All Aboard Airliner Die In Crash

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A British Eagle International airliner crashed at nearby Pfaffenhofen today and police reported all aboard were killed. Police put the number at 57 but the airline said the plane carried 44 passengers and a crew of four.

The four-engine turboprop airliner crashed and burned about 300 yards from the Munich-Berlin autobahn in gray, misty weather, federal officials said. First reports from police said the plane crashed on the super highway.

All available emergency vehicles and fire equipment were rushed to the scene. Pfaffenhofen is 24 miles north of Munich.

Police said the plane was on a flight from London to Innsbruck, Austria.

Bavarian police said wreckage blocked the autobahn and flaming debris spread across all four lanes. At least one motorist on the road was reported badly hurt.

The airport at Munich-Riem said that when the plane made its last position report the pilot reported no difficulty. Then, a federal spokesman said, "The plane suddenly disappeared from the radar scope and the pilot reported no more."

Private Mail System

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Organizers of a privately owned mail system, complete with trucks and postmen, announced Thursday they are offering the service in St. Louis.

Tom Murray, 40, a businessman from Oklahoma City, conceived the service mainly as a way of delivering third class, or so-called "junk mail," cheaper and faster than the government can do.

"We will deliver bulk mail on specified dates instead of the first time a mailman happens to have room for it," Murray said.

Murray said his firm, called Independent Postal System of America, will be able to address and deliver bulk mail at a rate of $25 a thousand, which he said would be about $18 cheaper than the government rates.

Started last February, the firm now has offices in Ardmore and Tulsa, Okla., and Dallas, Tex., and franchise rights in the greater St. Louis area. Murray said businessmen in seven states have put up $2 million to start the service.

Killed At Six Flags

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A fall into the mechanism of the "El Sombrero" ride killed John Raymond Nelson, 18, an employee, at the Six Flags Over Texas amusement park Thursday night.

Fellow workers said he was stepping off to help unload passengers as the device was drawing to a halt. He apparently lost his balance, they said, and tumbled into a pit containing the machinery.

A Six Flags spokesman said it was the first fatal accident in eight years of operation for the park, between Fort Worth and Dallas, during which there have been 12 million visitors.

"El Sombrero" carries passengers in large seats shaped like a Mexican sombrero as it tilts and whirls on a circular track.

Mae West Signed

ROME (AP) — Mae West, the "come up and see me sometime" of the 1930s, has been signed for a part in a movie on Roman debauchery.

Director's Federico Fellini's movie company said today that the actress, 76, will be joined in her first foreign film by two other American comedy veterans, Groucho Marx and Jimmy Durante.

Repeals 'Fair Housing'

AUSTIN (AP) — The Austin City Council has repealed its "fair housing" ordinance in order to submit a revised version to the voters that is more acceptable to its opponents.

The Council voted 3-1 Thursday to kill the legislation, which was legally suspended in June after 25,000 voters signed petitions circulated by the Austin Realtors Board.

Two more votes by the Council are necessary before the repeal becomes effective.

Highest Honors For Webb

Lt. Gen. Sam Maddux Jr. (right), commander of the Air Training Command, presents a certificate to Webb's wing commander, Col. William C. McGlothlin, marking the 3560th Pilot Training Wing as recipient of the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. Ceremonies were conducted at the Webb flight line Friday morning.

Webb Wing Accepts Honors As An Outstanding AF Unit

The 3560th Pilot Training Wing (Webb AFB) threw out its chest Friday morning.

Its officers and men were proudly accepting the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award, highest honor the Air Force confers on its organizations.

In brief, formal ceremonies, Lt. Gen. Sam Maddux Jr., commander, Air Training Command, decorated the 3560th's banner with the emblem denoting the citation, then handed a special certificate to the wing commander, Col. William C. McGlothlin.

The program was held on the base flight line, and attended by a considerable gathering of both Air Force personnel and civilian guests.

Troops paid their respects to the visiting general, and after the presentation ceremonies, they passed in review before General Maddux; Maj. Gen. Eugene L. Eubank (Ret.), a special guest of his; and higher ranking officers of the wing.

Following the flightline ceremonies, Col. and Mrs. McGlothlin hosted an informal reception and coffee hour at the Officers Club, honoring General Maddux.

The local Wing won its award upon nomination of the Training Command, and approval by the Secretary of the Air Force. It cites Webb's outstanding performances in many areas during the years 1966-67, including its recognition in special awards; achieving high performance in handling the increased student load; and special achievements attained by various sections and departments of the Wing.

All permanent party personnel who were stationed at Webb during 1966-67 period will be authorized to wear an outstanding unit ribbon on their uniforms.

Shots Are Reported In Riot-Torn City

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Sporadic gunshots were heard today in the riot-torn black area of Miami where three Negroes were shot to death and 18 persons wounded during a savage night of looting and burning.

Occasional shots were fired out of automobiles into store windows but police called the day's renewed disturbances "minor." The sheriff's office said the area was "under firm control."

STANDS READY
But a National Guard force equipped with everything from shotguns to flamethrowers stuck to its guns in the "occupied territory," ready to move back into action at the first sign of new flareups.

"We are standing by," said a Guard spokesman, "waiting to find out what they are going to do. Then we'll make our own move."

As a new day began, City Manager Melvin Reese broadened and toughened the curfew, spreading it over a vast part of the city.

Reese ordered bars and liquor stores closed and an 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew established in an area bounded on the south by Northwest 1st Street, on the north by the city limits at 79th Street, on the east by Northeast 2nd Avenue, and on the west by 27th Avenue.

He slapped the same restrictions on the Negro area in Coconut Grove, in the city's southwest section, where scattered disturbances were reported.

In the Liberty City district, where the first racial violence in recent Miami history broke out 10 miles from the site of the Republican National Convention, police Thursday faced sniper bullets and barrages of rocks and bottles.

STRUCK BACK
Then they struck back. Two Negroes were fatally wounded during an exchange of gunfire at an apartment house.

Later, when a 550-block area embracing Liberty City was barricaded and swept by National Guard troops, another Negro was shot off a porch balcony in the Central Negro District to the south.

Sheriff E. Wilson Purdy declared a 6 p.m. curfew in an area bounded by Northwest 73rd Street on the north, the Northwest 36th Street Airport Expressway on the south, the North-South Expressway on the east and Northwest 22nd Avenue on the west.

As the curfew was imposed for the first time Thursday night, National Guard troop carriers swept the streets, huge searchlights swinging slowly from side to side.

"We're going to clean these streets," one officer barked to his men. "We're taking no bull this time."

NO TROUBLE
Later, a National Guard spokesman said that "once the sweep started, there was no trouble at all."

But, as the impressive show of force brought quiet to Liberty City, new trouble erupted in the Central Negro District.

Sgt. James H. Tomblay, a wounded Miami policeman, said a volley of shots was fired from a rooftop at Northwest 22nd Street and Northwest 3rd Avenue.

E. Jest Cleveland, a Miami Beach car washer, was shot in the head and toppled from the porch of his apartment.

Nixon Plans Ranch Visit With Johnson

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon set off on a new election crusade for the White House today by pledging not to undercut President Johnson or America's allies in the field of foreign affairs.

The Republican party's 1968 presidential candidate said he is going to the LBJ ranch in Texas Saturday to visit Johnson and to be briefed on the Vietnam war by Cyrus R. Vance, a top Johnson adviser and No. 2 U.S. negotiator at the Paris peace talks.

LBJ PHONED
Nixon told newsmen Johnson telephoned congratulations Thursday night for Nixon's smashing nomination victory and assured him "I'm going to play it straight down the middle" in keeping the Republican candidate up to date on the pace of Paris talks.

Beaming, although his face was puffy with lack of sleep, Nixon said Johnson told him: "Dick, you have my congratulations and my sympathy."

Nixon reinforced the gesture of unity by dropping the idea of a trip to the Soviet Union before the November election.

Earlier this week, when his quest for the GOP nomination stood challenged by Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California, Nixon announced he was considering a trip to Russia, possibly before the Democratic convention in Chicago later this month.

CAN'T GO
Since then, he said, he had "reluctantly concluded the trip cannot now be taken and will not be taken before the election."

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, the Republican vice presidential candidate, stood at Nixon's right during the brief session with newsmen. He will accompany Nixon to the Johnson ranch, the former vice president said.

On the political side, Nixon said the flurry within the Republican party over his selection of Agnew as a running mate was good for party unity.

The fact that 205 of the convention's 1,333 delegates were willing to go on the record in opposition to Nixon's personal choice for his No. 2 man cast doubt on the nominee's claim in his acceptance speech that the GOP "stands united before the nation tonight."

REVOLT
With some of the party liberals participating in what had the earmarks of a spontaneous revolt, Agnew polled 1,128 votes and Gov. George Romney of Michigan 178. Another 12 were scattered among other quickie candidates with 15 abstentions.

There was never any question about the convention's acceptance of Nixon's surprising choice of Agnew, barely known nationally except for his law-and-order stand and his tough lecturing of Negro leaders.

Texas Becomes Political Capital Of U.S. Today

By The Associated Press

Texas becomes the political capital of the United States for 24 hours starting today.

Within that period, the state will contain:

1. The President of the United States.
 2. The vice president.
 3. The Republican nominee for president.
 4. The Republican nominee for vice president.
 5. The other major candidate for the Democratic nomination for president in addition to Vice President Hubert Humphrey.
- President Lyndon B. Johnson has been at his ranch north of San Antonio for several days. Vice President Humphrey, in the state for two days of meetings and speeches, included a trip to the LBJ ranch on his itinerary.

But the sour reaction of party liberals — or moderates as some of them prefer to be called — was reflected in the scattered voting against Agnew.

Had not Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Nixon's major challenger for the top nomination, and James A. Rhodes of Ohio, a holdout against Nixon's nomination, ordered their delegations to stay in line for Agnew there might have been an even larger protest.

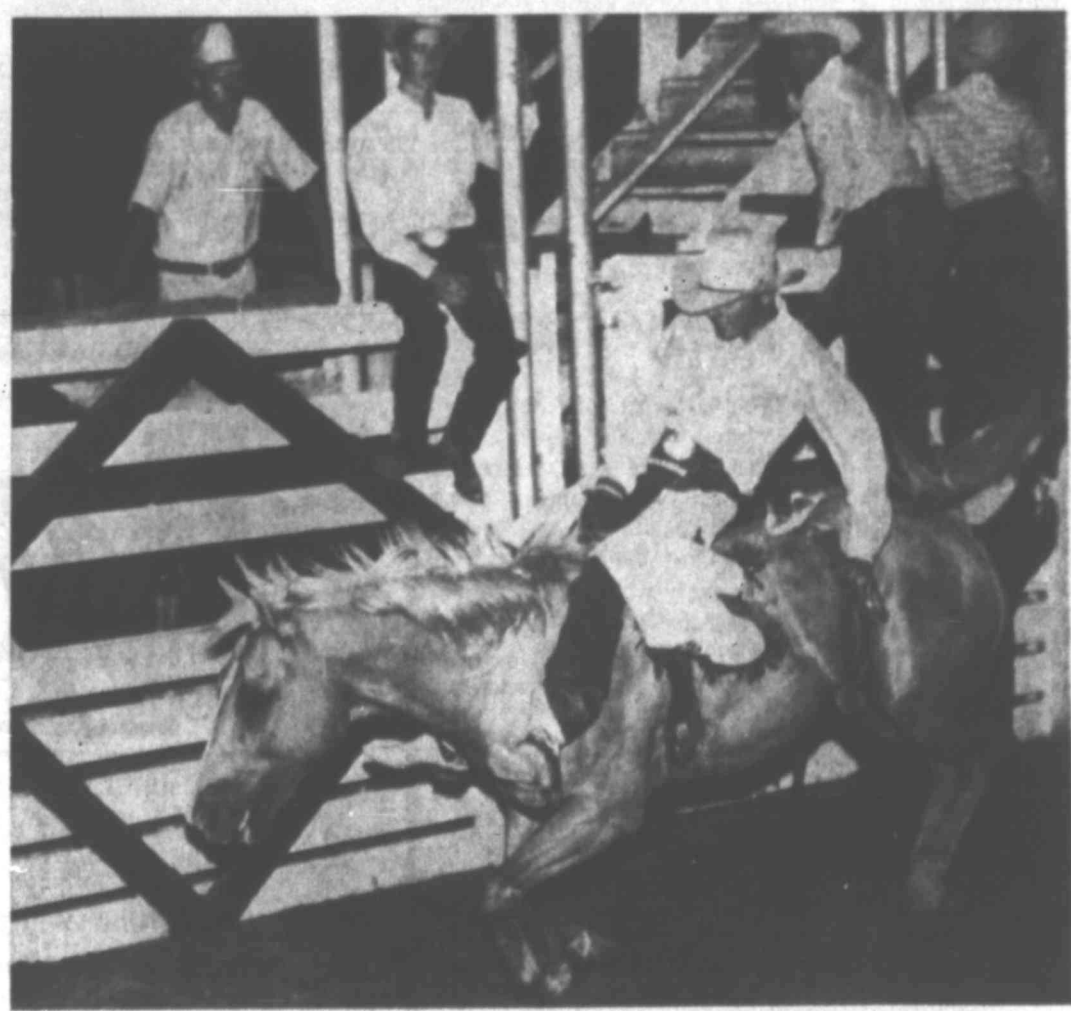

Nixon got a five-minute ovation before he could start his acceptance speech. He was interrupted frequently with applause as he asserted in the course of his speech that "this time we're going to win."

The nominee, preparing to depart for Mission Bay, Calif., for a rest and strategy sessions, also nailed down his control of party machinery.

Newly-nominated GOP presidential candidate Richard Nixon and his running mate on the presidential ticket, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, are due Saturday at the ranch for lunch and a briefing on the Vietnam War given by Cyrus R. Vance, a top Johnson adviser. The Nixon and Agnew families will accompany the candidates.

Humphrey headed for Corpus Christi to dedicate a new Army building and to discuss the American G.I. Forum. He leaves for San Antonio tonight and will tour a part of the city and visit the San Antonio World's Fair.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., along with Humphrey a major candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, campaigned in Houston today preparatory to a major rally at Hermann Park.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Wire Coat Hangers Make Quick Fence

Dear Heloise:

Here's an idea for a temporary, yet attractive little fence to keep pets and small children out of newly planted gardens and flower beds.

Nearly all of us have plenty of wire clothes hangers around the house. Gather a bunch and, hanging on to the hook part of each, pull it into a diamond shape, then straighten out the hooks.

Wire or tie each hanger together forming as long a "fence" as you'll need. Then just push the straightened hooks into the ground.

This hanger fence is easy to lengthen or shorten by just adding or taking off as many hangers as you wish. It can be used over and over and even folded up for storage.

I used white hangers so my fence would be easier to see and no one would trip over it.

Dear Heloise:

Here's a little hint my milkman gave me.

He said when storing cottage cheese, store the container upside down and it's more delicious that way. It not only keeps the air out, but when you open the container and spoon some out, the top part is moist.

I used to hate the very words cottage cheese, but have been forced to eat it daily due to health reasons and do you know what? I've even come to really like it! ... A Good Friend

Dear Heloise:

When hemming things which have lace to be added on the edge, I always turn the tiny hem up on the RIGHT side (especially linens) and put the lace on top of that.

Makes for a neat hem and finish on both sides. ... Dumb Dora

Indeed, it does. I think it's a lulu myself. ... Heloise

GOVERNOR'S WIFE AVOIDS SPOTLIGHT

Prefers Being Homemaker

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The wife of Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, Republican nominee for the vice presidency, is a plump, 5-foot-4 brown-eyed brunette who says her principal job will continue to be "making a home" for her husband and their four children.

Mrs. Agnew—her friends call her Judy—said when her husband was elected governor in 1966 that she planned to stay in the background, and that plan apparently hasn't changed.

"I go to receptions and I get up and do what I'm doing here today," she said Thursday, "but I'm not the speaker of the family. That's Spiro's job."

"I'll still make brief remarks at luncheons and teas and so on, when the occasion demands it, but I'm not a speechmaker. I'm not a real campaigner," she said when he took office in 1967. But campaigner or not, she has boundless energy and frequently travels with her husband and sometimes attends functions in various parts of the state when her husband has other commitments.

Mrs. Agnew loves to cook. She said when she moved into governor's house that she hoped "to be able to do some cooking myself."

"Ted loves my spaghetti and meat sauce... and crab cakes," she said.

But with Agnew campaigning for vice president, there'll be little time now for home cooking. Although Mrs. Agnew and her husband grew up near each other and she graduated from West est Park High School in 1940, three years after he did, they did not meet until both were working at Maryland Casualty Company. She was a secretary and he was a legal aide working his way through law school.

"He says he tripped over me in the file room," she recalls smiling.

Born Elinor Isobel Judofind on April 23, 1921, she is the daughter of the late Dr. W. Lee Judofind, a chemist and vice president of the Davidson Chemical Co. of Baltimore.

She and Agnew were scheduled to be wed at Christmas time in 1941, but Pearl Harbor delayed the wedding until the following May.

They have four children—Pamela, 25, a social studies teacher who lives in Baltimore; James "Randy," married and the father of a baby boy, he is stationed with the Navy in Vietnam; and Susan, 20, and Kimberly, 12, both living at home.

CONFEDERATE AIR FORCE COLONEL AND HIS DAMAGED SPITFIRE
Connie Edwards wins praise for handling disabled World War II fighter

Edwards Given Citation For Landing Spitfire

By SAM BLACKBURN
"Colonel" Connie Edwards, Confederate Air Force, has received a citation from the Royal Air Force of Great Britain for "airmanship and flying skill" in bringing a blazing and disabled Spitfire safely to earth.

Since Spitfires have been out of service for a quarter of a century and the one that Edwards was flying was, in essence, a museum piece, it is likely no other pilot, Confederate, British or otherwise will receive a citation at this late date for any performance in one of the spunky little fighters which played a vital role in the Battle of Britain in the fading 1930's.

Actually Edwards, whose home is in Big Spring, is in Britain now fighting once more the Battle of Britain — this time while movie cameras grind. Instead of Jerry anti-aircraft fire, simulated "ack-ack" dots the skies.

He and three other "colonels" from the Confederate Air Force were contracted by the producer of the $15 million film epic as pilots of the aircraft which were flown in that historic time during World War II. Part of the time, Edwards and his fellows have been flying Messerschmidts and wearing German Nazi uniforms, and other times, they have been British fliers piloting Spitfires.

Perhaps the air disaster, which befell Edwards and a passenger in the renovated Spitfire, made good movie fare if the cameras were grinding. At any rate, it gave the Big Spring flier and his passenger a hectic interval high above Bedford last July 9.

In a letter to friends here, Connie begins:

"Well not much has happened here since my last letter. I guess by now you have read of my daring feat in the burning Spitfire."

He explained that he was flying one of the dual two seater models in a mass formation of 12 Spitfires. Vincent Winter, assistant director of the film, was the passenger and as the RAF citation terms it "his passenger was non-aircrew."

The engine, Edwards reports, began to "bang and vibrate." He headed back for Duxford. "The blankety thing," writes Edwards, "came unwound on me. I first got a glycol fire with clouds of white smoke. There were orange flames all the way out the tail."

He called on his passenger to prepare to bail out and then realized that the disabled plane was right above the town of Bedford.

"I decided to head the old burning bomb on out to the country. When I started to open the canopy I got so much fire inside, that I closed it and set out to try and put the fire out."

The engine stalled.

"Seeing the cowl wasn't melting and the fire was all coming out of the stack area, (it finally went out but kept smoking) . . . I rolled out and belted it in."

"Col. Edwards," reads the citation given him by George Elliott, Wing Commander OC Spitfire Squadron, "elected to carry out a forced landing on a disused airfield he could see below."

"The landing gear was immobilized," Edwards, the wing commander relates, "carried out a very smooth belly landing causing minimum damage to the aircraft."

"Throughout this unpleasant incident," the citation continues, "Col. Edwards displayed the very highest standards of airmanship and flying skill, that only an expert aviator could accomplish. He is to be heartily congratulated on his handling of the situation."

Edwards will probably return from England in October.

Humphrey will attend a reception prior to the park rally. The $25-per-person reception will be held from 6 to 7 p.m. at the home of businessman Kenneth Dale Owen.

On the eve of the senator's arrival, the Houston Citizens for McCarthy headquarters issued a statement again criticizing the unit rule binding the Texas national Democratic delegation.

An Humphrey advance aide asserted that the visit would be non-political. He said Humphrey is coming to town as vice president and not as a presidential candidate.

then travel by motorcade to the Driscoll Hotel downtown and the American GI Forum convention.

Dr. Hector Garcia, founder of the Forum and long a Mexican-American leader in South Texas, will be among those greeting the vice president.

Security for the Humphrey visit is expected to be strong. Police officials met with Secret Service agents Wednesday.

Humphrey speaks at 8 p.m. to the convention and leaves for San Antonio at 10 p.m. His appearance at San Antonio Saturday will include a visit to HemisFair, a tour of some poverty projects and a barbecue.

McCarthy Houston Bound; Park Rally Slated Tonight

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Sen. Eugene McCarthy, seeking the Democratic nomination for President, campaigns in Houston today with a series of appearances climaxed by a speech at a rally in a city park.

Supporters predict 10,000 persons will attend the 8 p.m. rally in Hermann Park. Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas is slated to introduce the Minnesota senator at the rally.

Following his arrival about noon McCarthy was to appear at a news conference, a series of private meetings and attend a reception prior to the park rally. The $25-per-person reception will be held from 6 to 7 p.m. at the home of businessman Kenneth Dale Owen.

On the eve of the senator's arrival, the Houston Citizens for McCarthy headquarters issued a statement again criticizing the unit rule binding the Texas national Democratic delegation.

The release said "the make-up of the present Texas delegation clearly does not reflect fair representation."

"The imposition of the unit rule and other restrictive practics at the precinct level have denied millions of Texas Democrats any effective participation in their party's affairs," the statement said.

At Austin this week, Alan Reed, executive secretary of the Texas Citizens for McCarthy, said Texas McCarthyites and Texas Democrats for an Open Convention (TDOC) are collecting petition signatures and hope to present 75,000 to the Democratic convention credentials committee in opposition to the slate of delegates pledged to Gov. John Connally as a favorite son.

Jet Craft Noise Damages Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Attorneys for some 94,000 residents of suburban Inglewood have filed a $1.4-billion suit against the city of Los Angeles over jet aircraft noise.

The residents, who live near Los Angeles International Airport, said in their suit Tuesday that the noise resulted in "nervous and emotional disturbances of a permanent nature."

The Superior Court suit was filed just two weeks after the Airport Commission won approval to issue $410 million in revenue bonds to finance airport expansion.

"Col. Edwards," reads the citation given him by George Elliott, Wing Commander OC Spitfire Squadron, "elected to carry out a forced landing on a disused airfield he could see below."

"The landing gear was immobilized," Edwards, the wing commander relates, "carried out a very smooth belly landing causing minimum damage to the aircraft."

"Throughout this unpleasant incident," the citation continues, "Col. Edwards displayed the very highest standards of airmanship and flying skill, that

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♦ 1 ♠ Pass Pass
3 NT Pass Pass Pass
A potential nine trick swing hinged on West's selection of an opening lead against South's three no trump contract.

The first round of bidding requires no comment; however, South was confronted with an interesting problem when West's one spade overcall was passed back to him. Inasmuch as North was unable to take action, it appeared unlikely that the partnership could score a game in diamonds which would require the winning of 11 tricks.

On the other hand, South observed that there was a good chance to scramble home with nine tricks at no trump, provided that West led a spade. South accordingly jumped to three no trump which became the final contract.

West gave careful consideration to his opening shot. If he led the queen of spades to dislodge the king, he would probably establish four tricks for himself in that suit. However, West lacked a quick card of reentry and he feared that the unit of time surrendered to the declarer, by giving the latter a trick at the outset, might deal the defense a fatal blow.

West decided to lead from his sequence in hearts in the hope of finding his partner with something in that suit. The king of hearts was opened and East signaled encouragement with the nine. When the king held, West continued with the queen on which South dropped the ten. A third round of hearts enabled East to mop up the suit, and now a spade shift thru declarer's king turned the deal into a rout.

The defense scored four heart tricks and five spades for a net profit of 250 points. If West had led a spade originally, South would have taken 13 tricks. ♠

of heroes

It's pretty exhausting to have two big brothers that excel in everything! Of course, there are advantages. Like the time a bully beat me up—my brothers followed me to school for two weeks. They wouldn't have fought him, but he didn't know that. Every night they worked out with me. Finally, I took him on and won.

My brothers are first-rate in everything — studies and athletics. There's nothing wishy-washy about them—if they don't think something's right, they say so. When there was a "walk-out" at school, they squashed it, practically single-handed.

Because our parents have always taken us to church and taught us God's way, my brothers are strong-principled and good. I aim to be like them.

Your church is a training ground for integrity!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Souvenirs Of Vietnam

A hand carved pipe, an arrow holder and a shovel taken in battle serve to remind Army Chaplain Billy D. Ingram of his recent tour of duty in Vietnam. The shovel was presented to him at Dak To just before he left for the United States.

Vietnam Chaplain To Speak Sunday

By BRENDA GREENE

Army Chaplain Billy D. Ingram who returned from duty in Vietnam Monday will tell of his experiences in the war at the Sunday evening services at Baptist Temple. Slides of Vietnam will also be shown.

Ingram spent the better part of his year in Vietnam at Dak To in the Kontum Province in the central highlands. He served the 1st Brigade, 4th Infantry there.

The base was under attack many times during the time he was stationed there, November through August.

"We never got used to it," he said. "Although there are rocket attacks and fighting near the base every day."

Ingram helped the physicians at the posts, binding wounds, praying for the injured and the dead, and helping get the patients in and out of helicopters.

"The whole war effort is dependent upon helicopters," he said. "All our supplies are brought in by helicopters, and the copters are the main mode of transportation."

Each week Ingram would conduct church services in various camps engaged in combat. Sometimes he spent the nights in the camps or walked through the jungles with the soldiers.

He was in a camp May 30 when the Viet Cong attacked. Out of the 129 men in the camp, only 58 were left uninjured. He was among that number.

He said he was also active in the Civil Action Program which aligns itself with the Vietnamese people. He said he visited the sick, took many Vietnamese food and distributed clothes to orphanages there. The group also conducted a Christmas party for the orphans.

His wife and family have been living at 1713 Purdue while Ingram was in Vietnam. They will leave Big Spring Monday for Fort Lee, Va., where he will be chaplain at the post there.

The Ingrams are members of Baptist Temple.

Dear Abby

Old Man's Offer To Buy

DEAR ABBY: I am deeply involved with this man who lives next door. He is old enough to be my grandfather. When he touches me, I break out in a rash from nerves. His breath smells just terrible and he gives me the creeps, but he is SO GOOD to me, you wouldn't believe it.

He asked me how much my take-home pay was (I work part time in a grocery store) and he then offered to pay me TWICE that amount if I would stay home and keep him company. I am 22, and my husband died last year and left me with two children and no money. Only debts.

I have to be careful not to let any fellows come around because this old man sits in the window and watches my house and he gets awfully jealous. I would move, but I can't afford to.

What should I do? This old man has lots of money which he says he will leave to me if I treat him right, but he makes me sick.

DEAR IN: If you want to "sell" yourself, you have a ready buyer. But if you want to call your soul your own, choose your own company and keep your health, you will free yourself from an involvement which makes you "sick." Don't accept anything from him and quit seeing him. Then go to work, and do the best you can for yourself and your babies.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old high school girl. I am reasonably attractive, which adds to my problem. DEAR TWINKLE: Are you bragging or complaining? Your wife is a doll to be so generous. You just might have to get your dancing in at home.

day night with a boy and went through the usual affectionate states. First, hand-holding, then he put his arm around the back of my chair. By the time we got to the good-night kiss, I wanted to vomit.

This happens with every boy I go out with. I don't mind telling you that when I tell a boy "hands (and lips) off," he gets very angry. Judging from what the other girls say about how much they enjoy this sort of thing, I am wondering if maybe there isn't something wrong with me? What do you think?

DEAR "TOUCH ME NOT": You are probably a little more "frightened" by the "affectionate" advances of a boy than most girls your age. In a year or so, if you are still so physically repelled by a "good-night kiss," write to me again.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old man with an unusual problem. I love to dance, and I must admit I am a very good dancer. Well, every time my wife and I go some place where there is dancing, I don't get a chance to dance with my wife. She is always saying, "Go dance with so and so," and then she shoves me off to dance with some old maid, widow, or wallflower. (These wallflower types are usually lousy dancers.)

I think my wife is very big-hearted and all to want to give those single women a treat, but it's no fun for me. Any suggestions?

Why Agnew? No One Said Anything Bad About Him

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Why did Richard M. Nixon choose the relatively obscure governor of a small state as his vice presidential candidate? The answer is that he didn't necessarily choose the man he thought could help him the most when he picked Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland. He chose the man he hoped would hurt him the least in his divided party. "No one could say anything bad about him," was how a key participant in the meetings that led to Agnew's selection put it. From this source and others the Associated Press has pieced together the outlines, at least, of the making of a vice presidential candidate. JOLTS ROCKY It began even before Nixon's first ballot victory in the early hours of Thursday morning. About 20 minutes earlier Nixon met with his closest staff advisers in his penthouse apartment on the beach to start discussing a running mate. The meeting went on with an ever-changing cast for nearly 12 hours, with only an hour out for sleep by Nixon. When Nixon finally emerged to say Agnew was his choice a shockwave traveled through the crammed hotels, jolting especially the followers of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who immediately charged Nixon with trying to appease his southern supporters.

The charge was denied by Nixon aides, but there was no denying the satisfaction that Agnew's selection brought to most southerners. "The South got a candidate it can accept," said South Carolina Sen. Strom Thurmond, one of Nixon's most influential southern supporters, "while the big cities did not get who they said they had to have." He was referring to Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, the favorites of the big city Republicans. The basis of the charge of appeasement was Nixon's promise to southern delegates before the convention balloting that he would pick a vice president acceptable to all parts of the nation. PLAIN TALK Nixon made the overture to the southern delegates when it began to appear that California's Gov. Ronald Reagan was picking up support in the South in his bid for the presidential nomination. The South stayed with Nixon and gave him more than 300 of the 667 convention votes he needed. Nixon aides and Thurmond insisted the southerners did not exercise any veto over prospective candidates, but there was some plain talk to a Florida caucus by the state's GOP chairman, Bill Murfin, who took part in the discussions. He told his delegation that southern spokesmen quickly ve-loed Hatfield and told Nixon that Lindsay and Percy could not be named "without considerable objection by me, Strom Thurmond and others." TOWER NIXED Murfin said when the discussions ended the only men apparently acceptable to all participants were Agnew, Gov. John Volpe of Massachusetts and Rep. George Bush of Texas. The liberals among Nixon's consultants also made their weight felt, according to participants. Here is one's account: "Reagan was nixed by the liberals and Lindsay was nixed by the conservatives. (Sen. John) Tower (of Texas) had qualifications but some felt that his selection would mean that Nixon had embraced the right wing of the party."

In all, about 20 names were brought into the discussions, but there was never a formal list. Just when Agnew's name popped up and who suggested it is not clear, but here is one version: HOW ABOUT SPIRO? Agnew's name was first mentioned by "Nixon leadership people." There was little reaction and the discussion proceeded to other possible candidates. But at each lull in the talks, usually after four or five people had been discussed, someone on the Nixon staff would ask, "Well, how about Spiro?" When this had happened several times some of those present began to get the idea that Nixon wanted Agnew. There was never much reaction to the question, one way or the other, they said. All agreed that Nixon did little talking at the meetings. He had made it clear there were several major criteria any successful candidate would have to meet: He wanted someone with executive ability, someone he could work well with, someone who could wage a good campaign and someone who might appeal to the ethnic vote. Many of those brought up fell before this test. MISSED MARK Nixon had also indicated he would like to name someone who had been identified with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, his chief challenger for the presidential nomination. If this is true, he missed the mark badly with Agnew. Agnew had been an early supporter of Rockefeller's but when the New York governor made his surprise decision not to run he pulled the rug out from under Agnew and the Marylander wound up playing an important role in Nixon's nomination. Many people were stunned when Agnew was selected, but few were as angry as Rockefeller, who looked on Agnew as a deserter. Rockefeller reportedly was so incensed he refused an invitation to appear with Nixon on the convention platform Thursday night. Instead, he made a brief appearance alone and made no mention of Agnew in his remarks.

If Freckles Were Votes

Eleven-year-old David Wrinkle would be a first-ballot clinch on the "freckle ticket." David, of Big Spring, watches the proceedings of the final session of the Republican National Convention last night in Miami Beach as his father, Texas delegate Winston Wrinkle, takes part in nominating the GOP vice presidential candidate.

Most Texas Delegates Head Home Happy, Few Moaning

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Texas Republican delegates head home today with most of them claiming victory at the national Republican convention. A minority of the 56 delegates felt that the Texas party's job was made harder in November by the convention's selection of presidential and vice presidential nominees.

"LAUGHING AT US" "I'll bet the Democrats back in Texas are laughing at us," one delegate moaned after Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew was selected for the No. 2 campaign post.

However, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and State GOP Chairman Peter O'Donnell promised to go all the way with what they called "a very strong ticket for Texas." But mostly the delegates—bored by convention routine, fatigued by Miami Beach's clammy heat and sleepy from the resort's night life—counted their winnings.

Forty-one Texas delegates voted for winner Richard M. Nixon Wednesday night and 48 voted for winner Agnew Thursday night. Eight of the 15 who voted for Gov. Ronald Reagan instead of Nixon refused to vote for either Agnew or Michigan Gov. George Romney.

PEP RALLY Some of the Reagan supporters continued their loud complaints that Tower and O'Donnell kept the delegation from holding a caucus to air the merits and demerits of the presidential candidates. Tower said the malcontents merely wanted to hold a Reagan pep rally. Three of the delegation made seconding speeches. Rep. Bob Price, Pampa, seconded the nomination of Reagan, and Mrs. Ike Kampmann Jr., San Antonio alternate, made a surprise appearance supporting Nelson A. Rockefeller. Tower seconded the nomination of Agnew.

Others making brief appearances included Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., Houston; Mrs. Tobin Armstrong, Armstrong, Tex., national committeewoman; Albert Fuentes, San Antonio, past president of the Political Association of Spanish Speaking Organizations (PASO); and Paul Eggers, Wichita Falls delegate and GOP candidate for governor. Mrs. Armstrong and Albert Fay, Houston, were renamed to the national GOP committee. Currently stylish civil disobedience has no part in a constitutional republic.

Agnew's record as Maryland governor is marked by controversy over these two beliefs. He won election over an advocate of separatism in housing, helped win passage of a limited open housing law, and has come out since in support of an all-inclusive open housing guarantee.

There were indications Richard M. Nixon chose the border state governor—virtually unknown nationally—as his running mate because he was acceptable to the South. Liberal Republicans forced a foredoomed floor fight over Agnew. Agnew, 49, tried to spell out his position to the delegates at a news conference shortly after his surprise selection and later in his acceptance speech after his nomination was confirmed by the convention.

"I am pro-civil rights," he told the news conference. "On the other hand, I expect fully that no civil rights can be realistically achieved without the restoration of order, without an abandonment of the condoning of civil disobedience." To the convention, he proclaimed, "Racial discrimination, unfair and unequal education and unequal job opportunities must be eliminated no matter whom it displeases." At the same time, he said, "Anarchy, rioting and even the The two national committee members worked with Tower in successfully keeping in the party platform two planks they thought vital to Texas—retention of the oil depletion allowance and continuation of the present form of the Taft-Hartley law to preserve Texas right-to-work law.

MINUS SIDE On the minus side, neither Tower nor Bush won the vice presidential nomination although both were among those considered. Tower was one of the half-dozen advisors with

'Ted' Has Changed His Political Thinking'

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, the Republican vice presidential nominee, has changed his political thinking over the years. The 49-year-old candidate switched from the Democrats to the GOP in post-World War II days. In the past six months, he has gone through a re-evaluation period which he changed from moderate to conservative, from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to Richard M. Nixon, and from a position as an emphatic noncandidate to the second spot on the Republican ticket.

Agnew has more than two years remaining of his four-year gubernatorial term. He swept past Democrat George P. Mahoney in 1966 by nearly 100,000 votes on a liberal platform that included an open-occupancy plank.

CRIME SLOGAN The liberal stance was not new to the son of a Greek immigrant whose father changed his name from Anagnostopoulos. It was during his administration as Baltimore County executive that the county became one of the first in the country to enact a law banning racial discrimination in public accommodations.

"Let's keep Maryland in the mainstream of America," he asked voters during his successful bid for governor in 1966, as he called Mahoney a "bigot, racist, incompetent, menace to Maryland."

Mahoney campaigned on a platform deploring crime in the streets and with a slogan "Your home is your castle, protect it." But Agnew's political posture changed slowly but radically in the last six months, although he told reporters shortly before leaving for Miami Beach, "I haven't changed."

STANDING STILL "I'm standing still; it's just that others are moving more to the left," he said. The switch became evident last April when Agnew rebuked Baltimore Negro leaders following the riots touched off by the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Agnew charged that they stood silent while outside militants fanned the flames of insurrection. "And you ran. You agreed... that you would not openly criticize any black spokesman, regardless of the content of his remarks. You were beguiled by the rationalization of unity; you were intimidated by veiled threats; you were stung by insinuations that you were Mr. Charlie's boy, by epithets like 'Uncle Tom.'"

"Somewhere the objectives of the civil rights movement have been obscured in a surge of emotional oversimplification. Somewhere the goal of equal opportunity has been replaced by the goal of instantaneous economic equality. SHOOT LOOTERS "The fiction that Negroes lack any opportunity in this country has dispelled by the status of those of you in this room," the governor told them. Half of them stalked angrily from the meeting. All condemned the speech, but letters poured in by the thousands praising the governor.

And just a week ago, at his last news conference before leaving for Miami Beach, he said that police should not hesitate to shoot looters who will not surrender. "If the general public gets used to the idea that as long as you can out-leg a police officer you can get away scot-free, the whole system of law and order will break down," he said.

Agnew, one of the earliest advocates of Rockefeller's candidacy for the GOP nomination, began to re-evaluate that position in late March. Obviously disenchanted by the New York governor's on-again, off-again statements on his candidacy and privately miffed because Rockefeller did not let him know in advance of his March 21 news conference that he would again disavow any interest in the presidential nomination, Agnew began leaning more and more toward Nixon.

CHANGING EVENTS "He may—just may—be my number two choice for the Republican presidential nomination," he said in early April. He hastened to add, however, that "I still think Gov. Rockefeller is the best candidate the Republican party can offer the electorate in November. But having someone who is not willing to become a candidate is the best candidate is no way to elect anybody. So I'm in the process of revising and waiting and watching to see what's going to happen."

He denied reports that he was playing politics, with possibly the vice presidency or a Cabinet post as his goal. In an interview with The Associated Press during the Republican State Convention that named him as a favorite-son candidate, the Maryland governor said he would not "under any circumstances" leave his present office "until at least after the 2½ year remaining in my term of office have expired."

But he indicated privately that changing events might change his mind. Agnew announced his support of Nixon at Miami Beach and made his nominating speech.

At a news conference in Miami Beach Thursday shortly after Nixon announced his choice of Agnew, the Maryland governor said he was stunned. "I had no idea that this was going to happen. It came as a bolt out of the blue." FOUR CHILDREN But he said he welcomed "the chance at this crucial moment in American history to be part of a campaign team to put America on a new level of progress."

Agnew, who stands 6-foot-2 and weighs 194 pounds, is an immaculate dresser who looks as fresh at the end of a 16-hour day of campaigning as he did at the beginning. A practicing attorney before he became Baltimore County executive, the Maryland governor graduated from the University of Baltimore's night law school after a five-year interruption caused by World War II service in the Army.

It was after his discharge in 1946 that Agnew switched political affiliations from Democrat to Republican. He married the former Elinore Isobel "Judy" Judefind in 1942 and they have four children, including a son Randy, serving in Vietnam.

He denied reports that he was playing politics, with possibly the vice presidency or a Cabinet post as his goal. In an interview with The As-

Nominee Nixon's Speech Highlights

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Highlights of the acceptance speech of Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon:

The choice we make in 1968 will determine not only the future of America but the future of peace and freedom of the world for the last third of the Twentieth Century.

America is in trouble today not because her people have failed but because her leaders have failed. What America needs are leaders to match the greatness of her people.

RICHEST When the strongest nation in the world can be tied down for four years by a war in Vietnam with no end in sight; When the richest nation in the world can't manage its own economy;

When the nation with the greatest tradition of the rule of law is plagued by unprecedented lawlessness;

When the president of the United States cannot travel abroad or to any major city at home without fear of a hostile demonstration—then it is time for new leadership in America. We shall begin with Vietnam.

We hope there is a chance that current negotiations may bring an honorable end to the war. We will say nothing during this campaign that might destroy that chance.

CHOICE CLEAR If the war is not ended when the people choose in November, the choice will be clear. The first priority foreign policy objective of our next administration will be to bring an honorable end to the war in Vietnam. We shall not stop there—we need a policy to prevent more Vietnams.

To the leaders of the Communist world, we say: After an era of confrontation, the time has come for an era of negotiation. We believe deeply in our ideas, but we believe they should travel on their own power and not the power of our arms. We extend the hand of friendship to the Russian people, and to the Chinese people, and to all peoples in the world.

We shall work toward the goal of an open world—open skies, open cities, open hearts, open minds. Today, too often, America is an example to be avoided and not followed. A nation that can't keep the peace at home won't be trusted to keep the peace abroad.

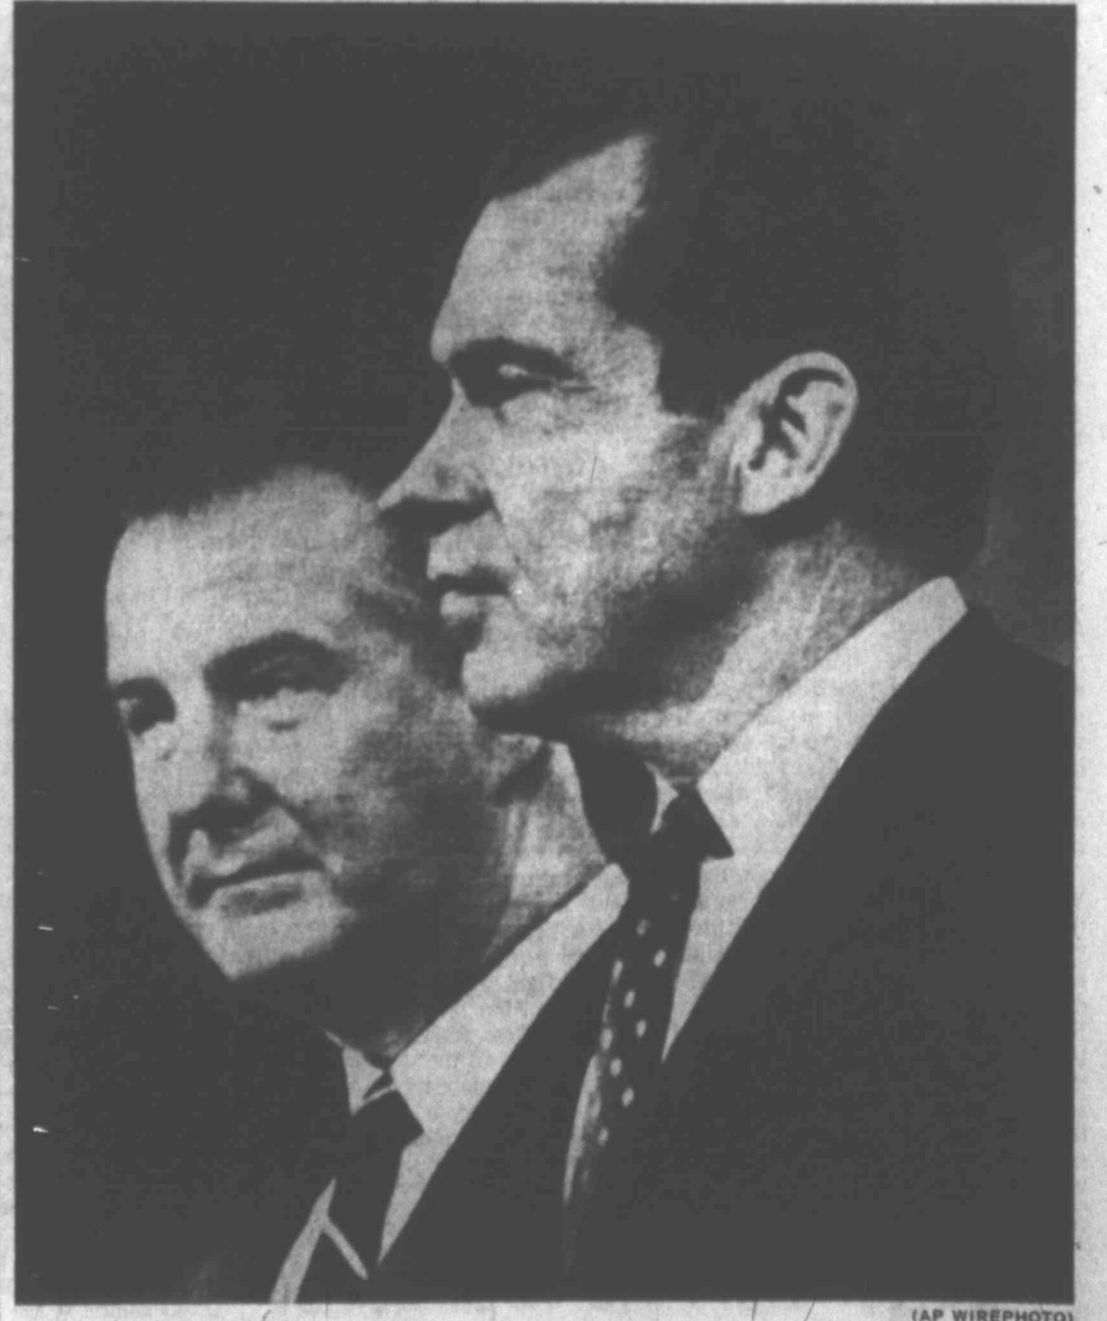

If we are to restore order and respect for law in this country there is one place to begin. We are going to have a new attorney general of the United States. RACISM

To those who say law and order is the code word for racism, this is our reply: Our goal is justice for every American. Just as we cannot have progress without order; we cannot have order without progress. As we commit to order, let us commit to progress.

Private enterprise, far more effectively than the government, can provide the jobs, train the unemployed, build the homes, offer the new opportunities which will produce progress—in solving the problems of America.

Black Americans don't want more government programs which perpetuate dependency. They don't want to be a colony in a nation. For most of us the American Revolution has been won; the American dream has come true. I ask you to help me make that dream come true for millions to whom it is an impossible dream today.

The time has come for us to leave the valley of despair and climb the mountain so that we may see the glory of the dawn—a new day for America, a new dawn for peace and freedom in the world.

GOP's Standard Bearers

These are the men to whom Republican National Convention delegates entrusted the job of trying to defeat the Democrats in November, Richard M. Nixon, right, the presidential candidate, and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, vice presidential nominee.

A Devotional For The Day

I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more. (Jeremiah 31:34)

PRAYER: O God, we do believe, help our unbelief. Enable us to accept Thee and Thy love, so rich, so free, so total that even as we believe now, our sin is forgiven and shall be remembered no more. For Christ's sake. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Webb's The Best

The highest award the Air Force can bestow on any of its component organizations — the Outstanding Unit Award — went today to the 3560th Pilot Training Wing, known more familiarly on the local front at Webb Air Force Base.

This is no small honor, and is not come by easily. It is earned, and earned by every unit, every officer and every man working in the Wing.

Virtually every department at Webb had a hand, during the years 1966-67, in developing a high state of efficiency and economy, and nearly all of them received a "superior" rating on every inspection that was held.

The wing increased considerably its pilot training output without calling for more resources, simply doing a better job with what it had, in the way of manpower, aircraft and all support facilities. It is this kind of response to challenge that makes Americans proud of their military people; and in this case, of course,

Big Spring is doubly proud of its very own Base. Big Springers could have, as a matter of record, told the higher authorities all along that here is "the best base in the training command."

While we locals have uttered this with some prejudice of local pride, it is now made official.

Warmest congratulations are in order to all those at the Base who, during the years mentioned, had a part in attaining this high level of performance. While this record was made during the tenure of Col. Chester J. Butcher as wing commander, his successor, Col. William C. McGlothlin, continues to lead with vigor and personal example to keep Webb at its highest standard.

There probably is no such thing as "oak leaf clusters" to be added on to an Outstanding Unit Award, but if there were, we would predict that our Base would continue in line for such recognition.

The Republican Ticket

The Republican party now has its battle lines drawn, and has its commanders duly commissioned.

It could come as no surprise that Richard M. Nixon became the presidential nominee, but he may have accomplished it more quickly than even his most ardent supporters had hoped.

The designation of Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew as vice presidential nominee is something else again, in part because his name is no household word over the nation.

From a political standpoint, it must be recalled that Agnew some time ago turned his support from Rockefeller to Nixon. From a practical standpoint, it must be assumed he met qualifications Nixon desires, because the Republican nominee has said he wants to give more responsibility to his vice president (if they're elected) and that his capabilities of assuming the presidency must be considered.

A summation might be that the Republicans at least have adjourned their 1968 convention with much less rancor than existed four years ago, when the more liberal elements of the party were so cool to Barry Goldwater. The 1964 election, of course, was a fiasco for the GOP, but 1968 is another story.

There is evidence — for right now and on the surface, at least — that the party will be strongly mobilized behind the Nixon-Agnew ticket. This would indicate that 1968 certainly will be a different year for the party than was 1964.

Some Live Ideas In The Platform

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — More than 100 Republicans are co-authors of the 1968 GOP platform, but the result is somewhat better than the fusion-of-ambiguities that most of us anticipated.

While not to be compared or confused with joint-by-line masterpieces like the Declaration of Independence or the New Testament, this 12,000 word document is something more than a despicable hodgepodge. At times it rises above mere dissertation and becomes an anthology — something that might be titled The Best Republican Ideas of 1968.

OREGON SEN. Mark Hatfield contributed the key-word that made the Vietnam plank readable and readable. In his Senate campaign of 1966, he needed to rationalize his disapproval of the war without seeming to be defeatist or pacifist. Instead of saying the war should be abandoned, Hatfield said it should be "de-Americanized." The platform writers borrowed Hatfield's language: "We pledge to adopt a strategy . . . permitting a progressive de-Americanization of the war, both military and civilian." They also lifted a phrase — "camouflaged surrender" — which Gen. Eisenhower used a fortnight ago to warn both political parties. The Republicans

How can one make moral decisions? I find it most difficult to decide what is right and what is wrong.

J.T.

This is a big question and can hardly be covered in a single column. To begin with, the Ten Commandments are always a good place to start, for those are basic, and were given by God for our good. But I know there are many things not specifically covered in them.

There are three voices which one should listen to when deciding a moral issue. First, the voice from within. What does your reason, your conscience, your heart say? This is a pretty good test.

Then, there is the voice from without. This would include the advice of parents, the ideals of the society we live in, and the people we may be able to influence. The Bible says, "In the multitude of counselors there is wisdom," and we should always listen to wise advice.

Then, there is the voice from above. We have two methods of ascertaining this voice: prayer and the Scriptures. True, some things we encounter are not mentioned in the Scriptures. This doesn't mean that they don't matter. For example, narcotics are not mentioned in the Bible, but we all know the suffering they bring. The Bible says, "Call unto me and I will answer thee." Heaven's answering service is never busy. By listening to these voices, our decisions will be easier.

New Techniques Needed To Ease Paper Jam

NEW YORK (AP) — The record-keeping problems that have brought some brokers to a few steps short of chaos this year are not being resolved easily.

IT IS OBVIOUS that the addition of more help, the curtailment of trading hours, restrictions on advertising and similar measures cannot in themselves solve the problem. New techniques are needed.

This week the paper jam was revealed to have spread to at least one mutual fund, the one-year-old Mates Investment Fund, a sort of prodigy in that its shares have doubled in its lifetime. But success, as in the case of other prodigies, has been its most serious obstacle.

Mates got buried under so many orders this summer that it simply had to refuse any more. In addition, its records got snarled and now will have to be reconstructed.

Almost simultaneously, the Securities and Exchange Commission charged some officers of Pickard & Co., which is being liquidated after collapsing under the paper load, of record keeping that wasn't just poor but illegal as well.

SHORTLY AFTER the SEC charge, the New York Stock Exchange suspended two senior officers of the company from doing business in the exchange, the severest punishment the Big Board can mete out to members. And more will be heard in this case.

But public announcements such as these seem only to be the peaks that pierce the ocean's surface, giving indication of a hidden, treacherous landscape below.

Fortune magazine reports that "after considerable probing," the exchange "acknowledged, with great reluctance, that at midyear 35 of their member firms — about 5 per cent of the total — were under special restrictions designed to prevent the sort of overload that did in Pickard."

IT CONTINUED: "This would seem to imply that the 35 firms are 'mismanaged,' although no one at the exchange cares to put it that way."

Fortune notes also that, luckily, the breakdown in record keeping and in the delivery of stock certificates to purchasers has coincided with a period of rising or relatively stable stock prices. What, it asks, might happen in a bear market?

One possibility, should such a market develop, is that purchasers might renege on stock purchases. Regulations now call for payment of stock within a week after purchase.

The problem, of course, is said to be an avalanche of paperwork resulting from a boom in stock purchases. But it is more than that. It is a result also of niggardly attitudes and backward business practices and will take years to remedy.

Life Is Phfft-Marvelous

NEW YORK (AP) — If I had to be cast up on a desert isle with a movie star—heaven forbid—I believe I'd just as soon it would be with Peter Finch.

Peter, whose latest film is a mocking fantasy called "The Legend of Lylah Clare," made with Kim Novak, is a rare human being—civilized, sophisticated in a down-to-earth way, a good companion, a great raconteur.

"Life to me is phfft—a vapor, a bubble," he said pleasantly. "It is also great and marvelous. But my philosophy is to take life easy because, since it is a vapor, you can't clutch it anyway."

"I LIKE to spend at least four months of the year at a small place I have in Jamaica, and make a picture only when I come across an exciting script. That usually happens on the average about once a year."

"I raise mahogany timber in Jamaica but as it takes 17 or 18 years for the trees to mature, it's a slow buck. I don't mind. My main goal is to find some sort of contentment. I'm not terribly hungry for acclaim or wealth, although I don't dislike either."

The handsome, hazel-eyed performer, now 51, is already widely acclaimed. He has twice won the British Film Academy's Best Actor Award, gained a similar honor at the Berlin Film Festival, and named best actor of the year by the National Board of Review for his work in MGM's "Far from the Madding Crowd."

PETER HAS bounced around the world a bit. Born in England, he spent part of his boyhood in France, put in a brief apprenticeship with a Buddhist monk in India, and labored at a variety of jobs in Australia, home of his male ancestors, during the boisterous years of early manhood.

"I became an actor out of sheer economic necessity," he recalled. I'd been a reporter, a waiter, a cowboy and a swagman—a hobo. As a swagman, I used to jump the rattlers regularly—or ride the rods of freight trains, I believe you say.

"Then I applied as a straight man for a comedian in vaudeville in Sydney. Got the job. It paid 30 shillings a week—$3.60. Then I drifted into radio and the legitimate theater."

After war service in the Middle East, Finch returned to Australia and formed a small road company. Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh, then on tour, saw him give a performance to a glass factory audience, promptly invited him to join them in London, where his career steadily blossomed. He has appeared in some 8 plays and 30 pictures.

Peter prefers to live modestly by choice and also because, as he said a bit wryly, "I have two ex-wives and a government to support."

Diverticulum Costs A Child's Life

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you write something about Meckel's diverticulum? My baby grandson died from this. Other than throwing up pretty often in his first three months, he always seemed healthy. His doctor had no indication that anything was wrong.

He was operated on several hours after it burst, but it was too late. What chance would other babies have of being born with the same thing? Can it be diagnosed? — Mrs. B.K.

Meckel's diverticulum is a more common condition in babies than the public realizes, occurring in about two per cent of infants.

It is a blind pouch extending out from the small intestine, left of center in the lower abdomen. Why does it exist? Because there is a duct in the fetus, before birth, leading from the yolk sac through the navel and connecting to the ileum, or small bowel.

Ordinarily this duct shrivels and closes after birth. But in one birth in 50, the duct — a part of it, that is — remains in the form of this pouch or diverticulum.

The tragedy of its rupturing, as in your grandchild, is not the usual outcome, and all I can offer to you and the parents is my sympathy, which I am afraid is thin so late.

The condition can and does cause other consequences. The diverticulum, which shouldn't be there, becomes a ready site for ulceration. It can cause intestinal obstruction. In such cases, clearly, it is dangerous.

In spite of the fact that pediatricians are watchful, it is not always easy to detect, and when it does cause trouble, it mimics appendicitis. The fact that it is on the left, while appendicitis usually (but not always) causes symptoms on the right, can be a clue.

Trouble from Meckel's diverticulum, if there is to be trouble, usually makes its presence known in the first two years. If there is a discharge from the navel or blood in the infant's stool or signs of bowel obstruction or symptoms resembling appendicitis, Meckel's is one of the conditions that should be suspected.

Diagnosis is not easy, however, and even X-ray frequently does not disclose it because the opening into the diverticulum is so tiny. Indeed, such a diverticulum quite often is found only after surgical opening of the abdomen, one of the circumstances in which exploratory surgery may be necessary to find out positively what is causing symptoms.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Finley's Fearless Forecast

Republicans make me tired. I have spent large parts of the last four days looking and listening to people involved in nominating "losers" and I'm pooped.

But it's not all bad — so are a lot of Republicans — including "some 20-odd governors" as repeated by NBC's David Brinkley.

FEARLESS prediction, with prejudice — Hubert H. Humphrey and Oklahoma's Sen. Fred R. Harris or Gov. John B. Connally Jr. of Texas, as Demo veep, will wallop Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland come November.

I hope the GOP champs (please pretty proofreader check this word) are eligible for unemployment compensation. It's tough to be without work just before Christmas.

Rocky Just Started Too Late

By CHARLES DUMAS

Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's failure to win the Republican presidential nomination almost surely will be recorded as a classic example of the timeworn adage, "He who hesitates is lost."

If it is possible to blame any one element for Rockefeller's undoing, it is that he entered the race much too late.

"It all goes back to March 21," said former Rep. William E. Miller, the 1964 GOP vice presidential nominee, who labored in Rockefeller's cause this time.

ON THAT chilly spring day in Manhattan, Rockefeller jolted political professionals and dismayed ardent admirers by announcing that he would not seek the nomination.

He had been expected to fill the void left by the withdrawal of Michigan Gov. George Romney, whom Rockefeller had encouraged to carry the so-called moderate Republican banner against Nixon.

Rockefeller had been beseeched by a wide variety of influential Republicans across the nation, including several governors, to declare his candidacy. They had taken his many previous disclaimers of interest as stalling tactics and had assumed he would now agree that the time had come to make his move.

NOT QUITE six weeks later, Rockefeller went before another news conference, this time in Albany, N. Y., and declared that he had changed his mind — he now would pursue the nomination with "all my heart."

But damage had been done to his prospects. He not only lost valuable campaign time but also the allegiance of supporters.

If Rockefeller came in too late, it certainly was not too little. The multimillionaire mounted a campaign fueled by lavish expenditures of money and energy.

What Nixon Asked For In His Veep

MIAMI BEACH — Unlike other conventions in the past, the contest for the vice presidential nomination was the most interesting phase of the 1968 Republican convention at Miami Beach. Usually the presidential nominee goes into a huddle with a few leaders to choose a vice president, and that's all there is to it. But this time something different happened. Former Vice President Nixon, for instance, outlined in advance exactly how the vice presidential nominee should be selected. He did so at a meeting of the delegates of seven states on Tuesday.

HERE'S A significant portion of the transcript which appeared in the Miami Herald:

"I can say to you that in making the decision on vice president, these are the things I want?"

"First, would he be a good President of the U.S.?"

"Second, would he be a good campaigner . . . not just in your state, but in the rest of the country?"

"THIRD, will he be a man who is close enough to Nixon in his views so that Nixon could trust him; that Nixon could work with him; that Nixon, who is going to give the new vice president a great deal of new responsibilities, can then have that kind of pained feeling of relief?"

"I want to say a final thing: I am not going to take, I can assure you, anybody that is going to divide this party. I want you to think about it . . . let's get the best man. It is a very important decision . . . but I have to decide it."

THE PRECEDING formula is suitable for anyone who wins a presidential nomination. Examining closely each of the points, it's a pleasant surprise to find that the test starts by asking whether the prospective nominee for second place "would be a good President of the U.S."

As a rule, the question is raised whether the reward should be given to the head of some delegation who has swung crucial votes to help an aspirant to gain the presidential nomination. Also, sometimes the choice is made in relation to what states can be carried in the election with the aid of the nominee for the second place on the ticket. Rarely is enough consideration given to whether the man would make a good chief executive if fate suddenly put him into that position.

THE FINAL selection of Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew came as a surprise to many, since his name had not entered most of the advance speculation. There had been talk of Gov. Reagan and Gov. Rockefeller — both of whom declined to accept the vice presidency. Then mentioned were Sen. Percy of Illinois, Sen. Hatfield of Oregon, Gov. Rhodes of Ohio, Gov. Romney of Michigan and Mayor Lindsay of New York City.

Presumably, some compromise was reached on the choice of Gov. Agnew. But again, presumably, he will be able to meet the qualifications Mr. Nixon laid down for a running mate.

True Scholars Bid

DE KALB, Ill. (AP) — The humanitarian attitude must be restored if this country is to continue on the "road to excellence."

This is the view of Dr. Percy Julian, chemist and founder of the Julian Research Institute, Chicago. He expressed his ideas during a lecture at the Northern Illinois University campus.

He said today's educators are "the most sophisticated but . . . the most confused society of scholars ever to inhabit the earth."

He called on the nation's educators to provide a new definition of morality and restore humanism in man's search for truth and knowledge.

He said that unless educators can overcome the present trend toward the emphasis on development of marketable skills, "it is doubtful our abundance those scholars who can hear and feel the throbbing heart of men."

When an automobile race driver hits speeds of close to 200 miles per hour, as they are prone to do sometimes on straightaways, they're traveling faster than small airplanes do.

The fan who says "they're really flying" is closer to the truth than he realizes.

Driving a racing car can be compared to flying a plane. First of all, the driver must handle his vehicle like an airplane — no sudden, jerky motions, or he is in trouble. A driver must also think far ahead because he is covering a lot of ground fast.

More Medical Tests For LBJ

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Doctors have ordered further medical tests for President Johnson to assess the extent of a chronic intestinal disorder.

Johnson himself disclosed his ailment Thursday following a second series of examinations at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio. He said he would return to Brooke next week for more tests that will enable doctors to assess better the extent of his trouble, known as diverticulosis.

The condition is marked by the presence of pouches on the inner lining of the large intestine. A bland diet often is prescribed for the victim and, in some cases, surgery.

Press secretary George Christian was asked if next week's tests would be for the purpose of determining whether Johnson needs surgery. He said he would not want to speculate on that and, emphasizing that only an incomplete examination had been conducted to date, said Johnson's personal physician, Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, had not indicated to him whether he thought surgery would be required.

Johnson told reporters at Brooke that his condition was known as diverticulitis. Burkley said this was in error—that diverticulitis is accompanied by inflammation and that none had been detected. In the absence of inflammation, the doctor said, the condition is often called diverticulosis.

Trained First Aid Team Can Save Lives At Scene
"Six minutes after a heart stops beating irreparable damage begins to set in — a person trained in the latest cardiac massage techniques can keep this from happening," Bruce Frazier, director of Bennett House and Alert Ambulance, said in explaining his reason for setting up first aid classes. "We are particularly interested in groups from rural areas to be trained to work together to help save lives on the scene — wrecks, oilfield accidents, etc.," he said. "An ambulance cannot possibly get to these scenes in time to stop brain damage when a heart stops beating. A trained first aid team could do this," he said. The classes are held as a public service with the only charge being for the American Red Cross booklet, he said. Volunteers are trained in American Red Cross standard and advance first aid techniques. Instructional meetings are held regularly each month, Frazier said. To enroll the interested person should contact Joe Bauchman at Alert Ambulance. Minimum age is 17 years. "but we will be glad to give basic first aid instruction to groups of interested youngsters," Frazier said. Volunteers trained in these classes earn Red Cross patches for their clothes and stickers for their cars. The classes were endorsed in May by the Public Health and Safety Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, according to Charles Weeg, chairman.

Contest Winner To Attend Fair
Mike Fryar, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Fryar 1406 E. 18th, will fly to the HemisFair in San Antonio today to spend the weekend as guest of KBST and the Frisby makers. Mike won his trip by winning a Frisby contest held last Saturday. His parents, with his brother and his sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Fryar, will join Mike at the fair. They are driving down and will return Sunday.

Day Camp Speakers

Missionary speakers at the Sunbeam Day Camp Tuesday will be Mr. and Mrs. Rolla M. Bradley, missionaries to Korea since 1963.

He supervises a Baptist servicemen's center at the Korean army training post at Nonsan and she works with preschool children at her church in Taejon, where she introduced such teaching concepts as "letting the child do for himself." Her methods are rapidly spreading to other churches.

The former Genevieve Wellborn, Mrs. Bradley is a native of Abilene and graduated from Hardin-Simmons University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. Before her marriage she did educational work for Sagamore Hill Baptist Church in Fort Worth and First Baptist Church in Denison. The Bradleys and their four children are now on furlough.

The camp is an annual affair and will be held 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Rev. Frank Radcliff is the camp pastor; Rev. John Rankin, camp director; Mrs. Roy Collins Jr., Sunbeam director; Mrs. W. C. Fryar, musical director; and Debbie Dunlap, pianist. The theme this year is "Friendship Around the World."

Water From LPG Caverns Pollute

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Quality Board said salt water from liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) storage caverns is polluting fresh water in some parts of the state.

The agency said it thinks salt water discharges from such caverns should be made only after the board has issued permits to do so, and it set an Aug. 29 hearing on the matter.

Harris and Chambers counties particularly have had some pollution resulting from the salt water releases, the board said. Creation and operation of the storage caverns should not depend on releasing salt water into streams and bays, the board said.

Wallace Doubts Nixon Will Score Dixie Win

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George Wallace says he doubts that Richard Nixon will carry any Southern states because Nixon has supported "those movements that have taken over our schools and our domestic institutions in this part of the country."

"There is not . . . 10 cents worth of difference in the attitude of Mr. Nixon and the Democratic attitude toward these matters," Wallace said Thursday.

The third-party presidential candidate said Nixon's nomination for the presidency would not change his campaign plans. "It doesn't make any difference who the Republicans nominate," Wallace said. "They're going to have to run on their records. Their platform and record gives the American people no choice in the November election."

Wallace returns to the campaign trail today for a weekend tour of North Carolina. Wallace said that the date of his American Independent party's national convention had not been set but he is leaning toward Miami, New York, Chicago or Houston as a site. An aide said Wallace has met the qualifications to be on November ballots in 37 states although not all of them have been certified by state officials.

Big Springer Remains Mum On Ranch Sale

A 1,500 acre ranch adjoining that of President Johnson near Stonewall, currently advertised for sale in the Wall Street Journal, is said to be the property of P. H. Reagan, 432 Hillside, pioneer Big Spring resident and the son of B. Reagan, colorful early day druggist of Big Spring.

Reagan, contacted Friday morning, merely stated: "I have nothing to say about the matter."

He operates the Edwards Weights Pharmacy. He did not comment on any connection he might have with the ranch being advertised. However, he added "I do have a nice place down there."

Reagan's ranch is said to fit the description in the advertisement. Worth Peeler, formerly of Big Spring, now operating the "K" Realty Co., Sherman, placed the ad.

Newsman, who talked to Reagan Thursday night, were given little information on the matter from the local man. He said "the ranch, in certain respects, sounds like one I own. I do own a ranch down there."

Friends of Reagan said that the 1,500 spread, described as being located on the Pedernales River and centered by a native stone ranch house reportedly worth $80,000, fits the description of the local man's property.

The price tag was reportedly $1,500,000 for the land. "The ranch is described by persons who have seen it as exceptionally beautiful. It is dotted with rugged granite boulders, heavily timbered and has nearly two miles of frontage on the Pedernales River."

Peeler told newsmen that he "understood that the President would like to have the ranch but he thinks the price is too high."

Tom Weinheimer of Stonewall, who also has a ranch adjoining that of LBJ, said he had heard that the property described is for sale. He had also heard, he added, that the owner, was asking $500 an acre. This price, Weinheimer was quoted as saying, "is way out of line."

He added that the tract has permanent grass — which means it is planted and returns each year. The Stonewall rancher said that he had heard the ranch had been offered for sale several years ago.

Weinheimer added that he had seen President Johnson at church recently, but that he had not discussed the probable sale of ranches with the President.

CHICAGO'S AMPHITHEATRE SHAPING UP FOR CONVENTION

Now Make Way For Democrats

CHICAGO (AP) — The International Amphitheatre gradually is taking on the appearance of a political convention hall.

The rostrum on the north side of the arena is shaping up to the hum of electric saws and the beat of hammers. These sound effects will give way to the rap of a gavel when the Democratic National Convention opens Aug. 26.

Steel supports for partitions are being put in place in the north wing for workrooms for news services and newspapers. Workmen are plastering the walls of broadcasting studios in the south wing. Several telephone switchboards have been installed.

ON SCHEDULE

"We're right on schedule," said a spokesman for the Amphitheatre management.

"TV cables are up and in," said Francis J. Cunningham, business representative of Local 134 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) and coordinator of the communications project.

"I can't say when we'll finish until they (users) get their final orders in," he said in an interview.

Original orders were changed in some instances because of a shift in main candidate headquarters and news workrooms from downtown hotels to the Amphitheatre.

The switch stems from the three-month IBEW strike against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

OUT OF ORDER

The union agreed to allow members to install communications equipment for news media and the party in the Amphitheatre.

But the IBEW will not put in a telephone center for the Amphitheatre, nor will the union members service the coin telephones scattered through the building.

Most, if not all, of them are out of order. Thus, delegates will have trouble making personal calls.

Workmen have installed a switchboard and telephones in the police command post in a one-story building near the Amphitheatre.

Telephones also were the cause of a dispute surrounding the headquarters of the All Illinois Committee for Humphrey. The executive director of the committee denied a New York Times report that six telephones were installed in the Chicago offices of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey by Illinois Bell management personnel.

"The six telephones were placed in our office, not the vice president's, last week," said William Flanagan.

TIGHT SECURITY

Don Servatius, a union spokesman, said the telephones in the Humphrey committee's downtown office will be disconnected and will be removed.

A chain link fence nearly six feet high has been erected along railroad tracks that separate the Amphitheatre area from the stockyards. It will be topped with barbed wire.

The fence will form the western boundary of a tight security zone about two blocks wide and four blocks long. Under present plans, only holders of convention credentials will be admitted.

The enclave will be bounded on the east by the eastern edge of Halsted Street, across the street from the Amphitheatre; on the north by a row of buildings; and on the south by a permanent fence.

The police command post will be in the northwestern corner of this compound.

Traffic Mishaps Claim 25,200

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents killed 25,200 Americans in the first half of this year, about 6 per cent more than in the corresponding period of 1967, the National Safety Council said today. It said motor vehicle travel had shown a similar gain.

In June alone, the council said, traffic fatalities numbered 4,820, an increase of 8 per cent, compared with June, 1967.

Regional Airport Director Hired

DALLAS (AP) — James R. Mettler, manager of the El Paso International Airport, has been hired as deputy director of the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport Board.

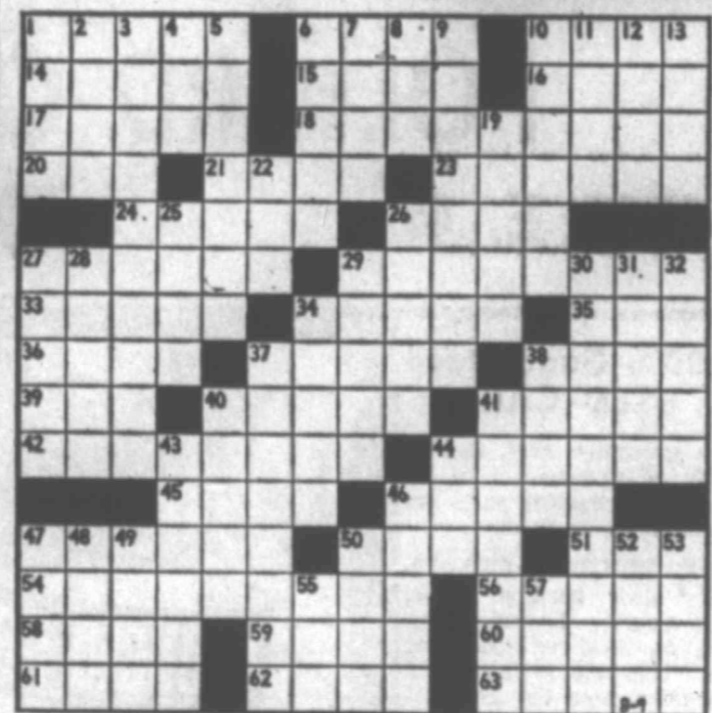

Mettler, who has managed the El Paso airport for nine years, will receive $35,000 annually at the new post.

His selection for the job was announced at a meeting of the Dallas-Fort Worth board.

FOR TOMORROW

—CARROLL RIGNER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day when you can LET changes occur in your associations and in any school of thought or viewpoint that has already served its purpose in your life. You would be wise to look at the principles under which you are existing and to see if they are in harmony with the way you are expressing them.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) If you do some serious contemplation, you get the right answers so that you can plan a far better life for yourself in the future. Be more controlled where your regular labors are concerned. Some work thought could be very helpful, too.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You find that regular groups of friends have become quite stale toward you, so do something to liven up the situation. Get busy and make new friends also who are new to your line of thinking. Be more progressive.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Stop to think how to make several avenues of your endeavor more successful, and then put ideas in motion quickly. This could be in public affairs also. More study is also wise where career is concerned.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) You have some excellent new ideas that should be put into effect, but be prepared to make right choices for best results. Listen carefully to what seniors of much experience and who are wise have to say. This helps you greatly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) All that work ahead of you should be tackled early without expecting others to do your bidding. If you really want to get ahead faster, show that you have initiative. Success is commensurate with your effort.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A day to have the sort of amusement you deserve a real break.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listening to what kin have to suggest for greater success in the business-career world, can lead to just that. Follow advice religiously. You are at rather a low ebb but a sudden, extreme change will all that.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Follow that course that can bring the benefits you want and are deserving of. Some close friends want to place your relationship on a different basis, which is good. Let your hair down and take it easy tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Doing whatever will please kin and take away the stress and strain of present mode of living is wise. Some comfort added to your home, etc., can also be appreciated by others. Be helpful to one who is not feeling well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Have those talks today with partners that can make your operations with them more ideal mutually for the future. Be sure that car of yours is running well. Avoid very crowded thoroughfares.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get money matters righted so that you can take that trip, get daily expenses rightly adjusted, budget, etc. One who is influential can give the right advice. Follow it to the letter and be much happier.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Making your appearance more charming is a good thing to do now. Steer clear of that argument with a close tie or there can be an unfortunate severance of connections. Give those who are deserving a real break.
