Bogus Bill
Believed Here

Charges of passing counterfeit money, which were filed in Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter's court against Webb AFB Sgt. Leonard Wayne James Massie, 21, have been dropped by city police. The charges arose after a bogus $10 bill was passed at a drive-in restaurant Sunday night. Massie was arrested later Sunday night and charged with the offense.

Detective Stanley Bogard said this morning police have relinquished jurisdiction in the case, and two Webb personnel have been turned over to military authorities at the base.

FOUND IN BANK

Two bogus $10 bills were spotted Monday in a local bank, but neither bill appeared to be connected to Sunday's case, nor was there any similarity between the two bills, according to bank officials. The bills were sent to the Secret Service directly from the bank, in accordance with banking regulations. An official of another bank said that it is not uncommon for local banks to discover several counterfeit bills each year.

Bogard said police have received about 20 calls from residents who believed they had counterfeit bills. The bill recovered here was a 1950 series and did not have the motto "In God We Trust" on the back. This is normal for this series, he said, and the bad bills have the serial number L31378100A.

NOT SURE SIGN

The absence of the motto is not a sure sign of a counterfeit bill, residents were reminded. Some of the older series in circulation do not bear this motto.

Fort Worth Secret Service Agent Charles Kunkle said the Secret Service has a thick file on this string of bills, according to Bogard. While several arrests have been made, the plates have not been found. Most of the money was passed on the West Coast, and Kunkle said Sunday's incident is the first bill passed this far east.

The bill passed here was printed on cheap mimeograph paper, which had a gray tint. The paper contained an over-abundance of fine lines in its fiber which appeared to simulate the almost invisible red and blue fibers of the paper used to print real money.

ONLY ONE HERE

Bogard said there is reason to believe that the bogus bill recovered here Sunday is the only one in the area.

Pueblo Inquiry Set

SAN DEIGO, Calif. (AP) — The Navy will open a court of inquiry into the case of the intelligence ship Pueblo next Monday.

Announcing this last night, the Navy said the inquiry would have three phases, including the mission and operation of the ship, its seizure last Jan. 23 by North Korea and the detention of the crew.

Five admirals will constitute the court, with Cmdr. William R. Newsome acting as judge advocate.

Newsome said there was no question of seeking to apply to the Pueblo's crew the Military Code of Conduct, which forbids making confessions while a prisoner of war.

Search For Killers

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A widespread search was on today for killers who kidnaped and robbed Joe Louis Pena, 19, of $7,248 before leaving him fatally beaten in a ditch near the Citizens State Bank.

Police said three men in a 1968 Cadillac were the object of the hunt.

Most of the loot was in $100 bills. Officers said Pena had just taken the money in a locked bag from the bank when the men seized him.

The youth was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Bandits Strike Again

DALLAS (AP) — Three ski-masked bandits, looking and acting like another trio that struck in Dallas Sunday, took $32,000 in valuables from a Dallas residence Monday night.

Police said the men forced their way into the home of Henry English, in the silk-stocking Highland Park area. English is an executive with Red Ball Motor Freight Lines.

Investigators said the bandits are the same men who took an estimated $40,000 in jewels Sunday morning from the Dallas home of Max Wider, an independent diamond dealer.

Police said the trio took jewelry and other valuables from the English home.

The intruders tied English and his wife. They were in the English home almost three hours but did not harm the couple.

Legislators Get To Work, Face Big Task

Two Killed

Airliner Splashes Down, Toll Mounts

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Scandinavian Airlines jet splashed into the rainswept Pacific Ocean while attempting a landing at International Airport Monday night—and floated.

Of the 45 aboard, there were 30 known survivors and four known dead. SAS listed nine of the remaining 11 as missing, the others as unaccounted for.

Santa Monica Hospital, near the airport, reported treating 24 persons and said all were in good condition.

STILL FLOATS

As dawn broke over the Pacific, wreckage of the big DC8 still was floating—almost 12 hours after it came down into two-foot swells eight miles off shore.

In a scene of pandemonium, passengers and crew members scrambled into rubber boats or atop the wings and fuselage. Some tumbled into the sea.

An armada of small boats—Coast Guard cutters, life guard craft, and a volunteer fleet of private yachts and motor boats—conducted a search and rescue operation that lasted for hours.

Rescue boats plucked survivors from the waves or the plane, sped them ashore to ambulances that took them to the hospital.

During the night, divers determined that no bodies were inside the plane.

The jetliner, on a flight across the North Pole from Copenhagen via Seattle, Wash., hit the water with no warning, passengers said.

Due at 6:05 p.m., the jetliner had circled in the airport landing pattern for some 90 minutes due to a bad weather stackup of planes, then began its approach. It vanished from the radar screen at 7:40.

Pilot Kenneth Davis, an Englishman living in Sweden, said he made a "routine approach except for some difficulty with the landing gear."

He declined to give details, but commended his crew and the passengers for "totally heroic and disciplined action" in evacuating the plane and launching rubber boats.

The floating was "a miracle" to one coast guardman. Another called it "kind of miraculous" the pilot "was able to keep the ship in one piece, landing in two-foot waves and darkness."

'Why' Given Trial Emphasis

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Both the state and the defense, by their questions to prospective jurors, have emphasized that the murder trial of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan will boil down to why the swarthy Jordanian immigrant killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

NO DENIAL

"At the outset," chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper told the jurors Monday, "you should know that there will be no denial that our client fired the shot that killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy."

The jury's job, he said, will be to determine intent—"what was going on in his head at the time he pulled the trigger."

Cooper reminded prospective jurors that a charge of first-degree murder requires a union of both act and intent.

The defense case hinges on "diminished responsibility," a legal technicality rarely used outside California.

It holds a person may be legally sane yet still not fully responsible for his actions.

Cooper raised the point while questioning Rosa Molina, a widow and nurse who became the first juror tentatively seated after nearly two hours of questions.

Questions by Deputy Dist. Atty. David M. Fitts indicated the prosecution would attack the "diminished responsibility" concept on grounds it would be difficult to prove a man's state of mind nearly eight months ago.

"This is not something that can be weighed and measured," he said.

WEEKS TO GO

The jury selection, expected to take two weeks or more, began promptly Monday morning after Judge Walker rejected a defense motion to dismiss the trial jury list on grounds it was not drawn from a cross-section of the community.

Three prospective jurors, two of them housewives, were dismissed on their contentions that serving on the jury would cause them hardship.

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' 61st legislature, which faces the monumental task of finding money to pay for the state's fast growing needs in the space age future, opened today.

The first gavel rap came at 12:01 p.m. when Secretary of State Roy Barrera brought the House to order. A few minutes later Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, the governor-elect, gavelled the Senate to order.

EXEMPTIONS

The Texas Committee on State and Local Tax Policy recommended Monday that certain business purchases be exempted from future increases in the state sales tax.

The combination legislator-citizen tax research group submitted its annual report to Gov. John Connally and the 61st legislature.

Much of the report was devoted to estimates that 35 per cent of the present 3 per cent state sales tax falls initially on business purchases.

The committee recommended that if additional increases are made in the state sales tax that the tax imposed on the sale or use of machinery and equipment used directly in production facilities be limited to the present 3 per cent state level and the one per cent present city sales tax rate.

The committee called the sales tax "the largest single tax on business imposed by the state government of Texas."

RECOMMENDED

The committee also told the legislature where it could get some new tax money, but actually recommended only three non-revenue changes.

One recommended change in present tax laws would re-enact a portion of the original state sales tax law that includes an exemption for contractors working for exemption organizations.

The other tax change recommended would make the corporation franchise tax due on June 15 instead of May 1 each year. Too many other tax payments come near the present date and change would help both the state and the taxpayer, the committee said.

The committee stressed that it was not recommending any new tax sources but it presented a number of figures for use of the legislators if they want to increase a present tax or impose a new tax.

RAISE TAX

Raising the state sales tax to 4 per cent without other changes would produce $336 million for the next two-year fiscal period. Applying the committee's recommended limit of 3 per cent

Harris To Chair Demo Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma was unanimously elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee today.

He succeeds Lawrence F. O'Brien, who guided the campaigns of three Democratic presidential candidates prior to his resignation last week to go into the investment banking business.

O'Brien gave this advice to the members of the national committee before the election of Harris: Look to the suburbs. That's where many of the Democrats have gone.

Town Evacuated As Crude Oil Floods Streets, Sewers

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Crude oil gushing from a pipeline leak coursed through the sewers and stood in the streets of a 90-block section on the south side of Lima today. A spark could trigger a disaster.

Police and National Guard troops moved out almost 8,000 persons, emptying homes and factories, and maintained night-long roadblocks and patrols while firemen tried to wash down the streets and flush out the sewers.

In the early morning hours, Acting Police Chief Ronald Cook said he was hopeful the situation was coming under control. "After a daylight inspection, on production machinery would make the revenue $277 million. Removal of the exemption of (See TAXES, Page 8, Col. 6)

Soviet Cosmonaut Hurled Into Orbit

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet cosmonaut was hurled into orbit today in continuation of tests of the trouble-plagued Soyuz spacecraft.

Unofficial reports circulated in Moscow that another cosmonaut would play a role in the mission, possibly attempting the Soviet Union's first manned linkup. A Moscow television announcer said Air Force Lt. Col. Vladimir Shatalov, riding Soyuz-4, would carry out a "complex, responsible mission."

REPORTS IN

Col. Shatalov radioed from orbit that he was feeling fine.

Col. Vladimir Beregovoy's test of Soyuz-3 last October was the first successful mission carried out by the ship. It flew simultaneously with the unmanned Soyuz-2 craft.

Soyuz-1, in April 1966, ended in disaster when Cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov crashed to earth and was killed. During the next 18 months Western space observers closely followed a series of unmanned launchings with Soyuz orbital dimensions. These were believed to be re-entry tests aimed at preventing recurrence of the Komarov tragedy.

Tass said Shatalov, 41, was put into orbit by a "powerful carrier rocket" at 2:39 a.m. EST.

Four flaming exhaust jets could be seen on the television report of the launching.

Tass said Shatalov had successfully operated the craft's manual controls, adjusting his position by making a fix on the sun.

Ground controllers are keeping in touch with the rookie cosmonaut by radio and television, Tass added.

ORBIT PLANS

Tass reported Shatalov's initial orbit was close to planned dimensions, with a high point of 139 miles and a low of 107 miles. He is circling the earth every 88.25 minutes.

Arabs Plan To Tighten Boycott

By The Associated Press

The Arab states plan to tighten their 16-year economic boycott of Israel and foreign firms that do business with the Jewish state, a spokesman said Tuesday. But he did not announce what action would be taken.

Mohammed Mahjub, commissioner general of the Arab League's Boycott Israel movement, said in Damascus, Syria, that measures "to plug the gaps in the siege" are in the offing. He said they would be approved at a conference in Qatar Jan. 20.

BLACK LIST

Currently on the Arab black list are firms that have main or branch factories in Israel; firms that hold shares in Israeli businesses; firms that render structural or technical aid to Israeli industry; firms searching for natural resources in Israel; banks that do more business in Israel than in Arab states, and those that give the right to use names, trade marks or patents to Israeli concerns.

Shipping and air lines are blacklisted if they carry Jewish immigrants or military cargo to Israel. The boycott regulations also apply against film stars and movie companies that are deemed to serve Israeli propaganda or financial interests.

America's Ford Motor Co. and Coca Cola are on the black list. To avoid a similar fate, many large firms such as Renault of France shut down their assembly plants in Israel.

Mahjub said 67 firms from various countries have applied to be taken off the black list and have provided documents proving the termination of their association with Israel. These applications will be decided at the Qatar conference, he said.

In Tel Aviv, an army spokesman reported fresh border clashes between Israeli and Jordanian troops while the military leaders of both countries appeared on a British television program Monday night. The spokesman said two Israeli soldiers were wounded in brief fire-fights and another was wounded when his jeep ran over a mine in the occupied west bank of the Jordan River.

In separate interviews with the British Broadcasting Corp., King Hussein of Jordan welcomed Big Four moves toward a Middle East peace settlement and Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said "Peace cannot be imposed on anybody."

DIRECT TALKS

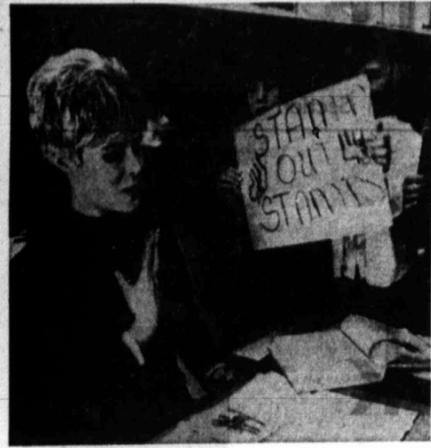

Dayan reiterated the Israeli contention that the only way to get peace would be direct talks with the Arabs. He said Israel had no intention of relinquishing territories it occupied in the 1967 war, would retain the strategic town of Sharm el Sheik at the head of Tiran strait and would not relinquish administrative control of Jerusalem.

Ohio city of 60,000 population remained open to make food available for the displaced persons.

The pipeline gave way shortly before sundown Monday, touching off a series of small explosions. One man was burned.

The thick, black oil poured out, at first threatening only a few hundred homes, and then endangering more than a thousand homes when it flowed from the streets into the sewer system.

Witnesses said small explosions sent sewer lids flying 50 feet into the air. On some streets the oil stood six inches deep.

Fifth Grade Protest

The fifth-grade class of Mrs. Marilee Schroeder has protested her selling of stamps for one-cent each as a grade requirement. Every class assignment turned in without a stamp on it is thrown in the wastebasket. The class, in Maplewood, Minn., just happens to be studying the Stamp Act placed on the colonies in early American history.

Nixon's Hickel Tackles Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Nixon's choice for secretary of interior, Walter J. Hickel, has taken the offensive against his critics, circulating a defense of his conservation record before facing a Senate committee where his foes can have the first, and last, word.

The Republican governor of Alaska, only man chosen for Nixon's cabinet to encounter opposition, won't be called before the Senate Interior Committee until Wednesday. But his temporary Washington office, trying to counter suspicion that Hickel is opposed to some conservation practices, issued a long report that detailed a long list of accomplishments in protecting natural resources and wildlife.

QUARREL

There were hints, too, that Nixon was coming to the aid of his nominee. Word was circulating on Capitol Hill that the President-elect would name Russell E. Train, 48-year-old head of the Conservation Foundation, as Hickel's undersecretary. Train is among the nation's foremost conservationists, and his appointment would weaken Hickel's opponents.

The first of the men who will make up the new cabinet begin testifying today before Senate committees, and all can expect to be recommended, rapidly and routinely, for confirmation by the full Senate.

But one sub-cabinet appointment, multimillionaire industrialist David Packard, probably will undergo close questioning by the Armed Services Committee about his plan to retain stock worth $300 million in his defense-oriented company.

LITTLE CHANCE

Since 1947, the Senate has required top Pentagon officials to divest themselves of all stock in companies handling defense business. Packard's stock is in Hewlett-Packard Co., an electronics firm which handles $70 million a year in Pentagon projects. But Packard has refused to sell the stock on the ground that offering such a huge block

Earns Academic Training Award

With an average of 99.47 per cent, 2nd Lt. Robert Lewis, a member of undergraduate pilot training class 69-H at Webb AFB, has earned the Academic Training Award for the T-37 portion of the program.

Not only was the lieutenant's score the best in his class, but it was also the highest average attained by a student since the award was first presented.

Lt. Lewis entered the Air Force in March, 1968. He received his commission through the Officer Training School in May and was later assigned to Webb for pilot training.

He is a native of Olympia, Wash. He was graduated from Stanford University, receiving a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering in 1967.

Moss Creek Lake Set To Reopen

Moss Creek lake manager Ikey Rupard has ended his leave and will reopen the recreational spot Wednesday.

The facility has been closed a month. Rupard and his family vacationed in such spots as the Big Bend, El Paso and Ruidoso, N.M.

The manager said campers are going to have to be extra careful for a while because of the dead grass around the lake. "Be sure and put out all camp fires when leaving," Rupard advised the campers.

Patriotic Rally For McAllen Hero

McALLEN, Tex. (AP) — An airport reception, a parade through downtown McAllen and an old-fashioned patriotic rally will highlight Nikki Rowe Day Wednesday.

Maj. James N. (Nikki) Rowe, 30, who was a captive of the Viet Cong in the jungles of the Mekong Delta in South Vietnam for five years, is to be honored by residents of McAllen.

Maj. Rowe, an Army Special Forces officer, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee D. Rowe of McAllen. He is a graduate of McAllen High School and the U.S.

Military Academy.

There is to be an airport reception before Rowe is driven to downtown McAllen for a parade and a rally at McAllen High School football stadium.

McAllen Mayor Paul Veale, Maj. Rowe and others are to speak during the rally, said Schuller. Maj. Rowe will also be presented with a letter signed by thousands of McAllen residents, school students are being dismissed from classes and a Harlingen television station will televise the event live.

It will be the second trip home for Rowe. The first was kept semi-private at the request of members of the Rowe family. The major spent 72 hours in privacy visiting with his parents.

Rowe, who escaped from the Viet Cong on Dec. 31, was captured while serving as an adviser to South Vietnamese forces in the Mekong Delta Oct. 29, 1963.

Memphis To Host Inn Employes

O. T. Brewster of the local Holiday Inn will attend the 1969 Innkeepers' conference in Memphis this week.

More than 300 Holiday Innkeepers and their wives are expected at the three-day event. Brewster will attend sessions on research, motivation, employe training, marketing, international development, public relations and food merchandising.

A special topic will be the Holiday Inn University planned for the system's headquarters in Memphis. The $3 million complex will have dormitories, classrooms, auditoriums, laboratories, cafeterias and complete conference facilities. Approximately 3,000 Holiday Inn employes will receive training there annually.

Directors of the Cosden Country Club were re-elected at the annual meeting of stockholders held Monday afternoon. At a subsequent board meeting all officers were re-elected.

Only routine matters were considered.

Nixon Encounters Negro Dissenters

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Nixon, who pledged that dissenters would be heard in the counsels of his administration, has encountered some—although apparently second-hand.

Leaders of six Negro organizations spent over an hour with Nixon in New York Monday and two of them asserted later that his appointments are troubling the Black community.

Nixon arrived early today at Key Biscayne, his Florida retreat, for a surprise visit expected to extend until Friday. He came alone, and planned to work alone on the final draft of his inaugural address.

Nixon is expected to spend Friday night and Saturday in New York, then fly to Washington next Sunday on the eve of his inauguration.

After Monday's New York meeting, Matthew Wright of the Black Power Conference singled out Daniel P. Moynihan, Nixon's assistant for urban affairs, for his criticism.

Wright said Moynihan is committed to "the white mind set," which emphasizes the rehabilitation of buildings instead of people in dealing with city problems.

"He has added to the possibility of disorder in the streets by his being there," Wright said. He said he believes a Negro should have been Nixon's chief adviser on the cities.

But he acknowledged that he had not brought up this complaint during the meeting with the President-elect. He said Nixon was gracious. "He talked and we listened," Wright said.

"No strain," said Moynihan. "This is part of the pleasure and enthusiasm of the times—people speak their minds." But he also denied Wright's assertion about his view on city problems, saying he has for 20 years concentrated on the social structure of urban life as the key to

Asserts He Is Being Outmaneuvered By City

DALLAS (AP) — The plaintiff in an injunction suit against the city of Irving involving the controversial Texas Stadium, told the Dallas Morning News today he is being outmaneuvered, the newspaper said.

Howard Currens said he had agreed to drop his court action against Irving if Council members called a two sided election: one booth to determine taxpayer reaction to the issuance of revenue bonds for the stadium and another to record sentiment of residents on allowing Dallas Cowboy-related interests to have a 35-year franchise on the stadium.

"The city has since decided they will arbitrarily declare everyone a properly qualified taxpayer — after all, they are subject to the 1 per cent sales tax — and that there will be just election," Currens said.

"The City Council agreed to two classes of votes, then changed the definition of the classes so there would be just the one class and one vote," he continued. "I placed faith in our agreement and you can see the results," Currens added.

Currens' injunction, filed Dec. 26, states that Irving stadium plans violate the city charter—that no franchise in excess of 30 years can be given without prior approval of the voters.

If the plans are approved by Irving voters Wednesday, the city will possibly issue revenue bonds for a 65,000 seat stadium, a new home for the Dallas Cowboys.

'Space City' Hails Moon Voyage Crew

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Houston, which calls itself the "Space City", formally welcomed home Monday the most travelled of space heroes, the Apollo 8 moon voyage crew.

Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell and Air Force Lt. Col. William Anders, the Apollo 8 crew which circled the moon for 20 hours last month, rode through the heart of downtown Houston and were showered with blizzards of ticker tape, paper and bogus money.

The trio then received the city's highest award for valor, gold medallions inscribed with the Latin phrase "through difficulties, to the stars."

Police estimated that more than 250,000 persons lined the streets to get a glimpse of the space heroes.

Texas Gov. John Connally officiated at the parade reviewing stand ceremonies and praised the Apollo 8 flight as "the most incredible performance we shall ever see in our lives."

Houston Mayor Louis Welch presented the gold medallions, hanging them from blue ribbons about the necks of the astronauts.

The crew responded by pre-

'I Have Given It Everything I Had'

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson pressed his valedictory. He said: "I don't know what they will say next year or what they will record in a hundred years about our accomplishments, our solid achievements. But I do believe they will all say we tried."

Johnson made the statement at a brilliant dinner dance in New York last night. A White House spokesman said it would be the last such formal occasion for the chief executive.

The President in effect expressed his valedictory. He said: "I don't know what they will say next year or what they will record in a hundred years about our accomplishments, our solid achievements. But I do believe they will all say we tried."

He spoke slowly. His voice was low and deeply serious. He was interrupted frequently by applause.

His guest list of more than 400 was bipartisan, including prominent Republicans as well as Democrats.

At the same time the President had a fine time at the party. He danced during dinner, and when the formal program ended he went on dancing until 12:10 a.m. EST.

He then flew back to Washington.

The dinner guest list was composed of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, members of the Johnson cabinet, diplomats, educators, labor leaders, prominent businessmen, civil rights leaders and members of the performing arts.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, New York Sen. Jacob K. Javits, Mayor John V. Lindsay and their wives were among the guests.

Johnson said the real test of his administration will be not what historians say. He said the ultimate judgment would rest on whether Americans live better today.

"I really think there has been a change for the better," he said.

He pointed to what he described as improvements in the condition of Negroes, the aged, the opportunities for education among the young and the condition of "families who were poor, and men who are idle. They have begun to know the dignity of decent incomes and jobs."

Johnson noted that one of the astronauts of Apollo 8 looked at the moon from his back yard and said he wondered if he had really been there. The President smiled slightly and said:

"Perhaps the time will come when I will look back on the majesty and splendor of the presidency, and find it hard to believe that I ever occupied that office."

"But tonight, my friends, tonight beyond any peradventure of doubt, I know that I have been there. And I know that most of you were with me. And I know, with a pride that touches every fiber of my soul, that I have given it everything I had."

Some Ancient Romans Losing Their Heads

By The Associated Press

Romans have been losing their heads.

The city's superintendent of antiquities reports that 15 old marble statues in city parks have been decapitated since 1962.

The big Villa Borghese Park in the center of Rome lost heads of a satyr, two Hermes statues, and half a dozen ancient consuls, senators, warriors and orators.

Not much can be done about it. The statues are scattered along miles of walks through parks and in odd nooks and corners of ancient Rome which are unguarded at night.

Authorities doubt if the beheading is the work of vandals or even souvenir hunters. They believe it's done by thieves specifically commissioned to supply antique statue fragments to a clandestine market.

Some heads eventually are recovered in and around Rome, decorating modern villas. The best fragments and most of the heads probably find their way into the hands of collectors abroad.

The beheaded statues are left standing—headless. They do not look particularly out of place that way.

What with the wear and tear of time, and the depredations of the early barbarians, Rome has many ancient statues as armless as the Venus de Milo and as headless as Winged Victory of Samothrace.

Reliable Records Aid Police Work

"Adequate, reliable records in the police department form the hub of the department's administrative wheel," Sgt. Pete Stone told a noon gathering Monday of the Big Spring Jaycees in the Downtown Tea Room.

Stone, in charge of the records and identification division of the Big Spring Police Department, said that keeping records was very important in police work, and that some 28 different files of reports from traffic accidents to burglary reports are maintained by the police department here.

"The quality of the records corresponds directly with the quality of police work in a city," Stone said.

He said that records are not only important to law enforcement, but also in the prevention of loss of property. He noted that the police department is always willing to cooperate with the business community in the use of records.

Stone was one of several speakers who appeared before the Big Spring Jaycees in observance of "Law Enforcement Month." Wayne Burns, district attorney, is scheduled to speak at the next meeting.

Tommy Tompkins, chairman of the All-American Red Heads Basketball game played Saturday night here, reported that the Jaycees netted $540 and that the funds will go to charity.

Other Jaycee activities in the future include a membership breakfast Jan. 28 with Big Spring Mayor Arnold Marshall, and the annual Boss' Banquet Feb. 20.

LBJ Gives Farewell Address To Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to outline his analysis of the State of the Union in broad terms to night and defer recommendations for specific legislation to his successor.

Hershey Foods Gets Writ To Protect Name

DALLAS — Acting on the complaint of the plaintiff Hershey Foods Corporation, Hershey, Pa., a nationally prominent manufacturer of chocolates and food products, United States District Court Judge Joe E. Estes at Dallas has issued a permanent injunction against defendants, Hershey Distributing Company, Joe R. Perryman, Thelma Perryman, and their associates, all of Dallas. The court's order prohibits the defendants from using the name Hershey in any corporate or business name or in any business which is related to or in any way connected with the production, sale or distribution of candy, candy vending machines or routes or franchises for candy vending machines or candy.

The Pennsylvania-based corporation claimed that the Texas company had unlawfully and fraudulently used and appropriated the good will and reputation of Hershey Foods Corporation and had engaged in unfair competitive activities. The complaint also charged that the Texas defendants' method of operating, through newspaper advertising of routes and claims of great income potential, are part of a scheme and method of operation used by defendants to deceive and mislead prospective customers into thinking they are dealing with a well-known, highly-regarded company.

Marines In Big Seaborne Assault

U.S. Marines in landing crafts move away from troop ship, background, to join assault line as they take part in the biggest seaborne assault since the Korean war. Two battalions of Marines stormed ashore Monday on the Batangan Peninsula, 340 miles northeast of Saigon, the first units of an 8,200-man allied force ordered to smash a longtime enemy sanctuary.

Marines Storm Shore In Big Seaborne Assault

BATANGAN PENINSULA, Vietnam (AP) — Two battalions of U. S. Marines stormed ashore here in the biggest seaborne assault since the Korean War. They were the first units of an 8,200-man allied force ordered to smash a longtime enemy sanctuary, spokesmen announced today.

The Marines landed Monday 340 miles northeast of Saigon at the scene of the first major American battle of the Vietnam war, it left 15 leathernecks dead and 150 wounded against 560 enemy killed.

U. S. spokesmen said the two battalions were pushing inland today toward a U. S. Army battalion and a South Vietnamese battalion. The three groups hope to surround an area of about eight square miles believed to hold up to 800 North Vietnamese regulars and an unknown number of guerrillas.

The operation was not announced until today for security reasons. Spokesmen said the advancing troops so far have encountered only light sniper fire and they speculated it might be some time before the cordon is closed tight enough to force the enemy to fight or surrender.

The Batangan Peninsula is only 11 miles from the U. S. Army's American Division headquarters at Chu Lai. It has been a major enemy storage area and base camp since the war with the French, and minor probes of its defenses have almost always resulted in fierce fighting.

This time the allies have come to stay and the area's 5,000 to 10,000 population will be put into the government pacification program, U. S. spokesmen said. They added nearly all peninsula residents either actively or passively support the Viet Cong and pacification efforts are expected to be "bloody and slow."

Military officials said the cordon will not be pushed too quickly. The area is honeycombed on higher ground with tunnel systems, some three layers deep. Strategists speculate it will take time for guerrillas in these tunnels to run out of food and fresh water, and the allies don't want them popping up behind them with automatic weapons.

The commander of the Army's task force on the inland side of the cordon is Brig. Gen. Howard Cooksey of Alexandria, Va. He said the cape is the home base for two main force North Vietnamese battalions of perhaps 800 men.

The landing was timed to coincide with the monsoon season in hopes that many of the tunnels would be flooded and of no use to the enemy.

Officials said troops will spend the first 36 hours of the operation closing the trap and pouring millions of words of propaganda into the village areas by leaflets and airborne loudspeakers. The message: "Any who now walk toward the allied lines will not be harmed. But you are surrounded and if you fight you will be annihilated."

The U. S. Navy, which commanded the Marine operation until all the troops were ashore and in fighting readiness, said the landing was the biggest since Sept. 15, 1950, when about 20,000 marines landed at Inchon during the Korean war.

Santiago, Under Conviction Of Murder, Gets New Delay

Joseph Narciso Santiago will get a longer stay in Howard County Jail.

Santiago has been in the county jail here all but eight months and 28 days since he was arrested April 26, 1966, and charged with the murder of Sgt. Malcolm Gore and the shooting of Mrs. Jean Morton the night of April 25, 1966, just outside the entrance gate of Webb AFB.

The 23-year-old Puerto Rican native who was in the U. S. Air Force and stationed at Webb at the time of the double shooting, was placed on trial Feb. 20, 1967, for assault with intent to murder in connection with the wounding of Mrs. Morton. He was found guilty and assessed 10 years.

On May 5, 1967, Santiago was put to trial for the murder of Gore. He was found guilty and given a life prison sentence.

A series of legal moves by George Thomas, defense attorney, has kept Santiago in jail most of the time since the incident. He was released on bond, however, from Sept. 1, 1966, until he was sentenced on May 28, 1967, for the murder charge.

Monday, Santiago was given another delay at a hearing in 118th District Court when Thomas showed Judge Ralph Caton that the record of the murder trial was not approved and sent to the Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin in the required length of time.

Thomas asked, and was granted by Judge Caton, that approval of the record be set aside until additions could be made before it is sent to Austin. He specifically called for the inclusion of the arguments in both trials.

Thomas cited the new code of criminal procedures which says that after the record of a trial is complete, the presiding judge has five days, plus 15 days to approve the record so that it may be sent, along with an appeal, to the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The defense attorney noted that the record for the assault with intent to murder trial had been approved on time, but the record for the murder trial was not approved until several months after it was complete.

Since the record has not been approved according to the law, Santiago's appeal in the murder charge, which was filed Dec. 19, 1967, has not been sent to the appeals court.

In the meantime, Santiago has been a regular guest of the county in the jail, but he doesn't seem to mind staying here.

"I'd rather be in jail in Big Spring than in the state prison," Santiago says. "I know there's hope for getting a new trial as long as I'm here and not away from my lawyer. And maybe some day I can get out so I can see my wife and children."

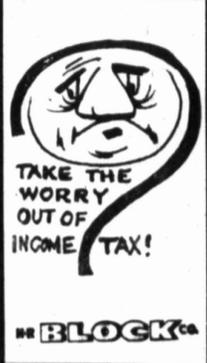

Santiago, who lived in New York City before joining the Air Force, has a wife and two children whom he has not seen since his murder trial.

His first trial was originally set for Jan. 23, 1967, but on Jan. 17, the defense was granted a continuance. Then the assault with intent to murder trial was begun Feb. 20, 1967. Following the verdict, a motion for a new trial was filed March 13, and another motion for a new trial was overruled in 118th District Court on April 5, 1967.

On April 7, Santiago was sentenced to 10 years and the defense gave notice of appeal.

After the trial for murder the defense also asked for another chance and a motion for a new trial was overruled on Dec. 19, 1967. Thomas then gave notice of appeal, but the appeal cannot be submitted until the record is approved.

Dear Abby Wrong Kind Of Payment

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 years old and have been working for nearly a year in a place that's way out in the sticks and not very easy to get to. My problem is the man I ride to and from work with. He is 53, married, and has grown children.

Abby, I started giving this man a little peck on the cheek every time he took me home, but now I'm having a terrible time getting him to stop at one kiss. I know I shouldn't have started up with him in the first place because I can't stand him, but I don't drive and this man picks me up at my door every morning and brings me home after work, and he never asked for a dime.

The free transportation was a good deal before he got so chummy. How can I keep this old man in his place and not lose my rides?

DEAR NO: You probably can't, so now would be a good time to find a job that's easier to get to. Nothing is free, so prepare to pay for your transportation in cash, cut out the kissing, and kiss off this old lecher for good.

DEAR ABBY: I have always heard that a wife can help her husband to succeed in business. Exactly how can she do this? I mean, don't some wives try too hard and spoil things for their husbands?

I am 24 and my husband is 27. He's a junior executive with an ad agency and has lots of talent and ambition, but I'd like to do everything I can to help him.

I'm a beautician and am still working, but will quit as soon as I get pregnant. (We've been working on that for about a year, but so far, no luck. Any advice there?)

TINA
DEAR TINA: You can help your husband by letting him know you have confidence in his ability to succeed. You can be a good sport if he has to work late or take a business trip without you.

You can send him to work looking like a "winner" — well-dressed clothes, clean shirts and ties, and not in need of a haircut. (I don't expect YOU to cut his hair, but you can "remind" him when he needs it.)

Listen when he wants to talk, and be quiet when he doesn't. Encourage him to climb, but be patient, and don't nag or make comparison. And about that "family" you're working on. Check in with your friendly neighborhood doctor.

DEAR ABBY: After 21 years

Nude Jane Moved To Modest Place

TORONTO (AP)—The story of Lady Jane, a charcoal drawing of a reclining nude, ended on a quiet note when artist John Leach decided to remove the picture from an art gallery window in downtown Toronto.

Leach said it was better to have Lady Jane moved to a more modest place inside the gallery than "go through the business of having her status decided in court."

Police ordered the painting, valued at $1,000 removed from the gallery window Friday, saying the four-foot long work might shock women and children passing by.

Leach then cut a fig leaf out of lineoleum and stuck it on the nude with adhesive tape, an act which he said "defaced my own work."

A Devotional For The Day

The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. (Psalm 46:11)

PRAYER: Our Father God, ever present in man's history, give us eyes to see in events the movement of Thy spirit. Give us a sure faith that Thy purpose can never be defeated. Amen.

Somewhat Steep Increase

A good case can be made for a substantial increase in pay for the president of the United States. But a 100 per cent increase, as proposed in a House resolution passed Jan. 6, is difficult to justify.

The Johnson administration, for instance, has been arguing unsuccessfully for months for restraint in wage increases for industrial workers. The three per cent increase recommended by the administration long ago was breached. In fact the average increase in wages for union workers in new contracts approaches seven per cent.

Hence it seems a bit out of character to demand on the one hand that restraint be exercised in wage increases, and on the other hand recommend a 100 per cent increase on the president's salary. Rep. H. R. Gross, Iowa Republican, espied the dark object in the woodpile. He argued with much apparent truth that Congress was being rushed into a pay increase for the new president only because members are interested in boosting their own salaries by 60 per cent, from $30,000 a year to $50,000 a year.

Congress does have under consideration, and members are reported to be eager to adopt, a recommendation by a commission headed by Frederick Kappel, retired board chairman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. that the following salary levels be approved: Members of Congress, from $30,000 to $50,000; Cabinet members from $35,000 to $60,000; district judges, from $30,000 to $47,500; Supreme Court justices, from $39,500 to $65,000; and chief justice, from $40,000 to $67,000. The commission argued a particularly strong case for increases at Cabinet and sub-Cabinet level.

If members adopt the recommended salary schedules they may discover somewhat belatedly that their constituents disapprove.

Blocking Rights Of Others

The spectacle of schools being closed by student demonstrations is disturbing, for it approaches the example of the tail wagging the dog.

We do not subscribe to the thesis that students have no right to petition or to voice opinions, for colleges are not like cattle feed troughs where the fare may be taken or left. Since students happen to be human beings, it is essential that lines of communications be kept open, and that a dialogue be available between students and faculty and administration.

But in the final analysis, colleges and universities are not something up for grabs by student or faculty action groups or militants. They are to be directed by administrators named by trustees responsible to the public or to the private interests which created them.

Above all, they are maintained for the purpose of pursuing knowledge, and their reason for existence is thwarted if this service is not freely available to those who want the opportunity to study and learn. No student (and no faculty member) has a right to prevent another in the fulfillment of the desire to seek knowledge in the college university in which he is enrolled.

Marquis Childs The Kennedy Pattern Repeated

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
(For Marquis Childs, who is on vacation.)

WASHINGTON — To watch the bland, mannered but infinitely tough presidential maneuvering that now stirs in the Senate is to have the strongest feeling that the great spool of time is unrolling backward to a full decade ago.

"But all this," one finds himself all but saying aloud, "all this was yesterday."

WHERE 10 YEARS ago Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts was visibly moving toward the Democratic presidential nomination of 1960 from the floor of the Senate, his younger brother, Sen. Ted Kennedy of Massachusetts, is visibly moving today toward the Democratic presidential nomination of 1972.

Where 10 years ago Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, then the Majority Leader, was approaching ambition's call with mixed responses, now heading it, now turning a dubious and skeptical face toward it, so in the same spirit today is Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine.

THIS PARALLEL, this act of history repeating itself, lacks a single factor to be whole and total, this is the presence of a third contestant, for in 1959 there was also Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri. But this lack is very likely only temporary, for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey intends to return to the Senate from Minnesota in 1970 and thus in good time to complete the triad for 1972.

Nor does this analogy, this nostalgic embrace between past and present, stop even there. The Ted Kennedy of the present is not merely following the path of the John Kennedy of the past. More strikingly, he is also doing it the same way and is relying, in the end, upon the same potential constituency.

THE REAL John Kennedy lived within and spoke for that only moderately liberal section of the Democratic party which was then — and still is — its ultimately controlling force nationally. The Ted Kennedy of now is most of all working in this same area. His successful challenge to the incumbent Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana for the post of Democratic whip was not in truth the challenge of a man who was "anti-establishment" or vehemently liberal or anti-traditional. Indeed, the challenge succeeded precisely because this was not the case; otherwise, it would most certainly have failed.

FOR TED KENNEDY himself, like his brother John but quite unlike his brother Robert, is in no way in the reformist, or "out," mold of the Senate. In his deep sense he himself is and was a member of the establishment, for the establishment's trust and most central characteristic is its profound distrust of the politics of a hot-blooded evangelism, of fire in the belly.

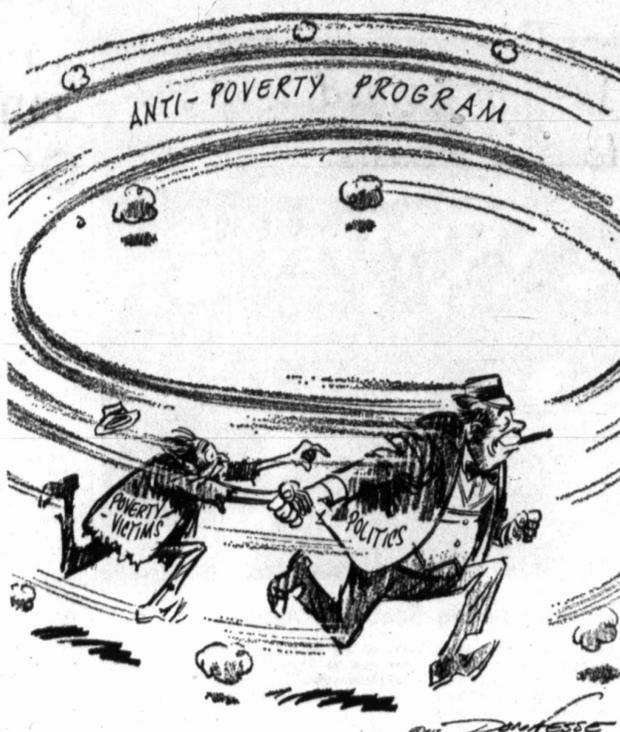

And, again like John but very unlike Robert, Ted Kennedy has not only never broken with his Southern colleagues but has in fact kept fully open his human communications with them. So, too, did John Kennedy — and from the beginning to the end, for that matter.

IN A WORD, Ted Kennedy's strategy must and will be a repeat of the strategy of John Kennedy to seize and bind up the center and the slightly left of center. It will reject the strategy of Robert Kennedy to appeal almost exclusively to the dissenting and protesting left.

Already — though it has not yet happened, of course — one can see it evolve. Ted Kennedy will leave the vehement left to Humphrey, exactly and ironically as John Kennedy left it to Hubert Humphrey in the 1960 primary election campaigns and decisively so in the West Virginia primary that actually won the game. The aim will be to crowd Humphrey into the leftward corner inhabited by such Americans for Democratic Action, whose gift of articulation is as high as its capacity to marshal votes is low.

AND TED KENNEDY will seek to neutralize Sen. Muskie as John Kennedy sought to neutralize Lyndon Johnson, not on ideological grounds but simply and solely upon the facts of geography. Johnson's crucial disability in 1960 was that his home base was Southern. Muskie's crucial disability in 1972, in Ted Kennedy's planning, will be that Maine, his home base, is remote and in electoral vote terms insignificant.

'I LIKE YOUR HELP — BUT WE'RE GOING IN A CIRCLE'

John Cunniff

Big Business Knotted By Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — If the strength of a good business lies in its ability to turn problems into opportunities, then big business today is potentially very strong and facing unlimited opportunities.

The big automakers are being sued by the U.S. government, International Business Machines is accused by competitors in antitrust suits, Boeing is stymied by technology in efforts to produce a supersonic airliner.

The stock market is knotted by more problems than can be solved in this decade. Bad work methods, commission disputes, misuse of information, stiff regulation and growing institutional power provide unlimited work for problem solvers.

SOME OF THE major oil companies are scrapping among themselves and against Occidental Petroleum, which seeks a free trade zone for its imports along the Maine Coast.

The Federal Trade Commission has ordered U.S. Steel to divest itself of a ready-mix concrete company and in doing so interpreted the law to make it more difficult for large companies to buy smaller, failing, firms.

In fact, of the first 10 companies in Fortune Magazine's list of largest industrial firms, four others besides U.S. Steel have been named in court actions so far this month.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, the first, third and fifth largest, have been accused in a Justice Department civil antitrust suit of having unlawfully delayed installation of anti-smog devices in their cars.

IBM, ACCUSED earlier by Control Data Corp of unfair business practices, was named by Data Processing Financial & General Corp. in an antitrust suit involving a claim for $1 billion in damages.

Checking through the other categories of Fortune's largest businesses reveals enough problems for the big firms to keep staffs of problem-solvers happy.

The commercial banks have the type of problem they have long feared:

Increasing demand for their funds but not enough funds to lend. Because of their dilemma, they are forced to charge higher rates and to withhold credit.

Consider the plight of the life insurance companies, another category in the Fortune list. The fact is that life insurance doesn't enjoy the standing it once had.

BECAUSE inflation has made fixed-return securities less desirable, funds that conceivably would have gone to the big insurers are going into mutual funds instead. The result: Insurers are being forced to learn the mutual fund business.

As for the mutual funds. Well, they've been battling one of the most welcome problems ever to confront an industry. Thirty years ago the funds didn't have $1 billion in assets. Now they have more than $50 billion.

Their problem? Growth. Some of the funds that could show 50 per cent increases in value when they were small have found that as they grew—the result of their success—percentage increases became more difficult.

If any substantiation of this is desired ask Gerald Tsai, who as portfolio manager of a large Boston fund and then as manager of his own Manhattan Fund, scored spectacular increases. Last year, with his fund larger than ever, he finished with a net loss.

MERCHANDIZING is another Fortune category, and the problems here are huge. The most persistent is the contrary behavior of the consumer. Nobody seems able to satisfy him for long.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., for example, will tell you how difficult it is to give the customer precisely the foods and other products he desires. A&P growth has almost stagnated at times in recent years.

The next category: Transportation. The largest firm in the list is Pennsylvania-New York Central, which had more than $2 billion in operating revenues last year. It's problem: The New Haven Railroad, a bankrupt operation it was forced to purchase under government pressure.

Only The Strong Survive

NEW YORK (AP) — If you think life is going to get back to a dull routine now that the holidays are over, you couldn't be more mistaken. There are plenty of jolly celebrations yet to come.

According to Chases' Calendar of Annual Events, there are 1,471 occasions to celebrate in 1969, ranging from Give Your Girl a Pearl Day through "D for Decency" Week and on to Horse Health Month.

NATIONAL WILDLIFE Week is March 16 to 22, but judging from the list of observations on tap, life will be pretty wild for the nation the entire year.

For instance, almost before you get all the pine needles out of the carpet, along will come Sandy Shoes Festival Jan. 17 to 26 in Fort Pierce, Fla.

Then, on a more serious note, there's National "Pay Your Bills" Week Feb. 3 to 7. At this somber time it would be well to look forward to National Laugh Week April 1 to 9 and American Comedy Week April 7 to 15.

These should put you in the proper frame of mind for Mother-in-Law Day, slated April 13.

Word From Patients With Pacemakers

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Letters from two readers, a man and a woman, who have heart "pacemakers" keeping their heart rhythm steady ought to be of interest to others who may need such aids.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: As one who has had a pacemaker since 1965, I would like to tell you how wonderful it is.

I was taken to the hospital for an emergency operation and after several days of tests and X-rays was informed that it would be impossible to operate until I had a pacemaker. A heart specialist installed it. I was in my 71st year.

Then I went back to work, had my operation (gall bladder) two months later, and was back at work again in two months.

The batteries of the pacemaker are guaranteed for three years. I have had mine replaced once. You may use my remarks if you so wish. — Mrs. M.L.

I have had one for going on five years, and it is not a serious operation.

My pulse was down to 32 when I had the pacemaker put in me. I had had new batteries. It takes about a half hour to put new ones in. I hope G.R.B. gets some relief. I am 72 years old and have had no trouble at all. — B.L.D.

In appropriate cases — when the heart beats too slowly or too irregularly — the pacemaker does a wonderful job. One of today's letters was from California, the other from Ontario. Pacemakers are in very wide use.

In the original operation, an electrode is embedded in heart tissues. Then the pacemaker, a little electrical instrument which produces faint but regular pulses, is embedded just under the skin surface, so it is easily and quickly accessible when it is necessary to install new batteries.

Dear Doctor: I read the letter from G.R.B. about the pacemaker. I think it is wonderful.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can emphysema be detected just by looking at an individual? I consulted a doctor for shortness of breath, and he said he could tell by looking at the size of my chest from front to back that I had emphysema. He did check other tests, however. — D.R.H.

You can't diagnose emphysema positively just by looking at a person, but you can often be reasonably sure. Reason: the lungs can't expel old air, hence there is less space to inhale fresh air. The chest expands to try to compensate for this, so many emphysema sufferers become barrel-chested.

Chronic bad breath can make life miserable for everyone. For a medical view of the causes and cure of bad breath, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "Bad Breath Can Be Corrected," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

Man's Inhumanity To Man

It has been my good fortune in the years that I have been a newsmen never to have seen an execution or an execution's illegitimate brother, a lynching.

I have had dozens of opportunities to be a witness at the state's ritualistic elimination of a social misfit. Each time I was able to escape being on hand. I have always said that I would attend an execution if I was on duty and specifically assigned by my paper to do so but that I had no intention of attending as so many do simply to watch a man die.

I HAVE SEEN several men sentenced to death in the courts. Some of these later were put to death in the electric chair. Others are still in prison serving life sentences. Some are dead, two or three killed by fellow convicts inside the prison walls.

I did see a man tarred and feathered. The spectacle so disgusted me that I still rankle with anger when I recall it. I was a school student at the time. It was in the midst of World War I. Everyone was being pressed to buy government bonds. Everyone who could was doing so, I think.

IN MY TOWN there was a Greek who operated a cafe. I do not know all about him but I would say that in these days, he would be classified as a conscientious objector. Word got out that he was not buying bonds and had refused to do so.

The story reached the town pool hall where some of the great minds of the community pondered it. They came to a quick conclusion. That foreigner had to buy bonds or else. The else was quickly defined as "tarrin' 'n featherin'."

BUT THEY WERE going to give him one more opportunity to be a patriot. They would go see him and about 30 or 40 did. Town loafers and no-goods for the most part. I have my doubts if a single one of these self-appointed minders of the public conscience bought a bond or contributed a single thing to winning the war.

They told the Greek that he had to buy bonds. He replied that he had religious scruples against war. However, he said, if the group would say how much they thought he should spend for bonds, he would give them the money and the bonds could be disposed of as the group preferred. This was not good enough for the "committee." The Greek had to own the bonds. He refused.

THEY MARCHED him down the street. Somewhere they got hold of a big American flag and as they paraded their victim to the school yard, they waved the flag over his head.

They couldn't find any tar so they got a bucket of roofing compound and an old feather pillow.

AT THE SCHOOLYARD, they ripped the man's clothing from his body and one of the town's sorriest citizens, with a self-righteous smirk on his ugly face, made a mop and smeared the man from head to toe with the black compound.

Others ripped open the pillow. They threw handfuls of feathers over the tar.

All of the time a member of the group waved the flag over head.

They lectured their victim obscenely on his duties as an "American." When the ordeal ended, they made their captive parade the length of the street so that "any other yellow bellies" could be warned that the good citizens (their adjective — not mine) would not stand for un-Americanism.

I left the scene sick at my stomach — SAM BLACKBURN

Holmes Alexander Is America A Hell On Earth?

WASHINGTON — The theory is that a nation doesn't have to answer in the hereafter for its behavior, but that the punishment for wrongs takes place while a nation is still on earth.

Hence we are paying the price in race riots for the slavery we once permitted. Soon we will have to pay a higher price still for the poverty we've allowed during postwar prosperity.

MAYBE SO. But the Soothsayers who write these judgments don't mention anything about the rewards for Emancipation and the premiums we should be drawing for reducing the number of the poor. I'm thinking of Michael Harrington, whose publishers have sent me his latest work, "The Other America Revisited."

Back in 1962 Harrington wrote "The Other America." His publicity agents claim it made him "father of the war on poverty" by inspiring President Kennedy to think about anti-poverty plans and by spurring President Johnson to open the Office of Economic Opportunity. In this follow-up work, Harrington touches hardly at all upon poverty-reduction, but he comes down like a ton of bricks on poverty-visibility.

IF I UNDERSTAND him, the main accomplishment of OEO was not its partial extermination of "hunger and hovel," but its illumination of conditions which should burn us with guilt like souls in torment. He writes that "since the poor have become less invisible... society has become even more guilty; now it knows its callousness."

That's his theory, but it's very hard to follow. Tens of millions in the social underworld live better, but they are only one toss-back from being where they were. Americans in need have taken some advantage of the breaks afforded by job-training and job-making, so all are better off. But the Negroes are not as well off as they could be if they'd worked at

it. The poor have too many children when young, so that their offspring will grow up in need.

HARRINGTON SAYS, "The poor were given promises that were not fulfilled, but the rhetoric (of the Great Society) made many workers and middle-class people fearful that they were being slighted, and the resulting political standoff alienated many of the most idealistic and active among the young... the fifth anniversary (1968) of the war on poverty was a mockery... we have raised up the hopes of the most abused people in this land only in order to knock them down."

WHAT, THEN, is the use? Does nobody win? Nobody, says Harrington. The mighty half-decade effort to abolish poverty has not fully succeeded (only by reducing poverty in the population from 25 per cent to 18 per cent) and those who made the effort are condemned. Those who benefitted somewhat got "spiritual gains... new sense of dignity," along with material betterment, but this only made them envious for more. Those who dug up unpleasant facts about poverty, those who found fault with the bungling of poverty-hysterical figures about "starving" warriors, those who objected to in the neck, any sort of enlightenment or "visibility" hastens the Revolution for the just as well as the unjust.

THERE USED TO be an idea at large that the Lord had decreed, "Vengeance is mine." Surely, it applies to nations as well as to men, in the Here or the Hereafter. But we get writings like this by Harrington. He plays at being a god, who just can't wait to see catch Hell on Earth.

Is it helpful? There is pessimism so bitter as to be defeatist. There is "concern" for America so hateful as to be destructive.

Art Buchwald Just How Those Warranties Work

WASHINGTON — Betty Furness, in a speech the other day, revealed something that the average consumer has known for years. It is that the warranties that come with most American products aren't worth the computer cards they're printed on.

There may be a lot of changes in Washington in 1969, but one thing you can be sure of: the American consumer is still going to get a shafting by the great free enterprise system.

THE OTHER day I went to McCarthy, Saine and Klutzknowitz, the appliance store, to return an electric can opener I had bought my wife for Christmas.

"Why do you wish to return it?" the man asked.

"Because it doesn't work."

"Did you fill out the Green Warranty Card that came with it?"

"Yes, I did."

"And what happened?"

"The can opener still didn't work."

"I SEE. Could you tell me how soon you filled out the Green Warranty Card after you got the electric can opener?"

"Maybe three days, a week. I'm not sure."

"But it specifically says that the Green Warranty Card must be filled out 24 hours after purchasing the appliance."

"Yes, but since it was a Christmas present we didn't open up the package until Christmas morning, and therefore we didn't see the Green Warranty Card and have a chance to fill it out for a few days as we were too busy trying to get the thing to work."

doesn't work, is it?"

"I wouldn't say that," I said. "I think I should get a new electric can opener."

"We can't do that. The only one who has the authority to give you a new electric can opener is our warranty department, which is located in Leavenworth, Kan. But since you didn't send in the Green Warranty Card within 24 hours of purchase, they probably have no record of your buying an electric can opener in the first place."

"YOU HAVE a record of it. Here's my sales slip."

"Yes, that's true. We know you purchased an electric can opener and you know you purchased an electric can opener, but Leavenworth, Kan., doesn't know."

"Look," I said, "I should think you would be worried for the good name of McCarthy, Swaine and Klutzknowitz."

"But we're not owned by McCarthy, Swaine and Klutzknowitz any more. We were bought out by Federated Pumps and Warehouses which is a subsidiary of Drinkwater Fire and Theft, which is owned by Sable Hosiery and TV Antennas, which merged last month with Moon Orbiting Platforms, Inc."

"THAT'S GREAT, but what about a new electric can opener? Just give me one and I'll be on my way."

"We can't. You see, we've discontinued making electric can openers."

"How could you discontinue making them? I just bought this one for Christmas."

"That's why we discontinued them. A lot of people bought them and they didn't work."

A LOVELIER YOU Lose Weight Gained At Holiday Feasts

By MARY SUE MILLER

It is easier to take off a few pounds than a plethora. What's more, weight has a nasty way of multiplying, once it begins to accumulate. Any pounds gained over the holidays really must be eliminated at once.

If you'd like to lose five or six pounds in the next 10 days, follow this 1,000 calorie diet pattern:

Breakfast: Citrus fruit or juice; one slice toasted protein bread or one toaster waffle lightly buttered; cereal of choice or two slices broiled bacon, or one soft egg; tea or coffee.

Luncheon: 1 cup soup (if condensed, dilute with water), such as vegetable, onion, chicken noodle; two slices meat and green salad or choice of vegetable, cottage cheese, fish salad; two melba rounds; raw vegetables such as cucumber, celery, finocchi, carrot curls, green pepper; any non-caloric beverage.

Dinner: 6 oz. broiled lean meat, fish or fowl; choice of two low-starch vegetables — carrots, broccoli, spinach, cabbage, asparagus, mushrooms, beets; two small baked potatoes per week; choice of unsweetened fruit cup, dieter's gelatin or wedge of cheese with one cracker; demitasse.

Between meals: skim milk, totaling one pint.

Note: Use sugar substitute for sweetening, dieter's salad dressings, only three tablespoons butter or margarine daily.

Speaks On Decorating

Mrs. Jack Blizzard gave a program on floor coverings and background walls at Monday's meeting of Xi Mu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in the home of Mrs. Jerry Spence at 1709 Yale. Mrs. Robert Blassingame was cohostess.

Mrs. Blizzard stressed different types of floor coverings including tile, linoleum and carpeting and the effective use of each in the home. She emphasized the difference in various wall coverings and how they could "stimulate" or "depress" the viewer. She said that walls and floors should project the personality of the resident and should be used to accent certain areas.

Mrs. Roy Granbery announced that Eck McClure won the quarter of beef donated by the chapter in December. A letter of appreciation was read from the special education students at Moss-Elementary School for favors given by the chapter at Christmas.

Dealing In Stocks Is Explained

How stocks are bought and sold was explained by Mrs. Dan Wilkins in a talk given Thursday for the Junior Woman's Forum in the home of Mrs. Doug Cutsforth, 1906 Goliad.

Mrs. J. W. Dickens described the "ideal woman" when speaking to Mu Kappa Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, at Monday's meeting in the home of Mrs. Glen L. Safford, 609 W. 16th.

Mrs. Dickens based the ideal on opinions of psychiatrists and descriptions in the Biblical Proverbs. The characteristics are purity of heart, charity, diligence, earnestness, efficiency, strength, honor, unselfishness, love, appearance, courage and gentleness.

Mrs. Dickens emphasized that women sometimes become troubled when they set other values for themselves that do not adhere to their best character traits.

Yarn was distributed to make house shoes for patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital, which is a club project. The group made plans to assist with the Mother's March of Dimes on Jan. 20.

The bride was attired in a street-length dress of green and white lace designed with an A-line skirt and a scooped-neck bodice with long, belled sleeves. Her accessories were beige, and she wore a corsage of white camellias.

Miss Jeanie Johnson was maid of honor, and Terry Smith was best man.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School and attended Howard County Junior College. The bridegroom graduated from Big Spring Senior High School and is presently employed by Big Spring Pipe and Steel Company.

A reception was held for members of the wedding party in the church parlor. The refreshment table was laid with a white linen cloth and centered with a yellow and white floral arrangement. The two-tiered cake was white and trimmed with yellow confection roses. Milk glass and silver appointments completed the setting.

Some department stores around the country are betting that the itty-bitsy miniskirt is out. Coeds aren't about to fall for many mid-calf lengths, but their skirts may be inching down slightly toward the knee.

Ex-HCJC Star In The Middle

Kurt Papp (41) of Texas, former standout for Howard County JC, watches intently as his team-mate, Larry Smith, and Arkansas forward Gary Stephens go to the floor for the ball in their game at Austin Monday night. Papp led Texas to a 67-59 victory, scoring 21 points.

Denny McLain Won't Worry About Arm

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny McLain hasn't thrown a baseball in three months but he refuses to worry about a pain in his shoulder or the fact that pitching mounds next spring will be 18 inches high instead of the usual 15.

"I never throw a baseball in the winter and I'm not going to start now," McLain said Monday. "I can wait until spring training."

"I have a little shoulder trouble. Actually it's a muscle. Many pitchers who work a lot of innings pitch with pain in their arms, elbows or shoulders. With me, a few pills—I take all kinds—and the pain's gone."

McLain, who compiled a 31-6 record last season to win the American League's Most Valuable Player prize and the Cy Young pitching award, said he hadn't noticed any changes in AL pitching mounds last season. Mounds were 15 inches high but in some parks the slope was changed around the 18-foot diameter to permit better drainage.

"I never even noticed that," said McLain who pitched 336 innings to become the first hurler in 37 years to win more than 30 major league games in one season.

"Reducing the height of the mound will put an added strain on some of them who will come up with sore arms. You won't find as many pitchers working 250 to 300 innings."

Last year McLain was one of seven AL pitchers to toss 250 or more innings. The National League had 14 hurlers work more than 250 innings.

While McLain signed his 1969 contract right after the World Series he said Monday he would not report for spring training if the Players Association decided to strike. Players are seeking an improved pension plan. McLain is believed to have signed for $65,000 which more than doubled his $30,000 salary of 1968.

"I got what I wanted," he said.

"Right now I'm busy with my own company, Denny McLain Enterprises and our four-piece musical combo which includes the bass guitar, a guitar and the drums while I play the organ."

He has had to turn down so many bookings that some people have suggested that McLain is now more interested in playing the organ than toying with American League hitters.

"That's not so," said McLain. "Baseball got me where I am and baseball comes first with me."

NMS SEVENTH Major Upheaval In Cage Poll

The rankings of the nation's top college basketball teams went through a major upheaval from fourth place down in Monday's poll of the nation-wide Associated Press board of newsmen and sportscasters, but UCLA, North Carolina and Santa Clara still headed the list in that order.

Tough and torrid UCLA kept its solid hold on the top by receiving all 40 first place votes. The Bruins, led by Lew Alcindor, raised havoc in the North west last week by trouncing Oregon 93-64 and Oregon State 83-64 on consecutive nights.

The Bruins now have an 11-0 record. North Carolina and Santa Clara had no trouble holding on to second and third places, but Illinois, ranked fourth last week, tumbled to eighth by losing to Purdue 94-84. Davidson, with a healthy 10-1 record, moved into fourth place.

Kentucky, 9-2 through games of last weekend, moved up from seventh to fifth and Kansas, which had held that spot, plummeted to tenth. The big drop followed Missouri's 47-46 upset of Kansas Saturday.

St. John's of New York stayed on the winning path by downing Seton Hall 66-45 and moved from eighth to sixth. Villanova held onto ninth place and New Mexico State, one of the remaining few unbeaten major teams in the nation with a 14-0 record, moved from tenth up to seventh.

LaSalle, in 11th place with 225 points, heads the second division and is in position to challenge for a ranking in the Top Ten.

Davis Cup Odds Higher On European Success

LONDON (AP)—The last great "amateur" tennis starts of Europe—Manuel Santanna of Spain, Tom Okker of The Netherlands, Mark Cox of Britain—are ready to set out on what could be the last all-amateur Davis Cup competition.

Critics believe this may be Europe's last chance for a long while to make a real splash in the world tournament.

The big four tennis powers—the United States, Australia, Britain and France—have called for an open Davis Cup, with the contracted pros joining in.

Since the cream of the professionals are Australians or Americans, it could result in those two countries dominating the tournament more heavily than ever. They have won the trophy between them regularly since 1937—Australia 16 times and America 10 times.

But while the competition remains for amateurs only, the stronger European teams are in with a chance. Santanna, Okker and Cox are some of the men who could be facing the United States, the defending champions, in the challenge round.

Santana, Okker and Cox make a lot of money these days, from prizes and appearance fees in open tournaments. But they still rate as amateurs because they play under the jurisdiction of their national associations and are not under contract to promoters.

If this year's matches go according to form, Spain, led by the wily Santanna, and The Netherlands, spearheaded by the fleet-footed Okker, could be facing each other in the final of the European zone section B next July.

Section A is more open. But the draw has been kind to the British, who think their chances are brighter than in any year since 1963, when they were European Zone champions.

The British have to play Switzerland in the first round and then, if they win that one, Ireland or Luxembourg in the second.

The touse-headed Cox and his team should make the semifinals.

61st Texas Legislature Meeting At High Noon

AUSTIN (AP)—The 61st legislature meets today with Texas public school education and higher taxes easily the dominant issues.

High noon was the official starting time with Lt. Gov. Preston Smith banging the gavel in the Senate and Secretary of State Roy Barrera starting the House.

The regular session must end 140 days from today, on June 2. But some legislators already predicted Smith will have to call at least one special 30-day session to take care of the crucial issues.

Session-opening details and the Jan. 21 inauguration were expected to take most of legislators' time the first week or two, but summer study committees have already laid a heavy work load of legislative proposals on their desks.

Wednesday at noon, Gov. John Connally will address a joint session, his last official appearance before them.

The governor's brief speech is expected to recount some of his administration's successes and call attention to the fact that his skeleton budget just to continue present state operations would leave only $103 million in general revenue.

A pre-session survey of 181 legislators and representatives showed that public school education and higher taxes will be inseparable this session.

PAY RAISES

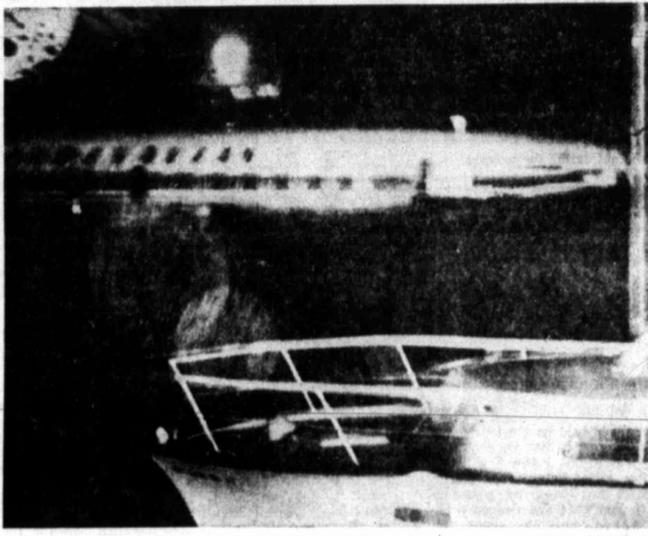

The school study group, composed of 15 influential Texans told the legislature in their report that "Texas has a once-in-a-century chance to reach for education excellence," if legislators take the opportunity.

The study group recommended spending $338.1 million the next two years to start upgrading Texas schools, including about $200 million for teachers pay raises.

The Texas water plan is a $10 billion program to care for the state's water requirements up to the year 2000.

WATER PLAN

This legislature is being asked to approve and submit to voters in 1970 a plan for Texas to finance its share of the system to carry East Texas and Mississippi Valley water by canal by pipeline to far West Texas and the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Texas' ultimate share of the entire plan has been estimated at between $2.5 billion and $3.5 billion.

Steamship Co., which handled the Forra without charge. Boy Scouts, teenagers, old women on crutches and young people worked around the clock packing contributions so the ship could sail on time.

The International Rescue Committee collected $60,000 worth of drugs and equipment—antibiotics, vitamins, band-aids, X-ray machines—and $90,000 worth of high-protein food—rice, cornmeal, beans, canned meat and fish.

A spokesman for the Biafra Relief Services Foundation said that about $300,000 cash has been contributed "and the mail still is running heavy."

The funds will be used to pay for additional loadings at Newport News, Va., and for the air-lift between Sao Tome, an island off the coast of Africa, and Biafra. Each flight costs an estimated $1,500.

Over 400 tons of food and medicine were collected in England and loaded aboard the vessel en route to New York.

Students Ransack College Office

NEW YORK (AP)—About fifteen black students ransacked the Queens College office of a minority students' program Monday, but the college president coolly turned the other cheek and appealed for restraint.

The demonstrators ripped out walls, and carried a room's furniture into the street, while 30 administrative officials and other students watched, helpless.

The office is used by Joseph P. Mulholland, director of the program called SEEK, or Search for Evaluation, Education and Knowledge, which admits and assists students from slum areas.

Mulholland, 40, white, was reported to be off campus at the time of the ransacking. His resignation has recently been demanded by a militant group as part of a radical overhaul of the SEEK program.

Queens College President Joseph P. McMurray later issued a statement declaring, "I will continue as I have after three previous incidents to exercise all the restraint it is possible to exercise."

McMurray said his appeal for restraint was issued at the request of an advisory group which is currently investigating recent disorders at the college.

"I urge all students of the college to refrain from disruptive and provocative actions," he said. "Such actions which interfere with the rights of others must be condemned."

About 26,000 students, most of them white residents of Queens, attend the four-year college.

Over 400 tons of food and medicine were collected in England and loaded aboard the vessel en route to New York.

Negro Pupils Control Key Campus Building

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—Rebellious Negro students rejected today a Brandeis University proposal for establishment of an Afro-American studies department and maintained control of a key campus building.

Meanwhile, a group of about 200 supporters, mostly white, voted a student strike at the 20-year-old university with an enrollment of 2,600.

A Brandeis spokesman said that shortly after the faculty voted overwhelmingly to establish the department Monday night, Peter Diamandopoulos, dean of faculty, personally brought a copy of the resolution to the students barricaded in Ford Hall.

Some 65 dissident students commandeered the building housing the university communications system last Wednesday in support of sweeping demands.

Shortly after midnight the students asked for clarification of the proposal. Diamandopoulos brought them a six-point clarification.

The clarification noted that a committee would be established to recommend a chairman of the proposed Afro-American studies department. The committee would include three Afro-Americans, three Brandeis faculty members and three "nationally recognized academicians."

1,200-Pound Bum Steer Stops Cars

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A steer 22 feet long and nearly 13 feet high blocked traffic on a busy thoroughfare Friday.

The 1,200-pound steer, built of plastic and other man-made materials, was part of a sign mounted on a trailer, advertising a steak restaurant nearby, police said.

Officers said vandals had pulled it into the street.

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—Rebellious Negro students rejected today a Brandeis University proposal for establishment of an Afro-American studies department and maintained control of a key campus building.

Meanwhile, a group of about 200 supporters, mostly white, voted a student strike at the 20-year-old university with an enrollment of 2,600.

A Brandeis spokesman said that shortly after the faculty voted overwhelmingly to establish the department Monday night, Peter Diamandopoulos, dean of faculty, personally brought a copy of the resolution to the students barricaded in Ford Hall.

Some 65 dissident students commandeered the building housing the university communications system last Wednesday in support of sweeping demands.

Shortly after midnight the students asked for clarification of the proposal. Diamandopoulos brought them a six-point clarification.

NYC's Antipoverty Program Called Worst In America

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City's antipoverty program has the worst administrative problems in the country, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz says in an interview with the New York Times.

"We've had problems in a few other cities," Wirtz was quoted by the newspaper Tuesday, "but nothing like New York."

The federal official declared the program was the only one for which a trusteeship had been proposed.

"There'll be a tendency to generalize from the one or two problem cities," he added. "I hope they will not."

The comments were prompted by a series of articles in the newspaper concerning corruption and inefficiency that allegedly have deprived the needy of uncounted millions of dollars. In reply, Mayor John V. Lindsay via a press aide told the paper:

"Somebody should introduce Mr. Wirtz to Mr. Ruttenberg so they can get their stories straight. Mr. Wirtz has been the most political of the cabinet officers, and he's obviously conforming to type in his last days in office."

Lindsay, referred to previously by published comment by Stanley H. Ruttenberg, assistant labor secretary, that the city had been given a "last chance" six-month deadline to eliminate imperfections in the municipal Human Resources Administration. Mitchell I. Ginsberg, the director of HRA, said Monday that Ruttenberg had authorized him to deny the "last-chance ultimatum."

Investigating another aspect of welfare conditions, The Times reported that more than $3-million in federal funds has been withdrawn from HRA and is being paid directly to three local hospitals because of "apparent mismanagement" by the central agency.

The Office of Economic Opportunity altered disbursement procedure, the paper declared, when investigators learned last spring that a former HRA official had improperly handled previous allotments.

HRA officials were quoted in reply as explaining some funds had been temporarily transferred to other poverty programs.

Zoning Changes On City Agenda

City commissioners will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in the commission chamber.

On the agenda will be the appointment of an alternate to the city's Zoning Board of Adjustment, two requests for zoning changes, a request by Mrs. Claudine Terrazas for a permit to sell liquor and beer at 401 Lamesa Drive for off premise consumption and a request by Gilbert Martinez for a permit to sell beer for on premise consumption at 300 N. Benton.

A study of areas within the city not presently served by the city sewer system will be presented to the commissioners.

West's failure to persist to five diamonds betrays a cowardly streak. The damages should not be too great and there may prove to be a substantial saving if the opposition can fulfill their bid. It may be observed, in fact, that five diamonds can be defeated one trick, and then only because both the club and diamond finesses fail.

West opened his singleton jack of hearts in the hope of obtaining a ruff. The ace was played from dummy. South was fully cognizant of his opponent's intentions and he sought for a way to alter the defensive design for, if West were to obtain a heart ruff, that trick along with the ace, king of spades and the ace of diamonds would spell defeat for the declarer.

Inasmuch as South lacked the controls in the spade suit, it appeared useless to begin drawing trump. East would no doubt go in with a high spade and, even if he cashed the ace of diamonds, West would surely give him a discouraging signal, requesting a shift—and the fatal heart return now becomes inevitable.

Declarer's only chance appeared to be a diversionary measure, which might lure the opponent's attention away from the danger spot. Inasmuch as East could hardly suspect that South had suppressed a five-card heart suit during the auction, it was not to be expected that he would recognize partner's lead as a singleton.

At trick two, a small diamond was led from dummy. Since North had only a doubleton, South hoped to create the impression that he was trying to obtain diamond ruffs. East put up the ace of diamonds and then grabbed at the bait by cashing the ace and king of spades. He shifted to a club which South ruffed and declarer's hand was now high.

East should have realized the futility of trying to prevent a diamond ruff. If South had the diamond king, there may be no way to put West in to draw the dummy's last trump. If West has the king of diamonds, then the contract is defeated off the top. In short, there was little to lose by returning a heart—and, in the final analysis, there must be some reason why partner opened an off suit.

OCAW Officials Await Decisions

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (OCAW) officials awaited developments Tuesday which could send nearly 60,000 striking union members back to their jobs.

In California, about 1,000 members already were back at work after contracts were approved Sunday between the union and the Union-Pure Oil Co. at OCAW headquarters in Denver.

One union local official said Monday he thought other oil company representatives were studying the approved contracts and trying to determine the next moves.

"We can afford to wait for their decisions," said Dan Edwards, president of Local 2-477 at nearby Commerce City.

He said the approved contracts represented a minimum acceptable to union officials, but other locals may not decide to accept that minimum. "They could hold out for a larger increase," he said.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Let your mind run along modern trends and more fine opportunities come your way during this middle-of-the-month period. Make sure you don't lose your temper at the drop of a hat, particularly along romantic lines. Some important business decision can now be reached with relative ease. If you concentrate first, relative ease. If you concentrate first, decision can now be reached with relative ease. If you concentrate first, decision can now be reached with relative ease.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have some important choice to make today — make sure it is the right one. Consult experts for best results. Avoid that person who is overly dynamic, wears you down.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Think in terms of future abundance and you can easily make it a reality. Others are in a pretty testy mood, so avoid them. Enjoy some delightful solitude for a change.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Wasting time slinking over one not worthy of you is foolish. Go to work and be happy, productive again. You have a good mind — use it wisely. Stop thinking you are too short, your nose too long, or something.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You would rather do out for amusement but it would be best to keep busy at all that work you have accumulated. Stop making things more difficult for yourself. Must you always be picking on that sister or other relative? Be kind.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some big event could be going on today that would be to your benefit to attend. Plan for it early. Then get right into those business, etc., affairs that await your attention. Show you are capable.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some person you like very much could now be very helpful to you in some way. Show you are grateful. Be sure you observe every regulation that applies to you and avoid some penalty, etc.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Some situation may occur today that could be quite revolting to you, but handle it wisely. Think in terms of having more money in your pocket. Stop being so self-sacrificing — this is an unfortunate Aquarian trait.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Kin can be in vacillating moods and you had better take this in your stride today. Don't argue with them or a big flare-up occurs. Be at ease in a.m.; show some wit and get on the good side of them.
