

Slain By Snipers Cleveland Policemen Eulogized

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Three Cleveland policemen slain by sniper bullets on the city's East Side Tuesday night were eulogized at a memorial Mass Saturday as "just ordinary guys who pledged their lives . . . to protect human rights."

Just before the requiem Mass at St. John Cathedral, Mayor Carl B. Stokes announced the easing of emergency measures taken to deal with racial unrest touched off by the sniper attack. Seven Negroes also were killed in the shootings in the Glenville area.

Mayor Lifts Curfew

Looting and arson which followed the battle between police and snipers have tapered off and Mayor Stokes lifted the curfew which had been imposed on the troubled area for two nights.

Police, who had been working 12-hour shifts, returned to regular duty hours and 1,200 National Guardsmen left the city. About 1,500 guardsmen remained on a standby basis.

Some 400 policemen, including seven out-of-state delegations, marched from the mall at the center of the city to the cathedral for the services for the three white officers — Lt. Leroy Jones, 47, and Patrolmen Willard Wolff, 30, and Louis Golonka, 37.

The solemn procession, led by Police Chief Michael Blackwell, was escorted by a motorcycle squad and mounted police.

'Humble Gratitude'

In the march were policemen from Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Birmingham, Ala., Gary, Ind., Detroit and the Pennsylvania State Police. Ohio marchers, in addition to Cleveland, included police from departments in Cincinnati, Akron, Columbus, the Cleveland suburbs and the Ohio Highway Patrol.

City Councilmen led by council president James V. Stanton, also were in the procession. Mayor Stokes sat with members of his cabinet at the front of the cathedral for the one-hour Mass celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Quinn, vice chancellor of the Cleveland Catholic Diocese.

Bodies of the slain officers were at funeral homes in their neighborhoods.

"It is in humble gratitude that we pay tribute to Jones, Wolff and Golonka," said Msgr. Quinn in his eulogy.

"We are grateful for their dedication to God and their fellow man. They are heroes, just ordinary guys who pledged their lives, their fortunes, their honor to protect human rights, human dignity, and to secure law and order that are the true measures of human freedom."

Three Murder Charges

As the Mass was about to begin, Fred Ahmed Evans, a Black Nationalist who surrendered to police at the scene of the sniper attack, was appearing in Municipal Court on three first-degree murder charges in connection with the killings of the policemen.

Evans, 37, asked for a preliminary hearing and his case was continued to Aug. 7, by Judge Ray C. Miller. He is held without bond on the murder charges.

Police said Harriel Jones, 29, a Black Nationalist associate of Evans, was arrested early Saturday for curfew violation. Jones, formerly employed in the city sanitation department, was questioned in connection with carrying a concealed weapon.

Commercial construction received a shot in the arm with announcement that work is to start on the first increments of the Coronado Plaza shopping center at the southwest corner of the Marcy and Gregg Street intersections. This initial step, said Ralph Gossett, head of Scenic Gardens, Inc., will involve some $325,000 in construction.

United Fund trustees received and approved a recommendation from the budget screening committee which fixes the amount of the current campaign asking at $109,225. This is about five per cent under last year's asking but about $3,000 more than was actually raised. The proposal includes $96,725 for the dozen or more agencies; $9,500 for campaign expenses and office operation; and $4,000 for pledge shrinkage.

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District awarded contracts last week totalling $1,152,310 — a figure that may increase slightly when the district avails itself of alternatives for a slightly larger dimension of pipe and for concrete slope protection rather than rock rip rap. This leaves about 70 miles of mostly 42-inch pipe to be let later. Because of inflation and higher costs

Prague Liberals Defying Kremlin

Fight Squeeze Of Russians, Czechs Urged

PRAGUE (AP) — Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek, reaffirming that Czechoslovakia will pursue its liberal course, said Saturday night he is convinced the Soviet Union will eventually understand this is not a menace to its allies.

"I am convinced that our friends will understand—even if not at once—that the (Czechoslovak) Socialist regeneration process does not threaten the interests of the Socialist (Communist) countries," Dubcek said in a television address.

"REPRESSION"
"On the contrary, it is the only possible way to make our republic a really solid part of the Socialist establishment and to make our border the most reliable border of socialism."

Deputy Premier Ota Sik cautioned the Russians earlier in the day that a Czechoslovak reversion from liberalization to the old regime of "fear and repression" would crush confidence in the nation's Communist party.

Both were expressing their views in advance of a scheduled meeting with Kremlin authorities to discuss the future course of Czechoslovakia.

The Soviet Union, with the orthodox backing of Poland, East Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria, is keeping up pressure for the Czechs to get back in line.

A top exponent of the reformist campaign under way since hard-liner Antonin Novotny was ousted as chief of the Czechoslovak Communist party Jan. 5, Sik declared there would be no backsliding.

"SHOWDOWN"
"The old political team discredited itself to a degree that it has become unacceptable for the decisive majority of our people," he said in an article in the party newspaper, Rude Pravo.

Old-guard forces remain active in government, political and economic affairs, he added, but "they do not represent anybody."

Like others in the party leadership, Sik said the Czechoslovaks looked forward with confidence to their impending meeting with the Soviet party's 11-man Politburo.

The Soviet party chief, Leonid I. Brezhnev, and his associates are expected to get together with the 11-man Czechoslovak presidium for a showdown somewhere in this country this week.

U.S. Expects Thai Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. officials expect more guerrilla attacks on the seven American bases in Thailand following Friday's raid on the Udorn air base.

Informants said Saturday the attack on the Udorn base had been expected for months. They added that the Thai guerrillas undoubtedly got their orders from Hanoi.

"These were not local hillbillies operating on their own," said one senior official. "We've been waiting a long time for the shoe to drop."

About 20 guerrillas hurling explosives battled the base defenders for an hour Friday, wrecking two planes, killing a Thai guard and wounding four Americans. Two guerrillas were killed and two were captured.

Chinese automatic assault rifles and Russian-made grenades were found after the battle.

Officials expect future attacks on the Thailand bases to be low-level harassment raids, posing no genuine military threat. This would preserve the appearance that such attacks are inspired solely by the Red guerrilla movement in Thailand. U.S. intelligence officers believe the opposite is true.

American sources said information about impending attacks began to reach intelligence officers early this year. Udorn, only 30 miles from the Laotian border, was pinpointed as the likeliest target.

Czechs Sign Up

Czechs stop to add their signatures to an open letter to Alexander Dubcek's reformist regime. The letter, originally printed in a writers' weekly magazine, was posted in the center of Prague. It warned that "the fate of our nation" is at stake in an impending showdown conference between Czech and Soviet leaders.

Big Soviet Union Tanks Could Turn Back Clock

MOSCOW (AP) — Time is now running against the Soviet Union in its confrontation with Czechoslovakia, but the clock may still be turned back by Red army tanks.

Soviet delay in forcing a showdown with Prague leaders over their defiance of Kremlin orders had an original purpose. The Russians were willing to go slow in hope that their mounting pressure against Prague's liberalization course would split the leaders there and win acceptance of re-Stalinization without the use of force.

The pressure may yet do that, despite apparently solid popular support for the Czechoslovak party chief, Alexander Dubcek, and denial of rumors that his party high command had ousted him.

But for the moment the drag of this crisis has allowed the development of a unified public opposition in Czechoslovakia to Soviet domination.

NATIONAL SPIRIT

Nationalism, that powerful force which Joseph Stalin tried to eradicate from his East European satellites, has been fostered in Czechoslovakia by the Soviet press campaign.

The more intense the attack has grown, the more openly determined the public opinion makers of Czechoslovakia have become to resist.

The greater the Soviet military preparations—troops camped just across the East German and Polish borders, reserves called up just across the Soviet border—the more concerned but also the more calmly defiant have become the people of Prague.

SEND THE TANKS

The situation suggests hesitancy in the Kremlin to deal with the situation the way that Soviet statements make clear will be done if necessary: Send the tanks.

Hesitancy about the big, tough decisions is characteristic of the Soviet "collective leadership" that succeeded Nikita S. Khrushchev's personal rule four years ago. Indecision has become almost paralyzing in some fields, handicapping economic planning in particular.

In this case it might be caused by disagreement among members of the "collective leadership" over using force to crush Czechoslovak liberalization.

"There have been many indications that Premier Alexei N. Kosygin would like to find an easier way out.

EVIL EYE

Referring to the closed circuit television that monitors Ray in his jail cell, the former Birmingham mayor said:

"Neither my client nor I like the idea of cameras being focused on him 24 hours a day. He has to hide his head under a pillow in order to get any sleep. He even has the evil eye of a camera on him when he uses the bathroom."

Accused King Assassin Linked To Commie Plot?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Arthur J. Hanes, James Earl Ray's defense lawyer, told newsmen Saturday an international Communist conspiracy was involved in the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Hanes said that immediately after King was assassinated here April 4, U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark called the slaying a one-man job. Ray is charged with murder in the death.

"But, gentlemen," Hanes said, "I am here to tell you right now that in my judgment the attorney general of the United States is 100 per cent wrong. There is a giant conspiracy here and my client is being used by the conspiracy."

RIGHTS FRAMPLED

Hanes did not elaborate except to say that he had this information from a reliable source and that it all would come out at Ray's trial next November.

Speaking at an impromptu news conference, Hanes also assailed what he called a lack of privacy for his client and an invasion of his rights since his arrest in London June 8 and his return here. And Hanes told of threats against his own family.

"I definitely feel that my client's rights are being trampled and his privacy invaded. While I think Sheriff William M. Morris and his people are trying to protect my client's political rights, they are at the same time trampling his individual rights."

GOP MOVES TOWARD CONVENTION

Nixon, Rocky Air Claims

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The seats still are going in, the platforms still being erected at the Miami Beach Convention Hall.

Nixon's convention floor manager, Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, stood beside a pile of lumber and forecast victory for his man on the first convention ballot. He said Nixon's delegate strength already is well beyond the 667 delegates it will take to name a presidential nominee.

"We're somewhere in the neighborhood of 60 per cent of all the delegates," Morton said. "I think we'll win on the first ballot."

But Kirk, who supports Rockefeller for the nomination, disputed that assessment. "I think they are short of the mark and falling back," Kirk said.

He claimed that Nixon is virtually out of the running—despite the former vice president's hefty lead in delegate strength—and that Rockefeller and California Gov. Ronald Reagan are the men to watch.

The first order of convention business is Monday's opening of hearings on a Republican platform. A spokesman said Nixon did not plan a personal appearance at the platform sessions, but would submit a series of four papers outlining his views on campaign issues, including Vietnam policy. He has been silent on that topic for months.

Nor is Rockefeller now scheduled to appear. Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer is expected to speak for him on platform matters.

Reagan, who disclaims active candidacy but has been talking with convention delegations, is to appear before the platform committee Wednesday.

One potentially troublesome issue loomed for the convention credentials committee, which may face seating challenges from civil rights groups claiming that Negroes are not adequately represented on some Southern delegations.

EIGHT ASSAULTS

Racial Flareup

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Scattered rock throwing continued Saturday in a predominantly Negro section of southeastern Grand Rapids where eight white persons were dragged from cars and beaten Friday night in what police said were assaults by Negroes on passing motorists.

Several persons were arrested and charged in connection with the disturbances.

Police Lt. James Hendricks said, however, the situation had not been serious since 7 a.m. and described Saturday's incidents as minor and scattered. "Generally," he said, "things are pretty quiet."

NO IDEA

At the same time, Hendricks said authorities were hoping a forecast of rain would pan out and dampen tempers.

He described the late Friday and early Saturday assaults as spontaneous, with attacks being carried out by groups of Negroes ranging from five to 30 or 40. He added that police had no idea what might have triggered them.

Two of the most seriously injured were Army Lt. Col. Carl Johnson, recently returned from Vietnam, and his wife, Natalie, both of whom required surgery.

Edsel Johnson, the colonel's brother, said he and his wife, Esther, the colonel and the latter's wife had just turned off an expressway into the disturbance area when 20 to 30 persons stepped into the street and halted his car.

SWARMED CAR

"I should have run them over," he bitterly told a reporter Saturday.

"But," his wife added, "he stopped so none of them would get killed."

Mrs. Edsel Johnson said the men swarmed around their car, breaking windows and then beating the passengers with rocks and sticks, with women later stepping forward to rob them of wallets, purses and jewelry.

She said the Johnsons had no idea a disturbance was in progress when they turned into the area.

The Johnsons finally were rescued by police and all taken to a hospital. The Edsel Johnsons were able to leave after treatment. Col. Johnson suffered severe lacerations; his wife, a smashed nose.

Ted's Decision Puts Hubert In The Middle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A month before he even knows whether he will be the Democratic presidential nominee, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is being pressured from two directions on the choice of a running mate.

The self-propelled exit of Sen. Edward M. "Ted" Kennedy of Massachusetts from consideration for the No. 2 spot seems to have foreclosed one choice it might have been relatively easy for the vice president to make.

MAGIC

Kennedy represented a number of political assets that some influential men in the party make clear they think Humphrey may need to defeat the Republican nominee in November. In particular, the Kennedy name has its own magic with the Negro voter and among lower-income whites as well as with liberal intellectuals.

Humphrey has been a champion of these elements in the past. But seemingly many of them can't forgive him for being loyal to President Johnson on the Vietnam war. So they threaten to greet his likely presidential nomination with apathy if not open hostility.

While he has not gone as far as his brother Robert did, Ted Kennedy represents a dissent to the Vietnam war policy. By picking him as a running mate, Humphrey could have signalled his willingness to deviate from the Johnson policies without actually making what to him could be a repugnant commitment.

PRESSURE

Humphrey's obvious acceptance of Kennedy's withdrawal as final leaves the vice president searching for a viable substitute who can help awaken the apparently uninterested voters in the big-city slums and industrialized states.

There seems no name candidate immediately available on this front, although some Democratic governors and other officials who have been involved in the anti-poverty battle reportedly are eager to volunteer.

On the other side of the coin, Humphrey is under pressure to team with a conservative who would be calculated to weaken the appeal of former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, a third-party candidate who hopes to deny an electoral college majority to the major party nominees.

'DIXIE' VEEP?

Gov. John Connally of Texas, who obviously would like to follow the footsteps of John Nance Garner and Lyndon B. Johnson as a vice presidential nominee from Texas, has been seeking to stir up sentiment for a Humphrey-Southerner ticket.

Connally said he and five other Southern governors told Humphrey at a conference in Cincinnati earlier last week that they think the vice president ought to choose "someone more moderate than you" for second place on the ticket.

Few party leaders think at this point that Humphrey could afford to gamble on any such Southern strategy. Others believe the election is going to be won in the ten largest industrial states.

They see Connally—or any other Southern running mate—as a sea-anchor which would calm the vice president in the turbulent waters where the battle with the Republican nominee will be decided.

Baptists Rally Around Their Texas Colleges

DALLAS (AP) — Officials of three Texas Baptist colleges rallied Saturday around their institutions after a report that a commission was considering closing the schools.

Such a report was given by a trustee of one of the colleges Friday. He would not permit use of his name.

Declared Dr. J. D. Moore, head of the Texas Baptist Education commission:

LONG TIME
"It is going to be a long time before they are closed if they are ever closed."

Graddy Tunnell, trustee chairman at Maryland College at Plainview, said that neither the education commission nor the Baptist General Convention of Texas can close a college.

Dr. Moore said a lawyer said the same thing. He said the convention only can stop financial support, which is only a portion of the colleges' income.

"The decision for closing any Texas Baptist College is vested completely in its board of trustees," said Tunnell.

The schools named by the trustee were Wayland, East Texas Baptist at Marshall and Howard Payne at Brownwood. Leaders of all three schools said there was no prospect that they would be closed.

An official of one Texas Baptist college said it receives only about 11 per cent of its budget from the General Convention, with other schools receiving even less, and some more.

GROWING
All three officials said their colleges were vigorous and growing.

Dr. Moore said this was the background:

The commission employed Dr. William R. Carden Jr., formerly a Stetson University at DeLand, Fla., staff member, to study the financial structure of Texas Baptist schools.

"Bill, don't hold back," Moore said Carden was told. Moore said the resulting recommendations were "brainstorming"—a term meaning looking into all possibilities.

Moore said the recommendations report "was just one man's idea. That you accept a report doesn't mean it is approved at all," said Moore.

Only two actions were taken concerning the report, said Moore, president of Victoria College.

1. A committee of 12 was appointed to study the recommendations.

2. Baylor University and Mary Hardin Baylor College were asked to study the possibility of operating under one board of trustees—that if either didn't like that idea that was the end of it.

DENIAL
Moore declined to state what the recommendations were, college by college. He said the commission members had agreed not to discuss these recommendations and that he felt bound by the agreement.

Said Moore, "Carden recommended a large number of things, some of which are good, other which in the minds of most people would not be good."

President Guy Newman of Howard Payne denied the trustee's report and added:

"Howard Payne is opening a fall semester with probably the largest student body the school has ever had and in the strongest financial condition in which we have ever been."

Dr. Howard C. Bennett, president of East Texas Baptist, said, "No recommendation that East Texas Baptist be closed was contained in the report by Dr. Carden."

He added, "The report did propose that consideration be given to development of East Texas Baptist College as a special purpose institution with a distinctive program to meet the educational needs of the denomination in East Texas."

ENROLLMENT UP
Bennett said he feels East Texas Baptist is doing that now. He said enrollment in the current summer session was 12.8 per cent higher than last year.

Fall enrollment applications are 22.6 per cent higher than the same time a year ago. Dormitory space is less than needed and auxiliary housing will be used, he said.

"This certainly shows how much the college is needed here," said Bennett.

Tunnell took a different approach. He said, "This study could be the best thing that ever happened to Wayland. Basically, I think the study says there are nine Texas Baptist colleges and these colleges must have more support primarily from Baptists

Negotiators Hunt Steel Peace Key

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Top labor negotiators, fighting a Wednesday midnight strike deadline, reported Saturday they still had not found the key to a settlement in the basic steel industry.

"Neither side has been inflexible in its position so far," said United Steelworkers President I.W. Abel and R. Conrad Cooper, head of the industry bargainers, in their first joint statement of the negotiations.

"We have been attempting to solve our problems and reconcile our divergent views. In short, we have been searching for common ground — the basis for settlement. To date, we have not found that basis."

"We continue the search," Abel and Cooper denied reports that a 90-cent wage-benefits package was on the table. How much had been offered was left unsaid.

Meanwhile at dozens of mills across the country, local union and management officials met to talk about procedure if the nation is faced with its seventh steel strike since World War II.

If the union's Basic Steel Industry Conference does not ratify a contract when it meets in Pittsburgh on Monday, the mills have to begin closing down—a delicate operation that takes up to 24 hours.

Some union officials said they were encouraged at the apparent absence of pressure from the federal government, "which has intervened in the bargaining 13 times since 1937. They said it indicated to them that the bargaining on the basic economic package must be going well."

Wheeling Steel Co. announced that it had reached a contract with its 9,000 United Steelworkers. The package stipulates that the wage-benefits package worked out by the other basic steel companies will be incorporated.

About 450,000 men work in basic steel. More than 388,000 of them work for the 11 largest companies, which bargain with the union as a unit.

Elevator Explosion

Two grain truck loaders were turned to snarled wreckage by a grain dust-lightning explosion at the Corpus Christi Public Elevators which ripped open buildings and critically injured a man early Saturday. Clyde Carlton, a night watchman, suffered burns over 50 per cent of his body when a flash fire engulfed him. Officials said the elevators may be out of operation for as much as a year.

Lightning Strikes Big Grain Elevator

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—The South Texas grain movement, now at a peak, suffered a severe blow early Saturday when lightning struck a huge grain elevator at Corpus Christi.

A nightwatchman at the elevator sustained critical burns when the bolt flashed out of the rolling, vicious clouds of a thunderstorm about 5:20 a.m.

Damage to the Corpus Christi Public Elevator was estimated at $2 million by its superintendent, R. T. Mann.

He said the elevator will be out of operation for at least a year and possibly 18 months.

DISASTER
Mann said 150 trucks—loaded with grain sorghum from the South Texas harvest—were in line to unload when the disaster occurred.

The superintendent said about 250 trucks a day are unloaded at the elevator—which handles about 15 million bushels of grain during the South Texas harvest.

Mann said the harvest is in full swing—with about one-third of the South Texas crop in.

Mann expects many of the Corpus Christi Navigation District trucks from South Texas fields will have to travel as far as Houston to unload—which will add considerably to the harvesting expense.

The daybreak lightning bolt did not strike the elevator's storage tanks—but did knock out all four "head outs"—which are concrete units that stand 144 feet high.

INTENSIVE CARE
Head outs lift the grain from the tanks to the scale and then move it onto conveyor belts that funnel it into the holds of freighters docked alongside the elevator in the Corpus Christi channel.

Mann said an English freighter that was being loaded when lightning struck would not be able to get its full grain cargo now at the disabled elevator.

The superintendent said the 150 trucks waiting to unload when the bolt hit were sent to another Corpus Christi elevator—which reportedly was already operating at full capacity.

The injured night watchman—Clyde Carlton, 49—was placed in the intensive care ward at Memorial Medical Clinic.

The elevator is owned by the Corpus Christi Navigation District.

Clusters Take Part in Reunion

Mrs. J. M. Morgan, 96 and S. I. Caultie, 94 were honored Friday as being the oldest persons to attend the 44th annual Glasscock-Howard County reunion at City Park. Mrs. Morgan came to Big Spring in 1908.

In addition to her distinction as the oldest woman present Mrs. Morgan tied with Mrs. Velma Heckler, Luther, as the most consistent attendee at these annual reunions. Both claimed never to have missed a reunion.

Attendance was smaller at the reunion this year than in other years, according to Jess Slaughter, president of the association. Mrs. Herman (Dorothy) Taylor, secretary, said about 500 persons actually registered and perhaps 1,000 took part in the big barbecue dinner which was the highlight of the day.

"We may have had more than 1,000," said Slaughter. "All of the meat was eaten and all of the other items on the menu with the exception of some beans. We donated these to the Salvation army."

How well the reunion fared financially will not be known until the bills have been received and paid.

Slaughter expressed thanks to the many persons who helped in arranging and staging the celebration.

"Without help, we could not have done the job," he said.

Slaughter was re-elected as president. Mrs. Taylor was returned to her post as secretary - treasurer and Cecil Lantz was re-elected as vice president.

The Rev. Elra Phillips delivered the principal address of the day.

Tom Castle, Knott, won first honors in the old fiddlers competition. Lee McCormick of Big Spring, was second and Mrs. Lewis McKee, Big Spring, won third place.

The reunion closed with a big dance at Skateland. The Four Majors and a Minor, a local combo which had played for the picnic also played for the dance.

Selection Tour For Hereford Sale Is Stated

Jimmy Taylor, secretary, Howard County-South Plains Hereford Association, has announced the 1968 selection tour for Aug. 1. Animals to be sold next December will be chosen on this tour.

The tour will leave Big Spring at 7 a.m. and make its first stop at the Charles Creighton ranch on the west edge of the city. Twelve of the Hereford ranches of the area will be visited during the day. The tour will terminate after its visit to the Pied Piper Farms at Hamlin at 6 p.m.

Other herds in the order they will be visited are Patterson Bros., Hall Ranch, Ronnie Hirt, W&M Cattle Co., George W. Knox, Buchanan, Herefords, James Coates, Bobby Cathey, Leland Wallace, Jack Buchanan, and Pied Piper Farms.

The group will be back in Big Spring at noon for lunch. This will follow the visit to the Knox herd.

Lee Reed is to make the selections for the December sale.

Big Vacuum Or Mini-Sized Street Sweeper?

When the Big Spring Post Office moves into its new home one of the many tasks awaiting Edd Staub, maintenance engineer, left, will be to keep the 52,000 square foot parking area neatly swept. Actually, it will be the job of Clinton Muse, right, to do the work with Staub overseeing things. To cope with the supersized sweeping problem on the parking area, the post office is to have this special sweeper.

Washington Newspaper Strike Ends

WASHINGTON (AP)—A two-day stereotyper strike at Washington's three daily newspapers was settled Saturday.

Stereotypers ratified an agreement providing for $36 a week pay increases over three years and $9 a week increases in fringe benefits.

The morning Washington Post already had missed its third day of publication when the settlement was reached, although a preprinted center section was distributed to subscribers by carrier Thursday.

The Evening Star said no attempt would be made to publish a Saturday afternoon edition, although stereotypers returned to their jobs at once along with other employees after the ratification vote at 7 a.m. meeting. The paper planned a resume publication with its Sunday morning edition.

The Washington Daily News planned to publish a Saturday afternoon edition, after only two days absence from the news stands.

The stereotypers struck Wednesday in a dispute over wages and fringe benefits for a new contract.

Major out of town newspapers had sold out in hours since, radio and television stations increased their news broadcast schedules and the Washington Examiner, a weekly offset, published its first Friday edition.

The Washington Newspaper Publishers Association said shortly after the strike began it had offered the union a $2 a week raise over three years, for a top pay of $187 a week, plus fringe benefits.

The association said the union asked $40 a week and bigger fringe benefits.

Call Girl Stamps

HANNOVER (AP) — West German postal officials are looking for the unknown printer who they say produced a commemorative stamp showing a notorious call girl in a "shocking" position. They said stamps of Rosemarie Nitribitt, whose slaying 10 years ago was highly publicized and never solved, had been found on envelopes addressed to apparently fictitious persons.

Halvard Hansen Named Legion Post Commander

Highlighted by the recall of two past commanders to active offices, a well attended American Legion meeting of Howard County Post 555 Thursday night elected Dr. Halvard T. Hansen to serve as commander for the coming year.

Other officers elected were: first vice commander, past commander Neel Barnaby, U.S.N. (ret.); second vice commander, Chester Cathey, sergeant at arms, Neves Galvan; chaplain, Clarence Daves; finance officer, Roscoe Cone; service officer, Culin Grigsby; historian, past commander Frank Hardesty.

TRUSTEES

Elected as trustees for a two year term were: Cecil Walker and Karl Knappe. Holdover trustees are Jack Pearson and George Zachariah.

Retiring commander Foster Kemp and his wife, Ann, outgoing auxiliary president, were voted a resolution of commendation for their services. A brief memorial service was held honoring past commander H. J. (Sunbeam) Morrison.

RESPECT

In his acceptance speech Commander Hansen, previously active in the Legion's Americanism programs, commented on his background as the son of Norwegian immigrants who wanted their two children to be Americans and reared them to look upon this country as something special.

"If you don't respect your country," he said, "you don't respect yourself." He pointed out the basic essence of Americanism, expressed by what we love and what we respect, is revealed by what we join.

An American Legion Post and all that it represents, he explained, is as important in its way as our government or our religion and must be kept active. The responsibility, Hansen said, is not one that can be bucked to the Post commander or its officers.

PLEDGES

When requested, each member present participated in a standing pledge to sell the American Legion in membership and principles as well as ideals, and to solicit others to do likewise. Veterans of the Korean and Vietnam conflicts are especially invited to attend the regular Thursday weekly meetings at 8 p.m. in the Legion Hall on the San Angelo highway. Announcement was made of the coming annual department of Texas convention in Houston, Sept. 9-11, at the Rice Hotel.

Rio Pilot Killed

WESLACO, Tex. (AP)—Royce Norman of La Feria, a veteran pilot in the Rio Grande Valley, died Friday when his propeller-driven plane hit a power line and crashed in a cotton field 11 miles north of here.

Norman was thrown from the plane and was severely burned.

'CAN'T STOP A WAR Biafra Still Denied Food

LAGOS (AP) — Failure of the Biafran and Nigerian delegates war the first item of business on the Addis Ababa agenda. Ayida saw this as "one of the most encouraging signs."

The Nigerians have offered to permit Red Cross supplies to pass into Biafran territory through a corridor to Awgu, 33 miles from the Nigerian-occupied Biafran capital of Enugu. But the Biafrans would not agree to this unless it was accompanied by a massive airlift.

"No group can stop a war because people are dying," said Alison A. Ayida. "It's never been done in a war before and it won't be done in Nigeria unless you can settle the cause of the war. That's what war is all about."

He added: "In terms of the seriousness of the relief situation, we are just as upset as anybody else."

Hundreds have been reported dying daily in the landlocked sector of Eastern Nigeria, blockaded by Nigerian federal troops. A few Red Cross airlifts have made risky night flights to the starvation-plagued secessionist state, but these have been halted because Nigerian air force MIGs have orders to shoot down all unauthorized aircraft.

The Nigerians have offered to permit Red Cross supplies to pass into Biafran territory through a corridor to Awgu, 33 miles from the Nigerian-occupied Biafran capital of Enugu. But the Biafrans would not agree to this unless it was accompanied by a massive airlift.

"No group can stop a war because people are dying," said Alison A. Ayida. "It's never been done in a war before and it won't be done in Nigeria unless you can settle the cause of the war. That's what war is all about."

He added: "In terms of the seriousness of the relief situation, we are just as upset as anybody else."

Hundreds have been reported dying daily in the landlocked sector of Eastern Nigeria, blockaded by Nigerian federal troops. Most Negroes Feel Riots Beneficial

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Riots are justified by most Negroes but they are not recommended..."

This was one of the statements in three surveys released Saturday by the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders.

The surveys were made by independent groups and published without comment by the commission. Two explored Negro and white attitudes in 15 American cities. The third set out a profile of participants in the 1967 disorders.

PROTESTS

Among their statements: —The Negro mass is far less revolutionary in its outlook than its more militant spokesmen... The great majority do not propose to withdraw from America; they want equal status in it.

—About 8 per cent of the Negro residents in the 1967 riot areas, on the average, participated in the disorders. Of the rioters, 1 per cent were from out of state, 4 per cent from outside the city and 95 per cent from the city.

—Roughly a third of the white population in the 15 cities viewed riots as protests against real grievances; one-third emphasized what they called their criminal or conspiratorial character, and the rest viewed them in combinations of those two points.

The commission, headed by then Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, was appointed by President Johnson to study the riots which hit American cities last year. In a report last March, the commission said the nation was moving toward two separate but unequal societies, one black, one white.

The commission, appointed for a year, goes out of existence next Monday.

NIX VIOLENCE
The surveys made earlier this year included cities that had riots in 1967 and some that had none. They were Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Gary, Milwaukee, Newark, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, St. Louis and Washington, D.C.

Based on the sampling method, surveying more than 5,000 Negroes and whites in the 15 cities, one report said that 88 per cent of the Negroes regarded the riots as mainly a protest and another 28 per cent characterized them as partly a protest. Ten per cent saw the riots as mainly a matter of looting and similar offenses.

The survey of riot participants said while most Negroes disapprove of the violence, they nevertheless "feel that the riots have beneficial consequences by increasing white society's concern to improve the Negro's condition."

Fists Fly At Wallace Rally

Two demonstrators, one a woman, were beaten Saturday by members of the audience at a rally for third party candidate George Wallace. The two were among 25 anti-Wallace pickets who carried placards before Wallace arrived to speak to 8,500 persons.

Wallace Predicts Help From Women

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—States-rights candidate George C. Wallace, discounting the effect of a Kennedy on or off the Democratic ticket, said Saturday the only way to change liberal trends was to support his third party bid for the presidency.

"Liberals and left wingers try to write us off," Wallace told a rally that drew about 5,000 persons in sweltering, 92-degree heat at Lakeland. Wallace predicted victory for his American Independent party in November.

"The trend of the national Republican party and the national Democratic party is leading us straight to socialism and statism in this country. And I promise that we are going to return back to the people their government," Wallace said.

Wallace spoke in Lakeland before taking his campaign to Miami. Wallace said any voter wanting to change the trend should vote for him rather than listen to Republicans arguing that his candidacy would defeat the GOP ticket.

A section of the Panhandle's upper reaches was under tornado watch for about three hours 9 p.m., but no damaging violence developed.

For the great expanse of Texas, it was about a normal July day—hot and humid and fair to partly cloudy. Maximum temperatures ranged from 100 at Wichita Falls to 84 at Alpine.

Corpus Christi's public grain elevator was left in wreckage after a bolt of lightning struck the building during a heavy downpour that fell from rolling, black clouds.

Washington (AP)—The Civil Service Commission announced the following applicants for the position of postmaster at Jacksonville, Tex.: Wilburn J. Dennis, James D. Fowler, Herman L. Glass, Leroy G. Malloch, Charles F. Randle and Jim D. Woolverton.

Elizabeth Claire Robertson, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffie Dan Robertson, died Saturday in a Big Spring hospital following a long illness.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Monday in the Buford Baptist Church with pastor Rev. P. A. Mitcham, officiating, assisted by Rev. Jim Law, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church. Interment will be in Colorado City Cemetery under the direction of Kiker and Son Funeral Home.

She was born Nov. 21, 1957, in Port Acres but had lived in Colorado City since 1959. She was a member of the Buford Baptist Church.

Including her parents, she is survived by two sisters, Katherine Robertson and Nancy Robertson, both of the home; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Leavitt, Wakefield, Mass.

Tragedy and near tragedy visited our area. Robert Lee Killough, 15, who was wading in a stock tank just south of Gail, slipped into a hole and was drowned Wednesday. Near the entrance of Webb AFB here, John Cobb, 18, working with an electric drill, received an electric shock that left him unconscious and not breathing.

His brother, Russ Cobb, gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and happily revived John.

Big Springers could take pride in honors that came to two who formerly contributed much to the local community life. One was Dr. Alsie Carleton, First Methodist pastor here from 1948-53, who was named a bishop of the United Methodist Church. This fulfilled predictions of many local people.

Humphrey Go Home' Spices Peace Speech

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hubert H. Humphrey brought his campaign to Los Angeles Saturday, preaching a message of "peace and progress and reconciliation." But he ran into hecklers and demonstrators who chanted, "Humphrey Go Home."

From an airport welcome, Humphrey's motorcade traveled directly to a new market area in a Spanish-American neighborhood—El Mercado—where about 100 demonstrators waved signs and chanted "Humphrey Go Home" and "Humphrey Don't Come Back."

Heavy security surrounded the vice president. A helicopter circled overhead. Policemen with binoculars and automatic weapons were stationed on rooftops.

Police kept the demonstrators across the street while Humphrey visited the market, opened recently with the help of a Small Business Administration loan.

At times a mariachi band, playing for the Humphrey visit, almost drowned out demonstrators across the street, who carried a variety of signs. Some simply read, "Peace." Others were in Spanish and said, "Mexicans Will Not Be Sold To Humphrey."

Violent weather hit a $2 million blow in Corpus Christi early Saturday, erupted down for a time and then settled in the northern stretches of the Texas Panhandle.

Rainshowers fell in East Central Texas, along the Gulf Coast from the vicinity of Palacios inland 120 miles and then eastward to Lake Charles, La., in the northern Panhandle.

Humphrey arrived from Salt Lake City, where he had suggested that a compromise Vietnam resolution worked out by McCarthy and Humphrey for in the Utah Democratic convention could be a model to avoid a platform fight at the national convention.

Humphrey addressing the Utah Convention, said he doesn't want the party to emerge from the national convention "limp and broken apart," but rather united for victory in the fall.

And he praised the "balance" that had been worked out in a foreign policy resolution in the state convention in Salt Lake City. It involved both his own forces and those of his opponent for the presidential nomination, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

This resolution supports President Johnson's efforts toward reaching a peace in Vietnam while including a provision calling for "a redirection of American foreign policy."

Humphrey took a jab at Republicans and said "the politics that count for the immediate future are the election results in November."

Oil Imports Gain Posted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Licensed imports of crude oil and oil products, excluding those from Canada and Mexico, averaged 2,056,473 barrels daily in May, the Interior Department announced Sunday.

This compared with a daily average of 1,921,110 barrels in April and 2,001,513 barrels in May 1967.

Exempt imports from Canada averaged 431,251 barrels in May compared with 447,914 barrels in April and 425,553 barrels in May 1967. Similar imports from Mexico were 29,999 barrels daily in May, compared with 30,000 barrels in April and 30,652 barrels in May 1967.

Yarborough Forgets Foes

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., put aside some old political differences Saturday at "Sen. Ralph Yarborough Day" at the San Antonio world's fair.

The Texas Democrat spoke to a crowd of some 300 at the courtyard of the United States Pavilion in a morning ceremony.

"I'm not egotistical enough to think that I alone am deserving of this great honor," he said. "The Senate, my legislative aides and many, many others are responsible for the realization of HemisFair."

He said San Antonio Congressman Henry B. Gonzalez, a Democrat, and Republican Sen. John Tower also helped make possible HemisFair.

Yarborough said Gonzalez made "tremendous efforts" to get HemisFair under way. He said he and Tower swung the $42.5 million appropriation for federal participation in the fair. Ed Clark, former Ambassador to Australia and present commissioner general of the United States Pavilion, presided at a breakfast gathering and praised Yarborough. Yarborough reciprocated, calling Clark one of the greatest ambassadors in the history of America.

The Yarborough group visited the U.S. Pavilion, the Tower of the Americas, the Institute of Texan Cultures, and all the foreign pavilions at the 92.6 acre world's fair.

More American Planes Lost Over Red Vietnam

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Navy warplanes, flying from three carriers off the coast of North Vietnam, sank or damaged 232 enemy supply boats Saturday in what a U.S. spokesman described Sunday as the "largest bag of boats for the war."

The nearly 200 Navy aircraft "pursued the enemy boats and barges on rivers, canals and coastal waterways through the southern panhandle of North Vietnam" sinking 132 boats and damaging another 100, the spokesman said.

Ranging from the carriers Intrepid, Bon Homme Richard and a third unnamed ship, the U.S. planes caught the supply boats in a wide area stretching from 14th parallel, the North, to Cape Mui Ron, 75 miles to the south.

The spokesman said bomb damage to roads and bridges in the southern panhandle below the 19th parallel had forced the enemy to depend increasingly on boats to move its supplies southward. The heavy attack was in response to this change in strategy.

The raid followed announcement Saturday that two more American planes have been downed in the air war over North Vietnam, raising to 872 the total of U.S. aircraft lost on combat missions there.

THREE MISSING
In a delayed report, U.S. spokesmen said a Navy F4 Phantom and a Marine A6 Intruder were downed by enemy ground fire in North Vietnam's panhandle Thursday. Three of the four crew members are listed as missing, and a fourth was rescued after surviving 20 hours in enemy territory.

Maj. Curtis Lawson, 37, of Sharon, Pa., the intruder pilot, parachuted into a North Vietnamese anti-aircraft battery. He hid in a river and directed air strikes against the enemy guns until they were silenced and a rescue helicopter was able to reach him.

U.S. B52 bombers flew seven missions Friday and Saturday, hitting enemy supply routes and troop concentrations near the Cambodian border north of Saigon and the northernmost 1st Corps area.

TERRORIST ATTACKS
In Thailand, American officials were expecting more terrorist attacks on the seven U.S. bases there following Friday's raid by Red guerrillas on the Udorn air base.

A Thai guard was killed, four Americans were wounded and two aircraft were wrecked in the hour-long battle.

U.S. intelligence officers expect future attacks to be low-level, harassment raids posing no genuine military threat. However, airmen have been issued full combat gear and M16 rifles, and base security forces have been placed on full alert.

Military spokesmen believe the Thai guerrillas are getting their orders from Hanoi.

NO NEWS
There was no news of the three American fliers released to an American peace committee in Hanoi more than a week ago. Twice they had been expected to leave North Vietnam on the regular Friday International Control Commission flights, but they did not arrive in Vientiane, Laos, either time.

The American military command said Saturday it would release several North Vietnamese prisoners when the three fliers return to the United States.

Last March the U.S. Command released three captured seamen following the release in February of three American pilots. The seamen were among 19 captured by U.S. ships in the Tonkin Gulf in July, 1966, and presumably three more seamen will be set free in response to the latest prisoner release.

Skyjack Victims Arrive In Geneva

GENEVA (AP)—Ten Israeli women and children arrived here Saturday in excellent health and good spirits after being held in Algiers since Tuesday's hijacking of an Israeli El Al jetliner.

They said Algerian officials gave them assurances that the 12 male passengers and crew still in Algiers will be released "within seven days."

NO COMPLAINTS
El Al Geneva manager Freddy Weiss said the seven women and three children will return to Tel Aviv Sunday.

Stewardess Nirva Avniel said: "We were wonderfully treated. We couldn't have asked for better. We were promised by the Algerians that the men will be freed very soon. They said within seven days."

Twenty-three passengers, non-Israelis and Israelis who managed to conceal their nationality, were released immediately after the hijacking, carried out by three members of an Arab terrorist organization.

Informal sources in Algiers said the office of President Houari Boumediene had paid Swiss air fares of the 10 persons released Saturday. The government had not done the same for the passengers released Tuesday.

Two officials of the International Pilots Association, which has threatened to have its members refuse flights to Algeria if the rest of the El Al crew were not released, were unable to arrange a meeting with government officials Saturday.

The 44th annual Old Settlers Reunion drew a somewhat smaller crowd Friday, but then there are less and less old timers around each year. The attraction of time has gradually made the term "settlers" a misnomer.

A young man who forced his way into the Deck Coleman Country Store at Vincent stirred up a hornet's nest. He might have held up the place successfully, but he made the mistake of whacking Mrs. Coleman over the head with a blunt object. She screamed, and after a moment to reassure himself she was all right, Coleman took out after the fleeing assailant, captured him and called the officers.

U.S. Combat Deaths Down

The weekly U.S. combat death tolls have been dropping rapidly in Vietnam in the last two months. From a peak of 562 deaths during the first week in May, the figures have declined until there were only 157 deaths reported for last week.

Pam Hamill Signs Log Last Time

After more than 17 years of broadcasting over the airwaves in Big Spring, Pamela (Pam) Hamill signed off Friday for the last time as dispatcher for the Big Spring police department.

But nobody except a few knew when she sent her last message. Pam is being replaced by M. A. Webb, member of the Big Spring Police Reserve and former newspaper man.

She started her work as a radio operator for the police department by accident in 1951. In the intervening years she has seen the local force grow through five different police chiefs and a new building until the squad is twice the size as when she started.

MRS. PAM HAMILL

GRAVEYARD SHIFT

"Pete Green, who was police chief then, asked me to take the job," she remembers. "I said I couldn't do it, but he told me to try anyway. A week later I started working the midnight to 8 a.m. shift."

Mrs. Hamill stayed on the "graveyard" shift for seven years and finally got on the 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. crew.

The police dispatcher's main duty is to take reports and complaints over the telephone or radio and then transmit them by radio to patrolmen in cars throughout the city. All communications are logged by the dispatcher on what is called an activity sheet.

The "log" may show conversations on any number of subjects ranging from accidents, breakins, family disputes, lost horses, to ambulance escorts and stray dogs.

ODD CALLS

Dispatchers are also thought to be a good source of information, Mrs. Hamill says. She remembers several calls from citizens asking "if it's raining in Chicago" or "how are the roads in Indiana."

When Pam joined the force the police station was upstairs in the city hall, and there were about 30 people on the force. Today the department has a building of its own with a force of 52.

During those early days, besides being dispatcher, Mrs. Hamill had to handle offense and traffic reports and book offenders into jail. Now those duties are divided among others in the department.

Her biggest thrill came just after she had gone to work when she helped capture a thief. While taking a coffee break one night she noticed a suspicious man in the downtown area and called back to the station. Police discovered after the man was picked up that he was wanted for car theft and burglary.

PULLED GUN

Pam also remembers that night activity was heavy when migrant workers hit the area during cotton picking season. "Many nights there would be 25 or more persons I had to book for being drunk or disturbing the peace," she said.

One time a man tried to pull a gun while she was booking him, but an alert officer took the gun away before it could be used.

This week business will go on as usual at the police station. Jean Roman will come on as dispatcher from 2 to 10 p.m. and Bob Settles will follow from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. However, there'll be a change during the day, and a new voice will be heard from 6 to 2.

Vincent Robbery Suspect Remains In County Jail

Roger Dale Smith, 24, Odessa, arrested near the Coleman Country store at Vincent on Thursday night and charged with attempted robbery by assault, continues in the Howard County jail.

He has not been able, Sheriff A. N. Standard said, to post a $3,500 bond which Justice Walter Grice set in his case.

Smith is accused of slugging Mrs. Deck Coleman in what officers said was a plan to hold up the Coleman store. Her husband ran the fugitive down and brought him back to the store at gunpoint.

He held Smith captive until officers arrived.

Stolen Auto Is Quickly Found

A 1966 model car stolen from the Bob Brock Ford lot didn't stay stolen very long.

City police found it parked in a service station at Third and Birdwell soon after Brock had reported the theft. He gave police a description of the individual believed to have taken the car.

One man was arrested and will be charged with car theft, the city police station report said. The car has been returned to its owners.

Rickover Wins Quiet Sub Bout

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate committee has sided with Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover in his battle with the Pentagon to build a new, super-quiet submarine.

The Joint Committee on Atomic Energy said Saturday no valid reason has been offered for a Pentagon halt in spending for the sub two months ago and urged that all barriers to its construction be removed.

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford announced July 1 that the Pentagon would proceed with plans to build a new, high-speed submarine. But he said the quiet sub still is under study.

Clifford rebuked Rickover, without naming him, for criticizing top civilian officials in the Pentagon in his testimony before congressional committees.

The atomic energy committee comments accompanied release of a censored transcript of testimony at a closed session June 21 in which Rickover lashed out again at repeated Pentagon studies and said, "The Department of Defense has become a huge thicket which stops decisions."

The House-Senate panel asserted, "Our Department of Defense has grossly underestimated the rate at which the Soviets are improving their nuclear submarines." It called for immediate development of the quiet sub as well as the high-speed super sub.

Rickover's quiet sub would be powered by electric turbine engines. After four years of work, the Pentagon stopped spending on it May 23.

Thousands Killed In Sudan Battles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Much is said and written about the bloody civil war that splits Nigeria. But almost nothing is heard or even known about a struggle that has killed tens—perhaps hundreds—of thousands and divided Africa's largest country, the Sudan.

African experts of the U.S. administration cannot explain why there has been almost no interest in the Sudanese situation which, if no solution is found, may end with the secession of the southern part of the largest African country.

SPECIAL POISON

The war in the Sudan is much older than the one in Nigeria though the experts do not agree on when it really started. Some say it goes back to 1956 when the Sudan became independent. Others maintain that the anyanya rebellion broke out really in 1963.

There is the same divergence of views on the number of victims with figures ranging from 500,000 to a million of the Sudan's population of only 13 million.

Anyanya means a special poison derived from the head of the cobra.

The civil war, as in Nigeria, splits the Sudan along racial-tribal-religious lines: It is the war of the nine million Arabic speaking Moslem majority in the north against four million Negroes, mostly pagans, some of them Christians, in the south.

The Moslem Arabs want their country to become an Islamic state, with all power concentrated in Khartoum. The Negro minority wants a nonsectarian state with some autonomy for the south. Efforts at reconciliation have failed.

RUMORS FLY

The government of Premier Mohammed Ahmed Mahjoub broke diplomatic relations with the United States in June, 1967, when the Egyptians spread the rumor that America helped Israel militarily in the six-day war.

But even before 1967 when the United States had a full fledged embassy in Khartoum, there were only scant reports on the civil war in the south. The Moslem government did its best to discourage and even to prevent excursions to the areas of Negro population by foreigners whether they were diplomats or newsmen.

Fired FBI Clerk Wins First Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — An FBI clerk who was fired because a young woman stayed overnight in his apartment has won the right for a jury to decide whether his conduct was unbecoming an FBI employee.

In making this ruling Friday, the U.S. Appeals Court for the District of Columbia reversed a 1966 district court decision which upheld the government's action.

Thomas Henry Carter, 28, was dismissed by the FBI in 1965 after being accused in an anonymous letter of "sleeping with young girls and carrying on" in his suburban bachelor apartment.

The clerk denied that there was anything improper in the relationship. He admitted sleeping with the young woman but denied that they had sexual relations.

The appellate court, in a 2-1 decision, said Carter was entitled to a jury trial to determine whether the FBI had sufficient cause to fire him.

Bobby Makes Good Progress

Bobby Glenn Lepard, 10-year-old kidney transplant recipient is apparently making satisfactory recovery from his surgery and Glenn Lepard, Sand Springs, his father, plans to come back to Big Spring today.

The boy is in the Children's Center in Denver, Colo. He was given a kidney from a young traffic victim last July 20 in an effort to stay a rare and nearly always fatal kidney ailment.

Last Wednesday night, relatives here heard that Bobby had been able to sit up in his hospital room and that he was eating. Doctors said his condition appears to be good.

Lepard and Bobby's two younger sisters are driving from Colorado.

Lepard works for Cosden. Mrs. Lepard is remaining with her son. She is employed at Webb AFB.

Young Woman, Berger Native Nabbed In N.C.

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A young woman, a native to North Carolina, and her companion were held in jail Saturday on fugitive warrants from California.

Held in lieu of $10,000 bonds were Wilma Lee Dills Brown, 19, a native of neighboring Haywood County, and Jack Stanley Amason, 38, of Bakersfield, Calif.

They were arraigned Friday before a U.S. commissioner on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in Bakersfield, where they are wanted for an armed robbery. The woman is accused of holding a knife to the victim's throat during the robbery.

Haywood County authorities, alerted to watch for the young woman, arrested her and Amason near the home of her relatives Thursday night.

Sheriff Jack Arrington said she "attempted to fire a fully loaded luger automatic at the arresting officer, but the gun misfired."

Arrington said Amason had completed a 10½ year term in Oregon in February for armed robbery and assault on a policeman. Amason is a native of Berger, Tex., but was reared in Bakersfield.

Stanton Gets Movie Fever As Film Makers Move In

By SAM BLACKBURN

STANTON — Stanton is to have a part in a big movie featuring no less a personality than the exciting Dustin Hoffman. All of the younger set is agog and some of the older folk are bubbling with excitement. A few cynics are still muttering in their beards that it's all a lot of talk and that nothing will come of it.

Friday, however, Film Ways Studio, New York City, took possession of the old Judge J. S. Lamar residence, a Stanton landmark, which it leased several weeks ago for three months. Mrs. Lorain Petsick of Hico, owner of the house, signed the lease which was arranged by Mrs. Euel Ferguson.

Personable young Fred Caruso, unit manager, checked out the Lamar house, and set up headquarters in the Ramada Inn at Big Spring. There he was joined by eight members of his staff.

CAST COMING SOON

"We'll have about 50 here by Aug. 3," said Caruso. "My group will begin work on the house and will redo it to fit the needs of our story. The cast and the others will come in early in August. We will be here probably all through the month."

The picture is titled "Midnight Cowboy," and is to be released through United Artists. In addition to Hoffman, who made such a hit in "The Graduate," another young star in the cast is to be Jon Voight.

Caruso said that the director is J. Schlesinger who is credited with the discovery of star Julie Christie and was the director of the highly successful film "Darling."

"We will use the house we have leased from Mrs. Petsick for a sequence in our picture.

OLD STANTON RESIDENCE TO BE SCENE IN BIG MOVIE

Lamar House leased for scenes for new picture "Midnight Cowboy"

We will also shoot some shots in the Friday Foot Shop," Caruso said.

The bootshop, now unoperated, is owned by Truman Friday, and it is understood he is to have a minor part in the picture.

Caruso said that it is possible other area shots may be filmed. John R. Lloyd, art director for the company, has also arrived and is supervising the preparation of the old residence for its new role.

"LATE WESTERN" Friday, arrangements were being made to run high voltage lines to the house, and Mrs. Ferguson was acting as negotiator for the group and the Stanton utilities.

The picture, is a "late western" as might be determined by the title. It is being filmed in several parts of the country and some shots have already been made in other parts of the nation.

Morris Feingold with Film Ways was in Martin County at the time the lease was signed. He was accompanied by Jon

Voight, one of the stars and by others of the Film Ways staff assigned to "The Midnight Cowboy."

"They were the most friendly people," said Mrs. Ferguson, "and they told me one of the reasons they had picked Stanton was because of the friendly people we have here."

In the meantime, half a dozen of the unit workmen Saturday had moved into a vacant building at 203 1/2 E. 3rd St. in Big Spring and were transforming the exterior into "Sally's Beauty Parlor." Inside, the workmen were busy with power tools making the essential furnishings to add realism to the "beauty shop."

Mary Allen, owner of the Allen building, in which the "beauty parlor" is to be located, leased the building the company for August. Caruso had said some scenes would probably be shot here and the Allen building location is to be one of these.

At the Ramada Inn in Big Spring, the company was much in evidence.

A clerk at the desk of the Big Spring motel commented: "My — these folk do a lot of telephoning. We have had to handle more calls since they moved in than we would handle in two ordinary days."

Director Schlesinger and the stars, with the supporting cast to work in the local filming, will arrive when all the preliminary work has been completed.

BUSY GROUP

The company has reserved rooms at the Big Spring motel for its entire group.

Meantime, the old Judge Lamar home is in for an experience. "The told us not to cut the weeds or do anything to the grounds when the lease was signed," said Mrs. Ferguson. "They wanted it just like it was."

Others here in addition to Lloyd and Caruso are Phil Smith, Ed Garzeno, Dick Hughes, Ed Swanson, John Michalak, Ed Larking, Frank Iannaccone, and Al Brenzel.

Uncommitted Role Gets Wrinkle Plenty Of Mail

If you fancy a large volume of mail — and not a little of it from political celebrities — then be an uncommitted delegate.

Govt. Study Group Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approved today creation of a new Hoover-type commission to study ways to streamline and modernize the federal government.

By voice vote, it passed and sent to the House a bill creating an eight-member, bipartisan commission to undertake a comprehensive study of the entire executive branch.

The last major study of the executive branch was by a commission headed by the late President Herbert Hoover in 1955.

Some 61 senators, led by Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., sponsored the measure.

The commission, equally divided between Democrats and Republicans, would be composed of four presidential appointees and two appointees each from the Senate and House.

Its duties would include recommendations concerning the elimination and consolidation of federal programs and the establishment of priorities among federal programs.

Ribicoff noted that eight Cabinet departments and 12 agencies are now involved in health, 18 separate agencies are conducting programs to improve the natural environment and 10 Cabinet departments and more than 15 other agencies are involved in education.

At least, Winston Wrinkle has found this to be the case as one of the 56 Texas delegates to the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach, Fla. Aug. 5-8.

Each day brings a batch of mail, including personal letters from Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Richard Nixon, representatives of Gov. Ronald Reagan, and even Harold Stassen.

Wrinkle, one of the 11 uncommitted, says he has not closed his mind to the candidates for the GOP nomination. If he has a leaning it likely is in the direction of Nixon, although he thinks all positions should be considered as a means of maintaining GOP solidarity.

With his wife, Betty, and two of their children, Susa 13, and David 11, he plans to leave early Aug. 4 for Miami. Mrs. Wrinkle will take part in women's activities at the convention. He hopes to be on hand for the first caucus of the Texas delegation at 4 p.m. Aug. 4, led by Peter O'Donnell Jr., Dallas, chairman, and Sen. John Tower, honorary chairman. Besides the 56 delegates and a like number of alternates, some 300 other Texans are due to attend as convention functionaries and guests.

In 1966 Wrinkle was Republican candidate for precinct 2 Commissioner and lost by 16 votes in the election he contested. He has served on the State GOP task force committee on job opportunities. He also has been active in civic affairs, having headed the Junior Chamber of Commerce and been named outstanding young man in 1963. Currently he is on the YMCA board and the Salvation Army advisory board. He is owner-manager of radio station KBST.

SURPRISE APPROPRIATION LBJ Park Given Money, Has No Spending Plans

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — A $1 million surprise appropriation for Lyndon B. Johnson State Park has Texas officials scratching their heads over how to spend it.

They can count on $500,000 of the appropriation—the legislature voted that much July 2 in hopes that another half million in federal matching money would be forthcoming.

The state Parks and Wildlife Department didn't ask for the money and has no plans for its expenditure, said Mark Gosdin, director of state parks. The money was added to the general appropriations bill by a House-Senate conference committee and came as a surprise, Gosdin said, to parks officials.

VISITORS' CENTER A rustic-modern limestone, glass and cedar visitors' center, costing $116,000, is beginning to rise from the sandy soil of the park. It is several hundred yards across the Pedernales River and Ranch Road 1 from President Johnson's ranch house, but through the trees you can just make out the windows of his den.

The visitors' center is the first major construction at the 269-acre park.

Most of the park is given over to a wild animal compound surrounded by a high wire fence. Longhorn cattle, bison and deer are penned up inside.

Picnic areas are in various stages of construction, and an all-weather road loops through a small part of the park just off US 290.

Mystery Solved

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Experts say they have discovered why so many murals in ancient Mexican convents and cathedrals have been found under layers of a sulfur-lime mixture covered by coat upon coat of paint. They said the sulfur and lime was applied long ago by government decree to seal in germs during plagues, and later generations forgot what was beneath and painted the walls.

building commission are beginning to search for Indian and pioneer artifacts.

A couple of old farm houses are earmarked for preservation as examples of the area's architecture.

But it's the visitors' center that shows the state really means business.

To the north, where it overlooks the LBJ Ranch, and south the building will be mostly glass and board and batten.

At the west end will be a huge cut limestone fireplace with a flagstone hearth.

The building will be about 115 feet long and about 60 feet wide.

It is on the site of the home once owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sweeney, who fought condemnation of their 70-acre homestead and peach farm for the park. They now live about two miles west of the park.

The Sweeneys' clapboard home was built around a core consisting of a 90-year-old log cabin. Actually it is two one-room cabins connected by an open air dog trot. One cabin is 16 by 14 feet. The other is 12 by 14.

The cabins are being restored and will connect with the east end of the visitors' center by means of a 12 by 12 covered breezeway floored with D'hanis tile. They will be furnished in the pioneer furniture style of the 1870s. A nearby tin-roofed storm cellar is being rebuilt as a pretty little "spring house."

Inside the center will be two large display areas, restrooms, a vending machine area, information office and administrative headquarters for the park.

Gosdin said plans for the display areas are incomplete but probably will include an audiovisual display—slides or movies. There also will be nature trails through the park, he said.

Van Brocklin To Call All Plays For Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — With head Coach Norm Van Brocklin planning to call all plays from the bench, the nation's top college players march against the National Football League champion Green Bay Packers in Soldier Field Friday night.

As in the past, the squad of 50 campus heroes—all of them now with pro contracts—will be decided underdogs in the 35th annual All-Star classic sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities Inc.

Beban, who has signed with the Washington Redskins, will share quarterback duties with Greg Landry of Massachusetts, property of the Detroit Lions.

Van Brocklin's decision to call the plays takes a mental load off his field generals. He is the first head coach of the All-Stars to undertake this guidance completely.

"We've got the physical stuff to do the job," he says. "The rest has to be all mental attitude."

Split end Earl McCullough of Southern California has been especially appealing in workouts. Others include ends Bob Wallace, Texas-El Paso; Fred Hyatt, Auburn; Jim Cox, Miami, Florida; Mike Hull, USC, and Dave Szymakowski, West Texas; flanker Dennis Homan of Alabama and halfback Oscar Deed of Colorado State.

"We would like to hope that we can find, or make, situations where we can go for inches on the fourth down without giving up the ball," says Van Brocklin.

He has the type of crunching runners to do this job, like Larry Csonka of Syracuse, Jim Klink of Wyoming and Lee White of Weber State. And there is a breakout threat in little Max Anderson of Arizona State.

There is plenty of bulk on the defense, ranging up to 285-pound Russ Washington of Missouri. And there is good range in the defensive backs, especially with Jon Henderson of Colorado State and Jim Smith of Oregon.

"The fans can expect a wide-open show because you can bet we will pass frequently," says Van Brocklin.

YANKS WIN, 6-3 Tom Tresh Hits Grand Slammer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Tom Tresh hit a grand slam homer in the first inning Saturday, powering the New York Yankees to a 6-3 victory over Cleveland that ran the Indians' losing streak to four games.

Tresh, a switch hitter batting left-handed against Sonny Siebert, drove his ninth homer of the season into the right field seats following two walks around a single by Mickey Mantle.

An error by second baseman Dave Nelson in the fourth led to two more New York runs after Siebert had retired the first two batters. Horace Clarke reached first when Nelson bobbled his grounder and Roy White drew a walk.

Mantle's third single scored Clarke and White tallied on Joe Pepitone's single.

The victory went to southpaw Steve Barber, 5-3, who gave up seven hits before giving way to reliever Lindy McDaniel in the eighth.

The Indians, shut out in their previous two starts, got their first run in 22 innings when Chicago Salmons drilled a two-out homer over the center field fence in the fourth.

They scored again in the fifth on a walk, a wild pitch and Jose Cardenal's double.

McDaniel replaced Barber after Salmons' leadoff double in the eighth and was clipped for a run-scoring single by Vern Fuller.

Bolin Saves Giant Bacon

HOUSTON (AP) — A wild pitch third strike and an error set up two runs that brought San Francisco from behind to a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday night.

Bob Bolin, who blanked the Astros on three hits in 7 2-3 innings of relief, reached first base in the fifth inning on the wild pitch by loser John Buzhardt, 3-5. An error by Denis Menke on Ron Hunt's ground ball put runners at second and third and Bolin scored on an infield out and Hunt on Willie May's sacrifice fly.

The Giants took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on Jim Hart's single, a triple by Jesus Alou and Bob Barton's hit, but the Astros jumped ahead with three runs in the second off starter Mike McCormick.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steve Carlton pitched a six-hitter and smacked his second home run of the season Saturday, leading the St. Louis Cardinals past Pittsburgh 4-0 for their 21st victory in 25 games this month.

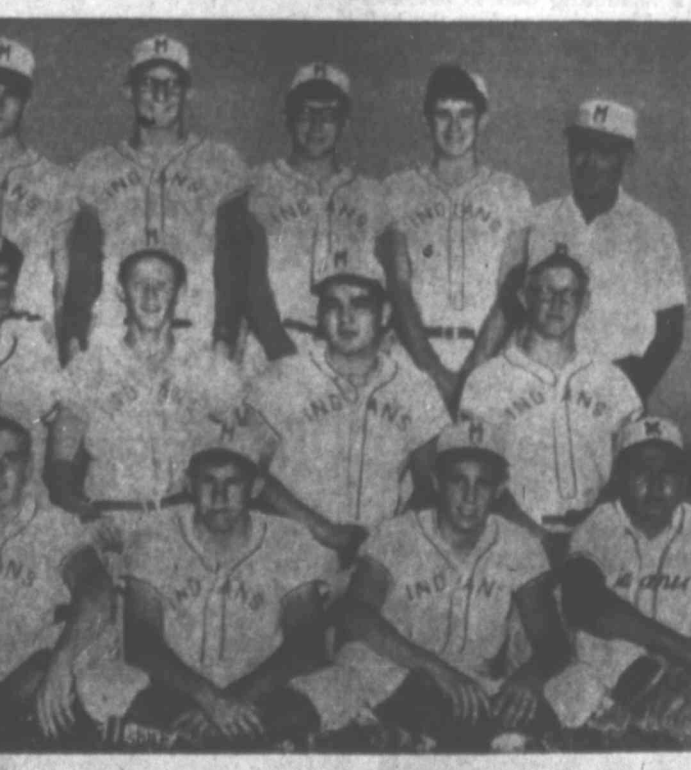

The Cards scored in the first when Lou Brock singled, stole second and went to third on an infield out. He scored on a single by John Edwards.

Carlton slammed his second homer of the season into the right field stands in the fifth, giving the Cards a 2-0 lead.

With none out in the sixth, Bob Tolan struck out. But got to first on a third-strike wild pitch by right-hander Bob Moose. Moose then tried to pick Tolan off, but threw high for an error as Tolan raced to second. Orlando Cepeda singled him to third and Edwards hit a sacrifice fly.

The Cardinals scored their last run in the ninth on a singles by Mike Shannon, Julian Javier and pinch hitter Roger Maris.

Jenkins Stops Dodgers, 2-1, Behind Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins shackled Los Angeles on four hits, struck out 13 and touched off a two-run rally with a third inning double as the Chicago Cubs edged the Dodgers 2-1 Saturday.

Jenkins, 11-16, boosted his National League leading strikeout total to 165. He gave up a leadoff single to Willie Davis in the first inning, then pitched hitless ball until Ron Fairly singled with one out in the seventh.

The Cubs jumped on Claude Osteen, 8-15, for five hits in the third double, a bounce that got past Osteen and shortstop Zoilo Versalles. He went to third on Don Kessinger's single and was singled home by Glenn Beckert.

Kessinger then scored what proved to be the winning run as Billy Williams hit into a double play.

Jenkins fanned the first two batters in the eighth, then walked Davis, who went to third on Len Gabrielson's single and scored on a single by Tom Haller. The Chicago ace ended the threat by fanning Jim Lefebvre for his 13th strikeout—high for his career.

Stewarts Recapture Odessa Golf Lead

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — The slender, blond father-son combo of Earl and Chip Stewart fired a four-under par 68 Saturday and recaptured the lead after three rounds of the $35,000 Odessa Pro-Am.

Stewart, a Dallas pro, and Chip, a University of Texas senior, dipped 17 under par for the 54-hole route with a 63-68-68-199.

That was good enough for a one-shot edge over a quartet of top contenders that included defending champions Don and Rik Messengale, who shot a 67.

Also, in at 200 entering Sunday's final round, were Marty Fleckman - Ken Newell, Gay Brewer - John Paul Cain, and 1966 pro-am winners Charles Coody-Richard Patton.

High winds coupled with tricky pin placements figured in the higher scores as none of the 100 teams took unusual liberty with the 6,000-yard par 72 Odessa Country Club Course.

Three teams shot 67s — the low rounds for Saturday.

The Stewarts, first round leaders, started the third round in second place — two shots behind Brewer and his amateur partner, Cain, a Houston stock broker.

But they wrested the lead largely on Earl's birdie putts of 12, 25, and 1 1/2 feet and his two-putt for a bird at the par 5 No. 17.

Brewer - Cain meanwhile, struggled in with a 71, picking up only two birdies against one bogey. They offered no excuses.

Coody, an Abilene pro, and Patton, a Midland oilman, romped through the front nine with a 32, but cooled to a 35 on the backstretch and settled for a 67.

The Messengales, pro Don and amateur Rik, shot a steady 34-33 that included a bogey at the fourth hole.

MUCH OF LOAD
Rik, also a University of Texas linksman, once again carried much of the load with birdie putts of 20, 18, 45, and 2 feet.

Newell, a University of Houston ace, got three of his team's four birdies — two on putts of eight feet and a third on a 40-yard chip shot.

Fleckman, sharp - shooting rookie pro from Fort Arthur, had been the pro-am's hottest item until Saturday, when he contributed but one bird.

Three shot-off the pace at 202 were pro Jack Hadden Jr., and Gene Fisher of Houston and the Amarillo team of pro Rex Baxter and John Farquhar. Both shot 68.

In at 203 and still in contention were Buddy Weaver-Arthur Russell of Houston, Jake Bechtold-Ray Stoker of Odessa, and Indiana pro Bob Hamilton and Grier Jones, the NCAA champ from Oklahoma State.

The field was trimmed to the low 60 and ties and the final dash for first place money of $3,000.

The colorful team of crooners Dean Martin and Don Cherry blasted out a 71 Saturday for 214 and made the cut easily.

himself to the top alongside Brown.

Pete Brown, who had the lead in his grasp and let it slip away, and defending champion Lou Graham, who stormed out of a tie for eighth with a four-under-par 67, wound up in a tie for the 54-hole lead Saturday in the $100,000 Minnesota Golf Classic with 204.

Brown fired an even par 71.

Brown and Graham take their nine-under-par totals into the final 18 holes Sunday.

Locked in a four-way tie for third are Tommy Aaron, Jim Colbert, Ken Stille and Terry Dill. All are a stroke back at 205.

Steve Opperman and Lee Elder are tied at 206, while Bob Dickson rests alone at 207.

The jam at the top promised a tight struggle Sunday for the $20,000 first-place money over Koller Golf Course' par 71, 6,702-yard layout which was buffeted by moderately high winds Saturday.

Harry Toscano, who was tied with Brown for the lead at nine under 133 going into Saturday's third round, lost his touch and soared to a five-over-par 76 for a 209.

Senators Win Over Boston

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators drove Boston's Gary Bell from the mound with a four-run first inning uprising and held off the Red Sox 5-4 Saturday behind Dennis Higgins' tight relief pitching.

Bill walked Del Unser and Ed Stroud to start off the Senators' first and Unser scored on a two-base wild pitch. With one out, Frank Howard, Ken McMullen, Bernie Allen and Jim French singled in succession, the latter off reliever Gary Waslewski, for three more runs.

Stroud's single drove in what proved to be the winning run in the fourth following a two-base throwing error by Joe Foy.

The Red Sox scored a run in the second inning and added two more in the fourth on Reggie Smith's six homer—his third of the week off Joe Coleman—and singles by Foy and pinch hitter George Scott.

The Red Sox finally knocked out Coleman in the sixth but scored only one run in the inning off four Washington pitchers.

Tangle With Cardinals Here Today

Pictured here are members of the Big Spring Tigers, oldest sandlot team in the state (from the standpoint of continuity), who play the Big Spring Cardinals at 3 p.m. today in Steer Park. An Oldtimers game will precede the main event. Top row, from the left, they are Hank Pope, Billy Weatherall, Jimmy Roger, Juan Renteria, Joe Cadenhead and manager

World Marks Likely In Swimming Meet

LINCOLN, Neb (AP) — It is reasonable to say that 22 world marks will be in jeopardy at the 18th National AAU Outdoor swimming meet starting here Wednesday, as the nation's youthful elite vie for places in the U.S. Olympic Trials.

By simple mathematics, the world record holder will compete in 19 events, including relays, and the former world record holder in three more. The field here rates second only to the Olympics because it includes foreign stars who do not compete in the U.S. trials.

Karen Muir of South Africa, the world's top female backstroke, heads the foreign contingent.

The divers will open the meet Wednesday at Woods Park Memorial Pool. The 26-event swimming card starts Thursday and ends Sunday.

Two clubs from Northern California dominate the list of world record holders. They are the Santa Clara Swim Club headed by George Haines, coach of the U.S. men's Olympic team, and the Arden Hills Club of Sacramento, headed by Sherm Chavoor, coach of the U.S. women's team.

The world's best all-around male swimmer is Mark Spitz,

Sonora To Clash With BS Texans

The American League park will be the scene here Monday night of a Little League bi-district game between the Big Spring Texas leaguers and Pecos. Game time is 8 o'clock. A trip to the Sectional tournament in Abilene awaits the winner. The survivor here opposes the Lubbock entry in a four-team meet starting Friday.

The champion at Abilene qualifies for the State tournament, which will be held in San Antonio Aug. 5-9.

The Texas leaguers bombed the National leaguers of Big Spring, 3-0, here Thursday night to win the right to face Pecos.

Pecos shelled Sonora, 4-0, Friday night at Sonora to qualify for bi-district play.

The Big Spring Texans will represent District 3 and Pecos District 4 in the game here.

Kyle Johnson hurled a no-hit game in leading Pecos to its win over Sonora, fanning 17.

The opposition didn't get a ball out of the infield in facing him. He was credited with an assist in the other putout.

Pecos collected seven hits in the game, with Donald Ray Walker's two home runs supplying the big punch.

The Texas league lineup is built around the Cat aggregation, which previously has won the city championship here.

Johnny Rodriguez, John Smith, Thomas Gonzales, Albert Smith, Ruby Rubio and Johnny Munoz are pitchers on the Texas leaguers' club.

John Smith threw a five-hitter in beating the Big Spring Internationals in the semifinals of the district playoffs while Gonzales shut down the Big Spring Nationals with two hits in the title game.

Oldsters Vie At 1:00 P.M.

An oldtimers game, featuring some of the sandlot baseball greats of the past here, will precede today's game at Steer Park between two resident lineups, the Cardinals and the Tigers.

The early game, down for 1 p.m., pits the former members of the Tigers against a team known as the VA Jets. The feature attraction starts at 3 p.m. and spectators can gain admission to both games for 75 cents.

Bill Burchett, star infielder for the 1968 Big Spring High School Steers, will be in the lineup for the Cardinals. Other Card starters likely will be Felix Martinez, second base; Jesse Zapata, center field; Jimmy Wilson, or Tony Martinez, third base; Pano Rodriguez, first base; R. J. Englert, left field; Abel Ramirez, right field; and Joe Martinez, catcher. James Newman or Tom Ham will charge the pitching rubber for the Birds.

Among Tigers of other years who will appear in the preliminary game are T. Rodriguez, G. Lopez, Juan Garcia, Albert Garcia, Cy Terrazas, J. Subia, Wimpy Santella, Charley Mendoza, Sonny Dutchover, Tom Arista Sr., Pat Martinez Sr., Carlos Roman, Popeye Santella, Gilbert Valdez, Guy Lara, Rito Gomez, Guy Fierro, Benny Marquez and Elias Gamboa.

WILL REPORT IN GOOD SHAPE Reroofing Work Keeps Steer Gridders Busy

The old saying, "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," holds very true for several athletes at Big Spring High School, who are marking time for the start of fall football drills Aug. 21.

When the great hail storm occurred here in early May, house roofs over much of the town were damaged to the extent that many had to be completely replaced.

The reconstruction work that followed enabled many of the boys to land jobs, the kind that do them the most good.

Some of the athletes have been busy since that time, investing time in hard work.

The pay has been good. More important still to the athletic program here, the athletes have remained in good physical condition and may be further along in their conditioning program when the Steers open their season in September than they were last year.

Among the boys so employed have been Rocky Wooley (whose father is in the roofing business), Billy Bob Spier, Charley Lewis, Tommy Tanner and Jimmy Farris.

Johnny Hedges, Jimmy Jones, Claude (Snake) Tucker and Robert Domino have been in construction work, as have Johnny Cliff Patton, Randy Morgan, Luven Flores and Robert Dennis.

Steve Russell has been employed by a local utilities firm while Joe Zubiate has been working for the City of Big Spring.

Roy Lee Warren and Emmitt Miller have spent the summer toiling at Webb AFB while Lynn Cauley and Johnny Rutherford have been doing odd jobs where possible.

sued to the players until Aug. 21 but rules dictate that they must work on their own until Aug. 26, when the coaches move in and start two-a-day workouts without benefit of pads.

The Steers can begin contact work no earlier than Aug. 30.

Coach Spike Dykes said that no arrangements have yet been made for a scrimmage but one likely will take place with a 3-AAA school.

Dykes and members of his coaching staff depart Sunday for Fort Worth and the Texas Coaches Association's annual school. The clinic extends through Thursday night.

The coaches formally start work here immediately after returning from Fort Worth but Dykes has rarely been away from his office.

Special Golf Rules Are Designed For Duffers

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Stripping golf of some rules, the United States Duffers Association strives to make the game more fun for the average golfer, known widely as a duffer.

Since average golfers, numbering about eight million in America, keep the golf industry thriving, the USDA feels they should be recognized and has designed special rules for them.

Technically, the USDA sanctions many things that most golfers do anyway, although they are contrary to United States Golf Association regulations.

"We don't want to break rules," said Bailey Root, president of the USDA. "We want to prevent cheating, so we legalize what most do anyway."

The USDA, whose membership is approaching 5,000 and has members all over the world, permits such things as improving the lie of the ball in the fairway with the club head and replacing or cleaning a ball at any time.

Also according to a rule book the USDA prints, duffers only lose distance on an out-of-bounds hit, instead of also being penalized a stroke.

All in all, the rules are more lax and suited to the weekend duffer—they help improve scores, eliminate some frustration and make the game more pleasant.

Besides, Root maintains that personal studies show only about "two per cent of today's golfers play strictly according to the rules."

In stressing the relaxing of strict rules, Root cited the case of the everyday golfer landing in a sand trap that is not well kept. The golfer nudges the ball with his club head to move it out of a rut. For this he is penalized two strokes by USGA rules. Root contends this is absurd for the duffer.

Root also talked about the recent Masters tournament in which Roberto di Vicenzo was penalized a stroke because of a score error by Tommy Aaron.

Root said that the USDA simply would "have handed Aaron an eraser to change the card and would have forgotten the mistake."

No Bets Accepted On Delaware Race

STANTON, Del. (AP) — Lloyd I. Miller's Dark Mirage won the betless $57,950 Delaware Oaks at Delaware Park Saturday, her ninth straight victory and eight consecutive stakes triumph.

Carrying top weight of 121 pounds, the mighty little daughter of Persian Road II scored as she pleased by two lengths over Sale Day, a $2,500 supplementary entry owned by Mrs. Louise Clements. Walter M. Jeffords Jr.'s entry of Singing Rain and Inge followed in that order.

Tessman Fights Bowser Aug. 5

BEAUMONT (AP) — Underfought light heavyweight Mark Tysman of Houston will fight Bennie Lee Bowser of Austin in a scheduled 10-round match Aug. 5; promoter Earl Gilliam said Saturday.

Tessman, a University of Houston student, will be seeking his 22nd victory. Bowser has a 19-12-3 record.

Skins Meet Houston 11

HOUSTON (AP)—The first indoor professional football game in more than a third of a century will be played Thursday night when the Houston Oilers tangle with the Washington Redskins in the Astrodome.

The Chicago Bears beat the Portsmouth Spartans 9-0 for the National Football League championship in Chicago Stadium Dec. 18, 1932, in the last indoor pro game.

Pass-minded Washington of the National Football League is expected to face a stubborn defense by Houston, American Football League eastern division champions last year.

The exhibition game on the Astrodome artificial grass is the first this season for both teams. Head coach Otto Graham of the Redskins may miss passing quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, who underwent a major arm operation last spring.

Blessing Helpful

TORONTO (AP)—Carol Mann says a blessing by Pope Paul VI and a 14-karat gold four-leaf clover which she carries in her golf bag are probably responsible for her success this season.

Night Racing To Be Started At Drag Track

ODESSA—On Saturday, Aug. 3, Odessa Raceway Park will stage its first big drag racing event under the lights this year.

The event will mark the fourth trip for the professional fuel dragster circuit at Odessa Raceway Park. The action is scheduled to get under way at 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon, with top fuel eliminations set for 8 p.m.

The top names in drag racing circles are expected to thrill some 10,000 people under the lights when the nitro burning, supercharged Double A fuel dragsters blast the 440 yard distance in less than 7.5 seconds at speeds up to 225 mph.

The big guns that are expected to be in the line-up for this gigantic fuel dragster show looks like "who's who" in drag racing, southern style.

The mighty rail of the Anderson Brothers, driven by super shoe Ken Bernstein, Dallas, will try to repeat as top fuel eliminator. Bernstein suffered slight burns from a super-charger explosion, July 20 at Austin's World Championship Series event. Fully recovered and ready to drive, Bernstein predicts another win at Odessa, Aug. 3.

The 1967 world champion, and winner of the world championship series events at ORP, May 4-5, Bennie Osborne, Tulsa, Okla., is expected to be primed for this one. Osborne is currently leading the NHRA points chase, Division IV, NHRA.

The fabulous Carroll Brothers, Dallas, will be there with an all new AA-fuel dragster that is some 300 pounds lighter than the old car, which makes for a combination that could be unbeatable in open competition.

The Rodriguezes, San Antonio, will be in the line-up with a super motor by Ed Pink, Long Beach, Calif., and in the last outing with the car, driver George Rodriguez put down a 219 mph blast and a strong 7.13 seconds in just a quarter mile distance.

The Tex-Oma Super Stocks, a circuit for professional super stock drivers, will also be on hand for the event. The list at press time has grown to 16 cars preentered and by race time some 20 are expected.

The list includes such notables as Roger Caster's Cobra Jet Mustang, Gene Snow's all new Hemi Dart, Joe Smith's Hemi Barracuda, Don Grother's Hemi Barracuda, Jimmy Cox's Semi-Hemi Camaro, Bill Heilsher's Z-28 Camaro, Ken McClellan's Cobra Jet Mustang, Riley Simon's AMX Rambler, and the Mike Massey Rambler AMX, plus many, many more.

The total entry list is expected to reach 400 cars by race time, Saturday night.

Max Hirsch Still Swinger

NEW YORK (AP)—Max Hirsch likes to celebrate, and between winning races and having birthdays, the dean of American thoroughbred trainers gets plenty of chances.

"If I had my way," he says, "I'd celebrate a birthday—or something—every day."

Well, Tuesday he will celebrate officially his 88th birthday.

DIFFERENT DATE Until he was 72, Hirsch thought July 12 was the date of his birth. Then one of his brothers found proof that he really had been born July 30, 1880, at Fredericksburg, Tex.

So now Hirsch celebrates his mistaken birthday July 12 and his official birthday July 30, then caps it by attending a birthday party given him by friends halfway through the August racing meet at Saratoga.

Age has not slowed down Hirsch's celebrating victories at the track.

At the Aqueduct spring meeting this year, he tied Buddy Jacobson for the trainers' title by saddling 24 winners.

And his mounts won consistently at the recent Belmont Park meet and have continued to do so at the current Aqueduct session.

Hirsch was born on a ranch, and left home at the age of 12. He began a six-year career as a jockey at the age of 14 and had 123 victories in 1,117 mounts.

He saddled his first winner—Gantama—as a trainer in 1902 at New Orleans and since then has saddled more than 2,000 winners.

MANY CHAMPS They include Kentucky Derby winners Bold Venture, Middle-ground, Sarazen, Vito, Grey Lag, Dawn Play, High Gun, Buffie, On and On and Triple Crown winner Assault.

Hirsch, like anyone else, has his favorites.

"Man O' War had everything," he says, "but so did Assault, and I've never trained—or seen—a better horse. And Sarazen was a great horse for me."

"And High Gun—there was the most underrated horse I ever had. Horses are like human performers in that respect. One man accomplishes something and everybody cheers him. Another man can do as much, even more, and nobody seems to give him credit. It was that way with High Gun."

"As a 3-year-old, he won the Peter Pan, Belmont Stakes, Dwyer, Sysonby, Manhattan, and Jockey Club Gold Cup—and they pass him up for the Horse of the Year award."

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Quarterback King Hill, backup man to Norm Snead, ended his brief holdout Friday, signing with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Eight starters from last year's team still were unsigned after two weeks of practice at Reading, Pa.

After all this time what has Hirsch learned about horses.

"Not a thing," he says, "at least as to how they'll turn out. If people are so smart about horses, tell me how come they can learn how to train a horse and keep improving your methods over the years, like I've done, but you'll never learn how to determine in advance which horse will be good and another bad. It's something inside a horse."

Max Hirsch Still Swinger

NEW YORK (AP)—Max Hirsch likes to celebrate, and between winning races and having birthdays, the dean of American thoroughbred trainers gets plenty of chances.

"If I had my way," he says, "I'd celebrate a birthday—or something—every day."

Well, Tuesday he will celebrate officially his 88th birthday.

DIFFERENT DATE Until he was 72, Hirsch thought July 12 was the date of his birth. Then one of his brothers found proof that he really had been born July 30, 1880, at Fredericksburg, Tex.

So now Hirsch celebrates his mistaken birthday July 12 and his official birthday July 30, then caps it by attending a birthday party given him by friends halfway through the August racing meet at Saratoga.

Age has not slowed down Hirsch's celebrating victories at the track.

The Big Spring Sailing Club, starting a racing program at Moss Creek Lake today, will keep the opening events simple enough but will use formulas to determine future winners.

That Lamesa Red Sox baseball team which hosts Chihuahua, Mexico, in two games today has amassed something like a 44-1 won-lost record over the past three seasons. . . . Jim Burke, the developer, wants to unload his Pecan Valley golf course, scene of the recent PGA tournament, on the city of San Antonio. . . . It's never been a money-maker because of its remoteness to the heavily-populated areas. . . . Jerry Dudley, the HCJC golf coach, says that three local players—Mike Hall, Mike Weaver and Teddy Griffin—likely will attend the local college this fall and represent the Jayhawks in collegiate competition. . . . Baylor-bound Tom McBee of Plainview, who averaged 42.2 yards in four punts against Big Spring last season, wound up with a robust 45-yard kicking average for the year. . . . McBee is quite a player. . . . He rushed here four times for 32 yards and completed two of eight passes for 40 yards. . . . He could play at split end for the Bears. . . . Coahoma's Tony Butler will observe his 22nd birthday the day he and the Texas Tech Red Raiders square off with Arkansas. . . . The coincidence might help but Tony doesn't need any incentive to perform against the Razorbacks. . . . His Dallas Cowboy teammates kid Willie Townes that the only tackle Baltimore's Johnny Unitas has made in 12 years in the NFL was against Willie after Townes had recovered a Colt fumble. . . . It is told that the old pros in the NFL drove such a hard bargain over the pension issue because they were miffed at the club owners' practice of handing fabulous bonuses to newcomers like Donny Anderson rather than reward their tried and true players. . . . That new divisional setup in the National Baseball league should benefit the Houston Astros no end—the Astros are in with Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Cincinnati and Atlanta. . . . The Astros may also have an easier time contesting for first place than they would in the other division—since Los Angeles and San Francisco both appear to be in decline, San Diego will be going with a new club and neither Atlanta nor Cincinnati has championship momentum going for them. . . . Weldon Chapman is remembered in high school football circles as the man to whom a Lubbock High School state football championship was dedicated after his death but Pat Murphy, now in retirement here, recalls him for another reason. . . . Weldon, then at Cisco in the days when the old Oil Belt was in its heyday, pirated a couple of players from Pat's Cross Plains team. . . . Such practices were legal in those days, of course, and recruiting was as intense in high school then as it is now in college circles. . . . It appears now that hard-working Ray Weir will be back in 1969 as commissioner of the Teen-Age Baseball Association here and that the Hi-Junior circuit will go with six clubs (compared with the five it had this year). . . . The association is in its best financial condition ever now, thanks to the devotion of hard-working men like Weir. . . . After Oregon State upset USC, 3-0, following three days of rain last fall, Coach John McKay of the Trojans wondered aloud why the Oregon State field hadn't been covered. . . . Bad News For Opponents; Packers Again Healthy

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers, who were riddled with injuries as they headed for their second straight Super Bowl crown last season, seem as healthy as ever. Only one of the Packers' returning hospital cases did not play in Thursday night's annual intrasquad game. But two others looked good.

Fullback Ben Wilson, who underwent surgery in March to repair a damaged knee and who has been held out of all the Packers' heavy drills, did not play.

But fullback Jim Grabowski, who missed the Super Bowl because of knee surgery, led all the Packer rushers Thursday, gaining 47 yards in eight tries.

Facing the first-string defense, Grabowski ran the middle, off tackle and on the sweep. On a pass play, he was hit hard by Lonel Aldridge.

Despite the jarring tackles handed out by the defense, which overshadowed the offense much of the night, there were no signs that Grabowski's leg bothered him.

Halfback Elijah Pitts, bucking Donny Anderson for a starting spot after recovering from surgery to repair a torn Achilles tendon, did not see as much action as Grabowski.

He carried four times for nine yards and caught two passes for nine more.

"The leg feels real good," Pitts said. "You have got to go as hard as you can, and it's taking it."

End Bob Long, who also had a knee repaired last season, caught four passes for 47 yards, the night's second highest total. "If I wasn't in shape, I am now," Long said. "My knee feels fine."

Quarterback Bart Starr, who proved last season he had recovered from injuries, showed a bout with intestinal flu hasn't bothered him.

He completed seven of nine passes, the best percentage of the night, for 58 yards. "It felt good out there," he said, "real good."

Permane's Riding Feat Still Tops

NEW YORK (AP) — After nearly 25 years Bobby Permane's feat of riding five winners on each of three successive days, which contributed to 18 winners in four straight days, has not been surpassed by the present generation of foekcys.

This was emphasized anew by the recent performance of George Cusimano, an 18-year-old apprentice from Washington, D.C. who rode six winners July 15 at Delaware Park and scored a triple the next day for nine winners in two days.

RARELY DONE
Back on April 27 at Hollywood Park in California, Laffitt Pinckney, Jr. also rode six winners in one day, a feat which has been achieved in other years by such riders as Willie Shoemaker at old Jamaica in 1950, Mike Venezia at Aqueduct in 1964 and Jorge Velasquez at Garden State Park in 1965.

Other notable riding feats include Leroy Moyers' seven winners at Suffolk Downs in Boston July 4, 1967, Johnny Heckman's seven-for-eight at Hawthorne in Chicago in October 1956 and Johnny Sellers' eight consecutive winners, over a two-day period, at Atlantic City in October, 1961.

None equal Permane's spectacular streak at Tropical Park in Florida in April, 1944, that made the Camden, N.J., rider the talk of the turf world.

The streak started on Wednesday, April 5, after a dismal Tuesday when he failed to win on four mounts, Satin Goods, Destiny Deb, Swift Marine and Betty's Beau.

On Wednesday he scored a triple with Count Did $3.50, Spare Room $7.30 and Tetra Rock $16.90. That day he finished second on Liberty Pan and third on Colonel Don and Scottsville.

It was on Thursday, Friday and Saturday that he won five races each day.

On Thursday he scored with Silver Donna $4.40, Chalara $31.90, One Tip $3.60, Red Dock $18.30 and Fetacairn $3.90. He was second on Fred Havelock and out of the money with Oyster Babe and Sally Maedic.

FIVE STRAIGHT
On Friday he was out of the money on King's Glory and second on Dream Fox, then won five in a row with Key Largo $3.90, Oaking $5.90, Swift Marine $4.60, Yank Bomber $7.10 and Rest Awhile $4.

Permane made it six straight by taking the first race on Saturday, April 8, on Great Albert $7.70. He was third on Cyrus, but won on The Captain $4.40, Pig Tails $3.40, Betty's Beau $10.20 and Beltry Chimes $5. He was out of the money on Speedway and Equinox.

That adds up to 18 winners in 29 races in four days. He finished second three times and third three times. That is a fantastic winning percentage of .621 and an in-the-money percentage of .828.

STARFISH STAR PERFORMERS IN RACES TODAY

Sailboats compete in events at Moss Creek Lake

Ahoy There! Sailboat Races Scheduled Today

At least eight boats are scheduled to take part in races scheduled by the Big Spring Sailing Club at Moss Creek lake this afternoon.

The boats, all in the Starfish class (with one sail), start their shakedown cruises at 1 p.m. Competition will get underway at about 4 p.m.

This is the first in a series of race days planned by the BSSC to stimulate interest in the organization and promote membership. The races will be free to the public.

Only about one-third of the lake will be used for the events and accumulative scores will count toward the over-all winners.

Under the point-system, one point will be awarded to those boats finishing a race and another point for each boat a contestant beats in any particular event.

Quite probably, as many as three races will be held and starting points will be determined by which way the wind is blowing.

Ron Matik of 49-B Chanute is helping promote the racing programs.

Matik said the racing program would eventually be extended to include craft with multi-sails.

The Starfish class features a Lateen rig. Only one man is permitted in the boat in the racing events.

Austin Sews Up Softball Title

Austin's Enco clinched first place in City Softball league standings here Thursday night by edging Sterling City, 3-1.

The win was the 14th without a loss for Austin. The Enco club plays second place Morton's Foods again Monday night but leads the circuit by 2 1/2 games, with only one contest still to play. Morton's has lost twice to Austin Enco this season.

A rash of errors and a run-scoring hit by Herb Sorley enabled the Austin club to bank all its runs in the fifth. Sammy Mims, Thelbert Camp and Sorley crossed the plate in that round for Enco.

Camp went all the way on the hill for Austin's, limiting the Sterling City team to three hits. He fanned five, did not walk

Historic Western Open Will Begin Thursday

CHICAGO (AP) — Historic Olympia Fields will be the site of a historic golf tournament this week—the 65th Western Open.

Virtually all of golf's top-name players, including the fine crop of youngsters and that old goodie, Julius Boros, will be aiming for the $26,000 first prize of the $130,000 meet starting Thursday.

It's a tourney with a good cause, benefiting the Western Golf Association's Evans Scholars Foundation.

A lot of golf lore is connected with Olympia Fields North Course on Chicago's far south-side. Over its wooded and heavily-trapped acres in the past have tread such greats as Walter Hagen, Jock Hutchison Sr., Jim Barnes, Johnny Farrell, Bobby Jones, MacDonald Smith and Tommy Armour.

Four Western Opens have been held there, two of them won by Hagen, in 1925 and 1927. Also among the 14 major tournaments it has entertained were the 1928 U.S. Open, won by Jones in a 36-hole playoff with Farrell; and the 1961 national PGA, won by Jerry Barber.

Barber, in one of the most remarkable putting feats of all time, sank successive putts of 20, 40 and 60 feet on the last three holes to force a playoff with Don January, whom he defeated 67-68.

By winning in 1961, Barber, at the age of 45, became the oldest PGA king. Boros, 48, rewrote that chapter by winning the PGA at San Antonio a week ago.

The Western Open's jackpot of $26,000 is the biggest prize in its history. In the 1959 inaugural at the Glen View Club in Golf, Ill., winner Willie Smith collected $125.

Olympia's yardage is 6,749 with a 35-36-71 par. The official course record of 65 was set by the late Lawson Little in 1940 during qualifying rounds for the U.S. Open, which he went on to win that year.

Among previous Western Open champions returning are defending titlist Jack Nicklaus; Billy Casper, the 1966 and 1965 winner; Chi Chi Rodriguez, Arnold Palmer, Mike Souchak, Doug Sanders and Doug Ford.

The sentimental favorites are sure to be the bay-windowed Boros and Lee Trevino, National Open champ. Boros never has won the Western but has come close. In a playoff in 1963, Palmer won with 70 while Boros had 71 and Nicklaus 76.

TIMELY RAINS AND WARM SUN have worked their magic to create this lush bower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cornelison, 1009 E. 15th. This is only a small area of the garden that has produced the bowl of tomatoes held by Mrs. Corne-lison and the curved squash displayed by her husband. There are also cucumbers and okra, and soon, Mrs. Cornelison will be making plum and apricot jellies to serve with winter breakfasts.

MOTHER'S HELPER IS A FAIR-HAIRED boy named Ward, who likes to hold the basket that Mrs. Burl Hammons, 1500 Nolan, fills with four kinds of peas and beans. On other rows were cucumbers, radishes and tomatoes. Mr. and Mrs. Hammons brought the seeds from Kentucky, and he said the beans were up in four days "and haven't slowed down since then."

—SOFT RAINS— AND SUMMER GARDENS

WHEN A FELLOW IS 11 YEARS OLD, he's about as high as a hoe handle — and big enough to use it, according to the philosophy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Headrick, 1103 E. 16th. Consequently, son Jimmy, a handsome Huckleberry Finn, has his work cut out for him as he tries to keep one chop ahead of the weeds. The Headricks have had several vegetables to store in their freezer, and green figs in the back yard are taking on a purple hue.

THE GOOD EARTH GIVES UP its bounty in exchange for constant care. Since his retirement, J. C. Caldron and his wife have kept busier than ever tending the large garden area that borders their home at 1111 E. 16th. Here, he holds three large onions, and on the table are examples of what comes from the cultivated plot. They include banana squash, peppers, tomatoes, potatoes and fruits such as apricots, apples, pears and peaches.

MANY A GARDEN HAS GROWN under the watchful eyes of Mrs. Estella Yates, 1608 Scurry, who says her gardens are "usually better" than the one she has produced this year. However, she has gathered okra, turnip greens and black-eyed peas which make a mighty tasty table.

IT TAKES TWO TO work and enjoy this neat little garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Pittman, 1225 E. 16th, where the lawn is a deep carpet of St. Augustine grass. Hot peppers peek from among the tomatoes and okra that thrive just outside the shade of a black walnut tree.

MRS. BILLY M. EGGLESTON
(CURLEY'S STUDIO)

Couple United In Home Rites

Miss Carla Jan Grisham became the bride of Billie Michael Eggleston Thursday evening in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tolbert Grisham, 504 E. 23rd. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eggleston, 525 Scott.

The Rev. Claude Craven, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony. He was assisted by Roger Grisham, brother of the bride, a ministerial student at Fort Worth Theological Seminary.

The couple exchanged vows before an improvised altar where an archway was entwined with boxwood garlands flanked by branched candelabra and arrangements of white daisies.

Mrs. Donald Richardson, organist, accompanied Leonard Moody, as he sang "The Twelfth of Never," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a street-length cage dress of Chantilly lace designed with cowl neckline outlined in saki and long bell sleeves adorned with saki bows. Her head piece of petals and loop bows held a brief maline veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies and feathered carnations centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Johnny Merrick, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor. Miss Judy Spivey was bridesmaid, and Paige Grisham, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. The attendants wore identical dresses of pink crepe designed with rounded necklines and long sleeves. They wore matching brief veils and carried long stemmed red roses.

Phillip Shaffer was best man, and Earl Murray of Nashville, Tenn., was groomsmen. Andre Lewis was junior groomsmen. Altar tapers were lighted by Don Eggleston, brother of the bridegroom, and Phyllis Shaffer.

WEDDING TRIP

The couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For traveling, the bride chose a beige knit dress with black accessories and the orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple will be at home at 925 Cedar Ave., Abilene.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School, where she was associated with the Vocational Office Education program. She was employed by the Big Spring Herald and is a student at Hardin-Simmons University. The bridegroom graduated from Big Spring Senior High School and is associated with his father in the Eggleston Cattle Company.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Miss Debbie Adams presided at the guest register, and others in the house party were Mrs. Joe Schalk, Miss Connie Shaffer and Miss Paula Lewis.

The refreshment table was laid with a white cutwork cloth over a red underlay and centered with an arrangement of red and white carnations, miniature roses and alyssum in a crystal compote. Red tapers in crystal holders flanked the centerpiece, and the three-tiered wedding cake highlighted the table. Crystal and silver appointments completed the setting.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy and Kendra, Plainview; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Andrews, Odessa; Mrs. Irma Lewis and family, Mrs. Ruby Lewis, W. O. Corley, Mrs. B. H. Grisham, Mr. and Mrs. Doil Grisham, Jimmy Grisham and Johnna Lewis, all of Abilene.

Casually Yours

If I had the figure to wear those skimpy bathing suits — and the fortitude to drink that funny wine — I'd go to Yugoslavia. Dr. Jack Zinn says that's the "in" place to be this season — preferably Dubrovnik. Had a nice chat with him as we balanced our cookies and punch at the reception which VA Hospital employees held Friday for Mr. and Mrs. Jack Powell.

The Zinns and Dr. and Mrs. Carl Marcum have returned from Europe where the good doctors attended a medical meeting and vacationed a bit. They made stops in all those unusual places, but Zinn says the action is in Yugoslavia, and Paris prices are out of sight. Speaking of sight, he saw Orson Welles (pretty plump) who is making a movie in that area.

Mrs. Powell is a charming woman, and I understand she is very civic-minded, so aren't we lucky to have another "worker" to follow in the footsteps of Mrs. Donald Van Meter? Carmela was expected here last week but delayed the trip to get moved into the lake house near Austin, according to Mrs. Ralph Catoa who is doing chores for the Concert Association for which Carmela worked so hard. They have some goodies lined up, so mark a little money for your tickets now.

Young Barry Canning is touring the HemisFair with his uncle, Stewart Poole, and cousin, Randy Poole, of Roxboro, N. C., who were here as guests of the Harold Cannings. The three will go from San Antonio to North Carolina where Barry will spend two weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Poole, before flying home.

Fellas, there's a new girl in town. Miss Sharon Lee Young, niece of Mrs. C. E. McDonnell, is visiting from Altoona, Pa., for the summer and will accompany the McDonnells on vacation to Arizona. Sharon teaches German and French at Sprout Claysburg High School in Claysburg.

Mercy, it's busy over at the K. H. McGibbon house. With them are their grandchildren Kent and Malcolm, children of Dr. and Mrs. Charles (Kenda) Webb of Bloomington, Ind., and Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewing (Kay) Werlein of Houston. The Werleins were due in this weekend, and all were going to the Werlein summer home at Hunt to forget it for awhile. The Webbs will be down in August when their new home is completed — and grandma and grandpa are going to be lonesome after that.

Over at the Jones and Milstead law offices, the gang was gathering the other morning to see the new desk that was moved in after removing a couple of doors to allow passage. Well, it really isn't new — in fact, it's very old, and I don't care what they say, Gil, it isn't either a monstrosity! Dick Milstead was too busy to pay much attention to it. He's leaving Friday with daughter, Mellinda, and son, Bubba, for the HemisFair, Gulf Coast, and then rest at the family ranch in South Texas.

Had a quick little visit with Adolf Swartz while letting my good neighbor, Willard Sullivan, buy coffee the other morning. The Swartz family put their stamp of approval on the Fair recently, too, and on their way home, had an enjoyable visit with Ed and Anne Swift and their family down in the lake country. Their pretty daughter, Jenna, has been collecting awards for herself in high school, and the whole family likes the life there.

TIDBITS: Haven't seen her, but someone said Nancy Thomas is home and will enter medical school this fall. Mrs. Rilla Webb called and said Hugh and Barbara McCauley will be here about Sept. 17. She'll join them for a trip to the Davis Mountains. . . note from Martha Conway says she enjoyed the news of Hugh and all the other theatre group. Martha's having a lousy vacation; heels higher than head with phlebitis (which she probably caught from the Afghans). . . Det Coleman and the boys will fly to Galveston with Bill to join them later for the HemisFair trip. . . Marvin Miller has been running around visiting the daughters, and he and Mrs. Roberta Phelan were in Lubbock last week to visit the Champ Rainwaters. Dr. Charles Rainwater was there, too, as well as his sister, Julie, so they had a fine time. . . the R. M. Thompson family will leave Aug. 3 for San Francisco, Calif., to visit her parents, Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Guy H. Gale. . . glad one of my favorite disk jockeys, Luther Kelley, is back from vacation. He's a quiet one — but weird sense of humor. He's my kind of people.

'Christmas In July' Celebrated By OES

Mrs. Henry D. Brewer, worthy matron, presided during a Founder's Day program and a "Christmas in July" party held Thursday evening by the Laura B. Hart Chapter, No. 1619, Order of the Eastern Star, at Masonic Temple.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Baker were honored for their service to the chapter. Mrs. Baker is chairman of Veterans Administration Hospital Volunteer Services, and Baker is a member of the Founder's Day committee.

Baker spoke on the birthday of Rob Morris, founder of the Order of Eastern Star. Mrs. Baker presented an emblem to Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Jarrett and J. C. Pye for over 100 hours of volunteer service to the VA Hospital during the past year. Mrs. Baker announced that Jarrett had been appointed deputy representative from the VA Hospital to the Veterans Administration Council.

The chapter serves coffee and cake to the patients at the VA Hospital once each month. The "Christmas in July" party was held following the meeting, with Mrs. Dick Mitchell as program chairman. Mrs. Mitchell gave a parody on "Twas the Night Before Christmas" and stressed the theme, "Why Not Give All Year Around."

Gifts were sent to the women in the Eastern Star Home in Arlington, and gifts were exchanged from a lighted tree by the chapter members. The refreshment table was laid with a red Christmas cloth and centered with Christmas decorations. Those on the refreshment committee were Mrs. Johnny Morris, Mrs. Nannie Adkins and Mrs. Oza Green. Approximately 60 attended.

Refreshments were served from a table laid with a cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of mixed summer flowers. Fourteen attended.

Speech Therapist Gives Program On Her Work

Mrs. James Rogers, speech therapist at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, spoke on "What Is Speech Therapy" at the Friday meeting of the Health and Welfare Committee of Big Spring in the rehabilitation center conference room.

Mrs. Rogers is employed at the center on a part-time basis during the summer, but in October will become a full-time therapist. She outlined her program of work and discussed different methods of helping the handicapped.

Mrs. Rogers attended Judson

College in Marion, Ala., for one year on a musical scholarship. She attended the University of Colorado, and spent three years, prior to her graduation as a speech therapist, at the University of Alabama. She minored in psychology and sociology.

Members of 24 organizations attended, with one guest, Davy Bowen of Douglas, Ariz., nephew of Miss Bowen.

The next meeting will be Aug. 30 in the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Dr. Warren Is Speaker At Dinner

"People walk for miles, sleeping on the ground, in order to see a dentist," said Dr. Charles Warren as he narrated films on his mission to Madagascar at the Thursday dinner meeting of Permian Basin Dental Assistant's Society. The group met at the Silver Star Restaurant.

Guests were from Lamesa, Midland and Big Spring.

Dr. Warren explained that the Christian Medical Service sends dentists to remote areas every two years. He stayed in Madagascar three weeks and during that period, extracted 495 teeth. His work dealt mostly with extractions, and he said that often there were three or four patients "medically deadened" at one time.

Mrs. Gayle Powell presided and announced the next meeting will be a party, Aug. 22, in Odessa.

Miss Lynn Heith Becomes Bride Of Daniel Greenwood

MRS. DANIEL J. GREENWOOD III

A candelabra tree illuminated the altar of the First Baptist Church Saturday evening as Miss Patricia Lynn Heith became the bride of Daniel Joseph Greenwood III. The nuptial setting was enhanced with a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, flanked by emerald palms as the Rev. Robert F. Polk performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lynn Heith, 1711 Yale, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Greenwood, 1201 Douglas.

Miss Merry Lee Dibrell, organist, accompanied Miss Sheryl Gambill as she sang "Because," "The Wedding Prayer" and "With This Ring." The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in an A-line gown of pure silk organza accented with a capelet of Venise lace and short lace sleeves. Satin ribbon banded the lace yoke, and her chapel-length train was designed with lace inserts over satin and topped with a bow. Her cascade veil of English illusion fell from a cluster of lace petals sparkled with crystal stems. She carried a cascade of miniature carnations and a white orchid.

Miss Ann Heith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a cage of yellow silk organza over yellow peau de soie and a yellow cabbage rose headpiece with brief veiling. Her hand bouquet of yellow daisies was tied with mint green satin. Mrs. Curtis Beard Jr. of Fort Worth was bridesmatron and bridesmaids were Miss Jo Farris of Arlington and Miss Diana Brannon. They wore similar gowns in mint green with matching cabbage rose headpieces briefly veiled. They carried bouquets of yellow daisies tied with yellow satin.

Man and groomsmen were Bobby Heith, brother of the bride; William Griffin and Manning Stroup. Ushers were Joe Heard of Lubbock, Ronald White of Las Cruces, N.M., and Ronald White.

Altar tapers were lighted by Rhonda White of Las Cruces, N.M., and Martin McBride, Farmington, N.M.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., and for traveling, the bride chose a two-piece white knit suit accented with orange and white patent accessories.

Mrs. Greenwood, a graduate of Big Spring High School, is a junior student at Texas Technological College, where she will continue her education while her husband serves with the Army in Vietnam. He graduated from BSHS and attended HJC and Texas Tech.

Miss Forrest Wed To James Lynn Ream

The wedding of Miss Barbara Jann Forrest and James Lynn Ream was solemnized in a candlelight ceremony held Friday in the sanctuary of the Wesley Methodist Church. Chaplain Lee Butler officiated for the double ring service, and the prelude of nuptial music was presented by Miss Betty Johansen at the organ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Forrest, 1813 Benton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ream, 508 Highland.

The altar was graced with seven-branched candelabra holding votive lights, and twin baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and greenery were backed by palms of emerald foliage.

WHITE DRESS

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a street-length crystal white textured knit dress with a high neckline collared with rows of lace beading. Matching trim enhanced the brief sleeves, and she wore short white gloves. Her headpiece was a flower petaled coronet of chiffon, outlined with seed pearls, which was touched with veiling. The traditional items included an antique gold necklace belonging to the bride's great-grandmother, Mrs. Wiler Jones of Stanton; a sixpence which was a gift from the bridegroom's father, and white handkerchiefs from Germany belonging to the bridegroom's mother.

The bride carried a white Bible, which her mother had used at her wedding, and a cascade of white roses showered with picot.

The bride's sister, Miss Jill Forrest, served as maid of honor and was attired in a long-sleeved cocoa voile dress styled with a tiered collar of self ruffles and ruffles circling the push-up cuffs. Her headpiece was an avocado velvet Dior bow which matched the ribbons tying her nosegay of Happiness roses.

Rick Ream, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Kenny Brown and Stan Risetter.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception in the home of the bridegroom's parents, where Miss Ginger Brown registered guests. Members of the house party were Mrs. Betty Good of Midland, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Bill Draper, Miss Caren Crockett and Miss Kim Kuykendall. The latter two distributed rice bags to the guests.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, Mrs. Wilmer Jones and Mr. and Mrs.

If you're a teenager — and I'm sure all young women of your age are interested in being their attractive best — there are a few glamour guides which you can refer to bring out the best in you. Remember that you have the greatest beauty of all on your side, and that is your youth. The first and most important rule then is: Act your age! As for beauty treatments are concerned, the most important one is cleanliness and don't let the fact that this is inexpensive mislead you. Cleanliness is vital. As for your diet, forget rich foods and chocolates. Eat plenty of lean meat, vegetables and fruit. Avoid emotional upsets and stress; these are bad for the complexion. Have a professional hairdresser style your hair. Don't let your girl friend "steal" away if it when you are moved by an urge to appear different. Financing arranged on approved credit.

Miss Carolyn Cates Weds Robert Cowley

Miss Carolyn Kay Cates and Robert Bruce Cowley exchanged nuptial vows Saturday evening in Wesley United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Tom Strother performed the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with jade foliage and an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and gladioli. Cathedral tapers in branched candelabra illuminated the setting, and family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Marshall C. Cates of Wichita Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Cowley, 610 Highland.

Miss Annette Fitzhugh, organist, accompanied Miss Beth Hayworth as she sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Twelfth of Never."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of Dulcette sparkle crepe, designed in a slender silhouette accented by yoke front and long sleeves of Brittany lace. Lace bordered the hemline and accented the cathedral train. Her veil of illusion fell from a jeweled crown of seed pearls and crystals and she carried a bridal cascade of Frenched carnations, centered with white orchids and a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Alton Fields was maid of honor. She wore a street-length dress of green satin with a yoke of white Brittany lace, matching satin shoes and white elbow-length gloves. Her headpiece was a green daisy with brief veiling, and she carried a nosegay of white daisies backed with matching tulle.

Miss Martha Choat and Miss Sally Townes were bridesmaids. They wore identical street-length dresses of pale yellow daisies backed with matching tulle and showered with velvet ribbon.

Tammy Robinson of Forsan was flower girl. She wore a yellow satin dress and carried a nosegay of daisies. Steve Cowley of Forsan was ring bearer.

WEDDING TRIP

The couple left on a wedding trip to Padre Island. For

Fort Worth Residents Are Wed

Double ring wedding vows were said by Miss Sharon Ann Metcalf and Paul Warren Howard Friday evening in the Birdville Baptist Church in Fort Worth.

The Rev. Dwaine Greene, pastor, performed the nuptial service as the couple stood before an archway flanked with seven-branched candelabra entwined with greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James Wilson, Fort Worth, and the late Ralph Metcalf. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Howard of Fort Worth.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Aubrey Burnham, the bride was attired in a street-length dress of silk organza, accented with applied flower motifs over peau de soie. She carried a white orchid bridal bouquet on a white satin bible.

Miss Linda Metcalf, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She chose an Empire A-line dress of blue crepe designed with soft pleats and scooped neckline. She wore a matching velvet hair bow and carried a long-stemmed white carnation tipped with blue.

BEST MAN

Larry Castor of Fort Worth was best man.

The couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, and for traveling, the bride chose a yellow linen dress, trimmed with lace edging, and white accessories. The couple will be at home at Woodland Terrace Apartments in Hurst.

The bride, a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School, is employed by Olan Mills Studio in Fort Worth. The bridegroom graduated from Hallow High School in Fort Worth and Texas Christian University. He is assistant manager of Mitchell's Department Store in Fort Worth.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the home of the bridegroom's parents. Those in the receiving line were the bridal couple and the parents.

The refreshment table was laid with a white net cloth edged in satin underlaid with white linen and decorated with blue and white wedding bells. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple, and crystal and silver appointments completed the setting.

Keep Heavy Objects Off Stored Blankets

Never pile suitcases or other heavy objects on top of those blankets in bags on the closet shelf. A heavy load will destroy the air spaces that give blankets a fluffy look and springy feel, and may flatten the "nap."

REHEARSAL DINNER

The parents of the bridegroom hosted a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at Coker's Restaurant where the table was centered with an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums accented with greenery. The honored couple presented gifts to their attendants. Approximately 25 attended.

A reception was held in the church parlor. Miss Donna Reid presided at the guest register. Others in the house party were Mrs. Bill Sewell, El Paso; Miss Janice Anderson, Miss Gail Arrington, Mrs. John Rains and Mrs. David Griffith.

The refreshment table was laid with a white tulle cloth trimmed with lace cutwork daisies and ribbons. The four-tiered wedding cake highlighted the table, which was centered with a basket of daisies surrounded by the attendants' bouquets. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hagar, and Mr. and Mrs. Mac Chesney, all of

A Devotional For The Day

Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness. (I Chronicles 16:29)

Population Explosion No Myth

It has become so well established as to be axiomatic that the worst crisis in history will soon confront the human race if effective steps are not taken to curb the so-called population explosion. The mathematics of the situation precludes any other conclusion. If the present rate of growth continues, world population will virtually double within the next three decades. The resultant problems, of which food supply is only the most evident, might well be insurmountable.

The grim considerations underlie President Johnson's appointment of a committee to review federal policies on population control and to recommend a course of action.

The committee headed by Welfare Secretary Wilbur J. Cohen is charged with a four-fold task. It will be expected to define the government's role in research and training in population control, to recommend a program for helping U.S. families gain access to birth control information and services, to suggest forms of cooperative action with other countries and international organizations, and to propose ways of informing the American people about the problem.

In some respects the latter is of primary importance. Americans are at present not sufficiently aware of the need for population control as a means of averting worldwide tragedy. Not until the public programs which will be recommended attract widespread affirmative support.

The population explosion is not a vague future problem that can be left to succeeding generations. The need for action on a worldwide scale is urgent.

Matter Of Conscience

The rights and wrongs of opposing causes in the Nigerian civil war are open to argument. Good points can be made in behalf of both sides.

But the rights and wrongs of the conflict are overshadowed by a matter of simple humanity.

Because they have been cut off from their normal food supplies, the Biafrans — notably the tribesmen who are the driving force in the effort to secure their region's independence — are on the verge of mass starvation. It is estimated that hundreds of thousands of Biafrans will starve to death within the near future if they do not receive large emergency food shipments.

The Red Cross and other international aid organizations have begun to mount an airlift of both food and medical supplies. This is an undertaking that deserves vigorous encouragement and support. It is not ideology, but simple human need, that is involved here. If Biafrans are allowed to starve, this will be on the conscience of the entire civilized world.

David Lawrence New Proposal For Naming Judges

WASHINGTON—At last the Congress of the United States is beginning to give attention to the political manipulation of America's system of selecting judges. Concrete proposals are now being made to eliminate the abuses.

Sen. Sam Ervin, D., N.C., who has been criticizing appointments to the judiciary made "for political purposes and not for judicial excellence" has offered an amendment to the Constitution to provide a new way for the President to choose justices of the Supreme Court of the United States.

UNDER THE Ervin proposal, when there is a vacancy on the court, the President would be required to call a conference of the presiding judges of the highest court of each state and of the chief judge in each of the 11 United States circuit courts of appeals. This conference would designate and transmit to the President the names of five or more persons considered qualified to fill a vacancy on the high court. The President would be obligated to select one of the designated persons for nomination. If the Senate did not confirm the first name, the President then would be obligated to pick someone else from the list.

SEN. ERVIN contends that this would tend to eliminate the practice of selecting judges on the basis of "personal friendship with the President, political services rendered to the political party in power, or past association with politically potent groups."

Up to now, the Department of Justice either has submitted names to the President in advance or has

Billy Graham

We don't agree with our Sunday School teacher about John 3:7 where it says: "Ye must be born again." He says it can happen only once. Please give us your opinion. M.D.

The Bible says: "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are become new." (II Corinthians 5:17). When any person becomes tired of his narrow, selfish life, when he confesses his sins and asks the Father to forgive him, the Holy Spirit can enter his mind and heart and make him a new creature. Then he can make a fresh start. This should be necessary only once. The Bible says: "We know that whosoever is born of God sinneth not." (I John 5:18). A person who has been born again will say "no" to temptation. When he has surrendered his life to Christ he will walk a new way, and no longer trip over the old stumbling blocks.

If you once thought you were born again, and now have fallen back into the old sinful ways, you didn't experience a true re-birth. But our religion is one of the second-chance. Jesus didn't come to condemn, but to save. Completely surrender your life to Him and you will truly be born again. You will know when this happens for you'll experience the joy of a new life in Christ.

LBJ Appeals For Wage-Price Restraints

NEW YORK (AP) — The Johnson administration appealed this past week for restraint on wage and price increases as a means of stabilizing the economy.

But there was no mention of the possibility of government controls in these areas.

The first exhortation came from President Johnson's Cabinet Committee on Price Stability. Johnson followed it up with a personal appeal.

The committee, in letters to several hundred business and labor leaders, said the economy is still on "a dangerous road."

It contended that the deflationary benefits of the income tax increase would be largely lost unless there is more restraint on prices and wages.

The committee said it was particularly concerned that price increases would follow labor contract settlements in the steel, aerospace, ports, coal, airlines and railroad industries. Contracts expire or are subject to reopening in these fields in the next few months.

CRITICAL TIME
Johnson called the months ahead "an especially critical time in our battle against inflation."

"Whether or not we re-establish noninflationary prosperity quickly, and in an orderly way depends on the decisions which the leaders of American labor and business

STILL TOUCHY

- President appeals to both labor, management for restraint
- Warns that economy is still on "dangerous road"
- Little reaction, but labor chief says it's "unrealistic"
- New car sales continue to show gains; home interest soars
- U.S. gold position gains $213 in June, best in months will make in the coming months," he said.

There was little public reaction from business and labor.

Leonard Woodcock, vice president of the United Autoworkers Union, said the request for wage restraints is "totally unrealistic" and will be ignored. He heads current UAW contract negotiations with McDonnell-Douglas Corp., a major aircraft manufacturer.

Steel users were in good shape to withstand a strike. They have been building up their inventories of steel for several months as a hedge against a work stoppage. Meanwhile, steel production last week declined for the fourth consecutive week, dropping 1.7 per cent to 2,621,000 tons from 2,667,000 tons the previous week.

Sales of U.S.-made cars in the middle 10 days of July advanced 3.4 per cent to 241,991 from 234,976 a year earlier.

GAINS NOTED
Year-to-year percentage gains by the four automakers were: General Motors 1.3, Ford 2.4, Chrysler 11, and American Motors 4.4.

The U.S. gold situation sparked in June with a gain of $213 million in the country's supply — one of the largest increases in more than five years. It was the first gain in U.S. gold since a $2-million increase last September.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported that interest rates on conventional home loans rose sharply in June to nearly 7 per cent.

To Your Good Health Putting Vitamins In Their Place

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Lately I have been reading about vitamin therapy. Some near-miraculous results and cures have been achieved by detecting and correcting vitamin deficiencies.

If such positive results have been obtained — even for such diseases as heart disease, diabetes, hypertension, obesity, etc. — why is not more generally known about this method of treatment? Please comment on the pros and cons of self-initiated vitamin therapy and of the dangers, if any, of taking too much. — M. L. H.

Seems to me — I'm a bit hazy on it — that there were some claims being made by somebody that heavy doses of vitamins could cure a lot of things. That may be what you have in mind.

Well, don't believe everything you hear. Vitamins don't cure heart trouble. They have little to do with diabetes. They aren't a remedy for hypertension and are not a deterrent to obesity.

Don't get me wrong. In all these conditions one or another vitamin may be used as a dietary supplement when necessary. I have the highest respect for vitamins, and the discovery of vitamins was one of the classic advances in health care.

But like anything else in this world, you must use great things for the purposes which they can accomplish and not delude yourself by believing the impossible.

amin C), pellagra (niacin), Beriberi (Vitamin B-1), rickets (Vitamin A and D).

But keep in mind the fundamental fact: all of those diseases were caused by lack of those particular vitamins. Making up the deficiency was the correct treatment.

That is the one thing that must be kept in mind about vitamins. They are necessary to the proper functioning of the body, just as food and air and water are necessary. They are not medicine any more than water is medicine.

Like other necessities, getting too much is not useful. One needs enough food to prevent starvation, but getting too much food never cures anything; it just makes you fat.

Of the various vitamins, only two become toxic when you get too much, Vitamins A and D, and it takes quite an overdose of them to cause trouble. But trouble with them is possible.

As for the others, once you have taken more than the body can use or store up, the rest is merely discharged from the body doing no harm except to your pocketbook, but doing no good.

Vitamins are catalysts, chemicals which assist or make possible body processes. They have to do with growth, luster of the skin and hair, health of the eyes and various other membranes, and with intestinal function. The amounts have been determined, and in general very small quantities suffice and are tabulated as the "minimal daily requirement."

Vitamin deficiency results usually from dietary omissions or restriction (the one exception being pernicious anemia, which is controlled by B-12). Dietary eating habits; peculiar likes or dislikes. Dietary restrictions may be imposed in conditions such as ulcers, colitis, malabsorption, food allergy, and the like.

So much money is thrown away by people who routinely take vitamins "because they are good for you," that the most economical rule is to take them only if your doctor sees signs that you need them.

Around The Rim

Standing Tall In The Morning

The world has enough of its long-established woes, like athlete's foot, and strange dogs messing up your front lawn, without somebody bringing in new ones — woes, that is.

But now a couple of researchers say they have established that a person can shrink an inch in height during the day's activities. Their finding is that the change occurs when the spinal column relaxes and stretches during sleep, then compresses during the load of a day's exertions.

THIS MAY not be very important to a guy who's 6-4, but when he has to tiptoe to be 5-5, he can ill afford to lose an inch.

This piece of intelligence now enlightens me on some of the conversation that has taken place around our house at different times.

Like, one morning after a fine night's sleep, a big breakfast and a jaunty attitude toward what the day might bring, I turned to salute the Helmpate a gay goodbye. And she said:

"My, lover boy, you are standing tall this morning."

I THOUGHT this was the customary sarcasm, since I didn't have on my built-up shoes, but I did pull myself up to a good 5-4 and strutted out the door.

Into the car, I found the rear-view mirror was too low. What the heck? It was in the proper adjustment when I came home the evening before.

Nevertheless, still tall in the car seat, I went on to the office and sort of ducked as I walked through the door.

THIS WAS to see if anybody else would observe that I stood tall. Nobody did.

Well, the day wore on, as did my physical being and temperamental attitude, and sure enough, I did feel a bit of a sag. Never realized, though, it would change all physical measurements.

So, when I got home that evening, the Helmpate greeted me in quite another way.

"So you're home, droopy-drawers? How come the cuffs of your trousers are dragging the floor?"

THIS KIND of a thing will take the spirits out of a fellow, and no wonder he droops.

As mentioned, I didn't know about all this change in height, not having talked with the researchers at the time.

Now, I could have a good answer: It's just that I'm an inch taller in the morning than I am at night. Or an inch shorter in the evening than I was in the morning.

FOR THOSE of us who have to stretch to reach the parking meter, the new finding could be just the direction to change everything. My theory now is that if a fellow stayed in bed for 18 hours, and worked, say, about four, he could over a span of time increase his height by maybe three, four, five inches.

This is my new challenge. I want to stand tall rather than stepping on the bottoms of my trousers.

It just takes a spine that relaxes and stretches, that's what it takes.

Getting The Real Poop On The Kremlin

MOSCOW — A diplomatic reception in Moscow has tremendous significance, not only because of the good food and free liquor, but because it is where most foreign observers learn what is going on in the Soviet Union.

I attended a large diplomatic cocktail party at one of the foreign embassies last week and I was amazed at what the professional Kremlin-watchers got out of it.

This is how the conversation went later on in the evening, when everyone was comparing notes:

"Did you notice Golovsky arrived after Kubinsky?"

"THAT'S VERY interesting, because at the Fourth of July party at the American Embassy Kubinsky arrived after Golovsky."

"And at the Fourteenth of July party at the French Embassy they came together."

"Very significant. By the way, did anyone see Petrov shake hands with Puchinsky?"

"I was going to call that to your attention. It's strange that Petrov should shake hands with Puchinsky when the last time they met, Petrov only nodded at Puchinsky."

"Perhaps Puchinsky's star is rising in the President."

"Or maybe Petrov's star is falling."

"I THINK WE have overlooked the real significance of the handshake. It is not that Petrov shook hands with Puchinsky, but Puchinsky's wife did not talk to Petrov's wife."

"Are you sure?"

"Of course I'm sure. Puchinsky's wife turned her back on Petrov's wife to say hello to Bolgonoff's wife. It was a deliberate snub."

"THAT'S VERY interesting. But to me the most important thing that happened at the reception was that Bolgonoff was drunk and spilled vodka all over Marshal Igorvitch's uniform."

"What is so important about that?"

"Igorvitch was the one who apologized."

"Bolgonoff's star must be rising faster than we thought."

"No doubt about it. Marshal Igorvitch even went and got Bolgonoff another vodka."

"Did Bolgonoff spill that vodka on Igorvitch's uniform as well?"

"NO, BUT HE stepped on the marshal's foot and wouldn't get off it."

"I wonder if this means they're going to make Bolgonoff minister of defense?"

"He's obviously in for something big. I've never seen Marshal Igorvitch allow someone to stand on his foot for so long."

"Did anyone see Zubeikin at the party?"

"You mean the Tashkent poet who was ousted from the Writers' Union for writing a poem attacking the traffic policemen on Gorskoy St.?"

"THAT'S THE ONE. He's been rehabilitated and is now permitted to write anything he wants, providing he doesn't ask anyone to publish it."

"The Writers' Union must be going through one of their liberal periods again."

"Did anyone notice that Gogol spilled vodka on Mutiken?"

"It means nothing. Everyone in Moscow spills vodka on Mutiken. He's become a regular bar rag."

We Cannot Have More Of The Same

WASHINGTON—A personable, vigorous, highly photogenic ghost stalked the Governors' Conference just ended in Cincinnati as indeed he stalks the national political scene. The name of this attractive, dynamic ghost is John V. Lindsay, who is mayor of New York.

AGAIN AND AGAIN in private discussion and occasionally in public comment Lindsay's name came up. The reason is not hard to discover. For Republicans, and perhaps even for Democrats, Lindsay is a will-o'-the-wisp of hope that there is an escape from the oppressive inevitability of presidential candidates who register so low on the enthusiasm barometer.

"Just suppose," one Republican governor said, "that there's a deadlock in the convention in Miami Beach with Nixon, Rockefeller and Reagan unable to get a majority of the delegates. Lindsay is put in nomination and Rockefeller throws his strength to him. Why, they'd go wild. He'd have the nomination."

THIS IS, of course, a midsummer night's fantasy evoked out of the boredom and emptiness of the Cincinnati Conference. Even for vice president, if either Richard Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller is the presidential candidate, Lindsay can be ruled out.

The provision in the Constitution that the electoral votes of a state may not be counted for a President and a vice president from the same state disposes of that.

What Lindsay stands for in relation to the desperate needs of the cities has little or nothing to do with his appeal to the press casting about for an attractive alternative to the old politics. He conveys vibrant youth. He seems to speak what he believes and not the rhetoric of the past.

WHEN THE NIXON strategists cast covetous eyes at him, ignoring the constitutional provision, they praise him for his ability to open a dialogue with the Negro minority in the ghetto. They talk about how he walks the troubled streets of Harlem and Bedford-Stuyvesant and meets face to face the militant blacks and the restless young angry at the cutbacks in summer programs.

All this is true. Lindsay has shown great courage. His forthright confrontation with the ghetto may be the reason New York has thus far had no renewal of major rioting.

BUT, AS HE shows better than anyone, the dialogue in the streets is only a beginning, a campaign asset. Like a television presence, it is a holding action that gains confidence and a measure of goodwill. If steps are not taken on the basis of this goodwill to remedy the evils of the core cities, then it may be worse than nothing.

It was an outsider who spoke that truth. John Gardner, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and now head of the Urban Coalition, told the governors what he has been telling each of the presidential candidates in private. The new President who takes office in January simply cannot go on doing more of the same. He must come forward with gain acceptance for a dynamic new plan to make over not just the cities, but all America.

HE PUT IT bluntly to the governors. This cannot be done without new taxes to provide the very large sums required. The governors did not like it.

The cynics will say that election campaigns are not meant, as Gardner advocated, to bring the electorate to a commitment for future action. The voters will run from the candidate who tells them home truths about the needs of the future. They prefer to believe that, if only the wicked ins are turned out in favor of the virtuous outs, all will be for the best once more in the best-possible-of-worlds.

Opposite Sex Raps Get Ax

HOUSTON (AP) — Eleven women were to go on trial Friday charged with "wearing clothes of the opposite sex."

But the trial never materialized because the Corporation Court judge dismissed the cases.

Vice squad detectives who had made the arrests failed to appear in court. Two were on vacation and two were in another court.

The way the vice squad tells it, a bunch of girls were whooping it up in two night clubs last September.

"They were dressed in men's pants, men's shirts and men's shoes," said vice squad Sgt. G. S. McMenemy.

"This is a violation of the city's ordinance that forbids wearing the clothes of the opposite sex," McMenemy added.

One of the defendants, built on non-twiggy lines, said: "I'm a truck driver. That's why I wear men's clothes."

Motels, Restaurants Feel Effects Of HemisFair

Promoters of HemisFair said in the beginning that the official world's fair in San Antonio this year would mean extra dollars to Texas businesses through an increase in tourists. The money is coming now in the fair's fourth month, and Big Spring is getting its share.

A check of motels, service stations and restaurants along US 87, which goes directly to San Antonio from Big Spring, revealed that there have been increases in business since HemisFair opened its doors in April.

US 87 goes north from Big Spring through Lubbock, Amarillo, Denver, and Billings, Mont., to make a scenic tourist route through the Rocky Mountains and Great Plains.

Motel operators say business is always good during the summer, but those located around the by pass and on US 87 declare that a lot of the business is from people going and coming from San Antonio.

Restaurants also show increases this summer, and operators believe a good part is due to HemisFair traffic.

Local Teachers Share In Month Bilingual Study

The month-long bilingual institute, sponsored by the West Texas Education Center, concluded Friday with an open house.

Mrs. Lee Schattel, Mrs. Max Zant and Mrs. Ira D. Williams, Big Spring, who participated in the intensive training sessions, joined the other 17 participants in displaying curriculum materials prepared during the institute.

The institute explored various methods of teaching bilingually, but it focused primarily upon teaching English as a second language. The participants were selected by superintendents and principals to represent a variety of teaching backgrounds in Region XVII. Procedures and materials they developed may be used to arm other teachers with knowledge of how to reach the Mexican-American child.

Director of the institute was Dr. Zenobia Verner, Texas Tech. Consultants included Dr. F. Allen Briggs, University of South Florida; Josue Gonzales, San Antonio Bilingual

Three Found Dead In Plane Wreck

PHILLIPSBURG, Kan. (AP) — Three Phillipsburg residents were found dead Friday in the wreckage of a light plane in which they had started a flight to Arkansas Wednesday.

They were Stanley Kinter, 28, the pilot, his wife, 25, and Tom Schneider, 42.

The wreckage was in a field three miles southeast of Phillipsburg.

The plane was believed to have taken off from the airport about 5 a.m. Wednesday for Batesville, Ark. A clock in the plane had stopped at 5:15.

Eager Six Hurt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Six prisoners at a Nashville jail were only a couple of stories away from freedom when their improvised rope broke and they ended up in a hospital. Sheriff John Frazier said the six had knotted sheets together to make a rope, but apparently were so eager to leave that they all tried to slide down at once.

Collision Fatal

HOUSTON (AP) — Emanuel Edmondson, 40, was killed Friday night in the collision of two cars. The impact threw Edmondson from his automobile which rolled on him.

Threat To Land Called A 'Quiet Crisis'

By SID MOODY
AP News Features Writer

In the beginning was the land, all there would be, then and forever: mountain and meadow, forest and prairie.

Man came later. He humbled the land, mile upon mile, town upon town. The wide spaces narrowed and narrow still. And will it end only when the suffering land, all of it, is gone, rutted and shorn by man's plow and his axe?

The Dust Bowl of the 1930s; the clawed scars of strip mines in the Kentucky hills of yesterday and right now; scummed rivers lethal to life: man has done it all.

RAPE

Such rape and its consequences, says Stewart Udall, is America's "quiet crisis."

Not just because of its sheer waste, but because man, as he changes the land, is tampering with the very house in which he was created. And no one, none, can say if after millennia of such tampering man will not stand homeless in an alien nature he desecrated. An example:

A young boy desirous of a bike saved up money by trapping skunks around his family's upstate New York farm. The bike finally bought, he pedaled to the pond where he used to enjoy watching wild ducks raising their young. They were gone. Why? The skunks he trapped fed on turtle eggs. No skunks, more turtles—who ate the ducks.

That has the simplicity of a bedtime story. Consider, then, this potential nightmare. In Brazil there is talk of making a reservoir in the Amazon basin as large as Western Europe. "Has any one asked what withdrawing this much oxygen-producing green might mean to mankind?" asks David Brower, outspoken executive secretary of the Sierra Club, a U.S. conservationist group.

Can man, who dams rivers, levels forests and paves the swamp, be so arrogant as to be sure he is no more than that little boy traveling a path whose end he knows not? Voices have been heard before: keep America's air fresh, her streams pure, her cities clean. Now there are those that warn: save the wilderness while some remain.

NEWER

They argue for reasons of aesthetics, for traditional reasons of conservation. And for a newer one: that the virgin wilderness may some day be man's ultimate chance for his own survival.

"It is not given man to make a wilderness," said Brower, quoting from author Wallace Stegner. "But he can make a desert. And has."

And cut off in such a desert, having blighted the plant and animal whose destiny he shares, man conceivably could wither. Some day.

Some facts:
—The land and water area of the 50 states totals 2.3 billion acres.

—Of this, about 10 per cent remains as time has made it. The rest: cities, farms, highways, reservoirs, factories.

From this 10 per cent the United States will set aside large areas of wilderness. This was decided by the Wilderness Act of 1964.

But pivotal questions have not been decided: how much wilderness is enough: for aesthetics, for conservation, for, perhaps, survival? And what, to be sure, is a wilderness?

The act defines wilderness as "an area where earth and its community of life are untrammeled by man, where man himself is a visitor who does not remain."

REALITIES

Congress, confronted with political realities, will permit mining in wilderness areas of the U.S. Forest Service until 1984.

Mining? In a wilderness? What, then, is a wilderness? Others wonder.

A lodge owner who owns land within a Forest Service wilderness is suing because, under the act, the service will only allow him to reach his property by wagon, not a gasoline-powered jeep.

Poachers have all but eliminated the American crocodile in the Everglades National Park to supply the market for ladies' shoes and handbags.

Udall, secretary of the interior, whose department contains the Park Service, battled with Orville Freeman, whose Department of Agriculture contains the Forest Service, over a proposed four-lane highway through Sequoia National Park to open up a skiing center on national forest land.

THUNDER

—Trees thunder to the ground daily while the argument goes on whether to create a redwoods national park.

"Every day they constantly chip away more of our resources."

That is a timber industry lobbyist talking of land set aside for conservation.

"They are constantly whittling away our resources."

That is a conservationist talking of the commercial users of the land. Clearly, each does not see each other's forest for the trees.

Some more facts:
The major land holders of the United States are the Bureau of Land Management, 452 million acres, about two-fifths of the nation, the Forest Service, 186.3 million acres, two-fifths of the nation's forests, the Fish and Wildlife Service, 28.5 million acres, and the Park Service, 27.5 million acres. The lands of the latter three agencies will be sites of the proposed wilderness areas.

The Forest Service, which allows multiple use of its lands including mining, grazing and logging, has, nonetheless, set aside 15 million acres as wilderness and primitive areas in a program begun in 1924.

By the act, however, these lands will have to be restudied as well as proposals of the other agencies and receive congressional approval.

STUDIED

The Forest Service has studied wilderness areas totaling 1.9 million acres so far and has designated one million to be presented to Congress. The Park Service is studying 37 areas ranging in size from 3,000 acres, the minimum under the act, to 100,000 acres, including such national parks as Isle Royale in Lake Superior and Lassen in California. Fish and Wildlife is considering about 90 refuges ranging from the huge 1.3 million-acre Kenai Moose Range in Alaska to the 5,900-acre Great Swamp refuge in New Jersey.

Last month President Johnson sent Congress the first actual proposals for official designation: 24 areas in 13 states totaling almost one million acres.

Making a capital "W" wilderness out of a wilderness, is, however, a thorny business. The Forest Service has proposed a 142,000-acre San Rafael Wilderness in the Los Padres National Forest in California. The Wilderness Society, a conservationist group that treads more softly but as determinedly as the Sierra Club through the nation's forests, claims the wilderness should include several thousand additional acres the Forest Service insists is vital for fire control.

The Park Service, too, has difficulties with its friends and foes. There are those, even in the department, who feel, stridently, that national parks should remain as primitive as possible. Few roads. Few lodges. None of the mob scenes that descend on Yosemite on summer weekends, littering the valley with trailers, beer cans and film wrappers.

RISES

Yet national park attendance, 130 million in 1966, rises about 10 per cent yearly.

What should be the over-all policy of the Park Service which welcomes many thousands to its Washington Monument and tens, if that, to the summit of its Mt. McKinley?

It tries to strike a mean of the greatest good for the greatest number—without impairing the virginity of the park. But does that mean all trails should be blacktopped, as some are, to keep the tourists off the greenery? Should Yellowstone's bears be behind bars looking out, or should the people be, looking in?

As competition for the finite land increases so does the necessity for the American genius for compromise. But can a compromised wilderness be a wilderness? Or even a park?

—The Cape Cod and Fire Island National seashores have glowing sandy beaches. And they have the private homes of residents it would have been too costly in time and effort to dislodge.

—Assateague Island in Maryland and Point Reyes in California are to become national parks. But land speculation has boomed the cost of their acquisition.

ORE RICH

—The Glacier Peak Wilderness in Washington has 450,000 acres of virgin land and the Kennecott Copper Co. owns 320 acres of ore-rich land right in the middle. Conservation, or copper?

—Canals cut by the Corps of Engineers have cut off natural water flow to the Everglades, endangering its flora and fauna. Wildlife, or waterways?

—The Great Swamp in New Jersey, a rare virgin wild only 30 miles from New York City, is the site the Port of New York Authority wants for a mammoth airport. Birds, or jets?

The effort to make Wilderness out of the wilderness creates some fine points, some small, some not.

Fish and Wildlife would like to create a Wilderness in Michigan in a refuge that is the nesting ground for the Kirtland warbler. But to provide optimum nesting characteristics for the little bird, the area must intentionally be burned over periodically. Which contradicts the definition of a wilderness under the act. What to do?

HOW MUCH

No one has determined even if it can be determined how much camping a wilderness can take and remain pristine. And camping guides are grumbling that they can no longer use power saws to clear trails and cut firewood as are snow gaugers who can no longer fly into the fastness by helicopter to estimate spring runoffs. What to do?

And what to do about intra-governmental competition?

The dispute between the Forest Service, with its multiple use program for national forests, and the Park Service, with its creed of minimal interference of the land, reached such a pitch in the 1960s that Udall and Freeman had to sign a peace pact that is now known as the "Treaty of the Potomac."

But who is the ultimate winner—or loser? The skiers, who can roam the Rockies for snow? Or the giant sequoias, who have but one home in the world?

On the other hand, if Freeman's assurances prove wrong and the sequoias are harmed, so what? Who really needs sequoias or Kirtland warblers or crocodiles or undammed mountain streams in a West always wondering where tomorrow's drinking water will come from? Who needs wilderness, really?

Surely, said a Forest Service planner, to the average man in the street a drive down the Blue Ridge Parkway in Virginia may be as much wilderness as he will ever see. Or ever want to.

COMFORT

"But at the same time there is a deep personal comfort to almost every one knowing that somewhere out there is a rugged land that is hard to get to but is there, unspoiled. Maybe some day he'll go, maybe not, but it's there."

"Man is a part of nature," said Udall. "He needs Great Swamps and Yellowstone and Alaska. They are his tie to the earth. The more we build a pressure cooker society, the more we need the wilderness as an escape valve."

"Maybe 50 years from now we'll be thanked more for what we didn't build than what we did," said an aide.

"More people go to movies than art galleries," said Nadel. "But we don't eliminate art galleries. I don't think anyone can halt what we call progress, but we need these oases where man can get back to himself."

"The wilderness is land that can be found in balance scientifically. It is run by the laws of nature, not man," said Nadel.

Suppose at some future day man finds he has tipped the balance of nature too far. Suppose he finds that he needs the seed, the animal, the unadulterated genetic resources that are the bases of his evolution? And suppose they are gone, or hopelessly distorted?

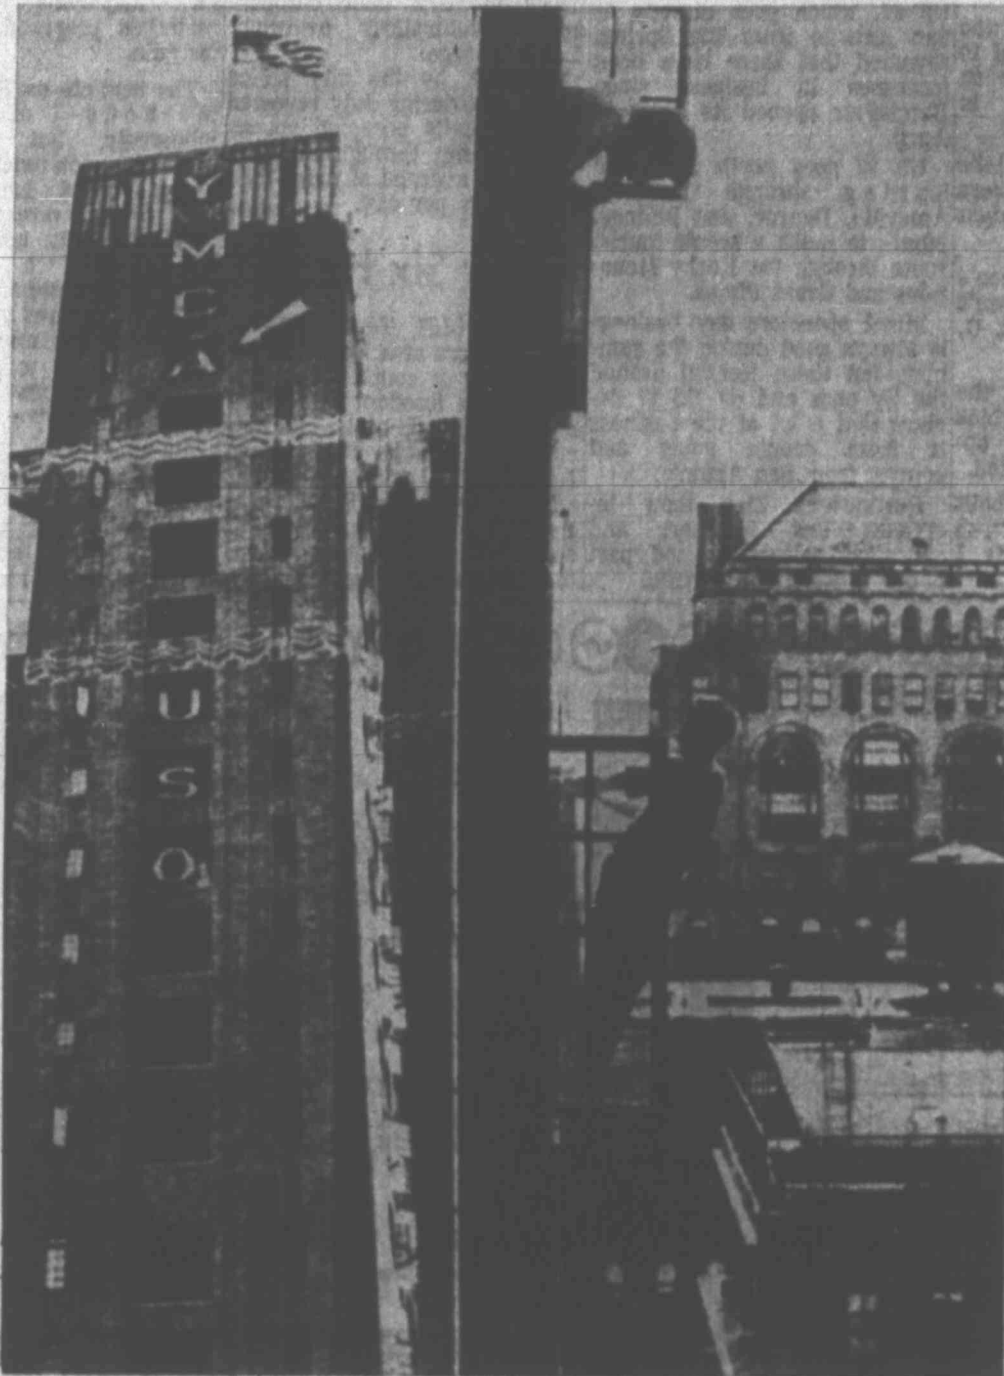

Then, indeed, may he cry ah, wilderness.

It is to prevent the possibility of such a dead end that a growing number of conservationists are looking to the wilderness as a gene "bank." If, for some reason, man needs a highborn sheep or a sequoia or the delicate harmony of a forest acre, it will be there, in the wilderness.

KEY

The key question, then, as Udall put it, "is whether we can draw laws in these areas (of conservation) with some certainty they won't be changed."

"The wilderness can't be won once and for all," said Brower. "It can only be lost once and for all."

SENSITIVE, CONFRONTED WITH PREJUDICES OF SOCIETY

Mixed-Blood Problems Posed

By KENNETH ISHII
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP)—People stare when Akitoyo Fukushima, a 20-year-old engineering student at Tokyo College, near Tokyo, walks down the street.

In Frankfurt, Alexander Schmidt, also 20 and a trained machinist, attracts second looks from passers-by.

The scenes are repeated every day in various parts of the world.

They are among the world's mixed-blood orphans, most fathered out of wedlock by American servicemen abroad after World War II. Some were fathered by Russian, Australian and British soldiers.

SENSITIVE

Sensitive over their illegitimacy and looks, confronted with the prejudices of a society that doesn't want them, the first generation of mixed-blood children has come of age.

The lucky ones were adopted early by families—mostly in the United States—to love, security and hope. Some have learned to live with their fate. Others have risen above the prejudices.

A few among those endowed with beauty—often resulting from Caucasian-Oriental blends—have turned their racial mixture to advantage to become models, actresses, or singers.

Others have turned to prostitution and crime whose frequency is highest among part-Negro children who have found the going roughest. The darker the skin, the greater the prejudice.

Schmidt, a part Negro "mischling," or mixed breed, as they are called in Germany, is highly critical of those looking for an easy way out.

"If you don't put yourself above such things as a mischling, you are lost," he says. "If a mischling has a set goal in life, then he can ignore much."

In countries like Japan, Korea and Germany, where large numbers of troops moved in as occupiers or allies into areas with no past interracial experience, the problem of "GI babies" has received special attention.

In other countries, where dark skin is not uncommon—like France and Britain that have had population influxes from former colonies, or Italy where southerners have a naturally deep tan skin—mixed-blood orphans have attracted less notice. Figures are harder to obtain, because the orphans blend in with local minority groups, or are treated like any others but no separate records are kept.

But the problem is a continuing one.

"And as long as soldiers are stationed overseas it will continue," says Mrs. Miki Sawada, founder of the Elizabeth Saunders Home, largest orphanage for mixed-blood children in Japan.

Mrs. Sawada has taken care of almost 1,400 children since she founded her home 20 years ago. Most have been adopted by American families.

Best estimates place the number of Japanese mixed-blood children at about 6,000, of which about 1,000 were born to parents legally married after the birth of the child.

Akitoyo is one of the 110 orphans currently at Mrs. Sawada's home, and she regards him as "one of my most promising children."

He was brought to the home when three years old by his mother from Gifu in central Japan, where the U.S. 24th Infantry Division was stationed.

DOESN'T CARE

But Akitoyo hasn't seen his mother since and says he doesn't care to. After finishing the elementary and high schools at the Saunders' orphanage, Akitoyo was accepted at the Tokyo Engineering University. Most mixed-blood orphans, unless they've been adopted, don't get beyond compulsory junior high school.

One place where mixed-bloods feel no discrimination is in the Japanese defense forces, and several of them have joined.

The same holds true in West Germany where the first of the American-fathered part-Negro boys are entering service in the Bundeswehr.

In Germany, estimates place the number of mischling—mostly illegitimate offspring of white German mothers and American Negro fathers—at 6,500. As in Japan most were born when the country was under Allied occupation.

Dr. Charlotte Schiffer, an honorary member of the Frankfurt City Council and foster mother to eight such children, observes that "everything is fine, except for the question of marriage."

Alex Schmidt is one of her charges.

REFUSAL

"If I were to get to know a (white, German) girl, and it would come to the question of marriage, I must reckon with the refusal of her parents," said the tall, lanky youth, a beard offsetting his handsome features.

Only about half of Germany's mischling children grew up with their families—often grandparents or relatives rather than their mothers.

Nevertheless, a labor shortage made it easy for mixed blood children to find apprenticeships and jobs.

As in Japan, many German mischlings placed in homes have been adopted, mostly by American Negro families. But figures are not readily available since West German officials, painfully aware of the Nazi past, are reluctant to classify citizens by racial background.

According to government statistics, during the 11 years between 1955-1966, a total of 3,727 mixed-blood children were adopted—3,400 by American families and the rest by foster parents in Europe.

The latest government survey shows 1,600 mixed-blood Koreans still unadopted, of whom 1,097 have white fathers and 508 Negro fathers.

ENCOURAGE

The government encourages adoptions as the best solution but most mixed-blood children live with their mothers or mothers' relatives in impoverished circumstances.

Others live in orphanages, one of which is near Seoul, run by Margarita Lee. Mrs. Lee says most of her orphans want to go to the United States, for discrimination against mixed-blood children is strong in Korea.

With the exception of Germany, the interracial problem in Europe appears to be minimal.

Officials point out that mixed marriages in London are not uncommon, so such couples would tend to find a niche in Britain's West Indian society as long as they stay there.

French welfare officials would say only that there were "many children resulting from liaisons between Negro American soldiers and white French girls, particularly after the arrival of American forces."

They stated these children were treated and eventually adopted as any white orphans, or sent out into the world with a trade or profession.

Indians Given Chance To Gain An Education

By NEIL BIBLER
Associated Press Writer

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP)—Montana's hard-core jobless Indian has a "cry in his heart to become one of the other people." A program at the University of Montana here is giving whole families that chance.

The $850,000 federal-state project takes the families off the reservation and places them on campus for study in basic education.

WITH IT

With the reading, language skills and arithmetic go health and home economics for the Indian housewives, public school for their older children and nursery care for the little ones.

The project is taking place near the Bitterroot Valley, which was once the home ground of the Salish Indians. To the north lies the reservation of Kootenai and Kallispells to which the Salish were moved in 1891.

May 17 is graduation day for 76 heads of families from Montana's seven Indian reservations. Most of the trainees had less than a high school education and were without jobs or locked in low paying ones.

36-week program. One project leader, Dr. James Hall, calls the drop-out rate "quite minimal."

"These people were school drop-outs before they entered the program," Hall says. "I would have been happy with 40 per cent remaining in." Hall is coordinator of extension and continuing education for the university. He drew the plans and got the money for the project.

The federal agencies involved—the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Manpower Development and Training Administration, and the Office of Economic Opportunity—consider the trainees for the most part the hard-core unemployed.

The project provides basic skills and prevocational orientation; the BIA then places the graduates in appropriate work, knowing the individual is ready for the higher step and has some idea of where he wants to go.

Statistically, the group in the basic education courses started with a grade-level average of 7.4 on the California Achievement Test. After 20 weeks of study, the average was 9.1. Twenty-two persons have passed tests to earn the equivalent of a high school education.

Less than one-quarter of the Indians was employed before the project. Those who held jobs earned $300-$2,500 a year.

Under the program, heads of family get $32 per week for subsistence, plus $5 for each dependent. They also get $70-$114 per month from the BIA. A family of five children gets $360 a month and pays its own rent and utilities for campus housing. They are given a BIA grant for furniture at the start.

Those in the family life program study such subjects as birth control, preparation of budgets, and how to cook nutritious and varied menus. They make field trips to supermarkets for shopping study and to banks for training in handling checking accounts.

OLD ENOUGH

Among the children, preschoolers who are old enough to head start programs, then return to the nursery. Toddlers and slightly older children spend the day there, but all eat with their families. School-age youngsters attend Missoula public schools.

Hall feels the program's success lies in working with the whole family. "It's with the single individual where you have the drop-out problem," he says.

Colorful Pancho Villa's Story Comes To The Ritz

The action-packed life of Mexico's most infamous citizen, Pancho Villa, will be portrayed by Yul Brynner in "Villa Rides," Wednesday through Saturday at the Ritz.

Added to the cast are popular stars Robert Mitchum, who plays an airplane pilot who joined the Villa army as a scout and bomber, and Charles Bronson, portrayed as Fierro, Villa's bloodthirsty aide.

The Technicolor production, directed by Buzz Kulik, is an American film, made in Spain and with a Mexico setting. The story, based on the novel, "Pancho Villa," by William Douglas Lansford, is about a series of incidents in the life of Villa when he fought insurgent military leaders determined to take power from President Madero.

Heading the list of Villa's enemies is General Huerta, played by Herbert Lom. Although Villa and Huerta start out on the same side for Mexico, Huerta's military ambitions soon cause a parting of ways.

Riders Sign To Appear In Junior Rodeo

Seven riders have already entered the 23rd Annual Howard County Junior Rodeo even though the show is still 10 days off. The entry list at this time includes Zane Neal, Big Spring, barrel race; T. Ada Sharp, and Marien Sharp, both of Lamesa, both entered barrel race, pole bending, and breakaway roping; Endgate Hawk, Lamesa, barrel racing, pole bending and breakaway roping; and Johnny Vandiver, Baird, bull riding.

The early entries indicate a big turnout of riders here, James Shelton, assistant county agent, thinks. Usually the bulk of the riders who are to compete in the local show, which is sanctioned by the American Junior Rodeo Association, are received two or three days before the first performance.

A downtown parade at 4 p.m. on opening day will officially kick off the 23rd edition of this rodeo which is a 4-H club sponsored event.

The performances are to be nightly at the Rodeo Bowl west of town.

A saddle will go to the best allround cowboy and cowgirl of the show and 40 silver buckles are posted for championships in each of the events for all age groups.

The saddle will go to the boy who accumulates the most points in the rodeo and who competes in at least two approved events. The same rule will determine the girl who is to get the other saddle.

Ward's Boot and Saddle Shop will donate one of the saddles and the new car dealers of the city will provide the other.

The buckles are being donated by business establishments.

State Arts Unit Announces Grants

Texas Fine Arts Commission Chairman Theodore H. Strauss has announced Commission approval of matching funds grants totaling $30,717 to be distributed to 11 applicant organizations for fine arts projects during the 1968-69 fiscal year.

While the total of all applications considered far exceeded the funds available for distribution, he and the other members of the Commission wanted to express their disappointment in the number of applications received, said Strauss.

Among applicants approved in this area were: Breckenridge Boys Choir, Breckenridge - $2,505; Project: To subsidize trips by the choir to an estimated 15 communities and events in Texas and to provide enrollment fees for underprivileged choir members.

San Angelo Symphony Society, San Angelo - $4,050; Project: To tour the San Angelo Symphony to area schools for a series of four full-symphony concerts and demonstrations.

CUSTER'S LAST STAND

Custer Makes Last Stand

"Custer of the West," a spectacular production based on the controversial story of the man who became a legend, will run Wednesday through Saturday at the Jet Drive-In.

Starring the English actor Robert Shaw as General Custer, and Robert Ryan as Sgt. Mulligan, the film from Cinerama Releasing Corporation also features Ty Hardin, Jeffrey Hunter, Kieron Moore and Lawrence Tierney.

Filed in Super Technirama and Technicolor, the action sequences include the General's fabled Civil War campaigns and Indian raids, a ride on a runaway train, a speeding trip down a twisting mountainside, and a raging slide through a swirling logging chute.

More than 1,000 riders took part in the thundering charges, photographed in the mountains and deserts of Spain. Six weeks were devoted to the famous "last stand" to make it one of the most authentic battle scenes ever filmed.

"The trouble with this big ole ranch is there ain't nypiece to ever take a short cut!"

Guardhouse Habitual Is Picked For Rescue Deed

Spending more time in the guardhouse than on duty, Paul Newman wages his own private battle in "The Secret War of Harry Frigg," which runs Sunday through Tuesday at the Jet Drive-In.

Frigg, a Gomer Pyle-type goof-off private, does contribute to the Allied cause, however, as he becomes a great escape artist in the Technicolor Universal Studio production.

After his adeptness at losing the guardhouse becomes known, Pvt. Frigg is promoted to major general with the task of effecting the escape of five allied brigadier generals who have been captured by the enemy.

Also starring in the film is Sylvia Koscina, who plays the Countess de Montefiore, Andrew

Peter Sellers' Many Talents In 'The Party'

Two motion picture talents who were responsible for the two all-time comedy hits "The Pink Panther" and "A Shot in the Dark" team again for the Mirisch Corporation presentation, "The Party," which United Artists, a Transamerica Corporation, is bringing to Cinema in College Parks Center Thursday in Panavision and Color by DeLuxe.

They're Peter Sellers and producer Edwards. The latter also had a hand in preparing the screenplay and directing the production. In addition, as in the case of the two former comedies, music is by Three-Academy-Award Winner Henry Mancini. Film also includes the new tune "Nothing to Lose" which is a collaboration of Mancini's with Don Black whose lyrics for "Born Free" won him an Oscar last year. The new song is sung by lovely Claudine Longet, wife of the crooner Andy Williams and soloist of the bestselling LP album "Claudine."

"The Party," described as a spoof of that great American institution the Hollywood party, is said to be unique in that it plays for laughs with comic situations rather than with fast talk. This, it so happens, is a Sellers specialty. The film is also "different" in that it uses only one set — the mansion of a Hollywood star — for its action. That the comedy situations come rapidly and in abundance is attested by the fact that Tom and Frank Waldman, famed for their work with Blake, collaborated in the screenplay.

'Green Berets' To Extend Its Run

Held over for an additional run at the Ritz Theatre is "The Green Berets" starring John Wayne, David Janssen and Jim Hutton.

The epic of the Army Special Forces will continue through Tuesday.

Praised for its realism as well as impact of story, "The Green Berets" has struck a popular response. It has given action and realism to Robert Moore's best seller by the same name. Filming was done at and near Fort Benning, Ga., where the producers set up a Green Beret strike camp, constructed two Vietnamese Montagnard villages, along with other smaller settlements and sets. This was topped off with use of a famous old Georgia Plantation (some of the last shots of the Civil War were fired there) to simulate the headquarters of a Vietnamese plantation.

But over and above the excellence in setting and casting is the story of the tough Army outfit that boasts that anyone man enough to take a beret from one of the Special Forces men can have it.

NEW FACILITY IS FAR AHEAD OF SCHEDULE
Contractor to wind up work on Post Office by mid-November

New Post Office Building May Be Ready By November

Big Spring's new million-dollar plus post office building is well ahead of schedule, and the contractor is planning to turn the building to the post office department sometime in November.

Lions Entertain Pilot Trainees

Members of Class 88-H, which recently began pilot training at Webb AFB, together with their wives, were guests of the Downtown Lions Club for a barbecue Friday evening.

The affair was held in the City Park amphitheatre, and Ace Ball and a combo put on entertainment for the occasion. Winston Wrinkle, chairman for the party, and Clyde McMahon Jr., club president, extended a welcome to the pilot trainees and expressed the hope that the club could help make their year in Big Spring a pleasant and successful one.

The party was one of a series which local civic groups give for each of the incoming clubs at Webb.

H. L. Pipkin, construction foreman, said that the entire job is moving with exceptional smoothness.

"We are now along far enough that weather cannot hamper us," he said. "We are now indoors and what little work outside can be handled without slowing down the job." One major task ahead in addition to the slower task of finishing the big building's interior is the cleaning up and grading of the grounds. The 52,000 square foot parking and loading area will be paved. Sidewalks will be built. Some landscaping is scheduled but, in general, the area around the building will be largely devoted to functional use.

Workers are pushing ahead with finishing touches in the huge work area where the mail will be handled. The second floor offices which will house federal agencies, is well along. The vault is in place and the heavy door installed.

The rent local boxes are on hand and will soon be mounted. Area Builders has the contract for the building. The Lubbock firm bid in the job for $801,650 on June 9, 1967. The net space in the structure is 30,500 square feet.

The building is located on a block of land between Fifth and Sixth streets on Main. The land was acquired from the First Baptist Church and other owners. Total cost of the building, land and incidental expenses is $1,387,000.

Pretty Rough Call

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — The softball game at McNeil Island federal penitentiary got a little rough. The final score was no runs, hits or errors, and 25 broken windows. Prison officials said an umpire enforced his decision by hitting a player over the head with his face mask. The player and a teammate retaliated with their bats, chasing the umpire off the field, then they fled to a cell house and vented their disgust on the windows.

Police Places Are Shuffled

Several changes due to resignations, retirement and promotion in the Big Spring Police Department were announced Friday by Jay Banks, police chief.

Banks said the Palma Hamill, radio operator for the department 17 years, retired Friday and was replaced by M. A. Webb, a member of the Police Reserve here since it was founded in 1962.

Previously announced was the resignation of L. R. H. Bronson, head of the identification and records division and headquarters operations. His resignation is effective Aug. 1, and then Capt. Stanley Bogard will become chief of a newly established division, the Bureau of Investigation, Identification and Records, Banks said. Bronson has been in the department 12 years.

Officer Pete Stone, an assistant in identification and records, will be promoted to sergeant to head that division, Banks said. Patrolman Bill Lee will become Stone's Assistant.

Webb was a member of the news staff for the Big Spring Herald, coming here in 1961 from the Sherman Democrat in Sherman. He left the Herald in 1965.

Bronson and his wife, Alice, will be moving to Turle Lake, N. D., where they will work at Turle Lake Memorial Hospital.

Capt. Bogard is a 13-year veteran on the police force here while Stone has been with the Department since 1964.

Highway Death

HOUSTON (AP) — A stalled car resulted in death Friday night on a freeway when another automobile struck it. Killed was Marian Rushing, 35, of Houston, a passenger in the stalled car operated by Charles Eaden of Coppell near Dallas. The victim was standing beside the halted vehicle. Eaden suffered minor injuries.

Desolate Burial Ground Beautified

By BRENDA GREENE

A project, started several years ago to beautify a desolate burying ground at the Big Spring State Hospital, is still going.

It is a project which was initiated by the volunteer council several years ago and has not been completed yet.

In order to beautify the hospital cemetery the first big step was to pipe water to the area. Mrs. Mary Cochran, volunteer coordinator, said. After the water was piped into the cemetery and the road was (it is now marked Cemetery Lane) graded, several groups and individuals donated plants and materials for the beautification projects.

Trees and flowers have been planted around the area and are cared for by staff and patients.

"Last spring we had a cemetery field day," Mrs. Cochran, said. "Volunteers, staff, and patients spent an entire day 'working' the cemetery and we had a fried chicken dinner on the grounds."

Concrete markers and metal name plates have replaced the old indistinguishable markers. They were given by a local firm.

Plans for the future include surrounding the cemetery with a low concrete block fence and planting more trees and shrubs. Before the council began the project, the cemetery was covered in weeds and a depressing sight, she said.

The cemetery is not a large plot of land. Most patients who die while in the hospital are not buried there. The 20-30 patients who are buried there each year are those who have no families or sufficient funds for burial fees.

If the case involves insufficient funds, the funeral homes charge the same fee that they charge the county for indigents.

Reagan Manages Los Alamos Unit

Ronald Reagan has moved to Los Alamos, N.M., but he isn't talking politics.

He happens to be the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl T. Reagan, 1310 Main, rather than the California governor. Reagan became manager of the Zale's jewelry store in the Los Alamos Community Center two weeks ago.

This is his first assignment as store manager after four years of training with the Zale's organization. He started here with a year at the Zale's store, then spent two years at Midland before being made assistant manager at Hobbs, N.M., for a year.

Reagan is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College. Like a brother, Donnie, and a sister, Treonne, who both are still here, he was active in the band program.

Killed By Car

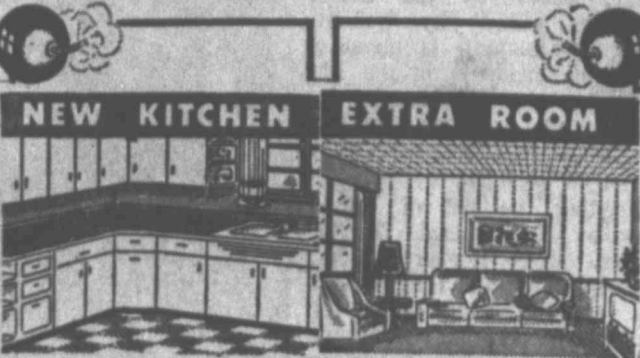

WINNIE, Tex. (AP)—A car struck and killed Herbert W. Cox, 61, Friday night as he walked across a roadway from his parked car. Winnie is in the Beaumont area.
