

NO GUARANTEE Big Hitch In Texas Water Plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas water planners told state spending bill writers Saturday that they think the $10 billion Texas water plan will work but they cannot guarantee results.

One hitch, said Howard Boswell, executive director of the Texas Water Development Board, could be Louisiana's attitude toward transporting Mississippi River water to Texas' dry areas. The board, which has the primary state responsibility for administration of the water plan designed to fill Texas' needs to the year 2020, urged the House Appropriations Committee to restore money cuts of about $1.6 million proposed by the Legislative Budget Board.

'We Need The Money'

"This long range water plan does not require formal approval of the legislature but it takes the legislature to implement Texas' share of the joint federal, state, local project," Boswell said. "We submitted this 1970-71 budget with the assumption that the state wanted to go ahead with the plan . . . We need the money we asked for if we are to complete our share of the work within the timetable.

"And we know that by 1985 we are going to need water in the San Antonio area, the Corpus Christi area, in the Rio Grande Valley and particularly on the High Plains . . . By that time some of the irrigated land in the High Plains will be forced to return to dryland farming if they don't get water."

Boswell said Texas must complete its share of the planning work, particularly topographic surveys and investigations, by 1972 in order for the project to be presented to Congress for authorization of the federal share of financing.

Boswell said eventually Texas will need 12 million or 13 million acre-feet of water a year from the Mississippi River to supplement its own available water. An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons.

First Of Its Size

Rep. Dean Cobb of Dumas asked if there was any "built-in guarantee" that his area of the state, the Panhandle, and other dry areas would get the water proposed if the water plan is carried out as proposed.

"We think there is ample Mississippi River water, which if brought to Texas, will be ample for your needs, but I don't think I could guarantee you that," Boswell said.

Boswell stressed that the Texas water plan is the first of its size ever tried in the world.

Boswell said a Louisiana state official, who will have a say in authorizing use of Mississippi Water, was in West Texas recently surveying the Texas situation.

Skyjacking Arrest

CHAMPLAIN, N.Y. (AP) — Alben W. Truitt, 35, indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of air piracy and kidnapping in a 1968 hijacking of a private plane, was arrested Saturday when he crossed the U.S.-Canadian border here.

Truitt was deported and released to the FBI by Canadian immigration authorities and Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The grandson of the late Vice President Alben Barkley is accused of forcing the pilot of a chartered Cessna 177 to take him to Cuba from Key West, Fla., after displaying a pencil-type tear gas container to the pilot.

Big Spring Week

. . . with Joe Pickle

A week ago today, the groundhog, according to legend, emerged and saw his shadow and headed back to hibernation, thus signifying six more weeks of winter. It's a good thing he came out last Sunday and not Friday, for had it been the latter he would have found the sandstorm so thick he would never have known when he was out of the hole.

While on the subject of weather, we have about another week or 10 days in which severe cold might come, and then after that the odds are all in favor of a warming trend with blooms on some of the trees by the end of the month. Based on the long range forecast of another dry month, this shapes up as a blustery spring. So dig in — or out — as the case may be.

Tragedy by long distance touched our community twice. One was word that Lt. Thomas a Burge, a graduate of Webb AFB pilot training and who was to have been married April 14 to Nancy Sessions of Big Spring, was laid to final rest in California after having given his life in Vietnam. J. D. Hall Jr., a former resident of Big Spring, was killed in a plane crash at Jasper, Fortune, however, was with Marine Lt. R. P.

Harris Names Two Special Demo Panels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two special commissions liberally sprinkled with reform advocates but with minimal representation from old-line machine leaders were appointed Saturday by Democratic National Chairman Fred R. Harris.

The primary group, headed as expected by Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, will attempt to carry out the 1968 convention's mandate to make delegate selection procedures more democratic for 1972.

Harris appealed meanwhile to the Republicans to join the reform effort, which will require changes in many state laws.

PARTY RULES

A second commission, whose chairman will be Rep. James G. O'Hara of Michigan, will study party rules, including those for the convention and all of its committees.

Harris said in announcing the 27-member commissions that he had consulted with top party leaders, such as former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, Eugene J. McCarthy and Edmund S. Muskie.

But, in response to questions, he said he had not talked directly with such powerful party chieftains as Mayors Richard J. Daley of Chicago, James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia and Joseph M. Barr of Pittsburgh.

Nor were any mayors included on either commission. Harris said a prime requirement was "that those appointed believe in the mandate of the convention."

Named to the McGovern group was Sen. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and two other members of a special commission whose broad-ranging recommendations last summer formed the basis for the new effort.

TEXAN SELECTED

McGovern said later he plans to name Hughes as chairman of a subcommittee and told the news conference the Hughes recommendations will serve as the starting point for the commission's work. He said he hopes at least an interim report will be ready by mid-summer.

Besides Hughes, the commission includes Rep. Donald M. Fraser of Minnesota and attorney Frederick G. Dutton, who served on the Hughes group; Mississippi Negro Leader Aaron Henry; former Texas Democratic Chairman Will Davis; Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana; Adlai E. Stevenson III, state treasurer of Illinois who was blocked by Daley last year from a place on the state Democratic ticket.

Other members include President I. W. Abel of the United Steelworkers of America; Harvard Prof. Samuel H. Beer; New York National Committeeman John F. English; former Deputy National Chairman Louis Martin, a Negro; Gov. Calvin Rampton of Utah; and National Committeewoman Carmen Warschaw of California.

McGovern said the commission would hold field hearings in five or six parts of the country.

At the same time, Harris asked state Democratic chairmen to name reform groups within their states and appealed to Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss to set up a similar group so the two parties could work together to improve and modernize the nominating and electoral process.

The rules group includes Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri; Reps. Patsy T. Mink of Hawaii and Charles Vanik of Ohio; former Gov. Edward T. Breathitt of Kentucky; Bronx, N.Y., Borough President Herman Badillo; former Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro of Illinois, who headed the 1968 convention's rules committee; National Committeeman Channing Phillips of the District of Columbia; and two leaders of McCarthy's campaign, former National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell and Donald O. Peterson of Wisconsin.

Leaking Undersea Oil Well Finally Capped

The Cleanup Work Goes On And On

It looked like this in Santa Barbara, Calif., Saturday as workmen in small boats gathered oil-soaked hay from the water. Officials announced they had finally capped an under water oil well which had been leaking oil into the ocean for 12 days, fouling harbors and beaches.

Nixon Directs Space Adviser To Report On Possible Cuts

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon Saturday asked advisers for reports on possible cuts in America's space program and studies of redirecting the space effort after the man-on-the-moon project is completed.

Nixon had indicated space cuts were in line during the campaign and last May in Washington, said he would support cuts because of what he termed the "great financial crisis" confronting the United States.

The President also ordered a look at the effectiveness of water pollution control activities, taking the action from his bay-side villa where he was spending the weekend amid balmy Florida breezes.

WORK PAPERS

The weather was so good—clear skies and temperatures in the upper 70s—that Nixon took some papers and went for a two-hour ride on Biscayne Bay aboard a houseboat certified safe by the Coast Guard just last Thursday.

The work papers evidently outlined some of the problems and points that will face him on his five-nation, eight-day trip to Western Europe that starts a fortnight from Sunday.

Nixon had with him his top foreign policy experts, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and National Security Adviser Henry A. Kissinger. Nixon spent time with them in the morning.

All together, the President issued four directives Saturday to federal departments and agencies calling for recommendations or action on a wide assortment of subjects.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Another, issued Saturday at the White House in Washington, directed the Budget Bureau to see that agencies get out facts and figures on time and on strictest schedule and not for any possible political effects. This would apply to such things as regular monthly consumer price indexes, data on unemployment and foreign trade.

The order on the space program went to Dr. Lee DuBridge, presidential science advisor. The White House said Dr. DuBridge was asked for a report on possible cost reductions in specified portions of our space program, and for an assessment of recommendations that the Department of Defense and National Aeronautics and Space Administration be directed to coordinate studies in this area.

In addition Nixon asked for a recommendation on setting up a committee representing various agencies "to advise on the scope and direction of our post-Apollo space program." Apollo is the effort to land men on the moon and bring them back safely, scheduled tentatively for July 15.

On water pollution control programs, there was no elaboration beyond the word that the Interior Department was told to determine their efficiency and effectiveness.

Giant Fireball Sighted In Southwest, Mexico

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico (AP) — A huge fireball, believed to have been a meteor or a polar orbiting satellite, was sighted early Saturday over a large section of the southwestern United States and northern Mexico.

Witnesses said the blazing light, streaming a tail of fire like a streaking comet, lighted the early morning hours "like day."

Newspaper switchboards in this Northern Mexico city and in El Paso, Tex., 200 miles to the north were jammed by calls from excited citizens.

The newspaper "Heraldo" here received calls from as far away as Durango and Torreón, Delicias, Camargo and Jimenez. Residents at Santa Barbara, El Oro and Alende ran screaming into the streets.

The El Paso Times said the fireball was first seen as a small light and became larger and larger as it moved from north to south. Its terrifying roar increased as it grew larger.

The Times received calls from as far away as Sierra Blanca, Tex., and St. John, Ariz., about 200 miles or more apart.

Although witnesses in northern Mexico said the fireball apparently struck the earth near the village of Parral, about 140 miles southeast of Chihuahua, Dr. Ronald Schorn said it might have burned up before hitting anything solid.

Schorn, an astronomer with the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif., who is visiting McDonald Observatory at Fort Davis, Tex., said tremors felt by residents as the fireball passed nearby could have been sonic booms created by its supersonic movement.

"It was much brighter than Halley's Comet," Schorn, who personally saw the fireball said. He added that "it burned right through dense clouds."

An airline pilot who sighted the fireball near Alpine, Tex., said it seemed to disappear in a cloud. The pilot was not identified.

Vast Slick Fouls Miles Of Shoreline

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A well squirting raw oil into the blue Pacific for 12 days was sealed Saturday with a big plug of cement, and workers began a massive mop up of blackened harbors and beaches.

A hundred men pumped 8,000 barrels of drilling mud into the runaway well to control the flow. Then they poured in 900 sacks of cement to cap it.

They kept mud flowing down on top of the cement and back up the outside of drill pipes to keep the shaft free for electrical instruments lowered into the well to check the plug.

PUTTY, PUTTY

Fritz Springman, spokesman for Union Oil Co., operator of the well, said more cement would be poured into the hole.

"When we get through we're going to have approximately a 3,400-foot column of cement," he said. "Then she'll be done."

There will be no way to reopen the well, which dumped 21,000 gallons a day into the water six miles offshore until it was stopped.

It produced a slick that covered 800 square miles for a time and plastered harbors and beaches with black goo that killed hundreds of sea birds.

Meanwhile, all oil drilling and pumping has been stopped in the Santa Barbara Channel by federal order, pending a review of procedures to prevent any future leaks.

Federal biologist Kenneth Biglane said acute damage to marine life could be limited to "about 1 per cent." Most of the birds harmed have been loons and western grebes.

SMALLER PATCHES

After a boat tour, Paul De Falco Jr. of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration said the oil slick was breaking into smaller and smaller patches. They were in an elliptical area more than 20 miles long and 11 miles out to sea.

De Falco said 50 men would be assigned to each mile of contaminated beach, beginning with those publicly used.

The crews will grow until they reach 1,000-1,500 men in the next week, he said, and probably will require another three weeks to complete the cleanup.

De Falco said he hadn't determined where the men will come from, but mentioned Union Oil and conservation camps as possibilities.

Log booms kept the worst of the oil out of small boat harbors in nearby Ventura County, but oil was thick on nearly 30 miles of shoreline.

At Santa Barbara, two-man teams paddled between 20 and 30 small, flat-bottomed boats called punts around the harbor scattering straw over oil spots.

When it was thoroughly soaked, they raked it up and put it into barrels on the boats. Then they returned to a landing where a crane lifted out the barrels.

TRAGEDY

About 600 oil-covered birds were turned in at two emergency stations in Santa Barbara and nearby Carpinteria by the California Fish and Game Department, but only about 100 died. Other birds were found dead on beaches.

Waterfowl experts flying over the oil slick in the sea observed 3,600 birds in one day, said fish and game official Frank Hubbard, but only 35 were dead or appeared to be in distress.

Of the condition of seals, which abound on the channel islands, Hubbard said, "They appear to be perfectly normal."

De Falco estimated damage will be about a quarter of that caused two years ago by the wreck of the super tanker Torrey Canyon off Southwest England, releasing millions of gallons of crude oil.

Oil Pollution And U. S. Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — We can't say we weren't warned about the potential headaches of oil leaking or being dumped into our offshore waters.

Just one year ago President Lyndon B. Johnson was told "this country is not fully prepared to deal effectively with spills of oil or other hazardous materials—large or small—and much less with a Torrey Canyon type disaster."

This was the crux of a report from the Departments of Interior and Transportation after a study prompted by the Torrey Canyon, a giant tanker which had wrecked on rocks off England a year earlier drenching the beaches of Cornwall and of France across the channel.

HEADACHES

The departments said oil spilled out of control can be devastating, "spilled into water, it spreads like havoc for miles around."

Today, scarcely any better prepared than it was then, the United States has a "Torrey Canyon" of its own—not a ship, but an undersea oil well 5-1/2 miles off Santa Barbara, Calif., which began leaking last Jan. 28, spreading an oil slick over more than 800 square miles of ocean and blackening miles of coastline. The headaches are both practical and legal.

The only laws the United States can rely on to protect itself from such coastal accidents are the Oil Pollution Act of 1924 and the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act of 1953, both feeble instruments of enforcement.

The 1924 act prohibited oil spills from ships but did not apply to shore-based facilities, including off-shore wells.

HARD TO PROVE

Congress amended the act in 1966, applying enforcement only to oil spills proven "grossly negligent or willful"; that made it almost unenforceable since such words legally involve intent or state of mind—hard to prove.

The Shelf Lands Act, providing for oil and gas leasing on the outer continental shelf—the ocean floor more than three miles from shore—says nothing about pollution. But it provides for cancellation of a lease for failure to comply with Interior Department regulations.

These regulations require the leaseholder to "take all reasonable precautions for keeping all wells under control at all times."

Paragraph 250.42 proclaims: "The lessee shall not pollute the waters of the high seas or damage the aquatic life of the sea or allow extraneous matter to enter and damage any mineral- or water-bearing formation."

But what happens if he does? He could suffer the highly expensive loss of his lease. Union Oil and three other companies had paid the government a bonus of $61,418,000 to win the now-stricken lease-holding off Santa Barbara.

LOOKING SOMBER AND PARRYING QUESTIONS

Ky Leaves Peace Talks For Saigon

PARIS (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky left Paris for South Vietnam Saturday in what appeared to be a subdued and even somber mood.

Onlookers wondered whether Ky's demeanor before boarding a commercial jet for the home-ward trip reflected discouragement with the course of the Vietnam peace talks here, political difficulties in Saigon or perhaps a combination of both.

DON'T KNOW

Ky is ordinarily loquacious, affable and far from averse to answering questions. But in the VIP lounge, he replied to queries mostly with monosyllables and faint shrugs.

Ky appeared to want to parry questions about whether he would return to Paris, where he is coordinator of Saigon's conference delegation, in time to be on hand for President Nixon's arrival here on his European tour.

"I don't know if I will be in Paris at the moment of President Nixon's trip," he replied to newsmen's questions.

"WE DO OUR BEST" Was he encouraged or discouraged with the peace talks? He shrugged and replied: "We do our best."

The announced purpose of Ky's homeward trip is to report to President Nguyen Van Thieu and to spend Tet, the lunar new year holiday that begins Feb. 17, with South Vietnamese troops.

There has been speculation in Paris and Saigon that his trip may be connected with impending changes in the South Vietnamese government.

Thieu and Ky are elected officials whose offices would not be affected by a cabinet shakeup. But changes could be connected with internal difficulties at high level in Saigon, possibly reflecting renewed differences between Thieu and Ky. They have clashed in the past.

BID BON VOYAGE

There is one line of speculation, promoted by European Communist sources, that a Saigon shakeup is coming that will be connected with the demand of North Vietnam and its Viet Cong National Liberation Front ally for a "peace cabinet."

This would involve the replacement of Premier Tran Van Huong, whom the Front singles out as one of the "Thieu-Ky-Huong clique." The departure of Huong might not satisfy Hanoi and the Front, but the rumors say it would a step in that direction.

On hand to bid bon voyage to Ky and his wife were U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Philip Habib, ranking expert of the American delegation, and Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, Saigon's chief negotiator.

Shaw's Conspiracy Trial Jurors Hunt Key Apartment

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial moved en masse to the French Quarter Saturday as a prosecution witness led a jury of lawyers and jurors on a hunt for the apartment where Shaw and others allegedly talked about killing President Kennedy in 1963.

"We found a couple of cute girls," quipped defense attorney F. Irvin Dymond after the guided tour of two apartment buildings near Shaw's own house.

UNUSUAL PARADE

Leading the unusual parade — shortly before the first Mardi Gras carnival parade through the French Quarter — was a balding New York accountant, Charles I. Spiesel, 51.

Spiesel testified Friday he went to a June, 1963, party where Shaw was the host in an apartment near or in the French Quarter. A conversation took place about how to assassinate the President, Spiesel said.

Shaw, a 55-year-old bachelor, is on trial on a charge he conspired with Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie to kill Kennedy. Oswald, named by the Warren Commission as the lone assassin, and Ferrie, a one-time Dymond had demanded the apartment hunt. "I think it's vitally important to the defense of our case for the jury to know if this man knows what he's talking about," he said.

'Pot Parties' Bloom In New York City Area

NEW YORK (AP) — Pot parties bloomed in the New York City area this weekend, police said, as they seized 183 persons in narcotics raids. One raid in Queens netted 108 youngsters, 68 of them between 10 and 15 years old.

In another raid in the Bronx, across the street from New York University, police arrested eight persons at what they said was "the major factory" for drugs for the uptown campus.

GIRLS' CLUB

The police said they found a pot party attended by the youngsters at a private home in the Hollis section of Queens after a 19-year-old Air Force enlisted man reported that he was stabbed after being ejected from the party.

Airman L.C. Rufus Johnson of Queens, who said he was scheduled to go to Vietnam on Feb. 18, said he and his brother, James, 17, paid 50 cents each Friday night to enter the party given by a girls' club.

One of the girls is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Powell, who live on the first floor of the two-family home. Police said the parents were not aware of the nature of the party.

Johnson said he and his brother protested when they had to leave because the basement was becoming overcrowded. They were forced out, he said, and chased a half block by four or five youths, then he was stabbed twice in the back. He was reported in fair condition.

SEIZE DRUGS

When detectives reached the Powell home early Saturday, they said the basement boiler room was packed. "When we got there these people couldn't move," one said.

The 68 young people between 10 and 15 were released in the custody of their parents, but will be investigated by police youth division officials.

The remaining 40 were charged with illegal possession of drugs and weapons.

North of New York City, in Orange County, 27 persons were arrested on drug charges, 23 of them in Middletown, in a series of predawn raids Saturday. In Sullivan County, 11 were picked up on drug charges.

On Long Island, narcotics men burst into another party Friday night in Selden, Suffolk County. They seized 30 young persons along with several pounds of marijuana and some hallucinatory drugs, they said.

Of the 30, 13 were women and 17 men, ranging in age from 17 to 25 and including a number of local college students. Six of the students had rented the house.

Rocket Problems Snag Switchboard Satellite

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Rocket problems Saturday forced a one-day postponement — until Sunday — of a Defense Department attempt to launch the largest communications spacecraft yet developed.

The $30-million experimental craft — forerunner of a satellite network that could link military units on the front lines, in aircraft and ships at sea — is now scheduled to blast off at 4:09 p.m. EST Sunday, the Air Force said. It was originally scheduled to be launched at 4:13 p.m. Saturday.

SHORT CIRCUIT

Air Force spokesmen said there were indications of a short circuit in an ordnance system aboard the satellite's Titan 3C rocket. Officials said they could not pinpoint exactly where the short occurred, but believed it was either in explosive ordnance packages used to separate booster stages in flight or in destruct packages placed aboard the rocket for safety purposes.

The destruct packages would be ignited to blow the rocket apart if it strayed toward populated areas.

The postponement was called just 2 1/4 hours before the launch was to have taken place.

Called TACCOMSAT for Tactical Communications Satellite, the 1,600-pound payload 6 1/2 hours after launch was to settle in a stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the equator off the west coast of South America, almost directly over the Galapagos Islands.

Packing a cluster of antennas atop a soup-can shaped body, the two-story-tall spacecraft was designed to test the feasibility of using satellites so mobile military units can communicate over great distances.

POWERFUL ENOUGH

TACCOMSAT's size permits it to be powerful enough so ground forces can use portable, lightweight receiving antennas as small as one-foot in diameter. The Defense Department has a network of 25 smaller relay satellites girdling the globe, but they require larger, less portable ground receivers.

The larger TACCOMSAT would allow front line troops to receive warning messages from rear headquarters, for example. Aircraft could talk with one another and with ground units, and small patrol boats could more easily contact a shore base during periods when lightning storms might disrupt terrestrial radio communications.

Initially, TACCOMSAT was to be tested by Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine units in the United States. Knowledgeable sources said, however, that the payload may be shifted westward to a position over the Pacific nearer Asia for use in Vietnam if the satellite passed a testing program scheduled to take several months.

MONEY TEST

If TACCOMSAT proves feasible, Defense Department funds might be sought to purchase three or four such satellites for a worldwide network. Each of the units, placed in stationary orbit, would be able to reach one-third of the earth's surface.

The satellite, built by Hughes Aircraft Co., was designed with a communications capacity able to carry several thousand two-way telephone channels. It was built to handle two frequency bands — a standard military ultra high frequency used for air-ground communications and the super-high frequency portion of the X-band reserved for coded military communications.

Reports Of Hunger In Louisiana Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent reports of hunger in Louisiana and other southern states were described by Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., Saturday as gross exaggerations.

Ellender is a member of a Senate committee conducting hearings on the reports and on a nutrition survey.

"For instance," Ellender said in a talk for broadcast in Louisiana, "in Louisiana the only cases of actual starvation found in the nutrition survey that was conducted turned out to be a set of twins suffering from a stomach disorder."

"In other words the small babies could not digest the food given to them and required medical attention."

What it boiled down to, Ellender said, was a problem of definition — the meaning of the terms starvation, malnutrition, and undernourishment.

"Even our scientists cannot agree on what is meant by malnutrition and on the limits that should be used to say that one person is suffering from this while another is not," Ellender said.

"One of the problems involved is that correct nutrition requires that we receive an entire range of vitamins and minerals. If one or two of these is missing from our diet, we may be suffering from malnutrition although there is plenty of food on the family table."

He said he isn't implying that a problem doesn't exist. There are many persons in the country, particularly in urban areas, who lack proper food, he said.

But, he said, the best solution is a program of education and improved food distribution. He said he is opposed to a proposal which would create what he called a vast new bureaucracy to distribute vast amounts of foodstuff free of charge.

Ellender said he presumes that someone will shortly propose a "Full Stomach Act of 1969."

Y Session Set For March 5

First session of the annual YMCA scuba diving course will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 5, at the Big Spring YMCA. Swimming requirement tests will be given to all applicants at this time.

To be eligible for the course, one must be present to take this test, and all required forms should be completed by this date and fees paid. The first 16 persons, age 17 and over, who qualify will be accepted. However, if there are places available applicants who are now 16 will be accepted.

Primary purpose of this course is to teach safety in diving. One must be a good swimmer to take the course. A certificate of good physical condition must be submitted from a physician, stating that the bearer is free from physical defects.

No equipment is required with the exception of a swimming suit. Fees are $17.50 for YMCA members, and $30 for non-members.

Dental Clinic Adds To Unit's Service

Another service has been added to the City-County Health Unit with the help of six area doctors who give their time for a children's dental clinic.

The dental clinic, which has been in the planning stages for more than two years, finally began operations three weeks ago when it was approved by the State Department of Health.

Miss Bo Bowen, city-county health nurse, said that six dentists man the program by alternating every second and fourth Wednesday of the month at the Health Unit from 1 to 5 p.m.

PARTICIPATING

Doctors participating in the program are Glenn Allen, Robert Johnson, C. N. Rainwater, J. B. Sackett, Charles Warren and Douglas Smith.

The clinic is financed through a dental fund which receives $100 per month from the state, Miss Bowen said. Also, Mrs. Horace Garrett, wife of the late Horace Garrett, who financed the building of the health unit, donated $2,000 for the fund.

The fund is boosted by the doctors themselves, who endorse the checks they receive for their services and put the money back into the fund, Miss Bowen said. The doctors also furnish their own assistants, at no charge to the health unit.

Fifty children are being served by the clinic now, and all but two are of school age, she said.

"These children are nearly all from indigent families and are referred to us by the school nurses," she said. "The health unit screens them carefully because the program is limited in funds and personnel."

The clinic was originally slated to open in September, but getting the proper equipment and state approval forced a delay until January.

A part of the equipment came from Dr. W. B. Hardy, who donated a dental chair and other tools when he retired last summer. An X-ray unit was purchased at a discount, and Pat Counts, of S. S. White Dental Supply Co. in Fort Worth, installed all the equipment free for the health unit.

Miss Bowen said that the company also give the health unit sizable discounts on purchases of all supplies. Other donations, purchases and trades brought the clinic up to the proper amount of tools for the doctors to work with.

The nurse explained that the dentists are able to do X-ray work, fillings, extractions and cleanings. As they become more accustomed to the schedule and operations in the clinic, more patients may be added to the list.

"There are not enough funds to make plates or partial plates," she said, "but we hope to be able to do more work

Open Wide

Linda Carreno, Coahoma, opens wide for Dr. Robert Johnson as she undergoes a dental examination in the new dental clinic at the city-county health unit.

Each child is given a complete physical examination when he becomes a dental patient, she said. Next he is examined by the dentist, and X-rays may be taken to determine what work is needed. If an extraction or filling is required, it is done.

Careful records are maintained for each patient, and an appointment book keeps the children on a steady schedule of visits until all the needed work is complete. The sessions by the doctors are interchangeable so that each patient may be served by the same doctor, Miss Bowen said.

"The program has to be limited to 50 children right now, with about 10 patients per session," she said. "And there is only one room to work from. But as the doctors become more familiar with the operation and more funds are available, the program will expand."

Carloads Of Salt Pulled From River

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is pulling half a rail carload of salt out of the Colorado River each day.

It is part of an operation to clean the river of a portion of its mineralized low flow. A temporary pump, installed recently at the channel dam site opposite a big side storage reservoir above Colorado City, is lifting water at the rate of 1,200,000 gallons per day from the channel into the reservoir.

Samples of the water have been running somewhat above 7,000 parts per million chloride. At this rate, the salt content is estimated at 65,800 pounds per day.

Within the next 45 days, permanent pumps will be installed at the site, and these will boost water into the reservoir up to 90,000,000 gallons per day. When rains come, this will enable the district to sidetrack the initial flush flow of the river. The pumps will shut off automatically when the chloride content drops to 500 ppm or lower. The remainder of the flow will go downstream into the new lake at Robert Lee.

Much of the pollution in the stream is thought to be coming from the former salt water disposal pits in oil fields above Colorado City. Lake J. B. Thomas, still further up, is not troubled with this problem, showing chlorides of around 30 ppm. At one point below the Lake Thomas dam, chlorides reach 17,000 ppm. Some abandoned wells, with artesian pressure, also are contributing to the problem of chlorides, said Paschall Odom, assistant general manager of the CRMWD. Officials hope that these wells can be plugged, and that over the years the chlorides in the soil will largely leech out.

"The sessions by the doctors are interchangeable so that each patient may be served by the same doctor, Miss Bowen said.

"The program has to be limited to 50 children right now, with about 10 patients per session," she said. "And there is only one room to work from. But as the doctors become more familiar with the operation and more funds are available, the program will expand."

"The sessions by the doctors are interchangeable so that each patient may be served by the same doctor, Miss Bowen said.

FIELD AND RANGE Fewer Dusters This Year Are Predicted

By TEX ROGERS

That drought-sized .04 inch of moisture recorded here in January may have made Howard County farmers unhappy, but a lot of city folks will be just as dismayed when the dust starts blowing. That's bound to happen since no heavy moisture has been in the ground since November.

Bill Fryrear, the wind and erosion specialist at the USDA Big Spring Experiment Station, says that there will be some real "dusters" this year, but not as many as some folks may think.

Researchers at the station have been collecting data on dust for the past 16 years, and have come up with some pretty accurate predictions as to when the sky will fill with sand and how many times.

During 1968, Fryrear forecast 24 days of blowing dust, but Howard County actually had 22 bad days.

Fryrear predicts there will be 20 days of severe dust in 1969, which is a little less than what some other observers thought. He explains that although December, with only .15 inch of moisture, and January, with .04 inch, were unusually dry, heavy rainfall in November will hold the dust down.

"We use the amount of rainfall and evaporation in October, November and December to predict the number of storms for the next year," he said. "Since November had 4.18 inches of moisture, there should be less dust this year. The heavy rain allowed farmers to break the land into large chunks of dirt when they plowed after harvest, and that should keep the dust down."

Fryrear explained that the Howard County average for dust storms since 1953 has been 28 per year, with March being the heaviest month with six storms. April averages five dusters and January and February average four each.

Dusters are measured by visibility. A heavy storm is when visibility is one-quarter mile; a medium storm is with visibility of from one-half to one mile; and a light storm is when dust can be felt in the air.

Just how much dust is carried through the air during a heavy storm?

"Well, suppose you were driving down the highway in a storm with winds at 60 miles per hour and visibility at one-quarter a mile," he said. "If you could catch all the dust that blew across the highway for one mile and in one hour, the dirt would fill up a complete football field 27 feet deep."

That figures out to be about 1,744,600 cubic feet. "The big loss in a storm is that the fertile land is blown away, and replaced by just sterile soil of no value," Fryrear noted. "We figure that about $9 million per year is lost in the South Plains area when good soil with minerals and nutrients is blown away. It takes that much fertilizer and other nutrients to replace it."

What do you do with 7,000 used tires that fit everything from bombers to motor-scooters? Webb AFB officials asked the same question recently, and they found the answer at the Soil Conservation Service office.

Gerald Miller, district SGS conservationist, said the Air Force officials pondered several methods to use the discarded tires, but couldn't find a way to use all of them.

"Then they called the SCS and asked about using them to fill gullies around the county," Miller said.

Gullies are something Howard County has plenty of, so the tires will be used to fill one on the W. L. Wilson Jr. ranch, north of Luther. The tires will help control water erosion, Miller said, and will eventually help fill up the ravine with soil.

Roland King of Big Spring has been accepted for membership in the American-International Charolais Association, based in Houston. The breeder group is the nation's fourth largest and fastest growing in the beef industry.

Gamco Plans New Addition

An expansion of physical facilities for the DataMate division of Gamco is scheduled to start the latter part of February.

George A. McAlister, president of DataMate and founder of the Gamco complex which is part of Siboney, Inc., said Saturday that plans are firm for the addition of a separate building to house the computer operations.

This structure will be located north of the present complex on the Snyder Highway and will contain 16,000 square feet. Exterior construction will be similar to existing structures, but the interior will have special interior treatment, including cleaning rooms and other areas for computer assembly. DataMate makes two computers, the educational computers (ECP 16 and ECP 18) and the industrial-scientific computer DataMate 16.

Record Veteran Load Reported

A record 29,294 post-Korean veterans and servicemen entered Texas schools and training establishments in the fall term just ended, according to Jack Coker, manager of the Veterans Administration regional office in Waco. The record may be broken during the spring semester now starting.

To be eligible for VA educational assistance under the post-Korean GI Bill, a veteran must have had at least 181 days of continuous service, part of it after Jan. 31, 1955, while a serviceman must have completed at least two consecutive years of active duty.

They'll Forget

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — The National Parks Board plans to take no action against an elephant which trampled a car with two tourists inside in Kruger National Park.

The pachyderm was not being held responsible, a board spokesman said, and besides it would be "extremely difficult" to find it among the park's more than 6,000 elephants. The tourists were not injured.

Committeemen Named For 17th Pancake Supper

Pete Hull, general chairman for the 17th Annual Kiwanis Club Pancake supper, to be served Feb. 14, has announced committee assignments.

J. C. Pickle is ticket sales chairman and has provided all Kiwanians with tickets. These are $1 for adults and 75 cents for students. The supper, which will follow the pattern of its 16 predecessors, is to be served in the Howard County Junior College Student Union Building from 5 to 8 p.m.

Hull said that a recipe devised by Jasper Atkins, which has been used with high success for the lifetime of the supper, will be used again this year. Hull is procurement officer and is accumulating the flour, eggs, milk, bacon, syrup, butter and other elements which are needed to prepare and serve pancakes to hundreds of hungry diners.

He has named Atkins, Robert Stripling and Jim Thompson to the posts of batter mixers. Six teams of two men each will be in charge of cooking the pancakes. The teams are Harvey Clay and Sherman Smith; Boscoe Newell and Jack Alexander; Ernest Welch and R. C. Hollingsworth; J. C. Pickle and Wendal Parks; Bob Crowell and Dawson DeViney; and S. A. Walker and Don Lovelady. The club owns a battery of pancake grills which will be installed in the HCJC SUB kitchen. Jim Beam and Ed Corson are the batter carriers.

The bacon cookers are Henry Thames, Don Green, Wayne Renshaw, Edd Staub, Dan Moore, Crocker, Bert Harris and Paul Chappell. The bacon servers are Charles Warren, Herman Smith, Bill Johnson and Delaine Crawford.

Leon Taylor and members of his Key Club will serve milk. John Coffey and G. G. Morehead are coffee servers.

Horace Reagan, H. W. Smith and Key Club members will serve the butter.

Table attendants are Roscoe Cowper, Merle Stewart, Earl Stovall, Bob Bradbury, Jack Lee and members of the Circle K Club, John Talmadge, Garland Heston, Noel Reed and Walt Davis.

Door ticket sales will be handled by E. C. Boatler, W. B. Hardy and Jack Worsham. Publicity committeemen are Bob Bradbury and Sam Blackburn. Nat Shick and Blackburn will be greeters and the supply line will be manned by J. F.

originated in Mitchell County.

No Monday Meet

There will be no directors meeting of the Chamber of Commerce board Monday. Next session will be the regular meeting March 10.

Burn Victim Improving

Some improvement has been noted in the condition of Mrs. Bonnie Babcock, 1406 Birdwell Lane, who was gravely burned in a fire at her home a week ago. She is in the Parkland Hospital in Dallas where she and a granddaughter, Melissa, 10 months old, were flown last Monday. The baby is also making satisfactory recovery from burns.

Sherman Babcock, 11, is in Cowper Hospital and Clinic here and is progressing satisfactorily. His brother, Norman, 9, has been discharged from the hospital and is in Odessa living with an uncle.

Mrs. Babcock and the three children were trapped when gasoline being used to clean a floor ignited and exploded. Meantime, a spontaneous effort to raise funds to help Mrs. Babcock with expenses has been launched. Mrs. Montez Owens at Miller's Restaurant is acting as receiving agent for funds. She said that several establishments have been accepting donations for the fund.

Other people, Mrs. Owens said, have offered furnishings, clothing for the boys and other articles. She said that a place to store such gifts until Mrs. Babcock is back home has been provided. Anyone desiring to donate to the fund or to offer some article of furniture or other item is asked to call 267-9021.

Motion Granted

The Court of Civil Appeals, 11th Supreme Judicial District of Texas, received and granted a motion brought in the case of Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Insurance Association vs. Isabel Ratliff. The motion was for appellant to be given extension of time to file statement of facts. The case originated in Mitchell County.

Value Showdown:

Match these features against what competition gives you for the same kind of money, and you'll have a better idea why more people are buying Chevrolets again this year.

Built-in "guard rails"
There's a strong steel beam built into every door of every 1969 Caprice, Impala, Bel Air, Biscayne, Kingswood Estate Wagon, Kingswood, Townsman and Brookwood.

We call it a side guard beam, and it looks like one of those guard rails you see along the freeway.

That's what it's there for: To guard you. To strengthen the door and put a more solid wall between you and the outside world.

Not a glamorous feature. But you'll have to admit, worthwhile.

Computer-selected springs
Maybe you'll order your new Chevy equipped to the hilt.

Or maybe you'll order it with hardly anything on it.

Either way, you're going to get your full measure of our renowned ride.

Because we go to the trouble of programming each car's equipment load into an electronic computer.

The computer then tells us exactly which springs to use, depending on the car's weight and the way it's distributed.

Chevrolet, the only car in its field with computer-selected springs.

Fenders inside fenders
We could have skipped this. (The other cars in our field do.)

But we're as anxious as you are to keep your beautiful new Chevy looking beautiful and new.

So: Up inside the regular fenders we've placed a second set.

They do all the in-fighting. Catch all the splashed-up rain, slush and road salt. Stop the kicked-up stones. While your "outers" just sit there looking pretty.

Astro Ventilation

The other two cars in our field give you air intakes down by the floor. So do we.

We also give you two up on the instrument panel.

And all four of them are adjustable so you can regulate the flow of air just the way you like it.

Even with all the windows closed, you'll be comfortable inside. You get air without wind. Without noise.

Astro Ventilation is standard, now, on all the big Chevrolets.

Rubber-cushioned ride
At all points where the body joins the frame, we use our own exclusive kind of rubber mounts.

They're double-cushioned, so as to soak up more than the usual amount of vibration. Unless you're in the habit of taking your car apart, you'll probably never see these little wonders.

But you'll know they're there. Just listen to the quiet.

The theft-thwarter
On the steering column there's a lock.

Only Chevrolet has it, in Chevrolet's field.

You turn the key and it locks three things: Your ignition.

Your steering wheel. Your shift lever.

When you own a car this tempting, you don't dare take chances.

Biggest standard V8 in our field
Ask any car enthusiast, he'll tell you: Chevrolet builds great engines. Especially V8s.

And this year there are six great V8s available for the big Chevrolet. Standard: Our 235-hp 327-cubic-inch Turbo-Fire.

Another thing: We've lowered the price of several of our bigger V8s along with our automatic transmissions and power disc brakes. Which makes it possible for you to buy a '69 Chevrolet for even less money than you could last year.

Show up for our Showdown. You can't lose.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

By TEX ROGERS

"Live in the open and eat lots of butter."

That's the theory of longevity advanced by Luther Dale, a 91-year-old patient at the Veterans Administration Hospital here and one of the few remaining veterans of the Spanish-American War.

The retired Seminole, Tex., farmer was 19 years old in his native state of Tennessee, when President William McKinley issued a call for troops to fight the Spanish in Cuba. Dale volunteered and joined the 4th Tennessee Regiment, which was organized and commanded by one of Dale's cousins, Cordell Hull, who later became Secretary of State for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

LUTHER DALE

A part of an 18,000-man unit commanded by Maj. Gen. William R. Shafter, boarded a freighter and sailed for Cuba. Their base on the island was at Trinidad, 21 miles down the coast from Santiago and the site of the Battle of San Juan Hill, where Teddy Roosevelt and the Roughriders won fame.

According to Dale, the "4th" was just as unlucky as all the other outfits, in that his company lost almost all of its men before the war ended, not in battle with the enemy, but to yellow fever. History later revealed that less than 400 men actually lost their lives in combat. Out of the 5,000 lost, 90 per cent died from disease.

The veteran recalls that for as long as six weeks at a time he would pull double duty because of a shortage of men. Soldiers in the 4th Tennessee were issued the latest weapons, the Krag-Jorgenson rifles, Dale remembers. These were .30 calibre pieces and used jacketed bullets with a velocity of 2,000 feet per second. Many of the guns are still in use and some are still available on the gun market.

As for food, "it was fairly good, but sometimes full of bugs and worms," Dale said.

Dale held the Cuban people in high regard. "They were pretty wonderful. But they were very downcast because of what they had been through under Spanish rule," he said.

When the war ended with the Spanish surrender on July 16, 1897, the 4th Tennessee Regiment took over a province in Cuba and maintained it until the unit was returned home and discharged. The outfit received its discharge in 1900 in Savannah, Ga., when Dale was 21 years old.

The veteran left Georgia and headed west to Dallas, Tex., where he spent almost a year. Four years later he was married in Rockwall, and Dale and his wife, Laura, moved west.

The couple were passengers on one of the two railway cars bringing settlers to a place called Big Spring. From there the new arrivals went by horse-drawn vehicle north to the area of Seminole and Seagraves.

"Some people left Big Spring in wagons and some in shays, but most had mule teams," he recalls. Dale has a little difficulty recalling names, but he thinks a man called Schloss was responsible for the settlement where he and Mrs. Dale went.

The Dales staked a 640-acre homestead near Seminole, and raised three daughters and one son. He talks little about the problems of pioneering, since he took hard work as one of the facts of life.

"I never had a hobby and wasn't much for sports," he said. "I've always worked for a pastime, because hard work is good for you. My wife is 88 years old and she still enjoys doing housework, and she knits and crochets some."

LARRY EVANS

Larry Evans Plays Concert Here Monday

One of the finest pianists ever to come out of Big Spring will come home again for a concert Monday evening.

He is Larry Evans, son of Earl C. Evans, Gall Route, who will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Monday evening in the Howard County Junior College auditorium.

There is no admission charge for the program, inasmuch as Evans is being brought here under the sponsorship of the Big Spring Piano Teachers Forum.

Not only is this a homecoming in returning to where he began his career as a student of Mrs. Nell Frazier, but also in coming back to Howard County Junior College where he studied before going to North Texas State University where he earned his bachelor of music degree.

He completed requirements for his master's degree in music Jan. 22 at the University of Houston, where he studied under Albert Hirsch and Helen Haupt. Since 1960, he has taught in Houston where he served as president of the Houston Piano Teachers Forum for the 1965-66 and 1966-67 seasons. He also served as juror for innumerable piano contests in Houston and the greater Houston area.

At NTSU, he studied under Silvio Scintili and toured with Scintili's eight-piano ensemble. During the past year he teamed with Lavinia Petersen to play works for four hands at one piano. They performed several times in Houston, including one during National Music Week, and last summer they were on the Abendmusik series at Trinity University in San Antonio.

His program here — identical with one he will play this afternoon at Odessa Junior College and at West Texas State University Feb. 23 — consists of:

Haydn's "Sonata in C Major," with the allegro, adagio and allegro molto movements; Schubert's "Sonata in A Major (Op. Posth)," including the allegro, andantino, allegro vivace and allegretto movements; Ravel's "Le Tombeau de Couperin," including the prelude, forlane and rigaudon; and finally Chopin's "Ballade No. 4 in F Minor."

LETTER TO EDITOR

Texas Tech: New Name And Medical School Need

To The Editor:

Proposed name-changes for Texas Technological College have received widespread publicity. This should have much local interest in Big Spring, since many Big Spring students attend this university.

The following paragraph summarizes might help the local people better understand the main points in favor of each proposal.

Texas Tech University: (1) is a brief, concise name; (2) has the approval of the board of directors and many alumni; (3) expresses the school pride of the alumni; (4) preserves the Texas Tech traditions; (5) furthers the Tech school spirit; (6) maintains the famous Texas Tech name; (7) keeps the name "Tech," a name just as proper as Baylor or Rice; and (8) saves the traditional TT (double T).

the present multi-purpose university; and (8) does not bother the double T, already a permanent official symbol.

The name-change issue could distract us from another urgent issue: a medical school for West Texas. The eastern half of Texas has four medical schools, but West Texas has none. Unless we get a medical school in West Texas soon, our area faces a critical shortage of doctors. The new proposed state budget gives Texas U. a fourth medical school, which probably would be located in East Texas.

Texas Technological College needs a medical school to become a great university of the first order. We must all act immediately. Write your letters to Gov. Smith, Lt. Gov. Barnes, Speaker Mutscher, and your state legislators. Urge them to deny Texas U. a fourth medical school until West Texas also gets one. They also would like to know your name-change preference. Encourage your friends and relatives to also write to Austin at once. The next few weeks in Austin may shape the medical and educational futures of West Texas.

He Learned Cambodian, But Doesn't Know Why

Airman I.C. Douglas Brandon knows the Cambodian language, but he doesn't know how the U.S. Air Force will apply his knowledge of that difficult foreign tongue.

Brandon, the 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brandon, 610 George, is home on leave after completing a training program in the Cambodian language at the Defense Language Institute in Arlington, Va. His time home will end Feb. 19 and he will report to Goodfellow AFB in San Angelo for a security course there.

Brandon doesn't know where he will be sent after his stay at Goodfellow AFB. Chances are, however, that he will not be sent to that Asian country since diplomatic relations have been broken with Cambodia and this country for some time and there are no U.S. military installations there.

The language training he received was an intensive six-month course conducted through the Crowell Collier Institute in Arlington. He and his classmates spent six hours daily studying the language, history and customs of Cambodia.

Brandon, a graduate of Big Spring High School who attended Rice University three years before enlisting in the Air Force, said that Cambodian is a difficult language to learn, and is even more difficult to read.

"It is an Oriental language, but there is no other Asian language which resembles it, and that makes it harder," he said.

He explained that the English language has only five vowels with which to form words, but there are almost 50 vowels in Cambodian. English requires only 25 consonants, and there are 33 in Cambodian. Also, there is no conjugation of verbs.

"I had studied Russian, Spanish, French and Greek, and it's much harder than any of those languages," he said.

Writing the language is even harder, because the Cambodian alphabet is derived from Sanskrit, an old Indian alphabet, he said.

"The Cambodian alphabet has 33 consonant signs, 21 vowel signs, plus 12 more independent vowel signs, and for every consonant there is a sub-script for writing," he said. "Besides, all the letters and words are run together, and spaces are used only to divide phrases, like we use commas."

He said that his class spent 24 weeks in the course and at the end they could speak much better than they could read. The course emphasized speaking instead of reading, he said.

ANNUAL PARK PERMIT WAY TO SAVE MONEY
E. C. Wisenbaker, State Park superintendent, displays new $12 bargain for summer vacationers

Little Complaint Over Fee System

By SAM BLACKBURN
The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission's recently adopted policy of charging admission fees to most of its state park system — including the Big Spring State Park — is being accepted locally with little complaint by the public, according to E. C. Wisenbaker, the local park superintendent.

"We've been having good attendance," said Wisenbaker, "especially on weekends. There was a little time after the first announcement of the fee that we lost in the number of visitors, but it seems to be straightening out now. When the weather is good, we have lots of folk."

The park's new picnic shelters, built late last fall, are in good demand, he said. The old pavilion, a landmark in the park, is still as popular as ever and the playground equipment gets a workout every week.

The restroom facilities, recently renovated, are in excellent shape. Improved roads from the main highway to the pavilion and on west to the picnic shelters has made the park a pleasant place to visit.

NEW ROAD

Wisenbaker is working out a new road from the west loop of the park highway to afford a shortcut to the picnic area. The rough digging has been done but the solid rock base is still rough to travel. He has hopes of getting some sort of topping on the strip in the future.

A new gateway, replacing the one which had to be removed with the re-building of FM 700, has been put in place. Near this gate, Wisenbaker said that a ticket booth or some other device to facilitate the collection of the 50 cents per car admission fee will be provided by the commission sometime in the future.

Meantime the superintendent collects from the visitors as he finds them. Rarely, he said, does the visitor protest. Apparently the reason for the fee has become sufficiently publicized that most folk know its need.

It all goes back to 1967 when Governor Connally proposed that the state issue $5,750,000 in bonds to acquire and develop additional parks and to improve those already in existence. In the same year, the voters of the state approved Governor Connally's plan at a referendum. A constitutional amendment authorizing the Texas

State Parks Acquisition and Development Bond Program was given the green light.

PAY BONDS

Under the plan, the bonds would be paid off by fees collected from the visitors at the playgrounds. Thus the admission fee system was put in effect.

By 1971, the experts said that land now being used for state parks will reach its maximum visitor capacity, if no additional land is added to the system.

At present the system encompasses 61,732 acres of land, but less than one third of this area is "user oriented." Water absorbs 15,823 acres of the park area, scenic and unique areas 25,450 acres, and historic sites 1,258 acres. Only 20,222 acres are developed for outdoor recreational activities.

The funds from the sale of the bonds will be used to acquire 150,000 additional acres of land. Twenty-three new recreational areas will be established on 61,000 acres of this land. These parks are largely to be water oriented and will be established not more than two hours driving time from the highly urbanized areas of the state. Fourteen of the state's significant natural and scenic areas would be preserved and developed. This will require 84,000 acres of the total land. Forty-one of Texas' more important historical sites would be taken over and restored.

PILOT PROJECT

The plan for paying off the debt has been demonstrated as successful in Texas in the Palo Duro Canyon Park project. In the early 1940's, the state incurred a $300,000 debt to buy the 15,000 acre Palo Duro Canyon State Park. The debt under the plan was to be paid off in 35 years from admission fees of $1 per car charged to visitors at the park.

The result has been that the debt was retired in only 19 years and the park continues to bring in important revenue each year.

There are six other state parks which already were charging admission fees when the new plan was put in effect. Thirty of the state's parks charge a dollar per car for admission. Six smaller state parks — of which the Big Spring State Park is one — charge 50 cents per car. Eighteen state parks are not charging admission due to the lack of personnel to collect the money and supervise the operation.

Pedestrians and other persons who enter the parks by any method other than in an automobile (non-commercialized) are charged 25 cents per person.

ANNUAL FEE

There is one way to insure quick and economical admission to all state parks (with the exception of three which are operated under concession or lease agreements.) This plan will save the traveler money and time.

The method is to purchase an annual permit. These permits, which cost $12, are good from Aug. 31 through Aug. 31 of the following year. They admit the holder and all occupants of his private automobile to any state park where fees are charged.

Wisenbaker has these permits on sale at the Big Spring State Park. He has dispensed a dozen or more since the fee system began.

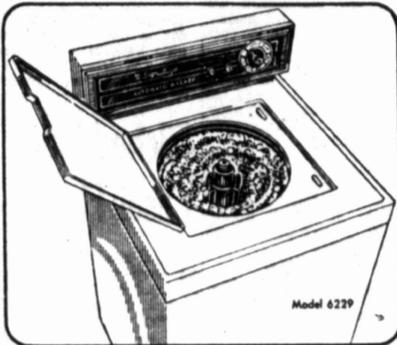

The permit has a windshield sticker attached. The purchaser has the privilege of extending the life of the permit to a new automobile if he happens to dispose of his original car bearing the sticker.

More improvements are in store for the Big Spring State Park, Wisenbaker says. Meantime, he is working every day to make the park a more pleasant and interesting place to visit.

Four U.S. Carriers Pounding Ho Chi Minh Trail In Laos

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. 7th Fleet is launching 100 to 125 planes daily to attack the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos despite the shortage of one carrier. American military sources said Saturday.

Four instead of the usual five carriers operate in the waters off South Vietnam, they reported, because the nuclear-powered Enterprise was ravaged by explosions and fire in a bombing training exercise 75 miles from Pearl Harbor Jan. 14.

FEWER BREAKS

Despite the fact the Enterprise was laid up for at least three months of repairs, the Constellation was allowed to return to the United States last month. The Enterprise was to replace the Constellation.

Operating now are the Hancock, Kitty Hawk, Coral Sea and another unidentified because she is changing stations and therefore cannot be named. There are no plans now to call in another carrier.

"Even with less carriers, we are maintaining the intensity of our strikes over Laos by flying harder and taking fewer breaks from the war," said Vice Adm. William F. Pringle, 7th Fleet Commander.

NO SECRET

His mention of Laos by name was unusual. The U.S. Command in Saigon never comments on operations against the Ho Chi Minh trail, North Vietnam's lifeline through Laos. This is because Laos, under terms of the 1962 Geneva agreement, is officially neutral. It has been no secret in Saigon, however, that since bombing of North Vietnam was suspended Nov. 1, the U.S. Air Force and Navy jets have been concentrating their blows on the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The aim is to slow the flow of North Vietnamese war material and troops moving along the trail to South Vietnam. It is believed the Air Force flies from 200 to 300 sorties daily against Laos from bases in Thailand.

TERROR

Terror and attempted sabotage were main developments in the absence of any large scale fighting. Thirty-five Vietnamese civilians were killed and 53 were wounded in 11 incidents reported by government spokesmen. Two of the major incidents were in central Vietnam. A bus hit a mine, killing 14 and wounding 17. An explosive went off in a village market place, leaving eight dead and 30 wounded.

National police produced for newsmen in Saigon three men and a woman, saying they were a suicide squad that intended to blow up planes at the capital's Tan Son Nhut airport.

Three American civilians were fired on from ambush 19 miles east of Saigon Saturday morning. Two were killed and the third was in a U.S. Army hospital with burns suffered when their jeep exploded and burst into flames. The names of the men, who worked for a U.S. firm, were withheld.

1,332 Cases Pending In District Court

There were 1,332 cases pending in 118th District Court at the end of January, 51 more than at the beginning of the month. January began with 1,281 cases on the docket, and 101 were filed during the month, including nine personal injury suits, one workman's compensation suits, 35 divorce, one annulment, on dependent and neglected child, 18 other civil and 36 criminal.

There were 50 cases disposed of in January, including two personal injury suits, 28 divorces, one annulment, two dependent and neglected child cases, 11 other civil cases and six criminal cases. Cases pending in 118th District Court at the end of January included 30 personal injury, 38 workman's compensation, 262 divorces, three annulment, four dependent and neglected children, 324 tax suits, 571 other civil suits and 100 criminal cases.

Saudi Arabian Visitor

Foreign Cadets In Webb's Record Graduating Class

Fifty-nine officers received their silver wings and certificates of aeronautical rating in graduation ceremonies for pilot training class 69-E in Withycombe Hall at Webb Air Force Base Saturday morning. It was the first graduation of the calendar year and the largest number of graduates in any one class on record at Webb.

The graduating pilots, who marked the end of 53 weeks of jet training at the base, included 55 Air Force officers, two of which are members of the Air National Guard. There were two Marine officers and two foreign students who trained here under the Military Assistance Program — Saudi Arabian cadet Mansour Bander and Jordanian cadet Mathhar Jamil Alawneh.

At the Dining-In Friday evening in the Officers Open Mess, class members and their guests heard an address by Wilson (Connie) Edwards, a prominent Big Spring citizen who is the local president of the Air Force Association. Edwards showed clips and narrated portions of the film "The Battle of Britain," a European movie in which he did stunt flying. He flew German ME 109's, Heinkel bombers, British Spitfires and Hurricanes in the film version of the epic air battle of 1940.

attended both the Dining-In and graduation exercise were Lt. Col. Abo Atig, Saudi Arabian Air Attache, and Capt. Wasfi Ammari, Jordanian military liaison officer. They came to the base from their countries' embassies in Washington, D.C., to witness the graduation of their native students.

HONORED GRADS
During the Dining-In, awards were made to trophy winners and distinguished graduates of 69-E. Second Lt. Theodore Bick took the lion's share of honors as he was named the recipient of the Air Training Command Commander's Trophy, the Flying Award, and was selected one of the six distinguished graduates.

First Lt. Richard Edmonds received the Academic Award and also was named a distinguished graduate. Capt. David Hemminger was presented with the Leadership Award. Four other officers were also selected as distinguished graduates. They were: 2nd Lt. Gary Walker, David Parsons, Kenneth Matthews and Albert Roberts III.

TO OTHER DUTY

The class will now leave the base for their first official flying assignments. The Pacific Air Forces drew the majority of 69-E's graduates with 30 officers going to that command. Next in line was the Air Training Command with 11 staying in the command for pilot instructor training. The Military Airlift Command took seven of the graduates, while five will serve with the Tactical Air Command. Two each will be assigned to the United States Marine Corps, the Air National Guard, and countries of the Military Assistance Program.

Jordanian Graduate

Maj. Paul Adams, chief of officer training at Webb AFB, poses with 2nd Lt. Mathhar Jamil Alawneh, Jordanian officer in Class 69-E, graduated Saturday morning.

Clothing, Tools May Be Deducts

Cost and maintenance of special clothing or equipment on the job may be deducted on federal income tax returns, Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of Internal Revenue for Northern Texas, said today.

To qualify, the clothing and equipment must be required as a condition for employment, such as nurses, bus drivers, firemen and policemen. If a worker is required to supply his own tools and equipment their cost may also be deducted. This provision also covers the cost of membership dues in professional societies and subscriptions to professional and trade journals.

THE WEEK

Keller, who managed to escape with a broken leg when he ejected from his A-4 Skyhawk which crashed and burned on take off from Webb.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is nearing the homestretch of its huge expansion program. Last week directors awarded $3,200,000 in contracts, including $2 1/2 million for 24 miles of 42-inch pipeline. This leaves structure for six pump stations and another 24 miles of 42-inch line to be let in a month or so.

Dick Gregory, Colorado City, met up with old friend, Ernest O'Brien at the livestock sale last week. Said Gregory: "I'm older than you." He was, for when they checked up, Gregory said he would be 77 on Feb. 24; O'Brien will be on Feb. 25.

Webb AFB graduated its largest class of pilots Saturday when Class 69-E saw 59 of its members receive wings. This is one more than Class 68-E, which graduated last year. Considering the intense and gruelling training these young men get, this is a lot of pilots.

ing something new this month. Before work begins on the preparation of the new city budget, a public hearing will be held Feb. 13 to five people a chance to toss in their suggestions. This makes a lot more sense than waiting until the budget has been drafted and then ask for suggestions.

Enrollment at Howard County Junior College has topped the 1,000 mark for the spring semester, and some additional ones may be added before deadline passes Monday. Last spring semester the final figure was 963. Incidentally, HCCJ closes Thursday noon so the faculty can take part in the Texas Junior College Association and Texas Junior College Teachers Association convention at Dallas. Dean Ben Johnson is first vice president of TJCA and Moveida Rhine second vice president of TJCTA.

Four Big Spring young men have been nominated to participate in competitive examinations for service academy appointments. They are Gary Don Newsom (Army), Rocky Lee Wooley (Navy) and Terry Johnston and Thomas Francis Conway II (Air Force).

The Ambassadors Club, the good will and membership arm of the Chamber of Commerce, changed its officer policy to make terms for one year instead of six months. Roger Brown, president for the past half year, will continue. A genuine salute of appreciation is due this group which gives sacrificial service to make a good impression for the town.

The Parks and Recreation board had a suggestion last week for the city commission concerning the site where the Crawford Hotel is being demolished. Make part of this into a small downtown park, the board suggested.

You have to hand it to the band members, their leaders, parents and others for putting together a bang-up show in Campus Review (CR 69). It turned out to be a crisp, fast moving production with lots of color and fun — a near professional touch — and best of all, a show that packed 'em in all three nights.

He was married in 1962 to the former Betty Jo Anderson of San Antonio. They have two children, Merribeth, 5, and George 3. His family will join him here in about two weeks.

Plant Nears Production

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. is still on schedule for its target date of production by mid-March, V. F. Michael, president, said Saturday.

During the past week, several dry runs have been made on the basic production units, and the results have been good. Minor adjustments are being made, and within another week some trial runs on turning out pipe will be made.

When this is done, then other increments of the production line, together with auxiliary equipment for finishing product, will be installed.

Michael said he was pleased with progress of work.

Fiber Glass Systems was chartered here last year by Michael and a number of Big Spring investors. The company will manufacture under the trade name of Star Pipe, making a product that resists any type of corrosion yet has strength to match or exceed steel.

Last Year Champs Enter Spelling Bee Competition

By SAM BLACKBURN
Twelve of the 1968 Howard County Spelling Bee school champions and alternates are now concentrated in the two junior high schools of this city. Eight of the top spellers are in Gollad, and four at Runnels.

All, with the possible exception of one, plan to try for the championship of their respective schools this year. The county champion of 1968, Greg Parnell, is now in high school and no longer eligible to compete.

However, it is possible that some school champion who has not heretofore been in the county meet may turn up to lead the field.

There is no question, though, that experience counts and the youngsters who have tried in the spelling bee at school levels in other years will be in a good position to make a better showing this spring than they did last year.

The history of the Howard County Spelling Bee shows that the county champions are often youngsters who have tried for two or three years prior and who may have been school champions at least once.

The county bee is sponsored by the Big Spring Herald. The winner of the bee, which will be held at the Big Spring High School cafeteria April 19, will win an expense-paid trip to Lubbock May 3 to compete in the 22 county West Texas Regional Bee. The winner there gets a free trip to Washington in June along with a number of other valuable prizes.

Nearly 1,000 copies of the official "Words of the Champions" spelling books, which are used at all levels of the spelling bees, are now being distributed in the schools of the county.

The first round will be in the classrooms. Each classroom will select its champion. These will then compete in the school for the honor of representing their schools at the county spelling bee. Only the champions will compete in the county bee, but each school is also asked to designate an alternate who can fill in the eventuality that the school champion cannot appear. So far, in the six years The Herald has conducted the bees, no alternate has been called upon to step in.

The two Big Spring junior high schools, the city's elementary schools, Forsan Junior High School, the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic school, and the St. Mary's Episcopal school are expected to have champions on hand at the county bee.

The champion, in addition to the trip to Lubbock and the chance at the regional title, will also receive a plaque engraved with his name and chronicling his achievement. The runner-up will receive a gift from The Herald. Each school champion will be presented with a special pen and a ribbon.

Keith Swim, with the Big Spring school system administration office, is coordinator for the spelling bee in the city schools. A date will probably be announced soon for these schools to have completed their school eliminations and named their champion.

Copies of the official spelling list and the rules for the bee are on hand at The Herald office. The price of the spelling book at the office is 15 cents, plus one cent tax. The books are also being distributed by the schools, where the price is 15 cents, without the tax.

Monticello Units Going On Block

Ninety-one single dwelling units, mostly in the eastern sector of the Monticello addition, are going on the block Feb. 28. All of them must be moved and the sites cleaned and levelled.

This is part of a move by the Federal Housing Administration to clear its inventory of units considered unsalvageable. Similar sales have been held elsewhere, including Midland where some 900 units were moved, Amarillo and El Paso.

Previously, the FHA sold about 30 of the units here to a housing development at Van Horn and in smaller lots to the Glasscock County Independent School District and housing units at Fort Stockton and San Angelo.

Originally, there were 302 of the units. About 50 of these were not turned back to FHA, and in addition the FHA has remodelled and refurbished a number of units which have sold readily. In addition, a sprinkling of homes in the area have been sold individually.

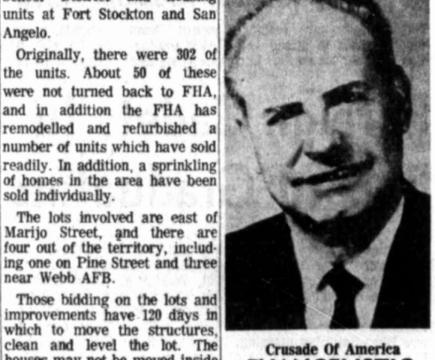

The lots involved are east of Marjio Street, and there are four out of the territory, including one on Pine Street and three near Webb AFB.

Those bidding on the lots and improvements have 120 days in which to move the structures, clean and level the lot. The houses may not be moved inside the city limits of Big Spring or within a 25-mile radius of the city except for farm and ranch purposes, and then only upon written consent of FHA.

Sealed proposals are to be submitted before 10 a.m. Feb. 28 and should have written across the front of the envelope: "Bid for Big Spring Removal Properties." They may be filed with Glen Bailey, FHA, Box 1647, Lubbock 79400. The bid should be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, payable to FHA, in 10 per cent of the amount being bid. Taxes on properties purchased will be prorated as of the closing date.

Local brokers with details on the properties include W. J. Sheppard & Co. and Reeder and Associates.

Frank Beard Leading Hope Play By Two

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Frank Beard fired a 68 Saturday to take a two-stroke lead after four rounds of play in the $12,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic here.

Unknown Among Golf Leaders

A nearby tree cramps Orville Moody's swing, but he manages to get the ball on the 14th green at the Indian Wells Country Club Saturday during the fourth round of the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic. Moody, relatively unknown on the tournament circuit, took a par on the hole and finished the four rounds with 281, four strokes behind the leader, Frank Beard. The final round will be played Sunday.

J. Beasley Says SW Boys Can Play In Pro Leagues

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Long John Beasley wishes this discrimination business against basketballers from the Southwest Conference would stop immediately.

The former Texas A&M star has just overcome odds that must be calculated at a thousand-to-one in being named the most valuable player in last week's American Basketball Association All-Star game.

Beasley, a 6-foot-9 forward for the Dallas Chaparrals, is but one of three SWC players in all of pro basketball. The others are Charles Beasley, former SMU star who plays for Dallas (no relation); and Kendall Rhine of Houston, who played at Rice.

No SWC graduates shoot baskets for the National Basketball Association.

"I think the pro clubs are afraid to take a chance on SWC players because this is always thought of as a football area and not a basketball area," said John Beasley.

"I tell you, there is some mighty fine talent down here. Basketball has come a long way, but the pros still look upon it as not being the best. They figure a guy may be a hotshot in the league, but so what, it's the Southwest Conference isn't it?"

Beasley, who scored 19 points and gathered in 14 rebounds in leading the West to victory at Louisville, Ky., recounted some of the experiences he had with the NBA before the ABA came into existence.

"I was drafted fourth by Baltimore, but they barely talked to me and never were decisive when it came to money," Beasley said. "It was as though a stigma was attached because I played in Texas."

Beasley then played for the Phillips 66ers. A Baltimore scout saw him and suddenly became enthused.

"That's when I signed with the ABA and came to Dallas," Beasley said.

John Krill paced the Badgers with 21 points, followed by Robin Taylor with 14. Danny Leach led LCC's scoring with 13 totals.

AMARILLO (56) — Krill 8-5-21; Dickerson 4-2-10; Ellis 1-3-5; Taylor 5-4-14; Childers 1-0-2; Griffin 1-2-4; Totals 26-36-56.

Big Difference In Jobs Club Pro Rarely Has Time To Get In Round Of Golf

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Roy Faber are both golf professionals. The similarity ends right there.

Faber does not own a fancy car, much less a private plane, and he has never been on television.

Faber, one of the forgotten breed called the club teaching pro, is silhouetted against the pro shop at unpretentious Colonia Country Club in New Jersey instead of the ocean-side 18th at Pebble Beach with Bing Crosby waiting for the finish.

About the only status symbol Faber has is an unlisted phone number.

The Professional Golfers' Association has 5,800 members like Faber, compared with 200 more or less like Palmer.

The Roy Fabers are the ones who don't make it on the tour, the ones who might if they had sponsors or the ones who actually prefer fulltime club jobs.

While the Arnold Palmers follow the sun the Roy Fabers work a six-day, 60-hour week with Mondays off. They spend more time in the pro shop selling equipment or on the practice tee giving lessons than they do on the golf course.

Faber says he's lucky to get in two rounds a week.

"The hardest thing is I'm always on my feet," he says. "It's pretty hard to play respectable golf when you're physically tired."

When Faber sits down, it's to talk with salesmen, balance the books, answer the mail, or send out bills. He has only an assistant pro and a caddy master to help handle the needs of Colonia's 260 golf members.

Although he says the members are easy to get along with, Faber has an unlisted phone number to protect what little time he has with his wife and five children.

Basketball Is Demanding Lot Of Mrs. Mikan

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Patricia Lu Mikan, mother of six, attends more basketball games than many coaches.

She has to be the wife of George Mikan, commissioner of the American Basketball Association and a former professional star.

And being the mother of: Larry Mikan, the 6-foot-7 leading scorer of the University of Minnesota team this season; Terry Mikan, 6-4 1/2 substitute on the Minnesota team; Patrick Mikan, 6-5 member of a suburban Minneapolis high school junior varsity team; Michael Mikan, who in his first junior high school competition last week scored 14 of his team's 22 points (the opposition scored two), and two daughters, Tricia Ann and Maureen Mary, who don't play basketball yet but are destined to become cheerleaders.

The 5-6, red-haired Mrs. Mikan began her basketball career at DePaul University in Chicago, where she met and watched George start a great career. He went on to stardom with the Minneapolis Lakers and was voted the greatest player of the first half of this century.

Now, with George still in basketball, she watches the children.

"I get those lumps in my stomach when the boys play a game," Patricia Lu said.

"When it was your husband it was just like business. With your boys, you're just hoping they do well."

Mikan says: "I think she's more excited about the children than she was about me. Of course, I never watched her when I played. But sitting there with her now and watching her cheer at a ball game is something. She wants the sons to do well and questions any fouls called against them like all other women would."

Mrs. Mikan thinks there is a great difference between George and George star Larry.

"When George was playing, he played only center," she said. "But I believe Larry can do much more. He can move better. When George played, naturally, he was great. That was the way they played then. Today, everything is opened up so much more."

Raiders Down Frog Quint

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Steve Williams paced Texas Tech past Texas Christian 56-49 Saturday night, scoring 20 points in a Southwest Conference basketball game that saw both teams use zone defenses most of the way.

The Horned Frogs, trailing 41-30, came out of their zone with nine minutes left when Tech's Mike Oakes fouled out.

Despite a height advantage, the move made no difference as the Red Raiders ran their lead up to 15 points.

A late press by the Frogs enabled them to outscore Tech 8-2 in the final three minutes, but the damage was done.

James Cash led the Frogs with 18 points, while Oakes had 13 for the Raiders.

The Raiders, despite giving away height, out rebounded TCU 39-25. Texas Tech hit 42.3 per cent of their field shots while TCU was at 40.4 per cent.

The night's score left TCU with a 1-6 conference record and Tech has a 3-4 conference mark.

Maurice Wilson New Champion

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Dallas oilman Maurice Wilson birdied the final two holes Saturday to defeat Dr. John Kennedy of Mt. Pleasant 1 up for the championship in the 17th annual Life begins at 40 golf tournament.

Wilson got off to a slow start in the title round but started picking up steam on the backside. Wilson hit a 2-iron from the rough and then sank a 20-foot putt for a birdie on 17 and two putted for a birdie on 18.

Kennedy provided a surprise in the quarterfinals by defeating champion Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., who was shooting for his fourth straight crown. Kennedy advanced to the semifinals in last year's tournament.

Stellar Field Set For Indoor Meet

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — All but one of America's top 15 amateurs and national champions from 15 foreign nations head a record field which opens play Monday in the U.S. National Indoor tennis championships.

Bill Riordan, tournament chairman since the event was moved to Salisbury six years ago, describes the 48-man draw as "the best we've had here, in numbers and quality."

All told, 21 nations are represented. The 22-man American contingent includes five Davis Cuppers, with only 10th-ranked Gene Scott missing from the top 15 in the national rankings.

Cliff Richey, the defending champion, has been accorded only the No. 4 ranking among the domestic seedings, although his ability to return service on the fast indoor surface makes him a definite threat. Last year, Richey was the No. 3 seed.

Arthur Ashe, No. 1 among U.S. amateurs and generally rated behind only Australian pro Rod Laver in the world rankings, is seeded first for the tournament he has never won.

Clark Graebner, who lost to Richey in last year's finals while playing with his racket hand bleeding because of blisters, is seeded second and Stan Smith is No. 3.

Tomas Koch of Brazil, who beat a travel-weary Ashe a week ago in Richmond, Va., tops the foreign seeds. Mark Cox of England is seeded No. 2, followed by Brian Fairlie of New Zealand and 40-year-old Torben Ulrich of Denmark.

As he did last year, Riordan rates Smith as the darkhorse candidate to win the tournament. The tall youngster with the powerful service made it to the semifinals in 1968 before losing to Richey and has beaten Ashe in three of the last four matches they've played.

Riordan, who leans toward an American victory because U.S. players have more experience playing on indoor surfaces picks Graebner as his choice behind Smith—again swayed by a big-service game.

Jan-Erik Lundquist of Sweden is the only foreigner to win the U.S. Indoor in the past nine years. He won in 1965.

Coaches Plan Odessa Meet

Registration for the annual Texas High School Coaches' Association Region IV meeting has been set for 8:00-8:45 a.m. next Saturday in Odessa.

Purpose of the gathering is to give coaches a chance to discuss problems, ideas, invoke needed rule changes, change by-laws, and voice opinions over matters pertinent to those present.

Finance and regional directors will make their reports to the group of over 100 local and area football, track, and basketball coaches. Guest speakers and panels will highlight the convention. Also on the agenda is the selection of the all-star candidates.

Coach Spike Dykes of Big Spring High School will attend the meeting along with approximately 15 other local coaches. Coach Dykes was director of the program last year.

3-AAAA Eagles Soar By Rebel 5; Ector Wins

ABILENE — The Abilene Eagles flew past the Midland Lee Rebels, 88-84, in District 3-AAAA play Friday night, aided by the fantastic playing of the four guards.

The guards, Richard Little, Victor Ponder, Kenneth Neal and Chris Smith had a lot of assists and played very well defensively. Little led the Eagles with 20 hits, followed by James Brown with 18, King and Young with 10 each, and Neal with 8.

Randy Prince of Lee hit the board a total of 13 times to chalk up 23 points for the losers.

ABILENE (88) — King 2-6-10; Little 4-2-20; Ponder 2-1-7; Brown 7-4-20; Neal 4-2-10; Jones 0-0-1; Smith 4-4-8; Surrett 4-1-5. Totals 31-54-84.

MIDLAND — The Odessa Ector Eagles scrambled past Midland High's Bulldogs, 77-62, Friday night to boost their record to 3-2 in the second half of 3-AAAA play.

Ector jumped to an early 22-7 lead in the first quarter which they failed to relinquish to the Bulldogs. The Bulldogs were bruised by five turnovers during the opening period.

Robert Smith led Ector with 20 points, while Cortland Bivens paced Midland with 23.

ECTOR (77) — Collins 5-1-11; Cooksey 4-1-15; Trotter 4-4-10; Smith 0-0-20; Morrison 5-5-15. Totals 30-17-77.

ODESSA — Odessa High held off a late Cougar rally to capture its 28th victory in 28 games by blasting the Cooper ball club 77-62 Friday night.

Odessa bounded to a 5-1 mark in district play while the loss put Abilene back to 2-3.

Cooper's Larry Hoff paced all scorers with 28, and was 12 of 14 for the night, while Robert Bick pumped in 17 points, and Dale Gerczynski, 11. Gerczynski also set a school rebounding record by grabbing eight for the night, boosting his mark to 238 for the season, breaking the old mark by one.

ODESSA (77) — Wilson 10-4-24; Hess 5-4-14; Morris 4-0-8; Moon 3-4-18; Brown 3-0-4; Green 2-0-4. Totals 29-16-77.

VERY REWARDING The conclusions are based on the following: —Since the merger agreement of June 8, 1966, ended the AFL-NFL war, exploitation of that rivalry in pre-season games has proved extremely rewarding in the most important way possible—economically.

—Any reshuffling that would destroy the separate identities now fully established in the mind of fans throughout the country also would destroy the Super Bowl—pro football's premier attraction.

—The Jets' Super Bowl victory, in the eye of the fan, ended the myth of NFL superiority and established AFL equality with the older league.

—The scheduling of enough inter-league games should satisfy even the most stubborn proponents of a reshuffling.

Game's Elite Siding With Those Striking

There has been the threat of a strike hanging over the sport ever since October, but it has been generally dismissed as a threat and no more.

It is not easy to answer either—but speaking in generalities, it's extremely possible there could be a strike, and the reason would be that this is not a

No Realignment Is Due In Pro Circuits

NEW YORK (AP) — There still are five weeks before pro football's 26 teams assemble in Palm Springs, Calif., to plot the shape of the sport in 1970, but it's a virtual certainty that the following decisions already have been dictated:

—There will be no realignment of the two leagues, the American and National football leagues maintaining their current structure, and equally important, their current identities. —There will be a considerable number of inter-league regular season games, counting in the standings. The best guess now is that each AFL team will play four NFL rivals.

—The pre-season schedule of clubs in both leagues will most totally consist of inter-league games, furthering the separate identities of the leagues and fully exploiting the economics involved in the inter-league rivalry. The conclusions reached above have been drawn by The Associated Press after several weeks of talks, both on and off the record, with pro football's club owners. These talks were conducted both prior to and after the stunning triumph by the AFL's New York Jets over the NFL's Baltimore Colts in the Super Bowl.

VERY REWARDING The conclusions are based on the following: —Since the merger agreement of June 8, 1966, ended the AFL-NFL war, exploitation of that rivalry in pre-season games has proved extremely rewarding in the most important way possible—economically.

—The Jets' Super Bowl victory, in the eye of the fan, ended the myth of NFL superiority and established AFL equality with the older league.

—The scheduling of enough inter-league games should satisfy even the most stubborn proponents of a reshuffling.

Everything, of course, awaits to be officially determined by vote of the 26 owners involved and will not ultimately be decided until they assemble for their annual meetings in Palm Springs, beginning March 17.

Hot New Charger Is Car To Watch

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The pole position for the Daytona 500, richest stock car race in the world, is likely to be won Sunday by Paul Goldsmith or Buddy Baker or Charlie Glotzbach or Bobby Isaac.

They are the drivers on hand with the hot new Dodge Charger 500, and apparently they will have things their way in the first day of qualifying, which determines the front row for the $201,000 main event on Feb. 23.

None of the factory Fords has shown up at Daytona International Speedway.

Apparently the late approval of the new body design called the Talladega and the still unapproved 429 cubic inch engine with staggered valves have held Ford back. Nor has the new Mercury Cyclone spoiler body been approved by the Automobile Competition Committee in the United States.

A company must produce and sell at least 500 to qualify body or engine for stock car racing.

"We're working like crazy to get our cars ready," said Ford's competition director, Jacques Passino, when contacted at Dearborn, Mich. "We'll have the Talladegas at Daytona and we're going to make the 429 engine legal."

among the big names unable to compete for a front row starting position and the $5,000 prize to the opening day's fastest qualifier.

Unofficial clockings showed the new Dodge drivers getting speeds up to 188 miles an hour in practice laps around the 2.5-mile high banked track.

On Sunday they will be trying to beat the 189.22 m.p.h. record set by Cale Yarborough a year ago in a Mercury.

Baker recently turned a lap at 194 in tire tests. He said the tires and body design gave the car more stability at that speed than cars had a few years ago when 180 m.p.h. was considered an almost impossible barrier.

Seattle Park To Be Ready By Apr. 11, Soriano Says

SEATTLE (AP) —The cacophony of saws, hammers and bulldozers out on Rainier Avenue falls sweeter on the ears of Seattle Pilot president Dewey Soriano than the best music of Johannes Brahms.

"We'll make it," Soriano says —the "it" being the afternoon of April 11, when Seattle's new baseball team opens play in the American League here against the Chicago White Sox.

political red tape there were doubts the project would ever get out of City Hall.

Briefly, the city agreed to spend $1,125,000 to enlarge and improve the old stadium for major league use while the county was building the new plant. The main goal was expansion of the seating capacity from 10,000 to 28,500.

Work was to start last summer but the project came down with a severe case of political procrastination.

First, Mayor Dorm Braman disapproved of the proposed lease arrangement between city and baseball team. The city council overruled him but then found the bids on the job exceeded the approved funds. To keep within the budget, the seating of the expanded stadium was pared to 25,000.

The new year and the bulldozers arrived together. Everything is coming down except the main grandstand.

Not only must the field be ready when the Chisox arrive—it must have league approval as a fit place to play. Soriano is confident it will get this okay—Sicks' Stadium for many years was one of the finest parks in the Coast League. New bleachers and fences will ring the old diamond.

Cougars Line Up Miami, Ole Miss

HOUSTON (AP) — Mississippi State, Miami of Florida, Mississippi, Wyoming and Florida State will play the University of Houston football team in the Astrodome this year.

It will be the first Astrodome appearance for Ole Miss since the Cougars upset the Rebels 17-3 in 1965, said Houston Athletic Director Harry Fouke, who announced the Cougars' 10-game 1969 schedule Saturday.

Houston opens the season with a pair of road games, playing the University of Florida at Gainesville Sept. 20 before facing Oklahoma State Sept. 27 in Stillwater. Other Houston road opponents will be Arizona, Oct. 11; Tulsa, Nov. 8, and North Carolina State Nov. 15.

The Cougars play Mississippi State Oct. 4, Mississippi Oct. 25, Miami of Florida Nov. 1, Wyoming Nov. 22 and Florida State Nov. 29.

Unlike the past two seasons, Houston will finish the season at home. All home games are tentatively scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m., Fouke said.

COLLEGE STATION — Golf course construction and maintenance is big business in Texas — about $15 million a year.

On a national basis, investment in golfing facilities now stands at an estimated $2.12 billion.

It's figures like these that have brought increased emphasis on turf grass management at Texas A&M University.

Dr. George McBee of the A&M Soil and Crop Sciences Department said teaching and research in this field focuses on turf production and management in parks, home lawns, recreation sites, cemeteries and industrial landscaping.

But considerable effort is aimed at golf courses. Here is why: National Golf Foundation figures show that the number of golf courses in the United States has risen from 5,691 in 1931 to 9,336 within the past few years. During that same period in Texas, course numbers jumped from 275 to 424.

The figures include private, semi-private and municipal courses.

All this is fine, the agronomist said, but there is the problem of keeping greens and fairways in good shape under the pounding and tramping of more feet, golf carts, maintenance equipment, and grass ailments than ever before.

AWAITING HEARING
24-year-old Patty Barton

Fem Aspires To Be Rider

SUNLAND PARK — Patty Barton isn't planning to make a federal issue of it, but she'd like to be a jockey.

The 24-year-old mother of three has filed a request for a jockey's license with the New Mexico Racing Commission.

If the request is approved, Sunland Park may have a female jockey on the grounds.

But Patty, who calls Alamogordo home, admits its a long way between requesting a jockey's license and actually riding in competition with male pilots.

She's anxiously awaiting the decision of the Commission. The ruling is expected to be handed down during the next meeting, which will be held later this month.

"When I filled out my request for a jockey's license, I said I wouldn't make a big fuss about it if the decision went against me," Patty said. "I'll stick by my word. But I really can't see why a woman shouldn't be allowed to ride in competition with men."

can bet the stewards will rule him off the track pretty fast. And the film patrol would really show up a jockey if his or her riding is a threat to other riders."

In reference to the often-mentioned view that the sexes don't mix on equal footing in any other sport, Patty said: "They're running horses on the track, not jockeys. If a woman is in good training, and has long way between requesting a jockey's license and actually riding in competition with male pilots."

Patty said people often confuse "strength" with "endurance."

"A lot of women are strong enough to control a mount. But what really matters is endurance — that's what enables you to ride without getting exhausted. It's a long way around the race course, a lot farther than most people think. If you're not in condition, you can get pretty exhausted after a few furlongs."

HOLDS LICENSE

Currently, Patty holds an exercise license at Sunland, and she spends every morning from 7-10 a.m. exercising Thoroughbreds and Quarter Horses. Last year, she held a groom's license at Ruidoso Downs, where she participated in that track's version of the Powder Puff Derby. She won the 550-yard event aboard Easter Ed. Sunland Park's second annual Powder Puff is tentatively booked for late next month. Patty was among the first in line to add her name to the list of possible starters.

In reference to the well-publicized objections to women riders competing with men, she feels it's a matter of ability and talent — not sex. "Once you get on the track, that'll tell the story," she said. "If you don't know how to ride, you won't stay around too long."

She admits few women are capable of competing with male jockeys. "But there's a small percentage of women who can ride well enough. They should be given a chance to prove themselves. All I'm asking for is a chance. If I can't make the grade, that's fair enough."

"The point is often raised about the danger women might create by not being able to control their mounts. Well, if a rider is a safety hazard, you

Patty, who checks in at 108 pounds and stands five feet, two inches high, remembers an occasion when she climbed off a stubborn horse, with her left arm swollen from the strain of trying to keep a tight control.

"Galloping five horses in one morning can really knock you out," she said. "But I've been building up my endurance, and I'm getting in pretty good shape."

She's had her bumps along the way. So far this season she "came down" five times. That's her way of saying she's been thrown. Once she took a particularly hard bounce when her saddle slipped as she zipped around the turn for home in a swift 870-yard workout.

"All throughout the bush circuit, girls are riding in competition with boys," she said. "If girls are going to ride, isn't it better to have them do it on recognized tracks where you have judges and film patrol and safety rules which everyone has to follow?"

It's no picnic, being a jockey, she's quick to point out. A bad spill or riding in rainy or windy weather are unpleasant things she accepts as part of the game. "I'll say this about being a jockey," she said wryly. "It's a hard way to make an easy living."

Stanton Faces Two Major Tests In District 5-AA

OZONA — Stanton, 82-63 winner here Friday night over Ozona, faces two crucial tests the coming week.

Coach Phillip Stovall takes his Buffaloes to Crane Tuesday night for a return meeting with the Golden Crane. McCamey comes to Stanton Friday to tangle with the Buffs.

Big Lake is now leading the District 5-AA race while Crane and Stanton are tied with 4-2 league records. Over-all, Stanton is 20-5.

Lindsey Jones stepped out to lead the Buffaloes in scoring with 21 points, David Jones

GLORIA DODD

Dodd Shatters Two Records

FORSAN — Gloria Dodd shattered two school scoring records as Forsan raced to a District 11-B sweep over Sterling City here Friday night.

In pacing the Buffalo Queens to a 76-43 success, Gloria crammed in 56 points to beat Mollie Condon's year-old record by one point. Miss Dodd made her final two points on a 40-foot jump shot just before the final buzzer went off.

Gloria also registered 25 field goals, which shaded a six-year-old school mark. Oddly enough, the record of 19 was held by Gloria's sister, Jodie.

The girls thus ran their overall record to 26-3 and stand 9-0 in district.

A 98-43 victory achieved by the boys may prove very costly to Don Stevens' team, however. Star rebounder Carry Irwin pulled some ligaments in his leg when he fell to the court without making contact in the first four minutes of play.

James Brown waxed warm for the Steers, scoring 22 points. Three other Big Springers were in double figures. Tommy Butler, Snake Tucker and Bruce Hutto each counted 14.

Big Spring led at the end of the opening period, 21-20, but could manage only 19 points in Round Two and trailed at half time, 40-31.

Brown led a Steer comeback in the third that cut San Angelo's advantage to four points but San Angelo maintained its lead with a 22-point final round.

Sands Wraps Up Crown

ACKERLY — Sands clinched the District 13-B boys' basketball championship by turning back Klondike, 48-39, here Friday night.

Coach James Blake's boys are an impressive 21-2 over-all and stand 9-0 in conference. They wind up regular play at home Tuesday night against Loop and then start looking for practice tilts before their bi-district test against the winner in the Barstow area.

Klondike was Sands' closest pursuer in the 13-B race and tried to contain the Mustangs with a zone defense. The Mustangs, however, built up a 10-point lead after eight minutes of play and never looked back.

Ronnie Taylor had 15 points and Lance Hopper and Bruce Kemper 10 each for Sands while Russell Dunbar led Klondike with 17.

Klondike's explosive girls' team won its ninth straight game by beating the Sands girls, 63-44. Joyce Wilcher banged in 28 points and Mary Minter 23 for the Cougars while Shara Dee Hambrick collected 16 for Sands.

Last year's Sands boys' team finished with a 21-7 over-all record.

A victory in bi-district competition would send Sands to the Regional meet at Levelland.

Sands also won the Boys' B game, 53-37. Bobby Beal counted 12 points for Sands and J. Stevens 11 for Klondike in that one.

Major Changes Are Included In New Card

CINCINNATI (AP) — There have been some changes made in the National League's 1969 schedule, released Saturday by President Warren C. Giles.

First, of course, is because the league has been expanded to 12 clubs, with the addition of Montreal and San Diego.

But, of even more importance, is that for the first time in its 94-year-old history the league will be split into divisions with the winners in each division meeting at the end of the regular season in a best-of-five series to determine the league championship and its representative in the World Series.

There will be both intra-division and inter-division competition during the regular season. Each team will play nine games at home and nine away with each club in its own division.

Competition with teams in the other division will be on a basis of six games at home and six away between the clubs.

The league's Eastern Division will be made up of Chicago, Montreal, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and St. Louis. The Western Division will consist of Houston, Los Angeles, Atlanta, Cincinnati, San Diego and San Francisco.

Those divisions create some geographical oddities. Cincinnati and Atlanta are in the Western Division while Chicago and St. Louis, located west of Atlanta and Cincinnati, are in the Eastern Division.

The first four weeks of the season will be devoted to intra-division competition. During the next six weeks play will be on an inter-division basis. Intra-division play will be the rule for the next five weeks.

After the All-Star Game in Washington on July 22 there will be six weeks of inter-division play and that will be followed by the final phase of intra-division play from Sept. 4 to Oct. 2.

In keeping with the tradition that Cincinnati always opens at home, the Reds will meet Los Angeles on April 7. That, however, also will be the date for Atlanta's opening against San Francisco at night.

The other eight clubs will open April 8 with Montreal at New York, Philadelphia at Chicago, Houston at San Diego and Pittsburgh at St. Louis.

SCATTERED PLAY — The second openers will be scattered between April 11 and April 17. On April 11, Pittsburgh will be at home against Philadelphia, and Houston will be host to Los Angeles. Three days later, on April 14, Montreal will have its first home game against St. Louis and Philadelphia will be at home against New York.

James Brown waxed warm for the Steers, scoring 22 points. Three other Big Springers were in double figures. Tommy Butler, Snake Tucker and Bruce Hutto each counted 14.

Big Spring led at the end of the opening period, 21-20, but could manage only 19 points in Round Two and trailed at half time, 40-31.

Coahoma Girls Sew Up Title

COOPER — Coahoma hung tough in the District 5-B basketball race by defeating Cooper here Friday night, 57-44.

Cooper made it interesting only in the final period when it outscored the Bulldogs, 15-10. Jimmy Sterling led Coahoma with 19 points while Billy King was a big help with 16.

Gilbert Martinez counted 17 for Cooper.

In the girls' game, Coahoma won, 66-53, to wrap up the conference title.

Charissa Meacham went on a scoring rampage for the Bulldogs, scoring 31 points. Judy Dunn led Cooper with 22, one less than Sandra Gross of Coahoma was able to score.

Cooper edged Coahoma in the boys' B game, 41-40.

Texan Eyes Title Scrap

HOUSTON (AP) — Mark Tessiman says he wants to win the world light-heavyweight boxing championship before he finishes college.

He has less than a year to achieve this goal. He graduates from the University of Houston next January.

Tessiman, 22, has won 25 bouts while losing only one since turning pro in April, 1966. He is ranked sixth by Ring Magazine and 10th by the World Boxing Association.

Pursuing a boxing career and a college education has not been an easy feat.

So far he hasn't brought his textbooks to the ring with him but he has taken a tough examination the day following a big fight.

EYEING FOSTER — Tessiman feels he can get a title match with champion Bob Foster this year.

The 175-pound youngster is carrying 15 hours and majoring in physical education with a speech minor. He credits his instructors with making it possible for him to box and go to school.

"If I miss a quiz because of a fight my professors let me make it up the next day," he said. "I couldn't make it without them."

Sometimes the two careers get very close together. A year ago he fought Von Clay, a tough ring veteran, on the night before he was to take two mid-term final exams. He whipped Clay in 10 rounds and passed both tests.

Tessiman turned pro after winning the state Golden Gloves title. He won 24 straight pro bouts before losing to Henry Hank last month when he suffered eye cuts and his manager asked for the bout to be stopped in the sixth round.

In his latest bout he decided Eddie Talhami of Canada last Tuesday night at Miami Beach.

Tessiman said he has always wanted to be a professional athlete, either in football, basketball or boxing.

"Boxing and football to me are the basic character builders," he said. "But boxing has to be the standout. Athletes may be born as far as coordination is concerned but character and courage have to be built."

"When you are in the ring you have no one to help you out, no one to throw a block like in football. You are on your own."

He said he would like to see more boxing programs in high school and college.

"With competent instructors and the proper equipment boxing can be very good for youngsters," he said.

He said his boxing career is just now beginning to "do all right."

Youth Group Meets At Junior College

By FRANK GRIFFIS
The Talented Youth Seminar Program, sponsored by the Small Schools Study Group of the Texas Education Agency, is meeting at Howard County Junior College. The group, consisting of students from area high schools, selects general topics to discuss each meeting. Topic for the latest meeting was dating and morals. They choose normal problem areas that need discussion. The college has been an area center for the program for the last two years. There are 12 centers in Texas usually located in junior and senior colleges. Three area schools, Klondike, Sands and Gail send representatives to the program at the college where they meet with eight college students together in a seminar group. Sometimes the students have guest speakers and discussion groups after the talks. The students meet for two hours, from 10-12 a.m. every three weeks. The general feeling and attitude among the participating representatives is one of concern and willingness to help and discuss. So far, 996 students have enrolled at the junior college for the spring semester, according to Mr. Don Shoemaker, HCJC business manager. Out of these, 618 are full-time students while the others are attending part-time. "The total enrollment should easily break the 1,000 mark before the end of next week," said Shoemaker. Most of the students are transfers from other colleges, mainly senior colleges. Call slips were issued this week for all students to come into the office for parking permits. Beginning Monday, traffic tickets will be put on all unregistered cars, and fines will be charged.

Among those planning to attend Feb. 10-14 are Earnest Lowe, Wacy Cathy, Arthur Boudreau, Dicky Tindol, Toby Green, Gaylon Harding, Don Richters, Mike Honea, J. D. Tatum and Donny Harrington. HOMEMAKER AWARD Leah Spiller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Spiller, was presented the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Award, during an all-school assembly

FORNSAN — The Forsan student council posted the citizens of the month for February. They are Larry Moreno and Elmer Johnson, the boys' basketball managers. Both of them have worked hard this season. They keep the bus swept out; keep shot charts and books each game; clean the boys' dressing room each day; and are always there when they are needed the most. GIRLS CHOSEN Two girls were also chosen as citizens of the month. They are Doris Franklin and Shirley Cobb. Doris was chosen because she is a dedicated worker and a loyal member of the student council.

Shirley Cobb is the girls' basketball manager for the second year, and has worked hard at her job. The choices and reasons for being chosen students of the month are posted in the hall as agreed upon by the members of the student council.

A NEW

People who need glasses are apt to find the world pretty fuzzy without them. What appears as only a blur without their "specs" swings into sharp focus, once they've put them on.

If only there were glasses we could don quickly when we need to put ourselves, our problems, our successes and our failures into proper perspective! But that kind of lense has yet to be devised.

We all have moments when we seem to be groping and nothing comes clear. We wonder where we are going and, perhaps, why. We have such moments whether or not we go to church on Sundays—for the Church will not give us spectacles, rose-colored or otherwise, with which to view the world. But . . . the Church does teach us of God's world, it does teach us the meaning of Faith, it does show us life in its proper light.

Try going to church. If you do, you may find your "inner vision" getting a great deal sharper.

Europeans Buying Up More Of United States

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

BRUSSELS (AP) — Americans are not buying up quite so much of Europe these days. Europeans are buying up more of the United States.

This trend has emerged from the limits the United States has imposed on foreign investment by U.S. firms, and from an extended burst of interest on the part of moneyed Europeans in buying American securities.

CHALLENGE

Europeans worried about the "American challenge" often point out that Americans control half of Britain's auto industry and two-fifths of the farm machinery production in France. They may be less aware of the huge orders for American stocks Europeans have been placing with American brokers.

On balance, Europeans own more of America than Americans own of Europe. Figures of the U.S. Commerce Department covering the year 1967, but total American assets and investments in Western Europe at $35 billion. West European assets and investments in the United States came to $41 billion.

Europeans and Americans have different styles of investing. Americans prefer direct investment, doing business themselves. Europeans like indirect investment, buying stocks and bonds.

When U.S. citizens buy up European assets, it is usually done by a big American firm taking over a majority interest in an existing European firm.

In the first eight months of last year, up to the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, foreigners—largely European—bought $2.4 billion in American securities over what they sold. After that, the buying probably was even heavier. For the whole of 1967 the figure was only $800 million and in 1966 it was $200 million.

ODD TWIST

Stock purchases in Europe usually are made through banks. U.S. officials think some of the huge increase in buying is due to Americans operating through European accounts, but most of it certainly comes from Europeans themselves.

A large part in the trend has been played by the uncertainty of the political and financial situation in Europe: currency

SHE'S AFRAID OF HIJACKING

MIAMI (AP) — A Jamaican woman who was afraid of being hijacked to Cuba if she took a plane from Miami to Harrisburg, Pa., took a cab part way for $800.

Eugene (Tiny) Cohen, a 265-pound, 6-foot-4 cab driver said he met his fare when another driver who had picked up the well-dressed woman and her four children refused to make the trip.

At first, Tiny said, they tried to compute the meter rate, then settled on $800. "Cash in advance," he said. She said she was afraid of being hijacked to Cuba, the children were afraid and so was her husband whom she said, "told me to take a taxi," Cohen said.

So Tiny picked up a relief driver, Bernie Brownstein; rented a station wagon because his boss decided the 1,278 miles to Harrisburg was too far for Tiny to take the cab, and drove to Atlanta where the picked up the other $400.

In Chattanooga, Tenn., the woman and her well-behaved children let go their end of the bargain and boarded a train. The drivers never asked her name and didn't make a refund.

They left the rented station wagon, skipped thoughts of hijackers and took a plane home. According to Tiny they made "about $250" each.

Will Visit Local Firms

The Ambassadors Club, goodwill representatives of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, will begin a series of monthly tours to firms in the community this Wednesday.

Roger Brown, Ambassadors Club president, said that the group plans to spend at least one day each month to visit businesses to find if the Chamber of Commerce can be of service. The visits will be in three-man teams of two members of the Ambassadors Club and one from the industrial team of the chamber.

Brown and Jim Butler of the Ambassadors and Don Womack of the industrial team will visit Neece Optical Lab this Wednesday, while Ambassadors Harry Sawyer and Winston Wrinkle, with Bill Crooker of the industrial team, will visit Ideal Laundry.

These visits are an attempt to show that the Chamber of Commerce is interested in their business," Brown said. "We want to know if the Chamber of Commerce can help them in any way."

Grace Line, Inc. operates six passenger-cargo ships and 15 freighters on regularly scheduled American-flag service on four trade routes between the United States and the Caribbean and Central and South America.

The decision to sell Grace Line, a wholly-owned subsidiary of W. R. Grace & Co. has been made in order to concentrate on the parent company's expansion in its growing industrial, specialty chemicals and consumer products operations. Grace was founded originally as a shipping enterprise.

Ice Worm Info

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP)—Scientists here have discovered that the ice worm, normally found in glaciers west of the Rockies, likes an average temperature of 32 degrees above zero. In winter, said Dr. Michael Tynen of the University of Edmonton, the ice worm burrows 20 to 30 feet into the glacier to keep warm.

Jaycees Schedule Big Bosses' Night

A large turnout is expected to hear Cong. Omar Burleson speak at the 22nd annual Big Spring Jaycees Bosses' Night Banquet Feb. 20 in the Big Spring High School cafeteria.

Cong. Burleson, Anson, Tex., has been a Democrat in the U.S. House of Representatives since 1946, and is currently chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee.

Ben Faulkner, local Jaycee president, said that about 300 invitations have been sent to members of the community to attend the dinner. However, he said that the banquet will be an all-male function, which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

A host of awards are slated for presentation that night, including recognition of the Outstanding Young Educator, Outstanding Young Patrolman, Boss of the Year, Jaycee of the Year, and a Faith in God Award to a Jaycee. Bidding for these awards is being conducted now by the Big Spring Jaycees.

Tickets to the dinner are $3 per person. Max Moore is chairman of the affair.

of the house in seniority, and before his election as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, he was chairman of the Committee on House Administration. He also was on the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and was chairman and vice chairman of two joint Senate-House committees.

His 17th Congressional District includes 31 counties in West Texas.

Burglars Strike Four Times In Big Spring

Burglars Friday night went to a lot of effort, but got little results in four break-ins reported to Big Spring police.

Officers said that while four burglaries were reported, only two of the crimes netted anything of value.

Thomas Ward, 22, Webb AFB, reported to police that a stereo valued at $75 was taken from his unlocked car Friday night at the Americana Club, IS 20.

Burglars also entered the Preach Martin Service Station, 210 Eleventh Place, and made off with $45 in cash, police said. Entry was gained by knocking out a glass in the rear of the garage to get into the station office, police said.

Burglars also entered the Carl Young Garage, 1230 W. 3rd, police said, but no property was reported missing. Entry was gained by knocking out a piece of sheetrock covering a rest-room window in the rear of the building, police said.

Southern Ice Co., 105 N. Johnson, also was entered, but no loss of property was reported, officers said. The haps were pried off a door frame to gain entrance, police said.

A stolen car was reported by Bobby Jack Nichols, 24, 3605 La Junta, to police Friday night. Nichols said he had left the auto, a 1964 Ford Galaxie '59, in the parking lot of the Big Spring Truck Terminal to take a trip to Lamesa, and when he returned the car was missing.

Wages For Hired Farm Workers Up

The minimum wage for hired farm workers went up from $1.15 to $1.30 per hour on Feb. 1, 1969, according to James I. Mallet, farm management specialist of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Farm employers who used more than 500 man-days of farm labor in any calendar quarter of the preceding year are required to pay the minimum wage during 1969. Immediate family members and hand harvest pieceworkers who commute from their own home and worked less than 13 weeks in the preceding calendar year are not included in the man-day count. In addition, man-days of agricultural workers employed by a bonafide contractor are not included in the man-day count Mallet says.

A man-day, for determining the 500 man-day count, is any day an employee worked one hour or more. Each seven-day period during which an employee worked one hour or more on one or more days is counted as one week for the 13-week test.

Two Small Boats Will Have To Stay

CAIRO (AP)—Two small boats that drifted from one of the British ships marooned in the Suez Canal to the Israeli-held eastern bank will have to stay there indefinitely, the newspaper Al-Ahram said. It said movement in the canal "could be undertaken only with the consent of Egypt."

The boats, carrying a number of British seamen, drifted to the bank during a storm last month but only the men were allowed to return, the paper said.

Jap Plane Hits In Crowded Area

KANASAWA, Japan (AP)—A Japanese air force F104 jet fighter crashed today in a densely populated area near this western Japanese city, starting a fire that killed four persons and destroyed 14 homes.

Officials said two bodies have been recovered. Twenty persons were reported injured.

Twig Bend Costly

BREDASDORP, South Africa (AP)—An African found guilty of breaking a twig from a tree on Bredasdorp's main street was given the choice of spending 60 days in jail or paying a $56 fine. Town engineer A.J. Oosthuizen told the magistrate's court it was a serious offense and deserved severe punishment.

MRS. ELLA NEEL AND MRS. ISLA DAVIS

50 YEARS FOR MRS. ELLA NEEL

Eastern Star Order Presents Certificate

Fifty years of membership in the Order of Eastern Star has meant much to Mrs. Ella Neel. Those years reached a high point Thursday when she was presented a 50-year certificate by Mrs. Charles McCauley, worthy matron of Big Spring Chapter No. 67.

The citation reads "In loving and fraternal recognition of devotion to the Order. In testimony whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and caused the seal of the Grand Chapter to be affixed." The certificate is signed by Robbie Yates, worthy grand matron, and J. T. Sanders, worthy grand patron.

Mrs. Neel, the widow of Joe B. Neel, is the mother of two sons, Joe Neel of Big Spring and the late Byron Neel. Born in 1889, she joined Big Spring Chapter No. 67, O.E.S., on Dec. 6, 1918, when she was 29 years of age. Mrs. Allie Cowan was the chapter's worthy matron at that time. Since then, Mrs. Neel has been a loyal member of the group and continued regular attendance at the meetings until recent years. While an active member, she held the post of Esther, the "fifth point of the star," and this star shines symbolically from the ring she has worn since 1940.

In little more than a month, Mrs. Neel will share the 50-year honor with her sister, Mrs. Isla Davis, who is due to receive a like certificate on March 25. Mrs. Davis, who will be 83 this year, joined the chapter soon after her sister became a member, and they were encouraged in this interest by their father, W. A. Griffith, who was a member of the Masonic Lodge for over 65 years.

Mrs. Davis started as an associate conductress, later became associate matron, and in 1924-25, served as worthy matron. It was during her term of office that the first chapter of Rainbow Girls was formed here, and her interest in this group has continued through the years. Her five granddaughters have all been Rainbow Girls.

Those present when Mrs. Neel received her certificate Thursday were her daughters-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Neel and Mrs. Freda Neel, along with Mrs. Davis and her daughter, Mrs. Roxie Dobbins, and Mrs. Davis' roommate, Nell Walker. Mrs. Neel has been affiliated with the First Methodist Church for 65 years and is a member of the Susannah Wesley Sunday school class.

Casually Yours

By JO BRIGHT

Friday's vigorous breeze didn't keep the ladies indoors. I think it brought out the pioneer spirit, for it took strong backs to bend into the wind and busy hands to hold on to hemlines and hairdos as many rushed from car to country club for the LGA luncheon.

Polly Mays (who said she chose her cabinet with care) is planning on a very active year and Friday's turn out indicated she and her fellow officers are off to a good start.

Chatted a minute with Mrs. Jack Powell, wife of the VA hospital director, and met her mother, Mrs. Lillie Doyle, who moved here from Oklahoma. Mrs. Doyle says she is ready to take up bridge again lest she forget it entirely, since her daughter is out of town so much during her travels on sorority business.

Mrs. Virgil Winn of Plevinew is a weekend houseguest of Dr. and Mrs. Bill Cashion. She was entertained by the Lloyd Wassons Friday evening and Mrs. J. Y. Robb and Will Inkman planned a buffet in her honor in the Cosden Blue Room. Inkman has already made plans for the Easter vacation. He'll fly to Nassau to holiday with Mrs. Eleanor Krupp Kratzer, her father, Elias Krupp, and her brother-in-law and sister, Judge and Mrs. Bernard Levinson of Honolulu.

Miss Marie Hall of Big Spring and Dallas, daughter of Mrs. G. T. Hall, is vacationing a little early, but then, California is good any time of the year.

Mrs. Sammy Sanders Jr. (Melissa Simpson) was glad to see the sunshine and sand of Texas again when she and her husband arrived this week to visit her parents, the Aklin Simpsons. They've been in North Dakota where the temperature has been far on the uncomfortable side of zero.

The weather here was fine, though, last weekend when Bob and Susan Lewis drove to Alpine for a visit with H. Allen Smith, the delightful author of "Low Man on a Totem Pole," "Lost in the Horse Latitudes" and many, many more books that are pure delights. He gifted them with an autographed copy of "Son of Rubarb," which I am reading this week.

Something else delightful was the overnight trip that Mrs. Floyd Mays, Mrs. R. E. G. Cowder and Mrs. Roger Brown made to El Paso and Juarez to pick up a carved door for Mrs. Cowper. They drove a paneled truck. ("Room for three going down and two coming back.") They prowled through the new arts and craft building and museum in the Pronor Center and had a great time bargain-shopping.

Doug Orme of Dallas, formerly of Big Spring, was saying hellos in the office the other day while he and Mrs. Orme were here for the weekend. Blake Tollett recovered quickly from knee surgery and is back in school at Tech. Lt. and Mrs. Joseph Saint, new here with the Salvation Army, are very interesting people. He left an Air Force major's rank to take the lower one in the SA. . . . the H.H. Neals and their buddies spent a lot of time at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show, what with daughter, Zane, riding in some of the events. . . . thought physicians were immune but think the flu bug got to Dr. M. A. Porter for a few miserable days. . . . George Oldham passes on the news that Mr. and Mrs. William B. Patterson of Longview got a baby boy for Christmas. Mrs. Ike Robb was an honor attendant at their wedding years ago. . . . Mr. and Mrs. George Edmonds of Santa Barbara, Calif., are guests of Sgt. and Mrs. M. T. Mooney while here for the graduation of their son, Lt. Richard Edmonds, an honor student in Webb's Class 60-E. He is also the Mooney's son-in-law.

Stanton HD Club To Furnish Cookies

STANTON (SC) — Mrs. W. T. Wells presided at the Wednesday business meeting of the Stanton Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Morgan Hall. Plans were made to furnish 1,800 cookies, Feb. 17, for patients at the Big Spring State Hospital. Mrs. P. G. Yates gave the program on making burlap flowers.

Demonstration Council gave a skit showing how committees work with the state, district, council, THDA and HD agents in forming a functioning organization. The group used a flannel board and held gold rings symbolizing a circle.

Mrs. Audrey Russell discussed "Using THDA Keys" and named the committees as citizenship, family life, 4-H, health, recreation and safety.

Miss Ruby Butts, Scurry County HD agent, gave the invocation.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Norred presided over THDA classes, and Mrs. Aubry Russel directed the session for council chairmen and agents.

Mrs. Norred announced the district spring meeting will be held April 24 in the First Baptist Church in Denver City.

Those attending from Big Spring were Mrs. Delaine Crawford, Howard County HD agent; Mrs. Omer Decker, council chairman; Mrs. Frances Zant, THDA chairman; and Mrs. Norred.

MRS. RONNIE GENE NEVES

Formal Wedding Held In Baptist Temple

The sanctuary of Baptist Temple was the setting for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth McCarr and Ronnie Gene Neves Friday evening at 7 o'clock. The Rev. James A. Puckett read the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked with white gladioli and chrysanthemums and branched candelabra.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCarr, 506 E. 12th, and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Neves, Route One, Knott.

Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, organist, accompanied Mrs. Alvis Harry as she sang "Twelfth of Never," "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School, and the bridegroom graduated from Sands High School in Ackerly. He is presently employed at Safeway Food Store.

WEDDING GOWN

The bride chose a formal gown of Chantilly lace over peau de sole satin designed with short sleeves and an Empire waist. Her veil of illusion was elbow-length and fell from a pearl-encrusted headpiece. She carried a bouquet of French carnations centered with a white orchid.

Miss Dana Templeton was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Joy Legg and Miss Diann Stewart. The attendants wore matching yellow ankle-length dresses fashioned with Empire waists and short sleeves. They carried blue carnation bouquets showered in matching ribbon.

Claud Fryar of Knott was best man. Ushers were Tony Stewart and Steven Ames, who also served as groomsmen.

Debbie Wilson of Houston was flower girl, and Kim Kimble of Alvin was ring bearer.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the fellowship hall where guests were received by the bride, couple and parents. Miss Suzanne Legg presided at the guest register.

Others in the house party were Mrs. Bob Wren, Mrs. Stanley Harbin, Mrs. Otto Couch, Mrs. Mildred Stewart, Mrs. Lois Legg, Miss Nancy Hall, Mrs. Jim Conner and Miss Penny Peurifoy.

The refreshment table was laid with a yellow cloth edged with net and centered with the bride attendants' bouquets. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom, and crystal and silver appointments completed the setting.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. P. Hazlewood, all of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kimble, Alvin; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Modisette, Monahan; and Mr. and Mrs. Russel Norton and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gibson, all of Odessa. Other out-of-town guests were from Westbrook.

The couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For traveling, Mrs. Neves chose a two-piece suit with pearl jewelry. She wore the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Neves will make their home at 405 W. 5th.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Bell, 1016 Baylor, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Cheryl Lynn, to Sgt. Roy L. Ashley, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Ashley of Vicksburg, Miss. The prospective bridegroom is presently stationed in Misawa, Japan. The couple is planning a March wedding.

Wedding Solemnized In Candlelight Ritual

The wedding of Miss Deborah Carole Jones and Sgt. James E. Cragar of Barksdale Air Force Base, Louisiana, was solemnized Friday evening in Wesley United Methodist Church with the Rev. Tom Strother as officiant.

The bride, a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School, is attending Howard County Junior College. Sgt. Cragar graduated from Westlake High School in Westlake, La., and attended McNeese Junior College at Lake Charles, La., before entering the Air Force.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gatlin Thomas Jones of the Gail Route and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cragar Sr., Shreveport, La. During the ceremony, Mrs. Louis Talley, organist, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Charles Odom, as she sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "Whither Thou Goest."

ATTENDANTS

The bride's sister, Mrs. R. D. Gillilan of Odessa was matron of honor, and the maid of honor was another sister, Miss Jennifer Jones. Miss Tanis Hogue was bridesmaid, and the three attendants were identically gowned in red velvet dresses with Empire waists, squared necklines and puffed sleeves. The backs were accented with red satin bows and long streamers, and their headpieces were veiled red velvet bows. Each carried a single peppermint carnation with white streamers.

The bride's gown was of white bridal satin with jewel neckline and petal point sleeves enhanced with lace appliques. The slender skirt was softly gathered at the corded waistline, and a wide border of lace circled the hemline. Her tulle veil fell to shoulder-length from a cabbage rose headpiece outlined with pearls. Atop a white Bible, carried by her mother and sister at their weddings, she held a cascade of feathered carnations and roses.

The bridegroom's father served as best man, and groomsmen were Sgt. Ray Henley of Shreveport, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and Sgt. Paul Renard of Webb Air Force Base. Ushers were the bride's brother, Gatlin Kuehn Jones, and Rodney Imel.

RECEPTION

The reception for the newlyweds was held in the fellowship hall with Mrs. Stuart Thompson registering guests. Other members of the house party were Mrs. Ray Henley of Shreveport, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Jim Spanyers, Miss Sue Bearden, Mrs. B. K. Edens, Mrs. Patsy Coates, Mrs. William Brewer and Mrs. Cliff Hale.

The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, was placed on a table covered with a cut-work linen cloth and appointed with a crystal punch service. The centerpiece was an arrangement of red and white carnations.

Guests from out of town included Mrs. Gus Kuehn of Olney and Mrs. Marvin Jones of Wichita Falls, grandmothers of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Haight, Fort Worth; R. E. Gilmore, San Antonio; and Kenneth Gillilan, Odessa.

For a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a white wool sheath and companion jacket of red, white and blue. The couple will be at home at 4050 Hampton Lane, Shreveport, La.

'RCUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

The only thing nice about a day like Friday with its wind and blowing sand is that one can sweep it out of the house and not have any damage.

Otherwise wind and sand are a bad combination and they do cause wear and tear on the disposition. This happens to the oldtimers just as it does the newcomers. The oldtimers know from experience that when the wind has blown the sand to and fro for several days... it sometimes just blows one day... the next day will be pretty clear and the air seems purified. Now that's how the natives have found it to be. But everyone to his own conclusion.

Planning to take advantage of the heavy snows in the New Mexico mountains for a weekend of skiing, MR. and MRS. JIMMY WELCH and MR. and MRS. JERRY THOMAS joined MR. and MRS. ROBERT MAHONEY of Fort Worth in Ruidoso, N.M., Friday.

MISS PAT ADAMS who has been making her home with the J. C. PICKLES since last March left Thursday for Charleston, S.C. to join her mother and brother Miss Adams remained in Big Spring to complete her studies and training at HCCJ toward becoming a Licensed Vocational Nurse. She will Miss Adams is the daughter of SM. SGT. and MRS. BENNIE K. ADAMS. They lived here until Sgt. Adams left for a tour of duty in Vietnam. He expects to be back in the states by the latter part of April.

Mrs. Pickle entertained for Pat Wednesday night with a dinner party for eight at her home.

MR. and MRS. RUDOLPH PASCHALL are in Dallas for a visit.

House guests of MR. and MRS. ROBERT STRIPLING Thursday were MR. and MRS. DWIGHT D. KLINGER of Ashland, Kan. They are the parents of MRS. ROBERT STRIPLING JR. and were en route to Los Angeles, Calif., where they will visit another daughter and her family.

A newsy note from MISS WINNIE DELL RHOTAN says that her niece, SHARON HAMILTON of Dublin has accepted a teaching position in the Burleson Elementary School after graduating at mid term from Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth. She will teach the fifth grade. Her brother, Tommy, a senior in Dublin High School has been notified by Rep. Omar Burleson that he was chosen along with six other boys of his congressional district to compete for an appointment to the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs.

Parents of the two young people are MR. and MRS. PAUL HAMILTON of Dublin. Mrs. Hamilton is the former Dorothy Rhotan and is the sister of the MISSES WINNIE DELL AND LILLIAN RHOTAN JACK and DAVID RHOTAN JR. of Big Spring.

Married Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Gary W. Ware are on a trip to Carlsbad, N.M., following their wedding Friday evening in the home of the Rev. Roy Honea, pastor of Grace Baptist Church. WHAT CAUSES A STY IN THE EYE

A sty is a bacterial infection of one of the small glands on the edge of the eyelid. Though some people believe it is the result of eye strain, or a run down body condition, most likely it is caused by rubbing the eyes with fingers bearing bacterial germs.

A sty can last from a few days to three or four weeks. It can cause much discomfort and sometimes pain. If one persists more than a few days, it is wise to have your physician open it and permit this small abscess to drain and heal quickly.

'Natural Fancy'

Hairdressers say this "natural fancy" coiffure is bound to turn a young man's fancy to springtime thoughts. It is one of the new styles that emphasizes waves and a well-groomed look.

'Natural Kick'

Beauty Week Begins Today

The 19th annual National Beauty Salon Week, sponsored by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, and dedicated to more beautiful women, will be celebrated Feb. 9-15.

"Crown Your Beauty with a New Hair Style" is the theme of this year's event according to Mrs. Oma McCown, president of local Affiliate No. 24.

Gary Don Carey, chairman for the observance in Big Spring, said the main feature will be "Little Girls Day" which is slated from 1 to 5 p.m. on Feb. 16. At this time, girls up to 12 years of age may get hair beauty service at a reduced price, and all proceeds will be donated to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. On that day, three shops will be available for the services: the House of Charm Beauty Salon, College Park Beauty Salon and Eloise Beauty Salon. Serving as co-chairman for the event is Mrs. Jimmy Daniel.

The "Natural Look" will be the main influence in new hair fashions for spring, according to the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

This new look is one of individualism keyed to the general trend of soft and natural influences in clothing fashions for the season. It gives top priority to waves, which usually flow from a side part to follow the natural contour of the head. The waves also blouse out at eye level and over the ears, and in addition, they give a blouson effect at the lower crown area.

Being natural, however, does not necessarily mean being casual; in hair styles it can and does mean being artful without apparent artifice. This is a vital quality of the new styles.

Another vital quality is that your new style definitely has to have a 1969 natural look, and not one from any other period.

Today's "Natural Look" in hair styles must make the scene for every social need of the season, from the most proper church-going ensemble in the Easter Parade to the most dressy wear for leisure. It is particularly natural for topping the leggy look, be it predicated on the long lines of pantsuits, or the long legged expanse below the minicest of skirts.

Hair length can still be described as comfortably short. Hair coloring calls for soft blending of tones in keeping with a "Natural Look." Though three to five tones of a basic color value will be used, all are blended to avoid any definite contrasts either in tone or hue. Sunkissing must wait for summer. However, this does not mean that vibrant colors, such as rich browns and auburns, or the brights like honey, maize and palamino will not be right at the top of the popularity lists. They will be, along with soft ones of birch, fawn, charcoal and slate.

Complexions, too, go natural, in the soft rose and rachel families. Lips are generous and bright, and eyes have a special treatment that enhances their soft delicacy, individual lashes added one at a time, or sometimes in twos and threes to the lower lid.

Valentine Supper Held At Church

The Parish Workers of St. Paul Lutheran Church held a valentine supper Thursday with 16 members and two guests, Mrs. Darrell Godwin and Mrs. James Stubbendieck in attendance. Prayer was led by Mrs. Jim Hyman.

During a brief business session prayer pals were revealed and new names chosen. Plans were made to serve refreshments after Lenten services, which will begin Feb. 19 and continue each Wednesday until Easter. Also, the women will provide refreshments and nursery care during the adult instruction beginning Feb. 9.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Lutheran doctrine will be welcome to attend the classes.

The meeting closed with a prayer service, "On God's Mission." Hostesses were Mrs. Ronald Wasson and Mrs. Alton Marwitz, who were assisted with table decorations by Mrs. William Lund.

Weight Loss Told By TOPS Club

Tiny Thailander Has 'Flower Power' Nails

By SAM BLACKBURN
Two things about Mrs. Lek Owey always attract the attention of passers-by. One is her size. She's 4 foot, 10 inches tall. The other is the way she does her fingernails. The tiny Thailander, who is the wife of T. Sgt. Edward Owey, Webb AFB, paints meticulously stylized little flowers on each nail. The base is silver and the blossoms have petals of one color and a center of another. She says she just does it to entertain herself. It appears simple enough to paint the left fingernails, one observes, but how about the other hand?

Simple, replies Lek (which, in her native land very appropriately means "small"). "You merely take the paint brush in your left hand. Then you paint the flowers on the nails of your right hand."

Is she ambidextrous? Mrs. Owey merely shrugs. "Perhaps," she says. "I do not know."

Did she ever study art? "No," says Mrs. Owey. "I was raised on a farm in Thailand and I worked in the rice fields. I had no opportunity to study art."

She and her husband and their three children live on West Highway 80. They have been in the United States for 10 years.

What does Mrs. Owey want to do now?

"I am trying to enroll in the wedding class for the Big Spring school system's adult education program," she says.

"Why wedding?"

"I think it would be nice to know how to do," she replies.

Friends say Lek is an excellent cook and that her curry is especially delicious. She, as would be expected, likes Oriental foods. And curry, naturally, is the high favorite of the Far East.

It's Easy If You Are Ambidextrous

Tiny Mrs. Lek Owey displays her flower-ornamented finger nails. The tiny Thailander wife of T. Sgt. Edward Owey does not regard the delicate art work as difficult. "You paint one hand's nails," she explains, "and then you paint the little flowers on the nails of the other hand." It may be easy if you are ambidextrous.

Depressive Attitudes Discussed

Mrs. John L. Sullivan directed a study on mental depression in keeping with the theme, "Personality Inventory," at Thursday's meeting of Texas Delta Chapter of Phi Sigma Alpha. Mrs. Teresa Bauch, 1308 W. 5th, was hostess. "Every adult will experience mental depression at some time in his life," said Mrs. Sullivan, "and the secret is to distinguish between depression and sadness. Sadness can be explained with a reason, but depression is a feeling of having the blues or being down in the dumps." She further explained that when one is depressed, he has feelings of withdrawal and of wanting to be alone. "This must be avoided," said Mrs. Sullivan. She cited the need for "reaching out toward others when depressed and meeting life creatively." She described the opposite of depression as enthusiasm, spontaneity, and a sense of flowing with life. Mrs. Steve Baker presided and announced plans for a spring friendship tea.

Health Program Held By HD Club

Mrs. Karl Harrison brought the program, "Are You Prepared to be Healthy?" at Tuesday's meeting of the Airport Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. A. N. Standard, 504 E. 15th.

The group will join the Center Point Home Demonstration club in serving cookies March 19 at Big Spring State Hospital. Mrs. S. A. Wilson presided and Mrs. B. A. Bunn brought the devotion. Mrs. Omer Decker was elected nominee to the district meeting to be held April 24 in Denver City.

Fathers Are Honored By Boydston PTA

Fathers were honored by the Boydston Parent Teacher Association Thursday evening at the school where Lynn Hise, assistant superintendent, was guest speaker.

Hise turned his discussion, "Poverty in the Family" to a humorous presentation by using excerpts from a book by Sam Levenson. Levenson described his childhood and family life during years of depression. Hise concluded by noting that when families are reared with love, acceptance, parental authority and religious training, "it ceases to be poverty — just no money."

Dr. Clyde Campbell, pastor of Hillcrest Baptist Church, spoke briefly, stressing the importance of teachers.

Named to the life membership nominating committee were Herman Smith, principal, Mrs. Ruth Sweatt and Mrs. Bobby G. Davis. A Mexican supper, open to the public, was slated Feb. 21 at the school. Charges will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Refreshments were served. Mrs. R. F. Davis' class won the room count, and the attendance prize went to Carl Morrow.

Exposition Is Next Big Event

After the observance of Scout Week during the ensuing six days, the next major event of the Lone Star District will be the Scout Exposition.

This major show of projects and activities of Cubs, Scouts and Explorers will be held in Highland Center March 15.

Leroy Hollingshead is general chairman, with R. L. Cranford serving as vice chairman. Each unit in the district will be invited to put on a display in a booth on the center's mall. Tickets will be sold, and awards presented to the highest salesmen.

Saluting All Our Local Scouts and Leaders On Their 59th Anniversary

Big Spring, Tex.

The Boy Scouts of America is an organization that can influence the future of this great country. We would do well to pause today and consider its mark on the youth of our community. Support your Boy Scout Chapter during Boy Scout Week—February 7th to the 13th... We do!

Lots Of Adult Leadership Is Necessary

Not only does it take boys to make a Boy Scout program work, but a lot of adults to provide leadership and organization on the district level.

Boys in the Lone Star District, comprised of Howard and Glasscock counties, of the Buffalo Trails Council, are provided adult leadership by several men active in other community affairs, but who devote time for the scouting program here.

Scouting is organized first on an international level, and then moves down to a national, regional and area level. Next is the council organization, and more locally, the district.

Col. W. C. McGlothlin Jr. is chairman of the Lone Star District, and vice chairmen are Don Womack, Harold Davis and Erven Fisher. These men are in charge of 16 Cub Scout packs, 19 Boy Scout troops and six Explorer posts in the district.

The three vice chairmen are in charge of eight committees and the chairmen of each, who help see that the program of Scouting is carried to the troops, packs and posts.

Committee chairmen in the district are Dean Lagerstrom, advancement; Leroy Hollingshead, camping and activities; Wade Choate, finance; Tom Henry, leadership training; M. Sgt. Charles Aggen, organization and extension; Joe Pickle, public relations; Jim Corbell, Explorer scouting; and Paul Soldan, health and safety.

Frosty Robison is the district commissioner, and Ron McCredie is the district executive, a professional scout leader who provides services to the various leaders.

Since there are so many units in the district, several neighborhood commissioners may work under the district executive to provide additional leadership and assistance.

OATH COMES ALIVE What Is Scouting All About?

What is Scouting all about? It's about a boy and what he may become. It's making the Scout Oath and Law come alive in the restless frame and expectant heart of a lad.

"On my honor," pledges a boy as he takes the Scout Oath, "I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

In subscribing to the Scout Law, he pledges that he will be Trustworthy, Loyal, Helpful, Friendly, Courteous, Kind, Obedient, Cheerful, Thrifty, Brave, Clean and Reverent. This is what Scouting is all about.

Boy Scout Week Here Proclaimed

Mayor Arnold Marshall has proclaimed this as Boy Scout Week in Big Spring, calling upon Scouts to wear their uniforms (especially on Friday) and to indulge in various activities to focus attention upon the contribution that Scouting makes to the Big Spring area.

"From its inception in 1910 when it was regarded by Congress as being worthy of a national charter, Scouting has made a tremendous contribution to the nation. Some 44 million boys have passed through various phases of the program, and thousands of them were right here in Big Spring.

"We know from our own experience how the lives of most of these boys were enriched, and how the lads were inspired to become loyal, patriotic, contributing and participating citizens in this and other communities. The virtues of self reliance and unselfish action have been woven into their characters.

"Scouting, realizing that boypower means manpower in the all-too-near tomorrow, has launched a new and significant campaign in Boypower '76. This has as its goal the enlistment of one of every three boys in this community and nation by the time the 200th anniversary of our nation's independence is observed.

"What greater way can adults serve their nation than to offer their services in this great mission? Perhaps in this special week our people can catch a vision of the imperative nature of exposing boys to good men and women. Few things will go as far to assure the preservation of this great country."

Boypower Plan Gets Started

Boypower '76, the long-range plan of the Boy Scouts of America to master the changing demands of America's future and be prepared to give leadership to it, is underway, according to Col. W. C. McGlothlin, chairman of the Lone Star District.

The plan will call for an intensive effort based on the slogan "America's manpower begins with Boypower."

Plans began last year with a committee appointed by Col. McGlothlin, district chairman, to study the past, present and future of the Lone Star District. Performance, manpower and a study of where new Scout units will be needed were some of the new items considered by the committee.

The goals extend through 1976, the 200th anniversary of the United States, and were set in the light of a joint resolution passed by the 90th Congress which saluted Scouting for its many past achievements and admonished the Scout movement "to aggressively tackle the challenges of the future," Col. McGlothlin explained.

Specific objectives of Boypower '76, according to McGlothlin, are to assure relevance of Scouting to the needs and concerns of the nation and its youth; to determine the level of quality to be maintained in Scout units; to determine and secure the needed personnel and resources necessary to achieve council goals.

Also, to develop methods of fixing responsibilities and measuring results at administrative levels; and to establish mutual understanding and communication of aims and methods of the Boy Scouts of America with its partner institutions and other agencies.

Irving Feist, realtor and president of the Boy Scouts of America, said that if the plan is to succeed, the minds and abilities of all volunteer administrative scouts must be used, and they must be enthusiastic about the plan.

"They are going to be accountable to the boys in their districts as they work side by side with professional scouters in a coordinated effort to constructively build Boypower for the nation's future," he said.

Roundup Back In Popularity

The Roundup, once the biggest single event in the Buffalo Trail Council, is in its way back as a drawing card.

This event was started in the late 1920's and discontinued as a council activity. At that time 1,500 to 2,000 men and women were present. Last year, the second year it was revived, the Roundup drew about 1,000, and when it comes up in May at the Roundup grounds east of the City Park, it is expected to exceed that number.

Finances Is Chief Worry

Finances constitute one of the chief worries of the Buffalo Trail Council, which serves more than 15,000 boys in this area.

Last year, the council had expenses of $152,141, which was well under the approved budget of $172,404, but this $23,000 cut was taken to avoid going into the red. This meant delays in replacing staff, which in turn may have been reflected in declines in several phases of the program.

Motto Makes It Distinctive

There are a lot of little things which make Scouting distinctive.

Such is the motto: "Be prepared." A boy can perform well in any situation if he works toward this goal.

'Out' Provides Heart Of The Scouting Program

Take the OUT from Scouting and the heart of the program is gone.

This is why Scouting at all levels places emphasis on outdoor activities. Among Scouts, there is a constant emphasis on putting boys in camping experiences.

The prime example of camping is the six-week period in early summer at the Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains. This site, nestled in the fork of two great canyons, has 16 campsites accommodating up to 35 boys. They have access to central facilities such as the mess hall, infirmary, sanitary facilities. Basically, however, the camp is preserved as a wilderness camp and boys spend a substantial amount of time on the trail exploring the canyons and the wooded sections in the upper reaches.

The ranch has deer and other wildlife, and small black bear have been known to frequent the area. Council officials want to keep the ranch pretty much as it has always been. Last year around 1,800 boys were in the camp for one of the weeks.

Another camping activity on the council level is the Roundup at Big Spring in May. Not included in the council program for more than a decade, it was resumed two years ago and already draws more than 1,000 here for a weekend of fun and competition.

Three groups of boys went to the wilderness canoe base at Ely, Minn., last summer. Thirty-two boys went on the 12-day expedition to Philmont Scout ranch in northern New Mexico. A bus load of Explorers went to the National Explorer conference in Fort Collins, Colo.

The vast bulk of the camping and other outdoor activities, however, is conducted on a district or unit basis. In the Lone Star district several troops took camping tours, and nearly all had campouts on several weekends. In addition, boys took their 14-mile hike for advancement. Most units took part in the Scout Exposition (a display of Scouting skills), and on a council basis there were 7,000 boys who participated in these shows which drew over 20,000 visitors.

SENIOR BOYS Explorer Units

Among those making possible the Explorer program for senior boys in this area are the following sponsors and heads of the units:

Post No. 3, sponsored by Howard County Agriculture Association; Gerald Miller, advisor; Paul T. Koshi, chairman of the post committee.

Post No. 15, sponsored by White Music Company; Clyde Green, advisor; Bennett Brooke, chairman of the post committee.

Philmont Is One Dream

Boy Scouting is made of goals and dreams: a boy sets a goal and dreams of reaching it.

One of the many dreams of Boy Scouts is attending the Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base in Cimarron, N.M., for a few weeks in the summer.

Everything Scouting stands for seems to be offered at Philmont. There is brotherhood as Boy Scouts from all over the nation live together during their stay, and there is plenty of adventure in the rugged outdoors of the New Mexico mountains.

Scouts who go to Philmont take part in hiking the rugged mountain trails to summits ranging from 6,500 to 12,000 feet and viewing panoramic scenery on the 214-acre ranch.

Campers enjoy cooking over open fires and may even try peach cobbler baked in a Dutch oven after a long day on the trail. Cooking fires then become campfires on Philmont trails as expeditions spend each night in different camps, participating in various program features offered by the staff.

Trained Philmont Rangers teach each expedition many ways to prepare their trailfood, and several nights are spent in unstaffed, wilderness trail camps.

Scouts also learn good horsemanship, western lore, mountaineering, geology of the ranches terrain and see the artifacts in the Kit Carson Museum on the ranch.

Philmont also means outdoor worship services conducted throughout the ranch by resident chaplains representing Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Mormon faiths. Rustic wilderness chapels form sanctuaries in which Scouts from across America gather to worship in their own way in a majestic setting.

Council Serves 15,000 Boys

Approximately 15,000 boys are served in the Cub, Scout and Explorer posts within the Buffalo Trail Council.

The council this year is redoubling efforts to increase membership as it launches into the Boypower-Manpower program aimed at having one of every three boys in some Scouting program by 1976.

This is a challenging goal, for efforts will have to be redoubled to hold present units while adding others. Last year the council had to drop 49 units while adding only 31, which meant that there was a net loss of 18 of these service centers which get the program to the boys.

In Big Spring, the number of boys registered in the programs approximated 1,500. This district has had one of the better records in the council as to membership.

Several Scout Units Attend Church Together Today

Several Scout troops, along with some Cub packs and Explorer posts will participate in worship services today as part of Scout Sunday, ushering in the observance of Scout Week.

A number of the units, with members in uniforms, will attend the services in a body. At Kentwood Methodist Church, there will be an almost unprecedented occasion of the presentation of 10 God and Country awards to members of Troop 179. At First Baptist, Troop No. 5, one of the oldest troops in the city from point of continuity, will receive its charter as part of the service.

In a number of other churches there will be special recognitions. Several churches will use boys to serve as ushers and take up offerings, and otherwise aid in the services.

Some of the units will have special functions on their own,

such as parents nights. Several of the Cub packs are scheduled to have their traditional annual Blue and Gold banquets.

There are some, too, which plan to perform good turns for their sponsoring institutions or for the community.

Friday is to be a special day, too, for every Cub, Scout or Explorer is urged to wear his uniform on that day.

BOY SCOUT WEEK

Through Scouting, boys build strength, physically and morally. We congratulate our community Boy Scouts and their leaders, on their high aims and fine achievements. Best of luck!

Buffalo Trail Council Has 10 Districts For Service

In the structure of Boy Scouting, one of the most important units is the council. These are the area organizations which bring together those in areas consisting usually of several counties and assume responsibility of seeing that the Scouting program is offered.

The one serving the territory from Mitchell and Scurry counties on the east to the Rio Grande in the Big Bend area is the Buffalo Trail Council with headquarters at Midland. The council is broken into 10 districts, most of which have a field executive to work with volunteer leaders.

The district executive serving the Lone Star district, composed of Howard, Glasscock and Sterling counties, is Ronald McCredie, who recently took the post. The council executive is Earl McKeehan, Midland.

Yet it is the volunteers on a council basis, as well as a local and a national basis, who ultimately are in charge of the operation. President of the Buffalo Trail Council is Malcolm D. Abel, Midland, independent oil operator. Vice presidents are Dr. W. A. Hunt, Big Spring, E. L. (Buck) Kent, Wickert, Robert M. Leibrock, Midland, James R. Perry, Odessa. The treasurer is Hoyle McCright, Midland, assistant treasurer, J. William Milner, Midland, and commissioner, W. B. Stowe, Odessa.

Members of the council board from Big Spring include Col. William C. McGlothlin, Col. Chandler Estes, Ben F. Johnson, Joe Pickle, and Richard Ream. Council members at large include Jack Gulley, Rev. James A. Puckett, Carlisle Robison, and Paul F. Soldan of Big Spring. Those on the advisory board include Sam Anderson, Grant Boardman, Sherman M. Smith and R. L. Tollett, Big Spring.

Others in this area who are on the various boards are Hubert Cargile, Lyle DeFebach, Bob Steard, Bill Hutt, Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, C. T. McLaughlin, Leonard Bartells, Less Francis, Harold Lack, Bill Nabors, L. A. (George) Patterson, and Bill Sikes of Snyder; O. B. Bryan, Bob Deavenport of Stanton; S. K. Horwood, Sterling City; Harry L. Calverly, Garden City; James E. Payne, Colorado City; and Bill Reed, Coahoma.

Still A Basic Test

As a Tenderfoot Scout, a boy must learn to tie basic knots which will be a part of his entire Scouting experience. One way of testing boys on their ability is a knot relay. When a boy ties a knot specified for him, he runs back to the line and touches the next Scout who ties a different specified knot.

Advancement Is Measuring Stick

Advancement means getting somewhere, and in Scouting it becomes a good measuring stick of effectiveness of the program for boys.

The Cub pack, Scout troop or Explorer post which has considerable advancement in rank going on is a live unit. It is one where the boys undoubtedly are getting exposure to a good program and are having a good Scouting experience.

Cubs (ages 8-9-10) enter as Bobcats, then become Wolf, Bears and Lions as they satisfy certain requirements. They also may earn arrow points for extra achievement, and special awards for services such as den chief or assistants. When they approach the age for Scouting (11-12-13), they become Webelos and graduate into Scouting.

Scouts first of all must pass the Tenderfoot test, which indoctrinates them in the fundamentals of the Scout ideals. The next step is Second Class, which begins to get into Scoutercraft. Perhaps the key step is First Class, for most boys who satisfy this level of achievement go on to higher ranks.

These are Star Scout (five merit badges), Life Scout (10 merit badges) and Eagle Scout (21 merit badges), many of which are in required fields. Living up to the oath and law is required at every step, and those aspiring to the top rank of Eagle must pass a rigorous review at the hands of an Eagle Review Board. The merit badges are mostly in fields which will help a boy have a look at possible life careers.

Explorers, who operate with a great deal more flexibility, have their advancements, too.

Trained Leadership Gives Quality To Scout Program

One of the secrets of having a quality program for boys in Cub packs, Scout troops and Explorer posts is trained leadership.

This doesn't mean that only adults trained in Scouting may be unit leaders or helpers; on the contrary, the vast majority of those who work with boys have acquired their training after they have volunteered their services.

In the Buffalo Trail Council, O. D. Hedrick Jr. is in charge of this, and last year he held several council-level training activities. These included a junior leader training camp at the Scout Ranch, also a Woodbadge (outdoor Scouting skills) camp at the ranch. Two Cub Pow-Wows were held in Big Spring and Midland, and a council Showando session was held for scoutmasters and troop committeemen at Camp Pegasus. The council also was represented in the national camping school at Fort Collins, Colo.

One of the evidences of success was in presenting 16 Scouter keys, 12 Scouter awards and 10 Den Mother awards. In the Lone Star district, leadership training is being headed

Not 'They' But 'We'

"They" are not very important in Cubbing, Scouting and Exploring.

The emphasis is on "we." All "they" (the Boy Scouts of America) have is a program, the know-how born of three score years of working with boys.

But BSA does not have a single Cub pack, Scout troop or Explorer post in the country. Every one of the thousands of these belong to some institution such as a church, club, business or group of interested citizens, or even a concerned individual.

These institutions use the Scout program but they provide the leaders, set individual policies. The unit belongs to them; it is their responsibility to see that boys get a good Scout experience.

From its beginning, the Boy Scouts of America movement has relied entirely upon volunteers in the application of Scouting to boys.

Now, in an effort to meet the crisis in certain areas such as the ghettos and poverty pockets, it is considering using professionals to take the program to boys. This will be done experimentally and will be financed not out of regular Scouting but from grants from philanthropic foundations.

Writing for the Corpus Christi Caller Times last year before the BSA national organization came out with its tentative plan to attempt some sort of a breakthrough in areas which most need Scouting, Reynell Parkins put some of the peculiar issues in the focus. Here are extracts from his account:

"The Boy Scout organization could be an essential, positive factor in dealing with one of the major problems of our society, the boy in a broken home . . .

"In most cases, it is the father who is absent from the home. The girl of this kind . . . is able to identify with her mother . . . meet women teachers at school and can relate to them and adjust in the classroom.

BOY HAS PROBLEMS
"The boy in a broken home is less fortunate. He has difficulty identifying with his mother, and there is no father image for him . . . He resents his mother having put him in a situation in which he is not able to present his father to his peer group . . . The boy does not do as well in school. His troubles with his mother are compounded by women teachers, whom he sees as a further extension of the mother figure. A male teacher, however, may have no problem with the same boy. The boy needs male identification . . . which he may not encounter until Uncle Sam points the finger and says: 'I want you.'

"In this kind of society the Boy Scout movement is now called to minister.
"The Boy Scout program, tried, tested and proven over many decades, is one of the best in the world. The Boy Scout organization is the only one that can guarantee a place for every boy who wishes to join. It is the only organization where fatherless boys can be sure to meet a man.
OBSTACLES
"Upon my return from seminary in 1964, I approached a member of the Boy Scouts of America as to the formation of a Boy Scout troop in a section of our city. Many of the boys with whom I was working were children of unwed mothers. Fathers to serve as troop organizers or committeemen were lacking. After several months I was able to get a number of men together . . . We found that these fathers did not function efficiently as fathers, and we found that legitimate reasons, such as employment, kept them away from home for long hours . . .

"Even though we were willing to help, we needed to be taught how. The men working with us were employed, most as laborers, and they were unwilling to find that the professional Scout-er had little, if any contact with the training courses offered . . . You actually require a high school education to understand the manual printed for the Boy Scout program . . . We were greatly surprised to find that the professional Scout-er had little, if any contact with the boys. The Scouting movement insists that it has operated through volunteers all of its life. The actual on-going, day-to-day life of the troop is left to volunteers . . . The problem of volunteers is a major crisis for poor areas . . . The high degree of motivation which it takes to be a volunteer is absent from the person who is struggling to meet the basic needs of life on a day-to-day basis. The employed mother or father is not available for afternoon meetings, nor do they have the homes to accommodate them.

NEED TO RE-EXAMINE

"There is a small, long-suffering, valiant group of people among the poor who have given of themselves, their time and their homes for the purpose of the Boy Scout and Cub Scout programs. These are extremely few and cannot begin to touch the large number of children who need their help.

"If this situation for our young people is going to be different, we must re-examine the manner in which the Boy Scout movement functions among the poor. I believe that the professional Scouter should be in the streets among the boys. I believe that he should be responsible for the day-to-day activities of the troop. I do not believe that a program as vital as the Boy Scouts should be left to volunteers

Boys At Eight Enter Scouting

Who can take part in Scouting?

Every boy who has attained his eighth birthday is eligible to join a Cub Scout pack.

When boys reach their 11th birthday, they may become Scouts.

When they attain the age of 14, he is eligible to become an Explorer.

All a boy has to do to join is to get in touch with a unit leader (Cubmaster, Scoutmaster, Explorer advisor), or if this is not possible, call Ronald McCredie, Scout executive (263-0152). There is a $1 registration fee each year, and if a boy wishes to receive an excellent magazine, he can subscribe to Boys' Life for $2. Before receiving his registration certificate, however, a boy must satisfy the entering rank such as Bobcat or Tenderfoot.

He is encouraged to acquire a uniform, which are offered at quite reasonable prices. If finances prohibit this, boys frequently are offered work opportunity to earn them. A uniform pool is being established here through the donation of used or outgrown uniforms, and boys otherwise unable to secure uniforms may get help here.

We Return Your Salute, Scouts and Offer Our Congratulations On Your

The future of our country depends upon the character of our youth. It is during this time of their lives that the traits of honesty, truth, industry and self-reliance are developed in our young people.

The Boy Scouts of America play an extremely important role in shaping character. We salute all Scouts and Scouters for their part in this mission. We like what we see in our young people and think they deserve our thanks. Join with us in saluting all those connected with the Scouting movement during this 59th Anniversary year.

Idealism That Sustains The Nation

Boy Scout Week has rolled around again to remind us that 69 years ago Congress issued a charter to a unique organization dedicated to the ideal of building character in boys and training them to become good citizens of the United States.

That ideal is still the same after nearly three score and 10 years, and to a substantial degree it has been achieved in the lives of millions and millions of men who today are in top spots of leadership in business, in professions, in governmental affairs at all levels.

The record is not perfect, for Scouting has never been able to reach the number of boys it should despite having touched 44 million young lives. And, even those who do enter the program, there are those on whom the objectives do not take. Yet, the nonsense that no former Scout ever ran afoul of the law notwithstanding, the over-all record is sound.

We have only to imagine what a perilous situation we now would face — even as bad as things may seem — were it not for the unseen presence of Scouting ideals in the lives of men across the nation.

This simply says to us that a program such as Scouting is needed more urgently today than ever before.

There's nothing wrong with Scouting but that concerned adults can cure. Money may at times seem a formidable problem, but if men and women could only be led to see that one of the greatest contributions that they can make to the nation is to become active in some phase of Scouting, there would be no real problems left. Anyone who is too busy to work with boys is too busy. Anyone who is not concerned about helping boys deserves the worst that could happen to them from a self-centered, standardless society.

Thanks For A Good Road

The southwest quadrant of the FM 700 improvement program has now been accepted by the Texas Highway Department. While work seemed to drag at times due to weather and other causes, the really important thing is the quality and utility of the job.

There may be some minor details, such as additional signing, to be worked out as a means of smoothing traffic. Meanwhile, local residents are establishing patterns of traffic on, off and across the key artery. Time will take care of many of the problems, and experience will reveal changes which might be considered.

This is a road that not only serves a great need now, but in the years ahead will be increasingly important in moving a growing volume of cross-town traffic. This will be even more so when the section from Goliad Street to IS 20 on the east is constructed this year and next. The four lanes represent formidable cost and engineering problems, but it is regrettable that there cannot be grade separation at least two points other than Gregg. Maybe someday these will come.

However, Big Spring and Howard County are to be congratulated for setting the stage and the Texas Highway Department sincerely thanked for providing this enduring public service.

Art Buchwald Crime And National Policy

WASHINGTON — The crime problem in Washington, D.C., as everyone knows by now, is serious. And everyone is worried about it because it could have an effect on the national policies of the country. It's very difficult for people to make decisions on the affairs of state when they are living in an atmosphere of apprehension and anxiety.

Let me explain what I mean.

THE OTHER DAY I was getting a briefing on America's defense posture from my good friend, Gen. A. B. Em at the Pentagon.

"The United States has never been stronger, in spite of everything you read," Gen. Em told me. "We've got hardware in every part of the globe and, while we're not looking for trouble, I assure you that there isn't a nation in the world, including you-know-who, who would mess with us. But, of course, our real business is peace."

An aide walked in. "I'm sorry to bother you, sir, but your car has been stolen."

"My car?"

"Yes, sir. Right off the Pentagon parking lot."

"OF ALL THE nerve," the general shouted. He put on his coat and said to me, "I'm sorry I have to break this up." And then, to his aide, "Let's go ahead with the bombing raid on the DMZ. And double the bomb loads."

I wandered over to State to see if I could talk a friend on the Middle East desk into having lunch. He was wrestling with the tricky situation out there. "It's our policy to find a peaceful solution to this problem, making sure that neither the Arabs nor the Israelis feel they've won anything. But at the same time we must calm

Billy Graham

The Bible says, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart." Yet it uses the word "fear" many times. This puzzles me.

L.D.
The word "fear" appears many times in the Bible in the sense you use it in your question, such as "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." This does not mean terror, dread, or fright, in our sense of those words. It means reverence, trust, sense of awe and a recognition of God's majesty and power. To fear God is to trust, believe and obey Him, and walk humbly before Him. To do this means that none need be afraid of any man. The Psalmist said: "The Lord is my light and my salvation, whom then shall I fear?"

Your question also brings up one of the reasons for new versions and translations of the Bible as being aids to readers of the King James magnificent version of 1611. "Prevent," in the 1611 version meant, "go before."

"Let" meant "obstructed and delayed." Scores of similar changes of meaning of words could be pointed out.

Own Backyard

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — American authoress Helen Neal, of Washington, D.C., visited South Africa to gather facts for a biography of South African-born writer Charles William Ryall, who wrote under the name of William Bolitho.

She managed to trace some relatives of the author and discovered Bolitho's daughter, Mrs. Camilla Robinson, lives in Virginia, only ten miles away from Washington. Ryall died in Avignon, France, in 1930.

Jack Lefler Despite Surcharge, Corporate Profits Soar

NEW YORK (AP) — Many corporations never had it so good as in 1968.

Their profits increased despite the 10 per cent income tax surcharge and the inroads of inflation.

Such performances were achieved in the face of anticipation by economists and government officials that the tax boost would put a brake on an inflation-spurred economy by reducing the amount of spendable money available to corporations and individuals.

The 1968 corporate results were sustained by a strong showing in the fourth quarter.

A New York Times compilation of the first 555 manufacturing companies reporting 1968 results showed the upward trend was maintained in the final three months of last year.

GNP RATE UP

The gross national product — total of all goods and services — increased $16.8 billion in the 1968 fourth quarter with corporate profits hitting an estimated annual rate of $52 billion. This compared with $50.3 billion in the 1967 fourth quarter and the previous record $50.7 billion in the 1966 fourth quarter.

The survey of the 555 companies showed their net income in the final quarter of 1968 totaled $4,529,699,000, up 28 per cent from $3,531,513,000 from the 1968 third quarter and up nine per cent from $4,169,333,000 in the 1967 fourth quarter.

The Commerce Department reported this past week that new factory orders leveled off

UP, BUT SLOWING

- Company earnings up 28 per cent to $52 billion rate
- Factory orders show levelling tendency at year's end
- Construction gains slightly, has margin over 1967
- GNP shows $16.8 billion gain in fourth quarter
- Cigarette ads target for ban on television
- GM shows slight gain; steels cut on hot rolled prices in December after declining 1.5 per cent in November.

New bookings received by factories totaled $53.12 billion, compared with $53.1 billion in November.

The Commerce Department also reported a slight gain in new construction activity in December. It said that new construction put in place was at an annual rate of $88.3 billion, compared with $87.3 billion in November.

BUILDING GAINS

Construction expenditures for all of 1968 totaled $84,709,000,000, a gain of 11 per cent over the 1967 total of $76.16 billion.

The expansion of consumer installment credit slowed in December, said the Federal Reserve Board. The gain in December was $775 million, down from $834 million in November but more than double the $359 million a year earlier.

The Federal Communications Commission this past week proposed a ban on cigarette advertising on television and radio. The proposal wasn't much of a surprise to tobacco companies, broadcasters and advertising agencies. They were well aware that cigarette advertising was a potential target of official regulation.

Tobacco companies spend more than $400 million a year on cigarette commercials on television and radio. In 1967 this type of advertising accounted for 8.8 per cent of network television revenue.

WON'T HURT?

Investment analysts specializing in the tobacco industry said they didn't expect such a ban would hurt cigarette sales. Broadcasters have aligned their budget thinking to such a possibility and ad agencies have been considering other media in which to concentrate cigarette advertising.

Only General Motors reported a gain in passenger car sales.

Major steel companies restored prices of hot-rolled steel sheet, a major product, to the level that prevailed before an increase last Nov. 4. Bethlehem Steel Corp. initiated the move and was followed by half a dozen other companies.

Steel output last week rose 1.1 per cent to 2,604,000 tons from 2,575,000 tons the previous week.

To Your Good Health The Difference Between Liver And B-12

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the difference between a B-12 shot and a liver shot? —H.V.V.

Some years ago it was discovered that pernicious anemia could be controlled if the patient ate large amounts of liver. Later liver extract was used, to provide a more concentrated form and relieve the patient from a constant diet of liver.

Still later vitamin B-12 was discovered to be the important ingredient in liver extract, so now it is widely used in controlling pernicious anemia. (It is used for other purposes, too, as in treating nerve disorders, for one.)

B-12 can be given painlessly and in exact doses. Liver injections have to be given in larger quantity and are painful, and in addition they cause reactions in about 10 percent of patients.

Thus B-12 is a welcome refinement in treating pernicious anemia.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About 20 years ago when I was a child I was given several Mexican jumping beans by another child to swallow. Since then I have learned that these beans contain worms.

I have never taken any type of "worm medicine" and am wondering if, after all these years, I have a whole family of worms in my intestines.

I have never mentioned this to anyone and am too embarrassed to tell my doctor as I am a mature married woman now. I have always tired easily and wonder if this could be the cause. —H.G.

Kids will swallow the darnedest things, won't they? After 20 years, though, you can safely stop worrying. Of the thousands of kinds of bugs and worms that exist, only a scant few inhabit the intestine as a natural place to live.

Chances are that you expelled the jumping beans without your digestive juices penetrating the shell of the beans, and that was the end of the matter. If the shells did come apart in your intestine, the little insects died quickly. No, if you have pinworms or round worms, they didn't come from your childhood bean-swallowing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in my 40s and taking birth control pills. My doctor tells me I will miss my periods when menopause begins, but I have read that as long as a woman is taking the pill, she will menstruate no matter what her age is. This has worried me for some time. —Mrs. C.D.S.

I know the story you heard has been spread about rather widely, but the fact remains that, pill or no pill, menstruation will cease at the appropriate time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I see where a well-known doctor stated that to give up smoking after a lifetime of it is harder on one than the damage it does. Do you think he should have said that? Some of the "weak" people use it as an excuse to continue. —Mrs. L.B.H.

Don't ask me to judge what somebody else ought to have said or not said. I have to work hard enough trying to be responsible for my own statements.

My answer would be this: If I had a patient in, say, his late 70s or 80s and he enjoyed smoking, I wouldn't worry about what might happen to him 20 or 30 years later. But if he had emphysema, or other breathing difficulty, then I would suggest that he quit smoking. You certainly will know my opinion of the benefits of giving up cigarettes earlier in life.

What causes "balance" trouble? What can be done to correct or overcome it? Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy of the booklet write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Around The Rim

A Lot Of Foot-Flutterin', Too

DEAR RUFÉ:

Hoo, boy, you missed the culturist of the culture the other night, and if you had been there with your two left feet, as I was with mine, you would've seen what I mean.

What came on the stage was another flock of them tippy-toe dancers. The name for it is ballet, which means a lot of esthetic stuff you wouldn't understand, but to get right down to it, these people do their dancin' on their tippy-toes — with a lot of foot-flutterin'.

We had three acts of it, and they were different, but they were also alike.

TIPPY-TOE DANCIN' takes the wind out of you, so they got it worked out. Like in the first act, the feller in his union suit (blue this time) and the girl he pranced around with would do their thing, then they'd slip off in the wings and about a half-dozen girls would come out and do their thing. Like wavin' their arms and hands pretty-like, and jumpin' up and down, and doin' the scissors flutter with their feet every time they jumped. When the girls got winded, they'd flutter off, and the couple would come back on for another go. To change things a bit, once in awhile the main girl dancer would fall in the feller's arms. He'd pitch her back up right and they'd go to flutterin' their feet again.

THE NEXT ACT, the scene was out in the woods, according to the backdrop, and the girls put on long dresses and the fellers put on assorted uniforms. They told a story with their dancin', is what they did. I didn't get the whole script, but the way it ended was that the feller in the longest coat walked off the stage with the pretty girl, while the feller who only had a tunic on top of his union suit, he lost out. This seemed kind of sad. To make it that way, they had fiddle music with it.

EVERY TIME that couple would be tippy-toein' around together they would be glancin' over their shoulder to see if somebody was comin'. This was part of the story, I think, but nobody unexpected showed up. Just the fellers and the girls flutterin' their feet.

The third act put the whole pony chorus on the stage, and they leaped around like fawns in the spring. There was some extra special girls came out to skip around and jump at the boys and flutter their feet, and the way you knew they were the stars, they had sparkly combs in their hair.

AND THE GIRLS in this act came out in their cute little ole' tutus, and if you don't know a tutu, there's no reason for me to be writin' you about ballet. I sort of wished the fellers had come out in their white union suits. It looked like they were in sort of tattle-tale gray.

But this didn't keep 'em from scissor-kickin' all over the stage.

THERE WAS one girl who didn't use all her toes, but stood on just one big toe. I'd swear, for a long, long time. This takes muscle as well as grace, and people with two left feet ain't ever gonna make it. I would think that she would have to have a good lining rub after it was over — if that helps the tips of her toes.

See you at next Saturday night's hoedown. It won't be the same as ballet.

Yore friend,
ZEKE

David Lawrence A Study Of Governmental Salaries

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most painful and least understood issue in America today involves the plight of workers in federal, state and local governments, particularly teachers in the public schools. For a vast majority are not getting enough money to meet present-day living costs and other necessary expenses.

There seems to be a mistaken assumption that governments handle the wage problem satisfactorily. But in recent years strikes have increased, and teachers have felt compelled to undergo an ordeal which many of them dislike — interruption of school classes in order to persuade governmental authorities that a revision of salaries is imperative.

WHAT IS unfortunately missing is an authoritative study of governmental salaries by disinterested bodies. If there were some official commission which could set up "guidelines" for wage levels in civil service, including teachers in the public schools and state colleges, the whole education structure would be strengthened.

SOME FIGURES obtained from the U.S. Department of Labor and the National Education Association show that teachers average $8,160 per year in the high schools and $7,676 in the grade schools. This compares with $8,500 a year for construction workers, and $8,300 for coal miners. But these amounts are not "take-home pay."

It is, of course, argued that teachers can work during the summer vacation. This, however, is not always feasible, for jobs that pay $150 a week are not readily obtainable for only two or three months a year.

FROM THE average salary of $8,160, the sum left after federal income tax and Social Security are deducted is between $6,000 and $7,000 depending on whether there are children and also the amounts that have to be paid in state income taxes. Rent comes to at least $1,800 a year, and food to approximately $2,500. Payments for clothes, medical expenses, insurance, purchase and operation of a car so as to get to and from work each day are necessities. Many persons can hardly maintain a family on such a salary. Actually, starting salaries for teachers average only about $5,500 a year, while white-collar workers in business or the professions are paid far more than what teachers are getting today.

BOTH THE mother and father in many families find it necessary to work. Babysitters are hired to take care of the children, and this subtracts from the wife's income. If the children are old enough to go to college, the cost of tuition is high, and money must have been saved for this over the years. But there is little available for savings, and many a family finds itself with a deficit at the end of the year.

THE NEED for impartial commissions to recommend salaries that are in line with present-day conditions, not only for teachers but for other civil servants, is growing more and more acute.

As the cost of living rises, it is more than ever necessary that the wage problem be examined by governmental commissions which would periodically recommend the increases that should be made.

Marquis Childs Military Money And Politics

WASHINGTON — The web of the military-industrial-political complex is so tangled that the role of David Packard as Deputy Secretary of Defense has caused hardly a ripple. What would have been unthinkable 15 years ago is taken for granted today.

Packard and his wife own 3,584,950 shares of the Hewlett-Packard Co. (minus 30,000 made as an irrevocable gift) which sold last week at $82 a share. For Hewlett-Packard's last fiscal year total orders for the company's complex electronic devices were $280,000,000, of which $100,000,000 was either directly or indirectly in government contracts largely with the Department of Defense.

WHEN PACKARD came before the Senate Armed Services Committee for his confirmation hearing the questioning was perfunctory, if not downright subservient. Members of the committee seemed overawed by a man who had begun from nothing and made a very great fortune by his own ingenuity and drive.

THERE WAS, however, a fleeting glimpse backward at what had been the mores of a simpler day; in these matters an age of innocence. When Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors, was nominated for Secretary of Defense by the new Republican President, Dwight Eisenhower, in 1953 he was required to sell $2,500,000 in General Motors stock. GM was reported at that time to have more defense contracts than any other corporation.

IT IS THE fact that in order — this was the plea of Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird — to get a man truly equipped to be his deputy it was necessary to turn to one who for two decades has seen a considerable share of his wealth grow out of the swelling billions for the military. This is the tangle, the Gordian knot, tying together the elements making up perhaps the most powerful single force in both government and the economy.

When it comes to conflict of interest in the military-industrial-political web Congress is no model of virtue. Some of the rawest examples are in the record of Senate and House as members quarrel over where military installations and defense plants shall be located.

A NOTORIOUS case history was that of the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma. A powerful member of the Senate's club within a club and a close ally of Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, Kerr never missed an opportunity to promote government leases for his huge uranium holdings.

Georgia has fared so well with defense installations and contracts, with domination for many years of the House Armed Services Committee and Sen. Richard Russell chairman of Armed Services on the Senate side, that the joke was the state had become so overloaded as to be top-heavy.

NOW COMES a test putting both the Pentagon and Congress on the hot seat of decision. Congress approved last year $1.2 billion for deployment of an anti-ballistic missile system in the coming fiscal year. As this spending multiplies it touches very large defense contractor not excepting, one assumes, Hewlett-Packard.

From a number of cities out in the country comes a roar of protest over where the Army proposes to put the ABMs. Together with the insistence of leading scientists that the ABM is futile and probably already obsolete, this latest spiral in the nuclear arms race may be checked. That is the test for Congress and for the country.

Laconic 'Poke Rides Again In Exciting Western Film

When you see the unsmiling, laconic Stranger — Tony Anthony — riding across the vast stretches of a Mexican desert, seemingly harmless but possessed of a fury of devils, you instinctively know that you are soon going to be involved in an unremitting series of pulse-pounding adventures in "The Stranger Returns."

'THE STRANGER RETURNS'
Tony Anthony in role again

This new production, again starring Anthony as the trigger-quick stranger who pits his wits and ingenuity against that of a band of cut-throat outlaws, the vivid characterization which he originated in the successful "A Stranger in Town."

This time the Stranger has learned of a plot in which the bandit gang intend to lay hands on a shipment of gold to be transported in a six-horse drawn stagecoach, and he has decided that if there is any gold to be had, he is going to have it. Circumstances involve him with a white-haired, hellfire-and-brimstone preacher with a penchant for setting off fireworks, who becomes his partner in a stratagem by which the bandits capture the wrong stagecoach.

For a postal clerk, who also wants to get in on the "easy money," has arranged for two duplicate coaches — one an ordinary one; the other with thin wooden panels concealing a framework made of gold! It is this gold framework which both the bandits and the Stranger are after.

The Army's Lt. Stratford has been called in on the case and has figured out that the captured stagecoach is in the hands of the notorious bandito, En Plein, and is ready to deliver a $10,000 reward to El Plein's captor. Well, the Stranger is not only after that reward but the fortune in gold, as well. Does he get both? You'll have to see the ironic and surprise-filled denouement of "The Stranger Returns" to find out. It's a gem of a plot twist.

However, before the jolting climax of the adventure is reached, there is enough dare-devil action, gun play and excitement to fill half-a-dozen movie thrillers.

Provided with a unique, four-barrel, revolving, sawed-off shotgun, the Stranger is oblivious to the odds against him, and one by one picks off the bandit murderers in a series of episodes in which each situation is more bizarre and remarkable in invention than the next.

There is, for example, a memorable sequence in which the Stranger has tracked down one of the bandits while the latter is stuffing his mouth with food at a kitchen table. The bandit's gun lies on the table and it is a question which man will be able to reach it first. Meanwhile, they both eat, seemingly the best of friends. Before that gun is reached and one of the two antagonists is killed, you have a sequence of sheer, edge-of-the-seat suspense that has rarely been rivaled in a screen shocker.

Coburn Stars In 'Duffy' At Ritz

James Coburn played a highly-sophisticated super-spy in "Our Man Flint." Now, at the Ritz Theatre in "Duffy," he plays a new kind of sophisticate, one representing what might be called the "now" generation, while enhancing his screen reputation for tough, cool, deadly and resourceful action.

JAMES COBURN

"Duffy" is a comedy crime caper, in Technicolor also starring James Mason, James Fox and Susannah York.

According to Coburn, "Duffy" has to do with "the contemporary world of psychedelia.

The people in it are sophisticated, groovy, psychedelic." He himself appears as an American living in Tangiers, where he concentrates on chicks and chicanery when he isn't working seriously as a modern artist.

He takes on the organizing of a multi-million dollar piracy dreamed-up by two amoral half-brothers in an effort to "put-down" their arrogant tycoon-father, because his share of the loot is impressive; also impressive in the amoral blonde who is romantically involved with one brother. She likes what she sees in Duffy. She, as does Duffy, believes in taking her fun where she finds it.

A native Nebraskan, Coburn was raised in California where his family moved when he was a small boy. After Army service, Coburn sought an acting career. A role with Vincent Price in a La Jolla Playhouse production of "Billy Budd" earned him his Equity card and $100, and a TV commercial helped keep him going during the lean times that followed.

Central Vanishing
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's last 300 hand-cranked telephones will fall silent by June 30, 1969.

They will be replaced by a modern dial system when an exchange at Upton in Hardin County, central Kentucky, is taken over by General Telephone Co., the second largest system in the state.

Van Heflin Plays Role As Tough Double Agent

Van Heflin, who stars as a secret agent in "The Man Outside," opening at the Jet Theatre Wednesday, has had an adventure-filled life even though he never has been involved in international intrigue.

Until he was 25 and had spent three years as a professional sailor, Heflin had no serious thoughts of becoming an actor. Today he is ranked as one of the most distinguished stars of stage and screen. Heflin, who won an Academy Award for his role in "Johnny Eager," originally considered a career in dentistry, his father's profession, but at the end of his sophomore year at the University of Oklahoma, he decided to abandon the campus for life on the open sea. He signed aboard a freighter in Long Beach, Calif., which landed him in New York where he obtained a role in a flop play. So he went back to sea and practically saw the world.

Returning to the University of Oklahoma, he became involved in college dramatics and decided to take another shot at acting. He enrolled in various acting schools and finally landed a job as an understudy in the Broadway musical, "Sailor Beware." After a few minor roles in Broadway productions, he was cast as co-star with Katherine Hepburn in "The Philadelphia Story" in which he played for two years. That led to his screen career.

HEFLIN: MAN OUTSIDE

In World War II, Heflin served more than three years as a combat photographer. At the end of the war, he returned to Hollywood and appeared in scores of outstanding films, including "Shane," "My Son, John," "Partners," "They Came to Cordura," "3:10 to Yuma," "The Greatest Story Ever Told" and the re-make of "Stagecoach."

Heflin regards "The Man Outside" as one of the most exciting pictures in his long career.

Beatty Has Double Job

Warren Beatty, one of the screen's most dynamic young stars, began a new career as a film producer with "Bonnie and Clyde," in which he also stars. The action-packed drama, opens Wednesday at the Jet Theatre.

Gifted, outspoken and fiercely independent, Beatty became a star less than one year after he arrived in Hollywood. In rapid succession he co-starred in Elia Kazan's "Splendor in the Grass," with Natalie Wood; Tennessee Williams' "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone," with Vivien Leigh; and William Inge's "All Fall Down," with Eva Marie Saint. Other film credits include "Lullaby," "Mickey One," "Promise Her Anything" and "Kaleidoscope."

Celebrates 111th

LOWESTOFT, England (AP) — Britain's oldest woman, Mrs. Ada Rowe, celebrated her 111th birthday Thursday. She received a giant birthday card from a nearby school and told the 7-year-old girl who brought it: "I expect you find me a funny old thing."

Mrs. Rowe got a message of congratulations from Queen Elizabeth II and a compliment from councillor Roy Burgess, who said: "You could easily take her for a woman of 80."

He Should Look For Silver Link

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Attorney John G. Roach saw a woman standing in the rain outside the St. Louis County courthouse, so he offered her a ride home.

The woman, Miss Bernadette Campbell, happened to be a juror in the trial of Roach's client, Hess Miller, on a concealed weapons charge.

Roach told Assistant Circuit Attorney Ronald Rothman of his kind act Thursday and the word was passed to the Circuit Judge Michael Scott.

Despite the chivalry, Scott declared a mistrial.

Collars Reward

LONDON (AP) — A man who found five early Iron Age gold collars last October will be paid a $108,000 reward, the British Museum said Thursday night.

The museum said the money goes to Malcolm Tricker of Ipswich following proceedings in December at which the collars were declared treasure trove and thus government property.

The Iron Age began in Europe about 1,000 B.C. The five collars are similar to another found in 1950.

The museum, where the collars go on display Saturday, described them as outstanding examples of Iron Age craftsmanship.

Big Springers Enter Art Show At Snyder

By WINNIE UNGER
Several Big Spring painters will have works among those competing in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Art Show next weekend in Snyder's Scurry County Coliseum. Among them are Madeen Blair, Ike Rupard, Alice Ann Webb, Mrs. R. E. (Von) Dooliver, Terry Patterson and Capt. John Hussey.

Entries must be delivered by 5 p.m. Saturday (Jan. 15 was the deadline for entry blanks and fees).

A reception for participating artists will be held at the Snyder Country Club on Monday evening, Feb. 17, at 7 o'clock, and the exhibit will disperse next day beginning at 3 p.m.

Big Springers have an opportunity to hear a fine piano concert tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the Howard County Junior College auditorium when Larry Evans, Houston pianist, will play compositions by Haydn, Schubert, Ravel and Chopin. There is no admission charge.

Mrs. Larson Lloyd is chairman for the Chamber of Commerce cultural affairs committee this year, and in its recent meeting reviewed last year's work and this year's intentions. The committee again plans to sponsor the Let Freedom Ring program and the week in the park summer activities, among other projects.

MIDLAND — "Oliver!" opened last week in Midland Community Theatre, and will run daily, except Mondays, through March 1. Art Cole, director of "Oliver!" also designed the sets, and the Dickensian costumes were designed by Edward Graczyk. The action in the Charles Dickens' classic is carried largely by youngsters, and includes 16 songs.

LUBBOCK — A new West Texas Museum is now under construction at the corner of Fourth and Indiana, with an estimated cost of $6.5 million on completion. The first phase of building is to be finished by 1970, allowing the museum to begin moving into the new quarters. The present facility on the Tech campus is a landmark, but is inadequate to handle the growing activity in the field.

AUSTIN — The University of Texas Art Museum exhibits currently feature a major retrospective exhibit of the works of American artist Marsden Hartley, which will continue through March 9.

HOUSTON — The Museum of Fine Arts has recently been the recipient of two outstanding gifts to the collection — "Portrait of Jean," oil on canvas by Renoir, and "Oarsmen," a drawing by John Biggers, chairman of the art department at Texas Southern University. Some 80 paintings by Austrian-born American Friedrich Hunderwasser are on view in the museum's Culihnan Hall, now through March 10.

Don't Let Her Name Fool You

stands up, out goes the mental picture, to be quickly replaced by a physical one.

The real Quentin Dean is 29 years old, 5' 4" tall, 110 pounds in weight, all under a mass of brown hair. And is she ever artistically assembled!

Miss Dean, whose name is as legitimate as Rock Hudson's, is currently on display as Donald Pleasence's mistress in "Will Penny," dramatic Western adventure opening tonight at the Jet Theatre.

Dear Abby

The Untouched House

DEAR ABBY: What do you make of this? A man proposed marriage. (He lost his wife two years ago. My husband has been dead for six years.) I accepted.

Now he tells me that I am to move my things into the house he and his wife occupied for 19 years. (He lives 1,100 miles from here and I've never seen his home.) He says I am not to "touch" a thing. His sister tells me the house is exactly as it was the day his wife died. He hasn't even taken her clothes out of the closets.

I am expected to move my things in right on top of hers? Ours is no great big love affair. He is 59 and I am 55 and it would have been a marriage of convenience for both of us. But how about this?

HAVING DOUBTS
DEAR ABBY: The man sounds like he's not playing with a full deck. Reconsider. "Convenience" isn't everything.

DEAR ABBY: I have a distant relative who invites me frequently to her home for dinner. Abby, she has a tiny baby and I have seen her bathe the baby in her kitchen sink! I am running out of excuses for refusing to eat at her home. Abby, this woman can certainly afford a bathinette. If she's never heard that there are such things, I'd be happy to send her one.

Am I being too squeamish? If so, I can't help it. Please advise.
WEAK TUMMY

DEAR WEAK: Sorry, but if the sink is clean before and after the baby's bath, what's there to be "squeamish" about? It's simple, convenient, and economical. And the baby probably enjoys it.

DEAR ABBY: My fiance and I will announce our engagement shortly. He asked me to marry him more than a year ago, but we have kept it a secret until he could afford to buy me a diamond.

Now he tells me that his divorced sister wants to sell him her diamond. It is a beautiful ring, and everyone in his family thinks I am "odd" for not wanting it, but even in a new setting as far as I am concerned it will still be the same ring.

Abby, I'd rather have a less expensive diamond than a second-hand one from a broken marriage. I love this man and this is the first major disagreement we have had. Am I foolish to feel this way?

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: No. And as long as you feel that way, stick to your decision.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.
