BUSES LOST

Little Hope Held Out For 72 Missing

GIFU, Japan (AP) — Rescuers saw no hope today that 72 persons missing after two buses were swept into a rain swollen river by a landslide would be found alive.

Officials feared the tragedy would become the worst of its kind in history, with 194 deaths. Thus far 32 bodies have been recovered. Three persons, including the driver of one of the buses, swam to safety before the buses sank in 65 feet of water Sunday.

Prime Minister Eisaku Sato today ordered government investigators to help pinpoint responsibility for the accident.

Initial reports said most of the passengers were women and children who were on a weekend outing to the Japan Alps.

The worst-bus accident recorded to date occurred in Manila, the Philippines on Jan. 6, 1967, when two buses collided killing 83 persons.

Ike No Better

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower remains in "extremely critical" condition and has suffered numerous episodes of irregular heart action since Sunday night, Army doctors reported today.

Doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital said an electrical pacemaker, inserted earlier into the heart of the five-star general, had been removed after it failed to stop the spasms.

HAZARD

The recurring irregularities, doctors said earlier, constitute a "constant and critical hazard" to Eisenhower's survival.

The text of a morning medical bulletin:

"General Eisenhower's condition remains extremely critical. The electrical pacemaker was removed late yesterday because of its demonstrated ineffectiveness after the initial few hours.

"Since last night's bulletin numerous episodes of ventricular irregularity have occurred, most of only a few seconds duration but two requiring electrical conversion.

"Despite this, the general remains alert, converses briefly, and enjoyed a small breakfast. He is visited briefly from time to time by members of the immediate family, at his request.

CALM

"Mrs. Eisenhower has remained calm during these past trying days, and has received comfort and support from her sister, Mrs. Gordon Moore, her brother, Col. John Eisenhower and his family have been constantly with her."

The possibility that a heart transplant could be performed on Eisenhower was discounted today by Dr. Christiana Barnard, the man who first performed such an operation.

Speaking in Bangkok, Thailand, Barnard said Eisenhower would have been an ideal transplant patient if he were younger, but the operation probably would be fatal now.

Doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital in a bulletin issued Sunday night said the 77-year-old five-star general was resting comfortably without pain, but "remains critically ill" after suffering two more spasms following insertion of an electrical pacemaker.

LATEST EFFORT

The use of the pacemaker was the latest of several efforts made to halt the spasms which have recurred since Eisenhower suffered his seventh heart attack Friday.

There were eight such spasms between the time of the attack and the Sunday night medical bulletin.

The spasms, which involve irregular twitching of the muscles in the heart's lower chamber, are known medically as ventricular fibrillation.

Walter Reed doctors blame Eisenhower's spasms on the "serious underlying disease of the heart."

Eisenhower, president from 1953 to 1961, suffered his first heart attack in 1955. He had two attacks in 1965 and incurred four more this year, starting last April 29 when he was stricken at his California home.

He was taken to Walter Reed to recuperate from the April attack and has suffered the last three seizures while in the Washington hospital.

Negroes Rob Ladonia Bank

LADONIA, Tex. (AP) — Two Negroes robbed the Farmers and Merchants State Bank in this North Texas town today and pistol whipped Executive Vice President J. B. Eastman.

The robbers escaped in a car with an undetermined amount of cash scooped from the position of Mrs. Linnie Belle Braley, a teller.

Two customers were in the bank. The Negroes forced Eastman to lie on the floor and slugged him twice with a pistol butt when his back was turned.

Dr. Ralph Marcom took X-rays of Eastman, who remained conscious, but his condition wasn't at once determined.

Ladonia is 30 miles southwest of Paris. A third Negro was believed waiting for the robbers in a getaway car—an elderly blue convertible.

One-Fifth Of Democrat Delegates Challenged

Mississippi Fuss May Be Settled

CHICAGO (AP) — Settlement of one civil rights dispute appeared near today as the Democratic National Convention's Credentials Committee tackles challenges involving nearly one-fifth of the convention's delegates and alternates.

The 110-member committee, after a closed morning meeting, planned to hear in public session —and perhaps dispose of—a contest over the Mississippi delegation. Indication mounted that the panel headed by Gov. Richard Hughes of New Jersey would recommend seating a biracial group rather than the regular Mississippi party delegation.

NONE OTHERS

But there seemed to be little movement toward solving any of the 18 other contests involving all or part of delegations from 15 states—the largest number of challenges in modern times.

The committee provided a forum for sparring between supporters of Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

But beyond the propaganda battle lies the possibility that the seating contests could spill over onto the floor after the convention challenges to be heard by the Credentials Committee before Saturday involve, besides Mississippi, delegates from Texas, Tennessee, Washington, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Connecticut, Oklahoma, Georgia, Alabama, Wisconsin, Louisiana, North Carolina, New York, Michigan and Indiana.

In most Southern states, challenges center on charges of racial discrimination in selection of delegates. In several other states McCarthy's backers complain they weren't given a fair share of the convention seats. Still other challenges involve party loyalty. All three points have been raised in some state challenges.

BIRACIAL GROUP

The biracial Mississippi group, including civil rights leader Charles Evers and journalist Hodding Carter, claims that there is inadequate Negro representation in the regular party delegation headed by Gov. John Bell Williams. Both Humphrey and McCarthy support its contention.

The group's challenge received a boost Sunday when Hughes disclosed that a special equal rights subcommittee has found "there has not been a bona fide effort" by the regular party organization in Mississippi to comply with the national party's antidiscrimination rules.

The guidelines were issued following a dispute in 1964 over the seating of Mississippi's all-white delegation. The subcommittee's report, which goes to the Credentials Committee today, does not constitute a recommendation, Hughes said, but is a finding of "probable cause."

The equal rights subcommittee did not make a finding on challenges to other Southern delegations, Hughes said.

Demos Hold Hearings

The Democratic Platform Committee today opened hearings in Washington. Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, chairman of the committee, urged the committee to work in harmony.

Floor Fight Shaping Up Over Position On Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Platform Committee opened hearings today with a plea by its chairman, Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, for harmony—a harmony already threatened by discord over the plank on Vietnam.

Although Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has made a compromise move toward acceptance of a U.S. halt to bombing of North Vietnam, he balked at another key point of a seven-step peace plan proposed by his chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

INSISTENCE

The issue involves McCarthy's insistence that the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, be included in any South Vietnamese coalition government.

If this point isn't settled in the platform hearings, and that seems unlikely, it probably will result in a floor fight when the party's national convention convenes in Chicago next week.

In a statement prepared for the opening hearing, Rep. Boggs urged the 110 platform drafters to "beware of flying to the extremes of controversy" and to seek reconciliation between the views of old and young, white and black, poor and affluent.

the new spirit of political intolerance that has been blowing hard of late against the face of American politics," the Louisiana congressman said.

"This attitude is so virulent in some quarters that it clearly defines our paramount task—which is to effect a reconciliation among the divided members of society."

LINES HARDENED

But the lines of conflict between Humphrey and McCarthy hardened on Sunday when they took opposing views on the issue of inviting the Viet Cong into a new South Vietnam government.

"The fundamental difference between myself and Sen. McCarthy is on the imposition of a coalition government . . . I cannot agree with that," Humphrey said.

McCarthy was equally firm. He said he could see no hope for compromise in peace efforts "unless you have a willingness to include in a new government the forces that are fighting it."

McCarthy went on: "He (Humphrey) is rejecting . . . the heart of the proposal I have been asking. . . I don't see any evidence of compromise."

Humphrey appeared on the CBS "Face the Nation" panel, McCarthy on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program.

PEACE PLANK

McCarthy unwrapped his proposed peace plank on Saturday. It called for an immediate halt to the bombing of North Vietnam, a curtailment of American operations in South Vietnam, and the creation of a new coalition government in Saigon with "substantial participation" by the NLF.

If Saigon rejected such a coalition, McCarthy specified, U.S. military support would be withdrawn.

Humphrey obviously was hunting for a compromise. He said Saturday he accepts most proposals of "the peace Democrats" including a qualified agreement to halt bombing.

But the vice president said that a cessation of bombing should be in response to some restraint by Hanoi. And he declared he could not accept a plank which repudiated "the policies and sacrifices of the past."

Sniper Kills One, Hurts One

NEW YORK (AP) — A sniper fired into a moving Long Island Rail Road train early Sunday, killing one passenger and wounding another with a single shot.

Within a half-hour after the pre-dawn shooting police picked up 16-year-old John Whitmore. The youth was quoted as saying he had fired at three LIRR trains "just for the whim of it." He was charged with homicide.

Police said the fatal shot, from a .30-caliber sawed-off rifle, was fired from a sandy embankment near a railroad trestle. The bullet hit Vincent Maher in the neck and Gabriel Jansen in the elbow.

After the shooting the train sped on to Pennsylvania Station in Manhattan. Maher, 31, an elevator operator and father of three children, was dead when the train pulled in.

Jansen, 48, who had worked overtime at a dredging job at Jones Beach the night before, was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

He said he was dozing when the shot was fired. "I woke up to a big bang," he said. "I thought it was someone playing a joke." Jansen lives in Point Pleasant, N.J.

Whitmore, a vocational school student, wore a light blue shirt with a civil defense patch on one shoulder and dark blue trousers when arrested. Friends said he was interested in firemen and liked to dress up like a fireman.

ARRESTED

Whitmore was picked up near the scene of the shooting. Maher's body was identified by his sister, Mrs. Rosemary Holland of the Bronx. She said Maher was separated from his wife and was living alone in the Bronx.

Whitmore also was charged with possession of a dangerous weapon and felonious assault.

Defends Sale Commissions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the New York Stock Exchange testified today that if the practice of charging minimum commissions on stock trading was abandoned, as suggested by a Justice Department brief, it could destroy the present securities markets.

"While no one can predict with precision the consequences of abolishing minimum commission rates," Robert W. Haack said, "I have no doubt that the securities markets as we know them today would cease to exist."

INVESTIGATION

Haack's remarks were prepared for a Securities and Exchange Commission hearing, part of an investigation to gather data on fee schedules and fee splitting in the securities industry.

The Justice Department's antitrust division said last April 1 that, on the basis of its knowledge of the operations of the New York Stock Exchange, it saw no justification for setting minimum commission charges.

Unregulated commission rates, he said, would "seriously weaken the exchange, undermine the stability of the securities industry and greatly reduce established safeguards for the protection of investors."

Haack said unregulated commissions would have these effects: —Firms would have little incentive to retain exchange membership. The exchange would shrink to a mere association of floor brokers and specialists.

PROLIFERATE

—Over-the-counter markets in listed stocks would proliferate.

—Smaller brokerage firms, regardless of efficiency, would be eliminated.

—Firms would be discouraged from taking on additional fixed costs needed to meet peak demands of heavy volume.

—Services such as financial information and research probably would be eliminated.

—Overhead costs would be shifted to small, less powerful investors.

—Chances for consumer exploitation would increase.

—What the investor might save on commissions might be lost in poor execution of the stock transaction.

Enemy Slips Out Of Tay Ninh Leaving Behind Heavy Losses

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops slipped out of embattled Tay Ninh today after losing more than 200 dead in a series of blazing fights with allied troops, tanks and artillery in and around the key provincial capital Sunday.

An American armored column and South Vietnamese soldiers swept through the city today and reported encountering no resistance.

LULL SHATTERED

The battle for Tay Ninh brought to a pitch four days of hard fighting from the Mekong Delta north to Da Nang, that shattered a two-month lull in the ground war.

U.S. officers in Tay Ninh said some 500 North Vietnamese regulars—mainstays of the attacking force—slipped out under the cover of darkness through an armored trap set up outside the city.

The fighting in and around Tay Ninh—a city of 200,000 population, 45 miles northwest of Saigon—was considered serious by the allies, but military sources said it was too early to say whether it signaled the start of the third major offensive of the year threatened by the enemy high command. North Vietnam's official newspaper, Nhan Dan, called today for "a new and more violent offensive to wrest military victories from the enemy."

The plea was keyed to the 23rd anniversary of the Aug. 19, 1945, start of the rebellion which climaxed in the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu in 1954.

The new fighting likely will prompt an exchange of accusations between North Vietnamese and American negotiators when the Paris peace talks reconvene Wednesday.

Some observers had interpreted the two-month lull in the war as a sign of de-escalation on Hanoi's part. But U.S. officials had insisted all along that the enemy command was deliberately avoiding contact with allied forces to prepare for a country-wide offensive.

As the fighting eased in Tay Ninh, there were fresh reports of enemy attacks to the far north below Da Nang and south of Saigon in the Mekong Delta.

U.S. Marines suffered 13 dead and 35 wounded in what appeared to be two separate ambushes south of Da Nang. Thirty-six enemy troops were reported killed.

LONG BATTLE

U.S. 9th Division infantrymen fought a 24-hour long battle with Viet Cong troops in rice paddy country 18 miles south of Saigon and reported killing 54 and capturing 25 prisoners until contact broke off today. U.S. losses were put at one dead and nine wounded. American divebombers, helicopter gunships and artillery pounded the enemy force.

Search Mounts For Lost Plane

By The Associated Press

Search efforts were mounted today for an airplane missing since Saturday on a flight from Del Rio, Tex., to Albuquerque.

The pilot and one passenger were due in Albuquerque at 12:23 (mtd) Saturday. Federal Aviation Administration official in Albuquerque said today a flight plan filed from Del Rio with the Cotulla, Tex., Flight Service Station Saturday morning listed the pilot as G. Shipley of Del Rio. Flight plans do not usually list passenger names.

Bombings Checked

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Three bombs exploded in different sections of this city early today, smashing windows and causing other damage.

One explosion occurred in the financial district, another near a station of the security police and the third in the Santana business district.

Police said they have detained a man and a woman for questioning.

They also said the bombings, like others in recent months, probably were the work of a terrorist group with Communist affiliation.

Bible Fund Boosters

Friends of the high school Bible Class fund rallied over the weekend to keep the annual appeal moving at a hopeful pace.

Included was one of the original founders of the fund, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, associate pastor of the Second Baptist Church in Houston, who said "we get special joy out of giving to this . . . The Bible has all the answers, and I could wish that every individual in the wide world could know and follow its wisdom." He sent his check with a prayer for each student and "the faithful teacher" and a word of appreciation for the Big Spring Pastors Association, sponsor of the class. Gold Star Mothers noted with their gift that it is "a delight to give to the Bible Fund."

Maria Progressing After Heart Switch

HOUSTON (AP) — The world's newest heart transplant recipient, a 5-year-old Hagerstown, Md., girl, was reported progressing satisfactorily today at Texas Children's Hospital.

Maria Giannaris became the second child recipient in history Sunday when surgeons transferred the heart of another youngster who had suffered brain hemorrhage.

Several hours after the operation, the ninth such performed in Houston, she was alert and awake and was visited by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick A. Giannaris.

The girl was the world's 31st heart recipient.

11-YEAR-OLD DONOR

The donor was James Dudley Herron II, the 11-year old son of James Dudley Herron, a chemistry professor at Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind.

Young Herron suffered a brain hemorrhage Friday and lapsed into a coma. When Dr. Robert Carpenter, the family physician, told the parents the boy was a potential heart donor, they agreed to his transfer to Houston.

The boy was flown here early Sunday and died several hours later without regaining consciousness.

Maria was referred to the Texas Heart Institute by the cardiac clinic at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, where her case was diagnosed as severe heart failure.

The girl had been in Texas

Children's Hospital three weeks before the operation.

ONLY HOPE

Her father said Maria was 5½ months old when doctors discovered she had heart disease.

Dr. Alex Haller of John Hopkins "told me the heart transplant was our only hope," Giannaris said.

"He told me his hospital wouldn't be prepared for transplant operations for at least another six months," the father said. "And he couldn't answer whether my daughter could live another six months."

Giannaris said a young patient dying last Wednesday at Texas Children's could have provided the heart, but the parents would not allow the operation.

"On Thursday my baby got so sick the doctors didn't think she would live," he said. "And on Saturday they told us just to pray."

Giannaris said he met the donor's father, James Dudley Herron, at the hospital Sunday.

"When I saw the boy's father at the door, it seemed like I had known him all my life," Giannaris said. "He said 'we have three boys and we've always wanted a little girl, so now we are going to have one and we can share her with you."

A surgical team led by Dr. Denton A. Cooley performed the operation in 105 minutes, a spokesman said. The implanted heart started without electrical stimulation.

SAME SIZE

"The hearts were the same size," the spokesman said. "The little girl's heart was overworked because it was diseased. Like any overworked muscle it was enlarged."

The girl's father, who owns the restaurant at the Hagerstown Airport, and her mother were staying at a motel near the hospital. They have another daughter, 4-year-old Tessie.

The first child to receive a transplanted heart died 6½ hours after the operation at Maimonides Medical Center in Brooklyn last December. The recipient was a 2½-week-old boy who received the heart of a 2-year-old infant.

TWO
Dr. Cooley, who was vacationing in Mexico with his family, flew back to Houston for the latest transplant.

Four other heart transplant recipients are recuperating in St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, which adjoins the Children's Hospital. Two other persons with new hearts have been released and are working in Houston. Two of the recipients here died.

Luxurious Yawn

Casey, the 736-pound male gorilla of the zoo in St. Paul, Minn., indulged in a wide yawn yesterday afternoon as sedation began to wear off after his flight to the Henry Doerly Zoo here. Casey, heavily sedated, was flown to Omaha yesterday and zoo officials hope he will mate successfully with the Omaha zoo's two females.

40 'Agitators' Moved From U.S. Marine Brig

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. spokesman said today that 40 "agitators" had been moved from the riot-torn Marine brig in an attempt to restore order.

The 40 men were guarded by 120 military police, after being cut off from the other prisoners with a teargas barrage Sunday, they marched to a smaller barbed-wire compound nearby. Lt. Col. Joseph M. Gambardella, commander of the 300-prisoner brig just northwest of Da Nang, said there were no injuries in an outbreak Sunday. It erupted when about 70 parolees and trustees began packing their gear to be moved to another area.

Resentment built up among the other prisoners, a spokesman said, and about 40 began rampaging through the compound.

He said Gambardella sent in his riot force of MPs, and they fired some 20 canisters of tear gas to suppress the riot.

Trouble first broke out in the brig Friday night when many prisoners began a noisy protest against cold food, long delays awaiting trial and prison regulations.

Eight prisoners and one guard were injured, none seriously, Gambardella said. The prisoners held the compound for nearly 20 hours, freeing 17 inmates in the maximum security cellblock and burning the block down before order was temporarily restored Saturday night.

The Sunday afternoon flareup was over in less than two hours.

An investigation is under way to consider the prisoners' grievances and possible disciplinary action against suspected ring-leaders.

The Marine command has refused to grant newsmen permission to interview any of the inmates or guards or to take photographs inside or near the brig.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
BY CHARLES H. GOREN
Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ J 10 7 4 ♥ A Q J 9 2 ♦ K 9 4 ♣ A 6
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Your hand is the equivalent of an opening bid. Since partner has opened the bidding and jumped the bid and the hand is known to fit, a slam should be contemplated. The slam suggestion should be made by a raise above game to five spades.
Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 6 ♥ A Q J 7 ♦ 5 3 ♣ A K 10 9 8 2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
What do you bid now?
A.—One heart. The opportunity to show the four-card major at this low range should be selected in preference to rebidding the six-card minor.
Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ K J 9 7 6 5 ♥ Q 6 3 ♣ A Q J 4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. This does not contradict the principle expounded in the previous answer; a six-card major should be given distinct preference over a four-card minor. With one more club or one less spade, our answer would have been two clubs.
Q. 4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 7 4 ♥ K 10 9 6 ♦ J 10 5 ♣ K J 9 3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Our vote is in favor of a bid of three hearts. It is a close case and no severe criticism should attend a pass. Our preference is to bid because, while it is true that on a certain number of hands we might be in jeopardy at three hearts, nevertheless it is worth the risk, because of the occasional game that will be unscrutinized in this manner.
Q. 5—You are South, both sides vulnerable, and you hold:

Septuagenarians Outclimb Hikers

LONE PINE, Calif. (AP) — What enables three septuagenarians to tramp to the summit of Mt. Whitney, the nation's second-highest mountain, passing scores of puffing hikers as they go?
"We try to follow the Bible's examples of good living habits," explained Hulda Crooks, 72, Loma Linda, Calif., after finishing her seventh climb up the 14,495-foot mountain in seven years.

She made the 11½-mile trek in 7½ hours Sunday with her brothers, Dr. Edward Hoehn, 75, Angwin, Calif., and Chris Haines, 77, Issaquah, Wash. All are vegetarians, nondrinkers, nonsmokers and Seventh Day Adventists.

Nixon Offers Blessing To All GOP Candidates

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, plunging into the first national tour of his presidential campaign, has offered his endorsement to all Republican candidates. But the GOP presidential candidate adds at the same time that he will respect the wishes of Republican office-seekers who may want to stand apart, separating their campaigns from his. Nixon outlined his approach to the old problem of national candidates trying to get along with local ones in a briefing with newsmen in San Diego Sunday. After talking at length about campaign problems Nixon left on a three-day tour of Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and New York.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Nixon's top challenger for the nomination, Sen. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, in handling problems of big cities and said: "If anything happened to the president I would feel extremely confident that he could take over..." Asked about Agnew's knowledge of foreign policy matters, Nixon said: "No man who is selected for the position of vice president of the United States is going to be an expert in every area." "Gov. Agnew is not one who has had great experience in foreign affairs. However, what he has is something vital. He has a balance of judgment. He has the fine intellect to learn very fast."

Sen. Long Of Louisiana Wins Renomination

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Rep. Edwin E. Willis, a congressman for more than 20 years, and freshman Rep. John R. Rarick have been forced into next month's runoff primaries in their efforts to seek renomination. Sen. Russell B. Long and five other incumbent congressmen won renomination without runoffs as they gained majority votes in Saturday's Democratic primary elections in Louisiana.

Patrick Caffery, 35, a New Iberia attorney, and former state representative, capitalized on his youth and a theme that new leadership is needed in Washington in forcing Willis into the Sept. 2 runoff in the 3rd District. Although Willis, 64, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, received 47 per cent of the vote, Caffery picked up 39 per cent. The other two opponents, C. J. LaBauve Jr. and Warren R. Moity, hail from Caffery's home parish.

Pools Take In More Than $2,000

Swimming pool receipts for the summer as of Aug. 1 total $2,559.95, with $51.70 from the Northside Pool and $2,508.25 from the City Park Pool. The Northside Pool took in $17.95 during July and the totals from the City Park for that month were $1,043.75, according to Roy Anderson, assistant city manager.

In the 6th District, Rarick, a former state district court judge, came within about 3,000 votes of a first-primary victory. His opponent in the runoff will be Ossie B. Brown, a Baton Rouge attorney who got 21 per cent of the vote and edged former state Rep. Joe Keogh for the second spot by about 1,600 votes. Keogh and the fourth candidate, state Sen. J. D. Deblieux, both stand more to the center politically than Brown and Rarick, avowed conservatives. Rarick supports the third-party presidential candidacy of George C. Wallace.

Jail Meal Cost Higher This Month

Meals in the city jail cost .115 cents per prisoner during July as compared with .0922 cents in June, according to Jay Banks, chief of police. Prisoners were served 758 meals, and the total cost of food was $83.53. A total of 2,976 prisoner meals have been served to date this year costing $324.91.

'Healthy' Pope Prepares For His Trip To Colombia

VATICAN CITY (AP) — With doctors certifying his good health, 70-year-old Pope Paul VI prepared today for his longest journey since he became pontiff in June, 1963.

Speaking at his summer residence, Castel Gandolfo, south of Rome, the pontiff expressed his concern for poverty one week after a group of young Roman Catholic priests and laymen barricaded themselves in the main cathedral of Santiago, Chile, to protest what they called the Church's alliance with the rich against the poor.

seemed fit and vigorous. PLEA FOR JUSTICE In July leftist newspapers hinted that the pontiff was still not well enough to endure the trip to Bogota. Papal doctors denied the stories, saying the Pope's health was fine. Pope Paul, his aides and many journalists accompanying him on the three-day trip, have undergone a special physical examination, with emphasis on the heart, because of Bogota's high altitude.

At dawn Thursday, the Pope will board a plane for a 12-hour flight to Bogota, the Colombian capital situated 8,860 feet high in the Eastern Andes Mountains. The pontiff will attend the 39th International Eucharistic Congress being held in Bogota, ablaze with decorations for the historic event. He journeyed to the last congress in Bombay, India in December, 1964.

The demonstrators said that elaborate plans for the papal visit to Bogota exemplified wasteful spending of funds that would better have gone to the poor. The Pope said he looked forward to meeting the Colombian people. He is expected to talk with the country's peasants Friday morning, the day after he arrives in Bogota for the sixth trip outside Italy during his reign.

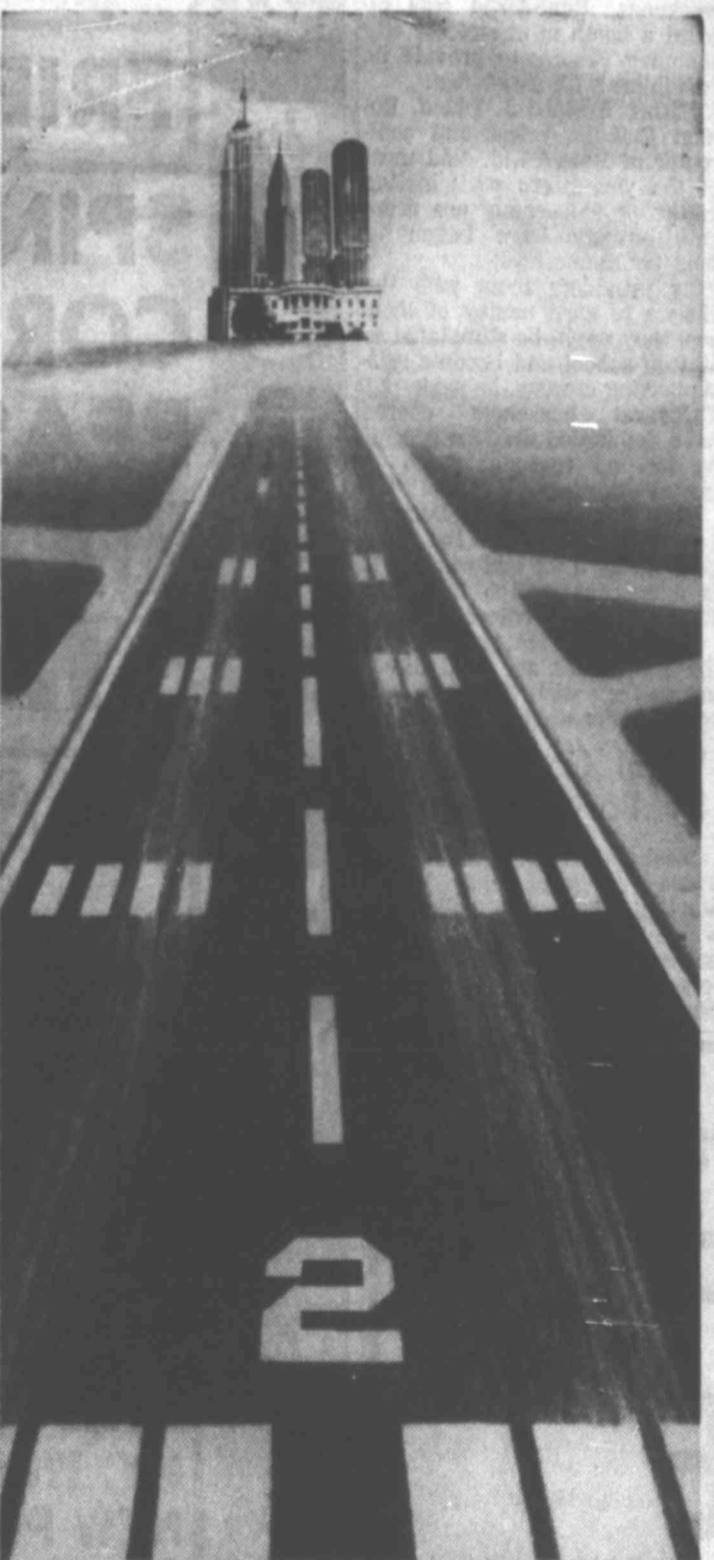

As far as is known however the Pope has never had trouble with his heart. In Bogota, a special envoy of the Pope opened the congress Sunday with a plea for world social and economic justice. Giacomo Cardinal Lercaro told an open-air audience of nearly 100,000 persons that those who shoulder "civilian responsibilities" must work toward "an equitable distribution of riches."

CITES MISERY Pope Paul expressed hope Sunday that the Congress would help alleviate the misery of Latin America's poor and oppressed. The pontiff said he was hopeful that it would generate an intensive effort "that would invite the well-off, the developed peoples and economic and political authorities to resolve the two grave situations, of fixed authorities on one side, and intense misery on the other."

It has been one year since the pontiff fell ill because of a prostate condition. He underwent surgery last Nov. 8 for removal of an inflamed prostate and did not resume his normal activities until Dec. 8. As recently as Easter, he still looked tired, but in the past few weeks he has

Prayers Voiced For Ike, LBJ

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, remaining at his Texas ranch with no plans announced for the week, is keeping informed through his own medical staff on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's condition.

With miniskirted daughter Luci Nugent in tow, the chief executive attended two Sunday church services and heard prayers for himself and Eisenhower. Eisenhower is in critical condition in Washington's Walter Reed Army Hospital, suffering from his seventh heart attack. Johnson went first to St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church in Stonewall, a couple of miles from his hill country ranch. The pastor, the Rev. Wunibald W. Schneider, prayed for Johnson and for all political candidates and national convention delegates. At Trinity Lutheran church, across the Pedernales River from the ranch property, the Rev. Norman C. Truesdell in his prayer said "we especially petition Thou would watch over the dearly beloved Dwight David Eisenhower."

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Debra Dene Barnes, Miss America 1968, and six other beauty queens performed two shows Sunday for U.S. soldiers in South Korea. The seven girls, accompanied by singers, dancers, musicians and acrobats, have presented an average of two shows daily since their arrival last Wednesday on a two-week tour of U.S. military installations.

How to send a boy to jail without really trying.

Anybody can do it. No experience necessary. All you have to do is leave the keys in your car. Statistics tell us most cars are stolen by kids under 18. And about half the stolen cars had keys left in them. Don't tell us you're too smart for car thieves—that you take your keys out of the ignition and leave them under the floor mat. Or in the windshield visor. They're too smart for you. They find them... and are involved in 200 times as many accidents as ordinary drivers. Take your keys with you. That way, nobody goes to jail.

Don't help a boy go wrong. When you leave your car, take your keys.

Wedding Solemnized In Church Of Christ

Miss Martha Gail Love became the bride of James Everett Hopper Saturday evening in the Church of Christ in Llano, and the bride's father, Herbert Love, minister, performed the double ring ceremony. Dr. Carl Brecheen of Abilene assisted with the nuptial service.

The couple stood before an altar framed with arches and candelabra entwined with jade foliage and blue flowers. Jade palms and candelabra flanked the setting.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Love of Llano and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hopper of Pinellas Park, Fla.

A choral group consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Love, Dwight Love, brother of the bride; Mrs. James Baxter, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Ada Miller, Miss Eva Jo Lewis, Dwight Coe and Derrell Debo presented nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a candle-light silk organza gown with re-embroidered lace sleeves and lace overlay on the Empire bodice. The hemline was edged in lace, and the gown featured an organza Watteau train. She wore a fingertip-length lace mantilla and carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and orchids.

Mrs. Allen Norman of Abilene was matron of honor. She wore a blue and green chiffon gown fashioned with scoop neckline and sheer, flowing sleeves. She carried a candle entwined with blue carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Martha Shaw of Olney; Miss Karen Taylor, Abilene; and Miss Pat Hopper of Pinellas Park, sister of the bridegroom. They were dressed identically to the maid of honor and carried candles entwined with blue carnations.

Everett Hopper of Pinellas Park, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Billy Schwind, Austin; Earl Davidson, Grand Prairie; and Mike Reilly of San Antonio. Ushers were Dwight Love, Nashville, Tenn.; and Mike Love of Dallas, brother of the bride.

Stacy Brecheen of Abilene, the flower girl, wore an aqua blue dress, and carried a white basket with blue flowers.

Mark Brecheen of Abilene was ring bearer, and altar tapers were lighted by Miss Phyllis Winn and Mischa Read, both of Coahoma.

WEDDING TRIP
The couple left on a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., and Washington, D. C. For traveling, the bride chose a blue two-piece suit and bone accessories and wore the corsage from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Danbury, Conn.

The bride, a graduate of Coahoma High School, received her BA degree from Abilene Christian College where she was a member of the Zeta Rho, Alpha Chi and Alpha Psi Omega. She plans to teach speech and drama in Redding, Conn. The bridegroom graduated from Dixie Hollins High School at St. Petersburg, Fla., and received his BA degree from Abilene Christian College, where he was a member of the Knights Social Club. He did graduate work at Purdue University and the University of South Florida. He will teach math in Danbury, Conn.

RECEPTION
A garden reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Patty Brecheen presided at the guest register, and others in the house party were Mrs. Mike Love, Mrs. Larry Campbell, Mrs. James

Treat Color-Treated Hair With Kindness

By MARY SUE MILLER
A lovely writes: I had my hair straightened three months ago at a reputable salon. The curl came out but the hair subsequently broke off to an alarming degree. Now there's about a half-inch new growth. It's too curly, of course. Would it be safe to have it straightened again? By a different method, perhaps? I think I should tell you I use a bleach and tint.

The answer: Anyone who colors her hair must be careful about a treatment that changes the amount of curl. Straightening should occur between coloring sessions, never close to or at the same time. Moreover, the treatment should be postponed for a long period when the hair is ailing in any manner.

Breaking, falling, splitting, excessively dry tresses are not for straightening. The hair has to be in top condition to withstand the process. Actually the better part of safety is to give treated hair conditioning treatments on a systematic basis. That could mean for always. Produced now for both salon and home use, chemical straighteners employ new ingredients that treat the hair more kindly than older types. In most instances it is the human element that causes failure. Either the hair is in improper condition or the process is improperly applied. My bets are on improper condition!

Gift Party Is Honor For Bride

Mrs. Dale Dittrich, the former Miss Anna Duffer, was complimented with a gift party Friday evening in the party Gas Flame Room. Mrs. Dittrich and her husband are living in Fort Campbell, Ky., and the gifts were opened by the bride's sister, Mrs. L. M. Duffer, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Tillman Dittrich.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ed Brumley, Mrs. Randell Morton, Mrs. Paul Koel, Mrs. B. H. Kenneson and Mrs. J. W. Moore.

The refreshment table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with a large white floral arrangement. Crystal and silver appointments were used. Approximately 30 attended, and the hostesses presented various gifts to the honoree.

'Rent-A-Kid' Providing Opportunity

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — An imaginative project, Rent-A-Kid, is providing underprivileged boys and girls in Atlanta's West End with their first experience in job responsibility.

The operation began a month ago as the brainchild of Joy Cochran of the West End Neighborhood Service Center. The purpose is to provide youngsters, aged 14 to 18, who have little or no parental supervision, the opportunity to earn money for food and clothes.

The project, originally offered in half fest, has been so well received by the community that a second office has been opened. Plans are being made to open several more and to keep them open during the school year on weekends. Rent-A-Kid was offered a booth in one of the city shopping centers to provide its customers with assistance.

Father Edward J. Dillon, Roman Catholic priest and codirector of Rent-A-Kid, said most of the youngsters participating in the project—many are drop-outs—already have begun to fend for themselves. By providing them with the chance to earn money of their own they might be stimulated to stay in school and become self-supporting citizens, he said.

General household chores have dominated the jobs accepted but no reasonable job is turned down.

The office director, Douglas Lavender, decides the fee charged for a job and whether it is dangerous or too large for Rent-A-Kid to handle.

The hourly rate is $1.35 and the youngsters are paid direct unless they wish Rent-A-Kid to collect their wages for savings.

GUNFIRE KILLS 10 IN TEXAS

Violent Death Toll Hits 55

By The Associated Press
The violent death toll this weekend hit a high of 55 with two multi-death auto crashes in which 11 persons died.

DEADLY SMASH
There were 35 traffic deaths, 10 persons died of gunfire, eight were drowned, the driver of a racer was killed in a drag-strip accident and a Georgetown man was killed in the crash of a gyrocopter. The Associated Press count was from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday. The six persons killed in the US 59 accident near Goliad included the two drivers, Staffen Lundgren, 22, of Djuersholm, Sweden, and Herberto Lozano Jr., 54, of Houston. Lozano was driving alone.

WEDDING GUESTS
Killed in the Lundgren car, a late model rented vehicle, were Peter Lundgren, Djuersholm; Charles K. Earl, 17, of El Campo. All the occupants of the rented Lundgren car had been wedding guests Saturday at an El Campo ceremony. Edgar Ray Rhodes, 34, of Liverpool, Tex., and his mother, Mrs. Lucille Rhodes, 65, were killed Sunday when their automobile was struck by a northbound Missouri Pacific freight. The accident occurred at a crossing seven miles north of Conroe near Willis.

BODY FOUND
Mrs. Irma Williams, 71, of Tyler was killed in a two-car crash Sunday. Her husband, A. G. Williams, 76, was injured. The driver of the second car escaped injury.

Rickey Hance, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doc Hance of Savoy, Tex., drowned Sunday afternoon while attending a family reunion in Gainesville. The boy's body was found in 12 feet of water in a swimming pool at the park where the reunion was held.

DRAG RACE
Everett H. Hendricks, 45, of Belton was killed Sunday when his homemade gyrocopter crashed at the municipal airport in Georgetown. Witnesses said Hendricks crashed from an altitude of about 65 feet.

Jean Elton Maloy, 38, and her son, William Maloy, 7, of Mercedes were killed Sunday when two cars collided on a bridge on FM 1015 near Edcouch. Ruben Valdez, 17, driver of the second vehicle was injured.

THAT'S ENOUGH!
Parker, who waged a successful campaign against employees' beards last May, gave the men until midnight Saturday to get rid of the extra cheek hair.

The airline has suspended 14 cargo handlers at Kennedy Airport because, like Adams, Van Buren and a number of more modern males, they wore their sideburns long.

George Parker, the airline's cargo manager, posted a directive last Wednesday, reading, "Sideburns should not be below the middle of the ear."

Beckley appeared. The U.S. Civil Service Commission's Washington office ordered the Navy to reinstate him.

Richard Beckley was fired seven months ago for what the Navy called "poor taste in appearance evidenced by hair of an undue length, a beard and boots."

'BOHEMIAN' VICTORY

Custody Battle Over Boy Ends

BROOKDALE, Calif. (AP) — The Harold Painter household was filled with joy today because 10-year-old Mark Painter's grandmother in Iowa has said he can stay here with his father and new mother.

"There's no way to tell you how happy this makes us all," said Harold Painter, Mark's father, foreseeing the peaceful end to a long custody battle over the boy.

STRUGGLE
Painter, a writer-photographer who lives in this Santa Cruz Mountain village 50 miles south of San Francisco, said he had heard Sunday from the Rev. Clay Lumpkins of Gilbert, Iowa, pastor to Mark's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Bannister of Ames.

The Rev. Mr. Lumpkins visited the Painters here last week to ask the boy whether he wanted to stay on with his father or return to his grandparents in Iowa.

The custody struggle began after the death in 1962 of Mark's mother, the daughter of the Bannisters. Painter sent the baby to them, then remarried and sought to get the boy back. The case went to the Iowa Supreme Court, which ruled the boy would be better off in the "stable, dependable, conventional middle-class Middle West home" of the Bannisters than in Painter's "romantic, impractical, unstable and arty" environment which it described as "Bohemian and probably intellectually stimulating."

HE LIKED IT
This summer Mark came west to spend his usual vacation with his father. He said he liked it here, wanted to stay and didn't want to go back to Iowa.

Painter meanwhile got a Santa Cruz court to issue a temporary order assigning him custody, with a hearing set for Aug. 28 to determine whether it should be permanent. He argued that the Bannisters, both now 63, have undergone "changes in the mental and physical condition... which would endanger Mark's welfare if he were to return to live with them."

In Ames, the Rev. Mr. Lumpkins said Mrs. Bannister has accepted Mark's decision and will make no further efforts to get him back. "She has been concerned for the boy's welfare from the start, but she wants what he wants," he said.

Fourteen Men Suspended, Sideburns Are Bit Too Long

NEW YORK (AP) — John Quincy Adams had them. So did Martin Van Buren. But what was okay for 19th century presidents isn't okay for employees of Northwest Orient Airlines today.

The airline has suspended 14 cargo handlers at Kennedy Airport because, like Adams, Van Buren and a number of more modern males, they wore their sideburns long.

George Parker, the airline's cargo manager, posted a directive last Wednesday, reading, "Sideburns should not be below the middle of the ear."

A Devotional For The Day

A certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was; and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, . . . and took care of him. (Luke 10:33-34)

PRAYER: O God, creator of all gifts, give us as we go along life's roads the ability to see opportunities for neighborliness. Give us hearts of compassion toward those needing help. We pray in the spirit of Jesus, who went about doing good. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Pueblo Men Remembered

Probably no incident has illustrated so dramatically the limits of U.S. power than the seizure of the USS Pueblo by North Korea last Jan. 23. Neither calm reason nor the implied threat of our awesome nuclear arsenal has prevailed. The ship and its 83 crewmen remain prisoners of the North Koreans.

The central issue which remains unresolved is this: Was the Pueblo within the territorial limits of North Korea when it was boarded? North Koreans claim it was. Apparently on the basis of relatively precise radar fixes from South Korean shore bases, they insist that the ship was at least 12 to 14 mile offshore.

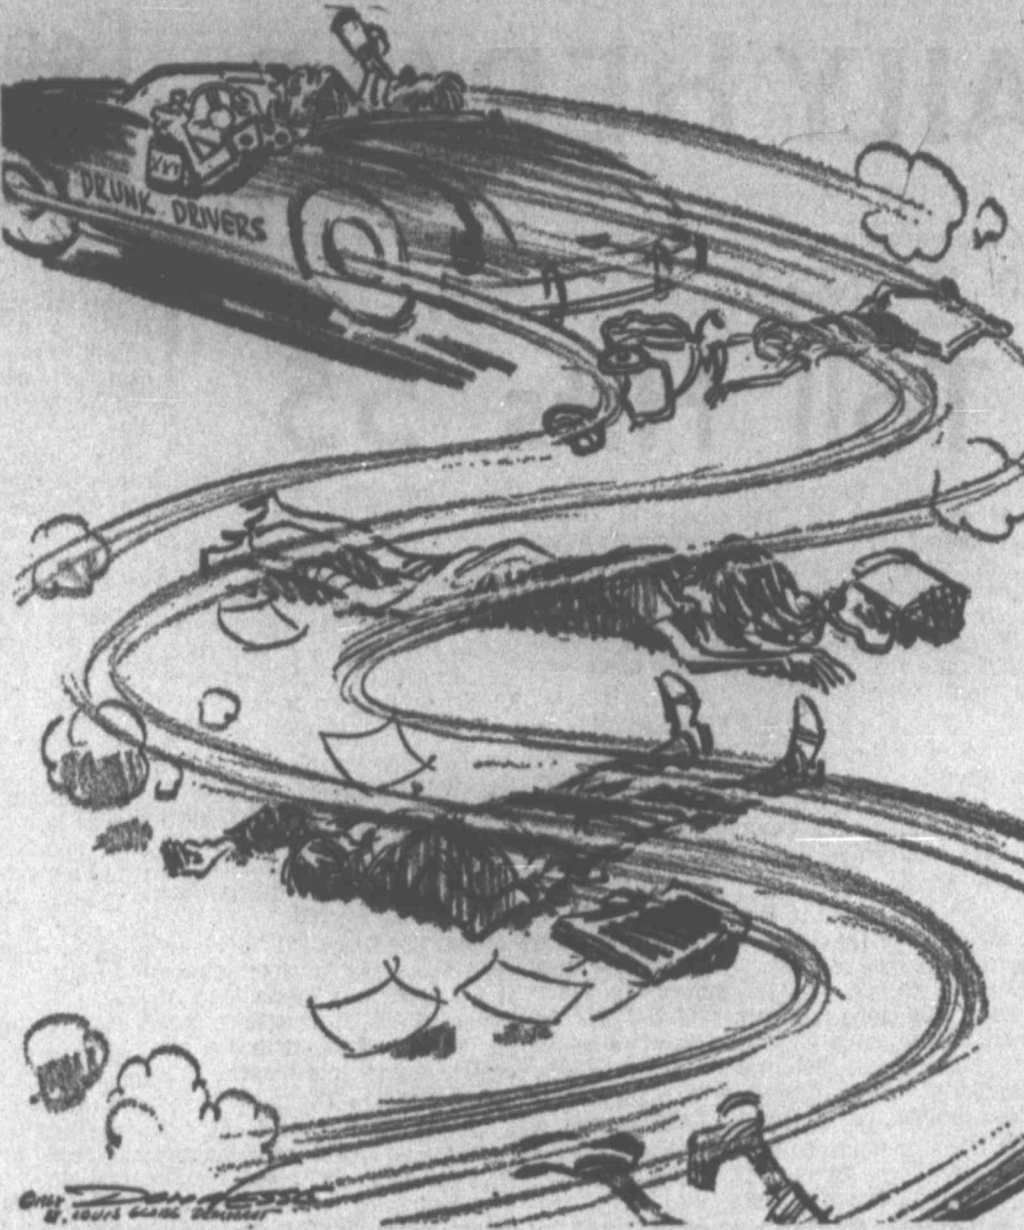

North Korea has rejected the U.S. proposal to appoint a third-party commission to inquire into the circumstances and be bound by its findings. They will not talk about the Pueblo except at the more or less neutral point of Panmunjom on the demilitarized zone between the two Koreas. There they demand that the U.S. apologize for intruding into North Korean waters and promise to punish the intruders.

It is difficult for a proud nation to admit that it was wrong, after insisting so long that it was right. Yet if that is the price of recovering at least the 83 crew members, then it should be paid.

The American people have not forgotten the Pueblo and its crew. But in the extremity of their frustration, no one has been able to suggest a solution other than to swallow our pride and do what North Korea demands.

One small indication of the fact that the people and Congress have not forgotten the Pueblo crewmen is a bill passed by the House giving the men combat zone pay until their release. Each crew member would get an extra $65 a month, retroactive to last Jan. 23. The Senate will likely pass the House measure shortly after reconvening in September after the August presidential conventions recess. It isn't much, but it shows we care.

Unionizing Wall Street Brokerage Staffs

NEW YORK (AP) — In a draft office on Liberty Street in the financial district, a young man who works as a pneumatic tubeman on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, plans the unionization of brokerage houses.

John Kret, 29, who makes $150 plus bonuses for sending order slips to the proper people on the exchange floor, believes that brokerage house pay is poor, that the stress of long hours is outrageous, that seniority must be better rewarded and that pensions need to be established.

TWICE this summer Kret and his crew have stood at subways and restaurants and street corners passing out enrollment forms for the United Financial Employees Local 295, AFL-CIO.

On August 1 they handed out 8,000 applications. On August 8 they passed out another 7,000 to 8,000. By August 13 they had 600 to 700 returns and expected more to come in. In addition, a dozen letters were mailed in.

KRET AND HIS UNION brothers feel they are in a strong position because of the huge volume of trading in recent months, trading that has caused lower level employees to work long hours under pressure in a generally unpleasant environment.

This overtime has meant big checks and large bonuses, but Kret would like to see the salaries rise without so much overtime.

Although some clerks doubt they weekly pay these days, Kret maintains that most of the clerks are getting a base pay of $70 or $75, an estimate that brokerage house officials generally feel is a bit low.

THE OFFICE and Professional Employees International Union is backing Kret financially and morally. "If the international feels the response is good it will come down with something more," Kret says.

What would a good response be? "If we can get 1,000 or 1,500 signed up, I think if we could get one house—even with 50 or 60 people—the international would jump for joy. It would be a foot in the door."

A representative of the investment community, a man whose job it is to be aware of attitudes on Wall Street, said he sympathized with the clerks but wondered if they'd get very far with their campaign.

HE COMMENTED on the upward mobility of young men in Wall Street, how a lot of partners once started as clerks and messengers: He reminded his listener that some houses help pay their clerks' night school tuition.

"There's a certain knack that can only be learned by working at it," he said. It means, he indicated, learning to be quick, alert, enthusiastic. "The brokerage houses need these fellows," he said.

Litterbugging Is Expensive

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Litterbugs aren't merely nuisances. They're expensive. The cost of picking up the debris they leave on highways, beaches, park sites and other public property adds a half-billion dollars annually to the nation's tax bill.

ON THE other hand, a nagging wife can sometimes save you money. By bawling you out she may herself avoid getting an expensive ailment — arthritis. Many psychiatrists believe that women who bottle up their emotions and brood about their woes are particularly susceptible to arthritis.

The more cars a family has, the more each vehicle is used. Families with two or more cars average 10,000 miles a car. Those with one car average 9,900.

A GOOD wife is a good financial bargain. One study found that wives who don't hold outside jobs put in nearly 100 hours a week on their homemaking duties. If you could find any other woman who would work that hard or long for a minimum of $1.00 an hour—and you probably couldn't—she would cost you $100 a week.

The increasing use of computers is adding new words to our vocabulary. One is "nanosecond," the time it takes electricity traveling at 186,000 miles per second to go one foot. Another is "picosecond," a millionth of a millionth of a second. That's how long it takes electricity to journey the thickness of your fingernail.

SAFETY TIP: Don't try to change a tire in one of the busy lanes of a modern expressway. If you do, Illinois State Police warn, your life expectancy is just 20 minutes.

Wasted power: Few sights in nature are more awesome and terrifying than a great forest fire. These flaming storms can unleash every two minutes as much energy as is released by the explosion of a 20-kiloton atomic bomb—or 20,000 tons of dynamite.

Worth remembering: "The honeymoon is over when he takes her off a pedestal and puts her on a budget."

FOLKLORE: Witches usually have a birthmark, peering eyes, thick eyebrows that meet over the nose, and often are red-haired. It's bad luck to remove a wedding ring except in an emergency. A one-armed customer in a restaurant is a sign the waiter will get poor tips all day, but if a waiter serves a hunchback the tips will be big. A whistling girl and a crowing hen always come to no good end.

It was Josh Billings who observed, "Some folks are so contrary that if they fell in a river, they'd insist on floating upstream."

Around The Rim

The Spoilage Of Our Trees

One thing and another: All too often, public officials and captains of industry are prone to look upon trees as something that look better in colored illustrations than in their actual state.

Some of the most majestic trees this community ever had once were located on property owned by the railroad. They were chopped away to provide the space for buildings that could be called anything but beautiful and perhaps were not even utile.

Builders of roads, given the authority by government, will not hesitate to fell trees located anywhere in the vicinity of a right-of-way.

Great trees may come a dime-a-dozen in other areas but they are priceless in this remote part of the world. And those that are reduced to blocks of wood can't immediately be replaced. In some cases, they never can be.

WHAT IS THERE in the makeup of mankind that makes people want to put their hands on celebrities?

Actors, athletes, the renown of literature, politicians — they all know that if they venture into a crowd, they must encounter those people with large, over-friendly hands.

"People are forever touching you," actress Joan Fontaine was quoted as saying recently. "They just seem to want to make physical contact. They don't mean anything bad about it."

They're just being friendly and the result is that you get jumpy when people are around."

THIS IS certainly no indictment against the breed but how many farmers do you know who are optimistic about anything?

It either rains too much or it doesn't rain enough. The bugs are too active or the price of corn is such that a body can't begin to pay the expense of growing it. A threat of disaster always seems to hang over the farmer's head, and not without good reason. Too many things can happen before a crop has been harvested and the money is in the bank.

Farming, despite the nature of its people, is not a bad risk, however. No one farm in 1,000 was foreclosed last year. Fact is, foreclosures were fewer than any year on record.

THERE ONCE was a mayor of one of big cities who perhaps too realistically solved his budget problems. His administration came up with the income falling to match the outgo by $250,000.

What he did was simple and direct but his plan would hardly work today. He turned off the street lights for four months and cut police salaries.

That happened in 1883 in the city of Washington, D. C.

Against The Party In Power

WASHINGTON — Economic discontent, if it is large enough, could alone bring about an electoral majority for the Republicans in the coming presidential election.

The nature and extent of the dissatisfaction among voters in all parts of the country today, however, can hardly be measured politically by studying only the economic statistics. For in many states, farm areas are Republican and the cities are usually Democratic.

TODAY THE LOW unemployment rate is a factor in favor of the Democrats. A nation that has full employment is presumably prosperous and satisfied. But the truth is that the high wage rates and even recent increases in personal income have been barely enough to offset the upward spurt in the cost of living and in taxes at all levels.

Net farm income is running higher than in 1967 but well below the 1966 total. So farmers are not doing as well as they did two years ago.

THE AVERAGE weekly earnings of factory workers was $123.30 dollars in June, or about a dollar more than in May. But for a worker with three dependents this meant, after Social Security and federal income taxes, an increase of only 78 cents in take-home pay. When price increases are taken into account, moreover, the take-home pay in terms of what the dollar would buy eight or nine years ago rose only 21 cents a week. Actually, the current take-home pay is below that of October, November and December of 1965, as well as of December, 1967.

IT IS TRUE that personal income, spread over the entire country, has gone up to record levels, which is natural, of course, with the increased population and increased output. But, with the new tax surcharge going into effect in mid-July, the estimated increase of 14 billion dollars in the third quarter will amount to only five billion in disposable personal income.

This is because of the increased outlay for taxes.

PERHAPS THE biggest squeeze of all has occurred among the people who have fixed incomes. Many of them over 65 years of age, including those who live in such states as Florida and California, will be voting against the Democratic administration because of the higher cost of living and the diminution in the purchasing power of the dollar.

But, while there is a certain amount of discontent due to the high cost of living and the fact that taxes have taken away much of the benefits from the increases in wages, the principal causes of dissatisfaction are not on the economic side. The disturbances in the cities, which are largely governed by officeholders of the Democratic party, have produced a disillusionment and a resentment against incumbent regimes in the cities and urban areas.

THE RISE in crime is probably the most disconcerting factor for the Democrats. The crime wave has spread perceptibly in the last few years, and the cities have been unable to cope with it effectively. The voters are accustomed to put the blame on the party in power for not maintaining law and order.

The war in Vietnam is, of course, a major cause of a shift in sentiment from the Democratic party, which won an overwhelming victory in 1964. Although peace negotiations are in progress and could suddenly produce some change in the situation, the trend today is toward a large Republican vote on the theory that the Vietnam problem will be better solved by a new leadership than by another Democratic administration.

THE CUSTOMARY indifference to the qualifications of candidates can be expected, as under circumstances such as exist today, the tendency is to vote against the party in power. (Copyright, 1968, Publishers-Hall Syndicate)

Holmes Alexander

Senator McGovern's Candidacy

WASHINGTON — Not for this world — clearly not for the American presidency — are men like Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, the latest to announce for that earthbound office.

A genuine religious leader, yes. A saint, if his Methodist Church went in for canonization. A greater Billy Graham, evangelizing the heathen of all continents. A visionary, a prophet, a licensed prophet of heavenly peace in the Hereafter.

ALL THIS George McGovern has qualifications to become. But he and his idealistic ilk are no more qualified to run a nation than men afflicted with vertigo and agoraphobia are fitted to become skyscraper window-washers.

"I hope to serve this nation . . ." McGovern told us at his kickoff press conference, "to tame the savagery of man and make gentle the life of the world."

BUT THE American presidency, according to the official oath has the specific, limited purpose to "preserve, protect and defend the Constitution . . ." This can be a bloody business, as our history attests. It always is a nationally restrictive business, as demonstrated even by our most generous statutes on tariff, immigration and foreign aid. The presidential office has to be, despite our abundant good will, the command post of the American people, and of no other people anywhere.

IN A constitutional republic we try to restrain the state from doing violence to its own citizens. But the Constitution authorizes war, seizure, confiscation, subjugation, exclusion and taxation — without representation against outsiders. This ruthlessness is how nations survive and prosper. It is the world's way.

All this is axiomatic, an extended truth, but we have been best in recent years with presidential candidates who would deny what is manifestly undeniable, and would falsify what is plainly true. Such men as Stevenson and Stassen, as Gene McCarthy and now George McGovern, are the would-be nullifiers of the American state.

I VENTURE THE opinion that such men have come among us, and have gained audience and disciples, for one reason only. The reason is that we have become reconciled to losing our wars. No nation is going to live much longer than it is willing to defend its national interests at whatever the risks.

Sen. McGovern has the well-mixed elements of a man who deserves admiration. He is modest and devout, articulate and thoroughly decent. He is Stevenson without superciliousness. And Stassen with the added gift of humor. And Gene McCarthy with an extra measure of humanity. And Robert Kennedy without any spilling ambition.

BUT IT HAS to be said against McGovern that he is not just a typical dissenter, not merely a temporary defector who sees no victory in the wretched Vietnam War. He gained his Senate seat five years ago by the financial support of organized pacifists. He long ago became dedicated to unilateral disarmament by metaxa reduction of the Defense budget. He has often expressed himself as accommodative to coexistence with communism.

IN McGovern, and in his ilk, lie the seeds of an impotent presidency. It would literally leave the nation unprotected, unprotected and undefended.

Relief To The Soviets

A Soviet-Japanese series of test explosions to study the structure of the earth's crust may have relieved the Russians of some anxiety in quite a different field.

The first explosion was set off July 30 off the southern coast of Hokkaido Island, about 450 miles northeast of Tokyo. The second blast, early this month, is scheduled in the area of Tokachi Island, near the port of Otsu. Both of the tests are well south of the Soviet-occupied Kurile Islands.

In September, 1966, the Russians angrily protested against proposed U.S. test explosions in the same general area, warning that ships would be in danger of violating Soviet territorial waters. This was followed a month later by a request to all countries to avoid underwater blasts in the Kurile Islands area because they might damage highly sensitive Soviet seismic equipment there.

There is another explanation for Soviet sensitiveness to underwater explosions in the area of the Kurile Islands: Unless they were placed just right, the explosives might damage sensitive underwater submarine-detection gear. The Russians are known to have planted many devices along their shoreline to warn of the approach of foreign submarines. If this is the reason for their worry, then a joint Soviet-Japanese series of tests has removed it.

Auto Warranties May Be Dropped

By A. F. MAHAN

Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Those five-year or 50,000-mile warranties on new cars may go the route of the rumble seat with the introduction of the 1969 models.

If you do get a warranty it might cost extra. And it may have a deductible feature, like auto insurance.

Insiders report the automakers would like to get rid of these warranties altogether. Some believe they'll do just that.

IF THE 5-50,000 warranty on power trains goes by the boards, the automakers would extend the 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee that applies to the rest of the car to the power train — the engine, transmission, drive shaft, wheels and bearings.

Figuring in the debate on the 5-50,000 elimination is the fear that this, coupled with higher prices for the cars, might set off a loud howl by critics, particularly those in Congress.

GENERAL MOTORS, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors refuse any comment regarding elimination of the 5-50,000 warranty or a rise in prices, except to say they will announce their decisions when new models are introduced in early September.

Customers complain of periodic check-ups necessary to keep the 5-50,000 guarantee in force, and of having to get certificates of service should they get a check-up at a service station instead of a dealer.

DEALERS complain check-ups cause jams in their service departments inundate them with paper work and, additionally, that they're not always fully compensated by the

Billy Graham

I am a Christian, but the question of immortality has incited such fear in me that my health is being affected. Can you help me?

R.F. Quails and fears about immortality are caused by a lack of trust in Jesus' words: "Because I live, ye shall live also." Frankly, there can be no hope in immortality and eternal life apart from Christ.

John Fiske once said: "I believe in the immortality of the soul, not in the sense in which I accept the demonstrable truths of science, but as a supreme act of faith in the reasonableness of God's work."

Faith in Jesus Christ is not restricted to this realm of time and space. It goes on out beyond the line of worlds into the far stretches of eternity. The Bible says: "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." The Christian faith is more than fetish to bring good fortune and health in this life; it is as good for dying as it is for living, and is radiant with the blessed hope of immortality.

What Others Say

The United States Congress manages more than is always realized to reflect the mood of the country. The 90th Congress, which will be reconvening soon, lives up to this reputation.

There are at least three significant trends and moods in the United States. One is conservative; an emphasis on "law and order," on spending curbs and fiscal responsibility, on consolidation after a time of sweeping reforms.

Another mood is activist: an awareness of the "plight of the poor," the problem of the cities, the menace of black unrest, and a desire to get cracking on remedies.

The third attitude has to do with the nagging, vicious war in Vietnam. Everyone wants to get it over with as speedily as possible, but there is sharp dispute as to how.

On the domestic issues, this Congress has managed, rather remarkably, to be both conservative and activist. On the side of restraint it insisted on a $6 billion spending curb as the price of tax increase. It approved a crime-control bill which directed a warning salvo at the Supreme Court. It voted assistance to local law-enforcement agencies.

Congress however has been more activist and innovative than anyone might have predicted. It passed a major Civil Rights Act, containing a far-reaching open housing provision. It did finally vote the tax surcharge. It voted a truth-in-lending bill and a pure meat law. Before adjournment it is likely to enact a broader housing program, more stringent gun controls, and antipollution and pipeline-safety measures. There is good prospect that the Senate will ratify the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

So, again, we must label this a "do something" Congress. —CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

Yes, Babies Can Have Cold Milk

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any harm in giving an infant cold milk? Does it damage the stomach in any way?

I have been giving my baby cold milk since he was a month and a half old. He never has cramps or tummy ache and sits up less and is more content.

Recently another mother insisted that cold milk is not good for a baby, that the baby is suffering and has to have warm milk. Also that "everyone knows warm milk is best." —Mrs. D.C.

It used to be supposed that milk had to be warm; medical studies more recently show that milk does not have to be warmed for a baby.

This does not alter the fact that babies may have preferences. If a youngster persistently pushes the nipple away if the milk is cold, but not when it is warm, then he prefers warm milk. So give it to him. Other babies are the opposite.

I would be dubious about giving a baby ic-cold milk, particularly if he already was used to warm milk. But the important point is that cold milk is not harmful.

Dear Dr. Molner: In 10 years I have been in the hospital eight times for kidney stones and twice have had surgery to remove them.

The stones consist of several materials, but cystine is always present.

I drink a large quantity of liquids each day besides taking an alkali solution three times a day, but the stones still form. Are cystine stones so rare that there is nothing one can do to prevent them from forming again? —Mrs. R.J.

About three per cent of kidney stones are the cystine type. Excessive excretion of cystine is due to what is known as an "inborn error of metabolism," and formation of such stones is difficult to combat.

As with all stones, it is necessary to consider several factors: infection, obstruction, adequate fluid intake.

You are correct in drinking ample water or other fluids, and in using an alkali — citro-carbonate in your case.

Recently penicillamine has been used for cystine stones. It would have to be used under the direction of your physician or urologist, of course.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble." It may be only minor, but it can be dangerous. Read Dr. Molner's booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

WASHINGTON — Economic discontent, if it is large enough, could alone bring about an electoral majority for the Republicans in the coming presidential election.

The nature and extent of the dissatisfaction among voters in all parts of the country today, however, can hardly be measured politically by studying only the economic statistics.

TODAY THE LOW unemployment rate is a factor in favor of the Democrats. A nation that has full employment is presumably prosperous and satisfied. But the truth is that the high wage rates and even recent increases in personal income have been barely enough to offset the upward spurt in the cost of living and in taxes at all levels.

THE AVERAGE weekly earnings of factory workers was $123.30 dollars in June, or about a dollar more than in May. But for a worker with three dependents this meant, after Social Security and federal income taxes, an increase of only 78 cents in take-home pay.

IT IS TRUE that personal income, spread over the entire country, has gone up to record levels, which is natural, of course, with the increased population and increased output. But, with the new tax surcharge going into effect in mid-July, the estimated increase of 14 billion dollars in the third quarter will amount to only five billion in disposable personal income.

ALL THIS is axiomatic, an extended truth, but we have been best in recent years with presidential candidates who would deny what is manifestly undeniable, and would falsify what is plainly true. Such men as Stevenson and Stassen, as Gene McCarthy and now George McGovern, are the would-be nullifiers of the American state.

I VENTURE THE opinion that such men have come among us, and have gained audience and disciples, for one reason only. The reason is that we have become reconciled to losing our wars. No nation is going to live much longer than it is willing to defend its national interests at whatever the risks.

Sen. McGovern has the well-mixed elements of a man who deserves admiration. He is modest and devout, articulate and thoroughly decent. He is Stevenson without superciliousness. And Stassen with the added gift of humor. And Gene McCarthy with an extra measure of humanity. And Robert Kennedy without any spilling ambition.

BUT IT HAS to be said against McGovern that he is not just a typical dissenter, not merely a temporary defector who sees no victory in the wretched Vietnam War. He gained his Senate seat five years ago by the financial support of organized pacifists. He long ago became dedicated to unilateral disarmament by metaxa reduction of the Defense budget. He has often expressed himself as accommodative to coexistence with communism.

IN McGovern, and in his ilk, lie the seeds of an impotent presidency. It would literally leave the nation unprotected, unprotected and undefended.

Negro Critics Slam Gov. Agnew's Record

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — One wire went to Rep. Gerald While Gov. Spiro T. Agnew stumped on the West Coast in his campaign for the vice presidency. Negro critics back home issued another attack on him.

Directors of the Maryland conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People sent telegrams Sunday "deploring the selection of our governor as the vice presidential candidate of the Republican party" and expressing "our deep concern" about the selection.

The telegram to Bailey expressed belief that Agnew's selection by the Republicans "was an effort to appease the forces of bigotry in the nation."

It said, "If a similar effort is consummated at the National Democratic Convention, it will lead to increased civil disorders and internal strife."

At about the same time the NAACP directors were acting in Annapolis, the headquarters for GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon in San Diego, Calif., was handing out a 74-page statement entitled, "The Agnew Record in Human Relations."

It listed as his accomplishments appointment of Negroes to high positions in Maryland, implementation of a fair employment practice code, the first "really meaningful" special job programs, and tax relief legislation to aid low-income citizens.

Twins Take Nuns' Vows

FARMINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Mary and Rita Epple, identical twins, repeated their final vows this weekend and became nuns of the Sisters of Mercy, a Roman Catholic order.

Rita is now Sister Francis Marilyn and Mary has become Sister Xavier Marie.

Growing up, they dressed alike and now their clothing remains identical—the order's navy blue habit with narrow loose collar and black head piece.

The sisters have been assigned to teach in separate Michigan cities.

FOR TODAY AND TOMORROW

—CARROLL RIGTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Opportunities exist all over the place for you to find some new and improved methods today, which you can make everything about you more operative and easy to handle. The evening becomes a time when you want release from anxieties which you best get by relaxing, resting, otherwise delays take place.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Analyze what kind of labor is necessary in conjunction with own family now, and then plan how to do it step by step. This means efficiency on the part of all. Forget the light fantastic for the time being.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A delightful time can be yours of recreation you like provided you are more complimentary to good odds. You have an excellent talent that you seldom use. Make hay with this while the sun is shining.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You want to increase your bank balance and this is all right, but get the O.K. of kin regarding your plans for doing so. They have good ideas, too. Put a little more zip into your recreational life, also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You comprehend better now what is expected of you by others, especially higher-ups, so an about it cleverly. Do what will show you whether friends are loyal or not. Be a little surreptitious.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You like to add to present position, so be sure to get into those behind-the-scenes things that do just that for you. Show that you are very clever. Why not forget everything tonight and turn your mind to the romantic? In the P.M., that is.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find out just how far you can go to give your support you want, whether financial or otherwise. Show gratitude for the favors extended in the past. Stop getting so excited over something that has little value.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) While busy in the active business world, be sure you show others how much your country means to you. Plan some time for civic work on a project that is vital. Don't leave it all for the other person to do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There are so many interesting outlets possible for you right now that you should sit down and study the most promising carefully. Those whose background has been different to yours come up with wonderful ideas. Accept.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Let other people know you are as true as your word where promises are concerned. Stop using that delaying method that is very annoying with others. Be right on time for success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Listen more carefully to what an emotional carrier is saying and you find you come to excellent terms with him, or her. This also holds true where others are concerned. Don't think you know it all — nobody does.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 19) Make sure you follow through with work commitments without fail and you gain the respect of higher-ups. Listening to what co-worker has to say is fine. Stop acting so superior towards this person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Using spare time for being with good friends who can extend favors, give your pleasure is good. This gives you the incentive to do excellent work that needs doing. Taking it easy in P.M. could tone up your whole system.

One Hand Not Enough

New Orleans Saint's defensive back Dave Whitsett picks up four yards in the third quarter of play in Sunday afternoon's game with the Houston Oilers. Whitsett intercepted a Houston Oiler pass intended for Ode Burrell (32) as Burrell was unsuccessful in making a one handed tackle. Houston won the game late in the fourth period by a score of 24-23.

Pete Pulls Out Oilers, 24-23

There was a snag in the New Orleans Saints' defensive blanket. Houston quarterback Pete Beathard found it and unraveled the cover with his feet. With Houston trailing 23-17 and only 56 seconds remaining in the game at the Astrodome, Beathard went back to pass. But his receivers were given blanket coverage. So, Beathard forgot about his arm and concentrated on his footwork to ramble through a hole for six yards and the tying touchdown. Sid Blanks then ran around right end for the extra point, giving the Oilers of the American Football League a 24-23 victory over the National Football League Saints.

In Sunday's only other exhibition, the Cleveland Browns battered the San Francisco 49ers 31-17 in a meeting of NFL clubs. The results of a busy Saturday night schedule: Dallas, NFL, trounced Los Angeles, NFL, 42-10; Miami, AFL, pounded Philadelphia, NFL, 23-7; Pittsburgh, NFL, edged San Diego, AFL, 36-33; New York, NFL, nipped Atlanta, NFL, 17-13; Kansas City, AFL, outlasted St. Louis, NFL, 13-10; Minnesota, NFL, walked Denver, AFL, 39-16; Buffalo, AFL, topped Cincinnati, AFL, 10-6, and New York, AFL, thrashed Boston, AFL, 25-6.

The weekend's activity ends Monday night with an NFL game between the Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Bears in Milwaukee, Wis. The nationally televised game (CBS at 9:30 p.m., EDT) will be the first meeting of the old rivals under their new coaches—Jim Dooley for the Bears and Phil Bengtson for the Packers. Once again the Packers will have to worry about stopping the running of Chicago's brilliant Gale Sayers, while the Bears will have to contain the machine-like Packer offense directed by Bart Starr.

Red Sox Cage Tigers With Bunting Exhibition

The bunting game is something Detroit might be able to do without, but Juan Pizarro and the Boston Red Sox are ready and willing to make sacrifices. . . anytime they help cage the runaway Tigers. The Red Sox, losers Saturday in a 10-9 struggle that turned on a pair of botched Detroit bunts, put on their own bunting exhibition Sunday in trimming the Tigers 4-1 behind left-hander Pizarro.

Three perfectly executed sacrifice bunts, including a go-ahead squeeze by Pizarro, helped the Red Sox salvage the finale of a three-game series as Detroit's American League lead slipped to seven games over second place Baltimore. The Orioles whipped Minnesota 7-1 on Frank Robinson's slugging; the New York Yankees stroled past Oakland 7-5 in 10 innings; Tommy John and Joe Horlen hurled the Chicago White Sox to a 4-2, 8-1 doubleheader sweep over Cleveland, and California downed Washington 6-4 despite Frank Howard's 35th homer in other AL games. Bill Freehan's 11th inning homer beat Boston Saturday, nullifying a gallant comeback by the Red Sox. But they felt they'd been the victims of two Detroit bunts that didn't come off.

Bailey, Howe Seeking Title

Charles Bailey and Phil Howe will tee off at 1 p.m. Saturday to decide the championship of the City Open Golf Tournament. Bailey gained a spot to the finals last Sunday with a win over Marvin Williams. 1 up on 21 holes. Both men carded stizzing 69's at the end of regular play before extra hole competition began. Howe's 69 Saturday in a 5-4 quest of Ken Chad, and 71 and 72 rounds earlier put him in good shape for the title. Chub Moser claimed the first flight championship with a 2 and 1 victory over Buck Buchanan Sunday, and Don Hale nipped Ken Griffin 4-3 for the third flight title.

Errors Give Hawks Win Over All-Stars At Snyder

Two errors in the final two frames allowed the winning runs as the San Angelo Hawks defeated the Big Spring All-Stars 4-3 to win the Snyder Baseball Tournament Sunday. It was the second loss to the Hawks in one day as rain Saturday forced the tourney into Sunday play. In the title game the All-Stars rapped Detroit's pitcher Scotty Chastain, while Big Spring hurler James Newman held the Hawks to four safeties. However, three fielding miscues made the difference in the score. Big Spring drew first blood in the third when Rodriguez came home on a single by Weatherall, then the All-Stars went ahead 2-0 in the fourth on a home run by Pineda. San Angelo came back in the fourth with a run and then tallied in the sixth to knot the score. In the seventh Big Spring went ahead again as Tony Martinez singled to bring in Rodriguez. In the Hawk half of the seventh San Angelo countered with a run after an error to deadlock the game. The tying run got into scoring position on third after the first base umpire overruled a decision by the third base umpire when the runner was called out trying to steal third. Another error in the eighth produced the winning run, and the All-Stars went down in order in the ninth. Three of the San Angelo tallies in the game came by errors from the All-Stars. In the semi-finals Big Spring stayed in contention by beating the Snyder Redlegs 8-3 as Fierro gave up only four hits while his teammates marked eight. Big Spring marked two in the first and third frames and logged three in the fourth and one in the fifth. Rodriguez collected two hits and Mendoza scored three runs in the game. In the Sunday morning opener, Chastain stood the mound for San Angelo as he blanked the All-Stars 5-0, giving up only three hits while Big Spring's Ham allowed the same number.

Golfers Want Bud Wilkinson

NEW YORK (AP) — Bud Wilkinson, former Oklahoma football coach and formerly a candidate for the U.S. Senate, is the man the pro tournament golfers want to run their organization. The handsome Oklahoman, now a business executive and part-time television announcer, may be tapped for the post today when the touring players announce the plans and format of their new set-up in competition with the Professional Golfers Association. Wilkinson could not be reached immediately for comment. Several golfers say they think he is receptive. His new position would be that of commissioner of big time tournament golf. Both the PGA and the players who announced last week that they planned to break away from the parent organization and run their own tour have called press conferences today. The PGA gets first crack at presenting its case. It has summoned newsmen to a midtown restaurant where top PGA brass—President Max Elbin, secretary Leo Fraser, executive director Bob Cray and the new tour manager, Joe Black—will be in attendance. The players' New York attorney, Sam Gates, will preside at a later press conference at the midtown offices of Nat Fields, who has acted as public relations consultant for the touring pros. Gates has promised that the players will divulge at this time the name of the new organization, its framework or its aims.

Big Julie Takes Top Money At Golf's Richest Tourney

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Watching him play, all loose and relaxed and smooth-swinging, you'd think there wasn't a nerve, not a one, in Julius Boros' middle-aged, overweight body. Not so, admitted Big Julie after surviving a five-man scramble Sunday and nailing down the $50,000 first prize in the $250,000 Westchester Classic Golf Tournament, the richest on the tour. "I know what it looks like," the 48-year-old Boros said. "But I get the flutters sometimes, just like anybody else. There are times out there when I get excited." Boros, who became the oldest man to win the Professional Golfers' Association championship earlier this year, came from three strokes off the pace with a final round 65, four-under-par for the tight, 4,648-yard Westchester Country Club course, and finished with a 72-hole total of 272. Jack Nicklaus, defending champion and seeking his third consecutive tour victory, veteran Dan Sikes and red-headed Bob Murphy, the rookie who led all of the first three rounds, finished in a tie for second, at 273. Nicklaus had a closing 66, Sikes a 68 and the obviously nervous Murphy a par 72. They picked up $20,416.66 apiece. Billy Casper, who was in the thick of it all before fading, was alone in fifth place with a 67 for 275. Boros, 20 pounds overweight and at times bothered by an ailing back, increased his yearly earnings to $144,357, and started thinking about the tax man. "I've got to pay my third quarter estimate in September," he mused after noting that it wasn't his biggest payday. "I won a $50,000 first prize in a world championship they used to have back in 1955. And I played 56 exhibitions at $1,000 a shot. So that brought me $106,000. "I was telling my wife the other day that things seemed to be getting flat, that everything tastes the same. But something like this can change it."

Pitcher Threatens Court Action Over Ump's Rules

Label this file The Case of the Sticky Fingered Vulture or Where Did This Bird Get All That Goopy Stuff? Chief sleuth in the caper is umpire Chris Pelekoudas, who claims he found the incriminating evidence on the cap of the suspect, Slippery Phil Regan—alias the vulture—who works with that gang from Chicago. The main defense attorney is Leo Durocher, an eloquent speaker. His able assistants are Randy Hundley and Al Spangler, two other members of the Chicago gang, who call themselves the Cubs. All three lawyers were ejected protesting Regan's innocence, and the Cubs lost the ball game, 2-1 to Cincinnati Sunday. The Reds also took the second game of the doubleheader, 6-3, extending their winning streak to six games. In other National League games, St. Louis pounded Atlanta 10-1, Philadelphia tripped San Francisco 5-3, Pittsburgh dropped Los Angeles 5-1 and New York split a doubleheader with Houston, winning 8-1 before losing 2-1. The Regan fuss erupted in the seventh inning of the 4-3 game against the Reds when the veteran reliever came in to face pinch hitter Mack Jones. With the count 1-2 on Jones, Pelekoudas went to the mound to warn Regan about illegal pitches and changed the count to 3-1. Durocher rushed to his pitcher's defense and the umpire and manager compromised on a 2-2 count. Then Jones apparently fouled out but Pelekoudas nullified the play, ruling another illegal pitch and giving Jones another swing. Now Durocher argued again and the umpires demanded a towel to wipe off the inside of Regan's cap. Durocher and Spangler, who interjected his thoughts from the bench, were both thumbed out and Jones finally grounded out. In the ninth inning Pete Rose apparently struck out against Regan but again Pelekoudas nullified the out and gave the batter another swing. This time Rose singled and Hundley, the Cubs' catcher, was ejected. "We found vaseline on his cap," charged Pelekoudas. "His ball was sinking without spinning. A sinker spins. An illegal pitch breaks down without any spin." Regan was indignant at the charge. "The umpires are taking my livelihood away from me," he said. "I'm going to court about this."

Pokes Give Up Connelly

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Nine-year veteran Mike Connelly, a regular center for the Dallas Cowboys last season, has gone to the Pittsburgh Steelers as part of a deal that brought kicker Mike Clarke to the 'Pokes. Connelly's departure leaves only quarterback Don Meredith as an original member of the Cowboy team which entered the National Football League in 1960. Connelly helped the Cowboys repeat as Eastern Division champions last year when Dave Menders was injured and out for the season. Dallas originally had planned to give the Steelers a high draft choice. But Pittsburgh pressed for Connelly. Menke Keeps Paying Off

NEW YORK (AP) — The Denis Menke trade keeps paying dividends for the Houston Astros of the National League. Menke, an all-around infielder obtained from Atlanta during the off season, cracked a bases loaded single in the eighth inning Sunday to give the Astros a 5-2 victory over New York and a split of a doubleheader. In the opener, Don Cardwell of the Mets pitched and batted his team to an 8-1 victory. Lefty Mike Cuellar picked up the loss. But the second game was another story with Jim Ray allowing New York to hit four hits. Ray struck out 10 and surrendered Jim Wynn's 19th home run of the year, his third in three days, to tie the game in the sixth. Then Menke hit his game breaker in the eighth. SECOND GAME HOUSTON 5, N.Y. 2

Kathy Wins, Tying Record

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, two-time defending champion of the Lady's Professional Golf Association, won the tournament here again Sunday with a record-tying 62 to give her a 206 total. The Monahan, Tex., native tied the 18-hole record set by Mickey Wright in 1964 in the final round of the Trail City Open at Midland, Tex. Miss Whitworth, who won the $18,000 Holiday Inn Invitational for the third straight time, led by six strokes over first round leader Carol Mann and second round leader Judy Kimball. Miss Whitworth, whose first place finish was worth $2,200, played on the same threesome with Miss Mann, who finished in a tie for second with Miss Kimball. Behind them were Shirley Englehorn with a 214 total, Clifford Ann Creed and Sandra Haynie, each with 215.

All three lawyers were ejected protesting Regan's innocence, and the Cubs lost the ball game, 2-1 to Cincinnati Sunday. The Reds also took the second game of the doubleheader, 6-3, extending their winning streak to six games. In other National League games, St. Louis pounded Atlanta 10-1, Philadelphia tripped San Francisco 5-3, Pittsburgh dropped Los Angeles 5-1 and New York split a doubleheader with Houston, winning 8-1 before losing 2-1. The Regan fuss erupted in the seventh inning of the 4-3 game against the Reds when the veteran reliever came in to face pinch hitter Mack Jones. With the count 1-2 on Jones, Pelekoudas went to the mound to warn Regan about illegal pitches and changed the count to 3-1. Durocher rushed to his pitcher's defense and the umpire and manager compromised on a 2-2 count. Then Jones apparently fouled out but Pelekoudas nullified the play, ruling another illegal pitch and giving Jones another swing. Now Durocher argued again and the umpires demanded a towel to wipe off the inside of Regan's cap. Durocher and Spangler, who interjected his thoughts from the bench, were both thumbed out and Jones finally grounded out. In the ninth inning Pete Rose apparently struck out against Regan but again Pelekoudas nullified the out and gave the batter another swing. This time Rose singled and Hundley, the Cubs' catcher, was ejected. "We found vaseline on his cap," charged Pelekoudas. "His ball was sinking without spinning. A sinker spins. An illegal pitch breaks down without any spin." Regan was indignant at the charge. "The umpires are taking my livelihood away from me," he said. "I'm going to court about this."

Gridders To Get Shoes Wednesday

Prospective Big Spring Steergridders will be issued football shoes and take physicals Wednesday, according to Spike Dykes, head coach. Shoes will be handed out at the field house at 9 a.m. Wednesday. Dykes said, with physicals slated in the afternoon. Varsity and junior varsity members will take their physicals at 1 p.m. in the high school gym. The freshman Torro team will meet also at 1 p.m. in front of the gym. The freshman Brahmas will take their physicals at 12:45 p.m. next Monday at the gym, Dykes said. Dykes said that workouts will begin next Monday twice each day, starting probably at 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Practice in full pads will start Friday, he said. The team should report in good condition, although end Charles Lewis had his appendix removed last week and reserve quarterback Lynn Cauley had a knee operation this summer. Lewis should be able to perform at the first game Sept. 14 against Monterrey in Lubbock, while Cauley is slated to return by the third game of the season, Dykes said.

U.S. Cuppers Now Favored

CLEVELAND (AP) — "Remember Barcelona!" and the American Davis Cup team did. Uncle Sam sank the Spanish tennis Armada Sunday, winning the crucial interzone series and becoming highly favored to sail on and capture the coveted Cup in Australia in December. The Americans last accomplished this mission in 1963. And it looked as if they were on their way again in 1965. But in Barcelona, the Spaniards squelched them 4-1. They never forgot it. Powerful Clark Graebner, Wimbledon semifinalist and National Clay Courts champion this year, fired the deciding broadside Sunday. He defeated Juan Gisbert, 26-year-old Barcelona attorney, 9-7, 6-1, 6-1 in the climactic first singles engagement that cinched the best-of-5 interzone series for the U.S., 3-1. The final score, however, must await today's delayed outcome of the match between Arthur Ashe, on loan from the Army, against Spain's superstar Manuel Santana. The two battled for 3 hours, 45 minutes to a deadlock Sunday before the match was halted by darkness. Santana won the first set 13-11. Ashe, who aced a total of 26 times, took the next two 7-5 and 6-3. Then the 30-year-old Spaniard struggled to a 15-13 triumph in the 90-minute fourth set. With one point being awarded for each match victory, it remains for the Santana-Ashe affair to decide if the U.S. took the series 4-1 or 3-2.

Linda Barely Misses Record, Goes To Mexico

Linda Cathey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cathey, barely missed a new state record in the 200-meter individual medley event at the Texas Aquatic matches in Fort Worth last weekend. She posted 2:38 for the event in her age class, and this was only 3 of a second off the state record. The second place time in the event was 2:45. She also won two other first places, posting 1:17 for the 100-meter back stroke, and 2:43.3 in the 200-meter back stroke events. All three of her first places were new records for the meet at Fort Worth. Linda leaves today for Mexico City as a member of the Texas team for the annual Texas-Mexico swimming meet. She will be there eight days.

Rice Prexy Takes Stanford Position

HOUSTON (AP)—Dr. Kenneth Pitzer resigned today as president of Rice University to become president of Stanford University.

The former director of research for the Atomic Energy Commission became president of Rice in 1961 and just recently completed a $33 million first phase of the university's first capital funds campaign.

NEW CHALLENGE

In his letter of resignation Pitzer said there had been some disappointments at Rice but that his decision to accept the Stanford position was based primarily on its attractiveness and challenge.

He will become Stanford's sixth president Dec. 1, succeeding Dr. Wallace Sterling, who will become lifetime chancellor after having been president since 1949.

Pitzer, 54, is a native of Pomona, Calif. He came to Rice from the University of California where he had served as an instructor, associate professor and professor of chemistry since 1937.

The acceptance of the Stanford post was announced jointly by Malcolm Lovett, chairman of Rice trustees, and Farmer Fuller III, president of Stanford trustees.

Shortly after Pitzer arrived at Rice—a private, coeducational, non-sectarian institution—the university announced an immediate faculty expansion, including 21 teachers in the humanities and 10 in engineering. In 1962 Rice established the nation's first Department of Space Science.

REGRET

The university also received court approval in 1962 to eliminate racial restrictions and to charge tuition for the first time.

Pitzer's letter said one of the disappointments was the intervention of certain alumni opposing the legal action to eliminate racial restrictions and to authorize tuition charges.

He also expressed regret at the failure of the State of Texas to recognize the importance of private universities as suggested by the governor's committee on education beyond the high school.

"Other major states now have substantial scholarship programs which financially assist students attending private universities without jeopardizing the independence of these institutions," Pitzer said.

Oil Burglary

An oil field burglary of Aug. 16 in Sterling County has been reported to the sheriff's office here and local officers are assisting in the investigation.

The burglary occurred on the Blade Lease and the loot included two drums of oil, a case of oil, gas pump unit, tools and other items.

Chicago Cab Woes Climbing

CHICAGO (AP)—Only one-fourth of Chicago's 4,434 taxis were in operation today as the Democratic National Convention's Credentials Committee opened its first day of hearings.

More than 5,400 drivers and 600 mechanics have struck the city's two largest cab companies and prospects for a settlement before the convention opens next Monday appear dim.

A union attorney said the two sides were so far apart that to accept Mayor Richard J. Daley's offer to mediate "would be wasting his time."

Members of Local 777, Democratic Union Organizing Committee of the Seafarers International Union, walked out Saturday.

They demanded higher wages and increased fringe benefits.

Negotiations between Yellow and Checker Cab companies, which operate 3,600 cabs, and the union broke down Friday.

Sam P. Mazza, commissioner of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said union officials have accepted his invitation for a meeting today. Robert Haythorne, attorney for the cab companies, said he was confident the companies would attend.

With only cabs from independent companies operating Sunday, traffic jams formed around O'Hare International Airport as hundreds of travelers arranged for their own transportation.

Continental Air Transport Co. doubled its bus service from the airport to the city and suburbs to help alleviate the cab scarcity.

A spokesman for the Chicago Transit Authority said the authority does not plan to add extra buses and transit cars during rush hours because existing vehicles should be able to handle any extra business.

The authority is faced with a strike threat by dissident drivers, a majority of whom are Negroes. They are demanding increased voice in their union. That walkout is set for Sunday, the day before the Democratic Convention convenes at the International Amphitheatre.

Firemen Douse Grease Flames

A pan of grease caught fire Sunday night at Kentucky Fried Chicken, 23rd and Gregg, and light damage was done to the interior of the building.

Two units, from the 18th and Main Fire Station and the Main Fire Station, answered the call and extinguished the flames. Firemen were on the scene about 45 minutes, H. V. Crocker, fire chief, said.

Firemen answered calls Saturday afternoon to 1407 Mesa and put out a fire in a closet and Sunday afternoon to 2314 Brent where a tractor had caught fire. Damage was minor in both cases. A false alarm was received Sunday evening.

Dear Abby

This Neighbor Too Nosy

DEAR ABBY: I live in an apartment house which caters mostly to elderly ladies. One is an old maid about 60 who teaches school. She and her friend, who is nearly 80, are ardent and proper as lavender and old lace but they entertain men until all hours of the night and well into the morning. Some even stay for the weekend. The teacher has two weekend guests who alternate.

The landlady does not seem to mind but I think it looks terrible. It gives the whole building a bad name. Am I being too old-fashioned? MISS G. AGE 70

DEAR MISS G: I don't know who the men are and what they are doing there but there is a lot to be said for minding one's own business.

DEAR ABBY: My little daughter-in-law is the sweetest child and I love her dearly, but I wish I could tell her NOT to TRY SO HARD when she invites Dad and me to dinner. She wants everything to be "just so," which I think is commendable, but the poor little thing knocks herself out, and I feel guilty for having made her work so hard.

I wouldn't embarrass her for the world by going into her kitchen to "help" her, but believe me, she could use some help. When we arrive, she's in the kitchen struggling with five or six different kinds of hot hors d'oeuvres, and during dinner she's either in the kitchen or jumping around "serving" us. I wish I could tell her if she'd just throw some hamburgers on the grill, slice a few tomatoes and open up a quart of ice cream for dessert, we'd love it. But no, she insists on making the most complicated dishes which require hours of time and tremendous effort.

How can a mother-in-law tell her sweet new daughter-in-law that she'd rather have her company and simple food than the most elaborate meal in the world? She reads your column. NO NAME, PLS.

DEAR NO NAME: She can't. But since you brought it up, many older, experienced women can also learn this lesson. When a guest accepts an invitation to dinner, he wants to find a HOSTESS — not a "GHOST-ESS." Simple food served in a relaxed atmosphere is enjoyed far more than the most elegant gourmet fare offered by a worn out, fretful, nervous wreck who has obviously slaved for hours.

If she reads my column, I hope she doesn't miss this one.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard that it is perfectly proper for a gentleman to visit his fiancée in her apartment for dinner, watching TV, or listening to stereo. But a lady may not visit her fiancée in HIS apartment for the same reasons.

We are a widow and widower in our late fifties (if age is any yardstick). We have no parents or children to chaperon us. What do you think?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Since there is nothing you can do in your apartment that you can't do in hers, I think you should go on doing what you're doing.

Faces Odessa Murder Count

Billy Myers, 32-year-old Negro, held in the Odessa city jail on murder charges and identified in reports as a resident of Big Spring, is actually an Odessa man, according to Sheriff A. N. Standard.

Standard said that officers here know Myers, who has been temporarily residing at 218 N. Johnson.

He was interrogated by local officers recently in connection with a forgery investigation.

The man surrendered to the Ector County sheriff's office at 12:30 p.m. Saturday and handed the officers a .410 shotgun. He told the officers he had killed a man.

In the meantime, Roy McNeal, 43, had been found shot to death at an Odessa residence.

Charges of murder with malice have been filed against Myers. He has been unable to post the $10,000 bond set in his case and was still in the Odessa City jail today.

Shotgun, Pistol Fire Ring Out In St. Pete

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Shotgun and pistol fire rang out through St. Petersburg's Southside Sunday night as the Gulf Coast city went through a third successive night of racial violence.

Police said there were no reports of injury from gunfire during the night, but at least one blast from shotguns fired from ambush struck the Florida Highway Patrol's specially designed riot-control armored truck.

Backed up by the armored vehicle, law enforcement officers employed tear gas to break up three large gatherings of Negroes in the troubled area. On each occasion, officers on foot swept through the area to drive out stragglers.

Lt. M. G. Colman, who has led the city's riot-trained officers on the street, said 25 persons were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to carrying concealed weapons.

Colman said the patrol's armored vehicle, which can send out clouds of tear gas to either side, proved a major factor in dispersing the crowds.

The violence began about 1 a.m. Saturday after a street fight outside a dance hall patronized by Negroes. Looting, rock-throwing and some window-smashing was widespread the first night, but police have attempted to break up any crowd formation since then.

Neither authorities nor Negro spokesmen have given any reason publicly for the disturbance.

Residence Looted

Sheriff's deputies are looking for clues in the burglary Saturday evening of the B. A. Wheeler residence on Oil Mill Road. Wheeler reported that when he came home about 10 p.m. Saturday he found someone had stolen an adding machine, a typewriter, portable television set, an electric razor, a bed spread and articles of clothing from his home.
