HARD-LINE Lodge Picked As Paris Negotiator

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon, without stating his own views on Vietnam peace talks, has named as his chief Paris negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge, who has a reputation for taking a hard-line view of the war.

Lodge, 66 and twice ambassador to Saigon, will head an almost-new negotiating team that, by its makeup, leaves in question Nixon's own policy attitude toward the peace efforts in Paris.

During two Saigon tours, Lodge generally mirrored the shifting but usually optimistic appraisals of Johnson administration.

But in a statement issued Sunday in Bonn, where he currently is ambassador to West Germany, Lodge said negotiators in Paris must have not only a strong desire for peace but also recognition of "the profound and painful sacrifices which have to be made."

He said the talks "offer a hopeful forum for the definition of the interest of all parties involved and for the design of agreements to meet those interests."

On Saturday, Nixon had told newsmen he wanted Ellsworth Bunker — another American who seems able to talk to the Saigon chiefs — to remain indefinitely as ambassador to South Vietnam.

HENRY CABOT LODGE

OTHERS
In addition to naming Lodge his personal representative and chief Paris negotiator — to replace the veteran W. Averell Harriman — Nixon through Ziegler signaled the other choices for the Paris delegation:

—Lawrence E. Walsh, 57, a Manhattan attorney, will be deputy to Lodge. Described by Nixon as having "an outstanding reputation as a lawyer and a negotiator," Walsh was a federal district judge before serving as deputy attorney general in the Eisenhower administration under Secretary of State-designate William P. Rogers.

—Career diplomat Marshall Green, 52, will be detached from his duties as ambassador to Indonesia "to give additional professional competence and support to the negotiating team."

—Philip Habib, 48, another career foreign service officer who once served with Lodge in Saigon, will remain a member of the U.S. delegation.

New Air Force, Navy Chiefs Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense-designate Melvin R. Laird today named Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee to be secretary of the Navy and Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor Robert C. Seamans Jr. to be secretary of the Air Force.

In a surprise reappointment, Stanley R. Resor was nominated to stay on as secretary of the Army.

The nominations must be confirmed by the Senate.

It was the second round of high-level defense appointments made by the new defense chief for the Nixon administration.

Chafee, 46, leaves office as governor of Rhode Island Tuesday. He succeeds Paul R. Ignatius, who has been civilian head of the Navy since September, 1967.

NASA POSTS
Seamans has served at Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a teacher and project manager for 14 years and has held posts in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Laird said Seamans has a fine background in science and "understands the problem of space technology" today.

Seamans succeeds Air Force Secretary Harold Brown.

Front Threatening

A weak cold front hovered near the northern border of the Texas Panhandle today threatening a warming trend welcomed after the bitter cold of last week's norther.

The new front was expected to spread over North Texas by tonight.

Light southerly winds swept most of the state early today enhancing the higher temperatures and mostly clear to partly cloudy skies.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 30s and 40s.

Fore-dawn mercury readings showed a low of 29 degrees at San Antonio and a high of 47 in Galveston.

Promises To Use Bayonets If Necessary

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco State college ended its holiday recess today with a teachers union joining striking students while California's governor prom sed to use bayonets if necessary to protect classroom operations.

STRIKE VOTED
The AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers' campus local voted immediate strike action Sunday night in support of its demands for union recognition, a voice in administrative action, higher wages, removal of police from the campus and compliance by the administration with student demands.

As new rules were outlined to combat disruptions, Gov. Ronald Reagan promised to use whatever force is needed.

"Those who want to get an education, those who want to teach, should be protected in that at the point of bayonet if necessary," Reagan said Sunday.

In an airport interview at Sacramento, the governor said he hadn't spoken recently to Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting college president, but "he knows he has my moral support all the way."

RULES ANNOUNCED
Hayakawa announced a set of rules Saturday which place a ban on all rallies in the central campus area—the staging area for demonstrations by student strikers during two weeks of almost daily violence in early December.

There were 600 police assigned to the campus area this morning when 18,000 students return to classes for the first time in three weeks. Half the officers were on ready alert and the remainder were held in reserve.

Asked if he had considered calling the National Guard to keep order on the campus, Reagan said:

"It has to be kept open if you have to surround the college with whatever forces necessary. I don't care what force it takes, that force must be applied."

BATTLE LINES
Hayakawa said, "The battle is between the forces of anarchy and the citadels of reason. Our enemies are cowards. They must resort to violence, lies and deceit."

ELECTED AT NOON TODAY

Koger, Morton To Guide C-C Program Of Work

New administrative team for the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce in 1969 will be M. R. Koger, president, and Lester Morton, vice president.

The two were formally elected today at a meeting of the C-C board of directors — with new directors also taking office — and will be presented to the membership at the annual Chamber banquet, to be held next Saturday evening at 7:30 in the high school cafeteria.

HEADED UP
Koger, who operates an insurance agency and handles oil properties, has been a resident of Big Spring since 1940, and marked himself as an energetic civic leader when he headed up the United Fund campaign in 1965 and served as UF president in 1966.

He formerly was district chairman of the Buffalo Trails Boy Scout Council, and has held membership in both the Rotary and American Business Clubs. He is a long-time member of the Air Force Association and active in the Texas Tech Extension Association. He is a member of the board of trustees of Hall-Bennett Hospital Foundation and has been a director of the Big Spring Country Club.

TEXAS TECH
Koger was born and reared in Shamrock, attended Texas Technological College, and came to Big Spring in 1940, because, he says, his fiancée, Mary Louise Inkman, lived here. They were married later that same year, and have a daughter, Mrs. John Passow of Los Angeles, Calif.

Koger was in the Army from 1942 to 1944, then returned here to engage in business.

Morton will be a right-hand man in administering Chamber programs. President of the First National Bank, he and his family came here from Odessa

ABOUT BEATINGS

Lie Detector Tests Show Boys Lied

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Members of a House study committee said today that lie detector tests showed that five youths from the Gatesville School for Boys lied about the details of being beaten by guards.

The tests also showed that guards slapped the boys, the members of the House Committee on Juvenile Delinquency said.

DISARM
"The polygraph tests, as given by the Department of Public Safety, maintained that the guards in the case of these five boys did slap them several times but did so to disarm and control them," Rep. Vernon Stewart of Wichita Falls committee chairman, said.

"The boys had told us they had been beaten for one hour," said Rep. Lamoine Holland in San Antonio, "but the polygraph proved that they had been beaten for five minutes. So in effect they are lying, but in another respect they are being beaten for a period of time."

Stewart said he was the only member of the House committee, which held hearings Friday and Saturday in Austin before making late Saturday a surprise investigation at Gatesville, to observe results of the polygraph tests given Sunday in Waco by Texas Rangers.

"But I feel that in light of these finds, there is very little more our committee is able to do concerning these particular boys," Stewart said. "These results have been made available to the Texas Youth Council (TYC) and the district attorney in Coryell County. I have been assured by the TYC that appropriate action will be taken . . ."

INVESTIGATED
"I feel that all allegations concerning the abuse of youngsters in our state schools regardless of their sources, should be investigated by the DPS in order that corrective measures can be taken wherever indicated."

Reporters were unable to reach Dr. James Turman, executive director of the Texas Youth Council, in Austin.

Holland, a member of the House committee, said the investigators also found blood on the wall of one office at the Mountain View School, the maximum security unit at the Gatesville schools.

The five boys were located Saturday in isolated cells at Mountain View, the maximum security unit of the Gatesville school.

They told two separate investigative groups Saturday and Sunday that they were beaten by guards.

At least five guards were administered the so-called lie detector tests Sunday at the Waco Department of Public Safety office, in addition to the five boys, Holland said.

He learned of the test results shortly before midnight Sunday in a 30-minute conference call with other members of the House Committee on Juvenile Delinquency.

The committee held hearings on the Gatesville school Friday and Saturday, then paid a surprise visit on it later Saturday.

TUESDAY MEET
It will meet again in Austin at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Holland said. "It's our feeling that there is enough fire to cause some smoke here," Holland said after the conference call.

"We do feel that we are going to pursue this further and have other investigations, but the extent of it at this point I'm not sure of."

However, Speaker Ben Barnes, who headed another investigative group's visit to the school early Sunday that resulted in the lie detector tests, said all findings of the committee and his group had been turned over to the Department of Public Safety and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

He said it now is in the hands of the Department of Public Safety and the Texas Youth Council to take action. The two oversee the Gatesville schools and other state reform institutions.

NEW POST OFFICE HAS BUSY OPENING DAY
Crowds on hand to exchange old box keys for new keys

Post Office Hosts Crowd In New Federal Building

Things aren't neat, but it's business as usual at the new Big Spring Post Office today.

Transfer of operations from the old post office to the new began early Saturday. The moving activities halted at 6:30 p.m. and resumed Sunday.

NORMAL SERVICE
Monday morning, every function of the agency was housed in its magnificent new home and normal mail services were under way in all departments.

"We still have quite a lot of stuff at the old building," said Frank Hardesty, postmaster, "but we have moved everything of importance over here. We'll need a few days to get things straightened out. However, this will not handicap operations in any way."

Hundreds of mail box patrons, who had to have new keys to get them into their new boxes, were on hand early. The office had set up a table in the lobby and clerks were provided with replacement keys. As the patron surrendered the key to his old box, he was handed new keys for the box in the new office. Carriers were out on their routes at the usual time Monday.

Meantime, doors were locked at the old building.

Absent-minded citizens, who have become accustomed to going there, were repeatedly walking up the steps and yanking on the handles of the locked doors. They then would read the removal notice and sheepishly back away and head for the new office.

The new service counters inside seemed to be working exceptionally well. In the new office, any clerk at the main counter can serve any patron along the counter. The old system limited the clerks to the areas in front of their own windows.

The automatic stamp machines and the mailing equipment to permit operations by the patron in the hours when the office is closed have not arrived. The slots for the machines are blocked out pending arrival of the vending devices.

MORE BOXES
About 300 additional lock boxes were added to the number formerly available. These were being rented today and demand for the boxes, which are in all size ranges, was brisk.

The patrons and employees were finding the expanse of parking space highly helpful and a steady stream of traffic was moving into the parking area and away from it.

The second floor, which is to house the county's federal agencies and bureaus, is still unoccupied. Moving day for the agencies begins this weekend.

OTHERS TO MOVE
All of the federal office operations, including a border patrol office not heretofore located here, will be housed in the new federal building by the end of January.

Hours of operation of the new post office are unchanged, according to Hardesty.

Open House Set Jan. 19

Formal dedication ceremonies and an "open house" for the new post office and federal building will be held on Sunday, Jan. 19, it was announced today by Postmaster Frank Hardesty.

The facility actually was put into service today, but the formal ceremonies are being delayed until all operations are straightened out, he said.

BURLESON DUE
Rep. Omar Burleson, congressman for the 17th district, will be here for the principal address of the program, to be held at 1:30 p.m. in front of the building, an outdoors affair if weather permits. Rep. Burleson is making a special trip here for the event.

Representatives from the Postoffice Department and of General Services Administration (the government agency which owns the property) also will be here.

The Big Spring High School band is to play prior to the program, and the Webb Air Force color guard will preside for the raising of the flag.

SPONSORS
Hardesty said his department is being joined by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce in sponsoring the dedicatory program. The public is invited to attend.

M. R. KOGER

He is one of the trustees of the Dora Roberts Foundation, is treasurer of the Civic Concert Association and member of the State Hospital Volunteer Council.

EXECUTIVE GROUP

Clyde Hollingsworth was re-elected treasurer of the Chamber, and along with Koger, Morton, Dr. Milton Talbot, retiring president, Ike Robb and Paul Meek, will make up the C-C executive committee.

LESTER MORTON

Continuing members of the board include Jim Baum, O. T. Brewster, Roger Brown, Dr. Robert H. Johnson, Dearn Pittman, Harry Sawyer, Dr. Talbot, Jimmy Taylor, John Taylor and Don Womack.

Retiring from the board are Jack Cook, Larry Crow, Clyde McMahon Jr., Paul Meek, Jerry Worthy, Lowell Jones and Jack Little.

SEEKING MANAGER

The Chamber of Commerce is starting its year without an executive secretary, but selection of a successor to Carroll Davidson, resigned, may come before the month is out.

A nominating committee headed by Dr. Carl Marcum has conducted several interviews and has others slated with applicants for the post.

Oil Workers Still Walk Picket Lines

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Supervisory personnel of the nation's major oil refineries continued plant operations today while the 60,000 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union walked picket lines.

The union struck at midnight Friday after a union spokesman said the oil companies failed to come close to the union's wage increase demands for new contracts.

FIRE RISKS?
"We've received no offer any where close to what we want," the spokesman said. "Our committees are making themselves available at all locations to talk with federal mediators or companies."
Involved are 435 contracts. In the past, when one company and the union reach agreement, the contract package was used as a guideline by other companies.

The oil companies denied Sunday that the use of supervisory personnel in refinery operations was dangerous. The union spokesman said earlier the companies were running the risk of fire and explosion when they operated without fully trained crews.

"We know we can operate the plant safely with supervisory personnel—if we couldn't, we wouldn't," a spokesman for Richfield Oil in Carson, Calif., said.

N. E. Pennels, manager of Sinclair's East Chicago refinery, said, "The present force of operators, consisting of experienced operating supervisors, chemical and mechanical engineers has a higher level of operating competence than the normal operating crew."

RUN OVER
Pennels said management's capability to operate the plants was demonstrated during a six week strike in 1961 and briefly in 1967.

Spokesmen for Sinclair and Texaco said their refineries are operating at full capacity and customers' needs will be met.

Richard E. Jones was hospitalized in Richmond, Calif., Sunday when he was run over by a slow moving truck while picketing Standard Oil of California.

Sheriff's deputies said the truck was moving into a loading area when pickets blocked the highway. Jones was run over by one rear wheel, and deputies said one picket was arrested following a minor scuffle.

INCLUDING MAIL TO MAKE 'SCIENTIFIC BLEND' Chicago Shopping For Garbage

CHICAGO (AP) — The city of Chicago is buying assortments of garbage to make its own "scientific blend."

"This is the most unusual requisition we've ever had," said John F. Ward, city purchasing agent.

Ward received requests from James M. McDonough, acting commissioner of streets and sanitation for specified garbage items to test a new compression machine which forms the garbage into bales.

WILD ITEMS
"It's not as simple as it sounds," McDonough said over the weekend. "You can't just take plain old garbage off the trucks for the tests and bale it. You have to know, specifically, what is in there."

So, McDonough has asked for the following items:

Two thousand pounds of corrugated boxes, 1,000 pounds of newspapers, 600 pounds of heavy brown wrapping paper, 350 pounds of waxed milk cartons, 600 pounds of dry magazines, 250 pounds of junk office mail, 150 pounds of tissue paper, 1,100 pounds of tin cans, 400 pounds of aluminum cans, 150 pounds of plastic products and 200 pounds of chicken wire.

McDonough also asked for what was called "household waste materials" or household garbage.

"Last year we had an average of a million dollars a day in requisitions," Ward said, "but nothing like this."

McDonough said he hoped the city could obtain much of the required refuse without payment, but the purchased part, Ward said, "may run $100 to $150. Labor costs in picking it up may run a couple hundred dollars more."

Ward added that one of the men in his department has been working eight hours a day "trying to sort out our garbage to see if we've got the necessary material."

The scientific blending and testing will be conducted for three months by a four-member research team, and then the garbage bales will be tried for use as lakefill, according to Ward.

World's Total Farm Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's total agricultural output increased last year but the population explosion held production per person to the same level of 1967, an Agriculture Department expert said today.

Charles A. Gibbons, an analyst for the Foreign Agricultural Service, said in a report that each person's share rose only seven per cent. Gibbons said in an interview this was attributable mostly to the more rapid population growth.

He said the statistics show only the changes in production by year since 1957-59 and do not indicate relative living standards among individual countries.

For example, the index for developed areas such as the United States, the Soviet Union and Western Europe showed a 29 per cent rise in total output since 1959 while the poorer areas—including Latin America and Africa — showed a 31 per cent increase.

In per capita production, the developed areas averaged 115 per cent last year, up one point from 1967, while the poorer regions' per capita share was unchanged at 102 per cent.

"Averages for the developed and less developed areas mask the divergent developments found within each area," Gibbons reported. "Many countries showed decreases from 1967 in over-all production, which were mostly attributed to lack of rain during some part of the growing season."

But the per capita index for the United States—the world's leading agricultural producer—showed only 104 per cent for 1968.

STATISTICS

This means that since 1959 total farm production has increased 30 per cent but that each person's share rose only seven per cent. Gibbons said in an interview this was attributable mostly to the more rapid population growth.

He said the statistics show only the changes in production by year since 1957-59 and do not indicate relative living standards among individual countries.

Czechoslovaks Facing Two Grim Alternatives

PRAGUE (AP) — The people of occupied Czechoslovakia appeared today to face a hard choice in their efforts to salvage some of the liberal reforms stalled by the Soviet occupation.

They can unite behind the program of the present Communist party leadership to work cautiously toward normal relations with Moscow that would safeguard Czechoslovak independence in domestic affairs, perhaps at the expense of some reforms and some progressive leaders.

Or they can continue public agitation to bring back the reforms of last spring, try to push the party leaders faster than they think they can go, and run the risk of further Soviet intervention to return hardliners to power.

This was the message in a declaration by the Czechoslovak party's 21-member presidium Saturday after an all-night crisis meeting.

The same message was reinforced Sunday night in a television speech by National Assembly Chairman Josef Smrkovsky, considered the chief progressive still in the leadership and the symbol of hopes for more reform. The presidium declaration said public campaigns for more reforms—strike threats, press articles and a barrage of resolutions from workers, students, intellectuals and others — are getting out of hand. It warned that the situation now resembles that in April and May, the heady days of reform that alarmed the Soviets and led to the August invasion.

The presidium appealed to the public to unite behind the party's decisions of November and December. These slowed down remaining reform efforts and emphasized the party's efforts to normalize relations with the Soviets.

Smrkovsky reiterated all the points in the presidium declaration and pleaded with the public: "I beg you, I urgently beg you that everybody at this moment weigh every step very carefully."

Smrkovsky used the word "beg" again in asking the workers to abandon their strike threats. One of the chief purposes of such threats has been to prevent his replacement as assembly chairman; he said he

Also announced today is an airlift at Howard County Airport, being arranged by Bill McLaughlin, of Big Spring Aircraft. It will be staged Jan. 26.

Formal Declaration Of Nixon's Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — The formal declaration of Richard M. Nixon's election as the nation's 37th President by Congress today comes hand-in-hand with a rare challenge involving the 181-year-old presidential electoral system. The House and Senate, meeting in joint session, are charged by the Constitution with counting the votes cast in the Electoral College last month, thus making Nixon's victory over Hubert H. Humphrey official. The challenge procedure called for the House and Senate to stop the roll call count of electoral votes by state at North Carolina and return to their separate chambers to debate the objection. Approval by both bodies was needed to uphold the challenge. FIRST TIME Formal declaration of Republican Nixon as President-elect after the vote canvass was resumed in joint meeting and completed was a foregone conclusion. So was declaration of Spiro T. Agnew as vice president-elect. Nixon and Agnew will be inaugurated Jan. 20. The Muskie-O'Hara challenge asked Congress to invoke for the first time an 83-year-old law permitting rejection of electoral votes "not regularly given." Bailey of Rocky Mount, N.C., broke with the 12 other GOP electors chosen in his state, holding he was free to vote as he pleased in the Electoral College. With Bailey's vote, Wallace received a total of 46 electoral ballots in electoral voting in the respective state capitals Dec. 16. Muskie and O'Hara said legal and historical precedents, if not the Constitution, mandate that by the voters of North Carolina to exercise his own judgment, Muskie has contended. The Maine senator, who was Humphreys' running mate in the 1968 election, and O'Hara, chairman of the Democratic Study Group in the House,

FOR MIDDLE EAST PEACE SPONSORED BY BIG FOUR Israel Rejects Soviet Proposal

By The Associated Press
Lebanese and Israeli officials have met to discuss Israel's charges that Arab guerrillas have been crossing Lebanon's southern frontier to attack Israeli settlements.

The Lebanese government said the meetings were held at the border "within the scope of the mixed armistice commission and under the supervision of United Nations observers."

VIOLATIONS? "Questions discussed at these meetings concerned the investigation of complaints and disputes arising from violations of the terms of the (1948) armistice agreement," the Beirut government said.

Lebanese leaders have claimed repeatedly that the guerrillas do not use their country as a base and that no attacks have been mounted from Lebanon.

Lebanese Defense Minister Hussein Ouweini told a news conference Israel had turned down a Lebanese proposal that U.N. observers be permitted into Israel to investigate the charges that the guerrillas came from Lebanon to launch their attacks.

Israel meanwhile rejected a Soviet proposal for a Middle East peace sponsored by the Big Four. King Hussein of Jordan and the Egyptian press welcomed the Soviet paper formula, and one Cairo paper warned that an "immediate, decisive" effort is needed to stave off another war.

WITHDRAWAL Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the Israeli Cabinet Sunday Jerusalem had informed Washington and London the Soviet proposals "could not serve as a basis or a framework for discussion" because: —They demanded total withdrawal of Israeli troops from Arab lands occupied in the June, 1967, war without establishment of peace.

—They did not provide for "secure and recognized boundaries."

—There was no reference to Israel's demand that Arab-Israeli relations be put on a "contractual basis."

—They did not guarantee Israel shipping rights through the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

An Israeli government spokesman here did not spell out details of the Soviet plan, but the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram reported it contained a "time schedule" for implementing provisions of the November, 1967, U.N. Security Council resolution.

TENSION Tension remained high in Israel-occupied territory. In attempts to counter Arab resistance, Israeli authorities demolished six Gaza Strip homes of alleged guerrillas; sentenced three young Arabs in the West Bank city of Hebron to 20 years in jail for sabotage; and jailed nine Bedouin tribesmen from the Sinai Desert for six years on charges of trying to sell to Jordan arms and ammunition they had collected after the 1967 war.

Israeli police also broke up a demonstration by 400 Arab schoolgirls in the occupied West Bank town of Nablus and arrested three.

In Beirut, the Lebanese army announced new steps to defend 43 border villages from Israeli attack. These include a ban on all demonstrations and marches, a military training program for the population of frontline villages; the building of trenches and other fortifications, and periodic air raid and attack exercises.

The army also submitted to the government a resolution urging Lebanon's first military conscription of youths when they reach age 18.

Defense Minister Hussein Ouweini told newsmen the government had approved a draft principle.

Al-Ahram reported that Egypt's ambassador to the Soviet Union, Murad Ghaleb, met Sunday in Moscow with Gunnar V. Jarring, the special U.N. envoy for the Middle East and Sweden's ambassador to the Kremlin. The report said Jarring has advanced the date of another peacemaking trip to Middle East capitals, originally scheduled for the second half of January, because of the mounting tension in the area.

HOPE King Hussein conferred for 90 minutes in Beirut Sunday with Lebanese President Charles Helou. Later he spoke to newsmen at the Beirut airport, where Israeli commandos destroyed 13 Lebanese civil air carriers Dec. 28 in retaliation for an Arab guerrilla attack on an Israeli airliner at Athens airport Dec. 26.

"If the situation further deteriorates," the king said, "it will affect world peace and I hope the great powers will take a closer look at what is happening here, not only in their own interests but in the interests of world peace."

Navy Is Integrating 82 Pueblo Survivors

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Slowly, the Navy is integrating the 82 Pueblo survivors into the regular base routine at San Diego naval hospital. The men freed in late December by North Korea now are being granted regular liberty. Starting Tuesday, they'll take meals with other patients at the hospital instead of at a special dining room set up for them at the RX Club. Officers will eat with officers and the men will take regular mess, a spokesman said. "We're trying to make them regular patients here at the hospital," says Lt. Cmdr. Richard W. Blaisdall, an information officer.

The Navy made today's noon-time meal the last free meal families would eat with the crewmembers, he said. Henceforth, the crew members undergoing official debriefings who want to eat with their families will have to do so in public cafeterias at the base. Nine crewmen including Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher received purple heart medals Saturday. Bucher, who had been confined to a hospital room for a week with respiratory illness and mental fatigue, said simply, "Thank you." He grasped the shoulders and hands of a number of crewmen who watched the ceremony but did not receive awards.

Novel Crib Draws

AVELLINO, Italy (AP) — The 16th Century Basilica of St. Mary of Constantinople has added something to its nativity crib—a reproduction of the Apollo 8 spacecraft.

"The spacecraft," said a youth who helped build the crib, "signifies not only man's technical progress, but also his aspiration toward the infinite."

More than 1,000 persons came to see the novel crib Sunday, with the Apollo 8 miniature hovering over the hut of Bethlehem.

Jordanian Goes On Trial Tuesday For JFK Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, a 24-year-old Jordanian charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy goes on trial Tuesday in a heavily guarded courtroom where windows have been reinforced with steel as a security measure. Sirhan, dark and slight, is accused of shooting Kennedy in a narrow kitchen corridor of the Ambassador Hotel June 5 minutes after the New York Democrat proclaimed victory in California's presidential primary. The trial may last more than two months. Both the defense and the prosecution estimate nearly 200 witnesses may be called. Because the small courtroom in the Los Angeles Hall of Justice can accommodate only 75 spectators, accredited newsmen will view the proceedings on a closed circuit television monitor in a room four floors below.

The defendant's mother, Mary, and two brothers in the Los Angeles area plan to attend the trial. The father is staying near Jerusalem. Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker, 69, dean of Los Angeles' Criminal Division, will be on the bench. Twenty-one years ago, he decreed the death penalty for Caryl Chessman, who died in the gas chamber in 1960 on kidnap-rape convictions after a 12-year legal battle. There will be three prosecuting attorneys and three for the defense. The chief advocate for Sirhan is Grant B. Cooper, 65, a former president of the Los Angeles County Bar Association and an alumnus of the Los Angeles district attorney's office. His greatest reputation is as a criminal lawyer. In a related development, Cooper, who recently defended one of five men convicted of conspiracy to cheat wealthy members of the Friar's Club at cards, has been ordered by the judge in that trial to explain how he obtained a secret transcript of grand jury testimony in the Friar's case. U.S. Atty. Matt Byrne told U.S. District Court Judge Francis Whelan last Friday that Cooper refused to explain how he obtained the transcript. A hearing was set for late today. Cooper's aides will include Russell B. Parsona, 69, a veteran of nearly 5,000 cases, one resulting in a landmark California Supreme Court ruling that illegally obtained evidence can not be used against a defendant. Another is Emile Zola Berman, 65, of New York City, best known for his defense of a Marine sergeant who led 75 recruits on a night march into a South Carolina swamp where six died. Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon was convicted of negligent homicide. The lawyers, barred from commenting publicly on the case before it goes to trial, have not indicated the grounds on which they'll defend Sirhan. They are expected to plead Sirhan guilty to a lesser offense than murder, one which will not involve the death penalty. Sirhan pleaded innocent to a charge of murdering Kennedy with malice aforethought. The plea can be construed to have meant simply that he was denying malice, say legal authorities. Deputy Dist. Atty. David N. Flitts, 46, a 14-year veteran of the district attorney's office, is expected to head the prosecution. He'll be assisted by Lynn Compton, 46, chief deputy district attorney, and John Howard, of the same office.

Casually Yours

It wasn't easy, but I've come to an amicable understanding with Lucy Van Pelt. After comparing fists, she agreed to cut me in on a small percentage of her year — which would seem to obligate me to make the most of it. I intend to. How about you?

Roy Thruston, Superintendent of Schools down at Garden City, dropped by the other day to say that my championing of sideburns and mustaches conflicts with his "Keep America Beautiful" campaign. (I don't know, in some cases, it might help.)

Enjoyed a quick sneak preview of the new Federal Building last week and was startled to find it so "open" — none of those forbidding walls and iron bars at the service areas. (How many times have you felt like a fool trying to scream through those letter drops?)

I suppose this will be the last roundup column on holiday visitors, but don't want to leave anyone out. Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Anderson are still talking about the good visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Anderson and children, Pat and Mike, who were here from Hurst. Mrs. Don Anderson is the former Jeanette Taylor who taught music at Forsan, and I believe she is related to one of our clidtimers, Horace Taylor. During the visit, the Andersons received a call from their other son, Warren, a staff announcer at KBAT in San Antonio. His wife and son, Alan, were also on-the-phone with their best wishes.

At the John Hogan home, guests were their daughter, Mrs. Janet Brigman and her children, Hank and Jana, along with P. D. Larkey, to whom Mrs. Brigman was married Friday in the First Presbyterian Church in San Jose, Calif. While in this area, the group also visited Janet's sister, Peggy, and her husband, Boone Powell Jr. in Abilene.

The Lester Morton family dashed over to Abilene for a visit with the family of her brother, John Fields, and then on to Hamilton to see Mrs. J. C. Lain and sons, Dale and James. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cranford went to Arlington to the home of the Floyd Antwines, and on the return trip, picked up Mrs. Cranford's mother, Mrs. Lola Allen, who spent the holidays with them here.

Guests in the Garland Braun home were her mother Mrs. C. V. Shultz of Alice and her brother-in-law and sister, the Charles Hickey's. The Bob Dunsons spent the holiday in Fort Worth with their parents.

The Luther Colemans entertained the Jack Colemans of Lubbock. The Delbert Donelsons didn't have far to go. They spent the holiday in Stanton with their parents, the Floyd Smiths and the Aaron Donelsons. The Louis McKnight's were afforded a good visit with his parents, the H. S. McKnight's of Henderson, and guests of the Paschal Odums were the James Odums of Fort Worth and Harold Odum of San Francisco.

After visiting in Abilene with the H. E. Neas, the Morris Rhodes returned here to entertain their guests, the Joe Rhodes family of Fort Worth and the Anthony Rhodes of Lubbock. The Hugo Campbells were glad to have their daughter, Barbara, here from Abilene, and they all went to Paducah to see Mrs. A. W. McDonald and C. A. Campbell.

The town looked a lot prettier with so many of the coeds home for the holidays, and among them were Brenda Greene of Texas Tech, visiting her parents, the J. W. Greenes, and Kandi Penner of UT, at the home of her parents, the Robert F. Penners. Betty Ross was here, also, with her parents, Walter H. Rosses, and their houseguest was Carol Lopez of San Antonio. The Jack Irons had a fine time with their family. Those here with the Ed Irons family of Tyler, Mrs. J. P. Latimore of Paducah, Mrs. Oma Dumont of Paducah, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Irons of San Angelo, Mike Irons and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ed Irons of Dallas. (Mrs. Jack Ed Irons is the former Mozelle Groehl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted O. Groehl, so she was with her parents, also. Incidentally, Ted made the front cover of "Suez Scribbles" in November — if you look close.)

Pretty Tommie Lou Hutto of Dallas had a fine time here with her parents, the Tommy Huttos, and brother, Bruce. Guests of the Warden Mayes and the Jim Lemons were the Sam Sonntags and daughter of Denton. Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Hohertz traveled to Moran to be with their son-in-law and daughter, the Bobby Moores and children. The Don Wileys had a gay New Year's with former localities, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vetcher, in Midland.

Area Residents Visit, Take Trips

WESTBROOK (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Brown of Colorado Springs, Colo., were recent guests of her parents, the A. C. Putmans.

Holiday guests in the home of the Dalton Conaways include Mrs. Andy Hancock and daughter, Linda, Monahans; Mrs. Louise Webb, Jal, N.M., and the Dale Webbs and family of College Station. Mr. and Mrs. Conaway and sons were guests of relatives in Midland.

Weekend guests in the home of the Douglas Barbers were the Wayne Stantas, Notrees; the Fred Howks and daughters, Long Beach, Calif.; and Lavern Wards, Columbus, Ga. The Wards were holiday guests of her parents, the Lloyd Harts.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pope and daughter, Leigh, of Monahans were recent guests of the W. A. Bells. Mrs. A. K. McCarley was also a guest in the Bell home.

Burns After Terrorist Attack

Wrecked by an explosive charge tossed into it by terrorists, the car of South Vietnam's education minister burns Monday in a street in downtown Saigon. The minister, Le Minh Tri, was fatally wounded by the explosion and was rushed to a nearby hospital. Tri's driver was reported killed and two bodyguards and a passerby were wounded.

SAIGON (AP) — Education Minister Le Minh Tri died in a hospital today, victim of the first terrorist attack against a major South Vietnamese political figure in more than a year.

Cavalry Division ran into an enemy force of unknown size and ground reinforcements were sent in to help the Marines rout the enemy force, which was dug into bunkers and trenches.

U.S. Marine units reported killing 29 North Vietnamese in two clashes about 20 miles southwest of Da Nang. The Marines ran into the enemy troops while participating in a sweep called Operation Taylor Com.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported more small clashes, arms finds, air strikes and light shellings. Fifty to 60 large-scale allied sweeping operations were under way, including a drive by 5,000 U.S. Marines and government troops around the abandoned fortress of Khe Sanh and a U.S. Army-Navy push in the Plain of Reeds west of Saigon.

Big Sweep: Spokesmen said the big sweep operations are designed to keep the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong off balance, to ferret out their supplies and to prevent any massing of the enemy for an offensive. So far they have encountered little resistance.

Patrol Continues Hunt For Family Of Five: In Louisiana, CAP planes have scanned a 5,000 square mile area in the Alexandria area since Tuesday, and in Texas, about 80 CAP planes have searched along the plane's probable flight pattern.

Religious Warfare Raging In Ireland

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — "We are sick of marchers and countermarchers," said Northern Ireland's premier, Capt. Terence O'Neill, as he threatened Sunday night to use riot police to quell the religious warfare raging in his territory.

O'Neill called a meeting of his Cabinet today. There were indications it would consider a ban on all political parades and demonstrations.

"Unless these warring minorities rapidly return to their senses," O'Neill said, "we will have to consider a further reinforcement of the regular police."

WARNING
"We must also have an urgent look at the Public Order Act itself to see whether we ought to ask Parliament for further powers to control these elements which are seeking to hold the entire community to ransom."

O'Neill's warning came after a weekend of riots between Roman Catholic civil rights demonstrators and militant Protestants. More than 200 persons, including 22 policemen, have been injured. The Catholics contended that they are discriminated against in housing, jobs and voting rights.

Londonderry's 5,000 Roman Catholics sealed off the square-mile Bogside district in which they live. Behind barricades of rubble and wrecked vehicles, Catholics armed with staves and iron bars formed a private police force to patrol against any invasion.

"KEEP OUT"
"Keep out," the vigilantes warned the police. "We will guard our district ourselves."

Earlier Sunday, a crowd of 2,000 massed in Bogside to protest against a squad of steel-helmeted police who they said swept through a street in the district early Sunday and smashed all first floor windows.

Leaders of the Londonderry Citizens' Action Committee, set up last year to press the Catholic civil rights campaign, persuaded the crowd to send a delegation of 15 men marching to the police barracks at the head of a silent column of 1,000 women.

Home Minister William Long promised the group "an active and immediate investigation" of police behavior.

The weekend riots, the worst in a series that began last October, disrupted an unofficial truce between the government and the committee, which had decided to await promised reforms in housing, elections and jobs.

"FOOLHARDY"
The riots followed the arrival in town Saturday of 200 marching students from Queens University calling themselves "the People's Democracy."

The students had marched 72 miles from Belfast and over the last six miles they ran a gantlet of militant rock-throwing Protestants who see the civil rights campaign as a threat to their dominance in Northern Ireland and the section's union with Great Britain.

O'Neill called the march "a foolhardy and irresponsible undertaking" and said, "Some of the marchers and those who supported them in Londonderry itself have shown themselves to be mere hooligans ready to attack police and others. And in various places, people have attempted to take the law into their own hands in efforts to impede the march."

O'Neill also told a television interviewer he could see no end to religious strife in an area where Catholics and Protestants have been at each other's throats for centuries.

O'Neill also said the prospects of a united Ireland under one government seemed remote.

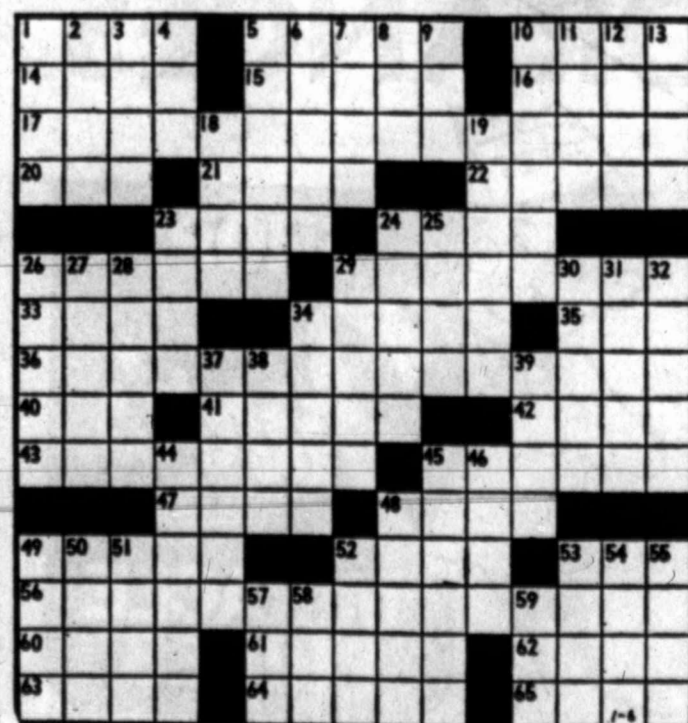

The six counties of the predominantly Protestant North Ireland are part of the United Kingdom but their own Parliament in Belfast controls domestic affairs. The 26 counties of the mainly Roman Catholic South are an independent republic.

Lord's Prayer Bandits Strike

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)— The Kaduna newspaper "New Nigerian" reported intruders broke into a home at Agbor in Nigeria's Midwestern Region New Year's Day and at gunpoint ordered the occupants to recite the Lord's Prayer repeatedly. While the family complied, the bandits loaded a station wagon with household goods valued at $2,240 and drove off, the paper said.

HUGE OIL FIELD CEMENTING TRUCK DAMAGED IN MISHAP Driver is hospitalized but injuries are not believed serious

Oil Well Cementing Truck Hits Culvert, Traps Driver

A mammoth oil well cementing truck, enroute to a job, was damaged $40,000 early Sunday when it ran out of control and crashed into a concrete culvert. The driver was injured and is hospitalized in the Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital. His condition is not believed serious. The accident occurred on IS 20, 3.5 miles east of Big Spring at 2:45 a.m. Sunday. The big truck, a 1965 model which cost more than $80,000 when bought, was owned by the Dowell Chemical Co. of Monahans. The driver was Roy Glenn Lee, 27, whose home is in Monahans. Highway patrol officers said that the truck was not travelling at excessive speed and that it appeared the driver dropped off to sleep. The vehicle swerved to the side of the road and rammed the concrete culvert. The impact was sufficient to almost strip out the truck's entire understructure. The big cab was of the tip up design and flipped forward, tossing the driver nearly free. He was trapped in the wreckage by his legs, however, and had to be freed by wrecker crews before he could be removed to the hospital. Highway patrol officers said C. R. Phillips, Monahans, who is Lee's boss, was travelling back of the truck in a pickup. He told officers that the big vehicle was travelling at less than 55 miles an hour and was not going even that fast when the crash occurred. "When I sped up to 55," said Phillips, "I gained on the truck so I know he was not going that fast." The truck was enroute to a job and had left Monahans Saturday afternoon.

'My Friend Tony' Not 'Hottest' Thing On TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Character is an elusive quality that practically defies commercial packaging. Therein lies NBC's big problem with its new series, "My Friend Tony." The program, which had its premier Sunday night, started off as a routine crime detection series—and precious short on detection at that—designed to showcase the appeal of a young Italian actor, Eno Cerusico. Cerusico is indeed a charming young man with a nice smile, a gentle manner and an interesting accent, but that is hardly enough on which to construct a weekly action series. James Whitmore plays a professor of criminology with a young partner—the charming Cerusico—who together take on outside jobs. In the premier show they were having trouble with the police commissioner, willing to do anything to eliminate a syndicate boss. The story moved lightly into the romance department—there was a pretty blonde around—and included a bit of gun-slinging and even a body in a car trunk. It wound up with the police commissioner in the final scene revealing himself to be an insane fanatic, a pretty tired device. Through it all, Tony, our hero, never lost his cool, that winning smile or his apologetic way with the English language. Whitmore, an excellent actor, has the thankless role of the senior, the man with the scientific mind and the one whose practical attitudes are designed to contrast sharply with the intuitive and emotional operations of Tony. The new series has been placed in one of NBC's weaker positions, and, if its first show is a sample of things to come, probably won't make much of a dent in the competition. Most interesting television of the weekend, far and away, was NBC's dramatic special Friday night, "The Male of the Species," which carried one girl through some difficult experiences with three men in her life. The girl was played with spirit and wit by a young English actress, Anna Calder-Marshall. In the first act she suffered bitter disillusionment from her father, Sean Connery, a widower in a walrus moustache who had an eye for the ladies. He was, she finally realized, an incorrigible and compulsive liar. In the second act she encountered a merry young man who loved 'em and left 'em, and on whom she sought to avenge her disappointment about her philandering father. The young man was effectively played by Michael Caine. Then there was her third-act encounter, in which she fell madly in love with an older man, beautifully played by Paul Scofield. After their affair, he turned away coldly, leaving only a curt note. There was an epilogue of sorts when, wiser and more tolerant, she retraced her steps back to number two. The original drama was written by Alun Owen, and was produced in England. Sir Laurence Olivier was around to introduce each act, to philosophize and apologize lightly for the ways of a man with a maid. It was a thoroughly civilized and delightful 90 minutes.

Statements By Lodge About Viet Situation

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, named Sunday by President-elect Nixon to head the Paris peace negotiating team, has been involved in the Vietnamese situation off and on since 1963. Here is a compilation of statements Lodge has made in the past about the political and military aspects of the war, its chances for success and prospects for peace. OUR GOAL June 29, 1964—Just after he resigned as ambassador to help former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton in his unsuccessful fight for the Republican presidential nomination, Lodge said: "In Vietnam, the aim of the struggle is to create a proper political atmosphere. That's how you beat the Communists there... I don't see the need for more troops in Vietnam. I think our policy there of relying on the Vietnamese to win with our help is the right policy." He said he had chosen this particular time to return to the United States because "things in Vietnam started to go better." Aug. 18, 1964—"There is no question about our determination to see this thing through." He added, however, "We don't believe in a military solution and the military don't believe in it either. Our goal is a political solution." BOMBING May 19, 1965—Lodge defended the bombing of North Vietnam, but said, "By itself, it will not bring an end to the war." Discussing a six-day lull in the bombing, he said, "I think it was permissible to stop them (the raids) for a few days." As for negotiations, Lodge said that as far as U.S. allies in Asia are concerned, the less talk of negotiations, the better. Sept. 6, 1965—Just after returning to Vietnam for a second tour of duty as ambassador, Lodge said that when he left "there was a question in many peoples minds of the chances of success in the effort to ward off Viet Cong aggression. Now I find an atmosphere in which it is generally agreed that the Viet Cong cannot win militarily." Dec. 21, 1965—"I think finally, after a great deal of trial and error, we and the Vietnamese have learned to braid together the different strands of Vietnam. We are on the right track. It is now a question of having forward motion." Jan. 16, 1966—"Persistent execution of the political and military plans which have been agreed to will bring victory." Feb. 14, 1966—"... I maintain that a stalemate is better than a defeat." March 28, 1966—"The situation in Vietnam will 'improve as time goes on.'" PROGRESS April 23, 1966—Lodge said the political confusion in Vietnam had hampered the war effort, but "a great deal of military success was achieved during the last month and I believe the lost time can be made up... We showed that we knew how to overcome the main force units of the Viet Cong. We've shown that we knew how to overcome the battalions of the army of North Vietnam... I think we've made a lot of progress." April 30, 1966—while en route to Washington for consultations with President Johnson, Lodge said: "I think we are ahead of what we were last summer and are very much ahead of what we were last spring." May 5, 1966—"I don't think there is any doubt that the United States is going to stay in South Vietnam and do what is necessary to succeed... The national government (of South Vietnam) does not have control or exert power throughout the country... When they have achieved control, the war will be over." OPPORTUNITY June 25, 1966—"On the military side, the government is going particularly well." Nov. 14, 1966—"When we have beaten the army of North Vietnam and the main force battalions of the Viet Cong, we have simply won the opportunity to get through to the heart of the matter, which is more than 150,000 terrorist guerrillas highly organized throughout the country and looking exactly like civilians." This phase of the struggle, Lodge said, "is not really rolling on a wholesale basis," although in terms of the main military effort, "I would expect a very different military situation indeed here by next year." Dec. 6, 1966—Lodge said the war in Vietnam "just might fade out." He said, "I think you could say that they cannot win. I think you could say that we cannot lose, we cannot be pushed out. I think you could say we haven't won yet." Jan. 8, 1967—"I would expect the percentage rate of American casualties to go down in '67. I would expect the conventional military war to achieve very sensational results in '67." Jan. 11, 1967—"In 1967, the military may accomplish all that could be expected of them." Jan. 12, 1967—"I believe the purely military part of the war—which is what the Americans are engaged in—will make tremendous progress in 1967 and that the percentage of American casualties will start declining." NO DOUBT March 16, 1967—Just after resigning the ambassadorship, "If we persist, there's no doubt about the outcome of the war." March 21, 1967—Lodge said there was "absolutely" no prospect of peace talks. "All that talk is premature and it will also be that for a long time." April 8, 1967—"If we could destroy this terrorist inner circle, the war would be virtually over." April 25, 1967—"The picture is one of solid achievements behind us and difficult problems ahead." Oct. 11, 1967—Lodge said the war cannot be won without military success, "but military success alone will not win it." After his selection by Nixon to head the negotiating team, Lodge said the Paris talks "offer a hopeful forum for the definition of the interest of all parties involved and for the design of agreement to meet those interests." He added that a peace formula "means weighing our views in the balance of justice, testing them against the principles of interest, and ordering them for purposes of compromise."

Longshoremen's Strike Snags Passenger Ship

NEW YORK (AP) — The liner United States, the only American flag passenger ship left in the North Atlantic service, has been sidelined by the 16-day-old longshoremen's strike. The International Longshoremen's Association has agreed to meet today with members of the maritime union to work out arrangements for sailing the ship to Newport News, Va., for lay-up. Supervisory personnel on the ship lugged baggage of 900 arriving passengers Sunday after a voyage to the Caribbean and Canary Islands. A spokesman for the United States Lines said $1 million was being returned to passengers booked on a voyage to Bremerhaven and back, which had been scheduled to begin Tuesday. Meanwhile, no new contract talks had been scheduled since Friday's breakdown, and 75,000 dock workers at East and Gulf Coast ports remained idle.

He reenlisted in August, 1967, and has been in Hot Springs, Ark., studying cooking and food preparation since. Recently, Desi was designated as corpsman of the month (October) and presented with a plaque commemorating the honor. There are 150 youths in the camp at Hot Springs. He goes back to his duties on Jan. 15. He entered the Job Corps through the facilities of the Texas State Employment commission office here.

Storm System Pushes Freezing Rain South

By The Associated Press A storm system churned into the western Great Lakes today spreading snow over the upper Midwest and pushing a road-glazing mixture of snow, sleet and freezing rain further south. Travelers warnings and hazardous driving conditions prevailed over most of the midwest. One to three inches of new snow covered the ground from eastern Minnesota southeast into Indiana. Heavier snowfall is expected in southern Wisconsin and southwestern Michigan. The snow forced delay, cancellation or diversion of flights into O'Hare International Airport at Chicago. Students and servicemen trying to return from holiday vacations experienced numerous delays. Rain and fog continued to dampen the Pacific Northwest and the moisture turned to snow across the northern Rockies and northern plains. In the other corner of the nation rain fell over central and southern Florida. The rest of the East and South had clear skies while extensive fog plagued California's central valley. The Northeast continued to shiver in biting cold, but mild temperatures prevailed over most of the South and West. Exceptionally warm weather in Southern California Sunday drew thousands of persons to the beaches. The Midwest storm raised temperatures from the bitter cold that troubled the area last week although temperatures remained below freezing around the Great Lakes. The morning temperatures ranged from eight below zero in Old Town, Maine, to 65 at Key West and Vero Beach, Fla.

A Devotional For The Day

"We have seen his star in the East, and have come to worship him." (Matthew 2:2, RSV)
PRAYER: Make us wise enough, O Lord, to acknowledge our need of a Savior. Make us worthy enough to accept such wisdom. Make us faithful enough to continue our pilgrimage throughout life. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Toward Clearer Understanding

Amid a chorus of "amens" from the general public and some members of the bar, federal Judge Irving B. Kaufman has called for repair of the communications gap between the courts and the public. There may be, alas, something more than a slight delay.

Judge Kaufman, a Second U.S. Court of Appeals judge, developed his views in a guest editorial for the current issue of the American Bar Association Journal. He held that lawyers have an obligation to write more clearly and intelligibly for the general public, and courts have an obligation to make their decisions understood.

He cited as a prime example of lack of communication between courts and the public a Chicago case in which a judge acquitted two men charged with assaulting an officer.

The court, Kaufman said, failed to make clear that the men were resisting an illegal arrest, which was their right. The police and the press reacted with "totally unwarranted hysteria" over the acquittal, he wrote.

What many lawyers and judges need is an editor capable of clearing out the verbal underbrush and exposing the simple meaning of their thought. But the plain truth is that there are not many men who have either the inclination or the resolution to bell that cat.

Nevertheless, an effort must be made, beginning in law schools, where a course in composition might not be out of place.

After all, no lawyer should expect the public to understand him or his profession if he cannot make himself understood in plain English.

Hard To Keep The Faith

These recent days have been melancholy ones for members of the Flat Earth Society. Never has the incidence of nagging doubts been so high, nor so upsetting.

The source of all these troubles is the successful flight of Apollo 8 to the moon, around the moon, and back. During the journey, the astronauts took frequent photographs of the earth. Every one of those photographs showed the earth was round.

The initial reaction of those who believe the earth is flat is to explain away the pictures as showing nothing more than a flat, round surface, like a dinner plate. But this comfortable delusion begins to ravel at the seams when one photograph shows Africa and South America, another shows Europe and a part of Asiatic Russia, and there are overlapping views of the earth turns.

Some disenchanted members of the Flat Earth Society have turned in their resignations to the society's headquarters in London. Others have their resignations under consideration, reports suggest. It is difficult to keep one's faith these days.

The state of mind of members may be suggested by taking a few liberties with William Cullen Bryant: "The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year. With spinning earth, exposed in girth, confounding one's best seer."

Nixon And The Racial Problem

WASHINGTON — The most difficult problem that the Nixon administration faces is how to handle the racial controversies of today. There is no doubt that during the last several years the Democratic administrations have been conscious of the immense support they could expect from the Negro voters of America. In the last election, it now has been estimated, 88 per cent of the Negroes who voted cast their ballots for the Humphrey-Muskie ticket.

BUT THIS has produced a significant result. It has caused the Republican administration to recognize that there was correspondingly a high percentage of votes cast the other way by persons who resented the partiality and even discrimination as between different groups in applying a variety of government rules and regulations in public school districts during the last eight years. Public funds have been withheld as a means of punishment or else used as a threat to compel conformity.

THE NIXON policies, however, will reflect a feeling that there is no obligation to give one political side so much weight, and that it would be better to do what basically is fair and objective and hope a majority of the electorate will recognize its merit. Robert H. Finch, designated to be Secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, which handles the federal government's relations with the public school systems of the various states, predicts "a new kind of candor" by the next administration in obtaining racial equality in America, since the incoming President owes no political debts to the Negro groups.

MR. FINCH argues that, while racial discrimination cannot be ended overnight, there could be pragmatic programs designed to "give everybody the same chance at the starting line." He has promised to meet with recognized Negro leaders and seek practical solutions. This implies, of course, that many of the rules and regulations and points made in the law suits entered into by the federal government in the last few years will be carefully reviewed to see whether the spirit of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 has really been maintained. For that statute declared explicitly that nothing in the act was intended to overcome "racial imbalance."

WHEN THE Supreme Court of the United States ruled in 1954 that deliberate segregation in the public schools was unconstitutional, the decision also pointed out clearly that this did not mean that integration was compulsory. In other words, if residential circumstances lead Negroes in a certain neighborhood to apply for admission to any public school therein, they would have to be accepted. The school authorities, however, are not legally subject to any federal pressure to rearrange residential limits and transport students from one end of a city or county to another in order to achieve "racial balance."

MANY OF THE "demonstrations" carried on in the cities only served to increase the number of citizens who voted for Wallace or Nixon in the last campaign. The sum total of the Nixon-Wallace vote happened to be a substantial majority of the entire vote of the country. So if President Nixon will follow an even-handed policy and strive to give the Negro every possible assistance, while at the same time avoiding discrimination against any other groups, the chances are the racial problem, as related to governmental action, will be far closer to a solution in the next few years than it has been in the past.

LUCERNE, Colo. (AP) — Charlie is a yearling sheep that likes to munch oatmeal cookies and drink soft drinks. When his owner, Kenny Carlson of Lucerne, says, "Want to go for a ride, Charlie?", the sheep hops into the back seat of the car.

Carlson says Charlie deserves all the cookies and pop he can drink. Last March, after 400 of Carlson's sheep had been sheared, temperature dropped below freezing.

Charlie led his fellows into sheds protecting them from the cold and only 20 were lost, Carlson said.

The High Cost Of Plane Hijacking

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite his renunciation of things capitalistic, Fidel Castro doesn't fall to follow through with business-like efficiency on billing airlines for expenses incurred in hijackings.

Some airline personnel are a bit chagrined, too, because some mistaken impressions have circulated that Castro is footing the bill for the wining, dining and comfort of passengers stranded in his country.

THE FACT is that the Cuban premier sends his bills on to the Swiss Embassy, which forwards them to the U.S. State Department, which passes them on to the airlines involved.

"We pay our bills as we get them; it's standard good business practice," said a spokesman for National Airlines, which has had five airliners hijacked since May 1, 1961.

National figures that direct payments to the Cuban government of $2,500 to $3,000 generally were involved in their hijackings, including payments for food, hotels, landing fees and fuel.

BUT THAT'S only part of the cost. Other expenses included schedule changes, cancellations of other flights because of the unavailability of the craft, and the return of passengers in other aircraft.

Airlines generally have only rough estimates of the costs. "Nobody has really cost accounted it," said an Eastern Airlines spokesman. Each hijacking is unique also; the number of passengers, the time out of service, the mileage involved differ.

Eastern, from which was stolen a jet with 138 passengers and a crew of eight late last week, says its losses average from $7,500 to $10,000 per hijacking, although it concedes the figures are only rough estimates.

OF THIS total, some $3,500 or so is paid out for gasoline, Cuban airport fees, meteorological services and other expenses to the Cuban government. In taking passengers back to Miami additional food bills also might be run up.

One of the largest expenses results from the need to send propeller planes to pick up stranded passengers. Because of Cuban restrictions, the hijacked jets are always sent back to Miami without passengers.

SOME AIRLINE officials feel strongly that the hijackings won't be stopped until an international agreement is reached in which all participating nations agree to return offenders to the country where the crime occurred.

With punishment facing them, these airline officials say, potential hijackers will think at least twice before putting a gun to a pilot's head.

Education Pays Off

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Home is a dangerous place, probably more dangerous than where you work. Each year 19 million Americans—106 out of every 1,000 persons—are hurt in home accidents.

Life is getting more leisurely for the average American. One hundred years ago he worked 65 hours a week. Today, working only 40 hours weekly, he earns enough to afford creature comforts that were unavailable to the 19th century.

BAGGY EYES aren't by any means an indication that one has been imbibing too much of the cup that cheers. Dr. McCarthy DeMere, a Memphis plastic surgeon, says they are often a congenital condition caused by weak membranes around the eye socket.

Where does poverty begin? Economist Leon Keyserling believes any family is deprived if it has an annual income of less than $6,000 and faces actual poverty if its income is under $4,000.

During the 1880s some 100,000 wooded Indians stood outside U.S. tobacco shops—about half the actual number of live Indians at that time.

THE ACES and pains of age are real, not just psychological. The National Center for Health Statistics reports that five out of six persons 65 or older have one or more chronic disorders. The most common: Heart disease and arthritis ailments.

Education pays off: If you are only an eighth grade graduate, you can expect to earn only $247,000 by the time you're 65 according to the U.S. Bureau of the Census. But a high school graduate will earn $341,000 by retirement time and a college graduate more than $500,000.

HEALTH TIP: Do ill-fitting dentures irritate your mouth and gum tissues? If so, better have them fixed immediately. Research in Japan has disclosed that such dentures can cause oral cancers.

Television is being used as a crime fighter in Liverpool, England. City officials installed television cameras to help police keep an eye on streets in high-crime areas.

Worth remembering: "Inflation, as we understand it, is when everybody is so rich that no one can afford anything."

It was Mark Twain who advised, "Make it a point to do something every day that you don't want to do. This is the golden rule for acquiring the habit of doing your duty without pain."

Around The Rim

The Give-And-Take Of Marriage

Are modern girls conditioned toward the give-and-take marriage requires?

A sociology professor, Dr. Richard Klemmer, who claims to be an authority on the subject of love and marriage, says they're probably not.

If you're single but yearning to get married, don't try to be glamorous or to impress prospective mates with your intelligence or station in life. So says Dr. Klemmer.

INSTEAD, concentrate on giving eligible members of the opposite sex the 'love, understanding and recognition every human being craves,' Dr. Klemmer suggests.

Why do some women marry while others — equally attractive — wind up as 'old maids'?

Dr. Klemmer says, after exhaustive research on the subject, that the single women he questioned tended toward personality extremes — they were either too timid or too aggressive. Married women, on the other hand, were 'somewhere in the middle.'

MARRIED WOMEN in the group the sociologist studied had had more chances in their early adult years for dates, for meeting prospective mates and for practicing human relations.

Dr. Klemmer also discovered that single women came from more humble backgrounds. As a 'by-product' of the study, Dr. Klemmer found, to his own surprise, that many of the single women questioned were more attractive physically than the married women.

IT'S A funny thing: A man can hike around five miles over rugged countryside, possibly walking his dog or chasing a golf ball, and come home completely refreshed.

He can walk those same five miles following his wife around on a shopping spree and retreat to his lair utterly exhausted.

WHEN I was a stripling, all youngsters went bare-footed and the teens (especially the girls) could hardly wait until they could wear adult footwear. High heels made the woman.

In this enlightened day and age, the extremely young wear sneakers everywhere and the young teens tramp around without shoes or socks.

Let's Stick To The Essentials

WASHINGTON — The birds, the bees and the polar bears are real nice critters, but it's good to know that the new Secretary of the Interior won't rate them ahead of us human beings.

ALASKA GOVERNOR Walter Hickel, who will run the Interior Department, made this clear enough in his pre-Christmas press conference. He said he was against the Democratic policy of "conservation for conservation's sake." He was specifically talking about a vast animal refuge on Alaska's North Shore where there is also a multi-billion-barrel oil deposit.

HICKEL is a chunky, energetic, bootstrap millionaire who earned his pile by providing hotel and banking services where there weren't any. It makes him an old-fashioned supply-and-demand economist, a refreshing throwback in these days when we've come to expect government administrators to converse in terms of the esoteric and the aesthetic.

It's become so that you're a Philistine if you dare to doubt that the new Frontier founded Camelot, Jackie Kennedy discovered Camelot, Lady Bird Johnson proclaimed Beauty Secretary Udall implanted Physical Fitness and LBJ sculpted economic guidelines. These things are all very well, and so is conservation and so is wildlife husbandry, but government has gotten sickled over with extraneous frippery.

IF THE BIG U.S. petroleum company can hit an oil bonanza, then some 200 million Americans will strike it rich. Any increase in the nation's wealth aims a harder blow at inflation than a whole academy of economists could deliver in their policy meetings.

Hickel was saying that Middle East oil comes to the American east coast in foreign tankers more cheaply than Alaska oil could get there in U.S. bottoms. But Texas and Oklahoma engineers are helping to build a pipeline from the wilds of Iran to a Russian pickup port. This seems an extravagant waste of American know-how on two foreign nations. What's wrong with Alaska-to-Main pipelines, and keep it in the family?

IF WE COULD use the new petroleum fields to become a major exporter, our merchant marine would get a tremendous lift that should allow it to lower freight-rates. This in turn would justify a buildup of the U.S. Navy which a recent House report alarmingly showed to be losing headway to the Russians. Any opening up of winterized highways, airports and pumping stations in the northern reaches would call upon unskilled construction-type labor which has been our unemployment headache for years and which hasn't responded very much to the oh-so-intellectualized treatment in the manpower-training clinics.

IF SECRETARY Hickel doesn't do anything more than take the ruffles off the sleeves of the Interior Department, he'll be worth his keep. The country would be well served if the idea got around to other Nixon cabinet officers that they should help supply what's in demand and never mind the trimmings for a while.

Great Migration

Jobless Finding A New Way Of Life

By JUDI DANIEL

Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Evaristo Sandoval traveled around the nation from one short-lived job to another a year ago, barely eking out an existence for his family.

Today Sandoval worries less about his own security and more about the pilots who fly the planes he inspects.

"THE NAVY is depending on us," he said. "If the job is not done right a pilot could get killed."

Sandoval was one of many jobless Mexican-Americans in the Lower Rio Grande Valley until a Dallas-based industry took a mobile classroom to him.

The company trained him and others, moved them with their families to Dallas and gave them a new way of life.

And what the labor mobility project did for Ling-Temco-Vought Aerospace Corp. is seen by company officials as highly profitable.

IT ADDED 684 skilled workers at a time when the unemployment rate in the Dallas metropolitan area had dropped to below two per cent. Column after column of classified ads begged for people to go to work.

What the project did for the people involved, though, is the real success story.

The plight of the migrant laborer in an increasingly mechanized world suddenly brightened. Now, this group possesses steady jobs.

"It is a better way of life," Alicia DeLeon says of her new job and home. Alicia and her husband, Leon, both work at the plant and recently purchased a new home. They know an independence they never experienced before.

THE PROJECT was a tremendous one in terms of the human element, said J. B. Andrasko, director of LTV's industrial relations.

He admitted the company had some doubts about attempting to relocate the Mexican-Americans from the valley — a traditionally rural, close-knit and family-oriented people.

Would they be able to cope with city congestion, homesickness for the quiet, peaceful valley and for grandparents, sisters, brothers, uncles, aunts and cousins who were part of their daily life?

In all, 2,184 people — men, women and children — became part of the experiment. Two hundred and sixty were school-age children.

"The keys to the success of the program were understanding, excellent counseling and a keen determination on the part of the workers and their families to escape their environment of unemployment, poverty and despair," said Andrasko.

Teamed with federal and state agencies, LTV Aerospace Corp. established three schools in the valley.

THE SCHOOLS BEGAN in 1967 and provided five weeks of training for 15 men at a time.

They were trained to be sheet metal assemblers. As they were graduated, the men were given permanent jobs at the Grand Prairie facility between Fort Worth and Dallas.

Of the 750 enrolled, 684 were graduated and relocated.

The corporation expected to lose 40 per cent of the trainees. They lost only 16 per cent and only 2 per cent of those returned to the Valley. The others took other jobs in this area.

Junior Romance

SYDNEY (AP) — Ross Stevens, 22, took his stepister Jeanette Paton, 19, to a dance, and romance blossomed. Their engagement has been announced, and they say they plan to marry early in 1970.

They are not blood relations. Jeanette is the daughter of the former Mrs. Phyl Paton, a divorcee, and Ross the son of Tom Stevens, a widower, who married Mrs. Paton a year ago.

The youthful romance began when Ross's date was unable to go to a dance and his stepmother suggested he take Jeanette.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens said that at first they tried to discourage the romance, but now are happy about it.

Compensation

GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — While William McClellan was visiting friends, the couple's 4-year-old son came in from the yard in a general state of disarray.

"You're a mess," his mother scolded. "Yep," the kid agreed, "but I'm happy."

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A2 ♥A10 ♣K1093 ♦K76
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♣

What do you bid now?
A.—Two hearts. A free bid of two diamonds would not be justified. Your hand is not worth two bids, counting to just nine points. A free raise of partner's suit is the best way to offer encouragement in the right direction.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A ♥Q8643 ♦K103 ♣KJ3
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Three hearts. After the original pass should be extended on this hand to reach for a game contract. The holding does not quite measure up in high card content to a jump raise, but it does have good distribution. Furthermore, this call may tend to barter West out of the bidding if he has a delayed spade bid to make.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQJ964 ♥A1082 ♦K74
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass 1♠ Pass 1NT
Pass 2♣ Pass 3♣
Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Further probing is fraught with great danger and is rather pointless since partner has indicated possession of a weak hand with a long club suit.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠94 ♦KQ983 ♣QJ9875
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1♣ 2♥ ?

What do you bid?
A.—Five clubs. To bid just four clubs would be placing excessive pressure on partner, and there seems little point in showing the diamond suit. You might just as well gamble it out hoping that partner has his values in the right places.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J ♥AKQ109 ♦83 ♣K853

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass
2NT Pass 3♣ Pass
2♠ Pass 4♣ Pass
6♣ Dble. ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Six trump. East's double is conventional, calling for the lead of dummy's first bid suit, diamonds. This means he probably holds the ace, queen. If both the hearts and clubs run, you may be able to win 12 tricks on the hand in no trump. The bid is a reasonable gamble to protect your partner's hand from the killing diamond opening.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A8 ♥J5 ♦QJ76 ♣AK1082

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass Pass Pass 1♣
Pass 2♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three spades. When partner makes a jump shift after originally passing, he is marked with a pretty good suit and this can be considered adequate support.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠CAJ10 ♥AKQ85 ♣AQ8

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ Pass 1♣ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Three clubs. This hand seems good enough to insist on a game contract, when partner is able to keep the bidding open. If partner raises clubs, you can go back to diamonds and, if he persists in clubs, that should prove to be the best contract. In fact, if you should find him with five to the king-jack, you can make a slam.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠63 ♥987653 ♦1084 ♣AQ

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1♣ 2♥ ?

What do you bid?
A.—Pass. The temptation to double is strong, but you are a shade short of the required high-card values. If the double is not left in, a distinct likelihood, you will be rather ill-equipped to carry on the contest.

Dear Abby

Alimony Takes It All

DEAR ABBY: Believe it or not, my husband makes $35,000 a year, but we are so broke he has considered leaving his body to a medical school to save the expense of a funeral. The reason Freddy is so broke is because he was married twice before and he has to support three families. So now he is throwing a small fortune away on wives and children he never sees. It is like buying oats for a dead horse. I don't say he should let his ex-wives and children starve to death, but both his ex-wives are staying single and bleeding him for all he's worth, just to be mean.

How can Freddy get the alimony and support money reduced? Don't tell us to ask a lawyer. If it weren't for lawyers we wouldn't be this broke. "HARD UP" IN HOLLYWOOD "DEAR HARD UP": When you want legal advice, your best bet is still a lawyer. The "horses" for whom Freddy is buying oats are still very much alive. And when a man changes "horses" three times, he had better have enough "oats" to stock Santa Anita. It looks like you picked a losing oat-burner, Kiddo.

DEAR ABBY: Whoever said teenage years were the happiest didn't know what they were talking about. I am 13 and I am not the least bit happy. Let me explain. I can't date. I can't wear heels. I can't wear lipstick (even pale pink). I can't wear nail polish (any kind). I can't shave my legs. I can't wear shorts or slacks. I can't wear low-back dresses. I can't listen to the radio or watch TV when I want to. I can't stay overnight at anybody's house.

Had enough? Well, I have. I told my mother that she will regret it some day. And she will, too. I've been thinking of running away. I would, but I don't have any place to go. Please tell me what to do. I don't deserve this.

SICK OF BEING BOSSSED DEAR SICK: Your mother is probably sick, too — of being baffled. The things you would like to do are privileges teenagers earn by showing they are mature enough to handle them.

One of the first signs of maturity is the ability to accept a decision without putting up an argument. Accept your mother's decisions for a while, and see what happens.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for telling the wife of a Mason to quit pestering her husband for the "secrets" of the lodge or she'd lose her Mason by degrees.

In the first place, Masonry is NOT a secret society. Everything one would want to know about the organization, its principles and teachings can be found in the public library. The only thing which a member may not disclose are the signs, grips and means of recognition.

My mother was against my joining the Masons at first, but when she learned that Masonic work benefits the wives and families even more than its members, and in every degree, the admonition of a member's duties is "to God, your family, your country and yourself," she was proud that I had joined.

'SURE, IF THE ASSIGNMENT IS TOUGH ENOUGH' Lodge And His Paris Teammates

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, when asked by the Kennedy administration in 1961 if he would return to public life, summed up his approach to a task by replying: "Sure, if the assignment is tough enough."

The 66-year-old Lodge, one-time newspaper reporter and veteran politician and diplomat, is taking his assignment as chief U.S. negotiator at the Paris peace talks in stride. He served as U.S. ambassador to Saigon under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

Named by President-elect Nixon as Lodge's first deputy in the Vietnam talks was Lawrence E. Walsh, 57, a former federal judge and deputy U.S. attorney general. Also assigned to the negotiating team was Marshall Green, 52, now U.S. ambassador to Indonesia.

BOSTON BLUEBLOOD Lodge—a Boston blueblood whose forebears include six senators, a governor and two Cabinet members—was advised by his late grandfather, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, to take up newspaper work as a prelude to entering politics. So, a year before graduating from Harvard, young Lodge joined the Boston Transcript and, after receiving his A.B. cum laude, went to work for the New York Herald Tribune.

In 1926 he married Emily Sears of Beverly, Mass. They have two sons, George and Henry.

In 1932, Lodge ran successfully for the Massachusetts legislature and in 1936 he won his race for the U.S. Senate.

When World War II broke out, Lodge, still a senator, entered the Army. When President Roosevelt ruled in 1944 that no one could simultaneously serve in Congress and the Armed Forces, Lodge resigned from the Senate.

During the war, he served in Italy, France and Germany and became a lieutenant-colonel. He returned home with the Bronze Star, the Legion of Merit, and Croix de Guerre with palm.

1960 DEFEAT In 1946, he won back his Senate seat but lost it in the 1952 elections. As Republican vice presidential candidate, he went down to defeat with Nixon in the 1960 campaign.

Standing 6-foot-2 inches tall, handsome, trim, and articulate, Lodge cuts an imposing figure, with polished manners to match. At a United Nations Security Council meeting in 1956, Lodge, the U.S. delegate, once asked: "For what purpose does the gentleman from the Soviet Union seek the floor?" The Russian heatedly replied: "I'm not a gentleman. I'm a delegate."

Walsh brings to his Paris assignment—a 35-year background as a local, state and federal official with a reputation for being an intrepid investigator and reformer.

Among his accomplishments were his helping to drive racketeers from the New York waterfront and laying the groundwork for school integration in Little Rock, Ark.

In 1957 he was named a deputy attorney general in the Eisenhower administration. He left that post in 1961 to become a partner in the New York law firm of Davis, Polk and Wardwell, where he landed his first job after graduating from Columbia University Law School.

CAREER MAN He served as deputy assistant district attorney of New York County and special assistant district attorney for New York State. He was counsel to the New York Public Service Commission and helped establish a civilian-controlled Police Review Board. He was named a U.S. District Court judge in 1954. Walsh has three daughters and a son.

Green, Ambassador to Indonesia since July, 1963, has been a career man in Foreign Service. After his graduation from Yale in 1939 he went to Tokyo as a private secretary to Ambassador Joseph Clark Grew.

During World War II Green served with the Navy's Far East Foreign Intelligence Bureau.

In 1945, he received his first diplomatic assignment as third secretary and vice consul in New Zealand. He later served in Stockholm as first secretary, in the State Department as a planning advisor for the Far East, and as Acting Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs. In 1960 he became deputy chief of the U.S. mission in South Korea. Green and his wife, the former Lisenard Seabury Crocker, have three sons.

Kansan Receives Heart Of Teenager

HOUSTON (AP) — The heart of a teenager who suffered fatal injuries when his bicycle collided with an automobile beat today in the chest of an Elkhart, Kan., man.

Otho Edwin Chancy, 59, of Elkhart received the heart of Daniel Dana Price Jr., 14, of Houston during a two-hour operation Sunday in Methodist Hospital.

Chancy, operator of an oil well and water hauling service, was listed in satisfactory condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dana Price Sr. said the decision to donate their son's heart came last Friday night on Daniel's 14th birthday.

"It was a decision no one ever thinks he will have to make," Mrs. Price said. "There was consolation in the fact that we were able to help someone else."

Daniel was injured last Thursday at an intersection. Doctors said he suffered brain damage and never regained consciousness.

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, who led nine previous heart transplant operations at Methodist Hospital, supervised the surgical team. The operation began shortly after the boy died Sunday morning.

Chancy was admitted to the hospital Jan. 2 suffering from what a spokesman said was "se-
