Thursday, "I made my announcement early to avoid a rift in the party. I've been a Democrat all my life and I intend to continue voting Democrat."

Said Smith, the only announced candidate for governor, "If there is a rift in the party it will be because someone else announced after me."

Smith was in Fort Worth Thursday to address the County Judges and Commissioners Association, first of a series of state officials, including Connally, to appear here.

Smith said Connally ran his first race against Gov. Price Daniel on the issue that Daniel should not be elected for a fourth term.

For Connally to do the very thing he criticized Daniel for doing, Smith said, he would be going against his own word and principles.

"I predict that Connally will stand by his own personal convictions, which he expressed so well, and because of this, he will decline to run for a fourth term as governor," Smith said.

He said Connally was quoted Feb. 16, 1962, as saying any governor who serves four terms will "completely dominate every board, commission and authority in this state."

Medders' Claim Vast Estate As Homestead

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—U.S. Referee in Bankruptcy Joe Huffstutler had under consideration today the issues of whether the noted Colonial Acres farm of the one-time big-spending Ernest Medders is his homestead.

He ordered lawyers to file briefs within 10 days.

The Medders for several years were noted for giving large, expensive parties for state and national leaders particularly at the "party barn" on Colonial Acres. Court hearings show that most of the money was borrowed.

When they went bankrupt, the Medders claimed the Colonial Acres farm-ranch as their homestead which under Texas law would make it untouchable in bankruptcy proceedings.

The hearing began Tuesday in Sherman and continued Thursday in Tyler.

The Medders' lawyers, Jack Gray and John Sullivan of Denton, claimed their clients made their homes at the 185-acre farm near Gainesville.

At question is whether a home in Dallas should be the homestead. It is near Hockaday School which the Medders' daughters attended.

Mary Medders, 15, testified that she and her two sisters, Sarah and Kathy, and a brother, Frank, lived in the house with a housekeeper.

She said her parents never lived at the Dallas house and that her parents "never spent the night or ate a meal in the house on Forest Lane."

The Medders came to Texas six years ago from Memphis, Tenn., after they heard that Ernest Medders was heir to an oil fortune. The report proved unfounded.

Cool Weather Enters Texas

By The Associated Press

Another batch of cooler weather entered the Texas Panhandle this morning and headed downstate.

The Pacific front was dry as it arrived but the weatherman looked for it to set off a few thunderstorms in the state's north central and northeast sections tonight, and the south central and southeast areas by Saturday.

There already were some widely scattered showers around Galveston and Houston before dawn.

Early morning temperatures remained mild, ranging down to 50 degrees at Dalhart in the upper Panhandle. That represented a 16-degree drop from Dalhart's midnight reading of 66.

Readings at other points stood in the 50s and 60s, running up to 72 at Houston and 73 at Galveston.

Forecasters promised lows down to the 40s across West Texas by Saturday morning and a little cooling for most other sections except the northwest, where it was due to warm a bit.

Still another Pacific front was on the way and expected to tip into Texas in another couple of days.

Yom Kippur Begins Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, and the most sacred day in Judaism, begins at sundown tonight.

Jews will observe the day with fasting, reappraisal of their conduct, prayers, and services in synagogues.

Yom Kippur concludes the 10-day High Holy Days period, which began with Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year.

BSSHs Exes Make Plans For November Homecoming

Machinery for a homecoming for Big Spring High School Exes Nov. 10-11 was put into action at a meeting Thursday afternoon at BSSH.

A parade and the football game between Big Spring and Odessa Bronchos will highlight the first day, but the main activities will come the following evening with a big party in the high school cafeteria.

Bill Dawes is heading the arrangements as general chairman. Several special activity chairmen were named Thursday, including those charged with enlisting class representatives who will contact class members: Mrs. Loy Acuff, 1902-1923; Bill Dawes—1923-29; Mrs. Jim Zack, 1930-40; Mrs. T. A. Harris and Mrs. George Elliott, 1940-50; Harold Rosson and Mrs. Wendell Stacey, 1950-1960. The 1960 decade general chairman is to be announced later.

There will be a central registration point at the cafeteria the evening of Nov. 12, and tables will be grouped more or less as to years and decades. There will be little formal program, other than to recognize some out-of-town and ex-students. Student council representatives will help with serving refreshments and will conduct tours of the new high school facilities which cost over $3 million.

Wesley Deats and Ed Fisher will head up the committee for enlisting class groups to ride in the homecoming parade Nov. 10. Mrs. Don Newsom will head up a panel for exploring the possibility of a special section for former students. Cafeteria decorations will be handled by Mrs. Dee Jon Davis and Mrs. Wil.

Industrial Panel Learns Of Polymer Product Potential

Members of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Industrial Team were briefed Thursday evening on the possibilities of furniture and other production from high impact polymers.

Granville Hahn, technical services manager for Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, showed examples of furniture now being manufactured from a new 1200 polystyrene. He outlined steps involved in the process and touched on some of the problems of finance and distribution.

Weather Forecast

Widespread showers are expected Friday night throughout the midwest. Rain is forecast for the Pacific northwestern states. It will be slightly cooler in the Mississippi Valley and Plains states, and it will be somewhat warmer in the Appalachian Mountains area and around the Gulf Coast.

Reviewer Is Guest In Midland

The Midland Woman's Club Book Review Unit, a newly-organized group, had approximately 125 present Monday at the club for a luncheon and review by Mrs. Clyde Angel of Big Spring. Mrs. Angel, who was accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert Angel, chose the book, "Flap Doodle—Trust and Obey," by Virginia Carey Hudson.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Angel reviewed the same book at the Ranchland Hills Country Club for the En Amie Review Club luncheon which was attended by approximately 100 guests.

For the Monday luncheon, hostesses used the old-fashioned theme of the story in planning decorations. Tables were accented with antique vases filled with Colonial bouquets, fans and plumed hats.

A LOVELIER YOU

Romance In "Hair" For Fall Coiffures

By MARY SUE MILLER
Curly, frilly, romantic hairstyles are catching on. Perhaps this is a reaction to the geometric boy crops from London. More likely it's inspired by the romance in fashion — the long-furred coats a la Russe, the velvet suits with ruffled skirts, circa 1930, and the medieval tunics and tights.

Whatever the reason, the new styles are unmistakably feminine. The look is right, like that of a perfect accessory. And, if you're a romantic, it is beamed to you for wear this winter.

There are several versions of the look, several styles. Sometimes the hair is brushed back smoothly on the crown and then curled to form a ruche on the neck, from ear to ear. Or, quite oppositely, the hair is brushed forward to the face to end in a ruffle of tendrils on the forehead and cheeks. "Or the hair is tossed to curve and curl over the head in artistic disorder."

With an expert haircut, all three styles can be achieved by the flick of a brush. The hair of a perfect accessory. And, if you're a romantic, it is beamed to you for wear this winter.

Reconditioning treatments may be an essential preliminary to styling. For success, the hair needs bounce and sheen. A dual permanent may also be necessary. This involves a support wave for body and a curly wave for the ends. In any case the final effect is worth the effort.

Smart Trick Keeps You In Hot Water

Too often our dish water is cold before the worst items — pots and pans — have been washed.

I also take a piece of freezer tape and put it across the top of the carton and write the name of the contents on the freezer tape.
If you use wax coated milk cartons, particles of wax may get in your food . . . so be sure and use plastic coated cartons.

A Devotional For The Day

I long to see you that I may impart unto you some spiritual gift, to the end ye may be established. (Romans 1:11)

PRAYER: Blessed Father, help me never to be embarrassed by that which does not embarrass Thee. Teach me to recognize the circumstances in which Thy blessings come disguised in order that I may receive Thee without reservations. In the name of Christ, who holds the key to the heavenly mansions. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Easy In Theory

Theoretically, President Johnson could slice off $7 billion from domestic spending, as suggested by some members of Congress, and there would be no difficulty at all. Former Gov. Allan Shivers says he thinks $5 billion can be pared handily. Rep. George Mahon, chairman of the appropriations committee, figured another billion could be sliced.

As a practical matter, however, if either of these is to be attained, Congress itself may have to experience a change in heart and accept cuts where there is substantial pressure to resist them. Congress may even have to take a second look at some military appropriations.

When the budget request is sliced, various agencies will be affected. For instance, the over-all budget and the number of agents assigned to the Federal Bureau of Investigation could be reduced substantially.

Grants to states and local communities for aid to education, school lunches, maternal and child welfare, urban transportation, waste disposal, agricultural extension services and anti-poverty programs could be cut in half.

Loans to disaster areas, such as South Texas, could be halved. New loans to farmers for electricity and telephones, and housing, small business and foreign aid loans could likewise be cut in half.

A sharp cut in the $9 billion a year federal payroll is possible. Deep cuts could be made in the $3.2-billion space program and the $3.1 billion allotted to the National Institutes of Health. Veterans programs could get the ax. Veterans Administration hospitals could be closed.

With these cuts, approximating $5 billion, and the $2 billion the President has promised to save, the goal of $7 billion could be reached quite comfortably.

Is this what Congress wants? Probably not. The hue and cry that would go up, plus the almost certain retirement of members from office in the 1968 elections, is enough to make members' heads reel.

Members probably will have second thoughts before continuing very long to insist that domestic programs should be cut by $7 billion.

Here To Stay

The initial round of Texas cities voting 14 to 1 by margins averaging 2 1/2 to 1 must have astonished even the most enthusiastic advocates of the municipal sales tax.

It should be recalled that the Texas Municipal League had a rather difficult time getting the city sales tax through the Legislature, even on a local-option basis. The 85-to-63 House passage and 20-to-11 Senate approval, with a somewhat belated push by Gov. Connally, probably reflected considerable legislative sentiment that the bill was an expedient gesture—that city residents would be unlikely to vote a new tax on themselves.

Now, however, the outlook is quite different. With such of the larger cities as El Paso, Austin, Corpus Christi, Wichita Falls and Texarkana approving the tax overwhelmingly, in time for collections to begin Jan. 1, numerous other Texas cities are now planning early elections; these include the state's largest, Houston.

The initial impetus has proved so strong that it seems likely that the momentum of voter acceptance can be maintained. It is, of course, improbable that all Texas cities will eventually adopt the tax. But the Texas Municipal League has estimated that if it were applied to the 85 per cent of Texans living in incorporated areas, collections at current sales volume would total $100 million.

The voter acceptance seems based on four factors: A realization that cities must have more funds to cope with urban problems, a feeling that property-owners are already carrying their fair share, doubt that a state government which must raise $150 million a year or more to meet its own needs can extend much aid, and recognition that a war-burdened federal government cannot now greatly increase its urban aid. In any event, the city sales tax now appears to be a major, permanent factor in municipal financing in Texas.

Tax Increase—Too Little And Too Late

WASHINGTON — In the battle of the tax increase the President is like a general who finds that his troops on both the right and the left have abandoned the field. For quite different reasons he is opposed by both the liberals and the conservatives in his own party.

AT THE START of the struggle many weeks ago Rep. Melvin Laird, the shrewd Republican operator who understands the tides of opinion and prejudice in the House as well as anyone in either party, was saying the tax boost would not be approved until February or March of 1968. The President would need approximately 69 Republican votes for passage and they would not be forthcoming until then.

That is where it stands today, and for the President it is an impossible situation. Even the full 10 percent surcharge, and this is unlikely, will be too little and too late, coming on the eve of the election campaign. Apart from World War II the deficit is certain to set a record.

THE DEMAND for a cut of $5 billion in non-defense spending is a political war cry. Nothing like this amount is possible short of dismantling programs already inadequate to stem the decay in the cities and relieve the growing frustration and hostility in the Negro ghettos. Or, rather, it is impossible so long as Johnson is determined to have everything and a war, too. The only substantial cuts can come in space, the military construction pork barrel and the super-sonic transport.

IN SHORT, with a war costing closer to $3 billion a month than $2 billion, it is a question of priorities and this Johnson has never resolved. The priority the liberals in Congress put at the top of the list is tax reform. They do not believe the private assurance from the Treasury that tax reforms are being drafted to be presented after the surcharge is approved.

In any event they are convinced that the whoppingest loophole of all will be excluded so long as there is a Texan in the White House. That is the 27 per cent depletion allowance for oil and a host of minerals that benefit with one percentage or another.

WITHOUT A tax increase the deficit will be close to $30 billion. The banks will then have no recourse but to finance this with checkbook money. The total quantity of money in circulation will be greater than the supply of goods and this is the definition of inflation.

The path to the dead end in which the President finds himself is strewn with might-have-beens. In December of 1965 Chairman William McCleskey Martin of the Federal Reserve Board was urging the President to propose a tax increase in the following year. He pointed to the danger of inflation in paying for the Vietnam war through deficit financing.

Billy Graham

I am a fourteen year old girl. I lost my mother last January, and at the funeral the minister said: "This fine lady will never have to worry about dying the second death." Would you please explain what he meant by "the second death."

H.J.

The Bible teaches that the saved people die once, and the unsaved experience two deaths. Someone has put it this way: If we are born twice we die once, and if we are born only once, we die twice. At the sinner's judgment (Rev. 20: 11-15) the wicked dead are raised, judged, and cast into hell, together with death itself. This is the "second death," or eternal separation from God (Rev. 20: 14), the final state of the wicked. "And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. THIS IS THE SECOND DEATH. And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire."

Obviously, your mother was a good Christian woman, and that is what the preacher meant when he said, she would never have to die the second time.

In these days when many mothers evade their spiritual responsibility, what satisfaction you must have in knowing that your mother was a true follower of Jesus Christ! I would rather have a mother who has gone on to be with the Lord, than a living mother whose life has never been committed to Christ. While you are physically orphaned, spiritually you have a treasure that will endure forever. May God richly bless you and keep you.

Plump Target For Cuts

By EDMOND LOBRETTON
Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Congress and the administration bicker about whether and where the budget can be cut, one plump and prominent target has been mentioned more and more often: the $17 billion programmed spending for research and development.

running deep into the red, the test should be what research is immediately needed.

THE HUGE defense research and development total includes work in everything from missile improvements to studies of temperature, salinity and biological content of water.

James Marlow, who usually writes this column, is on vacation.

High Class Bargains

RESEARCH appropriations are scattered among more than a dozen departmental budgets but a compilation pulled together on order for congressional use clearly identifies the departments and agencies that spend most of the money:

Defense, $7.67 billion; National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $5.3 billion; Atomic Energy Commission, $1.84 billion; Health, Education and Welfare Department, $1.15 billion. Next behind these giants is the new Transportation Department with $21 million, of which $18 million is for development of the supersonic transport.

All these figures relate, not to appropriations, but to the amounts the departments intend to spend during the fiscal year that began last July 1. Appropriations always relate largely to future spending.

THE NEW appropriations asked this year for research and development total $17.69 billion. But the government proposes to use only $9.30 billion of the new authority during the year; the rest of the $17.26 billion programmed spending for this year would come from past appropriations—a circumstance not lost on economy-minded congressmen.

Some of these contend government research has been extended beyond all measure of practicality. "They've even got a project for research on what ought to be researched," one snorted.

Others, conceding that practically all government-supported research is useful, nevertheless insist that when the country is

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Grandmother's rules of house-keeping said Thursday is for marketing and Friday for dusting and sweeping. But many contemporary wives in the Great Plains and Southwest think both days are for "doing" the garage sales.

A GARAGE sale is a kind of high-class bargain basement organized by an individual woman or group of friends, where offerings range from sink stoppers to guinea pigs to maternity clothes, all used.

In the suburbs of Kansas City, the station wagon and sports car sets park before $30,000 ranches to examine the offerings of 35-cent baby dresses, 25-cent mixing bowls, $2-picture frames, and other odds and ends.

Mrs. James Hopewell of suburban Fairway, Kan., did the sales regularly for months before and after her first grandchild was born. She toted home a nursery full of barely used baby furniture, strollers, swings, toys and basic clothing.

MRS. BERT Rosebrough of Prairie Village, Kan., another suburb, motioned to the well-furnished living room in her early American-style home.

"Everything in it," she said, "from the sofa to the maple sconces, came from garage sales." It was the same story in her 3-year-old son's room.

Anyone can hold a garage sale—providing she has the fortune to let go of the things she and her family no longer use.

The sales are announced by ads in neighborhood newspapers and signs planted on nearby streets.

On the big day, the garage is the spot for almost anything, except the family car. The sale is run like a store, not an auction. There is almost no bargaining. If it occurs, it is usually on a relatively expensive item.

GETTING BUYERS is seldom a problem. Few can resist the enticement of pouring through another household's collection of trifles and trivia in hope that it will yield some surprise treasure.

Many women spend Thursday and Fridays, the traditional sale days, driving through the suburbs looking for sales. Sometimes they find several on one block.

Men make fun of their wives' garage sale habits. Once they attend one, though, they usually are bitten, too. The wife of a masculine garage sale fan said many of the articles sold in her sale came from her husband's foragings.

But the enthusiasm occasionally backfires.

ONE WOMAN with garage sale fever made weekly expeditions and filled her basement with odds and ends of furniture, for use in the house. But many objects never made it up the stairs. She finally took stock of her crowded basement, sighed and called the neighborhood paper.

"I want to run an ad for a garage sale," she said.

'Frozen' Shoulder Can Be Loosened Up

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: The ball joint in my shoulder is slightly "frozen" and I cannot extend the arm upward normally. Will exercising the arm loosen it up?

This was the result of a ruptured muscle in the upper arm that took four months to heal, the pain so intense that I didn't elevate my arm. All caused by pulling the starter rope on a mower.—R.E.K.

The months of inactivity can cause changes in the joint, making it stiff or "frozen."

Yes, exercising will tend to loosen things by breaking adhesions which have formed and stretching certain of the muscles attached to the shoulder.

If you cannot do so without great pain, it may be necessary to have the arm manipulated while you are under an anesthetic.

Such manipulation sometimes is necessary to get motion started, and along with it, teach you what exercises are best.

It will be obvious, I trust, that there should not be too much delay in getting started, as the longer the joint remains frozen, the more difficult it will be to get it to move again, and after many months it may be impossible to restore it to normal action.

Dear Dr. Molner: I hope your booklet, "How to Deal with Varicose Veins," will cover my daughter's problem. I enclose 20 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for the booklet.

She is expecting her fifth child and is having great difficulty with swollen veins, especially near the groin. We are worried that one of these veins might rupture.

She had the veins stripped from one leg several years ago but now the trouble is starting again. She is only 28. Would her diet have anything to do with this?—E.G.

Anything which interferes with the flow of blood through the veins can be a factor in a varicosity if a person's veins are subject to this trouble.

Tight girdles, round garters or other garments which press tightly against the large veins at any point can be important, so she should choose her apparel with that in mind.

Pregnancy itself can be a factor because of pressures in the abdomen interfering with circulation in the veins there. This is reflected, of course, in higher pressure at points below.

It is possible that your daughter can lie in some particular position which will minimize such pressure on the veins, but it is doubtful if she can determine such positions without advice from her doctor—and perhaps not then.

Staying off her feet, preferably with legs raised a little above body level, for repeated short intervals throughout the day may help somewhat, but the pregnancy itself is bound to be a strain on the veins.

Diet does not affect the situation beyond the fact that being overweight always increases the risk of varicose veins.

I hope to be on my way to attend the Oklahoma - Texas football game before this nonsense is printed.

Scheduled to be seated next to me in the Cotton Bowl Saturday is a Big City Texas Society Editor, who used to be an old OU cheer leader and ex-gal friend. What did she ever see in that petroleum engineer husband?

SHE WRITES that life in the society department is not all hors d'oeuvres and typographical errors.

Some incidents occur which brighten an entire week. Just recently two delightful notices arrived. One was from a young woman furnishing information for an announcement of her marriage plans. It was well written, legible, grammatical, and included the information that:

"THE COUPLE will spend its honeymoon at Pepsi-Cola, Florida."

The other was turned in by the reporter for a business women's sorority which had made a jaunt to Kansas City (where everything is up to date).

There they met with the Kansas City chapter for a big "do" in the Fred Harvey restaurant, and the reporter wrote:

Mid-East Settlement Must Come

BEIRUT, Lebanon—Dwight J. Porter of Omaha, Neb., our American Ambassador to Lebanon, is what you could call an eye-of-the-hurricane man.

Since he works at or near the center of the Middle East disturbance, Ambassador Porter is calmness itself. He is by far the most optimistic official I have interviewed on these matters in Washington, London and points East.

FOR TO BE unflappable, informed, engaging and admired is also to be something of a diplomatic climate-maker. As much as anything else, the Middle East crisis, a flare-up of the Cold War, needs to be treated with a belief in its acceptable outcome. Porter, in short, has this sort of faith. It is based on the remembered fact that the same sort of storm has previously been calmed by American diplomatic action. The ambassador recalls that in 1956, President Eisenhower did exactly what now needs to be done. He caused the Israeli to give up territory they had taken by conquest, and he caused Egyptian President Nasser to make a large political concession. It was the opening of the Gulf of Aqaba.

NOW IT IS UP to President Johnson to bring about similar accommodations by the Israeli and by the Arabs. The President has stated the U.S. policy of maintaining territorial integrity and security in the area. He must make this policy stick if American leadership is to be worth a dime. This means that the Israeli, regardless of bellicose refusals to date, must give up an appreciable part of their gains. And it means that the Arabs, despite stubborn refusals to admit the existence of the Jewish State, must make a de facto end of the belligerency.

ISRAELI WILL someday soon have to become magnanimous through wisdom, simply because some 2.5 million people cannot indefinitely withstand continuous guerrilla warfare and terrorism by 100 million other people. This is a hard fact that Israeli statesmanship must accept.

As to the Arabs, they have learned by hard knocks that they are confronted by a reality and not a theory. However unjustly they believe themselves treated by Western Powers' treaty-makers and map-makers, no matter how their pride has been made to smart by repeated defeats, they cannot take a turn for the better without reaching some sort of laissez-faire with their unwelcome neighbor.

STRANGE AS IT may sound to American readers, President Nasser is the one leader in sight who can take an important majority of the Arab peoples along this difficult but necessary road. Nasser can do this because he is gifted with a charisma that allows him to control the multitudes over the heads of their national ministers and monarchs. If he can march his widespread followers up the hill, he can march them down again. He is demonstrably capable of blaming past disasters on subordinates and of changing course without bringing popular discredit on himself.

THESE ARE the factors—Israeli and Arab—which form the basis of solution. The ambassador has a heartening confidence in the ability of the United States to make its weight felt on both contestants, and in the President's sense of timing.

Threat To All Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON — Many pastors in different churches throughout the United States have criticized American participation in the Vietnam war, but what do churchmen who live in countries close to Southeast Asia say about it?

A PRESS ASSOCIATION dispatch from Australia — whose young men are fighting in Vietnam — reports that an Anglican archbishop, M. L. Loane of Sydney, in his presidential address on Monday to the Sydney diocesan synod, warned against unconditional withdrawal of the allied forces from South Vietnam. He said it would leave the Viet Cong as masters of the area and would remove Communist inhibitions toward wider activities. He declared that the allied troops should hold out until a negotiated peace settlement can be achieved. He stated further that the South Vietnamese "may not like the war, or the Saigon ruler, or the foreign intervention—but they like the prospect of Communist domination still less."

THIS IS A SUCCINCT statement of the fundamental issue. Many American critics have brushed aside as an "illusion" the idea that the security of Southeast Asia is in danger of being impaired. The peoples of the area, however, who are confronted with the possibility of a Communist takeover do not regard it as an "illusion" but as a realistic threat to their safety.

President Johnson in a recent speech took pains to quote the prime minister of Australia, the president of Korea, the president of the Philippines, the prime minister of New Zealand, the prime minister of Singapore, the prime minister of Malaysia, and the foreign minister of Thailand, who uniformly expressed their belief that the fate of Southeast Asia will be decided by what happens in Vietnam. Mr. Johnson himself put it this way:

"I CANNOT TELL you tonight as your President, with certainty, that a Communist conquest of South Vietnam would be followed by a Communist conquest of Southeast Asia. But I do know there are North Vietnamese troops in Laos. I do know that there are North Vietnamese trained guerrillas tonight in northeast Thailand. I do know that there are Communist-supported guerrilla forces operating in Burma. And a Communist coup was barely averted in Indonesia, the fifth largest nation in the world."

PERHAPS THE BEST summary of all about the Communist threat in Southeast Asia was given in 1959 by President Eisenhower, when he said: "Strategically, South Vietnam's capture by the Communists would bring their power several hundred miles into a hitherto free region. The remaining countries in Southeast Asia would be menaced by a great flanking movement. The freedom of 12 million people would be lost immediately, and that of 150 million in adjacent lands would be seriously endangered. The loss of South Vietnam would set in motion a crumbling process that could, as it progressed, have grave consequences for us and for freedom."

THOSE WHO favor withdrawal from Vietnam seem to think that the people of Southeast Asia should be left to struggle with their own problems, no matter what happens thereafter. Such observations are understandable when they come from the lips of politicians who think they will gain votes back home from the parents of potential draftees. But it is surprising to find the same point of view expressed in sermons by ministers who argue that American participation in the Vietnam war is immoral.

THERE ARE, however, plenty of pastors in the world who justify the necessity to use force in self-defense because it is directly related to the right of self-preservation. Another religious principle also is involved—the moral and spiritual motivation for acts of unselfishness and altruism. Indeed, when a nation with no desire for territory or material gain makes sacrifices in order to protect a weak nation against the ravages of an aggressor government, it is an example of the highest form of service to mankind.

Missionaries Come From Wide Variety Of Callings

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An electrical engineer in Liberia, a commercial artist in Johannesburg, a psychiatric staff in Lucknow, India, a cattleman in Peru. An economics teacher in Turkey.

These are among today's changing models of Christian missionaries, which often aren't even called that anymore.

As their numbers grow, their activities are becoming so diversified, their problems so compounded and their role so spread beyond its former concentration on making converts that the whole operation has come in for recurrent questioning.

At a recent meeting of the American Roman Catholic mission-sending societies, one expert said the old goals no longer are valid, that the movement has served its purposes and should be dismantled in the interests of wider objectives.

NEW ERA

"The era of the foreign missionary movement as we have known it is definitely over," said the Rev. Ronan Hoffman, who teaches missiology at the Catholic University of America. He added that it must give way to over-all serving, rather than direct persuading.

Some others disagreed, in part.

"There are huge parts of the globe where the Gospel has as yet made practically no impression," said the Rev. Avery Dulles, of Woodstock College, Md. He said adaptations are needed, but the special task of conveying knowledge of Christ must go on.

While the emphasis varies, there is general recognition that the churches' missionary operation is in a time of transition, of more ecumenical teamwork, of greater involvement of laymen, of more utilitarian functions, of broader aims.

PROCLAIM ACT

"It is more than 'saving souls,'" says the Rev. Dr. Tracey K. Jones Jr., Methodist world missions official. "It includes saving nations, cultures and civilizations. The task is to proclaim by word and act the Lordship of Christ over every aspect of man's life."

That covers a wide gamut of efforts to improve the lot of people, and an indication of its variety shows up in a sampling of some of the recent mission undertakings.

Lutherans have developed a 700-acre tea plantation at Santal, India, eventually to be taken over by natives, with profits going to medical and educational work.

The United Church — Congregationalists — and a French ecumenical agency started a program in Dakar, Senegal, Africa, in which women learn to keep house.

JUDGMENTS OF GOD APPLY TO ALL NATIONS—EVEN THE CHOSEN

God is the lord of history — His judgments apply to all nations whether they know it or not. No nation is so favored that it is exempt. These are the lessons in Sunday's uniform studies taken from Amos 1, 2; 9:7-8.

Amos, a rustic prophet, spoke bluntly but shrewdly. Mounting to a spot in the market place of Bethel, Israel's religious capital, he got attention by first attacking Israel's enemies. God would deal with Damascus for being so cruel as to literally put the iron threshing sleds to the conquered Israelites. Then he moved to Judah, the southern kingdom, and if there were some uneasiness among his hearers, they still probably felt impelled to say "Amen."

His prophecy that God would "send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem" was fulfilled by the burning and sacking of the Holy City by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 B.C.

Then Amos turned his verbal darts at Israel. He enumerated the sins, including abuse and misuse of the poor; the repulsive sexual sins; the drunken carousers.

The proud Israelites had become so wicked that God regarded them as Israel regarded other nations. "I will utterly destroy the house of Jacob, saith the Lord," according to Amos. And God did; Judah came back later for 80 years of independence, but Israel never recovered. God did not break His Covenant with Israel — it was the other way around. God's justice works the same way today.

Steers Try Comeback In 'Dog Game Here

here at 8 o'clock this evening. Midland High, still on Cloud Nine after a 21-12 upset of mighty San Angelo last week, will be the opponent of record this evening.

Big Spring, still reeling from the effects of a 19-7 drubbing at the hands of Midland Lee last week, seeks to keep from getting painted into a corner in a game with another Midland club

Wooley, The Rock

Rocky Wooley (above) can expect to divide time at the fall-back spot on offense and play most of the defense when the Big Spring Steers play Midland High at 8 o'clock here this evening. He's been one of the local team's hardest workers in training camp.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

That scorched earth policy being carried out by the Abilene Cooper football team may influence the state ratings and make good reading for the folks at home but those things have a way of hitting back at you.

Coaches of the humiliated teams have long memories. Even if they didn't, there would be friends of losing teams around to remind them.

That 47-0 defeat inflicted by Cooper upon Odessa last weekend must have been one of the worst ever suffered by the Bronchos.

What have the Big Spring Steers got in store for them tonight?

Prior to last week's Steer-Midland Lee game, a press box observer who had seen both teams in practice and under game conditions said he thought Midland High had a stronger team than Lee.

Midland High lost no prestige in going out in front of San Angelo by three touchdowns before ultimately nailing a 21-12 victory.

There's no doubt about the resurgence of interest in the game at Midland since Tagboat Jones arrived to assume the reins as athletic director in the public schools. Tagboat and success are old buddies from days of yore.

Big Spring is going to have to play far better than it has all season to stay up with Midland. Now that the Steers are back in the pack again, they may do better. Teams here have never been identified as good front runners but they'll crack an opponent's back with a superlative performance when it is least expected.

Maybe that's what makes football the grand game it is—the unknown factors associated with the game, the ability of a team to rise to the heights and upset a foe when all seems lost.

A West Coast writer stewing in his prejudicial juices wrote recently that Negro boys simply are not entrusted with the responsibility of quarterbacking football teams in this state, hinting broadly that public opinion would not permit it.

A Negro boy who is quarterbacking his team and doing quite well at it is David Jones of Stanton, who has already guided the Buffaloes to more success than they enjoyed all of last season.

Last week against Frenship, Jones ran his team superbly, picked up 57 yards at rushing the ball and threw for two touchdowns, with six completions in 11 attempts for 97 yards. David got lots of help from Bert Decker, who thundered for 126 yards, and Alan Gregston, who accounted for 101 yards while heeling-and-toeing it with the ball.

In the first three weeks of the 1967 season, NFL attendance exceeded that of any full campaign prior to 1946—which will give you an idea of how the game has come along.

During that time, there were 14 capacity crowds and percentage of park capacity was 93.5. Last year, when total attendance surpassed five million for the first time, percentage of capacity was 86.6.

If Paul Richards, the astute baseball trader who is now trying to upgrade the Atlanta Braves, has a falling, it is an insistence on looking after his old cronies.

He recently hired Lam Harris to replace Billy Hitchcock as field manager of the Braves.

Harris, hardly Madison Avenue's idea of a baseball mastermind, doesn't have the reputation for pumping great zeal into a team where it never existed before.

He served as foreman of the Houston Astros for a while, without any notable success.

Texas, Ponies And Raiders Picked To Win

By The Associated Press

Texas Tech meets Texas A&M and Arkansas battles Baylor in games counting in the standings Saturday night, and there are many possibilities in the Southwest Conference football race.

Tech could take over undisputed possession of first place if it should beat A&M, but Arkansas would have to lose to Baylor to bring that about. If Arkansas should win, it would be first with a 2-0 record but might be tied by Tech.

But through it all Southern Methodist is due to ride around the top since the Methodists, who won their only conference game so far over Texas A&M 20-17—are engaged in inter-sectional warfare.

CADETS IN DALLAS

SMU gets the week's schedule rolling tonight in a game with Army in the Cotton Bowl. Army is a three-point favorite.

Texas plays the big inter-sectional game Saturday when the Longhorns meet Oklahoma at Dallas. It will be the 62nd time battle between the two bitter rivals and although Oklahoma is undefeated and Texas has lost two out of three, the Longhorns are favored by four points.

Another inter-sectional game pits Rice against Northwestern at Houston at night with Rice in the unaccustomed role of favorite. The Owls are given a seven-point edge.

Tech is a mild favorite to pin a fifth straight defeat on Texas but Arkansas is a solid choice to whip Baylor although the teams have identical 1-2 records for the season.

Arkansas lashed Texas Christian 26-0 last week and that indicated the Razorbacks are ready to contest strongly for the conference title. Baylor hasn't played a conference game.

Arkansas is better than a touchdown favorite to thwart the Bears in their first conference effort.

VARIED FORM

The Texas Tech situation is intriguing. Tech looked like a million in beating old enemy Texas for the first time in conference play but much less than that—about the same million, in fact—in dropping a decision to the winless Mississippi State.

Whether the Red Raiders were dwelling too much on the past triumph or thinking too far ahead—to Texas A&M—are questions that can be answered in the game with the Aggies. Tech, if aiming only at the business at hand, should triumph.

Crowds totaling more than 210,000 will see the five games. The largest outpouring will be at Dallas for Texas-Oklahoma—a sellout 75,504.

Tech and A&M expect to draw about 41,500, while 35,000 are due at Dallas for SMU and Army, 30,000 at Houston for Rice-Northwestern and 30,000 at Waco for Baylor-Arkansas.

Three out of six last week was the best prediction average of the season. It encourages the following for this week:

Friday night—Southern Methodist to edge Army.

Saturday—Texas to eke out over Oklahoma.

Saturday night—Rice over Northwestern by 10, Texas Tech over Texas A&M by a touchdown, Arkansas over Baylor by two touchdowns.

Give Gale Sayers a couple and that's it.

Green Bay 24, Minnesota 10—Vikings showed a little punch last week against Cards but that Packer defense is Vince Lombardi's best offense. Green Bay's pass rush is something Joe Kapp never saw in Canada.

Dallas 21, New Orleans 7—Even without Don Meredith, Cowboys have too much for Saints who have given up 17 touchdowns in four games. Jerry Rhome and Craig Morton will be anxious to show Tom Landry they can do the job.

St. Louis 30, Cleveland 21—A tangle that could mean the title in the Century Division. Jim Hart seems to have arrived just in time. Jim Bakken's kicking gives Cards edge despite Frank Ryan's air attack.

San Francisco 24, Philadelphia 21—Unless win over Rams took too much out of 49ers that offensive line should be too much for erratic Eagles although Norm Snead is now the top passer in the NFL.

Washington 28, Atlanta 14—Falcons don't have horses to handle Sonny Jurgensen's passing and can't protect their own passer. Redskins have too much offense but Falcons should crack their defense.

New York 27, Pittsburgh 24—Always a real donnybrook. Giants surprisingly lead league in total offense, thanks to Fran Tarkenton, Homer Jones and the Tucker Frederickson-Ernie Koy combo. But that Steeler defense is tough and the Giants' is not. Could go down to a field goal.

AFL

New York 21, Houston 14—Joe Namath gets back on the beam and that Jet defense that stopped Oakland should clog up Oilers' running game.

Kansas City 28, San Diego 14—First loss for Chargers who meet the big boys of the league. Chiefs have added Ernie Ladd to help out Buck Buchanan and how do you get past that pair?

Boston 21, Miami 10—Patriots could have beaten San Diego last week with a little luck. Mike Holovak's boys beginning to move the ball. Dolphins show little so far.

Oakland 28, Buffalo 10—Raiders bounce back from Shea Stadium disaster and take it out on punchless Bills who just squeaked past Denver.

Beautiful Sox Snagged By Incredible Gibson

BOSTON (AP) — The sign outside Fenway Park said, "The Red Sox Are Incredibly Beautiful People."

If they are incredibly beautiful, St. Louis' Bob Gibson is incredibly amazing.

In the World Series that the Cardinals won Thursday by beating Boston 7-2 in the seventh and deciding game, Gibson had help—from base-hitting and base-stealing Lou Brock and from surprisingly potent Julian Javier and Roger Maris. But no one over-all did it but Gibson accomplished.

CAME BACK STRONG

The right-handed pitcher, who was out with a broken ankle from July 15 to Sept. 6, allowed the Red Sox six hits in beating them 2-1 in the series opener last week. Then he reduced that to five hits when he stopped them 6-0 last Sunday.

Somehow the Red Sox overcame the 3-1 hole Gibson's second victory put them in, and it was up to Gibson again in the seventh game Thursday. Except this time he would have to face Jim Lonborg, also a two-game winner who had given up only four hits in his two starts.

The dream duel, however, was no contest. The Cardinals battered Lonborg, working on just two days rest, for seven runs—including a homer by Gibson—and 10 hits in six innings while Gibson set down the Red Sox on three hits.

The performance, his fifth straight complete game triumph in Series play, put Gibson in the class of Christy Mathewson and Red Ruffing and in another sports car.

He won the car for the second time—the first was in the 1964 Series—as the outstanding player in the seven-game affair.

"You can do it all... you can do it all," Orlando Cepeda, St. Louis' exuberant first baseman, yelled at Gibson after grabbing him around the neck and kissing him four times on the right cheek in the noisy Cardinal clubhouse that dripped with champagne.

BOSTON SUBDUED

Over in the subdued Sox quarters, manager Dick Williams had similar praise for the 31-year-old right-hander who pitched the second and third times on three days rest, the first time this year he has worked that frequently.

"Give all the credit in the world to Gibson," said Williams, who himself deserved credit for bringing the Red Sox so far—from ninth to first in one season.

"He's one helluva pitcher. I would have to say he was the outstanding player in the Series. After all, he beat us three times."

In beating the Red Sox those three times and extending his Series streak to five consecutive complete game victories, Gibson equaled the mark set by Red Ruffing of the New York Yankees. But it took Ruffing four Series—1937-38-39-41—to compile five straight.

And no one ever has limited a team to fewer hits in three complete games than Gibson did. Mathewson, of the New York Giants, held the Philadelphia Athletics to the same meager hit production in 1905.

Many Cardinals had something to cherish—besides the victory that maintained St. Louis' reputation of never losing a seven-game series.

Pro Cagers Launch Play

By The Associated Press

The professional basketball season opens tonight. Right off the bat there is a confrontation in the San Francisco area between the established National Basketball Association and its new rival, the American Basketball Association.

The opening games are Seattle at San Francisco in the NBA and Anaheim at Oakland, just across the bay.

George Mikas, the commissioner of the 11-team ABA, is expected to participate in opening ceremonies at the Oakland Arena along with Rick Barry, who last year helped San Francisco gain the NBA championship playoff final against Philadelphia.

Barry is not playing this year. He signed to play with the Oakland team, coached by his father-in-law, Bruce Hale. He elected to sit out the season after a California court ruled he could not play for any team except San Francisco until his option clause expires in Sept. 1968.

The two games are the only ones scheduled. Three more are scheduled for Saturday night, Chicago at Boston and St. Louis at San Diego in the NBA and Kentucky at Indiana in the ABA. On Sunday St. Louis is at San Francisco in the NBA and Anaheim is at Denver in the ABA.

The other clubs in each league do not open until next week.

Dallas, Cards And Colts Given Nod In NFL Games

BOSTON (AP) — If Jim Lonborg winds up playing with the Boston Patriots and Bob Gibson starts throwing passes for the St. Louis Cardinals, charge it off to this crazy mixed-up time of the year.

With baseball finally out of the way, the football people can start paying attention to a race that already is in the fifth week of the season.

Maybe watching baseball helps a Hand picker. Last week's score was 10-1-1 with a season total of 35-10-3 (24-7-1 in the NFL and 11-3-1 in the AFL). Let's try again. All games are Sunday.

NFL

Baltimore 24, Los Angeles 21 —The big battle in the Coastal Division although it lost a little of the edge when the Rams lost to the 49ers. John Unitas hasn't been stopped yet and the Colts have the blocking to match the Rams' front four. A real bruiser.

Detroit 24, Chicago 14—Lions' attack strongest on ground where Bears are most vulnerable. Mel Farr should be too much for Bears who still are looking for a passing game.

Green Bay 24, Minnesota 10—Vikings showed a little punch last week against Cards but that Packer defense is Vince Lombardi's best offense. Green Bay's pass rush is something Joe Kapp never saw in Canada.

Dallas 21, New Orleans 7—Even without Don Meredith, Cowboys have too much for Saints who have given up 17 touchdowns in four games. Jerry Rhome and Craig Morton will be anxious to show Tom Landry they can do the job.

St. Louis 30, Cleveland 21—A tangle that could mean the title in the Century Division. Jim Hart seems to have arrived just in time. Jim Bakken's kicking gives Cards edge despite Frank Ryan's air attack.

San Francisco 24, Philadelphia 21—Unless win over Rams took too much out of 49ers that offensive line should be too much for erratic Eagles although Norm Snead is now the top passer in the NFL.

Washington 28, Atlanta 14—Falcons don't have horses to handle Sonny Jurgensen's passing and can't protect their own passer. Redskins have too much offense but Falcons should crack their defense.

New York 27, Pittsburgh 24—Always a real donnybrook. Giants surprisingly lead league in total offense, thanks to Fran Tarkenton, Homer Jones and the Tucker Frederickson-Ernie Koy combo. But that Steeler defense is tough and the Giants' is not. Could go down to a field goal.

Pace Told On Boston

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Bob Gibson and the calendar beat the Boston Red Sox with timely assists from Lou Brock, Roger Maris and Julian Javier.

Because the St. Louis Cardinals clinched the pennant Sept. 18, Manager Red Schoendienst was able to arrange his pitching so that Gibson, his ace, could work the first, fourth and seventh games and still have three days of rest between starts.

Boston, fighting it out with Minnesota, Detroit and Chicago in a tough four-club battle for the American League pennant, had to go all out every day. Not until Jim Lonborg had beaten the Twins on the final day of the season, and the Tigers had lost the second game of a double-header to California, did the Red Sox know they were in.

HAD TO WAIT

As a result, Lonborg had to wait until the second game to make his first appearance, a magnificent one-hitter during which he had a chance at a perfect game and a no-hitter until the late innings.

Lonborg came back with another masterful job in the fifth game Monday. But the calendar was against him. Manager Dick Williams had to use him again in the seventh game Thursday with only two days of rest.

Lonborg did not have his good stuff with that short rest. He was bombed for 10 hits and all seven runs in the 7-2 clincher Thursday afternoon. He was obviously laboring all through the cloudy, chilly day.

If there was a second guess in the seventh game it was a question of Williams' strategy in leaving Lonborg in the game for long innings. By that time Gibson had hit a 380-foot homer into the nets atop and Javier had blasted a three-run homer into the left field wall.

"Lonnie didn't have his real good stuff," said Williams. "But we kept checking him every inning and he said he was okay."

WANTED TO STAY
"I went out there to take him out in the seventh (after Tim McCarver's double and Joe Foy's error on Mike Shannon's grounder), but he wanted to continue. He's my best and I stuck with him. He's a helluva pitcher. I feel sorry for him. I didn't like to see him take that pounding."

The Cards, who had a total of only four hits off Lonborg in the first two games, managed singles in each of the first two innings.

In the third a triple by Dal Maxvill, singles by Curt Flood and Tony Dean played leading roles in the Big Spring Brahmas' smashing 37-0 win over the Monahans ninth graders here Thursday night.

The Brahma built up a 20-0 lead before the first period ended, after which the Big Spring coaches made use of all their talent.

The Brahma line simply was too tough for the Monahans club to penetrate.

The win was the second of the season for the Brahmas and, by far, their most impressive performance. They have lost three and tied one.

The Brahmas will return to play next Thursday, at which time they oppose Lamar in Snyder.

Ponies Play On Saturday

SANDS — The Sands Mustangs, unbeaten in eight-match competition this season, will host the Witharral Panthers at 8 o'clock here Saturday evening in their annual Homecoming game.

Whitharral, beaten only by Dawson (22-8), builds its team around three boys this year—guard Stan Sadler, 6-6 and 190; end Steve Graham, 6-2 and 175; and fullback Leroy Bradley, 6-4 and 180.

Bradley, a real triple-threat, will probably carry the ball about 60 per cent of the time for the visitors.

Probable starters for Sands are: Kenny Gillespie and either Ronnie Taylor or Alfonso Calvio at ends, Freddy Hodnett and Jim Fryar at guards, Joe Grigg at center, Lance Hopper at quarterback and Larry Newcomer and Kynn Maxwell at halfbacks.

Sands has lost only to Lorraine this fall and that was in an 11-man game.

Land Maris and a wild pitch to Orlando Cepeda gave St. Louis two big runs.

Gibson teed off on Lonborg with his home run in the fifth. Brock singled, stole second and third while Flood walked and scored on Maris' sacrifice fly.

The Cards really lowered the boom on Lonborg in the sixth but it was not all his fault. Ken Harrelson tried to make a diving, rolling catch on McCarver but could not hold the ball. It went for a double. Then Foy made an error on Shannon's grounder.

After a consultation with Williams, who thought Javier might be bunting, Lonborg remained in to face the Cardinals' second baseman. Javier sacrificed the fourth pitch into the nets in left and the game was over for all practical purposes.

Children Hear Alice Killed

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A group of children, some crying, stood with their parents outside the elephant house Tuesday at Rogers Williams Park and heard the sound of four rifle shots.

"Alice is dead, Alice is dead," cried one little boy as he hid his face in his mother's skirt.

Alice, the park's 33-year-old elephant was put to a mercy death by bullets from a police rifle. She had been suffering from incurably abscessed teeth and possible cancer.

She could not properly chew and digest her food, had lost 1,000 pounds in the past six months and had endured intense pain which made her potentially dangerous.

Officer Was Almost Arrested

CINCINNATI (AP) — Thomas Bepler came close to being arrested for impersonating a policeman.

The irony about the incident is that he is a policeman. Patrolman Bepler was dressed in plain clothes Tuesday as he attempted to investigate a series of housebreaks.

After he told a woman he was a policeman "on a stakeout" and asked to enter her kitchen, she refused to let him enter and called the police telling them someone was impersonating a policeman.

Two police cars responded to her home and identified Bepler.

Trust Costs Her Savings

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — The 20-year-old widow of a Vietnam war casualty is broke because she trusted a man in uniform.

Mrs. Lucy McCorkle had been receiving monthly checks from the Army since her husband was killed. She saved $1,579.

She said a man dressed in a soldier's uniform came to see her last Saturday. He told her that she had been receiving the checks by mistake—that they should have gone to another Mrs. McCorkle in Greensboro whose husband had been killed a month earlier.

Mrs. McCorkle went to the bank, withdrew the $1,579 and gave it to the man. She quoted him as saying he would be back with her money once he straightened things out at the Pentagon.

He didn't return. Army officials, contacted by the Gaston

County police, said they don't know who the man was and that there is not a widowed Mrs. McCorkle in Greensboro.

SEX AND THE SINGLE GUY!

Toll Man Did Not Cough Up

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two men stopped at the St. Louis toll bridge Wednesday night and told the attendant, 46-year-old Wing Lee, to hand over his money.

"You're kidding," Lee said, "give me your 15 cents." The man in the car told Lee he really wasn't kidding adding, "I'll blow your head off." The attendant stepped back into his booth and the men drove away without Lee's money.

Police called it a draw. Lee didn't get the 15 cents.
