BIG DRIVE

Three-Fold Target Is Aim Of Chamber

Three score men, including the officers and directors as well as the past presidents and other long-time workers in the Chamber of Commerce, have kicked off the first expansive membership drive within the past dozen years.

The target is three fold, Dr. Milton Talbot, president, told the group at the kick-off luncheon at the Settles Hotel Monday noon — to vastly increase the strength of membership; to increase revenues to the point the chamber can have a "do something" budget; and to revive community enthusiasm and outlook.

It's A Big Job

It's a big job, the president admitted, but he urged workers to roll up their sleeves and get it done within 10 days.

The work will be headed up by four teams — the PEP (Past Exalted or Exhausted Presidents) led by Dr. Talbot; Ambassadors' Club, led by Oliver Cofer; and two teams of directors, the Sparks led by Don Womack and the Gassers by Joe

The volunteers will be aiming at both new members and dues revaluations.

Although the Chamber has one of the lowest budgets ($31,000) in West Texas for cities of anywhere near comparable population, it is having to make up a deficit in operations in seeking to over-subscribe an austere budget for this year, said

The per capita support in Big Spring is 92 cents; the range of other cities is up to $2.50 per capita. Snyder, half the size of Big Spring, has a $25,000 budget; Sweetwater, not much more than half the size of Big Spring, has a $45,000 budget (including $12,000 BDC support); Pampa, of comparable size, $50,000; Plainview, about $50,000.

Much Bigger Outlay

Some of the larger area neighbors have Chamber budgets from three to eight times as much as the Big Spring Chamber outlay, he added. "We want to have a do something Chamber, not to just be able to keep the doors open," he pleaded.

The first formal report session is Thursday 1 p.m. at the Settles; the next, Monday noon at the Settles; and the final session Thursday noon, Feb. 29.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dayton, Ohio, won the title of the nation's cleanest town today after a year's campaign that included a flower plant-in and a citizen rubbish carry-out.

Letter Refers To 'Undue Criticism'

AUSTIN (AP)— Coke R. Stevenson Jr., administrator of the Texas Liquor Control Board, resigned today.

Stevenson's letter of resignation to the three-member board, involved in a continuing controversy over alleged liquor law irregularities, said, however, he felt the members "as well as all of us in the department have received undue criticism.'

Stevenson continued:

CONSOLATION "We all have done everything to find the wrong doers and dismiss them. The only consolation is the fact that the department may now get a revision of laws, additional personnel, salaries, and equipment which have been so sorely needed.

"As you know, I am eligible for retirement, so at this time I tender you my resignation."

He said he would "be happy to remain until my successor is named; therefore, the date of my retirement is left to the pleasure of the board."

1,178 TEXANS KILLED

Viet War Has Claimed 14 Howard County Lads

Of the 1,178 Texans who have died in the Vietnam War, 14 men were from Howard County. According to figures released by the Associated Press today and compiled by James L. Smith, assistant director of the state Veterans Commission, over half the fatalities have come from just 10 counties. Howard County was sixth in the counties with 10 or more war deaths, Smith said.

Smith, who said he had made it his personal project to compile a county-by-county, service-byservice list of Vietnam deaths for each of the state's 254 counties, based his list on official counts by the U.S. Department of Defense. The list covers fatalities from Dec. 22, 1961, to Feb. 13, 1968. It does not separate deaths from hostile and non-hostile causes in the war.

Harris County, the state's most populous county led the list of Vietnam casualties with 152, followed in order by Bexar 103, Dallas 100, Tarrant 64, El Paso 49, Nueces 46, Travis 32, Hidalgo 28, Bell 27 and Galveston 24.

These 10 counties accounted for 625 Vietnam fatalities, or just over 53 per cent of the state's

Other counties, with 10 or more war deaths, are Bowie 11, Cameron 19, Ector 11, Gregg 12, Jefferson 17, Lubbock 14, McLennan 15, Potter 12, Smith 16, Taylor 12, Webb 11 and Wichita 16.

Lesson Plan Of Reds Told

WASHINGTON (AP) - A self-professed former Communist says lessons he learned in the early 1960s as a member of the Progressive Labor Party included techniques of disarm ing policemen and other tactics of street warfare.

Testifying Monday at a mock trial of international communism sponsored by anti-Communist groups, Philip Abbot Luce said these skills and others, including karate and how to communications de-'bug' vices, were taught to a "hardcore cadre" of the party. He said he and perhaps a dozen others were being especially trained for a time when they would "disappear," taking new identities and fanning out to other parts of the United States. Before leaving the party in 1965, Luce said, he had become a member of its executive committee and helped organize trips of American students to Cuba in 1966 and 1964. Cuban officials in Havana and members of the Communist nation's delegation to the United Nations slipped cash to the PLP to help finance these trips, he said. A description of communism's arrival in war-torn China in the 1930s was given by a Jesuit priest who said he was a missionary there from 1930 to 1950. The Rev. Raymond J. Dejaegher said the Communists who came to power in his district killed unhesitatingly to win control. There was the further consideration that, if East were to gain the lead, a spade return thru declarer's kingwould surely bring a guick decision for the defense | three tricks in that suit.

paralyzed by mass resignations by teachers, who followed up by staying away from classes. It appeared, from first reports, that around 60 per cent of the teaching force did not show up, and in many places this forced closing of schools for lack of teachers, to the point they were not even sufficient to insure safety let alone for instruction.

Oddly, although money is an issue, teacher leaders say this is not the exclusive or even prime issue. Quite likely it is. But the education bill which cleared the legislature had built into it certain property tax reliefs, which the teachers said were unacceptable in view of long range educational objectives of the state. Gov. Claude Kirk blamed "downtown Democrats" for the property tax muddle,

The Florida Educational Association contended that it had made its point, regretting that it meant disrupting education for children. It would, FEA said, be for the good of children in the long run by commanding better education.

The tragedy of all this, indeed, is that it does effect the children, and every day this drags on the effect is that much more telling. In the end, there will be some settlement, which makes one wonder why it couldn't be done without the necessity of closing schools in the middle of a term.

Less Immunity For Public Bodies?

WASHINGTON - At no time did would restore the nation's morale and

An old argument is being revived in Texas, and the next legislative session may have to resolve it. Should the doctrine of governmental immunity be abolished or modified so citizens can sue the state and its local governments for damages resulting from negligent or wrongful acts or ommissions of public employes?

It is a complex question. But the expansion of governmental operations and the increasing inequities of damages for which there is no ready redress make its resolution ever more important.

Governmental immunity from tort or damage suits (among others) stems from English common law that the "king can do no wrong" or that the sovereign or lawmaking power is above liability under the law.

The federal government modified that by creating the Court of Claims in 1855 and by congressional passage of the Federal Tort Claims Act in 1946. Under this act, citizens can sue the federal government for minor damages; major cases still require congressional consent. The trend among the states is to adopt courts of claims and tort acts similar to the federal approach.

Texas common law still guarantees damage immunity for governmental functions, for all state and most coun-

Texas citizens can sue cities (municipal corporations), and in some instances counties and other governmental units, for torts related to "proprietary functions," such as operations of public-owned utilities. But the line between "governmental" and "proprietary" functions is vague, haphazardly drawn by a mass of case law, and should be statutorily defined if it is to be retained.

The Legislature last session created a special Senate committee, headed by Oscar Mauzy of Dallas, to study the governmental immunity issue. The Texas Municipal League, concerned about the cost to city taxpayers, resolved in convention last November to oppose abolishing the immunity. In a Senate committee hearing in Austin recently, Dean W. Page Keeton of the University of Texas Law School aruged persuasively for the abolition.

If the Senate committee recommends abolition or modification of governmental immunity, it ought to have a model tort act proposal to go with such recommendation to head off promiscuous and excessive awards.

YOU WOULD think that a man who was destined to be the military leader in the very thing for which Henry argued would be deeply stirred. OH, WELL, PROBABLY to him on that date the foxes he "cotched" were more important than the flery oration of the young Irish lawyer.

George was never a fellow to get too emotionally worked up. Besides it is very likely Henry was prone to intemperate outbursts, and such men are not always impressive to their associates.

The New Hampshire Primaries

Hampshire's state sweepstakes has been less than a success as a money raiser, the primary contest is making up for it. With the candidates on the mark for the last lap money is being thrown around as though it had just been invented. If any of the hundred thousand or so voters fail to get the benefits they must be holed up in some icy hideout beyond the reach of even the intrepid George Romney.

THE PRIMARY does in point of fact resemble a lottery that often seems just about as relevant to the issues of the day. Perhaps the analogy is a great big slot machine, with the managers for the several candidates stuffing in hundreds of thousands of dollars in the wild hope of hitting the jack pot. When the lever is pulled on March 12 and all the symbols stop whirring around, the result will have decided something as among five or six men but very little about what the voters feel on the problems confronting a troubled nation. In the Republican primary Gov.

Romney of Michigan is making a valiant effort to overcome the lead of the front runner, Richard M. Nixon. He is talking about the issues, and above all about Vietnam, with vigor and forthrightness, IN THE Democratic primary Sen

Eugene McCarthy is taking his case against the Johnson Administration to the people of New Hampshire at the crossroads, factory workbenches, town halls and colleges and wherever a few. are gathered together. From the Democratic governor on down through the whole organization there is a determined effort to blank him out, so much so that it could backfire. Nixon believes he will take 40 per cent of the vote and the entire slate of delegates. In 1964 Henry Cabot Lodge got 36 per cent and he was 10,000 miles away in Saigon as Ambassador to South Vietnam.

ON THE NIXON score card Romney is given 30 per cent of the total vote. This will be a sufficient showing cinch that the few sips can't do and straining in the bathroom envelope, and 25 cents in coin to persuade him to go on to the Wisare important measures in con- to cover printing and handling. consin primary. MANCHESTER, N.H. - While New cent will be divided between Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Gov Ronald Reagan of California as writeins, with a scattering of votes for marginal candidates. It is entirely possible that Nixon, with his sharp in sight into the political realities, is deliberately overestimating the Romney vote so that the Nixon total will look even more impressive when the results are in.

> Romney's problem is establishing a national identity. As a newcomer to the national scene - the governor of a state with its own particular background - when he talks about Vietnam and the balance of payments he must overcome the suspicion of the voter that he is an interloper merely exploiting the issues for his own advancement. Nixon, who has moved in the presidential ambience since he became Dwight Eisenhower's vice president, can resort to broad generalities, saving his fire, so confident is he of the nomination, for the campaign in the fall.

> BUT ROMNEY has seriously and consistently tried to discuss the issues. His speech in Keene at the start of his campaign, calling for the neutralization of all of Southeast Asia, was a carefully reasoned proposal deserving wider attention than it re-

Unable to engage his opponent in debate Romney has in recent days openly assailed him. He called him a "me, too" candidate, his stand on Vietnam merely a blurred carbon copy of the position of the Johnson Administration. The Republican hierarchy will deeply resent these harsh words and particularly when - and if — with Nixon as the nominee the Democrats pick them up.

WHILE McCARTHY suffers from the same frustration he has maintained a more philosophic attitude. And yet even this calm and selfcontained philosopher can hit hard. He characterized a Johnson - Nixon race the other evening as a contest between the vulgar and the obscape. (Copyright, 1968, United Feature Syndicate, Edg.)

We're music lovers too, so we got right in tune with Mr. Simon's money needs. His loan included enough to pay all his old bills, as well as cash to fiddle with.

We understand that people need money for all sorts of reasons. That's why we never put a name on a loan. You name it-and we'll see that you get the money right away. Like today?

Your Community man will understand.
