WITH CASTRO Talks To Halt Hijackings Are Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield urged the Nixon administration Saturday to send representatives to meet with Fidel Castro's Cuban regime to seek ways of stopping plane hijackings.

"Despite the nonrecognition of Cuba," Mansfield said in an interview, "representatives of this government could meet with Castro's representatives to discuss ways and means by which this can be stopped."

PROPOSAL ENDORSED

Mansfield's proposal was endorsed by Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, Dean of Senate Republicans, who suggested the administration might even go further and seek to restore diplomatic relations with Cuba.

"Of course we should talk with the government of Cuba, either directly or through the Swiss," Aiken said in a separate interview, adding, "The Cuban government is the one that can stop the hijackings."

Presumably a Cuban agreement to return the hijackers to the United States for prosecution would halt or severely curtail the crimes.

Aiken suggested the Swiss "could sound them out" on the possibility of restored relations.

SCREWBALLS

Aiken said that while most of the hijackings are carried out by "screwballs," Castro could certainly change the situation if he wanted to. Apparently he's not ready to.

Mansfield noted that so far the hijackings have produced no deaths but warned this might not always be so.

As for Congress, Mansfield said he anticipates that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which he is a senior member, will look into the situation, as will the aviation subcommittee of the Commerce Committee.

In the House, hearings are scheduled Wednesday by the Commerce Committee on the entire subject of air safety, including the hijackings.

Gone To Extremes?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation may have gone to extremes in its desire to honor the assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and President John F. Kennedy, an Illinois Republican said Saturday.

"There is a body of opinion in the United States which holds to the belief that—for a while, at least—we already had enough things named 'Kennedy,'" said Rep. John N. Erlenborn.

"We intend no disrespect for a martyred president in saying this," he said in a newsletter. "We would not suggest that nothing should be named for a president who was shot down by a subnormal misfit."

"Our point is that there is a place where these things ought to level off; and we believe that the United States has reached that place, and perhaps gone a little past it," he added.

Erlenborn made the observation in connection with the action of former Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall in renaming the District of Columbia Stadium the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Stadium.

Reviewing the . . .

Big Spring Week

. . . with Joe Pickle

If last week doesn't qualify as a super-news week for the local front, it will do until one comes along. Topping the array of events was the arrival of Howard County's third set of triplets, born Thursday to T. Sgt. and Mrs. David Headen at the Webb AFB hospital. The little girls reported in at four pounds eight, four pounds seven, three pounds 11 and at last reports were doing fine. This had not happened since Dec. 31, 1951, and Jan. 1, 1952 when Pedro, Jan and Jose were born to Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Rodriguez (Pedro came just before midnight). The county's first set were Franklin, Roosevelt and Delano Shaw, born Sept. 30, 1936, in a farm house north of Knott.

It's a small world, for Ray Nichols remembers well how he heard over the radio while working on an oil rig near Andrews that the Shaw triplets had been born. Little did he dream that later he and Mrs. Nichols would have a daughter who would marry one of the triplets.

The Howard County grand jury last week tackled what probably may be an all-time record load. When members finally ground out the last case Friday, 36 had been indicted, including five for murder. Eight other cases submitted did not result in indictment. The murder count against Gilbert Paredes in connection with the collision death of

Remains Of Navy Jet At Webb AFB

Navy Jet Crashes, Burns; Pilot Safe

A Navy A-4 Skyhawk crashed and burned at Webb AFB Saturday, but the pilot ejected and is reported in satisfactory condition at the base hospital.

Marine Lt. R. P. Keller, pilot of the jet aircraft, was en route to Pensacola Naval Air Station, Fla., from Yuma Naval Air Station, Ariz. He had stopped at Webb for routine refueling, and was making his takeoff roll about 3:40 p.m. when the mishap occurred.

Although Air Force officials made no estimates of the damage, photographs taken at the scene indicated the aircraft was demolished.

A board of Naval officers is expected at Webb AFB Monday to make an investigation of the accident. The cause of the accident was not reported.

An unofficial report late Saturday indicated the pilot may have received a leg fracture in the mishap.

FEW KILLED IN INCREASED TEMPO

N. Viet Attackers Driven Off

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen beat off a five-hour attack by 500 North Vietnamese before dawn Saturday at an American artillery base northwest of Saigon, a sector of rising enemy activity.

The North Vietnamese struck at the base, 43 miles northwest of Saigon, behind an intensive mortar barrage, and twice were thrown back.

Helicopter gunships, fighter-bombers and artillery helped repulse the enemy and one chopper was shot down, the 1,000th lost in the war. Its four-man crew was rescued.

30 ATTACKERS

At one point, artillery fired into a group of 30 attackers caught in the glaring light of airplane flares.

A sweep of the battlefield, however, turned up only three enemy dead. The men of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division lost two killed and 31 wounded.

The North Vietnamese attack was the second of any size this week, following months of relative inactivity in this region. Earlier in the week, 400 North Vietnamese attacked a South Vietnamese camp north of Saigon.

Whether the increasing tempo of fighting means the enemy is preparing for bigger attacks is not clear. Or the North Vietnamese may be showing they are still around despite their failure to defend a big base captured by the air cavalrymen Wednesday and Thursday 53 miles northwest of Saigon.

MORE BUNKERS

The cavalrymen prowling through the big base of four square miles found 20 more bunkers, some containing 2,500 new and 1,000 used North Vietnamese uniforms. They also found 70 tons of rice, enough to feed 10,000 enemy soldiers for a week.

The 1st Cavalry earlier had uncovered an underground hospital there capable of holding 3,000 men, a command post, hundreds of bunkers and interlocking tunnels. U.S. engineers are blowing these up.

In scattered fighting elsewhere across Vietnam, allied troops, bombers, gunships and artillery killed 245 enemy soldiers, the U.S. Command reported.

In the largest of these engagements, marines of South Korea's Blue Dragon Brigade killed 23 enemy soldiers near Hoi An, about 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

LIGHT PLANE

Enemy ground fire brought down a light U.S. observation plane 25 miles north of Saigon, the 339th plane lost in combat in South Vietnam. The pilot was uninjured.

At Dong Tam, 36 miles southwest of Saigon, the U.S. Navy turned over 25 heavily armed river boats worth $7.7 million to South Vietnam's navy. This was another move to transfer to the South Vietnamese forces more of the burden of battle. The U.S. Navy turned over 35 boats previously to the Vietnamese for operations in the rivers and canals of the Mekong Delta.

PRaised

In a ceremony aboard the Benewah, flagship of the Navy's mobile riverine force, Vice Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. praised the "proficiency and aggressiveness, the growing strength" of South Vietnam's Navy. He commands the U.S. Navy's inland force.

Commodore Tran Van Chon, chief of South Vietnam's naval operations, said the turnover "is the first phase in expanding the Vietnamese navy."

President Nguyen Van Thieu said, meanwhile, that he agrees

Nasser Gives Aid Pledge To Guerrillas

By The Associated Press

Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser pledged anew Saturday to continue unlimited material and moral aid for Palestinian guerrillas and urged the commando groups to unite in their fight against Israel.

SEARCH

Addressing the Palestinian National Council composed mainly of guerrillas, Nasser said the search for a political solution to the Middle East deadlock should not overshadow military preparations against the Jewish state.

The main goal, he declared, still is "the necessity of recovering our land and its liberation to the last inch, finally and completely."

Arab support for the guerrillas was a matter of self defense for the Arab world, he asserted.

"Israel is trying to realize its expansionist plan from the Nile to the Euphrates," said Nasser, whose speech was broadcast by Cairo radio.

In London, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant conferred with British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart on France's proposal for a four-power summit at the United Nations on the Middle East.

SWAP FIRE

Arab and Israeli gunners exchanged fire twice Saturday across the Jordan River cease-fire line. Israel said one soldier was wounded and accused Jordan of opening fire.

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Abba Eban said he saw no immediate danger of a general war on big power showdown on the Middle East. But he said the crisis is "weighing down the peace" as long as Israel and the Arab states fail to reach a solution. Eban was interviewed over the state radio.

The Middle East News Agency reported that the alleged murder of Col. Abdel Karim Mustafa Nasrat, Iraqi army and political leader, has been arrested in Iraq. It did not identify the accused, but said robbery was the motive.

SUMMIT MEET

Dual Approach On Europe Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A blue-ribbon panel urged President Nixon Saturday to propose a summit conference of the Big Four to establish the principles and framework of a German and European settlement.

Before that, the United States should inject a new sense of solidarity into the Atlantic Alliance by converting into an allied summit NATO's 20th anniversary council meeting in Washington next April, a committee of the United Nations Association of the United States said.

DUAL APPROACH

Such a dual approach should demonstrate "the importance which the United States attaches to its relationships to Western Europe," and also the need for "new efforts to reduce both the dangers and ultimately the division in present day Germany and Europe."

These were the key recommendations of a panel created by the UNA under the chairmanship of Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel to former Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. It included Harvard professor Henry A. Kissinger, now President Nixon's chief adviser on national security affairs.

Kissinger, Sorensen told a news conference, was a member of the panel for 17 months and participated in shaping the recommendations included in the report.

The Four Power summit, the committee recommended, should create a European Security Commission "for the preparation of the general principles of a European settlement."

Wreck That Killed Coahoman

First fatal accident of the year killed Rodney Dan Logsdon, 20, injured Larry Richard Rich, 20.

Coahoman Killed In Wreck, 1st Traffic Death Of '69

Rodney Dan Logsdon, 20, Coahoma High School senior, was dead on arrival at a Lubbock hospital Saturday morning, to become the first Howard County traffic fatality of 1969.

He was fatally injured at 10:50 p.m. Friday when the car in which he was riding with another Coahoma youth, Larry Richard Rich, 20, ran out of control and wrecked on Old US 80 (Eleventh Place extended) 4.2 miles east of Big Spring.

RELEASED

Rich was released from Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital Saturday morning, after spending the night there for observation.

Texas Highway Patrol officers, who investigated the wreck, said Rich was driving the car, and the youths were traveling east.

The car left the pavement and careened along the side of the road for nearly 250 feet, before it returned to the slab. At that time, the patrolmen reported, the vehicle began to roll and continued for more than 100 feet, end over end. It was completely demolished.

Rich was thrown out west of the point where the car came to a stop. Logsdon was found near the wreckage.

Deputy Sheriff Lindy Oldfield, on routine patrol, came upon Rich stumbling alongside the highway, in search of help. The deputy contacted the patrol at 11 p.m.

Logsdon was still alive when investigators reached the wreck. He was taken first to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital, then was removed to Lubbock. He was said to have been dead on arrival there.

Rodney Dan Logsdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Logsdon, 204 N. 5th Street, Coahoma, was born Oct. 28, 1948, in Big Spring and had lived in Coahoma all his life.

Besides his parents, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Margie Ann Dykes, Coahoma; two brothers, Billy M. Logsdon, Lubbock, and Rickie D. Logsdon, Coahoma; his grandfather, L. G. Logsdon, Sulphur Springs, his grandmother, Mrs. Lillie Etheridge, Brownfield.

Services will be held today at 2 p.m. in the Coahoma Church of Christ, with Ralph Beistle, minister, officiating. Burial will be in the Coahoma Cemetery, under direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

SENIOR

He was a senior in Coahoma High School and was a member of the Church of Christ.

Palbearers will be John Johnson, Terry Johnson, Marvin Wynn, James Dunn, Gary Roberts and Bruce Allen. All boys in Coahoma High School are considered honorary palbearers.

Park At Airport School Is Second In Co-Op Plan

By KEN LEACH
Members of the Big Spring City Commission and Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees are arranging a meeting to discuss development of an Airport School Park.

The meeting of the two governing bodies will possibly be the last in a series of steps which will see the park become a reality, according to City Manager Larry Crow.

If the two groups come to an agreement, the park will be the second city-school park since the city's parks and recreation board suggested the cooperative venture in 1963.

City planner Marvin Springer urged using school grounds to help develop a system of city parks in neighborhood areas. In 1964, the city's first master plan recommended neighborhood parks, utilizing school grounds.

The first city-school park was developed at Lakeview Elementary School. Almost four acres of land next to the school grounds were purchased by the city and converted into a park area. The city and school district divided the cost of the construction which was completed in 1966. Irrigation and maintenance has been furnished by the city, according to the agreement between the two bodies, Crow said.

After the completion of the Lakeview School Park, the city parks and recreation board recommended a city-school park at the Airport Elementary School, selected because of the need for a park in that area, Crow said.

Last April the city budgeted $5,000 to use in developing the project, which tentative estimates indicate will cost between $15,000 and $20,000. The parks committee developed a plan, which was submitted to school officials several weeks ago for consideration. The committee presenting the proposal to the school included Steve Morgan and Roy Anderson.

The upcoming meeting, which may be scheduled before the two bodies hold their next regular meetings Feb. 11, is designed to work out any changes in the original plan and determine an equitable distribution of development and maintenance costs, Crow said.

The parks board has expressed the hope that a city-school park system can be developed throughout the city. While the next site to be developed has not been selected, Bauer Elementary School has been discussed.

Enrollment Pushes Ahead

Howard County Junior College's enrollment for the spring semester pushed upward at the close of business Friday, and there is still an excellent prospect that the final figure will exceed 1,000.

A total of 912 had cleared the business office Friday, of these 575 full time and 337 part time. Another 76 have not yet registered but have not yet cleared the business office, as most of them are expected to do. This would project 988, and Monday is expected to bring a substantial number of late registrants.

Although registration will continue until Feb. 10, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, urged prospective students not to delay. It is important not to miss any more class work than absolutely necessary, he said.

County May Wind Up With 12,000 Voters

Howard County may have a good chance to have upwards of 12,000 registered voters in 1969.

The deadline fell Friday evening at the office of Tax Assessor - Collector, Zirah LeFevre with 11,121 registration certificates written up.

But there were huge stacks of applications which had not yet been processed. Mrs. LeFevre said she had no basis for estimating the number on hand, but that undoubtedly there were several hundred of them.

Also, late mail (postmarked prior to midnight Friday) may swell the volume.

This year's figure compares with a final figure of 10,965 two years ago, a comparable off-year. Then the number processed rose to 11,107, but elimination of duplications pulled the figure back below the 11,000 level.

One year ago, when there was a presidential campaign in prospect along with party primaries and other regular elections, the final total was 14,122 qualified voters.

Mrs. LeFevre pleaded for patience by those voters who submitted late applications for a voting certificate. It may be toward the end of the week before her staff can begin to start the flow of certificates by mail.

This year's sign-up is by far the best for an off-year.

Odd Subjects Being Offered

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Lovemaking, bartending and witchcraft are among courses being offered at the University of South Carolina.

There are no registration fees, no exams and no grades for these short courses, but students don't receive credit for them either.

And there won't be any labs in the lovemaking course. All teaching will be on a theoretical basis.

It's the beginning of a new concept of learning, tested successfully at other universities, in which the students name the courses they want.

Some of the courses are: extra-terrestrial life; alchemy; premarital sex; yes or no; give a damn—the meaning of personal involvement; and a study of the influence of the Baptist church on state legislation.

City Officials Encouraged To Help Make Policies

By KEN LEACH
"There is a great need for local officials to become an active voice in helping determine state and national legislative policies," Texas Municipal League president O'Brien Thompson, a member of the Amarillo city commission, said Friday.

Thompson spoke at the League's Region IV business meeting, which was attended by 81 officials representing 27 cities of the area organization.

In explaining the functions of the TML Thompson said that through its Austin organization and legislative briefings, the league influences the action of the Texas Legislature and the passage of bills affecting Texas cities.

"In the last regular session, more than 1,500 bills were introduced," Thompson said. "Of this number, about 500 bills related to the cities and people who reside in Texas cities. If all of those bills had been passed, the cities could not have footed the tax load."

The TML president said that 48 of the bills related to city operations would have affected his home city of Amarillo.

Thompson is chairman of the legislative committee on municipal administration and personnel. This committee and two other league committees study pending legislation, he said.

As president of the Texas Municipal League, Thompson attended the National League of Cities which was held in New Orleans in October. He served on the resolutions committee to establish a national municipal policy. This policy, he said, is used as a guideline for legislation passed in Washington.

"These policies are influenced by too many people from the big cities of the east and north. Texas city officials must become a more effective voice in coping with the legislation in Congress that will effect local governments," he said.

TML represents the interest of 99 per cent of all residents of the state and has 675 member cities, according to Thompson.

Big Spring Mayor Arnold Marshall welcomed the officials, and regional president E. W. Whitt, Monahans, presided over the meeting.

Seminary Extension Opens Fourth Semester

Registration will be held Tuesday for the fourth semester of the Seminary Extension Center, approved by the Seminary Extension Department of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Four courses will be offered, according to Rev. James Puckett, and classes will meet each Tuesday for 18 weeks, beginning Tuesday, in the Baptist Temple, 400 Eleventh Place.

Each student will receive a diploma after completion of 18 courses, and a transcript will be kept for each. Credit is granted for this work, and colleges allow transfer for the credit earned, Rev. Puckett said.

All faculty members have a Masters Degree or its equivalent, he explained. Any interested person is invited to attend, according to Bruce Hudspeth, registrar.

The courses, costs, and instructors are:

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION — How to work with others, $13.50, Bob Priddy.

PASTORAL MINISTRIES — Work of the pastor in church leadership, $15.95, Rev. Byron Orand.

THEOLOGY — New Testament Doctrines, $13.95, Rev. Clyde Campbell.

NEW TESTAMENT — The Life of Christ, $12.00, Rev. Campbell.

All costs include textbooks.

Mitchell Has Big Birthday

M. T. Mitchell celebrated his 90th birthday in a big way Friday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. W. Beckmyer, Ackerly.

Some 120 people from as far away as Carlsbad, N.M., Andrews, and Lubbock, joined with those from Lamesa, Flower Grove, Gail, and Big Spring to help him observe this milestone. They joined in the fellowship with Gospel singing. Mr. Mitchell is a fiddler of note, having been the outstanding fiddler in the Old Fiddlers' contest at Andrews in 1967 and the oldest fiddler the following year.

He has three sons, the Rev. Scott Mitchell, Lubbock, an Assembly of God minister; Tom Mitchell, Andrews, and Glen Mitchell, Dallas; four daughters, Mrs. Beaula Lillard, Stanton, Mrs. Jane Beckmyer and Mrs. Lorene Cave, both of Ackerly, and Mrs. Imogene Hammond, Big Spring. He also has 21 grandchildren and 33 great-grandchildren.

TCU Choir To Sing Here Today

The cappella choir of Texas Christian University will be presented in concert at 3 p.m. today in the high school auditorium. The Big Spring High School Choir is sponsoring the appearance and will host the members overnight.

The Choir Boosters will provide dinner for the TCU singers tonight at the First Christian Church. TCU's Chamber Orchestra will accompany the choir.

The choir has made annual concert tours, which have covered many states and all of Texas. In 1964, it toured the eastern states and was well received, according to choir director B. R. Henson, who is also the director of choral activities at TCU.

FIELD AND RANGE Riders To Square Dance In Saddle

By TEX ROGERS
Howard County is becoming about as famous for its horses and riders as Lubbock County is for its prairie dogs. Just about everywhere you look you'll find a riding club or someone with a horse in his back yard.

The Howard County Sheriff's Posse and Howard County Youth Horsemen have already made their marks in the equine world. The sheriff's posse finished fourth in the nation in 1968 from points earned in parades sanctioned by the American Association of Sheriff's Poses and Riding Clubs, and they were honored by an invitation to the opening day parade recently of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

Now there is a new group coming on the scene, and this bunch of horsemen promise to be as different as any horse club seen in these parts.

Mrs. Cecal Allred, an avid horsewoman who'd just as soon ride an animal than drive a car, says that the new group is called the Rhythm Riders, and feature square dancing on horseback.

The Rhythm Riders is comprised of 22 members from families and couples who are already in the sheriff's posse and youth horsemen. These folks have enough riding ahead of them in those two groups, but it seems that they want more. That's the reason for the Rhythm Riders, Mrs. Allred says.

Practices and meetings have been going on for some time now, and their first appearance is slated May 3 at the Nolan County Quarter Horse Show in Sweetwater.

Officers of the group are Hank Snow, president; L. C. Gibbs, vice president; Mrs. Gibbs, secretary; and Mrs. Snow, treasurer. Joe Oliver, Glenn Click, J. T. Dunnam and Gibbs are directors, and Cecal Allred is the District 5 representative to the AASPRC. A telephone committee is comprised of Mrs. Joe Oliver and Mrs. Troy Roane.

The members must be hard working and good horsemen, otherwise the membership would probably dwindle away because of injuries. After all, handling a horse is difficult enough, but it's twice as hard when the horse must move to a musical tempo.

"Tom Whatley is the caller for all the songs, and the music is fast like a regular square dance," Mrs. Allred says. "It takes a good rider, a good riding horse, and a lot of determination."

Two youngsters from Peru will arrive in Howard County for a stay from Feb. 8-27 as part of a National 4-H Club Foundation project which brings members of groups comparable to the 4-H Club in other countries to America. Fifteen Peruvians are in Texas, and later this year Lone Star 4-Hers will visit that South American country.

Jose Antonio Cacho-sousa will be a member of the Joe Gaskins family at Knott, while Lita Espejo will be in the home of the John Couch family of Gay Hill. The two exchanges will be treated and act as members of the host families. They will work along with the family and join in normal family activities.

Lucille Moore, recreation specialist for the Texas A&M Extension Service, will be here Feb. 6-7 for a course in recreation leadership. Recreation for youth training will be given on Thursday and Friday nights beginning at 7 o'clock in Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Catherine Crawford, county Home Demonstration agent, urges all adult leaders, junior leaders and club recreation chairmen to attend the courses.

Howard County Food Show is slated for March 15. More information of the show will be sent to girls from the county extension service office.

If ranchers thought the screwworm epidemic which plagued the Southwest in 1968 went out with the new year, they are mistaken. Already six cases have been confirmed between Jan. 1 and Jan. 18 this year, and there were none reported during the same period in 1968.

The Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program officials urge that precautions should be continued. All but one of the cases reported resulted from navel wounds in new-born calves. All wounds should continue to be treated with recommended pesticides, and herds should be sprayed at regular intervals to help control fertile screwworm flies.

All the cases confirmed were in deep South Texas and along the lower Rio Grande, but with an early start it wouldn't take long for the pests to move north into the South Plains and Panhandle.

Cheaper in the long run.

Gas will never cost you much. (You'll get about 27 miles to the gallon.)

And the amount of oil you use is like a drop in the bucket. (It only takes 2.7 quarts and almost never needs more between changes.)

And the engine is air-cooled, so you don't have to spend a red cent for anti-freeze or rust inhibitors.

And you get more than your money's worth out of a set of tires (around 40,000 miles).

Crain Moved To Jail, Extradition Is Sought

Bobbie Randal Crain, under indictment here for murder, is in Jackson County jail in Kansas City, Mo., Wayne Burns, district attorney, learned late Friday.

Burns said that the 22-year-old Kansas City man was placed in custody by the Kansas City police on a fugitive warrant, which was based on his indictment Tuesday by a Howard County grand jury.

A circuit judge in Kansas City set Crain's bond at $10,000, which is the amount set in Howard County, while the man is awaiting extradition procedures, Burns said.

Crain did not waive extradition, and will have to appear for an extradition hearing within 60 days, Burns said.

The district attorney, in talking with Sam Modica, prosecutor for the State of Missouri, said that efforts are continuing to extradite two other men involved in the same case to Texas.

Crain, Ray Bourbon, 67, and Bobbie Eugene Chrisko, 22, were indicted for the Dec. 9 fatal shooting of A. D. Blount, a pet dealer. Blount was shot to death in the hallway of his apartment in the rear of the Pet-A-Zoo one mile south of Big Spring on US 87.

Burns said that Bourbon filed for a writ of habeas corpus and a hearing has been set for Feb. 11 in Kansas City. Bourbon's extradition hearing is slated between now and March 11. Chrisko has made no legal

His One Little Pleasure

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns my parents — now both in their eighties. Dad is a retired rancher who enjoys a little chew of tobacco occasionally, and mother literally DETESTS this habit of his.

Dad is a distinguished looking gentleman. He is nice and clean and never dribbles tobacco juice around his lips, chin or the corners of his mouth. There is never any physical evidence to reveal his tobacco chewing. Furthermore he never chews in company — only when he's alone in the back yard.

Don't you think mother should allow him this one small pleasure in their declining years? It has become a terrible source of bitterness between them. Perhaps if you will print this mother will recognize herself and know that one of her three sons wrote it. Thank you.

HOUSTON POST READER DEAR READER: I can't understand why you and your brothers can't get the word to your mother without the help of me and the Houston Post. Quietly tell your mother what you've told me — to allow her husband this "one small pleasure." If she remains unmoved, forget it. They understand each other better than you will ever understand either of them.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like an answer to my question immediately.

I've had three dates with a man and I could be interested in him. In fact, I am already, but this man wears a ring which looks as though it could be a wedding ring.

I'd like to keep the relationship going, but not if he's married. It seems to me if he were married and is only "playing around" he'd take the ring off rather than advertise it. Right? But isn't it rude to pry into a man's personal life and ask if he's married?

INTERESTED: A woman with any sense — or sense of integrity — wouldn't date a man the second time whose marital status was in doubt. Don't be so concerned about YOUR rudeness. Ask him, pointedly, if he's attached or not.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, 31, is being married, and she insists that her father and I give her a church wedding with an elaborate reception.

Seven years ago she had a child out of wedlock. Since then she has been intimate with several different men, including the one she is marrying. Now she wants a church wedding, veil, bridesmaids, flower girl, ring bearer, etc.

I think she is being bold and hypocritical to say nothing of showing poor taste as this is a small town and there are few secrets. Am I being "square"? WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you feel that your daughter is being bold and hypocritical, why be a party to it?

DEAR BOSS: Today Is Groundhog Day For Believers

DEAR BOSS: Every year at this season, Boss, someone says to me: "They changed it — Groundhog day used to be on Feb. 14."

I do not understand how this misunderstanding can be. Groundhog day, (which is today in case you forgot to look at your calendar) has always been on Feb. 2. Valentine Day has always been on Feb. 14. George Washington's birthday has not — reneat — not always been on Feb. 22, but that's another story.

UP AND ABOUT EARLY

Again this year, Boss, the faithful were up and about early this morning, peering with anxious eyes at the sun (if it was shining) and telling one another that, because of the way things were at daybreak, our weather for the next six weeks had been decided.

Frankly I do not believe in this Groundhog day jazz. I have absolutely no confidence in the meteorological abilities of an animal as stupid as the groundhog appears to be. I do not believe that the powers that be invested him with weather forecasting talents and set his clocks so that on each Feb. 2 he can decide, by peering with his nearsighted eyeballs at his shadow, that we are to have more winter or less winter.

Undoubtedly, the Groundhog society in Punxsutawney, Pa., will be releasing the alleged official hope today — their seedy old aardvark having been routed out of his den at daybreak — on the weather for the next six weeks.

YOUR OWN TEST

If you want to run your own test, Boss, just make a note on your office calendar that on this date, Sunday, Feb. 2, the sun was bright and shiny at daybreak or that the sun was not visible at daybreak on this date, as the case may be.

If the sun was shining, the aardvarkers will assure you we are in for six more weeks of wintry weather. If the sun was obscured by clouds, we are now in the tender embrace of spring and tomorrow, robins will be hop-hopping about, swallows will be swallowing, and flowers budding.

And then, with the forecast clearly laid out for you, regardless of what it may be, do this:

When you leave the house, take your overcoat, your galoches and your fur cap. Also take your linen duster, your white shoes and your sun-burn lotion.

When you get in the car, check your heater to make sure it is functioning. Also test out your air conditioner. Be sure it is operating properly.

PREPARED FOR BOTH

These things done, you are now prepared to go about your business, Boss. Regardless of the prophesy of the groundhogs.

Your skeptical reporter,

LT. GOV. BEN BARNES Most Powerful Man

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)— Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, a miracle worker at the polls, says this will be a rough, tough legislature. "If I get through it," he said in jest, "I should be able to walk on water."

Barnes, 30, is the youngest lieutenant governor in Texas history. He is probably the most powerful man in the legislature. What he says and does as presiding officer of the Senate will affect laws that govern 11 million Texans.

TIDE OF VOTES
He won office on an overwhelming tide of votes. In the Democratic primary he was the first candidate ever to carry all Texas' 254 counties against two opponents, and his total of 1,221,050 votes was the largest number ever cast for a candidate in a Texas primary election.

Barnes' popularity frees him from some political pressures. He says his national chores and international travels "have helped tremendously" in judging what needs to be done for Texas. "I couldn't very well preside over the National Legislative Conference or serve on the Council of State Governments and not try to do something to help my own state," Barnes said in an interview.

He undoubtedly would like to organize a "team" of senators—liberals, moderates and conservatives—to handle legislation he favors, including his two big goals: quality education and changes in state government. Changes would include annual legislative sessions, four-year terms for governors and constitutional revision.

SPEECH
Barnes, of DeLeon, doesn't particularly desire a program of his own this session, but he said, "I may make a speech next week and let senators know some of my thoughts."

"I won't publicly recommend any type of tax," he said. "I don't see how anyone can make an intelligent estimate on how much we need in new tax money. I've seen figures of $200 million to $300 million; but there are a lot of undetermined things that have to be taken into consideration."

"Gov. (Preston) Smith has a constitutional responsibility to recommend taxes. Speaker (Gus) Mutscher has a constitutional responsibility to pass a tax bill in the House. I want to see how much money we're going to have before I even think about it privately."

Barnes predicted the legislature will make more basic changes in public school laws than any other legislature since the one in 1949 which enacted the Gilmer-Aikin laws on which the state's entire public system is based.

"Most of our school laws are antiquated and outdated," Barnes said.

GOOD OUTLINE
He said he thought the controversial report of the Governor's Public School Study Committee "is a good outline to follow and should be given very, very careful consideration."

"I have some reservations, however," Barnes said. "I couldn't support any compulsory consolidation. It would have to be brought about by a formula to make it financially attractive."

Barnes, from West Texas which has always sought more water, said "All legislators must get behind the state water plan as it is. Expert research—the best talent available—went into the plan. Despite its size, financially, I think it will pass the legislature."

Predicts Tough Session is about $3 billion, and several laws and a constitutional amendment to set up a financing plan need to be approved.

Although lawmaking is several weeks away, Barnes says the Senate has already made a giant legislative stride in adopting rules which will restrict conference committees to adjusting the differences in similar bills passed by each house.

CURBING POWERS
"This restriction will have a tremendous psychological effect on the legislature," Barnes said. "By curbing conference committee powers," he said, "we will make all members pay more attention to their own research and be better informed on bills than they were before."

"It's the most significant change in the legislature since Texas became a state," Barnes said he had not had a chance to read a report by the College Coordinating Board, but he said that he "certainly feels Houston is the place for

EXCLUSIVE SPEAKER GUS MUTSCHER Hard To Pin Down

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)— Quiet-spoken Gus Mutscher, Texas' new House speaker is hard to pin down on issues before the 61st Legislature.

Like Lyndon Johnson, whose autographed photo hangs in his office, Mutscher likes to keep his options open.

Mutscher, 36, indicated in an interview that his thoughts on many issues, including taxes and public school improvements, won't be known until the matters come up in the legislative process.

MISTAKE

"It's a mistake to start placing endorsements on single-shot items," he said.

Mutscher's opinions, however reticent he may be in talking about them, are important. As speaker, he has tremendous formal and informal power over bills in the House, from the appointment of committees to hear them to the use of his influence on members' votes.

While estimating a $175 million tax bill would be needed this year, Mutscher said he's "not advocating any tax program at this stage of the game."

Would he favor a personal or corporate income tax? "I wouldn't say I'd be for one," he said.

What about some sort of sales tax revision? "That, said Mutscher, is "one pattern that seems to be given a pretty high degree of public support in a lot of areas." He said he hopes the needed money can be raised without jumping the sales tax rate, currently three per cent.

Mutscher said he does not know what kind of tax bill would have the best chance of passage "but reports indicate they (legislators) are somewhat more receptive on the sales side," particularly toward removing some exemptions.

He said he had no "specific endorsement" to make on the recommendations of the governor's Committee on Public School Education (COPSE).

"I'm not in favor of legislation at this point that would destroy community life or activities," he said when pressed about the committee's proposal to eliminate nearly 1,000 school districts.

And he had "no definite opinion" about the COPSE proposal to revise school tax formulas which the committee said tend to favor rural districts over those in cities.

Mutscher said prospects for constitutional changes to implement the Texas water plan are "rather favorable," and "at present time I am certainly leaning in that direction."

OTHER ISSUES
On other issues, he said: "Liquor by the drink, a big issue in the 1967-68 legislature, probably will be submitted to the voters as a proposed constitutional amendment, and he indicated he favors this approach."

"He's "not highly opinionated" about horse race betting, another old issue that may be revived.

"No comment" on whether he favors a college tuition increase, although one will be considered.

Mutscher definitely favors action this year to create a new state medical school and dental school but he would not say where he thinks they should be located. (The college coordinating board recommended a medical school in Houston and a dental school in San Antonio,

Says Sirhan Jurors Richer

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's murder trial, after nearly four weeks of preliminaries, finally shows promise of some spark: The defendant takes the witness stand next Tuesday.

His appearance will be brief, chief defense attorney Grant B. Cooper told newsmen after announcing in court Thursday that Sirhan and his mother, Mary, will testify about their finances.

The judge has recessed the trial until Tuesday.

The slight, 24-year-old Jordanian is charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June just after Kennedy won California's Democratic presidential primary.

Cooper contends Sirhan, "a poor man," was indicted by grand jurors of above-average means who, racially and otherwise, don't represent a community cross-section. A defense motion seeks to quash the indictment.

Audit Gives County Good '68 Report

Howard County closed out 1968 in good financial shape, according to the report by County Auditor Virginia Black, which shows a net balance of $1,061,498.08.

The balance sheet looks good, but County Judge Lee Porter said that a large part of the balance is for 1969 county taxes which were collected in October, November and December of 1968.

When the 1968 fiscal year began on Jan. 1, the county carried over a balance of $349,909.04 from 1967. During the year receipts from all funds amounted to $1,225,232.58, and disbursements totaled $1,033,710.64, for an excess of receipts over disbursements of $191,521.94.

Some $62,650 was transferred from the general fund to the officer salary fund, and $17,000 from the permanent improvement fund was moved to the library fund, for a total of $98,474.56 in transfers. Also, $18,824.56 was moved out of the 1961 road bond sinking fund to the road and bridge fund.

The cash balance at the end of the year of all funds was $226,606.42, which left a difference of $123,302.52 from the balance at the beginning of the year. The cash balance, coupled with $834,891.66 in securities on Dec. 31, left the net balance of $1,061,498.08.

All 15 funds set up in the county budget had cash balances on Dec. 31, except the library fund, which had an $832.23 deficit.

The year began with the county gaining revenue from a tax rate of $1.05 per $100 valuation, which was two cents lower than the $1.07 tax rate in 1967. Taxes were collected on an assessed valuation of $78,557,440 on all property in the county, for a total amount of $824,833.12.

Operation of the various funds are set up each with a budget for anticipated receipts and disbursements. In most cases this year receipts in the funds exceeded what was expected, but in several funds disbursements also surpassed what was allocated.

However, the report shows that the county finished the year with savings in 11 of the 15 funds.

Mysterious Hughes Buying Up Gold, Silver Districts

RENO, Nev. (AP) — In-mines under the former boom town for low-grade ore once thought worthless.

Hughes' first record Nevada mining purchase was of four claims in the historic Comstock Lode, south of Virginia City, April 3. Tax stamps on the deed indicated Hughes Tool paid $225,000. Seven more Comstock claims were added last month.

These and other, more recent claims have been picked up from companies once active in the mines; from individuals who inherited them or from those like Leonard Traynor of Tonopah, who said he bought his properties early last year as an investment.

And he's reported to have options on at least 80 more claims in the Tonopah area which produced $146 million in silver during the first half of the century.

Hughes' surveyors also reportedly have been active in Dry Lake Valley near Las Vegas in southern Nevada where United States Steel Corp. has staked out claims on 1,138 acres for mining exploration.

Spokesmen for the publicity-shy billionaire decline comment on his intentions. But rising prices for silver and gold and new, more efficient methods of recovering the precious metals from ore have renewed interest in properties miners once abandoned as worthless.

A company at Austin will start this spring to process leavings silver miners of other years considered waste. It hopes to clear $1.41 million, then go into Las Vegas and is seeking government approval to buy Air West airline. His holdings in Clark County, which includes Las Vegas, are estimated at more than 40,000 acres — more than are in the city of Las Vegas.

At Tonopah, Dist. Atty. William Boko said that for Hughes "to be able to bring together under single ownership and management most of the major mines and silver producers in the Tonopah area is a major accomplishment."

"For more than 30 years, efforts have been made to consolidate these mines," he said.

All are located in areas which produced bonanzas in gold and silver and spawned mining towns around the turn of the century.

The claims, with names like Red-Eyed Monster, Tonopah Belle and Fool, have been idle in many cases for 30 years or more.

The mining towns' economies slumped as the old mines closed.

Hughes has acquired six big Las Vegas hotels and Casinos since moving into Nevada in December, 1966. He's added choice property along the Las Vegas strip, an air charter service, a big ranch west of

Ex-Cop Is Convicted As 'Catch Me' Killer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Robert Eriker, an ex-policeman, has been convicted of murdering a 12-year-old girl after being identified by his voice as the man who pleaded in a telephone call, "Please catch me."

Eriker, 24, was sentenced Friday to 99 years and six months for second degree murder in the slaying of Marilyn Clark. Under present parole rules, he probably would serve one-third of the sentence.

Defense attorney Joseph Varon said he will appeal the conviction on grounds of error by Judge E. Summers Sheffy.

Eriker was silent but visibly shaken when the foreman read the jury's verdict. His sisters, Lynne and Betty, cried in the front row of the court. A spectator gasped. Eriker's mother was dry-eyed but shaking as her other son, Dan, 21, held her tightly.

Eriker — then a Hollywood, Fla., police patrolman — reported finding Marilyn's body the morning of Aug. 12. The child had five bullets in her head. Five miles away, her mother lay in the blood-spattered family car, also with five bullets in the head.

About an hour before the bodies were found, a soft, male voice told the sheriff's office: "I just killed three people. I'm serious. Please catch me. Please . . . hurry up."

Highest Paid Gets Pay Hike

HOUSTON (AP)—The highest paid county official in Texas has received a pay increase.

A new budget approved Thursday by Harris County commissioners increased the salary of Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, county medical examiner, from $32,700 to $38,700 a year.

County officials said Jachimczyk not only is the highest paid county official in the state but one of the highest paid public officials in Texas.

The new budget also includes salary increases for two vacant positions Jachimczyk said he had been unable to fill on his staff because of low salaries.

The salary of the assistant examiner was increased from $26,400 to $30,000. The salary of the chief toxicologist was increased from $17,000 to $24,000.

UT Astronomers Report First Pulsar Sighting

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas astronomers have confirmed the first optical sighting of one of the mysterious pulsars. "Optical sighting of a pulsar opens a new realm concerning the state of collapse of stars," said Dr. Harlan Smith, director of UT's McDonald Observatory at Alpine, Tex.

Pulsars, first detected by radio astronomers at Cambridge, England, in 1967, caused great excitement because of the extreme regularity of the radio signals they emitted.

There was speculation that the radio signals were being sent by intelligent beings, but this later was ruled out on the basis of scientific evidence.

"We are practically certain now that pulsars are neutron stars," Dr. Smith said. He defined neutron stars as stars in the final stages of dying. With a diameter of only 10 miles, they are composed of matter a million billion times denser than ordinary matter.

The official confirmation of the sighting came the night of Jan. 19, Smith said.

The sighting was accomplished by a highly sophisticated electronic viewing instrument attached to the 82-inch telescope at McDonald.

R. E. Nather and Dr. Brian Warner at the West Texas Mount Locke Observatory have written a technical article about the results which will be published soon in the British scientific journal, Nature.

Inspectors Give Ratings At Webb

The annual visit and inspection by the Office of the Inspector General, Air Training Command, was concluded Friday. The team arrived on Jan. 26.

Col. William C. McGlothlin, Webb wing commander, and his staff were debriefed Friday.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sunday, Feb. 2, 1969 5-A afternoon by Col. Robert O. Fricks, IG team chief. Many areas were rated as excellent, and two functions received commendable ratings. These two were the traffic safety education and aircraft appearance.

Col. McGlothlin felt that "the base and our community should be proud of their hard work and fine rating — we hope to do even better next year."

Lack Of Moisture Hurts Western Part Of State

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Rains swept from San Antonio eastward near week's end, the first real relief from a mini-drought farmers and ranchers suffered during January.

The western part of the state remained dry, and John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said low temperatures and lack of moisture in most of January hurt warm-ranch prospects everywhere.

He added that the lack of grazing, except from dry range and pasture forage, has kept livestock feeding a major activity. Feed supplies are plentiful and stockmen have been able to maintain their herds and flocks in good condition.

The open weather last week caused an increase in land preparation for spring planting, distribution of fertilizer and herbicides for weed control and general farm and ranch jobs, he said.

A check with the district agricultural agents at midweek revealed considerable variations in the agricultural picture.

Short soil moisture continued to limit growth of dryland wheat in the Panhandle district. Wheat pasture is getting short and cattle are being removed from dryland fields.

Dry weather slowed the growth of wheat over the South Plains and is causing a decline in grazing. Greenbugs and blowing sand has damaged wheat in some areas. Field work such as herbicide and fertilizer distribution rapidly increased during the recent warm and open weather.

In North Central Texas, small grains are looking good and making some growth. A fair amount of dry forage is still available on most ranges.

In far West Texas, ranges are very dry, livestock conditions are declining and feeding is increasing. Due to the mild temperatures, livestock have wintered well and calf and lamb crops are very good. Cabbage and small grain are making good growth.

Moisture is short to very short and all parts of West Central Texas need rain. Small grain growth is retarded by the lack of moisture and the same is true of cool season weeds and grasses. Ample dry range forage is still available. Grass fires destroyed some 2,000 acres in Tom Green County last week and remained a threat. Prospects for the lamb crop are good.

Victory In Sight For YMCA Drive

Victory is in sight for the YMCA membership campaign, division leaders felt after Friday's report session.

While both the participating and sustaining membership divisions were about 10 per cent shy of their goals, there were enough workers with unreported cards to write success to the campaign if they make their contacts, said Frank Hardesty, general campaign chairman.

Mike Hull, who is heading the participating membership effort, said that $10,449 had come at the final report session Friday. However, there are 20 workers who still have not made reports, and he was confident that when contacts have been completed, the $12,500 goal will have been reached.

Similarly, K. H. McGibbon, head of the sustaining division, had $8,272 in hand, and there were enough unreported workers to bring in the additional $1,728 needed for this goal, he said.

Names of four more quota busters were reported in the participating member division. They were Mrs. Jack Little, Mike McCracken, James Ballos and Jim Parks.

Tito Arenchiba, who makes a habit of being the top producer for the Y, was way out in front again with $1,270 signed up in memberships. Hardesty, also a traditional leader in the effort, was in second place with $670.

Both Hull and McGibbon urged their workers to clean up the drive as promptly as possible this week.

YOUR MONEY

By CHARLES E. BEIL

Time was when the "mortgage holder" was popularly portrayed as that fellow with the black suit and hat, and long moustaches, the ends of which he would twist as he muttered something like, "Aha, my proud beauty!" The same sort of fellow was often seen tying pretty girls to the railroad tracks. Fortunately that villainous picture has changed, and one good reason is the rise of insured savings and loan institutions. They make more home loans than all other financial institutions combined, and their role is not that of the villain, but the helping hand in time of need . . . more like the hero who arrives in the nick of time to rescue the girl and put the villain to rout.

Our loan officers are highly trained to help you work out home financing which you can afford, so that your mortgage will not be a burden but an aid in the realization of your dream home. Come in and talk to us. You'll find a friendly welcome, along with expert advice in arranging long term financing tailored to your budget.

Martin Farmers Ready To Battle Boll Weevils

STANTON (SC) — Cotton boll weevils have been a common topic among Martin County farmers since October, but producers apparently are preparing for the destructive insect this fall.

Meetings have been held, control programs were discussed as to how the pest could best be beaten, and a board was selected to make up the Martin County Insect Control Association.

A charter and by-laws were drawn up and have been approved by the Secretary of the association are Owen Kelly, Newell Tate, Leroy Linney, Buster Haggard, J. B. Shockley, Orville Seely, Bruce Key and F. E. (Bud) Snell.

With the formation of the Martin County Insect Control Association, farmers have been assured that the state will match funds to spray for boll weevils beginning in September. Late formation of the group made a uniform collection on a per bale basis almost impossible. Thus, a problem arose on how to get money for next fall to match state funds.

Recently, the insect board and cotton ginners met and a plan developed. Each gin in Martin County will contribute 25 cents per bale on 1968 cotton ginned. In some cases this will come from a dividend due the farmer. In other cases, it would be a direct contribution by the gin. Most gins are participating and the Martin County Insect Control Association should be ready next fall for a state to promote and research cotton grown in this area. Midland County farmers also applied for membership. The PCG is coordinating a boll weevil program with matching federal funds. If the weevil in Martin County continues to spread, it is possible farmers here would be included in the program. The PCG board of directors must now approve the applications of Martin and Midland counties before they are accepted. Gins here would then collect 15 cents per bale from producers on next fall crops for the PCG.

CLINICAL JUDGMENT IS A PHYSICIAN ASSET

It is a faculty a physician, after years of medical study, develops through experience in the practice of medicine. It enables him to make the right decisions about diagnosis, treatment, and prognosis (the ability to forecast the future of a disease). This medical wisdom comes from the professional observation of patients.

The clinical judgement of physicians, an ability no layman possesses, is the reason why it is wise to consult a physician at the first sign of any illness.

Leaking Fumes Hurt German Team's Hopes

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gasoline fumes leaking into the cockpits sickened some of the Porsche drivers Saturday night, weakening the hopes of the German team for a runaway victory in the 24 Hours of Daytona auto race.

The unexpected trouble cropped up in the brand new Porsche prototypes about three hours after the factory team's five cars thundered off into a 1-2-3-4-5 lead over the field.

A broken exhaust manifold sent fumes pouring into the second-place car driven by Brian Redman, and he almost passed out as he overshot his pit coming in for help. It took 35 minutes to replace the manifold.

Later, the same thing happened in a Porsche driven by Rolf Stommelen and Curt Ahrens of Germany, and their cars also lost valuable time in the pits. It appeared that manifolds would have to be replaced on all the cars.

DOUBTS EXISTS

Five hours into the race, Porsches still clung to the first three places, although considerable confusion in the scoring left doubts as to the exact standings of some of the cars.

Dick Attwood of England and Joe Buzzetta of Smithtown, N. Y., had moved to the front as the manifold problems beset their driver teammates.

Joe Siffert of Austria and Hans Herrmann of Germany had second place and Gerhard Mitter and Udo Schutz of Germany held third.

Then came the two Ford GT40s that nosed out Porsche in a fierce duel for the 1968 world sports car manufacturing chamampionship. David Hobbs and Mike Hallwood of England had their Ford in fourth position and Jackie Ickx of Belgium and Jackie Oliver of England held theirs in fifth—in position to strike for the lead if Porsche's difficulties could not be overcome.

A Lola-Chevy driven by Dave Jordan and Scooter Patrick of Los Angeles was sixth followed by three Porsches, one a private entry. The chance that the Lola would stay in contention seemed slim, since no car of this make has ever lasted more than nine hours in a race.

At one point, Bonnet surged briefly into the lead.

HE FALLS BACK
But Bonnet fell back after a minor collision with another car and Donjuje lost two laps to the Porsches during a pit stop resulting from a faulty gas gauge. It indicated erroneously that the tank was empty.

A fire in pit lane sidelined a Corvette driven by Tony Delorenzo of Troy, Mich., in the second hour.

"I ran over something sharp and blew a tire," Delorenzo said. "The gas tank must have ruptured because as I pulled in the pits a stream of fire was trailing me."

Track firemen, who always stand by pitted cars in case of such an emergency, quickly put out the blaze, but the car was finished.

At the end of two hours, the leading Porsche drivers in order were Elfrod, Siffert, Dick Attwood of England, Udo Schutz of Germany and Rolf Stommelen of Germany. The two Lolas fol-

Griffith Vies With Heilman Monday Night

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith will fight on his birthday for the fourth time Monday night but it will be the first time he will celebrate the anniversary without the title.

"I feel almost naked without one," said the former three-time welterweight and one-time middleweight champion. "I hope to get the middleweight title back from Nino Benvenuti this year."

The Virgin Island native, who will be 31 on Monday, was the welterweight champion when he won fights on Feb. 3 in 1962, 1963 and 1966.

Griffith continues his quest for a fourth title fight with Benvenuti when he takes on Andy Heilman of Fargo, N.D., in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Heilman is substiting for Doyle Baird of Akron, Ohio, who was forced to withdraw Saturday because of torn muscles in his upper left arm and a back condition.

In a co-featured heavyweight 12-rounder that will follow the middleweight clash, George Chuvalo, the Canadian champion from Toronto, will take on Buster Mathis of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Griffith and Mathis are the betting favorites.

With a good advance sale, Harry Markson, the Garden's boxing director, anticipated a crowd of 13,000 or more will contribute between $125,000 and $150,000 at prices ranging from $5 to $20.

Griffith has been guaranteed $10,000. Heilman, making his Garden debut, will earn $7,500. Chuvalo will get 25 per cent and Mathis 22 1/2 per cent of the net gate.

There will be added incentive for the winners. The middleweight victor will meet contender Stan Hayward of Philadelphia at the Garden Feb. 24. The Chuvalo-Mathis winner will get a shot at contender Jerry Quarry of Bellflower, Calif., at the Garden March 10.

Victories over Heilman and Hayward could earn Griffith the title fight with Benvenuti in the summer or fall. Griffith lost, won and lost with the Italian in their three clashes. He also lost a disputed 10-round decision to Hayward in the latter's hometown of Philadelphia on Oct. 29 and is eager to get back in the ring with him.

Little Is Leader; Nicklaus Two Back

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Gene Littler emerged from the shadows of golf Saturday to take a two-stroke lead after a see-saw battle with Jack Nicklaus in the third round of the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

The 38-year-old pro from nearby La Jolla, whose last major tournament victory was in the 1966 World Series of golf, shot a five-under-par 67 and posted a 54-hole score of 209.

This was seven strokes under par for the distance. Littler, whose only victory in this tournament was in 1954 when he was an amateur, goes into the final round Sunday at the Torrey Pines Golf Club with a two-stroke lead over Nicklaus.

Nicklaus shot a 71 for 211. Tied at 214 on this 6,844-yard, par 36-36-72 course were Bob E. Smith, who had a 70, and Dick Lotz, 71.

Larry Ziegler, a newcomer to prominence, led the way into the round with a one-stroke lead over Nicklaus and three over Littler. Going into the ninth hole, the three were tied but Nicklaus broke it with a birdie 4 when he reached the 527-yard hole in two shots and two-putted to get down.

Littler and Ziegler made the turn all even. It quickly developed into a two-man show when Ziegler faded out of the picture with a 76 for 215.

Littler registered three birdies on the first five holes of the last nine to go ahead.

Nicklaus, trailing by two shots, birdied the 18th, but Littler, in the last threesome behind him, matched it to the delight of his hometown admirers. Tied at 215 were Phil Rodgers with a 68, Bob Charles, 72 and Ziegler.

Rumors Circulating That Vince To Head 'Skins
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rumors circulated here Saturday that Vince Lombardi will become general manager and coach of the Washington Redskins National Football League team.

Edward Bennett Williams, Redskins president who previously denied rumors that the general manager and former coach of the Green Bay Packers would replace Otto Graham at Washington, was not available for comment.

The Evening Star, however, said reports from a wide variety of sources indicate that only Lombardi's signature on legal papers is needed to complete the deal, which would involve his acquisition of a substantial block of Redskins stock.

One Redskins official said Saturday he knew nothing more about the reports than what he had seen in the newspapers.

The latest round of rumors was touched off in Detroit Friday night when sportscaster Bob Reynolds of Station WJR said he had been told Lombardi will soon move to Washington. Reynolds said the report might be denied because the principals were not ready yet to make the announcement.

Heitmann finished the day with 17 points for the Aggies.

The victory was the fourth in the last six years in Gregory Gym for a Shelby Metcalf coached A&M team.

A&M hit 50 per cent of its shots from the field with 24 of 48 while Texas connected on 23 of 48 for 47.9 per cent.

Each team had 11 turnovers, but the Aggies had the rebound edge 39-26.

The lead changed hands nine times and was tied three times.

Papp Gets 11 In Longhorn Defeat At Hands Of A&M

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Big Ronnie Peret outmuscled Texas under the boards and poured in 26 points Saturday to give undefeated Texas A&M its fifth consecutive Southwest Conference basketball victory 65-57.

Peret, a 6-foot-9 senior from Plainview, grabbed 10 of A&M's 39 rebounds and popped in 18 of his 26 points in the second half with layups and hooks over the smaller Longhorn defense.

While the Aggies were staying atop the SWC race, Texas dropped to a 3-2 record.

A crowd of 6,500 in packed Gregory Gym and a regional television audience watched as Texas held a 29-28 halftime lead.

But Peret hit two layups and Mike Heitmann hit a jump shot to give the Aggies a 53-51 lead with 6:40 remaining. They never trailed after that.

Wayne Doyal was the top gun for the Longhorns with 25 points—18 of them in the first half. Kurt Papp, formerly of HCJC, was next for Texas with 11.

Frogs Topple Hogs, 85-79

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian cracked out of its seven-game losing slump by hitting 10 of 10 free throws in the final three minutes and five seconds Saturday to topple Arkansas 85-79.

The Frogs, in winning their first Southwest Conference game in six tries, did it by making their free throws for a change—17 of 18 in the final 20 minutes and 23 of 29 for the game.

They also outshot the visitors 48.4 to 43.2 from the field and controlled the boards 49-35 with Tom Swift pulling down 12 for the winners.

All of TCU starters finished in double figures. Rick Whittebraker was high with 19 points. Rick Tanneberger, firing from the corners, led Arkansas with 16.

Arkansas is now 14 for the season.

Many Troubles Cloud Picture For Baseball

NEW YORK (AP) — The possibility of a player strike and the prolonged deadlock over a new commissioner clouded the future for baseball Saturday with spring training only two weeks off.

The owners hoped to come up with a successor to William D. Eckert as commissioner at a Tuesday meeting in Miami Beach, Fla., but the American and National Leagues still appeared to be divided on a candidate.

Charles "Chub" Feeney, vice-president of the San Francisco Giants and nephew of Horace Starnham, owner of the club, still has strong support in the National League.

Walter O'Malley, owner of the Los Angeles Dodgers, was prepared to make one more last bid effort to put Feeney over the top. Feeney had 17 votes in Chicago, but 12 were in the National and only five in the American.

The top candidate in the American League was believed to be Mike Burke, president of the New York Yankees, who withdrew at the Chicago meeting in December 20-21 after getting eight votes in early ballots.

Lee MacPhail, general manager of the Yankees, later had a total of 13 votes.

John McHale, president of the Montreal Expos, who had been considered a compromise candidate, withdrew at Chicago and reconfirmed this decision during the week with personal letters to all club owners.

Under the baseball rules, a commissioner must be approved by three-fourths of each league, or nine members. It is not enough to get three-fourths of the combined 24 clubs, 18, unless the rules are changed.

It was understood that O'Malley, who with Gabe Paul, Cleveland president, will act as co-chairmen in Miami Beach, will try to change the rules to read three-fourths of the combined two leagues.

Wood Remains Top Skater

SEATTLE (AP) — Slender, serious Tim Wood of Detroit still ranked as top man in U.S. skating today after a careful but flawless performance. Friday night in the men's finals of the 1969 National Figure Skating Championships.

The John Carroll University junior, who capped his 1968 title with an Olympic silver medal, got the top score from all five judges, as he had done in the preliminary competition.

Another championship was safely defended by two Syracuse University students, Judy Schwemmer of Indianapolis, Ind., and James Sladky of Rochester, N.Y. They, too, took all the firsts in retaining their gold dance title.

Skating a spectacular program of flying spins and rafter-scraping leans, John Misha Petkevich of Great Falls, Mont., placed second to Wood in the men's final, edging out Gary Visconti of Detroit by six-hundredths of a point.

Visconti, the 1965 champion, was 126 pounds of exuberance in a free skating effort that forced Wood and Petkevich into mistake-free skating to beat him.

Joan Bitterman and Brad Hislop of Seattle, one of the two home area couples in the gold dance, placed second to the champion and the other duo—Debbie Ganson of Seattle and Rolfe Arthur of Tacoma, Wash.—were fourth. In between were Debbie Gerken and Raymond Tiedemann of New York City.

The outstanding performers from this meeting go on to the North American Championships Feb. 6-8 in Oakland, Calif., and the world competition Feb. 25-March 1 in Colorado Springs.

Baylor Trips Rice, 71-68

HOUSTON (AP) — Larry Gatewood flipped in 20 points including 12 of 12 free throws, and Tom Friedman added 19 as Baylor Bears edged Rice 71-68 in a Southwest Conference basketball game Saturday.

The victory, coupled with Texas' loss to Texas A&M, left the Bears in undisputed second place in the Conference with a 4-1 record. The Owls slipped to 1-4.

Gary Riest led Rice scorers with 19 points while teammate Greg Williams added 17.

The Owls held a 36-34 lead at intermission but Baylor dropped in 37 points in the second half for the triumph.

Rice hit 63.9 per cent from the field, compared to Baylor's 38.6 per cent. The Bears scored 90 per cent of their free throws while Rice hit 84.2 per cent from the line.

Muny Pro Shop Is Well Under Way

By FRANK GRIFFIS
The roof may be off now, but if weather permits, it should be on the Municipal Golf Course's new pro shop within a week's time, according to Charles Brantley, municipal pro.

Tentative plans call for completion of the $26,000 building around May 3 of this year. Construction began Jan. 3 and the contractor, N & S Construction, has 120 days to complete the shop.

According to Jim Newsom, one of the builders, the structure will be ready for use sometime in March if the weather doesn't interfere.

The new building will cover approximately 1950 square feet, and will house a snack bar, golf sales area, lounge area, office and work room, lockers, and a dining and games room.

"Business has been steadily picking up as more of the spring weather enters the area," said Mrs. Brantley. "The new shop should increase business substantially as it will more adequately fill our needs and those of our customers."

Plans for the year include a new putting green and better fairways as time allows, but so far everything is tentative, depending on the completion of the pro shop.

Dates for this year's tournaments have not been announced pending the annual meeting of the West Texas chapters of Municipal courses in Lubbock.

The chapters set tourney dates so as to keep them as far apart as possible, allowing a fairer distribution of scheduled events. "We are planning on holding a pro-am tourney and a partnership tournament later on in the year," said Brantley. Brantley added that he hopes to hold the invitational tourney at approximately the same time as it was held last year, the first weekend in May.

Mexico City In Pro Loop

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Mexico City will become a member of the Texas Football League, Commissioner George Schepps said Saturday.

Schepps made the announcement from Midland, Mich., where he attended a meeting of the Continental League, of which the Texas League will be a division in the 1969 season.

Mexico City will be owned by San Antonio and Mexico City interests and has until Feb. 15 to meet Texas League requirements and obtain membership.

These requirements consist of a $25,000 performance bond and $10,000 for a franchise, being considered only a formality.

The Texas Professional Football League already has surmounted its transportation problem to Mexico City by obtaining reduced rates on airlines.

Queens Lose Cage Opener

A hard-pressed rally in the last five minutes of the game handed the Jayhawk Queens a loss, 44-39, in their first basketball game of the season against Weatherford College Saturday night in the Jayhawk gym.

Pacing the Queens with 19 tallies was Molly Condron, followed by Carol Lane with eight. Leading scorers for Weatherford were Faye Spain with 12 and Linda Beaty with 10.

With 4:2 minutes left in the game, Weatherford tied it up 31-31, and rallied to place a 39-35 gap between themselves and the Queens with one minute remaining. Gaining possession, Weatherford froze the ball until the buzzer sounded, ending the game.

All-America Team Starts With Alcindor, Naturally

NEW YORK (AP) — If there's one thing that is certain about the 1969 college basketball All-American it is that Lew Alcindor of UCLA's mighty Bruins will make the team for the third straight year.

The agile 7-foot-2 star, who will be eagerly sought by the pros after his college eligibility ends in March, does not have Elvin Hayes, the Big E of Houston, to contend with in the voting now under way by sports writers and broadcasters for the team to be named by The Associated Press.

A year ago Hayes, a senior, polled 320 first team votes to 311 for Alcindor, then a junior.

The main question about the 1969 All-American is: Will Pistol Pete Maravich, the nation's leading scorer from Louisiana State, again make the team? He made it last year as a sophomore.

Alcindor and Maravich are the only players on the 1968 All-American team back this season.

Calvin Murphy, the 5-foot-10 star of Niagara's Purple Eagles; Jo Jo White of Kansas; Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure; Neal Walk of Florida, and Rick Mount of Purdue figure to be in contention all the way in the voting. White played his last game for Kansas on Saturday, Feb. 1, but still is regarded as eligible since he performed most of the season.

There are numerous other players who probably will attract votes.

Among these are Jim McMillian of Columbia, Howard Porter of Villanova, Mike Maloy of Davidson, Dan Issel, Mike Casey and Mike Pratt of Kentucky; Haywood Spencer of Detroit; Bill Justus of Tennessee; Butch Beard of Louisville and Charlie Scott of North Carolina.

Jayhawks Lose First WC Decision, 89-86

ROSWELL, N.M. — Howard County JC's Jayhawks were licking their wounds this week-end, the result of an 89-86 Western Conference basketball loss suffered at the hands of New Mexico Military Institute here Friday night.

The Big Spring team had won seven straight league decisions going into the contest. They now share first place in the standings with Clarendon College and face another rugged test Tuesday night, at which time they take on Odessa College in Odessa.

Over-all, the Hawks are now 18-3.

Six technical fouls were called against HCJC during the nerve-wracking contest.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Wilson Should Be In Shrine

By TOMMY HART

Bill Yeoman, the University of Houston head football coach who paused here last week to make sure that Roy Lee Warren would enroll at his school, credits Stanton mentor Melvin Robertson with setting up the defense that enabled the Cougars to tie the mighty Georgia... Melvin modestly said, of the fine effort: "We didn't do anything different."

ROY CAMPANELLA

Houston came within a whisker of defeating the Bulldogs... Robertson also said that Greg Cook of Cincinnati was probably the finest quarterback he's seen in four or five seasons... Houston has home games with Miami, Florida State, Wyoming, Ole Miss and Mississippi State next fall — which Yeoman considers a better slate than the Cougars had last fall... Of that 100 points his team scored against Tulsa last year, Yeoman says there is no explaining such a rout other than the fact that the Hurricane just "gave up"...

The Houston mentor also had kind words for Idaho University, where ex-Big Spring Don Robbins is an assistant... Even though Houston scored 77 points on the Vandals, Yeoman says Idaho showed marked improvement over their 1967 team... Yeoman is in demand all over the country as a football clinic speaker, was in Pittsburgh and Boston the week prior to coming here, fulfilling such missions... Jerry Dudley, track coach at Howard County JC, says lack of capital prevented his taking the Jayhawks to that recent indoor meet in Houston... "We could have made it but it would have been slicing our budget rather thin," says Jerry... Even at this early date, the Dallas Cowboys have been established as 12-point favorites over the New York Jets in a Sept. 6 football exhibition at Dallas... The only game a University of Alabama team has lost at Tuscaloosa in 11 seasons under Bear Bryant found Joe Namath quarterbacking the Crimson Tide... The University of Florida, destined to be 6-3-1 that year, dispatched Alabama that day.

Granted that Roy Campanella was better than a journeyman baseball player, the late Hack Wilson should have been voted into the Cooperstown shrine long before him... With each passing year, Wilson's chances for entering the Hall of Fame diminish but he was one of the great ones, even though hard drinking might have curtailed his career... Campanella hit 41 home runs and drove in 142 runs in 1952, both records for a catcher... He clubbed 242 home runs in a big league career that encompassed ten seasons... Wilson, who died in 1948, played in the big leagues parts of 11 seasons... In 1930, while playing for the Chicago Cubs, he set a big league record by driving in 190 runs and the 56 round trippers he hit that same year is still a National League record... In one game, Hack struck two home runs in one inning... Also, in 1930, he set a league record for the most extra bases—215... Ronnie Henson, the former San Angelo athlete, will go to spring training with the Cleveland Indians... He spent last season with Eugene, Ore., where he had a 7-2 pitching record... There are now six Negroes on the pro golf tour... Had it not been for a disastrous May, Texan Ted Uhlauer would have hit over .300 for Minnesota last season... USC Coach John McKay says there isn't a linebacker in the NFL, AFL or CIO who can cover O. J. Simpson... When the Big Spring Steers poured 76 points through the hoop against Odessa Ector recently, they hit their high aggregate for the season... Incidentally, Ector is coached by a former Forsan great, Albert Oglesby, and the coaching job he has done is being lauded around the league... Albert probably deserves Coach of the Year honors within the circuit... South Plains' Texans took a holiday from Western Conference play last week and scored 135 points against the Texas Tech freshmen... Pepper Gomez, a wrestling favorite here a few years ago, now resides in San Jose, Calif., and does practically all his grappling on the West Coast and in Hawaii and Japan... Texas placed five men and SMU four on the University of Oklahoma's all-opponent football team.

Huge Turnout Due In Dome Tuesday

HOUSTON (AP)—Elvin Hayes and Bill Russell are among the stars expected to attract a record crowd of about 40,000 to the AstroDome Tuesday night for a National Basketball Association doubleheader.

Hayes leads the San Diego Rockets against Russell and the Boston Celtics in the second half of the twin bill. Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson will oppose defending NBA scoring champion Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons in the first game.

The crowd of 40,000 predicted by sponsors would be a record for a professional basketball game. The present high of 19,500 was set at a recent NBA doubleheader at the new Madison Square Garden in New York.

The AstroDome games are expected to attract huge crowds because of the high interest in Hayes, a former two-time All-American at the University of Houston, and because of the National Sporting Goods Association convention which will draw 26,000 persons here.

Hayes, college player of the year his final season at Houston, leads the NBA in scoring in his rookie year with a 25-point average. He is a strong favorite for rookie of the year honors.

Hayes was the high scorer last year when Houston and UCLA, both undefeated, played before 52,000 in the AstroDome.

Other stalwarts featured in Tuesday's games include John Havlicek of the Celtics, Jerry Lucas of the Royals, Harry Hairston of the Pistons and Don Kojis of the Rockets.

The AstroDome meeting between the Rockets and Celtics will be their fourth of the season. Boston has won the previous three game total despite Hayes' three game total of 75 points and 48 rebounds compared to Russell's 34 points and 43 rebounds.

Proposed domed stadium for Detroit

These two architects models show preliminary planning results for a domed stadium proposed for construction on the State Fairgrounds in Detroit. Delmont Chapman, State Fair Authority chairman, said a study is to be taken to determine if such a stadium complete with dome would be practical and self sustaining.

DeBusschere Helpful In Knicks' Cause

NEW YORK (AP) — Willis Reed of the New York Knicks will always remember that night in Detroit. Lying in bed, he was mulling over the problems of covering Dave DeBusschere the next night.

But by game time, Reed found himself playing with DeBusschere, instead of against him, and Reed and the Knicks have had few problems since then.

BELAMY TRADED
New York had won three straight games before the trade that brought DeBusschere, a perennial National Basketball Association All-Star, to the Knicks for center Walt Belamy and guard Howard Komives.

They were far back in the Eastern Division then, but with the trade, the Knicks went on to win 10 consecutive games and 18 of 22, and now are thick in contention for the division title.

With the acquisition of DeBusschere, a consistent scorer, rebounder and top defensive player, Reed was able to return to center after a four-year exile at forward. Averaging about 15 points a game at forward before the trade, he blossomed into a 25-plus point a game scorer, rebounding and blocking shots with renewed confidence.

"He's been simply great since the change," said Coach Red Holtzman. "He's had very few poor games. But we had a lot of confidence in him as a center, and he did, too."

"The burden of responsibility is with me now," said Reed, the 6-foot-10 captain of the club. "I've got to get the ball off the boards and pick up the loose men. I can't blame anyone else now. I like it that way. I'm happy to be in the center of things."

It isn't that Reed did not do the job at forward. The last three seasons at that position he made the All-Star team and averaged 15.5, 20.9 and 20.8 points a game. But he came into the league from Grambling as a center in 1964 and won Rookie-of-the-Year honors with a 19.5 average and 1,175 rebounds, his highest total.

HAD TO BE SHOWN
"At that time, no one had any faith in this little boy coming out of a small school in the South," Reed recalled. "I was disappointed that I wasn't picked on the first round of the draft. And when I came in to talk contract the Knicks told me I had to show them what I could do on the court first."

Reed was the 10th choice in the draft and the second pick of the Knicks behind Jim "Bad News" Barnes.

After Reed showed them that first season, New York had a chance to get Belamy and Reed was moved to forward.

"I concentrated on being the best forward in the league then. I never thought about playing center. Now I think there isn't a coach in the league who wouldn't want me at forward or center," he said, not boastfully, but with his usual honesty.

Only occasionally did Reed get back into the post, such as the time two years ago against Los Angeles when Belamy was benched and Reed replaced him and scored 53 points.

"The center is the first man you look for," he said, explaining his recent flashy statistics. "If I get the ball in shooting range I'm going to score and I'm in that range most of the time at center."

"DeBusschere can play the rough forwards now. I like it where I am."

Carson, touted as the best big man in West Virginia high school basketball, led the state in scoring last year with a 30.4 average. So far this year he's averaging more than 32 points and 23 rebounds a game.

Here's what Cuppett says about his star player:

"He's rated as a very good shot. He can dunk the ball flat footed with both hands. He's unbelievable. I've seen him hook four straight from inside the key where the fouls are shot."

"One game we didn't go to him at all hardly the first half. We just stuck him over in a corner and told him to stand there."

"They came off him in the second half and he scored more than 20 points. He had 33 for the game."

"He could be averaging close to 50 points if we went to him exclusively. But we won't do that. We never have."

The 17-year-old weighs 208 and is gaining Cuppett said Carson takes vitamins and drinks a diet supplement. He also lifts weights to build his strength.

Cage Star, 6-9, Is Much In Demand

SISTERSVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — He can run, he can shoot and he's nearly 6-foot-9—the answer to many a basketball coach's dreams.

He's Mike Carson, center for tiny Sistersville (W. Va.) High School. Sistersville is an Ohio River town with a population of 2,300.

The schools that have contacted Carson, one way or another, include Kentucky, Southern California, Indiana, Illinois, Duke, North Carolina, Davidson, Maryland, Kansas, New York University, Dayton, Kent State, Ohio State, Ohio University, Rutgers, Arizona and Oklahoma.

"Any one you can think of, they've contacted him," Sistersville Coach Tom Cuppett said. "What has attracted all the attention?"

Golf Chief Bridles When Called 'Czar'

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph C. Dey, Jr., cringes a little when you refer to him as the czar of professional golf.

"Czar" isn't the right word," he said while discussing his new post as boss of the $6 million tour. "A more appropriate word is 'commissioner.'"

"I will have broad powers and virtually complete control of the tour but with limitations. Policies will be handed down by the 10-man Policy Committee."

"Besides, the last czar, Nicholas, contracted hemophilia, was assassinated and burned. I don't want that happening to me."

Dey, who for 34 years has been the stern guardian of amateur golf as executive director of the U.S. Golf Association, resigned that position Jan. 22 to accept the commissionership of the dissension-riddled pro tour.

His place at the USGA was taken over by his longtime assistant, P. J. Boatright.

NEWS STAGGERING
The golf world was staggered, although Dey's name frequently has been suggested as the type of man needed to lead the pros out of their morass.

Dey, a lay minister, always had been a militant champion of the amateur, a stickler for the rules, a foe of commercialism. He said he wouldn't be caught dead consorting with the pros.

One commentator, stunned by the news, said it was like putting one of the Bobbys twins in charge of the Cosa Nostra. He warned that Dey, tackling the pros, would need a pistol and bullet-proof vest instead of a rule book.

"I don't think that is true at all," Dey said. "The game is the same—it is still golf—whether one plays for fun or for profit. I have known most of these fellows (the pros) since they were kids, juniors first and then amateurs."

"I find many pros have a deep amateur spirit. There are exceptions, of course, but principally they are golfers because they love the game. Take Arnold Palmer. He has accumulated success and great wealth, yet everyone knows he plays for the sheer fun of it. He is a pro with an amateur spirit."

Dey said he wrangled with himself for days before he finally made the decision to accept.

"I had built up many friendships in my long association with the USGA," he related. "I had strong, deep-seated ties. I had to decide where I thought I could best serve the game."

"I looked at the USGA—the amateur game. It was healthy and thriving. Over there, the pros were having their problems. After long debate with myself, I determined that was where I was most needed."

"Money? Security? They had nothing to do with my decision. I don't need the money."

While it wasn't officially announced, it is reported the pros gave Dey a five-year contract at $75,000 a year with assurances he can be boss. He is said to have made around $40,000 with the USGA.

"I don't pretend to be a miracle worker," Dey said, "but if I can help the game in any way—pro or amateur—I want to do it. It is a challenge."

Dey takes over his new post in about two weeks. He will operate out of offices both in New York and Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., the home of the Professional Golfers Association, although he is answerable only to the players.

FINAL AUTHORITY
The job was created following an agreement between the PGA and rebellious players, who struck out and formed an organization of their own. The settlement involved the formation of a Tournament Policy Committee, made up of four players, three PGA officials and three business men, the group having final authority.

"My duties have not been fully defined but I will be in charge of scheduling, television and other contracts and day-to-day operation of the tour," Dey said. "I will have full power of discipline."

Dey is 61 but looks to be in his 40s. He is lean, good-looking, a former newspaperman in New Orleans and Philadelphia who covered Bobby Jones' Grand Slam in 1930.

During his tenure as executive director of the USGA, an organization that enforces the rules and keeps guard over equipment, he has built up a reputation of being a tough, inflexible administrator.

He has had to bear the brunt of criticism for stern punitive actions down through the years.

He was blamed for the disqualification of Porky Oliver, who tied for the 1940 National Open crown after teeing off late; the disqualification of Jackie Pung for signing an erroneous scorecard after winning the 1957 Women's Open at Winged Foot and the suspension of such standout players as the late Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Harvie Ward.

"These were committee decisions, not mine," Dey explained. "No one ever understood that. They always thought it was an executive decree."

"I will be in a position to make decisions on the pro tour. Where a great deal of money is involved, the Policy Committee will rule. In other matters, the responsibility will be mine."

"I am opposed to disqualification. I am against that kind of capital punishment per se."

"I didn't take this job to start disqualifying a lot of pro golfers. I took it to help them. You might say I am their advocate—so long as they play within the rules."

Hitlerism Gets Blame

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "A new kind of Hitlerism from the left" is behind troubles at San Francisco State College, according to Dr. S. I. Hayakawa who says he took the presidency to halt it.

"Hitler showed us how you can get power over a great nation by gangsterism and confrontation," the acting president told a meeting of the American College Public Relations Association Friday.

"I took this job because I felt a new kind of Hitlerism was starting all over again in this nation," he said, "but this time from the left, not the right."

The noted semanticist said he has been disturbed about events on American campuses since the Free Speech Movement at the University of California at Berkeley in 1964.

First Post For Saints, Salvation Army Commanders

Big Spring's new Salvation Army commanders, Lt. Joseph Saint and Lt. Mary Saint, are thrilled to end at this, their first regular assignment.

They are not exactly starting out, for this is a second career. He is a veteran of 20 years in the Air Force, and it was the Air Force which brought him and Mary Conseliu together when he went to San Antonio for officer training at Lackland. They are married and have five sons, two of whom are in military service and Vietnam at the same time.

The corps commander here swapped a captaincy for a lieutenantcy when he retired from the Air Force and entered the Salvation Army officer training school. When they got their commissions, they were sent to the Dallas Pleasant Grove corps for field training, specializing in youth activities. They were all set to go to Paris, Tex., when the final orders were to come to Big Spring.

LT. JOSEPH SAINT

LT. MARY SAINT

"This is just what we wanted," they said, "but we never dreamed we would get it. Once while in the military, we were in Abilene, and we know we'll love it here."

They take a lot of kidding about not only being Saints but also being Joseph and Mary. This has trickled down to their third son, Joseph Jr., who was born on All Saints Day. Even his grandparents are named Joseph and Mary.

Lt. Joseph Saint is a native of Canada (Newfoundland), which furnished a former commander of the corps here — Maj. and Mrs. L. W. Caning. He came to Massachusetts and enlisted in the Air Force. He started in pilot training and got hurt and made a navigator instead. The family went with him to Germany and France, but he switched to the Spain Air Mission which was busy ferrying important people such as (then vice president Lyndon Johnson, Jacqueline Kennedy (Onassis), and setting up President Eisenhower's India mission. He was missile combat crew commander and disaster control officer at Cheyenne, Wyo., when he separated from service.

Mrs. Saint has been busy tending the home fires, what with five sons. The eldest is August, who is married and who is due to be out of the U.S. Navy in May; Leonard, a Marine now at San Diego and who is recovering from wounds when shrapnel hit a half-track on which he was riding atop a gasoline drum; Joseph, 15, a sophomore; and Peter, 12, and Mark, 8, who are in the sixth and second grades at Cedar Crest. The Lt. Saints are members of the Masons and Order of Eastern Star. They hope to become involved in local organizations. Their special pride is one grand daughter, Christene.

Campus Claimed By Indian Group

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — United Native Americans, Inc. laid claim Friday to the University of California's Berkeley campus on the grounds of ancestral law.

Raising a ceremonial hoot and holler, UNA President Lehman L. Brightman proclaimed he was changing the name of UC to "Tchumseh University."

"That's in honor of America's greatest hero," he said of the old warrior.

Brightman, in the proclamation stamped with the seal of the "American Indian Ad Hoc Board of Regents," contended there wouldn't have been a university in the first place if it hadn't been for the whites stealing the once-happy hunting ground.

REV. H. O. WILSON

Prairie View Baptist Has New Pastor

Prairie View Baptist Church has a new pastor. He is the Rev. H. O. Wilson, who comes here from Dallas. He will deliver his first sermon at the church today.

Wilson, with his wife, Elaine, and their three children, Janet 14, Michael 9, and Mark 6, arrived at the parsonage late Tuesday. They spent most of Wednesday and Thursday moving in.

Wilson took time off to inspect his new church and declared himself pleased with the plant. "It's beautiful," he said complimenting the community on the modern features of their church.

The new minister is a member of a preaching family. His father is currently pastor of a church at Ulysses, Kan.

Rev. Wilson was born in Dallas. He began preaching in 1959 and in his career as a minister has served three full time pastorates.

He attended Howard Payne College at Brownwood for two years and later graduated from Southwestern Baptist Seminary. He succeeds the Rev. Roy Collins, who left here in late November to accept a pastorate in Amarillo. The church has been without a minister since he left.

The Rev. Collins was the pastor at the time the new church plant was being built. He served here 18 months.

"ARE YOU FROM DIXIE?" It doesn't matter, for Yanks and Rebels alike will tap their toes to the southern sound of this Dixieland Band. From left, the jazz musicians are Audon Saldivar, guitar;

Janis Majors, piano; Steve Hughes, clarinet; Pete Carlson, drums; and Keith Gum, trumpet. The singer is James Person.

THE BLENDING OF VOICES in an old-time tune is a natural form of fellowship when good fellows get together on Saturday night. At the turn of the century, the village barber shop was a meeting place for mustached young dandies who cherished "Sweet Adeline." This quartet is composed of Dee Elrod, Tommy Polk, Rob Champan and Melvin Chappell, who may get a close shave.

THESE WHIMSICAL creatures will appeal to the young in age and heart during the Disneyland sequence for "CR '69." At left, "Dopey" the dwarf, is really Ann Farley, and her friends, "Brer Bear" and "Brer Fox" are Mike Bearden and Lloyd Kuykendall.

Campus Revue '69

By JO BRIGHT

The Big Spring Senior High School Steer Band is presenting its second annual variety show, "Campus Revue '69" at the high school auditorium Friday and Saturday. Featuring a cast of 200, the musical revue should offer an entertaining evening for the public—while providing funds for the band's planned trip to Colorado in May.

All seats are reserved at a charge of $1.50, $3 and $5. Tickets may be purchased from any band member or by calling 267-8260.

Band directors who are guiding the production are Bill Bradley, Don Turner, R. E. McKiski and Richard Grady. The guest director is Todd Lane of Wichita Falls, who assisted with last season's successful show. Special effects are being provided by Mother Hubbard Art Creations, and Mrs. R. E. Carr is serving as choreographer.

The two-hour revue will include 20 numbers, and the finale will feature the entire cast in songs from the musical, "Up With-People!"

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1969

THIS FANCY flapper, Pat Stinson, has chosen a fast-stepping partner in Brent Brooks as they prepare to "do their stuff" with the Teaberry Shuffle. The scene is from the "Roaring 20's" number which features other couples in the dances of those carefree days.

A SHOW IS NOT COMPLETE without pretty chorus girls, and this quartet makes lively adornment for any stage. The girls are Sherry Wickline, Carol Perry, Helen Johnson and Lynda Lloyd. Putting them through their paces is the show's choreographer, Mrs. R. E. Carr.

CHATTER BECOMES A CHORE when a master (or mistress) of ceremonies is counted on to keep the show going—and the audience amused. Three who will have that job with "CR '69" are Carolyn Newman, Douglas Burnett and Gerald Smith, who take a look at their respective scripts.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

There's nothing to compare with having a hobby that is completely satisfying over a number of years but when one can turn that into a real success... that's accomplishment.

Ten years ago I watched with wonder while MRS. DALE (BILLIE) SMITH took oddly shaped pieces of plastic 'drippings' and used them as the nucleus for abstract arrangements. She was embarking on a career of arranging and lecturing that has been most fulfilling for her.

An avid member of her garden club, she has worked in just about every phase. And each year she has added some accomplishment.

Monday she is to be the guest lecturer for the Garden Club Council of Fort Worth at Leonard's Hall at Leonard's. Her program will be called "In and Out, Off and On." She will lecture for two hours and is making 20 an hour and, she says wryly, "makes clever comments" as she goes along.

Mrs. Smith became a state-approved Lecturer on Flower Arranging four years ago. There are around 36 approved speakers on flower arranging in Texas and none other from this area. Billie is also a Certified Landscape critic. This lady with enthusiasm has been on the go for gardening for years and has been guest lecturer at state conventions, at the Dallas Garden Center three times, has been speaker for meetings in Galveston, Houston, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and Fort Worth. In fact she has averaged 10 out-of-town programs a year in Texas and New Mexico.

With the love she has for arranging and for being with people who share that love, I'd bet that Mrs. Smith will be going strong for another 10 years... talking and working with novel materials for unusual arrangements.

MR. and MRS. CHARLES SWEENEY returned Wednesday from Denton where they attended the graduation ceremonies at North Texas State University at which time their elder son, CHARLES JERRY SWEENEY, received a BA degree in Business Administration (Chip) and his family are now living in Dallas where he is employed by the Sears Co.

MRS. AL MARKS and her 4-year-old son, Al Jr., were to leave today for their home in St. Louis, Mo., after visiting her parents, MR. and MRS. T. M. LAWSON, since Tuesday.

MRS. G. T. GUTHRIE is in Austin for several weeks of visiting with her daughter, MRS. A. O. LEE, and her family.

A sight I seldom see anymore is a flock of turkeys... well, this is probably not a flock but there are some pretty pure white turkeys at the corner of Lancaster and 17th, and some time one of them treats us to a sight of a real strutter with his tail in full fan. Now that the holidays for turkey eating are past, they probably feel a little more secure.

MRS. NATHAN (Jacque) ALLEN, Graham, is the new president of the Texas Hereford Association Ladies Auxiliary following its organizational meeting last week in Austin. She and her husband are formerly from Big Spring. Among the directors named to the board was MRS. LOY ACUFF.

MRS. CHARLES LEE HAMLIN (Curley's Studio)

Miss Frances Kay Gardner Is Married To Charles L. Hamlin

Wedding vows were recited by Miss Frances Kay Gardner and Charles Lee Hamlin Saturday afternoon at College Baptist Church, as the Rev. Byron Orand performed a double ring ceremony before an altar arrangement of white gladioli.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Buckner, 1904 E. 25th, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hamlin of Ruidoso, N.M.

Mrs. James Packer of Euless, sister of the bride, played traditional wedding selections at the organ.

The bride was attired in a white lustrous knit dress designed with an Empire bodice and accented with a self belt forming a bow in front. She wore a single strand of pearls, and her brief veil was attached to a satin bow headpiece. Her bouquet of gardenias and feathered carnations was carried atop a white Bible.

Miss Diane Buckner of Dallas, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She chose a brown and blue dress and carried a nosegay of yellow carnations. Shipman, Sweetwater, and Mrs. T. V. Jennings and Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Gardner, all of Winters.

SCHOOLS
The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School, where she was band sweetheart, and attended North Texas State University and Howard County Junior College. The bridegroom graduated from BSHS and is employed by Ruidoso Printing Company.

The couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For traveling, Mrs. Hamlin chose an A-line coat dress of canary yellow and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The Hamlins will be home in Ruidoso.

Witch Hazel Great As Beauty Asset

Witch hazel, one of our great-grandmother's beauty standbys, is a great substitution for more expensive beauty items.

It can serve as an astringent, a skin toner and an ingredient in beauty masks for oily skin. Cotton squares soaked in witch hazel and held over the eyelids will beautify them as it soothes tired eyes.

If large pores are your problem, try this treatment: Prepare a solution of one dram of boric acid and eight ounces of witch hazel, soak cotton in the solution, and apply to the enlarged pore area.

JERRY WALSH

Arthritis Foundation Will Present Speaker

The West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation is presenting Jerry Walsh of New York City, N.Y., in a public meeting, open to all interested persons, at 2 p.m., Friday, in the First Federal Community Room.

Walsh first noticed a stiffness in his legs during his freshman year in college. Then one day, while pitching a baseball game, he collapsed. The cause was later diagnosed as rheumatoid arthritis. Although he was bedridden for seven years, he did not let suffering destroy his morale. Following two successful operations, he is now able to walk with a crutch and cane.

Walsh had a promising career as a major league baseball player until he was struck down by rheumatoid arthritis at the age of 18. He was named "Handicapped American of the Year" for 1963 by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

A LOVELIER YOU

Try Effective Way Of Contouring Calf

By MARY SUE MILLER
For contouring the calf, today's routines are quick, easy and effective. Could you ask for more?

In order to take guesswork out of results, here are the ideal calf measurements for individual heights: Height, 5' to 5'3" — calf, 12 1/2"; height, 5'4" to 5'6" — calf, 13"; height, over 5'7" — calf, 13 1/2" to 14". Measurement is taken at fullest curve. You may subtract a half-inch from the figure given for you, if your bones are delicate and small.

Now for the slimming routines:

1. Sit on the floor, back erect and legs together. Bend right foot backward toward leg and quickly bounce calf on floor for 10 counts. Repeat with left leg. Alternating side, perform entire routine three times.

2. Sitting on floor, legs out and together, bend feet forward with toes pointed ahead. Raise right leg and rhythmically swing it from side to side in a high, wide arc for 20 counts. Then perform with left leg.

3. Stand with feet together and weight on heels. Slowly pull leg muscles upward from ankles through knee. Hold for 10 slow counts, relax, and repeat three to 10 times.

Work for precise movements. Not the precision of a marching

BARNES PELLETIER

MRS. EUGENE WILBUR SELBY (Broadshaw Studio)

Joan Lyster Marries Lt. Eugene W. Selby

Miss Joan Elizabeth Lyster and Lt. Eugene Wilbur Selby exchanged wedding vows Saturday at 2 o'clock in St. Paul Lutheran Church.

The Rev. William H. Roth performed the ceremony before an altar flanked by twin baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and emerald fern. Candelabra held white tapers.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer O. Lyster, 1902 Alabama, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O. Selby of Collingswood, N.J.

Mrs. Frank Long, organist, played "The Lord's Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest," with Maj. William Lund and R. G. Sinder as soloists.

The bride was attired in a white brocade formal gown designed in a princess silhouette with high neckline and sleeves trimmed in white fur. Her shoulder-length veil of English illusion fell from a petal cap accented with seed pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white gardenias and satin picot atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Howard Berry, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and another sister, Miss Carol Lyster, was bridesmaid. The attendants wore identical floor-length emerald green dresses of rayon and silk cord. Their white fur ring hats were trimmed with emerald green tulle, and they carried bouquets of yellow fuchsia chrysanthemums tied with green velvet ribbon.

Lt. Albert J. Roberts III was best man, and Lt. Warren A. Hill was groomsman. Swordsmen were Lt. William Crumm, Lt. Edward Chaney, Lt. Douglas Hileman, Lt. Thomas G. Neutzling, Lt. Jerome N. Davis and Lt. Rudolph Zahorchak, all of Webb AFB.

ment table was laid with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and pompons flanked by white tapers in crystal holders. Crystal and silver appointments completed the setting. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Miss Nancy Opegard presided at the guest register, and others in the house party were Mrs. Moran Opegard and Mrs. William Lund.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Ella Busby of Madison, Wis., aunt of the bride; and Miss Christi Sanders, Miss Gayle Stokes, Miss Karen Pierce, Miss Pam Youle and Gary Szajder, all of Dallas.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School and attended Howard County Junior College. She has been employed as a Trans-Texas Airlines hostess, based in Dallas. The bridegroom attended Pennsylvania State University and graduated from Baltimore College. He is stationed at Webb AFB and will graduate from pilot training Feb. 8.

The couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For traveling, the bride chose a camel tan wool dress with brown accessories. Lt. and Mrs. Selby will be at home in Big Spring until his graduation, when they will move to England AFB in Alexandria, La.

Shows Art Of Making Flowers

Mrs. Joe Myers of Knott demonstrated the art of making burlap flowers at Tuesday's meeting of the Center Point Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Lester Bryson, 139 Jonesboro Road.

The hostess brought the devotion. The club planned to furnish cookies to the Big Spring State Hospital, and donation of $5 was made to the March of Dimes. A program on making meringues was announced for Feb. 21 in the home demonstration agent's office.

Mrs. Lucille Moore, recreation specialist from the Extension Service, will be guest speaker at a luncheon Feb. 7 in First Methodist Church. Sessions will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. M. N. Hipp won the attendance prize. The next meeting will be Feb. 11 in the home of Mrs. J. R. Petty, 1012 Sycamore.

Therapist Seeks Help For Deaf In County

Barry O'Neal of Midland, area worker for the Texas Rehabilitation Center, spoke on "Who I Serve" at Friday's luncheon meeting of the Health and Welfare Committee in the Dora Robert's Rehabilitation Center.

"The group I serve is the deaf and hard of hearing," said O'Neal, "and, throughout the United States, these people have the least aid offered them than any other handicapped group."

One of the reasons cited by the speaker for the lack of help is that there is no fundamental language, and those who speak a foreign language can not read lips of a therapist speaking English.

He concluded the program by asking the question, "What can we do for these people?" O'Neal will be available at the rehabilitation center on Thursday of each week, and those people in the community who are deaf or have hearing problems are asked to be referred to him.

Mrs. Harold E. Heidrick was elected secretary-treasurer following the resignation of Mrs. Bart Deggs, who recently moved from the city. New members welcomed were Lt. Joseph Saint, director of the Salvation Army, Col. Edward Parker, representative from Webb Air Force Base; Mrs. Robert Rueschman, physical therapy assistant, and Mrs. Don Hitt, receptionist-secretary. Walter Spence, representative of the state rehabilitation agency, was introduced as a guest.

The tables were laid with white cloths and decorated with the valentine motif. The next meeting will be Feb. 28.

Gee in the First Methodist Church. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lee Lain Sr. of Fort Worth.

MUSIC

The prelude of nuptial music by John Stanley included the Wedding Suite, Aria in F Major and "Oh Perfect Love." The soloist, Mrs. Don Newsom, sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer." The altar was graced with a sunburst arrangement of white chrysanthemums, gladioli and stock flanked by candelabra holding cathedral tapers. Tall candelabra with votive candles marked the family pews.

The bride's gown was of ivory Alencon lace embroidered on English net which veiled a silhouette of peau de soie. The moulded bodice was fashioned with high Victorian neckline and long sleeves edged with a narrow flounce of lace. The slim, A-line gown was street-length. Her veil of ivory silk illusion fell below her shoulders from a bandeau of matching Alencon lace, and she carried a cascade of butterfly roses, stephanotis and ivy tied with green velvet.

Miss Karen Kay Kasch, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and altar tapers were lighted by Miss Jackie Cook and Miss Kay Slate. Miss Kasch was attired in a gown of fern green moire faille fashioned with Empire bodice. The high neckline was edged with a self ruffle, and the high rise waist was marked with a green velvet belt. Her headpiece was a matching Dior bow, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and ivy showered in moss green velvet. Miss Cook and Miss Slate wore dresses of green crepe with full sleeves, gathered at the wrists.

RECEPTION

Receive Recognition

Church Women United marked a milestone Friday with a luncheon at West Side Recreation Center where appreciation was expressed to longtime volunteer workers at the center. Among those receiving recognition were Mrs. W. G. Wilson, Mrs. W. D. Lovelace and Mrs. W. D. McDonald, shown here presenting a yearbook to the organization's newest member, Mrs. Joseph Saint of the Salvation Army. The three women helped at the center when it was started, over 20 years ago, under the sponsorship of Church Women United (then known as the United Council of Church Women.)

'Quotable Quotes'

By The Associated Press

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"The bust is not so important anymore. Today sexy comes from the personality and how you look at a man."—Italian movie sex symbol Gina Lollobrigida in a New York interview.

"Love, love first, then health, then far, far behind, money." Baroness Guy de Rothschild, in an interview explaining the priorities in her life.

"Until we women stand up and demand our rights, they're going to walk on us."—Mrs. Louise Watley, Atlanta, feminist leader, in calling for a virtual abolition of abortion and contraception laws.

"When I'm getting towards the end of a novel and all the problems are going to have to be resolved I feel like a man coming down a steep hill on a bicycle juggling three oranges."—Helen MacInnes, famed suspense writer and author of the best-selling "The Salzburg Connection," in an interview.

"I'm going to take it real easy for a few days because it's going to be pretty busy when I get home."—Mrs. Arthur Stanley, 35, after the birth of her fifth set of twins, bringing her total family to 13.

"I'm no gun nut and I never wanted to kill anyone. But I

Cosmetics can do a great deal for the woman who wants to banish the tell-tale signs of the aging process, but the ideal would be, all of my readers will agree, not to grow old at all. Well, we're still looking for the fountain of youth, and when we find it, you'll be the first to know. I do know of some exercises, though, that will help keep your face and neck looking youthful and fresh. I suggest you do these in private, however, for they require that you make facial contortions. To avoid lines around the eyes, cheeks, and lips, squeeze your eyes shut and open your mouth wide. Relax and blow through pursed lips. Massage from the jawbone to the temples with the palms will prevent wrinkles and stimulate circulation. Repeat these several times. Financing arranged on approved credit.

THE BOSS

Copyright 1969 Keister Advertising Service, Inc., Strasburg, Va.

"The boss!" Jim said and laughed to see Jimmy dwarfed by his chair.

And I began to wonder. When our son is ready to occupy that chair, what kind of a man will he be? Will he have integrity and a sense of responsibility for his employees? Or will he cut corners, use the people he works for—who work for him?

So much depends on us. Right now, he learns of love and kindness from our voices, our hands. As he matures, our values, respect for others and concern will help to shape his attitudes.

How glad I am that our Church offers a program of Christian education for Jim and me, as well as for Jimmy. As our son grows, so will we.

The strength you need to meet the responsibilities of your life can be found in your church.

Saturday Wedding Is Held In Base Chapel

Miss Donna Leigh Moss became the bride of Airman 1.C. Donald Allan Zuar Saturday afternoon at the Webb Air Force Base chapel.

Chaplain Robert T. Deming performed the double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with white gladioli and chrysanthemums. The bridal aisle was marked with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Virginia Martin, organist, played "I Love Thee," "Because," "O Promise Me," "The Day of Golden Promise," "O Perfect Love" and "I'll Walk Beside You."

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Moss, 2613 Larry, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Zuar of Willimantic, Conn.

The bride was attired in a white satin bridal gown designed with Empire bodice and bell sleeves. Chantilly lace appliques were embroidered on the gown and chapel-length train, and the sleeves were edged with lace. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a petal cap encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations accented with English ivy.

Miss Deborah Kay Hine, maid of honor, wore blue organza over a satin gown and a blue face veil. She carried a nosegay of white carnations trimmed with salad leaves.

Robert Stockwell Jr. was best man, and ushers were Kenneth Cassola and John H. Reed. Linda Crain Moss, the flower girl, was dressed in a gown identical to the maid's of honor.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The refreshment table was laid with a white lace cloth over blue, and crystal and silver appointments completed the setting. The wedding cake was white and topped with a bridal couple.

Miss Nancy Jean Bortner presided at the guest register.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Moss, and Janice Moss, all of Boerne; Mr. and Mrs. Armand Weber, Kerrville; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Moss of Groves.

Panhellenic Seeking Members

Mrs. Akin Simpson, president of Big Spring Panhellenic, has invited all local women who are affiliated with a nationally-accredited college sorority to join the group at a Tuesday luncheon at Big Spring Country Club. Those wishing to attend are asked to call Mrs. Simpson at 267-8291. The luncheon will begin at 12 o'clock noon.

The Panhellenic will hold a meeting Feb. 11 in the home of Mrs. Bill Spain, 2612 Ann, when all area senior girls are invited to attend and view a film on sorority activities and life on campus.

Delegate Elected By Lees HD Club

Mrs. Bennie Jo Blissard was named Texas Home Demonstration Association delegate at Tuesday's meeting of the Lees Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. E. B. Lowe.

Mrs. Eugene Smith presided, and a report was heard on the HD council. Mrs. William Hull was welcomed as a new member and elected alternate THDA delegate.

Mrs. Lowe presented the program, "Why Make A Will?" It was announced that Mrs. J. L. Overton would attend the spring meeting in Iran.

A field trip to tour the Museum of the Southwest in Midland was slated for Feb. 25. The next meeting will be Feb. 14 in the home of Mrs. A. W. White.

The Knott Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday to hear Patrolman Jack White, safety officer for the Texas Highway Department, give the last in a series on a driver's re-education course in the First Federal Community Room. The next meeting will be Feb. 11 in the home of Mrs. Robert Brown.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I am about at my wit's end. Truly, I am desperate . . . Gertie Poo

Aw, come on now gal, take a day off (and if you can figure how, let all of us housewives know) . . .

The only answer I have found is to demand it. It's gonna cost you, Shug. Gonna have to have a babysitter. So go on and get one. So what?

Don't spend this day, or hours you will eventually allow yourself, trying to find bargains for the house and family. If you're looking for bargains try and find something for yourself. That's YOU, gal!

But I know you won't do this. I never have! Why don't we?

If some psychiatrist can figure out why we don't, I'd like to hear from him.

Years ago we were always told to go buy ourselves a new hat. That doesn't work. Where are you going to wear that new hat? To the laundry or the grocery store? Where are you going to be invited to wear that hat except to church?

Honey, I sympathize wholeheartedly. You tell me the answer and you and I will both know — along with all our other friends.

Why don't you pick up a pencil and paper and pour out your heart? Let me in on your troubles. That's what I'm here for. You don't even have to sign your name.

The more letters I receive from housewives, the more I understand their problems. And you know the one thing I want to tell you before you write that letter is that you are not just a housewife. You are the very little doll who KEEPS THE HOME GOING . . . God bless you always . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise: The best recipe holder I've found is that little hanger for nylons that comes with the clothespins attached.

I hang it on my cupboard door handle and clip the recipes on it.

It keeps the recipe eye level and it stays cleaner, too.

If your cupboard doesn't have handles, you could use a small nail inside the cupboard door . . . Nancy

Dear Heloise:

When waiting for something or someone, start a job you can't finish — like writing a long letter or cleaning out bureau drawers. The time goes by all too quickly and you've the satisfaction of having accomplished something, even if it's only partially done . . . "Green Roses"

Dear Heloise:

I keep my cat in the house at night and in cool weather, so I have the sandbox problem.

So I bought a plastic baby bathtub and put it in a large cardboard box with a lid on it. I cut a hole in the box big enough for my cat to go in and out of.

The plastic tub can be washed, and the cardboard box eliminates spills and odor. And it keeps the sandbox almost out of sight . . . Eternal Cat Lover

Plan Air Force Debutante Ball

Meeting Wednesday in the home of Mrs. William C. McGlothlin were five members of the newly-formed steering committee for the Webb OWC Debutante Ball. Mrs. M. J. Rega and Mrs. G. D. Shaffer are seated, and standing, are Mrs. McGlothlin, Mrs. W. D. R. Lund and Mrs. K. R. Francis.

First Debutante Ball Slated At Webb AFB

Mrs. William C. McGlothlin, No. 1 Albrook, hosted a meeting of Air Force officers' wives Thursday as plans were initiated for the first "Debutante Ball" to be held at Webb Air Force Base.

The Air Force presentation balls, which are now international in scope, grew from an idea developed by Mrs. Lawrence S. Kuter, wife of a retired Air Force general. Mrs. Kuter believed that such an event was necessary within the service since Air Force families move so often their daughters can seldom participate in regular "coming out" festivities.

The first such ball was held in Hawaii in 1957, under the sponsorship of the Hickam Air Force Base Wives Club, and subsequent balls have been sponsored by the OWC at various bases in the United States and Europe. Col. and Mrs. McGlothlin served on the escort committee for the 1957 ball.

"We are fortunate, at Webb, to have at least eight young ladies who may be presented," said Mrs. McGlothlin. "Or, dinarily, a pilot training base involves families that are too young to have daughters in this age bracket." (The girls must be single high school graduates who have not reached the age of 22.) They may be daughters of either active or retired officers.

The Webb OWC Debutante Ball committee is comprised of

Officer Conducts Driver's Course

Patrolman Jack White, safety education officer for the State Highway Department, conducted the last in a series of three programs on driver's re-education, sponsored by the Howard County Home Demonstration Council, Wednesday at the First Federal Community Room.

White described safe driving techniques and stressed defensive driving. He said that the good defensive driver will use knowledge, foresight, judgment and skill in handling his car and observing other drivers.

He said these abilities pertain to the mental and physical aspects of driving, and that the good defensive driver will concentrate on his own skills and try to "second guess" the driver in another car.

RIDES HERD ON 100 FOOT CRANE

This Job Is Pain In The Neck

By SAM BLACKBURN

"It is a pain in the neck," Charles Gray said when asked about his job.

That doesn't mean Gray dislikes his work. He is merely reporting a simple truth about his daily task. Sticking with it nine hours a day, it is a pain in the neck — literally.

"You see," explains Gray, "I have to sit with my head back, looking up all of the time. After a while, my neck muscles get tired and begin to hurt. That's why I say that my job is really a pain in the neck."

100-FOOT CRANE

Gray, in case you hadn't met him, is the big husky fellow who rides herd on the 100-foot crane being used to batter down the old Crawford Hotel building.

Nine hours a day, five days a week, Gray sits in the "bucket" seat of the big cat which powers the crane. He pulls the proper lever of the seven he has in front of him to make the crane do what he wants it to do and, high up the mast, cause a 3,300 pound steel ball (shaped like a lopsided pear) to emulate a pendulum. When the pendulum has reached the maximum swing of its arc, he releases it and it bangs into the concrete piers and brick walls of the old hotel. And down comes a couple of tons or so of brick, steel and mortar.

SEVERAL WEEKS

"It'll take a couple of weeks or more to knock the rest of the building down," says Gray, who is an employee of the Vilbig Demolition Company.

Vilbig is salvaging a part of the brick, but many of them, with the concrete piers and tons of construction iron, are being shoveled into the big basement which was under the building. There the debris will be tamped down and levelled off. The ultimate plan is to transform the site of the old hotel into a downtown parking lot, jointly owned by the city and the county. Downtown Big Spring, Inc., an organization of businessmen, arranged for the acquisition of the hotel which has been tenanted for several years.

Gray's job is to bring down the walls of the structure and cause the wreckage to fall where it should.

He has been a crane operator for 15 years and is following in the footsteps of his father. He likes his work.

"Guess," he said, "it is because of the way I was when I was a boy — never so happy as when I had a valid reason to tear something up."

LOOKS EASY

It looks easy to see Gray manipulate his big crane around and then with deftness set the big ball to swinging. Ahead of the swing, of course, he has "aimed" the shot — hoisting the ball on the cable to a point where he can estimate the point of impact at the end of the arc.

Occasionally wreckage will foul the cable and a workman has to shimmy up the metal grillwork to the pulley and unsnarl the line.

NO VIBRATION

There's no vibration in the crane's big cab as it operates. The only movement comes from the big engine to the rear.

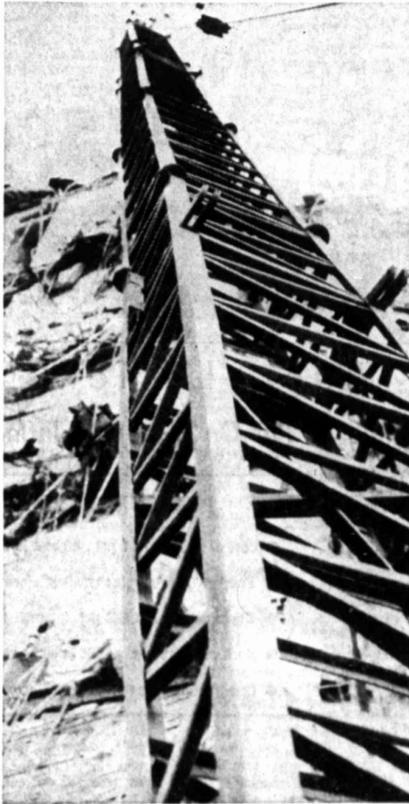

When the two-ton marble at the end of its cable crashes into the wall, Gray feels no shake at all.

"It's a good job and a sort of challenge," Gray said.

He and his wife, with their three children, are making their home at 3706 Dixon, while he is wrecking the Crawford. They have a new daughter, Teresa, who arrived Christmas Day.

When this job is finished, Gray and his big crane will move to Lubbock where another old hotel, two times as towering as the Crawford, is to be battered down.

Meantime, Gray and his crane are providing Big Spring riders with an absorbing show, and he usually has a sizable audience along the sidewalks across from his target.

Wilson Helped Build Depot Back In 1910

By SAM BLACKBURN

"I helped build it," states Frank Wilson, "but I danged sure am not going to help them tear it down."

The 77-year-old retired railroad engineer was discussing the Texas and Pacific Railway Co. station. Some debate has recently arisen over when the station was built. It is now slated for demolition and its razing will probably be ordered in the not too distant future.

EARLY 1910

"I know exactly when the thing was built," said Wilson. "I helped build it. I started work on the job early in April, 1910. My job was digging ditches for the foundation. I know the building is well built — those ditches were as deep as I am tall."

Wilson, who was 18 years old at the time, recalls that it was hot in April and that the work was tiring. The county was in the throes of a particularly dry year in 1910. This, he said, aggravated the heat problem.

Working with him on the job was his brother-in-law, W. T. Bell. Bell was not digging ditches, though — he was assigned to the concrete department.

The contractor, Hughes, and O'Rourke of Fort Worth brought one of the new fangled concrete mixing machines with him. This one, Wilson recalls, was powered by a gasoline engine and was a great improvement over the wooden trough and big hoe, which usually served to mix the cement, sand, gravel and water into the proper consistency.

"The cement mixer was quite a sight," Wilson recalls, "and a lot of folks came down to the job to watch it work."

Wilson didn't stay with the ditches until the depot was finished. He got a job in the railroad shops and let the contractor worry about the foundations.

"I don't remember when they finished the building," he says. "Probably was in late 1910."

FROM WACO

Wilson had moved to Howard County near Waco in 1909 with his mother, his sister Mrs. W. T. Bell, and the latter's husband.

Bell later joined Wilson at the shops and stopped work on the depot.

Mrs. Bell, his widow, lives at 103 N. Goliad in a house where she had made her home for 50 years. Her brother, Wilson, now lives with his wife at 1503 Eleventh Place, but prior to that he lived for half a century on North Johnson.

"Wish I was back there," he says.

After he left the building job to take a place extra in the shops, Wilson became a fireman in 1914. He fired for three years, and from 1927 until retirement, he was an engineer. Bell also became a fireman and continued at that work, turning down opportunities to be an engineer, until his death.

LEAST

Since his retirement, Wilson says he does the least he can. The "least" includes one fairly strenuous activity — each afternoon he walks from his home on Eleventh Place to the residence of his sister. After a visit, he walks back to Bell Pharmacy on Eleventh Place. "I like to walk," he says.

New Estimated Tax Forms Being Mailed

DALLAS — Completely new estimated tax forms for reporting and paying estimated tax for 1969 will be mailed about Feb. 1 to approximately 10 million taxpayers, Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of Internal Revenue Service for northern Texas, announced.

A taxpayer should not assume that he is required to file or pay estimated tax simply because he receives the new package, Campbell said. Anyone receiving the new forms package should read the instructions carefully to determine whether he is required to file an estimate.

No declaration is required in any event, if the estimated tax is subject to withholding can reasonably be expected to be less than $40.

Many taxpayers, Campbell said, choose to avoid filing declarations and making quarterly payments by increasing the amount withheld from their wages.

He said that the distribution of estimated tax forms is being made somewhat later than usual because of the introduction of some new features designed to reduce problems in crediting payments to estimated tax accounts. The new forms and instructions, which were previously a part of the income tax pamphlets, will be mailed separately this year.

The new package will include the necessary forms, instructions and four payment "vouchers" and pre-addressed return envelopes. The new package will be sent to all taxpayers whose prior year records indicate that they may be liable for filing an estimated tax declaration in 1969.

Campbell said the form and payment vouchers will be imprinted with the taxpayer's name, address and Social Security number exactly as they appear on the Internal Revenue Master File. The imprinted forms will provide assurance that the taxpayer is properly identified and that his payments are credited to the correct account.

Copies of the new form and instructions will be available at IRS offices for those who do not receive them through the mail.

VA Hospital Is Inspected

Dr. Arthur N. Springall, representative of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, concluded a two-day survey of the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital Thursday.

Although it will be some weeks before an official report will be received as to whether or not the facility will meet the rigid requirements for accreditation, Dr. Springall informed Director Jack D. Powell and staff that from his observations, quality medical care is being provided.

A Devotional For The Day

Each of us should please his brother for his own good, in order to build him up in the faith. (Romans 15:2, TEV)
PRAYER: Father most gracious, grant us a deeper awareness of Thy purpose for us. May we serve Thee fully and effectively in our homes and at work, in our churches and communities. We pray in the name of Jesus, who has taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . ." Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

The State-Wide School Program

Residents in rural areas understandably are disturbed over some facets in the report of the Governor's Committee on Public School Education, which, among other things, has proposed a massive consolidation of school districts which fall below an attendance minimum.

The Herald has commented on this report, but as a matter of clarification, has not expressed its support for the detailed program of consolidations.

In principle, Texas needs to move in making itself one of the leaders in national education, not one of the laggards. We feel that as legislators and others study the report—a massive book some two inches thick—a more meeting of minds may evolve. We said in an earlier editorial and say again that enactment of all the committee's recommendations is a long way off.

But there will be evolutions for better school systems. This is not to say that particular districts in particular counties (our own, for example) which are maintaining a high level of educational standard would be caught up in consolidation. We feel that a broader system will be laid down.

We cannot see that the committee's recommendation for a 2,000-minimum district will be adopted, and we predict revision in this area. But there are other facets in the report that have to be pulled together, too.

Those who say that "big districts" are against "little districts" have, we feel, a misunderstanding of the nature of the report. This is a state-wide proposal and can only be resolved at the state level.

Job For A Racket Buster

To those who believe that increased crime has resulted in degrees from lack of vigorous prosecution by the U.S. Department of Justice, there should be some hope of improvement.

As is generally known, a Texan, Will Wilson, has been appointed to head the department's criminal division, and in this role will become a dominant figure in the new effort to reduce criminal violations.

Wilson this week told the Senate Judiciary Committee that "vigorous law enforcement can reverse the current upward trend in crime," and he pledged to do his best to see that all the nation's laws are vigorously enforced.

His best should be very good, because Wilson has built a reputation as a hard-driver after criminals, has even earned the appellation of "racket buster."

He was district attorney in Dallas County in 1947-50, and was mainly responsible for driving organized crime out of that city. He became the state's attorney general, and during his two terms moved into areas with vigor, not yielding to political pressures.

Wilson also has had experience on the state's supreme court, so he can be expected to be aware of judicial attitudes as well as the need for determined prosecution.

President Nixon has said that the war on crime will be one of the principal goals of his administration, and he can be expected to give his appointee the fullest support.

Even Mr. Wilson is not going to work miracles, but a change in purpose in the Justice Department, which he can be expected to direct, should have healthy effect.

Marquis Childs The Style Of The Administration

WASHINGTON — The key word was sufficiency. By so defining the nuclear arms posture of the nation under his administration President Nixon dispelled a large cloud of doubt that had overshadowed what may be a last chance to negotiate at least a pause in the arms race.

During the campaign Nixon had called for superiority before any negotiation with the Soviet Union. He had talked about a security gap. His Secretary of Defense, Melvin R. Laird, in his confirmation hearing seemed to ratify a posture of superiority.

THE PRESIDENT in his extraordinarily effective and skillful debut before the White House press chose sufficiency over superiority. This will be an assurance to governments everywhere, and particularly to Moscow, that he has a genuine desire to negotiate against the background of the long months of preparation for the talks on missiles.

If he left the question of timing open it can hardly be expected that he should have determined in his first week in office the day and the hour when he will be ready to sit down with the Soviets for serious talks. He knows by now surely that long delay can be serious and perhaps fatal. As recent history has shown, events have a way of cutting across the most hopeful plans and wiping out all progress.

ON THE OLD cart-and-horse argument — whether a political settlement or an arms limitation agreement should come first — Nixon took a pragmatic view. He said he meant to find a compromise between these two positions. That is good common sense, since to insist on resolving outstanding political differences in advance of any arms agreement would mean to get nowhere at all. The political differences are too deeply built-in, too complex, too far-reaching.

SIMILARLY on Vietnam, common sense prevailed. The President put the stress on restoring the conditions of the 1954 Geneva accords, as in true demilitarization of the demilitarized zone. He stressed mutual troop withdrawal from South Vietnam of American and North Vietnamese forces under careful supervision.

GENERALIZED though it was, what he said reflected the authoritative article in foreign affairs by his National Security Affairs advisor Henry A. Kissinger. Reviewing the tragic misconception of the American command fighting a guerrilla war with a conventional approach, Kissinger recommended on-the-side talks at Paris, even secretly if that seemed essential, with Hanoi to bring about troop withdrawal and scale down the conflict. Above all, Kissinger warned against the United States getting entangled in a prolonged controversy over a political settlement between North and South Vietnam.

WALKING AROUND the booby trap of a "cease-fire" Nixon showed an awareness of the profound difference between a guerrilla war in which there are no fixed boundaries and the kind of settlement that was possible in Korea where there were lines of battle long established.

Far more than in his inaugural, it seemed to this observer, President Nixon was defining the style of his administration. Nixon is determined to govern with the weight of full and careful consultation. He is relying on three councils in three principal areas — security, urban affairs and the economy — to support the decisions he will take. This is not to be — or not to seem to be — one-man government.

Fishwatch

LISBON (AP) — The Portuguese Air Force is going fishing.

Squadrons of Air Force planes have been called to the rescue of fishermen in southern Portugal who are having trouble locating sufficient sardine and tuna fish schools.

The catch of the two species is the most important activity of the southern provinces, and it has been on the decrease.

After a request from fishing industrialists, the Air Force sent twin-engine propeller craft to study fish migration patterns. The unprecedented search is expected to be extended outside territorial waters eventually.

Jack Lefler Can Bridle Be Put On Galloping Inflation?

NEW YORK (AP) — Inflation galloped in 1968 at the fastest pace in 17 years. The Labor Department's report this past week of the big increase in the cost of living was hardly a surprise to anyone.

It has been most obvious to consumers that price boosts over a wide range of products and services have been putting a deeper dent into their pocket-books.

The Labor Department's consumer price index jumped 4.7 per cent last year—its greatest leap since it vaulted 5.9 per cent in 1951, the first full year of the Korean War.

There was some consolation in the slowness of the 0.2 per cent rise in December. This contrasted with increases of 0.4 per cent in November and 0.6 per cent in October.

Most of the December rise was due to higher costs of food, housing, public transportation and medical care.

$12.37 BUYS $10

The 1968 cost of living increase pushed the Labor Department's index to a record 123.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average. That means it cost you $12.37 to buy $10's worth of goods and services that cost $10 a decade ago.

The Nixon administration this past week reiterated its intention to wage a strong fight against inflation.

"I want to emphasize that we believe it is possible to control inflation without increasing unemployment in, certainly, any substantial way," President Nixon told his first news conference.

He said that without "too much managing of the economy we are going to have some fine tuning of our fiscal and monetary affairs in order to control inflation."

He didn't spell out any specific actions but made it clear that resumption of wage and price guidelines wasn't contemplated.

The Commerce Department reported this past week that in 1968 the U.S. foreign trade surplus fell to the lowest level in

PRESSURES PUSH UP

- Cost of living up 4.7 pct., highest in 17 years
- Foreign trade surplus smallest since 1937
- Government pays 6.42 pct. interest, tops for century
- Dock strike pressures felt in some rising prices
- Construction gains 11 pct., but auto output cut back more than 30 years.

The $726 million surplus in merchandise trade was the smallest since the $265 million surplus in 1937. The favorable margin in 1967 was $4.1 billion.

IMPORTS JUMP

The Commerce Department said the contraction was due to a 23 per cent increase in imports to $33.11 billion while exports increased only 9 per cent to $33.84 billion.

The U.S. Treasury this past week had to pay the highest interest rate on short-term notes in more than 100 years. It marketed $14.47 billion of 15-month notes at a rate giving investors a return of 6.42 per cent.

The crunch of the East and Gulf Coast dock strike, which passed its 40th day this past week, was being felt more severely. The shipping industry estimated the loss so far at more than $600 million in wages, production, higher storage costs and sales.

There were scattered plant closings as a result of the strike and buyers were moving to different sources of supply. Prices of bananas, caviar, crude rubber, tin and copper were rising.

BUILDING GAINS

Contracts for new construction rose 11 per cent to $4.54 billion in December from a year earlier. The F.W. Dodge division of McGraw-Hill reported the 1968 total of $61.73 billion was up 13 per cent from 1967.

Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co. cut back their automobile production but General Motors Corp. said it would hold to its schedule for February.

Chrysler sliced its February production scheduled by 36,720 cars, or 25 per cent and said six assembly plants would be closed one or two weeks. Chrysler said it was reducing production to bring output in line with inventories of cars in dealers' hands. Ford said it would close its Wixom, Mich., assembly plant two days next week.

Automobile production this past week was estimated at 187,800 passenger cars, off 3 per cent from 193,319 the previous week.

BANNER YEAR

General Motors and Chrysler reported that 1968 was a banner year for sales and earnings. General Motors earned $1,732,000,000, or $6.02 a share, on sales of $22.8 billion, compared with $1,627,000,000, or $5.66 a share, on sales of $20 billion in 1967. Chrysler reported record results for 1968 with earnings of $290.8 million, or $8.23 a share, on sales of $7.4 billion against $200.4 million, or $4.35 a share, on sales of $6.2 billion in 1967.

Steel production last week posted its fourth consecutive weekly gain, rising 2.5 per cent to 2,575,000 tons from 2,513,000 tons a week earlier.

Around The Rim Soul Food Or Not, It's Good Eatin'

It's annoying to wake up some days and find out just how ignorant you are.

For all these years, I had been thinking that the foundation of good eating consisted of such things as black-eyed peas and cornbread, turnip greens and pork chops — always — lots of gravy.

Now comes this slick magazine Time with an article that these and related dishes are now "soul food" and much in demand by what the society writers call the "in" crowd, the "beautiful people" and the "jet set."

THERE ARE even small restaurants catering nothing but this "soul food" and they are drawing packed crowds; of people, I suppose, who are discovering ham hocks for the first time.

The magazine says that Liz and Richard Burton took 58 friends to one of these kitchens and ran up a $2,000 tab. While I appreciate the special attributes of the Burtons, $2,000 sounds like a helluva lot of black-eyed peas to me.

WHAT SEEMS to be happening is that the dishes out of the Deep South are associated with the Negro race, and the present smart fad is for the sophisticates to impress the black militant. The magazine says "soul food" is moving out of the ghetto into the smart places.

Well, now I can't dispute that southern Negroes traditionally have eaten the dishes native to their land — and dishes cheaply grown, at that. But I'm reporting that a lot of us po' white folks grew up on the same menus and didn't know but what we were doing pretty good. We weren't thinking about "soul food," as best as I recall, but we were thinking of filling our stomachs.

TIME MAGAZINE, with its slick philosophy, claims that Negro slaves learned to make edible meals out of meats and vegetables that their masters regarded as waste.

The magazine refers to a soul dish called chitlins (the innards of a pig) as something less than desirable. I don't believe I've been treated to chitlins, but the Time people had better not say anything ugly about cracklins (from rendered lard), because the most expert gourmet in the world, if he's in his senses, will become ecstatic over cracklin cornbread.

Peas and ham hocks still make a pretty good meal, if anybody asks. And there's nothing better to put iron in your system than a mess of good turnip greens. And what's so wrong with smothered pork chops with yams? Barbecued ribs; or sweet potato pie? Um-m-m-m, as the TV announcers say.

IF THE sophisticates want to make a fad of these preparations they call "soul food," why, then, I say every man to his own thing. I'm just a little ashamed that I didn't know the social significance of the kind of eatin' I grew up on. Even so, I'd rather be ignorant and have black-eyed peas and cornbread than to be smart and miss having them.

David Lawrence Stricter Law Enforcement

WASHINGTON — There is a new feeling of confidence inside the Department of Justice — a belief that at last the laws of the land will be enforced without worrying whether such a course will hurt the administration politically.

Members of Congress have received many complaints from their constituents asking why certain individuals who plot riots are not arrested and punished when they violate the federal laws which forbid the crossing of state lines to foment disturbances.

ALTHOUGH THE city of Washington is under federal rule, it has a record of crime almost unparalleled. The streets are unsafe, and robberies are commonplace. Crime here increased 23 per cent in November, 1968, over the same month in 1967.

Morale in the Department of Justice itself has been sinking because of the attitude of the higher officials toward law enforcement and particularly the indifference to the explicit statutes on the books. Federal grand juries should have been summoned to consider cases involving deliberate interference of riots but this wasn't done. Prosecutions have been brought in connection with "civil rights," and these undoubtedly were helpful to the Democratic party in certain sections of the North.

THE NEW attorney general, John N. Mitchell, has promised to deal firmly with the crime problem, and many career employees in the Department of Justice have been encouraged by his public statements that he intends to pursue a vigorous course in enforcing the law. It will probably be several weeks before the change will be felt throughout the country. But police officers and heads of law-enforcement agencies generally are impressed by what they have learned about the approach taken by the new attorney general. He is preparing specific recommendations to cope with crime in America today which will soon be disclosed.

PRESIDENT NIXON, in his campaign speeches, made it clear that he was not going to deal with the crime issue or civil rights on a political basis, but would insist upon impartial as well as intensive efforts not only in enforcing the civil-rights statutes but also in applying the federal laws covering crime in the various states. The national government in recent decades has been assuming more and more police authority in cities and towns where racial discrimination occurs.

THE FEDERAL government, moreover, has declared that it has the power, under the "interstate commerce" clause of the constitution, to restrain those who engage in racial discrimination in restaurants and hotels or in the sale or rental of housing facilities. It would not be surprising if the new administration took the position that crime, too, is not altogether a local affair. Many of the instigators of disturbances and many who rob banks or attack citizens on the streets can be prosecuted by the federal government, since they cross state lines in order to interfere with the rights of American citizens to "equal protection of the laws."

THE KEY to law enforcement in America is in the Department of Justice as well as in the cities and towns across the country. Cooperation among the various law-enforcement agencies is the goal which President Nixon and Attorney General Mitchell will strive to attain.

Art Buchwald Lobby Swapping A Tough Job

WASHINGTON — One of the groups most affected by the change from a Democratic administration to a Republican one is the lobbyists of vested interests. Having wined and dined Democrats for the past eight years, the Capital's lobbyists must now convince their clients that they are in as solid with the Nixon people as they were with the Kennedy and Johnson appointees.

I happened to stop in to visit a lobbyist friend of mine to find out how he was doing.

HE WAS talking on the phone as I was ushered in. "Don't worry about a thing, Mr. Blathering. As school would have it my sister went to school with Pat Nixon . . . No, they weren't in the same class but they used to pass each other in the hall all the time . . . What do you mean I told you five years ago my sister went to school with Lady Bird Johnson? . . . I did? . . . Oh, yeah, that was my other sister . . . You see, I have two sisters . . . Mr. Blathering, I assure you there isn't a member of the Nixon administration that I couldn't get on the phone right now . . . Yes, sir, I'll call you back."

MY FRIEND saw me standing there. "Sit down a minute." He then called his secretary. "Did Bob Finch call back yet?"

"No, sir, I've called him 12 times." My friend said, "Keep calling." "What's with the Finch?" I asked. "It's a long story. In 1966 I got a letter from Finch asking me to contribute to his campaign for lieutenant governor of California. I threw the letter in the wastepaper basket." "That was a stupid thing to do," I said.

WELL, HOW the hell was I to know that someday he'd be secretary of health, education and welfare?"

"I have to think of something to convince my clients I've got influence with the Nixon Administration. If I could only get invited to one of those Billy Graham prayer sessions at the White House."

"They're not open to the public," I said.

"It really doesn't seem fair," he said. "You work with people for eight years, you get to know their wives and their kids, you build up close personal relationships, and then, zap, they go and change Administrations, and you have to start all over again with a whole new set of friends."

"I GUESS you can't stay friends with people after they're out of the government," I said.

"You can, but why would you want to?"

"You have a point," I agreed. "Where do you think your biggest problem is going to be?"

"Probably in defense. David Packard is undersecretary of defense and my problem is, what can a lobbyist do for a man who has $300 million?"

THE SECRETARY came back in. "It's Mr. Blathering again. He wants to know if you met anybody yet."

My friend was perspiring. "Hi there, Mr. Blathering . . . No, I haven't heard from Bob Finch, but I think I have a breakthrough. It turns out my kid and secretary of defense Mel Laird's 14-year-old kid are on the same baseball team at Landon . . . How do you like that for coincidence? . . . Please don't be so nervous, Mr. Blathering . . . Of course I'm aware of your problem . . . I'll take it up with the attorney general on Monday."

He called Atty. Gen. Mitchell's office and spoke to his secretary. "Hi there, my name is Grumbottom and my sister used to go to school with the attorney general's wife . . ."

BS Band Presents Annual Production

By SHARON SWIM
The BSHS steer band will present the second annual Campus Revue Thursday, Friday, and Saturday night. The show will start at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are $1.50, $3.00, and $5.00. All seats are reserved.

As a special director, Mr. Todd Lane is here from Wichita Falls, Texas. With 250 productions to his credit, Mr. Lane has worked with the National Touring Groups of "Hello Doll," "Cactus Flower," "Half a Sixpence," and many more.

"I have done enough productions where young people and parents are concerned to know that the Big Spring relationship is extremely unique. This is a rare instance where you find young people working extra hard to express their appreciation for the adults' hard work," said Mr. Lane.

SPECIAL FEATURES
A Walt Disney special and a sequence of Up With People will be featured in the production of CR '69. Returning from last year's show will be the girls' chorus line, the boys' chorus line, Juanita Banana, cemetery symphonette, and many soloists.

"No expense has been spared and this year's CR '69 promises to be better than ever," stated Mr. Bill Bradley, head band director and the director in charge of CR '69.

Junior boys will order their class rings Feb. 4 and 5, in the high school library. There will be a $10.00 deposit. Checks should be made out to Jim Shillingburg.

BEAUTY FINALISTS
Denise Estes, a junior; Glynna Jones, a junior; and Anne Robinson, a senior, were selected as school beauty finalists by the high school students. The winner will be announced in the annual election in May. The winner will be selected by a panel of judges not related to the school. They will also be announced in the annual. The 630,364 from 15,116 schools registering for the 1969 Betty Crocker Search established a new record for the program.

Kay Sawyers, daughter of Mrs. Olive D. Sawyers, in her senior year is serving as president of the student council and vice president of the Beta Club. She has attended Garden City since the first grade and for the past four years has served as a cheerleader in the school. This year she was head cheerleader. She plans to attend college this fall and will study art.

the Betty Crocker Company for being the school winner in the Betty Crocker "Search for the Homemaker of Tomorrow" contest. The winner was determined on the basis of a test given to all interested girls in Stanton High School who had completed or were currently taking the third year of homemaking.

Career Day Held At Angelo State

By VELMA LEE SHERROD
GARDEN CITY — Tuesday the juniors and seniors returned to school lessons after a very full day Monday at Angelo State College's Career Day. They left at 6:30 and returned at 5:30.

Tuesday evening there were three basketball games which started at 5:30. Friday there will be three games beginning at 5:30. The boys will have a "B" game. There are four more district games this season. Track season will start immediately after basketball season ends. Tennis will begin for the girls.

ASSEMBLY HELD
Wednesday an assembly featuring Kelly and Pat Masters, who gave a short program on TV, was presented. This included TV past, present and future. Some of the elementary students helped to stage a panel of questions. The high school students participated in a soap opera entitled "As the World Turns."

The last of the basketball pictures were taken last week. Saturday the sophomore class sponsored a bake sale to gain more money for the class fund. Thursday morning the American and world history classes saw a film of Spain during the war. After the film they discussed the influence of a dictator in Spain on America and Communist Russia's effect on the dictators of Spain.

Every Wednesday morning at 10:45 Mrs. Taylor from the West Texas Education Center comes and talks to the seniors for an hour about possible careers for their futures. Due to this fact classes rotate every Wednesday in order to avoid missing the same class.

Tuesday the faculty held a meeting and then the students held an assembly immediately afterwards. The seniors have set Sunday, Feb. 9, as the date for their chili supper. There will be adult and children plates. It will be held in the St. Lawrence Hall starting at 4:00. All proceeds will go toward bettering the senior trip.

The seniors are working on their reservations for Colorado Springs, Colo., where they will spend most of their time. They also are sending off reservations for a guided tour through the Colorado state prison.

COMPLEX PERSON
Next will be "Villon" with John Butler as choreographer and music by Robert Staver. Francois Villon was a complex personality: a poet who killed a priest in a brawl, a thinker who wrote his major literary work in the form of a comic will, a man who penned love ballads and simultaneously declared the vanity of life.

The ballet is meant to be a kaleidoscope of Villon's works in the shadow of bordellos and the gallows — his courtship of death.

Last will be George Balanchine's classical masterpiece, "Symphony in C," premiered by the Paris Opera Ballet in 1947. It is a symphony of classical dance, reflecting and relating to the musical score in dance counterpart.

ATTEND MEET
With several Howard County Junior College faculty and administrators forming part of the executive superstructure that makes a great convention possible, registration for some 1,000-plus delegates of the Texas Junior College Teachers Association will begin Feb. 13 at 6 p.m. in the Hotel Texas in Fort Worth.

Helping make the 60-college state convention a success will be Ben Johnson, HCJC instructional dean, who is vice president of Texas Junior College Association, the administrative organization, and Miss Morelida Rhine, second vice president of TJCATA.

Gary Grant, English department chairman, has been serving on the constitutional revision board, and Leslie Kelley, history instructor on the nominating committee.

Ten members of the HCJC choir will attend the convention and join scores of other singers from Texas junior colleges to perform for the banquet Friday night. The group will begin practicing that morning under a special director.

Plastic Plane Built In Midland

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Leo Windecker is applying his knowledge of plastic teeth as a bridge to the world of aviation. The Midland dentist is building an airplane body of molded plastic.

Dr. Windecker's craft is a four-place job with a large cabin. He calls it the Eagle One. The test model, a low-winged craft, has a tricycle landing gear but production models can have a retractable gear, said the 46-year-old dentist.

Dr. Windecker said the Federal Aviation Agency is expected to certify the craft in November and a plane a day can be turned out at a 46,000 square foot production facility near the Midland air terminal. Officials say no price has been fixed but the plane will be under the current cost of planes with comparable size, weight and power.

K. M. Smith, president of Windecker Research, a company owned since last year by a group of Midland businessmen, said the new material should put the aircraft within the price range of thousands more persons.

How did a dentist land in the aviation field?

When Windecker and his wife, also a dentist, were practicing in the Dow Chemical Co. clinic at Freeport, Tex., after World War II, he caught the flying bug. He began reading aviation magazines and sparked an interest in research on development of aircraft structures.

Windecker interested Dow in his plastic plane idea and in 1960 the company sent the couple to Hondo, Tex., where they were in charge of an experimental laboratory under the name of Windecker Research, then a Dow subsidiary.

The dentist built molds, as done for teeth bridges, poured the plastic, let it harden and bonded the parts together.

The airplane wings, which proved themselves in flight, weathered for five years with no sign of wear, officials said. The plastic material developed by Dr. Windecker is called Fibaloy, a combination of fiberglass and epoxy.

Advantages of Fibaloy to other airplane materials are, Windecker officials claim, a greater strength to weight ratio, simplified design possibilities, corrosion resistance and elimination of compound curves.

Fibaloy cuts down the number of man hours required to build a plane, officials said.

Mass production of small, private airplanes is one of the doctor's objectives in inventing a plastic plane. When he began his research he said there was only one airplane for every 1,000 cars.

Fibaloy apparently caught the curiosity of the aircraft industry which has extensively utilized sheet aluminum, titanium, stainless steel and metal alloys in construction.

One-third of the Windecker staff is composed of professional engineers and the management has a combined 153 years of aircraft experience.

Windecker finds nothing strange in his switch in interests.

"People stay in a field simply because they were trained in that field," he said. "But the individual should go into the field which interests him most."

REGULAR SESSION OPENS JAN. 14

New Taxes Is Top Problem For Legislators

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

Texas legislators agree on the top problem facing them in the next regular session opening Jan. 14—new taxes.

In an Associated Press mail survey of the 31 state senators and 150 representatives there were 102 nominations for the "prime issue" of the session. Forty-three votes went to new taxes as the main business of the 61st legislature, and 30 votes went to public education needs.

Other nominations for the prime issue were far behind. There were seven votes for increased state spending, five each for new crime control measures and for air and water pollution control, four for water problems, three for a state minimum wage, and two each for teachers' pay raises and for liquor by the drink. One lone vote went for women's equal rights.

Legislators let it be known in answering the AP questionnaire that they expected the next session to be packed with fireworks.

INCOME TAX

An unusual number, some of whom asked that their names not be used, suggested a corporate income tax or a state personal income tax to solve the state's financial woes.

One legislator suggested $500,000 could be saved by just putting one license plate on automobiles. Another said a penny a bottle tax on cold drinks was the cure while still another said a penny a bottle tax on beer was the answer. Many suggested broadening the state sales tax, mostly by removing exemptions.

There was no unanimous answer on the need for new taxes. Some said about $100 million would be needed, others $150 million or $200 million, and a few suggested a new tax need of close to $300 million.

The closeness of nominations for new taxes and for public school education improvements suggests that most legislators feel this combination is the session's big task.

The governor's committee on public school education recommended, after a three-year study, that expenditures for public school be doubled during the next decade at the cost of about $7.5 billion. How much will be undertaken the next two years is the problem of the next legislature with a $1,000 a year boost in teachers' salaries almost assured.

Gov. John Connally recommended a skeleton budget recently that showed $103 million in general revenue left for new spending. Since the teachers pay raise alone would cost around $200 million for the next biennium, the sure need for new taxes is apparent.

And when the legislators are not debating taxes or education there will be plenty of other hot issues at hand.

Another attempt at legalization of liquor by the drink appears likely, probably through a constitutional amendment that would give voters the final say.

The Texas Water Plan that would gather water from the Mississippi River and transport it to West and South Texas needs quick action. Air and water pollution in big city areas is demanding solution. Voters rejected an increase in public welfare grants last Nov. 5 but legislators likely will send the proposal back to voters for a second ballot.

MINIMUM WAGE

One group of Texans will push for a state minimum wage law, and another group wants abandonment of daylight savings time. Others want to tighten the controls on guns and rifles and others want to ease the law against legal abortions.

A plan to revise the entire for legislators and another special study committee will offer suggestions to change election laws.

And with all these problems, the 61st legislature will be working with an entire new slate of top state officials, each state Constitution will be ready one trying to re-establish himself in a new phase of state government.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith shifts from the legislative side to the executive branch as governor.

Speaker Ben Barnes will leave his 150 representatives to become presiding officer over 31 senators.

Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham switches from chairman of the Re-districting Committee to the speakership.

As everyone in Austin says these days, "The first days of the 61st legislature should be v-e-e-r-y interesting."

Some Ex-Governors Still Have The Itch

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Life as an ex-governor of Texas has brought contentment and success to most of them. But for some it also has meant a lingering political itch.

Gov. John Connally will find out for himself after Jan. 21, Gov.-elect Preston Smith's inauguration day.

Connally will be a senior partner in a Houston law firm, run his South Texas ranch, be a director of Texas Instruments, Inc., be master of a $100,000 home in Houston's River Oaks section and enjoy his new role as a grandfather. There also may be some teaching on the side—possibly at the University of Texas' Lyndon B. Johnson Institute of Public Service. And those who know Connally can't imagine his becoming disinterested in politics.

MIXTURE

The four living ex-governors all have had a mixture of professional or business activity with varying public or political roles.

W. Lee O'Daniel, now 78, resigned as governor in 1941 to run successfully for the U.S. Senate. After he retired as senator in 1949, he became a Dallas insurance executive and rancher.

But O'Daniel never could quite get politics out of his blood. He ran for governor in 1956 and 1958 but was beaten badly. Since then he has lived quietly in Dallas, but his son, Pat, campaigned unsuccessfully for governor in 1968.

Coke Stevenson, lieutenant governor in 1941, succeeded O'Daniel as governor and held office until 1947. The following year he lost a bitter and still controversial Senate contest by 87 votes to a young congressman, Lyndon B. Johnson.

Stevenson went back to his law practice in Junction and his 15,000-acre ranch home, never again to be politically active.

Now 80, he still runs his law office half a day and spends the rest of the day at his ranch. With his second wife and their daughter, Jane, 13, Stevenson hunts a lot. Jane out-trophied her dad this fall, killing an eight-point buck. The ex-governor said he shot a "very small buck."

SAME RIFLE

"We all use the same old rifle," he says. "It's good enough for all of us."

Allan Shivers has had one of the most successful business careers of any ex-governor. His latest biographical sketch lists 12 banks and corporations of which he is a director. He was president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in 1967-68 and is now the chamber's board chairman.

Still handsome at 61, Shivers and his wife live in Austin in a pink ante-bellum mansion once owned by Gov. E. M. Pease.

Shivers campaigned in 1960 for Richard Nixon and headed the national Democrats for Nixon on organization in 1968. But, he says, "I've never had any thoughts about running for or seeking public office" since he became an ex-governor.

Both Stevenson and Shivers says leaving the executive mansion did not produce any great wrench in their lives.

"I didn't have much adjustment to make. I still had the ranch and I just came back to it, that's all. I never have felt like there was any burden I was escaping from," Stevenson says.

Oilmen Keep Some Problems

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP) — The oil industry will carry problems into 1969 despite a rather healthy 1968.

Such matters as taxes and imports will require attention in Washington but oilmen, in general, are encouraged over prospects for what they believe will be a more conservative climate under President-elect Nixon and the new Congress.

RESPONDING

Indication is that the new year will find oilmen placing even greater emphasis on responding to the increasing demands of society. The industry is spending more than $1 million a day on air and water pollution research that is to be expanded even more.

For the most part, 1968 was a record breaker but after effects of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war kept some record operating levels from climbing higher.

Early estimates of 1968 earnings by major companies with foreign interests centered on gains of 7 to 8 per cent, compared with 9 and 10 per cent for 1967.

Foreign and domestic demand for oil products set all-time highs. Earnings were trimmed by longer and more costly tanker routes and by year-end erosion of some domestic products prices.

By midyear the tanker route readjustments forced by the prolonged closing of the Suez Canal had stabilized somewhat and, for the most part, eliminated requirements for emergency Western Europe shipments from the United States and Venezuela. These changes, however, were accompanied by a rather sharp buildup in domestic inventories of both crude oil and products. Total inventories broke the billion-barrel mark the first time in August. Numerous warnings of danger ahead were heard as the bulky stock levels continued into early December.

Domestic operators and refiners produced and processed more oil than ever before in history as January-October demand exceeded 12.8 million barrels a day, a 6.7 per cent gain.

Crude oil production averaged 9,158,000 barrels, compared to 8,786,000 a year earlier. Refiners processed an average of 10,323,000 barrels a day, compared to 9,754,000 in 1967.

Imported oil averaged a record 2,760,000 barrels a day. The 9.4 per cent gain resulted in part from the delayed use of some 1967 import permits that could not be used during the Middle East emergency.

The import trends prompted a number of major companies to join many independent operators in calling for a reevaluation of the Interior Department's mandatory oil import control program.

BLAME

Imports have drawn much of the blame for a domestic drilling slump that saw total well completions drop from 58,259 to 33,818 between 1966 and 1967.

There was some indication, however, of a minor increase for 1968. January-October completions totaled 23,024, compared to 22,976 the same year earlier period.

Farmers Harvest Some Record Yields

WASHINGTON (AP) — American farmers harvested some of the largest crop yields in history during 1968 to help boost their net income to the fourth highest level on record.

Bumper crops of wheat, corn and soybeans were offset by sagging cash market prices during seasonal peaks which forced farmers to place large amounts of their grain under federal price support loans.

Direct payments to farmers for participating in government production control programs were expected to total a record $3.5 billion, compared with $3.1 billion in 1967.

Over-all, farmers netted around $15 billion after paying their production expenses, compared with $14.2 billion last year. Their 1968 net income, Agriculture Department officials said, was exceeded only in 1947, 1948 and by the record $16.2 billion in 1966.

OUTPUT

Excellent growing weather contributed most to the increased output. Not only grain crops, but cotton, fruit and dairy production benefited by improved conditions.

More feed and better pastures meant larger meat production to fill the rising demand by consumers who also were enjoying a higher living standard.

But farmers' production costs continued to rise and by late fall were a record 358 per cent of the Agriculture Department's base period of 1910-14 used to show financial comparisons.

The traditional "parity ratio" used to indicate farmers' purchasing power in relation to costs hovered around 73-74 per cent for much of the year.

Net income per farm, however about $4,900, up sharply from $4,526 in 1967 and was the second highest in history, exceeded only by the $5,000 per farm in 1966.

Gross farm income this year was about $2 billion more than the $49.1 billion of 1967, the department said.

Total farm debt was reported increasing around 7 per cent from the $49.9 billion reported Jan. 1, officials said.

The value of farm real estate climbed again and totaled nearly $194 billion, up about 6 per cent from a year earlier. The average price of farm land—including buildings—was $173 an acre, compared with $167 the year before.

Net income per farm, as well as average investment and costs, rose also because of the continuing trend to larger farms and fewer farmers.

The Agriculture Department estimated the farm population at around 10.5 million persons, compared with 10,875,000 in 1967 and 15.6 million in 1960.

SLOWER DECLINE

Farm employment showed a slightly slower rate of decline this year. The average—including farm operators and hired labor—was estimated at 4,750,000, compared with 4,903,000 in 1967, and 5,214,000 in 1966.

Livestock production was high in 1968, aided by strong market prices and high consumer demand.

Ample supplies of livestock feed, continued for red meat and fairly strong prices are expected to keep inventories of cattle and hogs high through early 1969 at least.

Crop production next year depends in part on to what extent farmers decide to participate in federal programs for such crops as feed grains, wheat and cotton.

The new administration is expected to adhere fairly close to existing programs for 1969 crops already planted or being planted, it's expected to go slow on major recommendations until later in the year.

100 Flying Hours For The Largest

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The world's largest airplane—the C5 Galaxy—has completed 100 flying hours, according to Lockheed-Georgia officials.

The C5's first flight was June 30. There are four Galaxies on the flight line. Three have flown and a third is scheduled to fly soon.

Politics Plunge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Edmund G. Brown Jr., son of the former California governor, is taking the plunge into politics. The 30-year-old Brown, an attorney, said Tuesday he will run for the city junior college board in next April's elections.

It Was Wet Year In Texas

By The Associated Press

The year 1968 was a wet one in Texas, Robert Orton, the state climatologist, says.

Most sections of the state received more than the average annual rainfall by the end of November, he reported, and some rains came after that. Exceptions were the northern High Plains and the extreme Southwest.

EXCEEDED

El Paso, normally a very dry city, exceeded its average annual rainfall by about 50 per cent while along the Middle Gulf Coast rainfall by the end of November exceeded the average annual amount by 30 to 45 per cent.

South Texas and the Lower Rio Grande Valley were drenched by Hurricane Beulah's deluges in 1967, so there was no chance for 1968 totals to approach the previous year's rainfall in those areas.

For other sections of the state, however, 1968 is likely to be the wettest year since 1961, Orton said.

The most prolonged dry spell during the year occurred in September and October, a period when moisture shortages are not so critical as they can be earlier in the season.

The year began wet. January was one of the wettest and coldest months on record. Temperatures were unseasonably cold the first three weeks of January.

February was exceptionally cold also. San Antonio experienced the coldest February in 63 years.

March and April were typical, though a late season cold spell set new low temperature records for many locations April 24. A minimum of 33 degrees at El Paso was the lowest ever recorded there for that date.

Heavy rains fell across the eastern half of Texas in early May, while West Texas received less than normal amounts.

May 7-13 saw flooding of most Central and South Texas streams. Six to 12 inches and more fell within 24-hour periods in Central and East Texas and the coastal areas.

More than 23 inches fell within 48 hours near Refugio May 7-9.

Tropical storm Candy visited the Texas Coastal Bend in June, moving inland over Port Aransas on the 23rd and causing property damage estimated at $625,000. Crop losses exceeded $2 million.

Candy brought more than 10 inches of rain north of Corpus Christi.

July weather was pleasantly cool. Fort Worth enjoyed the coolest July weather in 62 years.

August weather was typical for most sections of the state, although the High Plains and the Trans-Pecos experienced weather that was cooler and wetter than normal.

September was generally cool and dry. October was dry, but warmer.

November was a cool, wet month throughout most of Texas, although rainfall was below normal along the Middle and Lower Coast.

'THE DIRTY DOZEN'
Lee Marvin leads squad

Feminine Star Decides Yanks Are 'Mama's Boys'

A blonde Bulgarian bombshell named Dora Reisser exploded her sex appeal on a group of American film stars in England recently and decided that Yanks are too timid.

In fact, the only woman in the cast of Kenneth Hyman's "The Dirty Dozen" (except for eight girls playing prostitutes) claims the tough guys playing murderers, rapists and thieves in the suspenseful war film were practically mama's boys in real life.

"Take Lee Marvin, for instance," said Dora, in tones indicating a girl could take worse. "Although there hadn't been a woman on the set for three months, he just shook hands with me when we were introduced, said, 'Glad to have you aboard,' and went back to reading the stack of scripts his agent has been sending him every day since he won the Academy Award."

Dora didn't meet the No. 2 "Dirty Man," Ernest Borgnine, who had completed his part in the film and had returned to Hollywood. "But it's just as well," she said. "He's a settled married man and, judging by the conduct of his fellow Americans, wouldn't have let me even play cards with him."

Cards were a special sore point with Dora. "Charles Bronson, John Cassavetes and Telly Savalas were more interested in a poker game they'd been playing for three months than me," she complained. "Telly cuts my throat in the picture (to betray his comrades who are trying to wipe out a rest home for German officers) and after our big scene, he runs back to the table and says, 'OK, cut the cards!'"

Suspenseful Western Film To Open Here Wednesday

"The Stalking Moon," suspense and adventure thriller, starring Gregory Peck and Eva Marie Saint and co-starring Robert Foster opens at the Cinema Theatre Wednesday. The release in Technicolor and Panavision is an outdoor suspense picture filmed in the desert and mountainous areas of southwestern United States virtually unchanged since the 1880 period in which the story is laid.

Peck plays the role of Sam Varner, a professional scout for a detachment of Army Troopers assigned to restrain Apache Indian outbreaks from the reservations of Arizona and New Mexico. While in pursuit of his duties, he discovers Eva Marie Saint, as Sarah, exhausted, fearful, a white woman who has been held captive by a tribe of Apaches for 10 years, clutching a young halfbreed boy, her son by the territory's most vicious renegade Apache killer. Their ensuing relationship, the boy's resentment, and the ominous, unseen peril of the boy's father, provide the story line.

"The Stalking Moon" has been adapted from Theodore V. Olsen's best-selling novel of the same title by screenwriter Alvin Sargent. His thoughtful work brings to light the problem endured by women captured by Indians during the settlement of the West and the halfbreed children resulting from such episodes.

"The Stalking Moon's" locations at Nevada's Valley of Fire, Tule Springs and Pine Creek have never before been photographed by movie crews.

The sets for "The Stalking Moon" included some spectacular natural backgrounds. Along with using the existing terrain in Nevada, a box canyon in the Valley of Fire was used to recreate a U.S. Army outpost exactly as documents proved it actually was in 1881. Dozens of tents, wagons, corrals and cooking sites were decorated with authentic armament, surgical supplies, cooking utensils, coats and saddlery exactly of the period.

Grandma Denies Holdup Picture

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A silver-haired, 88-year-old grandmother, convicted of a $840 bank robbery, maintains that wasn't her picture snapped at the time of the holdup.

"I'd say, no, this isn't me," Ida Katherine Knutson told a judge Wednesday. "I've never been this heavyset and never wear a scarf, even when I go to church."

U.S. Dist. Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli placed Mrs. Knutson, a grandmother of six and a church worker, on three years' probation. She was ordered to make restitution to the Bank of America's Market-Gear branch of $20 a month.

Mrs. Knutson, a widow, served 20 months in the Washington State Prison at Walla Walla for a 1958 check forgery conviction.

Spots Stranger
PARIS, Tex. (AP)—A stranger in these parts—an American brant—turned up at the Gambill Wild Goose Refuge near Paris.

The brant normally migrates down either the Atlantic or Pacific Coasts, but apparently got off his course and wound up on the Central Flyway. He showed up at the Lamar refuge with a bunch of Canada geese. Supervisor Joe Vandiver recognized the brant and identified him. Vandiver said the brant nests as far north as the Arctic.

Detroit Lions Had Parts In Feature

The eight tons that producer Stuart Miller had to move from one location to another for "Paper Lion" was not scenery and props. It was some 62 football players, members of the Detroit Lions and candidates for the team, who starred in the film version of George Plimpton's hilarious best-seller about his brief career as a quarterback (a frightened one). Alan Alda stars as Plimpton in the comedy, opening in Technicolor Thursday at the Jet Theatre.

Although The Lions made their training camp north of Detroit, a winter filming schedule ruled Michigan out and filming on the feature began at Boca Raton, Fla. Here most of the on and off of the field action of the story was filmed. Additional scenes, including the famous touch football scrimmage, were completed on the "Sheep Meadow" in New York's Central Park. Consistent with Mayor Lindsay's policy of encouraging movie-makers to come to New York, police and special assistants were on hand to facilitate the filming. But even so, curious crowds surrounded the cast and crew who also counted among the onlookers dozens of dogs, cats, horses, mounted police and squirrels. Not one sheep on the Sheep Meadow, however.

In St. Louis scenes were filmed in Burch Stadium to match earlier footage made during the football season of a game between the Lions and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Because the film is about real people and real events, producer Stuart Miller decided to use real players and in addition to the locker room and gridiron sequences with football stars featured roles were assigned to coach Joe Schmidt. Alex

Karras, John Gordy, Mike Lucci, Pat Studstill and Roger Brown — as well as Vince Lombardi and Frank Gifford. In fact, only two members of the cast weighed in under 200 pounds. One was Alan Alda, at 175, and the other was his cinematic girl-friend, Lauren Hutton, who tipped the scales at a mere 118.

"But she looks better on the scales than the players," noted director Alex March... and audiences will have to agree.

Hairy Experience For Community

MONSON, Mass. (AP) — This south central Massachusetts community was in the market today for a beardless high school English teacher and a five-member school committee.

The school committee fired high school teacher David Lucia Thursday night because he wouldn't shave off his beard, then resigned in a body because of the harassment they said they were subjected to by people supporting Lucia.

Lucia, of Belchertown, was in his third year at the school. He began growing the beard during the Christmas holidays and was suspended for 10 days on a charge of insubordination after he refused to shave it off.
