FEW CONTESTS

Area School Board Races Set Saturday

Only two area school board races—Coahoma and Forsan—will spark much interest in the annual school trustee elections Saturday, since all other races are uncontested.

The Coahoma school race in recent years has been a lively contest, although no major issues have been brought out. At Forsan, the incumbents seeking re-election were on opposing sides when the board voted in a 4-3 decision early this year not to rehire Supt. Darrell Flynt.

Polls To Be Open

Polls will be open from 8 a.m.-7 p.m., except at Stanton, where voting will be from 7 a.m.-7 p.m.

In Howard County, voters will cast ballots for the Big Spring Independent School District, the Coahoma Independent School District, the Forsan School races, Howard County Junior College trustees, and county school board trustees.

In the Big Spring school race, board president Joe A. Moss and secretary Mrs. R. B. G. (Mary Joy) Cowper, both incumbents, and newcomer Jimmy Taylor are uncontested. Dr. Carl Marcum is not seeking re-election. Voting will be at the vocational building at the senior high school, and voters may use the east parking lot. Lawrence Robinson is the judge.

At this box, voters will be selecting the county school board trustees, the Big Spring trustees and the HCJC trustees.

Coahoma Has Big Field

Nine candidates are competing for two Coahoma seats. In the running are Waymon Lepard, incumbent, and O. D. O'Daniel Jr., W. C. Westbrook, Carroll Choate, Rex Shive, Don Myers, Clavis Phinney Jr., Dennis Greenfield and Travis Waller. Not seeking re-election is J. R. Bales.

Voting will be done at the Coahoma City Hall, Mrs. Norma Grant, judge; Midway School, Mrs. H. C. Wallin, judge; and Vincent Baptist Church, Jim Hodnett, judge. Ballots will be cast for Coahoma board members, HCJC and county school trustees.

At Forsan, Tommy D. Albertson and R. L. Rister are incumbents facing a field of five other candidates, including Oliver (Bud) Nichols, Don L. Murphy, Elbert L. Strickland, Harold H. Raney and Dr. William T. Chrane.

There will be boxes at the Elbow school, Homer Thorp, judge; and at Forsan High School, Mrs. John Kubecka, judge. Voters will vote at Elbow only for Forsan candidates; but at the high school they will select HCJC trustees and the county trustee-at-large.

County Board Contest

Wade Choate, member at large; R. L. Heith, Commissioner of Precinct 4, and Hayes Stripling, Commissioner of Precinct 3, are seeking re-election to the Howard County School Board.

HCJC trustees seeking election are Mrs. Horace Garrett, who was appointed last year to fill the unexpired term of her late husband; and K. H. McGibbon, current secretary of the board, who has served several terms. They are unopposed.

At Ackerly, six men are contesting for two places on the Sands Independent School District board. Candidates are Rex Zant, H. D. Fowler, A. D. Reed, Lloyd Robinson, Buster Pitts and Calvin (Bud) Hughes. Jack Hopper, board president, and Leon Bodine, did not seek re-election. Voting will be held at the Brown jug under the supervision of J. B. Shockley, judge.

Stanton and Colorado City school and city elections will be the same day. At Stanton, unopposed school board candidates are Dr. Jack Woodrow and David Workman, incumbents, and Floyd Walker and L. D. Snell. Voting will be held at the Stanton Junior High School.

Colorado City Race

Dub Waldrip, Jeff Taylor, Tom Rees and O. B. Trulock are unopposed in the Colorado City school board race. Trulock and Rees are incumbents. Bill Carter and Warren Anderson did not seek re-election. Voting here will be held at the school tax office at 250 Walnut.

King Won't Heed Order

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A federal judge was told today that the Negro community is so worked up that another mass demonstration here next week could "be worse than Watts or worse than Detroit."

Police Director Frank Holloman said he had received reports that "Negroes are buying guns from wholesale houses in our neighboring state of Arkansas." He said also that Negro youths "have been supplied for several weeks with specific instructions on how to make Molotov cocktails and firebombs."

"I am convinced that Martin Luther King, his leaders or any others cannot control a march," Holloman told U.S. Dist. Judge Bailey Brown.

March Planned Monday

Holloman was arguing in support of a temporary restraining order granted by the judge Wednesday which forbids the march which King planned in support of striking sanitation workers here. King, seeking to have the order set aside, has indicated he will not heed it in any case.

The march was scheduled for Monday. King told a cheering audience of some 2,000 persons Wednesday night, "We're going to march again; we've got to march again in order to put the issue where it's supposed to be."

Flaming Arrow

The Saturn 5 rocket blazes through the sky like a flaming arrow today after its launch from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Troubled Rocket Hits Wrong Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The third stage of America's Saturn 5 super-rocket failed to restart in space today after two second stage engines quit earlier in a troubled flight that could delay the country's man-to-the-moon program.

Despite the premature shutdown of the second stage engines, other engines took up the slack and the world's most powerful rocket shoved into orbit the satellite weighing 132 tons. The satellite consists of an unmanned, 28-ton, Apollo 6 moon ship, a dummy lunar landing capsule and the third stage.

In all, the Saturn 5 has 11 engines: five first stage, five second stage and one third stage engine.

The rocket propelled the huge load into orbit but it was the wrong orbit—110 miles too high. If the Apollo 6 had carried men, a mission to the moon would have been aborted, said an official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. After the malfunction of the second stage, too little fuel remained to propel the craft outward to the moon.

And he said the later failure of the third stage to restart would have prevented a moon shot in any event.

The restart was attempted more than three hours into the flight after the satellite had circled the globe twice.

"We did not get a re-ignition," the mission control center reported.

Controllers immediately ordered the Apollo 6 separated from the third stage. This was done successfully. Then the space craft engine—instead of the dead third stage engine—was called upon to propel the craft to a point 13,832 miles in space.

DIVE BACK

From this height, the space craft will make a flaming dive back to the atmosphere at lunar return speed of nearly 25,000 miles an hour. If all goes well it will parachute to a landing in the Pacific Ocean about 390 miles northwest of Hawaii about 4:50 p.m., EST.

The aircraft carrier Okinawa waited there to recover the craft.

Mrs. Thomas Plans To Request Recount

Mrs. Mary Thomas, who missed election to the Big Spring City Commission by only 13 votes in the unofficial count, will ask the commission for a recount.

City voters turned out in a record number of 3,120 Tuesday, giving the three incumbents new terms in the preliminary vote count. Arnold Marshall received 1,405 votes, Jimmy Morehead, 1,255 votes, and Walter Stroup, 1,251 votes.

RAN FOURTH

Mrs. Thomas ran fourth in the nine candidate race, receiving 1,238 votes. First announcements after the polls closed Tuesday gave her 1,138 votes, but an overnight check added 100 more votes to the total, just 13 votes off the pace.

Mrs. Thomas said she would file the necessary request for a recount as soon as possible, maybe today. She quoted a new law, approved last year, that "a candidate who loses by less than five per cent of the next highest winning candidate can file an application with the city commission for a recount of the votes."

It is mandatory, she said, for the commission to appoint a committee of three persons to recount the votes, appointing one of them chairman. She said other candidates would be notified of the action, and all candidates or their representatives, may attend and observe the recounting session.

WITH MAYOR

She will file her request with the mayor, she said.

A canvass of the election returns is expected at the next commission meeting, Tuesday, at which time the commission will likely act on Mrs. Thomas' application.

Close city elections here are not rare, and the race this week was not the closest finish ever recorded here.

Tom South, incumbent commissioner, lost his seat by just three votes in the election of 1961, when he polled 832 votes. Paul Kasch received 835 to be returned to office.

There have been many city elections when less than 100 votes was the difference between victory and defeat. There were several when less than a score of votes spelled the difference.

LOST BY 9

S. P. Jones received 435 votes in 1952 balloting, but lost by nine votes, with Cecil McComb, aid getting 444 votes and winning the election.

Jack Y. Smith lost in the 1954 election, when his 513 votes were 17 short of Al Goodson's 530.

Two years ago, George Zachariah polled 804 votes but lost his seat at the commission table by 13 votes—same number as this year's difference. Arnold Marshall was re-elected with 817 votes.

With 3,120 votes cast, the election this week was by far the biggest turnout in the city's history. The previous high vote in a commission election was in 1961, when 2,165 voters went to the polls in a six candidate race.

PRESIDENT GOING TO HAWAII FOR DISCUSSIONS

Peace Talks Expected Soon

Soviets Expecting To Host Meeting

LONDON (AP) — Soviet informants said today they expect preliminary Vietnam peace talks to begin in Moscow next week. They said the North Vietnamese have already assured the United States privately they will launch no major offensive if all American bombing attacks are halted.

The sources, who cannot be identified by name, said Hanoi already has begun lifting the siege of Khe Sanh as a sign of its intentions.

UNCONFIRMED

None of these statements could be confirmed in official Western circles.

The officials cautioned, however, against expecting an early end to the peace negotiations. They said they expected them to go for months.

Other sources recalled that 12,000 Americans were killed in Korea while truce talks were going on.

The Russian informants said Moscow was not consulted by Hanoi before Wednesday's conditional acceptance of President Johnson's call for peace talks.

They said that in view of Peking's present relatively low influence in the North Vietnamese capital, they did not believe the Red Chinese were consulted either.

"What you Americans seem to find hard to realize is that North Vietnam is a sovereign nation," one Russian said.

QUICKLY

They said they expected the preliminary talks to get under way "very quickly—probably next week."

They added that they believed the only possible sites for such talks were Moscow or Paris and that the Soviet capital has a 60-40 chance of being chosen.

Moscow is the only capital in the world with American, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong diplomatic representatives. Paris has a diplomatic mission from Hanoi but no official representative of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong.

The Soviet informants said they believed a major stumbling block, once real peace negotiations get under way, will be an American commitment to withdraw from South Vietnam.

Announces

President Johnson tells an outdoor news conference that he will fly to Hawaii to talk with U.S. officials in Saigon concerning peace talks.

Johnson Confirms Plans For Contact

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has agreed to direct contacts on peace between North Vietnamese and U.S. representatives and will fly to Hawaii late tonight to discuss peace and war prospects with top American officials from Saigon.

Washington is understood to have messaged Hanoi informing the government of President Ho Chi Minh of U.S. readiness to meet for initial contacts on peace talks.

MEETING

Officials indicated the first Hanoi-Washington contact would probably be between top U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats in Moscow, Vientiane, Laos, or some other capital where both countries have embassies.

The first purpose, in the U.S. view, would be to set a time and place for actual talks on scaling down the war and eventually negotiating a settlement.

The situation has developed with such speed, since Johnson ordered a partial halt in the bombing of North Vietnam Sunday night that even surprised U.S. government leaders are not quite sure what will happen next.

They voiced cautious optimism about peace prospects but appeared by no means certain the United States and North Vietnam can actually reach an agreement soon.

As if in response to their doubts, North Vietnam's Communist newspaper warned the United States today not to expect any concessions in return for a total bombing halt.

The paper, Nhan Dan, in a statement 10 hours after the Hanoi announcement, said Johnson's speech Sunday "and the subsequent acts of the U.S. aggressors have made it clear that the U.S. government remains obstinate and has not given up its sinister design of aggression against South Vietnam, which is manifest right in Johnson's 'limited bombing' concerning North Vietnam."

BREAKTHROUGH

Prior to this statement—which reached Washington only early today—the Washington-Hanoi agreement to talk after years of continuously expanding war was regarded in Washington as a great breakthrough toward eventually ending the conflict.

Relief Force Nears Base Under Siege

SAIGON (AP)—Advance elements of a big U.S. relief force drove through light enemy artillery and mortar fire today to within a half mile of the besieged Marine combat base at Khe Sanh.

With resistance continuing light, Soviet informants in London said the North Vietnamese were lifting the long siege of Khe Sanh as evidence of good intentions in preliminary peace talks.

However, about 80 rounds of enemy artillery and mortar fire hit Khe Sanh and Marines striking out from the base were reported engaged in fighting with the North Vietnamese in the hills to the west.

A U.S. spokesman said he expected some of the 20,000-man relief force to link up with the 6,000 Marines inside Khe Sanh by nightfall for the first breakthrough in the siege of the fortress, now in its 11th week.

Marines and helicopter-borne air cavalrymen were pushing in three prongs toward the base. Reports from the field said they were encountering sporadic artillery and mortar fire but little other resistance.

A company from the 3rd Marine Division was the spearhead of the drive. After advancing along Highway 9 on the north-east, helicopters landed them northwest of the base and they were reported about half a mile from the barbed-wire perimeter.

Men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division pushed up from south of the base and were reported within 2.5 miles of their goal by midafternoon.

The bulk of the relief force, more Marine infantrymen and an engineer convoy, found the going tougher as they struggled west along the long-closed Highway 9. They had to stop repeatedly while engineers repaired bridges and the road.

NEAR BASE

By noon today they were 5.5 miles east of the base.

"Khe Sanh or Bust," said a sign on an equipment trailer. Senior U.S. officers were puzzled by the lack of resistance the relief force was meeting. They had expected savage fighting.

That could still be in store. The relief force had come within range of big North Vietnamese artillery and rocket guns in the Co Roc mountains to the west inside Laos, and the troops still had to cross the main enemy trench lines which extend to within 100 yards of the base.

Seven More Youngsters Are Nominated For Youth Award

Nominations tumbled in today, to cite young people in Howard County high schools for their outstanding leadership and volunteer activities in various school, church and community affairs.

The names were submitted in the Zale-Herald Youth Achievement Award program, which seeks to put the spotlight on seniors and juniors for their good works.

SEVEN

There were seven new names, and in addition there had been supplemental nominations for some boys' and girls. Although the Youth Achievement program is not a "popularity contest," multiple nominations are not barred.

In fact the public is asked to send in the names of junior or senior boys and girls in the three county high schools (Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan) so that they be properly recognized for unselfish activities. All will be honored at a banquet to be held April 19, at which time the winner will be announced, and receive a large trophy and an engraved wrist watch.

Nominations must close the first of next week, so the invitation to send in names is most urgent.

THOSE WHO HAVE BEEN HONORED WITH NOMINATIONS INCLUDE:

Mollie Condon, Forsan senior — an outstanding athlete with many records to her credit, and active in church work. John David Hull, Big Spring senior — active in drama and debate work; is a leader in church activities for youth, and aids young people and the elderly. Mike Adams, Big Spring senior — active in band and in church activities.

Gayla Caron Williams, Big Spring senior — outstanding in home economics, active in choir, leader in youth religious groups and leader for senior Girl Scout troop.

Deryl Ann Dunagan, Forsan senior — honor society, scholastic athlete award, cheerleader, drama leader, pianist for choir and church.

JUNIOR

Rodney Wall, Coahoma junior — honor society, in Who's Who, student council, athlete, works with younger boys in physical education, active in church, president of Sea Scouts and helps with young scouts. Carolyn Crawford, Big Spring junior — honor society, Latin club, yearbook staff, Who's Who, officer in young people's organization in her church, and worker in several civic drives.

MARTIN EXPECTS TEXAS OFFICIALS TO FALL INTO LINE

Remap Ruling Won't Snag Elections?

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas counties are expected to fall into line with the U.S. Supreme Court's latest "one man-one vote" ruling without disrupting this year's elections and without a lot of new lawsuits.

That's the belief of State Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin and his top aide, First Asst. Atty. Gen. Nola White.

TOO LATE?

The high court ruled Monday in a Midland County case that

The constitution permits no substantial variation from equal population in county commissioner precincts and other local government units with representation based on districts.

"I don't think under any circumstances the high court would upset the elections now in process," Martin said. In Midland's specific case, he added, it would be up to the district judge who first heard the suit by Midland Mayor Hank Avery to decide how to implement the Supreme Court decision.

But by the time the State Supreme Court, which also must issue a mandate, receive the case and acts, the May primaries probably will be over, Martin said.

1970 IMPACT

This probably means the 1970 elections will be the first to reflect the ruling's impact.

Both Martin and White expressed the belief most county commissioners courts would comply with the decision voluntarily — "I don't think many suits will be filed," Martin said.

Commissioners courts are the governing bodies of counties. They are composed of four commissioners, elected from precincts, and the county judge of each county.

Numerous counties are affected by the Supreme Court's decision.

A 1965 study published by the University of Texas' Institute of Public Affairs showed only 17 of 172 participating counties were close to the ideal of 25 percent of the population in each of the four commissioner precincts. In 84 counties, all four precincts deviated from the standard. In 65 counties—including Victoria, Webb (Laredo), Nueces (Corpus Christi), Lubbock, Hale (Plainview), Angeline (Lufkin) and Midland—50 per cent or more of the population was in one precinct.

cases in Texas, however, where city government is affected, said Steve Matthews, executive director of the Texas Municipal League.

"There are a very few cities in Texas that have a full fledged ward system . . . All this means is they'll have to equalize—be sure the wards are equal," he said. In a ward system, city councilmen are elected from individual districts, or wards, within a city.

Matthews said Fort Arthur, Laredo and Slaton have such systems.

FAVORITE SON FUSS FLARES

Casing The Political Scene

Prospects for Texas backing of a favorite son for the Democratic presidential nomination figured strongly in campaigning by the party's candidates for governor Wednesday.

Waggoner Carr and Don Yarborough both had something to say about proposals for Lone Star State delegates to back Gov. John Connally or Sen. Ralph Yarborough at the national convention in August.

Connally and the U.S. senator, who is not related to gubernatorial candidate Yarborough, both said, meanwhile, that they were undecided about whether to bid for such favorite son status.

nally for President-Locke for Governor Club" at Comanche, the West Texas home town of Mrs. Locke.

The organizer of this Comanche club, Bob Carpenter, said steps to start chapters at New Braunfels and Kerens were expected by the weekend.

Three others seeking the Democratic nomination for governor in the May 4 primary—Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, John Hill and Dolph Briscoe—also campaigned in Dallas, and each cited his own background as an important qualification for the state's chief executive.

"It seems apparent now," said Smith, "that when my 18 years' experience as a member of the House of Representatives, a state senator and lieutenant governor are compared to those of the other candidates, we readily see who is in the best position to do the best job."

SHAKING HANDS

The lieutenant governor moved on to spend today in Houston, talking and shaking hands with a realtors' club, workers on produce row and personnel taking coffee breaks in a couple of big office buildings. He planned to attend the Houston Astros' exhibition baseball game tonight.

Hill, touring Dallas shopping centers with a Dixieland band, said his government experience as secretary of state—a post he resigned to make the current race—is more recent than some of his rivals. He went on to say, "The coat tails are gone—candidates have to stand on their own records."

LAWSUITS

In some instances, notably Midland and Kleberg counties, over 90 per cent of the population was in one precinct, with less than 10 per cent of the county's people electing a commissioner's court majority.

County commissioners serve four-year staggered terms. Texas courts have ruled a commissioner may serve out his term even though redistricting has moved his home out of his precinct.

State law provides that changes in precinct boundaries can be made only in July or August.

One unanswered question is what does "substantial variation from equal population" mean. In legislative redistricting, variations of less than 10 per cent from equal population are allowed. It may take further lawsuits to find out how much leeway the counties may have in approaching the "one man-one vote" standard.

WARD SYSTEM

Some have interpreted Monday's decision as also affecting city government, but Martin said, "I don't see any problems in the cities right now unless I misinterpret the decision."

There may be a handful of

CARR RIPS RALPH

Carr, in Dallas, accused the senator of trying to split the Democrats in Texas and said he should "stay out of the party's internal politics this year."

"Sen. Yarborough has tried constantly to undermine President Johnson—and to have his man Don Yarborough elected governor," declared Carr, who wants Connally backed at the Chicago convention.

"Such a battle by Yarborough would be to the detriment of Texas—and to our voice at the national convention . . . The Texas delegation must be free to vote its wishes from the first ballot on in order to stop Bobby Kennedy."

Don Yarborough said at Columbus that he did not intend to take a stand on the question until Sen. Yarborough makes a decision on whether to seek the favorite son designation."

CONNALLY TIE

Supporters of Eugene Locke undertook to tie his candidacy for governor directly to the prospective role of his friend Connally. They reported a group of Democrats have formed a "Con-

'LETS YOU AND HIM DO IT'

Burleson Says U. S. Can't Police Globe

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In his weekly newsletter, Rep. Omar Burleson said today it is time for the United States to say to nations that want to fight: "Let's you and him do it."

'SUCKER' ROLE

Many nations who want the United States to protect them and at the same time support them financially have been saying "lets you and him fight," he said; and to a "considerable degree, we have played the 'sucker' role and fallen for it."

There is good reason to believe that neighbors of South Vietnam want to see our forces succeed against Communist aggression from North Vietnam, said the congressman but they are not very vocal about it in public. They know that if Vietnam is taken over by the Communists, they will be next in line, yet only South Vietnam, South Korea, Australia, New Zealand and Thailand have given any appreciable assistance.

Combined population of Indonesia is about 200 million, approximating the United States, and with the Philippines and India another 634 million would be added, he said.

RED TAKEOVER

"If these Asian countries, who have such a vital stake in their own security, only equalled the U.S. record of half a million men in Vietnam, they could and should field an army of more than a million men," he said. This was the original intent of sending "advisors," he added.

In numerous treaties since World War II the U.S. has made commitments in Europe, Asia and Latin America to come to the aid of countries which are victims of aggression. This seemingly has made these nations feel they are immune to Communist takeover, but the U.S. cannot be the policeman for every corner of the globe, he added. There is nothing wrong with collective defenses with other nations, but perhaps "it is time we are saying, if there must be a fight, 'Let's you and him do it,'" said Rep. Burleson.

PROPOSALS TO RAISE THE PAY OF DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY EMPLOYEES, INCREASE THEIR NUMBERS AND ESTABLISH REGIONAL TRAINING CENTERS TO KEEP PEACE OFFICERS 'ABREAST OF MODERN POLICE TECHNIQUES' WERE ADVANCED BY HILL AT ANOTHER POINT.

FRESH IDEAS

Briscoe reminded listeners about his eight years as a state representative, during which he introduced such measures as the Farm-to-Market Road Act of 1949, plus experience as a business man and civic worker.

"The state government is the biggest business in Texas," Briscoe said, "and a man with business experience should be in the best position to apply the sound business principles to its operation."

Paul Eggers, one of the three candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, opened state campaign headquarters in Austin.

Speaking in San Antonio earlier, Eggers said that "a political vacuum exists today in our state with the Democratic Party badly fragmented" and promised that his party would chart a responsible course.

"We will start with a fresh approach and fresh ideas from new people who are not tied to the stagnant one-party system," he said.

Teen Attacks Sub Teacher

NEW YORK (AP)— A young substitute science teacher at a strife-torn Brooklyn junior high school was assaulted Wednesday by a teenager who walked into the classroom.

Police said Gary Gladstone, 23, was punched in the face several times. He was later treated at a hospital and allowed to go home.

At the time of the attack seven recently hired school security aides were stationed at doors to prevent illegal intrusions and a policeman on permanent duty at the school was patrolling the lobby.

The attack took place at 2:15 p.m. while Gladstone was with two or three pupils in a second floor classroom at junior high school 258 in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section.

Gladstone told police he did not know whether his attacker was a pupil at the school.

The school has been the scene of other recent disturbances including a Feb. 2 incident when hundreds of pupils ran rampant through the hallways.

Gladstone said his attacker entered and "started insulting me, made some disparaging remarks about that I'm white—I don't remember what he said, he was a sick kid—and began to use foul language."

He said the boy grabbed for his wrist watch and began "feeling my pockets for money. Then he began swinging." Gladstone said he pushed his way out of the classroom.

Where One Was Blown Out Of Bed

Deputy Sheriff Charles Wolfe of Crittendon County, Ark., studies wreckage of a small home where one person was seriously injured when blown out of the white bed at center of picture. Eleven were injured when the tornado hit Vincent, Ark., and 25 were left homeless. No fatalities were reported.

Tornadoes Kill Eight In Mississippi Valley

A monster storm punched its way through the midcontinent today after raking the middle Mississippi Valley with death-dealing tornadoes and burying parts of the Great Plains in a blizzard.

Eight persons were killed and scores were injured Wednesday night in a rash of tornadoes which churned out of the storm system and ripped hardest at Arkansas and Tennessee. Heavy rain accompanying the twisters brought a threat of flash flooding in northeastern Arkansas.

SNOW WARNINGS

Foot-deep snows spilling out of the massive storm were whipped into 6-foot drifts by 50-mile-an-hour winds and left much of Wyoming and adjacent parts of Colorado and Nebraska virtually paralyzed. Helicopters and snow plows were poised to move out at daybreak in search of hundreds of stranded motorists and isolated ranchers.

Temperatures plummeted sharply in the wake of the storm. Cold-wave warnings were issued for much of the central plains. Heavy-snow warnings were out ahead of the storm in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Hardest hit by the outbreak of tornadoes and high winds was Arkansas which counted six dead. Authorities searched through the night for other possible victims in wooded areas and rural communities in the eastern half of the state. As many as six twisters struck that section in a two-hour period.

CHURCH LEVELED

The severe weather later skipped across the Mississippi River and unleashed a wave of tornadoes on western Tennessee. Two persons died when a twister smashed a house at 410 ka, 30 miles north of Memphis. Ambulances shuttled 30 to 40 victims to the Memphis Naval Air Station Hospital with various injuries after a tornado struck a mobile-home park at Millington, north of Memphis.

Two blocks of homes and a church were leveled and five persons were injured in a tornado that hit the Vincent community west of West Memphis, Ark. Nine homes were demolished and six persons were injured at Crawfordville, Ark., a few miles farther west.

Arkansas Power and Light Co. reported at least six towns without electrical power after the storms ripped down portions of a 500,000-volt line between Little Rock and Memphis. Seven other cities had only partial electrical service, the company said.

Arkansas communities hit included Star City, Gould, Dewitt, Paragould, Vincent and Crawfordville.

LINES DOWN

Search operations frequently were hampered by debris and tangled power lines and authorities said it would take some time to make any estimate of damage.

Damage to the trailer park alone in Tennessee was estimated at more than $500,000 by Millington Mayor Tom Hall. He said 30 trailers were destroyed and 70 others damaged. The park is occupied mostly by service personnel from Memphis Naval Air Station.

Police said power and utility lines are down throughout Millington as well as in adjacent rural areas.

The springtime weather violence also extended into Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky and Mississippi.

Silt Still Lingers Over West Texas

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms and heavy showers pummelled a wide expanse of South and East Texas today and stout north winds whirled dust aloft in areas farther west.

Fresh turbulence kept developing during the night and early morning as a frigid Canadian front started overtaking a Pacific cool front which caused unruly weather only the night before in the Panhandle and across North Texas.

Officials Map Firm Action

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—School officials said firm measures would be taken when the city's 11 public schools reopen today after a one-day shutdown.

The schools were closed Wednesday for a cooling off period after demonstrators calling for more study in Negro history boycotted high school classes Tuesday and scuffled with some other students.

Starting today all pupils unjustifiably absent will be expelled. Those loitering on school grounds will be forcibly removed by police.

Supt. Carroll Johnson said the safety of every pupil would be guaranteed: "It is our legal obligation to protect students and teachers."

The demonstration Tuesday was the third in a week.

We would like to express our gratitude and appreciation for all the prayers and expressions of concern everyone showed us during this time of sorrow. The family of LaHoma O'Brien from Northeast Texas to Laredo and the new mass of cold air was advancing along a line linking Texarkana, Junction and Wink. Temperatures dropped below freezing in places.

Heavy thunderstorms turned up around 1 a.m. southeast of Austin and four counties—Caldwell, Bastrop, Lee and Fayette—were placed under a severe weather warning. Hail pelted the countryside around San Marcos, Lockhart, Cedar Creek and Bastrop as the storms marched eastward.

Skies cleared behind the Canadian front and winds gradually died down, but dust still lingered in the air over parts of West Texas and blowing silt spread toward the east.

MOISTURE BELT

Among points reporting dust were Abilene, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Dallas and Austin. In the moisture belt, meanwhile, light to heavy showers and occasional thunderstorms moved into Louisiana from areas embracing Greenville, Mount Pleasant, Corsicana, Luling, El Campo, Houston, Palestine, Tyler, Jasper, San Augustine and Marshall.

Top temperatures Wednesday afternoon ranged from the nation's high of 96 degrees at McAllen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley down to 56 at Dalhart in the Panhandle.

Free-dawn marks today dipped to 26 at Dalhart, 28 at Amarillo and 30 at Lubbock while it was still 70 at Houston and Victoria and 74 at Brownsville.

Car Inspection Deadline Nears

AUSTIN—The Texas Department of Public Safety reminds

ed motorists today that less than two weeks remain for obtaining the 1968 inspection sticker with more than two million cars still in need of being inspected. The DPS pointed out that only about 3,500,000 vehicles have been inspected for the 1968 sticker through March 31, and that estimates indicate more than six million vehicles will be registered during 1968.

Colorado River Quality Watched

Steps taken by the Colorado River Municipal Water District and the Texas Railroad Commission are being watched closely as means of improving quality of water in the Colorado River.

This is not the only problem in the river, for some bacteriological contamination from septic tank effluent in the Highland Lakes region has been noted.

These items are contained in a new report (No. 71) issued by the Texas Water Development board and available upon request. The report deals with the Colorado as the river basin, the largest by measure of contributing drainage area wholly in Texas. The river is about 500 miles long and averages eight miles in width. But the chemical quality of the water from this 39,890-square-mile drainage area is the subject of the study.

"Reconnaissance of the Chemical Quality of Surface Waters of the Colorado River Basin, Texas," was written by Donald K. Leifeste and Myra W. Lansford. It was prepared by U.S. Geological Survey in cooperation with the Water Development Board.

The report is the result of a cooperative statewide study begun by the Water Development Board and the USGS in 1961. In this study, water samples for chemical quality analysis were collected periodically at sites throughout Texas. These samples provide some level of information on water quality at places where water development projects are likely to be built, and this investigation includes an evaluation of these special samples against the background of data from the network of daily chemical quality stations.

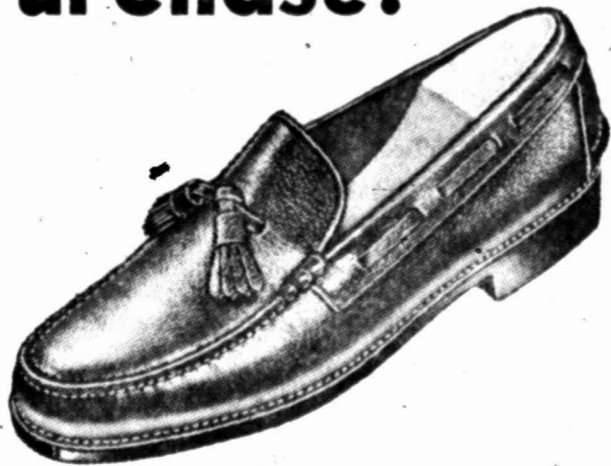

Natural runoff in the Colorado basin was found to be generally of good quality and suitable for most municipal, industrial and agricultural uses. Brine from oil-field operations makes water in the upper section of the basin unfit for many uses there, however. It also increases salt content in the main part of the river throughout its length. A salt-water alleviation program is planned for the area above the Robert Lee Reservoir site, and its effectiveness will be observed for possible application elsewhere.

The Highland Lakes show some bacterial contamination from septic tank effluent in and from waste discharge by pleasure boats.

Copies of Report 71 are available from Texas Water Development Board, P.O. Box 12386, Austin, Tex., 78711.

A Devotional For The Day

Are you able to drink of the cup that I shall drink of, and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with? (Matthew 20:22)

PRAYER: O God, we pray for those who are asking their lives because of their faith in Christ and dedication to Him. We pray that our own lives may be inspired to greater faithfulness even though we become so unpopular, or disliked, or suffer loss for Thy sake. Strengthen us to drink the cup of faithfulness. In Jesus' spirit. Amen.

Starting Point

indications now are that North Vietnam may be willing to enter into discussions which conceivably could lead to a conference on the Vietnamese war.

It may not be too surprising that a favorable straw has been cast in the wind, for surely the President, in his limitation of the bombing sphere in North Vietnam, must have had at least a faint reason for hope of some degree. Perhaps the most surprising thing is that the response has been so prompt.

This is encouraging. Yet, realism dictates caution in expectations and in undue optimism that a cessation of hostilities is just around the corner. Any negotiations such as these are tedious, long and tiring, even in establishing the preliminary ground rules for the larger discus-

Fine Honor

We take an extra measure of pride in the selection of Rep. Graham Purcell as one of the eight outstanding 4-H Club members selected by the national 4-H Club Service Committee this year.

After service during World War I, Rep. Purcell won his legal spurs here as a member of a local law firm before returning to his native Wichita County. It was there that he had distinguished himself as a youth in 4-H Club work, in feeding out show calves and in beef production demonstrations and other activities. He early showed his leadership abilities as president of his club.

This background, as well as his service as a district judge at Wichita Falls, has equipped him for his higher service in Congress. Among the relatively newer members of the House, he has an outstanding record and is rated as one of the ranking authorities on agricultural legislation. The 4-H Clubs couldn't have honored a finer man nor a better young congressman.

'Big Brain' Speeds Tax Returns

NEW YORK (AP)—If you are like most taxpayers who must send a check along with their returns, you will wait until the very last week before filing. If you have a refund due, you probably have filed already.

This is the traditional pattern observed by the Internal Revenue Service, which gets an avalanche of 20 to 25 per cent of returns in the seven days prior to April 15, most from those who had sought to delay the inevitable.

INDIVIDUALS who expect a return envelope with good news naturally want to hear it quickly. And, according to IRS records, that good news may be flowing faster and more nourishingly than last year.

"The computer is working faster," said an IRS spokesman the other day, referring to the seven regional data computer processing centers and the big machine at Martinsburg, W. Va., which is spoken of in awe as the "Big Brain" and deprecia-tively as "The Monster."

A memorandum to Commissioner Sheldon Cohen from operators of the big computer showed that by mid-March 19,562,000 individual returns had processed, compared with 14,179,000 a year ago. Good news in itself.

OF MORE INTEREST and appreciated much more is the fact that by mid-March $3.48 billion had been refunded to taxpayers, a 65 per cent jump over the $2.11 billion returned in the same period a year earlier.

Based on present figures, the IRS estimates that 75 million 1040 and 1040A forms will be filed this year and that 50 million of them will result in refunds totaling $9 billion, $2 billion more than last year.

The problem with computers is people. When people make errors, the computer, contrary to reports about its ruthless efficiency, cannot always detect the inaccuracy. Mistaking error for fact, it often puts in motion events that humans can barely halt.

THIS, FOR EXAMPLE, is the sequence of events that followed the transposing of one digit on a Social Security number.

The numerical error caused the estimated tax payments made by Mr. Smith—only the names in this story are fictional—to be applied to the account of Mr. Jones.

Jones was expecting a refund of $215.04. He didn't receive it by last June, so he called up a local office of the IRS.

THE ANSWER rocked him. "All refunds of more than $5,000 are delayed," he was told. "I thought it was extremely laughable," Jones said at the time. It became even funnier.

Last November Jones received a check for $5,813.40. Brief elation turned to frustration, and Jones sent back the check along with a signed statement that he sought only $215.04.

EARLY THIS YEAR Jones finally thought he had it straightened out. His refund for the smaller amount came. In fact, 6 per cent interest was added because the government was late in paying.

Shortly thereafter another envelope came from the Treasury. It contained a check for $1,646.90. This too was sent back to the government for the information of its computer, which can add billions of figures in the flash of an eye but cannot always spot an incorrect one.

The moral, so far as the IRS is concerned, is to be nice to the computer. Whether taking money from you or trying to hand it out to you, the computer can give you a hard time. Don't confuse it. Be accurate. You'll get your refund faster. And your patience won't be taxed.

Purse Power-Proof

WASHINGTON (AP)—A favorite belief around Congress is that theirs is a government of laws, not of men. Like the balanced budget, early adjournment and other fond congressional dreams, it frequently proves illusory.

Last year, after considerable effort and painful compromising, Congress voted to continue the anti-poverty program with, it thought, a major change in the way Community Action programs operated.

INSTEAD of having them run by private groups operating independently of the federal government, Congress said elected public officials should either direct the programs themselves or pick the agency that does.

To its authors, the language of the amendment seemed clear and unequivocal: States, counties or city governments would take over the Community Action agencies. The amendment's opponents, felt the same way. They dubbed it the "city hall" amendment and said it put the community action agencies under the thumb of politicians.

SO IT CAME as something of a shock to supporters of the change when the Office of Economic Opportunity issued its proposed guidelines last month to implement the new law. Their main thrust seemed to be to encourage public officials to keep out of the picture and designate existing agencies to carry on.

As chief sponsor of the amendment, Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., registered the heaviest shock.

"The seriousness of this breach of congressional intent is so profound," she told the chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, that OEO officials should be called before the committee to explain.

SHE ACCUSED the OEO of ignoring the new role for the states envisioned by the amendment and of trying to discourage cities and counties from becoming Community Action agencies themselves.

The National League of Cities and the National Association of Counties share Mrs. Green's view. In letters to the OEO, the League of Cities called the guidelines "extremely protective of the existing agencies" and the county group said they are "titled to favor existing agencies."

The chief administrative officer of Los Angeles County was even blunter.

"IF IT WERE the intent of the OEO to interpret the Green amendment in such a way as to make it impossible for a county to designate itself as a Community Action agency," he wrote, "they have been eminently successful."

OEO has support for its position among Congress members who opposed the Green amendment. One of them, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., says the guidelines are "in accord with the spirit and intent as well as the letter" of the law as enacted.

MRS. GREEN is one of the most resourceful members of Congress, however, and it is likely the guidelines will undergo revisions before they go into effect. If not, the OEO is liable to find itself in money trouble with the House Appropriations Committee, which leans heavily toward Mrs. Green's interpretation of the anti-poverty laws.

Whether this is a government of men or laws may be subject to dispute, but not the power of the purse.

To Your Good Health
A Sane View Of The Use Of X-Rays

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Near Dr. Molner: I am terribly concerned that I have done my 14-year old daughter great harm. She was the picture of health until she was 12 and began having trouble with her stomach. Until then she never had an X-ray.

A series of gastro-intestinal X-rays was inconclusive. She was hospitalized for another series, and six months later, over my protests, for some more. In all four series in 18 months.

The head of the laboratory tried to reassure me by saying they had the newest equipment, and four or five series would cause less exposure than one series five years ago. Also they took my daughter's age into consideration, when doing each series.

Now comes the part that frightens me. She is going to Boston for a complete gastroenterology workup. They said they would take new X-rays only when absolutely necessary and that even if she has another series there was nothing to worry about. Oh, Dr. Molner, I disagree.

I am so worried that I have thought of calling off the trip. She also has had three biting X-rays at the dentist's this year. Have I let the child be harmed for the future? Will her reproductive organs be damaged? — Mrs. N.B.

I don't think you should hesitate for a minute about going ahead with the new examination.

It is true that we all should avoid any needless exposure to X-rays. We know that the effect can be cumulative, and that too much can (or may) be harmful. Being careful makes sense.

But fearing the use of X-ray for any diagnostic need is carrying carefulness beyond the point of reasonableness.

Thing of it this way. Sometimes X-ray treatments are given in series of exposures which may be measured in minutes, and at full power. And of course some harmful effects must be expected.

Now how does that compare with diagnostic X-ray? The exposure, per film, is about 1-10 of a SECOND, and you must remember that much less intensity is required with use of image intensifiers and such devices,

Around The Rim

Another Look At The Charter

Now that the annual city commission election is behind us, it might be a good time to take another look at revising the city charter, as was discussed some time ago and has been quietly forgotten. Particularly revision would be of some value, I think, in regards to elections, as there are a number of areas where it might be modernized.

THERE ARE some who have suggested that the mayor should be elected directly by the electorate, rather than the present system of having the commissioners select a mayor from among themselves. By custom, this role usually goes to the senior member, who holds the job until he retires or is defeated.

The balance of the ticket might be elected directly as well, rather than the present hully-gully method of the winners being those who get the most votes from the entire field. In other words, commissioners might serve in seats one through four, and a challenger could file to oppose the candidate of his choice, without regard to other seats or candidates. This would enable the voter to make a more direct choice among candidates, making each "place" a separate contest.

AT THE SAME time, some consideration might be given to charging a nominal filing fee, to hold the field to those candidates who have a sincere desire to serve. Of course, it might not be necessary to revise the charter for such a change, anymore than revision is required to change the number or location of polling places.

THE NUMBER of polling places has often been changed. The Airport Fire Station was used this week, but the vote was so small as to indicate it was only barely needed. However, the large turnout at the Eighteenth and Main station and the Eleventh and Birdwell stations indicate another voting box, or perhaps several, are needed to serve the southern areas of the city. The Wason Fire Station can probably help in this section.

THE PROBLEMS of a fiscal year beginning in April have been enumerated many times, and the list of possible revisions might be extended to some length. Although there are probably no critical problems to be solved with revision, there is much to be said for a review and study of the matter.

Worldwide Subversion By Chinese Reds

WASHINGTON — Some of the most sensational news of what is going on around the world comes out in small fragments from time to time and is not always pieced together so that people may understand its true significance.

Today, for instance, Red China is engaged in a far-reaching revolutionary movement aimed at underdeveloped countries — nearly 100 in number and with two thirds of the world's population. Subversion and infiltration and the training and arming of terrorist and guerrilla fighters are widespread. Much of this activity has been encouraged by the success of the Red Chinese in Vietnam.

THE PEKING government now is planting the seeds of more "wars of liberation" patterned after the Vietnam conflict. Information collected from various capitals of the world, in an article based on a survey just made by staff correspondents of "U.S. News & World Report," indicates that the Red Chinese are making substantial progress.

Burma is being threatened, and is moving army units in the area between Red China and India, where the Chinese Reds openly support Burmese rebels. Red China is reaching into Northeast India to help rebel tribes. From Cambodia, Thailand, Indonesia, Malaysia and Borneo come reports of guerrillas operating with Chinese-made arms.

THE SOVIET Union is by no means standing aloof. In the Mideast, for instance, it trains and arms Arab armies, while Red China works with Arab terrorists. Israel has revealed that some of the terrorist leaders captured in recent raids in Jordan had been trained in Red China for such missions.

THROUGHOUT Africa, too, Red China is very active. Race wars between black and white are being encouraged. The Red Chinese have bases in Tanzania and in the Congo. A secret school for guerrillas is operating near an African port, where Chinese ships bring arms, equipment and supplies. Sabotage and terrorism are being taught in four language groups — French, English, Spanish and Portuguese — by instructors from Red China and Castro's Cuba. The result of this is trouble in Spanish Guinea, Portuguese Africa and Rhodesia.

EVEN IN EUROPE the Chinese Reds have a foothold through Albania, and they carry on a lot of mischief-making in other European countries and in neighboring areas.

In this hemisphere, the Chinese are inclined toward Peking's tactics, and his agents spread the gospel of the Red Chinese throughout Latin America. The formula is designed to align the poor against the rich and the "countieside against the city."

THERE ARE signs that large-scale guerrilla war now is contemplated. The objective, of course, is to create revolutionary conditions everywhere. The Russians are not averse to this, because it means that the major powers of the world will be diverting their military strength to try to maintain peace in the various localities where crises erupt.

Oddly enough, the United Nations, which is supposed to provide a peacekeeping machinery throughout the world, avoids interference in these areas. This policy is followed even though it is known that domestic conditions in several countries are deliberately worsened from the outside as disorders are instigated by Red Chinese who are experts in revolutionary tactics.

IF THE STRONG nations do not unite somehow to thwart the start of small wars around the globe, it seems certain that sooner or later the major powers will find themselves involved, and the problems will be as frustrating as they now are in Vietnam.

Those Broken Crystal Balls

WASHINGTON — After President Johnson's earth-shattering speech on Sunday night in which he announced that he would not be a candidate for the Presidency in 1968, I immediately called my crystal ball repairman and told him to get over right away.

"I'm sorry," he said, "I'm swamped. Every columnist, pundit and television commentator has been calling in, wanting his crystal ball repaired, and I just can't get to all of them right now."

"But I've got to have mine fixed," I cried. "My living depends on it."

"THAT'S WHAT they all say," the repairman said. "Look, if you want to bring it in tomorrow morning, I'll see what I can do. But with what has been going on in the past few months, I just can't make house calls."

I arrived the next morning at 8 o'clock, hoping I would get immediate service, but the repair shop was jammed. Drew Pearson was fighting with James Reston, Robert Novak was trying to push in front of David Lawrence, Walter Lippmann was arguing with Eric Sevareid, William Buckley and David Brinkley were hugging the counter, Russell Baker, who had just written a book on the elections, was standing in a corner, crying. Clark Mollenhoff, who had written Romney's biography, was pulling out his hair. The crystal ball repairman was going out of his mind.

HE FINALLY SAID: "All right, shut up, everybody! I'm going to give you each a number and you're going to have to wait your turn."

I sat on a bench between Walter Cronkite and the cartoonist, Herb Block. Each of us held his crystal ball on his lap.

"You would think these things would work during an election year," Cronkite complained bitterly.

"MINE WORKS," Block said. "It just doesn't work right. Wait until Betty Furness hears about this."

"I'm going to call Ralph Nader," Drew Pearson said. "The whole crys-

Editor's Note: The lieutenant governor of Texas is a powerful and important man. He directs the Senate, where 11 members can block any measure. He is governor when the governor is out of state and would become governor in case of death. Here is another in a series of stories about the major candidates for lieutenant governor.

By LEE JONES

ASTIN (AP) — Rep. Don Gladden is an unabashed liberal with a record of more lost battles than a Confederate general. He is banking on a coalition of Negroes, Mexican-Americans, union members and independent liberals to end liberal Democrats' decades of absence from the lieutenant governor's chair. Gladden's political liabilities — a lack of funds, a divided liberal community and a virtually unknown name and record — threaten to outweigh his assets.

BIG PRIZE — The prize is big. Many politicians say the lieutenant governor, because of his control over the Senate, is the state's most powerful elected official. Gladden, 37, of Fort Worth, is campaigning against Speaker Ben Barnes and two lesser known candidates, Gene Smith of Fort Worth and Douglas DeCluit, a Waco Republican.

Labor is divided between those who say union goals can best be met by coming to terms with Barnes and those who point to Gladden's 88-4 pro-labor voting record in four House terms. On most issues, Gladden voted with a minority and often undertook the role of gadfly during House debates. Ultimately, Gladden received a lukewarm "recommendation" rather than a solid endorsement from the AFL-Committee on Political Education.

PHILOSOPHY — In an interview, Gladden gave his opinions on his campaign, liberalism and a number of state issues. Here are excerpts: Q: What is your basic political philosophy? A: I have defined myself personally as a liberal. I define liberal as being a person who recognizes the needs of the community and is not fearful of using the instrumentality of government so long as the democratic processes are available for satisfying these needs. Q: Texans are generally regarded as conservatives. Why do you think a liberal can win such an important office as lieutenant governor, given this prevailing feeling? A: Because there's not a conservative in the race. I think the concept of conservatism that is pressed by most Texans is not one of the John Connally-

Ben Barnes type. I've seen in my going around the state that the true conservative in Texas feels just as uninvolved in the process of government as the liberal does.

CONCEPT

Q: What is the true concept of conservatism? A: No government involvement except as necessary, and no government involvement in the business community. The Connally-Barnes conservatism is one directed at maintaining the business community, whereas the traditional idea is one of no government involvement except in absolute necessity.

Q: What qualifications would you bring to the office that someone else might not? A: I think probably the biggest single qualification I have is independence. I think the person who is presiding officer of either house must have a basic concept of independence and must guarantee each member of that house that he is afforded independence of thought and judgment and vote.

Q: Do you think your tenure as lieutenant governor, should you be elected, would result in higher taxes than if a conservative were elected? A: I doubt very seriously if my tenure as lieutenant governor would materially affect the spending of the state. It would affect the direction we look for revenue.

NO EFFORT

Q: Where would you look for revenue? A: I suspect I would go first to a graduated personal income tax, coupled with a corporate income tax. I feel like it's time for Texas to assume the traditional concept of taxation, one that taxes according to ability to pay, rather than on the mere existence of people within the state.

Q: Do you think union backing impairs a candidate's independence? A: Only if the candidate so desires. My basic political philosophy is consistent with the goals of organized labor, but from the standpoint of losing any of my personal independence I never have and doubt I ever will, though some in organized labor seem to think that perhaps you should.

Q: Ben Barnes has played down political labels such as liberal and conservative. Do you agree with him that these words have no meaning in the context of Texas politics... or do you think they do have a meaning? A: I think very definitely they do have a meaning. I think we need to start toward the direction that a person can vote on the basis of what a person believes rather than how nice a guy is. The only way we can establish that is to formulate a basic philosophic policy and then label it. We don't have a two-party system in Texas where we can label a person a Democrat or Republican, and so we of necessity have to fall on philosophic labels rather than party platforms.

SUPPORT

Q: Are you looking for support, financial and otherwise, from Negro and Mexican-American groups? A: Yes. As a matter of fact, I've already gotten some financial support from some Negro groups and some Latin groups.

Q: One thing that concerns voters is militancy among Negroes and, to a growing extent, among Mexican-Americans, and the threat of riots. How do you feel about this new spirit of militancy? A: I'm not in sympathy with riots. I am in sympathy with people organizing to assert their personal feelings or group feelings as to whether or not they're getting a fair shake from their government or whether they're in the proper position in the social structure. I think that people have a right to assert their special interests, just as the militant natural gas companies organized to come on to the state of Texas and get what they felt they were entitled to. Now I predict that militancy won't be shown in the streets of Texas but in the ballot boxes of Texas in 1968.

BLACK POWER

Q: Are you in sympathy with the Black Power movement? A: No, I'm not. I think the utilization of violence and riots is certainly no way to bring about the changes we need in this country. Again, I must admit I have no knowledge of any black power movement in Texas.

Q: Were you active at all in the different movements to support the farm workers' strike in the Lower Rio Grande Valley? A: Not as active as probably I should have been. I did march with the Valley farm workers on self with an adequate industrial safety act that would afford workers an opportunity to work in a safe place and afford the state government an opportunity to regulate these working conditions. He would concern himself with the elements of taxation and guarantee that the tax burden be placed on those most able to pay. I think the state government also owes an obligation to pay. I think the state government also owes an obligation to its citizens to guarantee a minimum health program for all its citizens.

ISSUES

Q: Do you have positions on liquor by the drink or horse race betting? A: I am opposed to race track gambling. As to liquor by the drink, I am as yet undecided as I was all through the last session. I am still concerned with finding material that demonstrates whether chronic alcoholism is increased in a liquor by the drink state as opposed to a package store state.

Q: You've mentioned the lobby by a number of times. Do you feel that the labor lobby operates any differently from the corporate lobby? A: Unfortunately, no they don't. I'm quite disappointed in legislation, to compel those who are doing it to curtail their activities so as to avoid air and water pollution. I would concern himself with a basic wage level that would guarantee at least a sustenance to workers in members either in the House or Senate that favor their pro-

Labor Day 1966 from about 8th and Congress on up to the Capitol (about four blocks).

Q: Can you expand at length on how a liberal political philosophy might be reflected in the stands you take on legislation you would support as lieutenant governor? A: I think a liberal in Texas today would be inclined to pass adequate air and water pollution legislation, to compel those who are doing it to curtail their activities so as to avoid air and water pollution. I would concern myself with a basic wage level that would guarantee at least a sustenance to workers in members either in the House or Senate that favor their pro-

The lobby has grown away from lobbying members of the House and Senate and has in turn lobbied the governor and the leadership of the House and Senate. And by the time legislation reaches the floor of the House it is cut and dried.

LCB TIES

Q: Have you ever represented anyone before the Liquor Control Board or its administrator? A: On one occasion several years ago I had a gentleman whose license had been suspended because of a bookkeeping procedure, and I undertook to represent him. I had one conference with the Liquor Control Board and then withdrew from the case. The case was filed in Tarrant County, and I didn't make an appearance in Tarrant County on it.

Q: Do you mind saying how much you get a year out of your law practice? A: Last year I grossed a little over $40,000. I do have one lawyer and one secretary to pay out of that. (Gladden said he nets between $15,000 and $20,000 personal income.) I have no other sources of income other than $4,800 a year from the state (his legislator's salary).

District 6-A Cinder Show Slated Friday

COAHOMA — Plains, Seagraves and Coahoma figure to fight it out for team honors in the annual District 6-A track and field meet, which will be held here starting at 9 a.m. Friday.

Competition will be held on three levels—high school, freshman and junior high. The meet continues until 5 p.m. with the first and second place finishers qualifying for Regionals in high school only.

Plains is the defending titlist, having scored 127½ points to 122 for runner-up O'Donnell last year.

Bernie Hagins, head coach at Coahoma, will serve as meet referee while Fred Riley of Odessa will be the starter.

O'Donnell owns or shares eight of the records, most of them established before Coahoma became a part of the league. Some of the marks date back to 1962.

Cinder Teams Busy Friday And Saturday

At least two of the schools committed to field teams in the first annual ABC Junior College Track and Field meet here Saturday will warm to the task in an 11-team cinder show at College Station Friday.

They are Dallas Baptist College, which is spending its last year in junior college ranks, and Odessa College.

Like the ABC meet, the Texas A&M event was planned after the Texas Relays at Austin announced plans to drop its junior college division.

Other schools sending teams to College Station include Warton, Blinn, Victoria, Baytown Lee, Temple, San Antonio, San Jacinto and Schreiner.

Admission prices for the local meet will be a modest 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Intra-Mural Champs, Runners-Up

The two teams pictured here with their rewards finished 1-2 in the 12-team Runnels Junior High intra-mural basketball tournament, which was supervised by Ted Hicks.

and Sunday. The winner will receive $27,500.

Top contenders include Doug Sanders, twice a GGO champion and winner of over $46,000 in GGO money; Julius Boros, another who has won here; and such foreign threats as Gary Player, Bob Charles, Bruce Crampton, Harold Henning and Bob Verwey.

And then there's Sam Snead. The one-time Virginia hillbilly, whose tournament appearances are limited sharply, has won here eight times, starting with the 1938 inaugural. His most recent triumph came three years ago at the age of 52, making him the oldest winner of a PGA tour event.

Sam has won over $45,000 here in 27 appearances. In addition to his eight victories he has been second or third nine times.

The last four holes will be televised nationally on Saturday

All-Out War Is Looming

By The Associated Press

An unholy war to sign college basketball today.

The 22-year-old National Basketball Association announced its first-round draft picks Wednesday with Westley Unseld, Tom Boerwinkle and Ron Williams among the top choices.

NO CHOICE

"I guess we have to enter into an unholy war of going after these players," declared George Mikas, commissioner of the rival one-year-old American Basketball Association.

Unseld, a 6-foot-8 two-time All-American at Louisville, was the No. 1 draft of the Baltimore Bullets in the NBA.

The Chicago Bulls chose the 7-foot Boerwinkle of Tennessee Williams, 6-3 West Virginia star.

was picked by the San Francisco Warriors.

None of the three has signed any contract. Each said they wanted to weigh all offers before deciding.

Unseld has been offered $500,000 over a four-year span to play with the Kentucky Colonels of the ABA. Baltimore did not reveal its offer although Buddy Jeannotte, general manager of the Bullets, declared, "We're going to leave no stone unturned to sign Unseld to an NBA contract."

Boerwinkle, the No. 1 pick of Denver in the ABA, currently is playing in the Olympic trials at Albuquerque, N.M. "We certainly don't want to do anything to upset Boerwinkle's chances of making the Olympic team," said Dick Klein, Chicago general manager. "As a result we have had no direct negotiations with the boy."

Williams, drafted by New Orleans of the ABA, said he would like to play with the Warriors. However, he plans to consult with Bucky Waters, his West Virginia coach, before making a decision.

Buster Mills, who came here the other day to scout Midland Lee's John Howell in the boy's shutout effort against Big Spring, feels confident his employers (the New York Yankees) will make good progress on the long road back in the American League this year.

Mills, who was a football star for the University of Oklahoma nearly four decades ago, foresees a sixth-place finish for the Yankees and says the New Yorkers could finish higher in the standings if some of the younger players decide they are ready now to earn their trappings as big league ball players.

New York lost a prize infielder, young Tommy Mercer of Oklahoma, to the armed forces prior to the 1967 season and Mills says the boy's father has shouldered the responsibility of the military's decision to call him into uniform.

The Yanks had it arranged for young Mercer to don olive drab on a six-months' training grind. The parent, it seems, intercepted the boy's message to report for the Army tenure. Fearful it would upset his son if he knew about the call, the parent didn't alert the boy about the message. The deadline passed with young Mercer still in the dark, after which his draft board ordered him into the armed forces for two years.

The Yankees are hopeful the young Oklahoman will be able to report to them in time for spring training in 1969.

Buster became a devoted follower of the Ranger College basketball team the past season. He says he came to realize that anytime a player on a visiting team came downcourt with the ball and held up one finger or more, calling for a particular pattern of attack, the opposition was in for a sound licking.

Ranger College, he pointed out, simply went out and played good, solid basketball without taking the trouble to use one style of attack or another.

When the Big Spring Steers ventured to El Paso for a week-end baseball series recently, they probably would have come back without playing a game had not they and some of their adult rooters pitched in to help prepare the field for combat.

Heavy rains had made the diamond unplayable for a while and the El Paso teams did not seem too concerned about it.

When Texas Tech and the University of Texas tangled in Lubbock several days ago, workmen first had to burn 11 inches of snow from the ground. They accomplished the feat with the use of flamethrowers.

Remember Lee Grossep, a fabulous passer for the University of Utah several years ago? He never made a dent in the pro ranks, although he was the first round draft choice of the New York Giants in 1958.

Grossep recently was hired as publicity director of the Oakland Raiders of the AFL. Lee, now 31, went to the Raiders from Salt Lake City when he was sports director for a television station.

Tony Mason, who spoke at a Quarterback Club function here several months ago, returns to Texas in July. The University of Michigan aide is among the speakers who will be heard at the Texas Coaches Association clinic in Fort Worth (July 28-Aug. 1).

Shorthorns Seek Second Victory

The Big Spring High School B baseball team will seek its second victory in five starts in a 4 p.m. contest today against the San Angelo reserves in San Angelo.

After losing their first three starts, the Dogies bounced back to clobber Andrews last Monday.

Umpires To Meet At 6 P.M. Today

Members of the Big Spring Baseball Umpires' association will gather in the Chamber of Commerce offices in the Permian building at 6 o'clock this evening to elect new officers and discuss plans for the approaching season.

Pro Golfers Open Play In Greensboro Tourney

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The professional golf tour, which has produced eight one-stroke victories in 11 major events this year, pitched camp at the Sedgefield Country Club today for the Greater Greensboro Open, worth a record $137,500.

Attention centered on the efforts of Arnold Palmer to sharpen his game for next week's Masters at Augusta, Ga. Although he has played the four-day, 72-hole GGO often, he has not been eminently successful. His best finish in the GGO was last year when he finished third behind winner George Archer, four shots off the pace at 271 over the par 71 course measuring 7,034 yards.

Palmer is one of five men in the Greensboro field of 140 who have won a tournament this year. Others are Tom Weiskopf, the leading money winner; defending champion Archer; Billy Casper and Johnny Pott.

Top contenders include Doug Sanders, twice a GGO champion and winner of over $46,000 in GGO money; Julius Boros, another who has won here; and such foreign threats as Gary Player, Bob Charles, Bruce Crampton, Harold Henning and Bob Verwey.

And then there's Sam Snead. The one-time Virginia hillbilly, whose tournament appearances are limited sharply, has won here eight times, starting with the 1938 inaugural. His most recent triumph came three years ago at the age of 52, making him the oldest winner of a PGA tour event.

Sam has won over $45,000 here in 27 appearances. In addition to his eight victories he has been second or third nine times.

The last four holes will be televised nationally on Saturday

Eagles, Panthers Get Top Billing In Meet

Based on performances to date, Abilene High and Odessa Permian figure to finish in a virtual tie for first place in team standings in the District 2-AAAA track and field meet, which will be held Saturday afternoon and night in San Angelo.

However, judged off strength in the relay events which count twice as many points as individual contests, Abilene would rate a slight edge in the meet.

Abilene High is conceded 108 points and Permian 106 in the big cinder show while Lee should finish third with 68 points, followed by Abilene Cooper and San Angelo, tied for third with 52 each; Odessa sixth, with 47; Midland seventh, with 40; and Big Spring dead last, with 19.

Charts on the season's performances were kept by Wally Simmons of the Abilene Reporter-News, who compiled the ensuing list.

It is understandable that some of the coaches may enter their boys in events in which they have not competed all year. For instance, sprinting ace Carl Johnson of San Angelo has been hamstrung by injuries all season but reportedly is ready to run this week.

The chart should prove to be a valuable guide, however, and should give a fairly close indication of the point potential of each team:

MILE RELAY—Abilene High, 3:20.8; Midland, 3:21.3; Odessa, 3:21.4; San Angelo, 3:22.4; Cooper, 3:24.2; Midland, 3:24.4. RELAY—Abilene High, 4:19; San Angelo, 4:19; Permian, 4:25; Lee, 4:32; Big Spring, 4:35; Cooper, 4:36. JIMMY JONES

Stanton's Jimmy Jones To Play With Jayhawks

By NATE MITCHELL. Jimmy Jones, the pint-size floor general of Stanton High School's basketball team the past season, has accepted an offer from cage coach, Buddy Travis, to play for the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks next season.

To a letter dated April 2 from the HCCJ mentor which expressed interest in the Stanton ace's abilities, Jim seemed highly enthused and very happy to get the opportunity to play for his Number One idol in basketball.

Ever since his brilliant play-making and determined efforts helped lead the Stanton Buffaloes to runner-up spot in District 4-AA, and a robust 23-8 won-lost record the past season, Jim has expressed a keen desire to play under Travis.

He has received offers from no less than seven colleges and institutions of higher learning—among which are Southwest Texas State, South Plains College and an undisclosed college in Alabama.

Currently president of the Future Farmers of America at Stanton High, and a straight "A" student, Jones recently received notification that he had finished in the top 10 per cent in the country in the ACT tests.

A hard-hitting gristler the past two seasons as a halfback, Jim turned in splendid performances on the hardwood—averaging 17 points per game in district play and 11 p.p.g. throughout the season. Head cage mentor Vaughn Thomas often described him as

SOX GIVE UP ON TWO HURLERS Morehead Going

By The Associated Press. Dave Morehead, who once pitched a no-hitter for the Boston Red Sox, and Bill Rohr, who once almost did, will be going their throwing in the minors this year. The Red Sox optioned Morehead, who threw Boston's last no-hitter in 1965, to their Louisville farm team Wednesday. Rohr, who came within one out of hurling a hitless game against the Yankees in his first start last season, was released outright.

DAVE MOREHEAD

It was, in fact, a bad day for pitchers all around. The Cincinnati Reds optioned out 19-year-old Gary Nolan, 14-8 last year, to the minors because of arm trouble. And the New York Yankees sent Steve Barber to their Syracuse farm.

Also, the Red Sox optioned Darrell Brandon and the New York Mets gave Hal Reniff, a mainstay of the Yankees in better days, his outright release.

In exhibition action Wednesday, Detroit beat Houston 3-1, Washington edged Baltimore 3-2, Atlanta pounded the Yankees 7-1, Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati 4-3, Oakland crushed Boston 9-2, Cleveland outslugged Los Angeles 10-8.

Also the Chicago Cubs outlasted San Francisco 7-6 in 11 innings, California beat its Seattle farm club 2-1 and Philadelphia nipped St. Louis 3-4.

Mickey Stanley's three-run homer in the third inning gave Detroit all the runs it needed to win. Mickey Lulich and Dennis Ribant combined to stop the Astros on five hits.

Sam Bowers hit a homer in the ninth for Washington's victory margin over Baltimore. The Senators have a spring record of 17-6, best in the majors.

The Braves beat the Yankees on six runs in the fourth inning. Atlanta put together five singles, a walk, a wild pitch, a passed ball and an error. Jim Bunning went the distance for the Pirates and survived a rally in the ninth inning with the tying run on third, by retiring Pete Rose and Alex Johnson.

Sal Bando hit his ninth homer of the spring for Oakland in the first inning when the Athletics scored three runs.

Vern Fuller drove in four runs, three with a homer for Cleveland. The Indians didn't wrap the game up until Angel rookie pitcher Vicente Romo's

Bucs Deflate Denver Five

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "I think New Orleans has accepted us finally," said Buccaneer coach Babe McCarthy after his team won its American Basketball Association Western Division semifinal playoff series with Denver.

A standing room only crowd of 6,500 saw New Orleans come up with a big third quarter Wednesday night and beat the Rockets 102-97. The Bucs won their three playoff games at home, losing two to Denver on the road.

It was the season's largest home attendance for New Orleans. Although the Bucs led the Western Division most of the regular season, they floundered at the gate at home.

"It's been a long hard fight," McCarthy said, "but I think New Orleans people realize we can give 'em good entertainment."

The Bucs open a best-of-7 series for the Western Division title with the Dallas Chaparrals here Friday night.

Tim Lane Signs With Malaise

LEVELLAND — South Plains College acquired its second 3-AAAA All-District player recently when Dub Malaise signed Bulldog star Tim Lane to a grant in aid.

Lane, the district's second leading scorer with 364 points and a third team All-State selection, thus becomes the third future Texan to sign with Malaise. The 6-4 Lane, an all-tournament pick during the Caprock ABC meet here in December, averaged 20-points-plus a game for the 22-10 Bulldogs, who finished in a two-way tie for the district crown last season. In addition to Lane, Monterey's Rick Dyer and Dennis Berguinn of Montgomery, La., have signed with South Plains.

Texas Had More Rain, Was Colder

Texas was a little wetter and a little colder than normal in March, with some cities receiving more than twice their usual rainfall.

Snows on the heavy side blanketed much of the Panhandle-Plains and Far West Texas.

El Paso had enough moisture to hold blowing dust to only three hours for the entire month. The Weather Bureau said this was "most unusual."

Precipitation totals were below normal for the month only in South Central and East Texas and along most of the coast.

Lubbock, for example, recorded 2.77 inches, compared with a normal March figure of only .73. Dallas and Fort Worth both caught more than five inches of rain, whereas their usual March total is between two and three inches.

Seven reporting stations said their cumulative precipitation for the first three months of the year was more than double the usual amount. They were Abilene, El Paso, Lubbock, Midland-Odessa, San Angelo, San Antonio and Wichita Falls.

LEGAL HELP FOR UNLETTERED Welfare Recipients Afraid To Appeal?

AUSTIN (AP) — A simple comic book might be the best way to help people understand they have a right to appeal welfare rulings.

This is the opinion of two University of Texas law students, Alexander W. Bell and G. Todd Norvell who expressed their views here in a recent issue of the Texas Law Review (TLR).

POOR ROBBED
They said the Texas welfare system does not serve those it deals with most—the poor and uneducated—who may even be afraid to appeal.

"Welfare recipients as a group are among the persons least likely to work their way through the mass of forms necessary to perfect an appeal," the students said. "More importantly, they might even read or be told that they can appeal without comprehending what this right is."

"The same conditions that have forced poverty and illiteracy upon a welfare applicant often have also robbed him of his capacity for self-assertion. For him, if the word 'appeal' is charged with meaning at all, its connotations—being legal—are threatening and possibly frightening."

JOB THREAT
Bell and Norvell said year before last, 141,286 Texas welfare recipients had their applications denied or their grants reduced or cut off, but only 693 appealed to the State Department of Public Welfare—an appeal rate of less than one-half of one per cent.

"Welfare applicants generally do not want to cause trouble; they tend to shun contact with strangers and are especially wary of officials of any sort," they said.

They said one woman they assisted in an appeal "became so nervous at the prospect of the hearing that she became ill."

Another problem, they said, is that most clients like their caseworkers and hesitate to appeal because they fear the worker will get in trouble. Also, "they are afraid to alienate the person upon whom future welfare stipends will depend." In turn, they said, some workers discourage appeals because they fear appeals are a threat to their job.

'HIDDEN RIGHTS'
To appeal, the client must prepare a case and, if he should seek legal aid, he must find a lawyer who will work for $10, the maximum permitted by state law in a welfare appeal.

"Without legal assistance the average appellant certainly is in a position of unequal bargaining power" when he is interrogated by the better-educated, most sophisticated hearing officer," the students said. They said, "The most incredible examples of important but 'hidden rights' are the appellant's right to appear personally or with counsel before the appeals board to argue his case and his right to examine the 'secret brief' that forms the basis for the board's decision in his case. These rights are not mentioned in the (department's) manual and therefore cannot be discovered without questioning a member of the appeals board."

protect adequately the rights of the average, white, middle-class citizen who has a clear idea of what his rights are and feels the need to enforce them," they said.

However, they said, "It must necessarily function with the poor, uneducated, submissive people who compose the welfare class—people who regard assistance as charity and who would not know how to assert a right even if they believed they had one."

COMIC BOOKS
The students recommend that the welfare department use comic books to explain to the clients, in words they can understand, how to appeal.

"Use of radio and television to explain welfare programs in the same way Social Security information is broadcast might be useful," they said, and listed as another method group meetings to show movies depicting a "typical" appeal.

Also, they proposed: —That a special staff member deliver all unfavorable decisions to clients so the decision would not be connected so closely with the client's regular worker.

—That someone other than the regular caseworker help to prepare appeals.

—That clients should be told orally and in writing why their appeals have been rejected.

—"Clearly stated and properly publicized" hearing procedures.

PUBLICITY
—A separate hearing division, maybe of non-department people, perhaps even interested citizens.

—That the hearing officer be allowed to decide the case at the time of the hearing so people who need financial aid would not have to wait an extra two to three weeks, without funds, for a decision.

—Matching state funds so clients can get legal aid from legal services groups funded by the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity.

—That the client's right to appear should be publicized.

They concluded, "if the present appeals board is retained, it should be converted to a full-time body, and its decisions on welfare appeals should be published. Finally, a new appeals process is needed that will permit an appellant to challenge directly department policy."

Thugs Loot Pawn Shop

At 1:02 a.m. today police officers found the plate glass window at Fox's Pawn Shop, 210 N. Gregg, broken while they were on patrol duty.

A valuable Indian statue in the window was broken by an object used to break the window. Stolen from the display window were eight rings, two French harps, a camera, radio and portable record player.

Police are also investigating the theft of a stereo player and eight tapes from the locked car of David R. Wanner, 617 Caylor Drive, while parked at Eleventh Place and Owens. Dorothy Miller, 1007 W. 5th, also reported a bicycle stolen.

LABOR GROUPS SUPPORT HUMPHREY

Rocky Says He Will Not Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has won key labor support for a presidential bid and aides are saying the new hopes for Vietnam war negotiations have boosted his prospects.

'BALONEY'

Humphrey said Wednesday he's still "weighing" the decision whether to seek the Democratic nomination. An aide called speculation that he would make the announcement today in Pittsburgh "baloney."

But the vice president, he said, is under "enormous and growing pressure to announce a decision sooner than he had planned."

Hanoi's declared willingness to begin limited peace talks not only improves Humphrey's position, the aide said, but undercuts Vietnam policy opposition by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, the only announced Democratic candidates so far.

The labor support came from AFL-CIO President George Meany, who indicated with the word "we" that he was speaking on behalf of his 14-million-member labor federation.

Only Humphrey, Meany said, could campaign for continuation of President Johnson's social and economic programs and unity of "the American people behind the defense of freedom and democracy in the world."

In other political developments:

KENNEDY WELCOME

—Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said he believes New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller will become an active presidential candidate, making "some definitive announcements" by Monday or the end of next week.

But Rockefeller said in Albany he stands on his March 21 statement that he would accept a genuine draft and will speak out on the issues but not campaign for the GOP nomination.

—Iowa Gov. Harold E. Hughes, who has called a meeting of the nation's Democratic governors for April 15 in St. Louis, said "it's not a stop anyone or start anyone meeting" but "there probably will be people three who want to do both."

—McCarthy opens a California primary campaign today aimed at cutting down the voting strength Kennedy is building in solidly Democratic Negro and

Mexican-American districts. Kennedy got a tumultuous welcome in Washington D.C.'s predominantly Negro section and drew cries of "yes" when he asked help against a regular Democratic organization slate in the District of Columbia's May 7 primary. WAIT-AND-SEE —Johnson supporters in the Indiana and Oregon primaries are taking a wait-and-see attitude toward other candidates.

An Associated Press survey shows, while Kennedy forces are raiding the Johnson delegate camp in California and have won over a few Johnson men in Nebraska.

—The Nashville Tennessean reports a draft Johnson movement by Gov. Buford Ellington and other pro-Johnson governors. The paper says the plan is to commit state delegations to favorite candidates who would throw their support to the Johnson draft at the national convention. Buford declined to comment except to say he "is not trying to line up a ticket." Both Humphrey and Kennedy met separately with President Johnson during the day but none of the three disclosed details of what was discussed.

NO ENDORSEMENT

Presidential press secretary George Christian said neither asked Johnson for an endorsement. He added: "The President does not want to preclude his freedom of movement. He didn't want to foreclose anything."

Meany's statement urging Humphrey to run included what appeared to be criticism of both Kennedy and McCarthy.

"The American people," Meany said, "must not be left with a choice only among candidates who themselves have symbolized the discord and disunity the President's action sought to eliminate."

The presidential action he referred to was Johnson's announcement he will not seek reelection.

Vietnam Peace Envoys Experts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two diplomats with more than 50 years of experience between them in dealing with Communists have been picked by President Johnson as his special envoys for any Vietnam peace talks.

Ambassador-at-large W. Averell Harriman, once ambassador to Moscow, and Llewellyn E. Thompson, the current U.S. Ambassador to the Soviet Union, are in Washington, poised to go whenever the White House signals them to launch discussions with the Reds.

Harriman, 76, has already carried out more special missions for presidents dating back to Franklin D. Roosevelt than anyone in government.

Born the heir of a rail fortune, Harriman tried some private enterprise in the Soviet Union during Moscow's short free-enterprise period during the 1920s.

In the next decade he joined Roosevelt's New Deal. With the outbreak of World War II he shifted to the star assignment as a special diplomatic envoy that he holds today.

COOL CUSTOMER

Harriman was ambassador to the Soviet Union during World War II. At other times he was Roosevelt's special contact with Soviet Premier Josef Stalin and Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Now operating as ambassador-at-large, Harriman has a special interest in Southeast Asia because he helped negotiate the 1962 Geneva agreement for the neutrality and independence of Laos.

Thompson, a 63-year-old native of Los Animas, Colo., is regarded as a cool customer whether on a diplomatic hotseat or playing poker with friends.

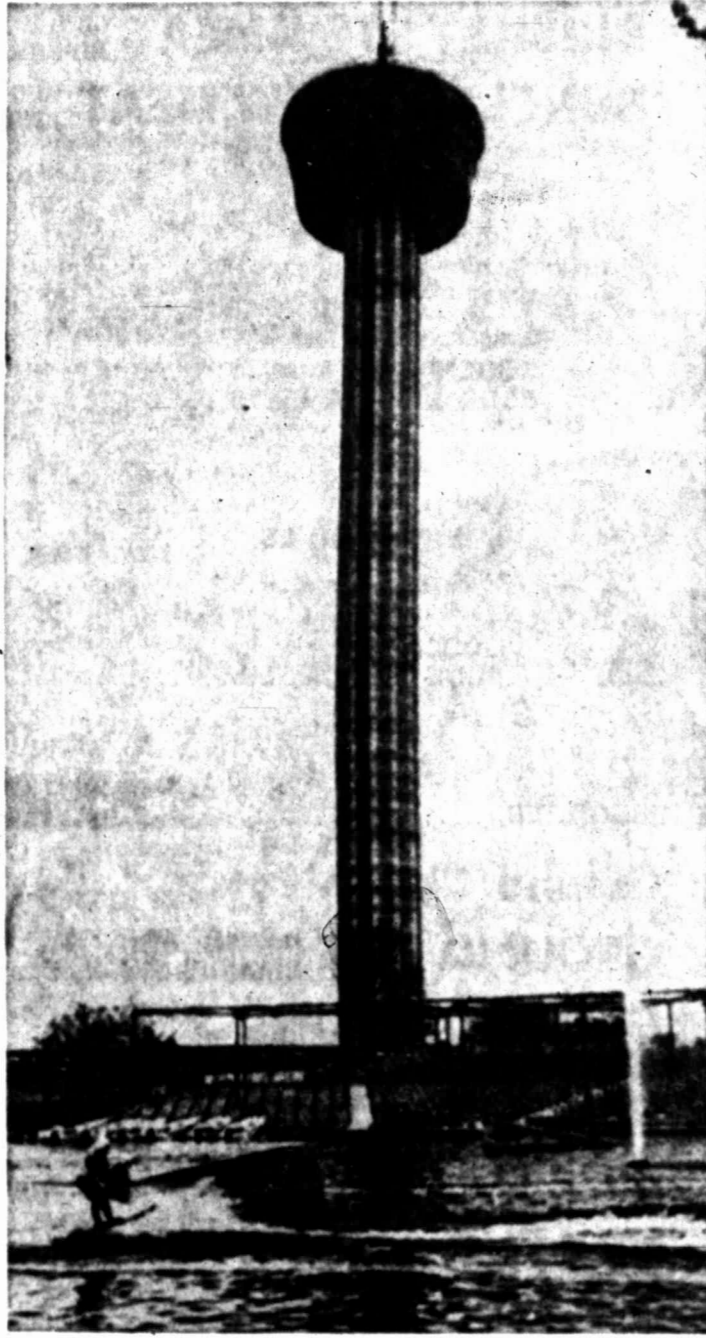

He launched his career in a more modest way than Harriman, signing on as a junior foreign officer in 1929 after graduating from the University of Colorado.

SOVIETS PRO

"Tommy" Thompson transferred to the Moscow Embassy and soon became a top expert on the Soviets.

His years of war-time service in the Soviet Union, including staying behind in Moscow after other diplomats fled in the face of the Nazi onslaught, gave him a close working knowledge of the Soviets.

President Harry S. Truman later named him high commissioner in occupied Austria, an assignment which was changed to ambassador to an independent Austria after the Soviets Water skiers practice their act as the opening date for HemisFair '68 is just a day away (Saturday). The Tower of the Americas, with its revolving top house, looms in the background as an attraction of the San Antonio exposition which will contain exhibits from all parts of the world.

Y Summer Camps Info Available

The Big Spring YMCA has information available on several Y summer camps, according to Curt Mullins, general secretary.

Among camps offered are the Skyline Ranch at Cloudercroft, N. M., for boys 9-16 and girls 10-16; Camp Carter, Fort Worth, for boys 9-16; and Camp Flaming Arrow, San Antonio, boys, 8-16.

Industrialists Urged To Tackle Problems

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas needs more industry that makes consumer products so it can use its geographical advantage for trade with Mexico, Central and South America, says Gov. John Connally.

Texas has good record for industrial expansion in the past five years, Connally told the first annual Governor's Industrial Expansion Conference Wednesday, but too much of its industry is first-step industry, processing raw material.

NEW PLANTS

Some 1,400 new manufacturing plants have come into the state in the last five years, he said, and 19,076 plants already here had major expansion programs.

Connally told the industrialists they must concern themselves with problems outside their plants.

They need to get into education, clean air and water, transportation, utilization of leisure time by employees and, above all, work that helps maintain stable government, he said.

leading toward dummy's king of clubs. With the diamond opening, however, South is unable to complete all of his washing without letting West in to play another trump.

South won the first diamond in his hand and led a club. West put up the ace and returned another diamond. Declarer was in again and he cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart with North's remaining trump. The king of clubs was cashed on which declarer disposed of a spade, and then he ruffed himself in with a club.

South drew the last trump, cashed the king of hearts and then proceeded to run his remaining diamonds. This was the position as the last trump was led:

WEST

SOUTH

On the deuce of diamonds, West discarded the three of spades in order to preserve his protection in clubs. Dummy was now in position to part with the nine of clubs, and East was confronted with the hopeless task of guarding two suits. If he gave up a spade, North would take the last two tricks, for the ace would drop both the king and queen. East elected to discard the ten of hearts, however, this enabled South to score his 12th trick with the trey of hearts.

 When North overcalled West's opening club bid with one spade, South was determined to reach at least a game contract. His cue bid of two clubs is unconditionally forcing on partner and permits a more relaxed investigation subsequently. When South uncovered the fit in diamonds, he used Blackwood to investigate for a slam. If North had shown only one ace, there was always time to settle for the more modest project of a game in diamonds.

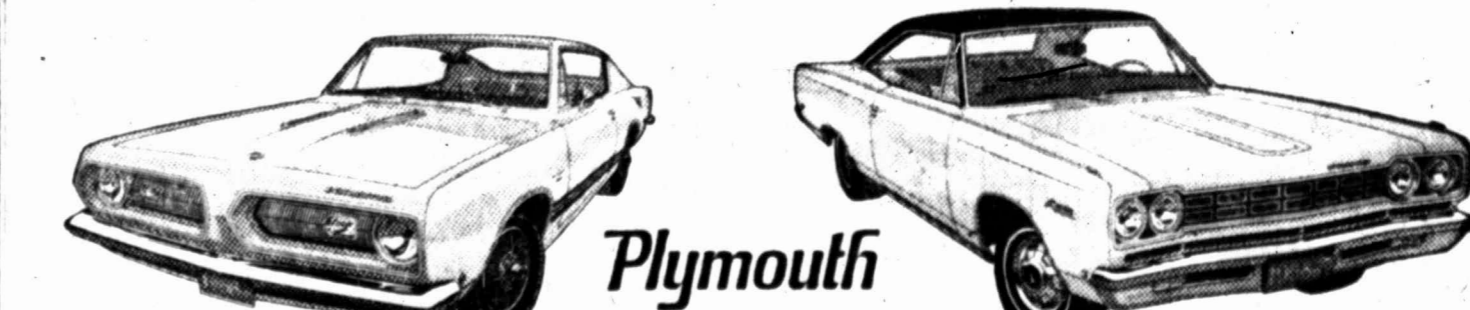

West chose to open the seven of diamonds against the slam bid. It may be observed that in the absence of this lead, declarer's chores are greatly simplified for he has sufficient time to ruff out his heart losers as well as to establish a spade discard by

Forest Trail For Hikers

By ED SYERS

Recently, a newcomer Texan back-packer asked possibilities for hikers' trails in our summer-cool Hill Country. Maybe, but not yet, responds outdoor-minded Sierra Club. However, 25 miles of trail are just open in East Texas; in a month, make it fifty.

Houston's Brom Wilkin (402 Sue), Sierra's Trails Chairman, reports:

"I agree that the Hill Country would be excellent for a trail, but Sierra efforts at this time are entirely taken up with the 100-mile Lone Star Hiking Trail which runs from near Richards (east of Navasota) to Stubblefield Lake, Walker Lake, Double Lake, and on down to Cleveland—all in the Sam Houston National Forest.

"Attached is a map of the completed western section. Hike this 25 mile leg some time before it's too hot and the ticks and redbugs come out. The eastern section from Double Lake to Cleveland should be completed in the next three weeks and runs through the Big Thicket, beautiful at this time of year."

COMPASS HELPS

The completed trail takes off FM 149, 3.7 miles east of Richards, just within the forest; and winds the heavy-timbered country with identifiable rest stops about every two miles. Markers are aluminum triangles on trees, and you can pull out at half way, where FM 1375, en route New Waverly, is followed briefly over Caney Creek.

Davis Renovation Project Pushed

FT. DAVIS, Tex. (AP) — Workmen are finishing a renovation project of more than $1 million at the 1,369-acre Davis Mountains State Park, says the Parks and Wildlife Department.

The department said this is the first park in the state system to have a million-dollar renovation project.

Major projects include a park headquarters, renovation of Indian Lodge, an interpretation center, an amphitheater, a one-half mile natural trail and two miles of hiking trails.

water. A compass helps. Maps are available to Sierra members from Wilkin. Otherwise, keep your eye on those markers; it's back country.

And about that suggested Hill Country Trail? Closed in hunting season, it's a sound tourism idea. By nature, its travelers would trouble no ranchers nor deface country. America's growing trail movement is the healthiest way to march that I know.

REAL COWBOY PRAYER
The old Prayer Tree of devout Boys Cowboy Campground meetings, near Fort Davis, draws an earnest contribution from Lordsburg, N.M., Mrs. Vera Frazier:

"I'm sorry someone didn't send along the poem from 'Pecos Poems' by Pecos Higgins and Joe Evans: 'The Prayer Tree' by Pecos Higgins. These old time cowboy preachers attended services at Boys Camp." Capitalized as written, here's the poem in part.

"Our Father in Heaven, it seems to me . . . That I should write a poem about our Nice Prayer Tree . . . Where the Men and the Boys all gather around . . . Pull off our hats and sit on the Ground . . . We open the Meeting with Scripture and Prayer . . . And every one seems to Be Glad they are there . . . We give testimonies, Shake each others hand . . . And Praise You, Dear Lord, in the Heavenly land . . .

HONEST WORK
We pray you have heard us out under the tree . . . Fellowship with each other and Praying to Thee . . . Dear Lord, We are Honest in the Work that we do . . . Just pitch us the Wisdom—We are Working for You . . . With Big Chuck Wagons and the Round-up Ground . . . And a few old Cowboys to 'settle 'em down' . . . We do No roping but Ride Night and Day . . . We Never can tell some might get away . . . We don't mind the Weather or the Rocks and thorns . . . And we don't fear the Devil with his spear and Horns . . . We Know We are Right—so we are Working You see . . . Around the Campfire and the Old Prayer Tree."

Cattle Breed Sets Records

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A cattle breed developed in Texas is setting records in Australia. King Ranch headquarters announced here Tuesday.

At an auction at the headquarters of its operation near Sydney, 12 Santa Gertrudis bulls brought an average price of $17,749, a new Australian record for all breeds of beef.

The top bull brought $25,783. Eight King Ranch Quarter Horses brought an average of $5,551 and all figures are new records in Australia for the breeds.

Sir Rupert Clarke heads the Australian associates of the Texas ranchers who have owned the Australian property since 1952. The auction is held annually at the headquarters property.

Cutter Replaced

FREEPORTE, Tex. (AP) — A new Coast Guard cutter Point Monroe has taken the place of the 41-year-old cutter Legare that has been decommissioned as a search and rescue vessel for this port.

Although the 82-foot Point Monroe is much smaller than the Legare, it is much faster. Its range will extend 50 or more miles. Thurman C. Lord is the captain.

Bell Film Viewed

STANTON (SC) — A film on the life of Alexander Graham Bell was shown by visiting Rotarian A. L. Harrison, Big Spring, at the noon meeting of the Stanton Rotary Club Wednesday.

Doyle Corder presided and introduced Adolph Swartz and Bob Dyer, both of Big Spring, and Hilton Kaderli, Tulsa, Okla.

Two Accidents In Big Spring

Big Spring traffic accidents totaled two Wednesday with no injuries. Ernesto De La Rosa Gonzales, Carlsbad, was in collision with a car that left the scene of the accident at IS 20 and State Hwy. 176. Jessie H. Phares, 908 Scurry, and Julius M. Townes, Coronado Hills Apartment, were involved in an accident at Eleventh and Owens.

Auditor-Intern Selection Made

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — A young Paris man, Gayles E. Norwood, has been selected as outstanding auditor-intern for fiscal year 1968 by the U. S. Army Audit Agency. The selection from a group of 112 auditor-interns was based on performance on-the-job and in auditor-intern training schools during the first six months.

WE'RE DRIFTING FARTHER AWAY, CAPTAIN. WE'RE NOW TEN MILES FROM THE VOLCANO.

YES, AND WE'VE GOT A PROBLEM. THAT VOLCANIC ASH HAS COMPLETELY FOULED UP OUR ENGINES.

NOW FOR THE DISAGREEABLE PART... TO INFORM WASHINGTON THAT I'VE LEFT'S AQUANAUTS SITTING ON A RED-HOT VOLCANO AND I CAN'T GO BACK TO RESCUE THEM.

VOLCANIC ASH A FOOT THICK COVERS THE SUPPORT SHIP!

There's your man, Grandpa! Tom Totter! California tag!

No address, Chipper! Could you get it from the oil company?

No, but the police could trace down the license number!

He's probably halfway across the country with my car by now!

It's a funny thing! Don't see many California tags here this time of year...

...but this is the fourth in a week!

THE ONLY GOLD-LINED MINE YOU'LL EVER SEE, MR. TRACY.

THE LASER MAKES THE ROCK SO HOT THAT GOLD CONTINUES TO OOOZE OUT LONG AFTER THE MACHINE HAS MOVED ON.

MARY WORTH

I... HAVE HAD SOME UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCES, MISS PERRY... IN SIGNING CONTRACTS!

MRS. JENKS! THIS ISN'T A CONTRACT!... IT MERELY AFFIRMS THAT YOU WERE MARRIED WITHIN THE PAST YEAR-- AND ATTESTS TO YOUR AGE!

OH! THAT'S DIFFERENT! I'M ONLY 19! SO I'M LEGALLY A MINOR, YOU SEE!

YOUR AGE IS NO OBSTACLE! -- ALL YOU SEMI-FINALISTS ARE UNDER 21!

GOOD! WE HAVE ALREADY INTERVIEWED THE OTHER TWO YOUNG LADIES AND... CONFIDENTIALLY... NO! I'D BETTER NOT SAY IT!

NOW WHAT IS THIS NONSENSE ALL ABOUT, BETSY?

WHAT ARE YOU TALKING ABOUT? I'M HAVING A PRESS CONFERENCE AT FOUR-- AND IT'S IMPORTANT THAT YOU BE HERE WITH ME!

I DON'T THINK THAT WOULD BE VERY WISE, WESLEY! IT WOULDN'T BE GOOD FOR YOUR IMAGE IF I TOLD THEM THAT I WAS LEAVING YOU!

WHY ARE YOU LEAVING HIM?

BECAUSE I DON'T LIKE SECRETS! WHEN MY HUSBAND WON'T TELL ME WHAT A DOCTOR HAS TOLD HIM ABOUT HIS HEALTH, IT'S TIME THAT I GET OUT!

TERRY

OKAY... VERPE'S ABOUT TO LEAVE AND LARRIKIN IS STILL ALIVE. MASK IS PANICKY. FORCED TO CHANGE HIS PLAN!

LEE, THIS WOULD BE QUITE A PARLOR GAME WE'RE PLAYING-- IF THERE WERE NOT A REAL MURDERER MAN, BUT CARRY ON ANYWAY.

LARRIKIN MAKES IT EASY. HIS FEUD WITH VERPE ERUPTS INTO AN OPEN BITTER QUARREL-- WITH ME, A DISINTERESTED STRANGER, AS A WITNESS... I DON'T LIKE THIS GAME MUCH, BILBY.

THEN LET ME FINISH IT... MASK HAS HIS LAB GLOVES. THERE IS A SERVICE PISTOL IN VERPE'S QUARTERS. THE COLONEL IS ALONE-- AND HE TRUSTS HIS FRIEND!

SMITTY

OUR STENO CAN WRITE A TYPEWRITER TALK! SHE'LL WIN THE CONTEST!

I'LL THINK TO THAT!

YES! SHE'S MY CHOICE TO WIN!
