Wally, Walt, Donn Give Viewers A Lively Tour

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 7 astronauts, all battling colds, today performed a celestial acrobatic show and took television viewers on a high-spirited tour of their high-flying spaceship.

The signs referred to an inside joke among the astronauts and, if properly answered would have elicited a racy reply not fit for the airways. Haney refrained from answering, and Slayton was not in mission control at the time.

One of the other astronauts held the 4 1/2-pound camera at the end of its 12-foot cord as Schirra took viewers on a tour of their spaceship interior during the 11-minute show.

CONSOLE He showed Apollo 7's guidance and navigation station, food storage compartment, crew station for optical alignment of the guidance system and main console.

A LOVELIER YOU Perfume Reacts In Different Manner

By MARY SUE MILLER

A Lovely writes: I have been told that the scent of perfume usually lasts about four hours on the skin. It never lasts more than a few minutes on my skin. I have tried dozens of fragrances and brands, always with the same result. Why should this be?

The Answer: Perfumers have found several reasons why perfume seems to fade away soon after you apply it to the skin. This may be due to "olfactory fatigue," which is the experts' way of saying that your nose has become so accustomed to one fragrance that after a time it ceases to pick up the scent.

A second cause for perfume failures may be traced to the chemistry of your own skin. Very oily skin, for example, retains fragrance far longer than dry, simply because the natural oils have an affinity for the oils in perfume — receive and hold a fragrance.

When your skin is dry and your perfume doesn't "take" as well, the problem can often be solved by a specially created fragrance medium — Skin Perfume. It has staying power owing to a light oil base. It goes on soft and velvety, and diffuses its fragrance for a satisfying length of time.

The scents are lovely, of the type that can shake your world. Roses and jasmine, spices and musk go into these aromas that stay with you.

BANK REPRESENTATIVES TOLD NOT TO RESIST

Don't Panic If Bank Bandit Shows

If you're a bank teller, and a holdup man walks up to your cage, sticks a gun in your face and says "hand over the cash," you're admonished to do the toughest thing of all — stay calm. Stay calm and get a description, keep an eye out for details. Don't resist; observe.

This was the essence of information handed out to nearly 175 bank representatives and others meeting Monday evening for a conference on bank robbery prevention.

Representatives of all local banks and savings and loan institutions, plus banks from Coahoma, Colorado City, Sterling City and Stanton were present for the discussions offered by various law enforcement officers — federal, state and local.

FBI AGENT

The session was at the First National Bank, which institution had hosted a formal buffet supper preceding the talks.

The evening was highlighted by an hour-long presentation by Earl Cullum, FBI agent of Dallas, who requested that his remarks be "off the record."

He discussed methods of internal security and procedures to be followed at the time of a holdup, or when a burglary is discovered.

His main theme to employees, however, was the same as that of other speakers: The need for staying calm enough to get information on a holdup man that investigating officers can use and follow up on clues.

POLICE ACTION

City Police Chief Jay Banks told of procedures followed by his department immediately a bank holdup alarm is received.

He told how communication lines must be kept open, how dispatchers work with patrol cars and others who might have radio contact; how interrogation of witnesses must be undertaken, and how road blocks are quickly set up.

Pointing out that evidence collected by a holdup victim would have to "carry through" to a final trial, Banks suggested that witnesses immediately jot down on paper impressions gained in looking at the robber: major physical characteristics, mannerisms, and method of going at his crime. These notes, Banks said, are helpful in future investigations, and pointed out that victims — and other witnesses — would be asked to cooperate in exhaustive questioning from local police, the sheriff's office, the Texas Rangers and the FBI. Bits and pieces from all these inquiries, he said, can be pieced together to find valuable leads.

HAVE A PLAN

"We have to be prepared to expect robberies," the chief said, "and we want the crooks to know that we have a plan to apprehend them." He also said officers want bank employees to know what to expect if they are the victims.

The call to "stay calm" and strive for the best identification possible also came from Capt. Stanley Bogard of the police department, as he related how all details of identification and "modus operandi" is forwarded to a crime identification center in Austin to turn out a list of possible suspects, based on their criminal history.

The officers also asked that thought be given to protecting any bits of evidence, and areas where finger-prints might be re-

STATE ASSISTANCE

Ranger Capt. Jim Riddles of Midland discussed how the State Department of Public Safety enters the picture, stressing the importance of getting quick action from victims so that arrests may be made quickly.

"If we don't get them soon, there is a long drawn-out investigation," he said.

District Attorney Wayne Burns spoke briefly on procedures of getting together evidence that can be presented in court. He, too, stressed the importance of good identification.

Search Renewed

Months After Crash, Sons Search For Dad

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — "We won't stop looking even if it takes a lifetime," says Alvin Oien, Jr., of the search for his father, a 59-year-old Portland, Ore., hotel man whose single-engine plane crashed into a snow-covered mountain on March 11, 1967.

Seven months later the bodies of Oien's wife, Phyllis, 45, and daughter, Carla, 16, were found in the wreckage. A jointly written diary told how they had survived for 54 days awaiting a rescue that never came.

An entry five days after the crash said: "Al left to go for help." The diary said he was suffering from fractures of the right arm and several ribs. Neither Oien nor his body has ever turned up.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's alive until we find him," declares Alvin, Jr., 33, an airline pilot, of Westlake, Tex. Along with his brothers Ron, 28, and Chuck, 26, both of Portland, he spends his spare time searching the thick brush around the scene of the accident.

Financial Report Reveals HCJC Off To Sound Start

Howard County Junior College trustees attended to a list of routine business at the regular monthly meeting Monday at the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

The board approved the purchase of an electric typewriter at a $269 trade-in figure; the purchase of a triple-section stairway scaffold which will reach to a maximum of 18 1/2 feet. Cost of this was $669.

A policy of a $200 payment to any staff member who has completed 20 years of service with HCJC was approved.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president, reported that he was working on a projection of college growth and needs through the year 1980. In connection with works he indicated he also might have some suggestions for a master plan of development.

The financial report showed the college off to a sound start

Receipts amounted to $245,410, principally from the $157,725 state aid, $55,101 from tuition, $16,821 registration fees, $14,739 from other fees (laboratory, vocational-technical, student activities). This leaves $945,611 due to be received during the remainder of the fiscal year.

The student housing system revenue fund showed receipts of $58,704 and disbursements of $20,515, leaving a balance of $38,188.

Baker Has Busy Agenda

FORT STOCKTON — A busy schedule this week loomed for George Baker, Fort Stockton candidate for the Texas Legislature's 13-county 66th district, with six speaking engagements in four days.

Baker spoke Monday night to the Imperial Lions Club, and will speak Tuesday night to the Robert Lee and Bronte Lions Clubs.

The food ran out March 21. The winter storms raged on and on, and aerial and ground searching parties finally gave up. Alvin, Jr. kept up an aerial search for 107 days.

Finally, last October, a hunter stumbled on the wreckage.

In the diary, next to April 30, was Carla's notation: "This would have been my 16th birthday." The final entries came on May 4.

The brothers study and re-study the diary, hoping to spot some clue they may have overlooked in its 100 pages.

"We try to read between the lines," says Alvin, Jr., "Sure, we know the words by heart but known criminals while gathering evidence.

He said that Texas is the only state that requires a written confession from criminals and this tied the hands of police.

Mrs. Juanita Craft of Dallas testified on alleged fraudulent trade schools. She charged that there are now six such schools operating in Dallas.

Problem Of 'Too Fat' Begins In Early Years

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The problem of being too fat began as a problem when you were a child, says Dr. Charles B. Corbin of Texas A&M University.

Dr. Corbin of the Health and Physical Education Department, came to this conclusion after testing grade school children in College Station. He approached the question of who is fat from a somewhat different angle. Instead of determining the amount of fat by weight, he used calipers, an instrument to measure thickness. The tests were made on the back of the upper arm and on the back. This was to measure the amount of fat just below the skin. His scale ran from fit to fat to obese.

girls in the same age bracket were obese. British and Canadian surveys show that children of those nations carry less fat than those at College Station. "It parallels physical fitness comparisons," Dr. Corbin said. "Our kids are less fit and more fat," he says and uses fitness programs to illustrate.

He noted that 12-year-olds have less fat than 11-year-olds, and the physical fitness program does not begin until the child is 12 at College Station.

Dr. Corbin noted that his figures reveal that children begin showing extra fat between the ages of 7 and 8. "These kids are getting fat before they enter school physical education programs," he said. He said the greater number of fat girls was not unexpected since boys take part in athletics even when not in a fitness program. He said children get more obese as they grow older. Research shows fat people tend to get fatter," he said. "The major-

Attacks On Depletion Increasing, Burleson Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attacks on the oil and gas depletion allowance are increasing, says Rep. Omar Burleson, D-Tex., a new member of the congressional committee which considers tax policy. Burleson swapped his chairmanship of the House Administration Committee this summer for a seat on the House Ways and Means Committee which he calls the most influential in Congress.

cent for nitrogen, uranium, tin, and sulphur and the 2 1/2 per cent for oil and gas. The difference, Burleson said, "is the risk of capital investment and the accelerated depletion of oil and gas related to reserves." In its mid-year report, the Oil & Gas Journal forecast a sharper than expected slump in drilling this year, making a drop of 40 per cent since 1959. Proved reserves of crude oil have declined in four of the past eight years.

He was rebuffed two years ago in an attempt to snare a seat on the committee. "The rumors got back to me that the easterners said the reason I wanted on the committee was to protect the depletion allowance," Burleson said. Asked about the truth of the rumor, he smiled and noted that oil and gas are very strong interests not only to Texas but to other states and other regions. "There is more pressure than in the past to change the oil and gas depletion allowance when you're talking about tax reforms," Burleson said in an interview.

Both Burleson and Bush are well acquainted with the oil industry. Bush was a founder of Zapata Oil Co. in 1954 and he prospered along with the contract offshore oil drilling firm. Now a millionaire, he resigned as president of Zapata when he ran for Congress. His office said he disposed of the last of his company stock early this year to avoid any possible conflict of interest. Burleson's home town of Anson is in the heart of Texas independent oil and gas company operations. He once owned stock in a production firm but sold it about a decade ago and bought a minor interest in a contract drilling firm in Central West Texas. Aides say it has been unprofitable.

THEN GO FOR MILITARY VICTORY

Wallace Urges Deadline On Talks

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following interview with presidential candidate George C. Wallace is the first in a series outlining positions of the three candidates on major campaign issues. BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — George C. Wallace says the United States should set a time limit on the Paris peace conference and go after military victory in Vietnam if negotiators fail to meet the deadline.

Wallace, the American Independent party candidate for President, reiterated that he hopes for a negotiated settlement. But he said he is convinced the North Vietnamese are using the peace talks for propaganda purposes and to rebuild that portion of North Vietnam we're not bombing now. "Wallace, the American Independent party candidate for President, reiterated that he hopes for a negotiated settlement. But he said he is convinced the North Vietnamese are using the peace talks for propaganda purposes and to rebuild that portion of North Vietnam we're not bombing now."

Asked how he would go about increasing pressure on the North Vietnamese to negotiate acceptable terms, the former Alabama governor replied: "Well, of course, I don't want to talk about military strategy and tactics because I'm not a military man. But if I were president and peace talks hadn't concluded and we don't have an honorable settlement by the time of the new administration, then I think we ought to set some time limit in the matter of negotiations, and then if they don't solve and settle the matter honorably, then we ought to win a military victory with conventional weapons and get out of Vietnam."

Wallace interviewed Oct. 4 in Buffalo where he stopped overnight during a swing through seven key northern states, said ending the war and maintaining law and order at home were the major issues of the campaign. He was asked how he would deal with four types of crime and disorder: Organized crime, petty crime—especially offenses by young people desperate for money to buy drugs, racial strife, including riots, and student demonstrations against the war.

Wallace emphasized that he thinks fighting crime and keeping the peace are primarily the responsibility of the states. But he claimed, nonetheless, that his election as president would bring about stronger law enforcement. A victory at the polls, he said, would be "a moral boost to the policeman" and "a mandate to the officials back in the states to stand with their police and not hang back."

SCHOOLS, BUSINESSES

Three Texans Helping Columbia In Peace Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Texans are included in a 630-member Peace Corps contingent helping Colombia improve its educational system and encouraging establishment of small businesses. Director of the volunteer group is William Dyal Jr., 38, a native of Austin. He recently became the first non-Colombian to receive that Latin American nation's highest educational award.

In receiving the award, Dyal and the other volunteers were praised by President Carlos Lleras Restrepo of Colombia for "extending and improving the education of the Colombian people and for their fine example of working towards the solidarity of our two countries." AGREED The Peace Corps agreed in 1963 to help Colombia establish its educational television system. The Agency for International Development (AID) financed the purchase of the initial 1,250 television sets and studio equipment.

When the system began operating in 1964, the Peace Corps headquarters here said, its programs reached 38,000 students in 200 schools. But today—four years later—nearly 500,000 grade school youngsters benefit from the programs which reach both rural and urban areas. The project now is operated mainly by the Colombians. Peace Corps volunteers accompany their Colombian colleagues on school-by-school visits to help individual teachers take full advantage of the system.

Cutie Likes Carrying Gun

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Miss Tran is a curvy, 100-pound cutie who would much rather carry a rifle than learn to cook. And she does. Miss Tran also thinks it would be exciting if she ran into some Viet Cong around this northern seacoast city. "But maybe they will shoot back." Her laugh tinkles gaily, as if it will never really happen.

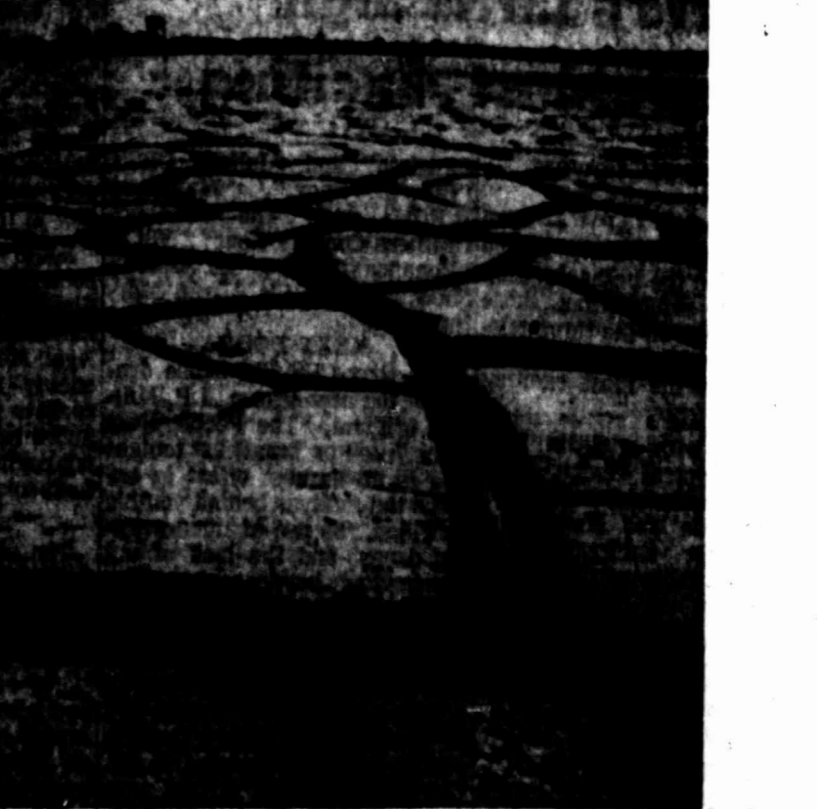

They have all had five months training, including some live fire practice. "But usually we only get to shoot one bullet each," she pouts. FINE Both Miss Tran and her close friend Nguyen Thi Lien, a 19-year-old girl born in Hanoi, think soldiering is fine. But both take precautions to carry lipstick and comb.

John Dunagan, 25, of Monahan, Tex., is one of 11 small business consultants serving in Colombia. He received a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Texas and a master's from Harvard in general business. He chose to work with the Peace Corps rather than accept one of several job offers from private business.

Citizenry Restless, Rep. Gonzalez Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any incumbent officeholder, no matter which political party, faces critical questioning from a restless citizenry this year, says Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex. "There's a general restlessness and a confusion about the problems," Gonzalez said in an interview. "Vietnam is still uppermost on people's minds, but there's also a new confusion about U.S.-Soviet relationships. I think it's beginning to dawn on many Americans that this is a lot more complex and mixed up world situation than they have thought—and it doesn't yield to being captured by the smug slogans."

Gonzalez said he has observed what he called a maturing in attitude by Americans toward world affairs in the past two or three years. This development, he said, "is a plus factor." "The people are not going to be sucked in by facile promises now. I think the average person would rather have a candid analysis of the situation than a sugar-coated pill." Gonzalez said he feels the current restlessness is a culmination of events dating from the 1950s "when unhappy developments were not brought up until they reached the crisis stage." Gonzalez, an early and vocal supporter of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the presidency, said Humphrey "has his job cut out for him" in trying to make headway with the restless voters.

Parched Earth

Typical of the extremely dry summer in the state is this scene of the cracked earth mud flats at East End in Galveston, with the University of Texas Medical Branch in the background. Galveston Island is experiencing its driest summer in 65 years with only .05 of an inch rainfall recorded.

Small businesses are new to Colombia — let alone business consultants. A Stanford University professor who taught a year in Peru saw the need to stimulate small businesses with good management practices as insurance that the middle sector of the economy would keep on growing. His finding led to the decision to initiate such a program in Colombia.

The 90th Congress Completes Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 90th Congress, described by a Senate leader as good but not great, is over.

After trying for three days to muster the House quorum needed to approve adjournment, leaders gave up Monday and voted anyway to end the session.

This was possible because no one in either the House or Senate raised the question of a quorum.

NOT POOR

The House completed its business at 2 p.m. and the Senate followed 17 minutes later.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., pronounced this valedictory:

"This has been a good Congress, not a great Congress, not a poor Congress."

The 90th passed much significant legislation including a civil rights bill with a broad open housing provision, anti-crime and gun control measures, a big increase in Social Security benefits, a temporary 10 per cent income tax hike, an omnibus housing bill containing new ways to help poor families buy homes, a "truth-in-lending" measure, and several important conservation bills.

DEFEATS

But it also handed President Johnson some major defeats, including its historic blocking of his nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice of the United States.

It also failed to act on such key Johnson requests as ratification to the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, his proposal to change the Constitution to lower the voting age to 18, election reform legislation, extension of the reciprocal trade program, a child health program and a safety program for industrial workers.

Johnson said last week he might call the Senate back after the Nov. 5 election to try to win approval of the nonproliferation treaty.

But Senate leaders counseled against this. Mansfield promised to make the treaty one of the first pieces of business of the new Congress in January.

Assuming there is no special session, the 91st will convene at noon Jan. 3.

Panamanian Junta Appears To Call Shots

PANAMA (AP) — The Panamanian junta appeared to be firmly in control today after a call from deposed President Arnulfo Arias for total war against the new government failed to produce any sign of organized resistance.

A spokesman for the National Guard, the country's army, said the country was quiet. Heavily armed guards patrolled the capital Monday.

Arias, overthrown Friday 11 days after his inauguration, remained in the safety of the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone. He and about 80 supporters, including members of his cabinet, are registered as "guests," a canal company spokesman said.

The U.S. State Department said it did "not condone the call to arms" by the ousted president. Previously Secretary of State Dean Rusk had expressed "profound concern" over the removal of a constitutionally elected chief of state.

The leader of the coup and Panama's new provisional president, Col. Jose M. Pinilla, 49, was directing affairs of state from the heavily guarded presidential palace. With him was Col. Bolivar Urrutia, second in command of the National Guard and a member of the junta.

Gen. Bolivar Vallarino, who retired as head of the guard on the day of the coup, issued a statement saying he did not take part in the coup but was in accord with the "difficult, noble and honorable mission" assumed by the guard.

Ike Gets Salute From Army Band

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower celebrated his 78th birthday with a hospital-window serenade by the Army band and the wish for a "sweeping Republican victory on Nov. 5."

The five-star general waved from the open window of his third-floor hospital room Monday, flashed the V-for-victory sign and the Eisenhower grin for the bandmen and waved his tiny five-star flag.

It was his first public appearance since suffering his seventh heart attack in mid-August. Doctors chose the occasion to announce Eisenhower has begun walking unassisted.

Eisenhower, clad in a bathrobe, sat throughout the 15-minute salute from the Army band and chorus with his wife, Mamie, by his side.

The concert started with a trumpet fanfare and a chorus of "Happy Birthday To You." He snapped off a sharp salute when the band broke into the Army song, "The Cajons Go Rolling Along."

The crowd of about 200 outside the Walter Reed Army Hospital where Eisenhower has been confined for five months, shouted, "Happy Birthday" as a nurse closed the window.

Inside the room, Eisenhower marked his birthday at a get-together with his family, some close friends and Army Chief of

NAACP Fires White Lawyer

NEW YORK (AP) — A 31-year-old white lawyer has been fired from his post as associate counsel to the NAACP because he wrote an article critical of the U.S. Supreme Court's civil-rights decisions.

At a meeting Monday, about 40 of the group's 60 national board members voted unanimously to dismiss the lawyer, Lewis M. Steel, and to repudiate his article "in the strongest possible terms."

In the article, "Nine Men in Black Who Think White," which appeared in the New York Times Magazine last Sunday, Steel accused the Supreme Court of having "struck down only the symbols of racism while condoning or overlooking the ingrained practices which have meant the survival of white supremacy in the United States, North and South."

In announcing Steel's dismissal, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People described Steel's article

LeMay Claims Saigon Trip Not Aimed At Getting Votes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay is flying to Saigon today on a trip he said is not aimed at getting votes but to talk with U.S. fighting men and "be brought up to date" about the war.

LeMay, vice presidential candidate of the American Independent party, expects to spend three or four days in Vietnam, at the request of the party's presidential candidate, George C. Wallace.

RISK

At a brief news conference after arriving from Washington at San Francisco International Airport Monday night, LeMay said he thought the Wallace campaign was going well.

Asked whether pursuit of a hard-line policy in Vietnam might bring Communist China into the conflict, the retired Air Force chief of staff replied: "I don't think there is much of a chance there is some risk, but it's worth taking. They have troubles of their own, and they have no weapons that can hurt us now... every time we have stood up to them, we have done all right."

The 61-year-old general mentioned Taiwan, Cuba and Berlin to stress his point. When asked about Korea, he answered: "If we didn't do all right there it was because of traitors."

NO NAMES

Asked for names, he replied: "You know who they were as well as I do."

LeMay said he wants to "see people of each of the services" while in Vietnam. "I want them to talk to me," he said. "I want to be brought up to date."

"No one has been thinking of the man in uniform... I think they are entitled to have someone stand up for them," he said.

Could Lead To Limiting Of Capital Punishment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to hear a death-row appeal that could result in further limits on capital punishment.

The court, which ruled last term that jurors cannot be excluded from capital punishment cases for opposing the death penalty in principle, agreed Monday to hear the appeal of a man sentenced to die for armed robbery.

The convict, Edward Boykin Jr., pleaded guilty to holding up five Mobile Ala. stores. He contends his death sentence is "cruel and unusual punishment" in violation of the Constitution's 5th Amendment.

PART OF WAY

The court turned down another attack on the death penalty. That one was lodged by Thomas A. Alvarez, facing death for the murder of a Lincoln, Neb. housewife.

This suggests the court may go part of the way limiting the death penalty.

Among a score of cases accepted for argument was the first direct attack on the power of military courts to try servicemen for crimes committed off-post and off-duty.

James F. O'Callahan, a 32-year-old ex-Army sergeant convicted of raping a 14-year-old girl in a Hawaiian hotel, persuaded the court to take the test case.

O'Callahan, serving 10 years at hard labor at Lewisburg, Pa. federal prison, claims the right of other citizens—to have his case submitted to a grand jury and be tried by civilians.

ROBOTS

The Justice Department had tried to steer the court off, arguing that soldiers and sailors remain under military jurisdiction when they are off duty.

In another case, the justices—except William O. Douglas—would have nothing to do with the suggestion the way a boy wears his hair is his business and not that of school officials.

Three Dallas youths, barred from a high school because of their Beatles look, tried to elevate long hair to a constitutional right.

Eight of the nine justices turned the youths down flat. Douglas wrote a dissenting opinion in which he said: "I suppose that a nation bent on turning out robots might insist that every male have a crew cut and every female wear pigtail."

"But the ideas of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," expressed in the Declaration of Independence, later found specific definition in the Constitution itself, including of course, freedom of expression and a wide zone of privacy.

ELECTION LAW

"I had supposed those guarantees permitted idiosyncracies to flourish, especially when they concern the image of one's personality and his philosophy toward government and his fellow men."

In another action, the Court temporarily stayed printing of Alabama general election ballots pending a hearing Friday on eligibility of candidates of the national Democratic party of Alabama.

Alabama Secretary of State Mabel Amos and 67 county probate judges are the defendants. The party's petition says Mrs. Amos, identified as a presidential elector for George C. Wallace, announced she intended to certify only two of the 29 party candidates for state and federal offices on the ballot next month.

The party challenges state election law as discriminatory against minority political parties and "racially motivated."

South lacked by a good bit the requirements to make a free bid of two hearts after East had overcalled North's one club opening with one spade. North was sufficiently well-heeled, however, to reopen the proceedings with a take-out double.

East erected a mild preemptive barricade by rebidding his spades, but South was not to be shut out of the delayed opportunity to speak, and she freely bid three hearts. Altho South's previous pass had limited the strength of his hand, North had enough in reserve to carry on to game.

West opened the four of spades and East cashed the first two tricks in that suit. A brief examination of the dummy revealed that there was virtually no hope of winning any further tricks in the side suits. East's void in spades did suggest, however, that West's trump holding might prove to be productive.

In an effort to attack declarer's trump suit for his partner, East continued with a third round of spades, even tho this presented South with a ruff and discard.

Declarer trumped in his hand to preserve North's spade holding and West discarded a club. The king of hearts was led, on which West played the ace and East showed out. The club return was taken in dummy and South ruffed himself in on the club continuation.

A small heart was led next and, when West played low, North's nine was successfully finessed. The queen of hearts was cashed, and all that remained for declarer was to get back to his hand so that he might draw West's last trump. When he attempted to trump another club, however, West overruffed with the ten of hearts to score the setting trick.

East's play of a third spade permitted his partner to discard a club early in the hand. Had East shifted to some other suit, West would have been obliged to follow suit twice as the declarer ruffed himself in with clubs, and the ten of hearts would have succumbed tamely to South's drawing of trumps.

Last Of Seven Killed In War

FORT KENT, Maine (AP) — Pfc. Louis Daigle, the last of seven brothers to join the Marines and the only one to die in combat, was buried Monday next to his mother in nearby Soldier Pond, where he was born and raised.

His six brothers served as pall bearers at the funeral Mass for the 20-year-old Marine in this rural northern Maine community. Willie Daigle, head of the family, and five other children also attended the service.

Young Daigle was the youngest son of the 70-year-old retired potato farmer. Louis died in South Vietnam near the demilitarized zone Sept. 30, after being wounded during an enemy attack.

Highway Safety In Texas To Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Transportation estimates that Texas will need $1.3 billion for state and local highway safety programs between fiscal years 1967 and 1976.

All state and local governments will require at least $12 billion more for the programs. The department said Monday.

Parcel Post And Catalog Costs To Climb Saturday

Saturday, postal customers will begin paying a higher parcel post and catalog rate at the post offices of the nation. Frank Hardesty, Big Spring postmaster, called attention to the scheduled rate hike today. He said the average rate increase will be 10.5 per cent and in most cases will mean an additional 10 cents postage per parcel.

The higher rates were approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission in July. Under the new rates the minimum charge for local parcel delivery will go from 40 to 50 cents. The minimum charge for parcels destined outside the local delivery area will be raised from 60 cents to 65 cents. Almost all parcels that are charged up to $1.10 under present rates will go up 10 cents. This accounts for more than 80 per cent of all parcel post, Hardesty pointed out. There will be a 15-cent hike on most parcels now charged between $1.10 and $4, and a 20-cent increase on parcels now charged over $4. Parcel post rates are based on the weight of the package and the distance it is mailed. Higher rates for the delivery of packages and catalogs are required to bring revenue from this type of mail within four per cent of operating costs, as required by law, Hardesty explained. The higher rates are designed to put parcels and catalogs, which are fourth-class mail, on a break-even basis. Additional revenue is needed from parcel post and catalogs to off-set higher costs resulting from pay increases approved last year for postal employees.

Dear Abby Needs A Baby Sitter

DEAR ABBY: I have shared an apartment with another girl for almost a year, and our lease is nearly up. My problem is that I don't want to live with this girl any longer. She's a good kid, but she needs a baby-sitter. She is 20 years old, and she's afraid to stay alone for one night. I went home for a weekend, and when I returned she said she was so "afraid" to be alone she slept with the lights on.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS—3 Teacher Retirement Funds

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series on the proposed changes to the Texas Constitution that will be voted on Nov. 5.)

By ROBERT HEARD Associated Press Writer

Texas is behind the times on its investment policy for its permanent university fund, say supporters of amendment No. 3 on the Nov. 5 ballot.

The present constitutional limitation on investment in corporate stocks is 50 per cent. The remainder must be put into government bonds.

Amendment 3 would remove this 30 per cent limitation.

Supporters say the corporate stocks owned by the fund are earning at a rate 28 per cent higher than government bonds.

Opponents argue that fluctuations in the stock market would affect the day-to-day value of the fund if the limitation were removed. There might not be sufficient funds to meet the bonded indebtedness for the extensive building programs if the investments turned out to be unsound, they say.

NO CEILING Two other amendments on the ballot would affect teacher and state employee retirement funds.

No. 9 would remove the ceiling on the amount teachers may contribute to the teacher retirement system. Today, they can put in 6 per cent of their salary up to $8,400, or $504 a year. The amendment would permit 6 per cent contributions on the full salary, no matter how high. The state matches the contribution.

No. 1 would permit investment of up to 75 per cent of the employee retirement, disability and death compensation fund in corporate stocks. The fund now may be invested only in government bonds.

Investment in corporate stocks is a hedge against inflation.

Last year, the value of the government bonds owned by the permanent university fund declined 18.7 per cent from their cost. The corporate stocks owned by the fund had increased 32.9 per cent.

LIMITS The Boston Fund's 1967 survey of 17 college endowment funds of $100 million or more showed only two with less than 50 per cent of their money in corporate stocks. The average was almost 60 per cent. By contrast, the permanent university fund had only 30.6 per cent.

Amendment 3 also would cut from 10 to 5 the number of years a corporation must have declared annual dividends before its stock qualifies for purchase by money from the fund.

The amendment on the state employee retirement fund also would permit the legislature to increase the state's matching contribution from a maximum of 5 per cent of the employee's salary to 6 per cent.

There are other limitations on the investment of the state employee retirement fund in corporate stocks: No more than 1 per cent of the fund may be invested in any one corporation; no more than 5 per cent of the voting stock of any one corporation may be owned; and the corporation must have paid cash dividends for 10 consecutive years.

Opponents of the amendment to lift the ceiling on teacher contributions to their fund say it would cost the state $3 million during fiscal 1970-71 in increased state matching contributions.
