TOTAL: 12,095 Record Total Of Voters Registered

With one day left in which to register to vote in elections of 1968, a new all-time record for the number of qualified electors has been achieved.

The total at 5 p.m. Monday was 12,095, which was well ahead of the previous high total of 1963. In that year, 11,491 voters paid their poll tax or obtained exemption certificates in this county.

A huge stack of mail applications arrived this morning and a steady flow of applicants were showing up at the tax office to register. The deadline for registration expires at midnight Wednesday. Applications which are received Feb. 1 bearing postmark of Jan. 31 will be accepted, Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax assessor-collector, said.

"We will accept all applications which bear Jan. 31 that we receive for five days after the deadline," she said. "After that, we will have to close the books."

She said it will probably be two weeks after the deadline before the final official count on voters will be completed. Many duplications are known to be in the lists and there are others inadvertently registered, who were not legally entitled to registration. These will be weeded out before the final figure is established.

Meantime, at the pace being set today, it appears that it is possible the final figure will be close to 14,000.

THEN ASK

Shoot First

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Police Commissioner Russell Beebe has ordered police to shoot anyone seen throwing a firebomb, then ask questions.

Beebe spoke out Monday in the wake of an attempted firebombing of a jewelry store owned by Eugene Reinger, who killed one man and wounded another during a holdup attempt Saturday. Police said two firebombs were hurled into the store and a nearby insurance company office, but the incendiary devices did not ignite.

"Anybody seen throwing a fire bomb in East St. Louis will not be questioned," Beebe said. "We will shoot him. There's going to be law and order and if there's not, there's going to be some killing."

"I'm sick of this kind of thing," Beebe said.

Dolores Places High

Dolores Lankford's junior Hereford calf won third place in its division at the Fort Worth Livestock show in the judging Monday. Her pen of three steers was rated second best in the competition.

These were apparently the only honors achieved by the Howard County 4-H clubbers at the show.

Dolores was barred from the junior steer competition, because she won the grand championship of the show at Fort Worth in 1966. She had to compete in the open Hereford division. Former champions are not permitted to compete after their victory.

Fire Kills Six

NEW YORK (AP)—Six persons died and 11 were injured in overnight fires which flashed through the top floors of a lower East Side tenement and a brick row house in the Park Slope section of Brooklyn.

Four of the dead lost their lives in the Manhattan blaze, including a teenage boy who plunged to his death after he tried a desperate leap from one sixth floor window to another to escape a wall of flames at his back.

The other fatalities included his teenage sister and two women. Seven persons, including a fireman and a policeman who raced through the building to rout other residents, were injured.

Air Search Planned

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Weather permitting today the Civil Air Patrol said it planned a large scale air search in East Texas for a missing plane with four persons aboard.

The plane's pilot, identified as Michael Ball, was last heard from about dusk Friday when he radioed the Bryan, Tex., tower for weather conditions in Dallas.

Ball, his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce were on their way from Mexico to Leavenworth, Kan. The CAP said the plane would have had to be refueled before completing its planned flight.

Monday's air search by the CAP was aborted by poor weather conditions. Only four planes were able to fly.

The CAP said 15 or more aircraft would fly today if the weather improved.

Congressmen Still Want Spending Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's record $186.1 billion budget generated immediate congressional warnings that spending must be slashed before the administration's 10 per cent income tax surcharge will be considered.

But while calling for cuts, members of the Senate and House seemed likely to oppose trimming expenses along those lines suggested by Johnson.

NOT SURPRISED
Since the general outlines of the budget had been known, Congress wasn't surprised when the formal message submitted Monday called for a $10.4 billion spending increase.

The budget also included a built-in $8 billion deficit—down from this fiscal year's $19.8 billion red ink forecast but certain to go higher if the tax hike isn't approved.

Most Republicans, while not slamming the door on the possibility of a tax increase, continued to put heavy emphasis on chopping spending before—or even instead of—asking taxpayers for further sacrifices.

Termining the budget "unbelievable," House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said it contains no belt-tightening of "the kind we need to avoid a tax increase."

MORE TO SAY
The Democrat with most to say about the tax increase, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, kept his counsel for the present. Interviewed in his Arkansas district, Mills said he would have more to say when he has studied the budget.

When his committee last week shelved the income tax surcharge proposal for the third time, Mills told administration witnesses he thought they could do a bit better at budget cutting.

"I have no doubt Congress can and will make meaningful reductions," said Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee.

Mahon, who helped steer through a mandatory spending cut last year, said he thinks Congress was right not to raise taxes then. But he added that now "we must provide additional revenue—there is no doubt about that in my mind."

RESTRAINT
But Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, senior Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, complained "the Johnson administration still refuses to heed the taxpayers' demands for expenditure restraint."
In the first flurry of congressional reaction to the budget there were few suggestions for specific areas to be cut.

Cong Stages Biggest Drive Of Vietnam War

Remark On Supply Comes As Surprise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic sources say U.S. allies in Vietnam were surprised by Secretary of Defense-designate Clark Clifford's statement that "normal" North Vietnamese resupply activities wouldn't stand in the way of an American bombing halt.

U.S. diplomatic sources said Monday that Clifford's comments before the Senate Armed Services Committee last week spelled out in new detail U.S. conditions for a bombing halt and that they were privately brought to the attention of Hanoi.

CLASSIFICATION

Many of the allies fighting with the United States in Vietnam asked the State Department for clarification of Clifford's remarks. The sources indicated the allied nations were unhappy they hadn't been consulted first.

The State Department has publicly said Clifford's comments were "certainly consistent with the San Antonio formula" laid down by President Johnson last September.

Johnson had said he would be prepared to halt the bombing of North Vietnam if prompt and productive talks resulted. He said he would assume the Communists wouldn't take advantage of the bombing pause.

But it was learned that even high-level Asian experts at the State Department weren't aware of the formula as explained by Clifford.

CONTINUE

Clifford, whose nomination as secretary of defense is expected to be confirmed by the Senate this week, said of the North Vietnamese Communists: Their military activity will continue in South Vietnam, I assume, until there is a cease-fire agreed upon. I assume that they will continue to transport the normal amount of goods, munitions and men to South Vietnam. I assume that we will continue to support our forces during that period.

"So what I am suggesting is, in the language of the President, that we would insist that they not take advantage of the suspension of the bombing."

Cool Front Dawdles Deep Into State With Fog Bank

By The Associated Press
Travelers strained to see through fog cloaking much of West Texas and many coastal points early today as the latest cool front dawdled deeper into the state.

There also was a narrow belt of thundershowers along the forward edge of the cooler air mass, which before dawn stretched from Southeast Oklahoma past Abilene and Midland into the Big Bend country and Old Mexico.

It was cloudy and humid everywhere else in Texas, with temperatures usually warm.

Light to moderate showers before daylight roved in hit-or-miss fashion out of Oklahoma toward

Attacks Damage At Least 42 Aircraft

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong launched their biggest coordinated drive of the Vietnam war at the advent of the lunar new year today, a day on which both sides had been committed to cease firing for the holiday festival.

The Red guerrillas attacked seven provincial capitals, Da Nang, which is South Vietnam's second largest city, and five American airfields with a precision that indicated days of advanced planning.

HOAX, FRAUD

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam, said the seven-day truce the Communists had proclaimed for the lunar new year, Tet, "is clearly revealed as hoax and fraud."

A Hanoi broadcast declared the attack on Da Nang was "to punish the U.S. aggressors and their henchmen" for this cancellation. An American officer in Saigon said there was no possibility this was true, that the attacks "must have been planned several days ago."

63 KILLED

Associated Press Correspondent Robert D. Ohman reported that South Vietnamese Rangers and U.S. Marine MPs wiped out the last pocket of enemy resistance in Da Nang, South Vietnam's second city, at 3:15 p.m. and reported 63 Viet Cong killed.

The attacks on the U.S. airfields destroyed or damaged at least 42 jet fighter-bombers, cargo planes, observation aircraft and helicopters. The loss was estimated at more than $25 million.

At Da Nang, Communist gunners slammed 40 big Russian 122mm rockets into the fighter base, tearing up 13 jet fighter-bombers used in air strikes against North Vietnam. At the same time they hit the U.S. Marine heliport across the river, damaging 19 helicopters.

Just to the north of Cam Ranh Bay, the big American supply base 175 miles northeast of Saigon which President Johnson visited on his two trips to Vietnam, Communist demolition men sneaked into the American airfield at Dong Ba Thin and blew up several aircraft with explosive charges.

CASUALTIES

Casualty totals were incomplete but partial reports relayed by U.S. and South Vietnamese spokesmen showed:

— At least 18 U.S. military men killed and 41 wounded.

— At least 29 South Vietnamese troops killed and 54 wounded.

— At least four South Vietnamese civilians dead and many others wounded.

— More than 250 Viet Cong killed.

The casualty tolls were expected to increase.

Urges Boost To GI Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to revise the GI home loan program so veterans can buy better, more expensive houses.

In a special message, Johnson also called for a new law to help subsidize veterans who train themselves for teaching, police and fire fighting work, hospital employment and jobs in the antipoverty program. This would cost $50 million in the 12 months beginning July 1.

The chief executive urged that the maximum guarantee on GI home loans be increased to $10,000 from $7,500. These guarantees normally cover about 35 per cent of the value of a loan, which means a higher guarantee would make available larger loans for better houses.

Johnson said the $7,500 ceiling on guarantees had been in effect for 18 years and was "adequate in 1950, but no longer so in today's housing market." He said the increase he recommended would "help the veteran to purchase a decent home and get the financing protection which the law promises him."

INCENTIVES

The President said his proposed Veterans in the Public Service Act would "provide incentives to channel the talents of the veterans to the most urgent needs of rural and urban America."

Union Office Put To Torch

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Police said fast moving bands of men set fire to an independent union office today, then destroyed the office of a small coal mine whose workers had recently chosen the union over the United Mine Workers.

The vandalism came as state officials in Harrisburg called together parties in a 13,000-man strike which started at another mine 35 miles from where the fires broke out.

State police said someone threw firebombs through the front window of the Southern Labor Union hall in Clymer, north of Johnstown. A pickup truck was found overturned and burned behind the building.

And while five fire companies battled the flames at the two-story union hall, arsonists burned down the office of Mears Coal Co., three miles away in Dixonville, police said.

The office was closed two weeks ago when a dynamite blast crumpled one wall. The mine's workers had recently selected the Tennessee-based independent union over the United Mine Workers, AFL-CIO.

Deadlocked On Invitation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Security Council members met privately today on the Korean crisis as council action was blocked by a U.S.-Communist deadlock over an invitation for North Korea to participate in the council debate.

REFUSED
Diplomatic sources said the United States refused to go along with a Soviet suggestion that North Korea be invited to the council table unconditionally. The United States said it would agree to an invitation only if North Korea released the captured U.S. spy ship Pueblo and its 83 crewmen, the sources said.

Informants said U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg also told Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov at their meeting Sunday that once the Pueblo and its crew were freed, the United States would discuss all aspects of the Korean issue with the Pyongyang regime.

In Seoul, however, a spokesman for the South Korean Foreign Ministry said it was unthinkable that the United States would hold bilateral talks with the North Koreans. The South Korean government does not recognize the Communist regime in the North and opposes anything that smacks of de facto recognition of it.

Neither North Korea nor South Korea belongs to the United Nations, although South Korea has a permanent observer here. If the North Koreans are invited to join the council debate, South Korea is expected to be invited, too.

HOSTILE

North Korea is traditionally hostile to the United Nations, declaring on Saturday that the world body had no right to discuss the Pueblo case, and has given no indication it would accept an invitation to join the council debate. However, Morozov was said to have told other council members that if the invitation were unconditional, the North Koreans would come quickly.

The council meanwhile delayed holding public meetings while the private talks and maneuvering continued.

Predicts An Attack By North Koreans

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean Maj. Gen. Lew Byong-high said today that Communist North Korea is sure to launch an all-out attack on the South "whether it be today or in years to come."

Found Shot,

Pete Gonzales Dominguez, 42, Southland Apartment on old US 80 west, died at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the Veterans Administration Hospital from a gunshot wound.

At 4:20 p.m. Monday, police were called to the apartments to investigate a shooting and found Dominguez sitting in the front seat of a car at the apartments. He had a bullet wound in the right side of his head. Police said there were no witnesses to the shooting and declared it was self-inflicted. Mr. Dominguez was taken to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital and then transferred to the VA Hospital. Funeral is pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mr. Dominguez came to Big Spring from San Angelo in 1955 and had worked as a nurse's assistant at the VA Hospital since that time. He was a veteran of World War II and a member of St. Thomas Catholic Church.

Survivors include his wife, Maria; one daughter, Victoria; five sons, Ivaal, Juan, Benjamin, Ramon and Anthony Dominguez, all of the home; and his mother, Mrs. Victoria Dominguez, El Paso.

WASHINGTON (AP) — When a customer buys on a "revolving credit" plan he can either be told the credit will cost him 1 1/2 per cent a month or that it will be 18 per cent a year.

The House is settling down to what shapes up as a long argument as to which he should be told.

The House opens debate today on a bill requiring most banks, stores and other establishments lending money or extending credit to tell the customer, in terms of annual interest rate, what it is costing him.

But the Senate, when it passed similar legislation, and the House Banking Committee, when it reviewed the pending bill, provided that certain revolving credit charges could be expressed in terms of monthly interest.

With revolving credit accounts, a customer may pay a fixed percentage of the balance due each month and a charge—often 1 1/2 per cent—on the unpaid balance is added to his monthly bill.

Spokesmen for stores that extend revolving credit contend it is impossible to quote a true annual interest rate because of the peculiarities of the plans and the gaps between purchase and billing times.

But Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., principal House sponsor of the interest-disclosure bill, insisted the revolving credit plans should be included. Losing in committee, she will continue the fight on the floor.

Discuss Political Issues

State Sen. Gladden Feels Corporation Tax Needed

Don Gladden, State Senator from Fort Worth, brought his candidacy for lieutenant governor to Big Spring Monday afternoon for a brief meeting at the Settles Hotel.

"I am an independent candidate and am making a direct approach to all citizens — the laborers, Latin-Americans, Negroes, to all voters," he said.

In discussing taxation, he said the impact of taxation in Texas so far is upon the consumer and Texas is really an untaxed state. He feels that the time will come in the near future when there will properly be a corporation tax, as citizens should be given first consideration.

There will be a special session of the legislature called for the purpose of voting on additional taxation, as additional revenue must be raised, said Gladden. When asked what type of taxation would be passed, he said he felt the food restriction would be removed from the sales tax law.

Gladden said he favored a minimum wage law and also favored a permanent — or at least a semi-permanent method of voter registration. The annual voter registration is an expense to the state and county.

He said there is a need to restore the government of the state to the people. Legislators should be allowed to represent their areas on legislation without the laws being first approved by the executive branch. Gladden said he feels that people are dissatisfied with the situation in Austin.

GAMBLING, FIREARMS DECISIONS

Will Hamper Crime-War?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal law enforcement officials say Supreme Court decisions restricting application of federal gambling and weapons laws will hamper crime-fighting and possibly endanger current prosecutions.

"What can you say when a man has his right arm cut off?" commented Henry E. Petersen, chief of the Justice Department's Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, when asked about Monday's high court gambling decision.

Officials of both the Justice and Treasury departments predicted the decisions would hamper state and local law enforcement as well.

NO BARRIERS
Senators pushing for a gun-control bill said meanwhile they feel the court's decision raised no barrier to its passage.

In the two decisions, the count:

—Ruled 7 to 1 that the laws forcing gamblers to register and pay special taxes require them to provide evidence that could lead to their conviction, thus violating the Fifth Amendment guarantee against self-incrimination.

—Used identical reasoning in an 8-1 vote barring prosecution of persons who refuse to register such weapons as sawed-off shotguns and machine-guns. The court also ruled out prosecution for possession of such weapons.

INFO STAMPS
Petersen said the laws requiring gamblers to register, buy a $50 gambling stamp and pay a 10 per cent excise tax on wagers led to identification of gamblers and thus helped local law enforcement. Police departments could easily find out who intends to gamble in areas where it is illegal.

"Generally, many government-organized crime cases have been predicted on the failure to pay the tax," added Petersen. In many instances the existence of the wagering tax law—and failure of some gamblers to pay the tax—has enabled the government to break up sizable gambling operations.

GAMBLING BILL
An Internal Revenue Service official said that of 2,015 tax fraud cases the government brought last year, 941 were attributable directly to the gambling tax or registration requirement. There were 665 such indictments, and 408 persons pleaded guilty or no contest.

The government issued 5,917 gambling stamps and collected $572,000 for them. It also collected more than $5.6 million in gambling excise taxes.

An official of the Treasury Department's Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit, which administers firearms registration, said the purpose of the weapons law is "to maintain some control on gangster-type weapons."

FOR TOMORROW
—CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is beautiful for social matters as well as whatever has to do with entertainment and adornment. Interests and a feeling of well being should exist between most everyone. However, the afternoon and evening find a determination in the air on most everything to get what they want — and the way they desire it the most.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You can make some fine arrangements for the days ahead in A.M. but take care later you don't renege on some promise you have made. Use much control in P.M. or there is bound to be some trouble ensuing. Show that you have wisdom.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You are very charming during A.M. and can get the attention of one you admire, but later do not permit some friend to interfere. Be diplomatic, though. Buy new ideal item of apparel. Forget that party tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Morning is fine for some unexpected pleasure but take care in P.M. you do not get into any argument with one in power. Plan how to have greater abundance in the future. Put your best foot forward with everyone.

ADON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do your utmost to compliment others instead of doing just the opposite. Show consideration for everyone. This can help you to advance more quickly. Some new idea you get can also be of assistance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) It would harm your reputation if you do not religiously keep some promise you have made. Find a more precise medium operator for easier advancement. The evening should be set aside for romance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show associates that you are loyal and do nothing that will gain you more enemies. Situations arise that will improve your image if you act in a positive manner. Be courteous.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Showing others that you are very efficient and have interests of others at heart as well, particularly kin, helps you to get ahead faster. Be sure that your health and appearance are bettered. Be happy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can entertain friends at home in P.M. but you have to make plans early in the day. Get reservations set up then, too. Nearly everyone you contact can make you happier now. Show courtesy and devotion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Understand fundamentals if you want to build up present and increase abundance appreciably. Be more efficient — about daily matters. This is especially true at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take some time to be more thoughtful of those with whom you labor regularly and lend more of a lending, helpful hand. Be sure that you write those letters that are important. Don't waste a moment of this important time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle real estate and money matters today since you have had too much work of another nature to handle of late. If you budget better, you find you automatically cut down expenses. Get book-keeping streamlined.

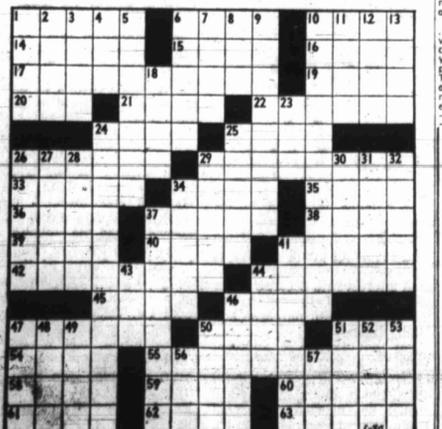

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Do not act before you think or you get into much trouble, and be sure to control your temper, make critical remark that is wrong. You have much energy now. See to it that you use it wisely and well.

YOUR CHILD IS BORN tomorrow he, or she, will be one of those very intelligent young people who is curious about almost everything, and you should provide the finest education possible, give the best social advantages. The field of investigation is fine here or any other profession that requires much activity, physical prowess. Give ethical training early.

Employees At TESCO Get Safety Honors

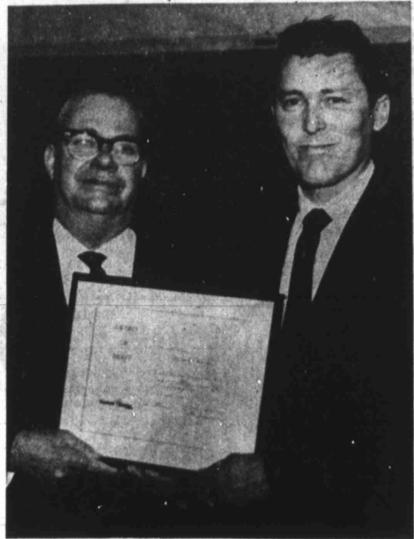

Employees of Texas Electric Service Company in the transmission department received recognition during their annual safety meeting held here Tuesday morning.

During the past year these employees completed 15 years without a lost-time injury and were awarded a plaque for this outstanding performance. They worked over 1 1/2 million man-hours during the 15 years in setting this record.

J. W. Godfrey of Fort Worth, company superintendent of transmission, presented the plaque to R. B. Riner, transmission division superintendent here. He was Big Spring division transmission superintendent until 1953, the year that the safety string was begun. Annual awards also were presented at the meeting to safety groups completing 1967 without a lost-time injury. Receiving the awards for their groups were C. A. Cluck, W. E. Finley, L. N. Fulmer, T. D. Reeves, T. F. Rountree and W. L. Yater.

At a similar meeting today at the company's distribution department-employees there were presented annual awards for no

Liquor Hearing Fails To Reveal Big Trouble

AUSTIN (AP) — The liquor control board and the attorney general's office placed a continuing search for misconduct in liquor law enforcement after a 3 1/2-hour hearing Monday failed to live up to its advance billing.

There may be still more hearings, an official said later. 'SMOKEY' ABSENT Only five witnesses showed up—and these did not include the Dallas private detective who vowed he would present testimony that would "blow the lid off" the LCB.

There was very little interrogation of witnesses by the attorney general's men. Dallas Asst. Dist. Atty. Bill Alexander did most of the questioning, and his questions concentrated mainly on relations between the Dallas LCB office and Smokey Joe Smith, a private investigator indicted Friday on several counts of theft by false pretext.

One of the indictments against Smith, whose office once was in the same Oak Cliff office building with Dallas LCB headquarters, charged he had taken money from a liquor licensee in return for a promise he would use his influence with the board to help the man.

AXED AGENTS Testifying were state Sen. Oscar Mauzy, Dallas; Rep. Billy Williamson, Tyler; J. R. Abdo, Dallas restaurant owner; Williams R. Groce, Dallas, and Raymond L. Valenta, Dallas, two of the seven LCB agents fired for alleged misconduct Dec. 13.

Smith, a 417-pounder, reportedly registered at an Austin hotel during the day but he never appeared at the hearing. Called for voluntary testimony but not appearing, was William Ferguson, who resigned Jan. 2 as assistant administrator of the LCB. Asst. Atty. Gen. Nola White, head of the attorney general's field investigators, said Ferguson had sent word he wanted to testify.

FIB CHARGE LCB Administrator Coke Stevenson Jr. did not take the stand to answer Williamson's testimony that he had lied to him about why Gibson Haddaway, an East Texas agent, was transferred away from the Tyler area. Williamson said he heard bootleggers wanted Haddaway transferred, but Stevenson told him the shift was so the agent could be promoted. But Williamson said, he found out several months later the agent was never upgraded.

Stevenson told a reporter Williamson's testimony was inaccurate. Haddaway, he explained, was transferred to Austin for observation for a possible promotion, was later sent back to Tyler and ultimately took an LCB post in Paris at his own request.

Alexander Groce and Valenta occupied the one hour of testimony after lunch. Alexander rapidly interrogated the two former agents. Groce now sells insurance, and Valenta is an automobile mechanic.

RIGGED SALE Both Groce and Valenta insisted they were guilty of no misconduct and had, in fact, notified the board months before of the allegedly rigged sale of a confiscated truck that the board cited as its reason for firing the seven agents. These included James E. Dale, Dallas supervisor, and Lynn Burke, LCB supervisor at Victoria.

The two former agents admitted they knew Smith, that he had been in their homes and they had been to his house. Groce said Smith and Ferguson were acquainted and had met in the Dallas LCB office.

"Would it surprise you if the record showed that Smokey Joe called Ferguson 10 or 11 times in a two-month period?" Alexander said.

"No, not if they were good friends," Groce said.

RELEASES SEVEN HOSTAGES, GIVES 250 MILE CHASE

Fugitive Bandit Finally Gives Up

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Threatening death to seven hostages—I'll shoot them one at a time if I have to—a frustrated bandit led officers on an all-day, 250-mile chase Monday, then surrendered to a captive police sergeant when his commandeered hospital van ran out of gasoline.

Daniel Williams, 26, of Denver, was jailed for investigation of armed robbery, kidnaping and assault with a deadly weapon. His roommate, Louis Maple, 23, was arrested at the scene of a bungled northeast Denver supermarket holdup that launched the drama. He was held for investigation of armed robbery.

Store employees were getting ready to open when the two gunmen slipped in behind a delivery man. They ordered everyone into the basement but one employee slipped away and signaled their predicament to two passing girls who notified police.

One gunman got the drop on Denver police Sgt. Lawrence P. Morahan and forced the officer to drive him away along with three other men in a police cruiser. Twice during the subsequent chase the gunman switched vehicles, ending up in the hospital van.

By the time the gunman and his captive band made their winding seven-hour tour of the eastern Colorado plains, two of the hostages had been wounded, three had been released and the rest of the party was within four miles of the supermarket where it all started.

Neither of the two shooting victims was injured seriously. One was released shortly after the shooting and taken by helicopter to a hospital. The other was among the four persons still in the van when Williams surrendered.

In the end, it appeared to be the constant pleading for surrender by Sgt. Morahan, a 46-year-old father of eight, and pursuing officers' strategy of waiting it out that brought the ordeal to a halt.

"He kept on him all the way down to give up," said Andy Anderson, 29, the market's meat department manager, who suffered a slight leg wound. Finally, that's how it happened. "We ran out of gas," said

Morahan, a 20-year veteran with the police force. "I was hoping we would run out sooner. I didn't want to get into a populated area."

More than 60 carloads of police, held at bay by the man's repeated threats to shoot his hostages, waited momentarily.

"He told me to tell the officers to stand back," Morahan said. "And he stopped momentarily and then he says, 'tell 'em to come here'—and he touched my shoulder—and I looked around and he turned the guns over to me."

After having completed the program, the student will be equipped to work as a machinist, or in a related technical field.

Vocational Office Occupations

Vocational Office Occupations is a one or two year curriculum designed to prepare young men and women with knowledge, skills, and attitudes necessary to obtain employment in office occupations; and to progress, through normal promotional procedures, in that employment.

ONE YEAR NON-DEGREE PROGRAMS

Vocational Nursing

The Vocational Nursing Program, in cooperation with the Texas Education Agency, offers a twelve month course of preparatory instruction in related subjects for a total of 540 clock hours and of clinical training in co-ordination with affiliating hospitals for a total of 1400 clock hours.

The Howard County Junior College School of Vocational Nursing is accredited by the Texas State Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners. Upon completion of the twelve months course, a student is eligible to take the State Board examination in order to qualify as a Licensed Vocational Nurse.

A Devotional For The Day

Whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, let it be all done for the glory of God. (1 Corinthians 10:31, Moffatt)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy continual presence in our lives. Help us to be true to Thee wherever we may be. Through everything we do may we glorify Thee. In the spirit of Thy Son, Jesus Christ. Amen.

Hopeful Move Goes For Nothing

President Johnson, his special envoy, Chester Bowles, and Americans in general can now survey ruefully the ruins of a hopeful journey of diplomacy to Cambodia.

That journey was prompted by the increasing use of Cambodia as a sanctuary by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops. The issue of "hot pursuit" had been raised by military commanders in Vietnam. President Johnson wondered if Prince Sihanouk might be willing to talk about the situation. Sihanouk was. So Bowles, our ambassador to India, was dispatched to Pnom Penh.

There were five days of discussions between Sihanouk and Bowles, generally described as "fruitful." A final, innocuous communique was issued, containing one hopeful possibility: Cambodia would not be opposed to a strengthening of the International Control Commission (a toothless creation of the Geneva conference of 1954), and to the supply by the U.S. of two or more helicopters to police the border region.

Before the ink was dry on the communique, Russia spoke, in concert with Poland. Russia as co-chairman of the control commission and Poland as a member expressed opposition to any strengthening of the commission.

Then an unexpected spanner was dropped into the machinery by William Bundy. He said that the United States still reserved the right of "self-defense" in the border area — a poorly disguised synonym for hot pursuit.

Prince Sihanouk immediately accused the United States of planning an invasion of Cambodia. Russia promptly warned the United States of the dangers of expanding the conflict in Southeast Asia.

The coup de grace was delivered in Hanoi. There Cambodia's foreign minister issued a communique condemning the U.S. "war of aggression" in Vietnam, supported Hanoi's four points and affirmed recognition of the Viet Cong as the sole representative of the South Vietnamese people.

So much for good intentions. So much for voyages of diplomatic exploration.

Overseeing Machinery Needs Bolstering

Whatever current investigation of the Texas Liquor Control Board may turn up in the way of malfeasance, events so far suggest three tentative judgments on needed state governmental reforms.

One is similar to the reform that followed the earlier insurance scandals in this state. The Texas liquor laws, which the TLCB is responsible for enforcing, should be revised, simplified and clarified. They are so vague, odd and confusingly detailed as to invite wrongdoing and hamstringing regulation.

Another reform need, evident in the summary dismissal of suspected LCB agents, is a strong state civil service law. There should be better screening of state employees when hired, and there should be strict, fair procedures for suspending or firing such employees.

Finally, in this as earlier in the insurance and veterans land scandals and conflicts — of interest revealed in oil and gas regulation, there is need for closer, continuing surveillance of the operation of the state government's independent departments, boards, commissions, agencies and offices. There are more than 125 of them. The governor has slight control over them — though he is blamed when things go wrong — and that should be corrected in constitutional revision providing for an integrated executive branch.

Meanwhile, the Legislature should immediately improve its overseeing machinery. Some standing committees keep an eye on a few of the major agencies, and both the Senate and House have general investigative committees which may but sometimes don't rush in to close the barn door after the horse is gone. It would be a good idea, we think, for the Legislature to create counterparts to Congress' Senate and House Government Operations Committees, which keep a running check on all executive agencies' policies, procedures and operations.

Holmes Alexander Freedom Under The U.S. Flag

FORT-DE-FRANCE, Martinique — Those tough cookies, bare-kneed under their soccer-shorts, and bulgy in their biceps, are La Surete — the internal security cops — and they are half the reason why the French flag flies in Martinique, Guadeloupe, and Guiana. La Surete puts down riots like the skull-cracking storm troopers which they are.

THE OTHER half — reason why French presence continues in the Caribbean is the Gaullist welfare system. It accounts for about 50 per cent of the income of the Negro nationalists. They are citizens of France with representatives in the chamber of deputies and the senate. They have all the liberties of Frenchmen, including the election of local officials, except for the Paris-appointed prefect. Constant lip-service is paid to these fraternal forms, but they are bogus.

The facts of life here are that these populations are black, and these lands over 2,000 miles from Metropolitan France, and that bread-and-blackjacks suppress the rabble, and that nearly half the towns elect Communist or crypto-Communist mayors. President de Gaulle is immensely popular, chiefly because he pays his way with subsidies, plays footsie with Red China, needles the United States and entices a growing amount of investment from French Canada.

NOT MANY sea miles away lies one of the last remnants of American imperialism, the Virgin Islands, and it would take somebody less jingoistic than I am to miss the chance of odious comparisons.

The Interior Department which runs the Virgin Islands has no need of storm troopers. Governor Ralph Baez-wonsky, though Washington-appointed, is a native Virgin Islander of old family. Before the 90th Congress quits, the Virgin Islands will have complete home rule, and will be headed for some form of statehood if they want it.

THERE IS PLENTY of federal aid in the Virgins, but the salient economic feature is take-home pay from the increasing industries, aside from tourism. The Islanders aren't any more industrious than most peoples in sunny climes, and they like their fiestas, fiestas and nearly three dozen local holidays as much as you and I would. But Interior Secretary Udall has nudged private enterprise into action, and there are new jobs to spare at St. Croix in the Hess Oil Refinery and the Harvey Aluminum plant.

WHEREAS the French nationals can get one-way, subsidized transport to continental France (where they subsist miserably at street-cleaning and mental posts in the subway system), the Virgin Islanders stay home in a relative prosperity. The French islands, in short, export their workers, but the American islands have so many open jobs that the Interior Department is commencing to worry about a "wetback" problem of illegal immigrants.

It's out of style, I know, to be boastful and chauvinistic. It's downright uncouth to say a good word for what's left of American's manifest destiny to take up the white man's burden. But USA-style imperialism still has its triumphs, which are not irrelevant to what's going on in Vietnam.

A REPORTER needn't travel any further abroad than the Caribbean to reassure himself that wherever Old Glory gets unfurled, and whether by conquest or purchase, the eventual result is going to be a good life of freedom and opportunity. That's something which just can't be said for any other flag that flies.

Billy Graham

Is there still time left to plan head or is Jesus' coming near? I have the fears of Jesus' coming with me all the time.

F.A. The certainty of Jesus' coming back to earth is clearly delineated in the New Testament Scriptures. In fact there are over 300 references to His coming again. But it is equally clear that "no man knoweth the day nor the hour." Since "a day with the Lord is as a thousand years," Christ could be coming day after tomorrow, and it would still be a long way off in our way of reckoning time.

But the New Testament imperative is: "Be ye also ready, for in a day and hour when you think not, the Son of man cometh." We should work and plan as though Christ were not coming for a thousand years, but we should live as though He were coming this very day. You say you have a "fear of Christ's coming." Are you sure your heart and life are prepared for His coming? If you were expecting the arrival of a loved one, would your heart be filled with fear? The Bible speaks about those who "love His appearing." If we love Him with all our soul, mind and strength, why should we fear His coming?

James Marlow LBJ's Budget Causes Cries Of Pain

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the wonderful things about a president's budget—for most people's peace of mind—is that after one look they don't have to remember much about it. They leave it to the experts.

The experts, like economists and politicians, mainly in Congress, are relatively few. They have to have the energy and interest to follow the budget from the time a president hands it to Congress until Congress is through with it.

But despite all the complexities, a few figures show how the cost of government, particularly defense, has gone up, but it must be remembered the government has a lot more programs to handle than it did only 23 years ago as World War II was coming to an end.

JOHNSON'S total budget, the cost of doing all the things Johnson says have to be done, is $186.1 billion.

Hal Boyle Teen Love Conclusions

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: Few groups in America take more ribbing, not all of which is good-natured, than mothers-in-law. But if the truth be told, about one out of five husbands has a higher opinion of his mother-in-law than she does of his own wife, because she is older, wiser and appreciates his good qualities more.

Despite the wide variety of hair styles and lip adornments worn by men, you hardly ever see the needle-pointed, waxed moustache that film villains, barbers and foreign noblemen once wore. Perhaps there's a shortage of wax, or maybe modern man is too tired to twirl that type of moustache.

THE BASEBALL season will start soon, and the pro football fans are already yawning their way into a hibernation that will last until next August.

The more labor-saving devices you buy a wife, the more leisure time she has to spend fixing time herself or trying to get them repaired.

The thing that really impresses me most about women is their unerring ability to get a taxicab during a rainstorm, an ability few if any men possess.

IF YOU SEE a guy who wears a coat that makes him look like a foreign correspondent, you can be pretty sure of one thing about him — he probably isn't a foreign correspondent. Most of the men in the business quit wearing that kind of coat about five years after World War II ended.

Once he's over 50, a fellow can get more of a thrill out of a new fop, such as discovering what gazpacho soup tastes like, than meeting any number of chicks in miniskirts.

The snows of January and February wouldn't be so hard to put up with if it weren't for all these birds who want to showoff the tans they got on a winter vacation. The only bird I want to see with a Florida tan is the first robin of spring.

CITY DOGS are so pampered and insulated from reality that they'd actually enjoy life more if some philanthropist would put a flea on them — just so they'd have a problem to keep them interested.

Nobody gets a bigger kick out of money than the fellow who inherits more of it than he had expected.

Love is as strange among teenagers as it is among grownups. A parent here overheard his 14-year-old daughter make this happy comment over the phone to a chum: "Yes, I guess Ronnie is really crazy about me. Every time he sees me in the schoolyard he runs up and hits me, and I come home with a bruise on my arm."

ONE OF the oddities about women that puzzles a man is why, when they have a cold, they use a paper tissue to stop their sniffling, when they are weeping at a wedding or a funeral, they use a lacy, embroidered handkerchief.

You begin to understand people when you realize that, no matter how close a friend may be to you, it is highly unlikely that he'll pick a rainy day to return the umbrella he borrowed.

To Your Good Health Where A Cataract Is Located In The Eye

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is reported to have cataracts on the back of the eye-ball, one mild and the other beginning to block out nearly all light.

Is this unusual? He is 76 and in good health. Would you advise an operation? — Mrs. M.C.

There's some confusion here. The lens — and that is where a cataract forms — is in the front part of the eye, just behind the pupil.

Cataracts can form in the front, middle, or back portion of the lens, but always in the lens. I would assume that this is your husband's trouble, a cataract at the back part of the lens.

For a patient in good health an operation can be performed easily, but not all cataracts are dense enough to require removal. Your eye specialist will advise when it is necessary.

Dear Sir: Please advise regarding pleurisy and emphysema. What is the general method of treatment? — C.E.L.

Pleurisy is inflammation of the outer lining of the lungs, and treatment basically is medication to suppress infection, rest, pain relievers when needed, and sometimes draining of the space between lungs and rib cage if it fills with fluid.

Emphysema is an entirely different condition, a deterioration and loss of elasticity of the lungs. You'll find a full explanation of it, along with the varied elements of treating it, in the booklet, "How to Control Emphysema," which you can obtain by sending 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner, in care of The Herald.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 19 and have a cyst on my left ovary. My doctor checks it every two months and said it might go away before it is big enough to require an operation.

Well-intentioned friends are telling me to see another doctor and are telling me some scary stories that sound very logical. I trust my doctor but can't get these stories out of my mind. Do you have any idea why my doctor is waiting instead of operating? — M.S.G.

Yes, I have an idea. It's because he knows what he is doing, and knows that not all ovarian cysts require surgery. Why operate if it isn't necessary?

If this cyst causes pressure or seriously disrupts your menstrual cycle, you have ample time to consider surgery.

Yes, you could see another doctor for an opinion, but if you trust your own doctor, why feel better. Your doctor, I am sure, will gladly approve a consultant's opinion if you want it.

But as to your advising friends, why get them in the act? I've noticed that friends always — well, a great share of the time — seem to have opinions colored by scare stories.

Headaches! You can beat them. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How To Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim Old Booth's Ghost

Every year when February rolls around and the birthday of Abraham Lincoln nears, someone revives the story of whether or not his assassin, John Wilkes Booth, was actually slain in a Virginia barn as history states he was.

THE SAME muddled views on the slaying of Lincoln prevail as do in the equally distorted and varied reports on who shot Kennedy to death.

I have met and talked with a number of old-timers who were convinced Booth did not die in that burning barn as reported in 1865 and generally accepted by historians as true. They say the killer got away from the military posse; that the man who died in the barn was not Booth.

THEY CLAIM Booth fled to the deep South, which then was badly torn up and beset with its own troubles that one or more fugitives from the North meant nothing. The reports are that Booth changed his name, took up another occupation (acting wasn't in much demand in the South during the reconstruction days) and lived out a long life.

These reports do not agree that the same individual was Booth. However, a lot of folk think that the real Booth became a man who called himself St. Clair and who, as I recall, practiced the trade of barber, in Texas and Oklahoma. He is alleged to have told someone on his deathbed that he was Booth.

I HAVE seen a mummy several times — the last over 30 years ago — which used to be displayed around the country as the body of John Wilkes Booth. The exhibitor claimed this was the body of the man who called himself St. Clair and who was really Booth.

The showman offered a number of other bits of evidence. In the first place the mummy, even in its highly desiccated state, did resemble the Brady photographs of the actor. It had the same hair line, same lean high cheek boned face. It had a moustache and in other exterior particulars matched the descriptions published about Booth. Height, weight and age seemed to match.

THE SHOWMAN also had some X-ray photographs which he displayed. These showed the mummy had once suffered a broken leg at the spot where Booth's leg was allegedly fractured when he leaped from the box in which he had shot the president to death, to the stage. (If you recall, Booth caught his heel in the flags which draped the Presidential box and crashed to the stage. His leg was broken but he managed to mount a horse and escape from Washington.)

A LUCKLESS doctor named Mudd set the broken leg and later provided evidence as to the nature of the fracture. (Probably Dr. Mudd was the reason for the catch phrase "his name is mud" which we use to imply someone is in trouble. Dr. Mudd, although it is now agreed he had nothing to do with the slaying of Lincoln, was accused of conspiracy and served a long sentence in a military prison. His name was really Mudd.)

I read recently the alleged mummy of Booth has now vanished. No one seems to know where it is.

THE STORY hangs on, though. Watch the feature sections of the bigger newspapers. Old Booth's ghost will be walking the printed pages as he always does in February.

Marquis Childs New Military Manpower Demands

WASHINGTON — By calling up the reservists the President has dramatized the need to respond to the threat of another war in Korea. The initial response is the one that could have been expected — the call of duty comes first even for men who may be responding for a second and a third time.

This was the pattern in the Korean war that began in 1950 five years after the end of World War II. The similarities then and now are uncanny. The emotions are deeper this time because the attack was directed not at other Koreans but at an American crew and an American ship.

THE DISRUPTIVE effects are the same on men who have got a start in civilian life and are paying for homes, autos and the gadgets that are part of the installment-plan way of life.

There is doubt about the immediate need for pilots among those close to the whole problem of pilot training and the relationship between civil and military aviation. They go so far as to say that even in the event of a greatly increased need in Korea the backlog is sufficient.

PILOT TRAINING is a problem both in time and in money. This is the reason the Air Force tried last year to draw in reserve pilots by a voluntary appeal. In a computerized screening process 2,200 Air Force reserve officers not on active duty were found to be suitable for a call up. Letters were sent to the 2,200 and out of this effort 75 officers returned to duty, of whom five were pilots.

The aviation industry takes a calm view of the effect of the President's action in calling up nearly 15,000 air reservists. The possibility that it may mean a major readjustment on the civil airlines, including in the not-too-distant future some system of priority for air travel, is rejected.

NOT EVEN in the Cuban missile crisis when two divisions were moved as any thought given to the need for the kind of priority travel imposed in World War II. During the Cuban crisis 400 planes were made available to the Department of Defense through a standing arrangement with the Air Transport Association.

But the Cuban missile crisis was of short duration. In the two weeks from the time the missiles were first positively identified it was resolved and the emergency call up for men and planes was halted with the beginning of a return to normal.

THAT IS the catch today. No one has the slightest idea how long the crisis precipitated by the seizure of the Pueblo will last or how it can be resolved. If it should mean a second front in Asia then the call up of 15,000 air reservists would be only the smallest start toward putting the country on a full war footing.

Nevertheless, with what amounts to virtually a full-scale war in Vietnam the manpower situation is far better than it was in 1950. This is thanks in no small part to the training programs initiated by retiring Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. By bringing in skilled personnel at a fairly high level and through intensive training the types to man highly mechanized military are available.

Art Buchwald How To Write The Script

WASHINGTON — "So you want to work as a speechwriter for the Republican Party in 1968?"

"Yes, Sir."

"ALL RIGHT. Did you see the television show the other evening when the Republicans answered President Johnson's State of the Union address?"

"Yes, Sir. And it was a brilliant performance by one and all."

"Okay, forget the soft soap. Let's get on with the test."

"I have to take a test?"

"Of course! If you're going to work for the Republican Party, you're going to have to know where it stands on the issues."

"I know where it stands."

"WELL, LET'S just see. First question: What kind of integrity does the Republican Party stand for?"

"The integrity of the American dollar."

"Okay. What has the Johnson Administration failed to do?"

"It has failed to make clear our goals, and it has not been candid with the American people in facing up to the complex and difficult road that lies ahead."

"By heaven, you did watch the show. Now let's go on to the Ship of State? Where is the Ship of State?"

"IT IS WALLOWING in a storm-tossed sea, drifting toward the rocks of domestic disaster, beaten by the waves of worldwide fiscal crisis that threaten shipwreck."

"And what can save the Ship of State?"

"A new captain at the helm."

"Good. Now let's go on to cities. What are the cities boiling with at the moment?"

"Frustration and unrest."

"IT'S 'UNREST' and frustration, but we'll accept your answer. And why are they boiling thusly?"

"Because the Administration has been long on promises and short on performance."

"And what situation are we confronted with because of this?"

"Lawlessness, crime in the streets and abuse heaped upon our police and elected officials."

"That's well put. Now let me ask you this. What does the Republican Party have abiding faith in?"

"The individual."

"WHY DID you hesitate?"

"I thought it might be the American free enterprise system."

"We've got abiding faith in that, too. Correct answer would have been correct. Let's go on to inflation. What does the President have to do to cut it?"

"He's got to cut back on federal spending and impress on the people that we have to live within our means here at home."

"And if he doesn't, where will the American people be sacrificed?"

"On the golden altar of economic expediency."

"OKAY. Now let's go on to Vietnam. What kind of Communist aggression are we trying to stem there?"

"Naked."

"Fine. You seem to have passed the test. You can start writing speeches in the morning."

A LOVELIER YOU

Vitamin C Intake Is Essential To Beauty

By MARY SUE MILLER

Do you get your share of vitamin C? You must! Vitamin C is essential to firm gums and to the prevention of spider veins. It acts as a shield against infections and colds.

Strictly from the feminine viewpoint, vitamin C is paramount among beauty-makers. Because it "nourishes" your muscles, it helps keep your body graceful and your flesh taut. Obviously, no woman could be so lovely as she is without her daily ration.

Still, studies show that there is a vitamin C deficiency among a large percentage of our population, particularly among teens and reducers. That this should be so is difficult to understand. Teen health programs stress a high intake, as do all approved reducing regimens.

A mass arrangement of red carnations and greenery flanked by red tapers in silver holders decorated the polished table. Silver and crystal appointments completed the setting.

The bride-elect was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hughes, Portsmouth, Va., and the couple plans to marry Feb. 10 in the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. John Beard will serve as officiant. The guest list included 40.

Casually Yours

By JO BRIGHT

Why don't you mamas who have been working all winter on endless meals, weekly laundry, school activities and fund drives—just tell it all to go away for about 30 minutes?

If you do, you'll be rewarded, because you can use that brief respite to get in the car or put on your walking shoes and look for the little differences that are sure signs of spring . . . and I'm ready, aren't you? When Polly Mays and I were watching some birds in the snow not long ago, she said she had already seen a robin—and Roy Peet says he has crocus crocuses—are changing from chrysanthemums to irises, and a few people are discussing more "springy" places to go than Las Vegas.

Another sign of spring is the faint sound of wedding bells, and among those for whom the bell tolled Sunday were Mrs. Gail Bonner and Frank Maherry Jr. who were married Sunday by Dr. R. Gage Lloyd in the First Presbyterian Manse. (Incidentally, if any of you girls think you are going to be spoken for—and want to tell the world about it on the Sunday before Valentine's Day—please call and leave your name with this department at The Herald.)

While you're dreaming, you might want to plan a honeymoon in Mexico City. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Marchant have received word that son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Chrane, took what might be called a delayed wedding trip during semester break, to see the sights of the Mexican capital. They jetted from Dallas Thursday and were to return Monday so Mrs. Chrane could register for her nursing classes at Texas Woman's University's Clinical Center in Dallas. Chrane will resume pre-med studies at North Texas State University at Denton. Kenny, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Chrane, is employed by Braniff International in Dallas, where the couple reside.

Jetting the other direction was Will Inkman who postcards from Philadelphia that he has seen "Hello, Dolly," (again) and "Here's Where I Belong." Think he hopped over to New York for that but he's through fooling around now and is checking into the Albert Einstein Medical Center. He kindly sent a Leap Year card in case I could think of someone to send it to.

Mrs. Amelia O. Torres has a lot to think about, though. She will leave Feb. 5 for Hawaii to meet her husband, Sgt. Valentin Torres Jr. who is stationed in Long Binh, Vietnam, as a helicopter medic with the Army's 45th Medical Company. Not due to return to the United States until July, Sgt. Torres is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Torres Sr. of Garden City, and his wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ochotorena. Didn't get any advance publicity on the regional bridge tournament in Dallas, but Mrs. B. B. Badger tells me that several from here attended, including Mrs. E. L. Powell, Mrs. Truman Jones and George Pike who were to meet Mrs. Anne Hardy, an ex-localite.

There were so many pretty people at the farewell brunch Mrs. Clyde Angel, Mrs. M. M. Edwards and Mrs. Lester Morton hosted for Mrs. George Franks and Mrs. Julian Baird. Mrs. Franks said their daughter, Mrs. Ross Fobair, is still enjoying Europe where she went last August after receiving her master's degree in April at the University of South Florida. Mrs. Baird, who will be with her family in San Antonio, was reminding friends to "sign up" early if they intend to stay with the Bairds while attending "HemisFair '68."

Among the lovely guests at the party were Mrs. Roberta Phelan in a moss green and cucumber belted suit; Mrs. Chester Butcher, wearing a bright yellow three-piece knit; Mrs. A. Swartz, fashionably "arbed in a dress and coat ensemble of rose and grey plaid; and Mrs. Donald D. Van Meter, in smart black with white satin collar. Others were Mrs. Robert Strippling in pale blue, fringed wool; Mrs. H. M. Jarratt in pale pink. Mrs. Lee Rogers in a bright red, fur-collared suit; Mrs. R. J. Ream in matching coat and dress of black and brown plaid, and Mrs. Roy Reeder in a sunny yellow suit and coat. Mrs. Reeder looked especially pretty, so the good thing that came out of her illness was that she is way ahead of the rest of us—on rest!

Deadline. Call me?

New Slate Installed

The Rev. Dan Sebasta served as installing officer at the Monday meeting of the Church Women United at St. Paul Presbyterian Church.

Officers installed were Mrs. Marvin Dixon, president; Mrs. Mrs. Robert Hill, secretary; and Mrs. Ralph Caton, treasurer.

Chairmen were named for upcoming programs. Mrs. Marvin Dixon was named chairman of World Day of Prayer to be held March 1 at the First Christian Church. Dr. Jordan Grooms of Brownfield, former pastor of the First Methodist Church in Big Spring will conduct the services. Mrs. Jeff Hanna will preside at the children's program. Mrs. G. R. Robinson will serve as chairman at the May Fellowship Day, and Mrs. Don Cunningham will be in charge of World Community Day.

Mrs. Jack Burnett spoke on the child welfare project. Yearbooks were distributed, and refreshments were served to 15.

MRS. ROBERT OWEN WEAVER

Miss Terry Edens Is Married On Sunday

Miss Terry Lee Edens and Sp. 4 Robert Owen Weaver were united in marriage during a double ring ceremony held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Cathey, Route One.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Martha Blain, Fort Walton, Fla., and Franklin A. Edens, Big Spring. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. R. G. Weaver of Sand Springs, and the late Mr. Weaver.

The Rev. Bill Goughly, pastor of the Salem Baptist Church, read the double ring wedding rites. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white wool knit street-length dress designed with high neckline and stand-up collar. The dress sleeves were long, and her petal hat featured a short veil. Her accessories were white, and she carried a bouquet of blue carnations and white roses.

Miss Donna Coates of Coahoma served as maid of honor. She chose a blue street-length A-line dress and white accessories and carried a single long-stemmed white rose.

Dicky Weaver of Sand Springs, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School and attended Howard County Junior College. The bridegroom attended Coahoma High School, and has recently returned from Vietnam where he served with the 101st Airborne Division of the United States Army. He is presently stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., where the couple will be at home. A reception was held following the wedding. The refreshment table was laid with a white cutwork cloth centered with the bridal bouquet. The two-tiered wedding cake was decorated with blue and white confection roses, and crystal and silver appointments completed the setting.

EDITOR'S eighth of a changes curra Social Security. By BR WASHINGTON you put aside ly enacted h cash bene bility field t shows its pansionist to Disability means you gage in any activity."

SOCIAL SECURITY—8

Checks Will Reflect Higher Disability Pay

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth of a series analyzing the changes currently being made in the Social Security and medicare regulations.

By BRUCE BLOSSAT WASHINGTON (NEA)—When you put aside the matter of newly enacted higher Social Security cash benefits, it is in the disability field that the program has shown its most pronounced expansionist tendencies.

Disability under this law means you are unable to "engage in any substantial gainful activity."

A few years back, the requirement was loosened somewhat, so you could begin collecting disability benefits if you could demonstrate a disability which has lasted 12 months, is expected to last that long, or expected to result in death.

Normally, also you must have Social Security eligibility, which in this instance means having worked five of the 10 years before you became disabled.

Now, however, if you are disabled before age 31, you can qualify for benefits with less work—down to a minimum of one and a half years.

That is not the only recent liberalization. Under 1967 amendments to the law, a widow whose husband has worked long enough under Social Security to have qualified for retirement benefits can herself be eligible for monthly payments as early as age 50 if she is severely disabled.

To qualify, her disability must have started before or within seven years of her husband's death. Her payment ranges from 50 per cent to 82 and one-half per cent of her husband's primary retirement benefit, depending upon her age at the time of her entitlement to the new disabled widow's benefits.

Persons who resume working despite disability can go on drawing benefits during a "trial work period" that may last as long as nine months. Once it is clear you are no longer disabled, you still can get benefits for three more months.

If you should become disabled a second time, you can start drawing benefits quickly, provided that the new disability arises within five years after the previous one ended, and the new handicap is expected to last at least a year or to result in death.

The size of disability benefits depends on the worker's average earnings under Social Security. He gets what he would otherwise draw upon retiring at age 65, even though the disability payment may come to him at any age under 65.

Thus the newly authorized higher retirement benefits, effective with March 2, 1968, checks, will be directly reflected in higher disability payments.

The wife of a disabled worker also qualifies for a benefit if she is at least 62, or if she has in her care a child under 18 or a child disabled before 18. Such youngsters themselves are also eligible for benefits, as is any child of a disabled worker who is under 22 and still in school.

BIGGER BENEFITS The wife draws one-half a disabled worker's benefits. So does each child. But, unless she has an under-18 child or a disabled child in her care, her benefits will be reduced a little if she applies before age 65.

Right now somewhat more than two million Americans are receiving benefits because of the disability of the family breadwinner. With the newly liberalized provisions of the law, particularly those affecting disabled widows as young as 50, this total can be expected to rise in 1968 and beyond.

Social Security specialists are thinking, too, about the advisability of protecting workers against shorter term disability by dropping the present requirement that the handicap must be expected to last at least 12 months. No early decision is looked for, but such a liberalization clearly would expand materially the already expansionist disability field.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl with a problem. I made friends with a 27-year-old guy I'll call Paul, who works at a gasoline station near school. I used to stop in there to talk to him. He sort of confided his troubles to me. The poor guy has really had a messed up life. He had a "forced" marriage, then his wife ran off and left him for another man. He says he doesn't love her, but he misses the baby. I feel sorry for Paul, but he says it does him good just to have my shoulder to cry on.

Anyway, from certain things he's said and done lately, I thought Paul was getting to like me too much, so I stopped going to the station. Then he started calling me up at home to talk to me. If my mother knew his background, she'd have a fit. I tell her it's some kid from school calling. How can I tell Paul not to call me anymore without hurting his feelings?

DEAR FIFTEEN: Never mind his feelings. A 27-year-old man who looks for a 15-year-old to "cry on her shoulder" could have designs on the rest of her. AVOID him. And when he calls you, tell him not to call anymore. And if he asks you why, you may use my name and quote my advice.

DEAR ABBY: You are my last and final resort. I just don't know which way to turn. I had been in Vietnam for six months when I lost my eyesight in an explosion. I was recently shipped home with an honorable discharge. In February I will be 22.

My problem is my girl friend. Before I joined the Marines we were really sweet. I told myself that if I came home I would ask her to marry me. Then this happened.

I still love her very much.

Swap Patient Starts Walk

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Heart transplant patient Philip Blaiberg entered his fourth week of convalescence today without any signs of rejection process or infection.

The 58-year-old retired dentist, recipient in the world's third human heart transplant, was reported by Grootte Schuur Hospital to be progressing steadily from surgery Jan. 2.

He was exercising in his isolated and sterilized ward and has already dressed himself fully and walked around his bed, officials said.

Doctors told his wife, Eileen, he should be well enough to go home about Feb. 7. Blaiberg is the sole survivor of five heart transplant operations in South Africa and the United States.

The second longest living patient after a heart transplant was Louis Washkansky, 53. He died 18 days after the Dec. 3 operation from pneumonia.

Judge Porter Lowers Boom

Judge Lee Porter lowered the boom Monday on a woman brought into his county court charged with defrauding an innkeeper.

"You will pay a fine of $300, costs in this case and serve 15 days in county jail," the judge told Bonnie Key when the woman had entered a plea of guilty. Dee Jon Davis, county attorney, said that the woman has been in difficulty with the law on other occasions.

Skeletons Of Three Men Found At Prison Farm

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP)—The skeletons of three men have been discovered in unmarked graves at Cummins Prison Farm, spurring an investigation that the prison physician said might turn up "as many as 100, if not more" bodies.

WOODEN COFFINS

The skeletons, resting in three wooden coffins about a mile from the prison administration building, were recovered Monday from graves 4 1/2 to 6 feet deep. Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton had ordered a search of the grounds to check convict reports that inmates had been killed and secretly buried at the prison through the years.

"I feel reasonably certain that there are more bodies out there," said Dr. Edwin Barron Jr. of Little Rock, the prison physician.

"We will continue to dig as long as we have graves to dig," said Murton, who called in the criminal investigation division of the State Police to make an inquiry.

BEATEN TO DEATH

Murton said a prisoner, identified as Reuben Johnson, 59, pointed out the site of the graves Monday. Barron quoted Johnson as saying that he helped bury a convict called "Jake" at the site Dec. 24, 1947. The doctor said Johnson reported that "Jake" was beaten to death.

He said there was no way of knowing whether the mutilation took place before or after death.

Murton said Johnson's knowledge of the grave site "would be an indication that they didn't die of old age."

Murton declined to speculate on what had caused the deaths of the men, but he said "according to testimonials of inmates on the farm... there have been burials that were other than legal."

He said he had conducted a similar investigation at nearby Tucker Prison Farm, but found nothing.

DECAPITATED

Murton said one of the skeletons had been decapitated and that the head of another had been crushed. He said the leg bones of one of the skeletons had been broken, apparently in order "to get him into the case."

Murton, a penologist who was elevated to prison superintendent a month ago after serving almost a year as assistant superintendent, said rumors of gravesites had been rampant among inmates, but that his investigation didn't start sooner because of problems he faced in taking over the prison.

"It's a strange thing," he said, "but I've got a few problems with the ones still alive." It was announced earlier in the day that the 39-year-old Murton, a former college professor, intended to resign at the end of the special session of the Arkansas legislature scheduled for next month.

Jets Force NM Pilot To Land

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—American jets scrambled toward Cuba today to force a small airplane flying south to land at Key West, the U.S. Navy reported.

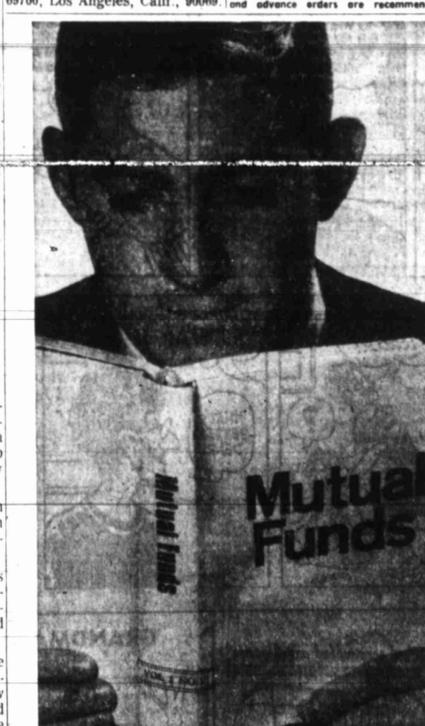

The plane was reported stolen from a tiny landing strip in Marathon, halfway up the Florida Keys.

The pilot of the plane was identified by deputies as Ernest M. Hall, 28, of Albuquerque, N.M. He was unhurt and charged with grand larceny.

Deputy James Stewart of the Monroe County Sheriff's Department said he did not know where Hall was headed but said the plane was flying south in the direction of Cuba when intercepted.

The American jet pilots—both Air Force and Navy—sought to talk the flier down at Boca Chica Naval Air Station where Florida Highway Patrolmen were standing by. But the small plane pilot chose instead to land at Key West International Airport.

Deputy Stewart said the pilot of the small, twin-engine plane told the interceptor pilots that he didn't know how to land the craft.

Steers Host Cooper; HC Tries Clarendon

Locals Will Have A Shot At Top Spot

Down 1-0 in the District 2-AAAA second half race but still hopeful, the Big Spring Steers play host to Abilene Cooper in an 8 o'clock game this evening.

Cooper, coached by Bill Villines, is in the same boat with Big Spring as far as its pennant hopes go and will be gunning for revenge of a 60-43 defeat at the hands of the Longhorns the first go-around.

Cooper was picked to finish second in the 2-AAAA standings in a pre-season poll but has not lived up to expectations.

Big Spring's losing skid in conference play has mounted to four games but coach Kirby Pugh says he will be satisfied if the locals play as well tonight as they did against Odessa last Friday evening.

The Longhorns used a press against Odessa High and carried the high-flying Bronchos into overtime before dropping a five-point decision.

Big Spring has two big problems: Lack of a rebounder and a shortage of depth. Jerry McGuire went into sick bay with a bad appendix last week and his departure hurt the locals on both scores. At 6-3, he was the tallest member of the team. Without him, Pugh had only eight able-bodied troops. (One has since been brought up from the B team).

Over-all, Big Spring will be seeking to improve upon a 14-11 non-loss record.

Probable starters for Big Spring include Goose Johnson, Danny Clendenin, Snake Tucker, Ronnie Wrightsil and Dean Gilstrap. Cleveland Gossett, Semir-Johnson, Danny Nichols and James Newman will be available for relief duty.

Cooper will likely go with a lineup consisting of Tom Stanton, Jack Mildren, Doug Foster, Larry Hoff and either Ted McKinon, Dale Gorczynski or Brad Irwin. At 6-2, Irwin is the tallest member of the Cooper team.

Stanton has been averaging better than 22 points a game for Cooper in conference play.

Over-all, Cooper is 17-8. The Cougars have dropped five of their first eight conference games. In their most recent assignment, they yielded to Midland Lee on the road, 67-55.

Junior varsity teams of the two schools clash at 6:15 p.m.

Travis Uncouples Runnels, 69-31

SNYDER — Snyder Travis maulled Big Spring Runnels, 69-31, in an eight-minute basketball game here Monday evening. The Yearlings are winless now in 13 starts.

The Runnels team returns to play at 8 p.m. Friday in the San Angelo tournament, at which time they oppose John Glenn Junior High of San Angelo.

Rodney Imel counted nine points to lead the Runnels team in scoring. G. Durst had 11 for Travis.

Dallas Chaparrals Gain Second Place In ABA

Dallas and Houston, two Western Division clubs in the American Basketball Association are moving... in opposite directions.

The Chaparrals nipped Denver 110-107 in overtime Monday night and slipped past the Rockets—by four percentage points—into second place, only two games behind New Orleans.

Brahmas Defeat Travis, 67-47

SNYDER — The Big Spring Brahmas ran their won-loss record to 8-8 by defeating Snyder Travis, 67-47, in a ninth grade basketball game here Monday night.

Table with 2 columns: Player, Points. Includes names like Snyder Travis, G. Durst, and scores for various games.

In Lineup Tonight

The Big Spring Steers will be trying to end a four-game losing skid when they take the court at 8 o'clock here this evening against Abilene Cooper. Seminal Johnson (above) will try to help the locals accomplish the feat. Seminal plays in the back courts.

Lombardi May Reveal Plans

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Vince Lombardi, Green Bay Packer coach and general manager, the most consistently successful coach in National Football League history, has called a rare post-season news conference—feeding speculation he may step down as coach.

Lombardi, whose nine-year reign in Packerland was climaxed recently by an unprecedented third straight NFL title and a second Super Bowl victory, invited the press and the Packer board of directors to a Thursday night dinner.

The Brooklyn-born football genius has been saying for years that the work of coach and general manager is too much. And, it was considered unlikely he would call the post-season session merely to announce his position in Green Bay would go unchanged.

The most persistent rumor has been that Lombardi will not coach the pro football champions in 1968. Speculation has it that he plans to turn over the coaching duties to long-time assistant Phil Bengtson, the defensive coach, and stay on as general manager.

Other rumors have Lombardi moving to another team, but he has said he'll stay in Green Bay, where he has led teams to NFL titles in five of the last seven years.

Bengtson, the architect of the league's most successful overall defense, has rejected several head coaching offers in the past few years — while other Lombardi assistants moved into good positions with other teams.

Hawks Seek To Solidify WC Lead

Clarendon, which started the 1967-68 basketball season like an enraged bull but which has been slowed to a trot in recent assignments, seeks to regain momentum against Howard County Junior College here at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

The game will mark the final appearance of the season for two Jayhawk starters, Robert Jackson and Wally Stuart, both of whom failed to clear scholastic hurdles.

Loss of the two will hit the Hawks where it hurts the most — in the rebounding department. Between them, Jackson and Stuart — both freshmen — have been averaging close to 25 rebounds a game.

HCJC can solidify its hold on first place in the standings by beating the Bulldogs. The Hawks are now 7-1 in the race while Clarendon now in third place behind New Mexico Junior College of Hobbs with a 6-3 mark.

Clarendon has beaten the locals twice this season, the first time in the Tishomingo, Okla., tournament by the narrow margin of 78-77. The second loss was suffered in Clarendon Jan. 20 in a makeup game, at which time the Bulldogs struck in the final seconds for a 66-64 win.

Over-all Howard County is 15-9 and has averaged 86.3 points a game to 75.0 for the opposition.

Clarendon has the best record among conference teams on the year, winning 16 of 22 starts. The Bulldogs have averaged 77.5 points a start, compared to 70.9 for the foe.

Clarendon started last week on a successful note, knocking off Amarillo, 70-62; then lost to New Mexico Military, 61-49, and New Mexico JC, 99-80, in succession.

Rick Vidauri is Clarendon's leading scorer with a 14.9 average in conference games.

Others who will likely start for the visitors include Harry Cannon, Tom Byrd, Mike Barrera and Jack Baker or Roy Holloway.

Coach Buddy Travis of HCJC is apt to go with Larry and Barry Linder, Jackson, Terry Fields and Hiron Hubert or Robbie Lemons.

The Hawks host Lubbock Christian in a 7:30 p.m. game Friday.

Gray Y teams representing Park Hill and Boydston will play a game between halves at tonight's HCJC-Clarendon game.

Forsan Plays Rugged Avoca

FORSAN — Don Stevens takes his Forsan boys' and girls' basketball teams to Sweetwater this evening for exhibition games with mighty Avoca-Leuders.

The Avoca-Leuders boys boast a 28-2 record and have lost only to Abilene High and Wichita Falls Rider this season. The Avoca-Leuders girls are 20-5.

The Forsan boys are 12-6 while the girls are 18-7.

Forsan returns to district play at home Friday night, at which time the school plays host to Garden City.

The Buffaloes now lead district standings, having beaten their nearest challenger, Bronte, by a single point last Friday.

The Forsan and Avoca-Leuders coaches agreed on the Sweetwater gym as a neutral site for their exhibition game, since it is so far between communities.

In other games, Bob Brock Ford turned back the Civitan Club, 55-30, after a slow start and Kentwood Methodist lost to Neal's VA, 44-37.

Masengale led Brock's with 28 points. Hull tossed in 13 for Civitan.

Neel's was paced by Ojague, who tallied 20 points. Dixon, Tyra and Maynard each tallied eight for Kentwood.

Cougars Still On Top In AP Cage Voting

Houston remains on top of college basketball's Top Ten today, but there's a slight change at the bottom.

In the latest Associated Press poll, Duke climbed out from the unranked into the No. 9 spot as Kentucky slipped to 10th and Utah tumbled out altogether.

Houston, unbeaten in 18 games, drew 28 first-place votes and 325 points while UCLA, which has lost only to Houston in 16 starts, compiled 302 points, including five votes for first.

The rankings from three through eight remained the same as last week with the order going North Carolina, New Mexico, St. Bonaventure, Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Columbia.

Goliad Quint Assumes Lead

The Goliad Wranglers have taken over first place in the Seventh Grade Basketball league standings here with a 6-2.

The Wranglers moved to the fore by defeating the Runnels Packers Monday night, 25-21.

In other action last night, the Runnels Saints fashioned a 20-14 victory over the Goliad Cowboys.

The race ends Thursday night, after which an all-star game is scheduled.

Rupp Sees Kentucky Team Do Him Proud

Elvin Hayes, Pete Maravich and four of the nation's Top Ten college basketball teams sparked on the court Monday night, but the biggest star was Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp, the best bench-warmer in the business.

Houston, unbeaten in 18 games, drew 28 first-place votes and 325 points while UCLA, which has lost only to Houston in 16 starts, compiled 302 points, including five votes for first.

The rankings from three through eight remained the same as last week with the order going North Carolina, New Mexico, St. Bonaventure, Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Columbia.

The race ends Thursday night, after which an all-star game is scheduled.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: RAY GRAVES, head coach at the University of Florida: "One of the best things about being head coach is how much it improves your fishing. Now I sit in the front of the boat. At Georgia Tech, I sat in the back and paddled and it was real tough casting over Bobby Dodd's head and under his arms."

ARNOLD PALMER, talking about the Champions golf course in Houston: "I got inspiration from a golf course. A good course can excite me, which is what Champions does. I guess it's the golfing atmosphere. Walk into Franklin Field in Philadelphia and you feel like an Army-Navy football game. Oakland, Linchurst and Champions give you a feeling of golf. That doesn't necessarily mean I'm going to play good every time I step on the course. If I hit an approach shot and get a bad kick, you're going to say that's part of the game and you're I get older, and the more I play, the more I want to play under championship conditions. I get that at Champions."

JOE BECKER, pitching coach for the Los Angeles Dodgers: "Being an all-around athlete and very strong, Sandy Koufax used to feel that when he got in a jam he had to throw harder to get out of it. What happened is that his muscles tightened up so he couldn't throw with a relaxed wrist. You know that expression, 'reach back and put something extra on the ball.' Well, that's all wrong. What matters is what a pitcher does with his hands and wrists in front of his body, not behind him."

PRESS MARAVICH, LSU basketball coach: "There should be a limit on the number of visits a high school athlete can make to campuses. A lot of money is involved when a senior visits as many as 50 campuses. I don't think a boy should take advantage of a college, if he's not going to school there."

CASEY STENGEL, offering advice to Green Bay's Vince Lombardi, who is rumored to be retiring: "Don't do it. It'd be the biggest disappointment in the country if he retires. It'd be a darn shame, too. I followed every game he played last season and I'm very interested in this man. I see the effect he had on his men and how he likes to work and I don't mind telling you how much I admire him. I like the way he manages. My wife, Edna, is really stuck on him. She became infatuated with him 5-6 years ago when we were at some function. I got to talking in a corridor and she was all alone. Mr. Lombardi noticed it, went over to her and brought her over to the people he was with. She's never forgotten that and she's followed his team since then. Besides, she's got relatives in Green Bay."

"Dick Groat came sliding into second base and umpire Shag Crawford was on top of the play. Synchronized with the shortstop's sweeping tag, Crawford thrust his right hand into the air and belted, 'You're out! Groat remained seated on the turf and looked up at Crawford. 'How?' he wondered. 'The ball beat ya,' Crawford replied in his West Philadelphia bark. 'He put it on ya. You're out.' 'Shag, how long have I known you?' Groat asked solicitously. 'I guess about 12 years,' answered Crawford. 'And that's the first time you ever missed a play on me,' lamented the Philadelphia infielder as he arose and dusted himself off. Groat went to the dugout for his glove, and as he returned to his position he upbraided his old friend. 'I'm surprised you'd make a call like that, Shag. I just don't see how you can miss a play that far. I've always considered you the second best umpire in the league.' 'That set me to thinking,' says Crawford. 'If I was just second best, then who was Number One? I asked myself, 'Who do I have to close the gap on?' So when the Phillies came out the next inning I yelled, 'Hey, Dick, who's number one?' Groat let the question hang there a moment, giving it the proper dramatic impact. Then he cupped his glove and shouted across the diamond to Crawford, 'Those other 19 guys are tied.'"

NEW YORK (AP) — Offensive tackle Ron Vary of Southern California was picked today by the Minnesota Vikings as the first choice in the combined college draft by the National and American football leagues.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings, enjoying the best of all possible worlds, have acquired an experienced quarterback and still retain the No. 1 choice in today's professional football draft.

The Vikings traded their regular first round pick in the 1968 and 1969 drafts to New Orleans Monday for quarterback Gary Cuozzo, but still retain the special No. 1 pick they acquired last year in the trade that sent quarterback Fran Tarkenton to the New York Giants.

With Cuozzo joining Joe Kapp, Ron Vanderkelen and Bob Berry, Minnesota has four quarterbacks and that means the Vikings could decide to bypass UCLA's Gary Beban, the Heisman Trophy winning passer, in today's draft.

The Vikings' top prospects then would seem to be Notre Dame's Kevin Hardy, a 270-pound defensive tackle, Syracuse's Larry Conka, a tough running fullback, and Ron Vary of Southern California, an offensive tackle.

It was the second straight year that Cuozzo has been traded for a high draft choice. Last year, he was swapped to the Saints by Baltimore for the No. 1 pick in the draft. The Colts used the choice to select defensive lineman Bubba Smith of Michigan State.

Odessa Soldier Charged With Killing Millionaire

SAN ANGELO (AP)—A teenage rabbit hunter found the body of wealthy young Michael Robineau Monday night in a cotton field. Officers charged an A.W.O.L. soldier from Odessa, Tex., today with murder with malice.

Charged was Miguel Galligas Ybarra, 21, absent without leave from Ft. Sam Houston from which Robineau, 21, had just finished six months' duty as an Army reservist Friday.

Ybarra, recently back from Korea, was escorted to the police station at Odessa, 130 miles northwest of here, by his father Monday.

OIL HEIR

Robineau was heir to Colorado oil millions. Ybarra was charged with going A.W.O.L. Friday, the day Robineau left Ft. Sam Houston.

Ybarra was already being sought before his surrender. An Eldorado liquor store operator said he saw Robineau inside a car while a young man gave identification which tallied with that of the wanted man.

BUYS CLOTHING

Later, Police Chief Bill Stacy of Big Lake said he stopped the A.W.O.L. soldier Saturday as he walked out of town. The man checked into a Big Lake motel during the night and next day bought a new outfit of clothing from Stacy's wife, a store clerk. Texas Ranger A. Y. Allee Jr. questioned the wanted soldier and plans were laid to take him from Odessa to San Angelo.

The charges were filed before Justice of the Peace O. L. Miller. Investigators began a painstaking effort to retrace the movements of Robineau. Members of the family had said it was not unusual for Robineau to give a hitchhiker a ride. As a son of the late M. H. Robineau, Denver sportsman and president of Frontier Refining Co., he was a reputed heir to $3 million.

BULLET CLUE

State and local police had teamed with sheriff's officers to search a wide expanse of lonely West Texas ranch country after Robineau's blood-stained car was found Saturday near Big Lake, 72 miles southeast of San Angelo on one route to Odessa. There was an expended .25 caliber bullet shell in the car.

Before the search for Robineau ended, another began in the same vicinity for Frank Boyd, 65, a rancher who disappeared after cashing a $12 check at a cafe in Rankin early Saturday. Rankin is 30 miles west of Big Lake. Boyd's car was found on a street in Midland, on one highway between Rankin and Odessa.

Gives Gavels To Key Demos

GRAHAM, Tex. (AP)—For the past eight years, 86-year-old John Rubenkoing of Graham has been making gavels that have gone to people all over the United States.

One went to the late President John F. Kennedy. Others have gone to President Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas Gov. John Connally, and the late Sam Rayburn of Texas, who served as speaker of the House longer than any man in history.

More than 150 of these hand-crafted gavels, made from various woods, have been given away.

Rubenkoing began his hobby eight years ago when he made several gavels for members of Masonic Lodge 485, of which he is a life member. The first one, for Ronnie Stephens, was made from mesquite. Since then, he has used mulberry, hackberry and ebony.

The gavel he gave Rayburn is now on display at the desk at the Sam Rayburn Library at Bonham.

He's a staunch Democrat and commented recently, "I've never given a Republican a gavel, but I'm thinking about sending Sen. (Everett) Dirksen (R-Ill.) one."

Lawyer Defends 'Killer' Eagles

AUSTIN (AP)—Arthur Mitchell, an Austin lawyer, has come to the defense today of three golden eagles condemned to death in California for allegedly slaughtering lambs.

He said eagles do not kill nearly as many sheep as they are charged with slaying.

Mitchell commented on a newspaper article saying the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service had granted a permit to a San Rafael ranchman to kill three of the rare birds.

Mitchell said he will buy any "past, present or future" sheep killed on his ranch if he can prove the eagles were the culprits, providing the birds are allowed to live.

"I've briefed the cases of eagle thoroughly and they apparently are not the big sheep killers some people think," Mitchell said.

U.S. Will Build Super-Hard Siloes To Shield Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will guard against any Soviet development of super-accurate missiles by building super-hard launch siloes to better shield its own multiwarhead Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Defense officials disclosed the move Monday as President Johnson unveiled a proposed $7.67 billion defense budget for congressional consideration.

Officials said the aim is to deprive the Soviets of any chance to come up with high-accuracy nuclear missiles good enough to knock out existing U.S. Minuteman sites.

SECRET

Spokesmen said the siloes would be invulnerable to all but direct nuclear hits through additional depth, concrete and steel cover and special hardening against the effects of electromagnetic phenomena.

Exactly how many Minuteman IIIs—the multiwarhead variety—will be socked into these thickened, underground firing barrels is secret.

The President did not mention the silo project in his budget message but defense officials said their development is included in the several hundred million dollars to be spent on Minuteman in 1969.

NUCLEAR BOMBS

The Minuteman III, due to come into the missile inventory about June, 1970, will carry three or more nuclear bombs capable of being directed at widely separated points in enemy territory.

The United States now has 1,054 ICBMs, including 350 de-coy-equipped Minutemen II, 650 single-warhead Minutemen I and 54 multimegaton, liquid-fuel Titans. The Minutemen are about one megaton and solid-fueled.

All are positioned underground with a certain amount of protection. The Pentagon wants more.

At this point, they report, the Soviets have not moved toward improving accuracy of their missiles, officials said. In fact, they said the latest Soviet SS11 ICBM is less accurate and has less nuclear punch—one megaton or so—than the earlier SS9s.

PRECAUTION

Why the Soviets should have started deploying a smaller, less-accurate missile is not clear unless, as one official observed, "they just wanted to put in additional numbers cheaply."

This would mean the Soviets have given up trying to develop the highly accurate missiles needed for any attempt to strike the United States first and escape retaliation.

But U.S. officials are not ruling out the possibility the Soviets will attempt a big strategic jump by deploying highly accurate weapons. Since it takes longer to develop a superhard silo as a countermeasure, work is being ordered now as a precaution.

Son Of Rich Contractor Killed In Street Fight

DALLAS (AP)—Pistol shots fired Monday evening during what police described as a North Dallas street fight killed Roy Munger Simons, 19, identified by authorities as the son of a wealthy contractor.

Officers arrested a 16-year-old and turned him over to juvenile authorities. They quoted him as saying he fired as three older youths wrestled with him.

SHOT IN SIDE

They said the dead youth was the son of A. Pollard Simons. He was struck in the side by a .38-caliber bullet and died before reaching a hospital.

Police Capt. Will Fritz said young Simons, two other youths, also 19, and two girls, 16 and 14, went to visit a third girl

Simons' companions told officers they were visiting a girl who lives in a foster home for delinquents, Patroman Bill Huffstutler reported.

This sequence of events was reconstructed by Detective Tom Sewell and the other officers after questioning half a dozen or more teenagers.

The 16-year-old said he and two male companions, 15 and 16, were looking through some binoculars as they strolled down the street about 7:30 p.m.

WARNING

Simons and the youths with him stepped from a yard, the younger boys recounted, and asked if "we were looking for trouble."

After one of the older youths grabbed a package of cigarettes from a friend and another started choking the 16-year-old, the boy in custody told officers he pulled a pistol and fired at the ground, warning the others to stand back while his own companions fled.

The 16-year-old said the others apparently believed his weapon was loaded with blanks and he led them to the ground and took the gun.

Police arrived at that point and took all the youths to headquarters for questioning, later releasing all but the 16-year-old.

Opening lead: Five of ♠
A nimble feat of broken field running by South salvaged his doubled five club contract in today's hand, after the defense failed to uncover the killing opening.

Altho a diamond lead would have assured South's defeat, West made the natural opening of the five of hearts—the suit bid by his partner. East put up the queen and declarer won the trick with the king.

It appeared likely, from West's double, that the latter had two sure trump tricks, so that, if South were to avoid a setback, he must find a way to dispose of his diamond loser. Dummy's spade holding offered the only hope for obtaining a discard.

The ace of clubs was cashed first, thereby removing East's lone trump. The jack of spades was put thru next and West ducked. Declarer continued with the ten and then a third round, putting in the queen from dummy as East discarded a diamond. The ace of spades was cashed on which South disposed of the four of diamonds while West helplessly followed suit with the king of spades.

A heart was led to the jack and West ruffed in with the nine of clubs, and returned the queen of trumps to dislodge North's king. Another heart to declarer's ace brought forth West's remaining trump—the jack. North still retained a club, the five, to ruff out South's last heart—the three. Declarer lost only the two trump tricks on the deal.

Observe that South must draw one round of trumps in order to obtain the needed diamond sluff on North's long spade. However, he must refrain from cashing a second high club prematurely, or else West will be in position to play a third round before South has an opportunity to ruff out his losing heart.

Queen's Whistle Won't Be Sold

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The whistle of the Queen Mary won't be sold to students of the University of Washington.

One reason, says Harry Fulton of the city manager's office: It's too loud.

The students had proposed sounding the whistle at athletic events.

"It is one of the most far-ranging sounds ever devised by man," wrote Fulton to the students. "If you sounded this in a football stadium, the players might never again hear the signals called."

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—A group of eighth graders did some crystal ball gazing and came up with the top newspaper stories likely on a typical day in the year 2,068.

The front page stories had these headlines: "Atomic Car Explodes, Wipes Out City Block," "School Tax Defeated Again," "President of U.S. Consultants Computer Cabinet," "Man Recovers from Cold Storage," "Riots on the Moon," and "First Attempt at Brain Transplant."

The youngsters were assigned the project in a junior high language arts class.
