HHH LEAD Demo Claim Challenged By GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — An adviser to Richard M. Nixon has challenged a Democratic claim that Hubert H. Humphrey is leading the presidential contest in eight states with a total of 136 electoral votes.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, said private polls offered by Democratic National chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien "don't jibe with what the public opinion polls say."

O'Brien said Thursday that party polls show the vice president ahead in Connecticut, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Texas.

"I question that Minnesota is for Humphrey even though it is his home state," Morton said. "We hear that it is nip and tuck in Michigan and Pennsylvania. Texas is certainly doubtful."

Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, a member of the Democratic nominee's strategy board, said in a separate interview that Humphrey's "operation catchup" is working.

The Oklahoma senator said Humphrey turned the corner in a Monday night national broadcast when he said he would stop the bombing of North Vietnam if there were evidence of Hanoi's willingness to neutralize the demilitarized zone.

Since the broadcast, Harris said, volunteer workers and money not available before have been coming in.

"In the first two days after that broadcast $28,000 came in in small donations and people are calling up to ask what they can do to help," Harris said.

Polio Cases Reported

AUSTIN (AP) — Two cases of paralytic polio — one in Houston and one in Sutton County (Sonora) — were reported last week, the state Health Department said today. The department said 21 cases have been reported this year, compared to six a year ago.

Thornberry Out Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson formally notified the Senate today of his withdrawal of the nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice of the United States.

He also withdrew his nomination of U.S. Circuit Court Judge Homer Thornberry of Texas to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Thornberry was nominated to take the place of Fortas on the court, on the assumption that Fortas would be confirmed to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren.

The withdrawal of Thornberry's nomination indicated that if Johnson submits another nomination for chief justice, he will not appoint a sitting justice. Fortas has been on the court since 1965.

The President announced Wednesday he was withdrawing the Fortas nomination, at Fortas' request. The request followed Senate refusal to end a filibuster against the selection of Fortas.

B52 Crashes, Burns; At Least 2 Survive

MINOT, N.D. (AP) — A B52 bomber from Minot Air Force Base crashed and burned early today on a farm 12 miles northeast of this north-central North Dakota city.

At least two crew members survived the crash, which occurred about 3 a.m. EDT. The base public relations office said the Stratofortress carried a crew of six.

There was no immediate word of the fate of the four other crewmen.

"I was out of bed like a rocket," said Carl Swarthout, 66. "The flames were shooting several hundred feet across the soil bank land."

Swarthout, who lives alone on the farm, said the eight-jet bomber came down 300 to 400 feet from his house.

A few minutes later, the farmer, two crew members walked to the farmhouse. One appeared to be unhurt, Swarthout said, while the other complained of an elbow injury.

The two airmen stayed in the farmhouse for two hours before an ambulance and fire truck arrived, he said. The craft was still burning three hours after it crashed.

The farmer said the survivors told him that the craft was on a training mission and there were no weapons.

Swarthout quoted one of the crew members as saying, "There was a failure in one side of the eight engines and the plane started to fall apart."

The two survivors told the farmer that they used their ejection mechanism to get out of the plane. They didn't know if the other crew members escaped, the farmer said.

Swarthout said one of the survivors was the copilot.

Army Alert, Students Burn Trolley Cars

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Students burned trolley cars near an Olympic field and armored cars kept their guns trained on apartment buildings where snipers had holed up, but most of the Mexican capital was quiet Thursday night.

Despite the eruption of the student rebellion into a shooting battle with army troops Wednesday night, the Olympic games still were set to open a week from Saturday.

CONFIDENCE

"As guests of Mexico, we have full confidence that the Mexican people will join the participants and spectators in celebrating the games, a veritable oasis in a troubled world," said Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, after an emergency meeting of the committee.

A count of casualties at hospitals and police stations showed at least 27 persons killed in Wednesday night's fighting and some Mexico City newspapers reported death tolls as high as 40. There was no official estimate of the number wounded, but it appeared to be in the hundreds. Various sources reported between 1,000 and 1,500 arrested.

The government has reported 20 deaths. Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, secretary of defense, said one of the dead was a soldier.

No injuries were reported in Thursday's incidents. Students burned three streetcars in front of the Aztec Stadium where Olympic soccer games will be played, and fled before police made any arrests. Hit-and-run gunmen fired apparently random sprays of bullets in various sections of the city.

NOISE BOMB

A noise bomb, which did no damage, exploded on the eastern side of the city, so far untouched by the sporadic violence that has occurred since the students went on strike two months ago, charging government repression and police brutality.

Besides armored cars at the Plaza of Three Cultures, there were other signs of continued unease.

Nixon Charges Wallace 'Not Fit'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has declared, for all the South to hear, that Alabama's George C. Wallace is not fit to be president of the United States.

But the Republican nominee for the White House acknowledged that the third party candidate could in the end prove to be his major rival in the Nov. 5 election.

LEVELS ASSAULT

Nixon chose a campaign television appearance broadcast across a dozen Southern states Thursday night to level his most direct assault against Wallace.

"We need policies at home that will go beyond simply saying that, well, if somebody lies down in front of my presidential limousine it will be the last one he lies down in front of," Nixon said.

His reference was to a statement Wallace had made repeatedly during his campaign that if he were president and a protester lay down in front of his car, "I will guarantee you it will be the last car they'll ever lay down in front of."

"I don't think anybody who would say that is even fit to be president," Nixon said in an interview later.

Nixon also said for the first time that he would be willing to meet Wallace in two-man televised campaign debate. But he later added that is not going to happen, and said his comment was made facetiously.

DEBATE

As he has from the beginning, Nixon said campaign debates—if they are to be held—should match him and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee.

Nixon talked as well of the requirements he would set for a chief justice of the United States, now that President Johnson has withdrawn his nomination of Abe Fortas to take that post.

Nixon said he does not care whether a man is a Democrat or a Republican, a liberal or a conservative. He said he wants a chief justice who will interpret the law and leave it to Congress to write laws.

"I want men who will interpret the Constitution strictly

CURTIS SAYS PILOTS CALLED IT 'HOPELESS'

TFX Was Rushed Too Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis—noting that the controversial F111 fighter-bomber has crashed 11 times—says it was "rushed into production too soon before the design was proved adequate by normally prudent testing."

The Nebraska Republican, a member of the Aeronautical Space Sciences Committee, said he has learned that some test pilots even said the aircraft was hopeless.

Curtis, in a statement for the Senate Thursday, said there has been a "consistent history of misrepresentation and even deliberate falsehood relating to the facts about the TFX, also known as the F111."

Curtis said this falsehood ranged from the much ballyhooed public debut of the aircraft in Oct. 1964, when it was represented as being ready for flight, to misrepresentations before the Senate.

When the aircraft was rolled out for the press as complete in 1964, Curtis said, "the fuselage was far from finished and fiberglass panels had been installed in many places and painted to make the plane appear ready for flight."

"Perhaps the film-fam men in the Pentagon did not consider this shabby subterfuge a matter of major importance," said Curtis, "but it is certainly repre-

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed today a foreign aid appropriation bill totaling $1.932 billion, a record low amount that is almost $1 billion below President Johnson's request.

A 44-13 vote after only a short debate sent the bill to conference to resolve differences with a House-approved version.

The Senate bill is $317 million above the measure passed by the House last month and was the last of the year's regular appropriations measures to clear the Senate.

Addition over the House bill made by the Senate Appropriations Committee and approved by the full Senate included $150 million for the Alliance for Progress, $85 million for development loans, $50 million for technical assistance, $27.9 million for international organization activities and $350,000 for the Partners of the Alliance.

The aid funds were included in a bill containing a total of $2.3 billion, with the other money earmarked for the Peace Corps, Ryukyus Islands administration, the Asia Development Bank, refugee aid and the Inter-American Development Bank.

The Senate restored $4 million cut by the House from the Peace Corps, giving it a total of $104 million compared with $107.5 million last year.

Before approving the bill, the Senate voted 43 to 13 to approve the appropriation committee's amendments.

Demand Grows For Soviets To Withdraw

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Despite Communist efforts to avert U.N. debate on the Czechoslovak question, Pakistan and the Netherlands joined today in a growing demand that Soviet troops be withdrawn as soon as possible from Czechoslovak territory.

Foreign ministers of the two countries addressed the 125-nation General Assembly, in advance of a speech by the acting foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, Vaclav Pleskot. Pleskot was expected to appeal for help of his country's leaders to negotiate withdrawal of the troops.

ARMED FIST

Netherlands Foreign Minister J.M.A. Luns asserted that the Russians had shattered hopes for East-West good will by "clamping an armed fist on Eastern Europe."

"Withdrawal of these troops is the first essential step," he said. Pakistan's Foreign Minister Arshad Husain said the people of Czechoslovakia are entitled to exercise their sovereign rights and to "enjoy freedom from fear of the threat or use of force."

"It therefore, follows," he said, "that the armed forces of the Socialist states need to be withdrawn from Czechoslovakia at the earliest possible moment."

A plea went out from Prague Thursday night for Czechoslovaks themselves—particularly students—to do nothing to hinder the task of the leaders at the Kremlin.

WEAKEST CHAIN

"Every chain is as strong as its weakest link," Education Minister Vladimir Kadlec said on Czechoslovak television. "Students, make sure you are not that weakest link. The government is meeting your demands as much as it can. Don't make the task of our leaders more difficult."

Pleskot took over his functions last month when Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek quit under Soviet pressure and Premier Oldrich Cernik became the nominal foreign minister.

Pleskot got his turn to speak here while Cernik and Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek were in Moscow for the latest talks on "normalization," meaning withdrawal of the Soviet, East German, Polish, Hungarian and Bulgarian troops in Czechoslovakia since Aug. 20.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko were planning a second talk despite their differences over Czechoslovakia, stated in the general debate.

Spice Of Life

NEWCASTLE, England (AP) — Miss Janice Pepper, 22, will marry Francis Salt, 25, in a ceremony here Saturday.

Spiro Agrees With Hecklers

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Gov. Spiro Agnew interrupted his speech Thursday night to agree with hecklers who were chanting, "We need peace!" But, he said, peace comes from the work of those making sacrifices for it.

The audience applauded. His talk at a high school was on the theme of providing a better urban environment for the people, standardizing welfare payments to check the flow of rural poor to the cities, and building well-planned satellite communities for "a decent, exciting existence" that would take some of the excess population from cities.

United Fund Effort Soars Over One-Third Mark

United Fund efforts reached 35 per cent of the $109,225 goal today with $38,264.83 reported to the United Fund office.

Raymond Tollett, chairman of the out-of-town division, turned in 42 per cent of his goal today to give the drive a boost.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. employees and Communications Workers of America notched 96.6 per cent of their $2,195 objective this morning with several persons on vacation and work crews in the field yet to be contacted.

Webb AFB chipped in 88.5 per cent of its $12,000 goal today and is continuing to move upward.

Mrs. Alyce Butler, United Fund secretary, noted that several campaign workers have completed their cards in fast order and have returned to the office for more contacts.

She noted that more new businesses and individuals this year are making contributions. This should make the objective even more possible, she said.

Contributions also are coming in through the big gifts and special gifts divisions, she said.

Wiggins Confirmed By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed today President Johnson's nomination of J. R. Wiggins, former editor and executive vice president of the Washington Post, as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Wiggins succeeds George W. Ball, who resigned last week to help Hubert H. Humphrey's presidential campaign.

Action was by voice vote.

The Senate also confirmed nominations of Wiggins and Brewster C. Denny of Washington as U.S. representatives to the current General Assembly session and Raymond D. Nasher of Texas and Marvin L. Warner of Ohio as alternate representatives.

Hubert Figures He Has 'Turned Corner'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey says his campaign "turned the corner" during a 15-day push that carried him through wide sectors of the country.

Rallies in Portland and Seattle, Ore., were disrupted by hecklers. He admits Republican Richard M. Nixon is out in front. Lack of money forced him to cancel a batch of television commercials.

BUOYED

Yet Humphrey and his staff were buoyed by the size and enthusiasm of crowds that turned out in San Francisco and Charlotte, N.C. Presidential lieutenant George Ball and Douglas Cater joined the vice president's entourage. The nation's largest union—the Teamsters—gave him formal endorsement.

Democratic polls claimed he's ahead at least in eight states holding 136 of the 270 electoral votes needed for election. And in the wake of his Salt Lake City, Utah, speech advocating a qualified bombing halt, Democratic senators rose in debate to defend Humphrey at nearly the same time 10 House Democrats who had backed war critic Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy announced they now support the vice president.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said: "Humphrey has hit his stride again. He seemed to be uncertain and fumbling before, but now he is the old campaigner we have known in the past." Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield joined others who have predicted McCarthy will endorse Humphrey soon. McCarthy is scheduled to speak Tuesday at a rally for Paul O'Dwyer, a McCarthy backer who is challenging Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., for re-election.

Humphrey made his "turning the corner" assessment Thursday during a wet motorcade through West Virginia, where John F. Kennedy's primary victory ended Humphrey's run for the presidential nomination in 1960.

Humphrey's campaign in West Virginia charged that Republican victory means "recess-

More Girls Enter Derby

NEW YORK (AP)—A California brunette is the latest to invade Wall Street in the burgeoning "sweater girl derby" that has developed since a Brooklyn girl turned the street's usually staid bulls and bears into wolves.

JUST WALK

Geri Stotts, 36, of Burbank, who measures 47-29-38, stands 5 feet 10 inches and weighs 150 pounds, told newsmen: "We're just going to take a walk down Wall Street at noon."

"I've run into three or four women who are much larger than I am, but they don't have my proportions," Mrs. Stotts said Thursday night.

An employee of an auto agency, she said both her husband and 21-year-old son approve of her venture, which brings her to New York for the first time. Her trip is sponsored by Los Angeles radio station KGIL.

On Thursday, two young ladies from Cleveland, Ohio—both measuring 43-24-37—drew a noontime crowd of 4,000 financiers, brokers, clerks and passers-by at the intersection of Broad and Wall streets.

Sheila Moore, 21, and Suzanne Zulkowski, 25, were brought to Manhattan by Cleveland radio station WIXY to show New Yorkers that the Ohio city could match the 43-25-37 of Francine Gottfried of Brooklyn.

The 21-year-old Miss Gottfried, a bank computer operator, got the phenomena off two weeks ago when, wearing a yellow sweater and a red skirt, she emerged from a subway exit on her way to work. The word somehow had gotten around, and more than 6,000 persons were on hand, while ticker tape showered from nearby windows.

BETTER

When Misses Moore and Zulkowski emerged from a subway stairway near the Stock Exchange, one young man commented, "This is better than the World Series."

FOLLOWS ADVICE

Single Author Gets Her Man

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — When Jean Baer began her new book a year ago she noted that there were 794,527 marriageable males in New York.

As any enterprising sales girl might do who had first chance at the merchandise, Jean staked out one of the best for herself.

But expertise has its penalties. That book, "The Single Girl Goes to Town," is out and she can't marry her choice. Not yet.

Jean fears that the misses who made her their guru after her first book, "Follow Me," taught them how to meet a man in every port and resort might feel abandoned.

Moreover, to wed in the middle of all the publicity about her man-catching maneuvers might smack of proving a point. So her main goal in life has been postponed until the marrying month of June.

For the record let it be known that although Jean may be the pedagogue of the predatory female, she did not check out the advertised bachelor apartments in hope of finding a lonely and available male in one. She had suggested that under As in the ABZs of man-hunting.

Nor did she rent a child for zoo-visiting which, according to her advice on page 103 is a good way to meet Saturday fathers exercising visiting rights with their progeny by previous wives.

Admittedly, Jean used a ploy that turns up from time to time in her tome. A party in giving one honoring a fellow writer, she added to the guest list a few wonder - whatever - happened - to - him names in an old date book.

The list included a onetime dinner date, an attractive, divorced psychoanalyst. He turned up wearing and turtlenecked, and wound up offering to help her with her driving lessons. That led to a driver's license for Jean and a marriage license for both.

Jean believes in marriage. It comes. Basically, she says, she is a romantic, old-fashioned girl, although she is abreast of the sexual revolution of the '60s, as her chapter on "How to Marry a Married Man" indicates.

After marriage Jean will give up being a pro on singlehood to write "more serious prose," even though in the minds of the single nothing is more serious than becoming double.

Jean's bowing out at the Pied Piper of girls trapped in male-ness Mudvilles out in precocious some celebrations in small towns by parents who would like to keep their daughters at home.

But by that time a good many young spinsters will already be surging into the cities, following Jean's strategy for finding jobs, apartments, roommates, clothes, gourmet food, and husbands. She is a powerful persuader.

It was evident during the show that while much of the leg may still be revealed, the shoulders and arms are more often concealed. During the day, necks were hidden with high collars or draped with filmy, bright scarves, but legs were still a focal point, covered with textured and colored hose — worn with sturdy, a slightly higher-heeled shoes or sleek, slim boots.

Fashion had waved its wand at the waist, and left it circled with the magic touch of sashes in fabrics and leathers or happily chained with light golden links.

The colors of clothes were quietly classic or boldly bright — depending on the lady's mood of the moment. Neutrals were beautifully cut, depending on quality fabrics and styling for an ageless look, while brighter costumes were teamed with solid-color accessories for tasteful balance and wearability.

The showing began with a striking daytime costume which teamed a neutral camel hair wool knit coat, with a quartet of patch pockets, and a lightly-fitted A-line dress with dropped waistline.

The soft, feminine look continued in the winter fabrics of daytime costumes which followed. Shades ranged from pure white and oyster, through lighter to coffee and cream tones in the spare, little dresses, appealing in their simplicity, and the chic suits featuring slightly flared skirts or slender tubes slightly gathered at the waistline.

Leather — in skirts, jumpers, pants and coats — looked indestructible, yet uniquely womanly, when it was styled to flatter the figure or softened with touches of fur. Winning instant approval was a polished instant leather skirt, belted in charcoal and topped with a black, tucked-in cashmere turtleneck sweater.

Coats (with or without companion dresses) could easily stand alone. The double-breasted look was long and lovely in big, attention-getting plaids, while shorter versions featured belted flair or fishtail backs.

The second portion of the show drew soft sighs from an appreciative audience as furs, modern as today's maids and matrons, appeared as "that touch of mink" that makes all the difference.

Elegance entered the room in the form of stoles, casual jackets, wraps and full-length coats of Russian sable, tourmaline mink, natural mink, ranch mink, Canadian sheared beaver and spotted cat that once prowled in Argentina. The lines were new and never-to-be-forgotten.

Evening fashions seemed surrounded with moonlight, as models moved gracefully in filmy chiffon gowns, often yoked or bibbed with extravagant adornment of sequins, pearls and fiery jewels. The accent was "opulence" and richness was reflected in the lavish use of gleaming clusters of gold, silver, and iridescent. Cocktail fashions were semi-fitted, skimming the figure in above-the-knee brocades or Alaskine, to be banded at the high neck with gilt braid, or pocketed with slashes of beaded bands.

The finale featured all models appearing on the walkway in formal wear as Mrs. Leonard played melodies from "The Sound of Music."

Mrs. James Malone, OWC president, extended the welcome and introduced the honored guests, Mrs. Chandler B. Estes and Mrs. Robert Casey.

Tables were covered with bright yellow cloths and centered with accessory displays flanked by slender tapers in green, yellow and orange. Pyracantha runners extended down each table.

Connie Edwards' Are Married In London

Mr. and Mrs. Connie Edwards are honeymooning in Switzerland following their marriage Wednesday at the Marylebone Registry Office in England. The couple had been engaged since August.

brother, Will P. Edwards Jr., 806 W. 14th, in the Edwards Petroleum Company and the Edwards and Edwards Ranch Company, both headquartered in the Petroleum Building.

The bride is the former Miss Sandie Downing, a 20-year-old Britisher whose father is an engineer in London. She was secretary to film producer, S. Benjamin Fish.

No definite date has been announced for the couple's return to the United States, however, they are expected to arrive in Big Spring in late November. An introductory reception here will honor the couple at that time.

Edwards, born and reared in Big Spring, met Miss Downing when he and three other members of the Confederate Air Force went to London to take part in aerial scenes for the film epic, "The Battle of Britain." Edwards is a colonel in the CAF and plans to remain in England several more weeks until shooting on the film is completed.

The Rev. Frank Radcliff, pastor of the Westside Baptist Church, spoke on "Living With..." at Tuesday's meeting of the Washington School Parent-Teacher Association.

Creative Classes To Start At YMCA

A one-week class in making paper flowers will start Monday at the YMCA with Mrs. Eddie Trice as instructor. The classes will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at a charge of $4 for Y members and $6 for non-members.

Mrs. Wendell Ware's sixth grade won the membership drive. Mrs. Martha Fielder's fourth grade won second and Mrs. Bonnie Faye Sorley's fourth grade won third.

On Oct. 14, a week's course in decoupage will begin. It will be held the same days and hours at the same charge. In both courses, participants must provide materials. Interested persons may enroll by calling 267-8234.

Mrs. Bumgarner announced a chili supper will be held today in the Goliad Junior High School cafeteria. Four members, Mrs. David King, Mrs. Leo K. Gee, Mrs. Gail Cantrell and Mrs. B. D. Taylor, were appointed to investigate playground equipment as a possible unit project.

Allied Forces Kill 150 Enemy Troops

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces killed 150 enemy troops in a new outbreak of heavy fighting near the Cambodian border, along the jungled approaches to Saigon, military spokesmen reported today.

Enemy gunners shot down a U.S. helicopter ferrying ammunition to the embattled South Vietnamese mercenaries in the area. Four Americans were killed and two wounded.

Earlier, U.S. headquarters reported that 24 Americans were killed in the collision of a big Army CH47 Chinook helicopter and an Air Force Caribou cargo plane 11 miles northwest of Hue

Prices For Fed Cattle This Fall Likely To Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Live-stock producers can expect moderately strong prices to continue this fall, but the Agriculture Department says buildups of cattle and hogs for slaughter markets could bring some price difficulties later on.

The department says in a summary of a livestock situation report due Oct. 9 that prices for fed cattle this fall are likely to be lower because of larger production, seasonal increases in pork supplies and gains in broiler chicken output.

"Fed cattle marketings this past summer continued well above a year earlier," the department said, "and gains at least as large are likely this fall."

The report cited increases in cattle feeding in a six-state survey area, which jumped 32 per

Submarine Steel Probe Unfurled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy acknowledges that for the past nine months it has been investigating inspection practices for steel used in U.S. submarines.

The review, the Navy disclosed Thursday night, was prompted by a letter from the head of a steel testing firm who "expressed concern" about the service's steel buying and inspecting procedures.

NO EVIDENCE

The Navy said a wide-ranging probe that involved building of submarines, steel producers and government agents showed:

— "There is no evidence that defective steel plates are being used in submarine construction."

— "There is also no indication that the loss of the USS Thresher (1963) and USS Scorpion (last May) were due to the failure of the steel plates used in the hull structure."

— "Submarine steel plates and fabricated structures are guaranteed safe through inspection procedures that are 'always carried out under government supervision.'"

— "Recent ultrasonic inspection of welds and plating in more

Black Panther Wins Support Of Students

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A resolution criticizing the university of California regents and asking that Eldridge Cleaver, Black Panther information minister, be allowed to lecture on the Berkeley campus has won overwhelming support of the university's Academic Senate.

By a 668 to 114 vote, with 21 abstentions, the Senate adopted Thursday night a six-part resolution in favor of proceeding with plans to hold the course "on or off campus" with Cleaver giving his proposed 10 lectures on racism.

The resolution directs "the committee on courses to take all steps to encourage course and credit status for that program."

The regents voted to limit the militant Negro, an ex-convict to one lecture in a class for credit.

After the resolution was introduced, University President Charles Hitch warned the faculty group that confrontation with the regents might "destroy the university as we have known it."

Chancellor Roger Heyns of the Berkeley campus said he had reserved a room for a "student-sponsored noncredit program of instruction" that under present rules could permit Cleaver to lecture as many times as he wishes.

Meanwhile, the state Court of Appeal ruled that Cleaver, 33, must stand trial Dec. 2 on a charge of assault with intent to

World Reds Meet Delayed

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Delegations of Communist parties from 59 countries have decided to postpone a world Communist conference scheduled for Moscow Nov. 25, apparently because unity seemed unlikely after the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Consulting in Budapest, the delegations decided to meet there again Nov. 17 to discuss a new date, the official Hungarian news agency MTI reported.

Sources in Budapest said Czechoslovakia was not discussed and the session was characterized by "honest efforts on all sides to achieve the greatest degree of cooperation and to overcome difficulties that arose in the recent period."

But the large Communist parties of Italy and France were known to oppose a Communist unity conference in the present situation. Both these parties, and the Communist governments of Romania and Yugoslavia, have spoken out against the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Breathtests May Cell You

AUSTIN (AP) — The Department of Public Safety has 90 new breathtesting machines to tell them if you are drunk.

Each machine cost nearly $1,000. Half the $250,000 needed for a one-year study of the DPS breath-testing project came from a federal grant.

DPS director Wilson Speir said Thursday the machines will be placed in operation in metropolitan areas within two or three weeks.

You do not have to take the test. Texas has no implied consent law. Such a law failed to pass the legislature this year.

But if you do consent, the evidence can be used against you. And if Texas gets such a law next year, you must take the test or run the risk of losing your driver's license.

The machine analyzes your breath in 1-1/2 minutes, but they wait 15 minutes before giving you the test so alcohol on your breath from a drink taken within just a few moments before the DPS stops you will not affect the test.

You are considered drunk if the machine says your blood is one-tenth of one per cent alcohol. And there is a direct relationship between the amount of alcohol on your breath and the amount in your blood.

Students, Police Battle In Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Spurred by street battles between students and police, resistance was stiffening today against the military leaders who overthrew the government of President Fernando Belaunde Terry.

In one encounter Thursday night police fired into a crowd of students, hitting one in the head and apparently killing him. Five photographers taking pictures of the incident were arrested.

CARS AFIRE

Students swirled through the streets breaking shop windows. At least 10 cars were burned. Police used tear gas in an attempt to control the outbreaks in this Andean nation on the west coast of South America.

The new government, composed of the highest ranking officers in the army, air force and navy, is headed by Gen. Juan Velasco, army chief of staff and president of the joint chiefs.

He issued a communique detailing the formation of the new government, warning against acts of violence and telling of Belaunde's exile. It was also

A Devotional For The Day

"You are the salt of the earth; but if salt has lost its taste, how shall its saltiness be restored?" (Matthew 5:13, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear Father, to You we confess our sins. Forgive our misunderstandings and wrong deeds that hinder You from coming to all the people on earth. Help us that we may be Your good, faithful servants Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Deft Handling Of Issue

So far Republican presidential nominee Richard Nixon has been remarkably wise or clever (choose the word suiting partisan persuasion) in handling sensitive campaign issues of major importance to the national interest. A classical case in point was his comment on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's hesitancy in submitting the nuclear nonproliferation treaty for ratification.

The former vice president, who had earlier endorsed the treaty designed to check the spread of nuclear weapons, says now that "despite the inherent value of this treaty, its ratification should be postponed."

And, though expressing concern over some provisions of the treaty, worked out by lengthy U.S.-Soviet bilateral negotiations, he added, "I hope that it can be universally adopted." That can hardly be faulted as a safe campaign stance.

Universal adoption of the treaty is extremely important to reducing the risks of nuclear holocaust by keeping mass-destruction weapons in the fewest hands possible. But actual ratification of it by an activating number of nations is months, perhaps years, away, and the only reason for prompt U.S. ratification is to underline this nation's argument that other nations, including more than a few doubters, should go along.

U.S. postponement of ratification, at least in this Senate session, would now be taken as an expression of this nation's displeasure with the Soviet Union's repression of Czechoslovakia. And that is no more than the Johnson administration is doing in canceling cultural exchanges and temporarily cooling other U.S.-Soviet relations.

Nixon's position on the treaty had the advance approval of his party's liberals, such as Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and former Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, so he touched the party-unity base. Furthermore it undoubtedly reflects the mood of the Senate itself, which is most unlikely to ratify the treaty in an election year in view of the American reaction to the Czech crisis.

In all respects, Nixon's handling of the nonproliferation treaty issues was a deft political performance.

Not-So-Good Record

The General Accounting Office has drawn a sorry picture of the Department of Agriculture serving more as a protector of the insecticide industry than of the public interest.

The Agricultural Research Service's pesticide regulation service is responsible for enforcement of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act which requires that all pesticide products shipped across a state line be safe and effective. Yet the accounting office found that "there have been no actions by the ARS to report violations of the law for prosecution in 13 years."

The accounting office reported that the service took 2,751 samples of products in 1966, of which 750 were found to be in violation of the law. In fiscal 1967, 4,958 samples were taken and 1,147 found in violation.

The regulation staff of about 150 has a $3.6-million budget, employing 100 in 12 laboratories, plus supervisory and inspection officers.

As a "horrible example" of the failure of the service to act, an unnamed disinfectant, claimed as effective against staphylococcus, was tested in January, 1965. The analysis showed that "when the disinfectant was used as directed it could not be relied upon to kill a bacterium."

Yet in early 1968 the disinfectant, with the false claim on its label, was still being sold while the service held the case open "pending the examination of additional samples."

The Agriculture Department's pesticide regulatory service should be regulated out of existence if it can do no better than this for the people of the United States.

David Lawrence No New Position On Vietnam

WASHINGTON — Even though the slogan isn't new, Hubert Humphrey's pledge, which says, in effect, "I'll stop the bombing if —" will produce enough confusion inside the Democratic ranks to cause many of the "doves" to support the Democratic nominee.

Practically every speech or statement that President Johnson has made in the last several months has assured the American people that he would "stop the bombing if —" He has repeatedly called for some reciprocal action by the North Vietnamese. Humphrey is asking for some signal of "good faith" and particularly for "evidence, direct or indirect by deed or word, of Communist willingness to restore the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam."

That it doesn't differ very much from Johnson's policy, particularly as the Democratic presidential nominee announces the following condition:

"A STOPPING of the bombing of the North — taking account of Hanoi's actions and assurances of prompt good faith negotiations and keeping the option of resuming that bombing if the Communists show bad faith."

It may be taken for granted that the Paris conference has told the North Vietnamese the same thing again and again. There is no sign as yet that the latter would pay any more attention to the imposition of conditions after the presidential election in the United States is over than they are at present.

"BUT WHILE American leaders have time after time said they would 'stop the bombing if —' the Hanoi government hasn't shown the slightest interest in such suggestions. Indeed, the North Vietnamese representatives at the Paris peace talks insist that the bombing must be halted 'unconditionally' before there can be any meaningful negotiations."

HUMPHREY SPEAKS of "risks for peace." The fact is that the problem of taking such risks — whether they're called "calculated," "acceptable" or "reasonable" — has been raised many times, not only at the two national conventions but in speeches made before and since then by some of the Democratic and Republican members of the Senate. Nobody, however, seems to have given a clear definition of what a "calculated risk" really means. If the United States should stop the bombing, and the North Vietnamese should refuse to halt military operations in South Vietnam, the result could be an increase in the number of casualties among American and allied troops.

Billy Graham

When my elderly father died and left everything to my mother I was frantic with greed and envy. I took my father's will and for a fee and the help of a lawyer I took all his money and left my mother penniless — also my sisters. Please tell me how I can overcome this greed?

J.G.

The first thing you can do is to make restitution to those you have wronged. If it takes every penny you have, give your mother and your sisters their fair share. The Bible says, "When you bring your gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother (or sister) hath ought against thee: leave thy gift before the altar, and go thy way: first be reconciled to thy brother (or sister), and then come and offer thy gift." (Matt. 5:23)

You have committed a grievous crime, and one punishable by law. But, the place to begin is where Christ says to begin — by making amends for your wrongdoing. I'm sure that your mother and sisters will be lenient with you when this becomes known to them. But, if necessary, you ought to be willing to pay your dues to the law, as well as your loved ones. Not until complete and full reparations have been made for this loathsome deed can you hope to find peace with God, and with your relatives.

JUST WHAT is an "acceptable risk," and how many American lives should be sacrificed while waiting to find out whether the North Vietnamese are acting in good faith, has never been determined by anybody. Military men are cautious and skeptical. They think all the promises indicate to Hanoi that the United States is so eager to get out of the war that if the North Vietnamese wait a little longer, they will obtain practically everything they want and the whole negotiation could wind up in what would be "peace at any price."

ALTHOUGH THE President has said he would stop the bombing if there were some evidence of reciprocity and good faith from the other side, there is certainly no basis for assuming that a total cessation of the bombing by the United States would bring peace.

So far as the American television audience is concerned, however, millions of listeners may have been misled into thinking that something new has really been offered and that Humphrey was really promised to end the Vietnam war. But there isn't the slightest evidence as yet that this can be accomplished merely by a halt in the bombing.

COME ON, THAT'S NOT FOR YOU, KID!

Robert D. Haworth Consumers Avoid Spending Cuts

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. economy continues to advance at a rapid pace despite the enactment of the 10 per cent tax surcharge and the accompanying federal spending cuts.

THE CONSENSUS among most economists is that the shift in fiscal policy enacted last June eventually will be reflected in a cooling off of the economy. But some are questioning whether the change will be emphatic enough or long-lived enough to alter materially the inflationary bias in the economy.

CITIBANK also noted that consumers have refused to be inhibited by the tax increase, as reflected in the sharp rise in retail sales in July which continued at a high level in August and September. Consumers apparently have avoided spending cuts by dipping into record savings and through pay increases which offset the tax, the bank said.

And the influential Bank of America, the nation's largest, has predicted a substantial slowing of the economy in the year ahead as the fiscal restraint package takes effect.

IN A BOOKLET entitled "Focus on 1969, the U.S. Economy," Bank of America said the most pronounced slowing in business activity will develop in the closing months of 1968 or early 1969. Citibank said that since the tax surcharge did not go into effect until July, there will be a major adjustment of withholding rates at tax time next spring which will sharply reduce refunds and increase balance-due payments.

The First National City Bank of New York, in its Monthly Economic Letter for October, noted that the consumer price index rose again in August following sharp increases in June and July. During the three-month period, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 5.3 per cent, well above the increase in earlier months.

Hal Boyle
Pick Your Pet Panic

NEW YORK (AP) — Since this has been called "the age of anxiety," your social status may depend on your fears.

Do you have a pet panic? Probably so. Many people do and not even know it. After all, science has classified hundreds of phobias, and if you can't find one that fits you — well, either you are an exhibitionist or else you are merely trying to be brave.

In the latter case, that's a tip-off to what you really are — a phobophile, one who is afraid of being afraid.

HERE ARE a few more interesting possibilities that may help you classify your dreads: Ever wonder why teenagers usually travel in groups? It's because they all can't stand being alone, and that makes them monophobes.

Are you one of those finicky office workers who complain of a draft everytime anyone opens a window? Your trouble is easily diagnosed as aerophobia, the fear of air currents.

Perhaps the sight of a hirsute hippie or a man with a beard stirs revulsion in you. Put yourself down as a trichopathophile, one who is afraid of hair. Hippies themselves are hypenophobes, those who flee from responsibility.

MOST hardened criminals gnaw their fingernails at the thought of having to face a third degree in the back room of a police station. They suffer from photophobia, the fear of glaring lights.

Many maidenly secretaries feel shivers run up their spine whenever they are called to take dictation from an amorous senior vice president. This is one of the commonest afflictions in the business world — lupophobia, the fear of wolves.

When an astronaut dreams of getting lost in space and breaks into a nightmare sweat, he's a victim of apertophobia, the fear of infinity. When her children act so bad that a young mother feels she is going off her rocker, she has been hit by lypophobia, the fear of losing her mind. It usually wears off after the kids have been put to bed.

NONE OF these phobias appeal to you? Well, here are some more to choose from: Sometimes a husband complains that his wife can never keep her big mouth shut. It's cruel of him to blame her for this when the poor thing may only be a chronic victim of eremophobia, the fear of silence. Or cleitrophobia, the fear of lockjaw.

Fear God and you're a theophobe, fear the devil and you're a demonphobe, fear mankind and you're an androphobe.

And if the chaotic condition of the world fills you with a nameless terror, here is the name for that terror so common to us all — homichophobia, the fear of being in a fog.

Bandit Provides Necessary 'Tools'

DALLAS (AP) — Matt Davis, beer salesman, carries a thick wallet in his hip pocket. In a barroom, he said only wire cutters could sever the wallet from the chain attached to his belt.

Witnesses said a man arose from the bar and disappeared. He returned moment later and leveled a revolver at the salesman.

"I have the wire cutters," he said.

With that, the man clipped the chain and fled with the wallet containing $1,325.

Evidence Found In Thug's Tummy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Police said they found evidence of a burglary in Clarence Mason's stomach. He and Ronald Skaggs were booked on suspicion of burglary after their arrest near home where $700 in clothing and jewelry was taken. All the loot but a gold ring was recovered. An X-ray examination disclosed the ring and Mason confessed to swallowing it.

To Your Good Health A Child With Constant Sniffles

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My granddaughter is a healthy child, slim, blonde, and blue-eyed. However she seems to have constant attacks of sniffles and runny nose.

They took her to a pediatrician who said that blond, blue-eyed children are more subject to sniffles, colds, etc. He told the mother to cut out milk from her diet (other than on breakfast cereal).

This didn't sound logical to me at all, as I was of the opinion that all children should have plenty of milk. And why are blond, blue-eyed children more subject to sniffles? Doesn't that sound silly? Shouldn't they consult another doctor before excluding milk? — Mrs. J.B.

You may be under the handicap of having gotten only a partial report of what the doctor said. I'll see if I can help you.

The comment about blond (and red-headed) people may not be so entirely silly as you think, because there are constitutional types that have less resistance to disease than others.

However, I would suspect that the doctor may have noticed characteristics other than the mere matter of coloring. Furthermore, some are decidedly more vulnerable to allergies — and allergy can be important.

It is entirely true that a child should have plenty of milk — or its equivalent in calcium, protein, and other constituents.

However, children who are subject to allergies sometimes are allergic to cow's milk. The sniffles might (or might not) be a symptom of such allergy. With some youngsters the symptoms are even more severe.

It is a difficult thing to test for, except by trying it out. In various instances the answer has proved to be substituting goat's milk, reconstituted condensed milk, soy bean preparations, sometimes calcium supplements along with other sources of protein and fat.

Therefore it may be worth a try at excluding cow's milk entirely (for a time) to note whether there is any change in her reaction. It makes sense to try this experiment, being careful at the same time to see that the youngster gets adequate nutrition from other sources, which is the important point.

If this does not help her, then I would suggest having the youngster checked by an allergist or a nose-throat specialist, or perhaps both.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching, and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Something For All Year

I've heard some thoughtless — if not vicious — comments in the last few days which have infuriated me. But I don't believe in violence — most of the time — so I mean inter-nally.

I SUGGEST every American — regardless of his color — should watch what he does or says, for fear his actions might be imitated, for even little old you could trigger an unfortunate incident.

While you're sitting there, you might as well devote a little time to reassessing your own position and attitudes, particularly if you're one of the apathetic majority.

Apathy has made us what we are today.

WHAT WE NEED is Brotherhood Week 52 weeks a year — and I don't mean just a dinner and pretty speeches. I mean genuine Brotherhood.

Obviously I'm not in a mood for humor. So I'm letting kin folks and friends finish this.

MY BASHFUL aunt, Marie Chastain, proposes a question and, fortunately, supplies the answer. What would a cat burglar wear after she's lifted a $1,000 necklace? A G-string.

BILL FACTOR tells of the well-known speaker who lectured to members of the literary society. At the end of his address the secretary approached him with a check.

"This he politely refused, saying that it might be donated to some charitable cause.

"Would you mind," asked the secretary, "if we add it to the special fund?"

"Not at all," said the speaker. "What is the special fund for?"

"To enable us to get better lecturers next year."

MY CALCULATING cousin, Jimmy Ladd, New York City, claims to hold the record on Profound Profundities. Exhibits A, B, C and D:

"It would be a real nice world if it weren't for people."

"Something's going to kill me some day anyway, so it might as well be something I enjoy."

"The only trouble with birth control is that it isn't retroactive."

"It's too bad maturity is wasted on adults."

A. J. Vaughn, Big Spring, suggests: "Between the death-ray and the H-bomb, I think the death-ray is the laser of the two evils."

MY DRINKING cousin, Bobby Harris, has a slogan for the post office: Unzipped Mail Is Indecent.

Marquis Childs Old Man Ev Keeps Rolling Along

CHICAGO — A message came to Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen's modest campaign headquarters the other day. The telephone caller said that Mayor Richard J. Daley wanted Dirksen's people to see some interesting poll figures.

A lunch was arranged and while the poll results were not turned over to a strategist representing the senator he was allowed to see them. They showed Dirksen running an extraordinary 78.8 per cent ahead of his Democratic opponent in Ford City, a populous area in the southwest corner of Chicago. What made this more remarkable is that Ford City is roughly one-third Negro, one-third Polish-American and one-third white workers of mixed background.

THE POLLS favoring Dirksen have from the start been so lopsided that his staffers find them incredible. But, cautious as all politicians are at this critical stage of a campaign, they are saying, "We don't believe we could kick it over now even if we tried." Dirksen at 72 will campaign throughout the state in the last five weeks before the election.

His Democratic opponent, State Attorney Gen. William G. Clark, is running a campaign that seems at times to be aimed more at Daley and President Johnson than at Dirksen.

AS THIS SHOWS, the Democrats in Illinois today are not so much a party as a collection of warring tribes. Extermination day is Nov. 5 and even Daley's overlordship of Cook County, his power base, is threatened if one can believe the private word of both Democrats and Republicans.

WHEN VICE PRESIDENT Hubert H. Humphrey was in the state recently he tried his hand at pacification at a closed meeting of party leaders called by Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro. State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III, the only Democrat elected to statewide office in 1966, came in only at the end of the meeting. Before his arrival a Daley loyalist got up and denounced Stevenson for refusing to follow the Daley line at the Democratic convention and for his later criticism of the Daley organization as "feudal" and himself an outsider.

HUMPHREY RESPONDED immediately. He said he admired Stevenson's independence and considered that at times he himself should have taken a more independent stand. According to those present, this was received with something less than enthusiasm by the chieftains who know one principle, and that is Daley must be right.

Clark is bitter because he has had little or no money either from the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee in Washington or from organized labor in Illinois, which customarily supplies the war chest for Democratic candidates. He blames this on Daley's influence with the unions.

AS FOR DALEY, he continues to give out roars of pain and rage over the television coverage of the disorders during the Democratic convention. He says that of 155,000 letters that have come from all over the country only 10,000 criticized the Mayor and the police for brutality against the demonstrators.

All this proof, according to Daley's critics within the Democratic party, has been a myth that will dissolve finally on Nov. 5.

MOVING ABOUT the state as a sonorous public institution, Dirksen has to do hardly more than touch up the crime issue and blow hard on the Supreme Court. For Ev everything is coming up marigolds, and if the election turns out as now seems likely, with substantial Republican gains in the Senate, he may at last get his dearest wish, which is to have the marigold proclaimed the national flower.

Holmes Alexander Wallace Speaks For Himself

(The following is a guest column written for Holmes Alexander by former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.)

By GEORGE C. WALLACE

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — As best I remember this is the first time I have ever written a guest column for one of the critics of the Fourth Estate. I am glad to accommodate Holmes Alexander of McNaught Syndicate. He is not my partisan, he has systematically assailed me — but he is a sport and a gentleman, and we Alabamians don't ask more of a man.

is it anyway? Whose Alabama was it? The peoples'. We now have a Constitutional baby to a third Presidential term, duly voted. Similarly, on the November ballot in Alabama there is offered a Constitutional amendment to permit governors to succeed themselves. That amendment will be ratified by an overwhelming vote. That will vindicate all, unless the officious preceptors of the Fourth Estate contend that a people have no right to vote and legislate.

AMONG THE kiddish of the lines against me is the make-do quibbling that I debauched Constitutional Government by opening the way for my late wife, Lurleen, to be elected governor. In harmony with Constitutional processes and requirements, a succession bill was offered to the Alabama legislature. The obstruction of 14 senators — future historians may discover some singular motives in the case of some — defeated that. And in turn, these 14 senators — all of them — were cast out of office by the voters of Alabama.

AMERICAN HISTORY swarms with examples of presidents and governors who offered proteges and successors who would carry forward regard, for example Andrew Jackson, who offered Martin Van Buren, the "Little Magician" they called him, for the Presidency. He as elected. Teddy Roosevelt induced the people to elect William Howard Taft. Lyndon Johnson is asking you to elect Hubert Humphrey. Dwight Eisenhower is asking you to elect Richard Nixon. I asked Alabama to elect Lurleen governor — and she carried 65 of the 67 counties.

YOU MIGHT equate this with the unprecedented third term of Franklin Roosevelt. There was nothing in the Constitution to prevent that and the people swept Roosevelt to a towering victory over Willie. Whose country

WHAT IS THE matter with the incompetents of the eastern press? Why are they so late in waking up to what is called the "Wallace phenomenon" and so tardy in telling America and the cockeyed world what is going on in the great republic. Among other reasons, these penny weights think they are public opinion. Well, they aren't public opinion anymore than they were when they tried to gang-paw Franklin Roosevelt.

Deeper than that, these superficial dudes and know-nothings are prisoners of a stereotype. They just can't get it through their thick skulls that the past is a nullity and that a man from Alabama can be elected President of the United States. They simply lack the imagination to encompass that this is the only "new politics" in America. There is none other. American politics is being re-aligned.

FINALLY I submit that the most contemptible element in this campaign is that Richard Nixon lacks the courage to meet me and Hubert Humphrey in debate. Mr. Humphrey, to his credit (he hasn't much to lose), is able and willing. But Mr. Nixon is offering the writtle that two party politics is an order of nature in America. It's not ever been since since Teddy Roosevelt. Everybody knows that Mr. Nixon and I are the leaders. But he is willing to debate only Mr. Humphrey. Perhaps Mr. Nixon had better take me up on a debate before I change my mind.

Champ Brings $277.50 In Climax Of Exposition

By SAM BLACKBURN
Kenneth Barfield's 222-pound grand champion barrow of the 23rd Annual Howard County Barrow Show last night brought the young exhibitor $277.50. Breckenridge Grain Co. paid that for the champion at the auction sale, which was the closing event and climax of the two-day exposition.

KELLY GASKIN WINS PIG SHOWMANSHIP TROPHY
C. Roy Wright, donor, and Young Knott pig expert

His reward was less than that of Ricky Harris' — last year's champion exhibitor. Harris was paid $1.40 per pound for his barrow.

Cindy Shaw, diminutive owner of the reserve champion, sold her 208-pound pig for $1 per pound. Texas Electric Service Co. and Clyde McMahon Concrete company were the buyers.

None of the 25 pigs sold brought less than 35 cents. Third highest animal sold was the 13th place lightweight Hampshire, owned by Sumner Shaw. This pig, which was the next to last animal sold, was purchased by the Gultar Gin Company for 60 cents per pound.

Generally the prices posted were slightly lower than for other recent sales and the average for the 33 pigs, other than the two champions, was around 36 cents.

Trophies were awarded to the winners of the grand championship, the reserve championship, and to the best showman of the show. Kelly Gaskin won the showmanship award. C. Roy Wright, Russo Chemicals, Sand Springs, donor of the trophies, made the presentation to Gaskin, as well as to Barfield and Cindy Shaw.

Dub Caldwell was the auctioneer at the sale. Attendance was smaller than usual at the event.

One hundred and twenty-eight enlisted men at Webb AFB added a new stripe to their shirt sleeves Tuesday. The October promotion list included six new master, six new technical and eight new staff sergeants.

Displaying the six stripes of a master sergeant are William M. Ogletree, Jimmy J. Utterback and Leo J. Weakley, Grady E. Cox, Randolph Hobbs and John C. Cramer.

The new technical sergeants are Ervin D. Stokes, Douglas L. Rodgers, Gary W. Davis, Leland C. Eargle, Lawrence R. Harrington and William J. Platt. The largest number of Webbits promoted this month fell into the "buck" sergeant category. Eighty-four Webb airmen earned their third stripe, significant of non-commissioned officer status.

Completing this month's enlisted promotion list were 24 Webb airmen. They move up one grade to Airman First Class.

Yippie Says His Hotel Room Tear-Gassed By U.S. Nazis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peace demonstrator Jerry Rubin, a major figure in a congressional probe of the stormy antiwar protest at the Democratic Convention, charged today his hotel room on Capitol Hill had been tear-gassed by American Nazis.

Rubin, dressed in guerrilla garb, told an impromptu news conference before the start of the third day of hearings before a House Un-American Activities subcommittee that a mysterious telephone caller threatened to get him.

'WHITE POWER'
Rubin, a bearded, bare-chested leader of the Youth International Party (Yippie), who is under subpoena to appear at the hearings, said he returned to his room in the Congressional Hotel next to a House office building Thursday night to find the room clouded with tear gas. Rubin said on the door was a small white card with a Nazi insignia, the words "National Socialist White People's Party" and an advertisement for dialing a "White Power" message by telephone.

Rubin said that after police came, his hotel telephone rang and a caller asked him to come outside. When he balked Rubin quoted the caller as saying, "If we don't get you tonight, we'll get you tomorrow."

CHANGED MIND
The subcommittee chairman, Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., says he has heard testimony that at least 21 Communists were involved in the bloody clashes between demonstrators and police at the Democratic convention in Chicago.

Ichord, however, was not explicit. At first he said the testimony came Tuesday. Then he changed his mind and said it might have been based in part on a closed subcommittee meeting Wednesday. Finally he said he didn't know where he got the testimony.

Thursday's session, the second since the subcommittee opened its investigation this week, was again the scene of bizarre incidents of wild behavior involving groups of wildly dressed Yippies of the Youth International Party.

One antiwar witness walked out of the hearing, another refused to answer questions about whether he is a Communist and a Yippie leader was arrested after he showed up in a shirt that police charged was made from an American flag.

DIRTY PHRASE
Abbie Hoffman denied the charge and said it was merely a shirt of stars and stripe design. Hoffman's wife, Anita, and another Yippie, Brad Fox, also were arrested for interfering with police. Authorities also reported arresting a girl for having a dirty phrase about the police printed on her hat.

Dr. Quentin B. Young of the Medical Committee for Human Rights, was the witness who refused to answer whether he is a Communist. He said the question was irrelevant and that the First Amendment to the Constitution protected him from having to answer such inquiries.

Another witness, Robert Greenblatt, national coordinator of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War, refused to answer several questions and then stalked from the committee room.

KILL PLOT
Greenblatt returned today and his attorney Sanford Katz, said the protest leader would be available to testify. The subcommittee also listened to testimony from a Cook County, Ill., police investigator who infiltrated the Yippies during the convention.

Robert L. Pierson said he worked his way in as a personal bodyguard to Jerry Rubin, a Yippie leader.

He quoted Rubin as saying all the candidates should be killed and the government toppled. Pierson told the subcommittee that the violent overthrow of the government was the mutual goal of the Yippies, Students for a Democratic Society, the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam and the Black Panther party.

Pierson said the groups wanted to disrupt the convention, embarrass Mayor Richard J. Daley, gain sympathy from the news media during confrontations with the police, and win the support of liberal delegates to the convention.

Dubcek Enters Second Round With Kremlin

MOSCOW (AP) — Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek entered his second round of talks with Kremlin leaders today, seeking a withdrawal of at least some of the occupation troops from his country.

There was no word on how the first three hours of talks went Thursday.

The talks, expected to end today or Saturday, include the Soviet top three, Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

Besides Dubcek, the Czechoslovak side includes Premier Oldrich Cernik and Slovak party chief Gustav Husak.

The Czechoslovaks are reported to have sought the meeting to persuade the Soviets that the situation in Czechoslovakia is quiet enough now to permit a reduction of the more than 500,000 Warsaw Pact occupation troops.

The Soviet press published a brief official announcement of the arrival of the Czechoslovak delegation, but did not explain why it came.

The Communist party organ Pravda, which has led the denunciation of liberal forces in Czechoslovakia, was silent on the situation for the first time in weeks.

Atom Confab Bids Sought

High school seniors in this area planning to submit applications to attend the 1968 National Youth Conference on the Atom slated Nov. 21-23 in Chicago should do so immediately, according to Don Womack, manager of Texas Electric Service Co.

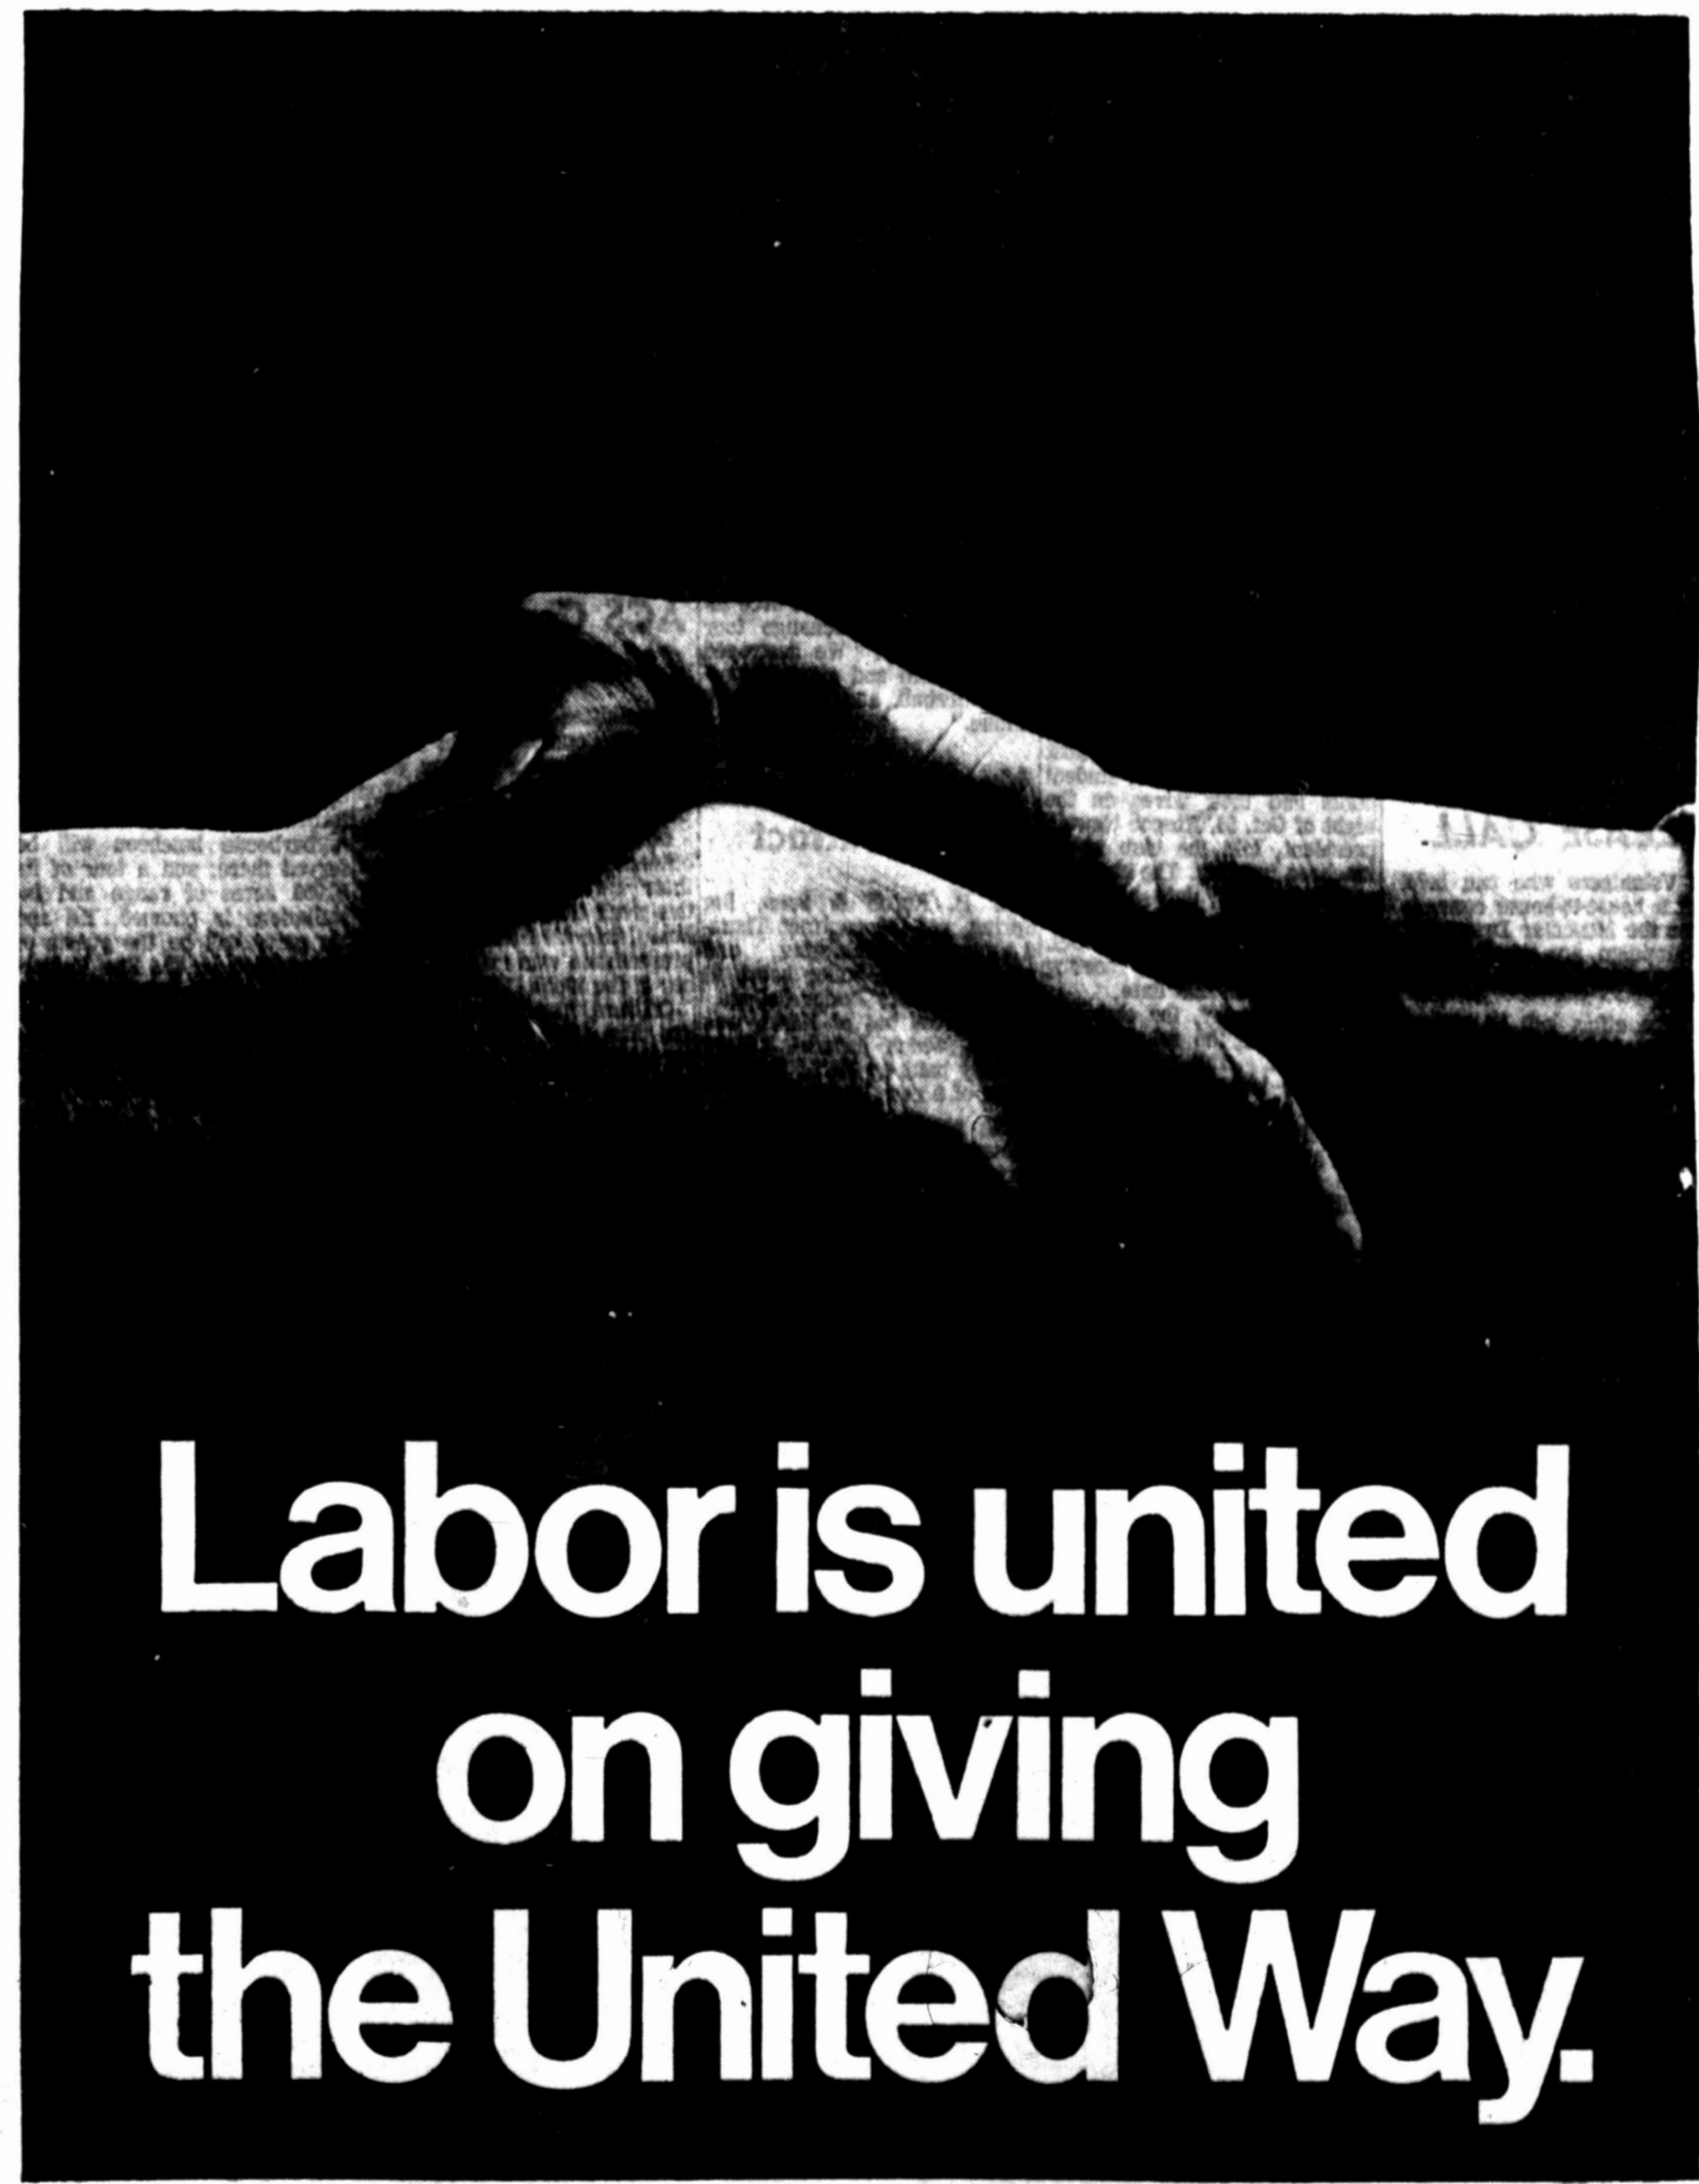

Application must be received by midnight, Oct. 13, to be considered, Womack said.

Application forms and information about the conference are available at the high schools or from the business office at Texas Electric.

The company will sponsor one student from this area, selected by a committee of educators and scientists on the basis of grades, test scores and interest in science.

Womack said the principal of the school from which a student is chosen will be asked to name a science teacher to accompany the student to the conference, also as a guest of the company.

Some 600 participants will attend this tenth annual event from most of the 50 states. Texas Electric Service Co. is one of 65 investor-owned electric companies that co-sponsor the event.

FRAIL BODY REJECTS FOOD Little Girl Starving

By DENNIS ROYLE Associated Press Writer OWERRI, Eastern Nigeria (AP) — For want of a name they call the little girl Ula. At a guess, she'd be 6 years old, a homeless, parentless refugee.

She's starving but seldom eats. Her frail body rejects any form of nourishment. Like thousands of other Ibo children, uprooted by the Nigerian civil war, Ula may soon die.

Her black curly hair is turning light brown and falling out, signs of advanced malnutrition. She's practically sightless and totters along like a dwarfed old woman.

Ula is not thin and spindly like some starving Ibo children. She is grotesquely bloated, with her head and limbs twice normal size.

Most of the day she whimpers, huddled in a corner of the Nigerian army refugee camp close to the fighting zone. She appears unmoved by the humid mosquito-laden atmosphere, the thundering torrential rains, or the stutler of machine guns.

Tame Elephant Proves Costly

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Mexican circus owner won a favorable Texas Supreme Court ruling Wednesday in his three-year battle to recover damages from a pet shop owner who delivered a wild elephant to him when he wanted a tame one.

The high court upheld verdicts that Manuel King, operator of a pet center in Bellare, Tex., owed Aurelio Atayde $3,500, which a jury found was the fair market price of a live, tame female elephant.

Oil Case Must Be Tried Again

AUSTIN — The Texas Supreme Court has rejected a rehearing on its ruling that a Scurry County jury retry a lawsuit between Ralph W. Ball and C. T. McLaughlin.

The court originally returned a judgment of $6,400 in damages to Ball because McLaughlin had failed to give 60 days notice of intention not to renew a Colorado oil and gas lease. The court of appeals upheld the trial court decision, but the Supreme Court said that the trial court had erred in permitting Ball's testimony, over McLaughlin's objections, that a one per cent override Ball had retained was worth $15 an acre, and that it was this money he planned to use to educate his children. The high court held this was inflammatory toward the jury, and it was in reality no part of the damage suit. It ordered the case to be tried again.

country greeted Wallace, complimenting him on his choice of LeMay.

Many of the messages strengthened the belief among Wallace strategists that LeMay would add stature and legitimacy to Wallace's third party race for the presidency.

DEBATE

"Gen. LeMay's candidacy gives us a very strong ticket," said Wallace, whose hard line on Vietnam won the endorsement of the decorated and outspoken former Air Force chief of staff.

LeMay's candidacy reopened a dormant political debate: whether nuclear weapons should be used in war.

At a news conference in Pittsburgh announcing his candidacy, LeMay stated his view: "My desire is not to use any weapons. But once the time comes that you have to fight, I would use any weapon that we have in our arsenal that is necessary. I do not believe nuclear weapons are necessary in Vietnam."

In his speeches at Toledo and Indianapolis, with LeMay on the platform, Wallace repeated his long-spoken avowal that, should peace negotiations fail, the Vietnam war "should be concluded militarily with conventional weapons."

He also said in an interview that he and his running mate see eye to eye on the issue of nuclear weapons.

BEST WAY

He said LeMay had told him privately that a third world war "would destroy civilization" and the best way to avoid it was to have a defense posture superior to any other nation's.

But no candidate ought to tell an enemy in advance, Wallace said, that America would rule out possible use of nuclear weapons in any circumstance.

LeMay stated the same position at his news conference.

For the past five days Wallace has stumped five states of the Midwest, convinced, as he said in Toledo Thursday night, that "regardless of what some labor leaders tell you, we do have the support of organized labor in our state and elsewhere in the nation."

Enthusiastic crowds met him at every stop. Thursday 8,000 gathered at a baseball stadium on a chilly night.

Woman Is Accused Of Stealing Funds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Sept. 13 on charges of conspiring to defraud the youth corps program of $283,000 by issuing checks to fictitious employees.

In New York, the city investigation commissioner said Mrs. Lewis is accused of embezzling money from a fund used to grant loans to new employees to tide them over until they receive their initial paychecks.

She refused to answer questions put to her by commissioner Arnold Fraiman, and subsequently lost her job.

Helynn Lewis, 38, was fired Sept. 21 from her $19,000 a year job as fiscal director of the New York City antipoverty program.

She was charged with stealing $22,912 in agency funds.

The multimillion-dollar agency directs the Neighborhood Youth Corps now being investigated for embezzlements which the agency says may total nearly $1 million.

Officials Face Gaping Dilemmas

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The Colorado Board of Land Commissioners is faced with the problem of closing six 120-ton holes. The gaping dilemmas are the open doors on three abandoned Titan missile sites.

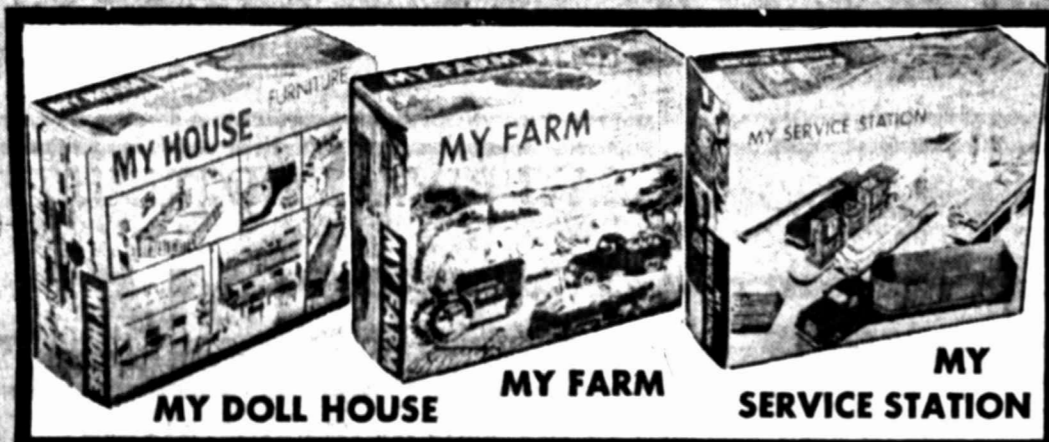

The commissioners acquired the sites in a trade with the federal government. A salvage crew removed the machinery in the 180-foot shafts—including the hydraulic equipment necessary to close the six 120-ton doors.

GREATEST ARCHEOLOGICAL SURGERY IN HISTORY

Twin Temples Are Moved Safely

By ALY MAHMOUD
Associated Press Writer

ABU SIMBEL, Egypt (AP) — The greatest archeological surgery in history is now complete and successful. The twin temples of Abu Simbel, standing safely on their new home, look down with majestic disdain on the waters of Lake Nasser which had once threatened them.

In an operation lasting 53 months archeological surgeons from France, West Germany, Italy, Sweden and Egypt cut the two temples into 6,000 blocks, each weighing 20 to 30 tons.

With electronically guided saws and fine chisels, the cutting operation was undertaken with extreme care to reduce scars to a bare minimum.

Linen soaked in special glue was pasted on the stone before saws went through them. This averted distortion in stone edges.

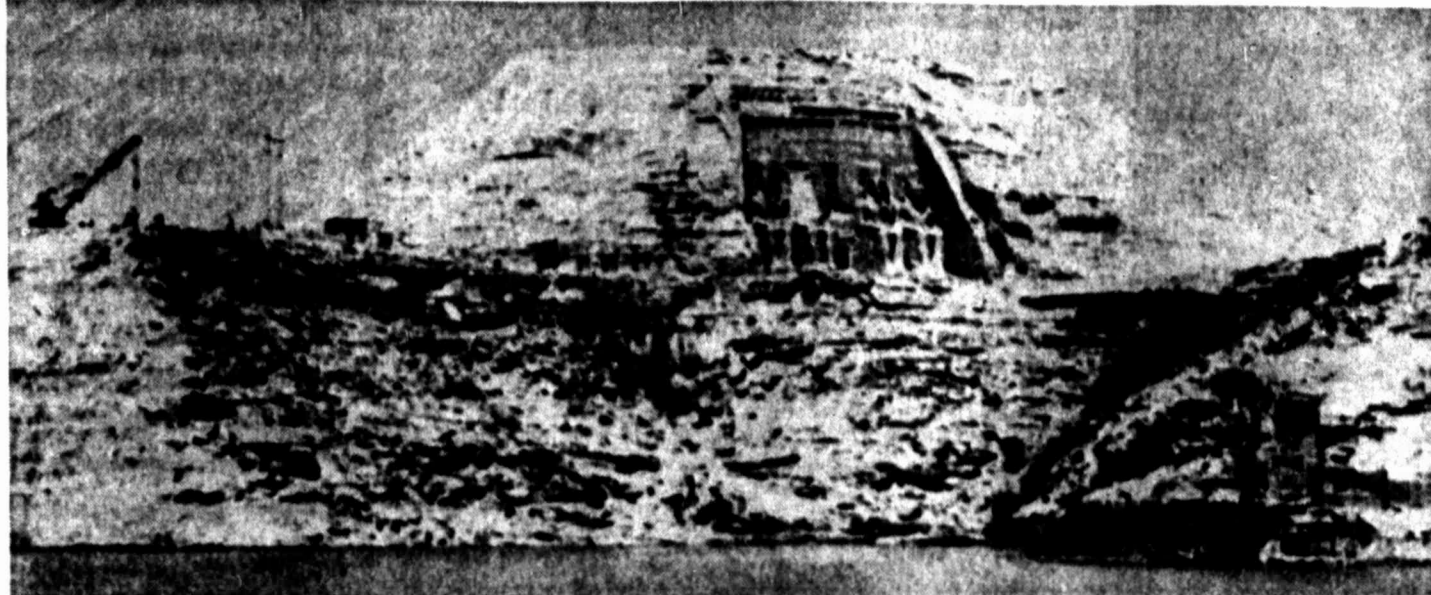

Use of explosives was prohibited. Some 195,000 cubic yards of rock was removed using only bulldozers, rippers and pneumatic tools, while the front facades of the temples were protected by sand filling and temple chambers deep in the rock were supported by steel scaffolding.

Stone blocks were wrapped in foam rubber and transported 220 feet higher than the old site. Each stone block was given special markings to determine its relation to other blocks.

Scientists planned it so that the two temples stand on their new home facing the rising sun every morning. Sun rays penetrate the temples' chambers and corridors and engulf four prominent gods in the innermost sanctuary.

This work saved the 32-century-old temples from waters rising behind the new Aswan Dam. The project cost $38 million; the United States and Egypt bore most of this.

Chemists, archeologists, architects and Egyptologists used special materials to stick together the carved stone blocks

End Of A Massive Face-Lifting Job

The twin temples of Abu Simbel stand safely on their new home above waters of Lake Nasser at Abu Simbel, Egypt, which once threatened them. This marked the end of the greatest archeological surgery in history. Stone blocks of the temples, each weighing 20 to 30 tons, were transported 220 feet higher than the old site. The operation lasted 53 months and cost $38 million.

Synthetic resin, a type of glue known as epoxy resin mortar, was the main one.

The joints between the blocks were filled with a special mortar and powdered sandstone mixed with an adhesive and having the same color of the stone surroundings. The joints and scars were completely disguised.

Two huge protecting domes were erected on the temples and over them rocks were piled. The rocks were injected with epoxy and other noncorrosive hardeners.

The next step was to remove the "bandages." Water was sprayed over reassembled chunks and the linen became loose and easy to pull away. By some error, epoxy leaked on the facade of the king's temple and caused a stain. Scientists are working to erase it.

A line of 21 stone baboons greeting the rising sun stand on top of the temple for the Pharaoh Ramses. The king's temple, wife, attended the funeral. Last Monday, a check of fingerprints taken before burial showed the dead man was actually Nilton Joseph Thibodeaux, 36, of Breau Bridge, La.

A district attorney's investigator located Laverne following a tip. He was working in a hospital stockroom.

Mrs. Southwell was notified and sped to the courthouse and there she saw Laverne.

"Yes, that's my children's father," she said, slumping against the wall in a near faint.

The pair, divorced several years ago, have two daughters, Theresa Kay, 13, and Pamela Louise, 11. The children were in school Thursday when Mrs. Southwell met Laverne.

Jurors Quiz Man Found Alive Following 'Death'

HOUSTON (AP)—Melton Laverne, 35, says he has been a lot of things "but I've never been dead before."

Laverne, who was believed to have died six months ago in a Houston rooming house fire, made a surprise appearance Thursday before a grand jury investigating the cause of the blaze that resulted in eight deaths.

The mixup occurred when two of Laverne's brothers from Louisiana mistakenly identified one of the badly charred bodies from the March 6 fire as that of Laverne's.

The body was taken to Elton, La., and buried as Laverne. Mrs. Geraldine Southwell, 30, of Houston, Laverne's former

Due To Gain His Freedom

RUSK, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Harold Eidinoff, due to gain his freedom today after being declared sane by a Cherokee County court jury, may yet have more time to spend in Rusk State Mental Hospital, a prosecutor indicated.

Eidinoff was ruled insane by a district court jury at Lubbock in 1959 after he shot and killed El Paso lawyer Ted Address. He has spent nearly 10 years in the hospital, engaged in almost continuous litigation to gain his freedom.

Ex-Police Horse Starts Navy Task

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A retired police horse named Tally-Ho started a new career with the U.S. Navy Wednesday.

The Fairmount Park police mounted guards donated the 16-year-old gelding to the Philadelphia Naval Home.

Tally-Ho, who served on park patrols and in drill exhibitions, will replace Dexter, the home's former equine resident who died last summer at age 34. Dexter spent most of his 22-year Navy hitch hauling a trash cart.

and psychologists, said Thursday he was not mentally ill. Dist. Atty. Barton Boling of El Paso, who conducted most of the case at the request of Cherokee County Atty. Jim Perkins, said Thursday night, however, that "some legal questions are still involved."

He revealed also that Dr. Fred Connally, the hospital superintendent who must sign Eidinoff's release orders, was out of town.

"I do not know what the hospital's position will be," said Boling. "nor do I know what the judge's order will be. I will probably ask Judge J. W. Chandler to hold off until the superintendent returns."

At a late hour Connally was still out of town.

NUDE PHOTOS
The Lubbock jury that adjudged Eidinoff insane after the 1957 shooting of Address in effect acquitted him of the murder charge. Four or five bullets were pumped into Address by a man later identified as a physician in cowboy garb and wearing a bulletproof vest.

Address and Eidinoff had feuded in and out of court for years. Some of the legal action involved nude pictures of Eidinoff.

Eidinoff appeared momentarily stunned and then elated at the jury verdict. Moments before, he told a reporter, "I am not optimistic."

They Nibble Tacos, Walk Bloody Streets In Mexico

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — It was a macabre holiday for many Mexicans.

They licked ice cream cones, nibbled tacos and walked the bloody, bullet-pocked streets of Tlatelolco where 25 died and hundreds were injured in fighting Wednesday night between rebellious students and government troops.

"Que es eso, mama?"—"what is that, mama?"—asked a little girl, pointing to a snub-nosed tear-gas gun of a granadero.

Three teen-aged boys, dirty and disheveled, sat on the curb stone, smoking cigarettes and fingering a spent rifle shell.

"RAT, TAT, TAT"

"Rat, tat, tat" shouted one, raising his arms and imitating soldiers firing machine guns.

It was a sunny day at the intersection of Nonoalco and Prologacion de San Juan de Letran, within viewing distance of the spot where a rally of 6,000 ended in wild gun play, death and destruction.

A white-hatted ice cream vendor passed by with his cart, selling four flavors.

"Business is very good," he said. "Many people are walking by here today."

Most of his business came from the granaderos, riot police dressed in blue.

Granaderos with white, taped billy sticks hovered over shoe-shine boys, doing a big business at a peso a throw.

GAS GUNS
Granaderos in light blue crash helmets had stubby tear-gas guns slung over their shoulders and silver cannisters at their hips.

Canvas-covered army trucks lined San Juan as far as the eye could see. Khaki-uniformed soldiers with rifles over their shoulders moved in such numbers that it looked like army maneuvers.

On the San Juan viaduct armored vehicles parked 10 feet apart, the slim muzzles of their machine guns pointed at the windows across the street.

Families walked by, tykes barely able to walk and women carrying babies in arms, pointing and chattering away with excitement.

The Plaza of the Three Cultures was quiet—boarded off from the curious.

A stone church with a cross on its steeple—a place for prayer dating back to the Spanish conquest in the 16th century—stood in the center of the bizarre montage.

GIRL CREASED
In front of it were the pyramids, dating back three centuries before that—their rocks a haven to many civilians caught in the crossfire the previous evening.

All around were the high-rise apartments—bleak skeletons of yellow steel and glass, without a heartbeat in any of them. They were cleared by militarymen seeking terrorists.

One of them—The Chihuahua—had a four-story wound left by fire.

A huge hole was in a window on the fourth floor of another building. There, the story goes, a teen-age girl peeked over the window pane to see the excitement below. A bullet creased her forehead.

JOHN NOBLE

Noble Story Told Sunday

John Noble, a man who lived under Nazi and Communist forms of government for 9 1/2 years, will tell his story at the Trinity Baptist Church Sunday at 10 a. m. and 11 a. m.

Noble, a member of an American family trapped in Germany at the outbreak of World War II, was interned in Dresden, Germany, as enemy nationals, until May 6, 1945, when Germany surrendered.

In July, 1945, Noble and his father were arrested by Soviet soldiers who had torn down an American flag in front of Noble's Dresden home.

All total, Noble spent nine and a half years in prison camps. They were Dresden, Muehberg, Buchenwald, Weimar, and finally, a slave labor camp in Russia, Vorkutka.

The John Noble Story was published in 17 languages by "Reader's Digest" and presented on television's "Armstrong Circle Theater." He is the author of "I Found God in Soviet Russia" and "I Was a Slave in Russia."

"Spiritual Enrichment Week" services begin Sunday, at the First Baptist Church and will continue through Sunday, Oct. 13.

Guest preacher for the week of special services will be Dr. Joe Weldon Bailey, pastor of Columbus Avenue Baptist Church, Waco. He will arrive Sunday afternoon and speak at the 7 p. m. worship service Sunday.

Fritz Smith, music evangelist, San Antonio, will direct the music and be guest soloist.

Sunday services will be at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Weeknight services will be at 7:30 p. m., preceded by choir rehearsal at 7 p. m.

Weekday services are announced as follows: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, there will be a covered-dish fellowship luncheon and service at noon; Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday mornings there will be a 7 a. m. service, which will conclude at 7:30 a. m. Coffee and doughnuts will be served before and after the 7 a. m. services.

REV. R. BYRON ORAND

College Pastor Marks 6 Years

Sunday will mark the sixth anniversary of the ministry of the Rev. R. Byron Orand as pastor of the College Baptist Church.

Rev. Orand will speak from the same subject as he begins his seventh year as he did when he first addressed the church on "Leadership and Followship."

The church has experienced great growth and expansion during his ministry. Of the 1,056 who have come into the fellowship of the church during that period, 382 came by profession of faith and baptism.

Financially, the church has increased giving by $35,000 per annum, and it has enlarged its facilities by purchasing additional properties adjacent to the church. The major item was the construction of a new sanctuary. Recently the church purchased a bus which is used to transport people to church.

"This is the greatest church I have ever been associated with," said the Rev. Orand. He praised the cooperative spirit of the congregation and said he had been humbled by other expressions of affection including a trip to Europe in 1965 and more recently by a $600 gift to help defray the costs of completing work on his doctorate of theology degree. He is due to receive this degree next spring, and his thesis on the interrelationships of religious education and evangelism in the church program has evoked considerable interest in some quarters.

Oh, Happy Day!

SEATTLE (AP) — When Forster Bradford returned home Wednesday night, he found burglars had taken $1,000 worth of camera equipment and jewelry. As he checked the loss, a telephone call informed him that someone had broken into a house he had purchased for resale. They had taken $5,275 worth of furniture.

FAITH FOUNDED ON WORD NEEDS NO GUESSWORK

Sunday's lesson begins a new quarter's study in faith and encouragement, two qualities sorely needed today. The Scriptures will be from Hebrews, Peter and John. Sunday's background reading is the first three chapters of Hebrews, the focal passages Heb. 1:1-3, Heb. 2:14, 13-15.

The writer of Hebrews is speaking apparently to those within the fellowship, warning against apostasy — or falling away. He does not use the word "reject," but rather "neglect," in referring to salvation.

Throughout the book he cites how God was faithful to the saints of old, who faced far greater hardships and obstacles than those of today. God has given His Word through Christ, and there is no point in waiting for some further word or sign.

The lesson emphasizes that faith is not something blind or stupid or based merely on feeling or hunches. Our Christian faith is founded upon the unchanging Word of God.

Therefore, God has spoken, and we may be thankful for a God who speaks, although we sometimes are so distracted we have trouble hearing. We are not to neglect what He has said. We are to be sure of our final destination in heaven because of what God has done through Christ. There need not be any hedging or guesswork about this.

Army Women Rally Oct. 7

Seven Big Spring residents will journey to Lubbock as delegates to The Salvation Army Women's home league rally Wednesday. They will join members from Amarillo, Abilene, Borger, Littlefield, Lubbock, Midland, Odessa, Pampa, Plainview and San Angelo in the day-long district meeting.

The delegates will review achievements over the past year that include hospital visits, dressing dolls, and raising money for The Salvation Children's Homes in Mexico.

The theme of the rally will be "Stairway to the Stars," reflecting the home league's constant effort for a greater outreach in service, according to local Salvation officer Capt. James Deggs.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Commissioner Glenn Ryan, territorial president of the women's organizations of The Salvation Army, who is nationally recognized as a leader in women's circles. Mrs. Ryan was named "Woman of the Year" in Chicago in 1960.

Those planning to attend are Mrs. Marrell, Mrs. Rushing,

Mrs. McNew, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Vela, Mrs. Scown and Mrs. Capt. Deggs.

THE WORLD'S STRONGEST MAN

The day little Jimmie admired my muscles I was the strongest man in the whole world. And so I remained until the next morning when I got into an argument with that big kid in the next block. Then a humiliating retreat seemed preferable to a bloody nose.

Life hasn't changed much since I've grown up. Sometimes on Sunday I am so confident of my human might that I glibly pass up the spiritual resources my neighbors are finding in church. And by Monday I'm wondering where to turn for help in some insurmountable difficulty.

Experience is forever teaching me that my own self-confidence is mostly self-delusion. The men I admire seem absolutely honest about their own limitations, and absolutely certain about God's strength.

One Sunday as I sat in a pew and watched others receiving Communion this thought struck me: Among those who kneel reverently before an altar today is undoubtedly the world's strongest man.

Beachcomber Art Show Is Highlight Of Summer

By JACK KEEVER
SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Tex. (AP) — Two shapely girls—bronzed and in bikinis—gazed at an oil painting. Seawater dripped from their bodies, collecting in small pools around their bare feet.

A boy, his sun-bleached hair matching the protective lotion on his nose, studied a pen-and-ink sketch.

CHATTED

An elderly couple, dressed in look-alike sports shirt and blouse, chatted while the casual crowd glanced through their display of watercolors.

The smell of salt filled the air. Giant sand dunes stood a stone's throw away. Whitecaps sparkled in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Beachcomber Art Show was open and ready for business, for the ninth summer in a row. It is a cultural highlight in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, and is very popular. An estimated 12,000 persons took a look this year, and afternoon rain storms elsewhere in the Valley undoubtedly held down attendance.

Up for show were some 4,000 works by 132 artists from Texas, including, for the first time, several from Dallas.

The exhibit was spread in the open air Civic Center Building and 20 or so cabanas, all rebuilt after the wreckage of Hurricane Beulah last year.

It was a far cry from the first show when a group of Valley artists, mostly from Harlingen, set up their wares in eight cabanas, one-room stalls which face the sea.

"We started using the Civic Center the fourth year and now we are bursting at the seams and need another building," said Mrs. Gladys Dixon, secretary-treasurer of the Harlingen Art Forum which sponsors the show.

Hopefully, Mrs. Dixon said, the new building will be different from the civic center, which is capped with a sloping, blue-plastic roof which filters sunlight and does strange things to blue and gray colors.

"It makes people look like they are dying," Mrs. Dixon said, "and it makes a lot of those pictures look like they're dying, too."

But many of the paintings were lighted by nothing but the bright Texas sun and sales were never better on works which were priced from $3 to $800.

Louise Roietch of McAllen sold $400 worth and a young Dallas artist, Peter Darvas, had good luck with his watercolors which were in the $50-$60 class.

One out-of-state tourist proudly told a Darvas work around explaining to his friends: "I told him to become famous, and he told me he already is—with his mother."

Some of the other better known artists represented at the show included David Sanders and David Gannaway, both of Austin; Fred Hendricks, Ed Reardon, Bob Hutchins, Bill Strain, Robert Garden and Mrs. R. H. Cabel, all of Corpus Christi; Mrs. Vivian Thacker of McAllen; Octavia Arneson of Brownsville; Robert Q. Johnson of Castroville and Clinton Baermann of San Antonio.

SALES UP

"Sales have increased each year," said Mrs. Dixon. "At first sales were rare. People in the Valley had to be taught to buy, to reach in their pocket for money, that you did not have to just look.

"But now they know, and we're glad they do."

RAILROADS APPARENTLY WANT OUT OF THE PASSENGER BUSINESS

Future Of Long Haul Trains Appears Short

By STEPHEN M. AUG

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took only 44 minutes and cost 90 cents to travel the 44 miles between Boston, Mass., and Providence, R.I., in 1936 on what the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad billed as "The Comet"—Streamlined train of the present and the future.

Today, in an era of jet planes and super expressways, the same train trip—same number of stops—takes five minutes longer and costs $2.37 on the bankrupt New Haven.

CHOOSE

Just 19 years ago a traveler between Washington, D.C., and Chicago could choose among 17 trains daily—eight on the Baltimore & Ohio, nine on the Pennsylvania Railroad. And he could remain aboard the same sleeping car and travel on to Los Angeles.

Today, there are only four direct trains between Washington and Chicago and it is necessary to change trains, and sometimes stations, to travel west of Chicago.

There is little doubt—even among those outside the industry who seek continued and better train service—that such declines as these have intensified in number, especially during the past 10 years as passengers have left the railroads, lured by the speed of the jetliner and the convenience of the private automobile.

In the past decade alone, the Interstate Commerce Commission has permitted the railroads to discontinue nearly 1,000 passenger trains—and more are leaving the rails almost weekly. There are fewer than 600 trains a day now compared with more than 20,000 in 1929.

BADLY

The railroads say passenger service deficits are draining resources they badly need to modernize for more efficient freight handling. They claim to have lost $484 million last year alone operating passenger trains—but this is a highly debatable figure, and not even railroad management contends it could cut costs by this amount if it eliminated all passenger trains tomorrow.

At least one ICC examiner, an organization of railroad passengers, and several congressmen blame railroad management for not only failing to encourage, but actually working to discourage passenger traffic.

But says Stuart T. Saunders, outspoken chairman of the Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Co.—the nation's largest passenger-carrying railroad.

"I don't think the railroads—considering the circumstances under which they have operated—have contributed in any major degree to the loss of passenger service."

He added in an interview, however: "There's the greatest amount of misunderstanding about this problem. Everyone is trying to draw extremes."

LOSSES

Penn Central claims a passenger service loss last year of $85 million.

Pennsylvania and New York Central merged earlier this year—but they, too, had downgraded their passenger service prior to merger, with a device railroads frequently use called "consolidation."

The Pennsy "consolidated" its famed Broadway Limited with the General—thus eliminating one round trip daily between New York and Chicago without the need to seek permission from any state regulatory agency or the ICC.

The New York Central's equally famous 20th Century Limited—for which it used to roll out a red carpet at New York City's Grand Central Terminal—was combined with another train and the name was eliminated altogether.

In the same field, the ICC launched—for the first time—an investigation into the practices of the Southern Pacific Co. to determine whether a railroad was providing adequate passenger service. The investigation was started at the request of several Southwestern state utility agencies.

STOPPED

For many years, SP had heavily advertised some of its best Western trains. Several years ago it began a program to eliminate its unprofitable passenger service. It stopped giving commissions to travel agents and—so the utility agencies claimed—made it difficult to secure reservations even though there was plenty of room aboard.

Specifically, the ICC investigated what used to be called the Sunset Limited—now, simply the Sunset—the only remaining passenger train between New Orleans and Los Angeles.

In 1950 Southern Pacific bought $16 million worth of new equipment for the Sunset. Each train featured four coaches with nonfogging picture windows and AM-FM radios, six sleeping cars, with shower facilities, a lounge car, coffee shop-lounge car, dining car and such services as a valet for pressing and minor tailoring.

ELIMINATED

In recent years the railroad has eliminated the sleeping cars on the 2,033-mile, 45½-hour route, and installed food vending machines. The train is down to three coaches and an automatic car and SP wants to end the service entirely.

ICC Examiner John Messer

decided that the railroad had violated the Interstate Commerce Act by failing to provide transportation on reasonable request and by making charges for services not provided.

The charge to which he referred is $3.50 added to the fare on the Sunset—a special charge levied in the days when the Sunset was a luxury streamliner. The railroad says it retained the charge because it didn't want to raise the basic fare.

SP, Penn Central and virtually every other railroad would contend that this service was downgraded only after passengers had deserted the trains—and that as SP said, "the market for first class service on the Sunset route has been shrinking for years, until today the few who would make occasional use of it could be served only by the incurring of staggering losses."

SP and most other railroads contend trains are running virtually empty. And SP advertizes showing a photo of a passenger coach with only one passenger in it.

STILL BIG

But figures from the Association of American Railroads—the industry organization—show rail passenger service remains big business, although it has been steadily shrinking and the railroads' share of inter-city passengers has been declining.

Last year, AAR figures show, the railroads carried 299 million passengers—and more than 106 million rode distances greater than just commuting. They paid $494 million, and nearly 95 million passengers rode in coaches and 3.3 million in over-age sleeping cars. Pullman-Standard Inc. hasn't built a sleeper since 1956.

This, of course, is nowhere near the peak of more than 910 million passengers carried in 1944 when revenues approached $1.8 billion.

How much of a market remains for passengers on the trains? Both ICC Chairman Paul J. Tierney and the administrator of the Federal Railroad Administration, A. Scheffer Lang, share the prevailing industry view: If there is a market, it is for commuting and distances less than 500 miles.

LONG HAUL

Lang said in an interview that the "long-distance passenger train today is a sheer and total anachronism." Tierney said long-haul passenger trains "except for certain tourist routes and perhaps some overnight service between major cities cannot rationally be preserved."

Messer recommended the ICC set minimum standards for the operation of passenger trains, requiring sleeping and dining facilities on trains, depending on the length of the trip.

He would also have the ICC set up a national rail passenger system to guarantee continued operation of passenger trains between major urban centers.

For the past 10 years the ICC has been able to do little more than preside over the demise of passenger service. It has faithfully—in accordance with law—held public hearings, noted thousands of protests, written reports and generally concluded by agreeing with the railroads.

In report after report the ICC quotes passengers at public hearings as complaining of dirty trains, lateness resulting in missed connections and other unhappy conditions—but these same passengers urged the commission to order continued operation of the trains.

REPORT

Most recently, the ICC urged Congress to investigate the problem of passenger service. In a 66-page report the commission said it is limited under present law to allowing railroads to cut passenger service—not to promoting or fostering it.

The ICC urged also a moratorium on some train discontinuances while the study is in progress—"to preserve a minimum level of service"—and asked the Post Office to put the mail back on the trains to support the passenger service financially.

The commission—in some of its toughest language—told Congress it has seen its recommendations continually ignored, and blamed the lawmakers for not coming up with a rational policy on national rail transportation.

There are those, however, who believe there still is a market for long-distance passenger trains. Among them: Anthony Haswell, a Chicago lawyer, and Edd H. Bailey, president of the Union Pacific.

ORGANIZED

Haswell is executive director, founder and principal financial supporter of the National Association of Railroad Passengers—only organized opposition to wholesale discontinuance of passenger trains.

His long-term goals include a government-supported national passenger car pool to maintain equipment and make it available to railroads; restructuring present service to concentrate trains on tourist and vacation travel routes; centralized computerized reservation system and a national promotional campaign.

Haswell's organization claims 2,278 members and he says many are hot rail buffs.

Bailey says the UP has "never said we wanted to get out of the passenger business. We are going to operate them in hopes the public will use them."

He placed some blame on the railroads for the loss of passengers, conceding "we have been a little slow with the necessary research to come up with something fantastic so that we could retain passengers."

SPEED

Although the railroads invested about $500 million after World War II to replace worn-out equipment, the newer cars provided few completely new services. Speeds remained the same: 80-82 miles an hour, although some Western roads operate trains as fast as 90 if they are running late.

Bailey believes it would have been too expensive and economically unjustified to have tried to operate trains at sustained speeds of 115-125 miles an hour along the UP and other Western railroads.

Virtually unpublicized is the fact that some railroads make a profit on at least some of their passenger service. Most are reluctant to give figures—or even admit to a profit. And some profit claims are based on so-called over-the-rail basis—actual expenses of running the train—rather than the 60-year-old ICC formula which apportions part of all railroad expenses to passenger service. Here are some of the claimed money-makers:

SMALL PROFIT

—Penn Central claims a small profit on its heavily-traveled New York-Washington, D.C., passenger trains, although it loses on this route when it includes trains it operates for other railroads.

—Seaboard Coast Line makes a profit on its New York-Florida streamliners, including the Florida Special which features champagne at dinner, bingo games and songfests, movies, television, fashion shows and a train hostess on the 1,438-mile trip.

—The New Haven turns a profit on dining cars: $113,425 last year, the result of more than $1 million from beverage sales, mostly from commuter train bars. The Alaska Railroad, federally owned, apparently profits on dining service because it is operated by private firms which bid for the job.

—The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad netted a $46,000 profit last year hauling tourists along cliffs and through canyons on its 44.8-mile narrow gauge line between Durango and Silverton in southwestern Colorado.

—The Chicago & North Western made $2.5 million in 1967 on its Chicago area commuter service and has neither sought nor received government aid.

UNKNOWN

But the precise nature of the passenger market—and what part of it can be profitable—remains unknown. To determine this is the aim of two high-speed rail projects in the Northeast run by the Department of Transportation. They include:

—Development of a fleet of electric passenger trains between New York and Washington capable of speeds up to 160

m.p.h., although they will normally travel 100-110 m.p.h.

The federal government so far has spent about $2 million of a planned $11.5 million on the Washington-New York experiment. Penn Central and the equipment manufacturers have spent about $70 million.

Those close to the project see it as the key to the future of rail passenger service. If the experiment is a success, it could assure continued rail passenger service on selected lines where large populations will sustain it.

But they feel that if it flops, it will be just the issue the railroads would use to get out of the business entirely.

In any case, the future of long-haul passenger trains—the transcontinental luxury streamliners—appears short. Most secondary trains have been eliminated, and recently some top name trains have been dropped.

SHRINKS

As the number of trains shrinks, so does the number of passengers. Rail officials, armed with surveys, point out, too, that remaining passengers are mostly older persons—the remnant of a generation raised on rail travel.

As Union Pacific's Bailey put it: "Everyone just hates to see you take a train off. They remember how they used to get into a Pullman car with a good book and relax. But when you ask them, you find out it's been a long time since they rode that train."

Beams Message At Housewives

By DICK CAVETT

Editor's Note: He had been heard — a lot — as the anonymous voice in television commercials and we had seen him occasionally on variety shows and on the late evening talk sessions. But Dick Cavett, with the understated wit and the gentle manner, emerged as a new comedy star in the most unlikely place: a morning show which ABC patterned after the late evening show. Here he tells what he's learned about people who watch television by daylight.

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives, they told me at the very beginning, would be my audience.

I got the mental picture of a woman in front of the set with curlers in her hair and a hot iron in her hand. Since then I've gotten a different picture in mind after reading my mail, which, after all, is my only idea of who's really out there.

MOSTLY

It's a housewife, all right. Mostly. But I'm surprised to find that an accurate portrait of my audience would be more of a college. You'll have to put in college and high school students on vacation, a factory worker or cab driver on the night shift, a Sardi's headwaiter, Las Vegas blackjack dealer, and a go-go dancer with no place to go-go after her night's labors.

I'm very pleased to learn, as I often do, that I have many viewers among entertainers—mainly because I'm coming on when they're coming in. A guy from Duke Ellington's band told me that when they got off work in Vegas, I was their late show.

(I also received one letter from a lady in Toledo saying my voice tranquilizes her cat.)

I do appreciate the many letters telling me I've won in a tough decision between me and the dusting. To those households where I have won out over domestic hygiene, sorry, husbands.

I do feel that when we try to do something of a serious, important nature on the show, there is an intelligent woman at home who's interested. I'm glad to say my mail tells me she's concerned and involved in such things.

When lawyer Louis Nizer was my guest we were deep in the question of the war in Vietnam. There were frantic signals to bring the discussion to an end and bring on another guest. I said to the audience something like, "If you're bored, please turn to another program."

MAIL

An enormous amount of mail came in afterward saying, "Don't let them discourage you. It's the first time we haven't been treated as stupid in daytime television."

Steers, Westerners Vie Here Tonight

BIG SPRING		LUBBOCK
14 Monterey	21	14 Lee	21
8 Lee	24	13 Ector	31
28 Totals	55	30 Totals	52

Big Spring plays its second of two non-conference football games here this evening against representatives of a community which has always held a whammy over local teams.

Kickoff time for a contest between the Lubbock High Westerners and the resident Steers is scheduled for 8 p.m. Big Spring has never beaten a Lubbock schoolboy representative in the autumn sport.

One of the two teams, barring a tie, will pull to an even 500 in seasonal competition. Oddly enough, both teams hold wins over Odessa and have lost to Midland Lee.

Big Spring's other defeat was at the hands of Lubbock Monterey while Lubbock blew a decision to Amarillo High.

Big Spring manhandled Ector, 28-10, but had to come from behind to do it. Lubbock led all the way, yielding a touchdown to the Eagles only in the final seconds.

Jack Butler, who had yielded his starting berth to Pat Kelly, will be back in there at quarterback for the Westerners tonight. Kelly suffered an injured arm against Amarillo last week and likely will not play.

The Big Spring scouts say of Butler:

"He is very tough and a great competitor. He doesn't have good speed but he runs hard. He doesn't throw the long ball exceptionally well, but he's very accurate on his short throws. On defense, he plays the 'monster' position and does it well."

Tight end Don Taylor, a fine receiver; Ronnie Caldeveugh, fullback; and tackle Terry Gilbert are among other fine ball players for Lubbock.

Big Spring quarterbacking duties likely will again be divided between Johnny Patton and Gary Hinds. Both looked good against Ector, especially in the last half when Big Spring came back so strong.

The Steers also expect to get a lot of mileage out of Roy Lee Warren, the big play up the middle when they need it from Rocky Wooley and stronger line play than ever before.

Coach Spike Dykes hopes conditions are such that a lot of boys can see action again tonight. The Steers resume conference play again here next Friday against Abilene Cooper and Dykes would like for his troops to get in as much battle time as possible.

Probable starters:

Beathard Out For 5 Weeks

HOUSTON (AP) — Pete Beathard, Houston Oilers' No. 1 quarterback was in satisfactory condition today after an emergency appendectomy which is expected to keep him out of action for five weeks.

His condition was diagnosed as acute gangrenous appendicitis late Thursday and he underwent surgery Thursday night. An Oilers spokesman said Beathard, 26, a former star signal caller at Southern California, is expected to join the Oilers for light drills in three weeks and start again in five weeks. This means he could be ready for the New York Jet game in New York Nov. 10.

Bob Davis, a second year player from Virginia who looked good in the second half against Oakland Sunday, will be the Oilers' starting quarterback this week against Miami. He will be backed up by Don Trull, former Baylor star, who has been activated from the taxi squad.

The Oilers, defending American Football League Eastern Division champions, are battling to stay in the title race. They have won only one of four games this season and trail the Patriots by two games in the Eastern Division.

The Oilers acquired Beathard from the Kansas City Chiefs at this time last year, giving up quarterback Jackey Lee, lineman Ernie Ladd and their 1968 No. 1 draft choice.

Beathard led the Oilers to the Eastern Division championship last year. In four league games this season he completed 61 to 123 passes for 912 yards, but leads the AFL with 10 interceptions. He is sixth among AFL passers but ranks first in yardage gained.

He had been bothered by stomach cramps since the exhibition opener against the Washington Redskins Aug. 1. He entered the hospital Thursday for gall bladder tests. His trouble was discovered and surgery followed.

Drake Rallies To Capture Club Crown

Pat Drake rallied for a 79 Thursday to win the Women's Club Golf tournament at the Big Spring Country Club. Her aggregate score for 54 holes was 244.

Billie Dillon, who led Mrs. Drake by a stroke after 36 holes of competition, came in with a respectable 84 Thursday to nail down second place.

Mrs. Dillon, a former Club champion, will meet Diane Foster this afternoon to determine the handicap winner in the 18-hole flight of the tournament. The two finished with four under par 218's Thursday.

Mrs. Drake built up her lead on the first nine holes Thursday, when she fashioned a 39. Mrs. Dillon had a 41 on the back side but had too far to go in her comeback.

Mrs. Dillon's three-day score totaled out at 248. A championship trophy, which will be rotated over the next decade, was donated by Mrs. Dillon.

Thursday's matches were played in weather not exactly favorable to outstanding golf. The temperature had dropped so that the entries were bundled up and a raw wind was blowing out of the northeast.

Hawk Golfers Launch Play

Jerry Dudley's HCJC Jayhawks open their 1968-69 Western Conference golf season here Saturday in an 18-hole match.

Prospects are brightest at the local school in years. Three golfers from Dallas schools have enrolled at HCJC and could supply the Hawks with the punch they have been missing in recent years.

No. One player on the local team is Jeff Nieto of Dallas Bryan Adams, who posted a 72-hole score of 288 in qualifying play held earlier this week at two local courses.

Other members of the HC team and their qualifying scores include: Mike Moore (Dallas Bryan Adams), 293; Mike Hall (Big Spring), 296; and Teddy Griffin (Big Spring), 298.

Ken Chadd (Big Spring); Randy Truelove (Dallas Bryan Adams) and Mike Weaver (Big Spring) are other Jayhawk players.

The second round of the WC matches takes place in Level-land Oct. 25.

League champions will be determined in four-man rather than two-man matches this year.

Goliad Mavs Rip Sweetwater Club

Jack Gray's Goliad eighth graders ran up their most impressive score of the season here Thursday night, turning back Sweetwater by a score of 56-0.

From the time that quarterback Alan Davis put Goliad on the scoreboard in the opening period with a 20-yard run, the Mavs dominated play.

Big Spring didn't score again until Round Two, when Ricky Steen raced 90 yards on a dive play. Steen scored shortly thereafter on a 27-yard gallop.

Davis followed with another tally on a rollout from 16 yards removed and Barry Truette made it 24-0 just before half time with the two extra points.

In the third period, Gray had his first unit in for just three plays but the Mavericks tallied twice. Truette took a pitch and sailed around right end 20 yards for one TD. Steen added the two PAT's on a dive play.

Steen got the next score on a 60-yard run around left end after taking a pitch. Mike Tredaway added the two extra points on a run to make it 42-0.

In the fourth, Nicky Stewart intercepted a Sweetwater pass and fled 40 yards to pay dirt. Big Spring got its final score late in the game on a throwback pass from Davis to Steen, the play covering 50 yards. Tredaway added two extra points on a run.

The win was the third in four starts for Goliad, in next play Snyder Lamar on the road Thursday.

JV's Batter Foe, 34 - 0

LUBBOCK — Although they suited out only 24 boys, the Big Spring JV's ran things pretty much as they pleased in burying Lubbock Estacado under a 34-0 score here Thursday afternoon.

The victory was the fourth without a defeat for the Dogies, who play their next game against Cooper at 2 p.m. a week from Saturday in Abilene.

Big Spring built up a 28-0 advantage at half time and coasted from that point.

After receiving the opening kickoff, quarterback Gary Hughes rambled 65 yards off tackle for Big Spring's first score in Round One. Key blocks were thrown by Herman Evans and Noel Brooks along the way.

Estacado fumbled on the first play following the ensuring kickoff and Big Spring recovered on the enemy 40. Big Spring proceeded to score on a 12-yard pass, thrown by Hughes to Steve Tidwell.

Thomas kicked the ball through the uprights again for the PAT.

In the second period, Kyle Rose gathered in a pass from Hughes and sailed 30 yards for pay dirt, with Thomas delivering again on the PAT try.

Evans made it 28-0 when he scored from three yards removed. Evans had set up the score on a 60-yard run that came off a trap play. The Big Springers faked a kick and tried to pass for the two extra points but the maneuver failed.

In the fourth, up-and-coming Dave Duncan passed 35 yards to Tidwell for another Big Spring score but the play was nullified when Big Spring was charged with being in motion.

On offense, Evans, Kyle Rose, Joe Zubiate, Hughes and Duncan all glistened for Big Spring. Duncan completed six of the eight aeriels he threw. Up front, Tony Dean, Lewis Switzer, John Armistead and

Sophs Dominate Second Half In 16-0 Triumph

SAN ANGELO — The Big Spring Sophomores racked up their fourth straight victory here Thursday, defeating the San Angelo Sophs by a score of 16-0.

The visitors came on strong after a lackluster first half.

Halfback Roddy Caffey passed to Tommy Fletcher for the first Big Spring tally in the third period. Larry Vasquez then sought out Grady Ray for the two extra points on a pass.

With 5:35 remaining in the game, Benito Rubio roared over from three yards away for Big Spring's second tally and Roddy Caffey powered over for the two extra points.

The defeat was the third in four assignments for the San Angelo team.

Big Spring got in the hole early after fumbling the opening kickoff and losing possession on its own eight. Four plays later, however, the San Angelo team yielded possession without having gained a yard.

Later in the round, while fighting a strong head wind, San Angelo again went on the attack from the Shortorn 20 but again couldn't go anywhere.

Big Spring's entire defensive unit played outstanding ball. Particularly impressive were middle linebacker Howard Stewart, inside linebacker Tony Stewart and halfback Fletcher.

Penalties and bobbles hurt the Shortorns throughout the game. Infractions wiped out two of the four enemy passes the Big Springers picked off.

Big Spring returns to play again at 7:30 p.m. Thursday against Coahoma there.

Taylor Looks For Victory

By The Associated Press

For nine straight autumns the Hogs have butchered the Horned Frogs Pitch a helmet on the field and the Texas Christians turn to jelly was the word in the Ozarks.

Now comes the moment of truth again Saturday night for TCU as Arkansas, riding the momentum of victories over Oklahoma State and Tulsa, invades Fort Worth in the only Southwest Conference game of the day.

Coach Fred Taylor sums up how the Horned Frogs feel about the game:

"I'm ready to get a victory. I feel like our team wants this game real badly."

A near-sellout crowd of over 40,000 is expected to be on hand in Aron Carter Stadium.

Suddenly, there has been a surge of optimism in the Horned Frog camp. After an opening loss to Georgia Tech, TCU seemed to come alive last week when it knocked off Garden City last week and is 2-0-1 in the year.

Probable starters: IMPERIAL: E-Tommy Madison 145 and Gerald Borner 135. T-Carl Dole 148 and Gary Boyd 158. G-Danny Wilhelm 135 and Louie Nemez 211. QB-Jerry Swainham 147. HB-Fredy Espozza 137. HB-Juan Espozza 148 and Nemorio Dominguez 147. FB-Larry Wilhelm 168.

SANDS: E-Bonnie Taylor 140 and Perry Gillespie 135. T-John McGreor 240 and Jim Fryer 215. G-Kelly Gaskins 147 and Gene Rodman 170. C-Jake Merrick 154. QB-Lance Hooper 150. HB-Roy Rose 132 and Eddie Hooper 120. FB-Johnny Peugh 120.

The other six loop teams will be trying to do something about a 5-6-3 mark in intersectional warfare.

Texas hosts Oklahoma State Saturday night in Austin and the Longhorns could possibly have a new quarterback at the helm. Texas coach Darrell Royal is tinkering with the idea of starting junior James Street instead of Bill Bradley, the senior who has been plagued by fumbles and interceptions this year. The Longhorns (0-1-1) are touchdown favorites over OSU, leading the Cowpokes 8-1 in the all-time series.

Joey Ortega were all impressive for the visitors.

On defense, John Hilario, Andy Neiland, Dale Crenshaw, Lino Sanchez, Tommy Tanner and Charley Rodriguez were all as tough as leather spagetti for Big Spring.

Series Site Moves To Detroit Park

DETROIT (AP) — The Tigers were back in Detroit today, eager to bring to their kind of park the kind of game that crushed the St. Louis Cardinals and tied the World Series at one game each.

Following an informal discussion that helped thaw their first-game freeze, the Tigers whipped the Cardinals 8-1 Thursday behind the six-hit pitching of Mickey Lolich and the home run slugging of Lolich, Willie Horton and Norm Cash.

The performance was completely different from the one the Tigers put on Wednesday when they eked out five hits against Bob Gibson. Only one that struck the Tigers in the first game loss, and then they did something about it.

Runnels Wins Over Andrews 11, 30-16

"We had dinner together Wednesday night," Kaline explained, "and we talked about how everyone was trying to hard. We said we had to talk to these guys and relax them, get them to play the kind of game we played all year."

"We had a lot of time when we got to the park so we just sat around talking... about going for base hits and playing our kind of game and not worrying about anything. You could tell from the time we went on the field that everyone was more relaxed."

"Then when Willie hit the home run, it gave us a big lift. It broke the jinx, or whatever you call it, and gave us momentum. We were confident we could win. Then when Lolich hit one, it was too much to expect."

Horton connected off Briles in the second inning and Lolich in the third. For Lolich, it was the first of his six-year major league career. Three innings later, Detroit broke the game open with a three-run burst.

"You have to give Lolich a lot of credit," said Cash, who collected three of Detroit's 13 hits. "He held them for five innings while we were getting started. Then we went to our game, which is knocking the ball all over the country."

It will be up to Ray Washburn, 14-8, to keep the ball in Tiger Stadium in Saturday's third game when he pitches against Earl Wilson, 13-12. Gibson and Denny McLain then pick up their duel Sunday.

Briles' trouble was he didn't have good stuff and as Gibson noted, "This club is more capable of hitting home runs than, say, the Dodgers. If you don't have good stuff, they're going to hit home runs."

At the same time, Lolich, who won two fewer games than the 19 Briles did during the season, was effective in all but the sixth inning when St. Louis scored its run.

Lou Brock singled, stole his first of two bases, went to third on Curt Flood's infield single and scored as Orlando Cepeda blooped his first hit of the series.

Mickey Stanley, the center fielder turned shortstop, then got Lolich out of any further trouble by making a good stop of Mike Shannon's hard grounder in the hole between short and third and turning it into an inning-end double play.

Coahoma Eighth Romps, 58-12

SEAGRAVES — Coahoma's eighth graders ran up a 58-12 score at the expense of Seagraves in a football game played here Thursday evening.

Seagraves prevailed in the seventh grade set, 22-6, in a game that saw Ed Padron score Coahoma's only TD.

In the eighth grade contest, Lynn Ashley counted three touchdowns for Coahoma, Roland Beal, Freddie Franklin, Joe Moran, Sammy Hernandez, and Robert Garcia one each while Franklin, Ben Herrera, Robert Galvan and Steve Stone accounted for extra points.

John Best, James Blair, Steve Frazier, Stone, Dob Coates, Johnny Wright and Dan White all excelled on offense for Coahoma while Troy Kerby was especially impressive on defense.

A FRIEND TO BOB GIBSON

Local Man Passes Up Invitation To Series

Can you picture yourself getting an invitation from the great Bob Gibson to watch the 1968 World Series, with all expenses paid? Can you conceive the idea that you would turn down the offer?

A Big Spring resident, Ed Jacobs, a custodian of the First Baptist Church, is such a man.

Ed, a brother-in-law to Jim (Mudcat) Grant, former Minnesota pitching star, met Gibson here prior to spring training in 1967 when the St. Louis mound star, Grant and famed Maury Wills stopped off to have lunch in the Jacobs home.

Jacobs, a dedicated baseball fan, would have jumped at Gibson's offer had it not been for the fact that he had already planned to attend the Baptist State Convention in Houston later this month.

A devoted church worker, Ed is a deacon in the Mt. Bethel Church here and has been a member of the church since 1927.

Jim Grant married Ed's sister, George, in Arkansas while still pitching in the minor leagues. Jim is now with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Between seasons Grant directs a musical band which fills engagements all over the country. Ed says that Grant is thinking seriously of quitting baseball to concentrate on his musical career full time.

Wills, too, is known for his musical talent and has appeared on national TV as a ukelele player.

Oddly enough, Jacobs didn't get to watch on TV when Gibson threw his record-breaking victory over Detroit Wednesday but he hopes to be in front of a video set Sunday, when Bob will probably charge the hill again.

Following Gibson's win in the opening game of the series, Ed called Bob to offer his congratulations and followed up with a telegram of felicitations.

FIGHT RESULTS

YOKYO — Takao Sekuro, 120, Jaom, outpointed Romy Guties, 120, Manila, 10.

COPENHAGEN — Ulfic Reys, 198, Trinius, 198, outpointed Hans Hoerhag, 211, Denmark, 5.

LOS ANGELES — Rodolph Gonzalez, 137, Long Beach, Calif., stopped Roy Adonis, 134, Biala, 137, London, 10.

LONDON — Alan Rudkin, England, stopped Rudi Carona, Mexico, 7, points-weight, Johnny Fitzhugh, E. Africa, outpointed Wilfredo Hurst, Miami, Fla., 7, middleweights.

Cardinals Underdogs In Game With Pokes

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—If Bob Gibson were throwing for the St. Louis football Cardinals Sunday, the Red Birds would figure to have a better chance against Dallas powerhouse.

As Gibson will be busy in Tiger Stadium, it looks like another loss for Charley Winner's Cards, and a fourth straight victory for the Cowboys, highest scoring club in the National Football League.

In fact, the four unbeaten teams in the NFL should come through again. Baltimore has to handle the Chicago Bears, who woke up last week. Los Angeles has to deal with Dick Nolan's aroused San Francisco 49ers and the New York Giants may be pressed by the New Orleans Saints, who are beginning to believe in themselves.

Oakland and San Diego are the two unbeaten in the American Football League. The Raiders should roll over Boston but the Chargers may have their hands full at Shea Stadium against the New York Jets, upset last week in Buffalo.

Last week's record was 9-4, with 5-3 in the NFL and 4-1 in the AFL, or 19-7 for the season.

Here we go again with all games Sunday unless otherwise indicated:

NFL

Cleveland 28, Pittsburgh 17—(Saturday night)—Always a tough game although Browns hold a big edge in series. Blanton Collier shifting to Bill Nelson at quarterback. Groggy Steelers still looking for first victory with only 37 points in two games and 120 for the opposition.

Dallas 35, St. Louis 14—Don Meredith hitting the bullseye and that rugged defense is dismembering quarterbacks.

Baltimore 33, Chicago 14—Earl Morrall still doing great job filling in for John Unitas.

Bears down to Larry Rakestraw with Jack Concannon out of action.

Los Angeles, 24, San Francisco 17—Always a war and no reason to expect anything different. This is to be played in Coliseum where 49ers scored big upset a year ago. Roman Gabriel vs. John Brodie eyeball to eyeball.

New York 31, New Orleans 21—Giants clicked on all cylinders against Redskins last week with the old Fran Tarkenton-Homer Jones firm back in business.

Green Bay 27, Atlanta 17—Detroit 21, Minnesota 20—A Washington 31, Philadelphia

LeMay's Name Won't Show On Most Ballots

WASHINGTON (AP) — In spite of his selection as George C. Wallace's running mate, Gen. Curtis LeMay's name won't be on the ballot as a vice presidential candidate in most states. Wallace's announcement that LeMay is his No. 2 man came too late to replace the name of former Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin on the ballot except for a handful of states.

Griffin was picked by Wallace at the outset of his third-party campaign as a stand-in running mate because many states re-

Series To End On An Unusual Note

Membership of the Big Spring Civic Concert Association will be in for something unusual, striking and exciting when the Paul Winter Contemporary Concert concludes the series next March 28, a Friday.

The group of seven young musicians has earned an international reputation, it was the first to present a jazz concert in the White House. This followed on the heels of a triumphant international tour.

Paul Winter's consort is said to be developing an original idiom of music, a unique synthesis of symphonic orchestration, folk music and jazz.

Less anyone get the idea that this is a Dixieland band (although the Winter group can cut that with no mean swing), the repertoire includes the blues, Bach cantatas, folk pieces, original compositions, ethnic rhythms, and even Gregorian chants.

Instrumentation is unique with alto saxophone, cello, English horn, alto flute, classical and 12-string guitar, bass, and a variety of folk percussion centering on a set of seven tuned Brazilian drums. The tones are rich and sonorous.

Paul Winter organized his first group, a jazz sextet, while a student at Northwestern University. In 1961, it won the Intercollegiate Jazz Festival and was signed by Columbia Records. The State Department sent it on a tour of 23 Latin American countries. Since then it has toured extensively in the United States and in Canada. Over the years it has evolved into the present contemporary consort.

Season memberships are now on sale and may be had ($10 adult and $4 students) by calling Mrs. Ralph W. Caton (267-2301). No single memberships are sold for any performance. Other programs include "Cactus Flower," a Broadway musical starring Jeannie Carson and Biff McGuire on Tuesday,

Bolivian Officer Ends Military Training Here

1st Lt. Juan Heitman of the Bolivian Air Force has completed on-the-job training at Webb AFB and leaves early in the week for service in his homeland.

Lt. Heitman has been in the United States since February attending various schools, and will serve as an air force instructor in La Paz, Bolivia. His first assignment was at Lackland AFB, where he attended language school 15 weeks. After his graduation, he went to Chanute AFB, Ill., to complete a 13-week course in personal equipment and a four-week management course.

Arriving at Webb in August, Lt. Heitman was sponsored by Lt. Col. Clifton C. Nieland, base operations officer. During his training here, the lieutenant divided his time between the physiological training unit with Capt. Allan L. Fox and the personal equipment section with Technical Sergeants John A. Koepfle and Ferdine Adocp.

A graduate of the Air Force Academy in Santa Cruz, Bolivia, Lt. Heitman has completed his studies in the United States under the sponsorship of the Military Assistance Program. Born in Oruro, Bolivia, he grew up in La Paz. He has visited Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Texas and HemisFair.

His wife, Lucy, was also born in Oruro. She attended American schools in Chile for 10 years. The couple met in La Paz, where she was employed as a bilingual secretary at the American Embassy. Married two years ago, they are expecting a child in April.

While thumbing thru our files recently, we ran across an interesting hand that first saw the light of day in an international match between the United States and England. Altho the result was a tragedy for the American team, the deal provides a useful illustration of how a seemingly hopeless situation can be rescued by a resourceful declarer who retains his poise against heavy odds.

When the United States held the North-South cards, North chose to open the bidding with one no trump despite the fact that he held an unguarded doubleton. His bid was passed out and, in the play, North suffered a one trick setback. He received a spade opening and, when he tried to establish South's club suit, West held up his ace for one round and thereby permanently retired the dummy from play.

At the other table with the English seated North and South, the bidding proceeded
