Second Heart Transplant

NEW YORK (AP) — WCBS reported today that the second human heart transplant operation in history took place today at Brooklyn's Maimonides Hospital.

A hospital spokesman would neither confirm nor deny the report, but said a hospital statement would be made at 6:30 p.m. today.

The report came four days after South African surgeons replaced the sick heart of Louis Washkansky, a 55-year-old grocer, with the well heart of a 25-year-old woman who had died.

Toll Climbing

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The toll in the collapse of a huge bridge under construction over a canyon just north of Mexico City stood at 21 confirmed dead today, but authorities predicted the toll would go higher.

Estimates of the number of workmen killed ranged from 30 to 70. The sole survivor, Angel Gutierrez Carroga, jumped into a tree on the canyon face at the collapse and was hospitalized in critical condition.

Fifteen bodies were recovered before operations were suspended for the night Tuesday, but searchers said they had located six more under the tangled steel, concrete and wood.

Mexico City newspapers speculated that faulty materials may have led to the collapse of the 395-foot "Universidad de Anahuac" bridge, but there was no official explanation of the cause.

The center span of the bridge, in Tecamachalo, just north of the Mexico City line, fell 300 feet into the Loma del Negro canyon Monday night.

Museum Coming

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — The Queen Mary steamed out of port for the last time this morning on her way to Long Beach, Calif., to become a maritime museum.

The famous British vessel left Acapulco Bay after 16 hours of parties and civic receptions in what Capt. J. Treasure Jones called "by far the warmest reception we've had on this cruise."

The voyage from Southampton to California may have been memorable for the 1,200 passengers but it has been an ordeal for the crew.

"We haven't had a night off since we left home," several crew members complained. "There have been special cocktail parties and receptions in every port and the crew has catered them all."

CAPT. ROBB

Buys License

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, sporting a broad grin, picked up a marriage license today for his Saturday marriage to Lynda Johnson, the President's daughter.

Robb paid the $2 fee and then waited patiently, talking to newsmen and posing for pictures, as clerk Robert Nash typed out the license.

"I'm not nervous," Robb told newsmen. "I haven't had time to be."

PROPOSAL DEFEATED IN 13 SMALL TOWNS

50 More Cities Okay Sales Tax

How Cities Voted

By The Associated Press

Voters, mostly in relatively light numbers, voted on the city sales tax in 63 cities Tuesday. A favorable vote was received in 50 cities. The proposal was defeated in 13, all in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The president of the Texas Municipal League, Mayor Judson Williams of El Paso, said, "We are very happy and gratified and not particularly surprised. As we told the legislature last session, give Texas cities the tool to work with and the citizens will respond."

Since the first sales tax election was held in September, there have been 100, with 77 more to be held this year. Voters in 85 cities approved the tax and 15 turned it down.

Although Fort Worth voters accepted the proposal 14,855 to 10,828, eight other Tarrant County cities rejected it, including Arlington, where it lost by 39 votes.

The Fort Worth City Council had pledged a reduction in property taxes next year if the sales tax was adopted.

Garage Sales Listed Exempt

By The Associated Press

The honored tradition of the garage sale apparently is not subject to the new one per cent city sales tax which has been adopted by 85 Texas cities.

A "sales tax fact sheet" issued prior to Tuesday's election on the proposal in Dallas listed garage sales as an item exempt from the tax.

Among other items not taxable are housing, groceries, prescribed drugs, automobiles, gasoline, alcoholic beverages, tobacco products, agricultural equipment and supplies, meals served in schools, churches and hospitals.

In Dallas, where the proposal was backed by Mayor J. Erik Jonsson and the City Council and opposed by organized labor, it carried by 37,964 to 13,899. Four Dallas County cities rejected the tax, the largest being Garland, where it lost by 29 votes. The Garland mayor and council urged its adoption. The Dallas council said there would be no increase in property taxes before October 1969.

The state's other two largest cities, Houston and San Antonio, also voted in the tax. Bellaire, a Houston suburb, voted in favor of the levy.

Approval of the measure in Houston, by a vote of 71,544 to 23,614, was expected since voters re-elected Mayor Louie Welch who had endorsed the tax in his campaign.

The Houston vote was larger than expected. Welch said he expected a turnout of no more than 70,000 voters.

The San Antonio City Council also pledged to return the ad valorem tax rate to $1.97 per $100 valuation if the sales tax was approved. The rate was to increase by 13 cents next February.

The threat of higher property taxes appeared to be the determining factor in getting property owners to the polls.

The smallest town to vote on the tax Tuesday was Hewitt, south of Waco, with a population of 79. The proposal carried 64 to 5. The issue also passed in Waco.

The vote in Tuesday's election affected 4.1 million persons. By the end of the year cities with populations totaling 6.4 million will have voted on the tax.

The Texas Municipal League said that 84 per cent, or 8.9 million, of the state's estimated 10.5 million persons live in cities.

By The Associated Press

The following Texas cities approved a one per cent sales tax in special elections Tuesday:

Abilene 4,510 for the tax and 1,543 opposed; Anson 218-31; Bellaire 1,977-676; Bellmead 361-98; Beverly Hills 91-43; Brownwood 1,444-231; Carrollton 310-213; Cockrell Hill 142-77; Corsicana 1,189-349; Dallas 37,964-13,899; Denison 1,435-681; Dublin 253-48; Ennis 390-391; Ferris 133-40; Fort Worth 14,855-10,828; Frisco 70-42; Grand Prairie 1,642-850; Grapevine 213-106; Hewitt 64-5; Holland 54-9; Houston 71,544-23,614; Hutchins 50-26; Irving 2,113-1,300; Kaufman 201-67; Killeen 983-515; Lake Dallas 138-50; Lake Worth 179-132; Lancaster 333-282; Laredo 4,010-364; Lewisville 158-91; Longview 1,637-

'SUCCESSFUL'

Connally Back

DALLAS (AP) — An airliner brought Gov. John Connally back home to Texas Tuesday night from a trip to France in behalf of San Antonio's HemisFair '68.

Pleading fatigue, he commented to newsmen only that his journey "was very successful" and retired for the evening.

In New York earlier, Connally predicted "a great resurgence" by summer in the popularity of President Johnson.

"This is the nature of things—the pendulum effect," the governor told reporters as he arrived at Kennedy Airport on a flight from Paris.

Believes Heart Patient Will Live

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—The chief surgeon in history's first heart transplant expressed confidence today that patient Louis Washkansky will survive.

Dr. Christian Barnard said he believed Washkansky's body will make no major rejection of the transplanted heart and any slight rejection would not be serious.

"FIGHTER"

The surgeon told a news conference Washkansky had made marked progress in the past 12 hours, was a "great fighter" and should be home within three weeks if he continues to improve.

While Barnard's brother, who assisted in the operation, was much more cautious, Washkansky began cracking jokes and told a nurse "I am a new Frankenstein."

He "talks about everything under the sun," the nurse reported as the Grootte Schuur Hospital said the 55-year-old wholesale grocer continues in satisfactory condition three days after his epochal operation. A hospital bulletin said all signs show improvement, and "his heart is functioning normally."

But Dr. Marius Barnard, younger brother of the chief surgeon at the operation Sunday, said that if previous transplants are any guide, Washkansky has reached the stage where his body might try to reject the heart of 25-year-old Denise Ann Darvall, who died in an auto accident Saturday night.

CRITICAL

Barnard said the critical period normally should begin three to 10 days after the transplant operation.

Washkansky on Tuesday personally thanked his surgeons for the operation and sent his love to his wife, Ann. The doctors advised Mrs. Washkansky to wait a week before seeing her husband to avoid any chance of infection.

Alleged Plot Investigated

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — A prisoner being questioned about an alleged plot to assassinate Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller dropped out of sight today, leading to speculation that authorities were to give him a lie detector test.

The San Angelo Standard-Times said that the prisoner, Zakar Garogian, 34, was not in his jail cell today. It also said Police Chief Melvin James and state police intelligence officers from Texas and Arkansas who had quizzed Garogian Tuesday were not to be found either.

Garogian had been jailed here more than a month on charges of burglarizing a soft drink bottling company in September.

The newspaper said Garogian has lived in San Angelo off and on in the past.

Garogian's lawyer, Jack Ray of San Angelo, said today that he could not locate either Garogian or Chief James. He said he presumed his client was with James.

The newspaper said police sources indicated that James and other officers may have taken Garogian to Midland or Austin for a lie detector test. Midland is regional headquarters for the Texas Rangers.

Officers have declined to be specific about what the prisoner has told them.

The newspaper said two state police officers from Arkansas arrived about noon Tuesday to join in the investigation.

North Viet May Be Short Of Foodstuffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food ships are getting first priority in unloading at North Vietnam's key port of Haiphong, U.S. sources say, fueling speculation the Communist country is feeling the pinch of food scarcity brought on by war.

Intelligence reports say the North Vietnamese rice harvest has been poor for two years and that the food situation may have worsened.

Intensified U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam roads apparently disrupted this year's rice harvest, the sources said.

NOT STARVING

"They are not starving," said one expert. "But normally they are on close to a subsistence level, and if their food stocks are cut from 10 to 20 per cent, they really have to tighten their belts."

Reports indicate petroleum products make up the largest volume of nonmilitary goods entering North Vietnam through Haiphong. But the unloading of gasoline and oil has rated second to the discharge of cargo ships carrying food.

Authorities declined to say how this intelligence was gathered.

Since last January, Soviet

Bombers Dumping Big Loads On Buildup Areas

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers dumped 450,000 pounds of bombs today on suspected Communist buildup areas near the Cambodian border and just inside North Vietnam.

In two early morning strikes, the eight-engine Stratofortresses dropped 300,000 pounds of explosives on suspected Communist weapons positions and troop concentrations two and three miles north-northeast of the Bu Dop Special Forces Camp 86 miles north of Saigon.

Heavy fighting and Communist mortar and artillery attacks have engaged the Americans off and on since last week around Bu Dop, which is only three miles east of the Cambodian border. Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops have been reported building up in the area from sanctuaries in Cambodia.

vessels have been hauling increasing amounts of wheat and flour from Vladivostok in Siberia to North Vietnam. And Communist Chinese ships have been carrying rice to Haiphong, sources said.

Police kept the demonstrators broken into groups and behind barricades at the induction center, where 264 were arrested Tuesday. Protest leaders said they may cancel a third attempt.

On Nov. 14, Rusk was picketed by a riotous crowd of about 3,000 outside the New York Hilton Hotel, where he made a speech. Barred from the hotel, the crowd milled through the Times Square area, pelting police with stones, bottles and eggs. Forty-six were arrested.

SCUFFLING

Today's demonstration at the induction center was over in three hours. The demonstrators milled up and down the narrow streets, frequently scuffling with passers-by and enraged commuters.

"Stop the Draft" demonstrations were going on at several other points in the country.

In Philadelphia police hauled away 70 demonstrators who tried to block the door to an induction center. About 700 took part in the Philadelphia demonstration.

A marshal of the New York demonstration said she thought perhaps as many as 10,000 had taken part, but police put the figure at closer to 2,000.

About 1,500 policemen had been held on overtime to join the regular force assigned to the demonstration.

Unable to break through police barriers, the demonstrators left the induction center at 39 Whitehall St. and joined other bands roving streets in the area, probing in the words of one police official, "for a weak spot."

Nearly a score of arrests were reported by 8 a.m.

SECOND ROUND

The morning demonstration marked the second round of protest aimed at shutting down the center. It was part of a national "Stop the Draft Week" project sponsored by a coalition of some 50 antiwar and civil rights groups.

More than 1,000 persons took part Tuesday. Estimates of the crowd today were put at about 2,000—but an exact determination was made difficult by the

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS BREAKTHROUGH

New Drug Announced For Treating Ancient Scourge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new oral anti-tuberculosis drug—hailed as apparently representing a new breakthrough in treating the ages-old scourge—is now available for prescription by doctors and hospitals throughout the country.

Spokesmen for Lederle Laboratories of Pearl River, N.Y., which developed the drug after a 10-year search, said Tuesday it was marketed Monday following approval by the Food and Drug Administration.

The drug's trade name is Myambutol and is chemically known as Ethambutol.

The Lederle spokesmen said that in clinical trials involving more than 2,900 tuberculosis patients in the United States and other countries since 1961, Myambutol proved significantly effective in TB cases which had become resistant to standard drugs such as isoniazid, streptomycin and para-amino-salicylic acid or PAS. Myambutol is designed, though, for use in combination with some of the older drugs, especially isoniazid.

SCOURGE

The World Health Organization estimates there are between 15 million and 20 million cases of infectious tuberculosis in the world, with two to three million victims dying annually. A public health service study in 1964 said there were 50,800 newly active cases reported that year in the United States along with 5,303 deaths.

Dr. Robert J. Anderson of New York, medical director of the National Tuberculosis Association, said in answer to a telephone query by The Associated Press:

"Ethambutol appears to represent a new breakthrough in the chemotherapy (chemical treatment) of tuberculosis, particularly in the treatment of patients who have not responded to prior treatment and whose TB germs may be resistant to the major anti-TB drugs."

Anderson said the committee on therapy of the American Thoracic Society—medical section of the tuberculosis society —has invited all clinical investigators involved in the drug's trials to meet with the society in January "to delineate the drug's potential."

Shirley Ferrebee, a medical statistician and chief of the TB research division of the U.S. Public Health Service, told a reporter: "We believe that the new drug is going to make a really significant difference in the treatment of patients."

She explained that the present standard drug treatment for TB is a combination of the drugs isoniazid and PAS, but that PAS "causes a lot of gastrointestinal stress and a lot of patients don't take it."

TOSS IT OUT

"They toss it out the window or down the drain," she said, "and keep in mind that 60 per cent of all TB patients are not sent to the hospital, and treat themselves at home. So, you can see the advantage of using the new drug in combination with isoniazid."

Thwarted Marchers Tackle A New Chore: Rusk's Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — Antiwar demonstrators, thwarted in a new march on an Army induction center, moved uptown today to picket an appearance by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Eight persons were arrested outside the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where Rusk was scheduled to make a luncheon speech for a conference of the National Association of Manufacturers.

ARRESTED

Thirty had been arrested outside the induction center in Lower Manhattan, as about 4,000 policemen frustrated the second demonstration there in as many days. A center spokesman said operations were "completely normal" today.

Police kept the demonstrators moving nature of the demonstration.

At the induction center a spokesman said the Army would not give out figures but added that "the normal scheduled amount came in."

The full 28,000-man Police Department was on standby alert today and their matted ranks seemed to discourage the protesters.

"I don't know what we've done, but we're getting nowhere," said one of the protest leaders over a bullhorn.

BUTTONS

As the group gathered in Battery Park before dawn newsmen spotted about 300 plainmen, identifiable by their green lapel buttons. When the marchers moved out several removed their buttons and joined the ranks.

One demonstrator carried a Viet Cong flag and others shouted "Don't go, don't go!" at a group of inductees entering the center.

Today's demonstrators were generally younger than those Tuesday.

Secret Service Aware Of Assassination Try?

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The U.S. Secret Service was aware of an attempt to kill President Kennedy before his assassination, three lawyers said at a news conference here Tuesday.

This information came from former Secret Service agent Abraham W. Bolden, 32, now imprisoned at the federal medical center in Springfield, his lawyer, John Hosmer, said.

Hosmer and Mark Lane, a lawyer and author of a book on the Kennedy investigation and Richard Burnes, assistant to Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison of New Orleans, held the news conference.

Garrison has instituted an inquiry in New Orleans, saying he has evidence that conspirators based in New Orleans were responsible for the assassination of Kennedy.

Hosmer, from Marshfield, Mo., said Bolden told him he was railroaded into prison for being refused permission to tell the Warren Commission about his information.

A lengthy agenda awaits members of the parks and recreation board when they hold their monthly meeting at 5 p.m. Thursday in City Hall.

Consideration will be given plans for improving the amphitheater entrance and constructing an additional picnic pavilion in City Park. Construction is ready to begin if the plans are approved, according to Ernest Lillard, public works director.

IMPROVEMENTS LIST Establishing a list of proposed improvements, determining the order of priority and requesting funds in the 1968-69 budget for as many projects as possible is also expected at the meeting.

The following list of proposed improvements made by the public works department is subject to additions and eliminations as well as order of priority: construction of restrooms in Lakeview Park; construction of restrooms in Birdwell Park; providing a grassed playground area on two blocks of land on San Antonio between Fifth and Sixth which is leased to the City by the Salvation Army; build club house for golf course; install suitable lighting at City Park tennis courts; possible enlargement of overnight camping facilities.

Claims 'Pill' Kids Find Dope At Home

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Kids looking for kicks from drugs find "a major supply" in their own homes where they play "medicine cabinet roulette," says Florida's arch foe of dope peddlers.

"Mama's overweight and she's on diet pills... or the old man can't sleep, so he has a supply of sleeping pills... and Aunt Sue's been nervous and upset and she has tranquilizers," said Ray Bellinger, inspector in charge of the Florida State Bureau of Narcotics.

All these prescription pills, he said, are casually stocked in the family bathroom.

MAJOR SUPPLY

"The children are well aware of the colors and shapes of these pills," Bellinger said in an interview, "because they see them in school every day."

In "our pill society," Bellinger said, the children freely turn to their homes for a supply of their own.

Bellinger said he knew of "any number of cases of kids that got involved with pills" found in the home. Some required hospital treatment.

"This is a major supply of drugs for kids," Bellinger said. "The majority of those found in high schools come from the family medicine cabinet."

SYRUP PROBLEM

The newest wrinkle in the Miami area, Bellinger said, involves the smoking of cigarettes made for asthma victims. Several children were hospitalized after smoking the special cigarettes, which can be bought without prescription.

Bellinger said he had started a campaign of telephoning druggists, asking them not to sell the cigarettes to minors.

Cough syrup, he said, is a major problem among young people.

"And how they drink all that junk for a drop of codeine is beyond me. It's disgusting. But I've known them to drink up a quart a day. They drink. They throw up, and then they drink some more," Bellinger said.

JACK CATHEY.

Cathey Makes Governor Bid

More than a dozen young people leave today for Austin with high hopes that the West Texas area nominee will be elected governor for the YMCA youth in government project this weekend in the capitol.

He is Jack Cathey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cathey Sr., a six-year veteran of HI-Y work. Jack won the honor of representing this area in the gubernatorial elections Thursday afternoon, winning over other district candidates at the Nov. 8 pre-legislative session in Abilene.

Jack began his HI-Y Club work while in junior high. Last year he was president of the Junior HI-Y Club and vice president of the HI-Y and Tri-HI-Y council, and this year he is president of the council. He has attended numerous Y youth conferences, including the one at Estes Park, Colo. He has been a delegate to the state youth-in-government project the past two years.

District Methodists Blast Alcoholism Study Report

Methodists of the Big Spring district took exception to sections of the report of the Cooperative Commission for the Study of Alcoholism at the annual district conference Tuesday.

Approximately 200 ministers and laymen took part in the conference held at St. Luke's Church and presided over by Dr. Hubert Bratcher, Big Spring district superintendent.

mit the serving of beer and wine in student social centers and cafeterias and at dances and other occasions; 5. that the use of alcoholic beverages not be considered a moral issue, and thus remove the guilt feelings of the alcoholic; and 6. that restrictions on advertising of alcoholic beverages be relaxed.

ABSTINENCE

Delegates also petitioned the 1968 session of the Methodist General Conference to maintain in the Discipline of the Methodist Church the required standard of abstinence for ministers and the standard of abstinence for lay officials and members.

The district meeting also approved unanimously a resolution that "the Methodist Church dedicate itself and its resources to opposing, by every means possible the legalization of the use of habit-forming and hallucination-producing drugs, and to the destruction of the illegal traffic in such drugs."

Dr. Walter Hofelz, professor in the department of religion at McMurry College, called in his message to the conference for a hard facing of the present conditions of the church and the world. Words are not enough, he said, rather it is necessary that the church act, do and be the Word in flesh and bone to the world.

MIDLAND PARLEY

Reports were heard on missions, Christian social concerns, stewardship and finance, hospitals and homes, new adult curriculum, and higher education. Northwest Texas Conference representatives, attending included Dub Harris, Methodist Hospital in Lubbock, and two students from the School of Nursing; Dr. H. Clyde Smith, Abilene, homes for older adults; Dean William and Gene Patty of McMurry College; Dr. Fred Ross, directing the Golden Anniversary campaign for McMurry College.

The conference accepted the invitation of Dr. Timothy Guthrie, pastor, to have the 1968 district parley in the First Methodist Church at Midland.

'Tainted' Oswald Stone Replaced

FORT WORTH (AP) — Mrs. Marguerite Oswald said Tuesday she has replaced the "tainted" headstone at the grave of her son, Lee Harvey Oswald.

The pink granite stone bears only a single word: "Oswald."

"I wanted it just as simple as possible," she said. "I thought the word 'Oswald' was sufficient. That's his name."

Governor's Art Tastes Praised

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Kent M. Siverson doesn't know much about Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's politics, but he thinks the governor's art tastes are impeccable.

Siverson, a 32-year-old teacher and part-time sculptor, had never sold a work until recently.

Upon hearing that Rockefeller wanted to purchase some of his art from American artists, Siverson sent slides of his work to the governor and eventually a sculpture titled "Fusion of Time."

Siverson received a letter from the governor's art curator saying the governor liked the work and wished to buy it. Enclosed was a check for $1,500.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Adopting Sales Tax Called 'Wiser Choice'

To the Editor:

While appreciative of the compliment paid to me by Mary Thomas in last Sunday's Herald, may I point out to Mrs. Thomas that my "honest" statement was qualified.

True, due to good management, the city is currently operating comfortably within its present budget. As I reminded, though, this does not preclude future needs.

To provide some sorely needed, and hardly adequate, increases for the police and fire departments a decision was made last year by a City Commission, of which I was not a member, to increase monthly garbage collection charges from $1.50 to $2.00 in lieu of raising taxes.

It is not reasonable to favor any one group of city employees to the disadvantage of the other employees. Faced with rising costs at all levels, plus a coverage increase in the Federal government's minimum wage rates from $1.40 to $1.60 an hour, all city employees will have to be considered for wage increases in planning next year's budget.

To quote from the "Corpus Christi Caller" of Sept. 1, 1967, in presenting the case for the city sales tax which was later adopted:

"It is important for the voters to understand what choice they are being offered. The choice is not whether city taxes should be increased or not. The choice is how city taxes will be increased. Unquestionably most cities must have more revenue. That is why the Texas Legislature authorized the local-option city sales tax this year.

The cost of government, in prices and wages, is steadily rising. Popular demand is pressing for more and better city works and services. And these must be provided if this city is to grow and prosper and be a safe, healthy and pleasant place in which to live.

No city wants to go backward. But to go forward, the city must either raise property tax rates, now its main revenue source, or adopt the sales tax. We are convinced that the wiser choice would be to adopt the sales tax. Property already carries a heavy multiple burden of state, county, city, school and special district taxes.

The city sales tax would apply only to the same purchases now covered by the state sales tax. The exemptions include food, medicines, shelter, services, and amusements. The tax also would not apply to automobiles, tobacco, gasoline and oil, and alcoholic beverages, all of which are covered by state excise taxation. Among many other exemptions would be farm supplies and equipment and purchases by governmental units and religious, educational and charitable institutions.

The proposed sales tax is too small to make any significant change in intercity shopping patterns, considering travel and time costs. In any event, any slight competitive disadvantage is likely to be shortlived, as more and more Texas cities will find it necessary to levy the local sales tax. Some 2,100 cities already use the local sales tax in the 17 states that now authorize it.

The sales tax will be inexpensive to administer and convenient to pay. The state comptroller will collect it with the state sales tax and refund the revenue to the city each quarter. The city may use the money for any authorized municipal purpose, except bond financing.

Voter approval of the city sales tax is recommended for two practical reasons. We think it is preferable to the higher property tax a t a t i o n inevitable without it, and we believe the city needs the money to help build a better community for all."

The Big Spring case rests. GEO. J. ZACHARIAH

Nervousness plagued this wife for years along with aching of the shoulder girdles and with one shoulder especially sore and painful.

The family had never tried chiropractic but circumstances caused her husband to take spinal correction for headaches and sinus. This helped her so much he insisted his wife be examined as he felt she had suffered too long.

Examination found several points in her spine which had nerve pressure related to them so treatment was begun. Her recovery for the chronic complaints was rapid and she was overjoyed and thankful that she could have the cause removed enough to help her instead of just obtaining temporary relief as this was all she had been able to obtain before.

There was one slight recurrence when there was a family crisis but just a few spinal treatments cleared up the symptoms and so feeling so much better, she could in turn handle the crisis. No. 3025.

'Lost' Soldier Is Civilian Again

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Joe A. Smith, the soldier the Army lost in its filing system for 18 months, is a real civilian today and says "it's a great feeling."

Without comment, the Army put Smith, 23, through its separation processing Tuesday at the Oakland Army Base.

Following Army instructions, he had waited at his Brownsville, Calif., home, standing by for special orders following basic training in 1965 at Ft. Hood, Tex.

After 18 months of waiting, at home with his wife, Glenda, Smith put on his uniform and reported at the Oakland base last June to ask for his discharge.

"It was quite a sweat, but now it's all over, and everything's all right," said Smith after emerging Tuesday from the base with his separation papers.

"Now I want to find me a job here in the Bay area."

Smith's adventure began when he went to his home on 30-day leave. The Army sent him a message there telling him to stand by for special orders.

While he waited Smith took a logging job at $130 a week. The Army's monthly allotment check for $92.50 kept coming to his wife, plus an $18.50 U.S. savings bond every three months.

The American Civil Liberties Union took up Smith's case, contending he had followed the Army's orders precisely.

While the ACLU took the case to court, Smith was assigned to the 6th Army headquarters at the Presidio as a runner and promoted to private first class.

As federal Judge Robert C. Pecham issued a show cause order last Friday for the Army to explain why Smith should not be released, the Army announced he would be discharged.

Smith said he understood the Army would make no claim for the allotment payments to his wife.

"In fact, when everything's computed I should have back pay coming," Smith said.

Small College Borrows Band

DOMINGUEZ, Calif. (AP) — California State College at Dominguez Hills is still so small that officials had to borrow a school band to play for ground-breaking ceremonies.

The 40-member El Camino college band played as Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch turned over the traditional spadeful of earth.

Nearly 150 students—a third of the student body—turned out for the ceremony Tuesday. The college is being constructed to serve 20,000 students. Classes are now held in temporary rented quarters.

Growing Population Creates Voting Puzzle

By The Associated Press

Texas' baby boom and the courts' one-man, one-vote theory have politicians doing a lot of long range figuring about the future of Texas' always turbulent politics.

Recent estimates that the state population will nearly double by 1990, to about 18 million, means more than just doubling the number of possible voters.

The Texas Democratic and Republican parties will feel the population squeeze along with schools, hospitals and highways because much of our government is tied directly to population size.

Federal courts have stressed the need to see that every man and woman gets an equal representation as possible, no matter how large a city or state becomes.

The last legislature took one small step toward preparing political parties for this population explosion.

In 1963 each precinct will name a delegate to the county party convention for each 25 votes cast in that precinct in the last governor's race in a general election, which was 1966. In turn county conventions will name delegates to the state conventions on the basis of each 300 votes.

This means the state Democratic convention will have 3,458 voting delegates. This down considerably from the 6,253 delegates in 1964, based on the heavy Democratic presidential election turnout in 1964.

But does this mean the 1990 state Democratic convention may have 12,500 delegates, when the population is doubled? Not necessarily, because the new election law gives each party's executive committee the right to set the state convention delegate basis from the one to 300, as it is now, to a possible one to 600.

The national parties have the same problem but so far they have not announced how they will handle the situation. However, both parties have much more leeway in setting the size of delegations, using party activity and financial support as a basis for representation as well as the popular vote for president. In 1964 Texas Republicans had 56 delegates to their national convention while Democrats sent a delegation of 99. The 1968 delegate strengths have not been announced.

There are other angles of the fast population increase that are worrying some politicians also. If the estimates are correct, almost half the population of Texas will live in either the Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio areas. El Paso, Corpus Christi and Austin will each have more than half a million population.

This is a long cry from our 1876 Constitution which went to lengths to require that each state representative must speak for at least 15,000 persons. Presently, on the basis of the 1960 census, the average size of a state representative's district is 63,000 with some much larger. There will be a big jump in the 1970 census, with the following reapportionment.

Unless the constitutional 150-member limit on state representatives is changed before the population doubles in 1990, each member may be casting votes for about 125,000 persons in his district. Each of the 31 senators, also limited at that level by the Constitution, would be speaking for more than 500,000 Texans.

That's a lot of hands to shake if you want to be state senator or representative in 1990.

'Cycling' Oldster Wills Big Bundle To San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Before he died at the age of 85 in January, Leroy H. Vane was known as the "cycling carpenter" who rode his bicycle to odd jobs in the Haight-Panhandle district near Golden Gate Park.

On Monday the Bank of America disclosed that Vane, whose wife died in 1964, had left $425,000 in municipal bonds and common stocks to his native San Francisco.

His will didn't insist upon it, but made plain he would like it if the city built a social center for the elderly in Golden Gate Park.

Vane's suggestion will receive every consideration, said Elvin Stendell, president of the Recreation and Parks Commission.

Silent On Plans To Seek U.N. Action On Vietnam

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States kept silent today on plans to seek U.N. action on the Vietnam war amid an apparent U.S.-South Vietnamese split over whether to invite the Viet Cong to participate.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation said no instructions had been received from the White House since the Senate approved a resolution last Friday calling on President Johnson to seek U.N. help to end the war.

Johnson told a news conference Monday that the resolution would be sent to the State Department and U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg for their "reactions" before any steps are taken.

Questioned about the prospects of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front taking part in the proposed Security Council debate, the State Department recalled Goldberg's telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a month ago the United States "would not stand in the way of any group, including the NFL, being invited."

In the wake of the State Department comment, South Vietnam's Foreign Ministry appealed to the United Nations not to allow the world forum to be used for "propaganda purposes."

"The South Vietnamese people can only negotiate with North Vietnam, and will energetically refuse any presence by South Vietnam National Liberation Front representatives under the name or meaning of a separate delegation in any peace negotiations," the foreign ministry said.

Antipoverty Bill Faces Bumpy Road

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees have produced a compromise antipoverty bill after 11 days of hard bargaining but the measure still faces a bumpy road through Congress.

The compromise version agreed to Tuesday would put public officials instead of private citizens in charge of Community Action programs while continuing the over-all antipoverty program at authorized spending levels of $1.98 billion in fiscal 1968 and $2.18 billion in 1969.

TUG-OF-WAR

The measure still must win final approval from a Senate that won't like the shift in control of community programs and a House that won't like the level of spending.

Senate action is possible late this week but the House won't take it up until next week.

In the prolonged bargaining sessions the conferees engaged in a tug-of-war over the provision in the House-passed bill that would make Community Action agencies official arms of the state or local government. Most are now private, nonprofit agencies.

TOUGH NUT

"That was the real tough nut," said Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., chairman of the Senate conferees, summing up the conference after Tuesday night's agreement.

The change was written in by Democrats on the House Education and Labor Committee to win support for the over-all program from Southerners and big-city members who objected to the loose reins under which many private agencies operate.

"It was a tough decision," said Clark of the Senate's reluctant surrender on the issue. "But I believe in the end the bill is not only better than no bill at all, but does hold out some hope for meaningful programs for the poor."

The Senate did manage to strengthen a provision in the House bill under which the director of the Office of Economic Opportunity can fund another agency if the official agency fails to draft or carry out a satisfactory program.

VICTORY

The Senate also succeeded in eliminating from the House bill a requirement that communities put up in cash 10 per cent of the cost of a local project. Present law permits the local contribution to be in services or facilities and that provision was retained.

Senate conferees also boosted the authorization well above the $1.6 billion the House had approved and added the second-year authorization. The actual funds will have to be appropriated in separate legislation, however, and will probably be substantially lower.

A Senate provision designed to improve coordination of the many antipoverty programs throughout the federal government also was agreed to by the House, as was another Senate provision for special programs.

Arrick Loses Another Bout

Jerry Arrick, convicted nearly 20 months ago of DWI second offense, and his punishment fixed at nine months in the county jail, has lost another round in the court of criminal appeals.

The appellate court has denied Arrick's motion for a rehearing of his appeal. The original appeal had already been denied by the appeals court and the judgment of the 118th District Court affirmed.

Wayne Burns, district attorney, said the defendant can still file a motion for a second rehearing if he so desires.

Arrick was found guilty by a District Court jury on March 19, 1966. The offense for which he was tried allegedly occurred on Aug. 24, 1965.

New Film Goers Rediscover Fields

By ROB THOMAS
AP Movie TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — That notorious opponent of the establishment, W. C. Fields, appears to be the latest screen immortal to be embraced by the new generation of film goers.

It's still not certain whether the rediscovery of Fields was entirely spontaneous or was inspired by the alert salesmen of Universal Pictures. The company made some test engagements of Fields' comedies in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit in late summer, and was encouraged to launch a full-scale campaign.

"MY LITTLE CHICKADEE" Such films as "Bank Dick," "You Can't Cheat An Honest Man," "My Little Chickadee" and "Never Give a Sucker An Even Break" have been playing in two New York theaters and

Peace Corps Troubles Up

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Because of the "cynical" attitude of many young Americans, applications to join the Peace Corps have declined 30 per cent this year, says the corps' national recruiting director.

Ray Holland attributed the drop off to troubles such as the Vietnam war and U.S. rioting which he says have "made young Americans cynical about their ability to change anything in the world."

He was confident that the year-end total would be closer to 1966's total because the corps this year departed from its tradition of doing heaviest recruiting during the fall and spread it more evenly throughout the year.

Some "big contributing schools haven't been hit yet," Holland said.

"None of us subscribes to the belief that the Peace Corps is dying, or is gravely ill, or that it is no longer a valid option for all Americans," said corps selection director Joe Farrell, who joined Holland on a recruiting team visiting California schools.

Holland said there is "an increasing reluctance on the part of young people to become associated with the U.S. government, which they see waging a war they cannot support."

Pale, Calm Gunman Robs Houston Bank Of $53,249

HOUSTON (AP) — Police searched today for a pale, thin gunman who robbed a southwest Houston bank of $53,249 Tuesday.

Mercantile National Bank employees described the bandit who emptied the contents of three cash drawers into a black briefcase as "very quiet and very calm."

One employe said the robber was so quiet when he came up behind her that she nearly slammed the cash drawer on his hand.

"HOLD IT, LADY" Bank President Jim D. McBee said the robber, with a black revolver, came in the back door and when he had emptied the cash drawers he calmly left the same way.

"I was standing at my adding machine when my cash drawer started opening," said Mrs. Barbara Littrell, 30, a bank teller. "I slammed it and nearly got his hand caught."

"All he said was 'Hold it, lady, this is a holdup,'" she added.

FEAR Mrs. Elaine Gahl, 46, a bookkeeper, said the robber forced her to walk to Mrs. Littrell's cage and then walk down to the other two cages.

"I don't suppose he said over six words to me the whole time," she said.

Ernest Bomar, vice president, said he saw the robber at Mrs. Littrell's cage but he was afraid to do anything for fear the woman would be harmed.

The robber was described as being a white man about 28 years old, around 5-9 and wearing a dark suit.

Witnesses said he was very thin and pale as though he had been sick or had just finished serving a long jail sentence.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠

Failure by West to find the killing lead against South's four spade contract was not necessarily fatal to the defensive prospects; however, an impulsive play subsequently assured declarer of victory.

Altho West could have assured declarer's defeat by cashing the ace of diamonds at the outset he chose to open the jack of hearts. South won the trick in his hand with the queen and proceeded to cash the ace and king in order to dispose of the jack of diamonds.

West ruffed the third round of hearts with the nine of spades and made a belated attempt to obtain his diamond trick by shifting to the ace of that suit. South ruffed and led a spade from his hand. West was in with the queen and continued diamonds. North put up the king, and another round of spades brought forth the jack, king, and ace.

Declarer claimed the balance and his contract, having lost three trump tricks on the deal.

West should have realized, when his opponent was in so great a hurry to dispose of the jack of diamonds, that South had a singleton and the diamond trick was, therefore, irrevocably lost. Unless East has a trick in clubs, the only legitimate chance to recover is to play partner for a singleton club and two trumps, in which case East may be given a club ruff.

If West shifts to a club after running the third heart, he will regain the lead with the queen of spades in time to play a second club, for East to trump with the jack of spades. The ace of spades subsequently scores the setting trick.

'Fashion Extravaganza' Seen At Big Spring Country Club

By JO BRIGHT

The "Star Studded Fashion Extravaganza" presented Tuesday evening at Big Spring Country Club began on a note of delighted laughter — and ended like the sweet, clear call of a bugle as Walter Wheat, Mrs. Russell Hicks and Mrs. Don Newsom led the assembled guests and models in singing "God Bless America."

The impressive finale came as Mrs. Hayes Stripling Jr., Mrs. James Duncan and Mrs. George McAllister, wearing fluttering chiffon gowns in red, white and blue, stood center stage as Mrs. Dean Forrest, commentator for the show, read a tribute to "Old Glory."

The newest for now, and fashions for the near future were shown by Swartz and Elmo Wasson with ladies' shoes by Barnes - Pelletiers. Approximately 200 club members and their guests attended the formal affair and were served dinner in a ballroom festively decorated for the holiday season. Overhead were gold tinsel starbursts, and tables were centered with cedar clusters circling red tapers and gold glittered stars.

Showing fashions from Swartz were Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Stripling, Mrs. Newsom, Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Kimball Guthrie, Mrs. McAllister, Mrs. DeLora Poss, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. John Burgess, Mrs. John Taylor and Mrs. R. S. Galbraith Jr.

Models for Elmo Wasson were Col. Chester J. Butcher, Arnold Marshall, Don Newsom, Joe Price, John Burgess, Don Womack, Lester Morton, Grant Boardman, Dr. Fred W. Lurting, Jerry Worthing and R. J. Ream.

Mrs. R. L. Heith was general chairman for the show, and Mrs. Bill C. Coleman was in charge of tickets and reservations. The decorations committee was composed of Mrs. Z. M. Boykin, chairman; Mrs. Wanda Griffith, Mrs. Frank Dillon, Mrs. Jim Zike, Mrs. Gil Jones and Mrs. Galbraith. Mrs. Jo Bright was publicity chairman.

Mrs. Forrest began the evening by introducing fashions that poked a bit of fun at old-fashioned staidness as pretty "swingers" made the scene in at-home costumes that could turn an ordinary evening into something very special.

Mrs. Poss was a color-splashed canvas in slender banlon pajama pants worn under a side-split gown in pulsating print of blue, brown and gold, and Mrs. Guthrie gave a laugh with the guests as they joined the fun of her charming green and white Zodiac design, fitted pants with eased, elongated shirt.

"Camelot" came alive as Mrs. Newsom appeared in a brief zebra striped top, reminiscent of a page boy with its companion jet black leopard, while most modern was Mrs. Johnson in classic casuals; silky pants in hot pink worn with a shirt-tail top that used bold, bright colors.

Mrs. Duncan looked like a luxury-loving lady in her very private costume composed of black quilted velvet tunic and stark white tights, and Mrs. Stripling took a last look at the fireplace before joining the ski crowd in her sporting suit of black pants, pearl trimmed white wool sweater and fur-hooded poplin.

Clothes for those who are constantly on the go — and going places — were shown by models from both stores during the second portion of the presentation.

Mrs. Poss made a stunning entrance in a matching coat and dress of clear orange wool trimmed in navy blue, the dress sleeveless and the coat double buttoned. Mrs. Guthrie chose a smart black and white two-piece costume bowed with black satin and the slim skirt bound at the waist with the same sheen, while Mrs. Galbraith took to a classic, collarless clutch coat in beautiful coral which boasted large patch pockets and was worn over a spare-lined white dress.

Mrs. Taylor's handsome dress and coat costume was of wool knit; the coat in a patriotic plaid of red, white and blue while the dress was a nautical navy. The tent worn by Mrs. Robert Johnson was an easy-care blend of nylon and cotton in kaleidoscope colors that arranged themselves in horizontal stripes, and Mrs. James Duncan appeared in a dress and coat combination in black and bronze knit which featured a black mink collar on the three-quarter length topper.

The look of leather was beautifully shown by Mrs. Burgess in a cotton canvas coat squared off in coffee leather and a dress of soft, supple kid. She was followed by Mrs. McAllister in a "total look" that combined a melon and slate shadow plaid tailored dress with a solid slate grey coat, and Mrs. Hicks showed a tent dress that was a splash of psychedelic stripes on crisp linen.

The other side of the coin showed it was worth twice the money when Mrs. Stripling showed a truly reversible coat in burnished plaid of grey, black and pumpkin worn over a basic dress in the same pumpkin color.

A pace-setting style was introduced by Mrs. Don Newsom who wore a be-furred and beautiful coat of cocoa brown leather lavished with grey fox. Her dress was high-necked and sleeveless, of cinnamon leather with top seaming.

The prettiest part of the presentation — and "pretty" is a fashionable word again — was the showing of evening wear for both men and women.

Mrs. McAllister stepped into a shining social season in a blue cloud of silk chiffon which swept to the floor from a high circle of a neckline formed of multi-colored stones and sequins. Mrs. Poss decided on the siren look as she stepped on stage wearing a slender silver of black crepe, daringly slit from the hemline and sparkled by a jeweled belt and two-rows of rhinestone trim.

An elegant silver grey crepe ball gown worn by Mrs. Guthrie was adorned in bib effect with iridescent sequins and smoky pearls. The floor-length shell was enhanced by cape panels. Mrs. Galbraith played up her blonde beauty with a full-length coat and ball gown of silk faille accented with silver filaments and embroidered clusters of gold beading, while Mrs. Taylor was eye-catching in orange ice chiffon that drifted in panels from a neck adornment of gold and silver beading.

After compliments — after five — was Mrs. Newsom in a Paris pink cocktail costume that drew applause from the audience. The long-lined bodice of the short pink alaskine frock was delicately traced with bugle beads, pearls and rhinestones, and the cover-up was a simple shorty jacket.

Mrs. Johnson personified the "golden girl" in a completely feminine gown of lace overlaid with chains of gold sequins and heavily gold-plated at the neckline and full sleeves. Just as striking was Mrs. Duncan whose exquisite gown of pure white chiffon was a classic beauty with deep vee yoke encrusted with crystals of beading and shimmering stones.

The test of tradition was easily passed by Mrs. Burgess who wore a graceful gown of pale pink slipper satin fashioned with deeper pink sequins on the semi-fitted bodice, and Mrs. Hicks made her debut in a pure-lined, lovely gown of candlelight slipper satin that had a wear-it-or-not sparkling belt as the extra touch.

Afire with glitter, Mrs. Hayes Stripling Jr. stepped into the limelight of recognition in a flame chiffon gown that would not soon be forgotten. The ruby red gown was styled with band collar and straight yoke extravagantly encrusted with flashing stones.

The cloudy, cold days are more conducive to Christmas shopping than the sunshiny ones. Monday we had a cheery hello from the BILL NEELS, visited MRS. LESTER MORTON in several places in a department store as we both pondered presents; MRS. J. H. EASTHAM was doing the finishing touches on her list and any number of folk kept popping up at the same place I was. It's as good to see the old friends at this time of year as it is to get a present... much more pleasant.

Former residents, MR. and Mrs. J. T. (SONNY) ROGERS, and their family were here from Houston over the weekend to visit his mother, MRS. LAVERNE ROGERS, and his brother, BOB ROGERS, and his family.

MRS. TRUETT VINES has returned from Comanche where she has visited a good friend, MRS. EDWARD SEAY. The two went to Dallas Sunday where they attended the Johnny Carson stage show at the coliseum Sunday night. The trip and show was a birthday present for Mrs. Vines from her

Receive Top Awards At Football Dinner

Randy Matson Works Hard For '68 Games

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Five days a week a man tugs and hauls at the weights. He's been doing it since September. "I had 40 meets in one month with only one workout," said Randy Matson, the world's greatest shot putter. "But you already are strong enough to throw the shot 71 feet 5 1/2 inches," he was told. "Oh, I'm pretty strong. I now press 400 and do 450 in the squat, which is fairly close to the best I ever did. But a fellow always wants to be stronger. That's the only way to improve at throwing the shot."

Matson is preparing for the Olympics scheduled in Mexico City next October. He will compete in possibly a half-dozen indoor meets and a full schedule next spring. Randy hasn't taken any time off from a long Canadian and European tour and then competition in the pre-Olympics in Mexico City.

"Seems like I haven't rested in two years," said Matson. "But I never have gotten very tired anyway. Just working at throwing the shot can't make you very tired."

Matson will wind up at Texas A&M in the spring but he'll stay here and train for the Olympic trials in June.

Randy hasn't thrown the shot since he won at Mexico City and he won't be throwing it until January when he will appear in the Los Angeles Times and Los Angeles Invitational indoor meets and in February when he'll compete in the San Diego Invitational.

Matson's best on his tour was 68 feet 1 inch but he said he never had gone all out and was content to throw well enough to win. He lost only once — to Neal Steinhauer of Oregon — and he got only 65-1 to Steinhauer's 65-3. He beat Steinhauer twice in Canada, once in England and once in Germany. "He was pretty tired," Matson said. Steinhauer now is in the Army but expects to be able to compete in the Olympics.

"I had 40 meets in one month with only one workout," said Matson of his tour. "I was in 15 meets in 20 days in Europe. It got pretty boring and besides I wasn't trying to break any records."

He said the altitude didn't bother him in the least in Mexico City. "A shot putter doesn't do much running and the altitude doesn't affect your throwing," he explained. "Some of the runners said they were handicapped, others didn't."

"Since you already have won the Olympics in Mexico City is there any need going back?" he was asked.

"Yeah, but that didn't count. There is no substitute for the Olympics. It's next October when they hand out the gold medals for the Olympic championships."

HC Foe Boasts Record Of 8-2

Christian College of the Southwest, which meets HCJC in the first round of the Odessa Basketball tournament at 4 p.m. Thursday, won eight of its first ten starts and is averaging 99.2 points a game.

The Dallas-based club has two scorers averaging 23.7 points or better a game, including Joe Hamilton, last year the second leading scorer in the nation's junior college ranks. Hamilton is hitting at a 28.1-per game clip.

The CCSW club lost to Lon Morris in two overtime periods, 108-106, and were beaten by four points in the Oral Roberts Tournament at Tulsa, Okla., last week.

Among other teams, CCSW has beaten Fort Worth Christian College, 114-80, and the University of Houston freshmen, 92-81. Ranger College is rated the team to beat in the Odessa meet but CCSM is regarded almost as highly.

The Odessa tournament is sponsored by that city's Chamber of Commerce and a Homecoming queen will be crowned at the conclusion of the three-day event.

Other pairings sends Ranger against Lubbock Christian College at 2 p.m., Odessa against Cisco at 7 p.m., and New Mexico JC against St. Phillips at 9 p.m., all on Thursday.

Odessa won last year's meet, turning back New Mexico JC in the finals, 111-84.

HCJC is a two-time winner of the meet, having prevailed in 1961 and again in 1964.

Among former District 2-AA AA stars who will appear in the meet are Bobby Vincent, Midland; and Mark Withrow, Abilene, both with NMJC; Don Roberts, Abilene, now with Cisco; Robert Jackson, Terry Fields and Simon Terrazas, all of Big Spring, now with HCJC; Billy Ford, Odessa; Brian Harper, Abilene; Stan Hurston, Odessa; and Dale Connally, Odessa, all now with Odessa College.

Steer Comeback Topples Lubbock

By TOMMY HART

Lubbock High threw up surprising resistance but Big Spring regrouped after a ho-hum first half to topple the Westerners, 78-66, here Tuesday night.

The victory was the second in three starts against Lubbock this season. Over-all, the Longhorns are 5-2.

Big Spring will return to competition here Thursday night in a battle that is sure to be very fluid. The locals meet Hobbs, N.M., a team which throws defensive stratagems out of the window in favor of all-out attack.

The Longhorns could do little right the first half against Lubbock but adjusted very well after the intermission and won going away. The locals trailed, 43-37, at half time.

Lubbock was in charge mainly because it was controlling the boards and rarely giving the Steers a follow-up shot. Not until six minutes had elapsed in the third period did the Longhorns take a lead they never lost. At that time, Danny Clendenin hit a bucket that sent the locals to the fore, 53-52.

In the fourth, two of the Westerners' tallest players, Jim Roberson and Danny Land, fouled out and Lubbock had to try to run and shoot with the Steers. Roberson went out with 6:36 to go in the game at a time Big Spring led, 58-54. Land departed with 3:59 left, when Big Spring boasted a 62-59 edge.

OPPOSE CUBS

SNYDER—Big Spring will face Brownfield in the first round of the 13th annual Canyon Reef Basketball tournament here Friday at 2 p.m.

In other first round action, Seminole tackles Brownwood at 3:30 p.m.; Phillips opposes Crane at 5 p.m.; and Fort Stockton tries Snyder at 8:30 p.m.

The tournament ends Saturday night.

The Steers hit on 23 of 47 field goal attempts and connected 25 times in 38 times at the penalty line.

Lubbock simply couldn't miss the first half, banging in 18 field goals in 24 attempts in that period. The visitors cooled off to seven buckets in 21 tries the second half but enjoyed a warm 55 per cent from the field for the night.

Wayne (Goose) Johnson and Clendenin were again on target for Big Spring, scoring 24 and 20 points, respectively. Snake Tucker accumulated 13 points for the locals and led in capturing rebounds, with ten.

The Steers seemed to pick up after Dean Gilstrap ventured onto the court. Gilstrap was especially effective after the half. He pulled down five caroms, clogged up the middle effectively and settled for eight points.

Marc Couch led the Westerners with 22 points while Roberson tossed in 14 before he departed. Wayne Johnson was next to Tucker in rebounds with seven.

Roberson captured 12 rebounds and Land eight for Lubbock before they departed. The Westerners now have a 2-6 record.

In B team action, Lubbock won easily, 58-42, after building up a ten-point edge at half time.

Mike Adams counted 18 points and Hershel Meriwether 11 for Lubbock in that one. Big Spring was led by Jim Butler, who settled for 12.

Nature Forever Seeking Areas To Stock Species

LA PORTE — An eagle flying over the wrong type of terrain: a pair of ducks nesting on the wrong continent; all are recent occurrences along the upper Gulf Coast, pointing out that nature is continually looking for vacuums in which to stock new species.

There is a protected poacher, a golden eagle, on the National Refuge near Anahuac. Russ Clapper, manager of the refuge, is rather proud of the big screamer because "a golden eagle on the Coastal Prairie is a casual visitor." Bird books say the golden eagle is to be found in mountains or high rangelands. However, this golden eagle is wintering on (and over) the coastal marsh, and like its near kin the bald eagle, it is following the goose flocks, preying on the sick and the stupid.

Last summer a pair of masked ducks were found on the Anahuac Refuge. This caused more than a little stir among bird watchers as well as waterfowl biologists since they are supposed to venture no farther north than upper South America and the West Indies.

To add to the unique circumstances these two little ducks — which closely resemble the native ruddy and are called "masked" because of the black around their eyes — were successful in making love, nesting and raising a clutch of four young. This isn't yet a resident flock but it is a start.

Nature is continually conducting her own stocking experiments. If nature likes the arrangement, these species may become a regular winter resident of the Texas coast.

STERLING CITY — Sands at 5 p.m. and the boys at 6:20 p.m. In the girls' game, Sara Bledsoe, Londa Kemp, Brenda Ingram, Diane Cheatham and Ernie Heredia all played fine ball for Sands in the backcourts. The win proved costly to the boys, however, since Ike Lewis, tallest player on the team, went out with a twisted ankle. He'll be idle about two weeks. The Sands boys built up a 37-19 lead at half time and never had any trouble thereafter. Coach Arlen White saw fit to use all his talent. Claude Fryar had 19 points and Kynn Maxwell 13 in the effort. The Mustangs' record is now 2-1. In the girls' game, Jan Nichols waxed warm for Sands, scoring 21 points. The Sands girls now boast a 4-4 record. Kramer Predicts Revolt Among Netters At Hand

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Kramer, once the czar of pro tennis, predicted today that the world's leading amateur players will defy their national organizations and back Wimbledon to the hilt in its move for an open tournament. "I am positive that men such as Arthur Ashe, Charlie Pasarell and Cliff Richey, who form the guts of our Davis Cup team, and Billie Jean King, the queen of women's tennis, would risk suspension and play in an open tournament at Wimbledon," Kramer added. "That's not all. I think you'll find the same sort of uprising in Australia, France, Italy and other countries where big time tennis is played. "All the players I've spoken with have the greatest admiration for the Wimbledon plan to hold an open tournament. They are ready to give full support. British Lawn Tennis Association authorities, who conduct the biggest tournament of them all, announced earlier this year that they would throw the 1968 Wimbledon event open to amateurs and pros—in defiance of the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Charley West of Big Spring was a second team selection as a safety on defense on the United Press International's 1967 All-America selections announced recently. He could be picked off as a first round draft choice, because athletes with his talents for intercepting the ball and running back punts and kickoffs are rarer than triple-threat quarterbacks. West, of course, is playing out his string at University of Texas—El Paso. He'll perform against Ole Miss in the Sun Bowl game. During the regular season, Charley intercepted four passes (compared to 11 last year), ran back 26 punts for 235 yards and returned 14 kickoffs for 277 yards. Joe Jaure, another Big Springer playing with UTEP, picked off three enemy aerials. Incidentally, the Miners played to 242,521 paying customers in their nine games. The two largest crowds they drew were against Arizona State (39,143) and the University of Arizona (37,000), both on the road. Their largest home crowd (35,023) sat in when the Miners hosted the University of Wyoming. Willie Worsley, the UTEP basketball star, has grown three inches since he arrived on the El Paso school's campus. He's up to 5-10 now. Rice Coach Bo Hagan is another who maintains that Texas Tech had the best personnel of any football team the Owls faced all year. That TCU quarterback might have made All-American had his name been Shebang rather than Shabay. The University of Indiana wasn't considered a weak sister in Big Ten athletics even before the Hoosiers tied for the football championship and earned the trip to the Rose Bowl. The grid title was the fourth athletic crown Indiana has won in its league in the last 12 months. The others have come in swimming, cross country and basketball. The freshman footballers at the University of Alabama, whose big brothers meet Texas A&M in the Cotton Bowl game New Year's Day, didn't lose a game the past season. A Yugoslavian jockey named Vladimir Zivkovic arrived at Sunland Park recently to accept mounts. He's also been in the irons in tracks in Germany, France, Austria and his native land. Andrews lost its first three basketball games this season by a total of five points. One of these reversals was a one-pointer to Big Spring. Permian High School in Odessa has completed its 1968 football schedule with the addition of Ball High School of Galveston. The two clubs meet in Odessa the night of Oct. 25. Permian returns the game the same weekend in 1969. The Panthers open their 1968 season against Tascosa in Amarillo Sept. 13. Oklahoma State University has won the NCAA team wrestling title 25 times since the meet came into being in 1928.

Should We Lose $342,000?

The matter of federal assistance in developing an airport facility to keep this area abreast of future demands needs to be considered, as Howard County voters vote Dec. 16 on propositions to create an Airport Authority and authorize the issuance of bonds for improvements.

The County Commissioners Court some months ago made application for an initial grant under the Federal Aid Airport Program, and the sum of $198,426 has been allotted.

More recently, the court made application for a subsequent grant, coming under the next federal fiscal year, in the amount of $144,188.

These two figures total $342,614 which can be expected under the aid program.

This is prime evidence that the government of the United States of America thinks that airport improvement is vitally important, and that the proposals for the Howard County Airport make good sense.

If the local proposals are not approved, this money, of course, will be lost to Howard County. The initial grant (which is dependent upon county action by Dec. 31) will be cancelled, and the second application would not even be processed. The airport aid money would be distributed to other communities moving ahead with airport programs.

There is good question about when the same grants would ever be available to Howard County. They, of course, have to be matched by local outlay.

This action for federal aid demonstrates that much planning has gone into the proposed airport development. The area now has an opportunity to update its air facilities, and put them in shape to help insure public carrier service, provide an airport accommodation that would be of more interest to business and industries seeking locations, and provide a terminal building that is not a blight.

The opportunity is here now, for us to stay in step with an advancing world of transportation service. It might not come this way again for many years.

Pertinent Question

After an initial flurry, the proposal of Harry Edwards, a Negro professor of sociology in California, to organize a black boycott of the 1968 Olympic games seems to be waning. This is all to the good.

A few rose to the bait, among them Tommie Smith, a Negro sprint champion who said he wouldn't compete in Mexico City because "winning gold medals for a country where I don't have my freedom is irrelevant."

Of course, the fact is that Tommie Smith would first have to win the right to represent his country, and it is not a foregone conclusion that he or any other athlete will be able to do this. There are too many variables. But assuming that he could, his reasoning is based on some ideal that does not exist anywhere in the world. Virtually every nation has its prejudices, but in no nation has there been such a remarkable stride of accepting a man for what he can do as in America, and especially on the athletic field.

When Jackie Robinson cracked the barrier in the major leagues, doors were opened in virtually all other sports. It is to the credit of our Negro youth that they have excelled in a greater degree than their ratio to total population. Columnist John Chamberlain raises a pertinent question: Don't we have a right to be represented by the best athletes we can assemble regardless of race, or is the Ku Klux Klan alone entitled to representative participation in the Olympics?

John Cunniff Canada Counters Inflation

NEW YORK (AP)—Canada and the United States are vastly different lands as a few Americans will tell you. Consider the differences in size alone.

Canada in area is much larger than the United States — second only to the Soviet Union, in fact — but it has only 29 million people compared to the 200 million which inhabit the United States.

It has a government budget of less than $10 billion compared with more than $100 billion in the United States.

THE GROSS national product, the total of all goods and services, is between $60 billion and $70 billion in Canada and between $70 billion and $80 billion in the United States.

The national economies, obviously, are very different in size, but beyond that the dissimilarities are far less obvious, the similarities far easier to observe. Each exports prodigious amounts of goods to the other. Each

Billy Graham

I often hear you talk about secularism. You seem pretty sure that we are living in what you call a secular society. All right, if we are, then don't you think that Christianity should adapt itself to a secular society, identify with it, and witness from that standpoint? S.T.

The genius of Christianity through the centuries has been its ability to Christianize secular trends, rather than conforming itself to them. If Christianity, for example, had adapted itself to the Roman culture with all its pagan practices, it would have vanished in a decade, or at the longest, a century. But it stood head and shoulders above society, calling it up from lasciviousness, up from absorption with pleasure, sex perversion and the love of money.

Many today are trying to adapt the Christian teaching to the world, but the world needs to adapt itself to Christ and His teaching. True, Christians have remained too aloof from the world and its problems. But what we must guard against is being contaminated by, and conformed to the world, its philosophy, and its ethics. The Gospel of Jesus Christ is revolutionary, and that word means "changing," "transforming," and that is precisely what it has done through the centuries. Either society will adulterate Christianity, or Christianity will transform society. The early disciples "turned the world upside down." Ours needs to be turned right side up.

invests in the other's country. Some industries are jointly owned.

IT IS THIS economic closeness that makes the recent fiscal action in Canada of such importance and interest to the United States. Canada has raised taxes; it has promised to cut spending; it is countering inflation.

These, of course, are the very aims that clearly have been frustrated in the United States, although the cause of the frustration is perhaps less clear and is still open to political interpretation.

In an effort to combat rapidly rising prices, costs and interest rates — the same inflationary rashes now pocking the heated American economy — the Canadian government has approved an entire tax package.

ITS MOST important move, or the one at least that affects the most people, is a five per cent surtax on personal incomes.

In addition to this, it has speeded corporate tax payments, boosted the tobacco and alcohol taxes and made provisions for a smaller than expected budget increase for the next fiscal year.

Beyond this, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp is reported also to be planning meetings with labor, business and other groups to set up temporary and voluntary restraints on inflationary pressures.

SPECIALLY, but with some refinements not necessary to mention, the surtax means taxpayers will pay an additional 5 per cent on their basic tax in excess of $100, and up to a maximum of $600 of basic tax.

It means that tobacco and alcohol taxes will go up about 10 per cent, adding a two-cent levy on a pack of cigarettes, about 15 or 20 cents on a bottle of liquor, and about four cents on a six-pack of beer.

This relatively speedy action in Canada can be compared with the frustrations in the United States of both Congress and the administration, neither can convince the other.

THE SOLUTION, in the view of most but not all economists, is to take some money out of the economy — slow the economy to a sustainable level of expansion — and with that money pay off the government budget deficit.

Whatever device is used to counter inflation in the United States, it must be taken soon. The present inflation, which is rising, will damage not only the American economy and its position in world affairs, but will also hurt the closely related economy of its Canadian neighbor.

James Marlow Vietnam Dilemma Is Like A Sleeping Pill

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is one of the strangest moments in American history, a marking-time moment.

To see Congress do a half-baked job, as it has done in 1967, the year before a presidential election year, is not unusual. In the past it could be taken to mean energies were being reserved for what lay ahead.

But more than the upcoming election is on the American mind now and Congress is reflecting a national condition, like holding the breath before making a move, even though this country is up to its neck in war, which is an active thing.

THE NATION seems to be waiting to see how the Vietnamese war turns out before using its enormous vitality for its shores and its housework. The war is the root of the present condition.

America is pretty well divided into hawks and doves on the war. The hawks at least know what they want, which is to force the North Vietnamese to stop their aggression.

But the doves are a mentally motley crew. Few seem to have any clear idea, thought through, on how to settle the war without creating vast new problems for the United States or the people of Southeast Asia if the United States pulls out or makes fatal concessions in order to get out.

Yet, the end is nowhere in sight for hawks or doves, despite the optimistic pronouncements of the Johnson administration. This by itself is baffling for both sides.

BUT ONE thing is clear: Their concern with the war—in some cases their obsession with it—diverts their interest and energies from far-reaching and constructive efforts for the problems at home.

Add to them the multitude of people who have no strong feeling about Vietnam either way. They may be ill-informed on how the United States got into the war or puzzled to know how stopping communism in far-off Asia can affect American safety in the future.

They may be vague on the rightness or wrongness of the war, their ideas going perhaps like this: So long as we're in it, we ought to try to win it. Or, we'll have to trust the President to know what he's doing. Or, President Johnson should never have gotten us into it and the best thing is to get out.

BUT NO matter what their thoughts on the conflict, the people are troubled by the war, just as Congress is. And, judging from the way Congress has performed this year, there seems to be an attitude, not necessarily deliberate, of letting pressing things at home wait until the war is solved.

Another way to say it is that the dilemma of Vietnam is like a sleeping pill.

Hal Boyle Fads, Follies, Scalawags

NEW YORK (AP) — Wars and politics make up the dusty bones of any people's history.

But to make a people come truly alive you have to know what "turned them on" when they were living flesh—what the pastimes pleased them, what follies they followed, what follies led them to act as they did.

In an earlier day H. L. Mencken, the Baltimore sage, did much to sustain the view of the rest of the world that the United States is not only the richest but also the nuttiest fruitcake on earth.

HIS MANTLE as the chief historian of our national wackiness seems to have fallen on another newspaperman — Paul Sann, executive editor of the New York Post.

A wiry, graying-haired man of 53 with impeccable personal culture, Sann has only one character defect, if it can be called a defect—a literary love for oddballs, screwballs, soul savers, mental scalawags, and con men of all kinds who brighten the grist of the day's news. He collects them as lesser connoisseurs board rare coins, seashells or stamps.

HE HAS put the results of 30 years of research in this field into a 376-page volume entitled "Fads, Follies and Delusions of the American People: A Pictorial Story of Madness, Craves and Crowd Phenomena."

If Gen. Charles de Gaulle of France is on your Christmas list, you simply must send a copy to him—but you'll have even more fun reading it yourself. SANN methodically and merrily traces student manias ranging from goldfish swallowing to panty raids and campus revolts, women's fashions from the Eugenie hat to the miniskirt, popular music from "Yes, We Have No Bananas" to Elvis, Presley and the Beatles.

He recalls such idiosyncratic figures of the last half century as Flaggpole Kelly, Dr. Francis Townsend, Billy Sunday, Father Divine, and Oom the Omnipotent. Remember Technocracy, the lunion derbies, hula hoops, the ouija board, chain letters, Dr. Emilie Coue, raccoon coats, and coonskin caps? Sann tells the story behind the story of how each managed to catch attention—and the cash—of the crowd. It makes for sobering as well as vastly entertaining reading.

TAKE, FOR example, the sudden death of film star Rudolph Valentino in 1926, an event which led a crowd of 30,000 hysterical women to storm the funeral parlor where his body was on display.

Was it simply an outburst of mass adoration for a screen idol? Hardly. Sann points out that the associates of Valentino, who died half a million dollars in debt, hired 40 press agents to stir up a crowd reaction. It was so successful, he says, that the reissue of Valentino's films brought in enough money to pay off all debts and leave $700,000 in profit.

Like any physician, I am wholeheartedly committed to stopping side effects if they appear or, better yet, keeping them from starting.

But if worries about "harmful effects" stopped us from using cortisone, we would pay a price. The price would be inability to treat dozens of ailments which respond readily to proper doses of cortisone.

The same applies to many other modern medications.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for your copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim A Memorable Moment

Personally memorable moments come in the most unexpected way. They happen suddenly, like the flare of a meteor, and are gone—yet they are firmly fixed in the mind's treasure house.

ABOUT 10 YEARS ago, Fred Waring brought his troupe for his first appearance in Big Spring, an event which was repeated four years later and will be repeated again next week. The production was a tremendous success—people standing along the walls for the entire performance. Everyone was in high spirits, and the Waring company seemed to reflect this feeling.

Afterwards, Chub and Tillie McGibbon, who had known the Warrings, graciously gave an informal party at their home, nestled along a canyon and overlooking the sweep of broken country and houses toward downtown. It was a crisp evening, and the fireplace crackled.

WHILE FRED WARING helped greet the guests, members of the company joined in the fun—not a stranger in the crowd. But as with other good things, this came to an end for there was another show far away in San Antonio the next day. As members of the troupe eased out the door to the waiting bus, so did their friends and admirers to wish them Godspeed.

THE NIGHT was clear, and the stars stood out like sparkling stick pins. Down below lights spilled and flowed into the lustre of the downtown. It was still, and smoke rose stiffly from a few chimneys, and the comforting aroma of burning wood lay on the air. Sounds carried crisply up from the distant railroad yards where boxcars bumped with staccato sharpness. The chatter of the crowd left a wraith of vapor on the night.

Suddenly, the troupe stopped filing on the bus, and those who were on came back to the door. The remainder gathered around the door entrance, and Fred Waring lifted his hands. They all began to sing:

"BLESS THIS house O Lord we pray, make it safe by night and day. Bless these walls so fine and stout, keeping want and trouble out. Bless the room and chimneys tall; let thy peace be over all. Bless this door that it may prove, ever open to joy and love."

The rich tones rippled and bounced gently down the canyon slopes. The crowd stood silent, motionless.

"BLESS THESE windows shining bright, letting in God's heavenly light. Bless the hearth ablazing there, with smoke ascending like a prayer. Bless the folk who dwell within, keep them pure and free from sin. Bless us all that we may be fit, O Lord to dwell with Thee."

Bless us all that one day we may dwell, O Lord, with Thee."

THE BUS MOTOR roared alive, the company boarded, the crowd moved quietly back to the house. And the memory of the song lingered like a benediction. —JOE PICKLE

Holmes Alexander Kennedy Declared Ineligible

WASHINGTON — Vernon J. Veritas, the old truth-teller, was saying that the Constitution could block Senator Bob Kennedy from ever becoming President.

Hadn't Mr. Veritas misspoken himself? Hadn't he meant to say that the Constitution might stab Governor George Romney, not Bob Kennedy?

"KENNEDY, I SAID, Kennedy, I meant," declared the man who cannot tell a lie. "Romney may be able to quibble himself out of the prohibition in Article Two which forbids anyone except 'A natural born citizen' to become President. But there's another interesting provision in Article Two. It requires an incoming President to swear or affirm to 'preserve, protect and defend' the Constitution. It's hard to see how Kennedy can take that oath."

Mr. Veritas must be spoofing. All the Kennedys are gutsy fellows. The four brothers have done military service, and two have died by enemy action. If that isn't upholding the Constitution, what is?

"THE CONSTITUTION gets no protection or defense in Senator Kennedy's latest rationale on Vietnam," declared the compulsive truth-teller. "He has never been very stalwart for this anti-Communist war in Southeast Asia. He was long ago for a quasi-recognition of the Viet Cong's national liberation front. He has been against bombing North Vietnam, and once he said he'd be willing to send his blood to that country which is killing our men. His position was hard to understand until he recently made it understandable."

MR. VERITAS must be thinking of Kennedy's statement on television that it was all right for us to fight for South Vietnam some 12,000 miles from home, but not right for us to fight for the U.S.A. out there. Kennedy said:

David Lawrence The McCarthy Puzzle

WASHINGTON—In these days of devious politics, the country may well wonder just what is back of the announced intention of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota to enter the presidential primaries in an effort to take the nomination away from President Johnson at the 1968 national convention of the Democratic party.

Is the strategy intended to help Sen. Robert Kennedy get the vice presidential nomination? Is it designed to mobilize the anti-Vietnam war sentiment? Will it in the end unwittingly help LBJ?

THESE ARE THE questions that are being asked, but nobody is able to provide the answers, because the real motivation for this unexpected revolt inside the Democratic party has not been made clear, either by its sponsors or by anybody else involved in the movement.

The close relationship between Sen. McCarthy and Sen. Kennedy of New York makes it logical to assume that such a step would not have been taken without the latter's acquiescence. The Kennedys have the money and the political contacts in many states to line up delegates even for a man who has not won any leadership position in his own party in Congress and is relatively unknown throughout the country.

IF THE KENNEDY forces are behind Sen. McCarthy, what is the game? Is it a form of political pressure designed ultimately to pressure Mr. Johnson into dumping Hubert Humphrey as the vice presidential nominee?

The maneuver certainly seems to have no convincing reason for being launched. After all, it is customary for a political party to renominate its incumbent president. Lyndon Johnson was not only Democratic majority

"We're killing innocent people because we don't want to have the war fought on American soil, or because they're 12,000 miles away and might get to be 11,000 miles away." And Kennedy asked: "Do we have a right here in the United States to perform these acts because we want to protect ourselves?"

Mr. Veritas said he'd been thinking about these words ever since Kennedy spoke them, and they convinced him that Kennedy could not sincerely swear an oath for the preservation and defense of the Constitution.

"MAYBE IT'S PERMISSIBLE to quibble about Romney's dubious natural citizenship," Veritas resumes, "but the oath of allegiance is no quibbling matter. It doesn't pledge an incoming President to begin his protection of our freedoms at the 3-mile limit, nor at the 11,000-mile limit. It doesn't make him commander-in-chief with an inhibition about the death in wartime of people, even the 'innocent,' who get in the way. The oath to the Constitution doesn't allow any President to question our 'right' to protect ourselves anywhere in the world, and by any means. There aren't many absolutes in life, but an oath before God and country has to be one of them. Kennedy was pettifoggish and equivocating about the most sacred of presidential affirmations—the unqualified vow of unquestioning loyalty to the Constitution, and to no other cause, however intriguing or humane."

IT WOULD JUST about break Bob Kennedy's heart, Mr. Veritas was reminded, to hear that he's more clearly ineligible for the White House than George Romney is.

"I'm sorry about that," said Veritas. "But nobody should be allowed to take the presidential oath with his fingers crossed." (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

leader of the Senate for many years, but he was chosen for the vice presidential nomination in 1960 by the party's presidential candidate, John F. Kennedy.

IT IS, of course, taken for granted that Sen. Robert Kennedy wants to be President some day. If he cannot become the vice presidential nominee in 1968, it may be that some of his supporters would not mind risking the defeat of President Johnson and thus pave the way for the leadership of the party by the New York senator in preparation for the 1972 contest. But, whatever the purpose in producing a schism inside the Democratic party happens to be, it doesn't make political sense to give the Republicans the benefit of such a division.

WHILE PRESIDENT Johnson has been under considerable attack for his Vietnam policy, he has a chance in the pre-convention debate on Vietnam against Sen. McCarthy to gain strength and to offset the effects of the Republican criticism—which thus far has not been too clear-cut. Some of the potential Republican candidates express their agreement in principle with the Vietnam war but say they differ on how it is being fought.

IT WOULDN'T, therefore, be surprising to see the Republicans eventually shifting their main emphasis to domestic discontent. Thus, they may build their case on questions such as crime, riots, cost of living and inflation, rather than on a war which might be looking better from the American viewpoint by next summer than it does today.

—Lyndon Johnson must be viewing the entire scene with equanimity. He has no genuine cause for worry. He will be renominated by an overwhelming vote of the delegates. (Copyright, 1967, Publishers-Hall Syndicate)

Cassius, Wife Expecting Tot

HOUSTON (AP) — An affidavit filed in federal court here has disclosed that Cassius Clay and his wife are expecting their first child.

Clay, who was stripped of his heavyweight boxing title by domestic groups last June when he failed to be inducted into the Army, and his 18-year-old wife, Belinda, were married Aug. 18 in a Black Muslim ceremony in Chicago.

The affidavit, filed in U.S. Dist. Judge Allen B. Hannay's court Tuesday, is an effort to transfer Clay's former attorney from Houston to Chicago.

W. M. Plummer, Clay's Houston attorney, said he did not know when the baby was due.

Clay's attorneys filed a similar motion Nov. 2, stating that Clay, who prefers to be known by his Black Muslim name, Muhammad Ali, had become a Chicago resident and requested that the case be transferred to his home town for "convenience in calling witnesses."

In a suit filed in Judge Hannay's court last October, Hayden Covington, New York lawyer, requested $209,619 for his fee in representing Clay in his draft trial and an additional $75,000 to pay his own attorneys. Covington contended Clay paid him only $11,250.

BOOKS Dolan Book Laughfest

If you want to give someone a belly-full of chuckles for a Christmas, George Dolan's collection of stories is the answer. "Slightly Left and Right of Center," published by Branch Smith, Inc., Fort Worth, and illustrated by Abbott J. Hoecker is a roundup of prime Dolanese which has delighted readers of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram for the past decade. The dedication is a tip off: "To John Ellis, (his former managing editor) who made it possible, and to the West Side housewife, who made it necessary."

For the past 10 years George has been roaming over the western part of this state (with a few missionary journeys into other areas) collecting tales about homespun screwballs which seem to abound in this region. George is an excellent spinner of yarns, and he always ends his stories with a wry, ironic or humorous hook. His book, therefore, has more hooks than a fishing tackle box. If "Slightly Left and Right of Center" seems to linger more frequently on the antics of a few personalities, it only proves that all West Texans are nutty, only some are nuttier than others. If you can read this light tome without smiling and occasionally ripping the abdomen, then it's time you took to your Bible and read about the second coming; it's later for you than you think. — JP

Cops To Ticket Unlocked Autos
TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The Trenton city administration has announced it will impose fines of $25 beginning Dec. 15 against motorists who fail to lock their car doors. Mayor Carmen Armenti said Tuesday the city plans to put the ordinance into effect despite the fact that the State Motor Vehicle Division questions its legality. Armenti said police are being told to ticket cars with unlocked doors as of Dec. 15. The ordinance was passed seven months ago but has not been put into effect until now.

Plans To Move Into World More Dangerous Than Wilds

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Ivan Tors, who in "Daktari," "Flipper" and "Gentle Ben" has created more animal stars than most producers ever achieved with humans, plans to move into a world more dangerous than the African jungle—daytime television.

In that world of specialty programming, soap operas seem to go on forever. Then there are the reruns of old nighttime programs. And finally, there are the game and panel shows. These are the shows that, unlike the soaps, are given little time to stay around and build an audience. And it is a game show that Tors and his associates will unveil on ABC Dec. 18.

EXPENSIVE 'SET'
Tors' maiden daytime effort is called "Treasure Isle," and claims to be played out in the most expensive "set" ever created for television—a man-made island and "lagoon"—really a pool loaded with electronic gadgets for special effects. "Daytime television," said Sherman Adler, an executive of the production company, "is completely dominated by shows made inside studios. This one will be completely taped outside of studios."

That is important, Adler thinks, because he did some research and found that programs shot on location almost invariably received good audience ratings.

'IT CAN'T MISS'
The island and lagoon were built near Palm Beach, Fla., and contributed by John MacArthur, millionaire owner of a nearby resort hotel and other real estate. It cost more than $500,000.

This has been dictated less by love of show business than a desire to promote the location and the hotel—and to help attract more show business from New York and Hollywood. Tors has been a Florida booster for several seasons and has been producing both feature movies and TV series in studios near Miami.

In a fancy setting, contestants will play a rather routine TV game—encountering obstacles, bumping into each other in boats, following clues and, finally, digging for treasure.

"It can't miss," said Adler. "It starts in winter and all those people in cold climates will just love looking at tropical Florida."

'DEAR FRIENDS'
Suppose they like the palm trees and lagoon but hate the game? "Well," said Adler, "I really don't have much time to watch TV but I think it's a great game. It will bring people to Florida and show business to Florida."

CBS' rerun of a national drivers test was a welcome refresher Tuesday night for winter drivers. Curiously, it was more helpful on second sight when the viewer was not preoccupied setting down answers and trying to build up a passing score.

Recommended tonight: "Aladdin," 7:30-8:30 EST, children's adaptation of the classic by the Prince Street Players; "Dear Friends," CBS, 9-11, original drama by Reginald Rose, with Patricia Barry and James Daly; "Jack Paar," "A Funny Thing Happened Everywhere," NBC, 9-10.

Safety Question Sparks Red Faces

PITTSBURGH (AP) — There were some red faces Monday at the mayor's Highway Safety Conference.

The speaker asked for a show of hands of those who have seat belts in their cars. Almost every hand went up. Then he asked how many use the belts. Less than half—perhaps a third—raised their hands.

Horoscope Forecast FOR TOMORROW —CARROLL RIGTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Most everyone is feeling out of sorts today and tonight so make sure that you say and do nothing that could add to their feeling they are being badly treated by life or some individual. Take some time out to soothe the wounded mental sufferings that others are going through by being sympathetic.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You want to avoid some argument that could reach really big proportions. Be sure to assist one having troubles who does not know how to handle problems. Show wisdom.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It is better if you rely on your own ability instead of relying on others who are not functioning just right at this time. Accurately the social instead of the mercantile functions. More benefits accrue this way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Safeguard your good name or you can have an altercation with associates who mean much to you and your affairs. Show ingenuity in the handling of a credit matter that is somewhat difficult. Your rich relative to do his, or her, share.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be discriminating in the adoption of some new outfit so that you pick out the one that is best for you. Be sure heed what a new contact has to say. However, study well before following.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure that you handle your work in a most conscientious and accurate fashion. Make sure that you do not give your mate any cause for anger or dissatisfaction. Something of a creative nature is very fine for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Excluding responsibilities to others is possible without it interfering with your work with associates. You have to remain calm, though, if all is to go well. Compose yourself early and then labor in a steady fashion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You need to clear up certain phases connected with your regular job in a clean and efficient way very smoothly. A co-worker is fed up, but that is no reason why you should have a hitched bottle there. If you are not careful, be soothing with others instead of irritating. Put that temper to creative purposes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't let clear up certain phases connected with your regular job in a clean and efficient way very smoothly. A co-worker is fed up, but that is no reason why you should have a hitched bottle there. If you are not careful, be soothing with others instead of irritating. Put that temper to creative purposes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You must be most careful while driving or in motion to avoid some serious accident. Do not raise your voice even though you may have sufficient provocation. Look to the cause of things and not to the blame.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be very careful where your money is concerned and do not invest in some fly-by-night scheme. That business expert could be very much in error this time. Study the matter well yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Instead of being a self-censurer, this improve your health and make your associates more sure of yourself.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN tomorrow — he or she will be one of those young people who is highly sensitive and should be handled very diplomatically, kindly, otherwise an unhappy introvert will emerge here. The education should be slanted toward investigative, scientific lines where this clever brain can best express itself. Give spiritual training early.
