5 Americans Among Nobel Winners

STOCKHOLM (AP) - Five American scientists and a Japanese author, Yasunari Kawabata, today were awarded 1968 Nobel Prizes for their contribution to the "benefits to mankind."

The prestige-laden awards, each worth a record 350,000 crowns, about $70,000, were handed out by Sweden's scholarly 86-year-old King Gustaf VI Adolf at a pageant mixed with royal pomp, academic rites and solemn music.

Prof. Luis Alvarez, 57, of the University of California at Berkeley, winner of the prize for Norwegian-born Prof. Lars Onsager, 65, of Yale University, the chemistry prize winner. Three biochemists, Drs. Marshall W. They shared the prize for physiology and medicine.

Armistice Violation

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) - The United Nations Command today charged that the landing of a North Korean guerrilla force on the east coast of South Korea early last month was a serious violation of the Korean Armistice.

U.S. Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward told a meeting of the joint military armistice commission that the Communist guerrillas landed about 130 miles southeast of Seoul "to murder, torture, plunder and kidnap in a suicidal attempt to forcibly convert the Republic of Korea citizens to North Korean communism.'

About 100 North Koreans are estimated to have made the landing at various points. The general said 66 of the invaders have been killed and five others captured. Later two more were reported

The North Korean member of the Commission, Maj. Gen. Pak Choong-kook, replied that the incident was a "guerrilla struggle against the South Korean regime by revolutionary and patriotic citizens in the South" and had nothing to do with the armistice commission or armistice affairs.

Gunman Kills A. D. Blount operated a pet shop business here for the past five years, was shot and killed by an unknown assailant at his home about 10:45 p.m. Monday.

Howard County lawmen were sifting clues today in connection with the shooting, and A. N. Standard, Howard County sheriff, expected to make identification of the gunman

.45 CALIBER

Mr. Bount was struck in the chest with a .45 caliber bullet in a hallway of his apartment in the rear of the Pet-A-Zoo, a combination pet motel and animal cage factory, one mile south of Big Spring on US 87.

He was dead on arrival at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital, and was removed to Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home where Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter ruled that death was caused by a gunshot wound in the hands of another person.

Standard said that Mr. Blount's 16-year-old son, Gary, saw the assailant before the shooting, and the youth has given the sheriff's office a description of the gunman. Mrs. Terry Patterson, local artist, is producing a drawing of the suspect from Gary's descrip-

Questioning by sheriff's deputies of the family members at home when the shooting occured, produced this account of the incident:

Mr. Blount had been painting a dog house earlier in the evening and had come in for the night. Mrs. Blount was lying on the couch and Mr. Blount had finished eating a piece of pie when there was a knock at the rear door. He went to the door, then returned to get dressed. He went back to the door and unlocked it. The gunman entered the hallway. and after a brief conversation, one shot was fired

SECOND TIME When Mr. Blount went to the door the second time, Gary looked into the hallway and saw a man just inside the door with one hand on Blount, and a gun in his other hand. He heard the man ask Mr. Blount who was in the house and asked him to come outside. The word "dog" or "dogs" also was heard. The youngster walked back into the living room and told Blount "someone has pulled a gun on Daddy." Before she got to the hallway, the shot was fired and Blount was turning from the door, clutching his chest. No one in the house saw the gunman fire the shot. Mrs. Blount then called for an ambulance and notified the

The bullet hit Mr. Blount in the center of the chest and passed through his body. Sheriff's deputies recovered a .45 caliber bullet from the wall and a spent shell on the floor. Standard said that his office. with cooperation from the Big Spring Police Department, is investigating the case today and checking leads for a possible motive for the shooting.

DESCRIPTION Details given by Gary to the riedly and conferred with Nixon sheriff's department described the gunman as being in his mid 20's, about five feet, 10 inches tall, and with dark hair and medium complexion. He was wearing a blue windbreaker. dark turtleneck sweater, and dark pants.

Services for Mr. Blount will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Rosewood Chapel of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home, with the Rev. James A. Puckett, pastor of Baptist Church, officiating. Temple Graveside rites will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday at Sunset Memorial Garden in Odessa, with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in charge.

Mr. Blount was born June 29, 1928, in Odessa. He graduated from Odessa High School in 1946 and served with the U.S. Air Force from 1946-49. He married the former Dorothy Brown Feb. 20, 1951, in Odessa.

At Northern Michigan University in Marquette about 150 Negro students raised their hands in a clenched fist salute during the playing of the National Anthem before a basketball game with Pan American College of Edinburg, Tex. Most of the students then sat on the court until, after 45 minutes, the game was canceled. Earlier the students discussed demands with school President John X. Jamrich for courses on Negro culture and more Negro faculty members. Less than five per cent of the school's 7,100 students are Negroes, officials said. Negro students at Washington University in a St. Louis suburb said their peaceful sit-in would continue until the school meets demands for a black studies program and more financial aid for Negro students.

HARASSMENT A special student-faculty committee took testimony Monday on complaints from 11 Negro students who charged harassment by campus police officers. The alleged manhandling of a Negro graduate student touched off the protest last week

In New York City the Rev. Leo McLaughlin, president of Fordham University agreed to work toward implementation of a number of Negro student demands but his response was denounced by one student leader as "soft soap."

One demand is for a 20 per cent Negro enrollment at the 12.000-student Jesuit institution. Less than 1 per cent of the present enrollment are Negroes. State University officials in Oshkosh, Wis., said they would meet a federal court ordered deadline for making individual complaints against 90 students, most of them Negro, who were suspended last month following campus demonstration marked by vandalism.

The symbolism of this timing -with the NLF spearheading Communist ahead of North Vietnam's delegation-was not lost on the South Vietnamese. The Communists want a square table whose four equal sides would signify equal status for the NLF with the other three delegations. A Devotional For The Day

When the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place . . . And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost. (Acts 2:1, 4)

PRAYER: Father, grant us the power to give meaning to our living. Grant us the understanding of those who are different from ourselves, but whose faiths, loves, longings, and aspirations are so much like our own. Teach us the lessons of the unspoken, yet vital Truth. In our Master's name.

Day Of Empires Over

The Brookings Institution, an independent brain bank in the nation's capital, handed the incoming Nixon administration a grim advisory on the immediate future. The general gist of the 620-page report, prepared by 18 experts under a Ford Foundation grant, is that none of the United States' major problems can be eased much so long as the Vietnam war continues and can only be gradually solved once that war is ended.

The most striking phase of the report was written by Edwin O. Reischauer, Harvard professor and former ambassador to Japan, who argues persuasively that the United States intervened in Vietnam on a false premise, namely the domino theory. The fear that failure to act there would doom the Asian continent as a whole to domination by Moscow or Peking was unfounded. And the Far East authority lays this down as an axiom:

"Asian countries cannot be controlled from abroad, even through communism or any other ideology.

That counters majority American thinking until recently, though probably not now. For the weight of historical evidence heavily supports Reischauer's thesis.

The British and French and Dutch found by midcentury that they could no longer control their vast empires in the Far East. Once foreign powers controlled small enclaves in China. but never the country itself. The U.S. could not control China even when was headed in wartime by dependent Chiang Kai-shek, and so

The Reischauer thesis apparently also would hold for Latin America, Africa and the Middle East. Which may be no more than saying that the era of empires is over - ideologi-

Census And Questions

The 68-point questionnaire for the 1970 census is now in preparation, but a curious congressional coalition led by Rep. Jackson E. Betts, R-Ohio, will try again next session to mess up this vital work. Wiser heads on Capitol Hill should squelch their in-

The anti-census coalition has some ultra-conservative fears of a "big brotherism" invasion of privacy and some extreme civil libertarians claim compulsory questions are unconstitutional. Both are flat wrong.

Census questionnaire-answering has been mandatory since the first in 1790. Refusal can bring up to $100 fine and 60 days in jail. This has been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, and was even recently endorsed by the American Civil Liberties Union. Constitutionality would be questionable only if answers were criminally self-incriminating, which none could be,

As for invasion of privacy, many of the questions are personal. But the Census Bureau has an unblemished record of keeping responses confidential; no other governmental agency, even the Federal Bureau of Investigation or Internal Revenue Service, has access to them. Only when the responses are unidentifiably meshed into impersonal statistics is the information made public

Census questions were offensive at times when Congress dictated them, especially between 1880 and 1910, but questionnaire formulation was delegated to the Commerce Department (Census Bureau) in 1930. There have been few complaints in modern times, and the 1970 questions will be about the same number as in 1960 and fewer than in 1950 and 1940.

Comprehensive census data, with continuity and comparability, are indispensable to a rational modern society. A national statistical profile in detail is essential to planning governmental programs, to production and marketing activities in private enterprise, and to research in most scholarly disciplines and to education.

Without such information, a selfgoverning nation and its industrialized society would be operating in the dark, not knowing where it is or where it is going. Preventing that certainly overrides any minor embarrassment census-takers may cause some overly sensitive individuals.

Marauis Childs Money Crisis Threat Hangs Like Cloud

BONN. - Silence has fallen on the field where the battle of the mark, the franc, the pound and the dollar was fought out with such anger and vituperation two weeks ago. It is the silence of a truce rather than the end of the war since the belief in Western Europe is widespread among high and low that the conflict is bound to break out again.

THREE MONTHS, six months, no one can say when. But another crisis of confidence bringing with it a new surge of speculative fever will shake the economy of the West to its foundations. What is being done in this pause to cure the ills of the money market is little enough.

One reason is the pause in Washington between administrations. In France where the money battle began, officials say, with a brave

The dictionary gives as one of the definitions of a Christian, simply, "Of Jesus Christ." I believe that is one of the best difinitions I know. Through faith in His finished work on the cross we become a part of the mystical body of Christ, and possess the qualities demonstrated and taught by our Lord. show of confidence that Presidentelect Richard M. Nixon will supply the answer. He will raise the price of gold which will cheapen the value of the dollar and strengthen the pound and the franc. This is an article of faith with the French who believe that inevitably it must come about.

WHILE the Germans are more cautious they, too, talk of the need to raise the gold price. After all, officials in the Finance Ministry point out, it has not been raised for 35 years and a great deal has happened during that time. For Europeans a sacrifice - just a small partial sacrifice - of the dollar would be the ideal solution.

It is not that the monetary system put together at Bretton Woods in 1945 has failed. That system is the underpinning of the tide of prosperity that particularly here in Germany has reached such extraordinary heights. But the volume of world trade is so swollen that the International Monetary Fund, devised at Bretton Woods, is simply too narrow a frame to

IN 1945 Western Europe was at the bottom of the pit, with the vast destruction of the war opening the way to breakdown and communism. The United States held 57 per cent of the world's reserves of gold. With the Marshall Plan and American aid to Europe of $50 billion in the offing the Western European nations were only too eager to agree to an international monetary system laying down strict rules for the money market. All that has been changed in little more than two decades. Despite the limited progress of a European Common Market the fierce rivalries of the old nationalism are once again a powerful force. This boiled to the surface in the recent money crisis when an unprecedented $2.3 billion in French francs flowed into Germany in the expectation that the German mark would be valued upward. AFTER FRANCE, in an ill-timed move, took off exchange controls there was nothing illegal in speculating against the franc. But having to confess to what may seem to many an unpatriotic act the speculators are reluctant to talk about their traffic in money. How much of the hot money is flowing out of Germany and back into France? In the first week after the Bonn meeting of the Big Ten the total was around a half-billion dollars, a fifth of what had come in. The counter flow has now slowed to a

Around The Rim

Gay Blades In The 20's

Older type people who seem to get a little upset at what they call the absurdities in the garb of the younger generation must be short memoried. If they have been around as long as I have they will undoubtedly recall the early 1920's. And if they have any recollection of those years, the weirdness of the clothing youngsters fancy today loses much of its wallop.

I REMEMBER well how we gay young blades dressed then. First of all, we had a season when a kid would just as soon be dead as not have a candy-striped silk shirt. I have no idea what kind of silk these shirts were made of but they were amazingly soft.

They ran the gamut in the field of colors. All had detachable soft collars. These (always white) attached to the shirt neck band with two brass collar buttons. Due to the flexible nature of the shirts, the neckband would not stay up under the collar rim and usually there was a gap of skin showing around the lower edge of the collar.

WE WENT from one extreme to the other in trousers. The peg tops of a slightly earlier day were still in favor for a time - pants that bulged out at the hips and tapered sharply down to the shoetops. At the cuff, the legs were so narrow that big footed fellows like myself had trouble getting them over our feet. We then shifted the other way -the blue bell-bottom pants became so large at the cuff that only the tip of the shoe toes showed. Our favorite shoes, if we could walkers." I don't know where the "walker" part got into the act, for they were not made for walking. The shoes were oxfords and featured toes so pointed that if you kicked a comrade, there was grave danger your toe might inflict a deep bayonet wound.

IN THE summer we fancied sailor straw hats with gaily colored bands. These were rigidly constructed of some kind of straw and sat on one's head like a clamp.

Those of us who could, liked to let our hair grow long. We combed it straight back and cemented it down with some sort of hair oil or grease. If we could get a patent leather shine to our pompadour, we liked it. Many kids went in for long sideburns a la Rudolph Valentino. However, a lot of us, whose mop of hair would not take the Valentino gloss and whose sideburns looked rather ragged and drab, reluctantly passed up that

OUR COATS were heavily padded at the shoulders to make us look a lot broader than we were. They tapered sharply toward the waist and, in the middle, when buttoned were about skin tight. The tails flared slightly. The great pastime on Sunday afternoons was for a gang of us to pile into a car (if one of us had a car) and "make the drag," which meant chugging up and down the main stem of the town to let everyone see how really lovely we were and how bright our striped silk shirts gleamed in the summer sun. -SAM BLACKBURN

BAHRAI, Persian Gulf (AP) Nine little sheikdoms with strangesounding names have banded together in a federation. They hope it will keep them safe when British troops quit the Persian Gulf three years

In the group are some of the world's poorest territories — and Abu Dhabi, one of the richest. It includes the bustling island of Bahrain, with nearly 200,000 people, and the ministate of Ajman, with little more than Sheik Zaid bin Sultan of Abu Dhabi has a computer to count his oil wealth while Sheik Mohammed bin Hamad al Sharqi of far-away Fujeira rubs along on the sale of postage stamps.

WHERE OIL has been found, many Arabs have progressed from camels to air-conditioned Cadillacs almost overnight. But in the hills of Ras al-Khaimah the stone-age Shihu tribe, speaking a language of their own, live in caves and holes in the ground. Dhabi a modern army. But with the announcement last January of Britain's intention to withdraw from the gulf by the end of 1971. Abu Dhabi and its neighbors at least temporarily forgot old feuds and frontier disputes to create the Federation of Arab Gulf Emirates.

THE FEDERATION is made up of Bahrain, Qatar, Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Sharjah, Ajman, Umm al-Qaiwain, Ras al-Khamah and Fujeira. The last seven are the Trucial States, so called because in the 19th century they concluded a truce with Britain to end Britain is treaty-bound to defend all nine and currently has 6,500 troops in the area. It also handles their foreign affairs.

From the end of 1971 they'll be on their own. They federated on the assumption that this would make it harder for powerful neighbors to gobble them up.

The federation has an estimated population of 500,000 and a land area of 34,000 square miles - about the size of Maine. Its total oil revenues in 1968 will be about $290 million from American, British, Dutch, French, Italian, German and Japanese com-

Iran, across the gulf, lays dubious claim to Bahrain. It was quick to denounce the federation, but likely will come to terms.

SAUDI ARABIA and most other Arab states greeted the grouping enthusiastically. Even Egypt, which in the past has waged propaganda war against such autocracies, had only praise for the new grouping, Gamal Abdel Nasser, who gets $40 million a year from Saudi Arabia to make up for lost Suez Canal revenues, cannot afford to cross King Faisal. The Federation was officially born last March 30, the Moslem New Year, but the infant has yet to show much sign of life. No constitution, capital or head of state has been decided

The nine rulers, however, soon may reach a point of no return. Attracted by the gulf's oil wealth, thousands of immigrants have come in from India, Pakistan, Iran and neighboring Arab countries, most of them illegally. It is difficult to check on subversives. Probably subversion from within rather than aggression from without troubles the rulers most. They hope prosperity will keep it in check. But democracy comes in on the coattails of the federation the day of the all-powerful sheik may be numbered.

Holmes Alexander Astonishing Twist Of Tormented Year

WASHINGTON - Nobody bit a dog, but the Chicago chapter of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence reported something almost as incredible.

DANIEL WALKER, the group's chairman, summarized the 240-page report as meaning, in a large part, that Chicago policemen had staged a "riot" of their own inside the eye of a human hurricane.

Chairman Walker's language is suspect of exaggeration and rhetorical distortion. But if the police really did riot against the rioters, they deserve an arm-chair hurrah from many of us who'd like to do the same.

Walker declared that a "blue curtain" had fallen and deprived the public of knowing how thoroughly the cops had mauled the law-breakers.

IN REPORTS of this sort, including the preceding Kerner Report, it's getting to be that you need a set of instruments to know where the points of reference are. Most reporters at the Democratic convention in Chicago got the idea that the hippies and yippies had gathered from afar with mischief aforethought. As was the case with some other correspondents my room at the Conrad Hilton had been reserved long in advance through the Democratic national committee's housing committee, but I never got into it because some squatters had taken over to assert their rights of dissent. Out in the streets and parks, the dissenters were further asserting their First Amendment rights by hurling obscenities, stones and stinkbombs at the who wouldn't have been there at all except to prevent unlawful obstruction and trespass.

ONE OF MY colleagues contacted some representative Negro leaders and asked why there were almost no colored youths among the protesters. "Hell, no, we won't go," was the answer. "We're going to let the white kids fight this one." Another report was that Negro militants knew what was coming and left town in order to establish legitimate alibis. There never was much doubt that a conspiracy of sorts had been hatched, and that the honkies were on hand to show that anarchy didn't have to be Jim Crow as it had been in two previous Chicago uprisings. The whites of the New Left were there to test the cops. The cops fought back in a manner that would have warranted them a unit citation if the subsequent attacks on American institutions had been honestly waged in enemy uniforms instead of hypocritically camouflaged behind the scoundrel's last refuge of bogus patriotism to the Constitution.

SIGNIFICANTLY ONE of the early episodes was an attempt to deface the American flag by demasting it. Another was an attempt to raise the Communist emblem of Vietnam on an equestrian statue. The main assault, of course was on the American foreign policy as represented by the Democratic Convention and its eventual nominee, Vice President Humphrey.

Other targets of the dissenters were the Democratic principle of majority rule, which the mob detested, and genuine right of peaceable assembly at the Amphitheater. With the example of Columbia University a few weeks past, there's little doubt that the dissenters only had to overcome the cops in order to storm the Amphitheater and push the duelyelected delegates out of their seats.

HOW THE Daniel Walker committee of the Milton Eisenhower Commission managed to make the defenders into villains and the attackers into victims is one of the astonishing news-twists of this tormented year. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)
