Reserves Time, Three-Way Debate Invited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has reserved one hour of prime television time for next Sunday night and has invited Richard M. Nixon and George C. Wallace to share it with him in a three-way debate.

Humphrey made the announcement in telegrams Sunday to Republican Nixon and American Independent Wallace and offered to foot the entire bill.

The Democratic presidential candidate said the time was reserved with the Columbia Broadcasting System from 10 to 11 p.m.

United Fund Report

The United Fund inched ahead today to $47,684.65 to reach 43.7 per cent of its $109,225 objective.

However, the drive is expected to increase in activity this week as Webb AFB, which exceeded its $13,000 goal, will make its final contribution, and the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and Communications Workers of America drive, which has also passed a $2,195 objective, will wind up their drive.

Other larger companies are working this week to complete contributions for the employees division.

BIG TURNOUT DUE

Absentees Heavy

If absentee voting is an indicator, a heavy turnout for the Nov. 5 general election can be expected.

Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said today that more than 300 applications for absentee ballots have been filed in her office. This is one of the largest numbers in several years for a general election, she said.

Absentee voting will begin in the county Wednesday.

Drowned In Bathtub

AUSTIN (AP) — A 10-month-old child, Rodney Phillips Jr., drowned Sunday in the bathtub at his home. Justice of Peace Bob Kuhn ruled "accidental drowning" was the cause of death.

Complains Of Racism

SAIGON (AP) — A Negro major charged on Sunday that the "American military services are the strongest citadels of racism on the face of the earth." Today he was transferred to a new job and said he was happy about the change.

The Army officer, Maj. Lavell Merritt of Chicago, said he had asked some time ago to be transferred from the training section of MACV, the Military Assistance Command Vietnam, because he said there was discrimination in the section. He said he was transferred today to MACV's operations section.

Merritt, 40, gave newsmen an eight-page statement Sunday in which he told of Negro officers laughing when a white officer "tells the funniest nigger story he knows."

Sources at MACV headquarters said they understood Merritt had requested a transfer several weeks ago "because he was unhappy there." They said he became eligible for promotion to lieutenant colonel in 1966 but was passed over three times.

Time To Do Something

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark says it is time for critics including congressmen to "stop talking and shouting and trying to scare people" about crime and do something about it.

Secret Talk Reported

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Der Spiegel published today what it said were the minutes of a discordant secret talk held in Prague between Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov and Josef Smrkovsky, president of the Czechoslovak Parliament.

The West German news magazine quoted Smrkovsky, one of the leaders of Prague's post-January liberalization drive, as telling the impatient Kuznetsov that the psychology and voice of the Czechoslovak people cannot be ignored in attempting to impose Moscow's demands for strict Communist party controls.

Agnew's Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, says "the total permissive atmosphere that is sweeping this country" can be corrected by separating "civil rights from civil irresponsibility."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House adjourned at 2 p.m. (EDT) today, assuring final adjournment of the 90th Congress later in the day.

The Senate was expected to follow shortly after both houses agreed today would be the last.

Veep Still Has Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Hubert H. Humphrey says he is pleased with the "momentum" of his Democratic presidential campaign, the vice president's drive for the White House is not completely free of the problems that made the first week a disaster.

Misstatements by the candidate and antiwar heckling have all but disappeared. But Humphrey is still unable to curb the love of talking that bores some audiences, and scheduling is far from perfect.

Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon is following a formula combining downtown and suburban rallies in the nation's metropolitan areas, but Humphrey still has a tendency to wander around, frequently making poor use of the time which grows shorter each day.

One strategy remains clear and central: the effort to goad Nixon into a debate. But the GOP candidate continues to refuse. Humphrey's advisers claim they have put Nixon into an untenable position, that as the polls show his lead dropping, he will eventually have to give in.

Nixon Promises A Closing Blitz

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon promises to wind up his presidential campaign with "a three-week blitz" which he says will be designed to create "maximum momentum Nov. 5."

Sure Beats 'Down In The Valley'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — For the third time in two days, the Apollo 7 astronauts were serenaded by commercial radio music in their spacecraft high above the earth Sunday.

One of the astronauts reported the latest music apparently was coming from an FM radio station in Houston.

It was playing a song whose lyrics begin: "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread . . ."

Wallace Reveals Platform, Gets Enthusiastic Response

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — George C. Wallace has set forth his American Independent party platform which he says is designed to restore U.S. leadership abroad and provide relief at home from "turmoil, frustration and confusion."

The former Alabama governor said Sunday in San Francisco he would spend the last three weeks of his presidential campaign bringing the message of the 13,000-word platform to Americans.

In the platform, he asserted that the "root causes" of crime and disorder in the cities "are to be found in the apparent absence of respect for law . . . and the unexplainable compassion for the criminal evidenced by our executive and judicial officers and officials."

His program for cities calls for relocation of "those totally unfit for training, background and environment for urban living who have been lured to the metropolitan areas by wholly false promises."

Wallace explained his platform before an audience of 10,000 that filled about two-thirds of San Francisco's Cow Palace and gave him an enthusiastic response.

The only dissent came from 300 noisy hecklers. There were no arrests.

Wallace then left for Fresno's rich valley farm area where about 150 waited in the rain for more than an hour Sunday night to greet his plane.

The platform says in its preamble it is designed to do two things:

—Return the nation "to its accustomed and deserved position of leadership" among nations.

—Offer Americans hope "of some relief from the continued turmoil, frustration and confusion brought about through the fearful and inept leadership of our national political parties."

The platform planks are nailed together with craftsmanship indicating a single carpenter—Wallace, who in previous speeches and interviews has taken the positions outlined. The pronoun "I" appears in several places. It states it was formulated before Wallace chose retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay for a running mate.

Highlights Of Platform

confirmation "at reasonable intervals."

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS—Restore to state governments powers "unlawfully seized by the federal government"—control of public schools, setting of voter fair-housing legislation.

AGED—Increase Social Security benefits 60 per cent, with $100 minimum and annual cost-of-living increases. Allow 100 per cent deduction on income tax for drugs and medical expense of persons 65 and over, taxing persons over 65. Improve medicare, cutting recipient's share of cost.

FEDERAL JUDICIARY—Amend Constitution to require a U.S. District Court judge "to face the electorate on his record at periodic intervals" with removal if defeated. Supreme Court justices and appeals court judges be subject to Senate re-

confirmation "at reasonable intervals."

VIETNAM—Be patient to the extreme in seeking to end war through negotiations, but if that doesn't work seek a military conclusion using only conventional weapons. Rid Defense Department of those who foster a "no-win policy."

DEFENSE—Install antiballistic missile defense; reconstitute adequate reserve forces; improve military pay; end involuntary draft when possible.

FOREIGN POLICY—Join in international programs of aid and development from which all nations benefit. "Stay with the United Nations" unless it first abandons us, but if its purpose "reappraise our relationship with it."

Deny aid and assistance to nations who oppose us militarily in Vietnam and elsewhere and those who give aid and comfort to our avowed enemies.

Seek removal of economic sanctions on Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa.

Court To Rule On Texas Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to review a ruling that the Texas "disturbing the peace" law is an unconstitutional invasion of peaceful protest.

The court acted on an appeal by state Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin. It brings before the justices another important test of demonstrators' power.

A federal court in Austin, Tex., threw out the state law last April. The ruling grew out of a demonstration mounted by the University Committee to End the War in Vietnam when President Johnson visited Killeen, Tex., last December to speak at the dedication of Central Texas College.

Committee members and other protesters of U.S. war policy headed into a crowd that included many soldiers recently returned from Vietnam—Ft. Hood is nearby—with such signs as "I have but One Idol—Hitler, 'General Ky'."

The Texas law made it a crime to use loud, obscene or vulgar language in any public place in a manner calculated to disturb the peace.

Snipers Kill Two Panama Soldiers, Arias Urges War

PANAMA (AP) — Snipers killed two Panama National Guard soldiers in a one-hour battle not far from the presidential palace Sunday night as deposed President Arnulfo Arias called on his supporters to wage "total war" against the military leaders who overthrew him.

Arias, who took refuge in the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone after the coup Friday night 11 days after he took office, predicted there would be "death and desolation" unless the military chiefs who deposed him "leave the places they control."

Guard spokesmen said two guardsmen were killed and no others wounded in the fighting in the downtown Maranon slum district. But newsmen saw three guardsmen and a civilian hit by gun fire.

A spotter plane circled overhead as guardsmen cleared the area and imposed a curfew from 9 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. Crowds were dispersed without difficulty and quiet settled over the city as the curfew went into effect.

The guard is Panama's army. In a broadcast message taped for a clandestine radio station, Arias said: "The time for action has come. To the streets, men and women of my country. This is the moment for going out on the streets to fight. The order of the day is to take up arms against the little group of military traitors of the fatherland."

Astronauts Clown For TV Audience

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Flashing a hand-printed sign saying "Keep Those Cards and Letters Coming," three smiling Apollo 7 astronauts today performed the first live television show from inside a manned U.S. spaceship.

"It really looks good, I'm amazed," Donald K. Slayton, head of the astronaut office here, radioed to the crew.

TURNED ON — The crew turned on the television camera at 10:44 a.m. (EDT) as Apollo 7 sped over the southern United States. Pictures at first were snowy, and Slayton reported the signal was "too weak to read."

After the 4½-pound camera warmed up for about two minutes, however, the astronauts could plainly be seen moving inside Apollo 7. The system required a scan converter to reproduce the pictures.

The first handwritten sign the Apollo crew held up before the camera said, "Hello from the lovely Apollo room high atop everything." Viewers saw Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, laughing, standing upright in his white coveralls in the center of the cabin, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. on his couch to the viewer's right.

Later, Schirra held up another sign which said, "Keep Those Cards and Letters Coming in Folds."

Holding the camera at the end of its 12-foot cord, one of the astronauts then aimed it out the window to test its ability to see features on earth during the approximately eight-minute transmission.

Walter Cunningham, the civilian member of the crew, was shown only briefly, moving at the left of the screen. It was he who turned the camera on.

Clouds and earth below could be seen, including the Texas-Louisiana coastline. One view also appeared to show the Gulf Coast of Florida as Apollo 7 sped over that state to begin its 46th orbit as the televised show ended.

REFUSED

Schirra, who refused to switch on the camera during the first scheduled telecast Saturday, originally criticized the camera as being an "inferior product." But project officials today said the picture was far clearer than what occurred in previous tests on earth.

"Look at Eisele, a nice shot, looks straight up," Slayton radioed to the pilots. "He's moving and he's really quite clear."

"You forgot to shave this morning, Eisele," ground controllers quipped.

Pictures from the camera were inferior to commercial television sets in the home primarily because the camera must operate on less than seven watts of power, compared with 500 watts or a standard studio camera.

PROBLEM

Shortly before the start of the television show, the three astronauts got a "go" to spend at least another day in space, despite several problems that included a momentary power loss which triggered flashing spaceship warning lights high over the Red Sea.

The power dropout, described by one of the three orbiting astronauts as "a very traumatic experience," will be avoided in the future by changing switch positions on several fans which overloaded electrical circuits, causing the momentary blackout.

Flight director Gene Kranz said the momentary electrical power loss, which occurred shortly before 1 a.m. (EDT), apparently was "attributable to a cyclic load" caused by too many fans or heaters going on simultaneously. He said this theory was supported by the fact that the problem did not reappear when the reset switch was thrown.

MOUNTED

The 4½-pound television camera aboard Apollo 7 can be mounted to point inside the spacecraft cabin or hand held at the end of its 12-foot cord and aimed out a window. Pictures from it are inferior to commercial television received in the home primarily because the camera must operate on less than seven watts of power, compared to 500 watts for a standard studio camera.

The $55 million Apollo 7 spaceship, meanwhile, sped past the million-mile mark in its planned 4½-million-mile voyage scheduled to end Oct. 22 after 163 orbits of the globe.

Schirra, 45, who is making his last space flight, said his cold was clearing up, and he was feeling better. Cunningham, who earlier also had a stuffy nose, said he felt "in good shape" after taking a decongestant pill. They were also complaining they are overfed.

Teachers In NY Vote New Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Teachers have voted authorization for another strike against the New York City public school system. As that new threat came, three policemen were shot and wounded Sunday night while on duty outside a school in Brooklyn's Ocean Hill-Brownsville district where teacher dismissals precipitated the strike crisis.

SNIPER

The wounds suffered by the three officers were from a sniper fired down on them from a tenement rooftop were not considered serious. One was released from a hospital after treatment. More than a dozen patrol cars scoured the neighborhood and 30 detectives began a door-to-door, cellar-to-backyard search for a man of about 24 believed to be the sniper.

If the strike takes place in the nation's biggest public school system, it would be the third unscheduled holiday in six weeks for 1.1 million pupils.

Teachers' union President Albert Shanker advised his 55,000 members Sunday night they would be told today if the strike is on.

"STRIKE 3"

As teachers voted on a strike endorsement—approved by an announced 6,042 to 2,128—about a dozen parents picketed outside their meeting hall with signs such as "Strike 3—You're Out."

Another sign said, "Self-Determination for Black Communities," one of the major issues in the school turmoil here.

For it is in Brooklyn's 8,000-pupil Ocean Hill-Brownsville School District, where the population is mostly Negro and Puerto Rican, that an experiment with a community-elected, community-governed school board became the source of the controversy.

The local governing board dismissed 110 union teachers, charging sabotage of its experiment by their walkout last spring. The central Board of Education ordered 83 of the teachers—the rest voluntarily transferred elsewhere—reinstated to their classrooms. The local board balked.

The central board suspended the local board, the district's administrator and seven of the district's eight school principals. But the local governing board continued to function, saying it was elected by the community, and that the city board has no power over it. The city board, faced with this open revolt, lifted the principals' suspensions Friday, two days after imposing them.

The United Federation of Teachers fears that community control—or decentralization—might force it to deal separately with each local system.

This, it feels, might make it difficult to protect the job security of its members, as in the Ocean Hill experiment. The union's answer to this was to strike.

Patricia Neal Is Applauded At Premiere

NEW YORK (AP) — Surrounded by old friends from show business, a "very happy and relieved" Patricia Neal watched Sunday night the first movie she's made since she suffered two crippling strokes almost four years ago.

"I'm just delighted," she said as she arrived for the premiere of the film version of "The Subject Was Roses." Frank D. Gilroy's Pulitzer Prize winning play.

Several hundred motion picture and stage stars turned out to applaud Miss Neal at the premiere and to toast her at a post-opening party at Sardi's.

Miss Neal, 42, was stricken in February, 1965, while filming in Hollywood. The two strokes left the Academy Award-winning actress partially paralyzed and unable to speak.

"When the producer and director came to me and asked me to do the film, I didn't think I could," said Miss Neal Sunday night. "But my husband thought I could," she added, looking at Rodd Dahl, the British mystery writer to whom she has been married for more than 15 years and the person she credits with encouraging her recovery.

The movie tells the story of an Irish-American family in the Bronx just after World War II.

'Petticoat Junction' Matriarch, 62, Is Dead

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Beauderet, matriarch of television's "Petticoat Junction," is dead at 62—the victim of pneumonia and lung cancer.

The blonde, brown-eyed actress was starting her sixth season playing Kate Bradley. She had filmed five episodes for the current run when she was forced to return to the hospital Sept. 26.

"I FEEL FINE"

The vivacious performer underwent radiation treatment last year at the Stanford Medical Clinic in Palo Alto for a lung tumor.

Upon her release, Miss Beauderet told a newsmen, while recuperating at Palm Springs— "Every day is beautiful to me... I feel fine, better than I have felt in years."

She died Sunday in Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles.

Prior to top casting as the quick-tongued mother in "Petticoat's" Hooterville, Miss Beauderet was Blanche Morton, wife of fastidious Harry Morton—next door neighbors in the long run of the "George Burns and Gracie Allen Show." In this part, she excelled in repartee.

Another vehicle, "The Beverly Hillbillies," featured her as cousin Pearl Bodine—mother of Jethro—in the first year of that show. Then the creator of the Hillbillies—Paul Henning—chose her as the operator of the Shady Rest Hotel in his "Petticoat Junction."

MANY ROLES

Much of her early success derived from her talent at dialect. She was a part of the vocal cast of the TV cartoon show,

"The Flintstones," and played many other roles on radio and television.

She was Gertrude Gearshift, who spoke Brooklynese, telephone operator on the "Jack Benny Program"; Amber Lipscomb on "My Friend Irma"; the maid, Gloria, on "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet"; Eve Goodwin on "The Great Gildersleeve" and Mrs. Carstairs on "Fibber McGee and Molly."

A public funeral is planned. She leaves her husband, sound technician Gene Twombly; a daughter, Margaret Kilfoil, 20; a son, Jack, 27, and a granddaughter. The family home is at suburban Studio City.

PANE PAINS INCREASING

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Windows in Baltimore city schools are being broken faster than they can be fixed.

The public school administration says it cannot find enough contractors to keep up with repairs, and as an emergency measure carpenters and painters have been temporarily reassigned to the task.

"Some contractors," said Francis X. Trainor, a public information spokesman, "have refused public school work because their workers are harassed even as they repair windows."

Trainor said $247,000 was spent last year to replace broken windows.

British-Rhodesian Conference Cloudy

GIBRALTAR (AP) — The British-Rhodesian conference ended Sunday night with no prospect of a settlement, but British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith agreed to consult their governments and keep in touch.

The four days of deadlocked summit talks ended with a joint statement saying "a very wide gulf still remains" between the British government and the white minority government which proclaimed the African territory's independence three years ago to preserve white rule.

The basic issue remains unresolved. Britain's demand for unimpeded progress toward rule of Rhodesia by the four million black Africans instead of the 220,000 whites.

Smith's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain in November, 1965, remains illegal as far as Britain is concerned. British and U.N. economic sanctions have weakened Rhodesia's thriving economy.

Bridge Test

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠AJ10854 ♥2 ♣AKAK103

What is your response?

A.—Two spades. Despite the lack of a support for partner, your hand is so strong as to suggest a probable slam even in face of the merit. Your hand is worth 22 points, and the slam signal should be flashed at once.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KJ864 ♥AQ32 ♦1032 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1♦ 1♥ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Three hearts. In this sequence such a jump is not forcing but strongly urges partner to go on. There is nothing to be gained by bidding one spade.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠76 ♥Q5 ♣AK852 ♠AQJ6

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—You hold somewhat more than you might have for your previous bids and we would not be inclined to give up without making one mild try for game. Our recommended bid is, therefore, three hearts. In view of partner's rebid your ♣8 of hearts are adequate support.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQJ864 ♥642 ♠A953

The bidding has proceeded: North East South 1♦ Dble. ?

What action do you take?

A.—Two spades. We treat the single jump in this sequence as a one round force. It describes an unbalanced hand with a good spade suit, but announces that the hand is not suitable for a redouble.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠3 ♥J98752 ♦AJ92 ♠J9

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 3♠ 3NT Pass ?

A.—Pass. It is true that a superior contract might be found in hearts, but on the other hand there's a distinct possibility that the backbone of partner's three-no-trump bid is a long club suit and that his failure to double is based on a lack of preparation for the "other major."

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠43 ♥AQ8 ♦A1082 ♠A97

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1♠ Pass 2NT Pass 4NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Further action on your part is indicated. Your 14 points are of the highest possible quality and the hand is the equal of most 15-point hands. A bid of six no trump is acceptable to this department, but a bid of at least five no trump we look upon as mandatory.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠1094 ♥A862 ♦Q42 ♠75

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1♦ 3♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Vigorous action on your part is indicated. On the first round you were prevented from showing your moderate values by East's presumptive tactics. You ought to think in terms of game, so that a bid of three hearts or three spades, being forced, would be quite inadequate. Nor should you attempt to guess the right major suit. A false cue bid of four clubs is indicated and will force partner to make the selection.

Q. 8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠10642 ♥KJ1085 ♦A62 ♠7

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1♠ Pass 2♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Three hearts. Bids of this character are attended with a certain amount of danger but we consider the risk to be well calculated. Since the bidding subsided at an early stage it may be concluded that partner has some appreciable high card values and, since he probably has a singleton spade, your dummy rates to show up with a suitable number of hearts.

Accolade For A Star

Patricia Neal, right, is congratulated by Tallulah Bankhead at party in New York City following premiere of the film version of "The Subject Was Roses," in which Miss Neal is a star. This is the first movie she's made since suffering two crippling strokes almost four years ago. At right is actor Rod Steiger.

Dear Abby

The Lady Is Too Friendly

DEAR ABBY: I am a 44-year-old bachelor. I'm perfectly normal, enjoy the company of women occasionally, but I am not looking for any matrimonial involvements. I live alone in a modest bungalow and enjoy my privacy.

My problem is a very aggressive divorcee who moved in next door. She's not bad looking but she comes on awfully strong. She is a rip-roaring Republican from way back and a big Nixon booster. She started in the usual neighborly manner. If she sees a light in my place she runs over, bringing prepared meals, and an armful of Nixon literature for me to read. She's even offered to cook for me, and do my ironing, but I'm not about to fall into that trap. When she's not talking about Nixon, she's talking about marriage.

Last week I had it, so I moved my refrigerator, stove, and TV down to the basement so she won't know if I'm home, so now she telephones me. What should I do?

DEAR NOT: Tell her you're going to vote for Hubert and move back upstairs.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a town where recently a couple who had been married 10 years got a divorce. They weren't divorced two months when they decided to get married (to each other) again.

Now I'm all in favor of people getting back together, but I think it should be done quietly. This couple had a big church wedding with a best man, bridesmaids, and the whole works. They even had a picture and write-up in the newspaper, and when they took off for their honeymoon, their car was all decorated with "JUST MARRIED" signs.

I think this is real asinine. People are laughing behind their backs. A friend of mine says she doesn't see anything wrong with it. To settle an argument, what is your opinion?

DEAR HOLBROOK: The sign on the honeymoon car should have read: "JUST REMARRIED." That's my opinion.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 10-year-old boy, and I don't have anybody to play with. I asked my mother to get me a brother or even a sister, but she told me not to bother her.

I told her I would be satisfied with a dog, but she said a dog is too much trouble. I had a rabbit once, but it died.

Is there some way I can get my mother to let me have a dog?

DEAR LENNY: If your mother's only objection to a dog is the "trouble," write out an "agreement," stating you will take the dog for walks regularly, see that it's fed, and do everything you can to relieve your mother of the work of owning and training a dog. Then sign it. It's worth a try.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Alley Theatre Dedicated In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — A cast of 25 rehearsed today for the opening performance in the newly completed Alley Theatre, a $3.1 million building with two stages.

The new Alley was dedicated Sunday to Nina Vance, who founded the theater 21 years ago and has remained as its principal director.

The six-story structure in the center of Houston, will open Nov. 26 for Bertolt Brecht's "Galileo" on the main stage of the 800-seat auditorium.

W. McNeil Lowry, vice president of the Ford Foundation, told the audience Sunday that this country must adopt a policy to support the arts.

"The facts are plainly that the economic crisis of the arts has lasted overlong... and that only a national policy in support of the arts can alleviate the continuing erosion of our cultural resources and of the personal vitality of many key artistic producers," Lowry said.

"The problem is not to 'sell the Congress' a fine arts program, he said. "The problem is to understand that in relative terms the United States, which helps to develop other countries, is an 'underdeveloped country' in the arts."

The Ford Foundation gave the new Alley a $2.1 million grant, largest ever received by a resident professional theater.

TO 'DESTROY THE MYTH OF AMERICAN DEMOCRACY' SDS Plans Nationwide Strike

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Members of the Students for a Democratic Society, saying they intend to "destroy the myth of American democracy," are planning a nationwide student strike and big city demonstrations coinciding with the Nov. 5 presidential election. Officers of the radical organization meet today to work out details of the plan outlined in a four-page resolution adopted by the SDS national council at a weekend conference on the University of Colorado campus. The SDS' objective, said one officer, Tim McCarthy, "is not so much to disrupt the election, but to show the fraudulent nature of the election. We're going to destroy the myth of American democracy."

Called for an end to "racism," adding: "We affirm the right of black people to defend and liberate themselves by any means necessary. We demand that the police be disarmed." Bernardine Dohrn, one of SDS' three national secretaries, said there will be student demonstrations "in at least six, eight or ten" major cities as the presidential campaign draws to a close. She mentioned New York, Milwaukee, Boston, Chicago, Washington and Los Angeles, but said no firm sites had been selected. Another resolution adopted by the conference, attended at times by upwards of 1,000 SDS members and nonmembers, promised stepped up efforts to organize SDS chapters in high schools. As council delegates from chapters across the nation departed the Colorado campus, a controversy lingered over the SDS' treatment of reporters and photographers covering the weekend sessions. Television cameramen, newspaper photographers and radio newsmen with tape recorders were bodily ejected from a student union building meeting hall in a brief shouting and shoving match with SDS members Saturday.

Saying they feared a repeat of the scuffle, university officials agreed to SDS demands that cameras and tape recorders be barred from the meetings. Gov. John Love, saying he deplored the situation created on the campus by the SDS, called for the university to re-examine its policies toward such groups as SDS. The SDS responded Sunday by adopting a motion to censure Love for his views.

Free On Bond
Billy Wayne Decker, 44, 1304 1/2 Main, was arrested Saturday by a highway patrolman and charged with driving while intoxicated, second offense. He was released Saturday from Howard County jail after making $1,000 bond which was set by Justice of the Peace Walter Grice.

Involuntary Second Tours By American Troops Told

Martin County Awards Saturday
STANTON — Martin County 4-H Club Achievement-Applauded Barbecue will be served at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the county barn at Stanton. Billy H. Reagor, county agricultural agent, and Mrs. Mildred L. Eiland, county home demonstration agent, are making arrangements for the event. Announcement of the Martin County Gold Star winners for the year will be a highlight of the barbecue. Awards to other 4-H Club members will also be made.

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, the Army and Marines are sending thousands of men back for involuntary second tours to Vietnam. The Army plans to return about 18,000 this year, the Marines some 6,000. Until this year, the number of nonvolunteers ordered to a second round of war service has amounted only to a trickle. But this has changed because of the length of the war, the high manpower turnover stemming from the one-year duty tour in Vietnam, and the tight supply of seasoned officers and noncommissioned officers. Many career servicemen also are becoming eligible for involuntary second tours in Vietnam because they have been away from the war zone for at least two years. The Army, Marines and Navy had set that as the hoped-for interval between tours, although some exceptions had been made in such scarce skills as helicopter pilots. The Air Force has had no specific interval policy, but has tried to give everybody a turn before tapping men for second tours. CAREER MEN The involuntary second tour trend will affect career servicemen rather than draftees because young men serving two-year draft hitch may not be returned to the war. The Army contingent will include 4,950 officers mostly in the captain-major-lieutenant colonel bracket, and 12,900 enlisted men, chiefly senior noncommissioned officers. The Marine returns will include 1,000 officers and 5,000 enlisted men. Between them the Army and the Marine Corps account for about 80 per cent of the 540,500 American servicemen in Vietnam. With a 50,000-man-a-month turnover, the Army and Marines have the biggest problem in maintaining a flow of key officers and noncoms to Southeast Asia. The Air Force this year is sending only about 150 noncom-

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS — 2

More Pay For Solons?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of 14 proposed changes to the Texas Constitution up for a vote Nov. 5.
By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
Texans will decide Nov. 5 whether to give the men that make their laws their first pay raise in eight years. Voters also will determine if the living and traveling allowances for legislators are to increase. All of that is in a proposed constitutional amendment, No. 5 on the ballot. The proposal would raise salaries of legislators from $4,800 a year to $8,400, an increase of $3,600 a month.

CAN'T SELL
Another proposal, No. 14 would make a slight change in restrictions on the eligibility of legislators to run for another office during their legislative terms. It would clear up controversies such as in 1966 when state Sen. Franklin Spears and Galveston Calhoun Jr. had to go to court to get on the Democratic party primary ballot for attorney general because their Senate terms expired a few days after the attorney general would have taken office. The proposed salary increase basically adds up to whether a legislator is considered a part-time or full-time official. "We are a part-time legislature. I can't sell that to the people back home at $700 a month," Jamison said. "The job of a member of this body is a full-time job and I think it justifies a full-time salary," said Rep. W. C. Sherman of Fort Worth. The argument by Sherman and others that the legislature leaves them little time to devote to a private business or profession is offset by the argument that the proposed $8,400 salary for what might be called a part-time job is far above the full-time salary drawn by the average Texas.

Those favoring the salary-expense changes also say it is unrealistic to cut off per diem allowances even though expenses continue until the end of the session, which usually runs 140 days. Opponents say it would be just another financial burden on the state.

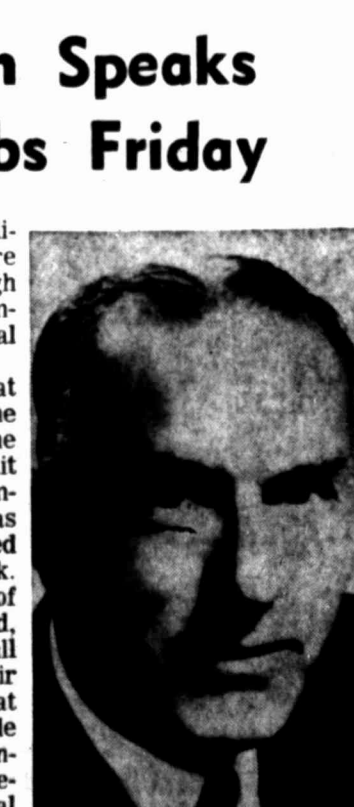

TRIPS HOME
The paid up extra trips home are necessary, some say, so legislators can tell what their constituents want them to do. Opponents say a trip a month is not necessary since the lawmaker can stay in constant touch by telephone or telegraph without cost to themselves. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the increase in pay and living and traveling allowances. Those favoring the eligibility change say it merely straightens out a 1966 amendment which unintentionally overlapped terms by setting the beginning date of a legislator's term of office as the date the regular session convenes. They say it does not change existing restrictions designed to prevent a legislator from resigning to take another government job which was either created or raised in salary or fringe benefits while he was in the legislature. Opponents say any relaxation of the prohibition, even for a few days, would set a bad precedent for future legislatures.

COLLECTION SAVED
War Protesters Fired Museum?
LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard detectives poked through a mass of charred wreckage today trying to determine if protesters against the Vietnam war set fire to Britain's Imperial War Museum. Fire burned out the 120-foot dome of the museum Sunday night, but an official said most of the priceless collection from the two world wars was saved. Officials said the fire was the work of an arsonist and was started by two incendiary bombs, one hidden in the dome and the other thrown through a ground-floor window. Leaflets circulated in London last week urged demonstrators to make grenades and fire-bombs and assemble for a massive anti-Vietnam protest Oct. 27. But Scotland Yard said investigations so far showed "absolutely no connection" between the leaflets and the museum fire. The museum's huge copper-sheathed dome was wrecked by the blaze that erupted after an explosion before midnight. Firemen battled the flames in a scene watched by thousands of bystanders and reminiscent of the wartime blitz. Two firemen were injured. Despite the damage, the museum was reopened to the public today while detectives and fingerprint experts worked inside. The dome was still smoldering. Dr. Christopher Dowling of the museum staff said the reading room of the museum's $600,000 library was badly damaged but fewer than 100 books were charred. The ground floor bomb landed near the documents room that houses the 1938 "Peace in our time" agreement that Neville Chamberlain brought back from Munich and the German surrender document that ended the European War in 1945. Neither was damaged. The museum, opened in 1920 by King George V in the building that once housed the lunatic asylum known as Bedlam, is a favorite spot for schoolboys as well as military scholars. Its collection included tanks, aircraft, 4,500 small arms, uniforms of many nations, four million photographs and 25 million feet of film recording the impact of war since 1914. Its galleries have more than 9,000 paintings, drawing and sculptures depicting scenes of war. In other rooms are a German one-man submarine, an Italian human torpedo and the rifle carried by Lawrence of Arabia in the desert.

Will Trade Jail For Pen
STANTON — Matilde Valles, 30, who has the current record for long stays in the Martin County jail, will change his residence this week. Dan Saunders, Martin County sheriff, said that Valles will be removed to Huntsville to begin serving a three-year prison sentence imposed a week ago by Judge Ralph Caton of 118th District Court. Valles, who was arrested in February, has been in the Martin County jail for over eight months. He pleaded guilty last week to an indictment accusing him of attempting to fondle a child. Saunders said that Valles had refused to plead guilty until about 10 days ago. He decided at that time to enter a plea. Meantime, one other criminal case has been entered on the pending docket in Martin County district court. An indictment was returned last week against Leo Joseph Klein, charged with DWI second. He is at liberty on bond. The grand jury at the same session declined to return an indictment against Victor Garza, Ackerly. Garza was accused of attempting to entice a child into a car for the purpose of fondling.

Sen. Fannin Speaks Before Clubs Friday
Sen. Paul J. Fannin, Republican of Arizona, is to be here Friday on a swing through Texas and will address a combined luncheon of several service clubs. He is due to arrive here at 11:45 a.m. Friday and will come directly to the Settles where the ABC Club will be the host unit for Lions and Jaycees. Members of other clubs, as well as the general public, are invited to hear the senator speak. Those who are not members of the three clubs mentioned, however, are asked to call KBST (7-6391) to indicate their intentions to come in order that proper provision can be made for places and food, said Winston Wrinkle, GOP committeeman from this state senatorial district. Sen. Fannin is scheduled to hold a brief press conference after the luncheon and prior to 1:30 p.m. when he will confer with local Republican leaders. He departs for Austin at 2:30 p.m. for an evening speaking engagement. He is one of a number of GOP speakers who will be coming into the state in the remaining three weeks of the campaign. Sen. Fannin is a native of Kentucky but has lived in Arizona since 1907. Before he ran for governor and served three terms he was a member of an industrial concern operating in Arizona, New Mexico, Idaho and in Mexico. He served as chairman of the Western Governors' Conference in 1963, has been on the executive committee of the national governor's conference and on some of its key committees. He has been cited for contributions to international relations with Mexico, and has served in the U.S. Senate since 1964.

58th Heart Transplant In Satisfactory Condition

HOUSTON (AP) — Myrtle Schmidt of Woodbridge, Va., the world's 58th and newest heart transplant recipient, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Methodist Hospital.

Mrs. Schmidt, 54, an elementary school teacher, received the heart of a Conroe, Tex., youth Saturday.

The donor was Gary Snearly, 16, who suffered fatal injuries Friday in a two-car collision. He died Saturday and the two-and-a-half-hour operation began at 9 p. m.

It was the 17th heart transplant performed in Houston and the sixth by a team of surgeons led by Dr. Michael E. DeBakey. The youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Glenn Snearly, also made his eyes available for possible future transplants.

ULCER SURGERY

A hospital spokesman said William C. Carroll, 50, who received a heart in a historic multiple organ transplant in August, was in good condition Sunday after an ulcer operation.

Carroll, from Scottsdale, Ariz., underwent surgery Saturday for a duodenal ulcer.

At nearby St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, heart recipients Everett C. Thomas, 47, and Louis J. Fierro, 54, were listed in satisfactory condition. They reentered the hospital last week for treatments to prevent rejection of their transplanted hearts.

Fierro, from Elmont, N.Y., received a new heart May 21 and was discharged July 29. Thomas, from Phoenix, Ariz., underwent surgery May 3 and left the hospital July 23.

Bufs Preserve Real Puff-Puff

NEW YORK (AP) — About 960 railroad buffs showed up for a two-day round-trip to Niagara Falls and back aboard a genuine puff-puff steam locomotive.

They came with goggles, bandanas, engineer's caps, cameras, and one blind man brought a tape recorder to preserve the nostalgic chug-chug sounds.

They left from Grand Central Station Saturday morning behind a required electric engine, but up the line, at Harmon, N.Y., a 400-ton steam locomotive was hooked on to the 19-car train, which included an old-fashioned, open-sided observation car.

The engine once pulled 6,000-ton freights and 70 m.p.h. passenger trains for the Nickel Plate Railroad.

Aw, Forget It!

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Soprano Leontyne Price, a 1948 graduate of Central State University, was awarded that school's first honorary degree by the university's president, Dr. Herman Branson.

In conferring the degree Saturday, Branson said he was awarding Miss Price a doctor of medicine degree. He quickly corrected himself, said it was a doctorate of music, then recovered by saying that her singing is "medicine to the soul."

Texas Rail Chairman 'Cautiously Optimistic'

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Railroad Commission Chairman Jim C. Langdon said today he was "cautiously optimistic" that Occidental Petroleum Corp.'s application to build a foreign crude oil refinery in Maine will be denied.

Clergymen Found Dead

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Three American clergymen have died in the wreck of a small plane that crashed in the sea off Cape Palmas 250 miles south of here last Thursday.

They were identified as the Rev. B. J. Manley of the First Assembly of God Church in Whitehouse near Tyler, Texas; the Rev. James Parsons of the Bascom Assembly of God Church in Tyler, Texas; and the Rev. Kenneth Waggoner, a pilot, a missionary from the California district of the Assembly of God Church.

The two Texans had visited Sierra Leone for the dedication of a new church to which they had contributed. They were to inspect a leper colony in Liberia.

Waggoner had been working in a leper colony at Cape Palmas for a year. His widow and two daughters survive in Dakar. The pilot's body had not been recovered up to Sunday night.

Bodies of the Texans were to be flown to the United States for burial.

Oklahoma Town Gets The Shakes

DURANT, Okla. (AP) — Buildings shook, dishes rattled and pictures fell in Durant today, and many residents thought they had been in an earthquake.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said it thought there was a sonic boom.

But whatever it was, it got a lot of attention. Hank Hudson, manager of a Durant motel said "All of a sudden the whole building started shaking, there was a real loud rumble."

Other reports, coming in from as far as eight miles from Durant reported pictures falling from walls, television sets "walking across the floor" and dishes and canned goods falling.

No damage was reported. Seismograph equipment at California Tech showed no tremors.

But Durant residents were convinced. "Boy, I never seen nothing like it," said Overton Whatley, a merchant. "As far as I'm concerned it was an earthquake."

"We had some (advertising) deals standing up here, about five feet tall. It went over, it just grabbed hold of the desk. A few canned goods fell off the rack. This whole building just rocked. That awning out there, it just sat there and trembled. It scared me, I'll tell you that."

Bryan County Court Clerk Raymond Grimes said, "We're on the third floor and we got quite a shake here. It just... the building started to shake. We had three or four pretty good little shakes."

GOOD CASE

"I feel the protestants made an excellent case, both from a legal as well as economics standpoint," said Langdon. "I am cautiously optimistic the board will deny the application."

Protestants appearing at the hearing included spokesmen representing both independent producers and major international oil firms.

Langdon pointed out the hearing will resume in Washington Tuesday in order to hear from members of Congress and government bodies.

In question is an application from Occidental of Los Angeles asking to establish a $15 million refinery which would process Libyan crude oil for use in New England states.

The U.S. troops from the 9th Infantry Division also seized four persons suspected of being Viet Cong.

ROCKETS
Fifty miles farther south, South Vietnamese troops reported 40 Viet Cong soldiers killed and 12 captured.

In addition to the strikes near Thuong Duc, U.S. B52 bombers dropped about 350 tons of bombs on enemy artillery and anti-aircraft sites, truck parks, storage areas and bunker complexes 11 miles above Con Thien and farther east eight miles above the allied outpost at Gio Linh.

KILL CIVILIANS
A military spokesman said Marine fighter-bombers attacked a radar van loaded with electronic gear that guides surface-to-air missiles to their targets. This action took place five miles from where the big bombers struck.

The spokesman said the overcast made it difficult to tell what damage was done to the radar van and adjoining site.

Viet Cong or North Vietnamese gunners fired 13 rounds of big, Russian-made 140mm rockets into Quang Ngai City today, killing four Vietnamese civilians and wounding eight others in the provincial capital in the coastal lowlands.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said another four rounds of the 87-pound missiles fell into the headquarters of a Vietnamese infantry regiment less than two miles west of the city, killing four soldiers and wounding 11 soldiers and four civilians.

RETURN FIRE
American and South Vietnamese artillery returned the fire but the results were unknown. B52s also retaliated with more than 500 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese troop concentrations, weapons positions, bunkers and trench complexes west of Quang Ngai.

Fifteen miles north of Quang Ngai, Communist troops entered the Binh Son refugee camp shortly after midnight, burned down parts of a Buddhist pagoda and a Christian church. The objective apparently was to terrorize refugees and make them doubt the South Vietnamese government's ability to protect them.

In Saigon, a Negro Army major charged that the "American military services are the strongest citadels of racism on the face of the earth" in an eight-page statement given to newsmen Sunday.

NEW JOB
Today Maj. Lavell Mcrritt of Chicago was transferred to a new job and said he was happy about the change.

The Army and Marine Corps are sending many men back to Vietnam for involuntary second tours for the first time, it was reported from Washington.

The length of the war, the high manpower turnover as a result of one-year Vietnam tours and the tight supply of experienced officers and noncommissioned officers were cited as reasons.

Ike Celebrating 78th Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors joined the nation today in celebrating former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's 78th birthday by announcing he has recuperated enough from his most recent heart attack to walk a few steps to his hospital room.

The doctors also said the five-star general has been having more company lately and "retains his customary interest in current world affairs."

Eisenhower is in Walter Reed Army Hospital recovering from his seventh and perhaps worst heart attack since 1955. He was stricken at the hospital in mid-August while recovering from his sixth attack.

His doctors did not say when Eisenhower began walking, but they apparently saved the news for a kind of birthday announcement.

Until today, they had said only that his most vigorous activity was to be assisted out of bed to a bedside chair. He was allowed to sit up for periods of about 30 minutes several times a day.

"MIRACULOUS"
But, even before today's medical bulletin, the Army surgeon general, described his comeback as "miraculous."

A hospital spokesman disclosed that "a little birthday party" was scheduled in Eisenhower's suite sometime today, featuring a cake made by the hospital chefs.

The Army band and chorus planned to serenade Eisenhower from behind his open window.

Despite the fact that the old warrior's birthday wasn't officially until today, the nation in effect began celebrating it Sunday—the beginning of "America's Salute to Eisenhower Week," proclaimed by President Johnson.

1,733 Blind Dates, Few Girls Bit Nervous

CHICAGO (AP) — Some of the girls appeared nervous but the nation's future military men looked calm under pressure as Chicago promised 1,733 of its fairest as dates for members of the Air Force Academy and Naval Academy at a ball.

The cadets and midshipmen were in the city Saturday for the fourth annual Navy-Air Force football game in Soldier Field, Air Force won 26-20.

That night the officer candidates turned their attention to the social graces at the ball as can do when you need a date," a cadet said.

FEW KISSES
A midshipman agreed: "It's virtually impossible to meet a girl any other way."

Not all of the campers remained in the hotel. Michigan Avenue's sidewalks, and the grassy expanse of Grant Park were dotted by uniformed young men and their dates in evening gowns.

As all good things must, the ball ended. But unlike the fairy tale it was the officer candidates who had to respond to the stroke of midnight.

Shortly after midnight, the midshipmen assembled aboard their buses, and the cadets climbed aboard their train for the trips back to the service academies.

Some kisses were exchanged as the uniformed men bade farewell to their partners.

One father who called for his daughter after her date left said, "I think this is just wonderful. With all the beatniks around, it's a pleasure to see short haircuts for a change."

TORTURE TEST

The girls were selected from about 6,000 who answered the city's request for volunteers.

Col. Jack Reilly, Daley's director of special events, said the girls came from as far away as Minnesota but most were from Chicago. They were matched with their escorts according to height, weight and general interests.

A Mundelein College coed said she volunteered simply because "it was something different."

But another girl said she signed up because, "when you put a uniform on a boy he is twice as handsome."

A young switchboard operator expressed her nervousness as she waited to meet her blind date. "I'm going through the torture test," she said. "What will he look like? What will we talk about?"

The cadets and midshipmen seemed to view the event in a more realistic light.

"There's not much else you

Media Urged To Head Off Late Political Smears

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's news media was urged today to head off unfair last-minute political attacks by refusing to publicize any new issues raised during the last five days before election.

The Fair Campaign Practices Committee urged newspapers, radio and television stations to reject both stories and paid political advertisements raising late issues.

If new political attacks must be reported during that period, the committee said, newsmen should be required to make every possible effort to report the answer at the same time.

The committee sent to all news media a study it has made of the use of political smear attacks in the closing days of a campaign and the methods some publications and broadcasting stations have used to deal with them.

The study disclosed that the chief method is to alert news staffs to watch for questionable attacks by campaigners during the final stages of the campaign.

About half the organizations replying to the committee's questionnaire have a cut-off date after which no new charges are publicized, but in most cases the cut-off applies only to advertising, not news stories.

The committee said it was the opinion of many editors that alert, informed newsmen were the only safeguard against last-minute abuses by political cam-

Plane Crashes Increase Texas Violent Deaths

By The Associated Press

Texas recorded 37 violent deaths during the weekend, including 25 in traffic accidents. The Associated Press count covered the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Among the victims were: Anjae Fitzgerald, 20, a Vietnamese war bride, died before reaching a San Antonio hospital Sunday night of injuries suffered in a highway accident four miles south of Von Ormy. Her husband Gerald was injured.

SHOT TO DEATH

State police said it was several hours afterward before a passerby discovered Robert M. Ferguson, 44, of Shreveport, La., was killed in a two-car crash on Texas 149 south of Longview. The other driver, Sarah Lee Brewer of Dallas, was injured.

Jose Herrera, 20, was shot and killed Sunday night at a San Antonio residence. Police said the shooting apparently occurred during a fight in which several youths were injured.

Maria Munoz was found dead Sunday in a pool of blood at her home in San Antonio. How she was killed was not determined at once.

William Austin Shortnacy, 51, of Rowlett, was killed Sunday near Dallas when his pickup truck was in a collision with another vehicle.

Johnnie Ray Trammell, 23, of Dallas died Sunday when his car went out of control on a Dallas freeway, flew 300 feet through the air, and landed in a deep culvert.

Ex-Yugo Leader Slates Lectures

NEW YORK (AP) — Milovan Djilas, writer and former vice premier of Yugoslavia who was imprisoned for nine years by the Tito regime, has arrived for a lecture series at Princeton University.

Djilas, 57, wrote "The New Class" which charged that communism betrayed its ideal of a classless society.

Dona Marie Harrah, 13, was killed Sunday when the car in which she was riding in her home town of Amarillo was in a collision with another vehicle. Mrs. Estella Riojas, 20, of Comanche was killed in that city Sunday in a two-car accident.

Harold G. Carnahan, 39, of Rhineland, Tex., and his 28-year-old wife died Sunday in Monday, in West Texas, when the pickup truck in which they were riding failed to make a turn, crashed and burned.

Taletta Toni Ide, 41, of Carrollton was killed Sunday on a Dallas freeway when the car in which she was riding was struck by a vehicle going the wrong way.

Ralph Martinez, 15, of Dallas, was killed Sunday when the car in which he was riding went out of control and struck a bridge abutment. He was thrown from the car into the waters of Trinity River, some 70 feet below.

Raymond Patrick, 37, of Houston was found shot to death Sunday in his car in downtown Houston. Police said he had been shot once with a small caliber weapon.

HOME FIRE

Gloria Jean McIntyre, 16, of Houston was killed early Sunday when she fell from a pickup truck on Interstate 45, about seven miles north of Houston. Police said the girl was struck by another car after falling from the truck.

Billy Joe Purcell, 36, of San Antonio drowned Sunday afternoon while swimming off Padre Island. He was swimming when an undertow swept him off his feet.

Jim Price, 55, of Corpus Christi was killed Sunday in a two-car collision near George West. The cars collided at the intersection of Texas 9 and US 59 in a heavy fog.

George Adams perished in a Plainview home fire early Sunday. He was alone in the house. Lonnie R. Manning, 19, was shot and killed on a Fort Worth street early Sunday. Officers sought his assailant.

Forecasters Promise Steamy Day In Texas

By The Associated Press

Summery heat was putting autumn to rout in Texas today. Thermometers climbed into the 90s Sunday and they headed upward again today without very much cooling overnight.

Low clouds and fog covered much of South Central and Southeast Texas in early morning. It was mostly clear in other sections.

Presidio in the Big Bend country of Far West Texas recorded the nation's high of 98 degrees Sunday afternoon. The mercury topped 90 at a number of places, and Amarillo's high of 93 was a new record for the date.

Readings before dawn today ranged from 76 at Galveston, 75 at Austin and 74 at Brownsville and Laredo down to 61 at Amarillo and 53 at Dalhart.

Forecasters promised at least another day of warm weather throughout the state, but long-range predictions held out a prospect of a little cooler weather and a few showers in most sections by Wednesday or Thursday.

SPACE DOCS UNHAPPY

Astros Battle Common Cold

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Doctors again are facing their old nemesis—the common cold—this time in space. And they're not happy about it.

Usually before a launch, astronauts are kept under wraps, their activity limited to the ready room, their meetings with others held to a minimum.

Not so the Apollo 7 trio. They ranged over the Cape Kennedy area. Walter Cunningham went water-skiing. Command Pilot Walter M. Schirra Jr. went hunting. Somewhere along the line they met a cold virus.

NOT SURE

Space doctors aren't certain, but they figure Cunningham picked it up somewhere, passed it on to Donn F. Eisele, and it spread then to Schirra who took it into space, and nursed it these last three days.

Dr. Charles Berry, chief astronaut physician, guesses that will be the end of it. Cunningham and Eisele should have some immunity left from their pre-launch bouts with the cold virus.

Of course, that all assumes they had the same virus. If they didn't, Schirra's cold could spread to the other two, but the odds are not great, and doctors are not worried even if it does. It shouldn't interfere with the flight. Schirra's cold is already clearing up, he reported Sunday. Doctors were more worried over a shortage of decongestant pills in the spacecraft medicine chest than they were over anything else. There were only 24 to start with, and five of them went early with Schirra's cold and Cunningham's stuffy nose caused by the oxygen atmosphere. Doctors cut Schirra's dosage from the recommended one every six hours to one every eight.

EARACHES

Three pills are reserved for the last day, one for each astronaut. These are to insure that the astronauts have clear heads when they begin their descent to earth.

That's to forestall the kind of earaches that airline passengers get during landing. With the downward plunge of a spacecraft it can be much worse.

The Apollo 7 cabin carries a pressure of five pounds per square inch, equal to air pressure at 27,500 feet.

Below that altitude, the astronauts have to adjust to the rapidly increasing pressure. If their throat and nasal membranes are stuffy due to breathing pure oxygen, they don't equalize quickly with the earth's air pressure. The result is pain. That's why the decongestants are used before re-entry.

A Devotional For The Day

Let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually. (Hebrews 13:15)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for all Thy blessings that are so continually abundant. Thou hast never failed us and never will. In humbleness of spirit we offer Thee the gratitude of grateful hearts, in Jesus' name. Amen.

A Way To Complete Overhaul

Texas must have, comprehensive constitutional revision, one way or another. For its state government cannot continue functioning with the changing times without that.

Texas is getting constitutional revision one way now. Every regular legislative session submits from a dozen to a score or more amendments for popular approval. This keeps the charter "alive," but lengthens and complicates it with an accumulation of dead-letter provisions.

Ideally, a constitution should be redrafted as a coordinated, simplified, flexible whole. Gov. John Connally proposed such revision, and the House created a commission to recommend a revised or new constitution to the next Legislature. Its chances of legislative submission to the people now appear virtually nil; and if submitted, it probably would be rejected at the polls.

As shown by sad experience recently in New York and Maryland, where multimillion-dollar efforts to adopt model state constitutions were overwhelmingly rejected by popular vote, the ideal approach has a fatal flaw. It is this: A complete new constitution raises so many controversial issues that merely small minority oppositions on each add up to majority opposition to the document as a whole.

State Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin argues that the step-by-step approach is the only one politically feasible in a big, diverse state. He suggests that the Legislature submit a revised article or so for popular approval every two years until the entire constitution is remodeled.

The step-by-step approach will not be easy either, for the 1876 Texas Constitution as often amended has 17 articles, with 321 sections. How to group them, for approval in successive elections so that adopted revisions will not conflict with provisions awaiting change, is a difficult legal and technical problem. But it is not unsurmountable, as political acceptance of a complete new constitution now seems to be provided step-by-step action follows a sound over-all plan.

This does not mean that the work of the Constitution Revision Commission would be wasted. Its recommendations would be on file for incorporation, if advisable, in each partial constitutional overhaul submitted to the people.

If this step-by-step approach could be started next session, it probably could be completed long before the people could be educated to acceptance of a whole new constitution in one election.

Trouble At The Backdoor

Hopefully the Soviet Union's collective leadership, and particularly its currently ascendant hard-liners, learned something about the limitations of imperial power from the attempted forcible repression of Czechoslovakia.

In perhaps the grossest Kremlin miscalculation since the Hitler-Stalin pact, the Czech invasion failed to quell Prague nationalists, hardened rather than intimidated and Yugoslavia, revived the NATO powers' neglected concern for collective security, and multiplied and widened the splits in the international Communist movement.

Possibly most disturbing to Moscow, in the array of global reactions, was the subsequent reminder of the vulnerability of its extensive common border with Communist China. That reminder came in no uncertain terms.

Peking had the audacity to issue what virtually amounted to an ultimatum to the Soviet Union not to try the same against pro-Chinese Albania, or even schism-straddling Rumania, both of which are geopolitically within the Soviet sphere of influence. Peking also used the Moscow miscalculation to step up its own brand of Communist propaganda throughout Eastern Europe.

The Kremlin must of course know that Communist China cares little about Eastern Europe and could not do anything directly to thwart Russian action in that region. It knows that Peking's real interest is in the Asian heartland where the Soviet Union's and Communist China's national interests overlap in conflict.

Albania is but a pawn, as both Moscow and Peking well know, and no doubt also the Albanians. What the Maoists are saying is, take that pawn and you may leave your castles on the mid-Asian border vulnerable. And that is a threat that the Kremlin would be foolish to take lightly.

NEW YORK (AP) — The resolution of paper problems in the nation's stock brokerage industry is turning out to be an even more painful and frustrating process than was foreseen.

Headway is being made when compared with the crisis days of July, and some long range changes in work methods are being made that assure better bookkeeping in the future.

But, in the words of Lee D. Arning, vice president of the New York Stock Exchange, who is optimistic over the long term, the immediate progress hasn't been satisfactory.

SOURCES close to the situation now estimate that little or no advance was made during September in bringing records up to date and in getting overdue stock certificates into the hands of their owners.

Main obstacles to progress have been the inability to find experienced clerks to process paperwork, and the renewed surge in trading volume.

Average daily volume in September rose to 134 million shares from 107 million in August. The larger figure cannot yet be handled smoothly. While the old backlog was being reduced, therefore, more paper was being piled on.

HIGH VOLUME, however, is something the exchanges now realize will be around for a while. Up to April 1, the busiest day on the New York Exchange was Black Tuesday, the day of the big crash on Oct. 29, 1929. But since April 1 the figure has been topped 14 times.

Because of such pressure, stock certificates that should flow smoothly from seller to broker to bank to broker to buyer become clogged in the pipeline, misrouted, delayed and lost.

Because of high volume, the August figure of $31 billion worth of overdue stock certificates—called fails because the selling broker has failed to deliver them to the buying broker within five days—is expected to rise.

LAST THURSDAY was the final day for brokers to report their September total of outstanding fails. Results won't be released until later this week.

but a sampling of 55 firms indicates that ground might have been lost.

This perhaps was the major factor in decisions by the major exchanges to continue Wednesday closings through October. Earlier they had hoped for a return to normal length trading weeks by mid-month.

The long range outlook may be more encouraging.

THE CRISIS in paper has resulted in a fundamental overhauling and modernizing of many firms. More discipline is being ordered by exchanges. And the somewhat greedy orientation of brokers toward sales alone is giving way to a concern for customer service.

A Central Certificate Service, a depository, that is, where stocks held by brokers can be stored, is gradually replacing the old system of running around streets and alleys with bundles of stock. Soon they will be transferred by bookkeeping only.

Prodded by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the once neutral personalities of exchanges have become more aggressive. Self-regulation once was a concept only; now it is more of a reality.

Laugh At Yourself First

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Girls are still more eager than boys to go to the altar. A survey of teen-agers found that 42 per cent of the girls, but only 14 per cent of the boys, expected to be married by their 21st birthday. Some 23 per cent of the girls—only 13 per cent of the boys—expressed doubt about ever getting married.

Speaking of weddings, here's how the desert Bedouins prepare a marital feast: Cooked eggs are stuffed in fish, the fish in cooked chickens, the chickens in a roasted sheep, and the sheep in a whole roasted camel. What a crazy, mixed-up canape!

EVER WONDER why a bird can fly and you can't? Well, besides their feathers, birds have another advantage. They have air sacs in their bones that connect with their lungs. When birds take a deep breath it helps make their bodies lighter.

You may hold a flea in disdain, but he has a low opinion of you, too. Most of the 1,750 varieties of fleas would rather dine on dogs or rats than people. If, size considered, you had the hopping power of a flea, you'd be able to leap a distance of almost two football fields.

Quotable notables: "Laugh at yourself first, before anybody else can."—Elsa Maxwell, quoted in the death-bed advice given by her father.

NEW ON the market: A fresh complexion aid for milady called "sea cream." It's made from an essence of seaweed, mosses and ocean minerals. But you don't dive into it—you just rub it on.

Drawing big crowds is no guarantee of victory for a political candidate. In the 1896 presidential race, William Jennings Bryan traveled 18,000 miles through 27 states and was heard by more than five million people. But William McKinley, who conducted a "front porch campaign" at his home in Canton, O., won by more than half a million votes.

HIGH COST of health: Americans spent $31 billion in 1967 on medical services—up 10 per cent in a single year.

We tend to think of epidemics as characteristic of the Dark Ages, but the global influenza of 1918 was one of the most costly in history. It killed 21 million people throughout the world, more than 500,000 in the United States.

Worth remembering: "It is very hard to fight temptation. There is always the nagging thought—it may not come again."

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "Nowadays people know the price of everything and the value of nothing."

To Your Good Health

'Infarction,' Not 'Infraction'

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain what an infarct is? — Mrs. M.P.

The term is used chiefly for coronary infarct — or heart attacks. While heart attack is a sound enough term, several others are used, so it's well to understand that they mean much the same thing.

The heart, you know, is actually a set of four interconnected chambers, surrounded by a kind of specialized muscle.

Each time this muscle contracts (that is, the heart beats) it squeezes blood forward through the series of chambers. This needs to be a very rugged muscle — and it is. Since it has to keep working all our lives, it requires a good supply of blood — which it gets, via the large "coronary artery" and a myriad of branches.

Suppose one of these branches becomes blocked? It does happen sometimes. A "thrombus" or clot of some sort blocks part of the artery, and that is a heart attack.

From that we get the term, "coronary thrombosis," or thrombosis in the coronary artery. Or it also can be correctly called a "coronary occlusion," meaning a closing of some part of the coronary artery.

Or it can also be called a coronary infarction, which again means the same thing. And quite often such an attack is merely called a "coronary."

Of course, there can be an infarction or infarct elsewhere, as in the lung, kidney, spleen, but it is in relation to the heart that we are most concerned and that is the sense in which we usually hear it.

The severity of the attack depends, as you can see, on the location of the clogging. If it is in a small branch of the artery, serving a relatively small part of the heart muscle, the consequences are less severe than if a large branch is occluded. The result is that the affected part of the muscle, deprived of blood, dies and is replaced with scar tissue. Thus, while the heart may continue beating (after all, a large proportion of patients survive heart attacks), the heart muscle is to varying degrees damaged.

Dear Dr. Molner: At what age

Where To Get Lost

One thing and another: Did you know that most Texans who want to drop out of sight are prone to head for New Orleans where as nine out of 10 New York residents go to Miami or Los Angeles?

Californians who desire such anonymity are prone to pop up in Chicago or New York.

I'd say a place where you can really get lost is Waco. Everyone appears lost there.

Did you know, too, that a missing person is easier to find after 20 years than after 20 days? That's what investigators who work with Bureaus of Missing Persons will tell you.

THE PROBLEM of zooming taxes has, I'm afraid, become a Frankenstein's monster mainly because we have invested the right of setting the levies in a few individuals rather than the hapless taxpayer himself.

Time was when most such issues had to be carried to the people themselves for a decision.

It wasn't many years ago that the cry was "pay the public servants a decent wage and we will get better men in public life."

IN ALL TOO many instances, the first thing a few public servants do is study every angle to boost their own salaries, improve upon their pension plans, promote jobs for their relatives or cronies and make use of vehicles purchased and cared for by the state to conduct their own business.

A few weeks ago, a mayor of a large city summoned a couple of men on the public payroll and ordered them to take his son to a college in another part of the country in a municipally-owned vehicle.

THE LACKEYS were paid overtime for the work and the public picked up the tab for the ride.

The mayor defended his actions by insisting he was tied up in matters relating to his city's business and could not make the trip. I assume the boy did not feel up to taking public transportation.

We are told that taxes are likely to go higher. They will if the belabored taxpayers don't band together and do something about it.

HAVE YOU HEARD the title of Justice Abe Fortas' new theme song: "Nobody Knows the Troubles of the Scene." — TOMMY HART

David Lawrence

Warren Due To Stay On Court

WASHINGTON — History will record President Johnson's actions in connection with the "retirement" of Chief Justice Earl Warren and the nomination of Justice Abe Fortas to head the Supreme Court as one of the strangest episodes in the operations of constitutional government in America.

ON JUNE 13, Chief Justice Warren expressed in a letter to the President an "intention" to retire "effective at your pleasure." This in itself was an unprecedented action, because it is not within the prerogatives of the President to decide the date on which any justice of the Supreme Court should retire. In fact, the Warren letter did not create an actual vacancy, as no date was fixed for his retirement.

When President Johnson nominated Abe Fortas to be the successor of Chief Justice Warren, it was, of course, within the jurisdiction of the Senate to examine all of the circumstances surrounding the nomination. A filibuster ensued, and a substantial segment of the Senate was apparently determined not to take up the nomination, even if some little-used procedural steps had to be invoked to block it.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON, in his latest declaration, leaves open the question of when Chief Justice Warren is to retire, and does not reveal whether a new nomination will be sent to the Senate if for some reason Mr. Johnson decides to call an extra session of Congress to resume its work before Jan. 3 — the date on which the present Congress expires.

The President's last statement, however, would seem to indicate that he does not intend to offer any nomination. After declaring that he does not believe he can find a person who is "better qualified" to succeed Chief Justice Warren than Justice Fortas, Mr. Johnson writes:

"IN ORDINARY times, I would feel it my duty now to send another name to the Senate for this high office. I shall not do so. These are not ordinary times. We are threatened by an emotionalism, partisanship, and prejudice that compel us to use great care if we are to avoid injury to our constitutional system."

But controversies over presidential appointments do not have any relationship to whether times are "ordinary." For the opposition to the promotion of Justice Fortas was based on activities occurring while he was a member of the high court.

AS FOR "emotionalism, partisanship, and prejudice," these would vanish overnight if the President were to select, even in the closing weeks of the present Congress, one of the judges who head the highest courts in each of the 50 states.

In a sense, the President is right when he says there is a good deal of what he calls "emotionalism" but this is what many people feel is a natural resentment over the decisions of the Supreme Court. Large numbers of citizens are upset about the rulings which have permitted convicted criminals to be let loose, while powers have been usurped by the judiciary in attempting virtually to rewrite certain provisions of the Constitution.

THE CLOSING paragraph of President Johnson's statement presents a paradox. He calls attention to the fact that Chief Justice Warren has indicated a willingness to serve "until his successor qualifies," and then adds:

"Under the circumstances, the foundations of government would be better served by the present Chief Justice remaining until emotionalism, subsidies, reason and fairness prevail."

The President's declaration, therefore, has raised more questions than it has answered. It would not be surprising if no vacancy occurs for a few years in the office of chief justice — unless, of course, Humphrey wins the presidential contest.

'Dumb Cop'

Will Be Obsolete In Next Decade?

Editor's Note: The director of Sam Houston State College's Institute of Contemporary Corrections contrasts the officer of today with the officer of tomorrow and draws some interesting conclusions.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The police officer of the future will be better educated, more specialized and more respected, says Dr. George Killinger, director of the Sam Houston State College Institute of Contemporary Corrections.

A Ph.D. on the city police force will be no rarity, Dr. Killinger said in a recent interview.

"The term, 'dumb cop' will be as obsolete in the next decade as a horse and buggy on the freeway," he added.

KILLINGER recently completed a study of job obsolescence in the law enforcement and correctional field which was financed by a $10,000 grant from the Labor Department.

He predicted, among other things: "The average patrolman will have attended a junior college. Lieutenants and captains will have a masters degree in law enforcement or in one of the behavioral sciences. Almost all members of the force will be involved in in-service training or in taking courses leading to advanced degrees. Some will be attending law school."

Killinger said the policeman of the next decade will have a better image.

"He will think more highly of himself because his role will be better defined and some of its inherent contradictions will be minimized or eliminated."

"THE PUBLIC will think more highly of him because of clearer role expectations and because the public will have become painfully aware of the danger to itself if the law enforcement functions break down," Killinger said.

The law enforcement expert also said the officer of tomorrow will be a specialist. Some of the specialties he might have to choose from would include adolescent behavior, computer technology, crowd control and criminal law.

"He will not be involved in traffic regulation or in helping school children to cross the street," Killinger said. "Neither will he be collecting money from parking meters."

Killinger said that by 1970, legislatures and town councils will begin to give police officers more support — both financial and moral.

HIS STUDY also revealed that the future police officer can expect an increase in pay.

"The officer will not be moonlighting," he said. "His wife, if she is working, will be working from choice and not from economic necessity. He will earn more money than he does today, and this will be true of all ranks. His increase in pay will have been somewhat faster than the rate of increase in the cost of living."

TOMORROW'S PATROLMAN will be older than his counterpart today, Killinger noted. This will be because he will have had a longer formal education or longer service in the military before he joined the force, he explained.

"Sergeants, detectives, lieutenants and captains will be younger because many will have entered these ranks directly from higher education. The present requirement for line experience before promotion will have been reduced or eliminated," Killinger said.

He said the future police officer will see himself less as an "adversary of the juvenile judge, the probation officer and the parole supervisor than as a member of a team working with them."

He will be the best informed of any other worker in the corrections field as to the alternative disposition that can be made of the offender, particularly, the juvenile, Killinger said.

"In the 1970s, the law enforcement officer, like the correctional workers, will have more pride in his job and in himself."

KILLINGER SAID he hopes to develop solutions to the manpower problems in law enforcement and corrections by:

- Offering workshops and other training opportunities to persons presently employed in the field.
- Offering training on the college level to present employees and others seeking to enter the field.
- Developing textbooks and teaching material to assist in carrying out an educational or training program.

He said the information used in his report "will be used to protect jobs in the field, and to provide new job opportunities for displaced worker and for young people entering the labor force."

The Wallace Mood

WITH THE CANDIDATES — There was a mood that weekend at Montgomery, Ala., and sometimes a mood is more important than statistics in presidential politics. It began as a festive mood, in part, for I was the guest of wonderful folks, Dr. Will and Ruth Waller, with their basketful of children and the neighborhood kids riding up on bikes or coming in with their parents.

AMONG THE grown-ups only George C. Wallace, who brought his little daughter to the Wallers, was not taking whiskey. The governor toyed with a cigar, which was sometimes lighted and often frayed, and he was still worn and pale from a bout with the flu.

Wallace showed that he had been through tragedy, the loss of the lovely wife who'd been a childhood sweetheart. The festive spirit did not relate to him. The mood set by his presence that Saturday and Sunday became solemn and portentous. He was not entirely among friends and supporters. A man's hometown very seldom considers him to be a prophet.

WALLACE IS attractive and he is liked, but his social friends are not necessarily his political backers. He was soon to leave these good people and go out among crowds where his murderer could well be waiting. More than Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey, Wallace is now the controversial campaigner, the potential target of the racist mob or gunman. The governor was going off soon to the riotous Northern cities, and there's no doubt the matter was on his mind.

SOMETHING ELSE was there. He had every reason to know that he had come from far behind into the position of a serious contender. He might just win the presidency. What then? We hear about the "awesome power" of the office until the expression becomes a cliché and its meaning shrivels. But to those men every four years who seek the chance to rule, there must come blank moments of standing eyeball to eyeball with staggering reality of yes-it-could-happen.

I talked about this with George Wallace and didn't hide my misgivings. They did not include any doubt concerning his executive ability.

MY MISGIVINGS were of a different order. This country is so close to having the excuse for a dictatorship that the very thought is something to dread. We don't know what police brutality is — not yet — anymore than we know what national poverty is.

We have no domestic knowledge whatever about the Caesarism that has happened in most countries down through history, and has happened this century in Germany, Italy, Latin America, and is occurring today in France, Portugal, Spain and Greece.

IT IS preposterous to think of Nixon and Humphrey in such reference. But would Wallace practice constitutional restraint? Would he relinquish power at the end of his lawful terms?

Would Wallace bear with patience the irritations of a dawdling Congress and of a dunderheaded Supreme Court, let alone the insolence of foreign powers and national minorities which cannot instantly be snuffed out?

A mood of impending danger, and of challenging success, seemed to overhang the Wallace camp. Perhaps it was that, and nothing else — a mood. This campaign is mounting very slowly, very uncertainly, to its climax.

Billy Graham

I'm a confirmed agnostic, and I see no valid proof that there is a God. "I'm from Missouri," and if you can prove God exists, I'm ready.

D.P.

It has pleased God to ordain that people should approach Him through the principle of faith. "He that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him" (Heb. 11:6). Doubt, such as you harbor, blocks the way to God, but faith conditions the heart for receiving and believing.

Material things can be weighed and evaluated in a test tube, but spiritual things are weighed and discerned in the heart. The Bible says, "With the heart (not the mind) man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

Even in the material realm some things must be taken by faith. For example: who has ever seen an ether wave, that invisible cable over which pictures and sounds come into our homes? These waves have never been photographed or seen, yet they are one of the indisputable realities of life.

But I would not try to rationalize your way to God. You have done too much of this already. But I would urge you to trust the One who held the world in His hand for millenniums before you were born, and will so do for millenniums after you have left this sphere of time and space. You have nothing to lose and everything to gain.

One Way To Earn A Living

Dallas Cowboys end Lance Rentzel (19) is hard by Philadelphia Eagles defensive backs Al Nelson (26) and Alvin Haymond (30) after catching a pass from Dallas quarterback Don Meredith good for a first down in Sunday's game at Dallas.

Cowboys Rip Eagles 34-14 For 1st Place

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys pace the Capitol Division of the National Football League today because of a brawling defense that hates to yield a yard and a gambling, daring offense that wants touchdowns, not field goals. Dallas ripped Philadelphia 34-14 Sunday and took a game lead over New York, which was tumbled by Atlanta.

A sample of the new Cowboy attitude on offense occurred early in the second quarter with Dallas leading 7-0. It was fourth and one on the 15.

A field goal? Nope. Don Perkins up the middle? Nope. Quarterback Don Meredith called for a quick pass to Rayfield Wright, who had never caught a touchdown pass in the NFL regular season was Bingo—six points.

"It was the first time Don had called it all year," said Wright. "I was supposed to burn their defensive end and then shoot on through. I was wide open."

Coach Tom Landry refused to take credit for the call. In fact, he seemed somewhat disturbed about it.

"Heck no, I didn't call the play—but if it hadn't worked I would have probably been blamed for it," Landry said.

Another time Dallas was in the Philadelphia 4 with four seconds remaining in the first half. Instead of settling for a field goal, the Cowboys went for a touchdown and narrowly missed.

Dallas limited the Eagles to 92 yards on the ground and 77 in the air.

Philadelphia running back Izzy Lang said the Cowboys were nothing but a bunch of "cheap shot artists."

He said, "They don't have to be as cheap as they are, specifically Ralph Neely and Leroy Jordan. Here are two fellows who are all pro and real good players, and don't have to go to the cheap shot—but they do."

"Dallas is always trying to hurt somebody. They aren't good sportsmen. If they want to be first and elbow throwers, they ought to get in the ring."

There has been bad blood between Dallas and Philadelphia for two years, starting last season when linebacker Jordan broke Timmy Brown's jaw on a tackle.

The first game between the teams in Philadelphia this season ended in a 45-13 victory for the Cowboys. Two players were thrown out for fighting.

Jordan discounted Lang's comments and said, "As a whole, I think it was our best defensive game. We had a good pass rush from our line."

Dallas snuffed Eagle quarterback Norm Snead six times and intercepted four passes.

Rookie Larry Cole, Jethro Pugh, George Andrie and all-pro Pro Bob Lilly blunted the Philadelphia attack with a furious rush.

"We're getting our defense down to where we want it now," said Lilly.

And the Cowboys, now 5-0, roll on with a perfect blend of offense and defense. It's the first time they've won five consecutive games in one season and the first time the Cowboys have ever beaten Philadelphia twice in the same season.

Quarterback Don Meredith was very sharp, hitting 21 of 38 passes for 306 yards and two touchdowns.

"I just wanted to throw myself," Meredith said. "I had great protection there in the first half and my receivers were wide open."

Many times Meredith passed on first down—traditionally a running down for Dallas. And that fourth and one pass surprised the Eagles, 72,083 fans in the Cotton Bowl and Landry himself.

U.S. Blanked In Games' 1st Day

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Americans were blanked, breathless but far from beaten after the first day of competition in the 19th Olympic Games. Those were the only two gold medals handed out on Sunday and the United States was not a factor in either of them. But the U.S. track team gave notice that it would, along with Russia, be the dominant force in these troubled Games, marred on opening day by a soccer fight, illness and high-altitude drop outs.

Teruo, a slight 23-year-old, out-dued Mamo Wolde of Ethiopia in the stretch and won in the relatively slow time of 29:27.4. Mohammed Gammoudi of Tunisia was third and Juan Martinez of Mexico, who had led most of the way, was fourth. Clarke, holder of 17 world records but never a winner in the Olympics, was second with three laps to go, but faded back in the 7,347-foot altitude.

It was at that point that Kipchoge Keino of Kenya, another veteran, dropped out. With three laps remaining, he pulled into the infield, lay down for a seconds, then got up and finished.

Tracy Smith of Arcadia, Calif., was the best American finishing 11th. Billy Mills, who scored a surprise victory for the U.S. squad in the 1964 Olympics, did not qualify to defend his title.

Clarke collapsed, was unconscious and had to be given oxygen after finishing and was suffering from double vision and lack of concentration.

Nassiri, of Iran, did a backflip on stage after winning the gold in weight-lifting. He bettered the world record in the jerk with 330½ pounds and had an Olympic record total of 810 pounds.

Foldi Imre of Hungary took the silver medal and Henryk Trebicki of Tunisia the bronze.

The United States had to be content with a strong showing in some preliminary events, a basketball hurdle and a 49 flat 400-meter hurdle mark by Ron Whitney of Boulder, Colo., bettering the listed world mark.

Geoff Vanderstock of Los Angeles finished second in his heat of the 400-meter hurdles and qualified for the next round.

The United States qualified a full complement of three through two rounds of the 100 meters, led by Charlie Green's wind-aided 10 flat, and put three in the finals of the shot put topped by Randy Matson's 67-10½, topping the Olympic record. He made only the one throw.

George Woods and Dave Maggard also qualified.

Willy White and Martha Watson qualified for the women's long jumps finals, but were back in the pack, Miss White seventh and Miss Watson tied for 10th.

The fight occurred at soccer match between Israel and Ghana with two members of the Ghana being escorted off the field, Israel won 5-3.

Steers Continue To Pile Up Impressive Statistics

The Big Spring Steers continue to pile up impressive statistics over opponents, despite a 23 record for the season.

The Bovines have rolled up 1,660 yards total rushing while opponents have garnered 1,332 total yards. Big Spring has marked 1,195 on the ground and 465 passing. The competition has collected a like amount of yardage through the air and has made 867 overland.

Passing has been on an even keel with the steers completing 30 of 91 passes and opponents completing 25 of 76 passes. The Horns have grabbed seven interceptions, but have had only three intercepted against them.

Leonard Basco is leading Herd rushing with a 6.1 average from 226 yards in 37 attempts, and Gary Hinds has a 5.8 yard average on 230 yards in 39 carries. Roy Lee Warren has 478 yards in 90 carries for a 5.3 average.

Hinds leads the passing department with 291 yards from 17 completions in 48 attempts and four touchdowns, while Johnny Patton has completed 12 of 39 for 124 yards.

Top receiver is Jimmy Farris with nine receptions and 163 yards, while Johnny Rutherford has 136 yards on nine catches.

All Stars Selected

NEW YORK (AP)—The world champion Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs each have placed two men on the major league all-star team as selected in the annual Associated Press poll.

Denny McLain, baseball's first 31-game winner in 37 years, and catcher Bill Freehan are the Tigers voted to the team. The Cubs had half the infield—second baseman Glenn Beckert and third baseman Ron Santo.

The rest of the infield has Willie McCovey of San Francisco at first and California's Jim Fregosi at short. Pete Rose of Cincinnati, Curt Flood of St. Louis and Boston's Carl Yastrzemski make up the outfield while Dave McNally of Baltimore is the left-handed pitcher.

McLain received 112 votes for right-handed pitcher to 100 for St. Louis' Bob Gibson. The voting was conducted on the basis of the regular season.

Besides Gibson and Campaneris, the second team has Jerry Koosman of the New York Mets as the left-handed pitcher, Johnny Bench of Cincinnati the catcher, Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs at first, Cincinnati's Tommy Helms at second and Brooks Robinson of Baltimore at third.

The Cowboys were trouncing Philadelphia, 0-5, 34-14. Los Angeles, by boosting its record to 5-0, kept pace in the Coastal Division with the Baltimore Colt who smashed San Francisco 42-14.

In another NFL action, Detroit moved into a tie for the Central Division lead at 3-2 with Minnesota by downing Chicago, 14-28-19 as Minnesota was upset by New Orleans 20-17 and St. Louis beat Cleveland 27-21.

New Orleans, Cleveland and St. Louis share the Century Division lead with 2-3 records.

Packers Lose Third With Starr Hurt

By The Associated Press. Bart Starr hurt himself and the Green Bay Packers by warming up the regular way. Maybe he should have tried Sonny Jurgensen's method.

Starr pulled a muscle in his passing arm while warming up Sunday and then stood on the sidelines as the Packers lost 16-14 to the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams for their third defeat in five National Football League games.

Jurgensen, weakened by a severe cold, slept in a storage room for two hours before the game, then went out and threw two touchdown passes in leading the Washington Redskins to a 16-13 victory over Pittsburgh.

The victory lifted the Redskins above the 500 mark at 3-2 and moved them to within a game of the New York Giants in the Capital Division. The Giants, 4-1, fell out of a first place tie with Dallas, 14, being upset 24-21 by Atlanta, 14, while the Cowboys were trouncing Philadelphia, 0-5, 34-14.

Los Angeles, by boosting its record to 5-0, kept pace in the Coastal Division with the Baltimore Colt who smashed San Francisco 42-14.

In another NFL action, Detroit moved into a tie for the Central Division lead at 3-2 with Minnesota by downing Chicago, 14-28-19 as Minnesota was upset by New Orleans 20-17 and St. Louis beat Cleveland 27-21.

New Orleans, Cleveland and St. Louis share the Century Division lead with 2-3 records.

'Golden Arm' Can't Tell Good Guys From Bad

By The Associated Press. "He's great. But when he's bad he's terrible."

Only one of the interceptions led to Denver points, but they cut short most of New York's offensive hopes.

Namath did manage 20 completions in 41 throws for 341 yards and his 60-yarder to Don Maynard set up New York's only touchdown.

The Jets' golden arm is still having trouble telling the good guys from the bad guys and that little problem has kept the Jets from pulling away in the Eastern Division of the American Football League.

For the second time in three weeks, Namath had five passes stolen, and for the second time in three weeks, the Jets bowed to a heavy underdog. This time it was a 21-13 loss to lowly Denver Sunday.

The defeat dropped the Jets to 3-2 and kept Boston snapping on their heels despite a 16-0 loss to Houston, which climbed back into the chase. Boston is 2-3 and Houston, the defending division champion, 2-4.

Oakland, on the other hand, lost for the first time in 15 games, dropping a 23-14 decision to San Diego, which not only dropped the Chargers from the unbeaten, but plopped them out of first place in the Western Division.

The Chargers relinquished the lead to Kansas City as the Chiefs raised their record to 5-1 with a hard-fought 13-3 victory over Cincinnati. Oakland fell to a second place tie with San Diego at 4-1.

Miami and Buffalo tied 14-14 Saturday night in the only other game as Buffalo's Dan Darragh pitched a three-yard scoring pass to Gary McDermott with 18 seconds left and then McDermott caught a two-point conversion pass from Ed Rutkowski.

"I stink," said a disgusted Namath, who was intercepted five times two weeks ago in an upset loss to Buffalo and then threw only to teammates in last week's victory over San Diego. "When he's good," said Bronco defensive tackle Dave Costa.

YEAR OF THE RED RAIDERS? Tech Has Sacked Up Two Big Ones — Texas, A&M

Would you believe the year of the Red Raiders? This prospect loomed larger than ever today after Texas Tech kept history from repeating by holding off a frantic Texas A&M surge to retain a 21-16 victory in a crucial South-west Conference football contest.

Saturday's victory gave Tech two big ones in the conference—the other was over Texas—and a share of the lead with Arkansas, also 2-0 in the league after a 35-19 triumph over winless Baylor.

Southern Methodist's aerial show continued to draw raves as the Ponies struck late to defeat Texas Christian 21-14 and Texas put together a desperate drive in the closing minutes to whip Oklahoma 20-16 in other weekend games.

Any suggestion that the Raiders are on the downhill grade to the Cotton Bowl brings a hoarse reminder from Tech coach J. T. King that the Raiders are sticking by their motto: "Take 'em one at a time."

King has a point. Although the Raiders have been successful at hog-killing time the past two seasons, Mr. Arkansas Razorback is growing fatter with victories each Saturday.

The Hogs, now 4-0, get their big test this week against the rejuvenated Texas Longhorns, who now may be equipped to trim the Razorbacks down. If they don't, it may be up to Tech on Nov. 23.

The showdown between Texas Tech and A&M was almost like watching film of the 1967 game in Lubbock when the Aggies scored on the final play for a scrambling victory.

Edd Hargett, the magician in the Aggies' conquest last fall, connected on a 37-yarder to Tommy Maxwell to the Tech 37 but Maxwell fumbled and the Raiders recovered. End of rerun.

The Arkansas-Baylor fray also produced a few scary moments for the Razorbacks, whose lead shrank to only three points in the fourth quarter.

The Bears surged from an early 21-0 deficit to trail 21-19 before the Hogs pulled away, scoring their final touchdown with 11 seconds to go.

SMU proved itself worthy of a contender role in its come-from-behind victory over TCU, which ran and passed for a 14-3 halftime lead.

Chuch Hixson got cranked up in the second half and Jerry Leivas' 89-yard punt return for a touchdown to successfully open the Mustangs conference campaign. They're 3-1 for the season.

The Texas victory couldn't have been sweeter for the Longhorns and their coach, Darrell Royal, who said after the game that some campus factions were "out to get me."

Asked about his game plan, Royal said "If I said I didn't have one, I'd be crazy—they're after me down there anyway."

Texas' victory also served notice that the Longhorns—despite an early conference loss to Tech—still may have something to say about the title.

It was the Longhorn's passing, of all things, that produced the game-deciding touchdown. Newly installed quarterback James Street took the 'Horns downfield on three passes to Daryl Comer in the waning moments.

Steve Worster ran 13 yards and then went in for the score from seven yards out.

This week Rice is at SMU, TCU is at A&M, Arkansas is at Texas and Texas Tech entertains Mississippi State.

Easter Society Sets Meeting

The 1968 annual convention of the Texas Easter Seal Society will be held Friday and Saturday in Fort Worth with five persons from Big Spring in attendance.

Attending from here will be George Zachariah, a member of the state board of directors; Jim Thompson, physical therapist at Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center; Mrs. Truett Vines, local Easter Seal campaign chairman; Miss Bowen, delegate; and Mrs. Dwight McCann, alternate.

The local group will be particularly interested in the part of the program based on dyslexia, a reading and learning problem affecting 10 per cent of school children, having average or high IQ's, but who still have difficulty in learning. Initial efforts are being made here to form a medical team of a pediatrician, optometrist and therapist to diagnose such children.

Those who attend the convention will hear the director of the United States Mint; the president of one of the nation's leading fund-raising organizations; and a noted neurologist, psychiatrist, and pediatrician; in addition to honoring Dr. Robert W. Milam of McAllen, outgoing president for two years of outstanding leadership. The Texas Easter Seal delegates will meet on both Friday and Saturday, and on Saturday afternoon the new Tarrant County Easter Seal Center will be dedicated.

The convention will open with a luncheon at noon Friday and will hear the keynote address from Miss Eva Adams of

Washington, D.C., director of the mint. Her subject is "Be An Angel."

The fund-raising session is scheduled for Friday evening and will be led by John Grenzebach, chairman of the board and president of John Grenzebach and Associates, Inc., of Chicago. Grenzebach will discuss "A Realistic Approach to Fund Raising."

The Professional Program breakfast Saturday morning will feature Dr. Leon J. Whitsell, assistant clinical professor of pediatrics, University of California Medical Center, San Francisco. The subject will be "Motor Therapies for Learning Disorders." At noon Saturday the volunteers luncheon will honor Dr. Milam. The Gallantry Award for outstanding achievement in overcoming a physical handicap will also be presented.

The Texas Easter Seal delegates will hold sessions both days with Edward J. Drake of Dallas, chairman, presiding.

PUBLIC INVITED TO HD EXHIBIT

The Howard County Home Demonstration Club exhibit, scheduled Wednesday in the Highland Center Mall, will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The various displays will include a foreign exhibit and retired persons' craft showing as well as tables sponsored by each of the area clubs which will demonstrate all areas of homemaking.

A LOVELIER YOU

Try Daily Exercises For Beautiful Knees

By MARY SUE MILLER

A lovely writes: Just yesterday I got a glimpse of myself in a shop window. I was wearing my new fall finery, but all I could see was my knees. The same old knees — too, too fat. I've always avoided reducing exercise. Well, I give up. Please tell me what to do and I will do it.

The answer: Perform each of the routines given below, morning and night. Your knees will take on acceptable contours in two months. It's a promise!

1. Sit on edge of a firm, straight chair with feet on floor and together. Pressing knees together, raise feet 4 inches off floor, swing lower legs from side to side like a pendulum for 10 counts — very briskly. Relax and repeat 5 times.
2. Sitting on chair with feet raised as above, place a firm ball between knees and repeatedly squeeze it — hard — for 25 slow counts. (A tennis ball or child's rubber ball works fine.)
3. On floor, stretch out on right side with left leg atop right leg and pressed to it. Keeping knees together, scissor-kick feet, using short quick motions. Work for 1/2 minute. Then turn onto left side and continue. Be sure to keep knee next to floor in contact with it.

While awaiting improvement, wear dark shades in stockings and avoid bulky weights. The slimming effect is a great trick of the eye.

REDUCING EXERCISES
Spot reduction — key to a proportioned figure. Exercise is the only way to trim those stubborn bulges — to lose inches exactly where you wish. My new booklet, "Spot Reducing Exercises," gives easy routines — 40 in all — for slimming hips, legs, ankles. Plus ideal measurements. For your copy write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

All In A Day's Knitting

At left is a military sweater which required four strands of thick and thin yarn of varying weights, jumbo needles and six hours' knitting time. The hat is buckram-lined; collar removable. At right, the miss is all stitched up in a Russian mini, requiring same amount of yarn and time and same super-sized needles.

'Nervous Nellies' Can Finish Knits Quickly

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

This is the age of haste. This is the era of package deals.

Nobody has time to start from scratch, as grandmother did with her baking and her sewing. Still we want to have some hand in the making before the product is finished. Adding the eggs and water to a cake mix for example satisfies partially our innate desire to be creative.

So we have a rash of quick-things and fast-things. And we have instant knits.

Perhaps the art of knitting might have been lost to the future forever, if it were not for designer Jeanne Damon's idea for the supersized needles that get the job done in a hurry.

Given these few skeins of yarn and a few hours and a young girl without any particular finger dexterity or experience can turn out a dress or sweater to brag about.

Moreover, she can speedily click up personalized gifts for her friends.

After all, the zoom generation can't sit still long enough to purl a pretty sweater or a pair of argyle socks for the football hero the old-fashioned, little needle way. They haven't the patience to spend hours knitting and purling with little noticeable progress.

There is a second and even more practical reason for instant knitting. The young are growing, growing, growing.

A teen knitter needs to finish what she started almost instantly or she will have grown out of it before she ever puts it on.

Jeanne Damon's timing for instant knits was perfect from the fashion standpoint. Crocheted clothes and bulky knits are the grooviest of styles today, in teenagers' opinions.

The big needle and fat yarn technique can produce a dress in crocheted texture in short order, a minidress in even shorter order.

'Goddesses' Entertain Rushees

The Grecian theme was carried out in the 'God and Goddess' party held Saturday night by Mu Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in honor of rushees and their husbands.

Mrs. Robert Knight presented name tag scrolls from a golden chariot as guests entered the door. The decorations were in gold and white and featured Grecian statuettes, urns and greenery.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hewett, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Johns, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kilgore, Miss Velva Wood, Mrs. Skipper Driver, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boadle and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Pettitt.

The buffet dinner was served on low tables, and members and guests cooked fondue in chafing dishes placed on the tables. Gold cloths were used, and silver and china appointments completed the setting. Candles burned in golden sconces above the buffet.

Members of the chapter wore Grecian costumes. Mrs. Ted Hicks composed a song, which was sung by Mrs. Gerald Wooten, Mrs. Jerry Snodgrass, Mrs. Chubby Moser, Mrs. Garland Braun, Mrs. Knight and Mrs. Owen Wormser.

Ideal Of Womanhood Discussed Saturday

Mrs. Ray Cantrell asked the Beta Kappa Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society to name qualities an 'ideal' person should possess at Saturday's meeting in the Coahoma High School. Each member was asked to name her ideal.

Mrs. L. K. Gladden stressed that values must be selected, assessed and acted upon; that all should reflect meaningful values in three roles — as women, educators and human beings.

Hostesses were Mrs. M. B. McFall, Mrs. Harold Heaton, Mrs. Cass Hill, Mrs. J. A. Westmoreland, Mrs. A. J. Beckmeyer, Mrs. Ernest Garrett and Miss Elzada Herring.

Mrs. B. F. Vandell presided and announced the regional meeting will be held Nov. 9 in Permian High School in Odessa. Reservations may be made with Miss Eulalia Mitchell before Nov. 1.
