BARNES BECOMES YOUNGEST LT. GOVERNOR IN HISTORY.

Smith Pledges Law, Order

'Fairness and Justice'

AUSTIN (AP)—Preston Smith was sworn in as Texas' 38th governor today, capping a long career in state government and fulfilling the dream of a lifetime. He pledged his administration to "fairness and justice."

SOUTH STEPS

Smith's swearing-in, on the south steps of the Capitol, followed that of Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, who at 30 became the youngest lieutenant governor in Texas history.

Smith, 56, from Lubbock, and Barnes, from De Leon, made the inauguration an all-West Texas affair and insured that the Democratic party will retain its traditional control of state politics for two more years. "Any realistic and understanding approach to our future must start with a promise of fairness and one of justice," Smith said in his inaugural address.

"That applies, he said, to all things where government is concerned, whether it is levying taxes, educating children, providing clean and plentiful water, fostering industrial growth or protecting human rights. He dwelt the longest on law and order.

PUBLIC ORDER

"We think first of laws to preserve public order," he said. "The maintenance of domestic tranquility and the protection of persons and property from criminal acts and deeds of violence will carry a high priority in this administration. We will say to the law violator with one voice: 'You may break the law, that's your choice, but you are going to face the consequences. You are going to face the bar of justice.'"

"As your governor, I will seek not punishment or leniency but justice for all."

Barnes said Texas has "an even greater obligation to acknowledge and remedy our weaknesses" because of the state's strength and vigor. "So as we turn this page in our history, let this be an era of dissatisfaction," he said. "Dissatisfaction until every Texas child has the best education we can provide; dissatisfaction until every Texas worker has a fair chance at a decent job and the training to do that job; dissatisfaction until we have unified our state in a common purpose, to assure full opportunity not for most Texans, but for all Texans."

The oaths of office were administered by Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert.

A predicted forecast of possible drizzle faded under bright blue, clear skies for the outdoor inaugural.

19 GUN SALUTE

Smith and Barnes walked out of the Capitol to their seats to a 19-gun salute from three 105mm howitzers.

The Texas Tech band played the national anthem, and the first live telecast of a Texas governor's inauguration began. The Texas Association of Broadcasters said 75 radio stations and more than a dozen television stations were covering the event.

Both houses of the legislature and state employees quit early for the inauguration, swelling the crowd.

Inaugural ceremonies were touched off Monday night by a Victory Dinner at Municipal Auditorium.

"This is always a happy occasion—the Democratic victory dinner," Smith told the audience at a $25-a-plate dinner, at which popular singer Glen Campbell was featured. "I'm going to suggest right now we have another one in 1971."

Inaugural day began with a 7:30 a.m. prayer breakfast at a south Austin motel.

SIX BALLS

Two luncheons, a two-hour parade down Congress Avenue, a downtown hotel reception by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and six inaugural balls—five of them free and the $15-a-couple grand march formal ball—completed the busy activities.

Smith, who's been on radio recently inviting all Texans to come and enjoy the inauguration, set his address to the legislature back a day, until Thursday, apparently to give the celebrants a little time to relax after the big day.

And Don't Forget To Wipe Your Feet

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Michelle Morris did two things when an intruder tried to break in her door.

First, she grabbed a kitchen knife to protect herself.

Next, she began to tidy up her apartment.

"I knew the police would have to come in," she explained saying she didn't want them to see a messy apartment.

Miss Morris is secretary of the Oklahoma City homicide robbery division.

The police arrested a suspect before entering the apartment.

Nixon Turns Today To Somber Tasks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Richard Milhous Nixon, the pomp and pageantry of his inauguration day behind him, turned today to the somber tasks of guiding the nation through turmoil at home and war abroad.

TEETERED

The politician whose career once teetered on oblivion began his term as 37th President Monday with a pledge "to consecrate my office, my energies, and all of the wisdom I can summon, to the cause of peace among nations."

Even before he plunged into the merry whirl of Monday night's inaugural balls—where Republicans celebrated their return to power after an eight-year gap—the new President had arranged for a meeting of the National Security Council today.

Nixon also planned to meet with Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and aides said he would confer soon with his Cabinet and Urban Affairs Council.

In the heady atmosphere of Inauguration Day, the former transfer of presidential power from Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson to Republican Nixon was carried out in peace and harmony.

LODGE TO LEAD

Talks Will Resume Saturday In Paris

PARIS (AP)—The first plenary session of the Vietnam peace talks, with Henry Cabot Lodge as head of the U.S. delegation, will be held Saturday morning, U.S. officials said today.

Lodge arrived here Monday night as the appointee of President Nixon to succeed Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

The meeting Saturday will follow by a week the first four-way meeting on procedures in which Harriman headed the U.S. delegation.

This next meeting will finally bring together delegations of the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front to discuss the substantive questions of the heart of the war.

$745 MONTHLY State Balks At Welfare To Newcomer

NEW YORK (AP)—A woman with 12 children has been turned down in her request for welfare aid because the Department of Social Welfare says she moved here from Clarksdale, Miss., solely to take advantage of high relief payments.

The woman, Louvenia Day, would receive about $745 a month on welfare here or $640 more a month than in Mississippi. She appealed the decision before a trial examiner named by the state Department of Welfare and the verdict is pending.

Her request was rejected under Section 139-A of the state Social Service Law which states that persons who "come into the state for the purpose of receiving public assistance" are "undeserving and ineligible" for welfare.

Mrs. Day is living with her daughter, who has two children and is on relief, in Queens. A department spokesman said Mrs. Day and her children are receiving $462 a month in emergency aid.

Salesmen Gunned Down

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—A group of men fired on seven magazine salesmen, killing two of them, Monday night while the salesmen were sitting in a parked van counting their day's receipts, police reported.

The other five salesmen were seriously wounded. Officers said the attack apparently was not a robbery attempt, as money was found in the van.

Witnesses told police the salesmen were ordered out of the van and the shooting started.

"It was quick and heavy fire—something like a machinegun," one witness said.

COLORFUL THIEF

Houston Bank Robbed Of $11,800

HOUSTON (AP)—A man wearing gold slacks and a gold sweater robbed the River Oaks Bank & Trust Co. today and escaped with $11,800.

Irene Way, a teller, said the man, about 28, approached her window and placed a paper bag containing a pistol on the counter and demanded money. She said she filled the bag and he then rather calmly walked out of the building.

Another teller shouted "We've been robbed!" as the man left the building.

Ed Wallace, also a teller, tried to give chase but said the man disappeared too quickly.

Charged In Rape

EASTLAND, Tex. (AP)—Authorities lodged a new complaint charging rape Monday against three youths already accused of kidnaping a Cisco college co-ed, 18.

Two of the three already were in custody and the third, Kendyll Seabourn, surrendered Monday evening to Sheriff L. E. Sublett at the Eastland County jail.

Accompanied by relatives, Leroy Mangum and Charles W. Raper, also 18, gave themselves up to the sheriff the night before.

The young woman and her male companion told officers they were abducted and held for several hours before being released last week.

Sub Finds Wreck

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A submarine crew reported Monday night sighting what was believed to be the missing tail section of a Scandinavian Airlines jetliner that crashed into the Pacific.

Eighteen of the 45 aboard were killed in the crash Jan. 13. Eleven still missing were believed entombed in the tail section.

The wreckage was located in 325 feet of water about six miles off Marina Del Rey near Los Angeles International Airport.

"It looks like we have the whole package," said P.O. Summers, a spokesman for the search.

Ammo Plant Burns

KARNACK, Tex. (AP)—Fire at the Longhorn Army ammunition plant here Monday night destroyed a building and forced 225 employees to flee.

The blaze, which caused an estimated $900,000 worth of damage, started in a building used to assemble artillery illuminating rounds. A plant spokesman said there was no explosion.

Testifies Pueblo Did Not Have Guns, Explosives

CORONADO, Calif. (AP)—The skipper of the USS Pueblo says the Navy didn't provide retaliatory help or adequate guns, communications or explosives to destroy secret equipment when North Koreans captured his intelligence ship.

Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher testified Monday at the opening of a court of inquiry into the loss of the ship last Jan. 23, the death of one crewman and imprisonment of the 82 others for 11 months.

TENSE

Bucher, apparently still tense from his prison experience, was expected to testify for two or three days. The court of five admirals could recommend anything from medals to court-martial.

But Navy lawyers told Bucher that so far he was not suspected of violating any military laws.

The Navy said Bucher will be followed on the stand by his superior, Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, former commander of naval forces at Japan, and Cmdr. Charles R. Clark, skipper of a sister intelligence ship.

When he sailed the Pueblo on its mission to scout North Korean radar and North Korean and Soviet ships in the Sea of Japan, Bucher testified, he wanted twin 20 or 40 millimeter guns.

But instead, Bucher said, he got two 50-caliber machine guns, 3,000 to 5,000 rounds of ammunition, a spare barrel and a mount for a third 50-caliber machine-gun he never received.

LAST RESORT

Bucher said he was under orders from Adm. Johnson to "employ (the guns) as a last resort only in cases where threat to survival is obvious . . . and not to practice the use of those guns or uncover them in the presence of foreign ships."

He said the guns were "temperamental, difficult to keep adjusted and hard to prepare for firing."

Bucher said he picked what he thought were the best places to mount the weapons—one fore and one aft—but they still left portions of the side of the vessel uncovered.

Clasping and unclasping his hands at the witness table Bucher said he also asked for explosives to destroy secret equipment and codes in the event of capture.

DEFERRED

The request was "deferred," Bucher said, because his commander told him "in order for the destruct system to be effective . . . it must be integral to (secret) equipment."

"Since the equipment had already been installed he said it was not possible to put in the explosives without a great deal of expense and time."

"I had as destruct equipment fire axes and sledge hammers capable of being swung by a standard size sailor to bash in the equipment." He said it would have taken 2½ hours to scuttle the ship.

Communications aboard ship were inadequate, he said, because the Pueblo was not equipped with a Navy telephone system—only an old Army system insufficient during emergencies.

DOUBTFUL

Before he left on his mission, Bucher said, an operations officer at the headquarters of Pacific Fleet told him it was doubtful that help would be available in time to save the Pueblo in the event of a seizure.

Another Czech Attempts Suicide By Burning Self

PRAGUE (AP)—A second attempt at suicide by fire presented Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders today with their gravest crisis since the Soviet invasion five months ago.

An attempt at self-immolation also occurred Monday in Budapest, the Hungarian capital, but the government there indicated it was not politically motivated. Radio Budapest said the 17-year-old youth, Sandor Bauer, had tried to commit suicide two years ago. A government communique said he was in grave condition today.

NO MOTIVE

A brewery worker in Plzen, Josef Hlavaty, 25, poured inflammable liquid over himself Monday night in Dukla Square and set himself aflame. Official reports said his motive had not been determined. But students in Prague assumed he was emulating Jan Palach, a 21-year-old student who set himself afire last Thursday in protest against the reversal of the government reform movement and died Sunday.

One radio newscast said Hlavaty might survive if complications did not set in.

Students worked in the early morning hours in Prague's Wenceslas Square, painting signs reading "Josef Hlavaty, Human Torch No. 2."

Israelis, Arab Saboteurs Clash In Negev Desert

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli desert patrols killed six Arab saboteurs in two clashes in the Negev Desert near the Jordanian frontier Monday night, the Israeli army announced today.

An army spokesman said one patrol killed three members of a guerrilla squad near Ein Yahav, 37 miles south of the Dead Sea. Twenty minutes later a patrol intercepted another group of infiltrators in the same area, the spokesman continued, and three more Arabs were killed.

The spokesman said there were no Israeli casualties. The Arabs, the spokesman newing his pleas for an end to immolations and acceptance of what the Communist leadership feels it must do, went on television to give a veiled warning that the Soviet occupation force might intervene.

were members of the Al Fatah commando organization, which had not been reported operating in the Negev area in some weeks.

In Cairo, President Gamal Abdel Nasser told his new national assembly that Egypt would continue to refuse Israel's demand for direct peace negotiations until all Arab lands are liberated from Israeli control. An Israeli spokesman labeled the speech a continuation of "the destructive policy which the Arab governments have advocated for the past 20 years and which brought their people many tragedies."

Hanoi Wants Peace More Than Allies?

PARIS (AP) — Their first diplomatic encounter with the North Vietnamese has left some Saigon officials with the impression that Hanoi is more eager to make peace than its Viet Cong allies.

This assessment emerged today from authoritative accounts of last Saturday's first meeting of representatives from Saigon, the United States, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

GIVE, TAKE
The meeting produced a surprisingly quick agreement on procedures for substantive peace negotiations. In sharp contrast with their earlier negotiating stances, Col. Ha Van Lau and his Hanoi contingent demonstrated a business-like flexibility on the organizational questions.

POWER PLEDGE
The U.S. delegation's new leader, Henry Cabot Lodge, arrived from the United States Monday and said he would soon propose a date for the talks to continue. He pledged: "We will do all in our power to make them a success."

South Vietnamese officials in Saigon said they hoped the talks would resume Friday. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, the supervisory chief of the Saigon delegation, is due back in Paris Thursday. Top U.S. and South Vietnamese officials in Saigon were meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu and Ky today to discuss the Paris talks.

HE'S CINCH WINNER Senate To Consider Hickel's Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter J. Hickel's controversial statements on conservation apparently have resulted in his being the only one of President Nixon's cabinet appointments not to receive the unanimous approval of the Senate.

In announcing his opposition to Hickel's appointment, Democratic Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota said:

"I am voting against the confirmation of Gov. Hickel as secretary of the interior primarily because I believe he is not qualified by understanding, experience and outlook to become the nation's chief conservationist."

The other 11 cabinet appointments were confirmed without opposition Monday, a few hours after the Senate Interior Committee voted 14 to 3 to approve the man Nixon wants as secretary of the interior.

In spite of the opposition by McGovern and a handful of other senators, there was never any serious doubt that the Alaska governor would be confirmed.

Consideration of Hickel's nomination had been put off until today at the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic whip. The others were approved in a 20-minute session less than three hours after the nation's 37th President took the oath of office at noon.

The White House said there was no time set for swearing in the new Cabinet, and there were indications Nixon wanted to wait until Hickel is confirmed.

Hickel was the only nominee seriously challenged, and most objections centered around his views on conservation. A statement that he was opposed to conservation for its own sake caused much of the discussion because the interior secretary is the custodian of the nation's public lands.

Murder Charges In Deputy Death

DALLAS (AP) — James Walter Cherry, 32, and Twyna Lovell Blankenship, 23, were indicted Monday on murder charges in the killing of E. R. Walters, a Dallas deputy sheriff.

Walters died of bullet wounds suffered during a shootout at an East Dallas motel.

The two were also indicted on charges of wounding deputy Sheriff Al Maddox, who is recovering from injuries suffered in the gunplay Jan. 10.

A third person, Carl Ray Thacker, was indicted on charges of possession of narcotics. He was arrested when the officers seized the Blankenship woman.

Bond was denied for Cherry and the Blankenship woman. Thacker's bond was set at $25,000.

Cherry was shot three times. He was treated at a hospital and moved to jail.

'Hi' High Humor

MILTON, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Ann Brewer turned on her radio Monday to hear the inauguration ceremonies in Washington and the first voice was of a clerk.

"What's he saying?" asked her 5-year-old son, Clark. "He's praying," said Mrs. Brewer. "He's talking to God."

Then came the well-known resonant voice of U.S. Sen. Everett S. Dirksen, who acted as director of the ceremonies.

Cursing Demonstrators Fail To Disrupt Event

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeering, cursing antiwar demonstrators, some wearing white masks in grotesque mimicry of Richard M. Nixon, tried but failed to interrupt the pageantry of the new President's Inauguration day.

Eighty demonstrators were arrested Monday and some left short but sharp encounters with police nursing bloodied heads. But the violence fell far short of the pitched battles at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last August.

Most of the arrests were for disorderly conduct, police headquarters said. Two youths were charged with burning an American flag and one with assaulting a policeman.

Demonstrators dressed in hipie garb, some wrapped in blankets to ward off the near-freezing temperature, charged a cordon of policemen guarding the parade route along Pennsylvania Avenue.

Paratroopers rushed to form a second line of defense as Nixon's armored limousine passed. He pointedly turned his back to wave at the cheering crowd on the other side of the wide avenue but his car speeded up suddenly when a large rock hit within a foot of it.

Secret Service agents accompanying the President's car batted down several objects that flew toward it.

Nixon's Summons For Peace Draws Praise From Kremlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon's presidential inaugural summons to peace drew warm praise from Capitol Hill to the Kremlin, but left some Americans-in-the-street baffled and at least one Negro leader downright disappointed.

"The speech reflected a sense of urgency and no sensitivity to the basic problems of hunger, poverty and race in this nation," said the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Almost unanimous praise flowed from both sides of the aisle in Congress although there were indications that in domestic affairs the new President's honeymoon with lawmakers may be short.

"I particularly liked the emphasis on his determination to pursue a policy of peace," said Sen. J. W. Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee was one of the loudest and most persistent critics of Johnson administration Vietnam policies.

Nixon "pressed all of the right buttons and he struck all of the right themes," said Sen. Edmund Muskie, the Maine Democrat and unsuccessful Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Muskie, however, sounded a note of caution on how Congress will react to Nixon programs, saying "I think Democrats will await specifics before taking positions on domestic issues."

Republicans, as could be expected, were unanimous in their public praise of Nixon's speech. House GOP leader Gerald Ford said the speech "struck just the right tone for this moment in history."

In a congratulatory message to Nixon, leaders of the Soviet Union said the two world powers must strive to improve relations.

"Through joint efforts with other states the Soviet Union and the United States must do all that is needed to solve ripe international problems," said

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

The message followed a rare Kremlin news conference at which the Soviet Union repeated its willingness to start talks soon on curbing the nuclear arms race.

Even Hanoi's usually strident voice of criticism was muted as Nixon assumed the presidency from Lyndon Johnson.

"Let the failure of Johnson be a lesson to others," said Radio Hanoi broadcast monitored in Hong Kong. It did not mention Nixon by name.

Sirhan's Defense Fails To Tip Hand

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eleven jurors could be automatically seated today in the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan murder trial if the defense goes along with the prosecution and surrenders its peremptory challenges.

A 12th juror and six alternates still would have to be chosen. Attorneys for the 24-year-old Jordanian accused of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy spent the weekend considering whether they would waive further challenges to the present provisional panel of jurors.

There was no court session Monday.

In a surprise move Friday, the prosecution waived further challenges and said, "We accept the jury as now constituted."

The defense remained mum on its decision.

"We don't want to tip our hand," chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper said. Attorneys for both sides met Monday in the judge's chamber to go over Friday's trial transcript.

Judge Herbert V. Walker, meanwhile, has disclosed that a Los Angeles hotel has been chosen to house the jury during the trial, expected to extend into spring.

He would not name the hotel but said each juror would have his own room and that there would be separate recreation and dining facilities.

Two color television sets and a radio will be available in the large recreation room, the judge said, but programs will be monitored. Walker also said jurors will be allowed to read newspapers, "but they will be cut in pieces."

Mayor Proclaims Jaycee Week Here

Jan. 19-25 was proclaimed Monday as Jaycee Week in Big Spring by Mayor Arnold Marshall at the noon meeting of the Big Spring Jaycees.

A proclamation, read by the mayor to the Jaycees, pointed out that the departments of local government recognize the great service rendered to the community by the Jaycees, and that the club has contributed materially to the betterment of this community throughout the year. He urged all citizens of our community to give full consideration to the future services of the Jaycees.

Speaker at the meeting was Wayne Burns, district attorney, who talked about parole laws in Texas.

Burns explained the difference between parole and probation, saying that probation occurs when a person, found guilty of a crime and before he is sent to prison, is given a probated sentence. Parole occurs after a person serves part of a sentence.

There are some 16,000 inmates in the Texas Department of Corrections installation, and one reason for parole is that there is not room enough to take care of all prisoners.

Seven new members were inducted into the Jaycees by Ben Faulkner, president, and dates for upcoming events were listed.

Melvin Fryar was named chairman of the annual Jaycees Rattlesnake Roundup slated this spring, and the Bosses Night banquet was set for Feb. 20. The next Jaycee meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Officers Club at Webb AFB, followed by a breakfast with Mayor Marshall at 6:15 a.m. Tuesday.

UNUSUAL LEGAL FLIP-FLOP IN NEW ORLEANS Garrison-Shaw Showdown Starts

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Section of the Clay Shaw trial jury starts today in a courtroom showdown on Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's claim that President John F. Kennedy was killed by a band of conspirators—not by a lone sniper.

Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. summoned 169 citizens for examination as prospective jurors with still others readily available.

Shaw, 55, a tall, chain-smoking, retired business executive is charged with conspiring to murder the president who was assassinated in Dallas November 22, 1963.

The Criminal district courtroom was under extraordinary guard. Deputies were under orders to search all spectators.

Opening of the trial was preceded by an unusual legal flip-flop by the prosecution.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock, named by Garrison to handle the case, asked Friday that the trial be delayed indefinitely. Then he withdrew the motion when it came before Judge Haggerty in a hearing Monday.

At the hearing, Alcock accused U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark of deliberately interfering by releasing a report on the Kennedy autopsy "on the eve of the picking of the jury for the Shaw trial."

Clark's announcement Thursday was that a panel of experts had examined the secret report and upheld the autopsy report that the bullets which killed the President were fired from above and behind.

SECRET REPORTS
Garrison says the autopsy material would back his contention that the President was hit by bullets fired from both front and rear.

"It was not the first time that Atty. Gen. Clark tried to interfere in this case with public statements," said Alcock in contending that Clark's statement could influence prospective jurors.

He added, however, that the state "will trust the good judgment, common sense and spirit which the state feels prevails among the people of New Orleans."

Garrison has often cited the various secret reports in the national archives in accusing the federal government of trying to block any investigation which contradicts the Warren report.

Ruby—named by Garrison as a conspirator—died of cancer after his conviction and imprisonment on a murder charge.

A Devotional For The Day

Each man should examine his own conduct for himself; then he can measure his achievement by comparing himself with himself and not with anyone else. For everyone has his own proper burden to bear. (Galatians 6:4-5, NEB)

PRAYER: God of love and forgiveness, give us forgiving spirits when we feel that we have been wronged. Forgive us when we have wronged others. Fill us with Thy love and make us instruments for healing the world's hurts. In the name of Christ, the Redeemer, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

(From the 'Upper Room')

A Prayer

God bless the President of the United States.

Provide him with strength of body and clearness of mind. Let him have a full measure of wisdom and understanding, an ability to judge rightly and fairly.

Crown him with confidence that comes in trying to do what seems right and best. Give him courage to stand firmly against pressure and criticism in the discharge of his duties.

Fortify him with peace of mind, and shield him from bitterness and rancor toward those who may assail.

Fill him with compassion and endow him with humility that this great office requires.

Bless him in such a way that this nation and all nations through him will be blessed. Amen.

Grim And Needless Record

The grim figures are in: November, 1968, was the worst traffic-safety month in the nation's history. Five thousand four hundred forty people were killed in that month, a 15 per cent increase over the 4,730 who died in traffic accidents during November of 1967.

The carnage last November also spoiled what small statistical comfort there was in the fact that until that month the year had shown a slight decline in the accident death rate. That is, up to November traffic accident deaths per 100 million vehicle-miles were down about two per cent from the comparable 1967 figure. The November total pushed the rate up to 3.4 per 100 million vehicle-miles for the first 11 months, just what it had been a year earlier.

In recent years it has been commonly noted that our annual traffic death toll is about 50,000. That began to be said before the total actually hit that grisly figure. But now, as is shown by data from the National Safety Council, we shall have to revise the total upward. The first 11 months of 1968 brought traffic accident deaths to 50,440 people, well in excess of the annual figure commonly used. Where will the total stand when the December figures are compiled?

Some may find consolation in the fact that even though the actual number of deaths keeps rising, the rate per 100 million vehicle-miles is nearly constant. We do not share this optimistic view. It seems cold comfort, indeed, especially for relatives and friends of the 500-plus victims.

Nor is death the only measure of this national tragedy. An enormous number are injured; many are permanently disfigured and disabled. The economics of traffic accidents also need to be emphasized again. The crashes during last November pushed the 11-month cost to an estimated $10.1 billion.

The American people have for decades shown concern with the steady rise in traffic deaths and injuries. Yet it is evident that this concern, though perhaps deeply felt, has not brought action to match the need. It has always been a case of too little too late, with the highway toll forever outdistancing efforts to curb it.

We are not trapped in this cycle; we can escape from it. But we can do so only by looking at the problem afresh, deciding what to do about it, committing the necessary resources and then giving high priority to a concerted effort.

This would cost a good deal more money, perhaps, than is now being spent on traffic safety. But the sums needed are relatively small when compared with the annual traffic accident cost of well over $10 billion. The question is not whether we can substantially reduce the traffic toll, but whether we will.

Misgivings About The Road Ahead

WASHINGTON — President Johnson so obviously enjoyed his valedictory before Congress that only the most grudging partisans would deny him his triumphant leave-taking. Yet, in cold sober reflection with the cheerless echo of past battles least and won, so much of what he said is seen to be irrelevant to the mood of the Congress, the country and the incoming Nixon Administration.

In typical Johnson style it was a personal recital basking in the glow of achievement and skipping quickly over faults and failures. The leave-taking as the old order ends are by no means all triumphal joy and gladness.

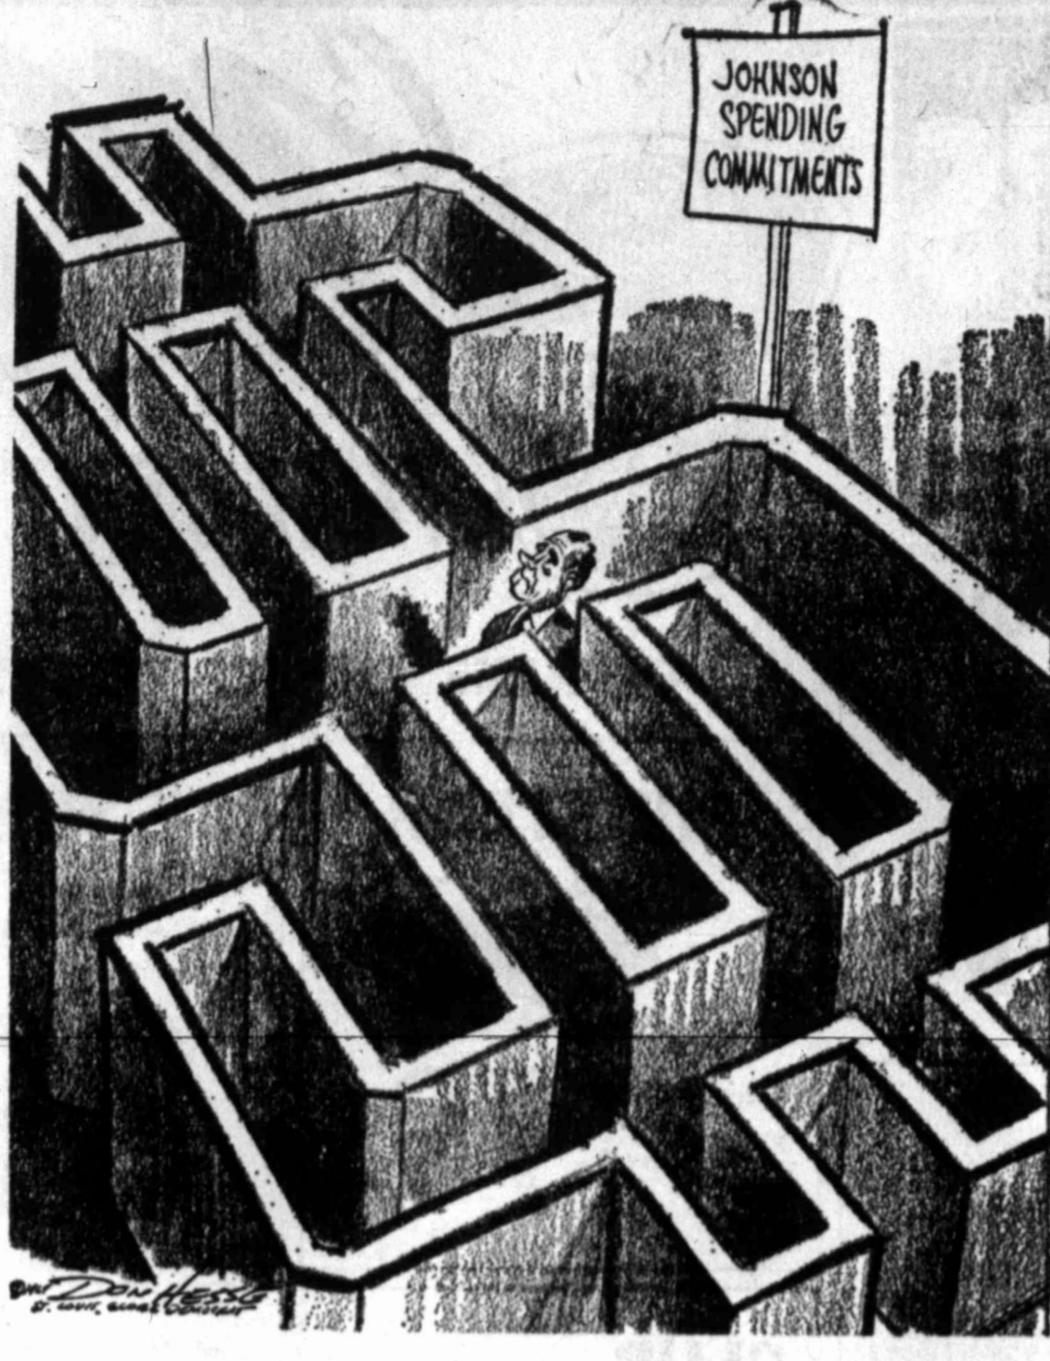

SAYING HIS private farewells to associates and diplomats after eight

Billy Graham

I have lived with a dishonest man for forty years in order to keep the family together. He has no principles, writes checks when he has no funds in the bank; has debts he can never pay, and constantly borrows money with no thought of ever paying it. The shame of it is that people think his sin is mine also. What can I do?

HEARTBROKEN. Your situation is an excellent illustration to young people. Your question points up the fact that girls should know well the man they marry, and vice versa. Too many people become enamored with a smooth-talking, winsome character, and marry without ever knowing anything about their character. I know a man, for example, who married a beautiful kleptomaniac, and all his life he has been paying for unneeded stolen goods. I know a good woman who unknowingly married a homosexual, and her life has been one of tragedy and grief — but since she is a Christian and doesn't believe in divorce, she is stuck with her plight. I know another man who married a nymphomaniac, and his life has been one of embarrassment and sadness. All these cases, as well as yours, is the result of jumping into marriage too hurriedly, and without knowing well the person who was to be their life mate. Marriage can be one of the most enjoyable, or one of the most miserable experiences of life, and those who marry without careful thought and earnest prayer are asking for trouble. There wouldn't be nearly so many divorces if young people would take more time before saying those irrevocable words at the marriage altar. "I do."

Your husband could change. He could be converted. It is not too late! Let's pray that it will happen.

Rosy World Of Annual Reports

By LISA CRONIN (Subbing for John Cunniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — In the rosy world of corporate annual reports, some companies never really have a bad year.

When the numbers tell a sad tale of declining earnings, the text explains that the company is "in a transition period" or has "suffered an interruption in its growth pattern."

THE VERBIAGE is simply a company putting its best foot forward, for while most concerns are more straightforward, almost all American companies today see the annual report as their most basic selling tool.

"The annual report used to be a document to satisfy the Securities and Exchange Commission, but now it is a marketing tool to reflect the image of the company—it's an identity package," said Herbert Haft, vice president of Kinney National Services, Inc.

THE TYPICAL annual report today is inadequate for SEC purposes. The commission requires much more detailed information from those concerns obligated to file periodic statements.

The basic rule of annual reports appears to be the more prosperous the company, the flossier the report.

Esquire, Inc., had a very good year in 1967 and told about it in a lavish four-color portfolio filled with artist's drawings of staff and products.

But in 1968, the company encountered "adverse market conditions in some areas" and wrote about its revenues and earnings decline in a simple report illustrated with black and white photography and bearing a black cover.

USING A MORE simple and obviously less expensive report "wasn't so much a question of money as of psychological effect on the stockholders," said Stephen Bogardo, a vice president of Esquire, Inc. "An expensive report in a bad year might incur criticism—I try to put myself in the mind of a shareholder who has 100 or 200 shares."

The ultimate in annual reports may be in the offing. Some companies are considering putting the financial facts in a booklet that can be easily separated from the main body of the report. Then the report can be used without any figures at all.

Want To Try For One More?

NEW YORK (AP) — My 58th birthday is on the horizon, and already solicitous friends are inquiring if I plan to make a down payment on a wheel chair.

NO, SIR not yet. No wheel chair—but I might consider investing in a sporty cane. A stout cane gives an appropriate air of dignity to a man who has reached the age where he acquires an authoritative touch of gray at his temples.

At 58 a fellow can use all the prestige symbols that will gain him respect, for at this time of life the best he can hope for is respectability. He no longer has the strength to win widespread admiration for the spectacular energy with which he pursues his vices and bad habits.

TO IT IS that, with no mock humility, I feel entitled to reach around, pat my own back, and say to myself with a feeling of warm congratulation and a touch of sentimentality, "Well, you've done it again, old-timer. Want to try for one more?"

WELL, NOW, that's a reasonable question and deserves a reasonable answer.

Perhaps there isn't anything truly remarkable in being 58. To a man of 80 that is mere child's play.

Offhand, I can't recall a president who was inaugurated on his 58th birthday, or anyone who wrote an immortal sonnet, knocked a home run, scored a touchdown, or built a better mousetrap on this occasion in his career.

YET, IN a way, it is hardly fair to derogate one's 58th birthday. If it is not a major feat, it can still be accounted a minor achievement. There were a lot of people who were 57 last year who won't make it around the next lap of the track this year.

Frankly, I think that anyone who, at any age, by any means, manages to survive another 365 days in this perilous, accident-prone universe has done something meritorious, deserving of at least passing notice if not permanent accolade.

After 50, for some reason or other, the perils of life's obstacle course seem to grow more numerous. Therefore, the accomplishing of another year of existence, which a young person takes for granted, is to an older man truly wonderful and well worth praising. To him each new birthday is a marvelous milestone.

TO IT IS that, with no mock humility, I feel entitled to reach around, pat my own back, and say to myself with a feeling of warm congratulation and a touch of sentimentality, "Well, you've done it again, old-timer. Want to try for one more?"

Still Out Of Ideas

FORT WORTH (AP) — Committees in charge of ground-breakings have about run out of ideas, but officials reached into the past for the ceremony for the new city office building here.

The ground was broken by a team of mules hitched to a form of plow. But the broken earth was carried away in a helicopter.

Around The Rim

Oh Heresy, Heresy, Heresy

I suppose this will come as a shock, yea blasphemy, to a lot of people, but nevertheless I feel it is my bounden duty to point out that there are some of us who do not regard a football game on television as the supreme achievement in television entertainment.

INDEED, THERE are a few Philistines like myself who would never shed a tear if the networks dropped telecasting football games entirely. Rather I would miss the grid classics; I would revel in finding something else on the idiot box screen than big beefy fellows ramming into one another on rain-soaked gridirons. Take Sunday for example.

I FLIPPED the dial round and round and I encountered only football. Since football games are lengthy, the day was entirely absorbed with them. Anyone who would have enjoyed some other form of television was out of luck. You had your choice — football featuring two all-star teams or football featuring two other all-star teams or reruns of football games played in the regular season featuring still other all-stars.

I am not rabid in my distaste for the great American classic. I can either take football or leave it. I generally leave it.

I DO NOT QUARREL with folk who like football. That, like voting Republican, is their privilege if they so choose. I do not attempt to convert them to my position. I do dislike them looking at me as though I am a sim- pleton simply because I find little of interest in the game for me. I always felt that in matters of this kind, one had individual choice.

As a rule, the football addict who glues his eyes to the earliest football broadcast from the East coast and merely shifts across the continent to follow the succeeding contests throughout the day, cannot tolerate anyone who doesn't believe that his sport is all-important.

IT JUST seems a little unfair to me that those of us who paid cash money for our television receivers and have a right to expect something on them of some interest to us, are utterly overlooked every weekend from early autumn until midwinter.

The rabid football watcher probably works at his job all week and has no opportunity except on weekends to follow his hobby. It is also true that we non-footballers also work all week and likewise would like to have something on the telly on our day off other than forward passes, end runs and 15-yard penalties.

OF COURSE this is treason or heresy, then take 15 yards for irregular procedure.

Nevertheless, although it may be hard to believe, there are a few people in this broad land of ours who do not feel that a football game is more important than the explosion of an atomic bomb or the invasion of aliens from outer space.

Washington As Secretary Of Interior

WASHINGTON — I can't help thinking how lucky it was for George Washington that he became our first President rather than our first secretary of the interior. As secretary of the interior he might never have made it.

Imagine, if you will, the first meeting of the Senate Interior Committee of the first Congress.

"Mr. Washington, the President has nominated you as the nation's first secretary of the interior. We'd like to ask you for your views on certain matters concerning conservation."

"Yes, sir."

"IT HAS BEEN reported in the press that when you were a boy you chopped down a cherry tree."

"I never lied about that. I did chop down a cherry tree with a new ax my father bought me."

Why did you chop down the cherry tree?"

"Well, as I said to my father at the time, 'If you've seen one cherry tree, you've seen them all.'"

"That's all well and good, Mr. Washington, but as secretary of the interior you're going to be in charge of conservation. It seems to me that chopping down a cherry tree doesn't exactly inspire confidence that you would be a strong protector of our woodlands."

"I'D LIKE to say, gentlemen, that I'm not for conservation just for conservation's sake. I mean, you can't expect to keep every cherry tree in this country. If you did, you'd have a nation of cherry trees. When I chopped down the cherry tree, I was clearing the land in hopes that somebody might use it for a turpentine factory. You're never going to have any private industry unless you take advantage of our natural resources."

"Mr. Washington, let's skip the cherry tree incident for a moment. You own quite a number of slaves. Would you be willing to sell your slaves so there would be no hint of conflict of interest?"

"I can't see how my owning slaves would be in conflict with the Interior Department."

"WELL, IT'S POSSIBLE that the Interior Department might want to buy slaves for its parks program. If you owned slaves the press might say that you were holding on to them to make a profit."

"I could put my slaves in a trust, if you want me to, gentlemen, and let the Bank of Northern Virginia run my plantation while I'm secretary."

"That's not good enough, Mr. Washington. As secretary of the interior you're going to have to be against the large plantation interest who will be wanting to grab more land for themselves."

"I ASSURE YOU I will not support the plantation interests, except when I feel we should develop plantations for the good of the economy."

"How do you feel about Indians, Mr. Washington?"

"I just shoot them and be done with it."

"Wait a minute. Don't you realize as secretary of the interior you are responsible for protecting Indians and their lands?"

"Are you gentlemen out of your minds? Whoever heard of protecting Indians? If you ever hope to make more than 13 states out of this country, you're going to have to knock off the redskins, take their lands — and then protect them."

"Do you feel strongly about wildlife too?"

"YES, SIR. I'm for shooting every wild animal in the United States. You're not going to get people to settle in the suburbs until you get rid of the buffaloes."

"I'm afraid, Mr. Washington, the secretary of interior is responsible for protecting wildlife, particularly animals."

"Boy, this isn't much of a Cabinet job, is it? I'm willing to do anything asked of me, but I'm telling you right now, gentlemen, I'm not going to back the gun lobby in this country. The President is going to have to get himself another boy."

Sir Hugh And Sir Ted

WASHINGTON — What you've got to like about the Senate whips of Hugh Scott (R., Pa.) and Ted Kennedy (D., Mass.) is that both come bearing the colorful, chivalric crest — call it panache, the white plume of knighthood.

If I'd been stuffing the caucus room ballot-boxes, I'd have voted with characteristic ideology, dull as that sounds, for Russell Long (D., La.) and Roman Hruska (R., Neb.). Scott and Kennedy are political southpaws, to change the imagery, and the Senate club goes better behind right-handed pitching.

BUT IT'LL BE fun in the press gallery to watch the Republican and the Democratic Whips trying to unhorse one another like a pair of cavaliers out of Ivanhoe. They'll go at it hard, but clean, for reasons of glory and spite. Both men live for their plaudits. Both won their posts only because they greatly desired the glitter of a new ribbon to hang on their coats, and because they had eyes for the aura that encircles a front-and-center desk in the chamber. And they have reason for reciprocal dislike, beyond that of party, aside from that of personality.

HUGH SCOTT, Virginia-born of ancient lineage, a lawyer with a lively wit, bon vivante, an art collector, a ghostless author, a verbal duelist, an up-the-hard-way politico, isn't a snob but he's a connoisseur. He loathes what's artificial and he hates what is pretentious. For a good many years now, his abomination has been Kennedy.

Scott detests absentee Senators, briefless Attorney Generals, and money-made, name-riding Democratic candidates. He has vocalized so much, in public and private, on these subjects that if he doesn't roll Teddy in the dust he'll consider that his lance and rapier have lost their cunning.

TED KENNEDY, as royalist pedigree as an American politician can get these days, can give as good as he takes in the lists. The highest and wisest compliment paid him for his victory came from Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

"Of all the Kennedys," said Mike, "the Senator is the only one who was and is a real Senate man . . ."

TED KENNEDY, however he attained it, was born for the senatorial toga. He came as a juvenile, but soon grew to a man's estate. He didn't express opinions until he'd formed them by hard work in the sub-committees. He didn't take the floor until there was something to say that he could say better than anybody in the chamber.

Ted, to tell the truth, is probably a better Senator than Hugh is, on much less parliamentary experience. He doesn't need wit, which is often an artful dodge, because he's got the information. He has often been eloquent, and he's never been bombastic. And he has all the incentives that a proud man carries in his heart to avenge himself in his brothers' names upon Hugh Scott.

MATCH-FIGHTS between assistant leaders of the Senate are not usual and automatic, but they can be arranged where the adversaries are out for one another's blood. Ted and Hugh, neither of whom would ever fight in the gutter and both of whom have earned their spurs and plumes, should provide some elegantly ferocious combat.

How They Take Off A Plaster Cast

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: How do doctors make plaster casts on people? And how do they get the casts off without cutting the person? — A.A.

A cotton covering is placed on the skin. Then strips of gauze, impregnated with the plaster material, are applied wet, so they can be moulded exactly to the shape of the limb or body. This dries quickly and forms a firm cast.

Various easy and safe ways have been devised for removing casts. One involves a scissors-like instrument. Small electrically-driven saws with shields to prevent touching the skin also are used.

I'm no great mechanic but I believe one device works on the same principle as a vibrator-type jig saw. The blade moves very rapidly but it moves only a very tiny distance. Thus it will cut anything hard that is pressed firmly against the blade, but it won't cut your finger. The reason: the motion of the blade is so small that the skin, being soft, merely moves right with the saw blade, rather than being cut.

Whatever kind of cast you are going to have, don't worry about being cut or hurt. You won't be.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like some information on emphysema. My son has it, and he has been offered a trip to Florida for the rest of the cold weather. Someone told him the ocean air wasn't good for him and that he might get tuberculosis. He wouldn't be living near the ocean. — Mrs. E.W.E.

That "tuberculosis" business is completely untrue and, to my way of thinking, an unkind thing to have said to him. Tuberculosis is caused by germs, not climate.

I presume that, like many other emphysema patients, your son has difficulty outdoors in bitter cold weather — and perhaps trouble indoors if the house gets too dry. A moderate amount of humidity is helpful, and too much dryness makes it more difficult for the patient. Florida (or any other state) can't be a complete answer to his breathing problems, but I see no reason why he should forego the trip.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was told that I have a heart murmur but had nothing to worry about "as it isn't going anywhere," in the doctor's words. What did he mean exactly? — Mrs. E.

Simply that he has detected a gurgling or other sound in your heart, but that there is no detectable heart damage, and the sound, or murmur, is not changing in character. Harmless murmurs are fairly common.

Headaches! You can beat them. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How To Take Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

A LOVELIER YOU Eye Makeup Hides Puffiness, Shadows

By MARY SUE MILLER
A lovely writes: My eyes are too small for my face. The left lid droops a bit, too, and this makes my eye seem even smaller. Would makeup of some kind help to even up appearances?

The Answer: It is a common practice to use makeup for increasing the apparent size of the eyes. The basic step is blending pale beige eyeshadow from lashes to eyebrow, from inner corners of eyes to temples. Edges at the brows and sides are then feathered to nothingness. Based on an art principle, lightening the lids in this way causes the eyes to look much larger.

Lamesa School District Sells Improvement Bonds

LAMESA (SC) — Trustees of the Lamesa Independent School District accepted a bid Monday night for $2,200,000 in school improvement bonds. These will finance the largest single improvement program attempted by the district.

The proposal of Underwood, Neuhaus & Co., Inc. and associates on a $1,800,000 block of bonds from 1971-87, inclusive, at an effective interest rate of 4.80636 was approved on the recommendation of Joe Smith, First Southwest Corp., Dallas, the district's fiscal agent. The individual bonds ranged from .45 to 5 per cent.

The First National Bank of Lamesa, as agent for the Dawson County Permanent School Fund, bid in the remaining $400,000 of 1988-89 bonds at an effective rate of 4.125.

Smith termed the low bid "extremely good" in the face of the current bond market, which he said had stabilized during the past week. Had the sale been a week earlier, Smith thought, the rate would have been higher.

Demonstrators Protest National Guard Patrols

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Demonstrators went ahead with plans to march through the streets of Wilmington despite removal of the prime target of their protest—the National Guard.

The demonstration today was planned by two out of state groups as a protest to the National Guard patrols which have policed the streets of Wilmington's predominantly Negro neighborhoods since race riots hit the city last April.

Funds realized from sale of the bonds will be used to construct a middle school capable of accommodating 1,300 children in grades 5-6-7-8. This will replace the present junior high structure, one of the oldest in the system, and a small elementary school. Also, there will be some improvements at two elementary schools, and Lamesa High School will get a new cafeteria, replacing the present one which will be converted to classrooms, and a new gymnasium for girls.

A Mother's Love

A distraught mother called police Monday night to report her three young boys were missing.

Now we can and will focus Tuesday's demonstration on the more basic and fundamental question of corporate racism and repression which we have sought to raise from the outside," the organizers of the demonstration said after Peterson's announcement.

The two groups call themselves the People Against Racism (PAR) and Project Communications Network.

The boys, ages 11, 12 and 13, were not actually missing. Police were holding them on shoplifting charges.

Volunteers Kick Off YMCA Drive

More than two score volunteers turned out Monday for the kickoff of the participating division of the 24th annual YMCA membership campaign.

The jeep patrols roamed the city's streets Monday night for the last time, barring a new emergency which would require their presence again.

Judging in the junior competition will be held Saturday, and placing in the open show will be Monday and Tuesday.

Mike Hull, chairman of this division, said that 85 workers had been committed to the task of re-enlisting more than 600 members and to urge others in the city to take part in the YMCA program.

The group, accompanied by James Shelton, assistant county agricultural agent, are Maxwell Barr, Dolores Lankford, Robert O'Daniel and Richie Tubb, who will enter junior competition. Robert Haney and David Barr will show steers in the open show.

The reserve steer and the championships for swine went to other contestants.

Radar Unit Would Give Base A Boost

The $435,000 radar approach control center planned for Webb AFB — part of the military construction bill awaiting House and Senate screening and approval — will give the base the most sophisticated terminal radar available.

Construction of the new unit, FPN-47 (fixed radar navigational aid), should begin in the fall of 1971. It will replace the MPN-14B, the mobile radar approach control unit, currently used at Webb.

The FPN-47 will have larger radar scopes and will have more sophisticated communications equipment than the unit presently used. The new unit will have eight surveillance scopes which will provide 60 miles of primary radar and 200 miles of secondary radar coverage.

Pair Didn't Want Flight To Havana?

HOUSTON (AP) — A young man who said he didn't want to go to Cuba and his girlfriend were arrested Monday night after a stewardess said he showed a pistol while aboard a Dallas-to-Houston airliner.

Stewardess Sherry Calloway, 20, of Texas City said Chapman displayed the gun about 20 minutes after he and Miss Cubison boarded the flight in Dallas.

The antenna system will be located on Scenic Mountain, where radar pulse will be relayed from the antenna site to the IFR control room.

The FPN-47 affords increased capability. The base could advance into a complete IFR environment of its flying activities with this unit's increased radar coverage, its additional positions of operation and its intense communication system. The FPN-47, with its complete dual channel radar, is extremely reliable. In the event of a radar failure, a complete back-up system would be available within 30 seconds.

The event will be in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College, and it will be preceded by the annual election of officers and other council business in Room 1 of the Science Building. Wives of visiting council members will be entertained in the SUB parlor starting at 6 p.m.

Doug Russell, Midland Eagle Scout who won two gold medals in the Olympics at Mexico City, was scheduled to speak, but during the weekend he was confined to the hospital with a case of hepatitis.

Malcolm Abel, Midland, president of the council, will preside over the meeting.

Murder Suspect Back At BSSH

Michael Lee Moody, 25, was returned to the Big Spring State Hospital Monday, after a pre-trial sanity hearing failed to materialize.

Randall D. Chapman, 19, and Melinda E. Cubison, 21, both of Houston, were taken into custody at William P. Hobby Airport.

As she asked again, he replied, "Well, I don't want to go to Havana."

Real 'Hot' Car Caper

Now you see it; now you don't. A car was stolen from the lot at Big Spring Auto Sales, 814 W. 4th, Monday, and police were put on the alert.

Moody, who is charged with the murder of Lori Gunn, 2, in Midland last August, had bond of $25,000 fixed, after his Aug. 31 arrest, but he had spent most of the time at MSSH.

Chapman, a tall, lanky youth with chin whiskers, and his companion were aboard Trans-Texas Airways flight 906, which originated in Amarillo and was bound for New Orleans. It carried 53 passengers and a crew of four.

When she asked for the pistol the man said it was only a toy, Miss Calloway said.

The car was found abandoned at the south end of Mesquite Street. When informed by the police radio dispatcher that the car had been located, Grady Dorsey, the owner, requested the car be left there it was found and said he would pick it up there.

Vann Culp, his attorney, noted that neither his client nor the district attorney had requested a sanity hearing and moved that the pre-trial hearing be dropped. Last Friday Culp had asked that the trial be moved from Midland, but Judge Perry Pickett denied the motion.

"I didn't have a pistol or gun," Chapman told newsmen at the airport. "I simply had a revolver that would shoot blanks. ... It was very innocent. No violation of the law."

The officers returned to the station for a fingerprint kit and headed back to the car to check for prints. When they arrived back at the scene, the car was missing. A check with Dorsey revealed that he had not picked it up.

Builder Of Webb Village Killed In Plane Crash

Henry E. Williams Jr., 58, one of three victims in the crash of a private plane at the edge of Austin Monday, was one of the builders of the Capchart (Webb Village) project here in 1967-68.

Killed with him when a Beechcraft Bonanza crashed four minutes after taking off from the Austin Airport were Henry E. Williams II, 18, his son, and Calvin Barry Jr., 24. The plane was reportedly en route from Austin, where Young was building an apartment project, to Mineral Wells. One body plummeted through the roof of an engineering company and another was blown through a window of the same firm. The third was found in a nearby field.

Henry Williams and B. P. Dunlap bid in the Webb Village project south of Webb AFB in 1957 on a low proposal of $6,435,000, the largest single building job in the history of Big Spring. They had been engaged in a similar project at Alexandria, La., but headquartered in Dallas.

The antenna system will be located on Scenic Mountain, where radar pulse will be relayed from the antenna site to the IFR control room.

REWARD OFFERED Has 'Roadside' Given Up Vigil?

Has "Roadside," the little Border Collie who maintained a two-year vigil beside US 87 north of San Angelo been reunited with his master? Or, as his friends and protectors fear, has he been stolen?

On the possibility that the dog was taken, his benefactors at the Cactus Patch, a 24-hour truck stop, and the US 87 Cafe, eight miles north of San Angelo, have started a reward fund in an effort to learn what happened to "Roadside."

DISAPPEARED
Oddly, the collie disappeared Saturday after Carl R. Kuykendall, Westbrook, who had been fascinated by the dog's loyalty and devotion, had sent a note to the newspapers in an effort to locate "Roadside's" master.

"The real hope of all those who have looked after him is that the papers will run a story that the dog had waited so loyally for two years, and perhaps the owner would see it and be united with the pet," said Kuykendall. "I, for one, would surely like to be there if and when the master should come for his pet."

Saturday evening, however, Kuykendall got a call from E. H. (Slim) Smith, who operates the 87 Cafe, that the dog was gone. Smith and his neighbors were grieved, for they, too, had wanted more than anything to see the dog and master reunited.

How the dog took up his lonely and unrequited wait in a windblown pasture by a fence corner on the east side of US 87 is not known. But he endured burning sun, driving rain, blizzards, snow and sleet with nothing but a few weeds and scrawny mesquite for shelter.

COMPASSION
The warm-hearted people in that neighborhood eight and a half miles north of San Angelo had compassion. For the past 16 months Smith has been feeding the dog, some, and a Mr. Berry brought a barrel and secured it to the fence post to provide the dog some protection. The woman who carries the star mail route between Sterling City and San Angelo stopped nearly every day to leave food.

They gave him the name of "Roadside" and attempted to coax him to leave his lonely vigil. Evidently, the collie figured this was the spot where his master some day would return. So he steadfastly refused to move any further than trotting along the fence, or sometime circling, looking to the north and occasionally emitting a low whine. The approach of a car, and particularly a pickup, perked his spirit, which waned when the car didn't turn out to be the right one.

SPECULATED
His friends speculated where he came from. Why was he at that particular spot? Had his master abandoned him or become separated from him at this place? What about his master?

And now they ask: "What about 'Roadside'?"

Cong Shells Strip, Pier

SAIGON (AP) Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. land, river and air forces with rockets, mortars and grenades Monday and today, coinciding with the inauguration of President Nixon.

At least six American servicemen were killed and 35 Americans were wounded, including a civilian.

A high-ranking South Vietnamese police official said captured Communist orders directed a new wave of terrorism at U.S. troops in an attempt to increase antiwar sentiment among the American public.

Several other attacks apparently were thwarted by American forces who uncovered two enemy munitions caches and broke up a convoy of enemy sampans moving troops south of Saigon.

In the past 24 hours, military spokesmen said, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. Navy patrol boats and landing craft and cargo ships, American officers' quarters, a U.S. military advisers' compound, a small observation plane flying over the demilitarized zone and U.S. troops based within 11 miles of Saigon.

Inside Saigon, terrorists threw hand grenades at two U.S. billets a mile apart and wounded eight Americans. The terrorists escaped. Increased numbers of uniformed and plainclothes South Vietnamese police were roaming the capital because of the directives calling for a new wave of terrorism against Americans.

Enemy rockets, mortars, machine guns, hand grenades and mines sank a 31-foot Navy patrol boat and badly damaged another, ripped through the stern of the 384-foot LST Tom Green County, slightly damaged the American cargo ship Musk-Ingum, tore a tire off a small observation plane, hit a U.S. helicopter and forced it down, and sprayed shrapnel over two helicopters parked on the ground.

The boldest attack was at the usually serene seaside resort city of Vung Tau, 34 miles southeast of Saigon.

Mothers March Tonight Against Birth Defects

The annual Mothers March of Dimes against birth defects will be staged in the area tonight, as mothers visit house-to-house, explaining this tragedy and soliciting support for the campaign against them.

Mrs. Ben Faulkner, Jaycee-Ette president, is chairman of the drive. The Jaycee-Ettes are sponsoring the annual effort, with help from the Big Spring High School Future Homemakers.

Young Homemakers Club of Coahoma, Alpha Beta Omicron chapter in Coahoma, Beta Sigma Phi, Gay Hill 4-H Club, Mu Zeta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, and dozens of other individuals interested in this effort.

The Mothers March is the biggest single fund raising effort of the March of Dimes chapter here, and more than one third of all funds raised will be spent to help residents of Howard and Glasscock counties, according to Lanny Hamby, campaign chairman.

The balance goes into research and to help finance the centers studying birth defects.

During the 1968 calendar year, the local chapter spent $2,112.46 in aid to local families. One bill alone was $556.32 to take a baby to Galveston for treatment.

This aid was given to 16 families, most of them on several occasions, as they required help in getting to hospitals for treatment. This is only one phase of the work of the National Foundation, which is tackling the major problem of birth defects in the same manner that polio was fought for decades until finally defeated by discovery of several vaccines.

Chairmen of the drive here tonight among the mothers club's are:

Coahoma — Mrs. Billy Spears and Mrs. Rodney Brooks, of the Young Homemakers Club, and the Coahoma Future Homemakers.

Sand Springs, Midway — Mrs. David Stokes, Alpha Beta Omicron chapter of Coahoma, Beta Sigma Phi.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and my husband is 22. We get along very well but here is the problem: He has very long hair, and I mean it is practically down to his shoulders.

During the daytime he keeps it nicely combed, but at night it is all over the place and it drives me crazy. When I mention a net he gets mad. What should I do?

RUNNING OUT OF PATIENCE
DEAR ABBY: I agree, that man of yours needs a net — maybe both kinds. You'll probably run out of patience before he runs out of hair, so let him know he's not to treat to sleep with, and let him make a choice.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to put in my two cents' worth about the woman who didn't want her husband present when she gave birth because she didn't want him to see her "naked" in front of other people. Of all the reasons she could have thought up, that is the dumbest.

Dear Abby

Real Test Of Love

DEAR ABBY: Recently our daughter was married in an all-white church wedding which was one of the most beautiful ever held in this town. It was a dream come true. To say she looked like an "angel" is not just a mother's pride. I can't describe the joy that was in her father's heart and mine.

When the newlyweds returned from their honeymoon, they calmly told us to expect a grandchild in FIVE MONTHS! That means our daughter was a good three months pregnant when she donned her wedding gown and veil. Abby, she knew it all along. How could she have done this to us? We loved this child more than life itself.

HEARTSICK MOTHER
DEAR ABBY: The real test of love is to love our children when they need our love the most. It's easy to love them when they do everything right and make us "proud" of their accomplishments. But when they disappoint us (as children do occasionally) we can prove the strength of our love by showing compassion, understanding, and forgiveness. Try it. You'll have fewer regrets.

Farmers Told To Tell About Plight

By TEX ROGERS
Agriculture's main problem is telling the story of the farmer's plight to the American people, a field representative for Cong. Omar Burleson said this morning to a group of area farmers.

Dale King, Anson, told the Howard County Agricultural Workers Association at its monthly breakfast meeting that the situation in agriculture is not getting any better and that the American consumer will eventually suffer if the farmers suffer.

"The agriculture budget in 1968 was about $5.5 billion," he said. "The general public's attitude is against this budget because they think all the money goes to subsidize farmers. But between $2.5-$3 billion of the budget has nothing to do with agriculture."

King noted that about $1 billion goes to the school lunch program, and another $1 billion to Public Law 480, or the Food for Peace program, and then more for the food stamp program.

One problem the farmers face is loss of representation in Congress, he said. "There were more than four million farms in the nation in 1960, but in 1968, there are less than three million," he said. "In 1960, a farmer could feed 26 people, and now he can feed more than 40 people. However, while he has increased his production, costs also have risen and he is making less money."

King said that farm prices have dropped four per cent, but costs have increased 34 per cent.

Loss of population in rural districts also is a problem. He said that 11 counties in Cong. Burleson's 17th Congressional District have decreased in population since 1960.

"While Texas has gained population at a rate of 12.2 per cent since 1960, the 17th District's population has gone up only 1.7 per cent," King said. "Rural America does not have the means to fight political battles."

He said that in the House of Representatives today there are only 39 congressmen which have a farm population of 20 per cent in their districts.

There is a hopeful sign, he said. "In 1964, Cong. Burleson noted that representatives from the large cities began thinking twice about bringing more people to the cities, because that usually means more people on the welfare roles," he said.

Also, he noted congressmen are becoming more aware of spending programs, and said that the surtax fight in the House last summer was the first time since World War II an effort has been made to cut spending.

"Cong. Burleson has said that we can't continue to spend more money for something that is doubtful of worth," he said.

King added that since Cong. Burleson has been named chairman of the House ways and means committee, "he is in a position to say something about government spending."

switched to the queen of diamonds at trick two instead of continuing the attack in spades.

"Not so," said South. "I would have ducked one round of diamonds and you would have been in the same position. I can win a second diamond in my hand and lead a club. If West puts up the ace, he has no diamonds left to clear the suit, and if you win the first club, it removes your last entry. By ducking the first lead, I can effectively cut your line of communications in either spades or diamonds."

"That may be true in spades, but diamonds is a different story," spoke up West. "A diamond switch at trick two by my partner can upset the contract. Suppose, for example, that East leads the queen of diamonds. If you let him hold the trick, he continues the suit.

"You presumably win the second diamond in your hand and play a club. I allow my partner to capture North's jack with the king and East returns a third round of diamonds on which I discard the ace of clubs! In order to establish your ninth trick, you must let East in with the ten of clubs and he cashes the setting tricks in diamonds."

South stared at his opponent skeptically and asked, "But would you make so incredible a discard?"

"Ah, that is another question," West replied and he moved the cards across to South to cut for the next deal.

American Dream

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Johnson believes every body in the country should want to be president—including his grandson Lynton Nugent.

"If he behaves himself and does the right thing and works hard," Johnson told a group of well wishers Monday, "then he'll have the opportunity to become president."

West opened the four of spades against South's three no trump contract. The five was played from dummy and East put up the jack which South permitted to hold the trick. East continued with the eight and South played the king. He led a club from his hand, which West ducked, and dummy's jack dislodged East's king.

East had no more spades and he switched to the queen of diamonds. Declarer put up the king and led another club. West played the ace. North's queen subsequently picked up the nine and ten and established the long card in the suit for South. The latter had nine tricks—three hearts and two in each of the other suits.

At the conclusion of the deal, East pointed out regretfully that his side might have fared better if he had

Competitive Athletics Recommended For All

Gene Stallings, head coach and athletic director at Texas A&M, threw down the gauntlet to parents of children in school at Monday night's banquet honoring members of the 1968 Big Spring High School football team. "Give all young men an opportunity to play in competitive athletics," Stallings suggested. "In fact, make him play, if possible."

Herd Challenges Midland Rebels

Big Spring will see if it can experience a change in luck as it opens second half play in District 3-AAAA tonight in Midland against the Lee Rebels. Tipoff time is 8 o'clock. The beleaguered Steers come home Friday to tangle with Odessa Ector.

The Longhorns, who have won only four games this season, dropped eight straight decisions in first half competition. They played well at times but never consistently enough to win. Lee had his troubles, too, in the first half. The Rebels were picked by several observers to finish 4-4 in district.

Calhoun At Helm

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Calhoun, former hurdles star and now coach of the Grambling track and field team, will pilot a six-man U.S. squad that will tour Vietnam and four other Asian countries next month, the Amateur Athletic Union announced Monday.

after a team has scored a victory. "There's something about being in the arena that brings out the best in people." To the athletes present, Stallings said: "As long as you do the best, the best you know how, you have class. There's nothing like coming from behind to win. It's impossible to find one selfish boy in a dressing room possible."

Celts Upset By Bullets

For many years, the Boston Celtics taught the importance of a big man rebounding in the middle, the fast break, the sudden spree that burst open a game. Now those teachings are coming back to haunt them.

The Baltimore Bullets, a National Basketball Association doorman during the reign of the Celtics, proved again Monday night they learned those lessons well by beating Boston 122-109. The victory was Baltimore's third straight over the Celtics this season and boosted its Eastern Division lead to 3 1/2 games over Philadelphia and Boston.

Richard Garner paced Permian with 20 points, all made from the field. Garner got eight chances at the line but couldn't convert. Robert Black and Larry Hoff each counted 13 for Cooper. The game was tied with less than two minutes to go but Cooper lost the ball three straight times on violations.

STANTON — Stanton's girls turned back San Angelo Lake View, 43-39, in a practice basketball game here Monday night. Sandra Chandler of Stanton led all scorers with 25 points. Doris Howard chipped in with 15 for the winners.

Stan Musial Awaits Call To Shrine

NEW YORK (AP) — The doors of Baseball's Hall of Fame swung open today for Stan Musial, who stood ready to enter amidst a welcome afforded only a handful of other baseball greats who preceded him.

Since the first election in 1936, when former greats Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson made it, only Ted Williams in 1966 and Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson in 1962 were chosen on their first try.

However, despite his amazing hitting feats, it was doubtful that Musial would become a unanimous selection among the more than 450 writers voting. No player has ever been given that honor.

FOR TEXAS COLLEGE STUDENT RECOMMENDED

$55 Semester Tuition Increase

AUSTIN (AP) — A $55 per semester tuition increase for the average student at tax-supported colleges and universities is the recommendation of the Texas College Coordinating Board's finance committee.

The committee also presented Monday financing plans for six new colleges in metropolitan areas, enlargement of existing campuses and new dental and medical facilities, all previously recommended by the board.

COST ESTIMATES

The full board will vote on the financing plan, as well as on a request by the South Texas College of Law in Houston to merge with Texas A&M University, at its next meeting, Feb. 10.

H.B. Zachry, San Antonio contractor, heads the finance committee.

The committee report said it would cost $40.4 million for college, university, medical and dental school and public junior college construction between now and 1975.

It will cost $132 million by 1975 to build and equip six colleges proposed by the board for the San Antonio, Midland-Odessa, Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth and Corpus Christi areas, the report said.

Other cost estimates: Expansion of the present 22 state college and university campuses to meet enrollment increases, $80 million.

Enlargement of existing state medical schools, $19.4 million; new state medical school, $22.5 million; and expansion of Baylor Medical School, $7.6 million.

New state dental school, $15 million; expansion of Baylor Dental School, $4.9 million.

BAYLOR AID

(The board has recommended state aid to the two Baylor institutions to help them enlarge their output of doctors and dentists.)

Public junior colleges, $120 million. The state has no responsibility in this area, but the report noted the board already has planned for junior colleges to relieve some of the enrollment pressure on state colleges.

The committee recommended that resident tuition at state colleges and universities increase from the present $50 per semester to $7 per semester hour. Since the average student takes 15 hours, his tuition would be $105 per semester.

Nonresident tuition would rise from $200 per semester to $20 per semester hour, or $300 per semester for the average student.

'Mister' Johnson Returns To His Texas Ranch, Pals

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — Lyndon Baines Johnson has come home to the hills and to the people his daddy described as knowing and caring.

Cheers rang out at the airports in Washington and Austin, Tex., as Johnson made his final journey from power Monday, but it took 400 beaming faces at Stonewall to make his heart pour over completely.

'WE LOVE YOU'

"Mister" Johnson, who will carry the courtesy title of Mr. President the rest of his life, set down in an Air Force Jetstar on his beloved LBJ Ranch by the Pedernales River at 6:31 p.m. With him were Mrs. Johnson, daughter Lynda and granddaughter Lucinda.

The Federicksburg high school band played "The Eyes of Texas" as the Johnsons alighted from the sleek jet.

"I wonder if we can all go into the hangar for a minute and let us tell you how much we love you," Johnson said, relishing this moment and wishing to prolong it.

It took nearly a quarter hour to squeeze the crowd through the narrow door of the hangar.

"Come on, Secret Service, let's move them," Johnson said inside while the doorway remained jammed. "arrest those that are out there."

Then he turned to the ranch foreman, Dale Malechek, and said, "Dale, get over there and get your electric (cattle) prod-"

Nixon In Joking Mood At Six Jampacked Balls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon ended his first day as President on a jubilant social note with a four-hour tour of six inaugural balls so jampacked with bejeweled ladies and tuxedo-clad men that dancing was a near impossibility.

At least 30,000 ballgoers gave the new President and his lady cheering ovations as he made the rounds Monday night in white tie and tails, making brief speeches laced with humor and expressing faith in the American people.

'I'VE TRIED'

Then he grew serious and sentimental, saying, "This is one of the nicest things that ever happened to me. To be able to come back where my grandfather started in 1853, where my father lived all his life and my mother most of her life."

Two More Texas Oil Pacts Seen

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Tentative agreements toward settling strikes at two more oil refineries near the Texas Coast were disclosed today.

Subject to approval by headquarters of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union in Denver and ratification by union local members, the settlements promised to get workers back on the job soon for Atlantic Richfield Oil Co. in neighboring Port Arthur and for Mobil Oil Corp. in Beaumont.

Federal mediator J. A. Esselman of Omaha made public at 1:45 a.m. the agreement in Port Arthur by representatives of Atlantic Richfield and OCAW Local 4-23. An international representative of the union, Elro Brown of Corpus Christi, said he would recommend approval of the pact.

Another federal mediator, Chandler Fizer of St. Louis, reported representatives of Mobil Oil's refinery and marketing and sales had reached similar agreement here. Negotiations over local issues affecting the company's yard and office units continued past 2 a.m.

Qualified observers predicted full settlement of the Mobil Oil strike, affecting 1,450 workers, by late tonight.

No details of the settlements were made public, but spokesmen for both sides said they followed the general pattern of several earlier agreements to settle an industry-wide strike which began Jan. 4.

So far striking employes have returned to only one plant in this bustling center of the petrochemical industry. Work was resumed by 850 men late Saturday at the Pure Oil division refinery of Union Oil Co. at Nederland.

Negotiators for the main plant of Texaco, Inc., at Port Arthur and OCAW Local 4-23 arranged to meet again at 2 p.m. today for the first time since talks were broken off Jan. 3.
