Goldberg Resigns, Ball Named

Sudden Change Is A Surprise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has chosen former State Department official George W. Ball, a strong advocate of a negotiated Vietnam war settlement, to succeed Arthur Goldberg as ambassador to the United Nations.

The sudden, surprise choice of Ball, 58, to succeed the retiring Goldberg was viewed in the capital as fresh evidence that Johnson had decided to make a determined effort during his last nine months in office to negotiate an end to the Vietnam war.

Criticisms Known

Ball has made his criticisms of U.S. policy known particularly since resigning as undersecretary of state in October, 1966. Thus his willingness to return to government surprised Washington circles as much as did Johnson's decision to ask him back.

Reached Thursday evening by telephone in Montreal, Canada, where he is attending a conference of an independent group concerned with Atlantic community problems, Ball said:

"The President has removed himself from the political arena so he can make decisions which would be much more difficult if he were a political candidate.

"Therefore the period that remains could be a very fruitful period."

Johnson announced Thursday at a hastily called news conference that Goldberg, 59, had resigned and would be replaced by Ball. The President said the change would probably become effective in early June after Goldberg handles "certain matters now under way" at the United Nations.

Goldberg will in fact handle the U.S. argument for U.N. acceptance of a treaty proposed by the Soviet Union and Britain to outlaw the spread of nuclear weapons.

Goldberg indicated openly almost six months ago that he did not consider his U.N. position as a career. Johnson called him from the Supreme Court in mid-1965 to become ambassador to the world organization and recently he has privately expressed an interest in returning to the practice of law.

Worked For Peace

At a New York news conference following the President's announcement, Goldberg said he had worked in the cause of Vietnam peace during his 33 months as U.N. ambassador. He added:

"I have resigned in the belief that I can best further these objectives in private life," he said. While acknowledging there had been Vietnamese policy differences within the administration, he said that had not motivated his decision to resign.

Cotton Week Plans

Preparations were being made final today for the observance of National Cotton Week, Monday through Saturday.

Among the events arranged for the occasion are a parade of latest farming equipment and other apparatus connected with the cotton industry; a style show and judging of a sew-with-cotton contest; placing of cotton bales in the downtown district and shopping centers; and special merchandise promotions for cotton goods.

Arrangements are being handled by the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce with Conrad Miller as chairman.

In Today's HERALD Campaign Costs

Texas politicians must file an initial expense report by midnight, showing how much it has cost them to hit the campaign trail. See Page 3-A.

Survey Shows Most Disagree On Riot Cause

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A national research firm reported today that its survey shows that seven out of 10 Americans or 70 per cent with opinions on the matter disagree with a presidential commission assertion that white racism is a major factor in the cause of urban riots.

Albert Sindlinger of Sindlinger & Co., also disclosed his polling in 48 states showed 62 per cent men and 41 per cent women supported the statement of Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley that police should shoot arsonists and looters.

And, Sindlinger added, they backed President Johnson seven to three in his refusal to start Vietnam peace talks in Warsaw.

Sindlinger said his organization, founded in 1948, interviews a random, computer-selected sampling of about 1,000 persons daily.

Senators Protest 'No Shoot' Orders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate Democratic leaders have protested because federal troops and police were ordered not to shoot arsonists and looters during the racial violence in Washington earlier this month.

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the majority whip and No. 2 man in the Democratic leadership, also vowed in a Senate speech Thursday to call for the censure or expulsion of any senator who advocates "bending the knee" to demands from leaders of the Poor People's Campaign.

PRESSURE

Dr. Ralph Abernathy, successor to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, plans to bring thousands of poor people to Washington next month with the aim of pressuring Congress to enact welfare legislation through non-violent demonstrations.

"When that bunch of marchers comes here, they can just burn the whole place down and we can just move the capital to some place where they enforce the law," Long said.

Sen. Robert F. Byrd, D-W. Va., third-ranking Senate Democrat, accused Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark of pussyfooting with rioters—a reference to Clark's view that shoot-to-kill orders are not the way to handle slum violence.

President Johnson has expressed a similar view, saying: "We can rebuild property. We can replace the loss of money. But a life taken can never be restored."

"I'm tired of this pussyfooting by the attorney general of the United States or by anyone else, and the American people are tired of it," Byrd said.

Clark also came in for attack by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex.,

Dynamiters, who showed considerable skill in the use of high explosives, blasted the Big Spring National Guard Armory arsenal some time Thursday night, and after their extensive efforts, contented themselves with the theft of two of 51 M-1 rifles.

USELESS

What the thieves may now know is that the two rifles are useless. Neither has a firing pin and, until these parts are in place, the guns cannot be fired.

The blast was of such force it tore through a brick wall on the inside of the armory giving the burglars access to the arms storage room. In this room, in addition to the 51 rifles, there were machine guns, bayonets, pistols, and other weapons and arms supplies.

The officers in charge said that no other weapons are missing and that the two rifles, which were taken from one of the racks, appeared to be the sole loot taken by the invaders.

Sheriff A. N. Standard said he notified the FBI, the Texas Rangers, and other officials and that a full scale investigation will be made.

Whether the burglars used dynamite or nitroglycerin was being debated this morning. There were no signs of any flare but the impact of the explosion was such as to shatter 20 of the windows in the armory on both the east and west upper walls. Some downstairs windows were also broken.

BROKEN GLASS

The entire area of the big drill room was covered with shattered glass and fragments of masonry. One Jeep windshield was broken by a fragment of tile. Spray paint cans, which have been left near some vehicles being worked on, were exploded and sprayed yellow and red paint generously over the area.

County and city police officers were on the scene this morning. Finger prints were being sought by Lt. Bob Bronson, police identification expert.

The burglars apparently gained entrance to the armory through a window on the ground floor, about midway on the east wall. A glass was broken and the latch opened.

Once inside, the burglars broke into a stock and supply room, north of the arsenal. It was when this door had been forced that the raiders probably discovered the vault doors which bar entrance to the arsenal.

They took a spool of National Guard field telephone wire from the supply room. Since no explosives nor ammunition are kept at the armory, the prowlers are assumed to have brought their material with them. They set their charge against the east wall of the arsenal (which is located on the extreme southwest corner of the drill room) and used a heavy repair cart to wedge it against the wall.

MOUNTAIN TOP

When they had attached their dynamite cap to the charge, they connected the stolen telephone wire to the fuse. Then they unrolled the wire across the floor out a door in the southeast rear wall, and southward for half a mile to the top of Scenic Mountain.

At this point they attached their wires to the plunger which would activate the fuse and detonate the blast. They left the wire after they had exploded the charge but took away their plunger switch.

Back at the armory, they crawled into the arsenal through

Militants Continue Sit-In, Gym Construction Halted

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University bowed today to a militant student protest that has disrupted campus life for four days and said it would suspend construction of a controversial gymnasium.

But the few hundred—out of the Ivy League university's 27,500 students—who carried out the protest continued to sit-in at five buildings, demanding amnesty from punishment for their demonstration.

HEMMED IN

Columbia, hemmed in on three sides by predominantly white and residential Morning-side Heights, sits atop a bluff overlooking Harlem and the 30-acre Morningside Park. The gym would be built on two acres of the park, which separates the campus from the Negro community.

The university's decision to suspend construction—made at the request of Mayor John V. Lindsay—came in an announcement by the university vice president, David B. Truman, before a cheering crowd of 150 white and Negro onlookers gathered in a pre-dawn chill on the steps of Low Memorial Library.

Truman also said the entire university would be closed until Monday to permit further talks between the administration, faculty and Lindsay, credited by many students with averting bloodshed during the protest.

AMNESTY

They apparently were hoping that the university also would yield to another major demand, amnesty for the demonstrators.

President Grayson Kirk announced Thursday that no amnesty would be granted. He said such a concession would "destroy the whole fabric of the university community" by making a sham of the college rules.

An hour before Truman spoke, a double file of about 20 plainclothes police, some carrying nightsticks, pushed past a dozen faculty members stationed before the library door.

One woman was pushed to the ground and stepped on and a male French instructor was clutched on the head. He was treated for a scalp cut at a hospital and released.

When the protest began Tuesday noon the demonstrators, organized by the Students for a Democratic Society, demanded that the gym construction in Harlem's nearby Morningside Park be halted and the university sever its ties with the Institute for Defense Analysis.

LATER DEMAND

Later they added the demand for amnesty and agreed that the IDA issue could be negotiated if the university yielded on the other two demands.

At midnight, a rally of about 1,200 students condemned the demonstration and presented university officials with a petition they said contained the signatures of 1,800 students. It demanded the university take firm action to prevent a recurrence of the protest and to punish the demonstrators.

ANGRY

Some pupils were angry at being turned away and there were a number of verbal confrontations between the groups. The demonstrators were supported by some outsiders.

The rioters objected to Columbia's plan for an $11.5 million gymnasium in a section of the park leased from the city. They said it would rob Harlem children of play space.

They sought Columbia's withdrawal from the IDA on the grounds that it was a Defense Department research project furthering the Vietnam war and developing methods of suppressing slum disorders.

Officials Playing Down Contradictory Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI officials are quietly trying to play down contradictory descriptions of the appearance and habits of James Earl Ray, alias Eric Starvo Galt, the elusive escaped convict charged with the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The discrepancies have fueled speculation that perhaps Ray and Galt actually are two persons, or that two or more persons used the name Galt.

No official statement has been issued to rebut this theory. But as the massive search for King's killer entered its fourth week, FBI sources who had refused to discuss any aspect of the investigation insisted, though not for attribution, that Ray and Galt are the same person.

"We know there's only one person involved here," said one official. "We've got his fingerprints and we know who he is."

Puzzling aspects of the case continue to pop up. The newest involves Ray's, or Galt's, smoking habits.

Atlanta residents said cigarette or cigar ashes were scattered on the carpeted floor of a white 1966 Mustang that FBI agents impounded there a week after King was slain. They also said a cigar butt fell out of the car when agents opened the door. The FBI has said the car was owned by Galt.

In Missouri, it was reported that an FBI bulletin issued last year after Ray's prison escape said Ray "does not smoke."

West Texas Rain Hinted

By The Associated Press

A weak cool front pushed into Northern Texas today and the U. S. Weather Bureau said it was expected to trigger shower activity.

Temperatures ranged from the 40s in most of the Panhandle and South Plains to the 50s elsewhere except in the 60s along the coast and in extreme South Texas.

The forecasts call for the cool front to sweep into Central Texas by Saturday afternoon.

Collegiate Press Parley Opens Today

Delegates to the 20th annual Texas Intercollegiate Press Association convention at Howard County Junior College heard a veteran correspondent stress that the human side of the story in Vietnam is being lost.

ABOUT 100

Gene Craft, operations manager for the Texas State Network, told the gathering of about 100 students early this morning that as a correspondent in the field, he tried to concentrate more on the "Texas servicemen themselves, rather than the military effort."

Craft cited what he called "a serious tactical error" in allowing the Viet Cong to become firmly entrenched in the Demilitarized Zone, because of "public opinion that said we shouldn't trespass across those lines."

"The unfortunate thing about the whole war is that we never know who our enemy is until he fires at us," Craft said.

Craft, who recently returned from his second trip to Vietnam, showed the student journalists slides of the country and of his work as a correspondent in the field.

More than 200 delegates were expected for the opening session, but were delayed because of a breakdown in the shuttle bus that was operating between HCJC, where the lecture and workshops are being held, and the Holiday Inn, which is serving as general headquarters.

Tonight there will be a poolside barbecue at the Holiday Inn at 6:30 o'clock, with entertainment furnished by the Coahoma Border Brass.

WORKSHOPS

Workshops today and Saturday were to include representatives of various news media throughout the area. Temple Dickson, state representative from Sweetwater, was to be here this afternoon for a political press conference with the students.

TIPA Delegates

Among those delegates attending the 20th annual convention of the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association today and Saturday at Howard County Junior College are, from left, David Bradford, HCJC, president of the TIPA;

Terry Collier, Southwest Texas State College; Twilla Dunca, Abilene Christian College; Linda Haster, Central Texas College; Guy Marble, Southwest Texas State College.

Charter Group Is Recognized

The BPO Does honored charter members, past presidents and five-year members at the Wednesday meeting in the Elks Lodge.

Those honored were Mrs. Mary Ragsdale, Mrs. Glenn Gale, Mrs. O. L. Grandstaff, Mrs. Kathleen Williams, Mrs. A. D. Jenkins, and Mrs. L. D. Jenkins. Others were Mrs. A. N. Rutherford, Mrs. W. B. Rogers, Mrs. Joe Clark and Mrs. Pauline Anderson, who were unable to attend.

Dental Assistants Slate Installation

The Permian Basin Dental Assistants' Society met in the home of Mrs. F. O. Rose in Odessa Thursday evening for a round-table discussion and election of officers.

The discussion was concerning "Helpful Hints to the Dental Assistant." Officers named were Mrs. Gail Powell, Midland, president; Mrs. Jack Henry, Midland, president-elect; Mrs. Marvin Callahan, Big Spring, vice president; Mrs. Rose, secretary; and Mrs. Joyce Clements of Midland, treasurer.

Installation of new officers will be held May 23 in Midland. Eighteen attended. Those from Big Spring were Mrs. Gayle Miller, Mrs. Callahan and Mrs. Robert Smart.

Mrs. Jerry Iden was initiated as a new member, and Mrs. J. C. Brice presided. Mrs. Sam Mellinger served as outer guard pro-tem.

Mrs. Gale, banquet chairman, announced the mother-daughter banquet will be held at 6:30 p.m., May 3, at the Elks Lodge. She reminded members to turn in reservations May 1 by calling 267-2780. Mrs. Mellinger will serve as entertainment chairman, and Mrs. Iden will be decorations chairman.

Mrs. Frank George reported on the Veterans Administration Hospital work, and Mrs. L. D. Jenkins reported on the card committee.

Mrs. Merle Leroy won the attendance prize.

Air Force Wives Told Of Rights

Sgt. Walton R. Burchell of Webb Air Force Base conducted a program on legal rights of Air Force wives, whose husbands are overseas, at the Thursday meeting of the Independent Wives Club. The group met in the John H. Lees Service Club at Webb AFB.

The group will attend a family orientation program at the base at 7 p.m., May 1. A program on automobile mechanics is being arranged in order that the women can become familiar with car maintenance.

Mrs. James L. Sasser presided. The next meeting will be May 9.

Error In Name

An error in the name occurred in the report of a plaque being presented by the Airport P-TA in memory of Mary Inez Vaughan, a teacher in the school before her death Dec. 9, 1966. Mrs. Vaughan had been a teacher for 29 years at the time of her death following open heart surgery. She had taught at Comanche County and in Abilene schools before coming here.

Gardener Discusses Arranging

Mrs. Jesse Crane Jr., president of the Four O'Clock Garden Club, was guest speaker for Wednesday's meeting of the Ladies Home League of the Salvation Army at the Citadel.

Mrs. Crane demonstrated techniques of making permanent and fresh flower arrangements and created a greenery spray. The arrangements were presented as prizes to Mrs. H. M. Moore, Mrs. Joanne Hutchins and Mrs. Dobie Hart.

Members worked on favors for the Home League camp to be held May 24-26 in Midlothian. The refreshment table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers. Silver appointments were used.

The next meeting will be a cradle roll party for babies in the corps.

HD Clubs Have Stanton Meetings

STANTON (SC) — Two home demonstration clubs met this week. The Courtney Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Walter Kelly with Mrs. L. E. Payne presiding. Roll call was answered with a cleaning problem, and refreshments were served.

The Koffee Kup Home Demonstration Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. James Doyle, with Mrs. R. P. Odom presiding. Mrs. Ennis Cochran, volunteer coordinator for the Big Spring State Hospital spoke and showed slides of facilities and programs at the hospital.

Mrs. Delnor Poss Gives Program

Mrs. Delnor Poss presented a program of piano selections at the Thursday meeting of the Progressive Woman's Forum in the home of Mrs. D. G. Whitten, 1602 Osage. Mrs. Ed Corson introduced the guest.

Mrs. Horace Rankin presided and announced a workshop will be held May 23 in the home of Mrs. Charles Wash, 2904 Hunters Glen. Work for the coming year will be planned.

A discussion was held concerning the scholarship fund to Howard County Junior College, and plans were made for installation of new officers, May 9, in the home of Mrs. Whitten.

The president urged the members to vote May 4.

Lodge Observes Founder's Day

The anniversary of Odd Fellowship in the United States was observed at the Tuesday meeting of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153 in the IOOF Hall.

Thomas Wildley founded the organization in 1821.

Mrs. Everett Hood, noble grand, presided and announced that Mrs. Russell Loftis and Mrs. E. Lee Thackery will serve refreshments at the Veterans Administration Hospital Saturday morning.

A donation from the silver drill was sent to the senior citizen home in Ennis and the crippled children's home in Corsicana.

Members were reminded of a hobo party to be held at 7:30 p.m., Friday, at the hall. Each person will bring a sack lunch.

Thirty-one attended, and 33 visits to the sick were reported.

When you tune in on scenes where pants are the feminine uniform of the day, you get the idea that there's not a single rearview mirror in town. Most pants look several sizes too big.

You would think by now that we girls should have learned how to wear pants. We've been in them for three decades. Furthermore, the variety of styling has increased to a point where a flattering choice is no problem. For instance...

Long Pants, in such no-nonsense fabrics as denim and duck, are cut straight as a cow-poke's and are accented with slim work shirts and ranch jackets. In soft materials, long pants come wide of leg and cuff. The toppers here are flannel cardigans and tailored crepe shirts or jersey turtles. Add to this, sailor pants with midgy, plaid linen stovepipes that bare the midriff... and you must find a style that suits you.

Short pants range from the boy look with blazer or tunic in haberdasher materials to skirt-pants with wide belts and ruffled shirts in "sissy" cottons.

Fancy pants, appearing at dusk, are long or midi, skinny or flared out, silky and colorful — beguiling, if before you buy you try in a rearview mirror.

BUYING TIPS

Buy Grooming Aids During Spring Sales

By GENEVIEVE S. WOOD

A sale that many homemakers seem to overlook is the annual spring sale of good grooming aids and summer makeup needs. This is principally a drugstore event, and it may take the form of discounts from regular prices for a given time or even more drastic cuts. These sales will be running in April.

The thinking behind these promotions is cooperation between some manufacturers and retailers to initiate the new selling season with these special prices to dramatize merchandise that is essentially seasonal. This fanfare calls your attention to many items that you do not buy regularly, and adds impetus to selling.

This is not an across-the-board reduction, but a sale of products of given manufacturers. But there are enough of them participating in this event to make it worthwhile. And they are manufacturers of well known, reliable products.

In these pre-summer offerings you will find such products as deodorants, sun tan lotions, hair preparations, some cosmetics and other products that reach their peak demand in the warm season.

If you have missed anti-perspirants from good grooming counters lately, it's because there is no longer emphasis on them as such. In general deodorants are taking over, particularly the "dry deodorants" which combine the two services. Anti-perspirants are still available but to a lesser degree.

CRITICISM

"Now that the matter of slack-filled packaging is coming under control," writes a reader, "there is another practice that should receive attention of the powers that be."

"This is inflated retail prices imprinted on their product packages by manufacturers. Coupled with this is the matter of inflated comparative prices which some retailers put on items they advertise. Here's a case in point, from my own recent personal experience:

"A drugstore advertised neoprene work gloves, knit gloves with the neoprene coating which you wrote about in your column recently and which I know very well and favorably. The sale price was $1.19. The ad said that the regular price was $1.69. I remembered that I had paid $1.39 a pair less than a month ago, but thought that perhaps the price had increased meanwhile.

"The clerk could not find any $1.69 gloves, so I bought a pair that was marked $1.59, with the manufacturer's price of $1.89 printed on the box. There was no mistaking the gloves, for both the advertising copy and the package identified them clearly.

"When I returned home I noticed that the store's price sticker was pasted over another one, which turned out to bear the price of $1.39.

"Assuming that the advertised value of $1.69 was a typographical error, still to my mind the marked up price of $1.59 was unethical. I would like to register my protest with the store, but to whom?"

INFLATED PRICE

"I also would like to write to Betty Furness regarding the manufacturer's inflated price. Please give me her address."

It is not ethical for a retailer

This Is 'E Day' For Texas Politicians

By The Associated Press
This is "E Day" for Texas political hopefuls who must make public initial reports of expenses along the campaign trail.

include a list of those making contributions should provide oratory fodder for those candidates complaining of high-spending, high-powered campaigns. If the reports are not received by the Secretary of State in Austin before the close of business today, they must be sent by registered or certified mail and postmarked no later than midnight Friday. A second report is due May 14-10 days after the primaries.

Democratic primary gubernatorial candidates kept up a drumbeat of enthusiasm in their campaigns Thursday—some predicting victory and others telling of snowballing support. Don Yarborough said in Houston that hundreds of automobile caravans will travel across Texas Saturday "in a giant mobilization of support for my candidacy for governor. I call upon all of my supporters to redouble their efforts and perhaps we can win the nomination without a run-off."

Republican Paul Eggers said at College Station that "We must seek economy measures, protect sound fiscal policy and make certain the state government provides maximum services for our tax dollars."

Port Of London Threatened By Longshoremen's Strike

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of London dock workers struck again today for another march on Parliament to protest colored immigrants in Britain.

The strikers shouted down a Roman Catholic priest and Protestant clergymen who were introduced by a Communist union leader in an attempt to persuade them back to work. Scores of ships in the teeming port were left idle by the 24-hour walkout.

WORK STOPPED
At Tilbury, the port's deep-water section handling liners for the Far East and Australia, only 65 of the usual 2,000 men reported for work. All work stopped on 12 liners.

a meeting of 2,000 longshoremen howled down leftist opponents of the walkout who led last year's four-month dock strike from which the port is only now recovering. Only three men voted against the strike resolution, which affirmed the dockers' support for the inflammatory speech by Enoch Powell demanding a ban on colored immigration. Powell's speech earned him immediate dismissal from the inner councils of the Conservative party and a surge of support from workers who fear the competition of colored immigrants from the West Indies, Africa and Asia.

ment a petition signed by 3,000 dockers and merchant seamen demanding an immediate immigration ban and protesting the government's antidiscrimination bill now before Parliament.

The bill, which was approved in principle by the House of Commons Tuesday, extends to housing and employment a previous act's ban on discrimination in such public places as theaters and restaurants. Thousands of dockworkers staged a similar strike and march on Parliament Tuesday to protest the bill and express support for Powell.

SUPPORTS DALEY
Dolph Briscoe said in East Texas he has more than 50,000 volunteers working for him.

SPELLING BEE
John Hill said "People tell me that they will vote for me because when I win, education wins and conservation wins, and Texas in general wins. People tell me that 'win' is spelled 'H-I-L-L.'"

RUBBER STAMPS
In the lieutenant governor's chase, Don Gladden said in Dallas that "Under my leadership, the Senate would not be a rubber stamp. It would be an independent body, representative of the opinions of Texans."

Powell's speech earned him immediate dismissal from the inner councils of the Conservative party and a surge of support from workers who fear the competition of colored immigrants from the West Indies, Africa and Asia.

Edward L. Whittenburg, campaigning in Baytown said the commercial netting of trout and red fish along the Texas coast must stop.

"To save fish for our sportsmen and to eliminate the wholesale murder of egg bearing females we must restrict commercial fishing for these game fish."

Predicted 'Baby Boom' In Texas Fizzles Out

AUSTIN (AP) — The expected "baby boom" of the 1960s has not occurred and the number of children entering Texas schools will decline during the next six years, the Governor's Committee on Public School Education was told today.

males, or specifically, a boy about two years older than the girl.

The committee is nearing completion of a 30-month factual study of the status of public education in Texas.

Committee chairman Leon Jaworski said Texas should use this "breathing spell" in school enrollment "to reach our goal of national leadership in educational achievement."

It received reports today on some of the findings made so far, including the drop in the Texas birthrate since 1960 to 50,000 fewer than 1957's record 256,000.

McCoy Elected Rotary Prexy
STANTON (SC) — The Stanton Rotary Club met Wednesday for their regular meeting. Doyle Corder presided. Jim McCoy was elected president in place of Bill Vaughn, president-elect who resigned. He will take office in July.

The current generation of young Texas women, aided by recent scientific advances, have elected to wait to start their families," one report said. "Another factor is what the girls call 'the shortage of eligible

A Devotional For The Day

Gazing at him (Stephen), all who sat in the council saw that his face was like the face of an angel. (Acts 6:15, RSV)
PRAYER: Our loving Father, it is so easy for us to neglect doing what we can as we look for some great way to honor Thee. Make us conscious of the needs of those about us and those far away, and help us to minister to them in ways of kindness and love. In our Savior's name. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

Bumbler

Not all the bumlbers are in government; some of them are in journalism.

William C. Baggs, editor of the Miami (Fla.) News, an expert by virtue of a trip to Hanoi at the sufferance of North Vietnam, now declares with the certainty of a voice from heaven, that President Johnson and his counsellors "seem more and more to be expert mechanics in nit-picking."

Mr. Baggs was in the North Vietnamese capital when President Johnson made his strong overture toward peace by announcing that he would not be a candidate for re-election, and that he would more than willing to talk to North Vietnam. Baggs said that the response was immediate and a few days later North Vietnam made a specific proposal for a meeting.

"Since then our diplomats have amused themselves in a minut of petaphysics," said Mr. Baggs in a bit of verbiage which would have turned William Buckley green with envy. "The North Viets suggested we meet in Phnom Penh. This is a lazy French colonial city stuck away down in Cambodia, near the Mekong River, and a reluctance to meet there is understandable. . . However, the North

Viets suggested Warsaw. . . Then he accused the United States government of suggesting sites the Viets were certain to turn down, noting that "the North Viets are not about to meet in New Delhi for the simple reason India and China are very hostile and North Vietnam lives in the large and grotesque shadow of China." He continued concerning the proposal of Laos as a site: "The suggestion verges on the idiotic. The North Vietnamese very well know that our country uses Laos as a base for military action against the North Vietnam military."

North Vietnam, it so happens has been using both Laos and Cambodia as a sanctuary for their operations against South Vietnam. Note that our rejection of Cambodia is "understandable" but our suggestion of Laos is "idiotic."

Well, we don't think it is nit-picking or idiotic to exercise some degree of prudence in selecting a site to talk even about talks. If anything at all comes from this it will be long, tedious and taxing of patience to the utmost. Abject capitulation on such a simple matter as a site will not heighten prospects; on the contrary, it could damage them, Mr. Baggs notwithstanding.

Wrong, Dead Wrong

It is not altogether new, but the spectacle of students taking over Columbia University in New York is not a pretty one.

One might jump to the conclusion that student uprisings are part and parcel of a wave of civil disorder, and to some degree this may be true. But long before the current era of disrespect for law, students were periodically demonstrating and occasionally throwing up pockets of revolt. Some of these were strikes; a few were sit-ins, a version of the lock-in strike.

By the very nature of being young, nourishing noble ideals, and wanting to change things, there always will be some ferment among the large body of students. Administrators walk a tight wire in seeking to maintain discipline and order without imposing a stifling authoritarian rule that chokes out the spirit of free inquiry and idealism.

There comes a time, however, when abuse of licenses of freedom demand stringent, positive action. Colleges and universities exist for the purpose of fostering learning and in a free society this is hopefully leads young people to equip themselves for responsibility in a lawful society. Flaunting the law, holding officials against their will, paralyzing educational opportunity for those who do not wish to be disrupted is wrong, dead wrong. It simply must not be allowed to exist.

David Lawrence People's Judgment On Riot Control

WASHINGTON—The American people will have an opportunity in November to vote for or against the Democratic party and pass judgment on the way it has dealt with the riots and disturbances in America.

Inasmuch as the Democratic party has been in control of the White House and the Congress for the last eight years, the issue will be whether or not it has fulfilled its obligation to preserve law and order. "Peace at home" directly affects more people than "peace abroad."

UP TILL NOW, the usual alibi offered is that the states and the cities rather than the federal government have the major responsibility. The District of Columbia, however, is completely under the jurisdiction of the President and the Congress. In recent riots, several people were killed, many were injured, and large losses in property damage were inflicted upon the residents of the nation's capital. Although there are indications of planned operations to create disorder, prosecutions of such conspiracies have not materialized.

IT IS KNOWN that experts in making firebombs, as well as persons with criminal records, have been involved in the disorders. Some of the planning in the recent "disturbance" here called for diversionary maneuver ers, designed to draw the police and federal troops away from the Capitol building, as militants plotted to take over the Capitol building itself. Only when large numbers of police and federal troops were spread throughout the area were the militants finally discouraged.

Sen. Russell Long, Democrat of Louisiana and majority whip in the Senate, pledged in a television interview to "keep a close watch" on the U.S. Department of Justice to see whether provisions in the recently passed Civil Rights Act concerning punishment for rioters will be enforced. He said:

"THE PROVISIONS (in the law) will make the federal government help us do something about people that throw firebombs into a man's place of business or people who shoot at the policemen and firemen when they are trying to perform their duties."

Communist organizations are believed to be in the background. It is to their interest to provoke as much discord as possible inside the United States. Some of the troublemakers have ties with Castro's Cuba and are directed or indirectly connected with Red Chinese agents who have been touring different countries in this hemisphere in an effort to stir up guerrilla warfare and carry on subversive acts.

THE U.S. SENATE Internal Security Subcommittee charged in 1966 that the Communist party had played a key role in the campus revolts throughout the country. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, has described certain of the student clubs as "Communist-born." Many members of Congress suspect that a Communist angle exists in the plots and planned disorders.

FOR A LONG TIME, it has been believed that Washington could be a model city because it has the benefit of close supervision by Congress and the President. Today, on the other hand, many residents of the District of Columbia are worried and apprehensive. The administration in power has the responsibility for maintenance of public order here. What it does in the next six months to expose the conspiracies behind the killing of innocent persons, the setting of fires and the looting of stores will be watched by the whole country. Failure to act will be an indication to the people that only an overwhelming protest at the polls will wake up the politicians and convince them that public opinion doesn't want to see socialistic reforms tackled on a large scale until after the security of the individual in American life has been assured.
(Copyright, 1968, Publishers-Mall Syndicate)

Billy Graham

I wonder if it is right to transplant human body parts. Do the Scriptures say anything for or against this? I am concerned that it may be wrong and against God's will. What do you think? M.B.

I heard of one preacher, lamenting the practice of organ transplants, who used the text: "What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." This text, of course, refers to matrimony, and not to the transplanting of human organs.

Jesus, we know, restored withered arms, blinded eyes, and twisted limbs. Of course it does not follow that He used the "transplant" technique of modern surgery. But He did say: "greater works than these shall ye do because I go to the Father."

I find nothing in the Scriptures, either for, or against surgical transplants. It seems to me to be in the spirit of Christ for a person to "will" his eye, or heart to someone else. Since God is the Author of life, and the giver of life, any life-giving technique should be within His will. So far, these transplants have not been altogether successful. But if they prove to be, it seems to me that they are in the spirit of Him who said, "I came that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

'ENOUGH OF YOUR MANEUVERS—SIT HERE!'

Hal Boyle Hal's Harvest Of Memories

NEW YORK (AP) — Your harvest of memories is pretty beautiful if you can look back and remember when—

If a person hadn't met you for quite a time, he'd exclaim, "Why, I haven't seen you since Hector was a pup!"

Most miniskirts were worn by girls under five years of age.

MOTHERS HATED to see a son go to college for fear he might learn bad habits there, such as drinking beer.

It was widely believed, even by some sociologists, that you could tell a criminal type by the lobes of his ears.

Horse cars were a popular form of public transportation, and each horse car in its trip across town was followed by a flock of hopeful English sparrows.

Women tended to faint in any emergency, not because their nerves were weak but because their corsets were so tight. They often carried smelling salts in their pocketbooks so they could be revived quickly.

EVERY WELL brought up little girl was expected to learn to play the piano, and every little boy the violin or saxophone.

Away back in 1922, in the depths of prohibition, auto magnate Henry Ford announced that any worker showing up with liquor on his breath would be fired. Bread that year sold for five cents a loaf.

Wrist watches, once regarded as "sissified" by most men, became so popular as the result of their use by officers in the first World War that the traditional pocket watch was doomed. But clothiers, slow to change, still put a watch pocket in most men's suit pants.

In 1924 Americans started dusting off their dictionaries as a new cultural fad swept the nation—crossword puzzles.

A SMALL LAD who put on a pair of long black stockings in the morning usually had a hole in one knee by night fall from playing marbles.

People would stay up until midnight trying to get an out of town station on their scratchy crystal radio sets.

Some silent film critics saw no real future for talking pictures, because they felt the public wouldn't take to being jabbered at from the screen.

THE ONLY men who dried the kitchen dishes were bachelors. The average married man felt such a task was beneath his dignity and, besides, his wife didn't usually want him in the kitchen. That was her realm.

Almost every child's ambition was to sneak a peak into the little black bag carried by the doctor and see how many tiny infants were in it. That's where babies came from—unless you were still gullible enough to believe the stork brought them.

In disparaging a neighboring town smaller than the one in which you lived, you said, "It's so dull there they roll up the sidewalks every night at 9 o'clock."

Many people led "long, useful and happy lives without ever having to fill out a government form.

James Marlow An Inactive Candidate?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Analyzing New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his political intentions is becoming a leading indoor sport. Rockefeller is sometimes the umpire, sometimes a player—and always reminding the fans it is his ball.

Is he an active noncandidate? Or an inactive candidate? Or a politician looking for an opening that might point him toward the White House?

That, Rockefeller acknowledges, is where he would like to go. But he's waiting to be asked.

"IF THE PARTY would like me to be their candidate, I'm available," he said. "Under those circumstances, I would like to be president."

Six months ago, Rockefeller was saying he did not want to be president.

One month ago, he rejected a campaign for the Republican presidential nomination and said it was clear "at this time that a considerable majority of the party's leaders want the candidacy of former Vice President Richard Nixon."

"I am not a candidate campaigning, directly or indirectly, for the presidency of the United States," Rockefeller said March 21. He said he would answer a true and meaningful call to take the nomination but didn't expect such a message.

Ten days later, the ground rules changed. President Johnson announced he would neither seek nor accept the Democratic nomination for another term.

ROCKEFELLER has insisted since that his position never has changed, that he always said he was not a candidate but would accept a draft. But emphasis, if not the position, certainly has changed since Johnson stepped aside.

There is a new draft organization, engineered by Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, now at work for Rockefeller. "I would say that it's gaining momentum," Rockefeller said of that effort. He said it has more people, more activity and more money now.

Furthermore, Rockefeller no longer concedes that the party's leaders are lined up for Nixon. "I think the delegates are looser than people think they are," he said.

Wasn't he moving closer to candidacy?

"YOU SAID that, I didn't," Rockefeller replied to a newsman.

But he said it is possible he could become a candidate before the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach on Aug. 5. If there is to be a draft in the traditional sense, that is where it would occur.

(By Walter R. Meers, for James Marlow, who is ill.)

To Your Good Health That Label On The Low-Calorie Drinks

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: This has bugged me for some time. On bottles of low-calorie soft drinks the label says that they contain "non-nutritive artificial sweeteners which should be used only by persons who must restrict their ordinary sweets. . . ."

Does this mean that people who are not required to restrict natural sugar intake are endangering their health by consuming these drinks?—W.F.M.

Sir, I've answered that same inquiry more than once, but people keep asking, so let's go at it again.

There is not, to my knowledge, anything harmful in these artificial sweeteners—and obviously the Food and Drug Administration doesn't know of anything harmful to them, either, or permission to use them would be withdrawn.

There have been rumors, most of them to the effect that artificial sweeteners are produced from a coal tar base. That fact does not, of itself, mean they are harmful. In any event, the Food and Drug Administration, having watched for some years for any sign of harmfulness, is continuing its studies and watchfulness. If, in some future year, signs of anything harmful appear, we can trust the FDA to say so and take appropriate action. But to date we have no such signs.

It would seem to me that some other wording could have been used on the labels, but since it's their job, not mine, perhaps it's not as easy as it looks to express just the right amount of warning without causing worry. Come to think of it, I don't know how I could do any better.

The fact remains that these low-calorie drinks are virtually without any nutritional value. They are flavored water, sweetened artificially without sugar. Period.

Anybody who does not need to limit his calories might just as well consume the regular drinks and gain the benefit of the calories represented by the sugar.

I don't know of anything harmful about the artificial sweeteners except that too much, in some young children, may tend to cause diarrhea.

People who can use the calories (sugar gives energy) and don't need to avoid calories because of obesity or avoid sugar because of diabetes might as well use the sugar drinks.

That's what the label really says, isn't it?

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Phinley's Philosophizings

People keep sending me letters complaining about the typographical errors in recent columns.

Fortunately, I can say without hesitation, there are NO typographical errors in ANY of my columns. The Herald has two excellent proofreaders Mrs. Joe Pickle and Mrs. Ann Stephens and I'm certain that no mistakes get by them.

IF THERE'S one thing I can't stand it's a name-dropper, as I said the other day to Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

Did you hear about the blustering brewmaster whose bock was worse than his bite.

The first flower child was from Minnesota. Her name was Betty Crocker.

THE THOUGHT for the day is from Owen Arnold in the Kiwanis Magazine:

"I believe in freedom of speech," he says, "and anyone who's against it should be silenced."

I am a firm believer in physical fitness. Would you believe "flabby believer?"

"There would be few antiques if women were not sentimental about old things." — Clare Booth Luce in McCalls, via the Reader's Digest. And more divorces.

EACH TIME I decide that things can't get cookier, they do. So I have concluded that I haven't seen anything yet. And I'd better fasten my seat belt and brace myself.

Lee Marvin and Bill Dana now have mink coats, Earl Wilson reports, and other men soon will. It's now old-fashioned for me to believe the only males meant to have mink coats are male minks.

AND FRANK Sinatra's estranged wife (that narrows the field some, I can't remember her name) sailed for India with her favorite guru, in search of inner peace.

I'm sure my folk's generation went through things just as unusual, and they survived. But for the first time I understand the looks of bewilderment I used to see on their faces.

Of course I'm aware part of it is old-fogeyism setting in, and I admit it's better than rigor mortis, but couldn't we have a short moratorium? In memoriam?

I PREDICT that Dr. Spock will go to prison and leave this message behind: "Keep the faith, babies."

Things haven't changed completely since we were young note: The O'Collegian, student newspaper at Oklahoma State. Stillwater, had a front page story with a black border and the headline: GRADES READY

Remember what I said last week: Say something nice to a dog today. — WALT FINLEY

Holmes Alexander Committee In Search Of A Monument

WASHINGTON—The committee for a monument to Martin Luther King Jr. was reported in deadlock and unable to decide on a fitting memorial.

One member declared that the deflection of J u d a s Iscariot from the Twelve Disciples had created a vacancy never adequately filled. This member proposed a resolution to name Dr. King to the open office of Twelfth Disciple. But another member objected. He said that the New Testament had been translated in several versions, but never in New-Speak, and that Dr. King often declared for non-violence when promoting the opposite. To name him a Christian disciple might cast doubt over the simple, straightforward verities of the Scriptures.

THE COMMITTEE then considered casting a statue to Dr. King in the pose of an orator, thus paying tribute to his undoubted forensic abilities. But a stubborn member raised the point that what Dr. King did often spoke more loudly than what he said. His last public appearance in behalf of the Memphis garbage strike gave lip-service to passive demonstration but its actual result was a looting riot. Therefore it would be stressing the wrong characteristic in Dr. King if he were memorialized as a mere orator when, in fact, he was a very subtle activist.

MUCH DISCUSSION followed. The chairman called for order and entertained a resolution that Dr. King be frankly immortalized as an insurance salesman in the image of Nat Tyler or John Brown. It was pointed out that Dr. King has broken with moderate civil rights leaders, such as Roy Wilkins and Whitney Young, and had met with Stokely Carmichael, the Black Power merchant and Castroite, in preparation for the march on Washington. Any memorial that failed to express this activist phase of Dr. King's career would be incomplete and untruthful, it was urged.

A SUBCOMMITTEE on One Society then reported to the full committee on Dr. King's preeminence as a citizen of One World. It was shown that he consistently opposed American efforts to prevent communism from bringing all people under One Flag, the Red one. He proved himself to be anything but a narrow nationalist by calling his country, as recently as 1967, the "greatest purveyor of violence in the world." In view of Dr. King's complete freedom from any patriotic prejudice, the subcommittee moved that he be depicted as a World Citizen rather than as a Negro or an American.

THERE WERE several objections to this motion. One objector was a policeman who said that no world order of any sort could be kept without law enforcement, and that Dr. King had done much to indict the entire police profession under the blanket charge of "brutality." Another objector was a GI veteran of Vietnam who recalled a speech in which Dr. King had likened U.S. military methods to those of the Nazi, and said that nobody who so distorted world history should be considered as a World Citizen.

BY THIS TIME the debate was completely out of hand and the chairman himself offered a resolution which stated that "Dr. King's monument lies all about him." But this was considered an unfortunate reference to the looted and burned out properties in 150 cities. The chairman's resolution was tabled.

At latest report the Committee for a Monument to Martin Luther King (CEAM) was still without a decision.

Marquis Childs The President's Credibility

WASHINGTON—The newspaper editors who were here last week left behind a stern stricture on the Johnson administration's credibility gap. A committee report accused the administration of deliberate official deceit.

This is strong language and the target is obviously the President himself. The accusation raises important questions not only about the free flow of news out of the capital but about the character of Lyndon Johnson.

AN IMPARTIAL jury would, in the opinion of this observer, find it difficult to convict Johnson of deliberate deceit. The fault in the muddying of the channels of information seems to lie with two qualities of the Johnson temperament.

The first is that he talks too much off the cuff and at random. He gets wound up in his own rhetoric with a crowd in front of him and then he becomes the prisoner of his own words. The second trait is his desire to be loved by everyone which is related to the outpouring of promises and predictions that entrap him when events prove him wrong. Perhaps, technically speaking, this is deceit. Whether it is deliberate is another matter.

ASSUMING THE President's complete sincerity in proposing a limited bombing pause, with preliminary discussions on possible negotiation over Vietnam growing out of it, his entrapment in past rhetoric is painfully clear. Excerpts from statements and speeches over the past several years promising to go anywhere at any time to talk about terms of peace fill two and a half typewritten pages. "As I have said in every part of the Union I am ready to go anywhere at any time to meet with anyone whenever there is a promise of progress toward an honorable peace," he declared in March, 1965.

IN A MESSAGE to the Pope in February, 1966, he said he would "talk any place at any time in any form."

In September of last year he said he would meet with Ho Chi Minh at "any spot on earth."

Certain of these pledges were made in formal statements drafted in the State Department or by his aides. But others are the President's own words spoken in some instances without a text before him, as in his infrequent press conferences. This is important because the tendency is to shift the blame for this far-flung rhetoric from Mr. Johnson to his subordinates and conspicuously to his Secretary of State.

IT HAS BEEN widely printed that Dean Rusk opposed the preliminary talks with Hanoi and continues to oppose them. Rusk says this is untrue.

The President must, therefore, take the responsibility for the any time, anywhere rhetoric. Against the background of this rhetoric the quibble over a site for the preliminary talks puts his government in an embarrassing light. The objections to the sites for the talks proposed by Hanoi — Phnom Penh and Warsaw—may have validity from the viewpoint of the diplomat-technicians who must stage-manage the American end of the discussions. But in world opinion the quibble has an ironic sound when measured against the President's sweeping promises.

THE DIMENSIONS of the credibility gap have presumably been narrowed by Johnson's renunciation of a second full term. His rating in the Gallup poll went up 14 points with the development of the peace initiative. He stands before the world as a free-man unencumbered by personal ambition and desiring only to go down in history as the President who brought peace to the world.

Yet should the initiative fail, regardless of where the blame actually lies, the credibility gap will widen again. It will echo and re-echo with the any time, anywhere. And that will be doubly true if it falls over what seems a minor quibble.

GOP Fights Draw More Attention Than Candidates

EDITORS: This is the last of three stories about the Texas' governors race. Previous stories have discussed the 16 Democratic candidates, including the six major candidates who appear likely to win in a runoff election on June 1. This story tells of the three Republican candidates.

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

Texas Republicans have three candidates for governor in their primary but party leaders appear more interested in who will be the next national GOP committeeman than who will be the next Texas governor.

Party differences over support of Richard Nixon or Ronald Reagan and between GOP factions in Dallas and Houston also seem to take precedence over the gubernatorial race.

GIVEN COURSE

The three GOP candidates are:

Paul Eggers, 48, Wichita Falls lawyer who has the blessing of a statewide GOP recruitment committee and U. S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

John Trice, 35, Dallas lawyer who ran an unsuccessful race for attorney general in 1964 and says party leaders tried to talk him out of the current campaign.

Wallace Sisk, 38, a Houston lawyer with no political or public office experience who says he is running on a platform of "constructive conservatism."

Eggers, who has never been in any kind of race before, is the only candidate making a definite statewide campaign. He is being managed by a public relations firm made up of former staff members of state

Republican headquarters. Before announcing, he was given a short course on how to make public appearances, and answer voters' questions.

Student Rallies Predicted Today

By The Associated Press

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam says students on campuses from coast to coast will participate today in a one-day strike against war and racism.

Linda Morse, executive secretary of the committee, predicted Thursday that some schools would be completely closed. At others, she said, there would be teach-ins, rallies, picketing and antiwar skits.

In addition to student boycotts of classes, numerous college teachers have canceled classes in advance. Seminars on the Vietnam war, the draft and race problems were planned.

The committee sought to synchronize the strike by U.S. students with classroom stoppages planned in Europe, Latin America, Asia and Africa.

Today's demonstrations are part of the week of antiwar activities that will come to a climax Saturday with demonstrations planned in a score of American cities. An antiwar rally is planned in New York's

State GOP Chairman Peter O'Donnell, Dallas, who handled the recruitment drive and Eggers' political education course, made a number of Texas' Republicans unhappy, particularly supporters of the present national committeeman, Albert Fay, Houston. Fay was a key man in the national campaign to draft Barry Goldwater in 1964.

He wanted to run for governor but was passed over with the argument that the state party needed a fresh young face.

The undercover party conference broke into the open with reports that O'Donnell wanted to take over Fay's job when the state GOP convention meets June 11.

After a super secret summit conference between O'Donnell, Fay, Tower, Rep. George Bush, and others, O'Donnell announced he had decided not to contest Fay at the state convention, putting off the duel until at least after the general election.

Both O'Donnell and Fay favor sending Tower to the national GOP convention as a favorite son candidate. After the first ballot most Republican leaders presently in power apparently favor Nixon. If New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller or New York Mayor John Lindsay should end up with the nomination, there is some hope that Tower might be the vice presidential nominee.

ONE-PARTY MACHINE

O'Donnell made public recently a letter from Reagan saying he had not authorized any formation of a Reagan for presidential committee in Texas to contest either the Tower favorite son or the Nixon move.

Trice, in one of his few radio and TV appearances, said he thought Reagan would be a much stronger nominee than Nixon in Texas, particularly against Sen. Robert Kennedy. Trice repeatedly charges O'Donnell has caused "rebellion in the Texas Republican party" by "hand-picking" Eggers.

Eggers said he got in the race after Tower, whose Wichita Falls home is just down the street, told him: "I'll help you." Eggers is a native of Indiana but has been a Texas resident 27 years. He is a lifelong Republican.

"We must sweep out rust of the one-party system. The progress of our state is being retarded by a one-party machine that is idling instead of moving ahead," he said.

open the debate today in the General Assembly's 124-nation main political committee on the treaty proposed by the United States and the Soviet Union to ban the spread of nuclear weapons. He was to be followed by Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister V.V. Kuznetsov, with both urging that the assembly endorse the treaty.

Diplomats Report Goldberg Unhappy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Some diplomats said today that U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's resignation from his U.N. post was motivated at least partly by disappointment because President Johnson left him out of Washington's current Vietnam peace efforts.

Goldberg told a news conference after his resignation was announced Thursday that he felt W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance, named by Johnson to talk to North Vietnam's representatives, were "very well qualified."

"I would not assume I would be called upon in that capacity," Goldberg said, but he declined to say whether he would have liked such a role.

Goldberg did say, however, that he regretted what would take place would "not take place in a U.N. forum."

"The U.N. is where it ought to take place," he added.

Goldberg became U.N. ambassador July 28, 1965, after the death of Adlai Stevenson.

Goldberg was scheduled to

Lad Dies; Parents Plead With Doctors To End It

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP)—Robert Snyder, 13, kept alive for three days with an oxygen-pumping machine, died in a coma as his parents begged doctors not to prolong his life.

"This boy's brain died Monday," Dr. Lawrence Lewin said. "His heart stopped at 2:10 p.m. today."

The boy had been playing with two friends Monday afternoon, tunneling a cave through the sandy soil of a drainage ditch behind his home when the roof collapsed.

The others escaped but Robert was pinned beneath 300 pounds of earth for half an hour before firemen could free him.

Deprived of oxygen, doctors said, the youth suffered severe permanent brain damage. He never regained consciousness and the doctors said he never would.

A respirator maintained his heartbeat and breathing for 72 hours.

All the while, Warren Eileen Snyder, convinced there was no hope of saving their son's life, pleaded with the doctors to end it.

"He's dead right now, and the only thing that keeps him going is the machine," the father, 46, an accountant, said.

He said it was "as though they were pumping air through a dummy."

"If I'd disconnected the respirator," Lewin said later, "the nurses would have been required to notify the coroner and the notation would say that I turned off the machine. A doctor who did that would make himself a martyr."

When the battle to save the youth ended, his father said: "We did something that we thought we'd never have wanted. We donated his eyes to an eye clinic."

"He was young," Snyder said. "His eyes were very good. They were... funny—now he's gone. I can't remember what color his eyes were."

Club Hears Tiny Vocalists

Twenty two tiny vocalists, all decked out in starched white surpluses and blue ties, provided half an hour of music for the Kiwanis Club Thursday noon. It was the second time the club has heard these young singers and they were accorded a warm welcome by the members.

The singers were the choir of the Jack and Jill Kindergarten School and their repertory ran from novelty numbers to religious hymns.

Mrs. Proctor E. Barber, director of music for the Jack and Jill School, led the youngsters in concert. The program was arranged by the Rev. V. Ward Jackson, member of Kiwanians, and also associated with the school. A group of Kiwanians from Midland were in attendance.

Greg Parnell, the 1968 Howard County Spelling champion, was a special guest. He will compete in Lubbock May 4 in the regional spelling bee.

Hoodlum Kills Agent, Then Ends His Own Life

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Douglas M. Price, a 27-year-old FBI agent two months away from his first anniversary as a San Antonio agent for the famed law enforcement agency, died Thursday from five large-caliber bullets pumped into him by a Texas hoodlum.

The assailant, David Rice Chubb, also 27, killed himself with one shot from the .357 magnum revolver after Price was gunned down.

Price, a 5-foot-7, 163-pounder with brown hair and blue eyes, left a grieving, pregnant wife and a young daughter, Chubb, a 5-6, 135-pounder wanted for questioning in the slaying this month of an elderly grocer in Oakland, Calif., left an unserved six-month prison sentence.

Price was part of a massive FBI, sheriff's department, police and Texas Highway Patrol hunt for the mercurial Chubb, who escaped from a Bexar County sheriff's deputy in the county court house Feb. 21.

Officers said Price was ferrying a large packet of special weapons to a group of FBI agents when he apparently came upon Chubb, who had bragged to acquaintances he would "take four or five cops with me" and would not be jailed again.

"He must have been shot before he knew what was going on," said Sheriff's Department Lt. Alfred Carreon. Carreon said Price apparently happened upon Chubb as the diminutive fugitive fled the net of lawmen closing around him.

Price was shot once with a bullet that slammed through the door of his federal automobile. Four more bullet holes were in his body when it was found hidden in tall grass on a vegetable farm in Southwest Bexar County.

Chubb's body was found slightly more than a mile away, sprawled on the running board of a stolen truck belonging to a city electrical crew. The .357 magnum revolver that killed Chubb lay on a fender of the vehicle.

Chubb was wanted by the FBI for violation of the Dyer act. Officers said he was driving a ranch wagon stolen from Frank Mitchell Kohne, 71, an Oakland, Calif., grocer. Kohne's body was found this month in Oakland. He had been shot once and robbed. The weapons package Price had been carrying was found in the truck spattered with Chubb's blood. FBI agents said Price apparently never got off a shot at Chubb. His rifle lay unused on the front seat of his car.

Chubb escaped from the Bexar County Courthouse while a deputy was taking him and another prisoner to a restroom. Chubb had indicated he would plead guilty to a reduced charge involving burglary with intent to rape and was en route back to the courtroom when he bolted down a staircase and disappeared in downtown San Antonio.

Crisis Left Gold At Lowest Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government shelled out about $2.2 billion of the nation's gold to foreign buyers during the gold crisis which reached a frenzied peak about one month ago.

This was the accounting the Treasury Department revealed late Thursday of U.S. gold losses which dropped the nation's entire supply to its lowest level in 32 years by the end of March—$10.703 billion.

There were indications of a further minor loss this month in sales to foreign governments but exact figures won't be available for another month.

No formal announcement was made by the department, which merely included the figures among the scores of tables it publishes monthly in the Treasury Bulletin.

The over-all gold loss reached a monthly record during March at $1.197 billion, the bulk of it to cover wild buying on the London Gold Market before the flow of government gold to speculators was halted in mid-March.

Devaluation of the British pound on Nov. 18 triggered the rush to buy gold and eventually led to a breakup of the London gold pool—the group of seven nations which provided enough gold from their reserves to meet the demand for the metal on the London market.

The purpose was to hold the price at $35 an ounce. Here's how the Treasury broke down the U.S. gold drain:

—A total net loss of $2.262 billion for December through March. This included all gold lost since devaluation as part of the gold pool.

Volunteers, Funds For Poor People's Campaign Increase

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Volunteers and donations have multiplied for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and its Poor People's Campaign since the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who headed the organization.

King's hope of leading massive waves of the poor and disadvantaged into Washington died April 4 with the crack of a sniper's rifle in Memphis, Tenn.

However, that the Washington campaign budget is $1 million and much of it still is to be raised.

"A lot has come in already," the source said. "Plans are to raise funds as the campaign develops. The Rev. Andrew J. Young, executive vice president of the SCLC, said of the financial situation: 'It is good enough that it's possible for us to carry on for a time.'"

NO FIGURES He had no figures. But he said appeals made before the assassination had brought one of the best responses in SCLC's history. The organization operates on contributions derived mainly from regular mail appeals and rallies; and formerly from proceeds of King's numerous speaking engagements, as well as benefit performances by Mrs. King, a soprano.

SCLC spokesmen say that the civil rights organization operates strictly on a nonprofit basis with all contributions and funds going into SCLC projects.

Young said about 25 workers were added recently for the Washington campaign, raising total staff to 150. "There are many, many more volunteers," he said.

Churches, labor unions and students have provided numerous volunteers, he said.

Expenses are so great that we're still just barely getting by, it seems," Young said in an interview. Donations received for memorials to Dr. King are placed in a separate account, he said.

KING'S ESTATE Mrs. King, elected to the SCLC board of directors after her husband's death, has been put on the payroll temporarily.

Pop-Top Chain Burns Students

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Two North Carolina State University students were seriously burned when a chain made of the tops of pop-top beer cans touched an electric wire.

Fellow students said one of the students, Robert C. Stewart of Tobaccoville, N.C., was dangling the chain from the 11th floor of Sullivan dormitory on the Raleigh campus Wednesday night.

The other student, Robert S. Harvey of Gastonia, N.C., was walking by and grabbed with it when it touched an electric wire, witnesses said. There was a flash of light and a small explosion.

Both students were hospitalized with burns.

by a vote of the board, Young said.

"Dr. King didn't leave a will and his estate is still to be settled," Young said. "So the board voted to pay Mrs. King the same as our top executive." The top pay is $12,000 a year.

The widow has four children to care for and it was uncertain what amount of life insurance King had.

"He didn't have a lot of insurance," Young said. "I think we in SCLC carry something like $25,000."

"The staff had always talked about Dr. King's life, but we never got around to it."

Young said singer Harry Belafonte, long-time friend of King, had taken out an insurance policy on King for the children primarily. Belafonte had for years paid the salary of a governess for the children, Young said.

MODEST HOUSE King's legal affairs were handled by attorney Chauncey Eskridge of Chicago. The attorney could not be reached.

Young, who was very close to King, said he knew of no property or estate owned by King other than the modest house in West Atlanta, not far from King's alma mater, Morehouse College. King purchased the house about three years ago and he said at the time it cost $10,000, plus renovating costs of $14,000.

King's annual income, he estimated a few years ago, was $10,000 to $12,000. Part came from his $6,000 salary and parsonage allowance as copastor, with his father, Ebenezer Baptist church. Part came from his speeches.

King accepted no salary from SCLC. His travel and office expenses were paid by the organization.

Steak House Burglarized

Prowlers broke into the K.C. Steak House on the northwest edge of the city sometime around midnight Thursday, Sheriff A. N. Standard said today.

Lindy Oldfield, chief deputy, was called to the scene at 2:30 a.m. He said that the burglars had gained entrance through the front door.

They contented themselves with looting the juke box and the cigarette machine. Neither machine held much money, Oldfield was told.

No arrests have been made in the case.

Law Banning 'Milk' Illegal

AUSTIN (AP) — A 1935 state law banning synthetic milk that includes both vegetable oil and dry milk solids was held unconstitutional Thursday.

The State Attorney General's office said it would appeal Dist. Judge James Meyers' decision.

Wholesale Dairies, Inc., of El Paso, filed the suit attacking the so-called Filled Milk Law after the dairy was charged with violating the statute by selling an imitation milk called "Farmer's Daughter." The firm's president said the product, manufactured under franchise from a California company, was sold in El Paso for three weeks before the El Paso county attorney filed charges.

Meyers refused the dairy's request for a permanent injunction against enforcement of the law pending the outcome of the state's appeal.

Plan To Teach Students Sex

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A program to teach family living and give information on reproduction in all public school grades has been approved for introduction by September, 1969.

The plan, approved by the City School Board, is thought to be among the first of its type in Texas.

A committee of religious, medical, legal and educational authorities in Galveston was appointed last year to design the program.

The committee recommended Wednesday night that the family living program be taught separately to boys and girls in grades 6 through 8, and said the material should be offered as an elective in high school.

Elementary school teachers in the first five grades should be given training to include sex information in the curriculum, the committee said.

The committee was headed by Dr. William J. McGanity, chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Texas Medical Branch here.

LCB Lawyer Voices Plea For Huge Police Academy

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Liquor Control Board lawyer told a legislative committee today that a state-financed police academy should be set up that would be "just as big and have just as much money as the University of Texas."

Lynwood Elliott said the university, the state's largest school with some 28,000 students, trains doctors and lawyers, "but it is more important to have better-trained, well-qualified police officers than some of these other people."

Police, he said, "are all that keeps us from anarchy."

Elliott, Glen McLaughlin of the Department of Public Safety and several other persons spoke before the Legislative Council's study committee on the feasibility of establishing an academy of science in crime prevention and detection.

Dr. Frank Hubert of Texas A&M, one of the committee members, said "There seems to be a widespread conviction among responsible citizens, politicians and the victims of urban blight alike that public education offers the most promising solutions to the crisis in the cities."

"Yet it is also clear that traditional educational forms and methods have largely failed to equip the disadvantaged for constructive citizenship in our modern society," he said.

The polls purported to show: A majority of the non-teachers said they would be willing to pay higher taxes to get more teachers and give teachers larger salaries. Majorities also indicate willingness to pay higher taxes for better school equipment, buildings, laboratories, air conditioning, more classroom materials and supplies, better counseling and guidance, better vocational programs, kindergarten for five-year-olds, driver education, more and better adult education programs, more health services and after-school library and study programs.

Teachers were asked about the effectiveness of present instructional programs. While 93 per cent said the programs are effective for the average child, only 46 per cent thought them effective for children with learning handicaps, 50 per cent for exceptionally talented children and 61 per cent for non-college bound students.

Dr. Frank Hubert of Texas A&M, one of the committee members, said "There seems to be a widespread conviction among responsible citizens, politicians and the victims of urban blight alike that public education offers the most promising solutions to the crisis in the cities."

Yet it is also clear that traditional educational forms and methods have largely failed to equip the disadvantaged for constructive citizenship in our modern society," he said.

To Promote Area Work

Two Baptist associations in this section are due to join in an area arrangement for promotion of their work.

Both the Concho Valley Association and the Big Spring Baptist Association have given approval to the form of cooperative effort. A tentative budget has been set up to provide for an area missionary, traveling, secretarial and office expense. He will work under a board of 10 representing equally the two associations and will be available to help churches, promote Baptist work in general.

Area cooperation, on a voluntary basis, has superseded the old district set-up among Texas Baptists.

Living Costs Jump Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs rose four-tenths of one per cent in March, the biggest jump in eight months, the government said today.

Some 43 million American workers thus suffered a loss of purchasing power despite record high wages.

Prices the past six months have been rising at an annual rate of four per cent, the highest in 17 years, said Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

But he said he doubted there will be any government move toward price controls, such as were imposed during the Korean War when prices were rising even faster than now.

"It seems almost out of the question, with the prospects for peace in Vietnam, that price controls would be instituted at this time," Chase said.

Agents Uncover Pushbutton Still

FRANKLIN, Ga. (AP) — An all-electric, pushbutton still was uncovered Thursday night in a 75-by-75 foot room dug beneath a patio adjoining a $35,000 luxury home.

Federal revenue agents and other law enforcement officers estimated the setup must have cost more than $10,000. The gigantic distillery was capable of producing 484 gallons of illegal whiskey a day.

Two men ran from the scene. No arrests were announced.

About 250 Legal Abortions Listed

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — About 250 legal abortions now have been performed in Colorado since Gov. John Love signed a liberalized abortion law a year ago Thursday, the State Health Department reported.

Before the law was passed, the department said, it was notified of 10 to 12 abortions a year.

Youthful UTA Prexy Resigns

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Jack R. Wolf, youthful president of the University of Texas at Arlington, resigned unexpectedly Thursday to return to full-time teaching.

The resignation is effective Sept. 1.

Wolf revealed his decision at a faculty and staff meeting and then told a news conference his choice was a personal one and not dictated by political pressures.

Asked if a group of liberals within the faculty and student body had created pressure resulting in the move, he replied, "definitely not."

He said simply, "It is not as easy now to be president of any university as it was a decade ago." He took over 10 years ago as chief administrative officer when UTA enrollment was fewer than 5,000. Enrollment now stands at 12,000.

Tech Students Tour Hospital

Dr. Charles Mahone, Lubbock, and a group of psychology students from Texas Technological College, are touring the Big Spring State Hospital today, visiting wards and staff members.

Saturday, a tour is planned for 85 students from Brownfield High School, according to Mrs. Mary Cochran, volunteer coordinator.

Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the Big Spring State Hospital, presented a hypnosis demonstration for a group of students from Lubbock Christian College on Tuesday.

BLAST

They used the same cutters to cut out locks and apparently checked the contents of lockers and cabinets in leisurely fashion.

They did not bother the stack of automatic pistols in one cabinet and 1st Sgt. Douglas Hedges, who is full time duty man at the armory, said that none of the bayonets or other weapons are missing. Like the rifles, the sergeant said the pistols were also lacking firing pins.

NO INCIDENTS He said he left the armory about 5 p.m. Thursday, and there had been no incidents to arouse his suspicion that any trouble was brewing. He discovered the raid when he arrived at the building for work at 8 a.m.

Hill Schedules Quiz Program

John Hill, candidate for governor of Texas, will be in the Midland-Odessa area this afternoon and will appear on KOSA-TV, Channel 7, later this evening, according to John Burgess, Howard County campaign chairman for Hill.

Burgess said that Hill will appear on "Candid Candidate," a question-and-answer program where area residents may call the Odessa station and ask Hill questions, which he will answer over the air.

Local residents should check television listings for the time of the program, Burgess said.

Concert Booked At High School

The "Syndicate of Sound," a music group from California, will present a concert in the high school auditorium Saturday at 8 p.m.

The group is being sponsored by the Big Spring High School Choir Department, and Kenny Sheppard, choir director, said that tickets would be available for $1.50 per person at the door.

"Syndicate of Sound" is best known for the hit recording of "Hey, Little Girl." One of the group's members, Don Baskin, was formerly at Webb AFB with his father, Maj. Homer Baskin, a number of years ago.

Weather Forecast A large area of showers and thundershowers is forecast Friday night for an area stretching throughout Texas northeast into Missouri. Rain mixed with snow is expected in the Utah-Wyoming area. It will be colder in the Rocky Mountains.

HATS NEEDED

Members of the Little Theatre of Big Spring are in need of some women's hats, of 1925 vintage. Only two or three are needed, according to Mrs. Tom Huckaby, 3-6452. Persons having such a hat in the attic or closet, are asked to call Mrs. Huckaby.

The hats will be used in one of two forthcoming plays by the organization, which will be staged as "supper theatre" at the Cosden Country Club, May 17-18. The play is "The Street of Good Friends."

Elementary school teachers in the first five grades should be given training to include sex information in the curriculum, the committee said.

The committee was headed by Dr. William J. McGanity, chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Texas Medical Branch here.

Pistols Stolen From Pawn Shop

Thieves made off with three pistols valued at $110 from Fox's Pawn Shop, 210 N. Gregg, during the night. Entry was gained by breaking window glass in the front of the building.

A burglary was attempted at the National Supply Co., 200 N. Gregg, during the night. Glass was broken out of the door at the rear of the building, officers said, but nothing appeared to be taken.

Chesley Sanders, 2315 Mishler, told police a radiator valued at $40 was taken from his business address at 201 S. Bell.

DEATHS

R. V. Jones, Funeral Today

Last rites were said at Nalley-Pickie Rosewood Chapel Friday morning for R. V. Jones, 81, former mayor of the City of Big Spring. Mr. Jones died unexpectedly Wednesday evening. Services were conducted by Glenn Faison, associate minister of the First Baptist Church.

He had worked for the Texas and Pacific Railway for 54 years, most of it as an engineer. Mr. Jones was a city commissioner here for eight years, two of them as mayor. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Mr. Jones leaves his wife, Mrs. Flora Jones; three sons, Carroll Jones, Fort Worth, Dr. R. V. Jones, Houston, and Henry Jones, Lubbock.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Nalley-Pickie Rosewood Chapel, 210 N. Gregg, by Rev. J. C. Pierce, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Interment will be in the city cemetery.

DEAR BOSS: It Was Terrifying Experience

DEAR BOSS: Your suggestion: "Blackburn, why don't you write of your experiences with the first automobile you ever saw?" intrigued me.

Boss, it may come as a shock to you, but the first automobile I have any memory of ever seeing was right here in Howard County. On the main street of Coahoma, no less.

It was several years ago. I won't say how many years, but when I tell you that this particular automobile had tall wheels with hardrubber tires, was motivated by a chain reminiscent of a bicycle running from a cog wheel on the motor to another larger cog wheel on the rear axle, you may get a vague idea of how many several years ago it was.

No Memory I have no memory whose motor car this was nor how in the name of goodness it managed to get to Coahoma from wherever it lived. Nor do I know how it turned out that I, of the numerous young kids in the town, was selected to ride in this glittering and awesome monster.

The auto towered high, but of course not nearly so high as it appeared to my childish vision. The front seat for the driver was back of a brass-encased windshield. There was a rubber bulb attached to a brazen trumpet at the driver's left hand. Also a tangle of brake handles, pedals and other gadgetry which was used to make the monster move, and an enormous steering wheel.

The engine was somewhere under the front or back seats. You cranked it from the side and, after considerable effort, the thing began to rattle, shake and emit loud coughing sounds, accompanied by gusts of white smoke.

of the driver. I grasped the door rim in my hands and from my high place, stared down at the other kids.

Too Terrified To be honest, Boss, I was too terrified at the time to be either elated or excited. I couldn't gloat as much as I would have liked at my little pals for the simple reason I was fearful this mechanical ogre might blow into a thousand small pieces at any second.

There were a lot of horses along the street, Boss, and when the driver had fired up his engine, the owners of the livestock raced to the hitching posts to soothe their terrified beasts.

There was a clattering of chains and gnashing of gears and an increase in the popping exhaust from the engine and with a groan, the automobile began to move down the street. (Moving, Boss, not speeding.) The horses tied to the racks reared in terror; the natives stood back their mouths hanging open. The dust rose in dense clouds.

Relentlessly, we plunged forward. At the end of the street, (a short street it was) we made a magnificent turn and came back along the route we had just traversed. In front of my folks' house, the gleaming juggernaut ground to a pulsating stop.

Nobody Helped Nobody helped me out of the car, Boss. I made it all by my little self. I scurried between the legs of the towering adults until I reached my father's side and I got back of him. From this point of safety I stood peering at this amazing machine aboard which I had just taken that hair-raising journey.

And that, Boss, was how your humble servant met and conquered his first motor car. Your Motor-Minded Reporter SAM BLACKBURN

Precinct conventions for the American Party were announced today by Kenneth Normand, chairman. The conventions will be held at 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 4, at the following residences in Big Spring: Precinct 3, at 1607 Thorpe; Precinct 4, at 1508 Tucson; Precinct 8, at No. 79 OK Trailer Court, Utah Street; Precinct 11, J. C. Owen residence, Route 2, Box 131; Precinct 15, at 1706 Settles; Precinct 16, at 1510 Dayton; Precinct 20, James H. Nelson residence, Neel Road, Gall Route, Precinct 18, 2408 E. 25th; Precinct 21, E. D. Young residence, Route 1, Box 142, Sand Springs. Normand said that the convention attendees would be able to vote on the referendums concerning liquor by the drink, pari-mutuel betting, and milk price regulations. At least 14,259 Texans must attend the American Party's precinct conventions to guarantee former Alabama Gov. George Wallace a place on the Texas November presidential ballot.

Normand said that due to the election codes, those attending the precinct conventions May 4 can not participate in the primaries of the other parties. The Alabama State Building and Construction Trades Council, AFL-CIO, is one of the latest organizations to endorse Wallace for the presidency, Normand said.

Head Start Chiefs Will Converge Here

Community groups planning on summer programs for Head Start will converge here this evening for the beginning of an intensive two-day workshop. Community Action Program and Panhandle Educational Service Organization directors will be involved in the sessions. Activities begin with dinner at Cosden Country Club at 7 p.m. today, followed by a film and panel discussion.

Saturday activities will be at the Kate Morrison School, the local Child Development Center where the Head Start program for disadvantaged pre-school youngsters has operated for the past two years. Big Spring was chosen as the site for the conference because of its exemplary Head Start program. Delegates to the session will be housed at Ramada Inn.

LOCAL FILM S. M. (Sam) Anderson, superintendent of Big Spring schools, will extend the welcome at this evening's program. "A Day in Head Start," filmed at the Big Spring project, will be shown after the dinner. Then will follow a panel on what makes a real child development center, moderated by Dr. Charles R. Jones, Lubbock, special education consultant at Texas Tech. Participants will be Lee McCalister, Lamesa, and H. G. Adams, Marfa, Head Start directors; Mrs. Jeanette Jenkins, Lubbock, child development at Texas Tech; James O. Stinnett, CAP director at San Angelo; Mrs. Clara McPherson, Lubbock nutritionist, Texas Tech; Mrs. Frances Salazar, Lubbock, social worker.

Methodists Okay $20-Million Plan

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Citing the Sermon on the Mount as their mandate, United Methodists today were embarked on a $20-million operation to help meet the nation's racial crisis. They called it the gravest emergency of U.S. history. "At stake is life itself, the future of America, and perhaps the world," declared the church's governing conference in authorizing the broad-scale undertaking among Negroes, the poor, and disillusioned youth.

Gov. Connally Says Odds Favor Him To Win Role

HOUSTON (AP) — Gov. John Connally, campaigning to become Texas' favorite son at the National Democratic Convention, says the odds favor him to win the role. However, Connally also said Thursday night that he cannot be certain of getting the nomination. The governor held two private meetings with Harris County conservative Democrats in an effort to win the favorite position at the June 11 state convention in Dallas. Connally will visit San Antonio this weekend and Monday. He plans to attend meetings Tuesday with precinct chairmen and other party officials in Dallas and Fort Worth.

FAKE ENVIRONMENTS DENY ITS REALITY

Church Plants Miss Message

NEW YORK (AP) — Church buildings speak loudly or softly. Meekly or grandly. Plainly or pretentiously. Most of them today, as gauged by one of the country's leading church architects, are misstating their message.

"Ninety per cent of them express a sense of unreality," says Edward A. Sovik, president of the Guild for Religious Architecture. "They imply that religion is an exotic fantasy, separated from the real.

"To the extent that they do that, they're profane." Yet, he adds, this impression is conveyed by a large proportion of church edifices, both inside and outside, with their profusion of artificial effects and devices to produce a contrived atmosphere.

"Religion is a search for the real in existence, and to surround it with ersatz materials and a fake kind of environment is to deny its reality," he said. "Any pretense in religious architecture is a profanation, and there's plenty of it."

Sovik, 49, of Northfield, Minn., was interviewed in connection with the first International Congress on Religion, Architecture and the Visual Arts held recently, the most broadscale gathering of its kind.

es are in a "frightful flux" of "vast confusion," with their structural styles and interiors conveying a conglomeration of attitudes, often out of step with worship and beliefs.

"A church building either forms or deforms the community within it," he said.

The sharpened concept of worship as a communal act of mutual participation, he said, has made obsolete the old "two-space" types of churches, with a chancel and nave, setting apart "performance and audience."

This construction not only separates people from clergy but also from each other by the long, narrow, individually isolating interiors, Sovik said. "It can destroy the possibility of common participation."

"Some 20th century structures are built for 12th century liturgies," he added.

He said horseshoe-shaped seating seems to provide the most intimate, family like arrangement. Churches "in the round" don't work well, he said, since the minister must have his back to part of the people.

In the present vogue of construction patterns, he said, a "fantastic amount" of it obscures the genuineness of religion by trading on novelties and gimmicks that "have absolutely no connection with truth."

He cited:

—Church steeples pointing skyward "like fingers as if God is up here," when in actuality Judeo-Christian conviction asserts that "God enters the world and meets man in the realities of this world and life."

—Monumental-type church buildings, implying their own prestige and self-importance, as if God is enshrined in grand buildings," Sovik added. "An abomination. That kind of God is dead."

—Use of archaic, mystifying symbols, whose meaning is unknown to most people, along with sundry odd, esoteric decorations. "If the church wants to be current, it better use current symbols," Sovik said.

—Pompous, imposing types of buildings that seem to seek to dominate by authoritarian power rather than to serve, illuminate and dignify human life, which is a basic element of the Judeo-Christian faith.

To Graduate In May

Jim W. Weathers, left, formerly of Big Spring, will receive the bachelor of divinity degree, and James W. Fields, right, also formerly of Big Spring, will receive a diploma in theology from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary during the annual spring commencement exercises May 10 at 7:30 p.m. in Truett Auditorium. Fields is the son of Rev. J. W. Fields, Big Spring. Dr. James S. Riley, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Houston, will deliver the commencement address, and Robert E. Naylor, seminary president, will present degrees in church music, religious education and theology to 187 candidates.

Revival Planned At Church Of God

A revival meeting at the Church of God at Fourth and Galveston will begin Monday, April 29 and continue through May 5, according to the Rev. Bob Bohannon, pastor.

Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. daily and there will be special song services every night. Glenn Byars is the song leader. Rev. Bohannon invited everyone to share in the gospel meeting led by the Rev. Owen Lee Gilbert, state evangelist for the Church of God.

THIS WEEK'S THOUGHT PROVOKER:
It is a great deal easier to do that which God gives us to do, no matter how hard it is than to face the responsibility of not doing it.

"A Going Church For A Coming Lord"

First Christian Slates Speaker

Dr. Don J. Ver Duin, Texas Christian University, will be the guest preacher for the 10:50 a.m. worship service Sunday at First Christian Church.

Rev. John Beard, pastor, said that the church was observing Christian Higher Education Day Sunday and the observance is to highlight the church's mission through colleges and seminaries and to emphasize concern for church vocations.

Dr. Ver Duin has for the past four years served as field representative for TCU. His duties include the enlistment of students in general, with primary responsibility for the enlistment of students for the Christian ministry. Prior to his appointment to the TCU staff he served as associate minister of the University Christian Church of Fort Worth for eight years. He has pastored churches in Michigan and Texas.

Dr. Ver Duin received his undergraduate degree at TCU in 1944. He received his bachelor of divinity degree from the Yale University Divinity School. In 1962 TCU honored him with the doctor of divinity degree for outstanding work in the local pastorate and for community service.

He served as president of the Michigan Convention of Christian Churches; as vice president of the Grand Rapids - Kent County Council of Churches; and vice president of the Fort Worth Area Council of Churches. Dr. Ver Duin is married to

Rosicrucians To Meet Sunday

A public meeting of the Permian Basin Chapter of the Rosicrucian Order is scheduled for 3 p.m. Sunday in the First National Room of the First National Bank, Midland.

W. H. Clark, Plainview, inspector general of the order, will be the speaker. His topic will be "Who Are the Rosicrucians?"

Rea C. Thomas, master of the Permian Basin Chapter, will preside over the session. The public is invited.

MAN IS FOOLISH UNTIL HE COMES TO KNOW CHRIST

Some people have been called fools for believing what the Bible says or for their commitment to Christ. Paul himself wrote, "We are fools for Christ's sake." (1 Cor. 4:10).

But the Lord's opinion of who is a fool is very different and is much more important. The Bible speaks of those who have neglected the wisdom spoken of in this lesson and clearly calls them fools.

Much is said in this International Uniform Lesson Series for Sunday about the fear of God. The man who does not fear God will hardly feel he should obey Him.

A man comes to know God personally when he comes to Him through His Son, Jesus Christ (John 14:6). Until then, he has every reason to fear the judgment and punishment by God. After this, he knows that though he does not deserve it, he is covered by the righteousness of Christ and faces no condemnation. (Rom. 8:1). Until a man comes to that place in his life he is foolish.

Background Scripture comes from Proverbs 1:3. Memory Selection is from Proverbs 2:6-11.

Professor Scheduled At First Baptist Church

Dr. John Newport, who is in the department of philosophy of religion at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, will speak at the First Baptist Church Sunday.

Dr. Newport will bring the worship message at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and then he will be at a special meeting, "Ask the Professor," at 6 p.m. Everyone is invited to pose any question they may have, and Dr. Newport will attempt to comment on them. He is the guest speaker in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. R. F. Polk, who is leading a revival at Lamarque Baptist Church in Houston through Sunday.

Gospel Concert Slated

The Gloryland Quartet will present a concert of gospel music Saturday, May 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Ackerly. There is no admission charge. The quartet, whose headquarters is in Roswell, N.M., is widely known. Pictured are, seated, Carol Karnes and Neida Kinlison; and standing, Pete Berry, Joe Norris and O. A. Kinlison.

CONSTANT COMPANIONS

Copyright 1968 Keister Advertising Service, Inc., Strasburg, Va.

"Those three are always together," remarked Lisa's mother. She was referring to her little daughter, who is seldom seen without her beloved collie, and her well-worn rag doll. They are constant companions.

"Lisa is very sensitive about friends," her mother continued. "And this week she came home from Sunday School with a very important lesson. Her teacher told her about God's love, and how He never leaves us. Lisa came skipping into the house and announced, 'Now I have three good friends, and the best one of all is Jesus.'"

Little Lisa had indeed learned a wonderful truth. All of us need to discover it for our own lives. For every life needs the companionship of God. Let your church bring this hope and promise to you.

Giant Bombers Hit Targets Within 26 Miles Of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers, flying some of the war's closest raids on Saigon, hit enemy targets within 26 miles of the capital today to break up Viet Cong forces believed massing for their second major offensive of 1968.

The raids came after South Vietnamese police ordered all boats and vehicles entering Saigon be searched for arms and explosives. The police had earlier thwarted a Viet Cong attempt to smuggle guns into the capital on a river junk.

BUNKERS BLASTED: Tons of explosives fell from the giant bombers on three sorties over enemy bunkers, weapons positions and troop concentrations, six to eight miles west-southwest of Ben Cai, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division.

RIFLES SEIZED: Police said they found 10 Soviet AK47 automatic rifles aboard a junk at Saigon's riverfront dock. They did not say if any arrests were made.

sources said the enemy has 15 to 20 battalions in the area and could commit them to an all-out attack on Hue "in a matter of hours."

The B52s hit weapons positions and storage areas in the valley three times Thursday night and with three more raids this morning. They also made two raids on troop concentrations 13 and 17 miles southwest of Hue, between the valley and the old imperial capital on the coast.

SHRUGS OFF DEMONSTRATION AT LUFKIN Wallace Resumes Texas Tour

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Former Gov. George Wallace resumed his Texas tour Friday optimistic over the chances of his name appearing on the November ballot as a third party presidential candidate.

When you draw crowds like we've been drawing, you're doing good," the 48-year-old American Party candidate said in summarizing his Thursday visits to the Beaumont-Port Arthur area, Lufkin, Tyler, Texarkana and Dallas.

REBEL CARD
A frequent placard was: "The South will rise again, for Wallace."

He shrugged off a brief but loud demonstration against him at the Lufkin airport by a group of youthful Negroes "as something those kind of people do."

One Lufkin demonstrator waved a sign reading: "Last week King. Tomorrow Wallace." Members of the group said they organized "King's Men" after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Wallace's stops Friday included Wichita Falls, where his party spent the night; Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland, and San Antonio.

At each stop, Wallace explained to his followers that they must not take part in the Democratic or Republican primaries on May 4 but instead register as American Party voters. If he gets 14,259 such voter endorsements, his name will appear on the Texas November ballot as a third party presidential candidate. Most observers say Wallace has a good chance of getting on the ballot.

'ANARCHISTS'
Wallace's aides said his name is already qualified for the November ballot in nine states—California, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, New Mexico, South Carolina, Kentucky, Arkansas, Colorado and Michigan. He expects to get the Democratic party nomination in Alabama.

"In about two or three weeks we will be on the ballot in about 20 or 25 states," a Wallace worker predicted.

Wallace mixed humor, sometimes sardonic, at each stop Thursday and was rewarded with quick applause and laughter from the obviously partisan crowds.

At each stop he told of the "anarchists" who he said threatened President Johnson's life in California recently by lying down in front of the presidential limousine. "I'll tell you this, if I get elected president and some of these anarchists lie down in front of my car it will be the last car they will ever lie down in front of."

Another applause-getter, repeated frequently was his reference to "this academic freedom at some colleges where some professors say they hope the Communists win in Vietnam, and they and some of these bearded anarchist students collect money and blood to send to the Communists in Vietnam. If I am elected president I'll tell the attorney general—not the one now because we don't see eye to eye—to cut out all this 'academic freedom' and put these Communists behind bars."

Mosel Will Be Back On Tube In May With 'Secrets' Drama

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Ted Mosel, a talented, sensitive writer who quit television several seasons back for the freer, greener field of Broadway and motion pictures, will be back on the tube on May 15 with an original drama, "Secrets," the last of this season's "CBS Playhouse" series.

ADULT THEME
"I had something to say, something I thought was important, about privacy and the parts of peoples lives that they do not reveal to anyone else," Mosel said. "I think it makes an interesting play. And I also think that it is a drama with a theme that is adult enough that it would never have been produced on television 10 years ago."

Mosel, along with Reginald Rose and Loring Mandel, are among the eminent TV dropouts who have recently been lured back to the medium by "CBS Playhouse," which not only gives its writers freedom to express themselves but also pays extra large prices for scripts.

The CBS experiment quite frankly was designed more for network prestige than for Nielsen points. And the series must be counted as an enormous success. It has already picked up a Peabody award and has been nominated for Emmys—and the three dramas shown have produced Nielsen numbers much larger than anyone dared hope for.

PAAR TO RETURN
Wolper Productions, which have had a hand in this season's National Geographic specials on CBS and ABC's "Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" have formally protested the nominating procedures of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences which, somehow, overlooked the two series.

The Cousteau series, in particular, was an extraordinary oversight by ABC since the list of some 250 Emmy nominations included any number of documentary shows infinitely inferior to them.

Johnny Carson will be off the "Tonight Show" for a vacation the week of May 13. His substitute will be former baseball player Joe Garagiola who has persuaded Jack Paar to return for one night.
